Mrs. M. R. Meyer, address withheld, Long Beach, Calif.

For some time I have been wanting to write and ask you to please publish a picture of little Bernie Christianson, who sings so beautifully on Don McNeill's "Breakfast Club."

Bernie Christianson

Blanche Hatfield, 2722 Albemarle Road, Brooklyn, New York.

I have been listening to the Jack Smith show for three years now and in my opinion it is one of the best musical programs on the networks. Would like very much if you would print a picture of Jack in action on his show. Not only has he a terrific voice, but he's handsome and has a wonderful personality . . . think Radio-TV Life is a wonderful weekly magazine. Wish New York had something like it.

Jack Smith

Stephen W. Gerber, 3606 North Verdugo Boulevard, Glendale, Calif.

If any show merits listing under "Program Highlights" it's "Ella Mae Time" on KECA every Monday night. Ella Mae Morse does a swell job on her weekly show and an all-around good job as mother of two children and wife of a Navy surgeon in the Medical Corps.

Mrs. George McLeer, 2218 East Glenoaks, Glendale, Calif.

Olive Mae Beach

An Atwater Kent winner, Miss Beach appears quite often on music programs, but does not have a show of her own. She has appeared as a guest on KFI-TV, and has sung with the Opera Guild and at the Philharmonic.

Hazel M. Woodruff, 223 North St. Andrews Place, Los Angeles, Calif.

It is with regret that I learn the "Passing Parade" with John Nesbitt has been discontinued. It is not often that we hear such good stories so beautifully told. I hope the series will be reestablished.

"Behind the Story" is the new show which took the place of "Passing Parade." KHJ, Monday through Friday. Perhaps you will enjoy Marvin Miller's narrations every bit as much as John Nesbitt's, although it is our wish too that "Parade" will return at another time.

Mrs. Louise Hinsey and Mrs. Betty Van Every, 437 North Ardmore Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.

We have been listening to "Love's Notebook" on KWKW and think it is the best poetry program on the air. We like the way the poems are made a part of the story. We are wondering if this is a new program by the Pasadena Playhouse? Would you please run pictures of Sandie Stevens and Patrick Wells?

The program is not connected with the Pasadena Playhouse.

About Your Letters

All letters to the Ear Inspires the Pen Department should include name and full address of the sender. Name and/or address will be withheld on writer's request. Opinions expressed in the letters printed are those of the senders and do not necessarily reflect the opinion of Radio and Television Life.

Mrs. C. V. Dawes, 925 Marshall Boulevard, San Bernardino, Calif.

Would like to have a write-up and pictures on Galen Drake and Arthur Godfrey.

Galen Drake

Arthur Godfrey

Glad to oblige with the pictures, Mrs. Dawes, and your requests on both Drake and Godfrey are filed on our "waiting list," but did you miss the latter's article in the issue of February 20, 1949?

LaDonna Burns, address withheld, Los Angeles, Calif.

I have heard some of Doris Day's records and I think that the "Mellomen" are heading for a great success . . . hope they will get a break.

Got a Green Thumb?

*Then It's Because You Have Worked Diligently
In Your Garden, Not Because of a Magical Touch*

By Hannah Briggs

Friday, 1:15 p.m.
KXLA

MARY, Mary, quite contrary, how does your garden grow?" Not by magic and wishes, to be sure, claims J. J. Littlefield, garden consultant and moderator of KXLA's "Garden Chats."

Coaxers of straggly petunias or limp ivy can stop crying to themselves about how they can't raise a thing because they haven't got a green thumb. It's just not true. And the old story of folks born with chlorophyll instead of blood in their veins also gets nipped in the bud by this horticultural expert. According to Mr. Littlefield, those people are gifted not with any mystic know-how, but with just plain gumption to get out and work in their yards.

Horticulturist

From his twenty-two years of practical experience in horticulture plus studies of landscaping and gardening at the University of California, Mr. Littlefield has much advice to offer lovers of growing things. Besides his radio and former KTSL video show, he scribes a column that appears in the Sunday section of the Los Angeles Times (same one appearing in eleven other papers), the Pasadena Star-News, and in the "Golden Gardens," official publication of the California Gardens Clubs, Incorporated.

Lecturer at many garden clubs,

Mr. Littlefield appeals to listeners because of his earthy-outdoor "dirt-under-the-fingernails" type of information. He is most emphatic about his love for plants and claims he

PLANTING POINTERS

October is the month for a harvest of colorful blooms. Recommended for winter blooming by Mr. Littlefield are sweet peas, fragrant and fragile appearing. They will grow sturdily if planted in the following way:

Several weeks before planting, prepare the soil by digging a trench eighteen inches deep, filling with six inches of manure. (The humic acid in this breaks up heavy soil.) Scatter two pounds of complete plant food per four-foot length of row, add two pounds of bone meal, then six inches of soil. Mix well and give the trench a good soaking.

Water thoroughly the second and third week, and when the fourth week arrives level the ground with four inches of the remaining soil. Plant the sweet peas two or three inches apart, pushing them one-half inch into the dirt. Before filling in, use sweet-pea innoculant, which develops the nitrogen needed around the roots.

Carefully place a cheesecloth over the ground, apply a good watering and leave the material on until sprouts develop. When they are a quarter of an inch tall, roll off the cheesecloth and re-cover the soil with chicken wire, which will guard the young plants from prying birds. Border the bed with a line of snail bait.

This much accomplished, with care and patience the flowers should raise their heads by January.

“COZY,” “CYCLONE,” “Burgess” (on the roof), faithful horse “Cucamonga,” “One Lone Feather” and the sinister “Major Richmond” are the principals in the Coast’s only marionette show, “Adventures of Cyclone Malone.”

Monday- Friday 6:45 p.m.
NBC-TV, Channel 4, KNBH

WE RECENTLY watched eighteen people working hard on a television show that starred no people. We read the neat, clever script that combined video and audio for the show on which no people appeared.

The production was KNBH’s “Cyclone Malone,” charming marionette western series. The antics, songs and escapades of the blithe little cowboy star, “Cyclone”; his friend “Cozy”; his horse “Cucamonga”; pals “One Lone Feather,” an Indian, and “Burgess the Bird” require the skilled labors of cameramen, sound men, marionette manipulators, actors and actresses. But only the real live people participating in the Curries Ice Cream commercial ever get a look into the cameras.

Our interest in the series was whetted, before we became “Cyclone” followers, by the fact that “Cyclone’s” creators, in a most unorthodox manner, blithely sold a sponsor their show before it was even planned completely.

“Just Happened”

Ann Davis and Dorothy Novis are old friends. For several years the two pretty blonde women have worked together on the music and scripts for children’s and hospital shows. When a friend suggested they get up a television show using marionettes, the duo hit upon the idea of joining the craze for westerns. They planned their locale and characters, then asked another friend, Art Scott, to design them. That accomplished, they interested a sponsor through a most casual at-home demonstration and found themselves with a going show.

When we stopped by the KNBH studio to see the doll cast being put through their paces, almost twenty people were crowded into a less-than-twenty-foot area, all somehow managing to get their part accomplished and all working unrelentingly toward that night’s fifteen-minute episode. We watched quietly and with amazement.

A post-show interview with Ann and Dorothy straightened out just who does what more or less regularly on the show.

Dorothy Novis handles the organ, the piano, sings songs and does the voices of “Cucamonga,” the cowboy’s endearing wall-eyed horse, and “Burgess,” the comical bird.

Warren White, who, incidentally, is another close friend of the girls, does voices of “Wishbone Hollow’s” famous resident, “Cyclone Malone” (a big-time make-believe movie cowboy) and “One Lone Feather.”

Ann plays the vocal role of the demure “Cozy,” femme interest, and of “Major Richmond,” a principal heavy. Ann also takes a turn now and then at the actual marionette manipulation, at the sewing up of small torn clothes, or some quick

"Just a Perfect Friendship"

*Between Cathy Lewis and Pals, for
"When Other Friendships Have Been Forgot, Theirs Will Still Be Hot"*

By Gaye Howe

Monday, 7:00 p.m.
CBS-KNX, KCBQ

WHEN CBS's hilarious "My Friend Irma" came back after its summer hiatus, it was difficult to distinguish who were the happiest about Cathy Lewis's return to her co-starring role of "Jane Stacy." Listeners were overjoyed to find "Irma's" generous roommate again on mike and her fellow actors were, for once, left without an appropriate line.

As maestro Lud Gluskin soft-pedaled the opening theme, a poignant meaning crept into its strains, for Cathy was back . . . but she wasn't alone.

Listeners couldn't see Lurene Tuttle standing in the wings, or they would have wondered why she was there. The audience didn't notice Bea Benaderet's ("Amber's") tense concern as Cathy acted, nor could they hear the sentences that passed between Lurene and Cathy's husband, Elliott Lewis. Fondly concerned over her friend's first performance after a year-long illness, Lurene had slipped behind the curtain to stand by.

"She'll be all right now," whispered Lurene as Cathy walked on stage. "Sure," replied Elliott proudly, "she's fine." "No, you don't understand," smiled Lurene gently, "Cathy just saw me standing here and she'd die first before she gave up and let me have a chance at the role!"

There wasn't any sting in the words . . . none of this catty philosophy that Hollywood actresses are reported to express. It was just something one's own best friend would say, and it proved that regardless of any feline natures women are said to have, there's still a bounty of loyalty and true friendship left in this hard old world.

Sometimes it takes an illness to make people realize how close they really are, or perhaps it just isn't noticed by others until they return.

October 30, 1949

BUSY WITH THEIR third record album, which follows "Happy Anniversary" and "Happy Holiday," Cathy and Elliott Lewis are also thinking over a future radio show with interest on a daytime serial. (Sid Avery photo.)

Maybe that's why there's something so extra nice about Cathy's many feminine friends, Lurene, Shirley Mitchell, Bea, Mary Jane Croft and Jeanette Nolan, to name just a few. These gals have been close and, at times, plenty blunt with each other, but there has always been a nice warm feeling between them, socially and professionally. The latter three actresses with Cathy were the four leading ladies of the former "Twelve Players," and Cathy remembers way back when, as a newcomer, she had to buck them.

Two seasons ago, when "Irma" was new and Cathy had established "Jane" in the hearts of many dialers, she became quite sick, and because it might have endangered her health, producer Cy Howard "subbed in" Joan Banks, whose capable acting soothed distraught fans with her delightful portrayal of the witty-tongued "Jane."

Develops Mike Fright

After six months of not being on the air, Cathy now reveals that she doesn't play roles the same any more. The time away from radio was spent in many long moments of reaching new concepts, of discover-

Bob Hawk Is No Pigeon

He Loves His Contestants as Long as They're Amateurs, But He's Out to Halt the Ones He Terms "Quiz Chisellers" on Hollywood Program

By Betty Buchanan

➔ AFTER GIVING ANSWERS TO FIVE QUESTIONS in L-E-M-A-C order, the contestants who will compete on the final question are perched in the Lemac box. Questions with the simplest, most obvious answers are often much harder than the more complicated queries. Bob gives his contestants every chance, leans over backwards to be fair. (CBS-Grant photos.)

◀ BOB WAS BORN in Iowa and reared in Oklahoma. He's been in Chicago and New York radio, but has always wanted to be a West Coaster. Here he is in fine fettle for anything that comes out of the West—including professional contestants. (Gene Lester photo.)

Monday, 7:30 p.m.
CBS-KNX, KCBQ

WHEN news got around that Bob Hawk's "Lemac" quiz show, after many years of New York broadcasting, was moving to Hollywood, the professional contestants were joyful. Fresh quiz-show territory was to be opened and another small gold rush was on. The veteran quiz-show contestants lay in wait in the parking lot for Bob Lemond and Charles Lyon, announcers who choose the program participants. The publicity man assigned to the series received twelve calls in the three days before the show started, all from people who wanted to get them "on."

No "Regulars"

The knowledge that Hawk was marked as a pigeon for the quiz addicts acted on the emcee like a red flag on a bull. During the warm-up of each broadcast, he states in no uncertain terms that no "quiz chisellers" are welcome to participate. In spite of this, many persist in trying to be chosen.

Hollywood-wise Bob Lemond and Charles Lyon also try to stay away from the "quiz chiseler" in choosing contestants. As they come down into the aisles during the warm-up, cries from professionals ring out. "How about a grandmother, Bob?" . . . "How about an Irishman?" . . . "How about Brooklyn, Charlie?" Their hands are flailing the air. First-timers to a show usually don't have the temerity to call out, they feel brave enough with one sedate hand in the air. "There's a woman here every week who screams 'I'm a lady barber,'" relates Lyon. It's gotten so that if he doesn't hear her call, Lyon will yell, "Where's the lady barber?"

"And the ones who plead," moans Lemond. One anxious "chiseler" nearly ripped the sleeve from Lyon's sport coat in an effort to put across his message.

"I got to know the New York group pretty well," adds Hawk, "but until I get to know the Hollywood group, a few may slip in."

It's not that Hawk doesn't like contestants, he likes them very much—when they're amateurs. He's delighted when a sincere person who's never been to a radio show before wins money on the program. He beams when a contestant elicits a laugh from the audience.

Hawk Treatment

Bob doesn't meet his contestants

October 30, 1949

until the show is actually on the air and they are face to face. "I try to put them at their ease during the first minute," he explains, "and give them an objective instead of a subjective point of view about the program. That way they're less apt to be embarrassed." The quiz master thinks that the average of intelligence and humor is about the same in the New York and Hollywood contestants (the amateurs, that is). "Both Hollywood and New York broadcasts are full of out-of-towners—which we like. And remember, it isn't so much what you know that counts, it's what you can think of while you're at the mike."

Any participant who engages in a battle of wits with Hawk and a battle of "Lemac's" with the questions is assured of complete fairness in every department. No friends or acquaintances of Hawk or any members of his staff are allowed to compete on the program. Never, never is a contestant "planted." Research writer Dina Fields always sits in the front row center of every broadcast just in case two possibly correct answers turn up where only one was expected. "For instance," says Dina, "one week we had the question 'what is an ingredient of a facial pack beginning with the letter M?' The contestant answered 'milk,' which is right. But our answer had been 'mud.'" When an answer like this turns up, Bob glances down to catch Dina's eye and an exchange of glances tells him that the contestant is right.

In the matter of making up the questions, Dina claims that she finds the most interesting ones outside of the dictionary and encyclopedia source books. She roams through bookstores looking for likely volumes and recalls that her favorite find of question material has been a cook book.

Background on Bob

The show has been moved to Hollywood because Hawk has always wanted to live here. Often a visitor, he's happy at last to have made the move, though it meant complete reorganization and, save one secretary, a new program staff.

Bob has been in radio twenty-three years, a quiz master for fifteen of them. He had intended to be a teacher, and in fact had a contract in his pocket to teach at an Oklahoma college when he heard a radio broadcast that switched his ambitions. He has broadcast everything from grand opera to the arrival of the Graf Zeppelin, but didn't act on his ad-libbing ability until he became a Chicago disc jockey. He is the originator of the "Lemac" routine that has made his present show so successful. He calls golfing and the theater his major hobbies and has backed two Broadway shows, "By Jupiter" and "The First Million." One of his pet peeves is people who call him Hawks instead of Hawk. He is unmarried—"and with no offers, either," he adds. Wait'll those "quiz chisellers" hear that!

➡ CHARLES LYON (standing) and Bob LeMond illustrate one sort of "quiz chiseler," the type who begs and pleads and claims that his life will be shattered unless he's chosen. It's an old story to Hawk.

➡ LYON AND LeMOND, WITH APPROPRIATE REACTION from Hawk, illustrate another type of contestant—the one who suddenly attacks from the aisle with such violence that he nearly tears the sleeve from the announcer's coat. And won't let go. Out-of-towners who merely come to see the show have the best chance. Even Hawk's best friends can't get on.

FAMOUS LOVE STORIES

GEORGE SAND—Chopin's last and greatest love, was the pen name for the brilliant writer, Mme. Dudevant. They met in 1837, and during the next ten years Chopin gave the world his greatest musical compositions. In 1847 they quarreled and parted. For George Sand it was the end of a romance. But for Chopin, it was the end of life itself, for he died shortly thereafter.

You'll Love

WHITE KING SOAP

If you are having trouble washing your clothes clean—chances are, you are washing them with something that is NOT soap. Remember it takes REAL soap, honest-to-goodness soapsuds, to get clothes really clean. And NO soap works better in ANY type of washer than the soap originally created for washing machine use. Nothing washes like real soap. And there's no soap like WHITE KING.

BETTY LOU HOYT and Arch Presby have their own little corner and their own camera man when they step into the "Cyclone" continuity with a message from Curries, ice-cream makers who bring the show to Channel 4.

They All Work For Dolls

scene shifting, and sings songs.

When the show's two attractive creators set about writing their daily script, format is always aimed toward a "cliff-hanging" ending. This device each night leaves one of the sympathetic characters in some sort of dire peril. Voices are never designated by Ann, Dorothy, Warren, Arch (announcer Presby sometimes doubles as the menacing Lizzard or "Jess Hook") or others. It reads: Feather: Burgess: Cuca: All: or Cyclone: More than once the floor director has stabbed his finger in the direction of the on-stage marionettes as a cue, rather than at the actors doing the voices.

"Cyclone" as "Santa" Later?

Story lines are plotted weeks in advance, taking every advantage of local affairs. Concurrent with our November election, "Cyclone," too, will be running for sheriff of "Wishbone Hollow" against his old enemy "Jess Hook." At this September writing the lines and hints are already being included in the scripts to introduce this situation.

When Ann isn't busy with "Cyclone," his friends, life and future, she divides her time between another television show . . . "The World Is Your Garden," on KFI-TV . . . and movie and radio work as both a singer and actress.

Dorothy Novis spends what time she can with her family. At least two of them, completely sold on "mother's show," are Jimmy and Jane Novis, eight and eleven years old respectively

Unfortunately for the neighborhood children who know Jimmy and Jane, "Cyclone" and his pals are left at the studio nights. The whole crew are covered carefully and hung in a large, upright box. Only five keys exist that will unlock this box.

No one fears that the dolls themselves will go capering off into the night. It is simply that an accident to even one small show character could cut three people out of a job. A disaster to the whole "Cyclone Malone" cast crew could put twenty people immediately out of work.

IN A SMALL SPACE between the sound-effects table and the musical instruments, Ann and Warren make with wee voices for the doll cast, while Dorothy Novis takes care of the music and waits for a turn at more voices.

ON OUR COVER

For Love o' Mike (General Comment)

Rumors Are Flying

CBS has auditioned "Air Command" starring Philip Cochran. . . . Robert Young may make his radio show, "Father Knows Best," into an independently produced movie. . . . CBS would like to hire Niles Trammell, NBC board chairman and formerly NBC prexy. It won't happen. . . . Clifton Fadiman has the radio rights to two of our favorite detectives, "Nero Wolfe" and "Archie." . . . Starting time on the Ronald Colman show, "Halls of Ivy," to be announced by NBC this week. . . . Back East they say that a lucky "Sing It Again" winner has beaten the bogy by auctioning off his $29,000 worth of prizes. . . . "Share the Wealth," with Bill Slater as emcee, slated for ABC. . . . There's a deal on for CBS to buy KFI. . . . Dinah Shore has been offered the Monday and Friday co-star spots with Frank Sinatra. She spends the other evenings with Jack Smith. . . . Gordon MacRae may do the lead in the remake of Jolson's "Jazz Singer." . . . "So You Want to Lead a Band" may return to the air. . . . Upton Sinclair's lengthy "Lanny Budd" series is being packaged for radio. . . . ABC's "The Fat Man" may come to Hollywood for radio and video. . . . William Keighley may leave Lux after the current season. If he does, Cecil B. DeMille may return. . . . Paul Frees is the star of "Crime Correspondent," auditioned at CBS. . . . Pat O'Brien is auditioning a show for ABC New York, "Brass McGannon, Advance Man." . . . "Wizard of Odds," surely one of the most auditioned shows in radio, is at it again at CBS.

Looks Like

Helen Hayes has canceled her radio plans indefinitely because of her recent loss, and "Corliss Archer" will continue in the spot held for "Electric Theater." . . . "Lum and Abner" to switch to Wednesday nights. . . . "Broadway Is My Beat" to return to CBS. . . . Edna Best, producer of top Hollywood air shows during recent years, is playing opposite Maurice Evans on Broadway this season in "The Browning Version." Radio singer Connie Haines will be seen in the new musical "Duchess of Idaho." . . . Gene Norman has staged a one-man revival of the old De Sylva tune, "Don't Tell Her What Happened to Me," and we couldn't be happier. . . . Dick Haymes, who again collapsed during an appearance at the Coconut Grove, was subbed by Bob Carroll. . . . "Superman," formerly on Mutual, now an ABC show. . . . NBC is buying KMPC as its local outlet after all. . . . Cowboy singer Jimmy Wakely's three latest records have been banned from the air. . . . Dick Brown, singer on "Stop the Music," and Charlotte Manson, who does the commercials on that show and on "Twenty Questions," are now Mr. and Mrs. . . . Ken Carson signed to record four tunes for Columbia records. . . . Bill Costello of CBS's Far East staff will sub for Chet Huntley while the latter tours Europe for six weeks.

Radio and the Novel

A recent talk with a local literary critic has left us in an exhilarated frame of mind about—of all things—radio. The critic has become a faithful listener to "NBC Theater" (11:00 a.m., Sunday), and expressed the opinion that the program's staff has succeeded to a greater degree than anyone else in bringing the novel to the air. He pointed out to us that radio is a better vehicle for the novel than either television or the screen. When a radio program based on a novel is well done, the author's original ideas remain intact, the flavor of his style is undisturbed and the imagination of the audience is left to work on his prose in the same way it does with the printed page. Both television and the film "interpret" for the audience. The reader and the listener draw their own picture of character and scene, based on the author's words. Television and film, showing in a moment actions that may take a chapter to describe, present someone else's idea of what the author's descriptions look like.

The best illustration of the foregoing point happened to us recently when we discussed a novel with a friend. She saw the villain as a Vincent Price type; we were just as sure that he looked like actor Thomas Gomez. On film or in television no matter how well that particular story was done, one of us would have been disappointed. On the air, both of us would have retained our dissimilar conceptions while enjoying the whole to the same degree.

Our critic is very pleased about television—but from his own viewpoint. He hopes that it drains off all the types of entertainment that it is able to present more fully than radio does. He also hopes that radio will then discover that there are at least two great fields which it alone can present with the accuracy that their creators intended—classical music and the novel of ideas.

Films Point to Radio

It's interesting to note one of the comments emphasized by Gloria Swanson after a nationwide tour investigating and discussing with audiences the reasons adults no longer go to the movies. The most often repeated statement of those over thirty-five was that they were not interested in films that contained no familiar faces. Miss

KECA mike memos

By VIRGINIA WEST

After a busy weekend, we think Sunday nights are good for just relaxing by your radio. Night falls rather early these cool, crisp fall evenings, so you're probably home by five o'clockish . . . and that's an excellent time for turning your dial to 790, and leaving it set for the evening.

At five, of course, you hear that exciting musical quiz, "Stop the Music," on ABC-KECA. . . . Here's an hour of uniformly fresh and entertaining music, and you have the fun of seeing if you can identify the tunes, whether or not you're culled on the phone by Emcee Bert Parks. . . . Another audience participation show in the Sunday night lineup . . . one we're sure you like . . . is John Reed King's "Chance of a Lifetime." Aired at 6:30 on KECA, studio guests as well as listeners at home have a chance to participate in the exciting game which passes along grand prizes worth up to $20,000. King was first a writer and producer of radio scripts before turning emcee. He started acting also, and soon his ability to project a naturally pleasant personality over the airwaves brought so many offers that he abandoned his other efforts.

John Wald

. . . Now he's one of the nation's most popular masters of ceremonies.

Sunday nights on ABC include some of the top names in the field of news reporting . . .

starting off at 6 with Walter Winchell, followed by Louella Parsons, Jimmie Fidler, and Drew Pearson, with "Monday Morning Headlines" voiced by Hank Weaver, and John Wald, "The Richfield Reporter," for spot news coverage. Incidentally, here's John Wald whom you hear on KECA-ABC every Sunday thru Friday at 10 o'clock.

For good measure, KECA also gives you an hour of adventure from 9 to 10, when Alan Ladd follows through on the replies he gets to his "Box Thirteen" newspaper ad and "The Green Hornet" pursues and brings to justice wrongdoers and enemies of the nation. . . . Then on Sunday nights you hear ABC's Roving Reporter, Ted Malone, and his human interest stories at 7:15. As all his old friends know, Ted is also heard five-days-a-week on KECA at 3:55, for Westinghouse.

As we said before, we know you'll make 790 a Sunday night habit once you lend an ear to the variety of listening you'll find free for the dialing.

Radio in Review

Swanson, in relaying this information back to the movie makers, pointed to radio as proof that audiences are not fickle, that they prefer familiar personalities. She cited Hooper ratings in which no newcomers are included in the top brackets. Year after year, the top Hooper shows are those which feature long established stars. Radio doesn't let its great names dim merely because an interesting newcomer comes along. The complaint is quite the opposite—newcomers don't stand much of a chance. Moviemakers shouldn't let a little thing like age lick their stars—it's something that happens to us all!

Playbacks (Critical Comment)

We Point With Pride

. . . . To Martha Wentworth's portrayal of "Mrs. Fussy" on the Red Skelton show. "Mrs. F." is all that the name implies. Nothing, but nothing, that Skelton does is right from her point of view. It's nice to see a good actress like Martha finally get a chance at this type of character comedy.

. . . . To Lowell Thomas's series of fascinating broadcasts during his journey to and from Tibet. In case you've missed them, they concerned his meeting with the fabulous Dalai Lama, never before host to a white party. Thomas's story of his injury during the trip and of his ride down a precipitous mountain road in a stretcher was hair-raising. Lowell Thomas Jr. was given a rare opportunity in accompanying his father and acquitted himself in fine fashion subbing for his parent during the latter's incapacity.

. . . . To Bill Stern on his fifteenth anniversary as a sportscaster and story teller. The turnout of celebs on his anniversary broadcast is an indication of the high esteem in which Bill is held.

. . . . To Marvin Miller's fine portrayal of a difficult role, "Hearstwood" on the "NBC Theater" production of Theodore Dreiser's "Sister Carrie." He retained the flavor of the period piece and managed a believable characterization at the same time.

. . . . To "The Big Story's" choice of a local reporter for their "Big Story" award last week. Don Green of the Los Angeles Examiner was the recipient of the 500 dollars for his work in unraveling a series of bizarre murders. As a cub reporter, the young man had been advised by a famous lawyer to read, study and attend court. In investigating the common denominator of the Los Angeles murders, the reporter discovered that the one thing they had in common was the fact that they were committed on nights of the full moon, and so was led to the solution of the crimes.

. . . . To Dick Powell's performance in the starring role in "Pitfall" on the "Screen Director's Guild" program on KFL. Radio-wise, Dick is better than ever. The same cannot be said for director Andre de Toth, who, like many of his guild brothers, doubtless feels safer behind the camera.

. . . . To Frank Fay's guest appearance on the Bing Crosby program from San Francisco. It reminded us again that Fay is certainly one of the greatest American entertainers. Who else could get a huge laugh merely by intoning gently, "Bing—don't be smug." We particularly enjoyed Fay's closing remarks. "I was born right here in San Francisco," he told the audience. A great round of applause repaid this statement. "See, Bing?" Fay explained. "I could have said that at the beginning of the program and created a lot of sympathy. But I didn't," he sighed. "That's class."

We View With Alarm

. . . . The fact that networks seem lax about invoking a very fine old network rule: no song shall be repeated within three hours of its being heard on another program. We heard "Don't Cry, Joe" twice within fifteen minutes on the same net station recently. With so many of the fine little fifteen-minute musicals that are so popular now, the search for material should go farther than just the next song plugger. For instance, we've been "Some Enchanted Evening"-ed and "I'm in Love with a Wonderful Guy"-ed to death. A further excursion into the score of "South Pacific" would reveal such relatively untouched material as "Happy Talk" (which Dinah Shore or Evelyn Knight could do beautifully), "Honey-Bun" (made for Jack Smith), "This Nearly Was Mine" (for any passable crooner), "Dites-Moi" and the "Soliloquies."

The score of the overdone "Oklahoma" will also reveal a couple of underdone gems, "Out of My Dreams" and "Many a New Day." "Finian's Rainbow" had such undiscovered hits as "Something Sort of Grandish" and "When I'm Not Near the Girl I Love," both neglected while every tenor and his brother hacked away asking about conditions in "Glocca Morra" and imploring people to look at what that "Ole Debbil Moon" had done to him.

The song pluggers are all nice souls and we don't begrudge them a single note that they wring from radio singers—but couldn't everybody get together and observe the three-hour limit once more?

. . . . The New York version of one of the top Hollywood mystery shows, "Gregory Hood." A new cast and staff do nothing to catch the considerable flavor of the Coast version. Particularly missed are Elliott Lewis's "Gregory" and the scripting of Ray Buffum.

On Mike (About Studio Happenings)

"Phantom Voice" Clues

"Fish, ham, smorgasbord; Tin Pan Alley too. General, general, general, general. What is he to you?" That's the jingle that the "Phantom Voice" on "Sing It Again" has been intoning until now his identity is worth $55,000. Added clues have been: "A Phantom who was the nation's toast is now a California host. A five-star general looked aghast each time our Phantom drifted past. For what he's done immortal fame has pinned a star upon his name. He crossed the ocean one fine day to do a job for the U.S.A." Newest clue is: "A New York mayor you once knew had our Phantom's first name, too."

Let's see, now . . . as mayors of New York we've had a Jimmy and a Fiorello. Say, there isn't a movie star named Fiorello Eisenhower, is there?

"Sundialers" Have Fun

Folks up Santa Maria way are enjoying the work of disc jockey Carson Pinkley, who has been heard on stations KFMA and KFMB since June. His listeners have banded together into the "Sundialers Club," so called because listeners must arise at 5:30 a.m. in order to catch his 6:00 a.m. show. Club duties include sending in at least one post-card request a week to Pinkley. Most of the fans have appeared on one of the jockey's interview programs and a recent surprise birthday party tendered him drew 400 guests, all "Sundialers."

Off Mike (Personalities)

"Put 'er There, Pardner"

Seven-year-old Dana Diggs, son of Richard Diggs, producer of the Louella Parsons program, is the social lion of El Rodeo School these days. When he learned that Bill "Hopalong Cassidy" Boyd was to be the guest star on Miss Parsons's show, he arranged with his producer father to bring twenty school friends to the rehearsal. All the kids wore their "Hopalong Cassidy" outfits and were only momentarily dejected by the fact that "Hoppy" was dressed in the usual business suit. Boyd signed autographs and a successful afternoon was had by all.

Incidentally, we recently met a young man who told us of a meeting he'd had with Boyd many years before. Seems that our friend was terribly displeased with his given name, Wilbur. "Don't feel too bad," Boyd reassured him, "my middle name is Mary—spelled M-e-r-r-y!" Now is that true, "Hoppy," or did you just say it to make Wilbur feel happier?

Man Kisses Horse!

Jack McElroy, who makes it a practice to kiss the lucky ladies on ABC's "Breakfast in Hollywood," recently pulled a switch at Hollywood Park. The feature harness race was called "Breakfast in Hollywood Sweepstakes" and McElroy did his bit by betting on an entry tagged "Guest Star." The horse won and paid $17.80. When "Guest Star" came into the winner's circle, McElroy paid his tribute. He kissed the horse.

RECORD NOTES TO YOU

BY ANDY MANSFIELD

NAT "KING" COLE (Capitol) and his trio have a pair of the best this week in "You Can't Lose a Broken Heart" (from "Sugar Hill") and "Nalani," a lovely song from the Islands that'll remind you of Sweet Lailani. . . . Both make for easy listenin' in the quiet mood with able assists from the Starlighters. . . . ELLA FITZGERALD (Decca) has a pair of decided contrasts in wax with "Foolish Tears," a Western-flavored commercial ditty that should sell the platter, and "A Man Wrote a Song," with its unusual lyrics and chord changes, by far the better for Ella's vocal styling. . . . TONY MARTIN (RCA-Victor) has a pair of new cuts of yesterday's "Toot, Toot, Tootsie" in fast up-tempo'd rhythm, and a mighty fine rendition of "You Call It Madness" in calmer ballad style, but still in the top-drawer department. . . . With the dance bands, KAY KYSER's Columbia release features the voice of the missus, Georgia Carroll, in a rhythm arrangement of "Paradise" and Bob Carroll doing a top vocal chore on Grofe's "On the Trail" to Harold Adamson's new lyrics, for Columbia's best this week.

. . . DORIS DREW (MGM) will be a gal to watch if her first platters are any indication . . . to fine backing by Harold Mooney, Doris's etching of "A Little More Time" is very acceptable fare, but the clincher is the way she does "Singin' in the Rain" in slow moody tempo with just enough huskiness to make you want more. . . . RAY ANTHONY (Capitol), his trumpet and orchestra have a pair of top tunes and arrangements featuring the Man With the Horn in "Bye Bye Baby" with a Pat Baldwin vocal, and the slower "Dreamer's Holiday," featuring Dick Noel on vocal. Ray's boys have plenty of drive and a strong dance beat in the Miller style that make these tunes tops in pops. . . . BEN POLLACK (Brunswick) and his Pick-a-Rib Boys (remember?) give out yesterday's versions of "Alice Blue Gown" and "My Wild Irish Rose" as done by one of the best small combos in the business. . . . Both are re-issues, but as good today as when Ben played drums at the recording session. . . . ZIGGY ELMAN's trumpet sets the pace on MGM's "Me and My Shadow" and "Irresistible You," both instrumentals with plenty of rhythm and beat in contrasted tempos and arrangements designed to showcase Ziggy's trumpet soloing, than which there is none better for our dough. . . . (P.S. Watch for special Christmas releases featuring many new holiday songs on Capitol, Decca, MGM, RCA-Victor, Columbia, Coral and Mercury. . . . A.M.)

Wednesday Night Is the Night for PLAYS!

Wednesday night is the night for plays, with just enough diversion injected between plays to add spice to selective offerings. "This Is Your Life" at 6:00 presents life stories of "uncelebrated" Americans, who, through acts of unselfishness and heroism, have gained respect and admiration of townsmen and neighbors.

"Screen Directors Playhouse" at 6:30, is so well known and followed that we can just say a little—it'll suffice. It's fine, excellent, magnificent and, not only that, it's good! "The Big Story" at 7:00 recounts solving of crimes by newspapermen whose suspicious attitudes refuse to let them accept the obvious. Actual news scoops are featured and the lucky newsmen gets $500 for his brightness.

"Curtain Time," at 7:30 carries on the idea of excellence and the plays presented in this slot are definitely of strong entertainment value, offering some of the best half-hours to come out of your radio speaker. Dorothy Kirsten follows at 8:00 with a 15-minute show of song and ad-lib. Frankie Sinatra also makes an appearance at this time (Monday through Friday) on "Light Up Time."

"The Great Gildersleeve" at 8:30 isn't actually a play and yet some of the silly developments in which he gets webbed could easily make a novel. "Gildy" is one of our favorites and we admit frankly we're prejudiced—we'd like him even if he could sing. "Break the Bank" pulls into the KFI slip at 9:00 with Master-Emcee Bert Parks throwing $100 bills around like mad. One of the best give-aways on the air waves.

"Mr. District Attorney" at 9:30, winds up the evening of plays with a fine hunting to show that crime does not pay. Politicians, thugs, murderers and even crooked mayors have gotten their just deserts on this show. We like it, and so will you.

In & Out of Focus (General Comment)

Looks Like

Results of the most recent Woodbury College video research will be made public at the Second Annual Conference of the Academy of TV Arts and Sciences next week. . . . Joe Parker, who owned and wrote the popular NBC hit show of seven years ago, "The Best of the Week" starring Benny Rubin, is packaging a TV show for Rubin along same lines. . . . ABC-TV acquired exclusive rights to "The Three Stooges" and is auditioning the crazy crew for a strip. . . . Ona Munson is including legit stage work in her TV-radio schedule. She opens in "Edward My Son" at the Pasadena Playhouse this week. . . . KFI-TV got the first big local coin to be spent in TV by department stores. Broadway is purchaser. . . . ASCAP recently signed an agreement with the three major TV networks, providing for the use of the Society members' music on television for five years, effective January 1, 1950.

Stop, Listen, Look (Shows You May Like)

"Inside U. S. A."

A week or so ago CBS-TV premiered their "Inside U.S.A. with Chevrolet" on KTTV's Channel 11. Show is a Thursday nighter (8:30), and until the first of the year will be seen only once every two weeks. At that time the costly, entertaining extravaganza goes on a weekly basis, and will certainly serve as one more television attraction to upset household schedules.

These $22,000 talent-production stanzas, starring Peter Lind Hayes, Mary Healy and the dancing of Sheila Bond, are thematic carry-overs from the Schwartz-Dietz musical legit of last season, with the Chevy commercials heavily but cunningly integrated into entertainment.

Animated maps and telegrammed flashes carry the junket, by Chevrolet motor car of course, from city to city "inside the U.S.A.," a device used to tie the production numbers together.

Freshness of dialogue, skits, music and faces makes this a standout in variety shows. Typical skits included the slapstick "All-Star Trombone," starring Hayes, Lee Goodman and Jim Kirkwood. In this the all-out effort was toward an all-star football band rather than a team, with the expected complications for dear old "Ossawatimie."

Second stop found Mary Healy singing, and the entire ensemble dancing, an original titled "I'm Looking Down on the Moon." Later, guest star Margaret O'Brien, Hayes and Miss Healy breezed through "Head of the Family," a skit exemplary in showing how a guest star should be showcased.

Further and equally funny sequences brought the show, at a fast clip, up to the all-cast finale—and bang! viewers realized thirty minutes had gone by in seemingly half that time.

We View With Alarm

The manner in which a faction of our educational system responded to the opportunity recently offered them at the First Annual Television Exposition. A panel of experts from all branches of the trade had been assembled to answer the questions of 400 guest school principals. So few of the invited attended that the experts had only about a half dozen questions to tax them. On the other hand, our educators have been fairly free with their lambasting of video as the correct fare for little minds and eyes.

We view with particular alarm the carefree way in which the FCC gives out statements of possible color television and ultra-high frequencies, then the possibility of neither development—all just before the Christmas buying season. While the public doesn't seem too alarmed about developments (as exemplified by September set sales in Southern California alone hitting 26,496—or 883 per day—and the total number of sets sold through September 30 hiking up to 213,273) the layman doesn't need much encouragement to hang onto every cent of cash he owns. Much discussion of immediate developments in the video medium isn't conducive to hurried buying. You can keep the public informed without letting them think revolutionary things are just around the corner, waiting to render today's sets obsolete.

Television Tips

By Jane Pelgram

Television activity, in these current few weeks, is offering the Los Angeles viewing area more than ample opportunity to find out as much as is known about the new medium.

If your interest was, and is, in the physical properties of TV sets, their respective performance or fare carried thereon, a lot of the answers lay at the first Annual Television Exposition held at the Shrine Auditorium.

Next session for the TV-minded occurs on Tuesday, November 1, when the Second Annual Conference of the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences is held at the Hollywood Athletic Club on Sunset Boulevard a few blocks west of Vine Street.

The day-long conference, open to the public for a small registration fee, begins at 9:00 a.m., is held in two sessions (morning and afternoon) and has been plotted to air the best defensive and offensive conclusions reached at this stage of the new game.

The morning "guinea pig" session finds 200 set owners, chosen at random by Hoffman Radio Corporation (Hoffman is first corporate member of the Academy, and was assigned by the Academy to congregate these owners at the Conference) to be on hand to view four television shows, one selected from each network—NBC-TV, CBS-TV, ABC-TV and Don Lee's KTLA.

After each film showing, these 200 viewers answer a question list. Their answers are rapidly tabulated and presented to the rest of the attendance. Following that, representatives of the advertising agencies and sponsors question the same 200 on what they now like, why, what they would like to see, and what they don't like. This is the first instance we know of in which the viewer gets right to the man paying the freight on our television fare, and should prove a satisfying bit of business not only to the two factions involved, but to networks, packagers and other viewers alike.

The afternoon session of the Conference takes, as completely as possible, the whole TV cycle, with all

California Picture Contest

All you long-time Californians (and all you late-comers and tourists who may have pictures of the state sent you by Aunt Emma back in '05, too) are invited to send in pictures of California taken no later than twenty-five years ago, to our Radio-TV Life contest. Rules are simple: Pictures will be judged for historical interest. Write your name and address on back of each picture and indicate if you wish it returned. Choose clear pictures that we will be able to reproduce in these pages. Attach to one edge with Scotch tape a slip of paper identifying the subject, approximate date. Contest closes midnight, November 15. Judges' decisions will be final and their selections will be published in Radio-TV Life within two weeks after close of contest. Send entries to Picture Department, Radio-Television Life, 6361 Selma Avenue, Hollywood 28, Calif.

Prizes, given in cooperation with Mutual's program about our state, "California Caravan," will be: First, from manufacturers of General Squeegie tires, a five-tube superheterodyne radio built into a miniature tire. Second: fifteen quarts of ice cream, a three-month supply of Towne Pride sundae toppings and a half dozen sundae glasses. Third: four tickets to the L. A. Rams-Chicago Cardinals game December 4 at the Coliseum. Fourth: four tickets to the Little Rose Bowl game in Pasadena, December 10. Fifth, salad bowl and service and salad assortment from Milani's 1890 French dressing. Sixth, Stubbaster fishing rod. Seventh, Pixie wrist-watch camera. Eighth, Zippo lighter. Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, four tickets each to "Queen for a Day." (Plus, lots of fun and loving care of all your California pictures.)

possible representatives telling their television story.

A sponsor, an advertising agency representative, a station representative selected by all seven of the channels, a television producer, a television film producer, a labor union representative, the PTA spokesman, a video receiver manufacturer and Woodbury College (in the interests of research) all open fire on one another in an effort to synthesize viewpoints. Each speaker's brief will be limited to fifteen minutes, in order that some question and answer period be left open.

While the attending public will have no opportunity to voice their queries or hopes, it hardly seems possible that a valid point of any sort will be missed in this mixing of all the component factions of the television picture.

A Washington's Birthday speech by Calvin Coolidge was the first NBCast of a coast-to-coast presidential address back in 1927.

ing that although she is still essentially a dramatic actress, she wants to be warmer and more intimate in her acting, particularly with "Jane."

Last January it was decided that Cathy was again ready for radio, so she talked it over with producer William Spier and he "threw her in" with a small part on "Sam Spade."

All would have been fine except, explains the actress, "I seemed to have developed a phobia in the time I was gone and I actually had a good case of mike fright." The bogeys were scared away when Shirley Mitchell popped into the studio to give Cathy an assuring pat on the back. Just the kind of stimulus she needed to sail through with a top performance.

Since her initial comeback, Cathy has been kept busy with her co-starring role on "My Friend Irma," some free-lance guestings on popular dramas and the just-completed film "The Story of Molly X," which dealt with inmates of Tehachapi Prison. Her husband Elliott is in the picture, but neither crosses paths in the whole length of the movie . . . a situation Cathy laughingly describes as leaving her "just as happy."

Regarding her "Jane Stacy," more than one listener has inquired how Cathy could possibly live with someone like "Irma." Smiles "Jane" patiently, "I just love her, you see." The same kind of a feeling existed when Marie Wilson, on a personal appearance in New York, told a radio audience that she had the finest co-star on her program . . . Cathy Lewis. Affirmed the exuberant and not so "Irmaish" Marie, "Cathy's the best actress in the whole world, you know!"

Got a Green Thumb?

reaps the most joy out of helping them grow. Quite a dapper fellow, the expert dresses mostly in his favorite color . . . green.

Mr. Littlefield finds that many of the troubles that gardeners complain about go to the roots of the plants . . . they are buried too deeply, thus forcing the roots to decay and bringing bugs to the attack.

He has no pity for the party who gazes wistfully at his neighbor's garden and moans that he doesn't have a green you-know-what. If the mournful one would take time, he could learn a lot from the way friend neighbor works in the yard.

Care and Patience

Primarily, the gardener must treat his plants like growing children. He should prepare the soil, water periodically, feed regularly, and when tracks appear around the leaves, hasten for the pest control. See? No tricks, just plenty of elbow grease is what it takes.

The care of indoor plants centers mainly around good drainage. Mr. Littlefield recommends planting in soil rather than leaving them in water. "If you study how fast the soil absorbs water, it will be a clue as to how often to feed them," reveals the consultant. One method of checking the feeding is to jab a wire down the edge of the pot. When pulled out, the dampened wire will indicate how much moisture is needed. Every two or three weeks it is healthful to place the house plants outdoors and turn a sharp spray on them.

If roses are the grower's passion, Mr. Littlefield has this secret to beautiful blooms. "Early in the morning, turn the spray overhead and let the drops fall into the leaves. In a short time, they will take on a beautiful blue-green cast." The flowers won't grow as large, but their fragile loveliness will defy any of those that bloomed in the famous Hanging Gardens of Babylon.

NOW 7 NIGHTS A WEEK!

NBC Television

JRUTHFULLY, at this moment I have no television plans." It was Jack Benny answering a Radio-Television Life question, the first in a long list he had agreed to consider.

We asked him why no plans. He told us that he did not think television was going to kill radio right away and completely, the way many in radio predicted. So he will stick to radio for awhile, where the mass appeal still rests. But he adds, "Television is going to be the most important medium of entertainment at some time."

More important than movies? Yes, because people, so Jack Benny believes, will stay at home to watch video because staying home is following the line of least resistance. More important than radio? Yes, but not achieving its importance the way sound pictures absorbed silents, because sound improved all silent pictures whereas addition of sight to radio sound does not invariably make improvement enough to justify video supplanting all AM radio.

For now, however, Jack Benny says this: "I don't think bad TV can compete with good radio. It is physically impossible to do both television and radio shows and have dio and TV.) "I visualize my TV show as half and half, part television and part radio. I expect to keep my radio characterization intact. That goes for all my cast, too." And incidentally, Benny thinks all his regulars would be good on TV.

Would he like to film and edit his TV show or do it all live? It really doesn't matter, any more than it matters whether or not he tapes his radio broadcast. Only advantage of taping a radio show so far as Benny is concerned, is in case he wants to get away on a vacation, and only advantage of filming a TV show would be that he could do it from here.

What? Doesn't Jack Benny think the major portion of TV will come from Hollywood eventually? No, he isn't sure Hollywood is going to be the important center, although it could be on account of the actors here, and by "actors" Jack means supporting as well as stars. "We have the best here," he thinks, and having the best would naturally make a better show, although film or live, Benny considers the amount of work exactly the same and adds, "The fact you can improve a show after you've done it doesn't interest me. I don't think film makes too much difference. You should know whether or not you have a good show before you go on."

On radio now, Benny (and cast) handle about nineteen to twenty-two pages of script weekly during a half hour. Memorizing this much for video doesn't fluster the comedian. "I don't think it will be too tough." What will be tough for him is the production work involved in video, for he admits he fully expects to put the same passion for perfection into TV as he does into his radio programs which he, by his own admission, "edits, furnishes ideas for and co-writes." I would supervise every detail of my television show," he states comprehensively.

Benny himself is not an ardent TV looker. He has had a set in his home for about two years and the them both good. If a performer has been lucky enough through the years to have built up a good show (on radio), his audience will expect him to deliver a good television show. Both radio and television would kill me. While I continue (weekly) in radio, I would like to do one important television show every two or three months and make it an event. If I were on television steady, then I would like to guest on radio now and then."

Benny admits he had "a lotta fun" doing his first TV show (it was the CBS inaugural). "Everybody seemed to like it," he commented, "and Mary, my severest critic, liked it. I relied mostly on what she said." He wasn't nervous . . . "television is practically what I used to do in vaudeville."

Why have trade papers come out all year, first stating Benny was going on TV right away, then saying he had decided to postpone his TV show until next season, then returning to the theme that he was hot again for video? Because he has not known himself what he wanted to do. He has been thinking it over. Yet he is as sure as death and taxes that he will have to do television. "I'll probably decide next year," he adds.

What kind of video show does Jack Benny think about for himself? (He discards any idea of a simulcast, ra-

Network Night Supervisor

Trent Christman Is Responsible for Anything and Everything That Happens At NBC Hollywood After Four O'Clock

By Betty Buchanan

IF YOU fall and get hurt while standing in an NBC ticket line on the sidewalk in front of the network, you're no responsibility of NBC's. If the same thing happens in the same ticket line up on the terrace or down on the grassy strip between the curb and the sidewalk, however, you are an NBC responsibility. And if this happens to you between four o'clock in the afternoon and ten thirty at night, it's up to Trent Christman, night supervisor of the network in Hollywood, to make sure you're all right.

This is only one of all the things of which a night supervisor is in charge. In fact, for the above emergencies he has a first-aid kit in his desk drawer.

All Things to All Men

He is officially the representative of all departments during his hours of duties — press, sales, guest-relations, recording, traffic, program, executive. He is even on hand to lend his fountain pen when someone wants to correct a script. Christman has been the NBC night supervisor for one year and in that time he's done everything in line of duty from supplying ice water for a temperamental star to canceling a $20,000 radio program for a news bulletin. Most of the problems he handles are program problems, however. "The same thing never occurs twice," says Christman. "A month can go by with nothing happening. My job is insurance that someone will always be here in case something does. It ranges from awfully dull to unbearably exciting!"

Some of the crises through which the personable Christman has lived make melodramatic reading. The night the Kathy Fiscus tragedy broke, everyone was gone. Christman spent thirty-eight hours at his

*Imagine the Thrill of a Youngster
When He Wins in Competitive Sport
And Hears His Opponents Proclaim*

"Hail the Champ!"

By Joy Hall

Friday, 7:30 p.m.
KLAC TV, Channel 13

UNLESS you are a youngster or still a kid at heart, you probably wouldn't enjoy KLAC-TV's "Hail the Champ." For this is a show designed for people, young and old alike, who love the thrill of proving themselves skilled at physical adeptness.

Watching their rehearsal on Friday afternoons, when the boys and girls go through the stunts, it was easy to imagine the same children playing the same games on the corner lot or at a party. The current of excitement was identical, the feeling of competition was just as high and the kids were out to prove they could be "champs."

There's something very tender about a youngster's pride. He seems to grow in stature and it's just as though he's been crowned king of the neighborhood's gang. On television, it's greater still, for not only does his own group eye him respectfully, but the admiring gazes of strangers indicate that he is one to be envied. And once he has been a "champ" nothing can hurt his pride.

Choice of Contestants

To participate in the weekly stint, boys and girls over nine years old drop a note to "coach" Herb Allen . . . there are more than 15,000 requests on file and they are sent in by all types of children and on all types of stationery, from the most expensive hand-embossed letterheads to the cheapest of dime-store writing tablets.

Who they are from makes no difference to Allen, producer Maurice Morton or Maurice Gresham, the three equal owners of the show. There are pleas from offspring of Oscar Levant, Danny Thomas and Hoagy Carmichael, who are as anxious to be on the show as children who are reared in the homes of carpenters, clerks and foundrymen.

The problem bothering these men who work tirelessly to accomplish a smooth show is the "screening out" of participants according to age and height. The sizes of prospective guests run about even for the sake of fair play, for it would look incongruous to place a pint-sized tyke against a long-legged gangly opponent.

Eight participants are used on each show, four boys and four girls. Once before the cameras, costumed in whatever array the scene calls for, they are put at ease by "coach" Allen conducting short interviews with each one. One favorite query Allen uses to make them relax is to ask if they are married. Such a question leads to much giggling

THIS year the anguished cry of the Halloween party-giver is not "What shall I have?" but "What shall I have that doesn't cost too much?" To answer this difficult question, we appealed to our standby, Norma Young of KHI's "Happy Homes" (Monday-Friday, 1:30 p.m.). Norma did a little finagling with pencil and paper and came up with this tempting menu. Then to prove it had not only budget but eye and appetite appeal, she actually had the dishes made at the Household Service Division of the L. A. Trade Technical J. C. and for those who want to copy the meal, she gives the main recipes.

BARBECUED BEANS AND VIENNA SAUSAGE

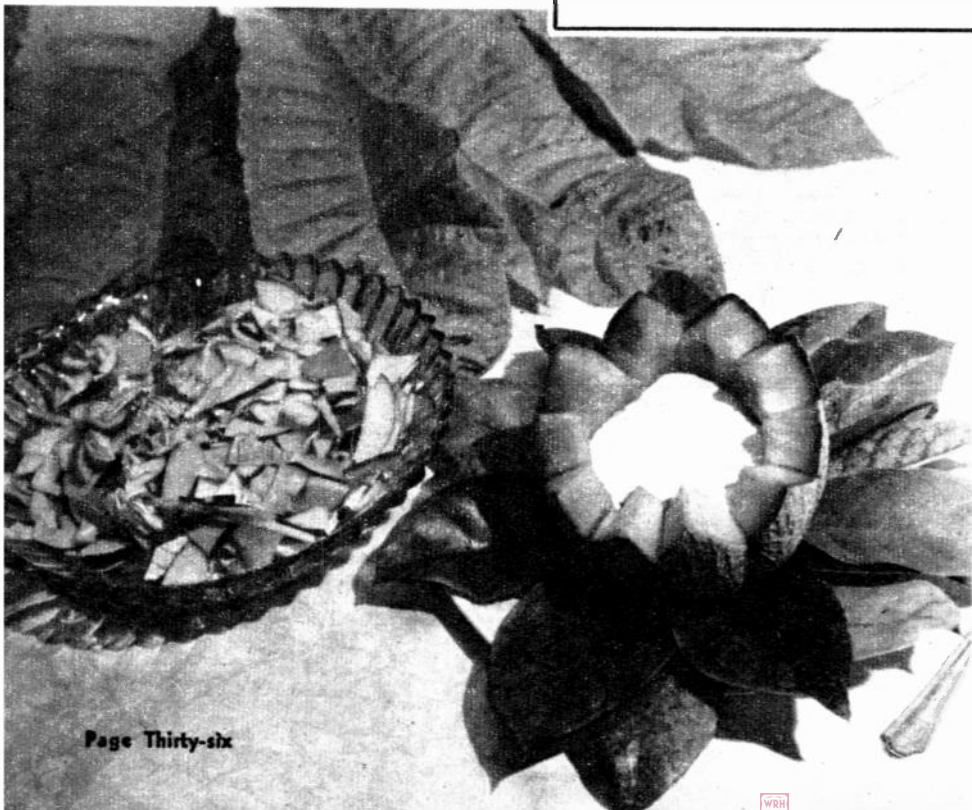

4 boxes frozen Fordhook lima beans.

Cook in boiling salted water and drain, reserving liquid.

Now make a barbecue sauce as follows:

Chop 2 large onions fine and a clove of garlic minced fine. Saute. Mix in 4 T. bacon fat. Add 2 cans of condensed tomato soup, 1 c. of the bean liquid. Mix 2 T. prepared mustard, ¼ c. chili sauce,

THE SALAD IS APPLE and celery, using unpeeled apples to lend a cheery red touch to the mixture. Salad dressing is served in a prettily scalloped melon, surrounded by more autumn leaves.

➔ BUBBLING IN A colorful pottery casserole is the lima bean-sausage main dish, done to a delightful brown. The muffins have little Halloween features for the occasion.

➔ THE BUFFET BEGINS TO TAKE SHAPE as Norma places the casserole on the table. Of course she has Halloween paper napkins and a few fat pumpkin faces to add to the decorations.

2 T. Worcestershire sauce, $1\frac{1}{2}$ t. chili powder, 1 t. salt, and $\frac{1}{2}$ c. vinegar. Add this to onions and tomato soup mixture and cook slowly 30 min. until it is of smooth consistency.

Pour this over the beans, mixing well, put in baking dish and arrange sausage on top (about 2 cans). Pour liquid from sausages over top and bake 1 hr. at 375.

HOBGOBLIN MUFFINS

1 c. bran
1 c. milk
 $\frac{1}{4}$ c. sugar
2 T. shortening
1 egg, well beaten
1 c. flour
 $\frac{1}{4}$ t. salt
3 t. baking powder

Soak the bran in the milk for about 10 min. Cream sugar and shortening. Add beaten egg and then soaked bran. Sift flour, salt and baking powder together and stir all at once into the liquid mixture until blended. Grease muffin tins and fill $\frac{2}{3}$ full. Put raisins for eyes and mouth and citron for nose, placing features close together to allow for mixture rising. Bake about 25 min. at 400. Makes 10 to 12 small muffins.

HARVEST MOONS

mix and bake in muffin or "Mary Ann" pans. Cool. Then hollow out centers if you use muffin tins. When ready to serve put about $\frac{1}{4}$ c. maple custard in center, then invert a drained peach over the top of each cake and serve with toasted coconut.

MAPLE CUSTARD

2 c. milk (use $\frac{1}{2}$ milk and $\frac{1}{2}$ cream)
3 eggs

$\frac{1}{2}$ c. maple syrup
 $\frac{1}{4}$ t. salt

Scald milk. Beat eggs slightly and blend in the maple syrup and salt. Add scalded milk gradually and return to double boiler. Stir constantly while cooking until it coats the spoon. Remove from fire and add $\frac{1}{2}$ t. vanilla. Pour into bowl and chill thoroughly.

desk. He had to send the crew out, order the lines, spend three hours trying to get the broadcast lines into the vacant lot at San Marino.

"And election night is always frantic," he sighs. Though everyone is prepared, the unforeseen always happens. During the last election, Christman was on the phone to New York, where the official on the other end of the line told him that the remotes from Albuquerque could be discontinued. He called Albuquerque and told the station that they could fold up and go home. Just as he hung up, the radio loudspeaker at his elbow announced, "This is New York. We take you now to Albuquerque." He called the station back and got the newsmen at the mike in time to continue election returns from that city. "They were all puffing as if they'd run back up a flight of stairs." Throughout election night he would hear the network loudspeaker announce from New York, "We take you now to Hollywood," and with a couple of seconds' grace he'd get someone into a studio with copy.

Anything Can Happen

All networks have line failures from time to time and there's nothing much that can be done about it. There's always some industrious farmer between here and San Francisco bulldozing up cables and tearing the network off the air. When this happens, Christman must call the telephone company and get the lines re-routed. His record at this is three and a half minutes in ordering, buying and getting the lines working between here and San Francisco.

One of the night supervisor's biggest crises occurred the time that the Bergen-McCarthy show couldn't get through from Pomona, where the show was being done. Christman had three minutes' advance notice of the line failure. He found Louella Parsons' pianist, Joe Enos, just coming off the air and got him to a piano—but Joe had another broadcast in fifteen minutes. Christman switched to New York, where he'd ordered another stand-by pianist, and the time was filled without so much as a bump.

There's a little matter of a $10,000 rebate if the commercial is missed on a network show. One night on the Bergen-McCarthy show, a failure occurred on the special line that was to carry the commercial on a cut-in from New York. Christman rushed down to master control and, from his memory of the cues he'd seen in the script, cued the switch of the network to Chicago, where he'd called for a stand-by.

Details, Details

In between these big excitements there have been the minor ones . . . the lady who called him and raised the roof because NBC was playing "Slow Boat to China" at the time of the Nationalist defeat . . . the girl who fainted in the "Take It or Leave It" line . . . the noisy man who had just that morning decided to become a singer and somehow or other suddenly burst into the NBC corridor carolling in full voice . . . the star who decided to go to the movies while the rest of the cast stood around waiting to record his show. . . . The night supervisor tries to make them all happy—failing that, he points out the hard and fast rules that must be observed or else.

In spite of all this, Christman is calm, contented, his face is unlined and his shoulders unbowed. He regards his job happily. So do many other people. It's the best place in the organization to put into practice what you've learned about the network and to learn what's under any stone that you've left unturned. Trent Christman started learning network operation from the page staff up, with stops in the parking lot, maintenance and traffic and a tenure in the army. A graduate of the University of Minnesota, he came to NBC when the network employed only college graduates on its page staff. "We had two Ph.D.'s and a Rhodes scholar," he smiles reminiscently. In college, Christman was one of three editors of the school publications. The other two were Thomas Heggen, later author of "Mr. Roberts," and Max Shulman, humorist and author of "Barefoot Boy with Cheek." The three of them wrote a joint column. He came to Hollywood in 1942 after having worked on the Minneapolis Star Journal, and went right to work at NBC, where he made his way up to the crisis department.

In the matter of reactions—they're all delayed. Christman is calm throughout all excitement. "Then when it's over, I get excited—and sometimes mad!"

Year of Decision

only thing he really likes is the baseball games. "I would like to see 'The Goldbergs,'" he continued, "and mysteries." He is convinced that as time goes on people will be much more selective about TV. "It is harder to sit still and look than it is to listen," is his argument. "You can listen and still be doing something else."

How does Benny think Fred Allen would look on TV?

Ah! That's an idea for Benny's first television-series show.

"You could see the bags," Benny says expectantly.

Is Mary afraid of TV?

She's not keen about anything in show business, states her husband with finality. Like radio, Mary will do TV because it will be important to help her husband.

"Hail the Champ!"

and flirtatious blinking by the girls, while the shiny-faced boys blush to their toes in shock that such a thing should happen to them.

Adults on Show

Just as much fun is had by the adults, who appear on the average of once a month to compete with the younger set. One show featured the mothers and sons against the fathers and daughters, and while the mothers stood behind a backdrop of football players, catching greased cantaloupes, the fathers adorned themselves in hula skirts and pushed coconuts with their noses across the floor. Only a proud father, not wishing to be outwitted by some other child's equally proud father, would reveal knobby knees and risk splintering his proboscis in the hope of hearing his youngster chortle, "That's my pop!"

More than $500 worth of prizes each week is given to both contestants in the studio and watchers at home. All the participants are gifted with the sponsor's product, Powerhouse candy bars, and the almost "champs" receive prizes just as nice, and sometimes better, than what they wished for. Every boy or girl appearing on the stint is asked to tell what he would like to have if he becomes "champ." Surprisingly, the wishes are simple, and include bicycles, parakeets, footballs, skates, dance lessons, and meetings with the Hollywood stars.

Of course, there are a few innocents who fondly cherish the thought that if they become "champ," their most far-fetched dreams will come true. Like the wistful little chap with a gleam in his eye who sighed hopefully, "I want a swimming pool if I win!"
