After Eight Years, Some Final Thoughts

■ by Sean Ross

For the past 20 years, I've been fortunate never to have a job I didn't want to go to every morning (which, as my wife can tell you, really meant every morning, including Saturdays and Sundays). I never worked in fast food. I never had an abusive boss. (The closest I ever came on either count was my federal government summer job during college where the head secretary told me I'd never make it in the civil service because my carbon copies were smudged.) And wherever I went, I always had at least some record service, back when free music still impressed civilians.

I never loved Fridays—I was usually leaving something unfinished. I never hated Mondaysit was a chance to get going again. And I loved Tuesdays because they were the busiest. I saw "Office Space" when it was still in theaters and thought it was funny and underrated, but I never thought it was my life, and the realization that millions now personally identify with it remains an

by Skip Dillard

Steve Crumbley, PD of adult R&B WDLT Mobile, Ala., has one thing in common in most of his radio stops: H∈ always seems to find a market near water. The veteran programmer has had stints in Norfolk, Va.; Boston; Baltimore; and Philadelphia.

"You know I'm happy if there's a coastline somewhere nearby," Crumbley says, adding, "In addition to Mobile, [the cities of] Destin and Pensacola, Fla., make this a strategically wonderful location, and there's no winter.

He notes a few other facts not known by many outsiders. "Tourism plays a major part with our beaches and casinos, but Mobile is also the home of Mardi Gras. I made the mistake of crediting New Orleans and was corrected by listeners immediately. Turns out a Mardi Gras founding family mernber relocated to New Orleans and started the tradition there. We pretty much mirror the same Mardi Gras dates as New Orleans. The city closes down, and the parades, balls and costumes are amazing. In add tion to that type of culture, you also have a low cost of living, which makes the area even more appealing.

Ellis, Stark Expand Monitor Roles

In moves that position Airplay Monitor for significant growth, veteran staffers Michael Ellis and Phyllis Stark have been given expanded roles at the publication.

Ellis has added the role of interim publisher to his current duties as associate publisher for parent Billboard Information Group. Stark adds interim editor in chief duties for Monitor to her existing role as Nashville bureau chief for Monitor and Billboard. She also continues to serve as country managing editor for Monitor

Ellis was the first publisher and one of the architects of Monitor, which celebrates its 10th anniversary this year. He has spent nearly 25 years in the music industry. From 1979 to 1983, he was MD for the wildly successful first incarnation of WKTU (Disco 92) New York. In 1983 he helped launch another enormously successful New York station, WHTZ (Z100), as APD/MD. His career also includes a stint as VP of A&R at Sony's Crave Records.

In 1985 he joined Billboard magazine, where his roles have included Hot 100 chart manager, director of charts, director of research and managing editor.

Stark joined Billboard in New York as a radio

reporter in 1989 and worked her way up to senior radio editor before accepting the position of managing editor for Country Airplay Monitor and moving to Nashville in 1995. In 2000, she was promoted to Nashville bureau chief for Billboard and Monitor.

Ellis assumes duties previously held by Jon Guynn, who left Monitor last month.

Stark takes over for Sean Ross, who joins Edison Media Research as VP of music and programming.

Monitor is conducting a search for a new editor in chief. Interested candidates should send résumés to entertainrecruit@vnubuspubs.com.

In addition to expanding its editorial and sales teams, in the coming months Monitor will build on its recently launched HitPredictor email with targeted daily fax and e-mail services.

Longer-Lasting No. 1s At Country

Last year, only two titles managed to top the country chart for six weeks or more: Kenny Chesney's "The Good Stuff" with seven and Keith Urban's "Somebody Like You" with six. So far this year, four titles have already led for six weeks, including Alan Jackson & Jimmy Buffett's "It's Five O'Clock Somewhere" (Arista Nashville), which collects a seventh week atop the chart.

Singer/songwriter Warren Zevon died Sept. 7 at the age of 56, a year after he was diagnosed with terminal lung cancer. Zevon's biggest chart hit was 1978's "Werewolves of London," which reached No. 21 on The Billboard Hot 100 and also powered his biggest album, "Excitable Boy," to No. 8. His highest-charting rock radio title came in 1987 when "Sentimental Hygiene" peaked at No. 9. Zevon's current album "The Wind," recorded after his illness was diagnosed, debuted on The Billboard 200 last week, at No. 16.

"Shake Ya Tailfeather" (Bad Boy/UMRG) by Nelly, P. Diddy & Murphy Lee moves to No. 1 at rhythmic top 40, becoming the fifth chart-topper there for Nelly, the fourth for P. Diddy and the first for Lee. With five No. 1s, Nelly is the all-time male leader at rhythmic and ties Mariah Carey and TLC for the overall lead. P. Diddy's four No. 1s tie Ja Rule and Jennifer Lopez in the runner-up circle.

PANEL CHANGES

- WNEW (Blink 102.7) New York is added to the adult top 40 chart this week.
- WMIB (the Beat) Miami is added to the R&B/hip-hop panel. WJMN (Jam'n 94.5) Boston, KQKS (KS107.5) Denver and KUUU (U92) Salt Lake City move from R&B/hip-hop to rhythmic top 40.
- WYIL (Wild 98.7) Knoxville, Tenn., is added to the rhythmic top 40 panel.
- WWDM Columbia, S.C., and WIMX Toledo, Ohio, are added to adult R&B.
- WHOK Columbus, Ohio, is removed from country, following a flip to country gold.

Court Blocks New FCC Rules

A Philadelphia federal appeals court Sept. 3 temporarily blocked the FCC's new media-ownership rules from taking effect as scheduled Sept. 4. The three-judge panel issued an emergency stay preventing the FCC from loosening station ownership rules pending further proceedings. The court said a coalition of media access groups called the Prometheus Radio Project would suffer irreparable harm under the new rules.

Meanwhile, Triad Broadcasting has also challenged the new rules by filing a petition asking the FCC to reconsider its decision to "make JSAs attributable for market ownership purposes, its decision to abandon contour-based local radio market definitions and its failure to permanently grandfather JSAs under any anticipated changes.

Hey, What's This About You Leaving?

That didn't mean I never thought about changing jobs. When I was 23 and willing to argue with anyone about anything at any time. I thought about it every time I didn't get my way. By job No. 3, I'd finally figured out that I could have frustrations anywhere

When I met my wife in 1997, I'd been back in the Billboard organization for 21/2 years. My record, to date, had been 4 1/2 years in any one job. When I'd suggest every year around my anniversary date that maybe it was time for a change, she would say, "You love your job." And if I didn't, why was I there until 9 p.m. so many nights?

I'd always been lucky enough to have a great team at Monitor. And a great platform. Writing about the state of top 40 radio every week, the feedback from readers (and the evolution of the format itself) suggested that I was connecting with folks at least intermittently. Friends complained about the state of radio programming in the post-deregulated world, but there was always more radio that I was excited about hearing, if only because of the Internet.

JOB-HUNTING IS TOUGH, EVEN WHEN YOU'RE NOT

Even if I'd wanted to move, the trick to job hunting is to choose the job you want and go after it. (I'd sat on my first employer's doorstep for 21/2 months until they felt sorry for me and took me in.) After writing for four trade publications, doing A&R and programming a radio station, it was hard to think of anything that wouldn't be "lather, rinse, repeat." And I talked to enough people to know that radio in the post-dereg era wasn't for the faint-hearted.

Every now and then—usually around that anniversary date-I'd reach out to various industry friends and ask what else they thought I could be doing. Often, through those conversations, it was very clear that I was imaged to a lot of them as "Sean Ross of Billboard/Airplay Monitor." Nothing wrong with that, but it was as hard for them to imagine a next step as it was for me

It was also hard to think about doing something else at a time when so many people in the industry didn't have jobs. While there was never a time, I hope, when I was ungrateful for the job I had, my efforts in helping place other people in jobs had further driven home just how tough things were. And even my limited polling of friends yielded some surprising results in terms of who offered to help and who didn't-if you ever want somebody to stop asking you for help, ask them to do something for you in return and you'll clear the decks of faux friends almost immediately. It only gave me greater empathy for anyone who's job-hunting now without the safety net of having a great job already.

Eventually, I sorted out that I wanted to be involved in some sort of consultancy or group programming job. I'd handed out a lot of advice over the years, at least some of it solicited by the recipient. I enjoyed being involved with a broad range of projects and people. And, unfortunately, group programmers were often the only ones getting to strategize—not because they didn't let their PDs do their jobs, but usually because those PDs' jobs had become pursuing revenue, not ratings.

Larry Rosin was someone I'd known and respected for 15 years. We had a lot of people in common, including Monitor's Phyllis Stark, who had worked with him before joining Billboard. I saw him this spring at a dinner that an out-oftown GM had arranged as a way of seeing all his New York friends at once. That dinner ended with promises all around for the various New Yorkers to get together again, but when Larry and I actually made good on that promise, we both knew there was something there.

Edison Media Research offered the perfect vehicle for me to continue to work with a wide variety of people and platforms. I liked that it was growing at a time when so many others in our industry were trying to save their way to prosperity. Hiked the fact that he was diversified into other areas, including next year's presidential election exit polling. And I felt instantly comfortable with the team of smart people who worked with him.

THE NEXT EIGHT YEARS (OR MORE . . .)

Since 1995, I've seen top 40 climb out of one down cycle and wobble on the precipice of the next one. There's some comfort in the industry's collective understanding this time that it's not going to fall off the face of the earth. (In 1993, only the true believers thought that.)

There's also some satisfaction in the knowledge that the industry has become a little smarter about its "cost of doing business" problem—already a burgeoning one when I started here. The realization that there's little value in creating a chart story that doesn't translate to record sales is hardly universal now, but it's

Radio was rarely covered in the consumer press in 1995 unless something went horribly wrong (OK, even slightly wrong) at a station concert. The growing discontent over today's radio has made the impact of deregulation an ongoing story, although not always one that's covered fairly. I'm proud that Monitor became the friend of the industry that could still speak candidly: covering the hard topics, but with the initial understanding that everyone in this industry was at least setting out to do the right thing for their audience.

Monitor has, during the last eight years, reinvented itself many times-most notably with this year's redesign as one magazine, instead of four. And it will continue to do so, more aggressively than ever. If I was "Sean Ross of Airplay Monitor to anyone on the outside, I always knew that Monitor was always more than the sum of its entire team's efforts, in a way that I hope will soon become abundantly clear.

A SHOUT-OUT . . . TO EVERYONE

For the past eight years, I've instructed Monitor's writers to get the PDs they interviewed to do something other than thank their staffs. When you never feel like you have enough space for all the information you've gathered, the shout-outs usually seem like the least compelling thing that you can offer people.

But I can't just leave after eight years without thanking people, either. My initial plan was to move the masthead to this page, for this week only, since it was the only list that wouldn't leave someone out. (It's actually on page 50.) Even then, I'd also have to include the staff list for Billboard and its industry partners, every former staffer of this publication (particularly former publisher Jon Guynn and the late Heston Hosten), a slew of industry mentors, every PD and label person who wasn't shy about speaking candidly in the interest of a better industry and, in particular, my wife for sharing me with the industry, including on what should have been her time.

There's little need to sum up or say goodbye. I'll still be writing about the industry at edisonmediaresearch.com and, more than likely, from time to time in these pages. I'm as close as sross@edisonresearch.com, and I hope that I'll remain a resource for anyone who found me one before. I appreciate your support, and your ongoing support of Airplay Monitor.

Songs ranked by number of detections. Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Airplay Adds awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time with increase in detections week is placed first if tied with a song with a declarine over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections or each losing detections, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs below the top 15 become recurrents and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.

ongs ranked by number of detections. Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a utilet if its percentage loss in detections coes not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more an 20 weeks will generally not receive a bubllet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay nd Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for that time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the pre-ious week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. H=Heavy (55+ Detections), M=Medium (25-54), L=Light (Under 25). Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Addience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience.

**Initial impact: songs appearing on this page for the first time in summary form. Airplay Adds are songs with 6 or more detections at new stations this week. The Airplay Leaderboard ranks taste-maker stations that have been the most successful in identifying future hit songs as measured by the amount of AIRPOWER titles for which they were Airplay Leaders. Refer to each format's Power Playlists page to see this week's Airplay Leaders. It indicates title earned HitPredictor status in research data provided by Promosquad.

Crumbley Likes The Water, And Adult R&B's Sea Changes

3 P.M.

The O'Jays, "For the Love of Money"

Jaheim, "Fabulous" Earth, Wind & Fire, "Fantasy"

Cheryl Lynn, "Encore'

John Stoddart, "Angel"

The Gap Band, "Burn Rubber (Why You Wanna Hurt Me?)"

Luther Vandross, "Dance With My Father"

Stevie Wonder, "Boogie On Reggae Woman"

Rhian Benson, "Say How I Feel"

Cameo, "Sparkle"
The Isley Brothers, "Choosy Lover"

Yolanda Adams, "I'm Gonna Be Ready"

ing 55%, Crumbley has plenty of adults to reach. "We pretty much cover the '70s, '80s and today. You'll hear your Jill Scott, your Tyrese. We cover the current product that fits. Javier's 'Crazy' is doing great for us along with John Stoddart's 'Angel' and Rhian Benson's 'Say How I Feel.'

SOUTHERN SOUL

But Crumbley has found a new music to champion. "The popularity of blues here reminds me of my days back at [R&B] WOWI [Norfolk] in the late '80s when we were forced to pay attention to the popularity of rap music in the area," he says. "Today they don't even call it 'blues' anymore; it's 'Southern soul.' Artists like Sir Charles Jones, Willie Clayton and others have taken the old blues sound and updated it for today. When I first got here I didn't understand it, but the Gulf Coast thrives on it."

Crumbley even sees a new format in the making. "On Saturday we do all blues/Southern soul from 6 a.m. to midnight and pull a 33 share 25-54. When you break out the numbers, our sister station [R&B/hip-hop WBLX] loses no audience during that period, so you know the people listening are not just African-American.

"When we're at the malls and car dealers on Saturday, WDLT is on everywhere. What's even more amazing is we come in No. 2 after WBLX 18-34, and we're only two or three shares behind them. There's also the American Blues Network in the South that plays this music 24 hours a day. There's a format for your future. It may be just a regional Gulf Coast format, but you can dominate. What rap did for New York and go-go did for Washington, D.C., blues and Southern soul are doing for this region.'

FOBBING OFF THE MARKETING

Crumbley still finds grassroots initiatives the most successful. "Heavy street marketing for R&B formats will never change. We hit schools in the morning with coffee and doughnuts for moms dropping off their kids before heading to work. In the evenings, we are where many women are, at the grocery store picking up dinner for their family.

He credits Cumulus for developing a strong campaign for the format. "We do 'key tag' marketing extensively-those [key fobs] you use for discounts at grocery stores. We mail them to homes with our logo and a number on it and call numbers on-air for prizes. You can reach so many people with this simple concept. I have to credit Cumulus president John Dickey and VP Ken Johnson for being far ahead of the curve when it comes to championing marketing concepts to reach our listeners.

As far as benchmarks go, "because of the blues' popularity we do a smooth-blues cafe in middays. We also do what we call 'In Concert Theater,' where we take faxes and requests for three songs back to back from a favorite group or artist. The winner gets their songs played along with a trip to their workplace with coffee and snacks.

"Since Tom Joyner is in mornings, my afternoon show is more like a local morning show. I do a daily game show, which may involve anything from 'battle of the sexes' to relationship questions. The always successful class reunion weekends remain popular on Sundays.

SOUL MUSIC, NOT SOUL FOOD

With the area known for its down-home recipes and restaurants, Crumbley has put WDLT behind a campaign to encourage listeners to be aware of their health.

"The No. 1 problem concerning Mobile-and Alabama, for that matter—is we rank at the top for diabetes cases and No. 2 for prostate cancer. If you live here you know why," he explains. "The area's famous for food like collard greens, pork chops, fried chicken and sweet potato pie. These are foods that put more of our listeners in hospitals than anything else. Add [to that] the large consumption of fast food, and it's out of control.

"We've found women will go for check-ups, while men in our demo [won't] go. We're getting people checked at local community centers, and we're seeing kids 12 and 13 years old being diagnosed with diabetes. That's not normal. We're constantly on-air trying to teach listeners about good health. I know it's something our audience may not always want to hear about but once they understand what we're trying to do, they'll really believe WDLT belongs to them."

Crumbley also enjoys events that focus on both parents and children. "For instance, something I'm doing here that I did back at WOWI is a Halloween party at Chuck E. Cheese. In addition to the fear of kids' trick or treating, many parents just don't like walking neighborhoods that night. We provide a safe place for families to come and still take part in the holiday.'

THE NEXT GENERATION

Crumbley's concern for the next generation extends to WDLT's air talent as well. "I'm still developing jocks. Outside of Tom Joyner in mornings I've found several talents, including Eric Christopher and Casie B. I feel good about them because I know a larger market will be coming after them soon. I'm used to it. It has always been a big feather in my cap. PDs should always find satisfaction in bringing up talent and seeing them off to better opportunities.

"When I look at [WGCI Chicago PD] Elroy Smith, who started under me in Boston; [WEDR Miami afternoon host] Rick Party; and [W]LB Detroit PD] K.J. Holiday, I feel great about what so many people I've worked with have been able to accomplish," he says. "I don't want anyone leaving a station I've programmed without everyone being amazed at what they've accomplished. It's like the O'Jays' song 'Family Reunion,' which mentions the proud grandfather that looks at the family he had been a part of for so many years. It always makes me very humbly proud.'

THE FUTURE OF ADULT R&B

Crumblev believes the format will evolve and sound quite different than it does at present. "I remember a meeting I had in the late 1980s with [then-WOWI GM] Ernie Jackson; [recently departed WOWI GM] Janet Armstead, who was our sales manager; and [then-WOWI owners] Ragan Henry and his wife. I felt we could dominate the market by taking the daypart restrictions off rap.

"I thank God that group was more willing to listen to me than most managers at other companies back then. While ad agencies were still seeing hip-hop as a fad, we had watched it grow 10 years. PDs and jocks all over the country had been seeing the power of the music in the streets for years, but radio refused to acknowledge what we already knew our listeners wanted. Outside of New York at that time you weren't hearing rap on most mainstream R&B stations. The same attitude still applies to programming today. You have to be willing to embrace the needs of your listeners."

Crumbley adds, "You will see rap invade adult R&B in the next few years. Think about the person who's going to reach 30 and 35 years of age in the next five years. Adults won't listen if you're trying to make them feel old. They're going to want a little of 50 Cent's 'In Da Club' and Mary J. Blige, maybe even Ludacris. And you won't be winning them over with just Teddy Pendergrass and Freddie Jackson, especially when some of your core won't have had personal experiences around the artists. You'll likely see an artist like Jaheim become a core player within the format.'

As for advice for tommorow's PDs, Crumbley feels the need to share the knowledge. "PDs' jobs are so multi-faceted. You're no longer just picking records. You've got to learn and teach what you've learned to others. It was the same for me. [Adult R&B WDAS Philadelphia VP/GM] Joe Tamburro is responsible for helping me arrive where I am today. When I go home to Philadelphia and hear what WDAS is doing today, it makes me excited for where the s percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more I will generally not receive a builet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Air rided to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the previous week if field with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections each losing detections, the song being played on n placed first. Songs below the top 20 become recurrents and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.

Universal South's Tony Brown Returns To Work After Injury

BROWN, RIGHT, AND DUBOIS

For Tony Brown, 2003 will be remembered as a year of adversity and triumph.

On April 11, Brown, who is a senior partner in Nashville's Universal South Records and a sought-after producer, fell down some steps in Los Angeles and sustained a nearly fatal head injury.

Less than five months later, to the surprise of friends, family and his doctors, Brown is back at work. Last month he was behind the board at Starstruck Studios, where he cut five sides with new Universal South artist Amanda Wilkinson

Prior to launching Universal South with partner Tim DuBois last year, Brown spent 17 years at MCA Nashville, the last eight as president. As a producer, he has worked with a who's who of country music's elite, including Reba McEntire, George Strait, Vince Gill, Wynonna and Trisha Yearwood.

Now fit and looking healthy, Brown has finished his therapy and is working on recovering his stamina and energy level. Beyond some afternoon naps, he says he's back to normal.

"I truly believe in guardian angels," Brown says. "I couldn't have been in a better city, with the UCLA trauma center. If I had been in the middle of nowhere, the outcome could have been completely different.'

At one point, Brown says, if surgery hadn't been performed to relieve pressure in his skull, doctors say he probably wouldn't have made it through the night. Part of his skull was removed and stored in his abdomen to keep it alive and healthy until it could be reattached.

"I never knew that it got that serious," says Brown, who was in a medically induced coma for three weeks, which he remembers as three days. "They said my head was a mess when they picked me up. I really hit it hard." He has no memory of the accident and calls that "God's way of keeping me from having nightmares.

He credits his recovery to his doctors; the love, support and prayers of friends and familv, particularly his wife, Anastasia; and to his own will to live.

"Mentally, I really wanted to [recover]," he says. "I have other things to do.

KEEPING THE FAITH

DuBois was among those who kept the faith after the accident.

"The start of that period was very scary, because it wasn't looking good there for a while," he says. "But from the beginning, somehow it just always felt like he was going to be OK. There was such an amazing amount of positive energy from all the prayers and all the well-wishers that you could just almost feel it in the air.

"Its been an amazingly uplifting thing to come through it and to experience all the love that exists for him," DuBois continues. "Talking about it now, I can't help smiling about it. I feel like God gave us one.

DuBois says the amazing part of Brown's story is not just that he cheated death but that he made such an "amazingly fast recovery. We had been told nine months to two years, and 90 days later he was driving a car.

For DuBois, his priorities after the accident included keeping up staff morale and keeping the business on track.

We had one artist, Katrina Elam, that we were trying to sign [before the accident], and we did go ahead and sign. We were able to get that done while Tony was still in "One of the neat things about Universal South is it's not just me and Tony. There are five executives, and we run it like a partnership,' DuBois says, naming senior executives Van Fletcher, Bryan Switzer and Susan Levy as part of the inner circle.

"Yes, we missed Tony," he says, but it was easier to have one partner temporarily out of the process at a business where "we command a healthy disrespect.

"His therapist asked me one time

if I was worried about Tony having to make decisions while he was still in therapy. I said, 'No, you don't understand how it works at Universal South. Nobody's going to make a decision without four other people questioning it.' Like any family, we were on edge and very worried about him, but as far as the business itself, obviously we might not have been 100% but we didn't miss a lick.'

Wilkinson's recording session was set back, but the upside was that a song they originally wanted for her became available in the interim.

OUTPOURING OF LOVE

If Brown knew he was loved before the accident, it's likely he had no idea to what extent

When he couldn't receive cards or visitors in intensive care, DuBois encouraged people to send e-mails, and hundreds poured in. Old friends reconnected. Rodney Crowell kept a vigil at the hospital. McEntire came to Brown's room and sang to him as he was emerging

Even former Capitol Records Nashville chief Jimmy Bowen sent a letter. "I haven't heard from him in forever," Brown says, "and I got this wrinkled-up, dirty, nasty-looking envelope in the mail that just had 'Bowen' written in the corner. He just told me to take the elevator."

Bowen wasn't the only friend with a sense of humor. "In the beginning I got flowers," Brown says. "Then I started getting the baskets with the Goo Goo Clusters and pound cakes. Then I started getting boxes with little skull caps and doo-rags.'

With the crisis behind them, Brown and DuBois are relishing the miracle of his recovery.

"I'd never want to go through it again," DuBois says, "but to have him back 100% and to be able to feel the joy of experiencing this miracle is something I wouldn't want to give Brown says the accident has changed his life in both small and large ways. Now, he says, "I sure do hold onto the handrail when I go down steps.

Beyond that, "it made me realize how all of us take a normal day for granted, when a normal day is an incredible experience," he says. "It made me want to be sure that I treat people right, because that's what it's all about.

ON THE ROW

Grand Ole Opry Changes Its Channel

The Grand Ole Opry will switch cable TV homes, moving from CMT to GAC beginning Oct. 4. "Grand Ole Opry Live" will be telecast live Saturday night at 8 p.m. (ET) and will be repeated three times during the weekend and twice more on Tuesday evenings.

Although GAC's reach is significantly smaller than that of CMT, Steve Buchanan, senior VP of media and entertainment for Opry parent Gaylord Entertainment, cites "more frequent viewing opportunities" on GAC as a reason for the switch. Jones Media Networks, parent of GAC, will provide additional Opry exposure through its Jones Radio Networks.

CMT, meanwhile, released a statement that said it "loves, respects and supports the great institution of the Grand Ole Opry and its significance in country music. The contract between CMT and Gaylord Entertainment for the Opry telecast has reached the end of its term . . . CMT and Gaylord Entertainment negotiated for a new term, but an agreement was not reached."

Changes Pay Off At KPNT, Now Among St. Louis' Top Five Stations

Three years ago, St. Louis had two stations battling it out for rock supremacy: active WXTM (Extreme Radio) and modern KPNT (the Point). When Emmis, which had owned WXTM, bought Sinclair's properties, which included KPNT, Extreme PD Tommy Mattern was moved to KPNT, and the two stations were combined. Last year, Mattern hired his former Extreme MD, Jeff "Woody" Fife, as APD. The changes have paid off, with KPNT currently a top five station 12-plus.

Mattern says the success is "a culmination of a lot of things. When Emmis took over the station, there had been a dogfight between the Point and Extreme, so we basically merged those two stations together, and it took a little while to feel out the right people and get the right mix as far as the product went. We got a huge boost when we were able to get

Woody back, and Frizz has emerged as a solid player now as the imaging guy and music director. Also, Kyle Guderian has brought a lot to the table from a marketing point of view, which we were lacking for a long time.

That doesn't mean there wasn't some initial confusion. "There was some backlash in the beginning," Mattern says. "Extreme had a definite core following, a very passionate crowd. So there was an adjustment period for the first six months or so. Any time you take away choices, the listeners get a little upset."

KPNT also had a bit of an identity crisis. "After the buyout, the Point leaned a lot harder than it does now," Mattern says. "When we combined the audience of the Point and Extreme and did research and music tests, the outcome was a lot harder than it is now. I think it took a good six months for us to find the balance. We were a little too hard and had a little bit too much of that extreme attitude, and we've balanced the stations, which shows in the ratings

"Another part of it had to do with a complete overhaul of air personalities," Mattern says. "It has taken a little while, but I feel that we've finally got the right mix in here. And from an imaging and attitude standpoint, it has come together. The station was a little more dark before, whereas now it's more upbeat, fun and entertaining. It still has a bite when it needs to, though.

"Ultimately, Emmis did a really good job of putting everybody together," Mattern continues. "As far as rock goes, KPNT is handling the vounger end, and we overlap a little with [heritage] KSHE when it comes to Metallica and the grunge stuff. They handle the middle ground of the demo, and they pass them off to KIHT [K-Hits], our classic hits station, and Emmis shores up men 18-54.

EXTREME NO MORE

Mattern and Fife think that the word "extreme" has lost its meaning since the days when

"To define 'extreme' is just about as hard as defining 'modern,' " Mattern says. "It's rock, it's new rock, and St. Louis is still a meat-and-potatoes town, and there's an appetite for the harder styles of music Fife says, "I think 'extreme' here means something completely different than it does in other markets. You say 'extreme' here, and people want to hear Slaver and Pantera. But in other places, where they're stuck with a female-friendly station that plays Dave Matthews and Coldplay, they'll say System of a Down is extreme. Here, System is the center of our universe.

"I think the musical formula is really good right now. We have Linkin Park, System and Sevendust on, but when the new Radiohead came out, we went on that. We're KPNT St. Louis Owner: Emmis Ratings: 4.1-3.7-4.0-4.6 plaving stuff that still makes us a modern."

One flavor of KPNT's musical balance is hiphop. "In St. Louis, we've continually had success with [hip-hop]," Mattern says. "Whether it was Snoop [Dogg] and Rage [Against the Machine's] 'Snoop Bounce,' or P.O.D. and Nappy Roots' 'Awnaw,' these records have always done real well for us.'

Fife says, "As time has gone on, that stuff is working more and more as a rule instead of the exception. I'm 26, and Tommy's only a few years older than me, and even in the 25- to 30year-old demographic, everyone grew up with Run-D.M.C. and N.W.A and Public Enemy. It has always been a part of what we do. But even more so now with kids growing up, hip-hop is the sexy lifestyle. It's cars and women, and no one wants to be the depressed-looking, lonely rock star anymore.

"Rock stars have changed from what our par-

"The rap/rock is the stuff that the [purists] of the format wish would go away, because they want things to go back to the days of the Cure and be hip," Fife continues. "But mainstream modern rock is different now, and you're going to see more and more of that stuff. Some stations can't get away with it, because they come off as too hip for the room. But KROQ [Los Angeles] plays DMX. It's all in the presentation. It works if you present it as, 'Hey, this is just cool.' I played an Obie Trice record last week, and that's straight hip-hop, but people loved it."

At the other end of the spectrum, emo hasn't reached critical mass at KPNT yet. "As far as the Point goes, [emo] is still kind of a work in progress," Mattern says. "We haven't played a ton of that type of music here, and the ones that we have have varied in success. Dashboard Confessional's 'Screaming Infidelities' did really well for us, but some of the others, not so much. I think the jury's still out as to whether or not that music absolutely works in St. Louis

Fife adds, "I think it also has to do with the makeup of the market. We strive to strike a balance, and we want to play the biggest of the biggest of the emo stuff. But with the makeup of the market, we have a modern AC [WVRV (the River)] here that's relatively aggressive. They'll end up playing Dashboard Confessional, or Fountains of Wavne, or whoever it is at the time. And they have their competition, which will also step out and play the Fountains of Wayne. There's a perception in the market that anything that has that emo sound doesn't have an instant image of being a Point record. Even if it is modern, people will think it's River music."

Like many modern stations, KPNT's gold goes back roughly as far as the 10 years it has been on the air. "With the exception of old Beastie Boys songs, we play maybe one song from the '80s," Mattern says. "Other than that, it's a lot of grunge and the Offsprings and Blink-182s. There's more of a tolerance for grunge than in L.A. or New York right now. Grunge is still huge here.

Fife says the music hasn't been strong enough to get the station to its current ratings. "While it hasn't been horrible, the music hasn't been great to the point where it can sustain the kind of numbers that the station brings in. A lot of that has to do with Howard [Stern] in the morning, and we added 'Loveline' and made some personality changes. Our jocks are encouraged to be better than the music, be interactive, talk to people and do compelling radio. When you can follow that up with a smash, you're that much

Speaking of Stern, Fife says, "Howard's his own entity. He comes in and brings his numbers, and there's a lot of Point listeners that listen to him that like the station in general. But there's also that group of people that don't like the music that we play, and they just come in to check out Howard and they go. But we're probably in the top five stations that have him that convert cume into the rest of the day. I wouldn't say we do anything above and beyond the normal stuff. We're not doing any kind of contesting or quantitative music sell immediately following Howard. The Point has been in the market for 10 years, and people know what this station's about. They know if they're going to stay and check it out or not, so we don't need to sell them on it.

At 10 years, KPNT is beginning to approach becoming a heritage station, something it didn't necessarily go out of its way to promote. 'We used the slogan 'the Point, V10.0,' which we thought was a cool way to not say, 'Hey, we're a bunch of old fat guys running a rock station,' "Mattern says. "It was a good way to not throw it in their faces. We used a couple of imaging sweepers as well and did a birthday

H=Heavy (30+ Detections), M=Medium (15-29), L=Light (Under 15). Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience.

Initial impact: songs appearing on this page for the first time in summary form. Airplay Adds are songs with 6 or more detections at new stations this week. The Airplay Leaderboard ranks taste-maker stations that have been the most successful in identifying future hit songs as measured by the amount of AIRPOWER titles for which they were Airplay Leaders. Refer to each format's Power Playlists page to see this week's Airplay Leaders. The indicates title earned HitPredictor status in research data provided by Promosquad.

Why Would You Rather Be A Thug?

Item: During an on-air interview, the morning co-host on WOHT (Hot 97) New York asks R&B singer Jaheim if he's "a homosexual." The next thing heard is a scuffle during which, according to news reports (and a subsequent station promo), the studio is torn up. (Jaheim has since returned to the show to apologize.)

Item: Two days later, Jaheim's labelmate Madonna kisses Britney Spears at the MTV Video Music Awards The kiss is front-page news and replayed repeatedly on TV the next day, giving Madonna's "Hollywood" more concentrated exposure than it ever got on radio. And even though we had already been through the "is she or isn't she" speculation with Madonna a decade ago, she is once again hailed as America's savviest self-marketer.

So Jaheim, pal, why would you even sweat that question? Hasn't America recently expanded its acceptance of gay sitcom characters into the acceptance of the real-life stars of 'Queer Eye for the Straight Guy"? And if America is willing to fetishize not only Madonna and Britney but also two Russians in schoolgirl uniforms who pretend to make out onstage, then I'm sure it's just a matter of time before everyone comes around on gay marriage and asking a celebrity if they're gay is no more loaded than asking what they had for breakfast, right?

You say it's different in the world of R&B and hip-hop? But gee, Eminem went to so much trouble in "8 Mile" to explain that calling some-body a "f—" wasn't really meant to imply any judgment whatsoever about their sexual preference: just a playful way of calling someone a wussy. And if there was really anything wrong with that word, you wouldn't hear all those hiphop radio edits where every other ephitet is excised, except that one, right?

Seriously, though, why would you think that it's worse to be asked if you're a homosexual than to be called a thug? Couldn't be just because so many artists have spent the better part of the past decade bragging about being the latter (when they're not boasting about being a P.I.M.P.). Meanwhile, anyone who likes hip-hop but isn't a homophobe has silently endured a lot of cognitive dissonance about its lyrics, lest their own place in the community be questioned.

Being a thug, on the other hand, seems to be without consequence in this industry. If it's OK to attack someone because you didn't like the way they edited a video, because they leaked your album or because they wanted you to wake up early and visit another damn radio station, why wouldn't it be OK to tear up a studic? Besides, if being arrested for stabbing her husband finally gave Keke Wyatt some cachet at those hip-hop stations that won't always play R&B records, maybe showing everyone how tough you are will finally get you on some of those stations, too, right?

OK, I don't have a lot of respect for the guy who asked you the question, either. It's none of his business, and five years after Wendy Williams built a career on speculating about artists' sexuality, it's not even all that cutting edge. But I don't take kindly to attacking journalists, either-that's supposed to happen in military dictatorships, not on morning shows.

The odd part is that I'd somehow managed to miss the rumors about your personal life. All I knew was that "Still Ghetto" contained two great singles and an incredible sense of R&B history that should have found more acceptance at hip-hop and top 40 radio. Every now and then, I make the mistake of thinking that someone who likes the same old records I do is someone who I could respect in real life, too. Last fall, "Fabulous" made my top five singles for the year, and I wrote about you in the same sentence as Curtis Mayfield. That won't happen anymore.

Because even though "Fabulous" made it clear that racism was still a problem in our society, when it comes to homophobia, it's clearly easier to lash out than speak out. Meanwhile, two communities that ought to unite continue to be played off against each other, while hip-hop's audience remains disproportionately victimized by AIDS, and homophobia is one reason that even straight listeners won't seek treatment. While you're under no obligation as an artist to tackle any of those, I'd thought you had the talent to do so, if you had been so inclined.

So what could you have done, put on the spot like that? You could've laughed it off (worked for Missy Elliott on "Gossip Folks"). You could've told your interviewer that it was none of his damn business or that Hot 97 could find someone else for its station show next time around. (All that equipment was probably insured; if you really want to hurt a station, mess with its NTR.) Today's music already has an overabundance of thugs. It's musical and personal leadership that's at a premium.
