Christmas and the Empty Stockings

HARBEN DANIEL

General Manager

Somewhere in the far reaches of this war-weary globe seven men, who left this station for Freedom's fight, will spend their Christmas where duty finds them.

Yet, they will have two Christmases. Because at the traditional WSAV Christmas party seven empty stockings will mark their places. And in the hearts of us who stay behind will go a silent entreaty to the Prince of Peace that another Christmas will see them, and all their comrades, back again to the peace they risked their lives to give to the world.

Meanwhile, we who are immeasurably proud of them, will carry on, giving our utmost support to their cause, and endeavoring to keep our part of their world unchanged against their coming.

A PREVIEW OF THE MOST COMPREHENSIVE RADIO SURVEY EVER MADE*

There are 412 cities in the United States with a population of 25,000 or more. Nearly 50% of the nation's radio families live in them. What stations do they listen to most at night?

The largest survey of listening habits ever undertaken—NBC's 1942 Nationwide Survey—has just turned up with the answer:

In 324 of those 412 cities, NBC stations were listened to most at night, compared to 85 for the second network. That's a lead of nearly 4 to 1! Or put another way, 52% of the radio families in those 412 cities listen most to NBC stations, as compared to 24% for the second network.

Or put still another way, NBC stations (as the survey showed) have a substantial lead in night-time listening over the stations of all other networks in every type of market.

Or, to put it even more simply, NBC is today, more than ever, the network most people listen to most.

* One out of every 120 radio families in the United States told us what their listening habits were and what stations were their favorites. The results of these surveys, which will give this information for every county and every radio station in the country, will be published shortly.

P.S. Out soon—The story of night-time listening in the 412 25,000-and-over cities. Watch for it.

NOBODY but a ham would make a pun about bringing home the Bacon, so we'll get to the meat of this matter! For fifteen years, Johnnie Bacon did just about every kind of work there is, in newspaper and publication advertising. Then he saw the light about radio. Today Johnnie is one of the excellent reasons why WGR and WKBW are doing the outstanding job in Buffalo, and also one of the reasons you'll like to do business with WGR and WKBW. Enough said!

Once when we were young, a very successful executive of our acquaintance made a remark that has stuck with us ever since. Said he: "Never invest in a company until you've investigated the management. With good management, any company will succeed."... This year as never before, that rule also applies to the investment of advertising money in radio-station time. This year, as in every period of stress and change, good management is being reflected in better results for both the station and the advertiser. And this year as never before, we are happy that we can offer you these bonuses of good station-management, here in this pioneer group of radio-station representatives.

Yankee Sale Presages Blue Alignment

New England Net Acquired by Gen. Tire

PURCHASE of the Yankee Network by the General Tire & Rubber Co., subject to FCC approval, is expected to have a bearing on alignment of the BLUE Network in New England and possibly upon the ultimate sale of the BLUE.

That was the talk in radio circles after the formal disclosure last Wednesday that General Tire had consummated arrangements for purchase of Yankee, the four standard broadcast stations licensed to Yankee and two FM stations for approximately $1,200,000. Included also is the stock of Colonial Network Inc. Of this purchase price $950,000 would be in cash.

While formal confirmation was lacking, it was learned that William F. O'Neil, president of General Tire, has discussed acquisition of the BLUE Network itself, now a subsidiary of RCA, which is on the block by virtue of an agreement reached by the parent company with the FCC. A number of offers have been made for the BLUE. There was speculation about the formation of a syndicate, in which General Tire would be a principal, to take over the network. Acquisition of Yankee would be an important step in that direction.

Need for BLUE Coverage

Mentioned as possible participants in the syndicate with General Tire are John Shepard 3d, president and general manager of Yankee who would remain with Yankee after FCC approval of the sale, and George B. Storer, president of Fort Industry Co., which owns and operates six standard broadcast stations.

Need of the BLUE Network for outlets in New England since the transfer of WBZ, Boston, last July from the BLUE to NBC is expected to accelerate negotiations whereby a number of the Yankee Network stations will join the BLUE, assuming FCC approval of the transfer. The present BLUE outlet in Boston is WHDH, which is under a two-year contract. Consequently it is doubted whether any arrangements for WNAC, Yankee key, to join the BLUE could be made.

Coincident with the shift of NBC from the Yankee key to WBZ, Yankee joined MBS and is a stock-holder member. When negotiations for affiliation of Yankee with the BLUE failed the latter network contracted with the then independent WHDH as its outlet. The whole question of WHDH fulltime operation on the 850 kc. clear channel is involved in litigation now in the Supreme Court. Should the FCC lose that case on appeal, as it did in the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia last September, then WHDH would revert to part-time operation. In that event under its contract the BLUE would be free to negotiate for another Boston outlet.

Personnel to Remain

While there is expectation of prompt approval of the transfer by the FCC in the hope of consummating the sale this year, it was pointed out that delays may be occasioned because of General Tire's status as a stock company. Its 3,000 shares are widely held and it may be necessary to procure clearance through Securities & Exchange Commission in addition to the FCC. Under the transaction Mr. Shepard announced in Boston that no material changes are contemplated in the operation of the network and its stations or in personnel. Mr. Shepard himself, now operating head, would remain as president and general manager under a fiveyear contract. He said the only reason for the sale was because of inheritance tax problems. His father, John Shepard Jr., owner of the network and the Shepard Stores in Providence, will be 86 years old Jan. 2 and it was decided that it would be desirable at this time for the estate to have a substantial amount of cash in order to meet future inheritance taxes.

Two FM Stations Included

Mr. O'Neil said the purchase of the 21-station network was the first step in the "post-war expansion plans" of General Tire, which include "entrance into other fields of manufacture and merchandising". He said that communications expansion is the first move made because of the growing importance of this field in the American economy and because engineers of his company already have developed many radio devices which they plan to offer to the public as soon as the war ends.

The transaction, under which General Tire acquires 100% of the stock of Winter Street Corp., Yankee holding company, involves also the acquisition of WNAC; WEAN, Providence; WAAB, Worcester; WICC, Bridgeport; and the FM stations W43B at Paxton Mass. and W39B with transmitter atop Mt. Washington. The Colonial Network, which does not hold any station licenses but operates independently, also would be acquired.

In the application filed with the Commission last Wednesday, containing a gist of the understanding between the two parties, it was stated the sellers are Mr. Shepard 3d and George R. Blodgett, Boston attorney, as trustees of Winter Street. The sole buyer is listed as General Tire. This statement revealed that substantially all of the assets of the standard and FM stations, plus the relay stations, as well as substantially all of the assets of Yankee, are acquired. There also will be sold to General, either directly or indirectly, all of the stock of Colonial Network Inc.

"The consideration of the sale," said the application, "is $1,150,000, plus an amount equivalent to the net quick assets of the Yankee Network Inc., the Colonial Network Inc., and the Winter Street Corp. The seller will receive $950,-000 in cash at the time of the sale and the remainder of the purchase price will be payable in annual installments over five years, with 2% interest on the unpaid portion.

Policies Unchanged

"The general policies of the stations operated by the Yankee Network will, for practical purposes, remain substantially the same for the reason that John Shepard 3d will continue as general manager of the company."

Consummation of the purchase was disclosed coincident with the filing of the applications for transfer of the licenses of the four standard and two FM stations. General Tire, which has not other direct broadcasting interest, negotiated the transaction through President O'Neil with Mr. Shepard 3d and Attorney Blodgett. Paul D. P. Spearman and Frank W. Roberson, Washington attorneys for Yankee, filed the application for the transferor, while W. Theodore Pierson, Washington counsel for General Tire, filed in the interest of the purchaser.

Outside Writers Tested for Serials WCOP Operation

Compton Agency Tries New Plan to Build Day Sketches

COMPTON ADV. Inc., New York, is quietly attempting to work out its own approach for the future development of the daytime serial type of program, it was revealed to BROADCASTING last week when a query was made on the basis of recent charges denouncing serials as out of tempo with the psychology of a nation at war.

Without joining in the debate, Hal James, script editor of the agency which is currently producing seven serials for Procter & Gample Co. over CBS and NBC. pointed out that the agency has been interviewing writers for the past two months who have not been previously active in the field and urging them to experiment with the serial program as a form of literary expression.

Not Amateurs

"These writers are not amateurs or beginners," Mr. James declared to BROADCASTING, "but experienced writers who have had success in writing other types of radio programs or motion picture scripts or stories for magazines."

In talking of these writers, Mr. James emphasizes the belief of William M. Ramsey, director of radio for Procter and Gamble Co., on his long experience with radio script shows, that they offer the writer a challenging and important opportunity in a medium which has proved itself as a vital social force and a major means of advertising. Furthermore, Mr. James points out, the agency offers the experienced writer who is interested in tackling this new field, the objective criticism and sympathetic guidance of a group of people who have had years of experience with daytime serials and yet who do not have any preconceived dogmas about their treatment or method of presentation.

"New" Writers Wanted

When one of these "new" writers has a story that he wants to write in radio serial form, Compton offers him a chance to experiment on a graduated plan. First he submits a basic story and its projection in outline form. Then, if he and the agency agree on the story's merits, he prepares a series of scripts sufficient for several weeks of broadcasting, working under close agency supervision. Each part of the work is paid for as it is completed. If the story develops as anticipated, the scripts are cast, rehearsed and broadcast, either live or by transcription, in a test market. If the test is successful, the program may then be launched on a national basis, with the writer engaged to carry it on as long as its audience appeal and advertising return may justify.

Although this particular plan is a new development, it is a logical step in the history of the daytime serial. In the early days of this form of radio entertainment, script shows were written and produced by stations and networks to fill the vacant periods in the day's schedule. Such programs as Vic and Sade, Mary Marlin and The Goldbergs had been thoroughly audience-tested as sustaining features before they entered the realms of commercial radio.

Tested Writers Used

As the daytime hours became more and more filled with commercial programs, chiefly the dramatic serials, the broadcasters curtailed their experimentation with this now successful program form to a large degree, believing it better, more varied, programming to use some other type of program in the time left open between the sponsored serials. Then the advertisers in search of a new daytime drama turned to tested authors, employing the writer of one successful serial to write another serial for him.

As the buyers market had gradually developed into the writers market, so this latter developed into a period of doubling-up which has of late reached the saturation point. Now, according to Compton's radio executives and the advertising heads of Procter & Gamble, the time has arrived to go out after new writers who will bring fresh ideas and techniques to the field of daytime dramas and so keep it in step with the times.

Aid Infantile Drive

FULL COOPERATION in the annual campaign by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis was pledged last Thursday by a New York committee of foreign language broadcasters, who met at the Hotel Roosevelt to formulate broadcasting plans for this year's drive. Under the Chairmanship of drive. Under the Chairmanship of Joseph Lang, WHOM, Jersey City, the committee includes Ralph Weil, WOV; Henry Greenfield, WEVD; William Alcorn, WBNX; Norman Warembud, WBYN, Brooklyn, and William Renman, WWRL. Starting Dec. 21, those six foreign language stations in the New York area will present daily get enpurement present daily spot announcements.

Slashing of Non-War Funds Is Expected in Next Congress

WITH THE demise of the 77th Congress on Dec. 16, predictions were freely made in official Washington that the new Congress, to convene Jan. 6, will be economybent and determined to slash all non-war spending. In this respect the FCC, among other Governmental agencies, may feel the knife.

Congressional leaders predicted full investigations of appropriations and spending by Government agencies, except the Army and the Navy. A well-rounded plan already has developed for retention of a staff of expert auditors and investigators by the House, to function under its Appropriations Committee in the fund probes. The FCC appropriation has practically trebled in the last three fiscal years, and totals approximately 8 million dollars for the next fiscal vear.

War Legislation

While there was considerable activity affecting broadcasting last year in Congress, no important legislation pertaining directly to the industry passed, though several measures dealing with the war effort were adopted. The Sanders Bill (HR-5497), for a sweeping reorganization of the Commission, died with the session, after it had undergone extensive hearings. There is still considerable sentiment for revision of the 15-year-old Communications Act provisions relating to broadcast regulation and a revival of the legislation is expected in the new session, even though Rep. Sanders (D-La.), will not be back. He was defeated in the runoff elections.

Congressional leaders have stated clearly that they intend to examine intensively use of appropriations by executive agencies and ascertain whether "unnecessary" war activities have been set up as a means of procuring funds. They also have stated they want to determine whether current fiscal year appropriations have been diverted from so-called war activity to other work within these agencies.

While particular agencies have not been singled out in these preadjournment comments, it was learned that the FCC is included among the agencies to be subjected to this type of inquiry. More than half the Commission's funds have been earmarked for war operations, including its field and monitoring services built up since the defense program got under way.

Any investigation of the FCC, based on past experience, usually gets into its regulatory policies, which have been under fire virtually since creation of the agency. Several resolutions for full-scale investigations of the agency died with the adjournment of the 77th Congress. It is likely at least one or two will be reintroduced with the new session, probably in the House, where greatest interest has been evinced.

Under FCC Fire First Wartime Action Against

Foreign Tongue Stations

FIRST FCC citation against a foreign language broadcaster since the outbreak of war was announced last week when the Commission designated for hearing the application of the Massachusetts Broadcasting Corp. for renewal of the license of WCOP, independently operated Boston station and member of the Bulova operated Atlantic Coast Network.

The hearings are to determine whether continued operation of WCOP in the hands of the present management will serve the public interest. According to the bill of particulars, the Commission will study the manner in which the management has conducted the station, particularly with respect to its foreign language programs.

Announcers Investigated

Testimony will cover methods of selecting and investigating personnel, qualifications of personnel, supervision of programs and sales.

Commission investigators have studied the activities of Franco Galluci, WCOP announcer, and time broker of many Italian language programs. Mr. Galluci, according to information supplied by the FCC, was president for many years of the Massachusetts Federation of Dopolavero, an organization which a FCC press release referred to as "a Fascist front organization."

Another WCOP foreign language announcer, Ubaldo Guidi was arrested by the FBI and interned at the outbreak of the war. Guidi had been in close contact with the Italian consulate in Boston and was widely known in New England as a Fascist organizer.

Harold A. Lafount, executive head of WCOP and of the Bulova stations and former member of the Federal Radio Commission, expressed surprise at the Commission action. He pointed out that the station has cooperated with FCC in making program changes and in presenting Government war messages to the Italian-speaking audience of Boston. A representative of the station said that Galluci was no longer employed by WCOP and that services of other individuals mentioned in the FCC statement have been terminated.

The FCC announcement of the hearing stated that Italian language broadcasting on WCOP had begun at the direction of the late Luigi Fiato, who was executive secretary of the Boston Fascio of the Fascist League of N. A.

New Yorkers Turn to Radio, As Strike Halts Newspapers

Theatres, Department Stores Buy All Available Time; Stations Add News Broadcasts

RADIO'S ABILITY to keep the public informed of latest news developments in addition to its flexibility as a medium for any and all types of advertisers proved more than equal to the emergency in New York last week when a strike by the Newspaper and Mail Delivery Union held up citywide delivery of eight metropolitan morning and afternoon newspapers.

Besides keeping vital news of the war from the public the strike occurred most inopportunely the week before Christmas when advertising by department stores and local amusements such as theatres and motion pictures is at its heaviest to reach the holiday crowds.

Stores on Air

The motion picture industry alone is estimated by the agencies handling the various accounts as spending about $30,000 in radio time from Dec. 14 through Dec. 17, day on which newspapers were again distributed to the New York public, after settlement of the strike at 1 a.m. on orders of the WLB.

Several local department stores took special time to promote their Christmas bargains. The Curtis Publishing Co. used four stations for special promotion of last week's Saturday Evening Post, and the newspapers themselves expanded regular tieups many of them have with local stations, as well as contracting for sponsored periods of news.

Theatres Buy Time

Radio executives were literally deluged early last week with requests for time on their stations. New York agency placing most of the accounts in the amusement field was Donahue & Co, which on Monday morning was instructed to buy as much time as possible for Loew's neighborhood theatres, the |Capitol Theatre, Radio City Music Hall, the Center Theatre, and M-G-M, including spot announcements, participations, quarter-bours and half-hours on the four network outlets in New York, WABC, WEAF, WJZ and WOR, as well as WHN, WNEW, WMCA, WINS and WQXR.

WABC carried two quarter-hour participations for Loew's on Personally, It's Off the Record on Dec. 14 and on the early Arthur Godfrey show Dec. 15. Paramount Pictures, through Buchanan & Co., also sponsored four quarter-hours on the Godfrey program during the week. One-minute live announcements promoting current features were used on WEAF by Capitol, Music Hall and Loew's, spotted variously on such shows as The Funny Money Man, News at Midnight, Studio X, Morning in Manhattan and Melodies at Midday. WEAF also reported that the Curtis Publishing Co., Philadelphia, which ordinarily takes large space in newspapers for each week's issue of The Saturday Evening Post, used participations both Wednesday and Thursday of last week to push sales of the Dec. 19 issue. That issue of the magazine also was advertised on WJZ and in eight other cities as part of a regular campaign for various weekly features. BBDO, New York, is agency.

WOR received special business from R. H. Macy & Co., New York department store, which took a quarter-hour with Pegeen Fitzgerald to advertise its Christmas bargains, as well as one- and fiveminute announcements in the afternoons and evenings. Bloomingdale's, another department store, which has a regular program on WQXR, broadcast an additional quarter-hour for its Christmas trade on that station last Tuesday.

Other advertisers interested in using radio as a substitute for their extensive newspaper advertising included employment agencies and legitimate theatres, although the former group was not

WLB RULES CLEAR BONUS CONFUSION

WAR LABOR Board last week made public two rulings affecting bonuses and designed to eliminate confusion in the operation of the wage stabilization program.

First ruling grants authority to regional directors to pass on Christmas bonuses which may require Board approval. WLB previously ruled that bonuses not exceeding those paid last year needed no approval. Second order provides that bonuses paid employes entering the armed forces need not be approved by the WLB

The board also ruled that escalator clauses in labor agreements shall not increase wages more than 15% above the level of Jan. 1, 1941. This limitation is in keeping with the general policy of the WLB to disallow increases above that level.

Book League Expands

BOOK League of America, New York, subsidiary of Doubleday, Doran & Co., New York, extensive user of radio, on Jan. 4 will start a new campaign on 200-250 stations to promote its monthly releases. Campaign will consist of five-minute transcriptions, thriceweekly, featuring dramatizations of highlight parts of each monthly book the League offers to member subscribers. Networks' Appeals Up Next February Supreme. Court. To. Review

Chain-Monopoly Cases

THE MAJOR networks get their "day in court" before the Supreme Court of the United States in their joint effort to block enforcement of the controverted chain-monopoly regulations during the second week in February by virtue of the highest tribunal's action last Monday in agreeing to review the cases.

The cases have been docketed for the week of Feb. 8, though it is possible they will be heard a few days earlier or later. The appeals of NBC and CBS are from the adverse decision of the statutory three-judge court in New York last month dismissing the suits of the major networks. The lower court, however, issued an order restraining the FCC from making its regulations effective until after the Supreme Court's adjudication.

The Supreme Court noted "probable jurisdiction". Both CBS and NBC contended the FCC had exceeded its authority in issuing the regulations in May, 1941, and held that they are unconstitutional, improper and destructive.

MBS is an intervenor in the cases, having supported the regulations throughout. Charles V. Denny Jr., FCC general counsel, is expected to argue the cases in the court of last resort. MBS chief counsel is Louis G. Caldwell. Chief counsel for CBS are Charles Evans Hughes Jr., and former Judge John J. Burns. NBC's chief counsel is John T. Cahill.

Leseuer to FDR

WHEN Larry Leseuer, former CBS Moscow correspondent, visited Washington last week he attended one of the President's press conferences in the company of Eric Sevareid, CBS Washington chief. At the close of the conference he was introduced to Mr. Roosevelt and the two chatted for a few minutes. Before leaving Larry offered the First Man a German iron cross he had picked up on a Russian battlefield.

Tax Ruling Asked On Donated Time NAB Seeks Internal Revenue Opinion on Deductions

FURTHER explanations of the position of the Bureau of Internal Revenue on deductions from taxes for time donated by broadcasters to federal agencies may be available soon as a result of a letter sent by the NAB Dec. 17 to Guy T. Helvering, Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

The letter, written by Russell P. Place, NAB counsel, seeks to determine whether Internal Revenue will consider such free time, equipment and talent a "contribution in money" for the use of the United States. Under an amendment in the 1942 tax law to section 23q, in cases of such gifts and contributions, a taxpayer may deduct up to 5% of his net income.

Expense Deduction Approval

Internal Revenue has already ruled that broadcasters may deduct the actual expenses involved in such productions, for these will be considered ordinary operating expenses. This position was stated in a letter from Commissioner Helvering to Mr. Place earlier this month [BROADCASTING; Dec. 14].

General opinion is that the Internal Revenue Bureau will follow the same reasoning in answering Mr. Place's second letter that was used in a ruling on newspaper advertising. It has been decided that newspapers cannot claim a 5% deduction and that such things as War Bond ads are not monetary contributions to the United States.

Using the same basis as applied in Mr. Helvering's first letter to Mr. Place, Internal Revenue said newspapers could deduct the actual mechanical expenses involved in preparing such advertising, but that there could be no space charge. Internal Revenue ruled that it is the duty and the business of newspapers to advise the public to buy war bonds and that the mechanical expenses involved are no different from those of any other news or advertising page [BROADCASTING, Nov. 30].

'Time' Film Spots

MARCH OF TIME Inc., New York, is promoting the film "We Are The Marines," in a four to eight-day campaign of live spot announcements totaling 108 on major stations in New York and Washington. Schedule got under way last week. New York stations used are WQXR WEAF WNEW WOR WMCA WJZ WABC. In Washington, commercials were placed on WMAL WJSV WRC. In addition to commercial advertising, the picture is being promoted through special mention on local stations and the major networks by commentators, including Lowell Thomas, Martha Deane, Arthur Godfrey, H. R. Baukhage, Adelaide Hawley, John B. Hughes, and others. Agency is Lord & Thomas, New York.

READY. AIM. FIRE

Those boys KNOW what they're shooting at ! And smart radio advertisers have learned they can AIM ... FIRE ... and HIT their market targets just as surely as the man behind the gun. No waste ... no misses.

Consider Baltimore... today the country's 6th largest city. Do you know how sales costs can be reduced? The answer is WFBR.

The station that covers the Baltimore trading area without waste.

1. WFBR does not try to cover the surrounding states of Virginia, West Virginia, New Jersey, Pennsylvania or Delaware. Our job is the Baltimore market. We're under the impression that radio stations in those scattered states have loyal listeners of their own.

2. WFBR uses the electrical power that gives a magnificently clear signal DAY and NIGHT. There are no dead spots.

3. WFBR is the station Baltimore people have depended on for years. It has a station loyalty of listeners that has brought one half million people out of their homes into our studios.

> If you want people to hear about your products in the town you sell them in . . . WFBR is your buy in Baltimore.

Probe of Petrillo Hearing Jan. 12 Unaffected By Windup of Session

ACTION BY the Senate last Tuesday in terminating all standing, select or special committees authorized at previous sessions but which have been continued will in no wise affect the scheduled inquiry into the affairs and activities of James C. Petrillo and his American Federation of Musicians.

The Senate action, taken just prior to adjournment of the current Congress, provides for the termination of such authorizations as of the end of January, 1943. The Clark Resolution (SRes-286) authorizing the music investigation will be in full force as of Jan. 12, with Mr. Petrillo himself scheduled to appear before the committee as first witness. Prior to the end of January it is expected Senator Clark (D-Ida.), chairman of the subcommittee, will procure necessary authority to continue the inquiry if it has not been concluded by that time.

Government Agencies Cooperate

The purpose of the committee termination resolution, offered by Senator Hayden (D-Ariz.), was to eliminate all extraneous committees so that the Senate could start with a clean slate early in the new session. It was unanimously adopted by the Senate upon recommendation of Senator Lucas (D-Ill.), chairman of the Committee on Audit and Control.

Meanwhile plans for the hearing opening on Jan. 12 were being whipped into shape by Senator Clark and the committee special counsel, Herbert M. Bingham, Washington attorney. The "active cooperation" of interested Government agencies in the inquiry was reported by Mr. Bingham.

Several Government agencies have urged that the AFM ban on recordings and transcriptions, invoked by Petrillo last August, be lifted lest it seriously undermine the war effort through forced closure of small stations deprived of recorded program material and by other means. While no complete slate of witnesses has been released the committee has several score requests for appearances from organizations, individuals and Government agencies interested in relieving conditions precipitated by the Petrillo bans and ukases.

Senate to Speed Miles Laboratories Challenge FERGUSON HEADS FTC's Medical Label Control

Firm's Court Stand Threatens FTC Position in Cases Recently Filed Against Headache Remedy Makers

CHALLENGING the legality of Federal Trade Commission activities in the regulation of medicinal remedy labels, Miles Laboratories Inc., Elkhart, Ind., on Dec. 14 asked the Federal District Court of the District of Columbia to prevent the Commission from issuing a complaint against it for "unfair methods of competition in business".

Although the firm is a large buyer of radio time for Alka-Seltzer and Vitamins, none of its radio advertised products was involved in the FTC cases. The issues raised by Miles, however, may involve several pending FTC headache and medicinal remedy cases, some of which are against important time users.

Action Is Surprise

Miles move came as a complete surprise to FTC attorneys. It resulted from correspondence in which FTC sought a stipulation from Miles, agreeing to modify labels and advertising for its Nervine, Nervine Tablets and Anti-Pain Pills.

In a letter to Miles Nov. 17 Web Woodhill, chief trial examiner for the Commission, wrote: "you have failed adequately to reveal the potential danger to health that may result from improper or continued use of such drugs". Mr. Woodhill then referred to a copy of a stipulation which the Commission enclosed and asked Miles to agree to some modifications in its labels and advertising.

Miles complaint flatly rejected efforts of the FTC to obtain the stipulation and declared that the Commission was entirely without authority to ask such an agree-ment or to issue a complaint against it.

Label Authority Challenged

In effect, the complaint said that FTC uses its power over advertising indirectly to regulate labeling, a function entrusted to the Federal Security Agency by the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act of 1938. Miles said that its labels comply with the requirements of the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, designed to prevent mislabeling of merchandise.

The firm did not deny the FTC has authority over advertising, but insisted that this authority does not include the right to require cautioning statements beyond any required by the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. Moreover, the complaint asserted, FTC cannot require labels to state specific dangers resulting from excessive use of the product beyond the dosage specified on the label.

Miles pointed out that its labels for all three products contain all the warnings demanded by FTC, with the exception that the labels do not warn specifically that excessive use of Nervine and Nervine Tablets may cause mental derangement and that Anti-Pain Pills in excess may cause collapse. The complaint included exhibits of advertising and labels to show the following warnings: "Do not exceed recommended dosage or give to children" and "Overdoses or habitual use may be dangerous." The complaint stated that Miles' advertising contained instructions to read full directions on the bottle.

FTC Course Undecided

FTC attorneys last week-end, although confident that the authority of the Commission would be sustained, had not decided whether to move for dismissal of the complaint or to answer. A decision must be made within 60 days.

If Miles were sustained by the federal courts in challenging jurisdiction of the Commission, observers pointed out, similar challenges to FTC's jurisdiction might be offered by headache powder firms cited by the Commission Oct. 21. Three of the firms in these cases have filed answers on the facts of the case while three others, Emerson Drug Co., Baltimore (Bromo-Seltzer); Stanback Co., Salisbury, N. C. (Stanback Headache Powder); and B. C. Remedy Co., Durham, N. C. (BC Head-ache Powder) have been granted extensions in their cases and as yet have given no indication of the nature of their replies

Attorneys for Miles, although stating clearly that radio copy was not at issue in the present complaint, indicated that they felt the same arguments on FTC jurisdiction might apply in radio cases. Radio programs advertising Miles' products, not involved in this case, include Lum 'n' Abner and Quiz Kids on BLUE and News of the World and National Barn Dance on NBC.

CBS STOCKHOLDERS ADOPT PALEY CUT

CBS STOCKHOLDERS, at a CBS STOCKHOLDERS, at a special meeting in New York last Wednesday, approved four pro-posals of the board of directors calling for a reduction of compen-sation for William S. Paley, CBS president, from approximately $200,000 to $65,000 a year; for authorization of a pension plan; for a reduction in additional com-pensation currently given and for a pensation currently given and for a pension for Edward Klauber, chairman of the CBS executive committee.

Details of the proposals [fully explained in the Nov. 23 issue of BROADCASTING] were briefly out-lined by President Paley and the proposals were adopted without a disconting note dissenting vote.

Afton S. Hayward, a minority stockholder, questioned Mr. Paley regarding the operations of the CBS program department, express-ing disapproval of the network's rug pisapproval of the network s sustaining programs despite Mr. Paley's answer that these are now receiving higher ratings than at any time in CBS history. He also asked for a review of the court ac-tions on the FCC network mo-nopoly regulations, which Mr. Paley summarized briefly.

ONE OF RADIO'S most lovable characters-Cornelius D. Tomy, 64. known to thousands of radio listeners as "Uncle Neal", is dead.

It was in April, 1922, that Mr. Tomy was named general manager of Station WCX, then being established by the Detroit Free Press. It was his voice that was first heard over that station. Later he became general manager of

WGHP, the forerunner of the present WXYZ, but returned to WCX to resume his old position.

In 1929 WCX was absorbed by WJR, Mr. Tomy becoming an announcer and director of special broadcasts for the organization. He has been with WJR ever since, in recent years as director of publicity and as narrator on the Sunday morning reading of the comics.

With the opening of WCX, Mr. Tomy created The Red Apple Club and became its "Merry Old Chief". A late night variety show starring many famous personalities of stage and screen. The Red Apple Club won a great audience. In those days when radio was in its infancy, WCX and WWJ divided time on the same frequency to avoid interference.

a warm affection reflected in the fond appellation, "Uncle Neal", with which they greeted him.

One of the features of Uncle Neal's Birthday Party that Mr. Tomy conducted for years on WJR was to reveal to young listeners the hiding places of their birthday gifts. Those early listeners, now grown, know now that Uncle Neal had the cooperation of parents, but in their youth it was a miracle indeed when he donned his "magic eyeglasses" and started telling those with birthdays where to go

On WWJ Ty Tyson, sports commentator and, like Mr. Tomy, a veteran in Detroit radio; George Stark, staff writer for the Detroit News; and Ole Foerch, organist, carried their audience back to the early days of radio, picturing with music and narration the story of Mr. Tomy's life. WJR's memorial broadcast brought to the microphone Bernice and Prudence Butterfield, pianists who were associated with Mr. Tomy on the air.

One of the closest friendships in radio was that enjoyed by Mr. Tomy and Leo J. Fitzpatrick, vicepresident and general manager of WJR. Together they participated in radio's development from almost the very first days of broadcasting.

Mr. Tomy, who was born in Fairfield, Ia., Oct. 27, 1878, died Dec. 14 in Cottage hospital, Grosse Point, Mich., following a paralytic stroke. Besides his widow, Mrs. Reva Crane Tomy, he is survived by a son, Wallace C., Indianapolis, and a daughter, Mrs. M. Schling Jr., New York.

Cooperative League Planning Radio Series Early Next Year

No Conflict Between Proposed Program and NAB Code Is Found at Joint Meeting

ALTHOUGH NO date has been selected, the Cooperative League of the USA plans to take the air early in 1943 as the result of conferences at the Mayflower Hotel, Washington, Dec. 14-15 between the Code Committee of the NAB and officials of the Cooperative League.

Network sentiment indicates that such a program must be sponsored by a specific cooperative and not by a trade association. Furthermore the program can't be a 15-minute commercial but must limit its sales talk to three minutes and must offer a specific product or service for sales; however, it can describe the features of the cooperative setup as specified in the agreement. If these terms are complied with it appears that CBS will accept the program.

At the close of the two-day session, a joint statement was issued by the NAB and the Cooperative League which points out that no conflict exists between the league's proposed program and the terms of the NAB code. The text of the statement follows:

"We believe that the advertising of cooperatives is and has been acceptable under the Code when the programs offered are designed to sell goods, trademarks or services of cooperatives.

Commercial Copy

"It is agreed that there is no objection to commercial copy incorporated in a program sponsored by a cooperative enterprise which states that (a) any person can make purchases at cooperatives; (b) membership in cooperatives is open and voluntary; (c) cooperatives are owned by members, each of whom has one vote; (d) profits or savings are returned to member-owners. However, in making such statements no attack is to be made on any other business enterprise or system of distribution.

"The length of commercial copy and character of such program should conform to the provisions of the NAB Code.

"Any discussion of the cooperative movement as such or as an economic system is properly confined to sustaining time which may be given by stations or networks in accordance with the public interest."

Joint Statement Agreed Upon

Monday morning the NAB Code Committee met in executive session to consider the question. During the afternoon session the Cooperative representatives were invited to sit in with NAB officials in exploratory fashion to determine whether or not the spirit of such a program was consistent with the spirit of the code. After a complete hearing the Tuesday morning session was devoted to the development of a memorandum on the question which provided the basis of the afternoon discussion. Finnally the joint statement of the Cooperative representatives and the NAB officials was written and released to the press.

Representing the Cooperative League of the USA at the conferences were: Murray D. Lincoln, president; E. R. Bowen, executive secretary; Wallace J. Campbell, assistant secretary; John Carson, Washington representative; Robert L. Smith, educational director of the Eastern Cooperative League. The Code Committee members in attendance were: Earl J. Glade, chairman, KSL, Salt Lake City; Grant Ashbacker, WKBZ, Muskegon; Jan Schimek, CBS, New York; Lee B. Wailes, KYW, Philadelphia; William S. Hedges, NBC, New York; Neville Miller, NAB president; Russell P. Place, NAB counsel and secretary to the Code Committee.

Up to Networks

Now it is up to networks to decide how such a program might be developed for broadcast. Originally the program sponsored by the cooperatives had been scheduled to start Oct. 11 but NBC and CBS refused to sell time. NBC explained its position when it said that the material had been studied and its officials concluded that the organization's major purpose was the promotion of new memberships. This is a violation of the network's policy since commercial time is never sold except to promote membership drives for the Red Cross or the annual "March of Dimes" campaign. This question is not clarified by the NAB Code Committee's conclusion.

CBS explained its refusal to sell

U. P. YEAREND SERIES Editors Select Gen. Clark For 1942 Hero

FIRST choice of the more than 300 radio news editors queried by United Press Radio for the title "American Hero of 1942", was Lt. Gen. Mark Wayne Clark, who made a secret tour of North Africa to lay the ground work for the Allied invasion. His exploits will be featured in special program titled American Hero of 1942, one of a series of nine quarter-hour scripts UP will supply its 535 subscribers as summaries of the year's outstanding developments.

Others in the series of year-end scripts are: The World at War, The Year and the Nation, The Year and the Farmer, Women of the Year, Chuckles of 1942, Sports in '42, The Year in Movieland, The Year in Business. Special promotion is being supplied UP radio clients in connection with the series to assist them in obtaining sponsors.

time in terms of content since the league's program was intended to promote "a fundamental change in the present system of marketing". CBS officials explained that this was a subject of controversy and therefore could not be aired in time purchased for the purpose. CBS policy was adopted by the NAB in 1939 and incorporated in the Code which allows sustaining time for presentation of contending viewpoints but doesn't permit sale of time for discussion of any side of a controversial issue.

Following the network's refusal to sell time to the Cooperative League, Sen. Norris (Ind.-Neb.), sought Senate inquiry into the refusal to determine radio's right to decide who may use its facilities and suggested the possible amendment of the 1934 Communications Act to this end. The FCC stepped in at this point and obtained a statement of the facts from the networks and finally the NAB interceded to bring the League and the networks together to study the question.

New WPB Field Service Designed To Assist Radio Horning Head of Group On Distribution of Parts

NEW MEASURES to provide aid to broadcasters in obtaining transmitter tubes and other replacement parts were taken last week when the WPB Radio & Radar Division established a Field Service Section designed to decentralize the distribution machinery.

The new organization includes a staff of about 40 veteran radio men, located at offices in every region of the country. Their job involves expediting preference ratings for replacement parts and channeling distribution of parts into the civilian economy.

Frank S. Horning, former RCA production and sales engineer, heads the new organization, which includes a directing staff in Washington. Until the recent WPB shakeup Mr. Horning was chief of the Radio & Radar Industrial Section [BROADCASTING, Nov. 16].

Will Eliminate Confusion

Although a principle duty of the field officer will be to iron out bottlenecks in the production of Radio and Radar equipment, it was said officially, the men also will be responsible for eliminating confusion over the operation of preference ratings and the purchase of replacement parts.

Mr. Horning said that when the Field Service Section gets into operation it will no longer be necessary to call Washington for aid. Field officers will have necessary power to grant effective preference ratings.

WPB said that the Field Service will play a major role in the forthcoming Victory Model and replacement tube programs and will be responsible for distribution of these civilian parts. Allocation and distribution of rare materials, among other problems, will be handled through the field officers.

In its distribution function, the Field Service will insure civilian supplies against "raids" by noncivilian leaders, WPB indicated. Members of distributors' associations had said recently that receiver tube shortage may be traced largely to raids by military purchasing agents on supplies earmarked for civilian use. Fly Again Upholds WJW Move Grant Claims No Violation of Its

Recent Freeze Order

OBVIOUSLY irked over reactions of station applicants and owners to the recent decision approving the move of WJW from Akron to Cleveland, FCC Chairman James Lawrence Fly, for the second successive week, on Dec. 14 contended that the action represented no departure from the wartime rules established by the April 27 equipment freeze order.

Pointing out the order was intended to prevent the use of materials needed for direct war purposes, Mr. Fly said that in the case of WJW it was considered neeessary to provide additional network service in Cleveland. The station will become a BLUE outlet, operating with 5,000 watts on the 850 kc. channel, in lieu of its present local assignment in Akron.

Claims No Violation

The Commission's authorization of this move, by a split vote, did not result in the use of any quantity of critical materials, Mr. Fly said. He declared the wartime rules provide against the use of such materials for construction purposes and the Commission did not intend to "tear down" these restrictions.

The chairman pointed out that the shift of the WJW transmitter to a point 14 miles closer to Cleveland involved no more than "$75 worth of equipment at the outside". He insisted this was wholly consistent with the Commission's wartime rules.

In industry quarters, however, there has been considerable agitation and a number of stations with pending applications for modification have petitioned the Commission either formally or informally for authorizations based on what they regarded as the WJW precedent.

Similarly, there has been much eyebrow-raising over the FCC's recent "special service authorization" to WNYC, New York municipallyowned station, which has been authorized to operate until 10 p.m. on the 830 kc. clear channel, on which WCCO, Minneapolis, is the dominant station. The Commission last October had denied a formal application, after hearing, involving WNYC's effort to duplicate on the lclear channel.

WDLP, WTMC Get Renewals; Deception Claimed in Ruling New FCC Lineup Sharply Disagrees on Grants to Florida Stations Operated by John H. Perry

DESPITE admissions that it had been "grossly misled" and that the station licenses had been obtained by "falsehood and deception", a majority of the FCC has voted renewal of the licenses of WDLP, Panama City, and WTMC, Ocala, Fla., to John H. Perry, prominent newspaper publisher and station owner.

In separate strongly worded opinions, the Commission, by a 4-3 split, vacated its orders of a year ago revoking the licenses of the two stations on grounds of deception through acquisition by "dummy" companies financed by Mr. Perry. Voting in favor of the continued operation of the stations, because of what they regarded as necessity for service in these areas, were Commissioners Walker, Craven, Case and Payne. The opinions, reached Dec. 2, for unexplained reasons were not released until Saturday, Dec. 12.

New Alignment

A hot dissenting opinion, applicable in both cases, was handed down by Chairman Fly and Commissioners Wakefield and Durr. Mr. Fly himself, it is understood, spent considerable time in Florida last year investigating the circumstances surrounding the licensing of the stations.

The split opinion represented a new alignment on the Commission. Heretofore, in most policy matters, Commissioners Craven and Case have constituted the minority, with the other five Commission members usually solidly aligned as the majority.

The majority held in effect that Mr. Perry, owner of several newspapers and licensee of WCOA, Pensacola, and WJHP, Jacksonville, through his newspapers, was the "innocent victim" in the proceedings which led to the licensing of the two stations in the names of other companies. Because of his other interests, including his acquisition at the time of the Western Newspaper Union, the majority said, Mr. Perry had been unable to devote time to the prosecution of the station applications and was misled by his own agents and former counsel. The majority found that Mr. Perry in fact had put up all of the funds for the two stations but that this information deliberately had been withheld from the Commission.

The Commission found that the newspaper ownership question was not directly involved, since Mr. Perry from the outset was the real party in interest. It found that no transfer of control to a newspaper interest was involved and that the case was not affected by the policy under Order No. 79 dealing with applications for new facilities from newspaper interests.

The majority said it was apparent that the Commission had been grossly misled in granting the two applications. Its main opinion was written in the WDLP case, but the same conclusions were made applicable to that involving the Ocala station.

The deception practiced on the Commission was "deliberate and not innocent," said the majority. It was held that Mr. Perry's agents "uniformly gave false answers in spite of the fact that they were under oath". In the Panama City case, the majority said the "culpability of Mr. Perry's agents is clear. In fact, no effort was made at the hearing on the order of revocation to exculpate Mr. Perry's agents."

Others Would Suffer

The majority held that if the licenses were to be revoked, this should be done on the ground that they were obtained by falsehood and deception. If the persons directly responsible were the only ones who would suffer from the revocations, the Commission "would have no hesitation in revoking" the licenses. Conduct of this sort, if generally tolerated, "would make a mockery of the law regulating radio broadcasting, founded on the personal responsibility of the licensee, and of administration of the law."

The Commission held, however, that the parties directly responsible for the condemned conduct, Mr. Perry's representatives and agents, are not the only ones who will chiefly suffer or benefit by any action which the FCC might take.

The parties primarily to be considered are "Mr. Perry and the listening audience of Panama City". The majority pointed out that Mr. Perry personally should not be condemned and that the audience should not be penalized. It held that Mr. Perry demonstrated his good faith by instructing his agents to make the appropriate amendments to the applications when the pressure of his other work abated. Moreover, it held the evidence demonstrated that Mr. Perry personally "did not command or counsel the numerous halftruths and outright falsehoods (Continued on page 50)

FCC Approves WOW Transfer Under Lease by Vote of 4-3 Gillin Heads New Operating Company; Snit by

Woodmen Stockholder Still Pending

OWNERSHIP OF WOW, Omaha, last week shifted from the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society to a new corporation headed by the station's general manager, John J. Gillin Jr., under authorization of the FCC.

By a 4-3 vote the Commission approved the assignment of the license to the new company of which Mr. Gillin is president. It sanctioned the transfer which involves a 15-year lease arrangement providing for payment to Woodmen by Radio Station WOW Inc., the new corporation, of $8,100 a month for the first three years and $5,600 monthly for the remaining 12 years. Mr. Gillin becomes a substantial, though not the controlling, stockholder of the new company. Approval came last Tuesday after a two-week delay occasioned by a 3-3 tie vote.

Commission's Vote

Voting in favor of the assignment were Chairman Fly and Commissioners Craven, Case and Payne. Voting against allowing the transfer without further investigation and hearing were Commissioners Walker, Wakefield and Durr. Commissioner Payne had been absent at the time the original yote was taken the preceding week but cast his yote by mail, breaking the tie in time for the meeting last Tuesday.

One of the best-known NBC outlets in the country, WOW has been directed by Mr. Gillin since 1932. He had started on the station as chief announcer in 1931.

Approval of the lease occasioned some surprise, since the FCC in the past has deprecated leaseholds. The contract, however, contains no reversionary clause or provision by which the Woodmen could recapture the license in event the new corporation defaulted. Actually, the lease involves only the use of the equipment and has no bearing on the license, resembling a contract similar to that entered into on installment purchase of equipment.

Under the new structure the new WOW company has 2,000 shares of stock. Of these 750 are Class A preferred, 250 Class B preferred and 1,000 common. All of the stock is of the same par value and is voting stock. Mr. Gillin holds all of the Class B preferred, 100 shares of Class A preferred or 13.3% and 350 shares of the common or 35%.

Guy C. Myers, vice-president of the new corporation, is a Seattle and New York City businessman. Secretary is M. M. Meyers, Omaha, president of the Omaha Coke & Blax Co. Harvey E. Milliken, Omaha, president of the Omaha Printing Co., commercial printers, is treasurer. In addition to the officers, who serve on the board of directors, other stockholders and directors are Robert Samardick, Omaha, vice-president of Danbaum Inc.; J. J. Isaacson, Omaha, officer of the Aksarben Bridge Assn.; Francis P. Matthews, Omaha attorney, Supreme Knight of the Knights of Columbus and president of the Federal Savings & Loan Assn., and Thomas J. Wallace, Winnetka, vice-president of Russel M. Seeds Co., advertising agency.

Vice-president Myers holds 250 shares of A preferred or 33.3% and 250 shares of common or 25.5%. Directors Matthews and Wallace each hold 100 shares of A preferred or 13.3% and 100 shares of common each or 10%.

Suit Still Pending

Secretary Meyers, Treasurer Milliken and Directors Samardick and Isaacson each hold 50 shares of Class A preferred or 6.6%, and 50 shares of common or 5%.

The application for transfer was filed Oct. 7. Some repercussions developed locally in Omaha when Dr. Homer H. Johnson of Lincoln, a member of the Society, filed suit in District Court to enjoin the sale. The case is still pending. It was held that the station earned $210,000 in 1941 and that it is estimated earnings for 1942 would be $278,000. One contention was that the lease arrangement was too low.

The petition stated that under the contract the new corporation agreed to pay about $97,000 a year for three years and $68,000 a year for the following 12 years, with total rental for the 15-year period amounting to some $3,300, 000 less than the station would earn in that time, assuming its earnings would be $300,000 a year.

OTHER FELLOW'S VIEWPOINT

With a Tin Cup EDITOR, BROADCASTING:

When will American business advance into a high enough ethical sphere to do away with such brigands as those who want something for nothing, yet are able to pay the bill? I mean that gentry that sends out scripts "free" pretending to bring you industry news, yet plug every well-known manufacturer or service organization which they represent. To my mind they are in the same class with panhandlers with a tin cup.

Why should American business hire somebody to panhandle for them? To my mind this is evidence that business still keeps its ethics in a trunk to be brought out on special occasion. If American business does not want to buy publicity, that is good and well. But for American business to hire somebody to panhandle publicity is no better than I would be, or anyone else, who hired somebody to stand on a city street corner with a tin cup in my personal behalf.

They're Experts

The fact that these panhandlers carry the name of public relations experts does not remove them one inch above the man with the tin cup. They are asking something for nothing, plain and simple.

I think it is high time that American manufacturers are willing to grant that publicity mediums have something to sell just as important as their products. Were you ever given a free electric fan by a manufacturer or perchance a free auto appliance by writing a smirking letter to headquarters? It's time that radio decided to place itself in just as important a position as the manufacturer and call a halt to supporting the panhandlers. Let the chips fall as they may.

WOL Seeks Lower Power for WNAC Unusual Request Is Based on Clause Never Invoked

IN A NOVEL proceeding—believed to be the first in radio annals—the FCC last week was petitioned by WOL, Washington, to reduce the nighttime power of WNAC, Boston, from 1,000 to 250 watts because of interference created by failure of the Boston outlet to install a directional antenna.

Herbert M. Bingham, Washington attorney for WOL, petitioned the Commission to invoke the provisions of Section 312(b) of the Communications Act, which grants the power to modify a station license if it will promote public interest, convenience and necessity.

Charges Interference

Specifically, the Commission was asked to invoke the law unless cause be shown to the contrary, by entering an order for the power reduction until such time as WNAC completes and places in licensed operation the directional antenna specified in a grant originally made in 1940. WOL set out that WNAC was causing serious interference to its service and to a lesser degree to the service of WFBM, Indianapolis, which also operates on the 1260 kc. regional channel.

Each station received a construction permit to operate with a directional antenna on this frequency, it was pointed out. Both WOL and WFBM are so licensed and operating and have suppressed their radiation in the direction of Boston. Contending that WNAC "does not seem to be serious in its efforts to fulfill the understandings it had with WFBM and WOL, nor to comply with the authorization granted by its construction permit," Mr. Bingham said that something must be done to relieve the serious interference of WNAC."

It was reported informally that WNAC had experienced difficulty in erecting the new directional at its present transmitter location. Moreover, it was said that before remedial measures could be applied the shortage of equipment stemming from the war developed and tended to block the installation.

Audience Research Started by Nielsen Audimeter Forms Basis for New Measuring Service

A NEW radio listening research service designed to aid in placing advertising on a more factual basis is announced by A. C. Nielsen, president of A. C. Nielsen Co., Chicago. Heart of the method is the audimeter, a device installed in the receiving set which makes a graphic record of all the times at which the set is turned on or off and the station to which it is tuned. Service to seven advertisers and nine agencies begins Dec. 27.

Original pilot operation has been expanded to 1,000 instruments in an area from the Mississippi River to the Atlantic Coast, including small-city and rural communities. The index service is offered on a privileged, non-profit basis during the first phase of its operation to 15 radio advertisers, their agencies, national networks and a limited number of stations, according to Mr. Nielsen.

In Cross-Section of Homes

Only service offered to date is to the following subscribing companies: Carter Products, Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co., General Foods Corp., General Mills, Lever Brothers Co., Miles Laboratories, Sterling Drug.

Agencies subscribing are: Ted Bates Inc., Benton & Bowles, Blackett-Sample-Hummert, Knox Reeves Adv., Ruthrauff & Ryan, Sherman & Marquette, Small & Seiffer, Wade Adv. Agency, Young & Rubicam.

Placed in a scientifically controlled cross-section of homes in an area containing 8 million radio homes, "each audimeter produces in the course of a year an amount of information approximately equal to that which could be obtained from about 500,000 coincidental telephone calls", say officials of the Nielsen Company, as well as information "which cannot be secured by any other method."

Types of information furnished by the Nielsen Radio Index are general listening habits, program ratings, program analyses and station coverage data (for individual stations). The company expects to produce the instrument in quantity and increase the scope of research.

.. and Faith will Triumph

Americans always have had faith in the things we fight for today. Hitler couldn't see it. Nor could Tojo. But it was there. There, just as surely as at Concord . . . just as strong as at the Argonne.

Faith is not something you can measure out by the pound. It can't be packaged, and passed out on a here's-your-share plan. It can be nourished and grown. And it must not waver. Not if there is to be any hope for the future.

Perhaps that is why Radio says little about the War Bonds it has sold . . . the scrap collections spurred . . . the extra bombers put into the sky through its morale building.

We in Radio know . . . there's a still bigger job to be done.

It is to make Radio the greatest power on earth for the good of mankind. It is to keep building the faith which will triumph. It is to help win and hold world peace through faith and understanding . . . with God's help.

The new Westinghouse 5 hv Transmitter at WAGA, providing this progressive station with new operating economy and convenience.

WAGA'S NEW 5,000-WATT WESTINGHOUSE TRANSMITTER BOOSTS NIGHTTIME POWER 10-FOLD

Today, thousands of new listeners are regularly tuning in on WAGA. For hard at work at this Atlanta, Georgia station is one of the last commercial transmitters to be built by Westinghouse for the duration.

This transmitter...another Westinghouse type 5 hv....has substantially boosted WAGA's coverage of the South's First Market. Now operating on 5,000 watts full time, this station's primary daytime coverage (.5 mv or better) now includes more than a million listeners in 42 counties in Georgia; a valuable market for advertisers to cultivate.

We are naturally pleased that so many progressive radio stations like WAGA have chosen Westinghouse Transmitters. However, our number one job today is—and for months has been —the development and production of special radio and electronic equipment for the Armed Forces. Naturally, peacetime production has been abandoned for the duration, but electronic planning and research have been greatly intensified. These developments promise much for the future, mean even finer commercial equipment for you when we are again able to produce them.

For the Ladies

WHEN BIGGER manpower woes are developed, radio will have them. The problem now is woman-power.

Women are doing men's jobs throughout industry in this war-time economy. They are doing everything from watchman to welder, and well, too! Radio always has had its share of the ladies, but now they're in every department—even technical (when no union restriction is involved).

More women are needed to keep transmitters perking and to ride the studio gains. Uncle Sam won't allow stations to shut down because of lack of technical help, but he must have radio technicians for the tremendous communications job entailed by war operations.

For reasons not readily apparent, the ABTU of IBEW has refused to permit employment of women in technical jobs, or rather to declare them eligible for union membership. Evidently, the only argument advanced is that the postwar security of IBEW members might be threatened.

At International Headquarters of IBEW we're told the question is being considered but that the locals are autonomous in each district, and must decide the membership question individually. Thus far, not a single local has revised its anti-suffrage requirement.

It seems to us the union is taking a shortsighted view. The war need is evident. The problem is critical. It should meet the issue squarely and lead the way for the locals. If it doesn't we predict that Manpower Czar McNutt will find legal means by which to get action.

Helping Hand

WHEN NEW YORKERS were deprived of their daily newspapers last week because deliverymen were on strike, radio stepped to the fore and again demonstrated its value as a public servant in time of crisis.

Virtually every station in the metropolitan area added news periods to its schedules. In several instances broadcasters cooperated with daily newspapers by airing local copy gathered and written by newspaper staffs. Regularly scheduled commercial programs were cancelled so that New York's millions might be kept abreast with the news. Feature columns ordinarily appearing in daily newspapers and some comic strips were read over the air.

Among advertisers hardest hit by lack of newspapers were theatres and department stores. The top theatre chains immediately instructed their advertising agencies to buy all available time on the air to promote feature pictures and stage attractions. Several department stores deprived of newspaper coverage used radio to advertise sales and Christmas wares. The Saturday Evening Post, which usually uses newspaper space to advertise current issues, went heavily into radio.

New York listeners heard commercials on former sustaining programs; they listened to theatrical plugs on participation broadcasts; bargain hunters listened to the messages of retailers. Many newscasts were used effectively for brief sales messages.

Innumerable times in the past, radio has performed outstanding public service. In the Ohio Valley flood of 1937 when transportation was interrupted and newspaper publication and delivery were uncertain, radio performed a public service that has gone down in communication history. On Dec. 7, 1941, when the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor, plunging this nation into war, it was radio that bore the first news and it was to radio that Government officials turned to get important messages before the people.

Throughout any emergency, be it national, regional or local, radio stands ready to lend a helping hand.

Shows for The Boys

AS URGED in one of our recent dispatches from London, big name radio acts and stars may soon be flown abroad to entertain our troops in the various war theaters. Nothing would be more welcomed by the boys in uniform, as evidenced by the tremendous reception given Al Jolson and his troupe during their tour that ended in England in September. Our soldiers are simply hungering for live entertainment; indeed, all too many of them haven't radios with them in camp and field and are not even getting the kind of radio entertainment they want on regular basis.

Now the Army's Special Services Branch, working in collaboration with the Office of War Information, has a project afoot to send name shows and performers abroad. Some of these shows could continue their commercial broadcasts from some parts of the war theatres where facilities are available, notably from England. Others must regard themselves as enlisted for special missions, and it is gratifying indeed to find [BRAADCASTING, Dec. 14] that both talent and sponsors have evinced willingness to do the chore. They are considering a pinch-hit arrangement whereby if the star of one show is detailed for this kind of duty, other sponsors will lend their stars for the interim—truly a cooperative spirit. Kay Kyser's OWI talent committee is working on the plan which, if effected, will be another great contribution by radio to troop morale.

Rewrite That Law

WHAT'S GOING ON in Washington? Those three big tragic letters that spell WAR appear at first blush to size up the situation to the exclusion of everything else.

But they're other things going on, too things that portend to bite deeply into radio's future well being if not its freedom. It's just one of those unfortunate truisms that most people in these difficult times are disposed to slough over events that, in normal processes, were regarded as life and death developments.

Radio is no exception. Broadcasters have been busy tending to important knitting at home—geared toward peak war service—to really concern themselves with these developments. And they really can't be blamed for it.

Let's look at some of these events as they may affect radio. The Government, of necessity, is talking about grade-labeling of commodities. Unless that is handled deftly, it can deal a serious, and possibly a fatal blow to brand-name advertising. That would strike the solar plexis for all advertising media.

And what about radio regulation itself? Radio holds the all-American record as the most regulated of industries. Despite the war, the vise continues to close on licensees, though the steps haven't been too clearly discernible.

At this writing the two oldest networks— NBC and CBS—are fighting for their very economic lives against enforcement of the FCC majority's punitive chain-monopoly regulations. They stand before the Supreme Court in a last desperate bid for relief, lest the whole broadcasting industry be turned topsy-turvy through regulation of practically every phase of their business by a Government agency.

These things and others are happening in the midst of mankind's greatest war. They are infinitesimal, meaningless, pinpricks against the backdrop of a world engaged in all-out conflict. But they still mean life and death to radio in that post-war hereafter.

Which gets us to our point. Congress makes the laws. Its creatures (like the FCC) are supposed to enforce them. The Courts interpret the laws Congress makes. An aggressive, power-grabbing FCC has taken an extreme course in interpreting the Communications Act, the radio provisions of which are 15 years old. We believe the FCC has gone too far—far beyond the Congressional intent. The FCC thus far has succeeded in convincing the lower courts that it is right.

To end all the surmise, speculation and confusion, and most important, to safeguard the rights of radio as a free American institution, Congress should reassert its intent. The old ourned sine die. The new one, with many new faces, convenes next month. We hope that one of its first orders of business (after vital war measures are handled), will be a reappraisal of the antiquated Communications Act. Every broadcaster interested in remaining a broadcaster after the war, should take time out to do his part.

We Pay Our Respects To -

FRANK STANTON

AKE a mental picture of a man whose stock in trade includes measurements, records, tabulations and surveys—and then throw the picture away if you want to know what the new and young vice-president of CBS, Frank Stanton, is like. Also, disregard the fact that he has a Ph. D.; because he neither looks nor acts like one. However, he does think like one.

Today, Frank Stanton is one of the three CBS administrative vicepresidents, and on his 34-year-old shoulders he carries the direction of six important departments. Besides research, he is responsible for publicity, commercial editing, the library division, Radio Sales, and Columbia's owned and operated stations.

Stanton is a big fellow, just under 6 feet and just under 200 pounds. A full, round face and wispy yellow hair give him the appearance of being, as an old associate said "the best-fed man in radio". Never a line shows in his face when, as he frequently does, he's been up all night, putting together a report for a client who is in the inevitable hurry.

The progress of Frank Stanton from a young pre-med student at Ohio Wesleyan U to a CBS vicepresidency has been, in the main, an orderly one. He was born in Muskegon, Mich., March 20, 1908. In Dayton, back in 1922, he was as good a radio crystal-set builder as any kid in town. And at college, given a free hand in his senior year to study any special field he wanted, he chose radio.

To help pay his way through college, Stanton free lanced layout and production for the advertising department of a Dayton department store; and when upon graduation, he found himself without a job in depression-bound Dayton, he taught typography for a year in a Dayton trade school.

Because of his pre-medical background at Ohio Wesleyan, he was offered a job as instructor at Ohio State in psychology, along with the opportunity to study for his master's degree, and later his Ph. D. The faculty saw in him the possibilities of a fine muscle-mindand-nerve expert. Much to their disappointment, however, he turned again to radio.

Because then as now, Stanton knew what he was about. Crossley was just beginning his work in audience measurements-and Stanton quickly saw that radio could well use men who might be to radio what Gallup and Starch were to newspapers and magazines. So, Stanton's thesis for his doctorate was titled, "A Critique of Present Methods and a New Plan for Studying Radio Listening Behavior". In conjunction with it, he developed the first automatic recording device to determine accurate records of radio set operation.

Wavering between service with the Government and his postgraduate alma mater, Stanton was invited by Paul Kesten (then the CBS sales promotion manager, now second-in-command to Paley) to expand some of his thoughts about radio research for CBS. The upshot was that Stanton joined Columbia as a research worker. The department then had three employes, of which Stanton, despite his degree, was No. 3.

For the first few years in New York, Doc was somewhat bewildered by his surroundings. Nobody, as he admits, could have looked or acted more buckeye. But gradually, he began to see that things in New York were just about the same as they were back in Ohio only in New York they made more fuss over them.

One thing, it soon turned out, he and Kesten shared in common a passion and a capacity for working hard. And it also turned out that he was just the man to put a solid foundation of research under Kesten's brilliant "imagineering". It was a fine combination.

Before long Stanton had become director of research, and in his department were not 3 but 80 fact finders and interpreters. Under Stanton, CBS research became not only a pattern for the industry, but it proved its value as an important contributor to the rise in CBS sales.

It's possible, however, that he might never have moved out of research had it not been for the fact that as research director, he was supposed to know everything. His colleagues got into the habit of using him as an "Ask Mr. Foster". And being an amiable as well as able fellow, Doc got into the habit of turning up with the right answer. Because he had to find out so many things for so many people, he came to know more about radio and CBS himself than most other people in the company.

No more than he can say "No" to a request for information from a CBS colleague, can he say "No" to anyone who wants him to participate in extra-curricular activities. For instance, his dossier would disclose that he was a member of The American Psychological Assn., American Statistical Assn., American Marketing Assn., Market Research Council, American Assn., of Applied Psychologists (Fellow), and The Psychological Corp. (Research Associate).

And furthermore, that he is a member of the Advisory Council, Office of Radio Research, Columbia U, member of the Research Committee, National Assn. of Broadcasters (NAB); member of the Committee for National Morale; member of the Editorial Board of Sociometry; consultant, Bureau of Intelligence, Office of War Information; and finally an expert consultant to the Secretary of War.

Recently, his added duties at CBS have cut into his war work. But if and when they have a really tough research problem, they will undoubtedly send for the applecheeked, yellow-haired man who probably knows more about the relationship between radio and the public than anyone else in the country.

Stanton is married to Ruth Stephenson, a girl he knew back in high school. They live in a New York apartment, and she shares with him a voluntary interest in photography and architecture, along with an inescapable interest in CBS.

ESS WORK for Mother," .66 is the slogan created by Isaac W. Clements, head of Clements Co., Philareers of some 1,000 children a year through the stores' child talent pro-gram on WEAF, New York, known as the Children's Hour. Children's Hour. dates back to the "make-believe" mike placed in a nursery park to amuse children left there while their mothers went shopping. Playing radio proved to be so popular that the real estate contractor responsible for the park contractor responsible for the park installed a 100-watt station, from which the children broadcast to nearby listeners in the community. Mrs. Clements persuaded her hus-band to sell Horn & Hardart through its own children's programs.

Starting on WCAU, Philadel-phia, in 1928, the child talent show, under the direction of "Aunt Alice," finally landed a permanent spot on WEAF in 1939, where it has since WEAF in 1939, where it has since remained. JUNE ROLLINSON

O ONE has ever outlined definitely the required back-ground for a top-flight time-buyer. But if they had, it is doubtful if, in their list of requisites, they would have included a degree in music, a proficiency in copy writing, and a rare talent for office management. Which will then give you some idea of the anomaly that is June Rollinson, timebuyer for the Russel M. Seeds Co., Chicago.

Bringing charm to an essentially masculine occupation, Miss Rollinwriter to one of the leading time-buyers in the country, having pur-chased millions of dollars worth of spot and network for Seeds accounts.

-BY MAURICE CONDON-

Mr. K. W. Amplistat finds that even Santa Claus employs cliches in profusion, advises him against such a practice, and is suitably rewarded.

Q. Pardon me, sir, I am looking for the gentleman who enacts Santa Claus on the air.

A. That's me, K.W.

Q. Well! Frankly I expected a much older man.

A. Nope, you're looking at good old Santa.

Q. Your voice is quite young for such a role.

A. That's my regular voice. When I'm Santa I talk deep—like this, see?

Q. That is indeed deep. I trust you will not rupture any blood vessels. A. Not a chance, K. W. I've been Santa for three years now.

Q. To whom do you direct your broadcast efforts?

A. The kiddies—all my boys and girls—all you young tots—all my little friends.

Q. Your listeners are youthful, then?

A. No bigger than a minute; just knee high to a grasshopper.

Q. What is your radio manner? A. I am hearty, cheery and jovial. I chuckle and laugh.

Q. How hard do you laugh?

A. I laugh all the way from my boots. I shake all over.

Q. And your chuckle? A. It is merry and irresistible.

Q. Where are your reindeer?

A. My faithful reindeer are out in the stable, snorting and pawing the floor because they just can't wait to get going.

Q. Do they bear the traditional names?

A. Yes, for instance, there are Dancer and Prancer. Q. And Dunder and Blitzen?

A. No, they're out for the duration. Q. Of course; do you have a helper?

A. Little Twinkle Toes is my chief helper. He's an elf. Talks in a high squeaky voice.

Q. And who takes this part?

A. I do. Raise my voice, y'see? I'm the cast—except for the organist.

Q. To ascertain the behavior status of the children, where do you look?

A. I take a look in my Big Book. Q. Do you read the letters from the children?

A. Yes. Here's a letter from my good friend Ronnie Glmph. A peachyfine letter.

Q. Uh-peachyfine?

A. Or a dandy letter. Letters are also nice, fine, wonderful, welcome, happy, beautiful, jim-dandy. Once in a while I call a letter a super-dooper.

Q. What do you say when you read the letter?

A. Well, what do you know about that!

Q. An enthusiastic comment.

A. I yessiree and nosiree a lot.

Q. How's that again?

A. Y'know. "Here's a fine letter from my little chum Gus Matterhorn. Yessiree. And he says he wants a jeep just like the soldiers. Well, Gus, ol' Santa won't disappoint, you—nosirree. He'll try to get you one, yessiree. But remember Gus, that ol' Uncle Sam needs those jeeps for the soldiers, and you wouldn't want to take one from the soldiers, would you? Nossiree! So maybe Santa can find a toy one, just like the real ones. Yessiree."

Q. I think I understand.

A. I use a lot of Ho's too.

Q. That I don't understand.

A. Like this Ho! Ho! Ho! Yessiree. Ho! Ho! Ho!

Q. The traditional joviality of Santa. What do you say to indicate pleased surprise.

A. Well, bless my silver whiskers—or bless my shiny black boots —or bless my sleigh bells!

Q. Yes. Do you instruct the children?

A. Absolutely. Look up and down before you cross the street, boys and girls—and don't run out from behind parked cars.

Q. Do you comment on the children's deportment?

A. I want all of you young friends of Santa's to be extra-special super good. I know you're going to be good now, because it's close to the time when I come around with toys, ho ho ho ho! But Santa wants you to be good all the time. Yessirree, I don't like to hear Johnny grumbling when Mother wants errands run. And little Mary there—you help Mother with the dishes and the dusting. Yessiree! I want you to be Mother's star helpers. Will you do that? Of course, you will! That's fine. Fine!

Q. What about the toys? How do you describe them?

A. A fire engine is big and red and shiny.

Q. A train set?

A. Just like the big trains you see chugging along. You'll have to share these with Daddy because he likes trains, too—ho ho ho! Yessirree, he'll be down on the floor first thing Christmas morning just you wait and see.

Q. A motion picture projector?

A. Here's the chance to have movie shows in your own room with this big—say, Mr. A, why are you asking all these questions?

Q. Your speech, sir is studded with cliches, hackneyed, trite phrases.

A. I use a lot of 'em?

Q. You are one of the worst offenders.

A. I see. By the way, are you a family man?

Q. I have a boy of seven years, one of five years, and twins, aged three. Every one of them bright as a new dollar. Full of life. On the go all the time.

A. That's fine. I'll leave some special presents for them. Q. Excellent.

A. Let me make a note of that. For each of the Amplistat boys; a drum, a whistle, a horn, assorted noisemakers and a carpenter set.

Q. Er—that will make for a good deal of noise, Santa.

chil- A. Precisely.

Q. And boys will be boys, you know; is it wise to put tools in their hands? Might they not go to work on the furniture and woodwork?

A. Undoubtedly. Goodbye, Mr. A, and a very Merry Christmas to you. Ho!

MASS TECHNICIAN PRODUCTION Need of Trained Personnel Inspires Plan To Use -Colleges for Instruction-

FOR THE FIRST time in radio history, college radio courses have been put on a mass production basis.

Urgent need of radio stations and armed forces for technicians and engineers shortly after Pearl Harbor brought into existence in New York State a plan whereby colleges and stations cooperate to recruit and train men and women to relieve the shortage of radio specialists.

Funds were made available for instruction and equipment and H. C. Wilder, chairman of the military committee in NAB's District II organized the colleges, so that in nearly every New York community with over 10,000 population one or more night radio courses of 32 weeks duration were offered by colleges and were operating by February, 1942.

Good Response

The response was encouraging. Nearly every college had more applicants than could be accepted. Throughout the State about 5,200 took the night courses; 2,400 of these have already completed the first half and will soon graduate.

Training activities at first included Metropolitan New York and New Jersey under the direction of Dean Newman of the College of the City of New York, coordi-nator representing the U. S. Of-fice of Education. Dean Hollister of Cornell U supervised courses in the up-State area. Later it was found advisable for radio to function as State units and New Jersey was separated from the New York State training program.

Instructions were provided by stations of the local areas from their regular personnel. Recent reports from the Army and Navy observing the quality of graduates' work indicate the value of their courses. Applicants were originally accepted in the enlisted reserve of the Signal Corps. Later Army Air Forces Communications Branch and the Navy were invited to join in similar enlisted reserve plans.

Although the main purpose of the courses was to furnish graduates to the armed services, about 170 women were trained. The WAACs now want some of these graduates and many will replace station engineers entering the services.

Curriculum of the radio courses is identical with that required by armed services. Additional equipment and instructions are now

Changes at KFRC

CHANGES in managerial capaci-CHANGES in managerial capaci-ties have just been announced by KFRC, San Francisco. General Manager William D. Pabst has been commissioned a lieutenant, senior grade, in the Navy, and reported for active duty Dec. 17. His successor is Dan J. Don-nelly, who hecame sales man-17. His successor is Dan J. Don-nelly, who became sales man-ager of KFRC a few months ago after serving with Don Lee sta-tions KDB, Santa Barbara, and KGB, San Diego. Mel Venter, pro-duction manager of KFRC, was commissioned licetanant (i.g.) in commissioned lieutenant (j.g.) in the Coast Guard. His post was filled by Pat Kelly, writer and producer and formerly publicity head.

needed, according to Mr. Wilder. Stations are being solicited for surplus stocks and additional equipment.

How long the courses will continue is not known. Mr. Wilder believes there is a possibility that students will be enlisted first and then trained in colleges under military supervision of Army or Navy without the aid of broadcasters. "All of these graduates will be needed to man new developments in the post-war radio age," he said. "But the single and only objective today is to produce these technicians to get the war over with. And complete victory can be speeded by extra effort by every one on the home front, which is the challenge accepted by the New York stations."

Small Station Head Concerned About Loss of Personnel to Larger Outlets

EDITOR BROADCASTING:

We are one of those 250-watt stations serving an area not effectively served by any other single station; and like all the other stations in the same position, we are having our troubles in keeping our engineering personnel because of labor piracy on the part of stations in the large metropolitan areas who can afford to pay what appears to the personnel a higher salary.

These stations would prefer to use holders of first class radio-telephone licenses in their control room as a matter of standards of employment. This is admirable in normal times, but isn't it time that these stations cooperate with the industry in general to the extent that replacements in the control room be made with holders of tickets lower than first class or with apt persons having no tickets at all,

Whether such employment is by the station or by the union controlling stations' technical personnel, we think it time that these standards of employment be relaxed and that these large stations stop raiding the small stations of their technical personnel.

We believe your publishing this letter may bring to the attention of any one guilty of this practice the plight of the smaller station which is just as essential as any of the larger ones and will possibly help such an unthinking employer to see how much damage the smaller stations in the industry are suffering at his hands.

Infantile Drive

RADIO stations in the United States, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and Panama will participate in 1943's campaign against infantile paralysis, according to Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. National Radio Division in the drive will be headed by Neville Miller, NAB president, assisted by cochairmen: Mark Wood, president of BLUE; William S. Paley, president of CBS; Niles Trammell, president of NBC; Miller McClintock, president of MBS.

Ken Niles in Film

KEN NILES, Hollywood announcer, portrays that role in the Republic film, "Hit Parade". Frank Graham announcer-narrator of CBS, portrays Cosmo Jones, amateur scientific detective, in the Monogram Pictures release, "The Crime Smasher". Film is first in a series of 24 based on his Cosmo Jones programs formerly on CBS Pacific stations.

Peace and goodwill are in all our thoughts at Christmas. Perhaps this year, more than ever before, we look forward to the time when they may become a reality to all men.

When peace does come, let it bring the confidence and understanding—the goodwill upon which progress and prosperity are built. You can do your part by showing your goodwill, now, for the people who have made your business possible—your customers. Give them something they value radio entertainment—to remember you by.

contained in the documents filed with the Commission."

Finally, the majority held that it was most important in war time to preserve radio as a means of communicating with the public. If the licenses were revoked, the loss could only be remedied after a considerable lapse of time, because of equipment shortages and the like.

The minority held it could reach no other conclusion than that there had been a clear violation of the Communications Act and that the licenses should be revoked pursuant to it. Declaring it impossible for them to accept the conclusion of the majority that Mr. Perry was "victimized by his agents and counsel", the minority said the record clearly showed he was at all times fully informed as to the general course of the action being followed, if not as to every detail.

Other Charges

Mr. Perry was represented as being the real party in interest, while the officers of the two companies were "merely dummies". The funds were his and "his was the guiding hand".

Pointing out that Mr. Perry was a lawyer himself, the minority said that even if it should accept the majority's conclusion that Mr. Perrys' only fault was his failure to exercise good judgment in the selection of his agents and advisers, "we still could not subscribe to the principle that he should be allowed to retain the fruits of their misrepresentation." To do so, said the opinion, would be "to reward him for his own bad judgment". The statute makes explicit provision for revocation "for false statements".

Even if Mr. Perry could be found free from personal fault, said the minority, "it is seriously to be questioned whether an applicant whose other business affairs are so pressing that he cannot give proper attention to his application, can be safely entrusted with the serious and exacting responsibilities of a licensee." As to the contentions that the communities would be left without radio service in war time in the event of revocation, the Fly-Wakefield-Durr opinion said they could not share the majority's concern that the communities would long be without radio service, "for our general observation has been that frequencies and radio equipment are far scarcer than qualified applicants."

"Moreover," said the minority, "we cannot accept a principle which would in effect mean that when the Commission grants a broadcast station license, the people of the communty to be served are automatically given as hostages to the lisensee to guarantee him against the legal and equitable consequences of his own improper conduct."

'Approval to Fraud'

Then the minority concluded: "What purpose, then does the THREE'S NOT A CROWD when signing a contract as proved by the smiling trio above as they approve the placing of one-minute transcribed announcements five times a week on 126 Keystone Broadcasting System stations by Miles Labs., Elkhart, Ind. for Nervine tonic and Anti-pain Pills. Commission serve by its decision in this case? As we see it, it serves none, unless it is to enable Perry to obtain the benefits of a fraud which has been perpetrated through his agents and to carry it to fruition. Would a court of equity exercise its powers to accomplish such a result? Can a government administrative body charged with responsibility for granting licenses for the use of public property in the public interest afford to do so?

"The present decision not only gives the seal of approval to fraud and deception in this one case, but by promising a shield of immunity to future applicants bent on concealment, invites their recurrence. The issues involved in this proceeding directly affect the integrity of proceedings before the Commission and, indeed, of the administrative process. Consequently, the result of the decision is not limited to its effect on the parties hereto or to the community served by the licensed station.

"In carrying out its functions it is of the utmost importance that the Commission be able to rely on representations made by applicants and the licensees, whether in formal applications, reports filed with it or testimony produced before it. To insist that such representations be worthy of reliance is the least that the Commission should require if it is to have confidence in its own proceedings."

New York AFRA Elects RE-ELECTING Bill Adams as president of the New York Local of the American Federation of Radio Artists, the local also elected Walter Preston, Ben Gauer, Betty Garde, Alex McKee and Ken Roberts as vice-presidents, Anne Seymour as recording secretary and Ned Wever as treasurer. George Heller continues as local executive secretary, a non-elective position.

Cecil Brown Cautions NAB Letter Asks FCC to Relax Rules Curbing the Tenure of Limited Licenses

FURTHER RELAXATION of FCC restrictions on holders of limited permits was proposed in a letter to FCC-BWC Chairman James Lawrence Fly, the NAB said last week, and NAB representatives are taking steps to bring the matter before the Domestic Broadcasting Committee of the BWC.

Mr. Fly wrote NAB President Neville Miller last week that the matter was being studied by Committee IV, and would receive careful Commission consideration.

Need for the new changes in the FCC licensing restrictions was spotlighted at the 17th District NAB meeting Nov. 19-20 at Portland, Ore., when Marshall H. Pengra, manager of KRNR, Roseburg, Ore., said that very few part-time engineers would be able to operate much longer under present FCC emergency rules.

Manpower Problems

He told the 17th District that holders of restricted permits are badly needed in local stations in the face of manpower difficulties. FCC has made them available under Order 91-B, he said, but a restriction requiring that these men pass a theory examination within six months will force many of them to yield limited permits.

The 17th District meeting adopted a resolution urging FCC to suspend theory test for the duration. More recently, the petition has been approved by other NAB District meetings.

NAB officials have pointed out that Order 91-B, permitting holders of third class licenses to operate Class IV (local) stations was adopted May 26. Six months have passed, and the deadline for theory tests is approaching for personnel now serving as limited licensed technicians.

The 17th District petition explained: "These salesmen, program men and other station personnel although already fully familiar with station operation and able to properly perform their duties as operators, nevertheless, due to other demands which are made upon their time in connection with many phases of the war effort, and due to the lack of available personnel at the stations or elsewhere with the time to give instruction in technical details, and due to a certain lack of technical temperament, these operators are not able to absorb the technical details necessary under present requirements to pass the second examination."

The petition expresses "appreciation for the sympathetic and intelligent approach to this and other industry problems shown by the FCC". It refers to Orders 91, 91-A and 91-B which authorized the limited permits.

Although some opposition was reported by BWC in April, when restricted permits were under consideration, indications were that the Domestic Broadcasting Committee would look favorably toward the suggestion.

Labor leaders in Washington said they were aware that it was impractical to expect these parttime men to pass theory examinations in six months, and Lawson Wemberly, International Representative of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said his organization would not oppose the plan.

Industry Contests Report ANNOYED AT the "teaser" cam-paign based on the tag-line "Lucky On Cost of Operation COMPLETE disagreement with the report on recording costs issued by the OWI [BROADCASTING, Dec. 14] was voiced by the Assn. of Recording Studios last week after a special meeting in New York.

The figures as outlined by the OWI for the cost of its recording studios were claimed to be "incomplete and incorrect" by members of the ARS, who again delegated Warren Troob, association attorney, to confer with the WLB and other authorities before the OWI receives another appropriation from the Budget Committee in January.

Figures Incomplete

Continuing to protest against the Government's entry into the recording business through the OWI "to the detriment of small independent studios," the Assn. stated that "even if these figures were correct, in no way can they compensate for the amount of money, time wasted, and vital materials consumed in the duplication of effort, when studio equipment and personnel has been standing partially idle for over two years in this time of crisis.

"Why did not the OWI, instead of this enormous waste," the Assn. queries, referring to the newly-installed and equipped OWI re-cording studios in New York, "do as they did with the shortwave stations-take over the existing studio facilities included among the members of the ARS?"

The association claimed that most of the independent studios have not yet received payment for work done for the Government in August and have had to finance the necessary expenditures themselves; that many independent studios were forced to increase their staffs of union crews to handle the extra recording assignments, without receiving a definite order for work other than verbal commitments.

Lorillard's Plans

P. LORILLARD Co., New York (Old Gold cigarettes), is considering a new half-hour network program to supplement the current weekly CBS Nelson Eddy Show. Robert T. Colwell, radio executive of J. Walter Thompson Co., New York, agency servicing the ac-count, was in Hollywood during the past week to supervise recording of three proposed shows which are being submitted to executives of the tobacco company. Under consideration is a comedy series built around Bill Thompson, character comic feature on the weekly NBC Fibber McGee & Molly Show; a musical with Gene Krupa's or-chestra, and a variety program titled Johnny Mercer's Music Shop. Besides Mercer, the song writer, latter show includes Shirley Ross, actress-vocalist, Freddie Slack's actress-vocalist, Freddie Slack's orchestra and Ella Mae Morse, singer.

Disc Makers Hit Golenpaul Negotiates With Several OWI Record Plan Potentional Sponsors for 'Info Please'

Strike green has gone to war" which American Tobacco Co., New York, started Nov. 9 on the Lucky Strike Information Please program on NBC, Dan Golenpaul, ownerproducer, has informed American Tobacco and its agency, Lord & Thomas, New York, that the program will not be available to them for sponsorship after Feb. 5, 1943, when the contract terminates.

Mr. Golenpaul's office said the catch-line had proved detrimental to the program's effectiveness and that these "teaser" announcements were the main reason for his cancellation of the program for Lucky Strike promotion. Since the campaign began there has been considerable annoyance also among printing ink manufacturers, who definitely refute the impression that Lucky's change in package design has been caused by any shortage of green ink due to the war.

Sponsors Dicker

It was understood that no advertiser had definitely signed with Golenpaul for the Information Please program when it goes off the air Feb. 5. However, several are reported interested, including Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, which has been looking around for a network program for Vimms vitamin tablets for some time. BBDO, New York, the Vimms agency, could make no definite statement, although it was admitted that Lever was discussing the series with Golenpaul.

It was runnored also that if Lever took the show it might be moved to CBS in the Wednesday 9:30-10 p.m. period, with a resultant shift by Lever of The Mayor of Our Town to NBC in the Thursday 7:30-8 p.m. period, to be vacated Jan. 7 by Abbott & Costello for a later period the same evening.

Cost of the Information Please program is $8,500 per week, which may prove a stumbling block for some advertisers interested in sponsoring it.

Several theories have been set forth as to a replacement for the quiz program and its panel of experts by American Tobacco Co., the most prevalent being a musical program with old-time tunes featuring Mark Warnow's orchestra with Lynn Murray's chorus. The show would originate in Carnegie Hall, New York, it was reported, and may start Feb. 12, Fridays 8:30-9 p.m. on NBC, spot now occupied by Information Please. Lord & Thomas would not confirm or deny this report. Some question arose as to the Warnow-Murray combination in view of the fact that they will be part of the main talent on the new NBC show for Westinghouse Mfg. & Electric Co., starting Jan. 10.

Several other sponsors were said to be considering new network programs last week as follows: P. Lorillard Co., New York, for Old Gold cigarettes, a musical half-hour, through J. Walter Thompson Co., New York; Robert Benchley as star of a comedy program for an undisclosed client of C. L. Miller Co., New York; Coca Cola Co., Atlanta, a daytime show to start about Jan. 4 with Morton Downey as star, through D'Arcy Adv. Co., New York, and American Cigarette & Cigar Co., New York, for Pall Malls, may expand its Gracie Fields five-minute show on the BLUE to a quarter-hour five times weekly series, through Ruthrauff & Ryan, New York.

Major Networks to Carry Rendition of 'Command Performance' Christmas Eve

THE ARMY's Command Performance, world's premiere shortwave program, will have its first public showing Christmas Eve from 11 p.m. to 12 m. EWT as a "Christmas present" to the nation.

Elmer Davis, director, Office of War Information, will give a brief explanation of the program, how it has served our fighting forces overseas, and officially "present" it to the domestic audience in behalf of the service men.

To be broadcast on all four major networks simultaneously, the program will feature an outstanding array of talent. As is the case with the regular weekly renditions, the hour-long program will be transcribed and dispatched for broadcast to United Nations troops the world over. The American radio audience will "look over the shoulders" of the men in the armed forces, for whom the program was developed.

Top Talent Scheduled

Artists who will perform in the Christmas Eve event include Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, Red Skelton, Edgar Bergen, Dinah Shore, Ginny Simms, Dorothy Lamour, Ethel Waters, Kay Kyser and his orchestra, and Al Newman and his 20th Century Fox orchestra. There will also be special choral groups.

Fred Allen, Jack Benny and Charles Laughton have wired War Dept. officials they, too, will participate.

OWI offered the program to all four networks, which promptly accepted. The suggestion was made editorially in BROADCASTING on Sept. 14 that there be a gala Christmas presentation of Command Performance domestically on all networks and stations. There is considerable support for presentation of the program to the domestic audience regularly. It has been on the air 44 weeks, but until now has never been heard domestically.

Has Worldwide Audience

The program, in addition to being shortwaved over all available transmitters, is carried by BBC and beamed to the Middle East and to Australia. Transcriptions are flown by bomber to such points as Cairo, New Delhi, Brazzeville, Chungking, Hawaii and Alaska, for rebroadcast. Copies also are going to stations throughout the Caribbean area under British and American domination.

The program is said to have the greatest worldwide audience of any single performance. Talent made available gratis for each week's program, at commercial rates, would cost in the neighborhood of $50,000. Since the programs were launched 44 weeks ago, it is estimated some two and one-half million dollars in talent values have been donated, including orchestras.

14 Drug Firms Included In Bond Promotion Plan

FOURTEEN companies, many of them important buyers of radio time, will participate in the drug, cosmetic and allied industries plan for promotion of War Bonds, the Treasury announced last week [BROADCASTING, Aug. 31, Dec. 7-14].

Plan involves a gift of five per cent of each firm's radio, newspaper, magazine and other advertising, a contribution estimated at $2,500,000. Firms included in the promotion are: Bristol-Myers Co., Miles Labs., Hoffman-LaRoche, Coty, American Home Products, Frailey Products. Sterling Products, Pepsodent Co., Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co., Vick Chemical Co., Gillette Safety Razor Co., E. Fougera & Co., Centaur Co., Weco Products Co.

Phonograph Disc Firm Is Planned by Robbins

TO OFFSET the present situation whereby the recording of hit tunes usually falls to established name bands, making it difficult for upand-coming talent to make a place for itself, Jack Robbins, of Robbins Music Corp., New York, is organizing a phonograph disc firm of his own, recently incorporated under the name of Lion Record Corp.

Defamation Ruling

RULING that a station cannot be held liable for extemporaneous defamatory remarks of a speaker it presents, provided the station exercises "due care in the selection of the lessee of its facilities and in the inspection of the script", Judge Isador Wasservogel in New York Supreme Court last week issued an order dismissing the efforts of the plaintiff, Dr. Emanuel M. Josephson, to strike out defenses offered by WMCA, New York, as its part by of a slander suit. The suit was brought by Dr. Josephson in 1941, at which time the plaintiff was representing the Democratic candidate for mayor, O'Dwyer. Claiming his professional reputation had been assailed by F. H. LaGuardia, incumbent mayor, in a campaign speech broadcast on WMCA, losephson brought suit against La-Guardia, WMCA and several newspapers.

CHARLOTTE'S DISCOVERIES

F YOU HAPPEN to tune in to WQXR, New York, at 10:30 a.m. on Saturdays and Sundays you will hear the pleasant convincing voice of Charlotte K. Demorest talking over her latest apartment or hotel discoveries with her audience.

You will hear a vivid description of the layout, size and rentals, and the exact address of several buildings—given by a native New Yorker with 16 years of professional experience in recognizing a good apartment when she sees one.

Had Failed Before

At the end of the program you will hear the announcer's invitation to write or phone to the station for further information about any of the apartments or about the specific problem any of her listeners might have. And New Yorkers totaling some 3,000 persons have taken advantage of this offer since the program first went on the air April 2, 1941.

agency handling the series, has been placing radio for its accounts on a national scale for many years, and thought that Brett, Wyckoff, Potter, Hamilton, a real estate account, should be able to use radio to rent apartments. This had been tried previously in New York, but had not proven too successful.

To do this, the agency's staff built up a simple five-minute program which was merely the friendly, yet authoritative, voice of Miss Demorest describing apartments she had seen, and answering on the air letters that people wrote in to her concerning their apartment needs.

But before the program could go on the air there was the question of selecting a station. If, for example, one of the 50,000-watt stations in New York were used, the right audience would be reached, but a good proportion of listeners would be far out of the city and more or less useless to Brett, Wyckoff.

On the other hand, one of the lower-powered local stations would reach many who probably could not afford the apartments the firm was trying to rent. A happy compromise was reached in using WQXR, which had built up a quality audience in New York proper by a policy of classical music and other high-type programs.

Rent Worries

When the program started it was rather light and airy with some attempt at entertainment and amusement, but the letters and phone calls that came flocking in to the station showed less interest in the conversation than in such problems as having so much to spend for rent or certain specific worries, as needing to be near schools or different types of transportation. So eventually, Apartments on Parade worked out into a program de-

In July, Miss Demorest first took leave of absence and later on Oct. 15, 1941 resigned from Brett, Wyckoff, to set up a completely non-biased service for apartment renters at no cost to the listener.

Other leading real estate firms participated on the program until there were 30 firms advertising their apartments six days a week. Each of them has been able to trace subsequent leases directly to the program depending upon the amount of participation. For in-stance, J. H. Taylor Management Corp. traced five leases from their first four broadcasts. One large building on Central Park West produced inquiries at half the cost of its newspaper advertising and leases at one-third the cost. London Terrace made four leases in the first five weeks of the 1942 participation and has included Apartments on Parade in its weekly budget steadily since April, claiming that it produces results equal to New York's second most important medium for real estate advertising. This is because Miss Demorest is regarded by the public as an impartial expert rather than the commercial voice from one firm.

As Apartments on Parade draws near the close of its second year, t is being used more and more by he public as a means of getting 'ree advice about not only where out how to live in New Yorkwhether to housekeep or live in 1 hotel-whether to commute-how nuch maid service costs-where o buy furniture-how much and whom to tip-all these questions ire taken up on the program in a judicial, leisurely way.

The advisory capacity of the program is kept up through personal contact between Miss Demorest, her assistants and her listeners. These listeners write or telephone in and receive long and detailed advice on how to look, where to look, how to move, etc. Apartments on Parade is thus carried on the budgets of many real estate firms in this city as an accepted, time tested way of renting apartments. The series has shown another way in which radio can venture into strange fields and produce results if only the program is tailor-made for the product.

reported to have taken any specific time.

In expanding its new schedules, WNEW cut indiscriminately into its commercial commitments to bring the New York audience emergency news roundups of 10minute and quarter-hour duration, in addition to the station's regular policy of five minutes of news every hour on the half hour. Sponsors who relinquished their com-mercial time on WNEW as a courtesy measure to the station's efforts to service the public were I. J. Fox, Howard Clothes, Barney's Clothes, Michael's Clothes, Tappin's Jewelry stores. Grove Laboratories and Canadian Fur. The station also was swamped with requests for time from the moving picture companies and theatres, but managed to sandwich in numerous extra commercial halfhour, quarter-hour and one-minute spots during the days of the strike.

WHN, by coincidence, effective Dec. 14, the day the strike began, had started 50 more news periods per week, of which 46 were signed by a new sponsor, Purepac Corp., New York (Flemex), with Sid Walton handling the broadcasts. The station added no more news periods for the emergency but carried a large amount of the picture husiness.

WINS added four quarter-hour newscasts daily, stressing local headlines as well as national news of importance as collected from the newspapers affected by the strike; WMCA, which already has a news tie-up with The New York Times, merely increased the hourly Times newscasts from three to five minutes; WOR put on a purely local newscast Dec. 14 at 5 p.m. and at 6 p.m. featured Uncle Don reading the more popular comics, which would have been distributed in the metropolitan papers; and WQXR, through its regular schedule of news supplied by The New York World-Telegram, increased the coverage of local news and, as a special feature, presented Mrs. Estelle Sternberger in a condensation of the daily columns in the same paper by Mrs. Roosevelt and Raymond Clapper.

WNYC, New York's municipal station which ordinarily presents one-minute of news every hour, always tuned WFDF Flint Michigan for the Cooking School."

increased that period to five minutes and also added four 10-minute periods of special local news. WOR reported two more advertisers later in the week, when the New York Herald Tribune sponsored a full quarter-hour of news Wednesday morning, and the Saturday Evening Post contracted for 10 one-minute announcements and two chain-breaks. The latter magazine also took three news periods and some participations on WABC.

Warner Bros. joined the parade of amusement advertisers on WJZ, taking over nine one-minute announcements Thursday and Friday to promote "Casablanca" and "Flying Fortress". Agency for Warners is Blaine-Thompson Co., New York, which placed several thousands of dollars worth of business on the local stations during the strike period.

According to Bert Prager, radio director of Donahue & Coe, that agency placed a total of about $15,000 for Loew's, Radio City Music Hall, Capitol and Center Theatres, RKO and 20th Century-Fox. At Buchanan & Co., Jack Wyatt, radio director, estimated the week's expenditures for Paramount's "Palm Beach Story" at $6,000. He stated, also, that only a small portion of the campaign was cancelled Thursday, after the strike was settled, with the majority of the spots continuing on seven local stations despite the sale of newspapers on the stand. Buchanan placed mostly transcribed announcements for Paramount with some live tie-ins, the recordings having been prepared at World Broadcasting System all day Monday to put the announcements on the air by 6 p.m., the first day of the strike.

Several station and agency executives queried by BROADCASTING voiced the opinion that last week's strike may bring about an increase in business for radio from the motion picture industry, which ordinarily concentrates on newspapers for promotion of its features playing at local theatres.

THE EXACT MEASUREMENT OF A FOREGONE CONCLUSION

Advertisers in this rich farm belt already know the selling impact of WTAD. But we wanted a more exact measurement. So we asked the Robert S. Conlan organization to find out . . . through coincidentals in Quincy; through personal interviews outside the city.

In the city-where 10 stations were mentioned-an average of close to half of all the listeners were tuned to WTAD . . . a 127% larger audience than any competing station!

Outside the city, two out of every three listeners reported WTAD as their favorite station - 50% more mentions than the nearest competitior!

Here's another foregone conclusion. Surveys prove it. Unique merchandising campaigns confirm it. WTAD - serving 563,000 listeners in Quincy and throughout the richest farm land in the worldcan make your sales curve jump . . . UP . . . FAST!

CBS Protests Special Authorization Loss of Revenue Permitting WNYC Evening Operation Gets FCC

FLABBERGASTED over the Dec. action of the FCC granting WNYC, municipally-owned station in New York, authority to operate during evening hours under a "spe-cial service authorization", CBS last Saturday protested the grant and asked for an explanation.

Acting in behalf of WCCO, Minneapolis, which it owns, the network asked the Commission to reconsider and vacate its order granting Mayor LaGuardia's station virtually fulltime, in lieu of daytime operation on the WCCO 830 kc. clear channel. It requested the matter be set down for hearing and that WCCO be permitted to intervene

Interference Would Result

CBS pointed out that on Oct. 29, nine days after the Commission had denied the application of WNYC for duplication on the clear channel, the New York station filed application for a special service authorization for operation until 10 p.m. This was granted by the Commission on Dec. 1, with Commissioners Craven and Case dissenting.

Contending there was nothing in the public record which indicated that the facts were any different than those presented at the formal hearing, CBS said it appeared evident the same degree of interference would result from the operation as proposed as would have developed if the original application had been granted. It pointed out, however, that no facts were available, since no explanation was given for the action.

CBS said it was unable to determine whether the factual basis for the grant was based on the same findings adduced following the formal hearing or upon different findings.

Claims Regulations Violated

In citing purported errors in the Commission's action, CBS said the Commission had ordered substantial modification of the license of WCCO contrary to its own regu-lations; that the operation of WYNC as proposed would result in interference; that the order was entered without notice and hearing and results in a clear channel breakdown; and that the action reached a result opposite to that which was reached following formal hearing on essentially the same request of WNYC.

The Commission was asked to hold in abeyance any order permitting WNYC to operate pending consideration of its protest and petition and to vacate the WNYC grant and set the whole matter down for hearing

Should the FCC deny the protest the way would be open for appeal by CBS to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia. In the past the Commission has maintained in litigation that "special experimental" authorizations, which superseded the "special service" authorizations, were not actually licenses but only temporary sanctions and therefore were not appealable.

Study Fly Expresses Concern Over

Plight of Small Stations

ALTHOUGH no positive action was taken last week to relieve the smaller stations who are operating at a loss, it was learned that the FCC is currently studying the 177 stations which lost money last year as well as an additional 100 which just managed to squeeze through the 1941 year.

Until this report has been completed, it is unlikely that Gardner Cowles Jr., OWI associate director, will take any steps. When questioned last week he said that the FCC's report would likely be completed in January.

Situation Acute

Deep concern was still the keynote of FCC Chairman Fly's remarks in discussing the plight of the small stations at his press conference last Monday. In fact, he said, the situation was acute in smaller towns and cities served by a single station since there is "perhaps not a more essential station in the whole structure".

Commenting on tax measures, Mr. Fly said he felt that they may be helpful but added they would not represent a major factor of alleviation. When asked about "uneconomic licensing", the chairman replied that stations are licensed primarily on the basis of serving the public interest. Of course, he said, the capital structure behind any proposed station is considered and pointed out that it must be ample. In justifying the existence of most stations, he observed that very few left the air during the depression and felt this was sufficient evidence to minimize the claim of "uneconomic licensing".

He said that conferences with in-terested OWI officials were being conducted and everything possible would be done to solve the problem. Chairman Fly said that war needs and Government information are dependent upon small stations as part of the mass communications program. He was emphatic about this, saying that news and information must reach listeners "in the forks and creeks".

Contracts of AFRA NAB Convention Plans for Next Year Near Completion To Be Discussed at Meeting of Board

Pacts With 10% Increase to Be Submitted to Networks

AMERICAN Federation of Radio Artists will probably have the majority of its sustaining contracts revised in line with the tentative agreement reached Dec. 3 with the major networks and key stations [BROADCASTING, Dec. 7] and ready for submission to the broadcasters sometime this week, the union reported Friday.

Earlier in the week difficulties in revising some of the 42 individual contracts involved had appeared insurmountable.

Despite the fact that an agreement had been reached on the major point of minimum wage scales, which are to be advanced 10% over the minimums called for in the original agreements signed in 1940. While there are still some points to be settled, AFRA executives on Friday were optimistic about the outcome.

Blue Agreement

Chief development of the week was the BLUE agreement to go along with the other networks on the 10% increase in minimums. The BLUE had originally felt this too steep a boost for a network that was still in its first year of independent operation, especially as the original scales, inherited from NBC, were felt to be higher than the BLUE would have accepted on its own. Further discussions, however, resulted in the BLUE going along with the general agreement.

Question was raised whether the escalator clause in the new contracts, providing for their reopening a year from now if the Government cost of living index has risen more than 10 points from its present level, does not conflict with the ruling of the War Labor Board that there shall be no wage increases of more than 15% above the scale paid Jan. 1, 1941. AFRA explained that the WLB rules only on actual wage increases and that the increases immediately asked for are less than 15%.

If the cost of living goes up more than 10% in the next year and if, at that time, further increases are agreed upon by AFRA and the broadcasters, these will have to be submitted at that time to the WLB, AFRA pointed out.

WHETHER THE NAB will hold its convention in 1943 at all, in the light of war transportation conditions, will be considered by the NAB board of directors at its next meeting in latter January or early February. The convention tentatively is set for New Orleans in April or May, though consideration has been given to a shift to Chicago, more centrally located and where adequate facilities apparently would be available.

Suggestion last week by Joseph B. Eastman, Director of Defense Transportation, that conventions which will not contribute in an important way to the winning of the war should be banned brought from NAB President Neville Miller the observation that the whole matter would be presented to the board. The last NAB convention, in Cleveland, selected New Orleans as the 1943 site.

Mr. Eastman said a number of requests had been received for the Government's attitude on holding of conventions involving inter-city travel. He asserted individual associations must make their own decisions, but indicated that no such gatherings would be justified in view of the war burdens on the transportation system, unless they would help to shorten the war.

May 'Remote' Meet

Expanding war production, larger troop movements, as well as a rising volume of travel on war business would subject the already heavily burdened transportation

DISC FEES STAND SAYS HARRY FOX

RECORDING royalty fees for transcription libraries will probably remain at the current rate of $10 per year per composition per master throughout 1943, Harry Fox, agent and trustee for a large number of music publishers, including most ASCAP publisher members, stated last Friday. He had previously announced, on behalf of his principals, that the fees were reverting to their former rate of effective and the set of the se bis principals, that the fees were reverting to their former rate of $15 [BROADCASTING, Nov. 23]. Reduction in 1942, Mr. Fox explained, had been based on the fact that with the war between ASCAP and the broadcasters just concluded there were many stations which a year ago were not licensed to broadcast ASCAP music. The producers of transcription libraries had asked for a reduction in their payments for recording licenses for that reason, he said, and his publishers agreed to cut the fee by $5 for 1942. Stressing the point that this reduction was clearly announced as a temporary arrangement, with the understanding that the former scale would be resumed when ASCAP music was again in general use by broadcasters. Mr. Fox said that his publishers had felt that this condition had been met and had accordingly announced the reversion to the $15 fee for 1943. lines to heavier strains in 1943, he pointed out. He added that every convention or meeting canceled, even if it would have involved travel by only a comparatively small number of persons, will mean a "decidedly worthwhile saving of transportation facilities and will itself constitute a contribution to the war effort".

The NAB convention usually draws an overall attendance of some 1200, of whom 1,000 are registered from out of town. Many trade groups this year have conducted their conventions by mail, interchanging information, circulating speeches that would have been made and handling other ordinary convention matters, by remote control, including elections.

Mr. Eastman suggested that trade groups, in considering the holding of conventions, ask themselves if the proposed convention "will contribute in an important way to the winning of the war" and whether the gathering will "help to shorten the war". If the answer is no, he added, "I strongly urge that the convention plans be abandoned.

"I realize that I am proposing a difficult test, one which few organizations can pass, but the war demands on our transportation facilities call for this test."

Stanley Crawford, Woodlynne, N. J., honored by the President for suggesting a new type of caliper used at RCA Victor. This caliper salvages 13 out of 16 castings previously rejected, thus saving valuable semifinished material and many skilled man-hours. It has been adopted by war plants throughout the country. Edwin C. Tracy, Rockville Center, N. Y., received a WPB award from the President for suggesting an oscillator to test radio equipment designed for fighting planes. Testing time was thus cut down from 8 hours to 3 minutes. Mr. Tracy's oscillators are now installed, or on their way to every American flying field.

10 Production Heroes 's of the RCA Family

The President of the United States has personally honored ten American workers for contributing outstanding suggestions to further the war effort.

Two of these ten heroes of the home front -chosen from the nation's millions of war workers-are skilled craftsmen at RCA. As a war plant, we are proud to have two winners.

In addition, the War Production Board has selected a total of 142 workers from the entire country as meriting special honor for their suggestions to increase and improve America's war output.

21 of that grand total were men and women who were doing their share at RCA!

To radio dealers, servicemen, amateurs, and radio engineers everywhere, this comes as no surprise. They have seen in a hundred ways over dozens of years, what RCA initiative, imagination, and skill can mean to radio. They have learned that from top to bottom-from engineering to production, from designing to packaging, from construction to pioneering-RCA leads the way in all branches of radio and electronics. When peace returns, they can be certain that RCA will once again prove its leadership-in the development of new and better radio tubes, radio-phonographs, broadcast equipment, and electronic devices, in the perfecting of new production techniques, in the creation of new radio products to serve America's industries and America's homes.

REVISION of the Occupational Bulletin No. 27 which covers the communications industries, including broadcasting, has been postponed as a result of minor changes decided upon last Thursday afternoon at a special meeting between BWC representatives and War Manpower Commission officials.

This week WMC officials are scheduled to consider the essential occupations and the breakdown list of definitions. As soon as these lists have been approved they will be prepared for release to local USES offices for use in guiding local draft boards in the careful classification of broadcasting employes.

News and the War

Stations can't exist for the isolated purpose of news and information without subsidization, FCC Chairman Fly commented at his press conference last Monday. Then he pointed out that this was not the American way of broadcasting.

Audiences must be built up, he asserted, and said this can't be done without the aid of entertainment. To dramatize this point he said that audiences can't be turned on and off merely by the twist of a dial. This comment came from a published report which said that War Manpower Commission officials were primarily concerned with the broadcast of news and information relevant to the war effort.

Explaining the FCC's position, Mr. Fly said that all positions essential to the requirements of "continuity, stability and security" will be recognized.

Barbasol Co. to Sponsor Singin' Sam on Mutual

BARBASOL Co., New York (shav-ing cream), will again sponsor Singin' Sam, who some years ago became known to radio listeners as "The Barbasol Man", before going to Coca Cola Co., Atlanta, as a recorded feature on stations throughout the country. With the AFM ban on transcriptions eliminating the possibility of producing new discs of the musical feature, which included orchestral accom-paniment, Coca Cola dropped the series at the termination of the last contract.

Barbasol will start the program on Mutual Jan. 4, as a live feature Tuesday and Thursday, 8-8:15 p.m. on a 52-week basis. The station lineup has not been determined. The company also sponsors a Sun-day quarter-hour newscast by Ga-briel Heatter on 45 MBS stations and on Dec. 4 started John B. Successful Series Of NAB Sessions Miller Sees Benefits From Exchange of Viewpoints

HAILING the 1942 series of NAB district meetings, which covered an eight-week period, as "the most successful ever held", NAB President Neville Miller reported to his membership last week that all attendance records were broken.

Total attendance at the meetings was 1,485, comprising owners and employes of stations, representa-tives of Government departments and agencies, and others interested in radio. There were 456 stations represented, of which 340 were NAB members and 116 were nonmembers. Those making the entire trip, including President Miller and spokesmen for several Government agencies, traveled a total of 10,307 miles, it was stated.

Exchange of Views

The primary purpose of the meetings, Mr. Miller announced, was to discuss war problems and they afforded an excellent opportunity for broadcasters to meet with representatives of all the Governmental agencies involved. He said broadcasters gained a clearer understanding of how they could assist constructively in the war effort. Conversely, he added, these Government representatives obtained from broadcasters some appreciation of their problems.

"On every side we heard expressions of appreciation for the wonderful cooperation given by broadcasters to every Government department, campaign, and war activity," Mr. Miller added. "Broadcasters have made a splendid contribution to the war effort and have reason to be proud of the record they have made."

Mr. Miller, upon his return to Washington Dec. 11, conferred with FCC Chairman James Lawrence Fly and reported on the series of meetings, which began Oct. 18 in Philadelphia and wound up Dec. 10 in Boston.

COCA COLA PLANS OVERSEAS TROUPE

REPORTED PLANS of the Coca Cola Co., Atlanta, to send an orchestra overseas to entertain American troops have not been approved by the War Dept., it was learned. A War Dept. spokesman in Washington indicated the Coca Cola Co., had submitted such a proposal through D'Arcy Adv. Co. last Thursday but that no action had been taken. D'Arcy representatives in New York declined comment.

It was learned, however, that prior to submitting the formal proposal Coca Cola, which sponsors Parade of Spotlight Bands [BLUE, 9:30-9:55 p.m.] informally discussed with the War Dept. a plan to send a six or eight-piece band overseas, the unit to be headed by a well-known musician.

In view of Coca Cola's contribution to soldier morale through its present schedule of Spotlight Bands and since the firm has purchased a 12-hour period on the BLUE to air the bands from Army and Navy camps and stations Christmas day indications were that the War Dept. would look favorably on the proposal.

Entertainment of troops abroad has been a primary problem with Special Services Division, charged with keeping up soldier morale. A group of prominent movie, stage and radio stars already has gone overseas and plans contemplate further entertainment along that line.

Kate Smith Show Cut to Half-Hou Distribution Problem, Ratio Threat Causes Change

IMPENDING rationing of fooproducts in addition to the dif ficulty of distributing Jell-O and Jell-O puddings are the reason for the decision of General Food Corp., New York, to cut down the 55-minute Kate Smith program of CBS to a half-hour, effective witl the Jan. 8 broadcast. Four New Products Standard Brands, New York, following a board of directors meeting last week, has announced the introduction of four new prod ucts on the market, the purchas. of Standard Margarine Co. of Indianapolis and various promotions for its executive personnel, it was revealed by James S. Adams, president of Standard Brands.

The four products are: Fleischmann S B Vitamins Yeast Tab-lets, which will be distributed through the grocery trade; Stams, a new multi-vitamin and mineral tablet; Stan-"B", a vitamin B complex tablet, and Sted, a cereal beverage, which can be added to coffee to make it go further. Full details on the media to be used to introduce the products have not yet been worked out, but the company reported that test announcements will be made on Standard Brands network programs, and some spot announcements will be tested in selected markets outside of New York.

Ownership of Standard Margarine by Standard Brands will take effect prior to Jan. 1, subject to legal and accounting clearance. The company and its subsidiaries make margarine products and salad dressings.

The board of directors also approved the following personnel changes: Dr. Theodore Sedlmayr, vice-president in charge of research of the company, was elected vice-president in charge of manufacture, purchasing and traffic, and a director, succeeding the late John W. Luce; Chester A. Barth, former regional manager of the Pacific Coast area, was elected vice-president and general sales manager, and Philip S. Lord, former Philadelphia regional manager, was made field sales manager.

plication, showed total current assets of approximately $15,000,000.

That part of the application filed for General Tire stated that the company was interested in engaging in the business of broadcasting and has the facilities and ability to conduct the operations in a manner that will serve public interest, convenience and necessity.

"It is expected," said the application, "that the goodwill accruing to the transferee in the rendition of a high quality broadcast service to New England, will not only have its own reward in advertising revenue, but will materially contribute to the goodwill accruing to other business operations of the transferee in this territory."

Yankee has been on the block since last summer. The elder Shepard and his two sons, John 3d and Robert F., have represented the ownership of the Yankee organization.

The Shepard family several years ago disposed of the Shepard stores in Boston. This also was presumed to be part of the effort of the elder Shepard to convert his holdings to liquid assets.

Son Manages WJW

While General Tire has no direct interest in broadcast station ownership, William M. O'Neil, son of the company's president, is the sole stockholder of WJW, Akron, which he also manages. The station on Dec. 2 was authorized by the FCC to move its new transmitter from a point midway between Akron and Cleveland 14 miles closer to Cleveland, which it will serve as a BLUE outlet operating on 850 kc. with 5,000 watts fulltime.

It is understood that, in addition to the Messrs. O'Neil, John Shepard 3d and Linus Travers, executive vice-president of Yankee, will serve on the new board of directors along with other unnamed executives of General Tire.

General Tire, an old line company which originally used radio a decade ago as sponsor of Jack Benny over an NBC network, is one of the leading entities in tire manufacturing. While the elder O'Neil is the founder of the company, he is not the principal stockholder. The company's stock is widely held, with the O'Neil family (Mr. O'Neil, Mrs. O'Neil, five sons and a daughter) holding only a minority interest.

A number of proposals for the network have been considered, it was learned, since it was first disclosed last summer that the property was for sale on a cash or equivalent basis.

Post-War Expansion Planned

M. H. Aylesworth, first president of NBC and now an attorney in New York, is understood to have offered to purchase the network and the four standard broadcast stations, but not the FM adjuncts. His offer, it was understood, was in the neighborhood of $800,000.

Mr. O'Neil, in a press release, said that post-war America is going to be "an entirely new America, with increased manufacturing capacity and facilities, entirely changed methods of merchandising and advertising, a tremendous buying power and an even higher standard of living."

With this in mind, he added, General Tire is making plans now for post-war expansion with chemists, research engineers and scientists in other fields already having developed a score of new products and materials and hundreds of new uses for known products and materials. Yankee, he said, covers a "great section of the United States completely".

Provides Proving Ground

"It provides us with a proving ground for our new merchandising plans and our new merchandise. The Yankee Network has a long and distinguished record of achievement in radio. It has grown and prospered under excellent management and we expect to retain that management and the existing personnel under the new setup. Through the network we expect to tell the people of New England of the scientific advancement which has been made in recent years in synthetic rubber and in other new materials as yet unknown to the public. We expect to retain all of their fine entertainment features and the excellent news reports which have marked the Yankee Network in years passed."

While General Tire until the war confined itself to rubber manufacturing, the company stated it converted almost overnight into war work and is now making bombs, barrage balloons, Navy barges, life boats, reconnaissance boats, life belts, gas masks and many other war materials in addition to tires for Army and Navy planes and for all types of military land vehicles.

BERNICE PRESTHOLDT, receptionist of CBS Hollywood, was recently chosen "Sun Valley Girl" to represent that Idaho snow sports resort. Her photograph is being featured in national magazines this month.

scribed dramatic narrations, Construction Goes to War, is currently being presented by 37 major radio stations and two regional networks to give the public some conception of the size and importance of the nation's 35 billion dollar construction program of the war.

The broadcasts tell the story of the building of naval bases throughout the world for American fighting ships, how airfields are laid out from which the sky attacks are launched, and how huge industrial plants and army cantonments are built. Each program features a brief message from top-ranking Government officials, such as Lt. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, Commanding General of the Army's Services of Supply, and Rear Adm. Bureau of Yards and Docks manning General of the Army's Services of Supply, and Rear Adm. Ben Moreell, chief of the Navy's Bureau of Yards and Docks. Written, directed and narrated by Hardy Burt, of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, who is also a commentator on industry and the war, the series has been produced by Sound Studios Inc., Washington, for the Associated General Contractors of America, Washington.

Army Jobs to WAACs

RADIO mechanics, operators and control tower operators are among 25 job classifications in Army Air Forces to be taken by the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, the War Dept. announced last week. Plans for training WAACs to replace men needed for combat duty are still incomplete, although it was learned that in some cases private industry and schools probably will be called upon to assist in the educational program.

Extend War Insurance

MONEY and securities may now be insured against war damage under protection of the War Damage Corp., Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce announced last week. Eighty-five or more casualty and surety companies have been commissioned to act as fiduciary agents of the War Damage Corp., Secretary Jones said, and policies will be issued through local insurance agents or brokers.

Boston Orchestra Plans

BOSTON Symphony Orchestra. now affiliated with the American Federation of Musicians [BROADCASTINO, Nov. 30] and signed for a Saturday night series of broadcasts on the BLUE [BROADCASTINO, Dec. 7], has signed a new long-term recording contract wiht RCA Mfg. Co. to make Victor Red Seal records at such time as the AFM may lift its present ban on recording. The Boston Pops Orchestra, which will do a summer series on the BLUE, has signed an exclusive recording contract with RCA-Victor.

OLSON RUG Co., Chicago, through Presba, Fellers & Presba, Chicago, has added Music Lovers program on WCFL, Chicago, to its current schedule, in addition to Concert Hall series on WJJD, Chicago. This makes a total of 13 hours per week of classical music now sponsored by the concern.

RADIO INSULATORS ARE DEPENDABLE FACTORS

Lapp's contributions to radio broadcast engineering are recognized as highly significant in the advance of the science. Because Lapp developments have been wholly pioneering in nature, it has been necessary to maintain complete testing facilities. A MERE blizzard and a tree across the lines from the studio to transmitter can't keep WWVA, Wheeling, off the air. Recently, when a fallen tree disrupted the line beyond immediate repair, Chief En-gineer Eddie Keim and his staff improvised a temporary studio in the new 50,000 watt transmitter building, and resumed broadcasting from there. Transcriptions and copy were moved to the trans-mitter, 12 miles from the studios, and WWVA announcers and entertainers worked from the improvised studios until the line was repaired some 12 hours later.

William J. Dempsey Is Named by FCC In KOA-WHDH Supreme Court Appeal

FOLLOWING its petition to the Supreme Court seeking a review of the decision of the U. S. Court of Appeals in the so-called KOA-WHDH case, the FCC last Wednesday announced appointment of William J. Dempsey, former general counsel of the FCC, as special counsel to handle the case before the highest tribunal. In undertaking the assignment Mr. Dempsey declined compensation.

The FCC on Dec. 12, through the Dept. of Justice, filed its petition with the Supreme Court for review of the lower court's opinion of Sept. 12 reversing the Commission's decision in this hotly contested case involving the right of hearing and directly related to the breaking down of clear channels through duplicated operation. The lower court, in a 4-2 opinion, held the Commission had erred in not giving NBC, licensee of KOA, the opportunity to intervene and present testimony.

Station Rights

It held, moreover, that by whatever name it may be called, a broadcasting station has a definite right acquired through its operating license and that the Commission cannot temper with or degrade a station's facilities without according it a hearing.

WHDH was authorized to operate fulltime on the 850 kc. clear channel, on which KOA. Denver, is the dominant station. WHDH subsequently became a BLUE outlet.

The Commission announced it had designated Mr. Dempsey to assist in the preparation and presentation of the case to the Supreme Court. This presupposes that the highest tribunal will grant a writ of certiorari, which is done in most Government cases. The Commission said the case involved the validity and interpretation of the Commission's intervention rule, which was adopted while Mr. Dempsey was general counsel of the Commission. Mr. Dempsey, along with William C. Koplovitz, assistant general counsel, resigned from the Commission in May 1940, to enter private practice in Washington. They had amassed a record of 36 cases in the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals without a reversal.

In its petition, the FCC held that the questions presented were whether the granting of the WHDH application constituted a substantial modification of the license of KQA, or otherwise affected KOA's rights as a licensee so as to require that the Denver station be permitted to intervene in the proceeding's and, if so, whether KOA was denied any substantial right of participation in these proceedings.

There were five separate opinions in the case in the lower court, four of the six judges concurring in the view that stations are entitled to hearing practically as a matter of right when they can show substantive injury. Although the court reversed and remanded the Commission, agreement was reached under which the NBC plea for a stay order would not be pressed and the existing assignments on the 850 channel would be permitted to stand until Supreme Court adjudication.

Assignments Affected

In addition to WHDH, the FCC has authorized WJW, Akron, to operate on 850 kc. with 5,000 watts, and to move to Cleveland. Thus, if the Supreme Court sustains the lower court, both WHDH and WJW would be required to vacate their assignments. WJW also is slated to become a BLUE network outlet.

In citing its reasons for appeal, the Commission said the uncertainty resulting from the diverse views in the opinions expressed by the lower court calls for the exercise of the Supreme Court's power of review. It stated that it was difficult to determine what is required of the Commission on the remand and that the Commission could not with assurance follow an intervention procedure which will command the approval of the majority of the members of the lower court. It cited the differences in view expressed by the judges of the lower court in the five separate opinions.

Variance Below

Moreover, the FCC held the questions presented are important in the construction and administration of the Communications Act, again citing the extent to which the opinions below were at variance.

The petition for review was signed by Charles Fahy, Solicitor General, and Charles R. Denny Jr., FCC general counsel.

New Overseas Waves

THE FCC has allocated two additional frequencies, 7805 and 7935 kc., to the international broadcast service for the duration. at request of the Board of War Communica-tions. These frequencies are available for assignment to zone and inter-zone police stations.

The broadcast transmissions will be intended for reception outside the continental United States, and as most of the police communica-tions on these frequencies occur during daylight hours, it is not ex-pected that police service will cause any interference to the in-ternational broadcast service, the FCC stated.

OWI's Eisenhower Is Sent to Africa Davis Discloses That Others Are on Overseas Missions

SPEAKING of radio communication with Africa, Elmer Davis, OWI director, told his press con-ference last Wednesday that the situation is "far from satisfactory as yet, but improving" both as to incoming and outgoing connections. He expressed a hope for expansion of service and said that facilities would likely be improved "within a couple of weeks".

During the conference he confirmed the fact that Milton Eisenhower, associate director of OWI was in Africa, explaining that his mission was dual, concerned with OWI problems as well as with the problem of refugees in the American controlled areas. With the presence of Mr. Eisenhower in Africa it is now established that at least two representatives of thc agency are there working on OWI's problems, since Murry Brophy has been known to be there for several days

Corderman Takes Post

Mr. Brophy's post as chief of the Comunications Facilities Bureau is being handled in his absence by Roy Corderman of his engineering staff.

Also off on undisclosed missions are James Weldon, engineer of Mr. Brophy's bureau, and Harold Guinzburg, chief of the Outpost Bureau. They went at different times to London but their ultimate destinations were not made known.

Mr. Davis reported that since Dec. 8 OWI has been transmitting a daily hour of news in French to Africa as well as 21/2 hours of news and entertainment for the troops. Some of the material transmitted to Africa is rebroadcast on the Algiers radio, the OWI chief said. In fact he cited a recent news broadcast of the Algiers radio consisting of 21 news items of which 13 were prepared and transmitted by OWI.

Although the Morocco radio situation is "still somewhat obscure" Mr. Davis maintained he has received a communication from Mr. Eisenhower which definitely estab-lished the fact that charges of French interference were groundless. He asserted there has been "no prohibition of the use of that radio". Reasons for the failure of OWI representatives to use the station are still not known, he added.

MORNING MERCHANDISE-ABLE AREA

This is a market of 2,471,713 radio homes. The people who live here buy more drug and grocery products than are sold in the five boroughs of New York and the city of Chicago combined. A constantly increasing number of advertisers have found the morning audience a profitable field for exploitation over WLW, the dominant radio station in the area.

FROM TELEVISION'S ALBUM OF PROGRESS

Felix the Cat had a bewildered look on his face in 1929 when he swung around for hours on a phonograph turntable in front of television's early scanning disks. Felix's image was slashed into 60 horizontal lines-60 streaks of light and shade. Engineers of RCA watched the antics of Felix as he was tossed through space to receiving screens. They realized that all streaks and flicker must be removed.

Scientists of RCA Laboratories abandoned mechanical scanners and developed an allelectronic system of television, featuring the Iconoscope and Kinescope, electronic "eyes" of the radio camera and the receiving set. Motors and high-speed disks were eliminated both at transmitter and receiver. Electronic television became as quiet and fool-proof in operation as a home radio set.

By 1936, the number of lines per picture had been increased to 343, with marked improvement in quality. But the research men still were not satisfied. They continued to experiment, and to develop new equipment, for finer pictures of 441 lines. Before Pearl Harbor, 525-line television pictures were on the air from the NBC station atop the Empire State Building.

The streaks had vanished. Television at last had the texture of rotogravure. Now, faces and scenes are photographed directly from television screens without betraying the presence of scanning lines.

Brought to life by electronic tubes, and given wing by radio, television emerged from RCA Laboratories to reveal its practical usefulness. Today, knowledge gained from years of television research is contributing vitally to the war effort.

Recognizing the importance of television as a post-war industry and useful public service,

> RCA is continually pioneering in the science of radio sight. Television's album of progress has only begun.
