Mrs. Renzo Dare, Fontana

To the person who says she doesn't like the Pallais Sisters on "Western Varieties," all I can say is she doesn't know good entertainment when she hears it and sees it, so let her turn her dial. For me, the Pallais Sisters are the best part of "Western Varieties." If it wasn't for them I wouldn't even tune in the show.

Michael J. Cavanagh, Los Angeles

I wish that people would write their right name or initials when complaining about so-called regulars at quiz shows. I have found in my own experience that the ones who write in are regulars who try to get on every quiz show and do not make the grade. In fact I never knew there were so many jealous people until I started going to the broadcasts. KABC is one of the few studios that tries to do anything about it, and they penalized some very nice people on account of a few who thought they had special rights to be on every program.

Barbara Allen, Los Angeles

We all laugh over the Liberace critics. Even the most caustic critic has to admit that Lincoln's statement about the Lord loving the common people because he made so many of them—is true. Attending the Liberace concert in Pasadena it was interesting to see how people really love him—and he loves to play. He gives the public what they want and is sincerely grateful for his good fortune. He is so big hearted I imagine he would even hand out beans to starving critics. He won't be needing hand-outs for a long time.

Oh yes, couldn't someone tell Gale Storm to stop gasping for breath. I can't watch her anymore—I get out of breath.

RUSS HODGES is the boy who does a minimum of chatting and who allows fight fans to enjoy the Wednesday night CBS-TV Blue Ribbon bouts. (CBS photo.)

ASK THE average man in the street: "What's Wednesday night at seven o'clock mean to you?"

And you'll more than likely get the answer:

"That's the time for the fights on TV."

TV has set up a lot of habits in the average American family. The Wednesday night routine of pulling up the chair to a ringside seat at a Blue Ribbon bout is undoubtedly one of the strongest habits, and certainly affects every member of the family.

That's just about the time that the family has finished eating and is sitting around relaxing. Pop and the elder sons tune automatically to Channel 2 for the fights. Mama and the kids may protest slightly, but all to no avail. They either have to ignore the bloody blows or else sit down and endure the fisticuffs. (Actually, many women have become avid fight fans because of the TV bouts.)

Fourth Anniversary

This week marks the fourth anniconceivably reach the 15 million dollar mark.

Ringside Russ

Capable Russ Hodges has been on hand for the majority of the brawls, with Jack Drees filling in when Russ had other commitments, such as broadcasting the New York Giants baseball games.

Russ has done a commendable job on Wednesday nights, keeping the yak-yak down to a minimum and letting the fans at home enjoy, watch, and criticize the bouts themselves.

The forty-two-year-old is a real vet in the sports announcing world. Originally from Wayton, Tennessee, and reared and educated in Kentucky, he got his first big break announcing Western League baseball and Big Ten football games. Since 1935 he has been the regular announcer for the Chicago Cubs, Chicago Bears, Northwestern University, Washington Senators, Washington Redskins, New York Yankees, and has done coast-to-coast grid games for the Mutual Broadcasting System.

He has handled the New York versary of the Blue Ribbon Bouts. The first one was telecast on May 8, 1950. Including the May 5 bout this week, a fantastic total of 186 complete fights have been offered to the TV sports fans. Sixteen of them have been world championship contests.

For the time alone, Pabst Blue Ribbon pays the CBS-TV network approximately $55,000 for each telecast. That makes the grand total (or perhaps we should say the "million" total) come to approximately $10,230,000 for the four-year period. This figure does not include the extra fees for announcers, technical equipment, and the vast amounts of money spent for promotion, advertising, publicity, etc. The over-all cost then could Giants baseball games since 1949. Other highlights of his announcing career include eighteen different shows on V-J Day, the Army-Navy games of 1940 and 1943, and the Eisenhower parade and Roosevelt funeral in 1945. In private life, Russ is married and has two children. He doesn't like traveling around the country as much as he does and being away from his family, but that's a part of his job.

Russ has one all-important suggestion for TV fights fans: "Never, but never, take your eye away from the screen during the action. You never know when a fighter is going to sneak over a good punch and KO his opponent. You can pick up the beer between rounds!"

All About Marilyn

(Not Monroe)

Pert, blonde Marilyn Hare has a magnetic attraction for show biz and it for her.

↑ KATHY LINN, member of the Glendale Youth Committee, visits Marilyn Hare and David Street. Kathy and her teen-ager friends participate in organized social activities. The committee sees to it that there is no time for idleness or undesirable temptations.

By Mildred Ross

VIVACIOUS Marilyn Hare daintily stepped into Betty White's old time slot on Channel 13.

Actually, the circumstances surrounding the situation are not unusual. Betty is the local girl who's making good on the networks and Marilyn is the young-old timer whose talents have long been established. KCOP was very astute in selecting Marilyn as fem star for their "Hollywood on TV" stanza.

Marilyn has been in show business since she was three and she's been before the TV cameras for the past five years. Obviously no stranger to the videolanes. As a matter of fact, Betty and Marilyn aren't strangers either. They've been friends for many years and before their respective TV commitments encroached upon their time they saw one another socially.

When asked if stepping into someone's TV shoes was embarrassing, Marilyn replied that she and Betty are two entirely different people and that there is room for both of them on the video scene.

Fans

Viewers of "Hollywood on TV" substantiate Marilyn's opinions. Complimentary letters overflow her KCOP mailbox. One viewer wrote Marilyn that she stops her gardening at three in the afternoon so that she can watch Harry Koplan and Rosemary LaPlanche (Harry is Marilyn's co-star on "You're Never Too Old") and then turn to "Hollywood on TV."

Teen-Agers

Marilyn has a very pleasant, direct camera manner. She has incorporated several new features in her afternoon ailer. Teen-agers appear on camera and tell their views about subjects relating to their age group. It can be anything from steady dating to the use of narcotics. The teen-agers speak frankly, affording parents a keener insight to their problems.

Representatives from the Juvenile Section of the Police Department frequently appear on the telecasts and offer constructive suggestions for combatting juvenile delinquency. Marilyn scrutinizes the newspapers for stories of teen-agers who have accomplished some worthwhile deed and invites them to appear on "Hollywood on TV." She claims the stories of do-gooders are usually buried in some obscure section of the newspaper, but if she looks hard and long enough she finds what she wants.

The fashion picture has also become an integral part of Marilyn's show. Editors of fashion magazines, designers and people in allied fields are spotlighted on the program.

Family

Marilyn happily combines her career and family life. She is the mother of two lively youngsters, Stevie, five, and Chris, three. Despite her long and successful career, Marilyn says: "My first concern is my family. I do not spend twenty-four hours a day concentrating on my career. Fortunately, I haven't had to push for my career. Somehow things just seem to come my way without seeking them out."

"I leave my role of career girl behind at the studio. At home, I'm just Mommy. Both my husband, who is in the entertainment industry, and myself spend all our leisure time with our youngsters. As long as my career doesn't interfere with my family, my husband Joe prefers that I work. He laughingly says that he never heard so much small talk from anyone as he did from me during my pregnancies."

Marilyn has grown up in show business and to her it's a wonderful business to be in, but it's strictly that. She leaves the "theoretical" glamour and allure for the novices. She sums up her philosophy on the subject by quoting her famous father, "I am grateful I have the ability to make people happy—it's my driving force."

Pert, blonde Marilyn Hare does have the faculty for making people happy and viewers are pleased that she's added Channel 13 to her other TV activities.

▲ ED GARDNER tries hypnosis on "Finnegan," played by Alan Reed. Being dutifully impressed in the background is Pattee Chapman, otherwise known as "Miss Duffy."

EVERY ONCE in a while I pull myself up short and ask, "What are you doing in this rat race, Gardner? Who wants to be a success on TV?" And, you know something, I've found out that I'll let the others have all the success and knock their brains out getting it. Me—I prefer living."

And so spoke Ed Gardner whose "Duffy's Tavern" is now on TV over KTLA.

"Some years ago I was asked to bring 'Duffy's Tavern' to TV—but the deal was for thirty-nine weeks." Ed grinned. "That seemed like too much work. I've always felt that guys like Jack Benny, who do a show only once a month, have the right idea. Why work yourself into a tizzy? Why get so all-fired knocked out with the idea of being a success?"

"Besides, I'd worked hard for twelve years on radio doing 'Duffy's Tavern' and I wasn't so anxious to get in a sweat again on TV. So I turned down the thirty-nine week deal and took off for a couple of years in Puerto Rico and Spain. I lived the easy life of a country gentleman and loved it—for a while.

"But then something happened to me—the ham in me came out. I got sick of doing nothing. I'm not the type to be a retired guy. So when another offer came through to film the show I decided to return to the United States and get back to work."

Ed paused, laughed in his Brooklynese manner, and said, "Now that I'm back working, I think I should have stayed in Spain and taken it easy."

In Color

The series is being filmed in color, all of which puts an extra burden on the company. The lighting itself is not only uncomfortable but it also takes up more time in actual shooting.

"Shooting in color is hard work," Ed went on. "It's for kids. And I'm no kid. So I beef about this being a chore, but if I weren't making the films I'd be beefing about something else, so I should just take it easy. I'm making thirty-nine episodes for the series but I got it figured out that if I could have made twenty-six instead I could have spent the extra thirteen weeks adopting a fine philosophy of living.

"I'm lucky, though, to be working with people like Hal Roach, Jr., who produces, and Harve Foster, who directs. They take a lot of the burden off me. As a result I don't go home at night hating the world. And I don't have to spend time teaching the business to a lot of guys just out of Princeton.

Radio vs. TV

"Compared to TV, though, radio was a racket. It was like stealing money. We haven't used any of our radio scripts for the TV films, but we have used some of the dialogue. After twelve years on the air we had a lot that could be applied to TV. The move into television was no problem either because we also had a locale and definite characters set."

"I'm only just beginning to be able to stand myself on TV now. At first I was so nervous and tense I couldn't even remember my lines. And I was always trying to smile. I was punching lines like a jerk. Now I'm settling down and taking things easier.

"My family are my severest critics. My wife, Simone, doesn't say too much, but my youngsters, Eddie and Stevie, do. When Eddie saw the show in which we used a horse he told me he liked it better than Jack Benny's programs. This interested me and I asked him why he found it so good. His comment was, 'Jack Benny hasn't a horse on his show.' Later he said he didn't care for another show so much—but added quickly, "The dog was great, though. You can see how I stand at home."

Ed shrugged his shoulders, ordered more chocolate ice cream and said profoundly, "You know, I kind of hoped that after the twenty-six pictures were done people would say I stink—and then I could take life easy. But so far all I hear is that I'm set for more work for quite a while."

Then he asked quietly, "Hey, what have you heard about the show? Do people like it?"

But don't forget—Ed doesn't want to be a success on TV.

Who Wants To Be A Success on TV?

Everybody is trying to hit the Television jackpot, but Ed Gardner of "Duffy's Tavern" isn't getting into any dither. He needs success like a hole in the head.

By Jack Holland

EVEN IN "DUFFY'S TAVERN" you get cheesecake. And who can blame Ed for paying so concentrated attention to the very charming Renee Godfrey?

Mark Scott and Bob Kelley:

Are They Really Feuding?

MUCH HAS BEEN SAID, and much more has been rumored about the feud between Angel announcer Bob Kelley and Star announcer Mark Scott. These are the facts, mam. (Widman photo.)

THERE ARE many angles to this story.

To begin with (and this news is bound to startle the local sports world) there are two baseball teams in the city of Los Angeles: the Hollywood Stars and the Los Angeles Angels. They are rivals in the Pacific Coast League. On the field and at the box office, they have no love for each other.

Baseball, probably more than any other sport in America, is business. Big business. Everything included, it's a billion dollar industry. As with any other business in the free enterprise system of America, it thrives on competition.

Trapped in the middle of this baseball business—like a player picked off first base and caught in a rundown—are the play-by-play announcers.

For the Angels, it's Bob Kelley of KMPC. For the Hollywood team, it's Mark Scott of KFWB.

Although they both have about the same number of years in the announcing racket, Ole Kel has been around L.A. a lot longer. This is Bob's seventh season of calling the balls and strikes for Stewart's stalwarts. Scott is in his third year for the Cobblers.

During the past three years, dozens of stories—and thousands of rumors—have been written and spread about the feud between "Whatta you know about that!" Kelley and "Be a Good Sport" Scott.

How much is fact? How much fiction?

Our Opinion

First—our own personal opinion of both men. It may hurt our circulation, but we have nothing but respect for Scott and Kelley, both as individuals and sportscasters. We are not trying to be panty-waists or back-slappers. It would be so easy to blast one and praise the other. And it would sell a lot more magazines.

We have watched both men work. We have talked to them, as friends, on innumerable occasions. Though we may criticize them occasionally for periodic blunders, on the whole, we find no fault with them.

But how do they feel about each other? That's another story.

Because of the competitive nature of their respective positions, already explained, it was inevitable that a certain amount of friction would occur between the two men. However, when Scott first came from Norfolk, Virginia in 1952 to take over the Hollywood job, he and Kelley both honestly tried to overcome any obstacles.

Although they had very little personal contact during that first season (except when they met and said "hello" in the press room at the Angel-Star games), they each had high regard for each other's ability. In public, and behind-the-back, they praised each other. TV-RADIO LIFE even ran a story at the time refuting any feud between the two men.

Then something happened. How or when it started, no one knows. No one ever will. Even the guilty party probably doesn't remember, or doesn't realize what he did.

Their Opinions

But an unkind word was spoken. And it passed on. It passed on until Kelly and Scott both heard it. And resented it. From then on, it (the feud) became public domain.

Scott and Kelley took cracks at each other on the air—both during their baseball broadcasts and their individual fifteen-minute shows heard nightly. At one time, they almost came to physical blows.

How does the matter stand today?

Says Scott: "I don't mind the barbs taken at me, as long as Hollywood stays out in front. We've finished ahead of the Angels for five years now, and I've been assured that we will do so as long as Hollywood is in the league.

"It's like the old saying, 'Sticks and stones will break my bones, but names will never harm me.' That's my opinion, as long as Hollywood has a winning club.

"One final word. As an announcer, I have always, and do now, have nothing but the deepest respect for Bob's broadcasting abilities."

Says Ole Kel:

"I enjoy a little feud with Mark. Before Mark came to town, I had a tough time stirring up a little controversy with the other announcers. I think it's good business.

"As far as my association with the Angels is concerned, I think the record speaks for itself. It's recognized that one of the primary objectives of a play-by-play announcer is to maintain interest in the team. The Angels made $90,000 last year. Hollywood lost money with a champion."

Bob Kelley and Mark Scott are not enemies. They are not bosom buddies, either. Let's say they just tolerate each other.

Around TV Row

Gale Storm's 11-year-old son Phillip makes his TV debut in an upcoming "My Little Margie" film. Phillip "beats up" his mother, who plays the part of a 14-year-old Dutch girl. KNBH's Mary McAdoo moves from a daytime strip to a Sunday airer. . . Approximately 4000 phone calls were received by KNBH last week berating the station for dropping the McCarthy-Army live telecasts. Covering the hearings for two days cost the net $125,000 and keeping those cameras in focus for the duration of the hearings would have been prohibitive, so the net logically bowed out. Incidentally phone calls to KNBH thanking the station for the two days' coverage were so scarce that they tallied zero. M.R.

Proud new possession on the desk of TV-Radio Life managing editor, Evelyn Bigsby is a "Lulu," awarded her at Los Angeles Advertising Women's Achievement Awards.

The "Lulu" represents second place in Commercial Film category and was given for a five-minute film on TV-Radio Life. This prize-winning film, shot from Editor Evelyn's script by Open Room Productions, was made primarily to explain Southern California marketing, markets, and the magazine at the market checkstands—TV-Radio Life. The lovely "Lu" is a seven-inch figure of gold, standing on an ebony base appropriately engraved.

Other TV winners were Betty King of Brooks Advertising Agency, Los Angeles, for TV Commercial, and Fran Harris of Harris-Tuchman of Los Angeles, whose beautiful first-prize commercial color film for IceCapades was shown at the luncheon.

Joan Caulfield of CBS-TV's "My Favorite Husband" presided charmingly as "Lulu" giver. One of the few men attending the gathering was overheard to remark something to the effect that Miss Caulfield was quite a lulu herself.

13, at 8:30 p.m. The ultimate winner will get a full week's engagement on the Chef's daytime TV show.

Hawthorne Contest

Only two weeks remain before the big "Decorate Hawthorne" contest to be staged by TV-RADIO LIFE and Music City, world's largest self service music store at Sunset and Vine, in Hollywood.

The issue of May 21 of this magazine will contain a special picture of KTLA comedian Hawthorne. For the best art work done on this picture—a mustache, a beard or any other adornment—a beautiful new high fidelity Magnavox phonograph will be awarded.

The winning entry and fifteen runner-up entries will be displayed in the windows of Music City shortly after the close of the contest.

Hawthorne will present the prize to the winner on his show, seen nightly on KTLA.

Palladium Opening

The sensational Sauter-Finegan orchestra is getting ready to move into the Hollywood Palladium (on Sunset Boulevard) for two weeks starting

May 14. Many TV-radio personalities are expected to be on hand for the grand opening.

Ed Sauter and Bill Finegan, who were behind the distinctive music of Benny Goodman, Tommy Dorsey and the late Glenn Miller, have probably done more to establish and shape modern band music than any other musical personalities on the current scene.

Liberace On Tour

Liberace doesn't live here anymore—at least for the next four weeks. The famed pianist is now on a thirty-day concert tour through the United States and Canada.

Liberace

Liberace's troupe, which left last week aboard the Union Pacific's City of Los Angeles, occupies a full car on the streamliner. Accompanying Liberace are his brother, George, his mother, Mrs. Frances Liberace and key members of the orchestra. They took eighty pieces of luggage, a rehearsal piano, and, of course, the ever-present candelabrum.

Off Lens (Personalities)

Point With Pride

... to Ed Begley's fine portrayal of a railroad engineer in "Big Boy" (Robert Montgomery Presents). Film inserts through the courtesy of the Union Pacific Railroad enhanced this story tremendously. Viewers gained an insight to the ways and thinking of railroad people, who are as proud a clan as can be found anywhere. The pulse of engineer, Joe Grant, and the throb of his locomotive beat as one.

View With Alarm

... The video-less atmosphere of Bing Crosby's second telecast of the season left much to be desired. Mr. C. might just as well have done this show on radio because there was no production whatsoever given to any of his vocalizings. Viewers expect something more on a television program than watching a half-hour performance in front of a bare curtain. Crosby's trait of casualness gave way to indifference on this telefilm.

Mr. C. shied away from television for several seasons while looking for the right format. We do not believe that last week's show was worthy of his talents, and was not the right format.

Occulist Delight

KTLA's Haw . . . Haw . . . Hawthorne, man of the magnified lenses and rims, insists that all that appears on his show must wear bifocals, whether it be duck, fish, dog, tiger or man!

Ear, Eye Inspire

Mrs. Raymond E. Whyborn, Upland

Your very fine magazine is a weekly must in our household and has been for a long time.

My main purpose for writing this letter is to put in an extra good word for what my husband and I consider to be the finest program on television: "I Led Three Lives." This and "Dragnet" are the two shows we won't miss for anything. Besides being a powerful expose on Communist activities, it is also a fine picture of the magnificent work done by our FBI. There are too many of us, I fear, who take this fine organization for granted. The men who enter this work, as depicted on "I Led Three Lives," give up the right to lead a life of their own. How many people who sell them short would be willing to do this?

Barbara Girard, Los Angeles

Why was our favorite singer taken of the Tex Williams Show? Can it be that Terrea Lee was to much competition for the great Tex? We think this is rightfully so. Why do sponsors continue to spend great sums of money on inferior talent just because they think they have box office appeal? For my money I buy All because Terrea sells it and not because of Tex Williams.

Terrea Lee now has her own fifteen-minut program on KCOP, Channel 13, daily at 2:45 p.m.

Ear, Eye Inspire

Louise Spencer, Los Angeles
Doye O'Dell of "Western Varieties," and Joan Davis of "I Married Joan" are my favorite TV stars. Their shows are so fresh with humor and full of life. Never a dull moment. Their shows give out with good clean fun. It makes you feel you're right in there with them. I think Joan and Doye have the nicest smiles on TV. It warms your heart to watch them.
The square dances on "Western Varieties" are sure keen and snappy. And oh, those costumes. Eddy Clefro should be played up more on that show. To me he is the Clark Gable of western music.

Albe Giannetti, Los Angeles
I would like to take this opportunity to thank Leighton Noble for giving Tom Hatten a chance to appear on his program "Bandstand Revue" recently.
I also feel that the general public has not yet had a chance to realize his terrific entertainment talent as well as his true greatness as you have. So I do hope some people will recognize his marvelous voice as well as his sincere personality. A wonderful person as well.
So I know if Leighton Noble will give Tom Hatten a chance on having him on his program as a regular male vocalist that Tom will continue giving us top rate entertainment.

Dick Ryan, San Diego
To begin with I want to commend you for the finest publication of its kind in the West. I enjoy every copy immensely.

Secondly, I am eager for you to print an article about the most charming and entertaining children's (and adult's) program on television. I, of course, refer to "Webster Webfoot" and Jimmy Weldon on KCOP, Channel 13.
We have done several feature stories on "Uncle" Jimmy and "Webster" and are planning another one which will come out real soon.

If your TV picture tube would burn out it would cost you plenty of money to install another one. A few months ago, I had to have that big tube replaced in my set. I wish I had known beforehand about Television Industries. For only $10 a year, this company will guarantee your present TV picture tube, if it is working now. It makes no difference how old your tube might be, and any size up to and including 21 inches. You can have it guaranteed for one full year for $10 if it is working now. Just phone HO. 2-3341 now, to make an appointment for a technician to visit your home, to test your picture tube .

You can't spend more than $10 for a year's peace of mind . . . There is no extra charge for installation. The man who comes to your home to inspect your picture tube and writes the warranty makes no charge for the call. It costs nothing if he has to return to install a replacement tube, if the one he guaranteed, fails.

The company also has a complete Parts Warranty, protecting picture tube and all other parts in

Ear Eye Inspire

Al Owens, Los Angeles

One of the finest things on television, in our opinion, is "The Jack Owens Show," on channel Seven at six-fifteen every evening. It is always friendly, entertaining, and informative, completely free from smart talk and persiflage. Jack's sense of humor is poignant but never critical, proving that we can laugh with one another instead of at one another and derive as much fun. There is a wholesomeness about the entire program that makes it acceptable in every home. We like especially the Tuesday evening feature, "The Family Panel," and learn from it that the more we are like ourselves, the more we are like other folks. The musical portion of the show is well balanced, including old songs and new ones, too. Each day Jack and his daughter, Mary Ann, sing a duet bringing the program to a distinctive finish.

PICK of the PIX

by Aubrey Dahl

There is nothing to be gained by reading my opening paragraph this week, because I'm not going to say anything in it. However, I have to use a certain number of words in the space or someone is liable to usurp it for an ad or something, and so now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the hail hail the gang's all here and I think that about fills it.

"Snowbound." (5) May 8, 3:00. Toward the end of the war, a group of Nazis were making a quick getaway through a mountain fastness (that figures) with a load of gold. They were captured, the gold was buried and no one knew where. A few years later, an assorted crew of gold diggers arrives on the spot and then begins the intrigue, betrayal and lust that highlight this British movie. Robert Newton is a British intelligence agent, Stanley Holloway, his humorous sidekick, Dennis Price, a picture producer, and Herbert Lom, an unreformed fascist, and all of them go to great lengths to recover the loot. The ending is intended as a stroke of cruel irony, but the whole thing seemed a bit heavy handed to me, don't you know.

"Oliver Twist." (4) May 9, 11:20. This is the American version of the Dickens classic, made about twenty years ago and bearing little resemblance to the recent British conception, which caused so much consternation because of its seemingly anti-Semitic characterization of Fagin, the master crook who sends his boys out to steal. In the movie shown here Irving Pichel portrays Fagin as merely a pretty bad fellow and I think that's all for the better. Dickie Moore, a child star of the time, plays the title role.

"Bride of the Gorilla." (13) May 14. This picture stars Barbara Peyton and they make a lovely couple.

"Master of Bankdom." (7) May 12, 2:00. Here is the story of a small woolen mill, the family that owns it and the growth of both in the first half of the twentieth century. There is the usual struggle for control between the two sons of the founder, a strike by the workmen, marriages and children, and final victory for someone, I forget just whom. With Dennis Price and Jimmy Hanley.

"Tales of Robin Hood." (5) May 8, 1:00. This picture features Robert Clarke and has to do with Sherwood Forest, I believe.

"Fear in the Night." (4) May 14, 11:15. "Scream in the Dark." (11) May 14, 8:00. Slap in the Face?

YOU FIGURE OUT THIS ONE! According to the April ARB-Teleque ratings, four local outlets carried President Eisenhower's talk on Monday, April 5. They pulled as follows:

KNXT—7.7
KNBH—3.4
KTLA—2.8
KABC—0.9

Total 14.8 at 5:30 in the afternoon.

At the same time, "Sheriff John" pulled a 12.6.

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH was repeated that same night at 8:30. KNXT pulled a 16.9; KNBH, a 10.5 for a total of 27.4. "Superman" commanded a 24.3.

THIS REPORTER THINKS JACK WEBB is one of the greatest guys in the business, but I was sorry to see him knuckle down and apologize to the Texas motion picture operators for his recent reference on "Dragnet" to a movie as being "a lousy show." Jack laid the blame on his poor editing. I am sure the motion picture people themselves would be the last ostriches in the world to bury their heads in the sand while avowing that there's no such thing as a movie which is "lousy."

CONGRATULATIONS TO MARY McADOO, who is becoming a definite part of NBC-TV's "Home" show. As "Home's" Western editor, she'll do regular inserts from Hollywood and plans to serve up a new Sunday half-hour deal in addition. Liberace was packing (and so was "Mom") when I dropped out last week to Lee's Royal Oaks home for a look-see just before the pianist left for a whopping tour, junket will include an appearance at Madison Square Garden (and I can't multiply high enough to figure out his "take" from this concert). Liberace told me that his parlor car would be set up with a practice piano so that he can keep his fingers nimble; but I was quite surprised when he mentioned that he loved to work in the garden. "What about your hands?" I asked. Simple. He wears gloves. He showed me some lovely plates in his dining room and said he had carefully lugged them all the way back from Mexico only to discover they were made right here, about three miles from his place!

MADE A QUICKIE STOP AT JOAN CAULFIELD'S Tower Road place the other afternoon and she proudly displayed an anniversary gift from husband Frank Ross. It's an Orry-Kelly painting. Joan and her spouse leave soon on a European jaunt, then plan to build a New Orleans-type home in Beverly Hills. . . . With Joan Crawford, Claudette Colbert and Ronald Reagan TV-bound, just watch all the laggards and scaredy-cats jump into the video act this Fall—that's provided they still don't have contracts with those nasty little lines of fine print prohibiting movie stars from doing TV. Even "Lassie" is set to videbut!

MEL CURTIS, WHO IS SUING FOR $35,000 because he thinks KTLA's "Crash the Party" is too much like his "Private aPrty," claims distinction of having been the youngest sea captain in the Merchant Marine. . . . Hear tell that Robert Young's TV pilot of "Father Knows Best" is excellent. . . . When Ed Sullivan marks his big "Toast" anniversary June 20, he'll have Julius La Rosa and Rise Stevens as guests. . . . New Yorker Helen Gerald, former U.S.C. co-ed who scored in radio and at college simultaneously, has been visiting her parents here. But she stayed in TV trim by playing leads in two telefilms for Fall release—"Gangbusters" and "Adventures of the Falcon." Since Helen's husband has been associated for years at NBC as Toscanini's music librarian, I asked her how "the maestro" felt about relinquishing his baton (as you recall, Toscanini conducted his last symphony broadcast without any announcement, then walked off the stage and refused to come back for any bows). According to Helen, "the maestro" seems to feel better now that he has made his big decision and is busy allocating his huge music library. His protegee, Guido Cantelli, is inheriting much of it. It is expected that Toscanini will soon repair to his island in Italy, where he has a gorgeous home. He may conduct now and then at La Scala.

MORE THAN TEN YEARS AGO, Andy and Virginia Mansfield, who then had an early morning show on KMPC, were mystified and delighted when a secret admirer started sending Virginia a succession of marvelous gifts. She received an alligator bag, tickets to premieres with supper afterward at swank restaurants, flowers, perfume, and candy. All were delivered by a liveried chauffeur, who finally came bearing a little black Scottie on a white satin pillow. Andy and Virginia tried to track down their anonymous admirer and had some luck tracing the limousine delivering the gifts, but it wasn't until the other night on Bill Ballance's KNX show that they had their firm suspicions confirmed. Bill, interviewing a famous director, mentioned that the director had a reputation for practical jokes. The director then explained that his weren't the pull-the-chair-out-from-under-you type of jokes, but ones with heart. He proceeded, without mentioning names, to tell how he had showered a certain radio couple with luxuries some years ago.

AND THAT'S HOW ANDY AND VIRGINIA, who were listening to the interview, know now that their generous and mysterious friend was—Alfred Hitchcock.

RECORD Notes to You

By ANDY MANSFIELD

Heading the list of this week's album releases is Epic's winner of the French Grand Prix du Disque for 1953, "Pictures At An Exhibition," "The Moldau," and Dvorak's "Rhapsody No. 3 in A Flat Major," with Antal Dorati conducting the Amsterdam and The Hague Philharmonic Orchestras. Heard in this outstanding high fidelity interpretation which places the listener in the focal center of orchestral activity, the result is truly the masterpiece of fine recording technique which the French award symbolizes.

In lighter vein, MGM's "Let's Fall in Love" features David Rose and his Orchestra playing a round dozen all-time hits by Harold Arlen, one of America's prolific writers of film and stage successes. "Stormy Weather," "Blues In The Night," "That Old Black Magic," and "Over The Rainbow" are just a sample of this very listenable album in the David Rose manner.

For the nostalgist, RCA-Victor has just re-issued an album of concert jazz by Jack Hylton's Orchestra. Recorded in Europe in the early thirties, "Just A Gigolo," "Yours Is My Heart Alone," "Boleró," "The Alpine Milkman," "The King's Horses," "My Sunshine Is You" and "Good Night, Sweet-Heart" represent this English bandman's greatest record hits, pressings of which have not been available for years.

Benny Goodman small combos are Capitol's latest addition to their Classics In Jazz Series, with selections by his Trio, Quintet, Sextet and Septet. Recorded in 1947, they feature jazzmen of the calibre of Stasy, Rowles, Norvo, Romersa, Felice and Hendrickson at their best.

Joni James (MGM) sings eight of her "Award Winning Songs"—record hits that have been milestones in the career of this popular songstress, starting from her million-copy seller, "Why Don't You Believe Me."

Fee Wee Hunt (Capitol) and his five colleagues have a collection of dance tunes called "Swingin' Around" that'll have you gently swaying with their easy, loose-limbed beat. No fancy arrangements, but these eight standards more than prove the adage that the relaxed way is really a very skillful one; "Oh!" and "12th St." have proved that fact.

HOLLAND'S TUNNEL

DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

"Cavalcade of Books" is certainly a most instructive and entertaining program and deserving of the awards given it, but we'd like to pose one question: does it fairly represent the best of the new books? Since the publishers themselves foot the bill and since authors who appear allegedly do so only when their publishers have sent in the necessary money for their appearance, isn't it conceivable that even a bad book could get a good notice on the show? The set-up would indicate that some deserving books are not given proper attention on the show simply because the companies publishing them don't pay the fee. Isn't there some way for "Cavalcade" to give constructive reviews of new books—and that means to render praise where praise is due and blasts where blasts are due? The answer will probably be: "Yes, this can be done when we get a sponsor who has nothing to do with the publishing business." Oh, well, it's at least nice to know that TV can help sell books—especially when it's done so much to curtail the reading habits of the public.

What's happening to radio in the afternoon? About all you get are disc jockeys chattering and playing records. This is fine on occasions but with almost every station following the same pattern, you have to pity the poor people who don't go for popular music and who would like something different.

Hear tell that Spike Jones is going off TV. This is too bad because his show was beginning to catch on. Spike has been doing some good programs and has brought a fresh note to TV, but apparently the competition on Saturday night was too hard for him to buck. His isn't the first show to be pulled off because the competing show was too popular. Let's hope that Spike can try again—with a different time—because we have a hunch he'd become a real hit before long.

"I Led Three Lives," one of the best of the TV programs, has taken a slight beating since its transfer to Thursday night. Now, with its moving into KTTV's Saturday night line-up, it should pick up rating. It's one show that deserves a wide audience, for not many programs are doing a constructive job and being entertaining at the same time. For our money, Richard Carlson alone makes it worth watching.

Every once in a while a movie studio does an exploitation job that TV stations should emulate. Recently, Paramount took some members of the press, including TV reporters, to Apple Valley for a week-end to preview Martin and Lewis' "Living It Up." Dean and Jerry entertained the press and members of the George Air Base, Janet Leigh, who co-stars, also put on a show, the gang was feted with a steak fry, swimming and all the other trimmings. All in all, it was a great affair—and for the best of the Martin and Lewis pictures. Let's hope the boys' next Comedy Hour show is as good. TV should start selling its product in a similar way.

While on the movies-TV kick, Julie Bishop and Phil Harris did fine jobs in Warner's "High and the Mighty." Phil was especially outstanding. This, incidentally, is a great picture.

For those who are panting for news about color TV, here's an interesting item. Zenith has developed a practical, single-gun color tube that will, according to Commander E. F. McDonald, Jr., in a recent Chicago speech, make all color TV receivers now on the market obsolete. McDonald claims that the industry has not yet developed a suitable color tube and that every manufacturer knows this. "That's no secret," he says, "but it seems to be a secret that has been kept from the public." McDonald further stated that only one company was urging the immediate introduction of color TV with the present reportedly inadequate three-gun tube—and that company is RCA. As he stated, "It is my considered opinion that RCA would not now be thumping the tub for immediate introduction of color television with the three-gun tube were it not for the fact that the patent licenses under which RCA has collected royalties from other manufacturers in the industry are about to expire. Then he added with a blast, "We do not intend to use the American people as guinea pigs in order to help the Radio Corporation of America sign up its patent pool licenses for another term." Sounds like a good fight coming up.

Radio in Review

For Love o' Mike (General Comment)

Radio Ramblings

Jeanne Gray is back on the radiolanes on KFOX. . . . Richard English, producer-director of the former "Last Man Out" series, says he has been absolutely swamped with mail since the show's abrupt cancellation.

Dorothy Lamour tapes five radio shows for Bob Hope. . . . Freeman Gosden is on a dual-purpose visit to England. BBC officials are considering purchase of "Amos 'n' Andy" radio broadcasts and also the telefilm series.

"No School Today," with Big Jon (Arthur) and Sparky, returns to KABC on May 15. This award-winning program is noted for its originality and has a wide coast-to-coast audience. . . . Maggie Truman is considering WINS's offer for a gab show when her NBC contract expires next week. . . . Roy and Dale Evans are back after touring the British Isles. They played to SRO crowds during their fifty-six performances. Trigger was particularly popular in Scotland, since he did an equine version of the Highland Fling wearing a plaid kilt.

Fem newscaster Ruth Ashton institutes a "Woman of the Week" feature on her KNX ailer. . . . May 12 is the date Art Linkletter announces the winner of his sponsor's $25,000 contest. . . . "Queen For A Day" has pegged May 21 as "College Queen of America Day." . . . Sir Ralph Richardson hosts and stars in NBC's new series, "Theatre Royal."

A group of show biz personalities are honoring Elmer Davis at a dinner in New York on May 10. . . . A show-warming is on the agenda for KNX's remodelled record library. Musical bigwigs in the industry will be on hand as well as KNX's disc jockeys, Ralph Story, Bill Ballance, Mel Baldwin and others. . . . Here's one d.j. who believes in getting an early start. He's KFWB's Frank Bull, who has already set his annual jazz concert for next October at the Shrine Auditorium. Currently, Frank is on a two-week tour through the U.S. and Cuba in search of new talent for his jazz concert.

Lanky Carl Bailey, KBIG's Mr. Big, could hardly wait to return to Catalina Island because he felt too cramped at his makeshift announcer booth at the Sportsmen's Show. Carl also felt that he should return to his Island and help UCLA's Professor Meighan, head of an archeological expedition, currently studying remains of the early Indians of Catalina Island. Carl claims they were probably ancestors of his because they were seven feet tall. Carl measures a mere 6 feet 10 inches.

Candy Mendoza

Candy Mendoza, popular disc jockey on KPMO, Pomona, is now celebrating his fifth year as the host on the Five O'clock Fiesta, heard Monday through Saturday at 5 p.m. over the Pomona outlet.

A public school teacher in private life, he was recently awarded a trophy for being the "outstanding Latin American radio disc jockey of 1953." The award was presented by the San Gabriel Valley Ballroom Association.

For Latin American music for all ages and types, give Candy a listen some afternoon on KPMO, 1600 on your radio dial.

Here are the answers that prove Reed Browning is a wise choice to emcee . . .

"BEAT THE RECORD"

By Rosemary Hodgkiss

Q The who, of course, is Reed Browning, but how about the when and where?

A I was born on March 22, 1916 in Decatur, Illinois . . . and thanks for not asking what and why.

Q What's your most unusual experience?

A The time I was cashiered out of the high school band. When I decided to go out for football . . . the bandleader stripped me of my gold braid, plumed hat and corduroy sneakers. I guess he figured that if you're pre-occupied with the ball you can't be on it, musically anyway.

Q I understand that you got your first job as an announcer in Honolulu . . . what's the correct definition of aloha?

A It means I'm glad you're here, I love you, I'm glad you're going and just one more kiss before my father comes down and hits you over the head with a bowl of poi.

Q Anything else to add?

A Sure! "Beat the Record" is on earlier now— it's heard from 11:05 to 11:30 in the morning, Monday through Friday, on KABC . . . 790 on your dial. Join me then!

Moral: If you want to be a successful emcee . . . have a good sense of humor, never forget to plug your own show and land a job with an exciting program like "Beat the Record".

MUSIC YOU LIKE.

Lyle's Corner

By Lyle "Neutral" Bond

I was quite surprised at one reaction caused by my previous column. From letters, phone calls and in person comments, it seems my remarks of three weeks ago, were misconstrued by many TV RADIO LIFE readers. I am NOT unhappy about my position as a baseball fence straddler. Quite the contrary! I like it!

And why not? I get to see all the home games of the Angels and the Stars. I have the opportunity to associate with two groups of the finest men in baseball; the one representing Los Angeles—the other representing Hollywood. Presidents Don Stewart and Bob Cobb, Managers Bill Sweeney and Bobby Bragan, Jackie Warner and Gordon Maltzberger, Howard Lorenz, Bob Clements, George Goodale, Bill Rivera, Paul Jesche, Bill Heyman, Gordon Gerster, Les Land, Fred Hall, Britt Sims, the players—the list is seemingly endless.

Lyle Bond

I work (?) with two of my best friends, two of the nation's top sportscasters, Bill Brundige and Tom Harmon on the telecasts—and I have the privilege of coming into the homes of both Angel and Star fans via TV. I have the pleasure of meeting personally many of you, adults and youngsters, at Gilmore and Wrigley Fields.

These are reasons enough for me to be very happy with my position in the neutral corner.*

BITS ON BATS

A bat must be round, and entirely of hard solid wood in one piece. Some bats are made of hickory, but ash and hackberry are preferred. Ash is first choice because of superior resiliency or "drive." Northeastern United States is the source of the best white ash. . . . Most suitable trees are picked out by special bat timber experts.

After the trees are felled, they are cut into logs about bat length and "hauled away to the mill." There they are sawed into billets. The billets are then sent to the bat factory. . . . In the bat factory yards, the billets are inspected, graded and stacked to dry or "season" for 10 to 18 months. . . . Several million billets are always in this drying process.

At the factory, properly seasoned billets are first turned into an approximate shape of a bat, then weighed and graded to determine which models they will best make. On the lathe they are cut into shape. The turner weighs, measures and sands them. Finally the bat is stamped and branded. . . . A bat may be as heavy as the user wishes, so long as it's not over 2¾ inches in diameter at its thickest part, not more than 42 inches in length.

Each player (pitchers excluded for the most part) uses up about a dozen of 'em per season (at about $3.00 each). The clubs buy the clubs. . . . They are made to hit baseballs—not husbands.

THE INSIDE OF THE HORSEHIDE

. . . Over one thousand feet of yarn or string are wound around the cork rubber "core" of the baseball. . . . Its cover (it is horsehide) is .050-.055 of an inch thick. . . . The ball must weigh not less than 5 nor more than 5½ ounces. . . . It measures 9-9¼ inches in circumference. . . . About 12,000 of them at $3.00 each, are used by the Angeles and the Stars each season, costing each club in the neighborhood of $18,000.00 (eighteen thousand dollars). . . . As a result of momentary contact with a bat, they also cause great woe to pitchers (sometimes).

A LYLAPALOOZAN

Why are Al Evans and Bobby Bragan like the measles? They're catching!

(Editor's Note: You can 'catch' Lyle, too, this week and every week on the KHJ-TV, Channel 9, baseball telecasts.)

Be back in three weeks—I think.

*After thought—I get paid, too . . .
AFTERTHOUGHT?!?!

Hermann Starts New Show

"Diamond Jubilee," an ad-lib baseball television show starring two of the Pacific Coast League's top managers, Bill Sweeney of the Los Angeles Angels and Bobby Bragan of the Hollywood Stars, with Sportscaster Cleve Hermann, starts Monday, May 10, on KNBH from 7 to 7:30 p.m.

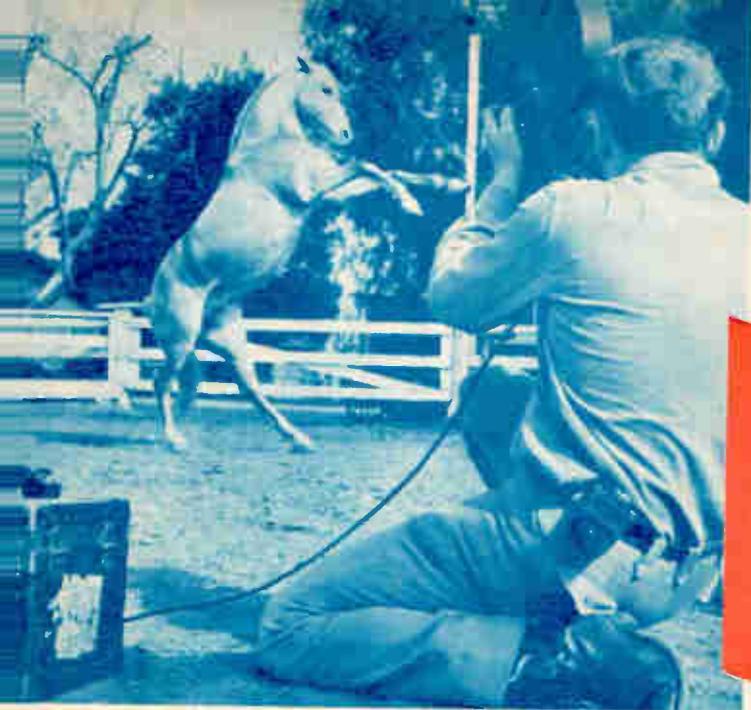

Sweeney and Bragan will alternate their appearances on the once a week, half hour program depending on the schedules of their respective teams. Hermann, KNBH director of sports, will appear regularly on the show.

The weekly telecast will carry such feature spots as "Tell It To Sweeney," in which the Angels' manager is put on the spot and asked to explain his current strategy, particularly as refers to maneuvers that failed; "Getting the Best of Bragan," which finds the Stars' catcher-manager undergoing the same treatment as Sweeney; "The Fan of the Week," featuring a well known personality of show business or other professions discussing baseball with experts.

"Diamond Jubilee," a Black Patch Production, owned and operated by Herman, will be co-produced by Hermann, Jack Tierney and Jerry Ross.

TV's Horses Go to School

THE ADVENT of television on the American scene has given birth to many subsidiary businesses in the past few years; one of the most unusual of which is an acting school for horses used in Westerns and other TV filmed series.

The Cisco Kid, for example; or Leo Carillo, or Bill (Kit Carson) Williams are among TV stars whose constant companions are their horses. The business of providing such trained horses for television has become a highly profitable business for an ex-ropo rider who has found an unusual bonanza and career for himself.

He is Ralph McCutcheon, whose large ranch on Parthenia St., in Van Nuys, is a college for equine actors. Just about all of the better known Western stars use McCutcheon's horses and facilities.

Ralph is helped in his work by his pretty wife, Mary, who will be remembered by many as one of Hollywood's child stars of years ago—Mary Kornman, the original golden-haired youngster of Our Gang comedies. There are many times when a woman's voice and gentle hand is needed to help coax a horse to perform. That is Mary's job.

If the actress in a TV film, for example, is wearing a skirt, Mary must spend several hours with the particular horse the actress will ride, to get the animal used to the feel of a skirt on his sides.

If the part calls for the actress to ride side saddle, Mary's job is to get the horse used to that type of rider. And, most important, the steed must become accustomed to a woman's voice giving commands, so Mary "untrains" the equine from a man's voice to a woman's.

One of the big problems the Mc-

Here's a brand new gimmick—a college for horses used on TV. And most of the steeds finish the course with A's.

Cutcheons have in providing trained horses for television series is the necessity of also providing, not one double but two, three or even four doubles for a horse that is to be featured in a film.

The reason for this is that a horse easily becomes highly excited and nervous. When the story calls for a docile, placid animal, it frequently becomes necessary to switch to a double, or several doubles, to forestall any delay in the picture shooting schedule.

How to find horses that look exactly alike is a major headache, McCutcheon explained. He has scoured all over the country looking for doubles and he often has to make a fast plane trip to Montana or Florida to check on a report that he can pick up a horse that is a carbon copy of a well-known TV horse.

McCutcheon is one of the few animal coaches in the world who can teach by hand or voice and without the use of force. He has one horse, Gypsy, who does more than a dozen different tricks on voice command.

This feat is considered exceptional, the usual method being to use hidden wires or other synthetic persuaders.

"Gypsy" performs with McCutcheon standing several feet away. The horse stand on his hind legs; kneels, lies down, picks up objects with his teeth, opens his mouth and yawns, pushes a person with his nose, turns left or right, backs up and even walks lame.

There are 55 horses at the McCutcheon ranch, all of whom are professional actors working in television and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McCutcheon sit home at night and watch their "students" perform on various programs.

McCutcheon recently was made the feature of "You Asked For It" on the ABC network.

The Mother

▲ THE FAMILY GATHERS FOR A VISIT with Loretta's very busy and talented mother. It's quite an occasion when a mother is surrounded by all of her lovely daughters and their husbands. Loretta has good reason to be proud of this gracious lady.

ONE OF THE nicest blessings in my life is the fact that I like my mother. Now, wait a minute, we all love our mothers but I'm not sure that all mothers are liked—or are even likeable. It'll be a long time before I can be sure that, as an individual, apart from the inescapable relationship, my children will like me. I hope and pray that they will, not only because it would enrich my feeling of accomplishment in my lifetime, but because I know how much pleasure I have gotten from the liking I have for Mamma and the friendship we enjoy.

Liking is selective, in my book, and being liked within the family circle is more to be cherished than the proverbial rubies.

Now, why do I like Mamma? I've never tried to put it in words before so I'm crystallizing that liking right now—and I have a suspicion I'm actually putting into words some good advice to myself! And to some other mothers, too, maybe?

Here goes, I like my mother for various specific reasons and it is each of them and the aggregate of them, not the order in which they are listed, which is important.

Mamma is a lady, an inspiring example of self-discipline in her contacts with others. Now that I've the maturity to appreciate her refinement to its fullest, I realize how much of that self-discipline was exercised in her contact with us girls! Her courtesy and manners were, within the family, exactly the same as when she was with outsiders.

All of us who are mothers are, in almost any 24 hour span, exposed to the temptations of impatience, disappointment, frustration, fear, regret, misunderstanding, during the years when our babies become children and then teeter on the threshold of adulthood; the years when their own individuality is taking them forward and out of being just cuddly little projections of ourselves. With four growing daughters, of widely differing, non-static temperaments, Mamma held her temper and maintained her control of us without ever beating us over the head with her authority. So, I like her because I consider her a brilliant executive.

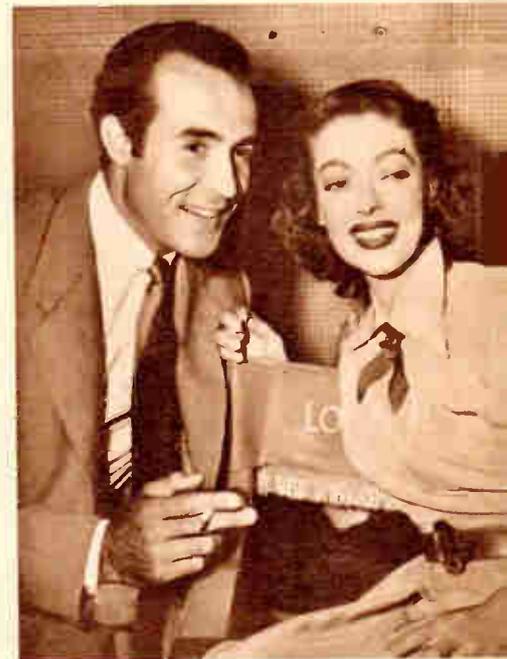

Mamma is objective. Just try to involve this erstwhile Kentucky belle in any personal, emotion-packed controversy. Just try. She is a one for minding her own business, and, none of us could ever go running to Mamma with any idea that she'd take "our side" against the others.

In our expanded family circle—now embracing four sons-in-law, one daughter-in-law, and fifteen grandchildren of assorted ages, Mamma's objectivity is very pleasant, indeed. (This is the understatement of this, or any other week.) So, I like her because I know her to be an accomplished diplomat.

Mamma is an independent wom-

Behind My Success

Loretta Young, star of NBC's "Loretta Young Show," gives a few of the many reasons why she thinks her mother is a great woman. And in so doing offers a graphic picture of the real meaning of motherhood.

Loretta Young

an. She has, for many years, been an interior decorator, of recognized quality. While we girls were growing up she saw to all the necessities of our well-being. Then she converted, by serious formal study, her flair for homemaking into a profession. She asked for no help from any of us kids. She looked at us as though we were very small babies who couldn't be expected to know any better when we descended upon her with eager offers of helpfulness. She was charmingly appreciative of our courtesy and consideration—but thank you, there was no necessity for us to concern ourselves with her concerns. We were a little dashed, as I remember—apparently none of us inherited Mamma's capacity for self-containment. "Interiors by Gladys Royal Belzer" is synonymous with quality, taste, and enduring comfort and beauty. So, I like my mother because she is a self-made success.

Mamma is religious. She practices her religion in her own daily life with no more dramatics about it, and no more discussion about it, than goes into her practice of breathing. The power of prayer is, in her heart and mind, the vitalizing power of human life. She brings that power into her experience as calmly as she opens her eyes each morning and she'd no more think of excluding attendance of Mass from her living habits than she would abandon the custom of eating. So, I like my mother because she practices her religion and doesn't talk about it.

Mamma is feminine. She's soft of voice, gentle in manner, blushes whenever even slightly embarrassed, and still has her southern accent. She treats all women as ladies, or doesn't treat with them at all, and her attitude toward men is that they are all tall, dark and handsome and gallant—but unfortunately, not all "well-born." As a lady, she is uncritical but disinterested.

She was exquisitely beautiful as a girl. She is a woman of rare beauty today. Her good bones can't be discounted, of course, but her good living and thinking, and all the goodness she's practiced seems to have wrapped her in a protection against the kind of cruel marking the years inflict on most people—and most particularly on the very beautiful-when-young. So, I like my mother because she is a beautiful woman but not a vain woman. And I like her because she did not sacrifice her femininity to succeed as a business woman

There are other reasons galore why I like this woman who is my mother, but these I've told you are enough to prove that I should like her—and I'm going to remember all these "whys," and check my own deportment as a mother against them. As I said in the beginning, I get so much fun out of liking Mamma as well as loving her, that I'd like to insure that fun for my own small fry some day, if I can—if I am able.

I know what the goal is. I've got the example.

Thanks, Mamma, for so many things. And, thank You, God,—for Mamma.

➔ WITH HER HAIR IN CURLERS, Loretta takes time off on the set to go over the script of a television play.

May 7, 1954

➔ THE SUCCESS OF "The Loretta Young" show is largely due to the fine way in which she and her producer-husband, Tom Lewis, work together.

PRODUCER Paul F. Heard was lunching one day in New York with his long-time friend, Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, minister of the Marble Collegiate Church on Fifth Avenue.

The conversation naturally got around to the wonderful work Dr. Peale has been doing in his church towards helping many people find spiritual happiness and peace of mind through a practical application of the teachings in the Bible. In addition to his ministerial duties, Dr. Peale has also written two books in particular which have been best sellers and have aided countless thousands to find an answer to their pressing problems—"Guide to Confident Living" and "The Power of Positive Thinking."

Paul Heard finally conceived the idea of doing a TV series with Dr. and Mrs. Peale in which Dr. Peale's teachings could serve even more people. As at his church, the advice to be given would combine the psychological as well as the spiritual. The series was to be called "What's Your Trouble?"

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale has become one of the most outstanding men in the country today—and for a good reason. He is teaching people how to live this life with faith, hope, courage.

↑ PAUL F. HEARD, noted producer, has produced all the films made for TV by Dr. Peale. He is also active in other television fields as well as making religious motion pictures.

locally, plans are now under way for a new line-up of films for TV. At the present, Dr. Peale is active on radio over NBC with "Never Walk Alone," a series devoted to man's religious inspirations, and in "Collector's Item," a two-hour what's what in the arts and sciences in which he speaks on faith as a force in everyday life.

"I feel that television and radio afford perhaps the greatest pulpit in the world," Dr. Peale has remarked. "The mediums permit bringing a message into the home and reaching every member of the family. The intimacy of the forces is without parallel and the impact on the viewer and listener is extremely effective. We are very grateful for the thousands of letters sent to us by people from all over the country expressing their appreciation of our efforts and telling us what the programs are doing to help them solve their everyday problems.

"Religion, in order to attain its greatest potential, must rely on television and radio more and more. They are an invaluable asset as the church strives to become a better spiritual service station."

He Has Changed Lives

Dr. Peale has changed the lives and thoughts of many through his remarkable teachings of the power of faith. All of what he teaches is based on the Bible and one of his greatest lines for mental betterment is Faith's power works wonders. As he stresses, faith is the strongest emotion outside of fear and faith can always be stronger than fear if we let it.

His approach to religion, however, is not the long-face type. His sermons are often filled with genuinely amusing stories. It's not at all unusual to hear his congregations roaring with laughter. As he has repeatedly said, "The sign of a real Christian is a happy face." Religion, in other words, is meant to bring happiness.

Some of his other beliefs, based on the Bible, are "If God be with us, who can be against us?" . . . "I can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me." . . . "Wait upon the Lord and He shall give you strength." To put it briefly, he believes that if one has faith, even though it is as small as a mustard seed, nothing shall be impossible unto him.

Many troubled souls, filled with doubts and anxieties and tensions, will find Dr. Peale a great spiritual uplift. It is to be hoped that more and more listeners and viewers will turn to his message to help them find themselves and their God.

GEORGE NADER has everything a star needs—looks, a physique that can send the squealers squealing, talent enough to spare, and a certain kind of charm that makes him a sure-fire romantic bet.

On the face of it, you'd think that TV would tie him up for sure, but will he be another case of star material slipping right out of television's grasp?

At the present, George is under contract to Lewislor Productions, the organization headed by Loretta Young and Tom Lewis, and he is set to make further appearances on Loretta's show. He created his first big dent on the town as the result of his work on her NBC program. Lewislor is also hoping to find a series for him.

But—in the meantime, Universal-International has signed him to a contract and from all indications he will have to do a fade from the television scene. It looks like once again the medium has pulled a boner. It appears that once more television has refused to accept the fact that it not only has to discover new talent but it must build that talent itself.

TV His Break

Regardless of his future, George, of course, clearly gives TV credit for his new-found fame.

"I think television is wonderful," he remarked, "and I'm exceedingly grateful to it because it helped to bring me to the forefront as an actor faster than any medium I could have worked in. TV affords new people a wide variety of parts and as such it's a fine show case. For example, in the last year I've played a detective, a lawyer, a cowboy, a criminal, Robert Schumann, an Indian chief, a professor, and a mountain guide.

"Because of the speed at which the work on TV must be done, it teaches flexibility and keeps an actor from forming habits that would have to be broken later. Everyone on the staff of a TV film is top-notch in his field. So a young actor is surrounded by seasoned professionals to help and guide him. I know I've learned much from working with people like Loretta Young.

"TV also affords a young actor the opportunity of coming directly into millions and millions of homes, reaching audiences it would be impossible to meet through any other medium. Television was definitely my big break."

And so George Nader probably will have to leave the field that made him to go into the movies. Not that he's complaining. Any young star would be delighted at the kind of contract he has at U-I.

His Life

Biographically speaking, George was born in Pasadena. He wanted a career of producing and directing, so he spent his early years in high school building scenery, painting it, lighting the school shows, and finally became "stage manager."

He turned to acting in 1946 at the Pasadena Playhouse after returning from a stint in the Navy. After graduation he created little stir, getting only a few bits here and there in pictures. Then he decided to try TV. Ralph Acton, now casting director for John Loveton, recommended him for a role opposite Celeste Holm in a pilot film for a series. This gave him a lead role in "Monsoon," a picture made in India and a part in "Memory of Love," made in Sweden. So George was an exciting new star in Europe before he was ever seen on the screens here.

Since returning to Hollywood he has co-starred with Paulette Goddard in "Sins of Jezebel" and in "The Carnival Story" with Anne Baxter.

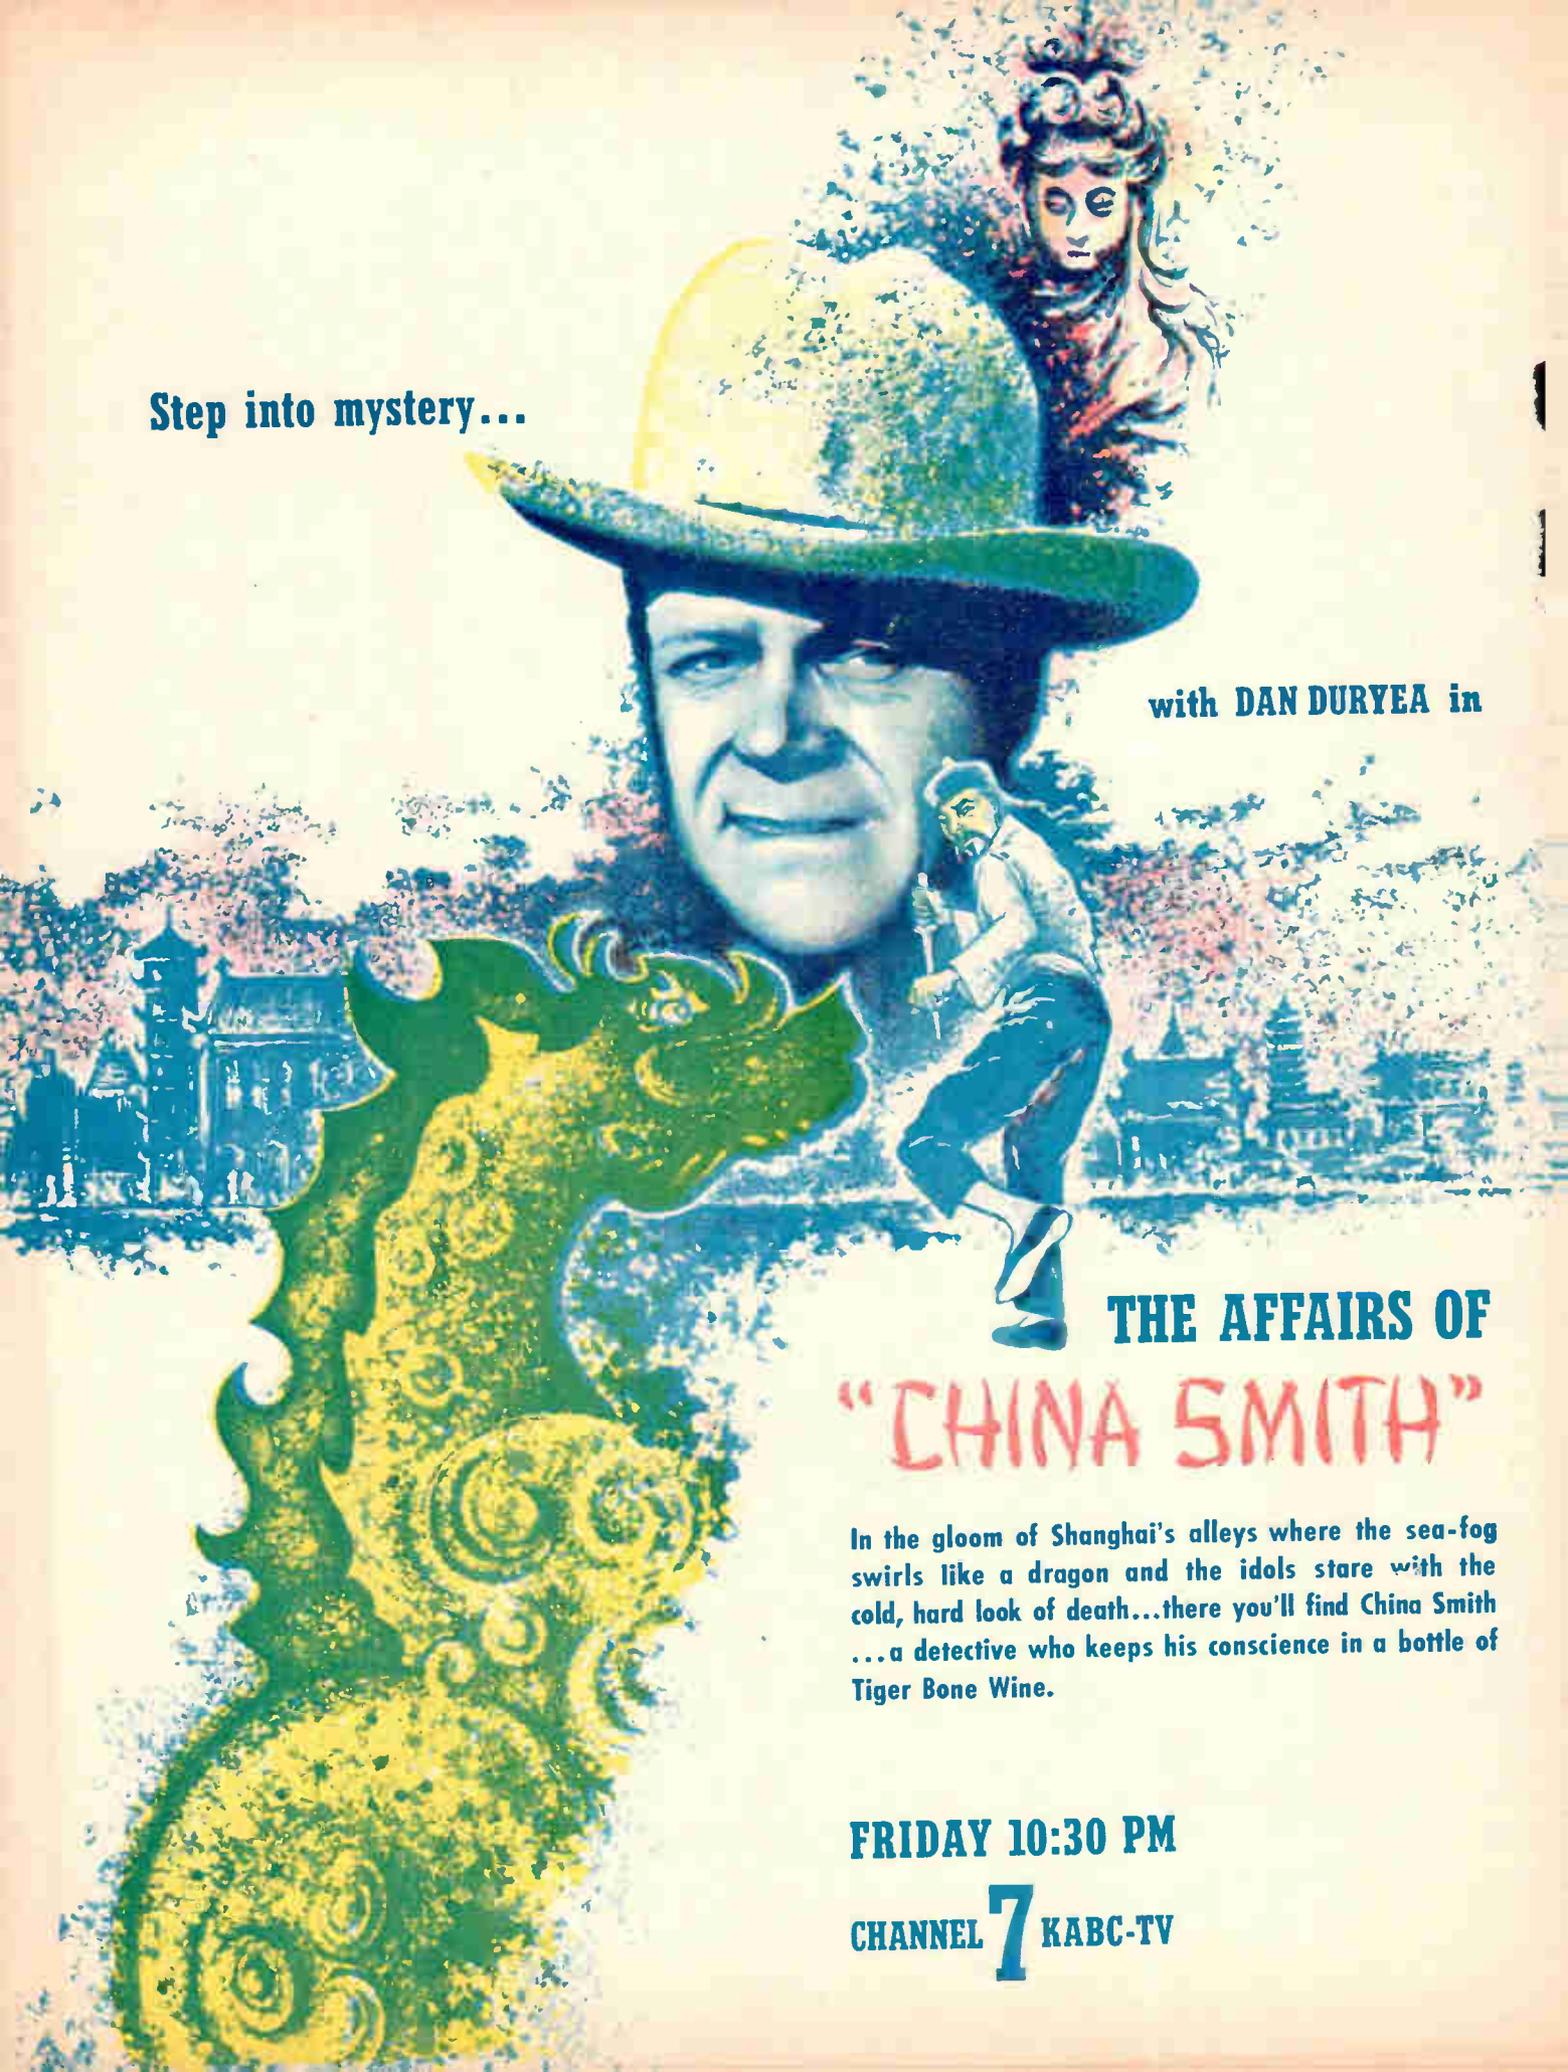

George is still a bachelor—and apparently has few plans to change his status. He is an expert natator, plays the piano well, speaks Spanish, French, German, and Swedish. He paints, writes, carpenters, and composes. He believes implicitly in the power of prayer, in Divine Guidance. As he says, "Any realist knows this is important to progress, not only in one's profession but in every facet of life and living."

Is He Lost to TV?

Think what TV could have done with this six feet one hunk of talent and personality! And he would have been happy to have been a TV star. But what guy is going to wait around forever for somebody to wake up at the switch? TV had him but it looks like it wasn't able to hold him.
