HIGH-DENSITY AREA (HDA) DEFINITION

OCTOBER 2017 COUNTY SPLIT UPDATE

Nielsen Audio reviews all counties and county equivalents in ethnically controlled (Black and/or Hispanic) Metros bi-annually for possible High-Density Area (HDA) qualification. We implement these updates effective with the October PPM report periods.

A high-density area (HDA) is a ZIP Code defined area within a Metro County in ethnic Differential Survey Treatment (DST) markets. HDAs group ZIP Codes that have high concentrations of ethnic (Black or Hispanic) population into a discrete sampling unit. This helps facilitate ethnic representation in the sample; these ZIP Codes need not be contiguous.

For the October 2017 PPM report period, HDAs have been updated to reflect the most recent ZIP Code population estimates projected to January 1, 2017 by Claritas, LLC. In ethnically controlled PPM™ markets, some counties or county equivalents may have HDA definition changes as a result of these updates

CREATING CUSTOM GEOGRAPHIES IN THE PPM ANALYSIS TOOLSM

Custom geographies can be selected that include county, county equivalents, and including HDAs that currently exist and have historically existed in each market definition.

When defining a custom geography for either a Trend report, or any report utilizing a multi-book average, the PPM Analysis Tool will display all county and county equivalent definitions for a market regardless of the specific surveys chosen. If the user selects counties and/or county equivalents that are not consistent with the surveys chosen, an “unable to report” error message will appear.

To avoid this, users must create two reports when trending or multi-book averaging custom geographies for counties and county equivalents with HDA changes: one reflecting the previous definition and the other reflecting the new definition.

Note: Since Tapscan™ Web filters the available counties for display based on the reporting periods selected by an user, no error message will appear. For a multi-survey average, Tapscan Web will not display any county definitions that are not consistent for all of the selected surveys. If the user elects to use a multi-survey average after choosing a county-based geography where HDA changes have occurred, the software will remove that geography and notify the user on the screen. PPM markets listing their HDA definition changes over the recent PPM report periods are shown on the following pages.
