The Ear Inspires the Pen

Mrs. Edwin Woodward, 718 Santa Ynez, San Gabriel, Calif.

Sirs: Here are four more votes for "Vic and Sade." It was the only daytime program we ever listened to.

Can't something be done to bring "Boston Blackie" back? It was the best-written show of its kind. "Nero Wolfe" was pretty good, too.

What is doing with "Duffy's"? It was one of our favorites but seems to be skidding. We are looking forward to having Red Skelton, Fred Allen, Spike Jones, Benny Fields and Kay Van Riper back. She had the best radio voice of all.

We definitely don't like the programs of Fannie Brice, Eddie Bracken, Dinah Shore and "Let's Pretend." The last named was a favorite until the obnoxious advertising came into it. We liked "Gaslight Gayeties" until Michael O'Shea left.

We do like Lurene Tuttle, Earle Ross, Vera Vague, the duets of Eddie Cantor and Nora Martin, and Elvia Allman. Her talents aren't half-used in radio.

We love all mysteries, enjoy plays and the children like "A Date with Judy," "Fibber," "Blondie," "Henry Aldrich," "Alan Young" and Burns and Allen.

First, last, and always, we love Danny Kaye.

Mrs. Dorothy Hoag, 1040 East 15th St., Long Beach, Calif.

Sirs: Have been a constant listener to Charlotte Greenwood's program and enjoy it very much. Would appreciate it if you could write an article about her in Radio Life.

Who plays the part of "Cousin Cassie" in "Death Valley Sheriff"? I look forward to that enjoyable half-hour every week. Is the Jack Kirkwood Show supposed to be funny? Maybe I don't like vaudeville on the radio.

It is Olyn Landick who plays "Cousin Cassie" on "Death Valley Sheriff."

Mrs. Helen Cummins, 1241 West 105th St., Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: I want to send a few words of praise for two new 1945 radio shows; Andrews Sisters' "Eight to the Bar Ranch" and the "Danny Kaye Show." They are both fast moving, entertaining programs with plenty of good music and laughs.

Contrary to the opinion of one of your readers, I think the Danny Kaye Show is a great improvement over Kenny Baker's half-hour, although I like his singing style. Now, they have a versatile star who can sing any kind of song, from an Irish ballad to the original numbers by his wife and read tongue-twister lines with amazing facility, amusing authenticity and versatility.

Miss Cora Baertsch, 6003 1/4 Yucca, Hollywood 28, Calif.

Regarding your letter of February 15th: Radio Life received the information that Mr. Linkletter was born in Massachusetts, from a studio release. We regret our lapse of memory—or lack of energy (!)—in not remembering, or looking up, the actual facts regarding Mr. Linkletter's beginning. The stork by-passed Boston, delivered Art in Moosejaw, Canada.

Sharon Lee Cooper, 1617 Hollyridge, Hollywood, Calif.

Sirs: In your February 25th issue of Radio Life, you published a story about Andy Russell's new airshow. Included in this article was a picture of Andy and Mel Torme's Meltones. This singing group was supposed to appear on the program, according to the article. I've seen the Meltones in a motion picture and enjoyed their singing very much, so I listened to the Russell show only to find that the Pied Pipers were on it, instead. What happened? Are the Meltones appearing on any other program?

Immediately after our February 25th issue had gone to press, the Meltones were replaced on the Andy Russell show by the Pied Pipers. The Meltones have also been heard frequently on the "Fitch Bandwagon," but at the present time, are not permanent members of any airshow.

Louise Martin, Pasadena, Calif.

Sirs: My radio is my liberal education as well as my most delightful source of entertainment. I would do without almost any other single item in my home rather than give up my radio.

So I feel I am privileged to offer a few suggestions for radio improvement.

necessary for the actors to speak broken English when they are supposedly talking in their native tongue? The illusion is destroyed by this anachronism.

Why do many news commentators say "YOUR" announcer when it is really their own announcer. None of us wants title to an announcer.

Why is it necessary to keep up the maddening clatter of a squealing telegraph instrument before and between certain broadcasters' lines? Unnecessary noise should be totally eliminated. (Winchell and Dispatch from Reuters.)

And why are men allowed to read news reports when they have not taken the pains to learn to pronounce commonplace American names of places properly, much less foreign cities or districts? A few hours' study of other languages will give the key to correct pronunciations. Particularly so in German where one of the first rules you learn is that there are no accented syllables in the German language: each syllable has an equal value.

This is for the sound effects man. The clicking of heels during a dramatization is very often vastly overdone and misplaced. You hear the characters talking as they walk in a room. Are we to believe that there are no rugs on floors or stairs in modern fine homes? They all sound like the barren hall of an office building.

And still, despite previous protests, the buildups announcing the featured player continue to blast one's ear drums. A quiet, distinct announcement is much more effective from all points of vantage.

Jack Stromy, 385 Newport, Long Beach, Calif.

Sirs: I think there should be more educational programs on the air like "American School of the Air." There are so many murder stories crowding the airways. A child should have something else to think about besides how Jack Armstrong or Dick Tracy will come out.

The handwriting of this letter indicated that writer is a youngster.

AS A FREE-LANCE WRITER, Dorothy Thompson, in the words of John Gunther, "blazed her way through Europe like a blue-eyed tornado." Miss Thompson's book, "I Saw Hitler," published in 1932, was the beginning of her crusade to warn the world of Nazism. She is now in Europe again, and can be heard weekly on Mutual.

DYNAMIC DOROTHY

By Mary Ellen Ryan

Sunday, 6:45 p.m.
Mutual Don Lee-KHJ

SHE HAS discovered the secret of perpetual emotion." The lady so credited is dynamic Dorothy Thompson, who brings to her new Sunday evening Mutual Don Lee program, "Topics of the Day," all of the crystal clarity and understanding of the political and human scene that has made her one of the two most influential and widely quoted women in America.

From a gawky, tomboyish daughter of a Methodist minister, living in up-state New York, she has become an imposing international figure, femininely handsome with soft gray hair, dressing inexpensively with visible disregard for clothes and with a capacity for work and laughter unmatched.

First signs of the crusading spirit that is Dorothy Thompson were seen when she entered the feminist movement on the campus at Syracuse University. After graduating, she was an organizational worker for woman suffrage and stumped New York state.

Typical of her boundless enthusiasm was her first newspaper assignment. After three years of publicity and advertising work, her restless spirit sent her to Europe.

She free-lanced in England and Europe, gaining the attention and admiration of Fleet Street when she brought in the last interview given by the famed Irish hunger-striker, Terence McSweeney. Newspaper and article work sent her dashing all over Europe... by bribing a palace guard she interviewed Empress Zita in Budapest after the second Karlist putsch; wearing an evening dress, she covered the Pilsudski revolution, and was almost shot while in Bulgaria.

To Berlin

In the words of John Gunther, "She blazed her way through Europe like a blue-eyed tornado." The crest of this tornado carried her to Berlin as chief of staff for the New York Evening Post and Philadelphia Public Ledger, the first woman to hold such a journalistic position.

Her book, "I Saw Hitler," published in 1932 after an interview with the German leader, was the beginning of her crusade to warn the world of the rising tide of Nazism. She reported the Nazi revolution in Germany in a series of articles for the Saturday Evening Post, incurring the displeasure of the Nazi regime, so much so, that in 1934 she was expelled from Germany for "numerous utterances and writings hostile to the Third Reich."

Undismayed, she continued her fight against the Nazi menace, becoming a widely syndicated columnist

Hollywood's Biggest Fan

By Betty Mills

Columnist Erskine Johnson Admits He's Completely Glamor Struck; Can't Remember Names; Bites His Nails; and Doesn't Like to Talk

Friday, 8:15 p.m.
CBS-KNX

ERSKINE JOHNSON, who has interviewed hundreds of personalities, admitted with a shy grin to Radio Life that when people interviewed him, he didn't know what to say. "Gee," he confided, "there's nothing different about me. I like my work, I'm a family man, and I'm Hollywood's biggest fan."

What Erskine — affectionately tagged "Skinny"—calls being "Hollywood's biggest fan" has resulted in a nation-wide syndicated column and a weekly fifteen-minute radio show. This "fan stuff" all began when Skinny was a boy. He was completely movie struck and never missed a picture at his neighborhood theater. He laughed and he cried in all of them and when he came out he swore it was the greatest picture he'd ever seen. He hasn't changed a bit. He still does it.

He doesn't like to be disillusioned when seeking out his glamor and happily reports he rarely is. This is probably due to his own good-natured philosophy. He never searches for gossip, but those facts which make the star as real as you or I. Therefore, Hollywood likes and respects Erskine Johnson.

Show Important

The thirty-two-year-old, six-foot, columnist-commentator's present Jergen's show, "Tonight in Hollywood," is a pretty important thing in his life. After having done a previous fifteen-minute spot, "Hollywood Spotlight," five nights a week for two-and-a-half years, he now finds new "leisure time" which can be spent at home with wife, Isabelle, and their two youngsters.

"Don't think," he hastened to explain, "that I didn't enjoy doing the 'Hollywood Spotlight.' I did, for it was swell training and lots of fun while it lasted. Only thing that worried me was whether I'd last or not."

He likes to brag a little about the guest on his second broadcast. That was one of the nights when Franklin D. Roosevelt spoke, with all of the programs, including Erskine's making way for the president's talk. "You can't go higher than that, now can you?" grinned Johnson.

"We understood," Radio Life told the columnist, "that with only one show a week and all of your picture commitments finished, you practically live a life of leisure."

"Huh," grunted Erskine in answer, "do you call writing a daily column and a weekly show, a life of leisure. Gosh, no. For my own peace of mind

I have to keep four days ahead on the column and six weeks ahead on the show, or I'd worry myself sick. I'm the world's worst worrier."

Wife Understands

It seems he worries so much about his unfinished work that he's miserable if he's forced to do anything else. "Isabelle's used to my uncivil ways," he laughed. "If friends come to call when I feel I've got to work, I'm in a daze until she excuses me and sends me off to my den."

His den is his sanctum. Upon his oak-paneled walls he pins notes he has jotted about people, alongside notes to himself reminding him of things to do. One by one these notes come down from the wall and are disposed of. "Heaven help the person who tampers with the papers on my desk," he muttered.

"You know," he continued, "there are a couple of things you ought to know about me. I hate to admit this, but—I can't remember names. Isn't that awful? Look"—pulling a piece of paper from his pocket—"I've even got yours written down."

"And, believe it or not," he laughed, "I don't talk very much. I've found you learn the most by sitting still and listening. Yep," he concluded with a wink, "it works."

"On my very first radio show, the whole family listened in. Only comment my mother-in-law would make was 'Skinny, that's the most you've said in fifteen years.'"

Newsman at Heart

Asked if he had any virtues upon which he prides himself, he announced that working his way up from a court and police reporter to his present status has given him his biggest thrill. "I'm a newspaperman at heart and darn proud of it."

"I used to think being early was a virtue. Gosh, I'm an hour ahead of everything. But"—with a shrug—"I just have to sit and wait in my car."

On the other side of the fence, he confesses he's nervous—"There was a time when I couldn't hold up my own script"—and he bites his nails.

Isabelle, seven-year-old Kathleen, four-year-old Ronnie, and Erskine live in a house in View Heights. When people quiz him as to why he doesn't move closer to Hollywood, he answers "nothing doing." He's lived there all of his life and besides he knows the butcher, the baker, and the laundry man too well.

"Not much else to say about me. I'm just a family man at heart," he pointed out. "Live a very normal, everyday life."

Except Friday—we might add. Because into Friday's radio show goes everything that Erskine has to give; a lot of hard work, nervous worry, and his specially dramatized incidents featuring the guest stars.

But the nicest thing about Friday to Erskine is that he can portray his favorite role in presenting his favorite stars; that of being "Hollywood's biggest fan."

IN SECURING STORIES FOR HIS RADIO SHOW, Erskine first interviews the star over a luncheon table, as below with Merle Oberon, or at home. Having gleaned a human interest angle, he then collaborates with the script writers. He conducts two or three interviews a week and works six weeks in advance.

RADIO'S "Young Matron"

By Peggy Carter

Sunday, 5:30 p.m.
NBC-KFI

PRETTY, chic Ann Rutherford sat upon the divan in her pleasant library and beamed happily. Someone had just referred to her as a "young matron" and the title seemed to please her. "It's so impressive," she smiled.

When Radio Life recently paid a call upon the actress in her Beverly Hills home, we found that "young matron" is only one of the many titles which may be applied to lovely Ann. In addition to her husband and management of her home, she's very much in evidence on Sunday's "Eddie Bracken Show" and in motion pictures. She cooks like a dream, sews like a demon, and still sandwiches in a visit to the Red Cross.

"How do you do it?" we asked.

"I'll show you," she said with a twinkle in her eye, whereupon, she pulled out a huge sheet of ledger paper from her handbag and unfolded it. "On this side are the things I have to do for the day and on the other side are the phone calls I have to make. You'll find I'm the world's best time budgeter because if I weren't I'd be the world's worst person."

David's Inspiration

It seems this budgeting of time and writing notes to herself began when she and husband, David May, were going together. David would come to call for Ann and find her and Mrs. Rutherford in the midst of frantically looking up last year's income receipts or the bill from the cleaner's or somebody's telephone number that Ann had written the day before in the corner of her handkerchief.

"Look," David quietly said one night, "I've brought you a present. Now use it!" The present was the ledger and since that day, Ann swears she has never been lost. "Why, I was only half living," she laughed.

"Another good feature about my ledger," Ann continued, "is the list in the back. I'm awful at remembering people's birthdays and anniversaries and stuff. So I write everybody's name in the back and enter a different colored star after them. Red for weddings, silver for birthdays, and so on. Then I consult the book and find out it is so and so's baby's birthday. I run to my closet, which I keep stocked with presents, men's on one side and gals' on the other, and select something. They think I'm a whiz. But," she concluded with a grin, "this style isn't error proof. Today I called upon Susan Peters and when she opened my gift it turned out to be a bottle of men's shaving lotion."

Married Two Years

Ann and David, who have been married two years, are proud of the normal life they lead. David, vice-president of the May Company, is happiest when he knows his pretty wife is pleased with her work.

"He's a darling," she chattered brightly, "he's never seen the inside of a studio and doesn't want to. But he did come to our opening Bracken show and nearly died a thousand deaths. Before I left home that Sunday morning I carefully wrapped the taffeta dress I planned to wear in tissue paper. 'It'll be wrinkled,' David warned, but I assured him it wouldn't be. When I got to the studio I hung it up in my dressing room and went out to rehearse. But, horrors! When I got back it had fallen to the floor and lay in a crinkled mess. Gosh, there weren't any irons so I borrowed an electric light from the janitor and tried to press it. David," she laughed, "was horrified."

Descended from a long line of theatrical names, Ann has been on the stage since she was a child. At the age of thirteen she got her first job in radio playing everything from baby voices to sound effects. From there she went into pictures where she starred in all of the "Hardy" series with the exception of the first one. Today she is concentrating upon more dramatic roles.

"Now I'm back to my first love, radio, and it's such fun working with the Bracken gang. You know, people take radio for granted," said Ann, helping herself to another piece of cinnamon toast. "I guess I used to.

President's Death

As we go to press, the news of President Roosevelt's death has just come over the wire.

Radio's customary schedule of music and comedy has been suspended, as the network heads await word from the White House as to the policy it should follow during this period of mourning. Commercial programs have been cancelled, only newscasts and commentaries are being heard at this writing, interspersed with conservative selections.

Radio, the modern medium which the President himself used to its full capacity in the tedious task of guiding a nation through some of its most difficult days of war and peace, has been shocked into a somber, semi-silence, but listeners may be assured that, as in every emergency, radio will continue to fulfill whatever duty it is asked to perform.

Vaudeville Past

Hal Peary, the Great Gildersleeve, broke his finger the other day. When asked how it happened, he sheepishly admitted he had been lifting one of his old vaudeville trunks and it slipped.

"Ah," he remarked, "my vaudeville past has caught up with me."

An interesting sidelight on the Pearys is the fact that Hal's pretty missus, Betty never addresses her husband by anything other than "Harold." His pals call him Hal or "Gildy."

Raffles Helps

At the NBC "Parade of Stars" dinner, we chatted with Mrs. Carveth Wells, who owns the talking mina bird, Raffles. Raffles, of course, can't give blood to help the war effort, so instead, he is donating his feathers. As he moulted, they were carefully picked up and saved until there were enough to make a hat. The chapeau will be auctioned off at the start of the Seventh War Loan drive.

Heading Eastward

Dud Williamson, whose "Name That Song" won a Radio Life award for unique contribution to the airways last year, is moving his show to New York and is also starting another program called "Queen for a Day"— a novelty audience participation show. Hollywood is not only losing Dud, but also announcer-actor Bob Bence, who left Sunday to assist Dud with his programs.

Singer Shift

Jeri Sullavan, songstress who appeared last Friday night on the Durante-Moore program, is credited with co-writing the lyrics of "Rum and Coca-Cola" and of introducing the song at the Versailles in New York. We missed Georgia Gibbs on the show, but Georgia won't be off the air. She plans to enter "Radio Hall of Fame" when Paul Whiteman starts the summer series in a few weeks.

Onlooker

Many's the time we've seen young Tommy Cook, popular juvenile air actor, take advantage of a few moment's break in his own rehearsals to drop in during the practice hours of other shows. It isn't the glamor that gets him — it's the musicians. He stands beside the bandstand, with his eyes glued on the drummer. Tommy has a set of drums in his room at home, and has taken lessons for a number of years.

Look Out!

"Hello again. Don't miss us if you can," shouted Brenda and Cobina on their way to the Bob Hope rehearsal.

NEXT WEEK

At the specific request of our readers, Radio Life will bring you next week an informative yarn on Jack Smith, accompanied by pictures of the handsome singing star... "Radio's Biggest Bull's-Eye" will reveal the story of "Darts for Dough" and its co-ordinator, Orval Anderson... Rosemary De Camp, our cover-girl in the upcoming issue, is profiled in an intimate story called "More Benny Than Bernhard"... Velvet-voiced Joan Merrill is talked about in still another revealing profile story, as are comics, Carter and Moreland, and radio-butler, Dick Ryan. It's a parade of air personalities you'll surely not want to miss!

"Hey, where yuh going?" we shouted back.

"We told you," panted Blanche Stuart (Brenda) and Elvia Allman (Cobina). "that we'd be back. Well, here we are true to our word. We're dropping in on our old boss, Skinnose, next Tuesday the seventeenth. So you better get ready to hide, 'cause we're coming back and we"—giving a long, low wolf call—"mean business this time!"

Obediently Hers

Orson Welles ad-libbed that sign-off speech you heard him deliver on last Tuesday's airing of CBS' "This Is My Best," when he announced that his next week's co-star would be his Missus, Rita Hayworth. His customary signature was altered when he said with a laugh, "Until next Tuesday, I remain, as always, your obedient servant—and believe me, her obedient servant, Orson Welles."

Whispering

Ginny Simms spent the afternoon before her NBC broadcast last Tuesday conversing with everybody in whispers and pantomimes. She reported at rehearsals with a sore throat and a red face, burned from being kept under the healing rays of a sun-lamp too long.

Head-Line

We got a fleeting glimpse of one of the celebrities who appeared on CBS' "Which Is Which" last Wednesday, departing from the studios under the decorative adornment of a millinery creation be-decked with climbing roses—fence and all!

No—it wasn't Hedda. It was her contemporary (to put it mildly), the Blue's Louella O. Parsons.

Anniversary

Mrs. Jean Hersholt attended last Wednesday's broadcast of "Doctor Christian," her face beaming happily above the corsage of pink camellias. The day was Hersholts' thirty-first wedding anniversary.

Between airings of "Dr. Christian," they dined with son, Allan, at The Players, and "the good doctor" gifted his wife with two new ensembles designed by Adrian.

Stymied

Ken Carpenter worked on the filming of NBC's "People Are Funny" last week, and met his Waterloo with one of his lines in the movie script.

"And now we bring you," announced Ken, according to his script, "that eagle legal... oops, I'm sorry!"

"Cut!" shouted the director, grinning.

The scene was set up again and once more, the cameras rolled. Ken made another attempt. "And now we bring you that legal eagle," he said correctly, only to exclaim in wild dismay, "Omigawd! Now I've forgotten his name!"

By EVELYN BIGSBY

NO MURDER, MY SWEET: After playing would-be murderer and intended victim in the movie, "Murder, My Sweet," Clare Trevor and Dick Powell greeted each other for the first time in an NBC corridor. "Honey," smiled Dick, "it's nice to see you back from Florida. You look wonderful. In fact, it's good to see you again and to know that all those awful things that happened to us in the picture were only make-believe."

TOURISTS: Saw Mr. and Mrs. Hanley Stafford, just back from their trip to New York with the Fanny Brice show. Hanley, who had a case of shingles just before he left Hollywood, and Vyola, who had chicken pox, were sufficiently recovered when they hit Manhattan to have a whale of a time. It was their first trip there together, and they admitted rubber-necking-just like any tourists. Vyola got a big kick out of the Empire State building.

INCONGRUOUS: Had lunch with Organist Ethel Smith, who leaves soon for New York to appear on the "Hit Parade" while Lawrence Tibbett comes here on a concert tour. (Incidentally, he's scheduled to be on Bing Crosby's show May 3). Ethel, who is very feminine and vivacious, explained that she always wears high heeled shoes to play the organ and that she had to develop a special technique for them. She laughed, "Wouldn't I look incongruous in a sequin-trimmed evening dress and low-heeled oxfords!"

GOT TRUTH: Ralph Edwards, the "Truth or Consequences" headman, took an hour off from the RKO set where his movie was being filmed, and gave me a story between gulps of luncheon. The Edwards family has taken a house at Santa Monica, for the show will probably locate here for several months.

HER CHOICE: Before she left for San Francisco, Helen Hayes was given a party by Nunally Johnson. Asked what persons she's like to meet in Hollywood, Miss Hayes said: "Johnny Mercer and Abe Burrows." (Abe is the writer for "Duffy's Tavern.")

RETURN TO SCENE: Hans Conried, one of Radio Row's outstanding supporting players (he's the one who always wore his hair long and whose sox never matched) dropped in on his way to Fort Ord and watched Orson Welles rehearse "This Is My Best." Hans looked very fit in his uniform and proudly displayed his marksmanship medals.

NEVER AGAIN: Saw Jack Carson the day after his three-and-a-half year old son swallowed his dad's hair tonic, and consequently became very sick. "That taught him a lesson!" Jack said.

TROUPER: Announcer Frank Graham returned to Hollywood from the north, where he attended his mother's funeral. Frank got a wire telling him of her death just a few minutes before he had to go on the air for the Ginny Simms show.

SUNDAY MORNING: Two little girls sidled up to the door of Dinah Shore's Beverly Hills home, rang the bell, then turned away disappointedly when no one answered. Just then the door opened and Dinah, minus any make-up and clad in plaid short and blue jeans, cautiously peeked out. The girls turned around happily and held out their autograph books. "My, you gave me a scare," exclaimed the songstress. "I thought you were company!"

Gags of the Week

For the best Gags of the Week, heard over Radio and sent Radio Life, tickets will be sent winners for admission to radio broadcasts. Send your best gag selection to 1029 West Washington Boulevard, Los Angeles.

Heard on "Hall of Fame:"

Bea Lillie: My, you have a powerful voice!

Bert Lahr: Why, I am the only man who ever got an answer from Chloe.

Joann Wassenpflug, 11830 Saticoy Street, North Hollywood, Calif.

Heard on "Take It or Leave It:"

Phil: They've got a new gag for "Oh, where has my little dog gone." Do you know it?

Contestant: I don't.

Phil: Where has my little dog gone and where did he get the priority?

Maltland Prentice, 1333 North Stanley, Hollywood, Calif.

Heard on "It Pays to Be Ignorant:"

Mr. Shelton: You know, I used to be a surgeon in a bakery.

Tom Howard: A surgeon? What did you do?

Mr. Shelton: I made incisions in jelly doughnuts.

Mrs. George Brayton, 345 South Hope St., Los Angeles, Calif.

Heard on the Charlotte Greenwood program:

Bobbie: Aunt Charlotte, what does narration mean?

Charlotte: Why it means a tale.

Bobbie: What does extinguish mean?

Charlotte: Extinguish means to put out.

Bobbie: Then you could grab a cat by its narration and extinguish it through the door.

Vivien Griffith, 1151 Corona Drive, Glendale, California.

Heard on "Glamor Manor":

Tyler: But Cap, you told me you and hard work used to go hand in hand.

Cap: Yep, that's right, but ten years ago we stopped going steady.

SAN FRANCISCO MEET

KMTR announces that it will broadcast complete coverage of the San Francisco Conference, five times daily, beginning April 24. K. Louis Flatau, commentator and world affairs authority, will head the KMTR delegation which will also include Jim Strain, station program director, Lyman Smith, chief of recording division, and Eddie Ylpps, engineer. Commentator Flatau, who attended the Hague conference following World War I, has already established contacts with the French, British, and Russian missions, which should give KMTR listeners a ringside seat at the proceedings.

Radio Roundup from KFI

When it comes to visiting dignitaries hearing typical American music, I can think of no finer exponent than Kay Kyser. He's really shown what a great morale builder music and entertainment can be to our men in the armed forces.

Kay Kyser

So, we think it's most appropriate that when the distinguished representatives of the United Nations meet for their history-making conclave at San Francisco, they will find themselves foregathering to the serenading strains of Kay's "College of Musical Knowledge."

The Ol' Professor will be on hand to help welcome the allies by playing for the Navy Distribution and Receiving Base on San Francisco's Treasure Island on April 25th. (Dial KFI at 7 p.m.)

Kyser will be accompanied by his entire troupe—vocal lovely Georgia Carroll, Don Leslie, Dolly Mitchell, Eddie Marr, the Town Criers, and his sensational new singing discovery, Michael Dowd.

Kyser, well launched in his fifth year of entertaining servicemen, has persistently adhered to his policy of rejecting all engagements of a non-military nature in order to appear at army and navy bases. Recently he completed a tour through the southern section of the country, visiting army and navy hospitals en route and playing 22 engagements within 27 days.

At last "pop" music is getting a thorough job of exploitation through the medium of radio. "No longer is a hit tune necessarily 'dead' after a few months," so claims Carl Hoff, maestro of Harold Lloyd's "Comedy Theater" heard via KFI each Sunday evening at 7:30.

"Swing bands are doing much to keep those grand old tunes alive," Hoff contends, "through dressed-up, modern arrangements. Not only the popular swing bands, but such radio stars as Crosby, Haymes, and Shore, are constantly reviving old jazz favorites, in corking 1945 arrangements."

And on this same thought, Victor Young, conductor of the NBC Sunday program starring John Charles Thomas, (KFI, 11:30 a.m.) says the two neglected children of the arts, films and radio, long regarded as inferior to the stage and concert hall, are now rapidly becoming patrons and sponsors of music. —Advertisement.

BUSY CANTOR

During the month of January, Eddie Cantor made over thirty personal appearances at canteens and USO centers.

PENGUIN FANCIER

Carlton Kadel, announcer for the CBS "Jack Carson Show" collects penguins as a hobby. He now has nearly 100 of these "dinner-jacketed" birds, all sizes and made of all materials.

LUCKY PIECE

Truda Marsen, comedienne of the KNX "Potluck Party," carries a good luck charm with her to every broadcast. The charm, a little gold horseshoe, was given to her by her mother on the eve of Truda's first radio appearance.

POTTERY FACTORY

Edgar Bergen's pottery factory produces everything from statues to complete sets of dishes. His "long torso" glasses which came out last season have been stocked in practically every gift store from coast to coast.

MEETS OSCAR

When blonde Ann Richards, lovely Australian newcomer to Hollywood, made her first appearance recently on CBS Lux "Radio Theater," she made the acquaintance of "Oscar," and acclaimed him an invaluable aid to debut-makers Oscar is the famous chromium hand-gripper placed directly below the "Radio Theater" microphone as a jitters-remover.

WONDER RABBIT

Orson Welles, new permanent star of Tuesday's CBS drama series, "This Is My Best," made his first professional appearance at the age of five in a department store children's play Welles was the white rabbit!

Radio's 'Young Matron'

But when I had the measles not long ago, I found myself listening to the soap operas, one after another. Gosh, before I knew it I was so worried about what would happen to Portia or John's other wife, I had to stop."

"Granny is the radio fan in the family. She listens to everything from morning to night. Her favorite serial is 'Ma Perkins' and before I went to Chicago she made me promise to visit the cast. I did and they were swell to me. In honor of Granny, their number one fan, they named a new character after her and it made Granny happier than if they had presented her with a million dollars."

Brown-haired, brown-eyed Ann, wearing a new dress of pink raw silk, and sporting a watch bob of antique

HOSTS AUTHOR

Louise Randall Pierson, whose best-selling novel, "Roughly Speaking" was made into a movie starring Jack Carson, was a recent guest at his show. This was her first broadcast.

POTTERY PLANS

After the war, Edgar Bergen's pottery factory plans to produce American china which will rival French composition and design.

The Winnah!

quisitiveness of all youth as well as an amazing capacity for asking embarrassing questions.

Two of Hollywood's best known radio actors are regular characters in the Charlotte Greenwood show. Charles Cantor, who is Finnegan on "Duffy's Tavern," plays Judge Cronin who recently stepped down from the bench to enter private law practice. John Brown, well known for his work with Jack Carson and "Date with Judy," plays William Anderson, who is managing editor of the newspaper in Lakeview, the mythical town which serves as the setting for Charlotte's weekly adventures.

Martin Broones, who is Charlotte's husband as well as her business manager, handles her radio show. Thomas Freebairn Smith produces the program and it is written by Jack Hasty, who long wrote for Al Pearce and "Dr. Christian," and Don Johnson, who was with Fred Allen for many years.

The Charlotte Greenwood legend rightfully takes its place alongside those of Will Rogers and Marie Dressler. Her emergence as a national institution, however, is no overnight mushrooming. Twenty years ago she made headlines when President Coolidge invited her to the White House for breakfast—the first and only such invitation he ever tendered. More recently Charlotte can recall three trips to the White House as the guest of President and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. Nor is Charlotte's fame tied down by boundaries. One night in London she played before five Kings and four Queens.

The Greenwood program is all the more outstanding by virtue of the star's dominance and long experience in three different fields of entertainment. Broadway will not soon forget her brilliant reputation as a comedienne—nor her box office receipts. Charlotte enjoyed her greatest triumphs in the four-year run of "So Long, Letty" and the three-year run of "Leaning on Letty," which toured the United States and closed in Australia in 1939.

In London, Charlotte starred in three plays—"The Gay Deceiver," "Three Sisters" and "Wild Violets," which played for one year at the Theatre Royal in Drury Lane.

At home Charlotte revels in her rambling, spacious country-style house in Beverly Hills. All the windows in the back of the house look out on her tennis courts, flower beds and blue-green swimming pool. Charlotte considers her flower garden very practical because all the flowers serve individual purposes. For example, she cuts the roses for house decorations. She picks a camellia every day to wear. Charlotte's pink camellia bush was a gift from Stella and Leon Errol. Her yellow rose bush was a gift of William Gaxton and a red rose bush was given her by Mrs.

Thomas Meehan. Charlotte's flowers are constant reminders of her friends.

Charlotte's garden is adequately supplied with orange, lemon and banana trees. From the latter she picks brilliant red and yellow blossoms for table decorations. Winkie, Charlotte's pet dog, lazily wanders around the garden from the red-brick barbecue pit to the thick vines which cover the grill fence.

Postwar plans will convert the interior of her house into a world of icy blue walls and carpets with big splotches of white. Chintz covers for her furniture will be the same color as her swimming pool—a languid blue-green. Mahogany inside the house will be bleached a grey-white and the entire decorative scheme will be complemented by flowers. Among Charlotte's most prized possessions are eight vivid flower paintings by the famous sculptor, Epstein.

Having a horse named after her stood Charlotte in good stead recently when she sent Producer Darryl F. Zanuck a most unusual note for an interview. Enclosed with a picture of Australia's Charlotte Greenwood, the note read something like this: "I know as a glamour girl I will never get into your office, but as a horse I might!"

for the New York Herald-Tribune. Her column, "ON THE RECORD," now in 125 newspapers with a circulation of 7,500,000 was originally intended for women, but drew an even wider masculine audience.

Six weeks before the present war broke out, she published, "Let the Record Speak," a book containing material from her columns written over a three-year period, warning Americans and Britains against their complacency and of their danger.

She visited England in 1941, was given the greatest reception ever accorded an unofficial visitor, was received by the Queen and invited to address committees of the House of Commons.

Married Thrice

Thrice married, once to Sinclair Lewis after a cross-Europe courtship in 1928, she is the mother of a son, Michael, born in 1930. She divorced Lewis in 1942 and married Maxim Kopf, refugee Czech painter, whom she met while sitting for a portrait.

Miss Thompson is a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science and honorary Phi Beta Kappa, she holds numerous honorary degrees from U. S. and Canadian colleges. She delights in German cooking, has been twice named by Deward Howes, editor of "American Women," the standard biographical dictionary of notable women, as one of the ten most outstanding women of the year, winning his nod in 1937 and 1940.

Now in Europe, she will continue

Meet the Dragon

Mrs. Dragon is the dark-eyed, pretty Eloise whose voice has been heard in solo parts with "Maxwell House." She and Carmen met when he was conducting "Showboat" and she was in the chorus. According to Mrs. Dragon, her mate has a very even disposition and seldom delays meals while trying to finish a piece of composition. Carmen works at his North Hollywood home, arranging to do his piano stints during the daytime and his desk work at nights. There are two sons, Douglas, five, and Daryl, two, who add excitement to the household. Carmen really thinks he does better work while the youngsters are around, as he is forced to concentrate more keenly. Both boys show signs of being musical and the baby recently surprised his mother by singing "The Trolley Song."

Ties, a Hobby

The husky maestro, who just misses six feet and weighs 180 pounds, likes to fish, play golf, and work in the garden. His collection of ties is more than a hobby as he likes to give his friends sensational neckwear whenever he finds any.

He thinks his funniest experience was when he signalled his orchestra to hold a chord and then hurried back to the mike forgetting what he had done. "The boys really held it," he chuckles.

charms, admitted with a smile that David was a better cook than she. His specialty, fried ice cream, has now become one of her favorite dishes. Fried ice cream, it seems, is nothing more than a slab of ice cream between two slices of cake which are placed on a hot griddle and toasted. She prefers to try her culinary hand on meat entrees.

She admitted to reading in spurts and waking up mornings with "fried egg" eyes. She makes her own purses and hats, averaging two during picture productions. She doesn't diet because she works it off in nervous energy. And she likes to garden.

Suddenly we noted she was unusually quiet. Then her face broke into its contagious smile and she announced, "Can't wait for David to come home. Wonder if he'll be properly impressed with the 'young matron' who lives in this house?"

to broadcast her weekly commentary by short wave, probably originating during this European tour from Germany, whence she was expelled in 1934. In addition to her radio work, she has a monthly column in the Ladies Home Journal, writes for other publications and makes some of the 7,000 speeches she is invited to deliver annually.

CHARLOTTE GREENWOOD puts on winning performance at last."

Unwary Charlotte Greenwood fans were severely jolted when they opened the pages of the Sidney, Australia, Sun on a fine morning in 1939 and ran smack into this headline. Upon reading the entire story they were enlightened. In Australia, Charlotte Greenwood is the only living person who enjoys the distinction of having her name bestowed on a horse. The newswriter was simply reporting that the horse named after Australia's favorite comedienne had won another race.

At present the radio Charlotte Greenwood is concerned with taking care of three children. According to the scripts, a good friend of Charlotte died and the friend's will named her as executor. So Charlotte, who appears as herself on the show, is devoting all her time to straightening out the Barton children's affairs.

Interesting Cast

Jack Barton, about seventeen, is at an age where he thinks he knows it all and will soon find out how little he knew at seventeen. Jack is played by Edward Ryan, while Barbara Barton, played by Betty Moran, is a typical girl who wants to make good on her own initiative. Robert Barton, enacted by Bobby Larson, has the in-

OLD BUDDIES, despite all the ribbing of each other that they do on the airlines, Jack Benny and Fred Allen reached new comedy heights when they appeared together on the Benny show of October, 1944.

DON: And now we take you to Jack Benny's home in Beverly Hills . . . it is early morning . . . Jack is still asleep and Rochester is in the kitchen preparing breakfast. (Music out.)

Sound: Phone rings twice, click of receiver.

ROCHESTER: Hello . . . Mr. Benny's residence.

(APPLAUSE.)

ROCHESTER: Mr. Benny's residence . . . star of stage, screen and radio . . . so whether you go out or stay home, he's got you trapped . . . Who? . . . Oh hello Sam, am I glad you called, hurry right over . . . and bring back that suit I rented you, the boss is back! . . . I know your week ain't up yet, but I'll give you the money pronto, pro-rata, and pro-vidin' I'm alive when you get here . . . that's right . . . and Sam, I wish you'd pass the word along to the rest of my clientele . . . Goodbye.

Sound: Receiver click.

ROCHESTER: Well I guess I'm safe now . . . Oh oh, I'll have to dig up some excuse about Mr. Benny's tuxedo . . . Dog-gone, when I rented it out for Jerome, how did I know they were gonna cremate him! . . . Oh well, I'd better prepare breakfast before the boss wakes up.

Sound: Door buzzer.

ROCHESTER: Coming—

Sound: Few footsteps and door opens.

ROCHESTER: Oh, it's you, Mr. Milkman.
JOE KERN: Good mornin', Rochester . . . I see by this note you left, you want me to start deliverin' milk again and stop leavin' cream.

ROCHESTER: Yeah, Mr. Benny's back

KERN: Say Rochester, is it true that Mr.

Benny's goin' on the air for a new sponsor?

ROCHESTER: Yes sir . . . From now on, he's gonna be with LS . . . MFT.

KERN: You mean Lucky Strike means fine tobacco?

ROCHESTER: Yes, Lucky Strike means fine tobacco . . . fine fine FINE!

KERN: Well . . . tell Mr. Benny I'll be listenin' to him . . . Goodbye.

ROCHESTER: Goodbye.

KERN: Oh, by the way, there's a little matter of last month's bill . . . And here it is.

ROCHESTER: Mmm Mmm . . . Twenty eight dollars for cream . . . Okay. I'll write you out a check for it.

KERN: Wait a minute . . . Is that a pair of dice you're takin' out of your pocket?

ROCHESTER: Let's just call it my Central Avenue fountain pen . . . Mr. Milkman, lay that bill down on the ground.

Sound: Loud rattle of dice

KERN: But Rochester, I don't want—

ROCHESTER: It's too late now, I'm wound up!

KERN: Oh, all right.

ROCHESTER: Here goes!

Sound: Rattle of dice, roll of dice, snap of fingers

ROCHESTER: There it is in black and white!

KERN: Doggone, I've been homogenized again.

ROCHESTER: Well, goodbye, and better luck next month.

Sound: Door closes

Award Comedy Script

EDITOR'S NOTE:

(Last week, Radio Life bestowed its Distinguished Achievement Award in the Comedy Script department to the Benny broadcast of October 1, 1944. Feeling that you who heard the show would enjoy another chuckle from it, and that those of you who missed the program might like to read the script, we herewith reprint it.)

(APPLAUSE.)

JACK: (on mike) Rochester—

ROCHESTER: Oh good morning, boss. . . Sit right down and have your breakfast.

Home Sweet Home

JACK: Thanks, Rochester . . . Gee, it's good to be home.

ROCHESTER: It's good to have you home, boss . . . You'll never know how much I missed you.

JACK: Did you, Rochester?

ROCHESTER: Yeah . . . (soft and slow)

The three months you were away, this old house was so lonesome . . . I'd go into the living room and see your big easy chair with no one in it, and I'd feel like cryin'.

JACK: Gee!

ROCHESTER: The trees outside were in bloom, but they looked barren to me.

JACK: Aw, Rochester.

ROCHESTER: The birds were singing but I never could seem to hear them. The sun was shining but I never saw it.

JACK: Really, Rochester?

ROCHESTER: Yeah . . . I never got up 'til eight o'clock at night!

JACK: Hmm . . . Now cut out this nonsense and get me something to eat. What are we having for breakfast?

ROCHESTER: Huh?

JACK: I said, what are we having for breakfast.

ROCHESTER: If this was last season, I could mention it.

JACK: If this were last season, you'd have to mention it . . . now get me my breakfast.

ROCHESTER: Okay, okay, I'll get your coffee.

JACK: He won't sleep til eight o'clock at night any more.

JACK: Rochester, answer the phone.

ROCHESTER: You told me to answer the door.

JACK: Answer the phone.

ROCHESTER: Boss, I can't be in all those places at once, I ain't General Patton!

JACK: We'll talk about your rank later . . . you stop the egg timer and answer the phone . . . I'll answer the door.

Sound: Door closes . . . footsteps

JACK: Hums "Love in Bloom" Ta ta ta ta ta ta . . . Oh boy, it's good to be home . . . Ta ta ta ta —

MARY: Hello, Jack!

JACK: Mary!

(APPLAUSE.)

JACK: Gee, it's good to see you.

MARY: Gosh, Jack, you look wonderful . . . I gotta give you a great big kiss!

Loud kiss

JACK: Oh Mary, hot out here on the front porch.

MARY: Another one!

Loud kiss

JACK: Mary, please . . . you're embarrassing me.

MARY: One more!

JACK: Mary, for heaven's sake, put me down! . . . Please.

MARY: Oh Jack, what are you ashamed of? . . . I haven't seen you in three months, and that's a long time to go without a kiss.

JACK: Gee Mary, you mean you haven't kissed anybody for three months?

MARY: Leave me out of it, I'm thinking about you.

JACK: Oh, thanks.

MARY: Gosh Jack, it's good to see you . . . How was your trip?

JACK: Come on in and I'll tell you all about it.

Sound: Door closes

Said It Before

JACK: Believe me, Mary, it was wonderful doing shows for the boys over-seas . . . What a great job those kids are doing . . . and you know what? . . . If I were twenty years younger, I'd be right out there with 'em.

MARY: You said that during the last war. JACK: Well I meant it then too . . . I mean . . . Mary, stop mixing me up I was in the last war . . . in the Navy and I—

ROCHESTER: Oh hello, Miss Livingstone.

MARY: Hello, Rochester.

ROCHESTER: Mr. Benny, that telephone call was from your sponsor.

JACK: My sponsor!

MARY: You act like you're surprised you got one!

JACK: Well I'm surprised he called . . . I wonder what it's about . . . Maybe he wants to . . . No, he wouldn't be giving me a bonus so soon . . . I wonder what it can be.

MARY: Maybe he wants to know who you're going to have for a singer . . . You still haven't anyone to replace Dennis Day.

JACK: That's right, Mary . . . Confidentially, I've been considering Bing Crosby for my singer . . . You know he's starting to get popular now.

MARY: Well Jack, I don't want to disillusion you, but you're not going to get Crosby for thirty-five dollars a week.

JACK: I wasn't thinking of thirty-five dollars.

ROCHESTER: You ain't gonna get him for what you're thinkin' either.

JACK: Oh I don't know, I don't know.

MARY: Oh Jack, what are you talking about? . . . You can't hire Crosby, he makes thousands of dollars a week.

JACK: Well . . . maybe I can get his little son Larry, he sings too . . . or for five dollars more, maybe I could get the twins.

MARY: Why don't you wait another year, you might have more to choose from.

JACK: Oh well, I'm not going to worry about it now . . . I'll find a singer.

Sound: Door buzzer

JACK: Come in.

Sound: Door opens

PHIL: Hi ya, Jackson!

DON: Hello Jack!

JACK: Philsy! Don!

(APPLAUSE.)

PHIL AND DON: Hi ya, Mary.

MARY: Hello, boys.

Weighty Matter

DON: Jack, that trip did you a lot of good, you look wonderful.

JACK: I feel good, Don, although I lost about ten pounds.

DON: Well I lost some weight too, but on me it isn't very noticeable.

JACK: Really, Don . . . how much did you lose?

DON: Eighty-four pounds.

JACK: Don, you didn't lose it, you just misplaced it.

PHIL: You know, Jackson, it's like old times havin' you back . . . I thought about you every day.

JACK: Oh sure, sure, Phil . . . I'll bet you didn't even know I was gone.

PHIL: I did too . . . You left on the day of Klattop's funeral, you were gone all through Gravel Gertie and you got back the day after the Brow paid his debt to society.

JACK: The Brow, Gravel Gertie? . . . What are you talking about?

PHIL: I'll bet you don't even know about the Summer Sisters bein' in that iron clamp.

JACK: The Summer Sisters?

PHIL: How do you like that! The newspapers spend millions of dollars trying to educate people and he don't even take advantage of it.

JACK: Well I've been away, I don't know what's going on around here . . . Say Phil, what did you do with yourself this summer?

MARY: Why Jack . . . Phil was on the Kay Kyser program.

JACK: Well that must have been nice.

PHIL: For thirteen weeks.

JACK: Thirteen weeks? . . . Now I know you're a jerk.

PHIL: What do you mean?

JACK: If you couldn't answer the questions the first week, why did you keep going back? . . . That I can't understand.

PHIL: Look Jackson, you got it all wrong . . . They hired me to ask the questions, I was the Purfessor.

JACK: Purfessor?

PHIL: Yes, Purfessor . . . P-U-R-F-E-Z-Z

JACK: I know how to spell it . . . Mary, remind me to listen in Wednesday night . . . I want to hear Phil ask those questions.

MARY: Jack, starting Wednesday night Kay Kyser will be back on the show.

JACK: Oh . . . Then I'll surely listen . . . Well fellows, I hate to break this up, but I got a call from my sponsor and I have to go over and see him.

DON: Oh Jack . . . When you see your new sponsor, will you let him know how happy I am that he picked me to represent Lucky Strike on the program?

JACK: I certainly will, Don.

MARY: Well why shouldn't he pick you. Don? . . . You're a natural to represent Luckies.

DON: Do you really think so, Mary?

MARY: Sure . . . You're so round, so firm, so fully packed.

JACK: That's right . . . Hey, that was pretty good, Mary . . . I must remember to ad lib that to my sponsor . . . Oh say kids, before I go, I want to give you the souvenirs I brought you from the South Pacific.

ROCHESTER: Boss, do you want a hammer to open that big crate?

JACK: No no, the souvenirs are in the valises.

ROCHESTER: Well what's in the crate?

JACK: Never mind.

MARY: You're acting kinda funny about that crate, Jack . . . why don't you open it?

JACK: I don't have to, the souvenirs are in the valises.

PHIL: Then what have you got in the crate?

JACK: It's something I brought home for myself . . . I got it on one of the islands in the South Seas.

DON: Well open it up, Jack . . . Let's see what it is.

JACK: Don, it's nothing . . . You wouldn't be interested.

Open It

PHIL: Rochester, give me that hammer. I'm gonna open it.

ROCHESTER: Here you are, Mr. Harris.

JACK: Phil . . . please!

Sound: Hammer blows and creak of boards ripping

JACK: Phil, it's just a little thing I picked up on one of the islands, it's for me.

Sound: Two more hammer blows and creak of boards

JACK: Phil!

DON: Well, it's open.

JACK: Phil, you have no right to—

PHIL: Hey Jackson, what are you so excited about? . . . there's nothin' in this crate but a grass skirt!

JACK: Nothing but a grass skirt! . . . let me . . . Oh darn it, she got away! . . . Isn't that awful?

MARY: Why Jack Benny, do you mean you actually tried to bring back a—

JACK: Help is hard to get and, stop leering at me . . . now come on, Mary, we're going down to see my sponsor . . . see you later, fellows.

Sound on cue: Walking footsteps

JACK: Here it is, Mary . . . Here's my sponsor's office, George W. Hill . . . Let's go in.

MARY: Okay.

JACK: And Mary, please try and act nice, will you?

MARY: Oh Jack, stop worrying . . . Even though he is your sponsor, you don't have to fall all over him.

JACK: Don't be silly, Mary, I'm going to treat him just like any other person.

MARY: But Jack, you never brought a girl an orchid, why bring him one?

JACK: Well you know, Mary, a man in his position has got almost everything else . . . Now come on, let's go in.

Sound: Door opens, closes

JACK: (Clears throat.)

BEA BENADERET: Yes?

JACK: I'd like to see Mr. Hill, please . . . Mr. George W. Hill.

Meet

The

Dragon

*No Fiery Monster, This Dragon
Is a Delightful Music Creator
All Business, No Temperament*

Sunday, 7:30 p.m.
CBS-KNX

UNTIL the past year, Carmen Dragon was known to most radio listeners as one of the ace arrangers in musical circles. For nine years he scored for Meredith Willson. However, there were many who remembered with pleasure his fine handling of such assignments as the "Johnson Wax Summer Show," "Showboat," and "MGM Good News." After Willson went into service, handsome Dragon became musical director for

"Maxwell House," and when Fanny Brice and Frank Morgan split to head up their own starring shows last fall, Dragon was installed as Miss Brice's baton wielder.

On the podium the dark, curly-haired maestro presents a business-like figure devoid of any theatricals. In addition to the regular orchestral numbers, Dragon also composes and arranges the music for Danny Thomas' weekly, wacky lyrics.

▲ MR. AND MRS. CARMEN DRAGON are a handsome couple. They met when wife, Eloise, was singing in chorus of "Showboat," which Carmen was conducting.

next July 28, is a native of Antioch, California, and majored in music and psychology at San Jose Teachers College. During college he led his own band and travelled with it up and down the coast to play at fraternity dances. He still laughs thinking about the bright blazers the boys in the band wore and how the drums were painted with fiery dragons. During 1933 he and his musicians played at Honolulu's Royal Hawaiian Hotel.

While in school, Dragon played bass in the symphony orchestra and trombone in the military band. He also performs on accordion, tuba, piano, and trumpet.

Award Comedy Script

BRA: Who shall I say is calling, sir?
JACK: Well . . . uh . . . well . . . (confident) . . . Just tell him the star of his Lucky Strike radio program is here.
BRA: Oh, I didn't recognize you . . . you're not looking so well today, Mr. Sinatra.
JACK: Sinatra? . . . I'm not Sinatra!
MARY: Neither am I!
JACK: Now Miss, will you please tell Mr. Hill that I'd like to see him?
BRA: Yes sir . . . and your name?
JACK: Just tell him it's BE-NNY . . . BE-NNY.
MARY: Oh Jack—
JACK: With men who know comedians best, it's Benny, two to one!
MARY: For goodness sake, Jack . . . Mr. Hill knows that you know all the slogans and that you use the product . . . So stop overdoing it. Especially with that cigarette holder.
JACK: Mary, I'm not overdoing it . . . Lots of people use cigarette holders.
MARY: Not one that holds three cigarettes.
JACK: Now Mary—
MARY: You look like the forward turret on a battleship!
JACK: Mary, that's enough . . . Say Miss, will you please step into Mr. Hill's office and tell him I'm here.
BRA: Yes, sir.
Sound: Couple of footsteps, door opens and closes
RUSSELL HICKS: Well, I haven't heard that side of it before, but continue . . . Your opinions interest me and —
BRA: Pardon me, Mr. Hill.
HICKS: Yes, Miss Bates?
BRA: Jack Benny is waiting in the outer office.
HICKS: Oh good, good . . . Tell him I'll see him in a few minutes, I'm in conference right now.
BRA: Yes, sir.
Sound: Door opens and closes

Airs Opinions

HICKS: Now as I was saying, your opinions interest me, and I'd like to hear more of them.
FRED ALLEN: Well, first of all Mr. Hill . . . I don't want you to think that I have anything against Benny personally.
HICKS: Oh, of course not, Mr. Allen!
(APPLAUSE.)
FRED: And I'd be the last one to try to get his job because I've always admired Benny.
HICKS: Well after all, Fred, how could anyone dislike a man like Jack? . . . A man who last year was affectionately nicknamed after General Patton . . . Old Blood and Guts Benny.
FRED: Old Blood and Guts Benny? . . . You mean Old Toupay and Wrinkles . . . Old Blood and . . . Why last week his doctor took a sample of Benny's blood and sent it to the laboratory to be analyzed . . . It came back with a note saying . . . "Congratulations! Put an olive in this and you've got a martini! Blood Benny wasn't brought by a stork—he was brought by a leach."
HICKS: Mr. Allen, hearing you talk, I get the impression that you don't like Mr. Benny.
FRED: Oh, I'm sorry I gave you that impression, Mr. Hill . . . I'm very fond of Jack, he's one of my best friends . . . It's just that I hate to see him go back on the air and be a flop.
HICKS: But what makes you think Benny will be a flop? . . . He always gets laughs.
FRED: Mr. Hill . . . anyone can get laughs who tells a joke, wiggles his ears, drops his pants, and then shows a Bob Hope movie on the seat of his underwear . . . And with Benny's red flannels, it looks like it's in technicolor . . . How can he miss?

HICKS: But Mr. Allen, I'm a business man . . . I don't care how a comedian gets his laughs as long as he sells the product . . . And I think lots of people will sit by the radio, smoke a cigarette and listen to Jack Benny.
FRED: Mr. Hill, that is an impossibility if I ever heard one . . . Smoke a cigarette and listen to Benny . . . How in the world can anyone smoke and hold his nose at the same time? . . . It can't be done.
HICKS: You know, Fred, I'm a little surprised hearing all this . . . You see, when I hired Jack, I thought he had a large following.
FRED: He just looks that way when he's not wearing his girldie . . . That large following is Benny.
HICKS: Well look, Fred, perhaps it isn't too late . . . Do you think I could help the program if I got rid of Benny?
FRED: Oh no, no, no, no, no . . . By all means, keep Jack on the program . . . Just cut his part down a little.
HICKS: Cut his part down a little, huh? . . . Well, how much should I let him do?
FRED: Oh, I think he can easily handle (does tobacco auctioneer.)
HICKS (Reproachfully): MR. ALLEN!
FRED: (Continues chant.)
HICKS: Please . . . Mr. Allen!
FRED: Yes?
HICKS (Reverently): When you do that . . . take your hat off.
FRED: Oh I'm sorry . . . I thought just bowing my head would be enough . . . Well look, Mr. Hill . . . I know you're a busy man, and I want to run down the hall and see your assistant for a few minutes . . . I may drop back later.
HICKS: Okay, Fred . . . You'll find Mr. Stauffer's office quicker if you go through that rear door.
FRED: Thanks . . . So long.
Sound: Door opens and closes
HICKS: Now let's see . . . Oh yes, yes.
Sound: Click of inter-office phone
BRA (on filter): Yes, Mr. Hill?
HICKS: You may send Mr. Benny in now.
Sound: Click of phone, slight pause before door opens and closes fast

Grand Entrance

JACK: Hello, Mr. Hill, I'm sure glad to see you . . . Here, have a cigarette.
HICKS: I'm already smoking one.
JACK: Well have another one . . . can't smoke too many Luckies, you know . . . (does silly laugh) . . . Mr. Hill, you know Mary, Mary, you know Mr. Hill . . . Now I don't mind telling you, Mr. Hill, that—
MARY: Hello, Mr. Hill.
JACK: Now I don't mind telling you, Mr. Hill, that—
HICKS: Hello, Mary.
JACK: Now I don't mind telling you, Mr. Hill, that you're one of the sweetest guys I've ever met . . . not because you're my new sponsor, but because you're one of the finest fellows in the world, one of the squarest, grandest guys that ever—
MARY: Oh Jack, stop pinching his cheek.
JACK: Oh, oh . . . Well Mr. Hill, here we are, yes sir . . . ready to get off to a great start on our new radio series.
HICKS: Well Jack . . . that's what I wanted to talk to you about.
JACK: Yes sir, We're . . . T-t-talk t-t-to me? . . . Is there wrong anything? . . . I mean anything wrong is there, is there, is there? . . . Huh?
HICKS: No no, Jack, nothing wrong, just a routine talk . . . Sit down.
JACK: Yes, sir.
HICKS: That's my chair.
JACK: Oh I'm sorry, I didn't know it was your chair.
MARY: Well you should know, you're sitting on him.
JACK: Oh yes . . . Silly of me not to notice you, Mr. Hill . . . I'll sit here.
MARY: Now you're sitting on me.
JACK: (Silly laugh) Ha ha ha . . . I guess I'm a little excited, Mary . . . I'll sit here.
HICKS: All right, if you think you'll be comfortable on that ash tray.
JACK: Oh pardon me, Mr. Tray . . . I'll just get up and . . . OOOOPS! . . . Is this your lighted cigarette, Mr. Hill? . . . I'm sorry I didn't see it, Mr. Lighted . . . I mean Mr. Hill.

HICKS: Now Jack, I wanted to talk to you about some things.
JACK: Yes sir, yes sir.
HICKS: Oh by the way, guess who was sitting in this office just a few minutes ago?
JACK: Well I haven't the slightest idea, Mr. Hill . . . who was it?
HICKS: Fred Allen.
JACK: Fred Allen! What was he doing here, what did he want, what did he say?
HICKS: Well Jack, for one thing, he said—
JACK: That's a lie . . . and when I see him I'm going to—HICKS: Now Jack, that's no attitude to take . . . Fred doesn't dislike you . . . Why don't you try to like him?
JACK: How can anyone like a guy who looks like he does?
MARY: Oh Jack, Allen isn't so ugly.
JACK: How would you know? . . . You can't see his face until you lift the bags under his eyes . . . And with that pained expression . . . he looks like a hen trying lay a square egg . . . So don't tell me about Allen.

Asks For It

HICKS: Now Jack, don't get excited . . . And if you must pace back and forth, get down off my desk.
JACK: Why if I ever meet that sneak face-to-face, I'll—
Sound: Door opens
FRED: Say Mr. Hill, I just dropped back to say goodbye and . . . (very happy) . . . Why Jack! Jackie Benny!
JACK: Fred! Freddy, old boy!
FRED: Jack, old pal, it's certainly good to see you.
JACK: Thanks, Freddy boy . . . I was just telling Mary and Mr. Hill how much I've missed you.
FRED: Yes sir, Jack . . . it's great being together again.
JACK: I'll say it is!
MARY: It couldn't sound more unbelievable if they were Roosevelt and Dewey.
JACK: Please, Mary . . . Fred and I are good pals . . . Tell me, Freddy boy, what are you doing here in Hollywood?
FRED: Making a picture . . . I'm over at United Artists.
JACK: Oh yes, yes . . . I heard that Boris Karloff isn't there any more.
FRED: Yes, yes . . . and I heard that since you've been with Warners, the studio isn't there any more.
JACK: Now listen here, Allen—
MARY: Jack, it's your own fault . . . You always have a chip on your shoulder.
JACK: I haven't got a chip on my shoulder!
FRED: He's right, Mary . . . that's his head . . . looks like a knot hole with skin over it.
JACK: That settles it, Allen . . . I've tried to be friends with you, but you won't have it that way . . . Why, I'd punch you right in the nose if there wasn't a lady present.
MARY: I'll leave, Jack.
JACK: YOU SIT DOWN! . . . Now you listen to me, Allen—
FRED: You listen to me, Benny . . . You'd punch who in the nose?
JACK: I'd punch you in the nose, if it weren't for your wife and children.
FRED: I HAVEN'T GOT ANY CHILDREN.
JACK: THEN WHY AREN'T YOU IN THE ARMY? . . . ANSWER THAT, CIVILIAN!
MARY: Oh Jack, for goodness sake—
JACK: YOU KEEP OUT OF THIS . . . Now listen, Allen, for the last time, I want you to mind your own business.
HICKS: JACK, WHY DON'T YOU AND FRED ALLEN SHAKE HANDS AND—
JACK: YOU SHUT UP . . . Now listen, Allen, I wanna tell you . . . Oh, oh my goodness! . . . I said that to my sponsor! . . . Mr. Hill, Mr. Hill, I didn't mean to say shut up to you . . . I meant to say be quiet . . . I mean, please be quiet . . . I mean I didn't mean it at all . . . I'd never say a thing like that to you.
(Music in soft)
JACK: (Pleading) Mr. Hill, Mr. Hill . . . don't stand there with your back to me . . . Fred . . . Freddy boy, please tell Mr. Hill I didn't mean it.
(Music louder)
JACK: It was an accident, it was all a big mistake . . . Fred, don't stand there with your back to me.
(Music full)
JACK: Mary, Mary . . . tell Mr. Hill it was all a mistake . . . tell him I'm sorry, tell him anything, but just say something!
