WOR IS CARRYING MORE SPOT BUSINESS MONTH AFTER MONTH THAN ANY STATION IN GREATER-NEW YORK

Digging under the more obvious reasons for WOR's popularity with America's smart timebuyers, our sleuths conveniently boil the facts down to these: (a) WOR conscientiously drives your message deep into the minds of hundreds of thousands of men, women and children in 16 of America's most war-active, industrial cities of more than 100,000 people each. (b) WOR is today-and has been for months-attracting 10 to 15% more listeners than it did in 1942. (c) The spending power of the people in the great area covered by WOR has increased 19% in the past 12 to 15 months.

Conflicts Arise As 3-Hour Limit Is Applied

TO CLEAR up the special problems of stations with dual network affiliation arising from the new FCC rules, MBS has called meetings of those of its affiliates who are also affiliated with another nationwide network: Eastern stations to meet in New York on June 22 and western in Chicago on June 29. There are 49 such stations: four affiliated with both MBS and CBS, 10 affiliated with both MBS and NBC, and 35 affiliated with both MBS and the BLUE.

Otherwise, network affiliates are generally accepting the revisions in their network contracts necessitated by the new rules, according to network station relation executives. Late last week CBS reported that more than 90% of its affiliates had acknowledged acceptance of the revised contracts. NBC said that although its letter detailing the contract changes to stations required no answer, a number of NBC affiliates have written to voice their continued allegiance to NBC.

The BLUE, many of whose affiliates met last week in district sessions called by their representatives on the BLUE's station advisory and planning committee to give the stations a chance to ask questions and to eliminate any remaining misunderstandings of the effects of the rules, described the meetings as completely friendly and reported that contract acceptances were coming in at a rapid rate.

Midwest Problem

Arthur Church, member of the CBS affiliate advisory board for the midwestern district, called a special meeting of his group in Omaha last Tuesday to discuss changes in the relationship of these station with CBS following the application of the new rules. Chief problem was that of the noon hour which CBS has asked the stations to option for network programs. A number of midwestern broadcasters, especially those catering to the farm audience, were unwilling to option this time. which is at present largely devoted to market reports, news and other farm service features. J. G. Gude, CBS station relations manager, attended the meeting, following which it was reported that most of the difficulties were ironed out on an individual basis, the same as they had been handled under the old contracts in which all station time was optioned to CBS.

The peculiar problems of the dual affiliates also arise mainly from the limitations on network option time set by the Commission, which prohibit an affiliate from optioning more than three hours of time in each of four segments of the day: 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., 1 to 6 p.m., 6 to 11 p.m., and 11 p.m. to 8 a.m., all times those of the location of the station. "Such options," the regulation states, "may not be exclusive as against other network organizations and may not prevent or hinder the station from optioning or selling any or all of the time covered by the option, or other time, to other network organizations."

This means that a station may give options for only three hours in any of the four periods for network programs, whether of one, two, or three or four networks. Hence, a station with dual network affiliation cannot option more than three hours in each period altogether, and although he may option all three hours to both networks he cannot option three hours to each network unless the option times are identical.

In other words: a station affiliated with both the BLUE and MBS might option 7 to 10 p.m. to the BLUE, as requested by that network. If MBS asked for a different evening option period, say 8 to 11 p.m., the station could grant Mutual an option only for 8 to 10 p.m. without violating the terms of the regulations.

Tube Plan Would Expedite Set Repairs GLASCOCK NAMED WRC SALES CHI

Rigid Control Studied To Break Jam of Orders

MORE RIGID control over production of vacuum receiver tubes. including maintenance and repair tubes for civilians, will probably be started by the WPB before July 1. it was learned last week. The new control is designed to break a jam of highly-rated military orders that threatens to choke out civilian receiver tube production for the remainder of the year and complicates prompt fulfillment of urgent war orders.

A study of the military orders is now being made by Capt. William A. Gray, chief of the Electronic Tube Section of WPB, in an effort to determine how many of the military tubes are urgently needed. In recent months, tube manufacturers have reported large numbers of new military orders which apparently would tie up the entire industry for many months.

Situation is Unsatisfactory

The situation is unsatisfactory to both military and civilian representatives, since the huge backlog of orders means urgently needed types may not be delivered on time. Anxious to insure against "too little and too late" of the right kinds of tubes, Captain Gray plans to determine actual month-to-month military tube needs and to prepare monthly production schedules which will include civilian needs.

Since consideration of the schedule has only begun, there is as yet no indication of the number of tubes civilians may get. Only certainty is that under the old preference rating system, civilians almost certainly would have been left out entirely, while under the over-all scheduling proposal, there is hope that some tubes may still be made for civilians.

In adopting such a scheduling plan, WPB would abandon the old system of preference ratings under which military orders, with their high ratings assuring precedence over civilians, were handled in turn by manufacturers. The new scheduling system will insure that most urgent needs are met first, Captain Gray explains.

McIntosh, Whiteside Watch

A crisis in tube production apparently came to a head within the last two weeks. For several days, WPB buzzed with rumors that civilian production was "out". Finally, it was reported that Arthur Whiteside, WPB Vice Chairman for Civilian Requirements, had taken a hand in the situation, and was considering a directive to insure some tubes for civilians.

Frank H. McIntosh, chief of the WPB Domestic & Foreign Broadcast Branch, is the representative of non-military tube users in all scheduling discussions. It is understood that Mr. Whiteside's office will back up his efforts to insure maintenance of home radio on a workable basis.

Some sources feel, however, that under the proposed scheduling system no such directive is needed. The decision to reschedule production, probably allowing civilian tubes at least a share of the facilities has been advanced as a longterm answer to the problem. Civilian tube production until now has been fitted into manufacturing capacity not used to fill military orders. As the situation shaped up at the Vacuum Tube Advisory Committee meeting in Washington late last month, there would have been none of that margin available.

In describing his scheduling idea, Captain Gray explained that it was closely linked with recent steps WPB has taken to insure efficient distribution of tubes. Officials of the Radio & Radar Division recently issued an order L-265, to insure that tubes intended for civilians reached only civilians [BROADCASTING, June 7]. With L-265 in effect, tubes scheduled for civilians in the future would be marked "MR". Since L-265 makes it illegal for distributors to use "MR" tubes to fill rated orders, whatever tubes are made for civilians are almost certain to reach their proper destination.

Military officials are as enthusiastic about L-265 as civilians, reports indicate. High Army and Navy officers strongly oppose sale of tubes to military agents in the field by distributors. They point out that regular channels insure ample tubes for military use. By purchasing from distributors, they hold, the services pay much more for the merchandise, may get military rejects, and at the same time deprive civilians of tubes they should have.

Despite dire predictions for civilian tube production, Captain Gray indicated that the situation would not be permitted to get out of hand. He pointed to figures showing that production ran from two to three and a half million tubes monthly in recent months. He said it was probable that certain types now reported scarce would be produced, and that most of the 117 types recommended by Mr. McIntosh would be available if over-all scheduling is adopted. In addition, he said, many commercially acceptable military rejects would be given civilians.

Tube manufacturers have renorted that the chief obstacle to vastly increased production of 1eceiving tubes is the manpower shortage. WPB surveys show that the industry is running at only about 50% of capacity, since manufacturers have found it impossible to recruit women for night shifts. One way of overcoming this, officials said, would be for firms to follow the lead of at least one company that has many of its components assembled in "booster" plants, erected outside tight labor markets.

Network Rules Attacked in New Book

Practical Phases Were Ignored, Robinson Points Out

SOMEWHAT anti-climactic because it does not cover the momentous Supreme Court decision of last month in the network cases, Thomas Porter Robinson's book, Radio Networks and the Federal Government, published last week condemns the FCC's network-monopoly regulations as failing to meet the problem in a "realistic and far-sighted manner consistent with the public interest."

The 278-page volume [Columbia University Press, $3.50] in comprehensive fashion covers network broadcasting and its relationship to the Government up to the time of the nework appeals to the Supreme Court, decided in favor of the FCC. The author, while concluding that Government regulation of broadcasting is necessary and that some degree of Federal regulation of the social and economic aspects of broadcasting is desirable in the public interest, nevertheless holds that the Commission went too far.

Practicalities Ignored

Aside from failing to meet the problem, the writer concludes that the regulations were "discussed and weighed in an atmosphere of acrimony and intense partisanshipan atmosphere alien to an intelligent and calmly deliberated plan." By outlawing exclusive option time as against another network and by drastically curbing network ownership of key outlets, Mr. Robinson tells, the regulations "disregard the practical requirement that a network organization under our present system must be permitted to secure with as much certainty as possible the willingness of the individual sovereign stations to broadcast the same program at the same time."

The author finds, morcover, that the intent to promote greater competition in the broadcast field is in the public interest, the regulations as a means of accomplishing this "are ill-advised because they foster the wrong type of competition and will result in a chaotic condition of economic rivalry between networks for the same stations, which is destructive to chain broadcasting." The regulations, he contends, tend to freeze a technical situation which is dynamic and do not give sufficient weight to the potential possibilities of the radio spectrum. In this regard, the author suggests that synchronization of networks on two or three 1-A channels is a post-war prospect and a challenge.

"In conducting the investigation and in formulating the regulations, the Commission failed to explore the possibilities of making a greater supply of frequencies available for network broadcasting in the standard broadcast band through a re- spe orientation of its allocation and "ar licensing policies." said

Synchronous System

Discussing possibility of synchronization on a common frequency, Mr. Robinson drew upon previous experimentation dealing with synchronous or common frequency operation. Delving into the future, he sets up a hypothetical situation in which a national network is licensed on two or three clear channel unlimited time frequencies. Network stations operated synchronously on one of these frequencies at a particular time would broadcast an identical program. The great majority of transmitters would be simply relay transmitters, operated at low cost.

Pointing out that the Communications Act states that the Commission shall "study new uses for radio, provide for experimental uses of frequencies and generally encourage the larger and more effective use of radio in the public interest," Mr. Robinson said that when the war is over "broadcasting will stand on the threshold of a dynamic future. Only through opening our minds and exploring the challenge of this expanding science can the possibilities of that future be fulfilled."

While attacking the extreme nature of the regulations, the book does not support in their entirety the contentions of NBC and CBS. Although the "dire results predicted" by these networks with reBACK FROM FOREIGN news front, Edward R. Murrow, CBS European news chief, now in New York on a brief visit, brought with him this photo of the CBS London news staff (above, 1 to r), Murrow, Paul Manning, John Daly and Bob Trout. Murrow was welcomed at a luncheon at the Ambassador Hotel attended by radio executives and press representatives. Seated beside him as he addressed the group are (left) Paul White, CBS director of public affairs, and (right) Frank Stanton, CBS vice-president. Murrow will return soon to London to join his Columbia confreres in that busy war center.

spect to the option time regulations "are undoubtedly exaggerated," he said, "some form of exclusive option time as against other networks is, in the writer's opinion, a practical requirement in our present system of chain broadcasting."

Sees Domination

Mr. Robinson reaches the "inescapable" conclusion that the broadcasting industry in the United States "is dominated by NBC and CBS." Breaking up of this domination, promoting what the Commission believes to be the most desirable type of competition in the broadcast field, abolishing present contractual restraints in the network-station market, and speedily opening the door of opportunity to Mutual and to new networks "were the principal reasons behind the Commission's reform movement," he states.

"Asserting there is no quetison that more competition of the right type in network broadcasting is desirable, Mr. Robinson, however, holds that the FCC's regulations are destructive to chain broadcasting itself. The real answer to the competitive problem, he writes, is "a greater available supply of frequencies for commercial broadcasting, which in turn would result in a greater number of national networks."

Refuting the FCC's assumption that there is a severe lack of frequencies for commercial broadcasting, he declares scientific research has increasingly enlarged the number of usable radio frequencies and the process will continue. He points to FM and television and their use of the microwaves as signs in this direction and cites statements of leading engineers.

In his concluding chapter, titled "Looking Forward," Mr. Robinson says if there were no broadcasting industry in this country today the accepted first principles would include advertising as the major means of financing broadcasting; maintenance of both individual stations and networks; Government assignment of frequencies and power; Government regulation of networks, and exploration of the feasibility of synchronous operation of networks on common frequencies.

Lauds Transcriptions

Transcriptions are given a boost by the author. Declaring they are highly developed today and are equal to live talent programs, he says the national networks tend to insist that this is not the case, that the public demands live talent and would turn away from a so-called "dead program" on a transcription. In some respects, he holds, transcriptions are actually superior to live broadcasts. The best time for the performance can be chosen and the finest performances can be selected for presentation. The artists can be entirely fresh and at their peak; acoustical conditions can be better controlled; and the difference in time as one proceeds across the country presents no difficulty because simultaneous broadcasting is not required. Finally, with the development of the Miller film, a method of transcription using a narrow strip of film rather than a disc and operating on the principle of a moving picture, editing is made possible before the broadcast.

Because they can now compete on equal terms with the "live" show and because they represent the form of competition most greatly feared by a chain organization, Mr. Robinson declares the use of transcriptions is "generally discouraged." He cites former network restrictions in this connection, mentioning NBC's refusal to allow outside concerns to make off-the-line recordings of conmercial programs.

Mention also is made of the Petrillo ban on transcriptions and recordings, in force since last August. "If this ban is permanently enforced," says Mr. Robinson, "the damage that will be done to the broadcasting industry and the impairment of public service to the people that will result will be very substantial. In the writer's judgment, the action of Mr. Petrillo is so contrary to the public interest that Congress, if necessary, should step in and see that this dictum is rescinded."

BALTING RE

GREAT SHIPBUILDING CENTER

Whether the "ships" of the future sail the seas or fly the air, Baltimore is in a position to build those ships better, faster, and cheaper--because of the accessibility of raw materials and the availability of a pool of skilled and trained workmen.

Baltimore has the greatest tide water steel plant in the world. Coal, power, and fuel are easily accessible. There are established lumber and plastic industries in or near the city.

Inevitably there will be a post war demand for new and faster ships. Inevitably there will be a demand for great transport and cargo planes such as are already being planned by Baltimore's Glenn L. Martin Company.

Baltimore's present leadership in this field will continue-and continue to grow.

Groups Projected

Conference Board to Insure Cooperation Is Planned

IN A MOVE to bring about a closer cooperation between various branches of the entertainment industry engaged in war work, plans were advancing last week towards the formation of a Conference Board of the Entertainment Industry for War Activities. Idea for the group, which would serve as a clearing house for the war activities of various agencies including BMI, ASCAP, creative radio guilds and other organizations in the amusement field, grew out of a two-day meeting of representatives who convened in New York June 3-4 as the National Conference of the Entertainment Industry for War Activities.

'Pool of Resources'

One of the proposed functions of the board, as presented by Ilka Chase, actress, to the National Conference, would be the creation of a "pool of resources" through voluntary enlistment of all members of the entertainment industry, who would agree to be drafted into any kind of participation in the war effort requested by an authorized entertainment agency.

War services would be subject to contractual obligations, would be limited to period of time specified by the individual, and would be paid for by the entertainment agency according to standards mutually established by agency and trade union. Plan would not preclude services on a free and voluntary basis, however. Enlisted personnel would include members of all professional fields of the four major groupsmotion pictures, radio, stage and music.

First step was the approval by Conference members of a Continuations Committee to proceed with the organization of the Conference Board. Radio figures named to serve on that Committee were: Neville Miller, (or designee), NAB; George Heller, AFRA; William Fricke, Assn. of Advertising Agencies; Anita Grannis, AFRA, Virginia Payne, AFRA, and Lawrence Tibbett, AFRA president. Committee named a special group to draw up a statement of purpose to be submitted to organizations which might participate in the Board. Members of the subcommittee included Walt Dennis, chief of the news bureau, NAB.

NAB is the first agency officially to signify its intention of participating in the conference board of the entertainment industry for war activities.

Joint War Effort NBC Defaults Hearing, Allowing WJW Newspaper Group By Entertainment And WHDH to Break Down 850 kc. Wave Plans Retail Study

OPERATION OF WHDH. Boston, and WJW, Akron (now moving to Cleveland) on the 850 kc., clear channel of KOA, Denver, practically by default, was made possible last Friday when NBC, as licensee of the Denver station, stated it did not desire to participate in hearings scheduled by the FCC following the Supreme Court decision in favor of NBC-KOA.

This action followed denial by the FCC the preceding Tuesday of a petition by NBC to postpone the hearing involving the breakdown of the channel until six months after cessation of hostilities. The Supreme Court had held KOA had not been accorded a proper hearing and the FCC had scheduled hearings for June 30.

In its brief petition last Friday, NBC said it believed that the public interest would have been served by granting its postponement petition. For the reasons it had set forth, NBC added that "it does not desire to participate in the hearings" but that it "fully reserves all rights to participate in any hearing pertaining to operation by the applicants in any manner other than that specified" in the applications.

NBC, in its petition filed following the Supreme Court's ruling, asked the Commission to postpone until six months after the war the consolidated hearing involving the Boston and Cleveland stations and stated that until the Commission's final decision after the postponed hearing, NBC would consent to the unlimited time operation of WHDH and WJW as proposed in their applications.

NBC pointed out that the May 10 Supreme Court decision in the network cases gave the FCC authority to promulgate the chainbroadcasting regulations. As a network company and the licensee of individual stations, including KOA, the petition said NBC is placed in an equivocal position regarding further proceedings in the KOA case. WJW, it pointed out, is an applicant for use of 850 kc. at Cleveland, while NBC is licensee of WTAM. Cleveland. Under Section 3.106 of the regulations, Cleveland, which now has only three fulltime stations, may be considered a "locality where the existing standard broadcast stations are so few" as to justify the Commission in refusing NBC further licenses for WTAM unless an additional station is assigned to the Cleveland area.

Affects Rural Listeners

"It thus appears that though NBC's interests in the Denver station would be adversely affected by a grant of the WJW application, NBC's interests in its Cleveland station would be protected by the same grant. NBC is further placed in an equivocal position by the fact that both WHDH and WJW will be affiliated with the BLUE Network, which, like NBC, is a subsidiary of RCA."

"NBC does not wish to be put in the position of causing strategic construction to lie idle during wartime while it litigates the broad and continuing question of national service from clear channel stations," the petition added.

Finally, NBC said important technical developments will occur in broadcasting when the war is over. These developments, the petition held, would offer the people of Boston and Cleveland additional service without the necessity of depriving any rural listeners of service from KOA. By the same token, under peacetime conditions, the 850 kc. clear channel may be used to bring to rural listeners improved service through the use of higher power. Neither the Boston-Cleveland need for service now nor present wartime restrictions upon the full development of KOA's potentialities "should be allowed to work a permanent distortion in the broadcasting allocation structure," said the petition.

NAEA to Name Committee to

Standardize Promotion

DOUBTLESS inspired by the successful development of the radio retail promotion campaign, menibers of the Newspaper Advertising Executive Assn. attending the group's wartime conference at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York, last week, authorized the appointment of a committee to explore the retail field and set up a standardized promotion plan for use by newspapers.

H. H. MacLean, manager of retail sales for Scripps-Howard Newspapers, was named chairman of the committee, whose other members had not been appointed at the conclusion of the three-day meeting. Although most details of the plan are still to be worked out, it was understood that the proposed study will cover the entire retail field, including chain stores as well as department stores and specialty shops. Neither Mr. Mac-Lean nor Irving Buntman, secretary and treasurer of the NAEA, were willing to estimate the amount of money that carrying out this plan will entail or whether it will be more or less than that being raised by the radio retail promotion committee headed by Paul W. Morency, WTIC, Hartford.

May Ration Ads

A discussion of the probable effects of further restrictions in newsprint at one of the NAEA session disclosed the general feeling among larger newspapers that in such an event they would have to begin rationing their advertising space, while the smaller papers felt that in their case another cut of 10% in newsprint would be followed by an increase in advertising rates. Of the papers represented at the meeting only a few reported that they have already instituted rationing of advertising space or made any plans for doing so. Rate increases reported were also relatively few.

The need for more creative selling on the part of newspapers was stressed by Ray H McKinney, president, American Assn. of Newspaper Representatives, who cited radio as an example of successful idea selling.

CBS Issues Booklet to Explain New FCC Rules to Advertisers

Affiliates' Right of First Call on Net Shows Held To Maintain Usual Buying Method

IN A BOOKLET explicitly titled CBS network commercial business "Questions and Answers for Advertisers and Advertising Agencies Concerning the New FCC Network Rules," issued last week by CBS, the network gives a layman's summary of the rules followed by 12 questions and answers arising from those rules. Advertisers are told:

(1) The new rules will not jeopardize their present network progranis.

(2) The rules do not "cut loose" network stations from their network affiliation; despite the stations' right to give non-exclusive options to other networks, each CBS affiliate "continues to depend on CBS for between 40 and 65 hours each week of non-commercial programs which are vital to its broadcasting schedule."

First Call Policy

(3) As permitted by the rules. all networks now give first-call on all of their programs to each of their affiliates. Labeling this policy "important," CBS states that "as long as it is maintained by all networks it means that there should be no change from your usual method of buying network facilities. It provides a protection against the ill effects of non-exclusivity rule which we had previously feared.

"The first-call policy," CBS continues, "protects the great majority of network clients from any handful of advertisers who might otherwise compel the inclusion, in their network hookups, of the most powerful stations of other networks, thus leaving available to other network advertisers inferior networks comprising only the smaller and weaker stations. It likewise protects the smaller station on one network from loss of husiness to the more powerful station in the same market.

Advertiser Protected

"It further protects a new advertiser on one network from finding himself blocked out of numerous key markets during choice time periods because important stations on the network of his choice had been offered and were broadcasting the programs of another network."

(4) Showing the time CBS has put under option with its affiliates [BROADCASTING, June 7], the network explains (5) that the option hours were chosen on the basis of previous demand by advertisers and (6) that while the option gives the network a right to take over time held by a local or spot advertiser, which belongs to the station, not the network, in non-option hours. "in practical operation the result may be the same [since] many of our stations have expressed the desire to continue to carry as much as possible."

(7) Advertisers will have to order time for new programs 56 days in advance of the starting dates "only if you want a guarantee that every single station on your hcok-up can start with the first broadcast. Otherwise no," says CBS.

(8) Advertisers can theoretically create their own "private networks under the new rules in time not occupied by sponsored network programs, but, says CBS, "only if both the advertisers and the stations are blind to their own interests-and neither group seems at all inclined toward such blindness. This process of making strong . . . stations stronger and weak stations weaker would so impair the structure of American radio that we doubt whether the FCC, under the broad powers which it has, could allow it to proceed unchecked."

(9) Guaranteed time for local programs can be purchased from stations outside of the network's option time, if the stations will sell it on that basis.

Special Services

(10) Stations not affiliated with CBS may be added to CBS net-works for clients only "provided all of the CBS affiliates which serve the area in which the non-CBS station lies are also included in the advertiser's hookup.'

(11) CBS states that it expects no greater rate of turnover of station affiliations as a result of the limitation of contracts to two years.

(12) CBS emphatically declares its intention to continue its public program operations and its service to advertisers through program and

RADIO DRAMA TOPS CROSSLEY SURVEY

DRAMATIC PROGRAMS are now the most popular, according to a study of the competitive standing of four types of programs on four major New York stations, released last week by the WOR-Crossley Personal Interview Continuing Study of Radio Listening in Greater New York. Quiz programs, which have usually topped the list in past sur-veys, take second place, while dra-matic shows lead with 34.5% of the listening audience, as compared with Pearl Harbor days, when they had a rating of 24.8. The question and answer programs are now rated at 33.8%, as compared to the 30.1 figure from the November-December survey in 1941. Reversing a downward trend since this country's entrance into the war, musical programs now at-tract 26.7% of the audience, as against 20.9% reported for the against 20.9% reported for the September-October 1942 period. Women's participating programs drew 17.2% of the listeners in the March-April period, indicating an upward trend. This type of show had declined following the summer of 1942, when it hit 20.7.

sales promotion, research, merchandising and publicity, but adds that "more than ever this network service, which has helped to make American radio the finest radio in the world, will depend on the understanding cooperation of advertisers and affiliated stations."

NEWEST APPROACH to the roundtable quiz is heard on WOL, Washington. It is based on a finding of a New York Times survey disclosing that few Americans know American history. Hugh Russell Fraser, historian who conducted the survey, and Walter Compton, WOL-MBS commentator, evolved the program formula. Titled A Date With a Date, it features two U. S. Senators and two Representatives on each program. Two "regular" experts are Representatives Coffee (D-Wash.) and Vorys (R-O.). Show is to go on Mutual soon. Around the table are (1 to r): Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), guest; Mr. Fraser; Mr. Compton; Senator Eastland (D-Miss.), guest; Rep. Coffee; Rep. Vorys. Announcer Bill Jefferav is in background.

WLW Aid Given Pharmacy Schools

Seven Scholarships Granted To Assist Drug Stores

TO HELP RELIEVE the manpower shortage in the retail drug industry and to improve conditions in the trade, seven one-year scholarships will be underwritten by WLW, Cincinnati, in each of the seven schools of pharmacy in the station's primary area.

Announcing the project, R. E. Dunville, vice-president of the Cros-ley Corp., explained that "WLW is making this direct effort to aid the pharmacy schools within its primary area as an inducement to worthy young persons to enter pharmacy as a career, especially those who might not otherwise have considered this career."

Citing the great need for pharmacists, particularly in smaller drug stores, Mr. Dunville pointed out that proprietors cannot do the merchandising job that would be possible with additional competent assistants. This situation, he said, may have contributed as much as any other factor to the diversion of drug store sales to other fields.

WLW officials feel that with sufficient study and aid given the problem, pharmacy will become more attractive as a profession as it becomes more lucrative, especially with respect to operation and ownership. During the last two years the station has been working through intensive aid to the state pharmaceutical associations in its primary area.

John E. Randolph, director of trade extension for WLW, will handle details of the grants. The program has received endorsement from the deans of the various schools. Candidates qualified to receive the scholarships are now being selected.

ITS NAME is radio advertising. Its most fertile field is Detroit. Its most effective carrier is WWJ.

If you are fortunate in having something to sell today, it is easy, over WWJ, to offer it to the largest and most responsive portion of Detroit's teeming, thriving population.

If you have "nothing to sell for the duration," it is similarly easy—and comparatively inexpensive to keep the name and merit of your product memoryfresh . . . toward the day when the bars again are down, and Detroit's peacetime greatness promises to exceed anything you have ever before witnessed.

There are more than two million people in this compact area. There are more than 550,000 factory workers here—with an estimated average weekly earning of $58.63. The per capita purchases of War Savings Bonds (backlog for tomorrow's buying era) are larger than in any other city.

And, WWJ is, by actual survey, the most listened-to radio station in this great market. Tell your story in Detroit now—over WWJ.

IRE Takes Stand Against K-P Bills Plan to Mobilize Engineers Regarded as Unnecessary

OPPOSITION to the enactment of the Kilgore-Patman bills (S-702 and HR-2100) to establish an Office of Scientific and Technical Mobilization was expressed in a resolution adopted at the June meeting of the board of directors of the Institute of Radio Engineers.

The IRE took the position that the technical resources and particularly the radio facilities of the nation are now working efficiently in the war effort and that the legislation would result in confusion. The resolution follows in full

40 FM Applicants Seek Reinstatement To Keep Files Pending Before the FCC

ALL EXCEPT about 10% of the pre-war applicants for FM stations, whose applications were frozen April 27, 1942, under the blanket memorandum opinion, but who were authorized to apply for reinstatement last February, have taken advantage of the FCC's action.

FM Broadcasters Inc. last week said that FCC records showed that 40 pre-war FM applicants had sought reinstatement of their applications under the automatic proviso. The applications, under the FCC's ruling of last February, are being kept in the pending file until after the war and then will be acted upon, eliminating the need for filing of new detailed forms.

Following is the list of companies, together with standard broadcast station identity, if any, shown on the FCC records as having filed for reinstatement:

HEALTH MESSAGES AIRED BY LYSOL

REPEATING its timely radio health warnings in the Midwest's receding flood area last week, Lehn & Fink Products Corp., New York, placed 100-word announcements on stations in the affected region, urging the use of Lysol disinfectant. The company placed a sim-ilar campaign in June 1942 in East-ern Pennsylvania, its agency, Len-nen & Mitchell, New York, preparing the copy and rushing through the schedule less than an hour and a half after it received the "go-ahead" from Lehn & Fink [BROADCASTING, June 1, 1942].

In the recent flood emergency, Lysol announcements were broad-cast at frequent intervals during the day, warning householders to destroy bacteria as the receding destroy bacteria as the receding flood waters left germ-breeding mud in their wake. Stations used were WMBD, Peoria; KFPW, Ft. Smith, Ark.; WKMO, Kokomo, Ind.; WBOW, Terre Haute; WOWO, Ft. Wayne; KMOX, St. Louis; KFVS, Cape Girardeau, Mo.; WKRO, Cairo, Ill.; KVOO, Tulsa, and KLRA, Little Rock. Lysol salesmen in the area also distributed handin the area also distributed hand-bills warning of epidemics and made sure local retailers were well supplied with Lysol disinfectant.

Stations Assist

With flood waters almost receded in the six-state disaster area, reports have been received about the part played as flood information centers by two stations in Missouri and Illinois.

KXOK, St. Louis, recently com-KAOK, St. Louis, recently com-pleted its comprehensive coverage of flood conditions in the St. Charles section. Harry K. Renfro, news editor, in cooperation with the U. S. Coast Guard, broadcast direct from the scene of catastro-phe, and with Engineer Al Gordon, used recording and someta equip used recording and remote equipment to broadcast the news and to help in the evacuation of families. News commentator Virginia Davis flew over the region in a civil air patrol plane to broadcast her impressions of the flood on KXOK.

At Jacksonville, Ill., WLDS, at the request of the governor, mayor, and local Red Cross disaster committee, gave hourly river stage announcements and announced the procedure for orderly withdrawal from flood-threatened Beardstown and later return to the city. The station helped find homes for evacuated persons and helped to re-unite separated families. To report the news accurately, E. J. Korsmeyer and Edgar Parsons toured the flood area and the station arranged a series of interviews with levee workers and evacuees.

Freed Hails FM

CITING the growth of FM as a "perfect example of the free enterprise that is part of the foundation of the United States," Arthur Freed, vice-president of Freed-Eisemann Radio Co., in a recent letter to radio dealers, urged them to "carry on the FM consumer education job for the duration" while manufacturers are concentrating exclusively on war production.

WNEW Sells Radio a la Carte^{*}

WNEW has a program menu that's 24 hours long, and as varied as pot-luck at the Colony. We're well aware, as some one said, that "One man's meat is another man's poisson." So, whatever the product, we have a program that will sell it — made right here on the premises.

We're experts in New York taste — its purse and its palate and our menu is printed in plain New Yorkese . . . That's why WNEW's audience is larger than some New York stations all of the time and all New York stations some of the time — network and local.

GRIMES SEES FAST GROWTH OF VIDEO

ALREADY as advanced as radio was in 1927, television will develop into one of the great industries of the post-war period, it was pre-dicted by David Grimes, vice-president in charge of engineering for Philco Corp., in an address June 7 before the New York Institute of Finance.

Mr. Grimes foresees rapid ex-pansion of existing facilities im-mediately after the war and de-velopment of television networks to make programs available over wide areas. Growth will be facilitated by research speeded to meet emergency war needs, he said. "The next big job," Mr. Grimes declared, "will be to develop radio links so that television programs can be 'beamed' through the air from city to city and thus make the nation's outstanding entertainment and news events available for people to see in their own homes." With the principles of successful link operation already established, he pointed out, all that remains is to extend present facilities to additional areas.

Describing Philco's contributions to television, Mr. Grimes cited the emphasis on a greater number of lines in television pictures to provide greater sharpness and clarity and the development of alternate carrier synchronization as among the most important.

NAB Gives Views On Congress Bills White-Wheeler Plan Favored; Federal Subsidy Opposed

TWO RESOLUTIONS-one endorsing legislation at this session of Congress along the lines of the White-Wheeler bill to safeguard freedom of radio and the other expressing opposition to any form of Government subsidy for advertising, but urging no discrimination between the press and radio-were adopted by the NAB board of directors June 3-4 at its extraordinary session in Washington.

The full texts of the resolutions follow:

White-Wheeler Bill

The Board of Directors of the NAB unanimously endorses the state-ment issued by its special committee in Washington, D. C., on May 19, 1943, especially the conclusion therein stated that the Supreme Court deci-sion of May 10 gravely jeopardizes the maintenance of a free radio in Amer-ica

In furtherance of its position, the board points out that the success of any broadcasting station has depended upon the degree to which it served the will and wishes of its listening public in the character and content of its programs. Management has therefore been extremely sensitive to the ex-pressed wishes of its public. The Supreme Court decision says "It (the law) puts upon the Commis-sion the burden of determining the composition of that traffic." Thus the determination of the character and content of programs is transferred to a single Federal appointed agency, re-more from the people.

This power to determine what shall be the character and content of radio programs, by its mere existence and not necessarily by its exercise, consti-tutes an abridgement of the right of free speech guaranteed under the First Amendment.

It is obviously the responsibility of the Congress to review the present law in the light of the Supreme Court decision and to enact legislation under which the functions and powers of the delimited and clear; and the right of the American people to collaborate with stations in determining the broadcast needs of their community. state and nation is restored.

Bankhead Bill

Whereas, the broadcasting industry through the NAB has opposed the ac-ceptance of Government funds for advertising or the acceptance of Gov-ernment loans or subsidy in any form,

Whereas, there is before Congress today proposed legislation which pro-vides for the expenditure of Government funds for advertising in news-

Now, therefore, be it resolved, that the board of directors of the NAB re-affirms its former actions but does now take the position that if Congress con-templates such legislation every effort lowed by mede to cose that there he no should be made to see that there be no discrimination as between the press and radio or any other media of com-munications and,

Be it further resolved that the board of directors direct its small stations committee to determine what class or classes of stations should receive such advertising and take such other action as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this resolution. provisions of this resolution.

Omega Continues

OMEGA CHEMICAL Co., Jersey City, is continuing its advertising through the summer for the first time in a number of years. Omega Oil is ordinarily promoted in the fall and winter, as in the past season, when four stations were used in the October to April period. The summer campaign advocates the liniment for war workers unused to manual labor, and for sore muscles resulting from strenuous week-ends. He knew too much about the Japs!

For fourteen years, W. R. Wills was Tokyo correspondent for CBS and editor of the anti-Axis paper, "Japan News'Week." Came Pearl Harbor and Wills was arrested, falsely charged with espionage, thrown into jail. He knew too much!

When prisoners were exchanged, Wills came home on the Gripsholm...home to St. Louis and, of course, to KMOX. Now Mid-America listens to KMOX every morning at eight to hear Wills report, digest and analyze the news (sponsored six days a week by Ward Baking, through J. Walter Thompson).

Such service is the part of the KMOX tradition. The KMOX news room is one of the most complete in radio. The KMOX Downtown News Post is always a popular center for news-hungry St. Louisans. Pouring into the news room and to this News Post are the world-wide news reports from CBS (which TIME calls, "the most adult news gathering organization in radio"), the complete services of both the major news associations and the 'phoned-in reports of a local staff of top-flight reporters.

The way KMOX handles news is the way KMOX handles music. And drama. And comedy. It's polished, surc-footed, professional KMOX-radio, 24 hours a day. It's what has made KMOX The Voice of St. Louis and of over 800,000 radio families throughout Mid-America.

Mr. Erich Brandeis Promotion Director International News Service 235 East 45th Street New York, New York

Dear Mr. Brandeis:

Having had the pleasure of receiving service from INS for the past three years we think it is about time that WFDF expressed its appreciation to INS for the splendid cooperation and excellent service we have been enjoying.

WFDF first got into the business of broad-casting news back in 1933, when the first radio news services were created and I believe that the fact that we are now exclusively using INS speaks louder than anything that I can say.

Your service excels particularly in the splendid Michigan coverage and the lively relationship that exists between the WFDF News Bureau and your Detroit staff.

In all of our relationships INS has been tactful, ethical, and generally on-its-toes.

Cordially yours, sward Loet Thank you we Rock HMLoeb mc

War Aid Rated In OWI's Guide

Program Priorities Suggested By Philadelphia Office

A REGIONAL RADIO Priority Guide, covering radio placements longer than spot announcements by all Federal agencies, the American Red Cross and Council of Defense, is being tested in the Philadelphia Region by the Office of War Information.

For the purpose of investigation, the new plan is being tested by the radio stations in Philadelphia territory, and if successful may be made available to OWI regional offices throughout the country.

Programs Rated

Howard Browning, regional director of the OWI in Philadelphia, and Stanley Broughton Tall, regional radio director, in announcing the Guide, said that since many stations wish to devote time over and above that consumed by the basic OWI plan, the stations "might like to know our opinion of the relative importance of the various government campaigns being carried on at the moment.

"We have tackled the problem very much as we tackled our first experiments with the spot announcement packet," said Mr. Browning and Mr. Tall. "Every government agency has been consulted and asked to submit for rating all campaigns for which it desired radio time during June. Each campaign has been weighed in terms of its importance to the war, the resistance it faces, the number of persons it affects, the support previously given it, and its timelinees."

While there is nothing mandatory about the Guide, the OWI feels that best contributions can be made by the stations by following the Guide as closely as possible—first care being given to those programs classified as "Essential," then allowing time for the "Important" programs, and finally to the "Useful" ones.

Many subjects are recommended only for certain districts. A handful of subjects are refused clearance. This has been done after consultation with the War Manpower Commission, whose duty it is to balance the many demands for man and womanpower. Some important subjects which can be adequately handled in the spot announcement packet are omitted from this list. However, some subjects covered by the Guide will also be handled in the Regional Spot Announcement Packet.

The Guide, which is wholly voluntary, also has the approval of Dr. Leon Levy, president of WCAU, Philadelphia. who is the regional radio consultant for the industry in the Philadelphia area. In a supplementary memorandum to all stations in the district, Dr. Levy urged that they adopt the Priority job. Miss Schwartz had been with WBBM since 1938, and is known for her accomplishments in social welfare groups and the School Broadcast Conference. She has been public service consultant for the OCD 6th Civilian Defense Region.

WLB Issues Suggestions On Wage Determinations

SUGGESTIONS for determining area wage rate brackets, and applying them in adjusting wages "to the minimum of the going wage bracket" were sent by the War Labor Board to its regional offices last week. The bracket will be the range of wages, from minimum to maximum for a given occupation in a given market.

According to WLB instructions. raises in so-called "substandard cases" are not to exceed the minimum figure in a bracket, and in correcting gross inequalities adjustments above the minimum will be made only in rare cases. In voluntary wage adjustment cases, regional boards may give approval up to the minimum rate. Firms will be expected to produce evidence that they comply with War Manpower Commission regulations governing recruiting, training and utilization of labor and work the minimum wartime work-week.

Guide, stating: "If you are going to give time for the war, you want to give it where it will do the most good—certainly not where it will be wasted or do harm."

The entire Pacific Coast is less than 25 miles away

The Pacific Coast is more than 1,100 miles long; it's big...sprawling...mountainous. Over 2,886,330 radio homes are located in cities surrounded by mountains. If you want to reach all of these people by radio, you have to release your message close to the markets, for the mountains (5,000 to 15,000 feet high) make long-range broadcasting unreliable. Not until THIS happens . . .

Not until your product moves across the counter has spot radio—or any other advertising done its job.

Selling spot radio is—to us—far more than just quoting minute availabilities.

Our interest starts with the color of the label and the name on the package—and follows through until the goods roll over the counter.

During the last ten years this policy has won the confidence and trust of agency men and advertisers.

First Easy Lesson

THIS WEEK (June 15) the FCC's network regulations become effective. The public won't notice the difference. Network schedules will remain about the same. Top-rated programs will be keyed from the same studios and heard over the same wavelengths. Advertisers will be paying the same rates; talent will draw those fancy figures.

So, people ask: "What's all the shooting about?"

It's hard for broadcasters to give a quick answer. Radio functions by split seconds. But the story of the Supreme Court's new radio philosophy and its effect upon the freedoms can't be told that fast. Till now radio didn't. know how to tell it; the industry's public relations have been bad.

June 15 deserves a spot on radio's calendar as a day for sackcloth and ashes, marking the loss of its freedom. The Supreme Court opinion gives the FCC the right to regulate network broadcasting in a manner never contemplated by Congress. But infinitely more important it gives the FCC control over the "composition of the traffic" over the air. That purely and simply means control over programs. The FCC hasn't yet invoked that authority. The network regulations are the first easy lesson.

Why has all this developed when there hasn't been a murmur of complaint from the people who, after all, are those to be served? What has been radio's failing? It has the loudest and most enticing voice ever devised by man. It has sold the war effort; culture, religion, entertainment, enlightenment, Government, politicians, bonds, fats, scrap metal drives, peace and the whole range of commodities and services. But it has never sold itself.

Politicians with axes to grind and bureaucrats grabbing for control of this most powerful and effective of media shriek about the "radio monopolies" and about an industry rolling in wealth. One good-sized department store on Main Street in any good market will do more in turnover than any of the networks. Sears-Roebuck, or perhaps Macy's, will top the whole group combined.

The politicians howl in terms of Radio City, with its multi-floored studios, marble halls, escalators, rubber-neck tours and uniformed guides, as monuments to radio's suddenly acquired wealth. Untold is the fact that Radio City is a Rockefeller real estate development, that the networks simply are relatively small rent-paying tenants, who have sold Radio City, but not themselves. All down the line people are led to believe that a station license is a key to the mint. Even the FCC personnel believe and resent it.

What they don't realize is that radio didn't just develop fullbloom overnight; that it took sweat and toil and plant investment and foresight and gamble and losses to start in business. Latterly, too, it may have taken some political pressure, but that's boomeranging.

They don't realize that radio is the most hazardous business extant; that stations hang on the slender thread of license renewal at two-year intervals; that they live by the whim and caprice of an agency of seven men, any four of whom exercise control. Under the Frankfurter opinion those four men can do anything at will, provided a hearing is accorded. They have but to say that "a larger and more effective use of radio" will accrue in the public interest in decapitating a station, whatever the reason.

All this has happened while Congress, charged with the responsibility of carrying out the will of the people, has stood by. For 16 years Congress hasn't acted on any substantive change in the radio law. Compare radio of 1927 with radio today!

Meanwhile, the executive and judicial branches have moved in. They have legislated where Congress has failed to act. The legislative power, under democratic precepts, belongs to Congress alone. So let those who seem to have an abiding faith in our administrative processes continue to take time by the forelock. They have but to look at a succession of broken promises to learn that nothing happens in Congress unless there is the incentive, the inspiration, and the will.

Radio must have a national policy. It has the commando job at this stage, for all the media of expression. The newspapers, not yet directly attacked but next in line, should heed the warning. Control of "Composition of the traffic," by Government fiat, is not an idle phrase restricted to radio. Newspapers carry traffic, too. So do the other media.

Radio can't have its national policy until the legislative pattern is set. The time is now; the place Washington; the industry on the firing line---radio.

... And More

UNMATCHED by any of our enemies or allies was the audience of 100 million citizens whom the Government could count on to turn to their radios—not just hope that they would.

This valuable weapon Uncle Sam didn't have to build, says Young & Rubicam in an institutional advertisement, for it had been built over the course of years by American business. Moreover, it could not be duplicated quickly, no matter how much money was spent.

Today, Young & Rubicam reminds, "the Government knows that 25 to 30 million people will listen to Fibber McGee & Molly-23 to 25 million to Lux Radio Theater-23 to 27 million to Jack Benny-and so on down the list." After listing some of its own clients' efforts on behalf of Uncle Sam, Young & Rubicam says that sponsors, agencies, stations, and all connected with radio are ready to do whatever is required-and more.

That "one weapon" was built by a private, free, competitive broadcasting industry. War programs didn't have to get ratings or build audience—they had them. Could it have happened anywhere else in the world?

Clean Hands

WHERE'S Jimmy Petrillo these days?

Chicago's gift to the I-don't-give-a-damnabout-the-public brand of labor leadership lately hasn't been very much in the public eye. But his ukases against this and bans against that continue, with the 10-month-old strike against records and transcriptions still in force.

Though there hasn't been any fuss about it, Jimmy recently served notice that one Government agency won't be allowed to make public service transcriptions available for local sponsorship, that an educational program using music over an FM station is out, and that certain sustaining recordings for international shortwave stations to be beamed to troops overseas are taboo.

On the record, however, is a neat bit of handling by Dick Shafto, clear-thinking head of WIS, Columbia, S. C. The other day his station was invited to pitch in on the second coast-to-coast scrap record drive during July, as have all stations. A letter from Bob Hope, the comedian, as president of Records for Our Fighting Men Inc., may not seem so funny to Bob now.

Mr. Shafto noted that on the RFOFMI letterhead are listed some 60 show-business personalities, most of them bandleaders and recording artists, who haven't recorded a note since Jimmy waved his czarist baton last August. The RFOFMI campaign is for collection of old phonograph records to be sold for cash, with the returns used for new records for our armed forces.

"It would be interesting to know," wrote the WIS manager to Mr. Hope, "whether any of these members (of AFM) have raised a voice against the recording ban edict of James Petrillo which is preventing our men overseas from getting 'many more new records.' Unless and until such protest is heard, I cannot regard your group as coming to the broadcasters with clean hands when you request our cooperation to relieve a deplorable situation of your own creation."

Dick, we think, has a point.

We Pay Our Respects To - Personal

WARREN PYATT WILLIAMSON JR.

but in the creation of a horseless carriage for the average pocketbook, he was putting within easy reach of a dreamy-eyed boy not a fait accompli, but a spark. The boy, Warren P. Williamson Jr., now president and general manager of WKBN, CBS affiliate in his native Youngstown, O., took Mr. Ford's spark-the spark-coil from the Ford car, and with a conglomeration of junk, galena, catwhiskers, and rubber bands under the vibrator, actually concocted a "wireless" transmitter that produced a musical tone.

ENRY FORD never knew it.

The thrill of producing a mechanism that would send soundwaves through the skies was superseded in the mind of 13-year-old Warren only by the uncanny event which even today remains as the greatest thrill of his life. For, whether by design or accident, Warren con-tacted a fellow "ham" operator fiddling with another set clear at the other end of town! Back in 1913 that was quite an achievement, particularly for a 13-year-old youngster.

The urge to dabble with jallopies came natural to Bill, for his father was in the carriage business in Youngstown and in the early 00's developed a one-cylinder horseless model. Later he went into banking and real estate and Warren likes to recall how his father scoffed at his plaything of coils and gadgets. The elder Williamson is treasurer of WKBN Broadcasting Corp. but acts only in an advisory capacity. Bill's great grandfather had settled in Youngstown in 1790, entering the town by ox-cart.

Of course, ever since that summer's experimentation, it was a foregone conclusion that young Bill was headed for a career in radio. The makeshift transmitter turned out to be the first step in the solidly-built career of a sincere and progressive broadcaster.

Bill proceeded to build and operate wireless station 8KT in Youngstown-disbanded during World War I but later reconstructed in a downtown Youngstown office building to provide emergency communication between a steel mill and its downtown offices when labor difficulties resulted in the burning of a large part of East Youngstown, now Campbell, O.

The fascinating thing called radio stayed in Bill's blood and through the remaining high school years he pursued his interest, eventually traveling to Chicago where he passed the Government exam for "first" commercial operator's license in the summer of 1918.

In September of that year the Intelligence Division of the Army enlisted his special qualifications for duty on the Mexican Border. Honorably discharged a year-anda-half later as a master signal electrician he envisioned the future opportunities in radio and increased his knowledge through further study at the Universities of Michigan and Wisconsin.

Out of college, Bill went to work for Republic Iron and Steel in Youngstown, learning the basic industry that today comprises the major market for the station of which he is president. Not once during the three years he was learning the steel industry did Bill neglect his interest in radio, continuing to operate his amateur station, now 8AXJ.

Because commercial radio in a city under 200,000 wasn't profitable in the early 20's Williamson did the next best thing and organized a radio electrical service company, combining radio service with the distribution of radios and other electrical equipment throughout Eastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania. By 1926, however, Youngstown seemed ready for its own station and Williamson wasted no time in securing a Federal license authorizing WKBN with a power of 71/2 watts.

In 1929, the station, now grown to 500 watts, joined CBS and a year later Bill dropped all outside business connections to devote fulltime to the operation of the station. Following a well-planned program since that date, Bill patiently nursed the station over the years into the enviable position it holds in Eastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania today-5,000 w. fulltime on 570 kc.

"If it's worth doing at all, it's worth doing well." This is Warren Williamson's creed and in the operation of the radio voice for his community Williamson has persistently followed that belief to the point where little time was left him for other than station development.

Outside of the office, however, in addition to his home and family, Bill Williamson's special hobby is candid photography. Prior to the War he used to get a kick out of driving his Ford Mercury, a far cry from the rattletrap Ford which provided that original "spark" in starting a long career in radio broadcasting.

Bill is a past president of the Ohio Assn. of Broadcasters, a member of the Youngstown Board of Education, a 32d degree Mason, a Shriner, a member of the Elks and of many business associations in Eastern Ohio.

He is married to the former Isabel DeNio. They have two children, Barbara, 18, and Warren P. Williamson III, 13.

KANSAS WAR INDUSTRY Covers 23 Million Acres

FARMERS—the richest, buyin'est folks in Kansas open a new war production drive on a 23 million acre front. Inspired by last year's bumper crops and profits, they go "all out" in '43 to seriously challenge the acreage of any state in the Union.

FARMERS in Kansas (and all surrounding states) are unswerving friends of WIBWdepending on us for news, markets, helpful service and relaxing entertainment. And they show their appreciation by BUYING the goods and services of WIBW advertisers in volume that leaves sales managers walking on air. Investigate this amazing market and "natural" sales medium.

"COMING, MR. REINSCH!" says WSB's newest secretary. She just happened into the studio and the manpower-haunted personnel director snapped her up as undraftable, unWAACable and unWAVEable. Hour later she joined the BABES. (P. S. She's daughter of Bill Prance, WSB farm director.)

BEAU BRUMMEL TIES Inc., Cincinnati, has started a weekly quarter-hour transcription on WOR, New York, highlighting the exploits of AP's war cor-respondents. John B. Kennedy, commentator of WNEW, New York, serves as narrator for the series, the first of which dramatized the adventures of Larry Allen, who reported on the bombing of the carrier Illustrious and the sinking of the Galatea. Program started June 8, in the Tuesday, 7:15 p.m. period. Agency is Key Adv., Cincinnati.

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., and Philip Morris & Co. All of these companies excepting General Mills and Philip Morris were also in the "Top Ten" of 1941, reported last year by the Bureau.

As in previous editions of the book, compiled for the Bureau by Media Records Inc. in combination with reports from Publishers Information Bureau, the figures for all media represent gross expenditures, computed by applying onetime rates to the space or time used, since complete data on discount arrangements between advertisers and media are not generally available, according to a release issued by the Bureau in conjunction with the publication.

Seven Alaska Broadcasts Made Since Pearl Harbor EDITOR, BROADCASTING:

Page 54 of your issue of May 10 reads as follows: "Bud Foster, speaking from KFAR, Fairbanks, Alaska, during the Alka-Seltzer News Roundup on NBC, April 30, made the first broadcast from Alaska since Pearl Harbor.

We appreciate such favorable comment, but I am sorry to say that the source of that material was grossly misinformed. He does an injustice to our efforts in behalf of NBC. Previous to the April 30 release, we sent no less than 7 broadcasts to the States, all of which were released on NBC. Further, all of these programs were after Pearl Harbor. The first was on Sept. 26, 1942, and subsequent contributions were released Nov. 27, Dec. 22. Feb. 6, March 6, March 13, April 3, and April 25.

FOOD CONSULTANT WLW Starts New Service For Merchants-

APPOINTMENT of a nutrition expert to work with the retail food industry in serving the consumer has been announced by WLW, Cincinnati. She is Mrs. Vianna D. Bramblett, an experienced nutritionist with a commercial back-ground. She will work under John E. Rudolph, director of WLW's trade extension division.

Purpose of the Mrs. Bramblett appointment, according to R. E. Dunville, vice-president of Crosley Corp., is to render a service which eliminate confusion on the will part of merchants and consumers over food shortages and regulations concerning distribution. "Consumers have yet to be accustomed sumers have yet to be accustometer in the wise spending of their ration points," Mr. Dunville explained "Many food retailers do not have the knowledge or the necessary time to disseminate this information to their customers".

Among the services to be offered by WLW's new nutrition consultant will be monthly nutritional and commodity tips and related infor-mation, monthly food tips for homemakers on the use of seasonal foods, and menus to conserve ration points and yet provide nutritious meals. Mrs. Bramblett will be available for the preparation of articles for the retail merchant groups, especially items which retailers can pass on to consumersall in line with the Government seven-point nutrition chart, ac-cording to Mr. Dunville.

Mrs. Bramblett has written for Pictorial Review and other women's magazines. She had charge of the test kitchen of Eastern Coopera-tive Wholesale, Brooklyn, and has done special work with Ball Broth-ers. DEPARTING from the usual radio promotion of films Republic Pictures Corp., New York, this week launches a spot radio campaign concentrating on the promotion of the film star rather than on the specific picture in which he appears. Roy Rogers, Republic cowboy singer, is featured in the new drive, which will entail the expenditure of well over $20,000 in spot announcements in the Chicago area and the South, starting June 15 and continuing for approximately one month.

month. By featuring the star, with little or no mention of specific pictures, the schedule is designed to serve as promotion for any one of Roy Roger's films showing in the area covered. In addition, second and third runs will benefit from the promotion. Since Rogers averages about eight pictures a year, it is estimated that at least one of his films would be showing in the vicinity of the advertising. A special billboard campaign will be coordinated with the radio drive. Agency is Donahue & Coe, New York.

'Not Trading in Peanuts' Answers Fly When Questioned About Court Rumor

"I'M NOT trading in peanuts, you know," FCC Chairman James Lawrence Fly commented at his press conference last Monday when asked about published reports that he might be selected for the vacancy on the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia. In responding to a newsman's question about the court job "you're supposed to be getting", the chairman neither affirmed nor denied the report, commenting simply that he knew nothing about it.

Meanwhile, several other names have been mentioned in Washington for the court vacancy, created with the appointment of Associate Justice Fred M. Vinson as Director of Economic Stabilization. Among others reported to be under consideration are Solicitor General Charles Fahy and District Judge Bolitha J. Laws, of Washington. A campaign to have a Washingtonian appointed to the bench is under way. Mr. Fly is a native of Texas, but calls Tennessee his legal residence.

possible personnel changes, he retorted "I have no statement to make on that."

Reports are still current in Washington that one or both of the changes may ensue prior to the end of the month [BROADCASTING, June 7]. Mr. Payne has served on the Commission since its creation in 1934, but was appointed two years later only after a difficult contest. He was named as a Republican.

Religious Plans

CBS executives and representatives of 10 religious denominations, all mem-bers of the Board of Consultants of the CBS Church of the Air, met at a luncheon at network headquarters June 10 to discuss future plans for the program. Representing CBS were Douglas Coulter, director of broad-casts; Lyman Bryson, director of edu-cation; George Crandall, director of press information; Leon Levine, as-sistant director of education; David-casts, and Elinor Inman, director of religious broadcasts.

• "Do you mean to tell me that a better analysis of Printers' Ink would help me make our advertising profit-able during these times?"

"Certainly! Hundreds of its contributors have had the same problems-maybe not in the same business, but P. I. helped them and they in turn offer their experiences to you."

"But we have no product now-only a brand name, and the way things are going, that won't last long."

"That's because you haven't understood the many immediate jobs your advertising can do."

"Printers' Ink again, I suppose?"

"Sure! In recent issues they have illustrated how advertising can help do everything from lifting production to selling bonds. They have shown how it can train help, prolong equipment life, relieve shortages, raise capital, reduce costs and fulfill hundreds of other functions to show immediate profitable results and maintain a brand name for the long pull as well.

"But the firms they talk about, haven't our problems."

"Yes, I know, your business is different."

Experience has shown that all businesses are different-no two are alike. It has also demonstrated how information about the other man's business particularly with regard to advertising, management and sales has helped to sharpen these selling tools to their present keen edged efficiency.

No small share in this sharpening process is attributable to the continuing efforts of Printers' Ink to bring new ideas and detailed information of all important selling efforts to the attention of its readers.

This interpretive editorial policy delivering the "know-how" and "know-why" of advertising management and sales provides the vital "difference" that makes Printers' Ink the most quoted voice in the industry.

substitutes has solved the supply problem. There is a possibility, he said, of converting some of the machine tool manufacturers into subcontractors for radar equipment.

Through the proper channelizing and pooling of materials, through standardization, and through greater production and efficiency, the manufacturers have been able to turn out the tremendous quantity of communications equipment needed for the war effort, he added. The usage of tungsten, for example, of which the vacuum tube industry is the greatest consumer, has been reduced through a study of processing operation. Because of the tungsten conservation and salvage program, twice as many tubes will be produced during the last half of this year than could have been had the program not been in effect.

A problem which will become steadily more difficult, Mr. Ellis said, is that of maintaining adequate labor. In England, where a greater proportion of the men are in the armed services, the radio industry employment average is over 70% women. In this country, the proportion is about 60%.

Research on radar is going forward with expenditures of that allimportant function estimated at $80,000,000 annually. R a d i o research has been organized and intensified in the interest of the war effort, avoiding duplication and expanding in its scope.

Through the remainder of this year and during the first half of 1944, some four billion dollars' worth of radar equipment must be produced.

Frank H. McIntosh, assistant director of WPB Radio & Radar Division in a closed session explained the amendment to the L-265 regulation covering the sale of tubes which will prevent the diversion of tubes into other than civilian hands [BROADCASTING, June 7]. Mr. Mc-Intosh pointed out to the manufacturers that although material had been allocated, the taxed plant facilities had to be considered.

Some of the manufacturers recommended that the batteries now being released through the efforts of the WPB Consumer Durable Goods Division should likewise be marked MR for civilian use. Mr. McIntosh stated that the great problem of seeing to it that the tubes reached civilian hands was primarily one of distribution and not of manufacturing.

Dr. Frederick Latreille, trade conference office of the Board of Economic Warfare, discussed the operation of the Decentralization Plan A, set up by BEW to facilitate the granting of export licenses and at the same time to insure that American products do not fall into the hands of Latin American distributors unfriendly to America. The plan provides for certification by the American embassy in the country to which the goods is to be shipped. The importance of keep-ing the Latin American channels of distribution open was stressed at the meeting of the RMA export committee. Also participating in the discussion were Kenneth Campbell, BEW; Ralph D. Camp, in charge of exports, WPB Radio & Radar Division; and Franklin Johnston, president of American Exporter Magazine.

At the Board of Directors meeting held at the close of the day, Walter Evans, vice-president of Westinghouse, was elected chairman of the transmitter division succeeding G. W. Henyan, General Electric Co., Schenectady; Ray C. Cosgrove was elected chairman of the set division succeeding Ray H. Manson, Stromberg-Carlson Tel. Mfg. Co., Rochester; Thomas A. White, Jenson Radio Mfg. Co., Chicago, chairman of the amplifier and sound equipment division succeeding James P. Quam, Quam-Nichols Co., Chicago. All three along with W. P. Hilliard, Bendix Radio, were elected vice-presidents.

Robert C. Sprague, Sprague Specialties Co., North Adams, Mass.; George Blackburn, Chicago Transformer Corp., Chicago; A. Blumenkrantz, General Instrument Corp., Elizabeth; and Floyd C. Best, Chicago Telephone Supply Co., Chicago, elected to parts division.

The total membership of RMA, which was announced, is now 166, highest in the association's history.

In his annual report to the RMA membership, Paul V. Galvin, RMA president for the past year, and head of the Galvin Mfg. Corp., Chicago, cautioned the manufacturers against advertising "fantastic postwar designs and models. I don't know whether it's excess profits or ants in the pants of some advertising men trying to keep busy while their boss is busy on war work. At any rate, this sort of thing should be tempered. If it is not, we will meet a confused buying public in the transition after the war."

Mr. Galvin predicted that although radio has learned many things during the accelerated war effort, these discoveries will not be immediately adopted in postwar receiving sets. Application of these new discoveries to receiving sets may take many years, he said. "I would like to counsel that we be more realistic in our representation to the trade and to the public. The postwar mass market will be a whale of a market if not messed up."

Industry's Aid to War

Reviewing the accomplishments of the radio manufacturing industry in its aid to the war effort, Mr. Galvin reported on RMA activities for the past year, with special reference to the job being done in cooperation with the WPB in regard to receiving tubes.

"Many of you who did a lot of griping back in civilian days about what a lousy business the radio industry was must now feel proud of radio. When we get reports of the splendid synchronization between land, air and sea forces, we know it is radio communications which make this possible."

Cox Denies Garey FCC Probe Involves Political Implications

TO SET at rest repeatedly published charges that the House Select Committee inquiry into the FCC was politically inspired and that its chief counsel, Eugene L. Garey, is closely identified with James A. Farley, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Chairman E. E. Cox (D-Ga.) declared last Thursday that political factors had no bearing whatever upon the inquiry or the selection of counsel.

"The investigation is directed entirely against the FCC," Judge Cox asserted. "It neither has nor serves any collateral or other purpose. The charges made over the years against the activities and abuses of that Commission alone brought this inquiry about.

"There was no other motive or contributing cause that induced the House to order this inquiry to be made by a practically unanimous vote. There was no middle aisle.

"The committee exercised great care in the selection of counsel. Neither politics nor any politician had anything whatsoever to do with the choice of counsel. The exact contrary is true. The need was to find someone whose experience, background and standing would elicit public confidence and who would perform the task with the essential courage and integrity desired by the Congress of an inquiry into the administrative processes of the FCC.

"The entire country was combed; advice was sought from many sources, with the result that Eugene L. Garey was agreed upon as the man best suited for the place. He accepted the assignment as a public responsibility, and at great personal sacrifice. He is an outstanding lawyer, of unimpeachable character and great industry. He is particularly qualified for this public assignment by virtue of his long study of administrative law. He served as a member of the American Bar Assn. administrative law committee and has had wide practice before administrative agencies in the Government. He had never appeared before the FCC and therefore had no prejudice or bias against that Commission or its membership.

"Mr. Garey and his staff, whom he personally selected with the committee's approval, have the full confidence of the committee. The committee has a mandate from the House. It will fulfill its mission without bias, favor or fear."

NAB Research Group OK's Market Data Guide

HANDBOOK of market data was approved in final form at an NAB Research Committee meeting last week. According to Paul Peter, NAB research director, the "Market Data Handbook for Broadcast Stations" will be in the mails by the middle of July. Plans for research during the coming year were made, and future discussion leading to approval of the NAB recommendation, "How to Determine Station Coverage", by the AAAA was arranged.

AAAA was arranged. Committee members who met were J. Harold Ryan, WSPD, Toledo, chairman; Edward F. Evans, WJZ, New York; G. Bennett Larson, WWDC, Washington; John C. McCormack, KTBS - KWKH, Shreveport; Barry T. Rumple, NBC; Frank N. Stanton, CBS; Jack Williams, WAYX, Waycross, Ga., and Mr. Peter, secretary.

AT BROADCASTING STATIONS AND BATTLE STATIONS ---GATES SERVES WELL!

From the pleasant task of supplying a peacetime industry, the men and women of Gates are now at the grim task of turning out communications equipment for our Armed Forces that will stand the gaff in the hour of supreme test. We are proud that Gates equipment is serving our country at the fighting fronts throughout the world with the same trouble-free performance it is serving industry at home.

Our entire resources are at Uncle Sam's command. They include the vast experience gained from over 21 years of serving the broadcasting industry. And while we are producing as never before, the Gates ideals of quality and efficiency are back' of every ounce of effort we put forth.

These high standards and the unusual strides we are making in engineering developments will increase the efficiency and lower the costs of the Gates equipment you will want tomorrow.

> Our engineering staff stands ready to assist and advise on the maintenance of your present equipment—whether you are Gates-equipped, or not.

U. S. Free Time Set-up Discriminates, Says KPRO Head, Citing Travel Copy

COMPLAINT of another instance of discrimination against radio resulting from the present free time set-up for war information, has been received from W. L. Gleeson, president of KPRO, Riverside, Cal.

Mr. Gleeson points to the fact that railroad and bus companies are spending money for newspaper and billboard space to discourage unnecessary travel, but get the radio job done free of charge through the efforts of the OWI. How this works to the disadvantage of the stations is revealed in his letter, sent both to BROADCASTING and to Neville Miller, president of the NAB. To quote:

"We have been broadcasting a series of OWI transcriptions appealing to the public to avoid using railroad and bus lines. The copy ... is almost identical with extensive paid advertising appearing locally in newspapers throughout California and in national magazines. Yet the railroads and bus lines are not using radio, to my knowledge, anywhere in the United States to make this appeal. They are getting it free on the radio through OWI.

"Also the railroad and bus companies have an extensive billboard campaign throughout this state, pleading with the public to avoid using public transportation. Yet they have no budget for radio stations because they can get this this same publicity free through the OWI."

Stating that it cost his station $28,300 last year in free time for government announcements, Mr. Gleeson said he did not know of any free service the railroads are performing for the government. Reporting a call he made with the object of securing a share in the business placed in other media, Mr. Gleeson said that a railroad spokesman did not hesitate to say he could see no reason for spending money for advertising when they could get it free through the government. The railroad man said that continuous advertising in publications was deemed to be necessary because they have an editorial policy which on occasion may cause an unfavorable public opinion of the railroads.

Asked if that was true of billboards, the railroad spokesman said it was not, but since they had always used billboards they did not want billboard companies to go out of business. When it was suggested that radio stations might be in a similar position, the smiling answer was: "It isn't necessary for us to advertise in radio. We get it for nothing."

Mr. Gleeson suggests industry action to correct this inequitable situation.

JOHN BLAIR & CO. will represent KXOK, St. Louis, after June 21.

SPEECH BY REP. HEBERT

FOLLOWING is the full text of the address of Rep. F. Hebert (D-La.) before the House Wednesday, June 9:

It seems to me that when we en-tered this war, one of the major rights for which we were fighting was free-dom of speech. Can it be that we are dom of speech. Can it be that we are winning the war on foreign fronts but losing it right here at home? On May 10, 1942, the U. S. Supreme Court handed down a decision which seri-ously threatens the Constitutional rights of freedom of speech in the United States. That decision, with the majority opinion written by Jus tice Frankfurter, gave the FCC abso-lute authority to tell any radio station in the United States what it may and may not put on the air.

Unlimited Power

From now on, the FCC holds a power over the broadcasting stations of the United States equal to that of any totalitariau government. No bu-reau in Washington has ever been given such unlimited powers as prescribed in this decision. From now on the licensee of any broadcasting stathe licensee of any broadcasting sta-tion, whether he operates a 100-watter or a 5000-watter, had better make sure that the Commission cun find nothing about his operation, his per-sonal life, or, possibly even his wife's hats that they might criticize. In 1034 Congress enacted laws which provided for the federal licensing of radio stations. The purpose of the law, according to those who were im-strumental in writing it, was to pro-vide traffic regulations in the field of radio, and nothing else. In order that radio, and nothing else. In order that a standard of regulation might be established, Congress provided that licenses should be issued on the basis of "public interest, convenience and necessity". In 1941 the Federal Communica-

In 1941 the Federal Communica-tions Commission issued a set of rules generally known as "Chain Broadcast-ing Regulations". These rules went far beyond the regulation of frequencies and very definitely inserted the gov-ernment as a third party in the finan-cial and program arrangements be-tween stations and networks. Two of the networks asked for injunctions and the matter was argued in the lower courts and then taken to the Sulower courts and then taken to the Su-preme Court.

Freedom Threatened

On May 10 the Supreme Court, by a 5-2 decision with Justice Frank-furter writing the majority decision, not only upheld the right of the Com-mission to put these rules into effect, but went so much further in outlining but went so much further in outlining the Commission's power that the ques-tion of the rules themselves has be-come a very minor matter and instead today the entire right of freedom of speech is threatened on every radio station in this country, whether or not it is affiliated with any network.

It is administed with any network. In the decision Justice Frankfurter said: "But the Act does not restrict the Commission merely to supervision of the traffic. It puts upon the Com-mission the burden of determining the composition of that traffic". In other words, the Administration, through the Commission can tail out with words the Commission, can tell any radio station what its programs shall or shall not be.

Further, in his opinion, Justice Frankfurter stated, in discussing the argument that the Commission is em-powered to deal only with the tech nical and engineering impediments of radio: "We cannot find in the Act any such restriction of the Commission's authority". And he added further: "In the control of the developing prob-lems to which it was directed, the Act gave the Commission not niggardly but expansive powers."

Dangerous Precedent

One editorial states that the Su-preme Court accepts Webster's unpreme Court accepts Webster's un-abridged dictionary as an authority on the definition of words, and in Web-ster the word "expansive" is defined as "unrestrained". I leave it to you, gentlemen, if this is not the most startling, shocking definition of the rights of our government to dictate to private industry and private life that has ever heen granted in the his-tory of this nation. Leading members of the lar who have studied the deciof the Bar who have studied the deci-

As I said before, the great controversy for the past two years has been whether or not the so-called Chain Broadcasting Regulations were wise. But today as broadcasters throughout the country study the decision of the Supreme Court, they are horrorstricken. The Chain rules are forgotten. Today it is a question as to whether or not the Government shall dictate what kind of program we shall have, who shall speak, over the hroadcasting stations of the United States.

Broad Hint

Chairman Fly of the FCC, in a recent press conference, reacted to the anxiety of the radio broadcasting industry much as any other totalitarian leader would. He says that their fears are groundless and brings up the customary cry of the monopolies. He says that any suggestion that the Government now controls radio is "hooey". He asserts that he aims to "free" radio stations to conduct their business in a manner in which he, Mr. Fly, thinks best for them.

If the stations accept Mr. Fly's "protection," if, in other words, they are good children, he assures them that "stations certainly have nothing to be afraid of". Isn't there a very broad hint there that if they don't play his game there may be something to fear? It is strange that station owners have never sought this freedom that Mr. Fly insists on their accepting and that they have in the past thrived and improved on their own simple brand of free enterprise.

Cause for Fear

Broadcasters' fear of imminent government ownership, control or donination is the fear of a reality and not the "hooey" Mr. Fly so lightly calls it. What Hitler did to German radio is a cause for fear in any language and according to the Supreme Court Mr. Fly now has the power to do it even here. Mussolini took the same parental attitude toward his "children" of the broadcasting industry in Italy. He gave them their instructions just the same as he gave castor oil to some of his less tractable party members. Chairman Fly now has the power to Chairman Fly now has the power to measure out to stations the exact amount of "freedom" he or the Administration wants them to have. either with an eye dropper or a tankard, depending on how he feels at the moment. Perhaps he will choose a carefully measured bottle with a rubber nipple feeding 912 radio stations in the United States the way the Dionne quintuplets were fed, while the stations remain in an infantile relationship to Father Fly.

The stations remain in an infantile relationship to Father Fly. I hope that every member of this body will study this decision of the Supreme Court and reflect seriously upon its possibilities. I think that you will agree with me that there is only one way to prevent this serious threat to the freedom of speech and our way of living—that is for Congress to rewrite the radio act in Such definite terms that it cannot be seized upon by the party in power, no matter what it may be, for the chief purpose of directing its propaganda and maintaining itself in office.

Urges Action

A year ago the Interstate Commerce Committee of this body studied a new radio act known as the Sanders bill. No action was taken but when the new Congress assembled last January, the bill was resubmitted in practically the same form by Representative Holmes. To date, further hearings have not been held.

In the Senate, the White-Wheeler bill, a revision of the 1934 Radio Act, bas been introduced by Senator Wallace White of Maine and Senator Burton Wheeler of Montana. Hearings

TREES AFFECT FM SIGNALS

Milwaukee Measurements Show Volume Declines

- Due to Effect of Foliage

FOLIAGE of trees definitely influences the volume of FM signals, according to Walter J. Damm, president of FM Broadcasters Inc. and manager of the Milwaukee Journal radio properties.

First indications of this phenomenon appeared last autumn, says Mr. Damm, when sudden increases in field intensity appeared in spotty locations. Around W55M, radio adjunct of WTMJ, this was passed off on the supposition that changes being made in the antenna were the cause.

During the winter, according to Mr. Damm, Phil Laeser, chief FM engineer, began a study of the cause and concluded that tree foliage may have been responsible. He noticed that in each case where a receiver was in a home completely surrounded by trees the effect was noticed, whereas in buildings clear of foliage the effect was not apparent. At Mr. Damm's home, with an antenna on a level with the trees, the effect did not appear. At the wooded home of Lou Herzog, WTMJ manager, only a few miles away, however, the effect was quite prominent.

Mr. Laeser selected a number of locations this spring and found that within the 1 millivolt line where there is heavy foliage a drop in signal averaged 15% due to trees. Outside the ½ millivolt line the drop averages 50%. Mr. Laeser made checks periodically as the foliage was coming out on trees and feels he has definitely established this fact.

on this bill are scheduled to start in the very near future. The bill is of such a nature that it would definitely prescribe the powers of the FCC and free the industry of this life and death threat from the Government which now hangs over it. I feel that this is a matter in which Congress should act at once. We will be derelict in our duty if we continue to let any bureau of the Government assume the powers of Congress—in fact, not only the powers of Congress, but a supreme dictatorship in a matter which so clearly affects the lives of every man, woman and child in this country.

Amusement was the source of three times more new accounts on the New York station during the first five months of 1943 than during the same period last year, the report showed [BROAD-CASTING, June 7]. Food accounts were also up, however, exceeding those of last year's first five months by 25%.

Three Station Licenses Extended Six Months OUTSTANDING temporary licenses for WDSU, New Orleans, WMIS, Natchez, Miss., and WGRM, Greenwood, Miss.. were extended last week by the FCC for six months from April 21, or until Oct. 21, 1943, by an order making final its proposed findings of April 21.

Proposed findings of April 21. Proposed findings of the Commission resulted from consolidated hearings begun in August 1932 on applications by the three stations for renewals of their licenses, the hearings being ordered because of certain alleged violations of FCC engineering rules. The Commission concluded that if during the sixmonth period of the temporary licenses "no violations of the law or the rules and regulations of the Commission are disclosed, that licenses on a regular basis should them be issued to them."

The case would be opened for introduction of new evidence should new violations occur and the cases finally decided on the enlarged record. Application of WDSU to reinstate its construction permit for increased power and directional antenna, the equipment being already on hand, is to be granted if the regular license is granted next October.

Senate Hearing Set for Autumn

from high places, it is understood, to block the proceedings. Chairman Cox, nevertheless, reiterated his intention of calling public hearings before the month is out.

A Congressional recess in July would not necessarily mean cessation of the Cox committee inquiry. The committee is empowered to hold sessions at all times and at any place. While committee members might not be disposed to remain in Washington during the sweltering summer, it is entirely possible that the proceedings, once under way, will continue for some time. Meanwhile, the committee staff, headed by Eugene L. Garey, has been examining witnesses from the FCC and the industry regarding the Commission's operations and dealing with the stewardship of commissioners themselves and Commission employes, past and present.

Watson-Dodd Status

On another Washington radio front, the issue of whether the FCC should dismiss two officials of the Federal Broadcast Intelligence Service-Drs. Goodwin Watson and William E. Dodd Jr .- because of alleged affiliation with Communist front organizations, found Senate and House sticking to their original position. The House conferees on the Deficiency Appropriation Bill, containing the rider to oust these two employes, rejected the Senate provision to reinstate them by a voice vote last Tuesday. The Senate, by a 69-to-0 vote, the following day instructed its conferees to adhere to the ouster refusal.

No action was taken last week on the petition of FCC Commissioner C. J. Durr, seeking to disqualify Chairman Cox as a member of the investigating committee on grounds of "bias." The petition, submitted to Speaker Rayburn who had referred it to the Judiciary Committee, and followed up last week with an identical letter to members of the committee, still appeared pigeonholed. It was thought the almost unprecedented move would die with the Congressional recess.

In New Deal circles, the report was current that the FCC investigation might be dropped indefinitely because there was "too much dirt" on both sides. That got no confirmation, however, except in areas close to the FCC majority.

In an editorial last Friday, the New York Times attacked the Supreme Court opinion emphasizing the Frankfurter passage holding that Congress put upon the Commission "the burden of determining the composition of that traffic" in concluding that the act did not restrict the Commission merely to "supervision of the traffic." Inquiring whether this meant that the Commission has the power to decide what may and may set, pressure was being exerted not be broadcast by stations, the editorial said the question should be answered "and answered in the negative" by Congress itself, in its capacity as creator both of the Communications Act and the Communications Commission.

> Laws relating to fraud, libel and obscenity and the disclosure of military information in wartime must be enforced, the editorial said. The possible implication of the Court's decision with respect to the regulation of the contents of programs "deserves the attention of the Senate Committee at the forthcoming hearings," the Times stated.

House Action Urged

The opening gun in the new Congressional uprising against the FCC and the drive toward new legislation came last Wednesday with an address on the floor of the House by Rep. F. Edward Hébert (D-La.), attacking the Supreme Court decision and striking at the FCC's domination of radio as "equal to that of any totalitarian government." (See text on page 50).

Promptly following Rep Hébert's address, Rep. Pehr G. Holmes (R-Mass.), who reintroduced the Sanders bill this season, issued a statement urging remedial legislation at this session. In no uncertain terms, the Massachusetts Congressman, a member of the House Interstate & Foreign Commerce Committee, charged with radio legislation, strongly urged action at this session.

Rep. Hébert cited the FCC as having unlimited powers under the Supreme Court decision and held that the entire right of freedom of speech is threatened on every station in the country, whether independent or network affiliate. He called attention to the passage in the Frankfurter opinion putting upon the Commission the task of "determining the composition of that traffic" over the air, asserting it gives the Commission program control.

Calling the opinion one of the "most dangerous precedents ever established in this country," Rep. Hébert, a former newspaper editor, attacked Chairman Fly's stewardship and likened his methods to those of the dictators. Chairman Fly has said, he asserted, that if stations accept his "protection" they have nothing to fear.

"Isn't there a very broad hint that if they don't play his game they may have something to fear?", he asked.

The industry's fear of "imminent Government ownership control or domination is the fear of a reality and not the 'hooey' Mr. Fly so lightly calls it," said the Louisianan.

Mr. Hébert called for Congress to rewrite the radio act in such definite terms that it cannot be seized upon by the party in power, High Politics?

TALK of high politics involving the House Select Com-mittee investigation of the FCC, drawing in the Roose-velt-Farley controversy, got a set-back the other day. It develops that Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., son of the President, served his legal apprenticeship in the New York office of Eugene L. Garey, Chief Counsel of the House inquiry. Young Roose-velt now e limitatent in the velt, now a lieutenant in the by Mr. Navy, was hired by Mr. Garey in July, 1940 upon graduation from the law school at the U. of Virginia. The following fall, however, he left the office and was called to active duty by the Navy, in which he held a reserve commission as Ensign.

no matter what it may be, for the chief purpose of "directing its propaganda and maintaining itself in office." Congress would be derelict in its duty "if we continued to let any bureau of the Government assume the powers of Congressin fact, not only the powers of Congress but a supreme dictatorship in a matter which so closely affects the lives of every man, woman and child in the country."

Rep. Holmes asserted he was thoroughly in accord with his Louisiana colleague's comments and added "it is about time we took drastic steps to curb the Commission."

"It was never the intent of Congress to authorize the Commission to conduct the radio business."

Declaring he would press for speedy action on his bill to curb the powers of the FCC, Mr. Holmes indicated the matter would be broached to the Interstate Commerce Committee shortly. A subcommittee for communications already has been authorized, but the membership has not yet been completed.

NAB Small Stations Committee Asks Group Selling, Sponsored OWI Shows

STRIKING at discrimination against radio, the Small Market Stations Committee of the NAB, at a two-day session in Washington last Thursday and Friday, called upon OWI to consider plans for preparation of announcements and programs available for sale to advertisers. Canvassing the whole roster of problems confronting socalled "loser" stations in the smaller markets, the committee:

(1) Authorized a study of possibility of group selling of all small market stations, in which communities of 50,000 or less population would be grouped.

(2) Objected to the use of Government funds for paid advertising as proposed in the Bankhead bill, but concluded that if the bill passes, the 30 million dollars should be distributed among all media in proportion to use by private industry.

(3) Urged appointment of an advisory committee by Secretary Morgenthau to handle allocation of war bond advertising funds, with representatives of each of the leading media, such as NAB, ANPA, and Outdoor Advertising Assn.

(4) While indicting Government

Grocers Are Opposed To Grade Labeling Plan OPPOSITION to grade labeling, Government subsidies and rationing of any but basic foods was registered by the Grocery Manufacturers of America in an eight-point food control program "declaration of principles" adopted at the closing session of the groups two-day off-the-record conference, held June 9-10 at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York.

The GMA urged that all Government authority over food production and distribution be consolidated in the War Food Administrator. Finally, the declaration stated: "The Government should not propose or use any war legislation to make an unsound reform of food production and distribution, such as that involved in the required grade labeling of food."

agencies and departments for discrimination against radio, expressed its thanks to Secretary Ickes for the "Buy Coal Now" campaign sent to fuel merchants who were urged to use local stations on paid time.

Marshall H. Pengra, KRNR, Roseburg, Ore., chairman, said stations in general and small stations in particular have given more free time and talent, in proportion to their available facilities, than any other medium in furtherance of the campaigns in war information.

Attending meeting were James R. Curtis, KFRO, Longview, Tex.; Robert T. Mason, WMRN, Marion, O.; and William B. Smullin, KIEM, Eureka, Cal. Lewis H. Avery, director of the department of broadcast advertising of the NAB, served as secretary.

Mr. Pengra said the committee felt it was time for OWI to "cease their discrimination against radio and for private industry to bear its "fair share of the dissemination of essential information to the public on a paid advertising basis." He added the committee thought OWI should make certain that the private industries involved in future campaigns shall have made reasonable and widespread use of radio on a paid basis before the Government requests free time.

Committee members, based on surveys prior to the meeting, said the manpower situation is more acute at small stations than at the larger ones. Mr. Smullin urged a resolution requesting War Manpower Commission to recognize the vital service of small stations to the war effort, so they shall be permitted to keep two or three key persons to continue operation without interruption. He said many small stations have had more than 100% turnover of personnel within the last year.

FCC Chairman James Lawrence Fly last Monday, in commenting on the small station situation, said he agreed with the view that if a newspaper subsidy plan is approved, radio wants to be in on it, but radio in the first instance is against a subsidy. Declaring he hoped the subsidy plan would be kept in a secondary position he said that for the ultimate good of the industry, it must be kept free from Government control and Government influence over programs.

NAB's Kittens

WHILE the NAB board, meeting in extraordinary session in Washington June 4 on the legislative picture, was "having kittens" in the board room, the real McCoy happened in the basement at NAB headquarters. A stray cat crawled in and had a litter of four—promptly named by the staff "MBS, CBS, NBC and BLUE." It happened on a pile of Lew Avery's Bureau of Radio Advertising brochures. One wag observed that was anesthesia enough.

Funds Provided to Carry WNYC for Another Year

CONTINUED operation of WNYC as a municipal station by the City of New York for another year was assured May 10 when the City Council included the station's budget of $106,000 in the city appropriation for 1943-44. The Council had previously eliminated this item from the budget in a general economy move which was vetoed by Mayor La Guardia, but although the Council over-rode the veto to restore many of its budget slashes, the final measure includes the station appropriation. After the earlier action, numerous individuals and organizations, including Joseph Lang, General Manager, WHOM, Jersey City, and H. V. Kaltenborn protested.

NABET MAY REFUSE 2-YEAR NBC PACT

WITH NBC offer of 5% pay increase for engineers effective until the end of 1943, and an additional tilt to 7½% for studio engineers and 5% for supervisory groups, for the following year still not accepted by the National Assn. of Broadcast Engineers & Technicians, wage negotiations which began in late May at New York have apparently fallen through.

It is expected the NBC proposal of a contract running to the end of 1944 will be turned down. Union officials are not of a mind to sign contract for longer than a one-year period. NABET had asked for costof-living increases of 10%. The present contract remains in force until the end of 1943. New nego-tiations may be opened in November.

BLUE Network negotiations for a similar contract will also be postponed until the regular contract renewal period, according to J. H. Brown, Hollywood NABET president and chairman of the union's negotiating committee [BROADCAST-ING, May 31].

War Council Plans to Enlist All Advertisers in Campaign

Federal Copy to Be Provided for Those Buying $100,000 or More; Local Drive Still in Works

PLANS for an intensive drive to enlist every advertiser, both national and local, in the nation's wartime information campaign to tell the public what it must do to help win the war, and how and why these things must be done, were discussed by Chester La Roche, chairman of the War Advertising Council, at a conference with the advertising press held at the Council's headquarters in New York last Tuesday.

Stating that the advertising agencies have given their wholehearted cooperation in the preparation of copy and presentation of the various Government campaigns by print and radio, Mr. La Roche said that the Council's job at the moment is to secure comparable cooperation from the country's advertisers.

Radio's Good Work

One part of this task, he explained, is to get large advertisers to devote entire advertising schedules to Government campaigns; the other is to get every advertiser to devote a portion of every advertisement to a Government war message.

Letters will be sent to all advertisers with annual advertising appropriations of $100,000 or more, he said, together with campaign folders on womanpower, absenteeism, inflation, homes for war workers and other war projects. In addition to these folders, containing copy, art and layouts, which may be used as they are or adapted to individual requirements, Mr. La Roche said, the WAC will also send the advertisers books of brief messages for insertion into their regular product advertisements.

Expressing great satisfaction with the performance of radio and its allocation plans for the placing of Government copy in both commercial and sustaining programs on both local stations and nationwide networks, he said there is need of a similar allocation plan for newspapers and magazines. Outdoor advertising is currently operating under its own allocation plan, he added.

Local Campaigns

Mr. La Roche stressed the importance of the local advertiser as a disseminator of wartime information for two reasons: First, because he can tell the story in terms of local conditions and so get across a more specific story than the national advertiser can do; next, because of the volume of local advertising, $700,000,000 of the annual $1,700,000,000 spent for advertising being placed at the local level.

Final details of the WAC campaign for mobilizing local advertising for the war effort [BROAD-CASTING, June 7] have not yet been completed, but Mr. La Roche described how in Houston the newspapers, radio stations and other media each assigned salesmen to solicit war advertising exclusively, with notable success. Here and in other cities it has been found that drives for such advertising can secure an appreciable amount of business from firms which have never advertised before, he said.

It was also announced that the National Publishers Assn., comprising 440 magazines with a combined circulation of 88,600,000, will follow their previous campaign dramatizing the meaning of total war with a new drive emphasizing the need for holding down the cost of living, to begin in mid-summer. Nine advertising agencies prepared 78 advertisements which were reviewed by the Council copy com-mittee and 14 were selected by the publishers, who will each contribute a page a month to the campaign.

CHURCH TO DIRECT GOP RADIO WORK

APPOINTMENT of Wells (Ted) Church as director of radio activi-ties of the Republican National Committee, returning to the post he held during the 1940 campaign, was announced last week by James P. Selvage, assistant to the chairman in charge of publicity. Mr. Selvage announced promo-tion of Robert L. Pritchard, former newspaper and radio man, to be his general assistant, in charge of press publicity. Mr. Pritchard has spent some 20 years in the news-paper, publicity and radio fields in Washington. He was Washington press relations representative of RCA for six years, until he joined the committee last year. At one time he was manager of WJSV before its ownership by CBS.

Mr. Church left the office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs to accept the committee as-signment. A former Washington newspaper and radio man, he was for several years with CBS in Washington, handling publicity and special events.

Producers Shifted

IN REALIGNMENT of production duties, Foote, Cone & Belding shifts Arnold Maguire, Hollywood producer on the NBC College of Musical Knowledge, to Johnny Mercer's Music Shop, summer re-Mercer's Music Shop, summer re-placement show sponsored by Pep-sodent Co., on that network. When the Bob Hope Show resumes in September, Maguire takes over pro-duction, succeeding Norman Mor-rell, agency producer awaiting Army induction. "KINDA REMINDS ME OF RADIO COVERAGE!"

> A STATION'S coverage is only a skeleton ... a naked framework for an audience body.

> Without an audience . . . without listeners . . . a station is as lifeless, as useless to advertisers, as a bag of bones. Nor can a mouse-size audience cover a dinosaurian frame.

> WKY's coverage frame is huge; considerably greater than that of any other Oklahoma City station. But enveloping this frame is a sleek, fat, vigorous body of listeners. In Oklahoma City, for instance, 46.3% of the morning audience, 55.1% of the afternoon audience, and 59.2% of the evening audience belongs to WKY (Winter-Spring Hooperatings).

Its greater coverage, together with its greater audience, gives WKY advertising mass weight, and vitality unmatched by any other Oklahoma City station. That's why WKY does things for advertisers so effectively, so economically, so profitably.
