SHARON DOUGLAS

EXCLUSIVE! DINAH SHORE'S DIARY!
Ted Malone's Book Ends!

The Ear Inspires the Pen.

Mrs. Elsie White, 1056 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles.

Sirs: I would like to make a suggestion in connection with the program, "Nobody's Children." Why no sponsor seems to keep this program for any length of time I do not know. However, let me suggest that we form some sort of a club—a Radio Life Nobody's Children Club—and ask each Radio Life reader to pay a fee of $1.00 per month as a member to contribute toward keeping this very worthy program on the air. Each month or so we could get together and discuss how this fine work could be carried on over the radio. This program has to do with our own children. It seems to me we are always helping take care of foreign children but so often neglect our own. I sincerely trust that you will think enough of this suggestion to print my letter in your magazine so that we can start the ball rolling.

(Radio Life is willing. Are you?)

Mrs. Edna Beck, 366 Magnolia, El Monte.

Sirs: I am interested in William Lynch's Covina Rainbow Serenaders and would like to help them make the Fitch Summer Bandwagon program. What could I do to help them?

(According to the announcement last Sunday on the Fitch Bandwagon broadcast, there are ballot boxes in all drug stores carrying Fitch products. You should drop into your favorite drug store and fill out a ballot for your favorite orchestra.)

John Evans, Wildwood Sanatorium, Newhall, Calif.

Sirs: Why doesn't some sponsor Give Ginny Simms a half-hour song program? She is my favorite radio singer, and I have also made her the favorite here among the patients, and also in other sanatoriums as I write the column for this sanatorium in a monthly magazine. We all like her better than anyone else on the air. She has such cheering qualities and so much feeling in her voice. Also why did she leave Kay Kyser? We are lost up here when we're without Radio Life.

(We are wondering too why some smart sponsor doesn't feature Ginny Simms on a program of songs. She left Kay Kyser so that she might pursue a career as a soloist and actress. You of course realize that a singer can go just so far singing with an orchestra.)

Billie Brentner, 5834 1/2 Denver Ave., Los Angeles.

Sirs: Is there any way of getting a picture or can you print one in your Radio Life of Gabriel Heatter? I think he is wonderful after listening to other reporters on the air telling about war you feel so depressed and upset. But when you tune in on KHJ at 6 p. m. and hear Gabriel Heatter you feel so relaxed. Some reporters just scare you to death and make you think the world is coming to an end right now.

(Gabriel Heatter's picture will appear in an early issue.)

Mrs. Margaret Rush, 131 North Avenue 54, Los Angeles.

Sirs: Enclosed please find a dollar bill for 30 copies of your Radio Life magazine—the issue in which the

ON OUR COVER

Sharon Douglas, Radio Life's cover girl this week, has future fame and fortune written all over her angelic gardenia-white complexion which tops 5-ft. 4-in., and 118 pounds of dramatic talent. As the bright young woman who paces through the title role of "The Second Mrs. Burton" these afternoons on KNX - CBS, Miss Douglas is winning excellent notices as an actress who may soon attain movie stardom as well as radio heights. Hers is truly a Cinderella girl story—the struggle of a young newcomer from Oklahoma City who wanted more than anything else in life to be a successful radio artist. Two years ago she triumphed in the auditions for an actress to portray the Second Mrs. Burton, and she's been making the role live ever since. Sharon, a stickler for hard work, is not content with her Monday through Friday Mrs. Burton routine. She is much in demand for supporting parts on such programs as "Screen Guild Theater," "Silver Theater," and other shows which call for a fine flair for histrionics. Sharon just recently reached voting age, has no particular beau, and sparkling hazel orbs. Yes, and Radio Life can vouch for the fact that she's just as nice as she looks in that cover portrait.

articles about Paul Carson and Bill Henry appear. Paul Carson has been our top favorite for many years, and we never miss his beautiful Bridge to Dreamland. Bill Henry does a sweet job of news casting. He and Fulton Lewis, Jr. are two commentators we try always to hear.

Mrs. S. P. Bailey, 3241 East 15th St., Long Beach, Calif.

Sirs: Although I enjoy Radio Life immensely, I wonder if it would be possible to designate which programs are "organ" programs. Had I not happened to know "Mrs. Adams" on KFOX Tuesdays is an organ program I would have thought she was a speaker and thus might have missed a good program. It's just a suggestion, and know it is impossible to please everyone.

(That's an interesting idea, Mrs. Bailey, and Radio Life's editor would like to hear an expression on this idea from other readers.)

Mrs. Charles Compton, 233-B East Orange Grove, Burbank.

Sirs: May I suggest some pictures that I would like to see in Radio Life. A photograph of Clifford and Irene of One Man's Family would be a grand treat. Their wedding was so beautiful, and Irene sounds perfect for her role in the Barbour family. I would also like to see a picture of Galen Drake. He has one of the very nicest voices on the air, and he is so restful to listen to after the numerous talks on war, and taxes, etc., that we hear on the air these days.

(We'll do our best to deliver soon with a picture of Clifford and Irene, and also one of Galen Drake, a commentator who apparently has caught on with the ladies in a big way.)

Crets Walker, 357 Trimble St., Long Beach

Sirs: Knowing that all boys in the service welcome news about people on the radio programs I have made the habit of saving Radio Life copies and mailing them to my young relatives at the camps. One reason for my doing this is that I recall how thrilled I was with seeing actors and actresses whose life histories I had read about in Radio Life. Your magazine is becoming more and more a part of my life with each passing day.

MY DIARY: A DAY AT CAMP WITH DINAH

1 p.m. Arrive in Army car with Capt. George Mertens for my "blind date." Hope he's cute. . . Gee! An Honor Guard at "present arms" for me. Capt. Mertens says they're the eight best trained men on the field.

A Radio Star Describes Her Day At An Army Camp

WHEN Dinah Shore recently visited the Chico Army Flying School in Northern California to aid in the camp's War Bond drive and to take a "blind date" with one of the soldiers, she went through a day that many a girl dreams about. As the object of the affections of several thousand airmen, fêted, dined, and whisked about in jeeps, Dinah was almost literally swept off her feet. To show what happens when a famous radio star visits an Army camp, Radio Life peeks over Dinah's shoulder at her own notes of the day's doings.—The Editor.

1:30: Are these soldiers buying bonds! This pair who started 'em off helped send the total to over $25,000 in this camp alone. I hope that inspires a lot of folks at home; think of it, these boys are not only in the fighting line, but putting most of their pay in bonds, as well. There's real patriotism—and good sense! Some of the companies subscribed one hundred percent.

1:45: I'm a first-class private in the Air Corps! That's Lt. Col. Raymond Lester, Chico Army Flying School commanding officer, giving me my "stripes." Now I'm "one of the gang."

1:50: That Colonel Lester is a wonderful host! He let the cadets postpone getting in their flying time, so everybody could come to the bond rally and the drawing for my "blind date." It's a thrill standing under that waving American flag. (Later we all stood at attention as retreat was sounded and the flag was lowered carefully to the ground.)

2:00: Now for the drawing. . . First name I draw out is my "date" for the rest of the day and evening. Only he's gotta buy a bond to get his name in the basket! Only enlisted men eligible. This time the officers have to take a back seat. . . The name is—Private Ripley Scurlock! Ooops! He's on leave—bought his bond early!

1:50 p.m. DINAH'S

4:00: Now I find out how these ground mechanics keep our planes in the air. Al showed me how they keep these planes in top condition. We have to go now because the Colonel is reviewing the troops, and we—Private Sloan and Private Shore—are to occupy the reviewing stand with him.

6:00: Time for chow, and Al takes me over to the enlisted men's mess where we line up with the rest of the fellows and get our food cafeteria style—fried chicken, mashed potatoes, green beans, peas, salad, coffee, pie and slabs of ice cream. No wonder these boys look well fed! The fellows on K.P. say they'll stand over me until I clean the tray.

2:30: Here he is, folks: Private Firstclass Alfred Sloan, of Canton, Missouri, second name drawn. He says he didn't have a girl before—"until I met you." There's a boy who knows the answers! He's a plane mechanic from Culver Stockton College in Canton—one of those thousands of unsung heroes who "keep 'em flying"—and, girls—don't you think he's cute?

3:30: Al and I are already old friends. After all, we should be, we were practically neighbors back home—him in Missouri, me across the line in Tennessee. But now I'm to get a ride in one of those famous jeeps! Al is going to take me on a tour of the field. He's getting a kidding from the rest of the boys, but I don't think he minds.

DIARY (Continued)

6:30: Well, I made it—and what do you think! The mess sergeant brings me the biggest cake I ever saw. He wrote on it in icing, "Keep 'Em Buying, Dinah." Over it he stuck a P-40 fighter model. All the boys got in line and we divvied it up. Home made cake couldn't have tasted any better. It was sure swell, and that mess sergeant got a kiss from me!

10:30: Party's nearly over. After a rest in the officers' club, Al takes me to the soldiers' show. They put on some grand entertainment, then I sing all the new tunes I know. If I don't stop soon I'll be a baritone! It's been one of the most wonderful days I ever spent!

POLITICAL CHEESE:

Yes, a cheese actually did enter into politics. It was an inaugural gift to President Jefferson from the inhabitants of Cheshire, Massachusetts. The inhabitants of Cheshire, according to all records, were very proud of their cheese. In fact, it was their most prized possession.

So, in 1801, when Thomas Jefferson was elected President of the United States, the people of Cheshire thought it was a suitable occasion to present him with a cheese. It was truly a remarkable gift. It weighed 1,400 pounds and was brought to Washington by three teams of horses.

And the President? Well, when he received this little souvenir of their affection, he said, "I look upon this cheese as a token of fidelity from the very heart of the people of this land to the great cause of equal rights to all men."

Needless to say, Mr. Van Buren who succeeded Jefferson to the Presidency received a similar token.

WHAT MEATS THE EYE:

Why do women shy away from the meat counters at the markets, just like kids escaping the truant officer? There's no use denying that meat prices are generally high, but that doesn't mean that your family has to forego the pleasures and benefits of eating meat. Here are some suggestions for inexpensive meat dishes and their accompaniments. You'll be surprised what delicacies these are and how much your family will appreciate a change of the dishes accompanying the entree.

Prices quoted are approximate.

1 Lamb kidneys (20c lb.). Serve with fresh green peas and green onions.

2. Lamb shanks (19c lb.). Nice with rice.

3. Beef chuck (25c lb.). Try out the new Tenderoni and serve instead of potatoes.

4. Boiling beef (14c lb.). Tasty accompaniments to this are new spinach and horseradish sauce.

5. Pork ends from the tenderloin (29c lb.). Fresh string beans with bacon go temptingly with this dish, and for your starch, serve a dessert of tapioca pudding.

6. Beef stew (25c lb.). Accompany with Budget Pack lima beans.

7. Lamb breast (14c lb.). Cook French style and serve with brussels sprouts, broccoli, and a gelatine dessert.

8. Beef hearts (15c lb.). Broiled, with onion sauce. Make a cheese souffle to go with them.

WIELDING THE SAUSAGE:

The lowly sausage must have some unknown quality of which we are unaware that transforms it into a dangerous weapon. Whatever that secret is, it was known by only one man, a German scientist of the nineteenth century. When he was challenged to a duel by the famous military leader of Germany, Herr von Bismarck, our scientific friend in choosing his weapon picked out a sausage.

History records that both parties survived the encounter.

Sunday Dinner for Eight Persons

Radishes	Fresh Fruit Cocktail	Alber's Olives
	Sweet Pickles
Asparagus a la Florentine	Chicken a la F. D. R.
Sunny Valley Spinach with Anchovy Sauce		Beans Sauted in Butter
Mixed Vegetable Salad with French Dressing
Lemon Pie Supreme		Monarch Coffee

Recipe for Chicken a la F. D. R.

4 young chickens	1 pint shelled peas
2 large onions	2 cups Budget Pack Rice
2 cups broth	2 teaspoons Seasonettes
2 cups Sherry wine	Salt and pepper

Olive oil

Joint the chickens, wash and dry with a tea towel. Season with Seasonettes, salt and pepper. Put ten tablespoons olive oil in a thick frying pan on top of stove. When oil is hot, fry chicken to a brown. Add the broth, wine, rice and shelled peas, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover the pot tightly and let simmer until the rice and peas are tender. Serve the chicken on one side of platter and rice and peas as garnish.

Dollar Dinner for Four

Baked Egg Noodles with Onion and Cheese Sauce
Braised Short Ribs of Beef	Cantaloupe Salad—Lemon Dressing
	Bread and Butter
Ice Cream	Coffee

Recipe for Baked Egg Noodles with Braised Short Ribs of Beef

2 pound short ribs of beef	2 level teaspoons salt
1 pound Wilson's Oleomargarine	1 teaspoon pepper
2 4-ounce packages egg noodles	1/4 pound cream cheese
1 pound sliced onions	2 quarts water
1 teaspoon Seasonettes
Parsley

Put 1/4 pound Wilson's Certified Oleomargarine in a thick pot; when melted, braise the short ribs of beef cut into 3 inch pieces. When the ribs are nice and brown, take them out of the pot and saute one pound of onions sliced very thin, until they are golden in color. Put the ribs back into the pot, season with Seasonettes, salt, pepper and well chopped parsley and enough water to cover the short ribs. Let come to a boil, reduce the fire and simmer for one hour, or until the ribs are done. Put 2 quarts of water and two teaspoons salt in a large pot, when the water boils rapidly, cook 2 four-ounce packages egg noodles and let cook until tender. When done, drain well and put into a casserole. Shred one-half of 1/4 pound of full cream cheese, sprinkling it on top of the noodles; then pour on one-half of the sauce and mix well. Pour on the remaining sauce, sprinkle with the rest of the shredded cheese and cover the casserole. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes and serve with piping hot short ribs.

a philosophic, analytic person. He has an Aunt Vinny in Glendale who can verify that as a small boy, he always tried to figure out why he had stubbed his toe or taken a spill. Then, he's a methodically-minded man and one with native spirituality. All these qualities contribute to Ted's poise.

But most important of all is Ted Malone's humanness and his happy concept of life. One of his favorite expressions is "the great, glad adventure of living." If you're a Ted Malone fan, you'll recognize this quality in his voice, his attitude, and his interpretation of what he reads.

While I was in New York with him, he gave evidence, on every hand, of being a down-to-earth fellow. He rides the surface cars to the office at 57th and 8th Avenue. While he's riding, he's not detached. He's interested in everybody around him. I remember one day he changed the theme of his poetry broadcast all because of two old ladies he saw chatting on the street corner. He had

Behind the Man Between the Bookends

By JIMMIE McMASTERS as told to EVELYN BIGSBY

Jimmie McMasters, who was kind enough to give Radio Life this story, spent several years in local radio as a director, public relations head for the Country Church of Hollywood and the Robert Mitchell Boycholtz, and as a reader of verse of the Malone type. During Malone's 1940 tour, he traveled with Malone for six months while doing advance work connected with the pilgrimage broadcasts. Now engaged in defense work at Bendix, Jimmie pays Malone this simple, but significant tribute: "I'd like to spend my life working with him."—The Editor.

hands. "Get over by that mike and read some poems!"

"Sissy stuff!", rebelled Russell inwardly. "Of course, I'll have to do it, but nobody's going to know that it's Alden Russell, crooning pretty verses while an organ plays!"

Resolutely he walked to the microphone and announced: "This is Ted Malone."

As simply as that, the "nation's voice of poetry" was born! Since that day at KMBC, nine years ago, Ted Malone has become known to thousands of listeners throughout the United States, where his "Between the Bookends" program is radio's best-loved poetry quarter-hour.

During those nine years, Ted has had only one sponsor, which footed the bills for 26 weeks. For the remainder of the time, he has proved to be so good, so much in favor, that he has been retained as a sustaining feature on one or another of all four major networks.

His fan mail is terrific, and although 75 per cent of it comes from women, it encompasses all classes and ages of people.

What does Ted Malone have that makes his appeal so universal?

It was my privilege to work with him for six months. Perhaps I may venture some answers to the question.

To begin with, Ted is inherently

THINGS were skimming along in that "almost too good to be true" fashion one afternoon nine years ago at station KMBC, Kansas City.

Then it happened!

It began when a scheduled radio program failed to materialize.

To the faithful studio organist generally falls the lot of filling in with a few strains. Accordingly, the KMBC console caresser slid onto his bench and fingered a snatch of mood music while Mr. X, the program director, tore his hair for a program.

Suddenly, Mr. X halted his desperate quest. His eye fastened on Alden Russell, a young college graduate who was working around KMBC writing scripts and doing announcing.

"Here, Russell," Mr. X whispered coaxingly as he placed a volume in the young man's

JOHN NESBITT

His is the voice that made "The Passing Parade" one of radio's most exciting features several seasons ago. Then along came the movies with fabulous offers, and John retired from the radio scene to make flickers at MGM. A few weeks ago, however, a tempting radio offer from Fibber McGee and Molly's sponsor proved too inviting for the tall, blond British Columbia-born commentator to refuse. And, along with his long-time friend, Meredith Willson, Nesbitt returned to NBC ether lanes as the co-star of a summer series which highlights Meredith's music and his own "Passing Parade" format. Johnny Gets His Gun

Far and away our top news item this week is one close to the hearts of Radio Life family members. For the past six months, a young man mild of manner but aggressive in ferreting out radio news, has served as your Radio Life magazine editor. A week ago Monday, Johnny Whitehead left for San Diego as an enlistee in the United States Marine Corps.

Johnny loves radio and has been enthusiastic about his work with Radio Life. But to him, a more urgent call comes to serve in his country's armed forces. It was only by chance that we discovered his reason for choosing the Marines. Sentiment guided him, as his best friend, "Bud" Cook, (brother of Mary Lou Cook of Merry Mac fame), gave up his life on Wake Island.

As far as is possible, Johnny will keep up his contacts with radio and will send us a column for "Johnny on the Spot." His name remains on the mast-head as "Editor in Service."

While he is gone, Associate Editor Evelyn Bigsby will do her best to continue Radio Life's policy of sparkling stories, intimate interviews with the radio stars about whom you wish to know more, exclusive picture layouts, and timely ether news. To assist her, Joan Davies has joined the editorial staff. We pledge you our unstinting efforts toward maintaining Radio Life's high standards—"until Johnny comes marching home again!"

For the People

The never-ending hunger for news which today has reached a capacity never before equalled in history, was fed by CBS-KNX last week in their latest radio pioneering. The Seventh Street window of Bullock's Los Angeles store, turned into the CBS-KNX News Bureau Metropolitan Annex, gave the latest war bulletins on the window, with map markers showing locale of action. From early morning until closing time, the Associated Press wire and direct connections with CBS-KNX shortwave listening posts brought in the news as fast as it occurred.

With maps changing from hour to hour, with victories and defeats alternating from minute to minute, with every family in America vitally affected by World War II, men and women, even youngsters, have a feverish appetite for news during every waking hour. So it was that businessmen, housewives, errand boys, policemen and service men stopped before the department-store radio news room. Bad news or good, KNX saw to it that they were cognizant of the latest developments.

Harriet Ginn, operator-in-charge, was assisted by attendants Ruth Maxwell and Barbara McGee, operating the annex in three shifts from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily.

No story of American life is typical without its humorous aspect and the KNX-Bullock story is no exception. Glass windows are not soundproof and so on the day before the opening, when Miss Ginn was standing still, regarding the large war map in the background, two sailors came the nearest possible to what might pass for a navy blush. It happened after one remarked to the other, "My what an attractive dummy!" and the "dummy" turned the full warmth of a friendly smile upon them!

No Similarity

When the Blue network's "Town Meeting," on tour of the country, stopped off to broadcast in Santa Barbara on Thursday night, July 23, a local young lady was one of four persons invited to participate on the forum and to express her views on the topic: "Will War Marriages Work?" She was Miss Peggy Waggener of Los Angeles, graduate of U. S. C. with the class of 1937 and major in international relations, who was recommended to "Town Meeting" by the university. She and David Seabury, lecturer and psychologist, took the negative side of the question, opposing Louis Browne, novelist, and Mrs. Dwight Hutchins.

Miss Waggener argued: "War generates a lot of glamour. Most of us are doing work for the U. S. O., Red Cross, and other organizations which brings us in close touch with the soldier and sailor. Ability to distinguish between a sergeant-major and a major-general is a 'must' in our education. Everybody wants to be the rose that Johnny Doughboy found in her home town. Against this glamorous background, life itself is streamlined to keep pace with our war effort. A great deal of life must be jammed into a few hasty days, and the lonely vista of years of waiting prompts many a girl to adopt 'now or never' tactics.

"I wonder," Miss Waggener pointed out to her air audience, "how many of these warbrides realize the difficulties to be faced not only immediately after the war, but immediately after the ceremony. There is seldom time for family approval on either side, and if a girl is lucky enough to live with her husband, she must trek far away and set up a new life in an army or navy community which is already notoriously overcrowded."

To your Radio Life reporter, this all sounded like cold logic and we surveyed Miss Waggener as a Cupid-invulnerable young lady. Then we talked with her mother, who set everything straight. She assured us that Miss Waggener was asked arbitrarily to take the negative side of the question, and that the opinions she had stated on the forum did not necessarily reflect Miss Waggener's own.

Protest for Song

They tell you that in France men and women have learned to sing in whispers and the valiant strains of Marseillaise lighten darkened rooms with empty shelves. All over the world, conquered peoples are finding comfort in the memory of melodies that bring warmth into cold houses and hope into blank futures. Psychologists could give you scientific reasons for the power of singing in groups but, getting down to every-day language—it brings folks together.

Over at KNX they had one of the finest morale-builders of this tense-nerved life in the "United We Sing Program" and one of the best song leaders who ever got every last ounce of melody from a popular tune—Art Baker!

Now the program has been dropped indefinitely. Radio Life is fully aware of the fact that radio schedules must be changed occasionally and that sponsored and sustaining programs have certain differences of importance.

But the fact remains—when a group of people get together in a community sing, feeling akin as they send out the familiar melodies of World War I and the newer notes of present day songs depicting phases of war life, there's a lot of morale-building going on. As long as America sings — America triumphs over problems of the day.

Let's hope there will be enough protests to bring "United We Sing" back —sponsored—let's hear America sing with Art Baker!

"Vox-Mama"

Miss Carole Landis, luscious star whose name has appeared frequently in Radio Life mail ever since Johnny-on-the-Spot criticised her decollete gown, will have a new title come August 3 and 10. Radio Life just learned that she will be the "Vox-Mama," if such could be, of that popular quiz show, "Vox Pop." When Warren Hull visits Los Angeles early this month, Warren's partner, Parks Johnson, will be on a three-weeks' vacation in Texas, making it necessary for Hull to have a co-interviewer.

Miss Landis was probably chosen because she has worked with Hull in pictures. They will team up on Aug. 3 in New Orleans, and will do their broadcast from a West Coast base the following Monday night. Wonder what charming Carole will wear?

KNX, 5 p.m. Mon.

Scoop Again

Hank McCune, NBC's "It Happened in the Service" man, has scooped them all again. Last week he brought to the microphone Lieut. Bill Christie, and thus scored the first time anybody from the Yorktown has appeared on the air.

On Hank's Wednesday night program, Lieut. Christie told the thrilling story of the Battle of Midway, June 4, 5, and 6, and how the Japanese task force was fleeing on the last day when Christie and two other bombers attacked. They prepared to dive on a vessel, supposedly a small one, which turned out to be about 16,000 tons of Mogama class cruiser. But before doing so, they radioed their carrier: "This is TB-14 to X 149. Located Jap task fleet."

Immediately came the answer: "Do not attack. Return to your carrier immediately." When Christie's operator tried to confirm the order, it was discovered that the Jap vessel was on their wave length and had been the one, in perfect English, to order the Americans to return to their carrier without attacking!

Climaxing the thrilling air interview was Christie's description of destruction of the five Japanese ships. McCune's interview with the Lieutenant was the young U. C. L. A. graduate's fourth scoop in five weeks.

Shot In Arm

Last week, Amos 'n' Andy followers witnessed a departure in the script of radio's longest-lived comedy team on the air. The microphone veterans of 16 years entertained Bob Hope as a guest on one of their nightly airings and throughout the week featured the Golden Gate Quartet, a Negro foursome supplying background music. Indications of further changes were hinted.

Could it be that Freeman Gosden

Hank McCune

Art Baker

(Amos) and Charles Correll (Andy) have finally decided to inject new sap in their grizzled monarch? Especially since the latest Hooperatings, as revealed exclusively in last week's Radio Life, showed a 6.3 listing for the blackface team as against a 13.2 for the Jot 'Em Down Store's proprietors, Lum and Abner? KNX, 8 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

How It's Done

Rudy Vallee got Joan Davis back on his Thursday-night program—but it took a nationwide advertising campaign to do it!

The story is one of the most amusing which Radio Life has stumbled upon in some time and, as might be expected, press agents had something to do with it.

Ordinarily the publicity men, over-garulous about their clients, have little to say about their own part in the stars' activities. It isn't considered good business.

But this time the press agents ARE the story—and here is the inside tale of how one of their "stunts" was carried out.

When Miss Davis left the Vallee program for a couple of weeks' rest, the program's directors and its publicity firm felt it would be good policy to keep interest alive in the comedienne during her absence. Therefore, not only did Rudy and his program guests spend the next two weeks searching for her, but the press agents cooked up a classified advertisement to be inserted, at regular rates, in the "personal" columns of all the big newspapers of the country, over Rudy's own signature. In each case the ad read: "Joan Davis: If you're in (name of town) please return to Seal-test program at once. Everything all right. Rudy Vallee."

Then things started to happen. Curious subscribers started calling the paper. Was the well-known Miss Davis hiding in their town? Editors, smelling a gag, but not being sure, called the press associations, who wired their Hollywood representatives. Associated Press, International News Service, New York's PM, the Boston Post, Time Magazine all shot wires and phone calls back and forth.

Discovering the gag, the correspondents laughed and sent back kidding stories to their offices and everybody was happy—especially the press agents who stirred up a day's tempest with a crackpot idea and had it plastered over dozens of newspapers.

And that, dear Radio Life reader, gives you some idea of how it's done in Hollywood! We thought you'd like the low-down. KECA, 7 p.m. Thurs.

Salt Spray on Vallee?

If you see Rudy Vallee walking down the street in front of a blue goldbraided shadow, don't be alarmed. But the breath of the ocean winds is already cooling the back of the Blue Network star's neck. The Vagabond Lover, it is rumored, wants to be a member of the armed service and is seeking a commission and a way of blending official duties with duties to his program. In World War I, teenage Vallee was a second class officer on the "Texas."

Sponsors Respond

The overwhelming, tireless enthusiasm of thousands of fans and the faith of radio itself have finally placed Tom Breneman's "Breakfast at Sardi's" under the triumphant banner of sponsorship. Listeners and radio executives can take equal honors for their unwavering belief in the early morning program which, starting Thursday, August 6, and every Thursday thereafter, will be known as the Fisher Flouring Mills program. The Seattle, Wash., company's contract calls for a 52-week schedule for 13 Pacific Coast stations. Breneman's airchild will be heard Monday through Friday and tentative plans are under way for participation commercials on the unsponsored days.

Brighter still in this brightly commercialized future, is the plan to make "Breakfast at Sardi's" a trans-continental program, sustained by the network until plans for participation commercials are carried out through the East.

Tom Breneman's program has had a long, uphill pull. Many another program, well put-together, well presented, too, has fallen by the wayside under similar circumstances. But women listeners would not let this breakfast program fall and the network backed up their attendance and letters with time. From Iowa, from Nebraska, from Texas, from Pennsylvania, California tourists of the feminine ranks have demanded to attend the performance of "Breakfast at Sardi's." And the network proved its championship of sustaining talent by waiting—month after month, until, finally, a program made famous by the public received a sponsor.

New Scripter

Last week, John F. Whedon arrived in Hollywood from New York and was promptly lunched at the Derby by Cecil Underwood. This is not set down as a social item, but as one in which all "Great Gildersleeve" fans will be interested, for Whedon was brought out by Producer Underwood as the new scripter for the "Great Gildersleeve" show starring Hal Peary.

This is one program which jelled last year, using as its star a man who had gained his radio reputation on another show—the Fibber McGee and Molly opus). Like the program from which Peary came, the "Great Gildersleeve" relied for its laughs on "situation" humor, rather than rapid-fire gags. Its writer, Leonard Levinson, had worked previously with Don Quinn, scripter for Fibber and Molly, and is now offering his services, without charge, to the Office of Facts and Figures.

However, toward the end of the season, there was a noticeable tendency toward more "cracks" and fewer humor-provoking situations. That may or may not explain the marked drop in "Great Gildersleeve's" listening rating.

Whedon, an unassuming fellow has done scripts for the old "Circle" show which starred Madeleine Carroll and Basil Rathbone, has written for the Old Glory and Ballantyne pro-

COMEDY TEAM . . . "Victory's" funnyman, Chef Milani, and Gil Warren, who handles the dramatic narrative spot and plays the role of Pablo, were photoflashd discussing a script gag prior to their going on the air for "Toast to Victory". The Chef, as usual, has won his point with little contradictory opposition from Pablo. Milani plays the central character on the program, setting of which is laid in a California cantina. Music of Leon Leonardi and the Warner Bros. orchestra continues the atmosphere of fiesta days. Program participants appear in costume for the show, which is why the Chef is as proud as a peacock when strutting around the studio in his newly tailored red, white and blue victory suit.

Burton, New Thrifty News Man Is Scientist, Traveler

"As the war gets tougher, as the casualty lists grow longer and longer, as human suffering and despair increase, people will long to be told—in ways they can understand—that all this is worth while."

The speaker was John Burton, author, scientist, and international lecturer who will take over the news analyst job on Thrifty Drug Stores' "Inside the News," beginning August 3rd.

If the above is the approach of this writer-analyst to his new job, as it undoubtedly is, it promises well for listener-interest in the familiar 10:30 p.m. spot on KFI.

More and more listeners are becoming grateful these days for commentators who weigh the effect of their words on the audience rather than trying to wring the last ounce of drama out of every bulletin.

Burton is already well known in Southern California. He has lectured at practically all our Universities, and at numerous clubs, as well as at the Riverside "Institute of World Affairs." Born in Yorkshire, England, although he is now an American citizen, he has a truly international background. During World War I while still young, he was made Chief Projectile Metallurgist of one of the leading arms producing plants in England.

Later he became housemaster at a prominent English public school, St. Christopher's, which would be called a private school over here, and soon gained a reputation as an outstanding speaker and author. His book "The Trackless Wind" was cited by the New York Times as one of the best 50 books of the year in which it was published.

Burton's liberal social views brought him in touch with many of England's liberal thinkers—Arnold Freeman, Arnold Rowntree, artist William Rothenstein, writer Edward Carpenter, known as the "Walt Whitman" of England. In time he became special lecturer for the League of Nations, and before settling in this country, visited practically every country in Europe and Asia.

Radio Life Lines

By EVELYN BIGSBY

ABOUT "VACATIONS": Well, here we are all worn out from our "vacation" and tickled to death to take it easy again at the little old typewriter. Maybe our friend "Shep" (R. A. Shepherd) music librarian at KHJ-Don Lee, has evolved the right philosophy. He simply refuses time off for good behavior.

"Let the rest of the staff wear themselves out over-eating, sun-burning, and tearing around," Shep says. "I've got more interesting things to do right here in my office. And besides, there are some people who don't know a sonata from a caprice, so somebody has to stay around to spell out the details for them."

AWAY FROM IT ALL: We did however, escape a few embarrassing incidents while away from the office. There was the case of the lady who called us down for promising a picture of the Meredith Willsons' cat and failing to deliver. She's still looking for it in Radio Life, and now we'll have to break down and tell her the bitter truth. The only picture we had of "Emily" and the one we fully anticipated using, was too dark for reproduction. This sad fact wasn't discovered until the story was ready to run and it was too late to pose her feline highness. Maybe next time!

Emily was written into Meredith's script the other night on "Post Toasties Time." He was supposed to be raiding the ice-box in the kitchen and stepping on Emily's tail in the dark. Mrs. Willson insisted that couldn't really happen, as Emily sleeps in the bedroom. So Emily was written out of the final script.

But Emma, the Willsons' Negro housekeeper, made the grade and was mentioned on the air. While Mrs. Willson was attending the show at Radio City and her composer-conductor-actor husband was doing his stuff on the stage, Emma sat out in the couple's Rodeo Drive home, her ear glued to the radio to hear her name.

FROM SOMEWHERE IN IRELAND: The day we returned to work was brightened by a letter from—of all persons—Lieut. Mark Finley, who used to be publicity head for Mutual-Don Lee in Hollywood and who is now in military intelligence overseas.

"Here I am in tin hat," he writes, "carrying gas mask and pistol ready to open up a second front any old time they blow the whistle. It may seem that the pace toward war is quickening to folks in the USA, but for the boys in Ireland, we can't get the word quick enough . . . please send me a cable ordering me to take Berlin single-handed so I can go on a mission and finish it up in a hurry . . . I wanna go home to Hollywood."

"It's a problem to get accustomed to British radio production, but some of the programs are very entertaining . . . especially the recording sessions with American platters. It's a scream to hear the soubrettes in the local night clubs warble in their sweet Irish brogue that new hit, "Deep in the Heart of Texas." Incidentally, the cafes and dance spots usually close at 10:30 p.m. . . . religion and politics."

"We would like very much to hear on the BBC a nightly Hollywood and Broadway round-up of news and gossip—not war or political news—just a fast, snappy program on what's doing in the U. S. Nobody has short-wave sets, so we don't hear any of the stuff that's beamed this way . . . the type of program I speak of would have to be done with a hookup through BBC . . . let's say about 3 a.m. your time—a sort of "what happened last night" and given ostensibly as a round-up of things collated and edited just as the night clubs close."

"Haven't been inside or near a radio station for four months, as am so busy in a big and important job and the only country I get a chance to see or places to go are on official missions. I hit the ball hard and really have about seven jobs, all of which need immediate attention. Hollywood was fun . . . only 18 hours a day and two phones . . . and two pretty secretaries . . . here it's 24 hours a day . . . four phones . . . and male clerks!"

"Would appreciate a letter full of Hollywood radio gossip going back about three months, if you can hit the highlights in about a page for a soldier who probably will not return to radio . . . but to television. We'll have it as the No. 1 ether entertainment after the war."

Mark's such a grand fellow. It tickles us when we think of him now. In Hollywood he was a publicity man, telling everybody everything all the time. Last time we saw him, he was a close-mouthed intelligence man. The difference must be tormenting sometimes!

Yet, I wondered if he wasn't up to one of his stunts, and a very nice one too, when I saw that Betty Rhodes had been named "colleen" of some USA outfit in Ireland. Could be the fine hand of Lieut. Finley!

grams, and has been a staff member of the New Yorker.

His sample "Gildersleeve" script, which will be used when "Great Gildersleeve" returns from its eight weeks' vacation on August 30, gives encouraging indications of whipping the show back into the situation category. Maybe something should be made of it that Whedon rode out here on the train with Don Quinn, Fibber McGee and Molly writer, who has been vacationing in Chicago.

"Gildersleeve" will be the first of the winter shows to return to the air, and it will come back with its cast intact—Walter Tetley, Lurene Tuttle, Earle Ross, and Lillian Randolph. As we go to press, we hear that there is a strong possibility that the orchestra leader, Billy Mills, may be billed as such this season. It is felt that "Gildersleeve" has been successful enough in establishing its identity that Mills, who also directs the Fibber McGee and Molly orchestra, may now safely be known on "Gildersleeve" as such, and not by his two first names, William Randolph, by which he was announced on "Gildersleeve" this past season.

Talent Auditions Open

Robert Bice, director of Radio Life's endorsed Free School of Radio, announces that auditions for the September semester started the last week in July and will continue through the month of August at 6814 Sunset boulevard.

Incidentally, Bice does the current act of a dual role, and when one doesn't find him in his studio in shirt sleeves, you'll see him in army khaki as a member of the intelligence service.

Religious Conference

This week, a large delegation of radio folk is leaving Southern California for Denver, where a conference-clinic on "Religious and Other Forms of Institutional Broadcasting" is being held at the University of Denver, Aug. 3-5. Director of this conclave, first of its kind to be held in this country, is Rev. Frank Hobart Nelson of Pasadena, who founded the Bureau of Institutional Broadcasting in Cleveland, and who hopes to conduct a similar conference next year in Pasadena.

Cinch WAFFLE MIX

MADE BY MAKERS OF CINCH CAKE MIX

Cinch Waffle Mix is ready-to-make. It contains all highest-quality ingredients, including a specially milled soft flour, known to make superior waffles—and found only in Cinch. You do not add sugar, or eggs, or shortening, or milk. All you do is add water, mix to a batter and bake.

Surprise your family tomorrow! They'll cheer at the sight of crisp, golden-brown Cinch waffles swimming in rich butter and maple syrup . . . they'll rave about the tenderness and delicious flavor. A satisfactory, flavorful feast to the last bite. What an easy-to-prepare, economical meal. Take advantage of the money-saving introductory offer below. Get Cinch Waffle Mix today at your grocers. Ceiling price—25c per package.

NOTHING TO
WATER

No more guesswork or worries in waffle making. With Cinch you just add water and bake. Takes only seconds. Each package contains enough mix to make 8 large crispy waffles . . . a meal for a family of four. Look for the large red and yellow Cinch package.

Tried CINCH CAKE MIX lately?

- WHITE
- GOLDEN
- SPICE PRUNE
- DEVIL'S FUDGE

4 DELICIOUS FLAVORS

You can be a cake expert in 3 minutes with Cinch Cake Mix. All necessary ingredients are in. Just add water, mix and bake. Cinch cakes are light, fluffy and tempting everytime. Each one a treat you'll be proud to serve.

Joy Gives Fat Party

The guests could represent any poundage they desired, but Dick Joy demanded a jar of fat as the "price" of admission to a recent party at his North Glendale home. The fats were later turned over to the Office of Civilian Defense.

Don't Remind Him Now!

Bert Lytell, who is acting as emcee for the new "Stage Door Canteen" programs on CBS, admits reluctantly now that he was once voted the most popular American picture star of Tokyo.

Turn in That Record

Only a few days remain of the drive put on by Records For Our Fighting Men. If you have any records gathering dust, turn them in at your nearest American Legion. Proceeds will go to buy new records for servicemen.

On a Clear Day . . .

Although Agnes Ridgway writes of a Connecticut town, she does not live in the Nutmeg State. However, the author of NBC's "Those We Love" does live across the sound on Long Island. "right across the way."

BTM Backed by CBS

The big three of the radio world—Broadcasts—Transfers—Marriages will be plugged by KNX as it sends out a monthly letter to former staff members now stationed in the service from Alaska to the tropics, from Iceland to Australia.

Letters will contain news of the CBS-KNX personnel, information about new shows, amusing incidents, transfers, marriages, births. Frances Wilder is in charge of the correspondence.

Calling Dr. Jordan

Radio producers treasure a star who can do the unrehearsed as well as the rehearsed. Betty Winkler, of the Joyce Jordan show, kept her rank as one of their prize jewels last week by stepping out of her role as doctor into that of announcer by reading a commercial she'd never seen before when the regular actor failed to appear.

Mon.-Fri.

No Heavy Looking-On

Great Moments In Music, heard Wednesday nights over CBS, is one of the few major sponsored programs that does not permit studio visitors.

"The program is intended for the radio listener," explains Jean Tennyson, the star. "A studio audience would destroy the illusion."

Pitching Low Now

Ed Wynn, famous clown, was quite excited after his recent guest appearances with Dorothy Kilgallen on her "Voice of Broadway" broadcast. The girl columnist insisted that Ed revive his old, high pitched radio voice, which was famous in his "Fire Chief" days.

"I haven't been able to get my voice up into that range for years," Ed confessed. "I guess it was just the excitement."

★ ★ KNX, 3:15 p.m.
Tues.

Edward R. Murrow, heard Sundays over CBS from London, is spending much time with the AEF in England, and many of his old friends from the states are among the early arrivals.

Possible Effects of Petrillo Record Ban Analyzed

Radio Life's Rambling in Rhythm Editor Gives You the Pros and Cons of the Platter Controversy

By CHARLES EMGE

This column is ordinarily devoted to musichatter about radio bands and orchestras but because of the approach of an important event which may have a great effect on the radio pleasure of every music lover, we're going to devote our space this week to a discussion of that event.

Jimmy Petrillo, boss of the American Federation of Musicians (the musicians' union) has decreed that after Aug. 1 AFMusicians shall make no more phonograph recordings or transcriptions of any kind, "except for home use" or "for the Army." (Jimmy, who runs his union the way Mussolini runs Italy, never takes a step without re-affirming his patriotism and wholehearted support of the U. S. war-effort).

A record manufacturer has no control over the use of his product after it leaves his hands. Therefore Jimmy's ruling, if it stands as it is at present, puts an end to the manufacture of phonograph records.

If anyone thinks that passable phonograph records can be turned out by non-union musicians he doesn't know how completely the AFM embraces its field. Its membership includes practically all competent musicians.

It is unlikely that any AFMembers will drop their union cards to make records. Almost all records are made by "name bands," members of which receive $7.50 per side. The important bands make around 50 sides a year. Musicians do not share in the royalties from the sale, as a general rule.

The point is that to the relatively few musicians who make records, the work is a source of added income, but not in any sense a means of livelihood.

That musicians, for relatively low pay, create the very instrument that jeopardizes—even eliminates—the jobs of other musicians in radio stations and taverns (which use juke boxes) is therefore an obvious fact.

But there are two sides to all controversies.

The best music one hears on the air—a large portion of the best music presented to the American public—is heard on broadcasts of phonograph records. Record broadcasts have been the biggest factor in helping radio listeners in learning to enjoy good music.

We can't say so much for the juke box industry, but we can say that the juke box gives its nickel's worth of musical pleasure to John Q. Public—and Susie Q. Public—or the juke box wouldn't exist. The juke box helps people to have a good time. And that's plenty these days.

Even if Petrillo's decree stands in its present form, it will not mean the immediate disappearance of record broadcasts Aug. 1. Petrillo has no legal power to prevent the broadcasting of records.

There are scads of good records available which have never been played to any extent. There is nothing to prevent the manufacturers from digging up the "masters" of these records, many of which were slighted by the public when they were issued but which will now become big hits just by virtue of radio airings, and making as many copies as they wish.

It is interesting to conjecture whether records may be obtained from foreign countries. Remember those records by Jack Hylton, Bert Ambrose, Ray Noble? Some of them were the biggest hits the U. S. ever had. And there are some mighty fine musicians in South America. In normal times it would be no trick at all for recording companies to record in another country and then shoot the "masters" back here for pressing. We don't know that it can't be done right now.

If Petrillo's ruling does actually shut off the supply of records in this country, it will hurt a number of smaller radio stations, some of which might have to shut down.

It will hurt the juke box industry, which definitely needs a constant supply of new records.

It will hurt—possibly kill—the record manufacturing industry.

It will hurt the music publishing business, which relies on records to introduce new tunes as much or more than it relies on radio.

It will hurt the American people, who enjoy listening to records.

But it will NOT hurt musicians.

THE PROGRAM FINDER

No, folks, there's no Program Finder in this week's Radio Life. But save your stamps—this very popular feature has not been discontinued, just crowded out this week only, in the process of adjusting our format to accommodate the new 16 pages of roto-gravure.

Back again next week, you will find the Program Finder on pages 30 and 31—the next to the last two pages of the "news" section of your now greatly enlivened Radio Life.

They will be in a state of strike as far as records are concerned, but they will never have to give in because of economic necessity for the simple reason that practically none of them depends on making records for his livelihood.

On the other hand—will musicians gain enough to justify the harm Jimmy Petrillo would have them do to others?

If they don't, Jimmy Petrillo will have a lot of explaining to do to a lot of people!

They may be known as geniuses before the microphone, but the Quiz Kids are just like the kids down the street away from the studio, according to Joe Kelly, professor of the classroom of the air.

They haven't taken any tips from their elder radio colleagues and, instead of fortifying their brains for the ordeal ahead, they hunt trouble. Dick Williams and Van Dyke Tiers lean toward taking microphones apart. Gerard Darrow goes in for acrobatics on the edge of the broadcasting platform. Jack Lucal and Claude Brenner pound out finger rhythm, while Joan Bishop plays piano, Harve Fischman eyes sound effects paraphernalia like a surgeon contemplating a bad appendix. GENE AUTRY, astride a bicycle instead of a horse, greets visitors to Melody Ranch at the circular driveway where giant eucalyptus trees form a perfect horseshoe.

STABLE IN THE SKY

Camera Records A Typical Day With the Richfield Reporter

IN THE exciting, intriguing business of radio newscasting the Richfield Reporter is an institution. The oldest program in radio in the point of continuous broadcasting over the same network (NBC-KFI) for the same sponsor, without change of format, the Reporter is an international radio newspaper now in its 13th year on the air. Until the war brought into effect on the West Coast recently a temporary silencing of radio nighttime programs, the Richfield Reporter had aired the news of the world every evening except Sunday, for 12 years without a lapse. This record-breaking feat for consecutive broadcasts began on April 20, 1931. More than 10,000,000 words, representing the best of 10 times that volume of United Press news, have been aired by the Reporter since the late-evening (10 p. m.) NBC program first went out onto the airwaves over the Coast chain. Listeners from points as far apart as northern Alaska and south-east Africa have written Wayne Miller, editor of the Reporter, attesting to the clear reception of the news bulletins. (NBC, Hollywood Pics).

1 Wayne Miller is the man who edits the Richfield Reporter. A veteran news editor, Miller arrives in NBC Radio City News Room at 1 p.m. daily except Sunday to begin winnowing more than the required 30,000 words of copy from United Press teletypes needed to compile the 15-minute news period presented nine hours later at 10 p.m.

2 After clipping the top stories of the day's output of news from the teletype machines, Editor Miller dictates to Collette Burns the full script of the Richfield Reporter. As new and "hotter" stories come in later in the day, some pages of the script are replaced or revised up to almost actual airtime.

3 John Wald, "voice" of the Richfield Reporter, arrives in the News Room at 5 p.m. to watch the news of the day unfold and also to rehearse portions of the script in advance.

4 At 9:58 p.m.—just two minutes before broadcast time — Newscaster Wald and Editor Miller go into a last-minute huddle on the script in a small studio near the News Room.

5 A recorded fanfare introduces the Richfield Reporter to NBC-KFI listeners six nights a week. Monte Frazer, above, NBC staff sound effects man, manipulates the record and clicking telegraph key.

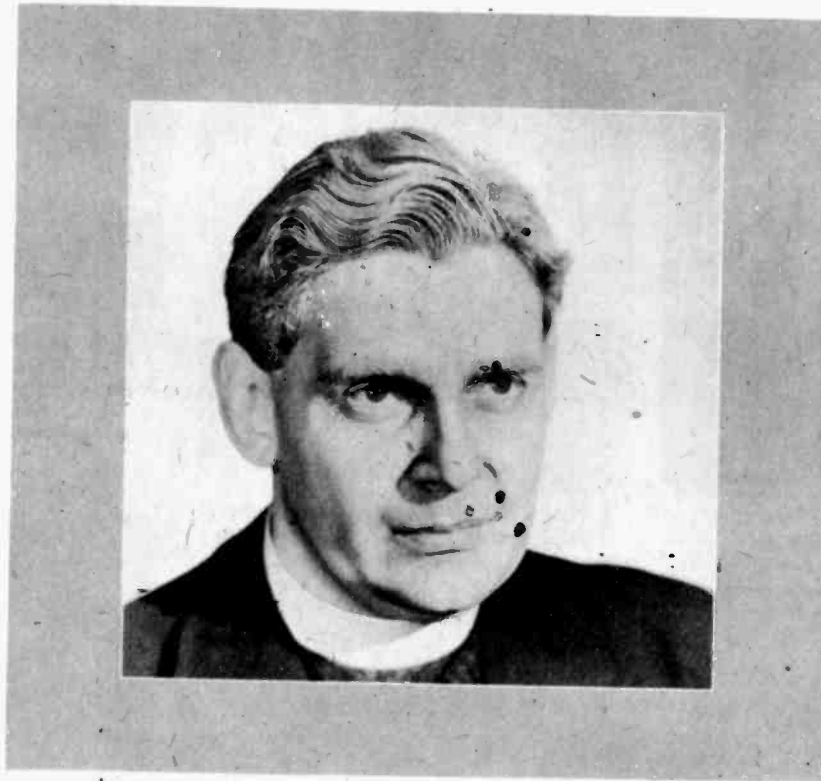

Much of John Wald's pre-broadcast time is spent beside a world globe and several dictionaries. Proper pronunciation of little-known cities, countries, and war figures are important in a news program boasting such a huge audience as the Richfield Reporter.

6 Midway through the newscast, Wald has a pause that refreshes while Frank Bingman delivers the sponsor's commercial.

7 Below, a last-minute news flash is rushed from the teletype to the studio by Editor Miller. Late baseball scores usually come in after Wald is on the air.

Under the Influence of The GUIDING LIGHT

By IRMA PHILLIPS

Author of The Guiding Light

The fact that when The Guiding Light went off the air last December there were approximately 75,000 letters, hundreds of telephone calls and telegrams requesting its continuance, proved to me that it was as fundamental in its appeal as I had believed it to be. Why? Because it is a story of a melting pot community, a crucible in which people of all racess, all creeds, all nationalities, are fused and merged until they become Americans all. Because it is the story of a man, a minister who lives by the rule of life which embodies the Brotherhood of Man.

America needs inspiration—needs to be told again that its way of life is right and that it shall triumph in the end. When the bell of the Little Church of Five Points rings calling the people to another service conducted by Dr. John Ruthledge, The Guiding Light is performing its service toward inspiring, strengthening, and giving faith to Americans.

ED PRENTISS is the fortunate choice for Ned Holden's role.

ELOISE KUMMER dramatizes the character of Mrs. Greenman.

RUTH BAILEY essays the role of Rose Kiansky.

NORMA JEAN ROSS plays the part of the Greenmans' daughter, Ronnie.

REESE TAYLOR enacts the interesting role of Edward Greenman.

LAURETTE FILLBRANDT fills capably the part of Nancy Stewart.

GLADYS HEEN is the vivacious actress cast as Torchy Reynolds.

Between the Bookends

meant, as is his custom, to group his thoughts and verses under one heading, and had chosen "Jealousy," as the day's theme. After watching the old ladies, he switched to "Neighborhoodliness Over the Backyard Fence."

Another day, I saw an old, hermit-type man accost Ted in Radio City. He wanted Malone to look at some of his verses. Instead of giving him the brush-off, Ted bought the old fellow a cup of coffee, listened to his poetry, and accompanied him to his little room in the Bowery where more verses were laid away in a trunk.

Ted used some of the poems and helped him to get the collection published. Not to be outdone, the girls in the office chipped in and bought the newly-recognized author a nice suit, so that he might make the rounds of the book houses.

I agree with the critics who call Malone's the "coziest parlor voice in America." But it's the human understanding and spiritual power behind that voice which carries over to the radio listener—can even, as it did a few years ago in Portland, prevent a woman from committing suicide. In appreciation for what Ted saved her from, that woman came to New York and insisted on working for Malone for eight months without any pay.

Perhaps you remember Ted's great contribution to American literature—his 50,000 mile tour of the country's author-shrines. He made his circuit in two series, one the "Pilgrimage of Poetry," and the other, "American Pilgrimage." While he was travelling, he broadcast from birthplaces and homes of America's writers, and for you radio listeners he performed such unique sound effects as tapping Mrs. William Cullen Bryant's sewing box, rolling up the shades in Longfellow's home, scratching a line with Poe's pen, hollering down Whittier's well, or hitting a spoon against the outdoor-cooking kettle of Joaquin Miller. These were little things to do, but when Ted Malone wove about them a story of the author's intimate life and then read a few of his verses, it aroused interest in American poetry. That's why I say that Ted Malone, through the medium of radio, has done more than any man in this country to make America conscious of its literary heritage.

For his three weekly radio programs, Ted draws on a huge library of verse which is said to be the largest collection of contemporary poetry in America. Ted can write good verse himself, but he's very modest about reading it.

Each radio program has a central theme which Malone chooses about a week in advance. When time arrives for him to go on the air, he seats himself at the studio table and asks for all the lights to be dimmed. He reads by the one near his script. As the lights mellow, the organ starts to weave a beautiful background for the intimately flowing lines which Ted will give to his listeners. Ted's particular about the organ tapestry, but never complains if it isn't "right" according to his way of thinking. He prefers the ad-lib type player at the console and thinks our own Bob Mitchell right here in Los Angeles is one of the finest.

And then, out of the turmoil of the day, comes respite as "Between the Bookends" interrupts the morning's routine and you hear Ted Malone's quiet, cheery greeting, "Hello there!"

Something in his make-up is so tolerant, so understanding, that I am reminded of Joaquin Miller's verse:

"In men whom men condemn as ill
I find so much of goodness still,
In men whom men pronounce divine
I find so much of sin and blot
I do not dare to draw the line Between the two, where God has not."

First English lesson of Victor Borge, radio "Music Hall" comedian, when he came to this country a year and a half ago was "Give me a cup of coffee." He walked into a New York restaurant, said "Give me a cup of coffee," and nothing happened. He had chosen the Automat, where you drop a nickel in the slot for coffee!

Coming out of the Ether

By BERNIE SMITH

Too often we toot the horn for the quarterbacks of radio, and too seldom for the linesmen. Too often we applaud the antics of the star, when the people marching in the army behind the scenes deserve the roses.

So let us now dedicate a few minutes to these people unloved and unsung. Step up and shake their hands.

THE PRODUCER: He's the fellow who is in over-all charge of the show. He it is who trims out the unfunny comedy, who gives us more music when the show needs a lift, who weighs each minute in the balance and deserves the credit for making a half-hour of our time entertaining and worth the effort spent in listening to it. He's the unsung star of the show.

THE WRITER: Most big shows nowadays have a battery of writers. The job usually is too much for one man. He's the funny man or the dramatist or the poet who performs for his boss, only. He's the fellow you see in the control room laughing harder than anyone else, or frowning the saddest when the show doesn't go so well. He's the lad who listens to other programs and then re-writes the material for his own, or who lays awake in the small morning hours, working out in his mind the details of a sketch or a gag or a plot. Give him a big hand, folks. His job is the toughest of all.

THE ARRANGER: How often we applaud the musical director for a particularly fine musical number. Each time we do, the orchestral arranger sits quietly in the background and feels pretty swell. He's the lad who worked all week on one 4-minute song, just to make it good enough for your ears. He's the fellow who must know the ability of each member of the band, who writes the music, much of it original, to suit the unit as a whole. He, not the director, is responsible for much of the good music we hear.

THE ENGINEER: Poor man! You never hear of him! Yet he's the motor of the engine. He's the lad who sits through long hours of rehearsals, turning a knob here, moving a mike there, so that the sound that comes through your loudspeaker is always at even volume, so that the saxophones won't drown out the violins, so that the sound balance is always perfect. Hats off to the engineer.

He can make or break a program with a twist of the wrist!

THE TECHNICIAN: He's the first cousin to the engineer, but he's doomed to oblivion. He sits in transmitters from coast to coast, seeing to it that a tube doesn't blow out in the middle of the star's solo, or that a fuse doesn't break while the hero duels the villain in the storybooks of the air. He sees to it that our listening pleasure isn't interrupted by mechanical failures. His job is unglamorous, but he must be remembered when we're passing out the kudos. We owe him a lot; he's made American radio supreme in the world of broadcasting.

THE CENSOR: He rides a barrel of dynamite with a smile. Nobody likes him. He's always at fault when the show goes bad. He's the goat when the comedian lays an egg or the storyteller's mail drops off. Yet the censor is our representative in the program conference. We, the listeners, haven't met him personally, but he knows us intimately. He knows our every whim. He knows what we like and what we don't like in the way of commercial copy. He keeps the minister, the politician, the philosopher, the songwriter, the comedian, the dramatic actor and the newscaster from treading on our toes. If we are offended only once a year by some erring radio performer, we can thank the censor it isn't any oftener. Yes, he gets kicked around. But we like him. And thank Heavens we have him!

These are but a few of the army of people who work 24 hours every day so that we might have a few hours of pleasure and fun and relaxation from that miracle of all-time, the radio.

That's Hollywood

Radio Reporter Bob Garred won the announcing berth on the Nelson Eddy program over CBS without ever making an audition because Eddy has been tuning his nightly newscasts for the past couple of years. Bob's experience with the movies last year was entirely different. Although he'd been broadcasting the news on the airplanes for several years, he had to make a series of voice and film tests before he was found acceptable for the role of a news announcer in a picture!
