WHY IT'S LATE • FCC will announce this week availability of updated version of its guide to political broadcasting which was first issued during 1956 campaigns. It's doubtful that new guide will contain lively story of intra-Commission wrangle that delayed revision. Certain staff members put pressure on FCC members to accept as policy staff-written letter to Fort Smith, Ark., candidate saying he could use equal time any way he chose. If FCC members had gone along, whole concept of its political guide-that equal time and other provisions of law pertain only to candidates—would have gone out window (see story page 9).

Triumvirate of FCC staff officials assigned to end-all tv allocations study, with report due at year-end, comprises Harold Cowgill, Broadcast Bureau chief; Hart Cowperthwait, chief, Rules & Standards Div., and H. H. Goldin, chief, Economics Div. Group has visited RCA and GE labs seeking information on uhf and vhf developments, plans further visits to other key broadcast equipment manufacturers such as Sylvania, Motorola, Zenith. Working on specifics of varying allocations problems is Broadcast Bureau engineering team of Louis R. Rein, McIvor L. Parker and, from Chief Engineer's office, Arthur Skrivseth.

PANIC BUTTON • One major network has engineers working on problem which could create perpetual state of jitters among its executives. Engineers are trying to develop miniature version of Arbitron instant ratings board which shows, minute-by-minute, ratings of competing television programs. Miniatures, if they work out, would be installed in private offices of executives. It would be system hardly calculated to ease pressure on producers.

Arbitron's New York instant ratings system has been running for past month and may now be regarded as fully established. Six of seven New York stations have made firm deals for Arbitron daily service of complete city ratings. During September four stations took reports, on temporary, trial basis.

MUTUAL MULTIPLES • Appointment of David W. Hearst, publisher of Los Angeles Herald & Express, as director of Mutual Broadcasting System may pose eventual problems for both Hearst and MBS if new ownership of network carries out its intent of acquiring its full quota of radio and television stations. MBS now owns no stations but A. L. Guterma, head of parent F. L. Jacobs Co. and president of MBS, has announced intention of acquiring full complement.

Conflict might arise because of FCC's rigid application of multiple ownership rules. Hearst properties include three radio and three tv stations (WBAL-AM-TV Baltimore, WCAE and WTAE-TV Pittsburgh, and WISN-AM-TV Milwaukee). Multiple ownership rules specify that single entity may not hold licenses for more than seven am and fm stations and five vhf tv stations, plus two uhfs. Most minute stock ownership has in the past been held to constitute unit in multiple ownership cases and even directorships of companies whose licenses exceed ownership limits have been questioned. Mr. Hearst does not now own any MBS stock.

MADE IN CANADA . Canadian Broadcasting Corp. is not adverse to admitting it is under virtual mandate from government which subsidizes it to get into export market with much bigger splash than initial exposure of Toronto-produced Encounter, which was to premiere in U. S. Oct. 5 in Sunday 9:30-10:30 p.m. period on ABC-TV. Canada wants CBC to pay its own way, if possible. Both CBC and ABC-TV are pacing Madison Ave. to sell show, set for four-week trial. CBC's acein-hole: subsidized quality productions at lower cost than U. S., which at flick of Bell System switch and U. S. network participations can become single origination two-country vehicle for major advertiser, or regional splits.

New decisions on plans for its future tv activity can be expected from Loew's Inc. MGM-TV division. MGM-TV has two of its films on network tv—The Thin Man and Northwest Passage—awaits green light for production of new tv pilots, especially mystery series long in works and bearing working title of Jeopardy. For some time, MGM-TV has been looking into possible tv film syndication.

ADVICE OF COUNSEL • FCC's action last week, announcing inquiry into allegations of ex parte representations in grant of ch. 9 to WLOF-TV Orlando, Fla., (story page 52) was to be expected. Before FCC General Counsel Warren Baker resigned last month, he left official memorandum strongly urging that reference to alleged improprieties mentioned before House Legislative Oversight Committee be fully investigated. He insisted no other course remained for Commission—for its own protection.

Application for purchase of what is now KPRC-FM (ch. 275—102.9 mc.) from Houston Post Co. by Paul E. Taft, former president and general manager of KGUL-TV Houston, being filed with FCC this week. Purchase price understood to be about $20,000 for physical assets which include 29.5 kw transmitter. Mr. Taft is no longer identified with management of KGUL-TV but continues as 10% stockholder. He also owns minority interest in KIIM Fort Worth.

UP THE LADDER • Paul M. McDonough, who succeeds Joseph M. Sitrick as chief assistant to FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer, has been in line for promotion for some time. He was considered for chief of Opinions & Review office, in which he has worked for last 18 months, after John L. FitzGerald had been appointed general counsel last month. Appointment was given to Donald J. Berkemeyer, whose longer service in division and at FCC weighed in his favor.

To be announced shortly will be election of J. Glen Taylor, former vice president of RKO Teleradio Pictures Inc., as president and chief executive officer of Tidewater Teleradio Inc. (WAVY-AM-TV) Norfolk-Portsmouth. He succeeds Hunter C. Phelan, who becomes chairman of board and executive committee. Carl J. Burkland stays as executive vice president.

SUPER SATURATION • Pepsi-Cola's four-network radio push is heavy [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Sept. 15] but technique is not new. Some 25 Allied Stores, for example, currently use multi-station method, which Allied took up year ago after long testing. To demonstrate: North Shore Shopping Center, Peabody, Mass., is using nine stations simultaneously—with same commercial on all stations within same five-minute period. Theory: If they're listening to radio, they can't miss this commercial.

What will American Oil Co. do at end of the pro-football season? Former network advertiser (CBS-TV's Person to Person) will decide this week what film property to toss into its area of about 60 markets. Leading contender seems to be CBS Film Sales' U. S. Border Patrol, with other properties under consideration being ITC-TPA's Cannonball and MCA Tv Ltd.'s Secret Agent 7. Deal, if consummated, would probably cost Amoco excess of $1 million. Joseph Katz Co., New York-Baltimore, is agency.

READY TO DEAL • With retention of Emanuel Dannett, New York attorney, as counsel, All-Industry Radio Music License Committee is prepared to enter prompt negotiations with ASCAP on licenses prior to expiration Dec. 31 (see story page 76). Since its formation in Los Angeles last April, radio negotiating committee has attracted some 450 station members and reportedly has in excess of $50,000 in assets.

FCC Reverses Staff On Equal Time Ruling

FCC reversed field Friday in contentious Sec. 315 interpretation of last July which seemingly would have required broadcast stations to permit political candidate to turn over microphone to "authorized spokesmen."

In letter to NAB President Harold Fellows, FCC said staff's views in July letter to D. L. Grace, Fort Smith, Ark., were not consistent with interpretations of Sec. 315 as construed by Commission. After detailing circumstances, Commission referred to question and answer No. 1 in 1954 public notice on use of broadcast facilities by candidates. This specifically states that equal time provision applies only to legally qualified candidates, not to supporters.

Clarification of July interpretation was requested last month by NAB which foresaw 'sheer chaos' for broadcasters attempting to follow ruling [AT DEADLINE, Sept. 15].

Original ruling was made when Mr. Grace, candidate in Democratic primary

SENATOR HEARD FROM

Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) Friday (Oct. 3) wired strongly-worded protest to NBC Board Chairman Robert Sarnoff on cancellation of several local, live shows on network's owned WNBQ (TV) Chicago. Senator pointed out he had written Mr. Sarnoff on subject 18 months ago.

Senator said at least six local, live shows had been cancelled in favor of network originations, mostly on film, from New York and Hollywood. "I thought your company had assured me that this would not happen," Sen. Douglas wired Mr. Sarnoff, "but now it has and may I remind you that the airwaves belong to the public and that you are simply allowed to use them as long as you serve the public. . . .

"The great Midwest . . . should not be made a tame listening post to New York and Hollywood and deprived of opportunity of expression on your network. I must protest your action and ask for a return of this time to local programs. . . ."

Three of four Chicago station managers involved on Friday condemned American Federation of Television and Radio Artists Chicago chapter's complaints to FCC and congressional committees (see early story, page 66) as "irresponsible, foolish and erroneous."

for representative to Arkansas General Assembly, complained to FCC that KFPW Fort Smith refused to furnish him equal time. He stated that J. B. Garner, competitor for same nomination (who won), was employe of station as commentator, news broadcaster and special feature announcer, and that station did not see eye-to-eye with him on comparable time, equal use of facilities and restriction on use of facilities to candidate himself rather than to authorized spokesmen.

KFGO Pays $10,000 to Settle $2.4 Million Libel Action

Farmers Union $2.4 million political libel suit against KFGO Fargo, N. D., settled out of court Friday (Oct. 3) for $10,000, counsel for plaintiff announced. Suit was filed in federal court as result of campaign broadcast by congressional candidate A. C. Townley [STATIONS, Sept. 22].

In addition to cash payment, KFGO extended public retraction and statement of regret and covenant was agreed upon to dismiss suit and precluding further action.

Farmers Union suit against Mr. Townley still in courts. Union also sued Mr. Townley and WDAY-TV Fargo for statements made by candidate in 1956 campaign. North Dakota Supreme Court ruled station is not liable for candidate's statements and union has appealed to U. S. Supreme Court [Government, Aug. 11].

NBC Takes On Production Of Barry-Enright Quizzes

NBC-TV today (Oct. 6) takes temporary but direct production supervision of tv quiz shows Twenty One, Tic Tac Dough, Concentration and Dough Re Mi, formerly handled by NBC-owned Barry & Enright Productions. Twenty-One is one of two quiz shows in New York grand jury probe and target of rigging charges by two former contestants [AT DEADLINE, Sept. 29; NETWORKS, Sept. 1, et seq.]

NBC-TV move was made at request of Jack Barry and Dan Enright, who want time to devote to "disproving the unfounded charges against the integrity" of B-E shows. Although they haven't found evidence of "wrong-doing," they said charges and publicity "have raised questions" in viewers' minds. All B & E shows will be supervised by NBC-TV's program department with network program executive assigned to each.

Meanwhile, New York District Attorney Frank Hogan, whose office is investigating quiz shows, told news conference in Elmira, N. Y. (on campaign tour), that his office is getting thousands of letters daily on shows, 75% of them critical. He said mail flow was heaviest of any case in his 17 years in office.

BUSINESS BRIEFLY

Late-breaking items about broadcast business; for earlier news, see ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, page 34.

UNDECIDED • The Texas Co. (Texaco gasoline, petroleum products), N. Y., up to close of business Friday (Oct. 3) had not yet come through with expected decision to sponsor new hour-long Man of the Hour on CBS-TV. Company approval of program was believed imminent. Show would be scheduled on once-a-month basis, Texas signature ending long search for network tv vehicle (last season it sponsored series of specials on NBC-TV). Cunningham & Walsh, N. Y., is Texaco's agency.

OUT AND IN • Pillsbury Mills, out of CBS-TV's Playhouse 90, signed $1 million package deal with NBC-TV that includes alternate-week sponsorship of Buckeye (effective Oct. 10) and participations in other NBC shows including Cimarron City. Alternate Buckeye shows still unsold. Order placed through Leo Burnett, Chicago.

SHORT RUN • R. J. Reynolds Tobacco (apparently for Winston cigarettes), Winston-Salem, N. C., has signed for short-term sponsorship of Northwest Passage on NBC-TV and will alternate weekly with RCA. Reynolds contract is for five shows, from Oct. 12 through Nov. 30. Reynolds agency is William Esty Co., N. Y.

K&E Gets $6.5 Million In Pabst Business From NC&K

Pabst Brewing Co. has reassigned bulk of advertising (about $6.5 million for Pabst Blue Ribbon and Andeker Draught Supreme beers, Old Tankard ale), consolidating account with Blatz beer at Kenyon & Eckhardt, effective Feb. 1, 1959. Grey continues with Hoffman and Pabst sparkling beverages and Young & Rubicam for Eastside Old Tap Lager. Norman, Craig & Kummel, losing the reassigned products had serviced them since May 1957, with all Pabst business billing roughly $3 million in network and spot tv.

Theodore Rosenak, Pabst vice president in charge of advertising, attributed decision to belief it would achieve "better liaison and closer contact by consolidating Pabst and Blatz in one agency with a fully-staffed Chicago office."

Miami Trials Likely For Mack, Whiteside

Prospect appeared Friday (Oct. 3) that criminal trial of former FCC Comr. Richard A. Mack and his lawyer friend, Thurman A. Whiteside, will be held in Miami. Both came up for arraignment Friday in federal district court in Washington on grand jury indictment of two weeks ago [LEAD STORY, Sept. 29].

Attorney for Mr. Whiteside asked for permission to file motion for change of venue. This was granted by U. S. District Judge Burnita S. Matthews. Mr. Whiteside pleaded "not guilty" to charge he conspired to influence Miami ch. 10 grant to National Airlines.

Mr. Mack was not present at arraignment proceedings. Nicholas J. Chase, Washington attorney for Mr. Mack, asked Judge Matthews for 30-day postponement of former commissioner's appearance (see earlier story page 56). Mr. Chase submitted affidavits from two Miami physicians attesting that Mr. Mack is in Miami Medical Center with fractured right rib and "suffering from extreme emotional stress and anxiety. . ." Doctors also said this condition "has become worsened."

Government attorney Robert J. Rosthal, Justice Dept. lawyer who presented case to grand jury, asked that U. S. attorney in Miami be permitted to check on Mr. Mack's condition before ruling is made on postponement request. Mr. Rosthal said government has no wish "to harass or persecute an ill man" but felt Mr. Mack's condition should be investigated. Judge Matthews agreed, gave government week to report back.

Judge set Jan. 6 for trial of Mr. Whiteside, gave his attorney 30 days to file motion for change of venue and reply to indictment. Government has 30 days additional to file replies to these pleadings. Bond for Mr. Whiteside was set at $1,000 at suggestion of government.

Richard H. Hunt, Mr. Whiteside's attorney, said that change of venue would be asked since all witnesses, records and corporations involved are in Miami. He said it would be most convenient for all concerned to hold trial in Miami, and government would save money, too. Arthur J. Hilland, Washington attorney, also represented Mr. Whiteside.

N. Y. Local for SAG-AFTRA Deal

Members of New York local of Screen Actors Guild reported Friday that local has approved merger with American Federation of Television & Radio Artists "in the field of television" by a vote of 217 to 2. AFTRA repeatedly has sought consolidation with SAG but latter union has rejected proposal.

SAG officials in New York were not available for comment on balloting, since they were attending National Labor Relations Board hearing on AFTRA's petition for referendum in videotape commercial field (see page 83). New York local's resolution calls on SAG to "implement merger" with AFTRA and, failing this, suggests that matter should be "submitted to a referendum of the entire membership."

New Orleans U-V Test Hit

WJTV (TV) Jackson, Miss., Friday asked FCC to suspend ch. 12 experimental operation of WJMR-TV New Orleans (which officially operates on ch. 20) in view of mandate of U.S. Court of Appeals handed down last week. Court last May by two to one decision told FCC to give WJTV-also operating on ch. 12—hearing on allegations that WJMR-TV "was not proposing a bona fide experiment" with its dual operation. Early last year FCC allocated ch. 12 to New Orleans. Uhf WJMR-TV asked permission to experiment with dual broadcasting from ch. 20 site. Commission granted experimental authorization last autumn. WJTV protested, claiming site was 28 miles less than required 190 mile separation for co-channel operations. FCC ordered WJMR-TV to lower ch. 12 antenna height and power, but WJTV claimed this was still in violation of minimum separation requirements. Although appeals court reversed Commission last May, mandate was held in abeyance while WJMR-TV filed unsuccessful petitions for rehearing.

takes plenty of know-how

No matter how simple it looks, keeping atop a bongo board is no cinch. And keeping a radio station at the top-spot in a major market is a hundred times more difficult. The many complex elements which give radio its tremendous selling power are mostly local in nature. To blend these elements into an overall program structure that can hold commanding leadership in audience and in sales-influence, calls for great creative skill on the part of station management. Yes, Local Radio Programming is a difficult, exacting job — but in most areas at least one station operator has mastered it. In a substantial number of the top 100 markets, that station is represented by

THE TEXAN

It's too early in the tv western season to snap-judge the new batch of horse operas for the duration. But CBS-TV's the Texan, on the basis of the first show "Law of the Gun," is a tough hombre played by Rory Calhoun with rakish hat and smoking six-shooter and a substantial dose of the unbelievable.

Mr. Calhoun plays Bill Longley the Texan, a deadly gunman whose gun shoots on the side of justice. In the Monday premiere, the Texan was called in by a rancher who is involved in a range war and is jailed by his enemies on a rigged murder charge. There is full standard fare: the horse chase, the jail wall pulled down by a wagon team, an unsuccessful lynching attempt and much man-to-man, eye-level stares. At the hotel bar, drinks are tossed off in the old western tradition.

Also on the program: a couple of Viceroy commercials—boasting of a "thinking man's filter" and a "smoking man's taste," another for the cigarette delivered by a smiling Rory Calhoun—an upsetting contrast to the grim and silent Calhoun who is the Texan. A typical Kool commercial featuring the antics of the penguin was on the program, too, relieving some of the smoke generated by hot gun barrels.

Production costs: Approximately $37,000. Sponsored by Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp., through Ted Bates on CBS-TV, Mon. 8-8:30 p.m. EDT. Started Sept. 29. Executive producers: Rory Calhoun & Victor Orsatti; producer: Jerry Stagg; director: Jerry Thorpe; writer: Frank Morse (from a story by Frank Gruber).

FURTHER ADVENTURES OF ELLERY QUEEN

Because sequels are often flops, it is a pleasure to report that NBC-TV's The Further Adventures of Ellery Queen made a fine debut Sept. 26 with "The Glass Town." If the same levels of acting, writing and particularly imaginative camera work are maintained, the live mystery series (in color) should win a considerable following.

As the gentleman-detective, George Nader was properly analytical and sardonic although Ellery Queen purists may dispute the opening and closing shots of the intellectual supreme warmly embracing a curvaceous blonde. No one else could. But it was the supporting players as citizens of the dying, yet terribly proud, New England town who made the hour tingle. When an elderly woman painter of Shinn's Corners was beaten to death, the insular townsfolk were quick to accuse a passing vagrant, played with compelling fear by David Opatoshu.

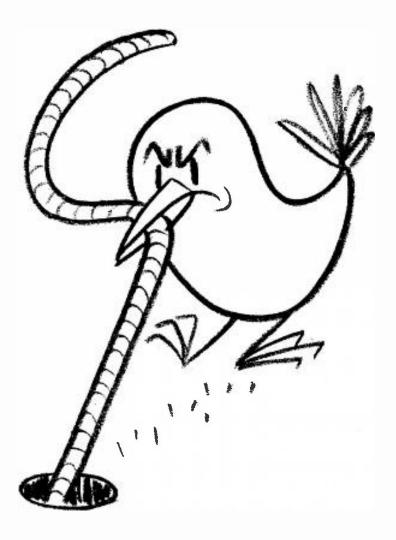

As Judge Shinn, veteran Vaughan Taylor provided a welcome restraint to the undisciplined emotions of his fellow citizens. In addition, there were flashes of humor, the comic relief necessary in the starkest tragedy, which was further proof of the excellent writing.

Truly outstanding was the camera work by the director who realized the promise of live television with his superb use of the "cameo" technique. Executive producer

Albert McCleery (who produced the late and lamented Matinee Theatre) has been quoted as saying "We're going to spend more money for scripts and actors, not costly props and sets." Mr. McCleery's philosophy was tellingly applied in "The Glass Town," whose budget was half the normal amount for a live hour show.

There is increasing evidence that the mystery is making a strong comeback and may eventually supersede the western as the "smart thing to produce." The Further Adventures of Ellery Queen would be an excellent (if not the) criterion for anyone with a series in mind.

Production costs: Approximately $55,000

Sponsored by RCA, through Kenyon & Eckhardt, on NBC-TV, Fri., 8-9 p.m. EDT. Started Sept. 26.

THE RIFLEMAN

Odds are that The Rifleman will be just another bright face to mill in the crowd of westerns. With television already over-saturated with this fare, ABC-TV's new offering comes at a time when only exceptional scripting, acting and production could save a horse opera from anonymity. While good by western standards, The Rifleman doesn't rate these superlatives.

The particular gimmick in this series is star Chuck Connors' prowess with the rifle. As a widower, he disdains the familiar six shooters in teaching his 12-year-old son the proper use of firearms. If the theme of the first program is a criterion, the series will have its quota of showdowns on the main street, in the saloon, etc.

In casting Mr. Connors in the lead, the producers have fallen back on the cleanshaven, handsome features too typical of western tv leading men. This stereotype selection only tends to make The Rifleman just one of the crowd. Whatever happened to the scraggly-chinned, bowlegged waddies of Clarence Muldoon's writings; the heroes who lent believable qualities to early western fiction?

Production costs: Approximately $35,000. Sponsored by Procter & Gamble Co. through Benton & Bowles, Miles Labs through Geoffrey Wade and Ralston Purina through Gardner on ABC-TV, Tuesday, 9-9:30 p.m. Started Sept. 30.

THE ED WYNN SHOW

Ed Wynn's entrance in the role of John Beamer, an elderly widower raising two granddaughters in a small college town, is a welcome addition to television's family of situation comedies. Starring in NBC-TV's filmed series (Thursday, 8-8:30 p.m.) Ed Wynn should attract and entertain a large following this season with his enthusiastic portrayal of the wily widower. Mr. Wynn's infectious humor will delight viewers who remember him from the "baggy pants" era and will appeal equally well to the younger generation with his current format. The show is designed especially to acquaint a new generation with the genial Mr. Wynn. Although the plot for the premiere show Sept. 25 was overly contrived in the attempt to introduce cast members, who already seem to be happily employed under Mr. Wynn's magic spell, the ingredients are at hand for some very lively evenings ahead.

Production costs: $42,000.

Sponsored by Liggett & Myers for Chesterfield cigarettes and Bulova Watch Co., on alternate weeks, both through McCann-Erickson, on NBC-TV Thursday, 8-8:30 p.m. EDT. Started Sept. 25.

Starring Ed Wynn and featuring Jacklyn O'Donnell, Sherry Alberoni, Herb Vigran and Jesslyn Fax.

Producer: Ben Feiner Jr., for Screen Gems. Produced by: Thalia-Keethwyn Productions in association with Screen Gems Inc.

Directors and writers: various. Premiere show director: William Russell. Premiere show writer: Devery Freeman.

DONNA REED SHOW

This is a situation comedy with a vengeance. Not content to deal with one major complication each week, the Donna Reed Show takes on a half-dozen at a crack.

Miss Reed is the wife of a pediatrician and the mother of two children (a fairly standard tv family size: one boy, one girl). She is the standout star, due not so much to her own talent as to the lack of it in the others of her cast.

In the opener the major plot was to get her too-busy husband off for a weekend with the family. In the doing Miss Reed (1) talks a bachelor obstretician into subbing for husband, (2) persuades a banker friend out of a Saturday court case in which husband would have to be a witness, (3) discovers that a young patient isn't sick after all and thereby gets husband over that obstacle, (4) gets a neighbor to take over a party which she was supposed to give but which husband forgot to tell her about, and (5) in the end, when young son comes down with chicken pox, saves the day by converting the outing to a home affair. There were others, but the adding machine lost count.

If both cast and viewers aren't completely worn out in the first episodes, the series probably will settle into an unspectacular but comfortable niche for the season.

Production costs: Approximately $45,000. Sponsored by Campbell Soup through BBDO and Shulton through Wesley Assoc. on "What do you think of when I say 'Iowa'?"

The questioner, a beardless non-Freudian with hair crewed, and a vest, looked down expectantly.

Scene: Sub-basement of the Sherry-Netherlands. A depth interview progresses. Shall we keep evesdropping? Let's. We didn't buy this two-color page to have you stop now.

The respondent's answer came through a canape. (Courtesy of WMT-TV. We don't fool around. This is called free sampling.)

"Rich prairie state. 56,280 square miles; nicknamed Hawkeye State; flower, the wild rose: motto, Our liberties we prize and our rights we will maintain; admitted to the Union in 1846. 734,600 tv homes. 88.1% saturation."

"Please be a little less specific," cautioned the interviewer. "You'll make this look too easy.

"Sorry, old shoe. It just buzzed off the lip. Try me on another."
"Eastern Iowa!"

"WMT-TV."

"Tsk tsk. Try and hold it down ... Eastern Iowa!"

"Punctured clouds, towering antenna, good living. CBS eye, oats rolling, smoke stacking"

"Splendid. Now we're not getting some place. Keep obfuscating."
"398,600 tv homes in WMT-TV coverage area."

"No no NO! Vague it up."

"400,000 homes?"

"Better."

"More than half the tv homes in Iowa?"

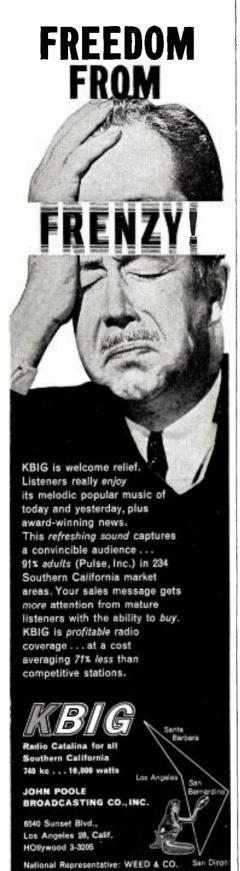

"Splendid. Now who did you say you were?"

"I sell time for certain stations the Katz Agency represents."

Evaluation of interview. Note the remarkable response to preselected Iowa stimuli. As an aid to conceptualization of the impact achieved by previous promotional efforts, this is revealing. The technique, which appears to be simple, is. To minimize workassociation coloration (and risk of unfavorable response) audience is chosen by controlled random method. Much calculation, summarization and haggling over details is eliminated by the number of respondents (one). The value of dividing by unity cannot be exaggerated. Standard deviation becomes a thing of the past; dichotomous conflict is almost never encountered if care is exercised in selecting only non-schizoid respondents.

Our boy goofed in one area, though. He neglected to punch out fact that Cedar Rapids, Waterloo, and Dubuque, three of Iowa's six largest metropolitan areas, give Channel 2 (us) the nod too.

THE OLDSMOBILE SHOW

Girl singer-type shows can't be made better than the girl singers they employ, but they can be made worse. The latter was the fate of Patti Page in the 1957-58 season of her The Big Record on CBS-TV. She is getting a better break on her new ABC series.

Production on her opening show was slick if at times a trifle too busy; at one point it threatened to explode into the kind of complicated montage to which movie musicals should be given exclusive rights. But on the whole, it was a pleasant half-hour-the sort that builds faithful audiences.

Miss Page is likeable and professional in her approach to a song. Most of the time, on the opening show, those qualities were enhanced instead of overcome by the production she was given. As long as that remains the case, she is practically guaranteed a successful season.

EDITOR:

In nearly 30 years of constant reading of the "bible" of the broadcasting industry, this is the first time I have asked the editor to note a correction of fact for future reference.

The headline ["AFM Allocates $6.2 Million for Free Trust Fund Concerts," Personnel Relations, Sept. 22] is one that causes me to grieve, but not to the point of tears. I spend a certain proportion of my waking hours trying with small success to explain to the press, my friends and to many in the public who perhaps cannot be so described, that I am not a union representative, but was named by the industry, whom, in fact, I represent. The fund is the Recording Industry Fund, not the AFM fund. It is not AFM which "allocates" the expenditure. I do it, as required by the indenture.

EDITOR:

I read with great interest your article "Three-Way Spotlight Focuses on Trend to Air Editorials" [Trade Assns., Sept. 15]. You state that an all-station survey revealed that 36% of radio stations editorialize. However, further down you indicate your information comes from questionnaires from am and tv stations only.

I don't know about other markets, but here in Tacoma if you leave the "fm only" station (KTWR) out of a survey on the question of radio editorials, you have a distorted picture. KTWR is the only station here that airs editorials on two 15-minute programs each week by the general manager. This indicates why fm stations must be included in any all-station survey to provide a high degree of accuracy.

Thomas Wilmot Read General Manager KTWR (FM) Tacoma, Wash.

[EDITOR'S NOTE: A pilot survey preceding the general survey indicated no independently-programmed fm stations editorializing regularly. Mr. Read's situation would seem to be fairly unique, and would not affect the results of the overall survey.]

Read what WBRE-TV's Chief Engineer Charles Sakoski, Sr. says about the RCA-6806 high-power beam tube:

"It is my candid opinion that you have something big in the 6806. One of our 6806 final amplifiers has passed its 11,000th hour of highly satisfactory transmission at full output power and the other 6806 is approaching its 10,000th hour of useful life. The drive power required and output efficiency of these tubes are the same as the day they were installed.

"I wish to point out that we are not squeezing out the last few hours of life from these tubes. All applied voltages including filament remain the same as the day the tubes were installed. Considering the initial cost of the 11,000 plus hour tube, the cost per hour to us is approximately 56 cents and is still going down each hour it is used. Consider the fact that UHF frequencies, one megawatt of power, and color transmission are involved."

Chief Engineer Charles Sakoski, Sr. checking life records of the RCA-6806 (note the 6806 in the PA cavity).

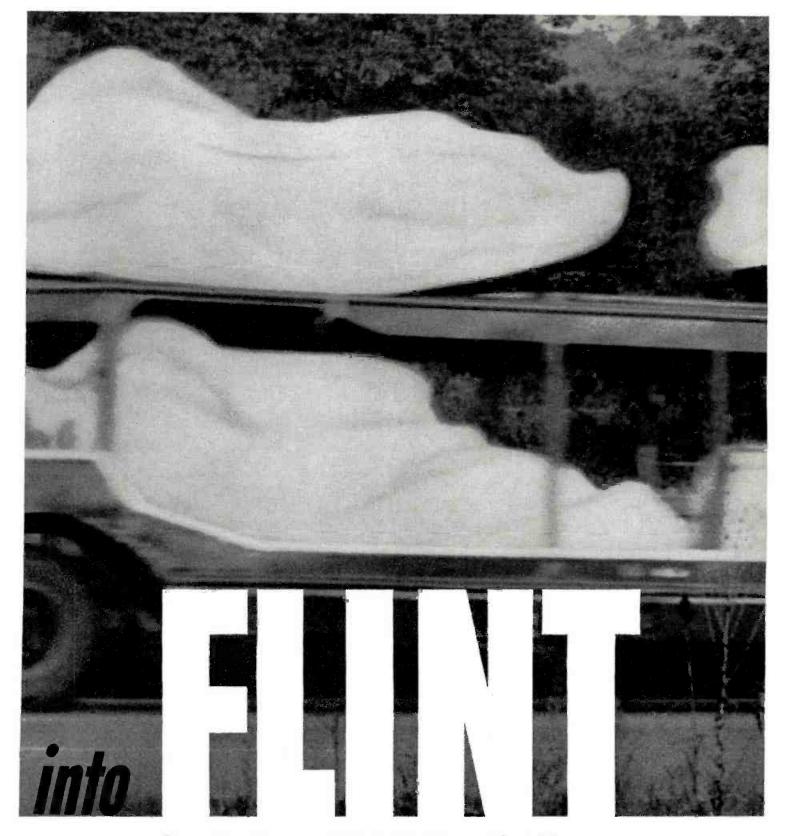

Authorized to operate with a visual power of 1000 kw, ERP, and an aural power of 515 kw, ERP, WBRE-TV is not only making TV station history on Channel 28-WBRE-TV also is setting a record for long tube life in high-power UHF.

WBRE-TV's enthusiastic report on low tube cost per hour of transmitter operation is just one instance among many in which broadcast and television stations are getting "high mileage" on RCA power tubes.

Where lower transmitter tube cost is the goal, RCA power tubes are the answer. Your RCA Electron Tube Distributor stands ready to serve your needs promptly. Just call him.

to George Richard Comte

BEING No. 2 man to a No. 1 man can be both demanding and rewarding. Take the case of George Comte, who just stepped out of the No. 2 spot to take over the reins of WTMJ-AM-TV Milwaukee, succeeding now-retired Walter J. Damm.

Mr. Comte's colleagues recall the day in the early '50s when Gen. Douglas Mac-Arthur returned and WTMJ-TV prepared to televise his arrival in Milwaukee. Mr. Comte, then assistant to the manager, encountered his superior in the corridor and thoughtfully suggested the special event be offered for sponsorship. With a characteristic snort, Mr. Damm bellowed: "Damn it, George Comte, haven't you ever heard of public service?" Unperturbed, Mr. Comte lined up the First Wisconsin National Bank and Milwaukee Journal as institutional co-sponsors.

Mr. Damm retired Sept. 27 after 42 years with the Journal organization—but not before he was honored that week with a "master key" to WTMJ-AM-TV's building. In the background was George Comte, balding, mild-mannered new chieftain, himself succeeded as manager by Robert J. Heiss.

Inheriting the mantle from a distinguished industry figure, Mr. Comte is likely to find that Mr. Damm wore especially big shoes. Mr. Comte appears highly qualified to try them for size—and fashion his own pair. His ascendancy the past decade to general manager of WTMJ-AM-TV, from a modest beginning as an announcer, has been steady if not meteoric.

Actually, George Richard Comte (the "e" is silent) wanted more than anything else to be a diplomat in the U. S. State Dept. He majored in political science at the U. of Wisconsin and while there was told he had a good voice for radio. So he took a fling as a student announcer in the summer of 1933 at $10 per week for WHA and, later, WIBA, both Madison, logging as many as 30 hours per week. When it became evident in his senior year (1935) that the State Dept. wasn't hiring anyone, he joined WTMJ. He's now a 23-year veteran of the Journal Co. at 45 (he was born in Marinette, Wis., June 1, 1913).

YOUNG Mr. Comte started handling such programs as The Barnstorming Badger, Today's Events, Marching Through Wisconsin, Rhythm and Rhyme (which he wrote and emceed), Know Your Milwaukee, Down a Country Road and Designs for Dreaming, three poetry and music shows. (He composed "I Went for A Walk in Oconomowoc" and collaborated on "Forward Wisconsin," a hastily devised substitute for "On Wisconsin," caught up in the broadcast ban). Later, his credits included the Jane Jarvis Open House, Background of the News, the syndicated Wayne King Show and Songs and Stories. After Mr. Damm guided WTMJ-TV to fruition (Dec. 3, 1947), Mr. Comte announced a television news program and had his own George Comte Show, an afternoon variety series.

His staff career was interrupted by World War II. Mr. Comte, who had completed ROTC service at Fort Custer, Mich., after graduation from U. of Wisconsin, served in public relations and with the 793d Military Police Battalion in England and northern France. He also commanded the 785th Military Police Battalion in Okinawa from August 1945 to February 1946. He was discharged as a major (and now is a lieutenant colonel in the Army Reserves). Earlier, before going overseas, he handled recruiting promotion for the air office of the 6th Service Command.

After returning to WTMJ as an announcer, he launched his executive career in 1950 as assistant to the manager, the late R. G. Winwie. He moved up to stations manager two years later and manager of radio and television in 1956, also being elected a director of the Journal Co.

Observers who regard Mr. Comte as a "protege" of Walter Damm are apt to be surprised. Colleagues will tell you he is "George Comte's man" but with a strong desire and intent to continue the aggressive, independent, profitable policies of his predecessor. In Mr. Comte's own words, this means a "clean operation" designed to keep the Journal stations in the forefront in Milwaukee. Such an operation, "in meeting public service requirements," he believes, "precludes any chain of events that can react to your disadvantage."

The new general manager (unlike his former superior) has his strongest roots in the community rather than in the industry as a whole. Aside from being a member of Radio Advertising Bureau's plans committee (his lone industry affiliation), he is a member of Milwaukee Kiwanis Club's board of directors and the Milwaukee Advertising Club's board of governors.

Mr. Comte lives in Milwaukee and also maintains a residence in Northern Wisconsin. In his spare time he is an avid curling enthusiast, cribbage player and amateur forester and holds a fervent interest in Wisconsin history, past, present and future.

HEADCOUNT ON RADIO-TV EMPLOYES

- Broadcasting finds 71,728 at stations, 14,620 at networks
- Individual operations range from 1 in radio to 220 in television

THERE are 86,348—count 'em—86,348 fulltime employes working for U. S. broadcasting stations and networks. Their earnings are at least $530 million a year.

This total, the first precision measurement of employment in the broadcasting industry, is published in the 1958 BROADCASTING YEARBOOK, now on the way to subscribers. It is based on an industry-wide survey conducted this past summer.

This is how the 86,348 breaks down:

- 71,728 work for radio and tv stations.
- 42,523 work for radio stations.
- 29,205 work for tv stations.
- 14,620 work for radio-tv networks.

While there are more than six times as many am radio stations (3,271) as tv stations (495), 40% of the total station employes are working in the newer video medium.

The typical or median tv station employs more than five times as many fulltime executives and staff people as the typical am station. The fulltime staff of the typical station: tv station, 51 employes; radio station, 10 employes (all figures include executives).

The survey is based on figures obtained from station questionnaires used in compiling the YEARBOOK station directories. Of the 495 commercial tv stations, 300 answered the employment questions. Of the 3,271 am stations, 2,427 answered the employment questions. The results were projected to total operating stations.

A wide range of staff size is shown at both radio and tv stations (see table). Four radio stations list only one fulltime employe, with the maximum employment found at one station that had a staff of 175. Seven radio stations said they had two fulltime employes, 32 listed three and 46 stations had four fulltimers.

The first major group of radio stations in the Yearbook compilation is found in the list of those having five fulltime employes. A total of 198 stations said they had a staff of five, with 186 listing six employes. Over three-fourths of all radio stations have from 5 to 15 fulltime employes. The survey shows 115 am stations have 15 employes; 758 have 16 or more; 223 have 25 or more.

Only five radio stations have a fulltime staff of 100 or more. Two stations have 100, one has 108 employes, one has 125 and one has 175.

In television the station employment level moves sharply upward. While the typical or median tv station has a staff of 51 fulltime employes, two stations are operating with a staff of three. One station has five employes, one has seven, one has eight and one has 10 on the staff.

At that point the staff size begins to increase. Five tv stations have 13 employes, six have 15, 12 have 17, and 12 have 20 fulltime staff members. Thirteen stations employ 25 persons on a fulltime basis; 24 have 30 on the staff, the largest single tv station category in the employment survey. Only 80 of the responding tv stations have fewer than 25 employes.

Just behind the 30-employe staff is the 55-employe organization, 22 stations belonging to this group. Thirty-six stations report 100 or more employes. The largest tv station staff includes 220 workers, with two stations employing 200 and one having 190.

The Yearbook figures do not take into account the overlap in radio and television stations under common operation where employes work on both stations. Each radio station questionnaire sought the number of fulltime employes; each tv questionnaire asked the same question.

Figures showing the number of fulltime executives and employes at the four major radio and tv networks were supplied by the networks themselves. Here are their figures (radio and tv combined for those having both): ABC, 2,525 employes; CBS, 6,327; MBS, 168, and NBC 5,600.

The Dept. of Commerce has estimated that there were 78,000 full-time employes in radio and television in 1957, and they earned a total pay of $527 million. These employes had average annual earnings of $6,756 in 1957.

An annual analysis by the department shows that broadcasting ranks second among all American industries in average pay, being exceeded only by the earnings of those in the brokerage and securities industry.

HE 1958 BROADCASTING YEARBOOK, all 628 pages of it, went into the mails last week. It is the biggest and most complete in the history of the publication, and the first in which both radio and tv information have been combined since 1951.

Among its major features:

County-by-county breakdowns of radio and tv homes, retail sales, food sales, drug sales and passenger cars; complete directories of all U. S. radio and tv stations including information on facilities, affiliations and executives; newspaper and group ownership; station representatives and their station lists.

Radio and tv networks including their affiliated stations and gross, Class A one-hour rate for each; FCC rules and regulations; the radio and tv codes; equipment manufacturers; radio and tv program services; advertising agencies; talent agents; broadcasting attorneys and engineers; associations; Nielsen figures on the radio and tv audiences; radio and tv time sales; Negro and foreign language programming.

Aside from subscriber copies, limited numbers of the Broadcasting Yearbook are available at four dollars per copy.

HAS 'THE' CAR STARTED 'THE' WAR?

Buick sticks with television against massive newspaper resistance

Buick's history-making allocation of more than half of its total advertising budget to the broadcast media provoked newspapers last week to open what could become the bitterest inter-media war since the beginning of television.

Buick's agency, McCann-Erickson, was caught in the firing zone.

What caused newspapers to bring up their biggest guns was Buick's decision to allocate $12.5 million to tv and another $1 million to radio out of a total 1959 model year budget of $25 million.

The loss of their historic lion's share of a major automaker's advertising was a painful blow to newspapers. The hurt was aggravated by the research which McCann-Erickson used to prove that the Buick media allocation made sense in contemporary advertising.

The powerful American Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Bureau of Advertising demanded and got a meeting with Marion Harper Jr., McCann-Erickson president. The significance with which newspapers regarded the meeting was indicated by their representation. Twenty-five newspaper publishers and executives were present, along with officers of the Bureau of Advertising.

A say-nothing statement was issued afterward by the bureau. The agency issued no statement at all.

But what was discussed, in detail, was a McCann-Erickson report which was circulated to Buick dealers just before the introduction of the new line. That report contained research results showing that tv made a stronger impression among Buick shoppers than newspapers and that both tv and radio cost less per thousand than newspapers.

What was certain to be discussed, if future meetings were held by the Bureau of Advertising and McCann-Erickson, was still another and newer survey, made by Television Bureau of Advertising. That survey showed that the Buick commercials on the Bob Hope show Sept. 19 hit people harder than any of Buick's introductory print advertising.

The McCann-Erickson report which came under newspaper attack was labeled "Merchandising Report No. 2" and was dated Aug. 23, 1958. The report was sent to Buick dealers for promotion and merchandising purposes.

In discussing Buick's announcement plans for its new car, the report noted that newspapers, tv magazines, outdoor and radio were among the media to be used. (Buick's introductory advertising started with the Sept. 19 debut of its new car). But the crux of the report were Advertest Research figures showing that 59% of "Buick Shoppers" during the 1958 model year said tv advertising (Buick tv advertising) stood out "most strongly in their minds" compared to 12% newspapers and 29% magazines, and that "54% said tv did most to interest them in looking at a Buick, compared with 18% for newspapers and 28% for magazines."

To clear up any dealers' doubts which may have greeted these figures, the report charted a "cost comparison among major media 1958," based on the advertising cost of reaching 1,000 adult "noters." This set of figures found five-minute participation

"plan" on radio reaching 1,000 adult listeners at a cost of $1.09; half-hour tv program costing $4.28 for that number of viewers; a four-color magazine page at $5.11 but a 1,000-line newspaper ad costing $10 for 1,000 "noters."

With these "facts," namely the "effectiveness of television with Buick prospects and its low relative cost of reaching people, you can see why television will play a big part in advertising The Car," the report asserted.

The report detailed for the first time the actual extent of the radio spot campaign by Buick. Radio is getting $1 million of the budget, giving radio and tv combined about 52 or 53% of the total budget. Known to be a heavy spot campaign [Advertisers & AGENCIES, Aug. 18], the Buick drive is spelled out in the report as "the biggest we've ever had . . . radio spot coverage in 283 markets on 403 stations, beginning Sept. 15 . . . [and] up to 10 Bob Hope five-minute radio shows each weekend on NBC's Monitor for 13 weekends beginning Sept. 12." Buick's formidable network tv use includes eight specials on NBC-TV, the half-hour Action Theatre August 22-Oct. 10 on ABC TV, alternate weeks of Wells Fargo on NBC-TV, Monday nights.

The TvB study of the effects of commercials on Bob Hope's "Roberta" Sept. 19 was released last week. Conducted for TvB by Qualitative Research Inc., the study revealed that 53% of persons who had been exposed to the Buick commercials said they liked the car "very much," while only 16% reported they had "no opinion" of the car. Of those who had not seen the tv commercials, 62% said they had no opin-

Night Sheep-Counters Target of Tea Council

Tea Council of the U.S.A. Inc., which last year used "the voice of conscience" to convert coffee drinkers to tea, this year is abandoning subtlety in favor of a hard-hitting, mince-no-words tv spot campaign that says, in effect, "if you're one of those people [who can't sleep at night] switch to tea!"

Last Tuesday (Sept. 30) at the 13th annual convention of the Tea Assn. of U.S.A. Inc. at Whiteface, N. Y., Charles M. Dering, Leo Burnett Co. account executive, explained how the campaign will look on tv and what it's going to take to put it over.

The council has allocated $1.2 million to slot a barrage of announcements between 6-11 p.m. Part of the allocations comes from the balance of the 1958 air budget of $1.7 million, the rest from the 1959 budget. The 20-week campaign kicks off Oct. 19 and will deliver to 18 markets 40 hot tea commercials each—or predicated on an advance audience tally—a total of 1 billion "impressions."

Explained Mr. Dering last week: Burnett seeks the largest possible audience, thinks that it can be reached during the hours when 64% of total U. S. set count is in use. The markets are Chicago, New York, Los Angeles, Baltimore, Boston, Detroit, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Washington, Cleveland, Providence, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Buffalo, Syracuse, New Haven and Schenectady—representing "over 50% of the total tv homes."

Thinks Burnett: during a four week period, hot tea messages will reach 94% of the total homes at least once in these markets, 35% of the homes 11 or more times. "This means," Mr. Dering said, "26 million people will be exposed . . . 11 or more times in a four-week period, but almost three times that number—approximately 71 million will be exposed to our commercials one or more times in a four-week period."

What is the purpose of the campaign, other than to win new tea drinkers? Says Mr. Dering: "We realize that our market for hot tea is not the universe . . . not all people are troubled by other hot beverage habits . . . so our selling messages are directed to a segment of this universe. First to those who recognize distressing elements in their hot beverage habits but do nothing about it; and second to those who have already made the change to hot tea. We want to reconfirm their decision."

At its upstate New York meeting the tea association elected a new slate of officers for the coming year. P. C. Irwin Jr. of Irwin-Harrisons-Whitney Inc., New York, becomes president of the organization, succeeding Edward C. Parker of Tetley Tea Co. Other tea merchants elected to new posts: Philip 1. Eisenmenger, Standard Brands Inc., as vice president; Joseph F. Diziki, Carter, Macy Co., as treasurer; W. G. Barker (Thomas J. Lipton Inc.), Albert W. Dimes (Tetley), W. H. Hall (McCormick & Co.)—new directors.

U. S. Steel Sets Radio-Tv Plans For Fifth 'Operation Snowflake'

The fifth annual U. S. Steel "Operation Snowflake" promotion — through BBDO, New York—will get under way Nov. 17 with network radio and television, it was announced Friday (Oct. 3) by the agency. Supplementing the steel firm's U. S. Steel ion one way or the other concerning the new Buick, while 18% said they liked the 1959 Buick "very much."

Respondents also were asked to name the three new Buick lines (Le Sabre, Invicta and Electra). Despite all other advertising, the study showed, more than 68% of non-viewers had seen or heard nothing about the new Buick and 86% could not recall any of the three models. In contrast, at least half the viewers could name a specific Buick line and the average who could recall any, recalled two of them.

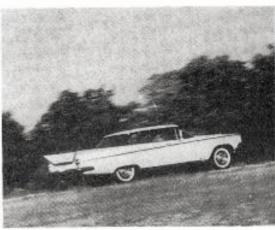

Interviews were conducted in nine cities, asking persons their opinion of the 1959 Buick line. It was pointed out that both viewers and non-viewers had had the opportunity to be exposed to Buick's introductory advertising in full-page newspaper ads, magazine advertisements and radio announcements. TvB nevertheless felt the impact of "even a single television show still would be measurable."

Said George Huntington, assistant to the president at TvB: "In the light of the current cries and after-the-fact expressions of opinion by newspaper spokesmen concerning the Buick endorsement of television, we believe TvB's policy of relying upon researched facts instead of someone's opinion has again been vindicated."

It was learned that McCann-Erickson, meanwhile, had prepared a newspaper advertisement for release last Friday (Oct. 3) that was to announce that in the first 10 days in Buick's introduction "x" number of new cars were sold. The number was expected to be somewhere between 30-35,000 which McCann feels is the best model introduction in any year including peak year 1955.

M-E media people privately expressed an opinion that even more Buick funds would be channeled into television, feeling that results so far were buttressing the Buick-agency strategy of shifting emphasis from newspapers to television.

TV COMMERCIALS for 1959 Buick, as shown in Bob Hope's "Roberta" on NBC-TV, made far stronger impact on people than newspaper or magazine advertisements. This was the finding of a special survey conducted for Television Bureau of Advertising after the Sept. 19 show. It was on that day introductory advertising for Buick broke in all media.

If that prediction came true, it would be despite an unremitting assault on the Buick strategy by newspapers.

The assault started soon after the Mc-Cann-Erickson "Merchandising Report No. 2" was circulated. The Newspaper Advertising Executives Assn. prepared and sent to newspapers an open letter citing the Buick report and suggesting that newspapers give Buick dealers the letter and an accompanying "memo" outlining reasons why newspapers could do a better selling job than tv.

Meanwhile, the newspapers' Bureau of Advertising went directly to Buick management and after conferences asked newspapers to postpone their missionary work among dealers until more conferences were held.

The conference of bureau officials, publishers and Mr. Harper was held last Wednesday. Two days later (Oct. 3) Louis A. Weil Jr., chairman of the bureau's board, issued the following statement.

"We feel that there was a refreshing and candid attempt to do the right thing by all parties concerned. There was a joint interest wholeheartedly shared by everyone to work in closer understanding. . . .

"We have the sincere feeling that today's meeting will lead to better understanding on the part of everyone concerned."

It was revealed that a committee of newspaper executives which would include the bureau's president, Charles T. Lipscomb Jr., and Dr. Howard D. Hadley, its research vice president, would be formed to "work closely with McCann-Erickson."

Hour (alt. Wednesdays, 10-11 p.m.) will be continued participations in CBS-TV's Arthur Godfrey Show and eight network radio programs. Additionally, U. S. Steel, which again seeks to stimulate Christmas gift sales of "hard goods"—major steel appliances—will provide dealers and distributors with free radio kits containing transcribed commercials and spot scripts. Kits are to be used for local spot campaigns.

Earlier this spring, U. S. Steel bought a weekday 5-minute network newscast with Richard C. Hottelet, but switched onto Godfrey's summer replacement series shortly thereafter. The newest Godfrey cycle began Friday (Oct. 3) with a quarter-hour sponsorship on alternate Fridays for the next 20 alternate weeks. As such, it represents little additional cash outlay, Steel being a 52-week a year CBS-TV client, However, the radio allocations are new. For a 2-week pre-Christmas period, Steel will have 2-5 participations a program in the following shows: ABC Radio's Breakfast Club, NBC Radio's Bandstand and Five Star Matinee, CBS Radio's Couple Next Door, Galen Drake, Robert Q. Lewis Show, Amos 'n' Andy Music Hall and Mitch Miller Show.

Bergmann Tells Druggists About Tv's Sales Potency

Television has made substantial contributions to growing sales in the drug field largely because it is the only advertising medium that can deliver the full story of drug products, Ted Bergmann, president of Parkson Adv., New York, told a session of the National Assn. of Retail Druggists' convention in Philadelphia last week.

Mr. Bergmann supported his contention by pointing out that tv is the only medium equipped with both sound and sight, thereby offering a new dimension in effective selling: "The picture of misery; eyes that cry for help; brows wrinkled in worried thought. Tv offers the visual sell which doesn't verbally describe; it demonstrates."

He reminded retail druggists that manufacturers of toiletries, drugs and remedies and smoking materials are well acquainted with tv's selling prowess, and added:

"Last year, of the $660 million which advertisers spent in network television, approximately $200 million was spent by manufacturers of toiletries, drugs and remedies and smoking materials. Think of it, almost one-third of the total national program expenditure was directed specifically at helping you sell your customers. No other industry can make that statement."

Mr. Bergmann indicated that television should be credited with helping to boost drug store sales over the past 10 years. He pointed out that annual average sales per store increased from $60,000 in 1947 to $104,000 in 1957, whereas the population increased only by about 20% in that period.

"Is it just coincidence that during the same period television swept the country and increased its coverage from less than 50,000 to 43 million homes?" Mr. Bergmann asked. "And advertisers spent nearly $6 billion in the medium to sell their goods? You be the judge."

As evidence of television's power in helping to move products in retail stores, Mr. Bergmann cited, among others, Revlon's "phenomenal" success with the $64,000 Question and Pharmaceutical Inc.'s Geritol, which has become "America's No. 1 tonic through tv" (90% of its budget is in the medium). Mr. Bergmann noted that Pharmaceutical Inc.'s outlay for tv advertising in 1957 exceeded total sales in 1953.

A CIGAR, A BEE AND A PROFESSOR

What ARF conference heard about the first two and from the third

A test that proved television can sell a premium-priced product even in a recession, a pre-test that helped improve another commercial and a professor's viewpoint on advertising were outlined to leading advertiser, agency and media authorities last week.

The tv case histories were presented during the course of Advertising Research Foundation's fourth annual conference, held Thursday (Oct. 2) in New York and devoted to the subject of better evaluation of advertising in today's economy.

Success for Cigar • President Albert J. Wood of A. J. Wood & Co., marketing research agency, told how officials of Dutch Masters cigars, a premium brand, learned by testing that tv could sell their product even when they feared smokers would switch to lower priced cigars.

They undertook a 13-week test in a threestation market of approximately 400,000 population, using spot announcements on a station whose rating was comparable to what they probably would get in other cities if a full campaign were put into effect. Three surveys were made: one wave just before the test started, one nine weeks later and one 26 weeks later. The results:

"1. The techniques employed showed that the television campaign did increase brand awareness. Spontaneous, unaided mentioning of Dutch Masters went up from 54% in the first wave to 70% in the second—an increase of about 30%. The third wave showed no further increase after 17 additional weeks of advertising.

"2. There was an increase in overall buying of Dutch Masters 'in the last seven days' from 20% in the first wave to 30% in the second—an increase of 50%. The third wave again showed no further increase.

"3. The proportion of Dutch Masters favorers increased from 15 to 19 to 21%—increases of 27 and 11%, respectively.

"4. The proportion of Dutch Masters triers (those who bought Dutch Masters during the week but do not consider it their favorite brand) more than doubled, going from 5 to 11%. By the third wave, however, it dropped half-way back to its old level."

Mr. Wood noted that "by the time the option came up for renewal, in effect three weeks before the end of the 13-week coverage, there was evidence of a significant increase in brand awareness—an increase of 35% for Dutch Masters. The proportion of triers doubled and the proportion of favorers increased by 25%, which means that some of these triers had been converted into regular buyers."

All this, Mr. Wood said, led the company to conclude that (1) the tv spots were successful; (2) tv could stimulate sales of a premium-priced cigar even in the recession; (3) the evidence was good enough to prompt renewal of the campaign but the second 13 weeks were "not nearly as effective as the first period," leading to the conclusion that (4) "the advertising dollars spent on this particular promotion would travel farther if used extensively over a large number of markets for a short period of time, rather than intensively for a longer period in a limited number of markets."

Pre-testing Johnson's Bee • A technique for pre-testing commercials was detailed by Perham C. Nahl, associate director of research for Needham, Louis & Brorby. The product was Johnson's Pride wax, and the storyboard for one of the commercials had a new cartoon character, the Johnson Bee, who served as spokesman for Johnson's wax. NL&B and the client wanted to make sure the new character didn't do more harm than good.

For the test, the storyboard drawings were filmed and the audio portion put on tape, and people were asked to look and listen and then give their reactions.

"We picked up some adverse reactions on the first test," Mr. Nahl reported. "From 30 to 50% of the women reported that the Bee talked too fast or that his voice was too harsh. The women were able to recall most of the essential copy points. It was decided that we would put the Bee into the commercials but that he would talk more slowly and clearly. Although he remained a pitchman, his voice was less of a buzz."

Mr. Nahl said "this method of pretesting has been highly successful for accomplishing certain kinds of results" but should not be expected to accomplish certain other things—for example, foretelling which of several commercials will, when completed, sell the most products. Commercials whose success depends on the finished version of the video are questionable candidates for storyboard testing, he asserted, as are those which depend heavily on creating mood.

The ARF conference, held at the Waldorf-Astoria, covered a wide range of subjects dealing with advertising evaluation, including case histories and progress reports on techniques for measuring advertising's sales effectiveness, determining advertising budgets and strategy and prediction of the results of an advertising budget.

Academician on Advertising • The luncheon meeting was the stage for analysis of advertising and advertising research through the academic eyes of Jay W. Forrester, professor of industrial management, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He contended, in part, that the advertising industry has a very narrow viewpoint. This narrowness exists in two dimensions, one in time ("advertising policies and measurements do not adequately recognize some of the very long delayed responses and aftereffects that exist") and the other in space ("advertising is not adequately integrated with product design or production").

Professor Forrester noted advertising "is a powerful and important influence in our present-day economy," but held advertising "is not an end in itself. Its goal is not merely to generate impact or consumer awareness. Its primary purpose is not even merely to sell. It should operate as part of a team for creating long-range profitable company success."

In citing poor corporate planning, Professor Forrester said advertising can produce "peaks and valleys in the sales pattern which do nothing but increase factory and distribution costs." Again, "too often, advertising creates a product-image which is not supported by the product itself; or it builds a picture of a company personality which is not reflected by company sales and service men."

As for advertising research, the professor held it "woefully inadequate," adding that most of what does exist is not research in the scientific sense but "much of so-called advertising research is itself merely advertising." He called for a long-range program of several years to work up to the point where 5% of the total U. S. advertising expenditure, or $500 million, would flow into "advertising development," with $50 million of that amount going into "pure basic" research of a scientific nature.

"The challenge and new frontier in our capitalist society during the next three decades is not space flight," the MIT educator said, "but the science of management and economics. It is in management and economics, not on the moon or Mars, that the current international competition will be won."

Pontiac Bypasses Mary Martin To Put $400,000 in Tv Spots

An irresistable force—the need to unveil the 1959 Pontiac line on tv; an immovable object—singer Mary Martin who has asked for a postponement of her Dec. 12 Songbook [Advertisers & Agencies, Sept. 29], met last week.

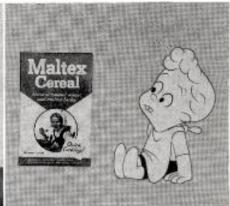

CBS-TV told Pontiac's agency, Mac-Manus, John & Adams, N. Y., that it would be unable to deliver Miss Martin. hoping that Pontiac would still stick with the network in December. The answer was no. Instead, MJ&A will take the $400,000 allocated to the show and jump the official Oct. 15 unveiling (on the CBS-TV Ginger Rogers-Ray Bolger spectacular) with a fiveday saturation tv spot campaign on 130-160 stations in 50 markets. Starting Thursday (Oct. 9), MJ&A intends to blitz these areas with six spots a night. The agency is working overtime the next few days to get commercials printed and mailed to stations.

Heublein now is getting ready to break today (Oct. 6) with still another tv effort, the first for its Andersen soups. This is a seven-week test campaign to run on 14 stations in California (five in Los Angeles; two in San Francisco; three in Fresno and one in Santa Barbara, and others scattered in other markets in the state). Used but not pictured above will be newly-developed characters of the Andersen identical twins Pea-Wee and Ha-Pea, and Robert Pea-Sour Andersen. public service-conscious president, Murray D. Lincoln, who also heads Private-Charity Care Inc. Reasons Mr. Lincoln: Nationwide policyholders represent a major share in the U. The programs, narrated by Edward R. Murrow and featuring such outspoken figures as Vice Admiral Hyman G. Rickover, economist John Kenneth Galbraith, historian Oscar Handlin and Joint Chiefs of Staff Chairman Gen. Nathan F. Twining, will premiere Oct. 22 at 8-9 p.m. Subsequent half-hour programs are tentatively set for Nov. 19, Dec. 17, Jan. 21, Feb. 18 and March 18.

Agency Kills Employe Bonus

McCann-Erickson notified its employes last week that the holiday bonus usually distributed in December would be passed up this year, but that management hoped it would be only a one-year hiatus.

Chairman H. K. McCann and President Marion Harper Jr. said that "our business, like many others, has felt the effect of the recession" and operating figures "indicate that the profit for the current year will not provide the margin required for the . . . 'extra compensation'." But they said they were confident of a business upturn in 1959 and a good year for the agency, and hoped "that our 1959 profits will warrant a renewal of the 'extra compensation' payment next year." In effect since 1950, the holiday bonus has averaged about 5% of annual salaries.

General Baking's $1.5 Million Switches From BBDO to Compton

General Baking Co. (Bond bread and other Bond products), New York, a large regional advertiser in a wide area east of the Rockies, announced Thursday (Oct. 2) it had appointed Compton Adv., New York, as its agency. Earlier in the week, news was out that the advertiser had quit BBDO.

Charles H. Brower, BBDO president, said the switch came as a surprise, the changeover to be effective Jan. 1. The account had been at BBDO (and predecessor companies) since 1919, left in 1941 but returned the following year.

The baking organization's anticipated budget for the next year, according to Compton, is "in excess of $1.5 million."

WHAT ARF DOESN'T KNOW ABOUT SP

Where does the advertiser stand—aside from moral or ethical considerations—in relationship to subliminal perception? Does it work?

The answers are not quite given by the Advertising Research Foundation in releasing a report of its committee on motivation research which took a careful reading on SP. Reason: the committee found there's not enough evidence available on the subject in the first place.

The ARF-initiated report—appropriately reviewed and approved by the ARF board—actually is an "explanatory statement" and, as such, circulated to its agency-advertiser subscribers for their benefit.

The ARF paper on SP is very brief but prepared, according to Dr. Wallace H. Wulfeck, executive vice president at William Esty and ARF's chairman of the board, "because of widespread public and business interest in the new technique and the controversy about its effectiveness."

It summarizes the opinions of the experts on the committee—13 of the 18 in the group hold doctorate degrees—ARF points out.

The ARF motivation research committee decided it would describe "the phenomenon of subliminal perception" and outline some technical problems in applying it to the idea of subliminal perception in advertising. In addition to independent study, the committee drew on memoranda made available to it by agency ARF subscribers Kenyon & Eckhardt; Needham, Louis & Brorby and J. Walter Thompson Co.

The committee also "acknowledged the existence of ethical considerations in using subliminal advertising but decided that a discussion of these questions should not be included . . ."

Aside from the detailed explanations given by ARF's paper on SP, the technique is generally seen as one which evokes stimuli below the threshold of conscious awareness and having some definite effect on behavior. But the researchers are unsure just where the threshold is, finding it to be a statistical one, that is, a value producing a response on the part of the observer in at least half the trials. But the value varies with the person, and changes within each person from moment to moment and day to day.

Noted the ARF paper: "Information on the practical application of subliminal perception to advertising is almost non-existent." But taking into account known psychological facts on SP, it was obvious to the researchers that commercial use—applying it to the movies, to television or to radio while music is playing—would require much research on technical problems and economic evaluation.

It's known, the ARF paper pointed out, that there are differences in the threshold for individuals (these would be accentuated in tv by variances in light levels during programs, distances viewers sit from the screen and by the fact that individual tv sets are tuned for various degrees of brightness and contrast).

Another technical problem: strong stimulus competition that would surround SP in its commercial application. Unlike laboratory experiments where conditions are more controlled, interruptions and distractions are at a maximum, and in fact the SP message may be offered quite close to advertising messages seen and heard and about other products.

It was indicated that the committee felt there has not been enough data to show the extent to which SP is effective in influencing behavior (noted in particular are tests made in movie theatres on advertising on behalf of popcorn and Coca-Cola sold within the theatre).

Chairman of the ARF committee on motivation research is Herta Herzog, vice president and director in charge of research, McCann-Erickson. The group is made up of several executives in research at some of the larger advertising companies (General Mills, Continental Oil, E. I. du Pont, Wildroot, Chrysler) and a number of agency experts in research. Thomas E. Coffin, NBC's director of research, and several researchers with consumer magazines are on the 18-man committee. Among the agency executives with the group: BBDO's

Nothing else like it in Greater New York

NOTHING APPROACHES THE SOUND:

WVNJ originated the programming concept of Great Albums of Music. It is the only radio station in the metropolitan area that plays just Great Albums of Music from sign on to sign off every single day of the year.

NOTHING APPROACHES THE AUDIENCE:

The very nature of the music makes the audience preponderantly adult. It's a rich audience, too. In one of the wealthiest counties of America (Essex—with its million plus population) WVNJ is first in 27 out of 34 rated periods from 7 AM till midnight. It is tied for first in three more. According to Pulse it has more listeners here than any station in New Jersey and New York as well.

NOTHING APPROACHES ITS VALUE:

WVNJ delivers its adult, able-to-buy greater New York audience for less cost per thousand homes than any other station in the market. By every reasoning it's your very best buy.

Buchanan Now Part Of Lennen & Newell

The long-awaited merger of Buchanan & Co. into Lennen & Newell Inc. [Advertisers & Agencies, June 30, et seq.] became a fact last week. Absorption of the Buchanan agency—which becomes the Buchanan Div. of Lennen & Newell—raises L&N's billing to $83 million, of which about 52% will be in the broadcast media.

John Hertz Jr., Buchanan president, becomes senior vice president in charge of the Buchanan Div.; Executive Vice President William Dasheff becomes senior vice president and management account supervisor, while Vice President Fred Keith becomes vice president and management account supervisor on Convair Div. (General Dynamics Corp.) operating out of the Los Angeles offices.

Buchanan officials said last week that, with the exception of a few accounting and media personnel, the entire Buchanan staff will be kept intact. So will the account roster which includes Reynolds Metals Co., Warner Bros. Co., American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres.

B & B Adds $6.5 Million Billing In Purchase of Lambe & Robinson

Benton & Bowles has moved into the international field, purchasing an overseas agency for the first time. Effective Oct. 31, B & B becomes the parent company of subsidiary Lambe & Robinson of London with which it had a working agreement for about two years.

B & B's acquisition represents an added billing of an estimated $6.5 million, making its total billing about $100 million. The London branch will be known as Lambe & Robinson-Benton & Bowles Ltd. Present management of the overseas agency remains intact: Kenneth Robinson, chairman; John Cuff, managing director, and George B. Beaumont of B & B as a director.

Lambe & Robinson is one of the 10 largest agencies in Great Britain and includes these clients: Thomas Hedley & Co. Ltd. (Procter & Gamble's British subsidiary) for Tide, Camay and other brands; Ballantyne Sportswear Co. Ltd.; Scottish Mutual Assurance Society; Ex-Lax Ltd.; Quaker Oats Ltd. (animal and pet foods division) and Universal Labs Ltd. (subsidiary of Pfizer Inc.).

on radio —

Today let's get down to brass tacks and talk in explicit terms of how Radio KMA delivers sales -real cash sales. without give-aways or gimmicks.

EXAMPLE: On August 30, May Seed Company started advertising Minnhafer oats, a new variety that is rust and disease resistant. The kick-off talk on KMA coincided with the Nebraska State Fair opening in Lincoln,

Anthony J. Koelker, Manager Radio Station KMA

where the company operated an exhibit

In one week 5,000 bushels were sold at the Fair exhibit alone. 12,649 bushels were sold during one week, and a supply of 22,000 bushels will be gone by the time this is printed. Mind you, selling oats in September for spring planting is pretty much unheard of

EXAMPLE: The distributor for Magic Thread, a miracle fabric mending liquid, ($1 postpaid) over a steady 9-month period on KMA received almost 8,500 orders. He advises KMA topped 8 Midwest stations advertising the same offer.

EXAMPLE: Tidy House Products Company tested two $1 premium and box top offers during two weeks in August (supposed to be dog days). KMA produced 2,534 orders in 14 days.

EXAMPLE: Joe Zweiback, owner of Vitamin Industries, Omaha, believes KMAland is a healthy market. He's been a 52week advertiser for 15 consecutive years.

EXAMPLE: Joe Gans at Maxwell-Sackheim, New York, says, "You're only as good as yesterday's mail count." Joe is understandably cagey about releasing figures, but he might tell you about the thousands of silicone ironing board covers KMA sold for him.

Others who can testify first-hand to KMA's sales power are Sam Margulis in St. Louis for McCALL'S; Wally Closner in Lincoln, Nebraska, for Gooch flour; Dix Harper at Aubrey, Finlay, Marley and Hodgson in Chicago for International Harvester; Adam Reinemund in Omaha for numerous products; and, of course, any Petry man.

Doner, Peck Merge Into $20 Million Shop

Another agency merger was announced Friday (Oct. 3). The result: Doner & Peck Inc., with billings of $20 million, a considerable amount of which is in the broadcast media. Components of the new combine are W. B. Doner Co., Detroit-Chicago-Milwaukee - Philadelphia - Baltimore, with estimated billing of $14 million, and Peck Adv., New York, billing about $6 million.

Both agencies service accounts that are active broadcast users. At Doner, radio-tv is mainly regional on behalf of such accounts as National Brewing Co. (National Bohemian beer), Speedway petroleum and Hygrade food products. Peck's radio-ty activities are more national in scope, principally for network-using clients U. S. Time Corp. (Timex) and Manhattan Shirt Co. [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Sept. 15].

Under the merger agreement, Harry Peck, chairman of Peck's executive committee, becomes board chairman of Doner & Peck; Sidney Garfield, Peck board chairman, becomes president and chief executive officer of the new agency; Sanford L. Hirschberg, Peck executive vice president, takes over as D&P executive vice president; Wilfred B. Doner, Doner president, becomes treasurer, and Marvin H. Frank, president of Doner's Chicago and Milwaukee operations, becomes secretary.

No change in personnel or account conflicts are expected, since "in effect all this means is that Doner now will have a New York office for its clients and that Peck will have the advantage of a broad, national marketing service," according to one agency executive. It is contemplated that new offices will be opened on the West Coast and in the South and Southwest. A possible product conflict between two radio-tv using brewers -Bohemian and Heineken's (Van Munching & Co.)—has been averted, the agency noted. Bohemian is a regional beer, Heineken's a premium-priced import beer that has achieved national distribution.

Doner & Peck's offices are as follows: 505 Washington Blvd. Bldg., Detroit 26 (Woodward 5-7400); 400 Madison Ave., New York 17 (Plaza 3-0900); 35 E. Wacker Dr., Chicago (Andover 3-7800); 1324 W. Wisconsin St., Milwaukee 3 (West 3-9315); 2225 N. Charles St., Baltimore (Belmont 5-1212).

Mennen in Pursuit of Prestige

Mennen Co. (toiletries), Morristown, N. J., which had sponsored Wednesday night boxing on ABC-TV for more than three years, last week shifted its approach and signed as a full-hour alternate-week sponsor of CBS-TV's new drama series, Pursuit (Wed., 8-9 p.m.), starting Oct. 22. Cost in time and talent is estimated at more than $3 million. Mennen will advertise its line of men's and baby toiletries on the new show. It was reported that Mennen and its agency, Gray Adv., felt that Pursuit would be "more of a prestige vehicle" than the boxing bouts. The fights on ABC-TV will be co-sponsored by Miles Labs and Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp., Louisville.

AD IMPACT

Edward R. Murrow, who now has P. Lorillard as sponsor of Person To Person and who for years has smoked another company's cigarettes, said last week he was "trying" Loriflard's Kents-"which is what the commercial tells you to do." Lorillard officials meanwhile denied the cigarette Mr. Murrow was shown smoking in an announcement ad had a "doctored-in Kent filter," as reported by BROAD-CASTING in the Sept. 29 issue. They said the picture was obtained from the Murrow office and that "layout and copy of the ad were sent to Mr. Murrow for his personal approval before being released for publication."

Metzger to Head Central Div. Of EWR&R; Wachter to New York

Additional duties as active head of the central division of Erwin Wasey, Ruthrauff & Ryan Inc., including its Chicago office. were assigned Wednesday to Roswell W. Metzger, chairman of the agency's executive committee. At the same time, Frederick J. Wachter, vice president and general manager of the Chicago office, is being transferred to New York, with his duties to be announced shortly, according to David B. Williams, EWR&R president.

Mr. Metzger will direct all central division operations, continuing as chairman of the executive committee. Starting with the former Ruthrauff & Ryan agency in 1933, he was elected to its board in 1948 and to the executive group in 1950. After the merger with Erwin Wasey, Mr. Metzger was elected to the board and made chairman of the executive committee.

The Good Years

Grandparents in Central Ohio are at least twice-blessed. With the good years come irresistible grandchildren and well-earned leisure time to share with them.

You see a cheerful example in the photograph above. While Mom and Dad enjoy an evening out, grand-parenthood is in flower. All three generations approve the evening's agenda—WBNS-TV, and then off to bed.

As bedtime story-teller to thousands of children and their grandparents, WBNS-TV recognizes its responsibilities. To spin yarns that enchant the young, yet hold the rapt attention of adults, calls for a deft sense of showmanship and uncompromising standards. High adventure and tense drama must be reserved for those hours when the little grandchildren have long since been tucked into bed.

An indication of WBNS-TV's programming savvy is our remarkable record of telecasting 147 of 180 most popular family shows last year. Our local newscasters, weatherman, farm reporter and sports authority are held in equally high esteem. This is the happy outcome of a deep understanding of the Central Ohio character. When you were born and raised in Central Ohio like WBNS-TV, it just comes naturally.

We're not story-telling when we quote advertising agency time-buyers who have researched the situation. They say with conviction: "If you want to be seen in Central Ohio—WBNS-TV."

FILM

80

The NTA Film Network will begin the fall season this week with more than 90% sponsorship of six-and-one-half hours weekly of programming, it is being announced today (Oct. 6) by Ely A. Landau, NTA board chairman.

The programs include three weekly half-hour series, How to Marry a Millionaire, This is Alice and Man Without a Gun, plus the five-times-a-week, hour long Tv Hours of Stars. The programs are carried on 115 stations

Latest sponsor to sign is American Tobacco, New York (Pall Mall cigarettes), which last week arranged for full sponsorship of How to Marry a Millionaire. The agency is Sullivan, Stauffer, Colwell & Bayles, New York. Other sponsors are the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. (Paris & Peart Adv.), Perma Starch (Gordon Best Inc.), Philco (BBDO), Vick Chemical (BBDO and Morse International) and White King Soap (Erwin Wasey, Ruthrauff & Ryan).

An unusual sidelight is that in New York the four programs will be carried on WNTA-TV, owned by NTA, plus two additional stations—WPIX (TV) and WORTV. NTA bought time on the two other stations as a concession to the advertisers. It is believed to be the first time that a program has had triple exposure in the same market, although in the past a syndicated film program has played on two outlets in the same market.

New Unit at Screen Gems To Create 3 Series Yearly

Screen Gems Inc., New York, announced last week it has expanded its Hollywood production organization to include a special unit responsible for the creation of at least three new series for first-run syndication per year.

The unit has been organized with Tom Gries, tv producer-director-writer, as director of syndicated program production, and Wallace MacDonald as director of syndicated program development. Mr. MacDonald has been a producer for Columbia Pictures, parent organization of SG, for the past 20 years. Mr. Gries has been a freelance writer-producer-director of motion pictures since 1954. He earlier had been a director-producer for various independent film producers.

First project will be a new half-hour tv film Stakeout. Produced for Screen Gems by Sam Katzman, it will be based on investigations of the Florida Sheriff's Bureau. As with SG's network program operations, the new unit will be responsible for developing wholly-owned SG properties, as well as those created by independent producers.

Niles' Syndicated Tv Spot Div. Moved From Hollywood to Chicago

Fred A. Niles Productions Inc. has transferred its syndicated tv spot division from Hollywood to Chicago headquarters as part of a "centralization program."

Mr. Niles also announced availability of his firm's first live action package, syndicated beer commercials, for market-by-market sale. He indicated he plans to produce several other syndicated spot packages in Chicago.

Henceforth, all sales, service and billing of syndicated tv spots will be handled at Niles' Chicago office, because most syndicated sales are made to midwestern companies in a 10-state area, Mr. Niles explained. Hollywood division recently moved from the Culver City RKO Lot to 5539 Sunset Blvd., with Dan Norton named west coast sales manager and Lionel Grover production chief.

PILOT ECONOMY

There are two ways to skin a pilot. The first is to shoot all 39 installments in one swoop, banking on immediate syndication should the series find no network taker. So says United Artists Television Inc., which has four series in the works of which only one relies on a pilot film, the other three being rolled at once. But Warner Bros. Television prefers method No. 2. This entails shooting a theatrical film of some 90 minutes duration, showing this around at the networks and agencies. Then, should it fail to connect, the "pilot" could always be tandemed around the theatrical circuit, thus amortizing cost of shooting the initial film. However, WB-TV was lucky. It found a couple of takers for 77 Sunset Strip on ABC-TV (American Chicle, Carter Products, etc.). What to do with the 90-minute film? WB-TV, ABC-TV and the sponsors got together and decided to extend the premiere show by 30 minutes so as to accommodate the "pilot." On Oct. 10. 77 Sunset Strip will be seen 9:30-11 p.m., thereafter at 9:30-10:30 p.m.

This was the initial sale of Matinee, once a standard day-time hour on NBC-TV. (Although Matinee went live, some of the original programs were filmed). In placing the films on the air at 10-11 p.m. Mondays, the station preempted a half hour (10-10:30 p.m.) of the network feed, titled the film series NBC Playhouse. THE BEAUTY

OF TELEVISION

Practically nobody will be amazed to learn that some 51 million more people watched a tearful young woman become the new Miss America than witnessed the original ceremonies in 1921.

Television's capacity to pinpoint the attention of the largest audiences of any medium of communication has long been an accepted fact of life.

But what is indeed impressive is that 14 million more people saw the event on the CBS Television Network this year than the year before...that even after a decade of phenomenal growth, television continues its increasing penetration of American life.

It still seems something of a miracle that an obscure but appealing young girl from Brandon, Mississippi could become a nationwide celebrity overnight.

It is also a modern miracle of merchandising that the Philco Corporation, sponsor of the program, was able to introduce its new line of products to so many people at a cost per thousand homes of only $1.71.

A clue to the effectiveness of the broadcast was provided by an astonished Philco dealer who sold a television set or record player every three minutes throughout the next business day.

To an advertiser, this is the real beauty of television.

And as the nation's leading advertisers know, it is still further enhanced when their messages are broadcast on the network that has delivered the largest audiences in television for 3 consecutive years.

FCC WILL TAKE ANOTHER LOOK AT GRANTS IN OVERSIGHT CLOUD

- Further scrutiny planned in Orlando, Miami, Boston cases
- FCC investigators may also delve into other questioned grants

The FCC has decided to investigate every one of the tv grants which have been clouded with allegations of improprieties before the House Legislative Oversight Committee.

First move came last week when the Commission announced that on its own motion it was investigating charges of ex parte representations in the Orlando, Fla., ch. 9 case.

Even earlier, it was learned last week, the Commission tipped its hand when it informed Biscayne Television Corp. and Sun Ray Drug Co. that it would not act on an application seeking FCC approval of the $800,000 sale of Biscayne's WCKR Miami to Sun Ray (WPEN Philadelphia). The Commission said that it was looking into assertions that Biscayne had used undue influences in furthering its ch. 7 application.

Last week, also, the Commission told the U. S. Court of Appeals that it was unable to set the Boston ch. 5 case for re-hearing, as directed by the court last July, because it was necessary for it to conduct pre-hearing investigation of allegations of improper influences.

These actions came in the same week that the first rehearing, that of ch. 10 Miami, virtually came to a close. The only possibility is that testimony may be required from Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla.).

An FCC spokesman said last week that the Commission feels it has the responsibility of looking into all allegations of impropriety that have been mentioned in testimony on Capitol Hill. He refused to elaborate, but it is known that the Commission is convinced it must look into all such instances—for its own protection. It was also pointed out that an investigation does not mean in each instance that a hearing will be held. It is felt that in some instances an investigation will show that the charges are false or of no significance.

The Indianapolis ch. 13 case has already been remanded to the FCC by the appeals court—but on the question of Comr. T. A. M. Craven's participation in the final vote. Boston ch. 5 was remanded by the appeals court on its own motion because of allegations in the House committee's record. Miami ch. 7 was remanded by the same court at the request of the FCC.

PROBE REQUIRED BEFORE HEARING, FCC TELLS COURT OF APPEALS

The FCC last week publicly announced a formal inquiry into the 1957 grant of Orlando ch. 9 to WLOF that city.

The Commission's notice said that the record of hearings by the House Legislative Oversight Committee "makes reference to an alleged ex parte representation regarding the qualifications of an applicant for a contested television channel in Orlando, Fla., while the matter was in an adjudicatory status."

The FCC said it had instructed its staff to institute an inquiry into this. It also stated that it will take such further action as "in its judgment appears appropriate at that time" [when the staff reports the results of its investigation].

WLOF won the ch. 9 grant in Orlando on June 7, 1957, when the Commission, in a 5-0 vote, reversed the hearing examiner and granted WLOF the channel and denied the competing applicant, WKIS Orlando. The U. S. Court of Appeals upheld the FCC last May. WKIS has a petition for a writ of certiorari pending before the U. S. Supreme Court

During the House committee's hearings, one of its investigators said that he had found a letter in former Comr. Richard A. Mack's files from Miami attorney William Dial raising questions as to the suitability of a WKIS principal.

ALLEGED IRREGULARITIES IN BISCAYNE PROMPT RED LIGHT ON WCKR SALE

The FCC is investigating alleged irregularities in the grant of ch. 7 to Biscayne Television Corp.—raised during hearings on Capitol Hill last June by the House Committee on Legislative Oversight.

The investigation became known when it was learned that the FCC has written both Biscayne Television and Sun Ray Drug Co. that no action would be taken on the former's sale of WCKR Miami to the latter for $800,000 [CHANGING HANDS, May 26] because of information alleging improprieties in the record of the House committee. These allegations, the Commission said in its Sept. 24 letter to both principals, are "under active consideration" by the FCC. The Commission said that the Hill testimony "raised questions as to the propriety of certain means employed on behalf of Biscayne Television Corp. to advance its interests as an applicant for authorization to

A TALE OF TWO CITIES

An element of mystery entered the Miami ch. 10 case last week when FCC Associate General Counsel Edgar W. Holtz revealed to the presiding officer that he had received a telegram from an upstate New York individual stating that he had pertinent information on the ch. 10 case and asking for the right to be heard. Mr. Holtz explained that he had been unable to contact the sender but would report back later.

Later in the day, Mr. Holtz announced that the sender of the telegram—which actually had been addressed to former Comr. Frieda B. Hennock—was interested in the Albany, N. Y., ch. 10 case, not the Miami ch. 10 hearing. Mr. Holtz declined to name the sender.

construct and operate a television station on ch. 7 in Miami."

Biscayne won Miami ch. 7 in 1956. It comprises a combination of John S. Knight and James M. Cox interests plus Niles Trammell, former NBC president. WCKR is the former WIOD, owned by the Cox interests.

Sun Ray owns WPEN-AM-FM Philadelphia. WCKT (TV), the ch. 7 Miami station, is not involved in the sale transaction.

During the Harris Committee hearings, there were reports that various individuals interceded with FCC commissioners in behalf of Biscayne and other applicants in the case [GOVERNMENT, July 9].

PRE-HEARING ORDERED BY FCC FOLLOWING APPEALS COURT UKASE

The FCC has informed the U. S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia that the Commission will have to conduct a "prehearing investigation" into the Boston ch. 5 case before setting a re-hearing as directed by the court last July 31 [GOVERNMENT, Aug. 4].

Under order to make a progress report on the action it is taking for a re-hearing, the Commission told the court that the Boston ch. 5 case—unlike the Miami ch. 10 case—was treated "cursorily" in hearings by the House Legislative Oversight Committee and "sheds no light on a number of pertinent questions."

The court remanded the Boston case for an investigation of whether any commissioner should not have voted, although upholding the Commission's 1957 grant of ch. 5 to the Boston Herald-Traveler (WHDH).

The FCC, in its progress report to the court, said the material available on the ch. 5 case is "too fragmentary" for an immediate hearing without a preliminary investigation. The FCC has instructed its staff to institute a pre-hearing investigation with a view toward an early re-hearing of the Boston case, the Commission told the court, and as soon as relevant material is developed will order a hearing.

This investigation is being conducted by the same FCC team that handled the Miami ch. 10 hearings—Associate General Counsel Edgar W. Holtz, Assistant General Counsel Richard A. Solomon and Trial Attorney James T. Brennan.

DECISION STILL PENDS ON TESTIMONY OF SMATHERS IN MIAMI CH. 10 CASE

The FCC rehearing of the Miami ch. 10 case virtually wound up last Wednesday, only a month after its start.

Still to be decided is whether Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla.) will be called to testify. This depends on whether all counsel will accept as a stipulation the testimony of National Airlines Vice President Alexander G. Hardy before the House Legislative Oversight Committee. The testimony relates to Mr. Hardy's visits with Sen. Smathers, and Sen. Smathers' alleged conversations with former Comr. Richard A. Mack. Norman A. Jorgensen, attorney for National Airlines, said he would have to call for Sen. Smathers unless the stipulation was accepted.

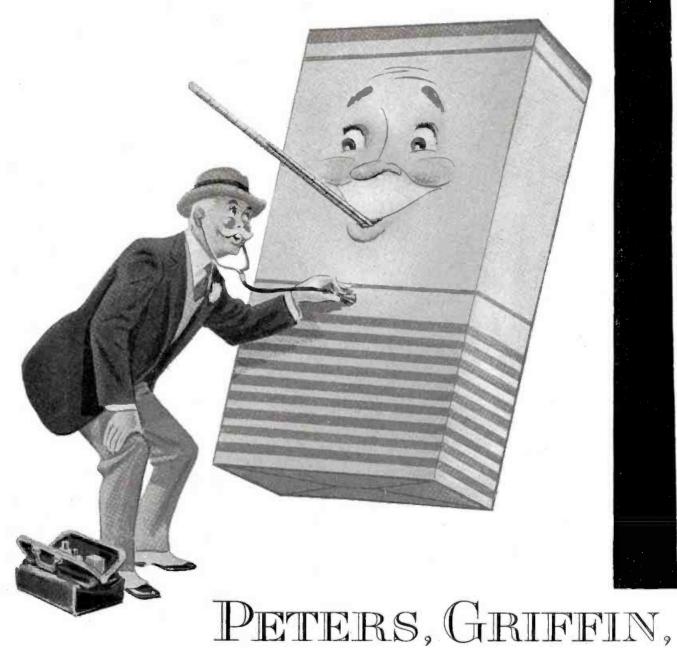

Agreed to by all parties was a tentative schedule which would close the record Oct. 10, with briefs to be filed by Nov. 3 and oral argument before the presiding officer, retired Pennsylvania Supreme Court Chief Justice Horace Stern, on Nov. 17.

Highlight of last week's one-day session was the charge by Paul A. Porter, counsel for WKAT Inc., that the Commission issued general instructions to its Office of Opinions and Review to write a final decision granting ch. 10 to National Airlines. Mr. Porter contended that these instructions were inadequate and that, in essence, "an artful and talented writer" in the review office wrote the Commission's decision. This, he claimed, is contrary to the law (Sec. 5C of the Communciations Act) forbidding the Commission staff to recommend any action to the FCC. Mr. Porter emphasized he was not charging any member of the staff with wilfully violating this provision or attempting to influence the Commission in favor of National Airlines.

The point came up when Mr. Porter introduced the official minutes of the FCC's Dec. 21, 1955 meeting. This was the executive hearing docket session when the Commission instructed the staff "to prepare an appropriate document looking toward grant of Public Service Television Inc." Public Service is a subsidiary of National Airlines. The minutes showed that former Comr. Richard A. Mack did not participate in the instructions. They also showed that Comrs. George C. McCon-

THE NOT UNEXPECTED

It wasn't long before the indictment of former FCC Comr. Richard A. Mack was picked up for partisan political purposes. GOP chairman Meade Alcorn, called attention to the fact that Mr. Mack is a Democrat, that he was appointed to a position which by law was required to be filled by a Democrat and that his appointment was made "in response to the wishes of Congressional Democrats." Mr. Alcorn made these observations in a "Chairman's Fact Memo" to GOP leaders, dated Sept. 29.

naughey, John C. Doerfer and Robert E. Lee voted for the grant to National Airlines; Rosel H. Hyde for L. B. Wilson and Robert T. Bartley and Edward M. Webster, for WKAT. The fourth applicant, North Dade Video Inc., received no votes.

Mr. Porter's attempt to develop this point through questioning of FCC General Counsel John L. FitzGerald was stymied by the strenuous objections of FCC Associate General Counsel Edgar W. Holtz. Mr. Fitz-Gerald was, until recently, chief of the Commission's review office. Judge Stern upheld Mr. Holtz's objections that this was delving into the judicial processes of the commissioners.

Earlier Mr. Porter called FCC Hearing

Examiner Herbert Sharfman to the stand, asking him only one question. This was whether anyone had attempted to influence him regarding the ch. 10 case while it was before him. Mr. Sharfman, who presided over the original comparative hearing, answered in the negative. Mr. Sharfman had recommended that the grant go to WKAT Inc. in his initial decision issued in March 1955

At one point in the proceedings last week, A. Harry Becker, counsel for North Dade Video Inc., stated that he intended asking for the appearance of Mr. Hardy and Milt Dean Hill, former public relations counsel for National Airlines. Later in the day, he withdrew this request.

Coincidentally, Eastern Airlines last week petitioned the FCC to revoke the license of National Airlines' ch. 10 WPST-TV Miami.

It based its petition on the stock transfer transaction whereby Pan American World Airways will acquire 26% of National Airlines stock—with option to increase this to 36%. Eastern said that the stock transfer is effective Nov. 12. Since FCC regulations require applications for transfers of control of broadcast stations to be filed 60 days before the effective date of the transfer, Eastern said, the Pan American-National Airlines exchange violates this Eastern also contended that the ownership of a tv station by an airline is contrary to national air policy. Eastern previously had attempted to intervene in the comparative hearing on Miami ch. 10. but was unsuccessful. Later it was given permission to be a party in the Miami ch. 10 rehearing, but only on the first issue (whether former Comr. Mack should have voted). It withdrew when the Commission denied its request for permission to participate on all the issues.

Mack Attorney Says He'll Ask For 30-Day Arraignment Delay

An attorney for former Comr. Richard A. Mack announced last Thursday that he was preparing to ask for a 30-day postponement of the arraignment of the former FCC commissioner.

Mr. Mack and his Miami attorney friend. Thurman A. Whiteside, were due to be arraigned Friday (Oct. 3) before federal Judge Burnita S. Matthews of the U. S. District Court in Washington.

Both were indicted two weeks ago for conspiracy to defraud the U.S. Government in connection with the award of ch. 10 Miami, Fla., to National Airlines [LEAD STORY, Sept. 29].

Nicholas J. Chase, Washington attorney for Mr. Mack, said he will ask for a month's continuance. Mr. Mack is under treatment in a Miami hospital as a result of injuries which he is reported to have suffered in a fall several days ago. One newspaper report was that the 49-year-old ex-FCC commissioner was undergoing treatment in a private hospital suffering from both physical and emotional problems. It was reported that Mr. Mack collapsed at

KFRE-TV Fights to Keep Ch. 12

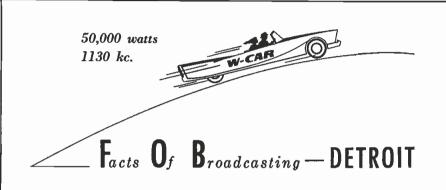

KFRE-TV Fresno, Calif., has asked the FCC to vacate its pending show cause order proposing the move of the ch. 12 outlet to ch. 30 as a sequence of the FCC deinter-mixture proceeding to make Fresno all-uhf. KFRE-TV said KMJ-TV (ch. 24) and KJEO-TV (ch. 47), both formerly advocating a KFRE-TV switch to ch. 30, now have contradicted themselves by various statements supporting their present proposals to make Fresno all-vhf, with KJEO-TV to get ch. 2, KMJ-TV ch. 5 and KFRE-TV ch. 9. KFRE-TV also felt this proposed assignment of channels would put KFRE-TV in a disadvantageous position competitively in relation to KMJ-TV and KJEO-TV.

EIA Opposes 840-890 mc Plea

Electronic Industries Assn. has told FCC it opposes any action now seeking reallocation of 840-890 mc (in uhf television band) to common carrier fixed service. EIA urged that any move to reassign blocks of frequencies between 25 mc and 890 mc should be incorporated in general inquiry of 25-890 mc area (Docket 11997); otherwise such action would constitute piecemeal approach. Several weeks ago Lenkurt Electronics Inc. filed petition with FCC asking move in 840-890 mc assignments.

The FCC last week granted the U. of New Hampshire in Durham a new educational tv outlet on ch. 11. The Commission waived its rules to make the grant in less than the usual 30 days.

GOP, HARRIS SWAP SWATS ON CH. 4

- Alcorn charges soft pedal in Pittsburgh investigation
- Oversight chairman wants explanation from FTC's Gwynne

An old-fashioned political controversy erupted last week in the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee's investigation—or lack of—into the Pittsburgh ch. 4 tv case. And, on a second front, subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris stated that he wants an explanation of charges made by FTC Chairman John W. Gwynne against the subcommittee.

Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn opened the firing Sept. 26 when he charged the subcommittee actually is not the bipartisan body it is supposed to be. "The sudden shutdown of the Harris committee [ch. 4] hearing after prominent Democrats became involved is a candid confession of the partisan, political mission of the inquiry," Mr. Alcorn said.

The two prominent Democrats referred to are Sen. George Smathers of Florida, chairman of his party's Senate campaign committee, and Pittsburgh Mayor David Lawrence, candidate for governor of Pennsylvania [Lead Story, Sept. 29]. Rep. Harris (D-Ark.) sent an apology to Mayor Lawrence, saying he wished to "acknowledge and regret the error made by Mr. [Oliver] Eastland [staff investigator]. . . . There is nothing in the record of the subcommittee which reflects or indicates any irregular or improper contacts on your part. . . ."

In his attack on the subcommittee's action, Mr. Alcorn said the hearing was in full swing until it was discovered the two Democrats "had engaged in improper backstage tinkering in the Pittsburgh tv case." He continued: "The hearing was immediately killed by Harris . . . in an attempt to avoid further embarrassment for Lawrence and Smathers and to make certain they would not have to appear on a witness stand under oath during the campaign.

"If these sub rosa pressures had been charged to Republicans, can anyone doubt that Harris would have launched full-scale hearings replete with the innuendo, smear and gossip for which he has become well known?" Mr. Alcorn also charged that Rep. Harris "made a feeble attempt to clear Lawrence and Smathers—without a hearing, without their testimony, without supporting documentation . . ." and without committee authorization.

Rep. Harris said that he was "completely amazed" at Mr. Alcorn's statement. "The charge is obviously politically inspired," he countered. "In fact, it would be amusing if it were not made by a person in the responsible position which he holds to his party and to the American people."

The subcommittee has been non-partisan from its outset, Rep. Harris maintained, and has made every effort to develop the facts without partisan considerations. "The charge in connection with the Pittsburgh tv case has no foundation whatsoever," he said

Of more than 20 tv cases which the subcommittee has looked into, all but four have been presented for the record, the chairman said. Of the remaining four, three (Indianapolis ch. 13, Miami ch. 10 and Boston ch. 5) have been returned to the FCC by the courts, leaving only the Pittsburgh case for "presentation at a public hearing," Rep. Harris said.

He said the subcommittee was aware of a grand jury investigation into the ch. 4 case and did not call several of the principals involved because they are under subpoena to the grand jury. At the close of the Pittsburgh hearings two weeks ago, Rep. Harris said the grand jury would be given a "reasonable time" to act.

Republican Rep. Joseph P. O'Hara of Minnesota, a member of the subcommittee, did not entirely agree with his chairman. He said he had not absolved anybody that has been involved in the Pittsburgh case of wrongdoing, "particularly Lawrence." He called attention to the fact that Mayor Lawrence did write Comr. Richard Bartley and did speak favorably of only one applicant. "The record speaks for itself," he said.

Rep. O'Hara stated all principals involved in the case should be called before the subcommittee to testify and that he planned to recommend such a course of action to Rep. Harris. He also said the matter of absolving Mayor Lawrence was not put to a subcommittee vote and was the action of the chairman.

Last Tuesday (Sept. 30), at the close of subcommittee hearings on proposed codes of ethics, Rep. Harris served notice on FTC Chairman John Gwynne, a Republican, that the subcommittee would want to talk to him again. In a speech the previous Friday, Comr. Gwynne lashed out at congressional investigators as being unfair and usurping the power of regulatory agencies [AT DEADLINE, Sept. 29].

Rep. Harris, who was sitting at a speaker's rostrum beside the FTC chairman when he made the charges, said the speech was "quite enlightening." He said the subcommittee wanted the charges explained more fully and would like to find out in what way it has encroached upon the functions of the agencies. Also, Rep. Harris said, he wanted to know the reasons for Comr. Gwynne's change in attitude. He cited June letters written by Comr. Gwynne and Comr. Robert T. Secrest thanking the committee for its "absolute fairness demonstrated" to the FTC in its appearances before the subcommittee.

He said Comr. Gwynne would be recalled in November when the subcommittee resumes hearings.

In its last session before the November elections, the subcommittee last Tuesday took testimony from three bar associations on proposed codes of ethics for government officials. The American Bar Assn. filed a statement in which it said such a code has been under active study by the association since last February. Action probably will be taken at a meeting of ABA's House of Delegates next February. Washington attorney Donald G. Beelar appeared for ABA.

Theodore H. Haas, chairman of the Federal Bar Assn. professional ethics committee, told the subcommittee that "statutory sanctions are necessary and desirable" to bring about high standards for government

HARRIS AFTER CLOSED-CIRCUIT

Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.) last week fired a new blast in his all-out campaign against any form of pay television.

The House Commerce Committee chairman pointed out that during the 85th Congress he was a strong supporter of legislation to exempt professional team sports from the antitrust laws. And, he said, Congress certainly will take into consideration the plans of football and baseball teams to televise their games on a closed-circuit subscription basis when it considers the sports legislation during the next session.

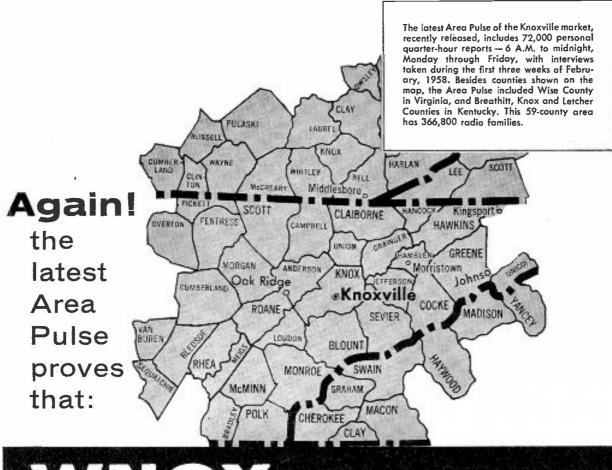

Rep. Harris served the above warning in releasing the text of letters he had written requesting information on commitments various teams had made to televise their games on closed-circuit. The letters were addressed to Skiatron Tv, San Francisco baseball Giants, and football 49ers, Los Angeles baseball Dodgers and football Rams, New York Telephone Co., Jersey Bell Telephone Co. and Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co.

The chairman called attention to "recent press reports" that Skiatron is negotiating with the above organizations for closed-circuit rights. He pointed out that his committee held hearings last January on pay tv and, as a result, the FCC agreed not to authorize pay tv until Congress had taken final action on the subject.

"The committee is contemplating [pay tv] hearings early in the first session of the 86th Congress and may possibly conduct hearings later this year before the opening of this session," Rep. Harris wrote. "The previous hearings have been concerned primarily with subscription television broadcasting as distinguished from closed-circuit pay television. As the two methods of operation are so interrelated they both are of equal concern to this committee.

"I shall, therefore, like to request you to submit to the committee in advance of these hearings at the earliest possible date, all relevant information with regard to your participation in any commitments, negotiations or plans relating to the operation of subscription television broadcast operations or closed-circuit pay television operations."

Court Decides For WSOC; Denies Buffalo Ch. 7 Stay

The U. S. Court of Appeals in Washington last week issued two per curiam opinions, upholding an FCC tv grant in one case and denying a stay of a grant in another.

The court found "no error" in the FCC grant of ch. 9 Charlotte, N. C., to WSOC Inc., therefore affirming the Commission's decision, despite losing applicant Piedmont Electronics and Fixture Corp's complaint. In the other case, the court denied a request for a stay of the FCC grant of ch. 7 Buffalo, N. Y., to WKBW-TV Inc. [Government, Aug. 4] brought by Great Lakes Tv Inc., one of the losing applicants for that channel.

The grant of the Buffalo channel is still before the court.

Torre Case Spurs Dorn To Plan Remedial Bill

As an outgrowth of the criminal contempt conviction of New York Herald Tribune tv columnist Marie Torre last Tuesday (Sept. 30), Rep. Francis Dorn (R-N.Y.) announced Wednesday he plans to introduce a bill in Congress giving reporters the legal right to withhold sources of information.

Rep. Dorn told BROADCASTING he would offer the proposal in January, when Congress convenes. Congressman Dorn added that two fellow Republicans—Assemblyman Harry Donnelly and George Spiros, both of Brooklyn—plan to introduce similar bills in the New York State Assembly and Senate, respectively. Mr. Spiros is a candidate for the State Senate and his sponsorship of the measure is contingent upon his election.

The contempt citation against Miss Torre was upheld by U. S. Court of Appeals in New York on Tuesday. Last Nov. 12 she had been sentenced to 10 days in jail by U. S. District Court Judge Sylvester J. Ryan for declining to supply the name of an unidentified CBS executive who reportedly was the source of information about a news item in her column regarding actress Judy Garland. The court ruled that the material sought of Miss Torre was of "obvious materiality and relevance." Miss Torçe, claiming privilege, declined to name the CBS-TV executive who assertedly told her that Judy Garland "is known for a highly developed inferiority complex" and "does not want to work because something is bothering her."

Herald Tribune announced after the court decision that it is considering the ruling "with the intention of carrying the Marie Torre case to the Supreme Court." Miss Torre has been free on her own recognizance, as she will be during the appeal to the Supreme Court.

Aeronautical Firms Go to Court On FCC Frequency Decision

Six aeronautical firms last week petitioned the U. S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia to set aside and review an FCC action reassigning certain frequency space, including 8500 to 9000 mc, from civilian use to the government [EDITORIAL, page 120].

Protesting the Commission's decision of April 16 were Aeronautical Radio Inc., Air Transport Assn. of America, Bendix Aviation Corp., Pan American World Airways. Trans World Airlines and United Airlines. The frequency space in question formerly was assigned to "radionavigation service" and the airlines had made plans to start using radar navigation equipment operating on 8800 mc.

The petitioners claimed the FCC's action (1) violates a treaty, of which the U. S. is a party, under which 8500-9000 mc is allocated solely to radionavigation on a worldwide basis; (2) is invalid in that the FCC is not empowered to adopt regulations in conflict with a treaty of the U. S. or a law of Congress; (3) violates the Communications Act since the move was made without notice or public hearing, and (4) is defective in that it does not set forth an adequate basis for the action taken.

At the time of the Commission decision, the court appeal stated, plans were in progress for the early production and installation of 880 mc airborne "Doppler" radars in aircraft. The spectrum reassignment had been protested to the FCC by the air transportation interests. This protest was denied July 31 "without any opportunity to be heard," the petitioners told the court.

Six Oppose FCC Power Hike As Well As I-A Duplication

Six am broadcast stations, filing reply comments last week on the FCC's clear channel proposals, said they oppose increased power for Class I-A stations. They said that in original comments they gave their positions on the FCC's proposed duplication of 12 clear channels only, because the FCC did not ask for comments on higher power for Class I-A's. Other parties filing, however, gave their views on higher powers, the six stations said, and they want the FCC to know that they intend to oppose higher powers for Class I-A stations when comments are requested. They were KRIO McAllen and KFJZ Fort Worth, both Texas; WREC Memphis; WCUE Akron; WRVA Richmond, and WKOW Madison, Wis.

The FCC has extended the deadline for filing reply comments to Oct. 29.

Radio is as BIG as ever... but there's a BIGGER difference in stations!

Radio's immense, strength... the opportunity to talk frequently, economically and persuasively with masses of people... can only be realized to the full by taking advantage of the difference between run-of-the-mill stations and great stations.

The difference is big. Great radio stations are the ones who invest substantial resources in top facilities and outstanding personnel. Their programming is skillfully geared to cover the whole range of listener interests...with features thoughtfully produced, professionally presented. Their responsible management permits no carnival gimmicks, shoddy giveaways, triple spots, pitchmen or questionable commercials to be associated with their call letters.

Great stations amass huge audiences. Great stations earn the confidence of the community for themselves and for their advertisers. This is the combination that produces results.

The stations listed here are the great stations in 18 important markets. So efficient is their coverage, you need add only 30 selected stations, out of the more than 3,000 stations now broadcasting, to achieve effective nationwide reach. This technique of concentrating on 48 top stations is called "The Nation's Voice."

A call to the Christal office nearest you will bring complete information, documented with data developed by Alfred Politz Research, showing how the strategy of The Nation's Voice can quickly put radio's vitality to work solving your particular sales problem.

FM OUTLETS FAVOR NEW MULTIPLEX USE

- Comments filed with FCC
- Common carriers protest

Ten fm stations and one fm applicant asked the FCC last week to authorize fm broadcasters to make use of multiplexing for additional subsidiary communications activities.

The comments were offered in the FCC's current inquiry into the possibility of additional non-broadcast uses by broadcasters of fm subchannels through multiplexing [AT DEADLINE, July 7].

But other organizations or groups were against additional fm activities.

The General Electric Communications Products Dept. opposed such uses by broadcasters of fm subchannels for non-broadcast activities and suggested that since ways are being developed to use subchannels, the FCC might consider paring individual fm frequencies and allocating what is left over in the fm spectrum to other services.

Westinghouse Broadcasting Co., whose comments were filed earlier than the bulk of the papers, urged the FCC to go ahead with authorizations for non-broadcast uses, but to give first consideration to fm broadcasting itself.

Five comments were concerned with whether an fm station can transmit background or "storecasting" music and still have bands left over on its frequency for acceptable stereo music broadcasts on its main channel and a subchannel.

NBC noted it has been granted FCC authority to operate its WRCA-FM New York experimentally for stereophonic transmissions and said it can't respond "definitively" to the FCC inquiry until data is available on technical operations, including compatibility and technical standards.

Common carrier spokesmen, including American Telephone & Telegraph Co., were opposed to broadcaster use of the fm band for what they consider common carrier purposes. AT&T said it didn't object to broadcasters using multiplex for purposes allied to broadcasting, but felt some of the proposed uses threaten the interests of "regulated common carriers." Such operations as doctor paging services and traffic light control shouldn't be extended so as to "break down" the present distinction between broadcasters and common carriers, AT&T said.

The fm stations generally felt that the FCC should authorize the broadest use of subsidiary communications by fm broadcasters consistent with good utilization of the frequency and high quality of the fm broadcast signal. They felt subchannels should be used for relay services (e.g., feeds to networks and other stations); felt it's still too early in fm's development to standardize uses for specific subchannels; thought the fm broadcast signal should have first consideration; and felt fm broadcasters should be free to make contracts for subchannel uses or for leasing of subchannels, consistent with FCC rules, provided the fm licensee retains control of programs and equipment.

15 FM'ERS TOLD 'NO'

The FCC last week denied requests by 15 fm stations to continue functional music operation on a simplex basis, but allowed two of them— WBFM (FM) New York and WPEN-FM Philadelphia-to continue to Oct. 31. The others: KEEZ (FM) San Antonio; WDDS-FM Syracuse, N. Y.; WWDC-FM Washington; WPKM (FM) Tampa, Fla.: WMIT (FM) Clingmans Peak, N. C.; WLDM (FM) Oak Park, Mich.; WKJR (FM) Pittsburgh; KMLA (FM) Los Angeles; KRKD-FM Los Angeles; WMMW (FM) Meriden, Conn., and KCFM (FM) St. Louis.

Granted authorizations to transmit functional music on a multiplex basis were KDEN-FM Denver, WGR-FM Buffalo, N. Y., Trancontinent Tv Corp., Rochester, N. Y., and WMFM (FM) Madison, Wis.

The fm stations commenting were KVEN-FM Ventura, Calif.; KRON-FM San Francisco; Hall Broadcasting Co. (applicant for fm), Los Angeles; KMLA (FM) Los Angeles; KSON-FM San Diego, Calif.; KEEZ (FM) San Antonio; WDDS-FM Syracuse, N. Y.; WPKM (FM) Tampa, Fla.; WGHF (FM) Brookfield, Conn., and KUTE (FM) Glendale, Calif. WKBR-FM Manchester, N. H., expressed itself only as favoring authorization of network feeds by multiplex.

The GE Communications Products Dept. voiced flat opposition to fm broadcaster use of non-broadcast subsidiary communications on fm channels, saying that while regular broadcast service is available to all the public and advertisers, non-broadcast use is limited as to those it serves, and that proposals for subsidiary communications use of fm frequencies would be "discriminatory." The GE department felt current proposals for non-broadcast use of fm channels by multiplexing indicates that original spectrum allocations (to fm) allows more transmissions than now used in actual broadcasting; that, therefore, the FCC should "adjust" existing allocations to meet these "more limited" requirements by "possible assignment" of such un-used portions to "other services."

Westinghouse Broadcasting thought the interest in stereo will create enough circulation for fm stations to operate on a sound financial basis. WBC felt the FCC should "re-examine" additional uses of multiplex because fm may be on the "threshold of the greatest development in its history" and further delay might be "detrimental."

WBC thought the FCC should refuse to recognize any subsidiary use that will interfere with the public's enjoyment of fm, but should continue to permit fm broadcasters to make additional uses of fm by multiplexing to develop data on transmission and reception and at the same time produce additional revenue.

Two schools of thought were presented in comments on the problem of compatible background music transmissions and stereophonic music broadcasts on the same fm frequency.

The first group-Northeast Radio Network (WOXR-FM New York Network) and Multiplex Development Corp.—feels a regular fm frequency can be made to accommodate both background music (as now transmitted by many fm operators) and stereo (using the main channel and a whittled-down subchannel) with acceptable reception.

The second group believes a wider subchannel should be allowed for stereo and that, therefore, the fm frequency cannot accommodate both background music service and stereo broadcasts. This group was represented by Crosby Labs Inc., Syosset, N. Y. (Murray G. Crosby), and Dwight Harkins, another equipment developer, whose request to the FCC earlier prompted FCC consideration of multiplex stereo in its current notice.

Audio Magazine also submitted a plan for compatible stereo and background

Sitrick Joins Blackburn & Co.; McDonough Becomes Doerfer Aide

Resignation of Joseph M. Sitrick as chief legislative-administrative assistant to FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer [CLOSED CIR-CUIT, Sept. 29] and appointment of Paul M. McDonough, an attorney in the Office of Opinions & Review, to succeed him, were announced last week.

Mr. Sitrick joins the Washington office of Blackburn & Co., radio-tv-newspaper broker, in an administrative capacity on Oct. 15. Before going to the FCC, he was publicity and informational service manager at NAB. Prior to that, he was assistant chief of the U.S. Information Agency's international press service, performed public relations and congressional liaison duties for the State Dept., was congressional correspondent for International Press Service and was on the news staff of BROADCASTING.

Mr. McDonough joined the FCC in 1957. Born at Los Angeles in 1921, he is the son of Rep. Gordon L. McDonough (R-Calif.). He was deputy city attorney of Los Angeles from 1952-1954 and for the following three years was associate counsel with Cantillon & Cantillon, Los Angeles law firm.

Are in a serious vein.

For more than 36 years KHJ has programmed with these "near-eggheads" in mind (as well as all the other types which make up the Los Angeles population) because we believe they comprise a much larger audience segment than most stations nowadays seem to realize.

Without becoming stuffy, KHJ's FOREGROUND SOUND offers them the kind of stimulating radio fare that will hold their attention throughout the program (including the commercial). To completely penetrate any market, you must first penetrate the individual minds within it.

Never underestimate the variety of tastes that make up the Greater Los Angeles area. Here is a medium programmed to satisfy them all.

St. Louis Amusement Appeals To High Court in Ch. 11 Case

As its latest move in the long-fought St. Louis ch. 11 case, the St. Louis Amusement Co. last week asked the U. S. Supreme Court to review an adverse Court of Appeals decision upholding the FCC in refusing to consider a St. Louis Amusement protest against the transfer of ch. 11 to 220 Television Inc. [Government, Sept. 1]. St. Louis Amusement had been an applicant for ch. 11 but had dropped out prior to the completion of the comparative hearing.

Coinciding with its new court move, St. Louis Amusement also petitioned the FCC again last week. It claimed that information unearthed by the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee shows ex parte contacts between three commissioners and "an agent of CBS" [GOVERNMENT, June 9]. CBS had originally won ch. 11, but after purchasing ch. 4 KWK-TV (now KMOX-TV) St. Louis for $4 million, had turned over ch. 11 to 220 Television, one of the losing applicants. 220 Television agreed to pay each of the other two losing applicants for ch. 11, St. Louis Telecast and Broadcast House, $200,000 each.

AFTRA Asks FCC to Rehear NBC's WMAQ, WNBQ Licenses

The Chicago local of American Federation of Tv & Radio Artists last week asked the FCC to review and hold a "rehearing" on the licenses of NBC's WMAQ and WNBQ (TV) Chicago to determine if recent personnel and "program" cutbacks are in the public interest.

The petition, mailed to the FCC Tuesday, said firings of "hundreds" and cancellations of programs in Chicago by NBC and the other networks calls for "true emergency action."

AFTRA said it also has asked the Senate and House Interstate & Foreign Commerce Committees to probe network cutbacks in "local - sponsored, Chicago - originated programs" and alleged discrimination against talent.

The AFTRA local asked the FCC for a "hearing without delay" to give the union an opportunity to substantiate its charges that the alleged cutback of radio and tv programs has degraded community culture and entertainment; that NBC refuses to consider any criterion except the "greatest dollar profit" and that this philosophy is responsible for wholesale discharges of performers, technicians and "other creative and administrative personnel"; that advertisers are thus denied opportunity to and choice of programs; that NBC has "extracted" exorbitant profits amounting to millions of dollars from the Chicago market and has announced what amounts to a "public-behanged" policy; that the effect will be to "stifle" cultural benefits from the "miracles" of radio-tv.

The union called on the FCC to order discontinuance of the practices alleged by the AFTRA chapter.

The AFTRA action, regarded as highly precedential in trade circles, was taken by the Chicago chapter board without sanction of the national AFTRA organization or consultation of its membership.

All three network own properties in Chicago have been realigning their program schedules and personnel in recent months in line with network commitments and in gearing locally for the 1958-59 season. Some program changes involve network shows and others the insertion of film properties for live programs.

Rollins Inc. Opposes Petition For Etv Use of Wilmington Ch. 12

Rollins Broadcasting Inc., which has applied for ch. 12 in Wilmington, Del. [Gov-ERNMENT, Sept. 15], last week asked denial of a petition by the Joint Council for Educational Tv which asks that ch. 12 be reserved for educational non-commercial tv [AT DEADLINE, Sept. 15]. Rollins, licensee of WAMS Wilmington and other stations, said Delaware has only three commercial channels of which only ch. 12 is a vhf and that Wilmington and Delaware deserve local service-Wilmington being the 73rd largest market, with 268,387 people. An educational tv station would duplicate educational WHYY-TV Philadelphia in some measure, the Rollins opposition said.

Storer Broadcasting Co. shut down WVUE (TV) Wilmington Sept. 13 but has not surrendered its permit for the ch. 12 facility.

KOMA, Being Sold to Storz, Lost $17,509 in Fiscal 1958

KOMA Oklahoma City, whose sale to Storz Broadcasting Co. was filed with the FCC Sept. 25, had a net loss of $17,509 for the fiscal year ending July 31, its balance sheet reveals. KOMA showed total assets of $320,147. Its liabilities included a mortgage of $117,500 and loans of $119,971 from partners in the station.

A profit-loss statement for the year showed gross income of $195,642 and total expenses of $181,652 before depreciation ($31,500).

The balance sheet for Storz covering the same period showed current assets of $1,937,395 and total assets of $3,995,175; liabilities total was $998,110 and surplus was $2,795,433.

The sale of the station to Storz by partners Burton Levine, Arnold Lerner, Myer Feldman, Bessie Von Zamft, Raymond K. Ruff and Harold Thurman for $600,000 was announced in August [Changing Hands, Aug. 25).

FCC Extends Comments Date

At the request of the Federal Communications Bar Assn., the FCC last week extended from Sept. 30 to Oct. 30 the date for filing comments on proposd rulemaking which would curb intermediate appeals to the FCC or rulings on motions before final consideration of the main proceeding by that body. Reply comments date was extended from Oct. 10 to Nov. 10.

NAB SESSIONS REACH MID-POINT

- San Francisco regional hears report on bank campaigns
- Second round of meetings starts next Monday in Milwaukee

The 1958 NAB fall conference series reached the half-way point Tuesday noon (Sept. 30) with the windup of the meeting in San Francisco. NAB President Harold Fellows and his team of traveling executives are now back at their Washington head-quarters to get caught up with their deskwork before setting out on the second half of their fall agenda which commences next Monday (Oct. 13) in Milwaukee. The sessions move on Oct. 16 to Minneapolis and conclude the following week with day-and a-half sessions in Boston and Washington.

West coast broadcasters were given results of an ASCAP music license survey conducted by Calvin J. Smith, KFAC Los Angeles, member of the All-Industry Radio Music License Committee (story page 72).

In San Francisco, where registration totaled 183 at 9 a.m. Tuesday (before the beginning of the final half-day of the one-and-half-day meeting), the same formula was followed as at earlier meetings [TRADE ASSNS., Sept. 29, 22]. Reports from NAB headquarters were delivered during the general opening session Monday morning; separate but simultaneous radio and tv sessions were held Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning; Mr. Fellows addressed the Monday luncheon and a guest speaker headlined the Tuesday luncheon session. A Monday evening banquet was purely social, without speeches.

The unusual problems of bank advertising and the way that one bank has used the broadcast media were discussed Tuesday noon by Charles Stuart Jr., advertising manager of the Bank of America. This bank, he reported, regards radio and television as

"backbone" media, with major responsibility for carrying the campaign load.

"Used properly, singly or in combination," he said, "both are capable of an enormous advertising punch... capable of carrying an entire campaign. Because they are, however, such strong intrusive media, we feel they must be used very carefully.

"It is, of course, possible to produce good advertising for radio and television without taking chances. . . . In our advertising we try to get across the impression that money isn't such a bad thing after all . . . and we try to do it with a light touch.

"For years, the average man who asks for a personal loan regards it like going to the dentist. We try to break down that misconception by using the light touch: 'Ask for it by name, MONEY—money,' 'get instant money with a Timeplan Loan'; 'do you need earth-money?' And so on. . . .

"For this reason, most of our radio and television commercials are spot announcements. The brand of humor we have employed seems to lend itself better to animation than to live announcements—and, in a spot campaign, we can secure saturation impact concentrated into a short period of time—without becoming identified with any one particular television show or radio program."

Comparing tv broadcasters to the operators of theatres, "who also had their news programs and their local live shows as well as their features," Joseph L. Floyd, KELO-TV Sioux Falls, S. D., offered the Tuesday morning tv session a four-point formula for successful station operation: Promote your station and advertise your programs to increase your audience and your advertising. Produce and schedule your attractions in a showmanlike manner. Buy programs at a price you can make a profit on. Protect your source of supply.

Stressing his final point as the most important, Mr. Floyd warned tv broadcasters against taking any action against either networks or film producers that might result in curtailing the supply of programs, "the course of our livelihood."

Mr. Floyd, Philip G. Lasky, KPIX (TV) San Francisco, and Richard B. Rawls, KPHO-TV Phoenix, led a discussion of programming that ranged from the need for standardization of film contracts to the economics of videotape. On the latter topic, those station operators who have installed VTR equipment reported the main savings to be in man hours. By taping weekend and "live" commercials for late evening and early morning programs, they said, they had been able to eliminate overtime and to free technicians for other duties. None had reduced the number of technical employes when adding videotape machines, however.

Henry Saroyan, ABC-TV, and Harold See, KRON (TV) San Francisco, discussed ways to keep track of costs in tv during an off-the-record session on tv station administration, held Monday afternoon.

Discussing the subject "Management Looks at Current Trends in Music Programming," William D. Shaw, vice president and general manager, KSFO San Francisco, cited the opinions of four experts: Clyde Wallichs, president of Los Angeles' Music City, who reported that teenagers account for only 10% of total record sales; Sydney Goldberg, vice president of Decca, who likened radio programming to that of longplay records, which calls for more than just a collection of any 12 songs, but "each one must have an idea with the music pointed in that direction and a program which will hold the interest of the consumer for close to 45 minutes"; Bill Gavin, program director of Lucky Lager Dunce Time (2½ hours of popular recorded music, seven nights a week on some 40 Western stations) for McCann-Erickson, who found "a growing recognition by management that new sounds and patterns in pop records are not due simply to teenagers' abnormal tastes but that there are basic and continuing changes in mass preferences in music"; and Mitch Miller, who suggested that stations who let "well-meaning amateurs and list makers" control their musical programming should be consistent and canvass newspaper and magazine vendors to pick the day's top news stories.

Mr. Shaw's own observation: "The brightest operators in our business, regardless of their programming pattern, seem to consistently follow these same few procedures: They've determined the reason for their station's existence in the market and designed a format to fit this need. They've stuck with it and improved it. They continually try to anticipate trends, not only in music, but in all other program factors. They waste no time knocking their competitors; it's easier to concentrate on trying to out-think them."

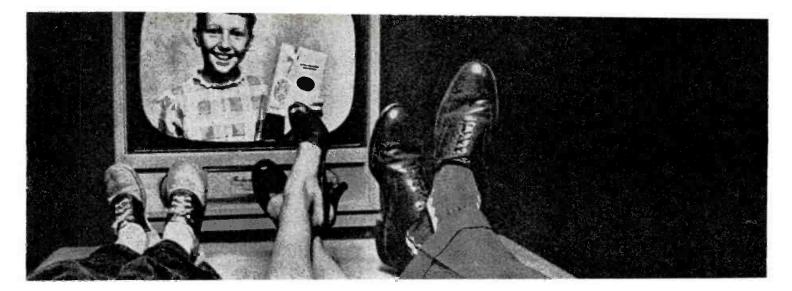

Richard O. Dunning, president, KHQ Spokane, Wash., in introducing the booklet, "Broadcasting the News," produced by NAB's Freedom of Information Committee, suggested to the broadcasters that on their return home they refrain from broadcasting a single news item all day and see what happens. "You'll find you're a bigger force in your community than perhaps you realized," he stated.

RUNNING THE SALES DEPARTMENT

Sales department administration was discussed by a four-man panel: William J. Beaton, KWKW Pasadena, Calif.; Richard M. Brown, KPOJ Portland, Ore.; Benton Paschall, KFXM San Bernardino, Calif., and Ray Rhodes, Paul H. Raymer Co., San Francisco. Panel members agreed that simplifying rate cards would be a good idea but that it presents an almost impossible task; that merchandising services offered by stations are pretty much a waste of time and money but that the competitive situation requires stations to provide them. The 60 station men in attendance at the session agreed with the panel that it is proper to disclose the schedule of a competitor when asked to do so, but in spots, not dollars. A show of hands disclosed that about 10% of the broadcasters pay their salesmen straight salaries; the rest paying commissions divided about equally between less than 15%, about 15% and more than

NAB President Hal Fellows, speaking at the Monday luncheon, noted the local interest in pay television "because of the expressed interest of the San Francisco Giants in selling their games to the home audience" and reiterated the NAB opposition to any form of pay tv.

"The broadcasters, in taking this position through their association, naturally are interested in the integrity of their own investments," he said. "Primarily, however, they are acting in behalf of the public interest—for it is conceivable that should they use

"Nevertheless, the Federal Government in establishing a free system of broadcasting in the United States—through legislation and regulation—in effect pledged a free system for the American people, supported by advertising. Broadcasters do not believe that the government should renege on this promissory note. If there is to be some form of pay television, let it employ facilities other than those that are intended to offer a free service—the allocated broadcast channels."

Robert J. Harrold, Charles Bruning Co., spoke on "Towards Greater Internal Efficiency" at the Tuesday morning radio session. A panel of three station managers—Wendell Campbell, KFRC San Francisco; Ray Johnson, KMED Medford, Ore., and Knox LaRue, KSTN Stockton, Calif.—reported on the number and organization of staffers at these stations and answered questions about ways to secure efficient station operation.

Broadcasters who talk about editorializing are guilty of misleading semantics, Harold See, KRON-TV San Francisco, declared Monday at the opening general session. Newspapers, which can voice their views and ignore the opposing viewpoint, can editorialize, he said. Broadcasters, required to present both, or all, viewpoints on any controversial subject, have only the right of public comment. Robert H. Forward of KMPC Los Angeles, reported on his station's use of one-minute editorials to alert listeners to issues on which they can act by voting or by writing their elected representatives at city hall, the state legislature or in Washington. Philip G. Lasky, KPIX (TV) San Francisco, told how his station gives full production to its editorials, using cartoons, photographs and other visual material to illustrate the oral argument.

There's Always Good News From Florida

Quite naturally, a state blessed with the climate advantages of Florida comes in for some ribbing from the press when a few snowflakes fall. It's the unusual event that makes news.

But there is this point about last winter's freeze in Florida which didn't make headlines. Yet it is a story which merits telling.

Even while experiencing the coldest winter in 47 years, Florida offered a wide margin of climate advantage over other states.

HERE ARE THE FACTS

During December ... the month that brought Florida its coldest single-day temperature of last winter... minimum daily readings at 123 state-wide weather stations averaged a low of only 48.4°. Average December maximum was 70.3°.

In January and in February, the average minimum was 44.2° and 41.7° respectively, while average maximum was, in the same order, 63.7° and 63.9°.

The Florida state-wide average in each of these three winter months, considerably under normal as it was, still topped every other state. But, in south Florida, where most winter tourists visit, the climate advantage was even more pronounced. For example, accumulative figures from five south Florida weather stations show a December-January-February daily average minimum of 54.1°, and an average maximum of 69.6°.

There were few days that tourists couldn't enjoy all the outdoor fun for which Florida is famed. Daytime highs were warm enough for golf, tennis, fishing; for seeing the sights or visiting the race tracks.

And, surprising as it might seem to one who hasn't experienced the power of subtropic sunshine, there were swimsuited people tanning on south Florida beaches four days out of five all last winter.

There is no denying that last season's cold spell was the big news from Florida. But the best news was this: Even in a record cold year, the margin of climate comfort offered its usual advantage over other places in the land. Proving again, Florida's is one of the best climates of the world in which to enjoy a winter vacation.

Women Should Have Bigger Part In Programming—Booraem Says

Women should play a more important role in television programming policies of networks and stations, Hendrik Booraem, vice president-director of radio-tv for Ogilvy, Benson & Mather, New York, told a dinner meeting of the New York chapter of American Women in Radio & Television last week.

Mr. Booraem estimated that 75% of all tv programming is directed toward women but noted that, with few exceptions, programming is almost exclusively the responsibility of men. In contrast, he pointed out, such service magazines as Ladies Home Journal are edited almost exclusively by women. Mr. Booraem suggested that networks, stations and even agencies involved in tv programming consider the utilization of more women in programming capacities on the policy level.

Smith Cites Disparity In ASCAP Contracts

An "amazing lack of uniformity" exists in computing ASCAP fees paid by radio stations, according to a survey conducted among California stations by Calvin J. Smith, KFAC Los Angeles, California member of the All-Industry Radio Music License Committee (also see page 76).

Addressing the Monday radio session of the NAB Fall Conference at San Francisco (main story page 68). Mr. Smith said: "The ASCAP auditor makes up your contract when he comes into your station."

The all-industry group, set up by radio stations at a May I meeting held during the NAB Chicago convention, is conducting negotiations for renewal of music copyright contracts. The ASCAP contract expires next Dec. 31, the BMI contract in March. Robert T. Mason, WMRN Marion, Ohio, is chairman of the all-industry negotiating committee.

Mr. Smith said the general policy on talent fees is to allow fees to be deducted if they are billed separately to the advertiser in excess of the card rate. But he reported 14 deviations from this basic policy on the basis of his survey of stations.

"In the case of disc jockeys there is apparently no standard practice," Mr. Smith observed. "Some deduct everything, some a percentage and some pay on the full amount."

As to remote charges, sports rights, news expenses, trade deal advertising and merchandising-promotion, he said there is no definite policy, with some deducting nothing, some all and some only a portion.

Noting that radio and tv broadcasters now pay ASCAP about $22 million a year—more than $200 million for a nine-year contract, assuming a static condition—he urged all stations to contribute to the support of the committee and thus help to secure a better contract with standard provisions spelled out.

Protective Air Time Lessening—Sweeney

Protective air time—the interval between radio commercials for competitive products—is being shortened, Kevin B. Sweeney, Radio Advertising Bureau President, told the bureau's northeastern regional management conference in Princeton, N. J., last week. The conference ended RAB's 1958 series of seven such meetings.

A nationwide survey of some 200 timebuyers, conducted by RAB last July, was said by Mr. Sweeney to show that:

"Some 52.7% of agencies request only a 15-minute interval between competing announcements compared to 43% of time-buyers in 1957. While 47% of these insisted on a half-hour separation between announcements one year ago, only 31.6% expect that courtesy today. About 11.8% want a 20-minute break."

Mr. Sweeney also reported on a separate RAB survey on the amount of rate protection accorded current advertisers at the time of an increase.

"Twenty-one percent of the stations asked listed one year compared to 75% in 1957. While 25% of stations offered six months of immunity from increased time charges one year ago, about 66% offer that much time today," Mr. Sweeney told the group.

John F. Hardesty, RAB vice president and general manager, reported to the Princeton group that in more than two-thirds of the nation's stations that disc jockeys are under limitations regarding on-air conversation:

"Some 26.3% of stations have a definite time or word limit while 30.6% have a carefully policed 'talk as little as possible' d.j. policy. Another 14.2% of stations limit d.j. conversation to delivering the time, weather, temperature and commercials."

Dannett Named as Counsel To Radio Music Negotiators

Emanuel Dannett, one of the attorneys active in the formation of Broadcast Music Inc. in 1940, last week was named counsel to the All-Industry Radio Music License Committee.

Robert T. Mason of WMRN Marion, Ohio, chairman of the committee, announced the appointment after a two-day meeting of the group and also said plans had been perfected "for the immediate negotiation of agreements with ASCAP and BMI." ASCAP radio music licenses expire Dec. 31, BMI's next March.

It also was disclosed for the first time that the committee will "consider existing agreements" with SESAC, third major music licensing organization. Committee members noted that SESAC licenses lack the general uniformity of those issued by BMI and ASCAP.

Mr. Dannett is a member of the New York law firm of McGoldrick, Dannett, Horowitz & Golub. He has been identified with broadcast music licensing for many years. He was co-counsel for Mutual from its formation in 1934 and later was general counsel for 15 years until 1954. He currently represents CBS in some legal matters, is counsel for WPAT Patterson, N. J., and is a board member of WPAT and WITI Milwaukee.

In television license negotiations of recent years the all-industry committees have been represented by former Judge Simon H. Rifkind.

Although the radio committee plans to negotiate with both ASCAP and BMI and "consider" SESAC agreements, it is expected to take these assignments one at a time, starting with ASCAP since these licenses expire first. Authorities expected their first meeting with ASCAP to be held within three or four weeks.

The committee, authorized at the NAB convention in April and elected by industry-wide vote in July [PROGRAM SERVICES, July 21], consists of 17 members representing radio stations in all sections of the U. S.

BMI Gets Look at ASCAP Records

After some two years of trying, BMI last week got permission to examine the performance cards of the American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers. In federal court in New York ASCAP attorneys consented to a BMI motion that the data, showing the performance records of ASCAP tunes, be made available. BMI claims it needs to study the performance data in preparing its defense against the $150 million lawsuit brought by 33 ASCAP songwriters more than four years ago. It has had a standing offer to make its own performance records available to the 33 plaintiffs and ASCAP if BMI were given access to the ASCAP data.

THOSE MUSICAL NOTES

ASCAP's income in the first eight months of 1958 totaled $19,291,984, all but $172,821 of it from licensees for the use of the music of ASCAP members, George Hoffman, comptroller, reported Tuesday (Sept. 30) at a west coast membership meeting in Los Angeles. ASCAP membership now includes 1,190 active publisher members and 4,167 active writer members, with 185 non-participating publisher and 680 non-participating writer memberships.

CBS LABS NEW CENTER AT STAMFORD READY

Dedication ceremonies will be held tomorrow (Oct. 7) for the new research center of CBS Labs on a 23-acre site in Stamford, Conn. The principal speaker will be Roy W. Johnson, director of the Defense Dept.'s Advanced Research Projects Agency, and dignitaries invited include Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, Mayor Webster C. Givens of Stamford and high-ranking officers of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

CBS Labs, a division of CBS Inc., has been located up to now in the headquarters building of CBS at 485 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y. The new center is said to contain modern facilities and instrumentation for research and development in such fields as audio-video systems, solid state physics, physical chemistry, optics, vacuum tubes, data processing systems, and electronics for communications and other applications. Dr. Peter C. Goldmark is president of CBS Labs.

Ground for the center was broken in the fall of 1957. At that time, Dr. Frank Stanton, CBS president, said the program of the laboratory was expanding in three areas: improved audio and video techniques, electronics projects under government contract for military and other purposes and more comprehensive applied research for industry.

ADMINISTRATIVE offices at Stamford have floor-to-ceiling windows facing an inner courtyard in which a sound capsule has been embedded. The capsule, to be removed in the year 2057, contains three "I Can Hear It Now" long playing records which relate events of the first half of the 20th century as described by Edward R. Murrow.

New York Meeting, Show Both Devoted to Stereo

Stereophonics blasted New York City's Eighth Ave. and 35th St. last week.

On the West Side, at the Hotel New Yorker, the Audio Engineering Society met for its tenth annual convention and exhibition and devoted itself studiously to highly technical papers on the engineering aspects of the new audio art, including multiplex fm broadcasting.

Across the street at the New York Trade Show Bldg., equipment and component manufacturers treated the public visually—and audibly—to the latest of their wares at the New York high fidelity show sponsored by the Institute of High Fidelity Manufacturers. Mayor Robert F. Wagner proclaimed the occasion "Stereo High Fidelity Week" and an estimated 50,000 persons were expected to attend. The institute estimates hift component and home music system sales this year will range $250-260 million, well above last year's $225 million.

While exhibitors happily acclaimed stereo to be the hottest innovation to hit the trade since the long-playing record, many felt the public is dragging its heels on making purchases, waiting for the confusion to be cleared concerning various practical aspects of technical standards and general availability of equipment, discs and tapes. Others held it's much too early to judge trends.

RCA expects to bring out its initial stereotape cartridge musical releases within a month. Most major record labels already have initial stereo discs on the market or soon will have, while the equipment to play them was in much evidence among manufacturers' exhibits, including am-fm tuners.

On Friday (Oct. 3), at the Audio Engineering Society gathering, Murray G. Crosby, president of Crosby Labs, Hicksville, N. Y., described the performance characteristics of the "compatible" fm multiplex stereo transmission system which his firm is proposing before the FCC. The system is compatible to the mon-aural listener as well as the multiplex stereo listeners, since the two music channels are mixed and then fed to the main program channel, with the subtracted "difference" or reverse phase of the two channels fed to the subcarrier. The home multiplex receiver or adapter separates the channels again for feed to separate speakers. In stereo methods, one music channel goes on the main program channel, the second channel on to the subcarrier, so that the mon-aural listener can hear only one channel or pick-up microphone.

The Crosby system has been in test on WBAI (FM) New York since Sept. 12 and daily last week from the WBAI studios at the high fidelity show, using experimental authorization under the call KE2XXT. Other New York stations exhibiting at the fair included WQXR-AM-FM and WRFM (FM).

On the program Friday with Mr. Crosby were William S. Halstead, Multiplex Service Corp., New York, and Richard Burden Assoc., Mt. Kisco, N. Y., who reviewed developments of multiplex stereocasting, beginning with the first experimental transmissions on fm in 1950.

Other broadcast papers were given by George H. Grenier, General Electric Co., on stability considerations in high fidelity amplifiers; W. S. Bachman, Columbia Records

Inc., and B. B. Bauer, H. Hollywood and G. Maerkle, all CBS Labs, on single push-pull stage amplifiers for stereophonic sound reproduction, and J. Rodriguez De Miranda, of N. V. Philips, Eindhoven, Holland, on designing a multi-purpose stereo pre-amplifier.

Earlier in the week, Albert C. Travis Jr., Broadcast Equipment Specialties Corp., Beacon, N. Y., presented a paper on evolution of a successful spring-driven broadcast quality tape recorder, which the firm is marketing to stations for news purposes. It operates on dry batteries. Frank Radocy, Audio Devices Inc., New York, introduced to the convention his firm's newest professional product offering, the Echoraser, a static device designed to reduce the intensity of laver to layer signal transfer on tape, otherwise known as "print-through."

Some 70 papers on other aspects of audio engineering, many on stereo, were read before the convention.

Man-Made Rubies at Michigan Promise Greater Tv Reception

Television reception over much greater distances than now possible and communication with space vehicles is promised from U. of Michigan experiments with man-made rubies

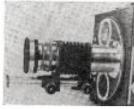

The "ruby maser," a low temperature device said to be able to out perform electron tubes and transistors, has been developed at the university. The maser harnesses the gyroscopic motion of electrons at near-zero temperatures to amplify very weak radio signals. Sensitivity is such that the instrument can detect the small natural radio emission from objects warmer than the ruby. It reportedly can discern radiation from cool matter a short distance away or from invisible stars thousands of light years dis-

The university is planning to incorporate the system into the 85-ft. radio telescope it is constructing.

Of the three major television services, Pulse alone delivers the complete sample contracted for—a pre-determined sample of high accuracy.

Unlike mail-diary, meter, or telephone methods that miss millions—the educationally handicapped millions unable to cooperate in paper work; the indifferent millions who refuse the chore of record keeping; the millions who lack telephones—Pulse alone uses direct, face-to-face interviewing right in the home.

Since 1941 Pulse has developed accredited techniques of sampling, a tremendous operation, the largest known to the broadcast industry—in fact, the largest sampling outside the U. S. Census.

Looking at a typical example: you have a night-time Television Network program? Pulse's sample "Base 6,000" for your show means that Pulse interviewers actually talk with 6,000 different families about your show. This sample of identical size—but different families—is repeated next month, and the next, and the next, a staggering cumulative total. No panel bias, no inertia.

In an interesting new slide presentation, we have compressed the essential Pulse pluses. See it. Let your own judgment, not hearsay, decide whether or not your firm can use this vital assist, profitably. We reported 222 different U. S. markets last year, more this year. Please write. NLRB Starts Hearings On AFTRA VTR Plea

The National Labor Relations Board last Tuesday started to hear testimony in New York on a petition by the American Federation of Television & Radio Artists asking NLRB to hold a referendum among performers to select a single union to represent them in the videotape commercial field.

The hearing was conducted before NLRB Examiner John J. Carmody, who announced he would hear testimony and send the record to the board in Washington for a decision. Representatives of the Screen Actors Guild, the Screen Extras Guild and the three television networks made brief statements on opening day in opposition to the petition and asked that it be dismissed.

One surprising move was a statement from Guy Farmer, representing BBDO, J. Walter Thompson and Young & Rubicam, in which the agencies reserved decision on their position with respect to the petition. During a preliminary NLRB hearing on the subject early last summer, these agencies had opposed the petition.

Saul Pryor, trial counsel for AFTRA, contended that tape is a "revolutionary" concept that is new and said performers should have the right to select the unit that is to represent them. He claimed that the production of tape commercials involves "exactly the same techniques" as the production of live commercials.

AFTRA has jurisdiction over live and taped commercials produced at networks and stations, while SAG has jurisdiction over filmed commercials produced at studios. Its latest contract signed with film studios (agencies sign letters of adherence to the contract) grants SAG jurisdiction over taped commercials.

William Berger, counsel for the Screen Actors Guild and Robert Gilbert, counsel for the Screen Extras Guild, both pointed out that their unions have contracts with film producers, granting them jurisdiction over tape produced there and characterized AFTRA's petition as an attempt to "grab" control of the VTR commercial field.

The hearing is expected to continue through this week.

Union Chief Says He Will Stay At WCFL Despite Meany Edict

William A. Lee, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor and WCFL there, its independent radio outlet, plans to continue in that post indefinitely despite a dual-job edict from AFL-CIO president George Meany.

Mr. Meany had ordered Mr. Lee to resign either his CFL post or the presidency of Teamsters' Local 734 (Chicago bakery drivers union). Mr. Lee announced his decision Tuesday after a CFL executive board meeting in Chicago.

Earlier, Mr. Lee reported some CIO forces want him to quit one of his positions and there were indications that the CIO (which merges officially in Illinois with the AFL in Peoria Oct. 6) covets WCFL, regarded as one of the country's more profitable independent stations. The teamsters were expelled from the AFL and CFL last Dec. 6.

MGA, Hecht-Hill-Lancaster Sign; AFM to File 'Unfairness' Charge

Musicians Guild of America last week announced the signing of a collective bargaining agreement with Hecht-Hill-Lancaster, independent film producer, on the same terms as that between MGA and the major motion picture producers [Personnel Relations, Sept. 1]. AFM, accusing the guild of exercising bargaining rights it does not have, stated that it is filing unfair labor practice charges immediately and that "a sweetheart agreement of this type will not be allowed to stand."

Another twist was added to the tangled legal affairs of Hollywood musicians when Eliot Daniel, president of AFM Local 47 filed an affidavit charging prejudice that disqualified Judge Bayard Rhone of Los Angeles Superior Court from hearing the petition of five musicians for a permanent restraining order to prevent AFM from trying them on charges of dual unionism. Judge Rhone had issued a temporary restraining order and was to have heard arguments on the motion for a permanent injunction last Monday. The temporary order, still in effect, has halted a hearing of about 100 members of local 47, accused of joining MGA, by a committee of the AFM International Executive Board [PERSONNEL RELA-TIONS, Sept. 29 and 22].

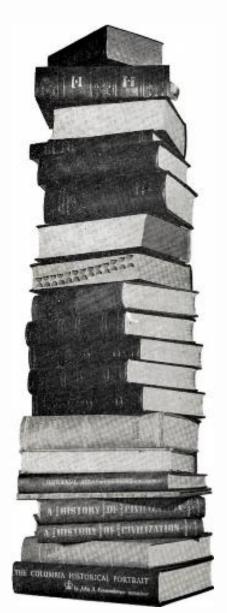

Also last week, the Los Angeles Superior Court dissolved a restraining order preventing AFM from interfering with the work opportunities of Cecil F. Read, chairman of MGA. Mr. Read said he had voluntarily withdrawn his legal action protesting his expulsion from AFM, but is retaining his suit for damages against that union.

Commenting on the court action, AFM president Herman Kenin said, "Read's dropping of the action concerning his expulsion is obviously a recognition of the rights of AFM to expel him for violating its constitution and bylaws.

"Perhaps the deepest significance of the removal of the injunction is the exploding of the promises Read has been making to musicians to extend similar protection to them if they will join him in breaking AFM union conditions. We regard this defeat for Read as a great victory for the principles of unionism, protection of union conditions, defense of contracts and validation of union constitutions and bylaws."

WGAW Adds $162,000 Residuals

Residual payments of $162,000 were collected during September by Writers Guild of America, West for its tv members, bringing re-run payments to $817,000 for the first nine months of this year, as against $343,000 for the entire year of 1957. John Schallert, tv contract administrator for WGAW, noted that the current high rate of collections of residuals would average about $1 million a year from now on.

TV NETWORKS SALES AHEAD OF '57

Network tv gross time charges totaled more than $41.5 million in August, a gain of 6.8% over the same period a year ago, while for the January-August period, the total was over $365.6 million, a gain of 11.4%. The totals on billings, compiled by Leading National Advertisers-Broadcast Advertisers Reports, were released last week by the Television Bureau of Advertising.

Each of the networks scored increases in gross time sales, both for August and for the eight-month period. In August, ABC-TV increased 12.9%; CBS-TV, 6.3%, and NBC-TV, 5%. In the eight months, the respective percentage boosts were 24.8, 5.4 and 13.2.

CBS-TV, which in July suffered a slight setback because of several pre-emptions, was climbing upward once again in August. The network's billings had dipped into the $18 million level, lowest for the year, but in August had returned to a $19 million level. For ABC-TV and NBC-TV, however, August was the lowest billing month in the year.

WHAT CAN A FISH 8OWL TELL? The tiny plants and animals that grow in this "fish bowl" will be similar to those that grew in oceans fifty million years ago and more. The aim of this experiment is to add to man's knowledge of where to look for oil deposits. Pictured is Dr. F. G. Stehli.

HAY FEVER SUFFERERS may be interested to know that pollen is helpful—in the search for oil, that is. Here Dr. A. T. Cross studies traces of pollen in rock millions of years old to interpret underground formations. A comparatively new science, this study of ancient pollen opens previously explored areas to new examination.

THE SEARCH FOR OIL goes on in some of the most inaccessible regions in the world. And expensive, specially-built equipment like this "swamp buggy" is needed to overcome the obstacles of nature and to find more new oil every year than is taken out of the ground.

Time turned back 50 million years; Scientists seek new clues to oil!

Tiny marine plants and animals, very like those living when dinosaurs roamed the earth, are being grown today in a research laboratory.

In glass containers similar to fish bowls, scientists of Pan American Petroleum Corporation, a Standard Oil affiliate, have transplanted sand and sea water from an ocean shore line. Then, by controlling temperature, pressure and salt content, they have simulated the environment of plants and animals that grew 50 to 300 million years ago.

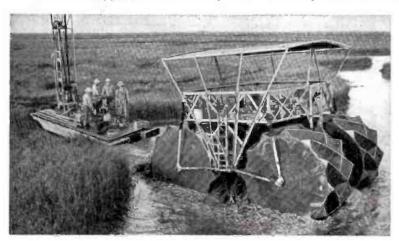

The chemical composition of the microscopic life that grows in the laboratory will offer more positive clues to the type of environment of ancient fossils; that is, whether the tiny animals lived and died in deep, shallow, or protected water.

This knowledge will help scientists to map ancient seas with greater accuracy, to pinpoint the location of prehistoric shore lines and barrier reefs where conditions were ideal for oil to form. Such knowledge will improve our ability to find oil in sufficient quantities to meet today's steadily increasing needs.

This is another example of the way research works at Standard and its affiliates to discover quicker, surer methods of finding oil, to keep the supply up and the price down.

As the result of such trail-blazing research work as the fish bowl project, America's proved underground reserves have grown larger, prices have remained reasonable, and America has been assured of an adequate supply to keep its defenses strong.

What makes a company a good citizen? One measure is a company's concern for the welfare of future generations. In our business, a "lettomorrow-take-care-of-itself" attitude would be disastrous. Through research, we at Standard are working to make life more comfortable and secure for all—today and for the future.

CBC Board Holds First Meeting Under Newly-Established Limits

First meeting of the board of governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. since legislation was passed recently establishing an independent Canadian broadcasting authority, is to be held Oct. 9 at Ottawa. Rank Expected to Turnabout, Set Up Video Film Subsidiary

The (J. Arthur) Rank Organisation of Pinewood Studios (London, England)—which only few months ago insisted it would cut off theatrical films from tv—apparently has changed its mind. Reports from Great Britain (confirmed by Rank's U. S. representatives) have it that the studio is close to setting up tv film subsidiary. It's already partially in video field—owning one-third of Southern Television Ltd. (program producer and commercial station operator), Isle of Wight, along with Associated News Ltd. and Amalgamated Press Ltd.—as well as manufacturing interests (Rank Cintel Ltd. and Bush Radio Ltd.)

What made Rank change its mind? Nobody's talking but its annual report (issued in London a fortnight ago) speaks for itself. One page statistical breakdown with figures provided by theatre owners and the Post Office shows theatre attendance to have slipped from 1.1 billion tickets (in 4,709 theatres) in 1948 to 915 million tickets (4,194 theatres) last year. Conversely, tv set licenses have shot up to 7.5 million, of which 5 million were for sets equipped to carry Independent Television Authority's commercial telecasts. Rank tells its shareholders that at present rate of decline, theatre attendance should dip further to 700 million tickets by end of 1958.

Central Canada Broadcasters To Analyze Research Problems

Research will feature business sessions of the annual meeting of the Central Canada Broadcasters' Assn. at the Alpine Inn, Ste. Marguerite, Que., today and tomorrow (Oct. 6 and 7). Research methods have come under considerable criticism in Canada in the past year, and the largest regional association of independent stations hopes to be able to formulate standards as a result of this convention. These standards will then be brought before the annual meeting of the Canadian Assn. of Broadcasters next spring.

In addition to research, the CCBA expects to have leading U.S. broadcasters on hand for a discussion on practical operating and sales problems. Canadian Transport Minister George Hees is to be keynote speaker.

John H. DeWitt Jr., president, WSM-AM-TV Nashville, who has returned from a tour of Czechoslovakia, Switzerland, Germany, Austria, France and Russia, observes that there were no tv sets in the Hotel Ucrina (Moscow's "newest and best") where he stayed. Had he discovered a tv receiver in the Soviet capital, Mr. DeWitt says, it would have to have been between 7-11 p.m. as "that's the extent of their schedule—and no competition, of course."

Trade Conference held at Montreal, Que. The coaxial cable will be about 33,000 miles long and cost about $235 million, with bulk of it to be paid for by the United Kingdom government. Canada will undertake to pay about one-quarter of the cost.

The Commonwealth coaxial cable will permit a worldwide live network of television programs throughout the Commonwealth. It is being planned because of the success of the trans-Atlantic coaxial telephone cable now in use, which has proven more successful than expected. The worldwide coaxial cable is to be financed over a 20-year period.

THE IMPACT OF EDITORIALIZING

- It can build station's audience, new study shows
- Done well, it won't antagonize public or officials

Editorializing pays.

The impact of opinion broadcasts is strong, bringing important results to stations, according to a 12-month survey conducted by the U. of Miami Radio-Tv-Film Dept.

Editorials arouse public opinion, influence officials and increase the size of the news audience, the university found.

The research project produced these significant conclusions:

• WTVJ (TV) Miami has disproved fears of displeasing the public, sponsors and public officials. These fears have deterred many broadcasters from editorializing.

• The interpretation of news is inspirational to the public and lends impetus for more curiosity about events. It provides the broadcaster with a vital new dimension of coverage.

• Editorializing enables the news operation, when backed by a solid staff and an accepted newscaster, to command the majority of news tuning for its area.

• Middle commercials are irritating.

The study was supervised by Sydney W. Head, chairman of the U. of Miami Radio-Tv-Film Dept. Over 40 trained student researchers interviewed 400 persons in an effort to learn the significance and effect of tv editorials on the life and thought of the community. The project was undertaken by Alvin Snyder, television news editor of the U. of Miami Radio-Tv-Film Dept., with the aid of a fellowship grant from the Kaltenborn Foundation.

Those interviewed were stratified by age, sex, education and income. The formula included content analysis of a sample of tv newscasts; structured interviews with news officials from each of the three tv stations under analysis, and observation of news operations.

WTVJ started editorializing Sept. 2, 1957. Ralph Renick, news director who later was promoted to vice president, includes the editorials in the last two or three minutes of his nightly state and local newscast.

The survey makes this observation about

RAISING TUNE-IN

Editorializing was cited as one of major reasons why people watch the WTVJ (TV) news show which carries editorials. All respondents in the Miami survey were asked which tv news show they preferred. The 227 who said they preferred the WTVJ program were asked why they made that choice. Here are the principal reasons given and the percentage of respondents giving each:

Good newscaster, good voice	25%
Habit	19
EDITORIAL	14
More complete coverage	13
Precedes or follows popular
show	10
Convenient time	9
Good film coverage	4
Other	2
Don't know	4
Total	100%

the impact of the editorials on tune-in: "Since initiation of the editorial the program rating, according to American Research Bureau, has doubled, giving it one of the highest ratings of any program, network or local, in town and indicating public acceptance of news with opinion." As vice president, Mr. Renick is regarded as the voice of management as well as the public voice of the station, the survey explains. He joined the station when it took the air in 1949. He writes all editorials himself.

Asked their reasons for watching the Renick program, the respondents gave these: Good newscaster, good voice, 25%; habit, 19%; editorial, 14%; more complete program, good coverage, 13%; precedes or follows popular program, 10%; convenient time, 9%; good film coverage, 4%; other, 2%; don't know, 4%.

The survey analysis showed the Renick program "has more definite appeal as respondents tune in less frequently for convenience or as a lark, which leads to a hypothesis that the editorial may perhaps lend more impetus for viewing than the respondent outwardly indicates." Only 3% of respondents voiced disfavor with the WTVJ editorials. The study adds, however, that there "is less criticism leveled at this newscast than at any other in town."

Besides arousing public opinion, according to the survey, the editorials have made local officials cognizant of popular public thought "and on numerous occasions these officials have made readjustments." Specific cases are cited.

The ideal News Show

The survey offers "a profile of an hypothetically successful tv news operation." First of all, this operation would emphasize local news and give more complete news coverage. Some survey respondents contended trivial local news such as criminal offenses and accidents are unduly emphasized, adding they believe there is more important news.

"Quick" items were found to leave little impression and belief was voiced that stations should cut back on lesser news, programming in "more meaningful perspective" by covering fewer items in more depth. Brief items are not understandable on tv, it was explained.

Film should be used, according to the survey results, but with good judgment "so as not to sacrifice the news value of the item just for the sake of having something visual."

Frequent and middle commercials were described as "sources of irritation for respondents." A significant drop in recall was found for news items directly following middle commercials, leading to the conclusion that commercials should be presented at the start of the program and at the conclusion. This policy, it was felt, leads to greater acceptance of sponsor and more effective communication of information.

Respondents' comments indicated a loss of prestige for the newscaster who reads his own commercials. Programs having long-term personalities showed higher ratings regardless of the length of time the station has been on the air. Respondents indicated they built up a faith in long-term personalities and refer to them more frequently as "authoritative."

Why do diabetic doctors live longer than other diabetics?

Anyone who develops diabetes can take hope from the personal experiences of doctors who have the disease. They have proved that by strict adherence to treatment, they can live almost as long and as actively with the disease as without it.

When mild diabetes is discovered early, it can often be controlled by diet alone, or by diet and exercise. In other cases, a combination of insulin, diet and exercise may be required.

New compounds, taken by mouth, appear to be beneficial in selected cases, usually those who have mild diabetes which developed after age 40. Their use, however, requires strict medical supervision . . . and their true place in diabetes treatment awaits further study.

Anyone at any age can develop diabetes, but your chances of doing so are increased . . . if you are overweight; if diabetes has occurred in your family; if you are between the ages of 40 and 65.

Today, about one million people in our country have diabetes and are getting treatment. Another million Americans have the disease, but are completely unaware of it. This is because diabetes, early in its course, causes no noticeable symptoms, and may not until it is well advanced.

So, everyone should have periodic health examinations, including simple tests for diabetes. And no one should delay seeing the doctor if any of the following common symptoms of diabetes should occur... weight loss despite constant hunger and excessive eating, increased fatigue during normal activities, excessive thirst and frequent urination.

If diabetes is found, the usual reward for obedience to the doctor's orders is added years of comfort and of life. Doctors know this . . . and that is why those of them who have diabetes live longer than other diabetics.

THREE female "vampires" strolled the streets of New York recently to celebrate the debut (Sept. 22) of Zacherley as host of Shock Theatre on WABC-TV New York, and the premiere of its Son of Shock series which started Oct. 2. The street promotions included three models, dressed as ghoul girls in black leotards and opera capes, wigs and white make-up. who toured Manhattan and Queens handing out buttons which read "I Like Zacherley"—Channel 7—"Shock Theatre." Following each girl were men carrying signs with similar announcements, topped by a raven. Zacherley delivered gifts of gnarled monster hands to be worn as gloves to timebuyers and account executives in the city's major agencies. The footage was used on the station.

WTVH (TV) Films L. R. Report

Mobile newsreel coverage of a national news story is claimed by WTVH (TV) Peoria, Ill., with a filmed report of racial integration developments in Little Rock, Ark. The station dispatched George Ray, editorial associate, and Jack Bradley, chief photographer, to Little Rock the past fortnight, together with its mobile newsreel unit comprising a camera with 600 ft. of sound-onfilm and a Fairchild 16mm rapid developing machine. Films were photographed, processed and flown to Peoria and carried by WTVH on the same day. Commentary by Mr. Ray was included with the film report. Harold V. Phillips, general manager of WTVH, noted that local viewers thus could "associate a local tv newsman with the scene of a national news story" and that it was the first time a Peoria newsreel unit had participated in such a story.

KFEQ-TV Extends Appreciation

KFEQ-TV St. Joseph, Mo., which started telecasting Sept. 27, 1955, last month celebrated its fifth anniversary by sponsoring a free water show and a "Night on the Town" promotion.

Viewers who called within 30 minutes after their names appeared won dinners for two at a local restaurant and two tickets to a theatre.

Also last week, WHTN-TV helped to

35,000 CAME TO DANCE

A police-estimated crowd of 35,000 turned out Sept. 26 for WBZ Boston's Good Neighbor Block Party, staged to help the Brockton (Mass.) Old Colony Assn. For Mental Health.

For three weeks prior to the party WBZ invited listeners to suggest how money raised by a block party could best be spent to benefit a community. More than 2,000 replies came from listeners throughout New England requesting WBZ to hold the event in their neighborhood for a local organization. Each day five listeners were awarded phonograph albums.

It was decided that the funds raised by the party would go toward the $100,-000 the Old Colony Assn. is raising to construct a mental health center in nearby Brockton. On-air announcements, interviews with Brockton's mayor and citizens and newspaper ads were used to publicize the event.

On the day of the party, declared by the mayor as "Founders Fund Day for the Child Guidance Clinic," Legion Parkway was roped off and a bandstand constructed. Lester Lanin's band with guest stars Jerry Vale and Joni James, services donated by WBZ, played and sang for the hordes of dancers in the Parkway (see cut).

from PATRICK H. GORMAN, v. p. & director of marketing, Bryan Houston Inc., New York

What you don't know can hurt you when the marketing man wants answers

Local media are extra eyes and ears to the marketing man—both client and agency. This has been true to a far greater extent on the part of newspapers than radio or tv stations, and truer of radio than of tv.

Although there appears to be a trend, built out of competition, for broadcasting and telecasting stations to make themselves better informed about local product and marketing situations, the marketing man seeking information in the field is still more inclined to call on the newspaper for help. Why? Because, in the main, newspaper marketing people are generally much more aware of the anatomy of their markets and upto-date marketing data relating to their client's products and other products in the market.

This situation is not universal. The Storer, Crosley and Westinghouse organizations, along with many others, both chains and independents, have made a studied effort to develop a complete knowledge of their markets, not only to strengthen their own selling activities, but as a real and valued service to the agencies and clients using their facilities.

This memo is not aimed at making odious comparisons. Its purpose is to set down a few observations about the practice of being "marketing aware."

It is clearly recognized by successful national marketers today that the more complex our business society grows and the more involved our systems of communications and distribution become, the more necessary it is to regard the local market as an individual unit with its special situations and circumstances. Further, competitive forces today can make local marketing conditions change with startling rapidity. What is a fact today may be the opposite tomorrow.

It therefore has become increasingly vital for the national advertiser and its agency to maintain a close surveillance over the individual markets as well as the overall market they make up, regional or national.

Similarly, it is vital to the station operator that he have available for his sales people the same type of current information about his market which is of interest to the advertiser and agency because it is on such information that decisions to buy time are made. The advertiser's chief aim is to sell product and his decisions to buy time are based on marketing facts rather than on the availability of a high spot or program rating. This, though important, is only a collateral aid in helping him reach his sales goal.

Although much of the marketing data on which an agency sets down its recommended plans for action comes from client sources, agency marketing people must maintain a degree of independence from clients as sources of information and develop their own views based on in-person observation of conditions in the field.

It is by no means uncommon for a salesman to secure helpful information from local media sources, particularly about competition, which when relayed to the home office has strong and sudden impact with respect to marketing strategy in that particular market.

To the marketing man, help from an informed local medium can be of great value. This is not a plea for local media to do the agency's work. It is a two-way street. If the local medium has, or can secure, accurate, up-to-date information on marketing matters in its market, it can either equip the investigator with the information he needs, or help him get it so that the recommendations he makes for action to be taken in that market can be based on true facts.

The business of becoming "marketing aware" is not so complex as it may sound. Much of it involves the assembly of knowledge about basic constant situations within the framework of which individual product marketing changes may occur. It does require that one or more persons within the local medium be charged with the responsibility of staying on top of the day to day situation.

Here is a list of some of the major things which any well-informed local medium should know or do to effect a better job in selling its time or space—and to help its present clients in getting the necessary data to evaluate their activities in the market. Remember, the concern here is with problems of national or the large regional advertisers.

(1) Maintain a close working contact with responsible decision-making executives in local food and drug chains, large independent retailers, brokers and wholesalers.

(2) Know the answers to questions such as these:

Where do the local chains warehouse? How do they distribute? What are their main product-handling policies? Display policies?

What new products are being tested, or are to be tested, in the market? Where? What results?

What are the relative positions of the major competing products in a given advertised field? Are there trends in position change?

Have there been major product launching failures? Why? Any outstanding promotional successes?

What major pricing changes are taking place?

What products are running or plan to run special store promotions?

What are the local trends in store label versus national or regional brand products?

What are the distribution policies of the major advertisers? Any indications of change?

Are there any strange or unusual situations in the market?

Not all clients nor all marketing men will ask for help. But all local media should be current with the answers for the certain value the knowledge will be to them in doing a better equipped selling job.

With every passing day, the marketing man assumes a more important role in establishing the framework and the plans in which product selling activities take place. The better informed he becomes, the more certain of success are his plans. The more successful his plans, the greater will be the exploitation dollars spent in local media to move the product in the market place.

Better Buy by Buick

BUICK had little choice. If its cars don't sell this year—well, there'll surely be more Fords (and Chryslers) in the future. So it's only natural that Buick's management and agency, McCann-Erickson, elected the broadcast media their No. 1 salesman.

It is not unusual that television and radio are called in whenever a real selling job has to be done. In this particular case, as detailed elsewhere in this issue, Buick's reliance on television amounts to one-half of a $25 million advertising budget and for radio it's another million.

Newspapers are worried, and for good reason. For years they have fed heartily and happily on automotive advertising. Loss of a big chunk of this money could be seriously damaging to many papers and hurtful in some degree to all. They're fighting back, hoping to get a better deal.

It is conceivable that they will get a better deal—temporarily—although we can see no justification for it. The facts are plain: tv and radio are workhorses. They go in person to places newspapers can't reach by mail, and they hit with unique impact.

The books are full of both radio and television success stories among automobile dealers, and a fresh piece of documentation for tv was produced just last week by TvB. An independent survey, commissioned by TvB, showed among other things that most of the people who had seen new Buick advertising, but had not seen the Buick introductory commercials on the Bob Hope show last month, held no opinion one way or another about the new car. But among people who saw the commercials, 53% like the car and only 16% had no opinion.

That's the way television communicates. It's also another reason we are willing to venture that, if the car makers use television and radio heavily enough and wisely enough, the newspapers' traditional stranglehold on the automotive dollar will be broken. It will take time, but it seems inevitable that broadcast media's share will increase. They're the best salesmen—and they'll prove it.

It Did Happen Here

Of far the battle of the spectrum has been mostly conversation. Only a smattering of thoughtful broadcasters have shown concern. Others are disposed to leave to the networks, the engineers and the lawyers the discussions on revamping of allocations which could dispossess them from vhf and fm assignments.

This complacency stems from a "they can't do that to us" attitude. They are smug in the notion that Congress and the people would never stand for the kind of dislocations being talked up.

If nothing to date has disturbed the composure of the entrenched vhf-tv and the blossoming fm broadcaster, let him take notice of what developed only last week out in the open. Aeronautical Radio Inc., Air Transport Assn. and five domestic and international airlines petitioned the Court of Appeals in Washington to review and set aside an order of the FCC. This order, handled as routine last April, and reaffirmed by the FCC last July, summarily pre-empted 500 megacycles of space (8,500-9,000 mc) assigned under international treaty for "radionavigation service" and reassigned it to "government" for a newly defined service called "radiopositioning."

The action was made effective immediately. There was no public proceeding. That was in April. In July, the FCC denied a rehearing or reconsideration or a stay order.

So far, that's all there is. No official explanation. The government needed the space. And government, in this instance, is presumed to be military. Need presumably is based upon national defense. The FCC was instructed by the executive branch to reallocate not only the 8,500-9,000 mc band but 14 bands totaling in excess of 2,817 mc of the radio spectrum in the 220-10,500 mc region.

We have said for months that space in the vhf band used by tv and fm is in jeopardy because of military demands. We have pointed out that chs. 2-6 are particularly vulnerable. This now has been substantiated from high places, despite earlier flat denials. Enough interest has been aroused to cause the President and the cabinet to consider the whole spectrum problem, and if the President does not appoint his own study group in the next few weeks, it's a certainty Congress will early in the next session through legislation.

Because of the alarms that have been sounded, we doubt whether any summary action will be taken by the White House (which has the unequivocal authority) to pre-empt any of the vhf bands assigned to tv and fm without prior notice. But this startling fact confronts tv and fm broadcasters: If the FCC (by Presidential edict) can pre-empt 500 mc from commercial aviation overnight, it can, under the same law, pre-empt any or all of the 72 mc assigned to ch. 2-13 and the mere 20 mc assigned to fm.

Sound Advice on Renewals

A major worry of every successful broadcaster is the necessity of filing every three years an application for license renewal. In it he must give an accounting, percentagewise, of his programming by categories. Because this form hasn't been changed in a dozen years, the statistical breakdown required is unrealistic.

For several years the FCC, working in conjunction with the Bureau of the Budget and the latter's Advisory Council on Federal Reports, has sought to modernize and streamline the renewal forms. More than two years ago—at the NAB convention in Chicago—the FCC, to a man, agreed that the form should be amended.

But nothing has happened, except for unending conversations of the Budget Bureau group with an FCC staff group.

At long last, one new ray of hope emerges. In a hitherto unreported address before broadcasters of his home state of Idaho last month, FCC Acting Chairman Rosel H. Hyde suggested that broadcasters, in preparing renewal applications, should not rely on statistical analysis alone.

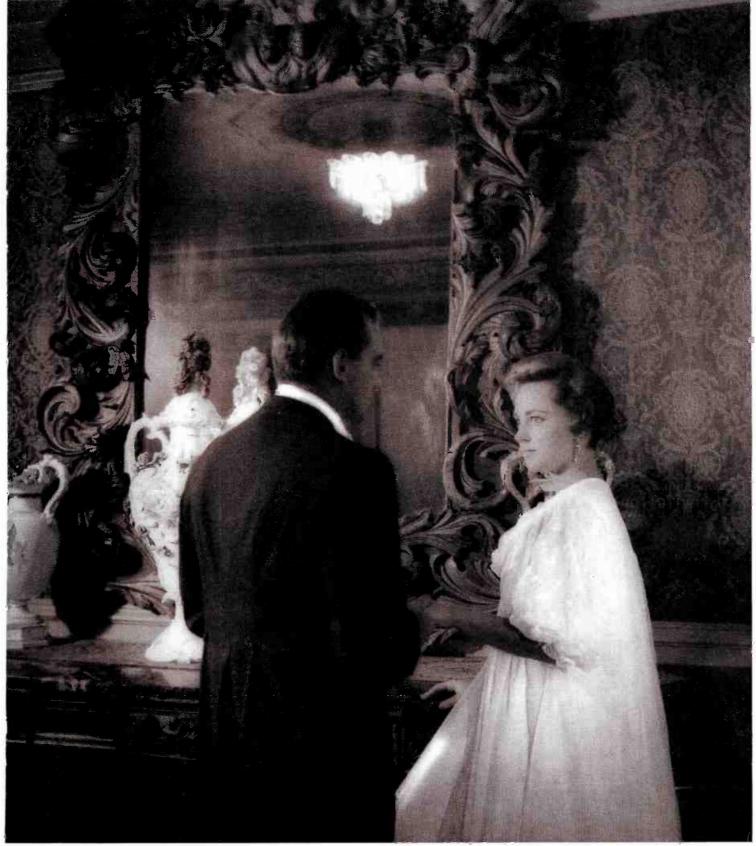

Then he gave broadcasters a million dollars worth of advice. To quote:

"Evidence of a sense of responsibility, imagination and creative interest can probably only be given by some narrative exposition, rather than a tabulation. . . . Mere statistical compliance with the government-conceived division of time might show lack of resourcefulness and responsibility rather than creative ability."

Mr. Hyde added that he considered the statistical breakdown as perhaps a "useful device in the absence of a better method of evaluating overall service, but not a formula to control or regulate broadcasting." The premise of the competitive system, Mr. Hyde concluded, is that "healthy competition" will stimulate good broading. "If a broadcaster shows that he has undertaken his responsibility in this manner, the Commission would be presumptuous if it undertook to substitute its judgment for that of the licensee in its community."

We wholeheartedly agree. We think broadcasters would be well-advised to follow his advice and not rely on cold statistical answers to outmoded questions in filing renewals.

This, however, is not the entire answer. The FCC should quit stalling. It should amend its renewal forms to correspond with today's facts of life.
