Mrs. L. A. A., Monterey Park, Calif.

As one of the "Million Viewers," I have made a New Year's resolution not to watch the Late, Late Show, no matter how intriguing! They are not worth the price of listening to the long-drawn, boring and irritating commercials that drive one to the point of wanting to throw a hammer at the set—so, what are the sponsors gaining—I ask you?

J. T., Downey, Calif.

Am enclosing another year's subscription to your magazine for one very good reason. I happen to think that Alice Lon, Lawrence Welk and all the boys in his band are wonderful. You have one of the few magazines out who features interesting stories about these fine people. I am especially high in praise for Alice Lon. This young lady not only is a great entertainer, but spends her personal time doing things for other people and making them happy. There just aren't enough words to tell how marvelous Alice is.

Mrs. G. D., Lomita, Calif.

As I write so few "fan" letters, I do not know to whom to write about the Noah's Ark story. Could it not be kept on the air? It is different, and I find no fault in it. The people who act, and the characters they portray are so human and likeable. Why must this program be dropped and the many trashy ones allowed to remain?

It is being dropped because the sponsors did not like the low ratings.

E. H., Whittier, Calif.

I heartily agree with L. K. and G. V. that repeats of Liberace's telecasts would be the most welcome addition to television that we have had for a long time. Personally, I watched all of his shows whenever possible, besides attending several of his concerts and purchasing a great many of his records. I still maintain that television has yet to produce a more sparkling personality and a most gracious entertainer.

Mrs. R. A. D., Colton, Calif.

I think by cancelling that wonderful program Noah's Ark, KRCA will be losing an awful lot of their viewers, at least for that half hour. I think that program is one of the most heart-warming series that TV has had in a long time.

It is a show for the whole family. Not one where you have to run the children off to bed for fear they will be influenced by the crime programs of which there is entirely too many now. Do you sincerely think that you have given Noah's Ark a good test?

Mrs. E. H. M. and family, San Diego, Calif.

We are so glad to see Mr. Korla Pandit back on KTLA. No one can play more beautiful music than Mr. Pandit. The joy I see in him, money cannot buy. Mr. Pandit made so many beautiful records! I know many people love him and his music and would probably like to have his record. They cannot buy in stores, only through him. Write to him: Box 817, Santa Cruz, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R., Stanton, Calif.

We have wondered why Little School House, the children's program was taken off TV. It was the only program for children that we approved our children watching. They keep other programs on which to us are just trash and do away with one that teaches and does good for the growth and development of a child. We are hoping that Mrs. Hempel with her wonderful program for children will be back on TV.

Why Ratings Can't Be Right!

Dr. Martin Klein has a few figures about rating services that will interest you and make the surveys look silly.

By Jon Bruce

MARTIN KLEIN, who heads KABC-TV's Adventure Tomorrow series, was told one day that his ratings weren't so good — although his mail indicated good popular response to his show. Well, this was said to the wrong person, for right then and there Martin decided to do a thorough job on ratings. And what he has come up with should give plenty of argument to those who have decried these systems.

Martin was well-equipped to tackle the job. He has a PhD in Mathematical Physics from Boston University and a Bachelor of Science from Penn State and an MS from Stanford. He is supervisor of Advanced Development and Analysis of the Rocketdyne Division of North American Aviation. He is the author of standard textbook called Digital Automation, a senior member of the Institute of Radio Engineers, he has written 42 published technical articles on Electronics, Mathematics, and Physics. He has been an instructor in Mathematical Physics at Penn State University and at Stanford. He holds patents on basic inventions in electronics and TV and computers.

So what has such a background to do with ratings? Well, they are mathematically arrived at so how better can they be analyzed than by a mathematical person?

Test

We were at the Luau in Beverly Hills and, to start off the business, Martin asked me to count the number of women in the room and he'd count the number of men. The preponderance was women.

"Now, let's both see whether the next four people who pass by our table are men or women?" The first four were women.

"From this, then, if we're to go by ratings, since the first four were women then all the people in this room must be women," Martin stated.

"Rating systems are inferring just that. And this is the crux of the matter as I see it.

DR. MARTIN KLEIN, who heads KABC-TV's Adventure Tomorrow series, has made a thorough study of ratings and has come up with some highly provocative answers.

People Surveyed

ARB states very clearly in its monthly report that the findings are based on 411 sets. This is out of a total of two and a half million. So, since ARB gives the highest use of sets as far as I can figure, then a rating of 38.01 for Ed Sullivan, for instance, is really 38.01 of 411 sets only — not of two and a half million.

"The result of this way of deciding on what is a high-rated show and what isn't is that you can't expect to get the same figures from other systems using different methods. That explains why the various rating services differ so much in their results.

"Now let's try the same experiment here again. We'll count the next four people who walk by our table."

We did — this time there were two men and two women.

"Ratings, to be fair, should not be a number but two numbers. A program rated 15 should actually be rated anywhere from 11.4 to 18.6. Actually, with most ratings, the number 1 show can be 4. So you take your list of the top ten shows and you'll find, in this way, the number 10 show can be 1 just as easily.

"One rating system I know of takes 98 sets as a survey. Take a low figure of 7.8 as the rating for a show. With this kind of a system, a 15 rating, for instance, can be any number from 7 to 22 for the whole community. And this is at 95 to 1 odds.

"The only fair way for rating services to give their findings is to give the two numbers. Taking a bigger sample would not solve the problem since a survey of at least 25,000 sets should be necessary and this would not be feasible from an economic standpoint. I think programs should be given letter ratings — shows between 30 and 40 should be classified A, those between 20 and 30, B, between 10 and 20 C, and under 10, D.

"To be fair, it is only right for TV stations and agencies to demand to know from the rating services how many people were sampled in the survey. If they can't supply this information, what good is the service?"

Martin wanted to make it very clear that he hadn't undertaken such an extensive test because his own rating was low.

"I'm not an entertainer or a performer," he stated flatly. "If my TV career ended next week it wouldn't hurt me at all. Conversely, if I were told my show was going network I'd say, 'Yes, if it fits in.' I do enjoy watching television, though. In fact, I look at my screen four hours a night and I have five sets, including one color. And," he added with a laugh, "you have to have a lot of faith to have a color set these days. But since I am on TV I have a right to be a disgruntled personality. I resent the fact that shows like Noah's Ark and Stanley, which I like, are being taken off because of ratings. Just as I resent the fact that the $64,000 Question 'stays up' in the 'top ten.' I don't think it is right that the fate of any show should be dependent on the whims of such a statistically unsure system as rating services! It is not right that a good program should go off because the wrong number came up on the roulette wheel."

So — now let's hear from the rating services! That's if they can answer Mr. Klein with equal logic and study.

He Loves Her

IN DECEMBER
AS HE DID IN MAY

Spring Byington's son-in-law says she's even more lovable today than she was when he first knew her—because she's constantly improving her wonderful philosophy of life.

By Jean Corlis

GENIAL BILL BAXLEY has all the right qualifications for a good son-in-law. He's intelligent, talented, considerate—and handsome, too.

SPRING AND HER DAUGHTER PHYLLIS BAXLEY relax while granddaughter Sar pours. (Insert) Little Christine Baxley is still young enough to climb on grandma's lap to have a story read to her.

SPRING BYINGTON doesn't "play" Lily Ruskin. She is Lily Ruskin, the charming, buoyant, delightfully feminine and young-in-spirit star of December Bride. Who says so? Her son-in-law, Bill Baxley. Bill, who is general sales manager for KABC-Radio, and inadvertently a friendly competitor since Spring is on CBS-KNXT, is married to Spring's daughter Phyllis.

Some men like their mothers-in-law, some tolerate them, and some dislike them. But Bill Baxley is one man who loves, admires and cherishes his wife's mother.

"It's impossible to know Spring well and not have the greatest affection for her," Bill said. "She's such a wonderful person because of her deeply religious philosophy. She has studied and worked for years to improve her understanding of life and the things going on around her. As a result she puts her philosophy into practical application. She is constantly doing things for people, but never meddles and she lets other people run their own lives. For years I've figuratively sat at Spring's knee in developing my own philosophy — I don't think I'd ever be able to find a better one."

Bill came to know his mother-in-law well when he was transferred to California from New York in 1945. Housing was difficult to get at the time so before Bill and Phyllis and their young daughter made the move they alerted Spring. She scurried around to find a home big enough for all of them, since she had been living in a hotel and was rather tired of it. By the time the Baxleys arrived she had bought about the last available house in the Beachwood-Hollywood Hills area and had furnished it — all except a stove and refrigerator which were practically impossible to obtain due to wartime shortages. It was two weeks after they moved in before they got a stove, and they had to make-do with an ice box for a year.

"Spring didn't let little things like shortages and substitutions phase her in the least," Bill recalled proudly. "She took everything in stride with her tremendous enthusiasm. When she couldn't find a border that suited the wallpaper she'd put up, she found one that could be used by hand-painting it with yards and yards of little flowers — which she proceeded to do.

"Spring's hobby is water-color painting," Bill went on. "She once remarked, 'You can criticize my acting, but don't dare say a word about my painting.' She's very good at it, too."

The Baxleys have two children and when they were little Spring loved to baby-sit. "Even after a day's work," Bill said, "She would shoo us out of the house with the remark that we'd been looking at four walls too long and needed relaxation. She'd do things with the children that even I couldn't — romp with them on their own level. She has so much energy and the ability to project herself — she loses herself in whatever she's doing."

Spring has another daughter, Lois, who is married and lives in Santa Barbara, and she also has a child. Whenever Spring has the opportunity she goes up there to visit.

When Phyllis and Lois were growing up, Spring was traveling a lot so it gives her a great deal of pleasure now to be able to do for them and their children many things she couldn't do when her own girls were little. But she does these things in a way that can't be construed as "neckling."

"Spring has an intuitive sense of the right thing to do, and this applies to her personal relationships as well as business," Bill remarked. "However, if it is something she can't pin down to where her knowledge of the problem will tell her what to do, she relies on her philosophy of life to inspire her — and it never fails to be right."

Spring never tried to influence her daughters in their choice of a career, and neither of them wanted to be actresses. Their only experience was when they were little and were visiting their mother on the movie set when she was in Dodsworth. The director asked them if they'd like to be in a scene with their mother. In the scene they stood with Spring on the dock, waving to someone on the Queen Mary. On screen it lasted fifteen seconds, but it took them a day and a half to shoot. This may have been the reason for their indifference to an acting career.

Phyllis, who was going to Columbia at the time she met Bill, did work behind the scenes at the Westchester, Cape and Maplewood Playhouses as a production assistant, making her way up to assistant to the stage manager. For the past four and a half years, ever since December Bride went on radio, and later television, she's been her mother's secretary, answering fan mail and buying her clothes, as well as performing innumerable other chores which Spring's busy schedule doesn't allow.

"Spring is definitely feminine and is grateful to anyone who will take some of the details off her hands," commented Bill. "I handle some of her business affairs and her brother-in-law manages others. She's not the least 'I must do it all myself' type. She has tremendous talent, but she's always willing to relinquish to others the things she feels they can do better than she can.

"Spring works hard at her job. She never leaves anything to chance. When she is invited to appear on someone else's show she watches it several times so she knows the format. Just because she's a veteran she doesn't take it for granted that she can ad lib her way through."

Bill is sure Spring's other son-in-law concurs in his opinion that she is without peer. Anyone who wants to get a few pointers on how to be the perfect mother-in-law might well watch Lily Ruskin as she enthusiastically and diplomatically shares the lives of her TV children in December Bride.

Gail (Annie Oakley) Davis is one of TV's brighter and more personable stars, but few know her as well as her sister.

MY SISTER,

Gail

By Shirley Grayson

to the theater; in music she prefers Frank Sinatra, Kay Starr, and Ella Fitzgerald. Al Jolson is another favorite of hers. Lately she has gone in for some of the recent modern style music of Julie London, Anita O'Day and other such modern stylists of song.

As for her preference in men, she likes for a man to be sincere, "down to earth," and have a good sense of humor. She likes one who loves children, one who assumes responsibilities of a family willingly.

Embarrassment

"Bootsie" and I have had some wonderful times together, although she has embarrassed me on a few occasions.

When she's home in Little Rock visiting us, I'll tell her about whom I've been dating and more than once she has greeted "Ray" at the door with the greeting "Hi, Frank," or some other such name. She says all this is an accident but sometimes I wonder if she's not getting even with me for when I was a small fry I think I used to get her high school and college beaux mixed up myself.

Frankly, I do wish "Bootsie" would get married and settle down, and I'm pretty sure she'd like that too. I'd like to see her get away from the driving pace she's led for so long day after day. I wish she'd slacken up, but I guess that is not in the cards for her now.

However, I hope I can be as fine a person as she is. She has worked hard for everything she has, she's always ready to do her share of the work, and I hope I can be the kind and unselfish person she is. Maybe then I will be as successful in what I undertake as she is.

I'm not alone in how I feel about her. Everyone who meets her likes her. They can't help it. She's such a sweet, sincere, and generous person who would ten times rather give than receive. Sure I get a lot of good-natured kidding about her being Annie Oakley, but every time someone mentions her name I actually glow with pride. And, you know, I'd be just as proud of her if she were Just Betty Jeanne Grayson again and worked downtown as a secretary.

I AM more than glad to talk about my sister Betty Jeanne (that's Gail's real name) because I want everyone to know how truly wonderful she is.

In fact, I like everything about her, although I feel she chose the wrong sorority. I went Pi Beta Phi but she joined another. That's the only mistake she ever made.

I go to the University of Arkansas so I only see her about every summer and Christmas. Once in a while she manages to find time to come to Little Rock and on such occasions I take time off to come see her.

She and I have much in common — the same taste in clothes, for one. We love to dress casually and comfortably. Sweaters and skirts are our favorite outfits. We also love blouses, especially the man-tailored type. We're both very devoted to our parents and would do anything in the world for them. To us, "Mubbie," which is our name for mother, is the best cook in the world and Daddy is the best doctor.

I don't call my sister either Gail or Betty Jeanne. Instead I call her by her nickname which is "Bootsie." She tagged me with the name "Shortie" when I was little and it looks as though I'm stuck with it. I'm only 5'2" so perhaps there is some logic to the name.

As a little girl, "Bootsie" was quite the tomboy. I remember she rode horses a lot. Mother also told me she started dancing when she was two and I know she kept that up through high school. It was in high school, incidentally, that she started winning some of her many beauty honors. She went on winning titles throughout her college days.

"Bootsie" has many interests. She is well read in any of the books on Annie Oakley's life, she reads books pertaining

THE STATE SENATE COMMITTEE investigating private detectives and scandal magazines was a natural for front-page headlines and some pretty lively listening in the afternoon for TV viewers. One of the key names brought up in the hearings was the former Yankee star and former husband of Marilyn Monroe, Joe DiMaggio. Joe said he was "too busy" back East to attend the hearings.

DID JOLTIN' JOE DiMAGGIO knock down the "wrong" apartment door on November 5, 1954, when he was supposedly checking up on activities of his former wife, Marilyn Monroe?

KTLA SCORES SCOOP IN SCANDAL HEARINGS

GIL MARTYN, THE MAN responsible for KTLA's "TV Scoop," leans across table to check info with committee of State Senators, including Senator Fred H. Kraft, Jr.

KTLA, Channel 5, undoubtedly scored a clean "TV Scoop" last week, when the station received permission for exclusive coverage of the much-talked about "Scandal Hearings."

Gil Martyn, Director of News for KTLA, traveled to San Diego before the hearings and received special permission from Senator Fred H. Kraft, Jr., to televise them.

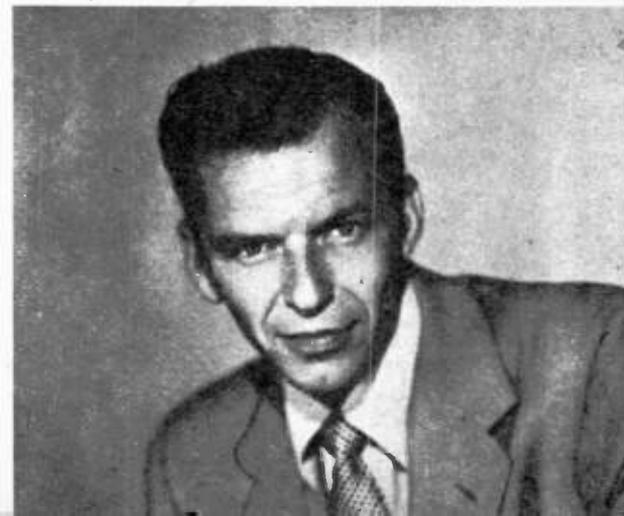

The three-camera show got a sponsor too — just 20 minutes before air time.

This is the kind of "live TV coverage" that has far more social significance than old movies and outdated syndicated films. It was just like the old Landsberg days at Channel 5. We hope it continues with more of this on-the-spot coverage.

MARTYN DID A first class job of handling commentary and interviews during the three-day "show" — including women private investigators and bill collectors.

FRANK SINATRA said he waited in car. Private Eye Philip Irwin called him a liar. Said Sinatra: "You gonna believe me or a guy who knocks down doors for a living?" Perjury charges, for either man, may follow.

THE MAILMAN WHO BECAME "KING"

MAILMAN HARVEY W. SPITTELL, JR., of El Monte, California, became the most famous, and most grateful mailman in America, when he was selected as "King For A Day" on NBC's Queen For A Day annual salute to the men of America.

Spittell was selected by the audience consisting of more than 1,000 mailmen, five of whom were given a chance to tell their story.

USC COED CAROL SEIDELL of San Marino was really surprised when Spittell, 34, the father of six sons, delivered her mail in a gold, chauffeur-driven Cadillac. He had his entire route delivered for him in the Cadillac as a pay-off for winning the title. This week he also flies to Washington, D.C., to become Postmaster General for a day.

FELLOW LETTER CARRIERS wave an envious goodbye as Spittell gets ready to deliver his route. "It was the most memorable day in my life as a postman," Harvey beamed. "And my feet never felt so good." (NBC-TV photos.)

THERE is probably no one in Hollywood who knows more stars as well as does Sy Devore. His business is being tailored to the TV, radio, and motion picture stars, but he winds up with more than a few insights into the famous.

Such as the time he was asked by Paramount to make Bob Hope's wardrobe for "Beau James." This is the picture based on the life of Mayor Jimmy Walker. Jimmy was a natty dresser, and was rather slim. However, when Sy went to Bob's house to discuss the clothes he found that Bob had put on a little weight. As he measured him he said, subtly, "Of course, you'll lose some weight." Bob said he'd lose a couple of pounds. "Make it a tight 34," Bob told Sy. Sy had a neater plan — he made the measurements 32½. When Bob tried the clothes on he decided he hadn't lost enough and set out to lose two more — which was exactly what Sy had wanted him to take off in the first place.

Sy has customers even from New York. When Jackie Gleason comes to Hollywood, he arrives with no wardrobe. He carries just a tooth brush and comb. He gets off the train, hops in a taxi, and goes right to the Sy's store where he orders suits for his sojourn in our town.

Sy's main interest is creating new styles. Jerry Lewis' night club and TV solo act brought about one new fashion.

"Jerry wanted a new kind of tuxedo, one that was spectacular but not too much so," Sy commented, "so I made one with braid around the edges, the cuffs, and around the pockets. Jerry later told me that the suit got more reviews than he did.

"Dean Martin also wanted a suit for his night club act — but different from Jerry's — so I made what I call the cock-tail suit for him. It's neither a tux nor a business suit but a combination of both. It has satin stripe on the trousers, on the coat lapel, and around the pockets, but cuffs on the trousers."

Sy also does Elvis Presley's and Pat Boone's clothes. Elvis used to dress rather loudly but he has now, under Sy's influence, toned down a good deal. His favorite outfit, though, is still a white leather jacket. Pat dresses more conservatively.

"Bing Crosby gave me the most unusual request," Sy said. "He had received a set of antique English silver buttons and asked me to make a suit around them. I made him a double-breasted English blazer."

"Vic Damone has only one habit," Sy remarked. "He never shops without Pier. Fortunately, she has wonderful taste — as does Vic."

Sy had to return to the shop. He was making a new idler suit for Bill Holden. And this is a fine idea for all us guys who want something comfortable and simple to wear for those leisure hours — if and when you can find them.

Capitol Records has some good new albums coming out with "Love Is The Thing" by Nat "King" Cole, "Round the World" with Les Baxter, and the Roger Wagner Choral in "The House of the Lord" looking the most interesting . . . Ed Brice is doing some good acting on ABC's soap opera, "Secret Storm." He plays Major Bruce Edwards and almost makes tear-jerkers like these worth listening to . . . Met two very capable actors and interesting guys on a Wire Service set recently. Bob Crosson, a young kid with plenty of ambition, and Jon Sheppard really have what it takes to go places in this business!

Have you heard that unbelievable, incredible commercial on hemorrhoids? It's been on some late hour TV. No station needs money that badly to foist such terrible stuff on viewers. This is the END!

THIS crazy TV business!

Two shows have been axed—Do You Trust Your Wife? and Noah's Ark. "Wife" topped every other TV program in Los Angeles last month, according to ARB which tabulated a 44.2 rating. On the other hand, Noah's Ark was pulled because the client was unhappy over the rating (9.5). Yet last week Jack Webb's office was wading through a fresh deluge of between 12 and 15 thousand protesting letters. The letters had risen from a mere hundred the first week after cancellation announcement to 1,000, then to 2695 the third week, 3751 the fourth.

AS WE GO TO PRESS DON FEDDERSON, who produces "Wife," is very hopeful that his negotiations to put the show on another network will materialize. Program's final filmed stanza goes on KNXT Mar. 26. Although Edgar Bergen prefers film to "live" performance, he is willing to forego his desires and perform "live" April 2 should a deal be made.

CHIEF DIFFICULTY OF "WIFE" seems to have been the fact that as a filmed series it has not been slotted nationally in the same time spot throughout the country. In Chicago, New York and Philadelphia it has been viewed at 10:30 p.m., yet has come up in the first ten in the ratings. In some other cities it has even been relegated to the afternoon. "It's apparently not enough," commented Fedderson to TV-Radio Life, "to have a good show. You have to have a good time, too."

IF NOAH'S ARK DOES RETURN to your screens, it won't be until next Fall. With such stupendous mail response from school children, teachers, P.T.A.'s, state educational offices, veterinarians (which Jack Webb expected) and regular M.D.'s (unexpected), a network or sponsor may be convinced that the rating was not sufficient cause for cancellation. Jack was tickled when an 11-year-old lad circulated a petition in his neighborhood and submitted a list of 200 adult signatures. Now Webb is deep in his feature movie production and would have to complete his picture before picking up Noah's Ark again should demands indicate. However, he would not direct the series should it return. Columnists across the country have written Webb telling him of the mail protesting removal of his program (we've received our share here at TV-Radio Life) and have stated that outside of I Remember Mama, the Noah's Ark cancellation has stirred up unprecedented reaction.

NOW IT'S THE MOTION PICTURE ACADEMY which is experiencing difficulty lining up stars for its telecast later this month. Pat Boone, slated to sing his "Friendly Persuasion" hit, bowed out last week. He's not on the air yet and won't be until Fall, but he won't appear—in deference to his upcoming Chevy sponsor. All because another General Motors product, Oldsmobile, is sponsoring the Academy telecast. Here we go again!

FANS OF JEFF DONNELL will be pleased at her guesting on George Gobel's show March 23. She is just winding up a movie at Universal (or will June Allyson's illness delay completion of "My Man Godfrey?").

LUCY AND DESI HAD A CUTE promotion for their March 11 teleshow. They sent me a miniature record entitled "Have A Laugh." It is the waxing of one minute and five seconds of continuous laughter emitted by the studio audience during the filming of "Lucy Does the Tango," the show to be viewed this week Monday. Desi actually had to ask the audience to stop howling so the show could go on.

BY AUBREY DAHL

THE dispute in Chicago over the showing of the controversial film, "Martin Luther," which was objected to by many Catholics, has been settled by Cardinal Samuel Stritch's statement affirming the "democratic right" of all religions to the "honest expression of a religious viewpoint" on TV. Surely, now that this issue of freedom of ideas on TV has been resolved, some enterprising and courageous Los Angeles station will stick its neck out by scheduling the film. Surely, one will.

"Dr. Ehrlich's Magic Bullet." (2) March 16, 11:00. Edward G. Robinson made a series of biographical pictures in the late thirties and here is one of the best. It is a tribute to the man who first discovered a method of curing the social diseases, of the obstacles and ostracism he had to overcome in treating a scourge whose name could not even be mentioned in the better circles, though its symptoms were quite familiar.

The competent cast includes Ruth Gordon, Otto Kruger and Donald Crisp.

"Mr. and Mrs. Smith." (9) Beginning March 19, 9:00. 1941. A weary plot is helped by the skillful direction of Alfred Hitchcock and a couple of good comedy performances by two old masters of the craft, Carole Lombard and Robert Montgomery. Carole and Bob discover that due to a tricky state boundary line, they are not, in fact, legally married and the rest of the film details Bob's frantic efforts to regain his position as lord and master. What's good about the film is technique, not substance, and in this case, that's almost enough.

"The Bribe." (11) March 22, 8:00. 1949. This is the usual tale of a cop who falls for a dame involved in the crime he is investigating and the dilution of the devotion to duty, thereof. In this case, Robert Taylor is a fed on the trail of some crooks in the tropics, Ava Gardner is the girl, John Hodiak is her no good husband and Charles Laughton is another no good. Justice and the right finally prevail, as does romance.

"Cain and Mabel." (2) March 21, 11:30. 1936. I'll bet you thought Clark Gable and Marion Davies never appeared together in a film. Well, they did and this is it, a hoary story of a waitress who becomes a musical comedy star because she can do a waltz clog and a fighter who becomes champ without ever throwing a glove. Both the stars of this movie have since made names for themselves.

"Mark of the Whistler." (4) March 16, 11:15. Channel 4 and Tom Frandsen are inaugurating a series of never before shown mystery films on Saturday night and this is one of the first. It's based Springtime is straytime for husbands... wives should double the guard this time of year.

Sherman O'Singer, a resident of Fignewton Manor (one of L.A.'s newest tracts) spent last Sunday morning strewing pellets on his lawn.

"What's them pellets?" asked a neighbor.

"Camel repellent" was O'Singer's reply.

"Ain't no camels within 3000 miles of here" said the neighbor.

"This stuff is very effective" stated O'Singer.

Does the absence of camels prove that the camel repellent works?

Not necessarily. But other things prove something else. For example in Eagle Rock yesterday a robin was harboring its head off. A man in Outer Bel-Air heard the guttural croaking of a crocus. And in Newport Beach a white dog named Zsa Zsa is in training to swim the Catalina Channel.

The dog won't make it even with an outboard mounted on its haunches but this example of nonsense plus the robin plus the crocus add up to conclusive proof that spring is about to be sprung on us.

Poets and others have made pleasant comment re: spring but there's one bad thing about spring and only one fearless journalist (me) dares expose it.

As surely as the sap rises in the trees the sap also rises in husbands come Les Printemps. Spring is the time of year when husbands get a vernal feeling in their equinoxes.

So — dear lady — this is the time of year when you should weld an extra ball onto his chain. If there's any colt left in him, and there probably is, this is the time of year when he's most apt to go over the hill.

For the sake of the children you must try to keep him happy at home. How? Certain little things you could do will no doubt occur to you. And I recommend further that you keep him happy at home by feeding him well. Serve frequent KoldKist dinners, wonderful home meals based on KoldKist Frozen Cooked Foods and Meat Products.

It's not just that, for example, KoldKist Sirloin Tips and Mushroom With Sauce make a delicious meal... but it's so quick-n-easy to cook and serve that you'll have plenty of time to pluck a hibiscus blossom to wear behind your ear — and that's a good idea, in The Spring.

Keep your husband happy with KoldKist and keep him morning-happy by having him tune in "The Fred Beck Sho" — KABC Radio, 6:15-7:30 A.M. — Mon. thru Fri.

MISS 17 WINNERS

Concluding the KMPC-TV-RADIO LIFE Miss 17 contest was a final deluge of entries which flooded the magazine's offices and created no small problem in narrowing down the winner's circle.

Also posing a problem, however a delightful one, was the uniformly high quality of entrants. It is indeed difficult to make selections when all the girls competing are so attractive and display such a wealth of charm and personality.

As we went to press the field had been narrowed to seven young ladies who will be asked to make a personal appearance before the judges who will choose the final five and the grand winner. The following semi-finalists will receive notification of further arrangements.

Label Talk BY TERREA LEA

NEARLY everywhere you turn nowadays you hear more and more about "Do it yourself." Everywhere except in the grocery stores. The manufacturers of food products are spending much time, money, and effort offering foods that are all-ready prepared. Label bank offers you some of these foods. A complete dinner from Chun King American-Oriental Frozen Foods. You can make a delicious cake by using Dromedary Cake Mixes. Now Label Bank offers another product that is sure to cut down on work . . . save you money . . . and give you much better tasting food.

The product is GOLDEN DIPT BREADING. It takes the place of cracker meal and bread crumbs. You save money four ways when you use Golden Dipt. First, you save time because it's ready to use right from the package and no mixing is required. Second, you save milk, eggs and seasoning. They're already in Golden Dipt . . . in just the right proportion. Third, it saves costly cooking oil. Seals natural flavor in . . . seals grease out. Fourth, Golden Dipt goes farther. One pound of Golden Dipt breads 10 pounds of food. And here's another point many of you ladies will be interested in. Golden Dipt is made with unbleached flour and only the heart of the wheat is used. Foods breaded with Golden Dipt absorb 32% less cooking oil or fat during frying than foods breaded with ordinary type breading and flours because the grease does not penetrate the food.

You do not have to thaw fish or meat when you use Golden Dipt. Just bread and drop into your frying pan or deep fryer and you'll have the most beautiful . . . and the most delicious food you've ever eaten. You know . . . 95% of the breaded shrimp on the market today is breaded with Golden Dipt and all leading restaurants in Los Angeles use this fine product. Now the top of the box is worth something to you at Label Bank. Two points are offered toward those valuable premiums. So next time you are going to serve fish, chicken, or meat . . . try breading it with GOLDEN DIPT. And don't forget to save the box top for your label account.

More Label Talk next week . . . bye for now.

REAL PROS

Maxine and Ralph Lloyd were contestants on The Big Payoff and won the jackpot prize which included their first trip to Europe. They were so impressed with the wonderful experiences they had while on the trip that they now firmly believe everyone should do their utmost to visit Europe — both for enjoyment and also to make them appreciate America. So the Lloyds, in order to help others abroad, gave up their jobs and embraced new careers — as host and hostess for visiting Americans. They are real professional guides now.

Soldiers of Fortune
 Monday, 7 p.m.,
 KHJ-TV, Ch. 9

The title, Soldiers of Fortune, suggests flamboyant action, melodrama, and exotic color, a vehicle of masculine escape with about as much appeal to the female as a shaving soap ad. Fortunately the show does live up to its title with good, earthy, suspenseful stuff.

Its appeal will hardly be limited to the "Men Only" trade, judging from the reactions I witnessed of two females, one sixty-five, who generally settles for nothing less than Omnibus calibre; and a ten-year old boy whose preferences lie in the horse opera category.

This wide range of appeal is not to suggest that Soldiers of Fortune has elements of Omnibus in it. In fact, it probably leans closer to the horse opera. That it will draw a wide audience is due to the fact that it is melodrama to the hilt.

Despite the fact that "melodrama" has suffered somewhat in status during the past few years through intellectualizing of human feeling, good, rousing melodrama is still the guts of the theater. The clinical emotional vivisection practiced by many television playwrights serves up only a limp case history instead of a show calculated to rouse the emotions of the audience. Fashions in theater and playwrighting are as subject to change as any other element of human life and the emotionally pallid offerings of many of today's playwrights are but a reflection of the Freudian era.

Espousal of melodrama as a much-needed element of dramatic fare, does not eliminate exploration of the deeper drives of the human animal. There must be, to put it briefly, a happy fusion of the raw chunks of crude human passion with the clinical investigation. The Greek dramatists knew this. So did Shakespeare. When you really probe a man's soul there's a lot of blood and thunder that goes with it.

Soldiers of Fortune is certainly neither Greek nor Shakespearean drama. It does not pretend to be. More importantly, in its unpretentious, lively way, Soldiers of Fortune hits the mark that should be the bull's-eye of any dramatic fare — arousing the emotions of the spectator that spells entertainment.

(2) (3) HEMO THE MAGNIFICENT.

An hour film showing the miracle of blood, its circulation and the heart's role in keeping it moving. The film begins with a description of ancient man's concept of blood as something magic and goes on to point out that it wasn't until 1628 that an English scientist William Harvey first discovered that blood circulated through arteries and veins. An animation sequence shows the operation of the heart in pumping blood, the function of the lungs and other organs in "feeding" blood and the work of the kidneys in purifying it. Dr. Frank Baxter and Richard Carlson as "Dr. Research" and "The Writer" explain the subject.

Record Notes

by Andy Mansfield

THIS week's top LPs to be featured on KFI's TURN BACK THE CLOCK (Mon. thru Fri. 8:45-9:30 a.m.) and AMERICA'S POPULAR MUSIC (Sat. 9:30-11:00 p.m.) are all from the popular field. "Love Is The Thing" (Capitol) features the romantic styling of Nat Cole's voice against lush backing by Gordon Jenkins and his orchestra. Singing a dozen familiar ballads with warmth and tenderness, The King proves beyond all doubt that love is the thing.

On the feminine side, Roberta Sherwood's "Show Stoppers" (Decca) are songs from her personal appearances that made audiences cry for more; in fact, they are the background for the success that is Roberta Sherwood's. With all her wonderful variety and magnetic personality, there is no one anywhere quite like her.

From the soundtracks, Alfred Newman, one of film's most gifted composers conducts his impressive score from "Anastasia" (Decca) that is a delight to the ear, whether you've seen the picture or not. This real test of fine scoring is also true of the late Victor Young's music for "Around The World In Eighty Days" (Decca) that should remain as a lasting memorial.

In the modern jazz field, Duke Ellington's Orchestra, soloists and chorus are spotlighted on his most pretentious achievement in jazz, "A Drum Is A Woman" (Columbia). With the Duke as narrator, this is a musical fantasy paralleling the origins of jazz—a tale with a humorous touch that includes music that rocks.

RCA-Victor's "Tribute To Dorsey" is the sort of thing TD would have loved, for it's the music he loved. Available in two volumes, these jazz milestones in TD's fabulous career were selected by Down Beat Magazine from Dorsey's Victor hits of yesterday. Dating from 1936 to 1946, these are Tommy's greatest and best selling recordings, many of them previously unavailable since their original release... Nothing but Great Swing!

on the Whistler stories (a fact discovered after much research) and features Richard Dix and Janis Carter. Now, men, if you'll only come up with a new Charlie Chan whodunit.

"Andy Hardy Meets the Debutante," (11) March 21, 8:30. 1940. And I suppose this is the start of an Andy Hardy series on TV. This time the Hardy family goes to N.Y. and Andy (I forget who played the part) falls for a deb. Judy Garland sings a couple of songs, which is good, but I thought the whole series immature when I first saw them at the age of three.

"Outpost in Malaya." (2) March 18, 11:00. 1952. This is a recent picture and thus deserves mention of some sort. Jack Hawkins works his rubber plantation while fighting the natives and urging wife Claudette Colbert to flee to safety. HOCKEY HOT

ONE of the biggest surprises of the current TV season has been the reaction to KNXT's coverage of the professional ice hockey games on Saturday morning.

"You wouldn't believe the mail we have received on these telecasts," Gil Stratton, the new director of sports at KNXT, revealed during a recent TV-Radio Life interview. "Just letters from people thanking us for putting the games on the air. No requests for pictures or autographs or the usual things that TV fans write in for. Just letter after letter and card upon card expressing how appreciative they are of seeing these games."

"And this is the best hockey in the world, you know," Gil continued. "For several years out here they had a hockey league, and I believe they televised the game too. But the brand of play just doesn't compare with the action we are seeing now."

Gil has a personal interest in hockey himself. In his younger years, he was a goalie. And as all sports fans know, he later became a professional umpire, going as high as the Pacific Coast league.

"I don't think I'll umpire this coming season. I don't know for sure yet. My new job as director of sports at KNXT is just taking up too much of my time. I may do some umpiring, however, on a part-time basis."

In many ways, the KNXT telecasts of the hockey games were a big gamble for the local station. Because of the warm climate in Southern California, hockey has never been a major sport here.

However, the high ratings for these shows — and on Saturday morning, no less — has paid off for the CBS-TV outlet. According to the ARB ratings, the hockey games are even pulling a larger audience here in Southern California than the professional basketball games which are seen at the same time on the rival network, NBC-TV.

Perhaps it is because Los Angeles is such a "melting pot" and thousands of people from colder areas are getting a chance to renew their interest in this national pastime of Canada?

Whatever the reason, the results have been gratifying. CBS-TV, and KNXT in particular, is becoming more and more "sports conscious." All of which, of course, is making Gil Stratton a very happy fellow these days.

★ ★ ★ HONEYMOON

Refugees from terrorized Hungary who were recently re-wed in this country got their first taste of American TV and won a free honeymoon plus cash when they appeared on the Strike It Rich program.

They are Alexander and Vera Solti who have a nine-year-old son. Solti divorced his wife in Hungary so that she could get to America as a "public charge" deportee. He managed to escape several weeks ago. They now live with Mrs. Solti's mother in New York City. They had no money for a honeymoon following their remarriage so the program arranged for them to appear as contestants and besides $250 in cash they will now enjoy a free stay at the Concord Hotel in upper New York State.

EVERY WORK DAY IS PAY DAY

Warren Hull, host on "Strike It Rich" greets a different personality each day, Monday through Friday, with the latter acting as a "helping hand" for someone who cannot be present in the studio. Many of these celebrities have just written books, completed new record albums, invented various devices, and they usually bring samples along. After the show these samples, suitably autographed, usually wind up with Warren.

THE VERY PRIVATE LIFE OF

Nat "King" Cole

NAT "KING" COLE was certainly not his usual self.

The always expertly dressed singer of NBC-TV and a man who has made Capitol Records mighty happy with the phenomenal sales of his records was decked out in a dirty uniform. And what's more he wasn't even singing a song. It was all for his new career as straight dramatic actor in the movie "China Gate."

How Nat ever found time to do a picture no one knows. His schedule, what with his records, his TV show, and his night club dates is one that barely allows time for breathing. And yet he was taking the extra chore right in stride.

"I like to work," Nat remarked. "And I think it's good for me to try acting. It's a challenge and besides it broadens my horizons. A person has to keep trying something new."

Nat's motor is running most of the time but in a quiet way. He is able to put aside his problems and his work when he goes home and completely relax. This is no small trick — even for easy-going Nat.

"When I do have time to be at home I like to watch TV," Nat remarked. "It's a form of relaxation to me. I'm also an amateur golf student and I've been doing some motion picture photography. Most of the pictures I take are of my two daughters — Natalie, whom we call Sweetie, 7; and Carol, also known as Cooky, 12.

Daughters

"Those two girls certainly keep the house humming. Sweetie has inclinations to be a singer. She has a sensitive ear and loves music. She has already made one record called 'Good Will.' I don't intend, however, to push her into any career. I'll just let her go as she will. That's the way everything started for me. I began playing the piano at four and my folks let me go right on expressing myself.

"Cooky is the record collector in the family — and like most teen-agers she is an avid Presley fan. Her mother and I gave her a miniature juke box which she can take into her room and play her records whenever she wants. Once in a while, though, she gets on a ballet kick and wants only that kind of music.

"Both Cooky and Sweetie give me their frank opinions of my records." Nat paused, and then with a wide grin added, "They can hurt your feelings with their honest comments so I don't often ask them what they think of my records."

Maria, Nat's wife, is also in the music field. She is a singer of note, having sung with Duke Ellington and in night clubs. Her interest in a career, however, takes a decided back seat to her interest in her home.

"Maria is a master at household management," Nat said knowingly. "I call her the Commanding Officer. I put everything into her hands — the finances and all. She says she doesn't keep me on a budget but she certainly makes me aware there is one. This is good for me, because I can be a little lax at times. I'm basically thrifty-minded but I'm an easy mark for a soft touch, and I can be conned into things faster than Maria can.

Finances

"I spend the most money on ties and shoes — and I go wild about sport shirts. When I go into a store to get one thing the salesman cons me into buying more than I had planned. I feel he must have psychoanalyzed me as I walked in.

"I have also been known to spend some rather good amounts of money on records. I'm a pretty fair collector. My taste covers most forms of music — from the classical to the jazz. I like all of Andre Segovia's records too. As for my own, I listen to the acetates right after I have finished a recording session for Capitol. I study them carefully and I can usually find a lot of faults in what I've done. I always try to be a perfectionist — and I'm not sure that's a good thing for anybody."

When Nat is home he seldom indulges in any domestic habits like cooking, although he can throw together ham and eggs. He describes his kitchen prowess as "I'm a short order cook." His favorite foods are steaks, Italian dishes, and any highly seasoned foods.

"Primarily, I'm a meat man," he went on, "although once in a while I toy with a few vegetables."

The more you talk to Nat the more aware you are of his easy-going attitude and his sharp sense of humor. His close friends are always amazed that he can take so much pressure and so many problems and not be upset by them.

Calm?

"Oh, once in a while when I'm pressed too hard I can blow up," Nat said, "but it takes a lot to get me mad. Sure I'm easy-going, but I keep problems bottled up. I may be hurt by someone or I may feel real mad and I just suffer inside, so no one knows then how I feel. I paid for this kind of attitude too a couple of years ago when I developed an ulcer. It's all gone now."

Nat may be easy-going as a person but he can be a firm and positive father if the occasion warrants it. He admits, though, that Maria does the better job of training the girls.

"I try not to spoil them, but how can you avoid it?" Nat asked. "Maria is more exact with them. For one thing, she insists that TV goes off at a definite time each evening, and Cooky is allowed no personal calls after seven-thirty. She was on the phone so much we had to get her her own phone. On the whole, our girls are well-behaved youngsters," Nat added with pride.

His girls are certainly trained to keep their room and their clothes neat. Nat is meticulous about hanging up his suits and shirts and about seeing that there is no clutter in his room. Yet, when he goes on the road with his night club act he admits he can't seem to stop piling up towels in his hotel room.

That he is a well-dressed man everyone knows. He was recently named one of the ten best dressed men in the country. He has an extensive wardrobe, which is a necessity for him because of his work, but as he says, "It isn't how many suits you have that determine if you're well dressed."

Nat switched the talk to his NBC-TV show which has zoomed up the ladder, even though it is only a fifteen-minute program. He finds television perplexing at times but exciting.

"I'm just now beginning to feel confident about my work on TV," Nat admitted. "As for my doing movies, all I can say is that there must be a certain amount of Spam in me. I say Spam because I'm just bordering on the ham."

The bets are that Nat will find almost as much success as a straight actor as he has found as a singer — so where does this talented guy stop?

The super-talented singer who weaves romance around a song is now on TV and in the movies. But what is his life at home like? Here's a revealing and candid picture of the man at his fireside.

By Jack Holland

COOKY, NAT'S OLDEST DAUGHTER, is like all young girls with her passion for phones. She has her own phone now. Her younger sister, Sweetie, is more interested in music at the moment.

NAT AND HIS WIFE, MARIA, enjoy a quiet evening in their beautiful home. The Capitol recurring artist and the NBC-TV star gives full credit to his wife for her very astute management of the house and of him. (NBC color-photos—Frank Carroll)

Tom Duggan:

A GOOD OR BAD INFLUENCE ON LOCAL TV?

Just as the KCOP personality has HIS own opinions — so does the audience who watches him. Some say he is dangerous for TV. His supporters find him a delightful devil who is not afraid to speak the truth as he sees it. Should Duggan be allowed to continue his completely un-rehearsed program on the air? The answer is here.

By Ted Hilgenstuhler

GOO outspoken. Too controversial. Can't possibly fill an hour and a half on TV just by ad-libbing. Won't last. Give him a month — he'll be off the air.

That's what many said when Tom Duggan started on KCOP a year ago. The year has come and gone. And free-talking Tom is still hanging around Channel 13 every night — and getting paid very well for it. About 50 grand a year. "Which ain't no small potatoes," according to the money-conscious Irishman from Chicago.

Longevity, of course, is no criterion for success on TV, or any place else for that matter. Sometimes it is an indication, but never positive proof in itself. So just because Duggan has lasted longer than many people thought he would, it is no reason to label him a smashing success.

There are still countless anti-Duggan fans. They say he's a "bad influence" on the TV industry. In the opposite corner, the pro-Dugganites claim "he's the best thing to happen to local TV in a long, long time."

That's the purpose of this feature: to discuss whether Mr. Duggan is a good or bad thing for television.

There's little argument from anyone that off-camera the six-feet-three-inch ex-plumber is a pretty nice guy. Polite.

Fine sense of humor. And a leveler. Without batting those pretty blue eyes, he'll let you know what he thinks about anything you ask him. Even the much-publicized episode of a few months ago when his Indian wife, Ann, took after him with a gun.

"Some of the station officials even liked the loads of publicity we got on that story," Tom explains, smiling as usual. "But they did have one complaint: they said I could have at least waited until rating week!"

Money-Minded

In person, Tom seldom knocks anyone. Maybe a gangster, or a notorious boxing promoter. But never anyone who is trying to make a honest buck for himself. That, after all, is exactly what Tom is doing. He makes no bones about it: "I'm in this business for money. Period."

Although some people may be surprised to read this, Duggan never purposely tries to embarrass anyone in public. He does put his interviewers on the defensive continuously. That's the secret to his method. Keep them talking about themselves.

"It's the same as when we were kids standing on the street corner. We rib each other. Find a weak spot and capitalize on it. But never anything vicious," Tom explains.

"I have never started out to 'get someone' on the air and try to make him look foolish. There have been some crackpots on my show whom I wanted to expose that were. But I always tell those kind in advance what kind of questions I am going to ask."

It may also surprise some people in Southern California that they are seeing a pretty mild, soft-spoken and easy-going Tom Duggan every week night on Channel 13. At least he's mild in comparison to the constant crusading he did in Chicago for several years on both NBC and ABC. As Tom says, "that Chicago program was a real-life version of 'Gangbusters'."

"That's one reason the networks have never wanted anything to do with me," he admits. "They think I'm too independent. And they're probably right."

"NOTH-ING!" says producer Irwin Berke about his boss, Tom Duggan. "That goes double for him," says Tom. Actually, in real life they are the closest of friends. (Green & Tillisch photos.)

"When I came to Los Angeles, I took it easy on so-called crusades. I'd been through that mill in Chicago and wanted no part of it. I still feel that way. I'm in sort of a semi-retirement out here."

Duggan has seldom been "called on the carpet" by his boss, Mr. Jack Heintz, and other KCOP officials.

"At election time, they did feel I was pushing the Democrats too hard. Understandably, they were worried about being asked for equal air time. So I laid off a little. I was probably getting just as many votes for the Republicans because of the Democrats and Independents who dislike me," he laughs.

About the only subject that Duggan has on his "verboten" list is religion. He occasionally takes a few cracks at the Irish-Catholics, but being one himself, he thinks this is somewhat justifiable.

Because Tom is the sole monitor of his own program, and has unlimited freedom to speak on whatever subject he pleases, some people feel this is giving one man too much authority, too much power.

Tom doesn't feel that way.

"I think that the audience realizes that I am just one guy giving his own personal opinion."

Films — Phooey!

On the positive side of the ledger there can be little doubt in anyone's mind that local TV stations — in Southern California as well as throughout the United States — need more programs like Tom's. Too many local stations are taking the easy way out these days and buying a bunch of old movies and half-hour syndicated programs. They flood the airwaves with these mostly meaningless and silly films — and show a nice profit for it.

Whether they know it or not, however, these same tactics are destroying the real value of TV. Too much lazy programming takes the real spark, the real creativity out of TV. This should never be allowed to happen.

Whatever happened to that thing called "spontaneity"? When TV first hit the market this was the one factor that everyone raved about on TV: it was "live," going on right before your eyes. This was life itself. And that's exactly the kind of a show that Tom Duggan tries to put on each and every night.

It's not on film, or rehearsed to a T, or fixed in any way. This is eye-to-eye, man-to-man talk. Completely ad-lib. And completely unrehearsed.

Tom not only usually avoids meeting the person he is going to interview on the air, but even when he does meet them he talks about every subject under the sun except the one that he is going to use on the air. At 11 o'clock when he takes a short break, while Baxter Ward presents the news, even then Tom doesn't bother to plan what he is going to say.

"I don't think I really have to," he explains. "After all, when you've been doing this type of ad-lib show as long as I have, you don't have to go through hours of preparation."

"I have two main objectives: I never really try to hurt anyone on the air. And I try my best to give the audience the most for their time, and the sponsor the most for his money."

"After all, if you can't keep the sponsors happy, you'll have no show at all."

One-Man Task Force

Behind the scenes, Irwin Berke produces Tom's show. He puts in a full day at the KCOP studios and is considered by insiders a "one-man TV task force," and one of the sharpest producers to come upon the local scene in many a moon.

"Neither Tom nor I ever really know when a show is going to be good. Sometimes we think we have a natural and it falls flat. Other times, when we think we have a dud, the questions and audience reaction and an unexpectedly interesting guest make the program a real success," Berke explains.

According to Tom, some of his best interviews were with Zsa Zsa Gabor, Henry Armstrong, Jack Dempsey, Maxie Rosenbloom, Billy Pearson, Pamela Mason and two of his unofficial regulars, Harry Hines and Joe Frisco. The latter two, Tom even pays occasionally out of his own pocket. The rest of the guests are only too happy to appear for free.

In conclusion, whether the TV audience loves or abhors Duggan's uninhibited TV tongue, he is a definite shot in the arm for local TV. If the day should ever come when local TV will not tolerate a Tom Duggan — when it will merely rest on its filmed laurels and rack in the dough — that's the day we should all be aware of.

If TV ever loses its "live" spark of creativity — good or bad — it will destroy its own electronic birthright. For that reason alone the Tom Duggans of TV are not only a good thing — they are an absolute necessity.

TOM'S PRESENT PLAN is to have different girls take the place of Judy Jones, who is now married. Judy played "the dumb, innocent role" on Tom's show, but in reality she's pretty sharp and has ambitions to be a topnotch actress and singer.

ALTHOUGH THEY DO A LOT OF KIDDING with each other "on camera," Tom is fully aware that Irwin Berke is one of the sharpest and best producers in town. Also contrary to the "feud" they had on the air, Irwin and ex-Girl Friday, Judy Jones, are the best of friends.
