• ROCK ROUNDUP •

by Mark Marone

WOODSTOCK LOLLAPALOOZA, RADIO FESTIVALS. This summer has seen a good share of large, all-day outdoor rock concerts and stadium shows that have entertained sometimes reluctant masses of ticket buyers. Increasingly, the concert-goer must endure taxing demands at today's concerts. Given the circumstances, including the inclement weather and breakdown of security, Woodstock was miraculously pulled off. Although the show featured an incredible lineup of music, Woodstock, like Lollapalooza, did make it clear that inadequacies exist in the policies of some all-day festivals (or three days at Woodstock).

Both events had unreasonable restrictions for concert-goers that included stipulations on food and bottled water for concerts which could last from 10 hours to 72 hours. The cost of goods and services at the concerts, which the ticketholders are resigned to paying once they're inside, make the concert experience an expensive proposition to the overwhelmingly young majority. With the long lengths of some summer shows, basic necessities could be allowed on the concert grounds with little or no effect on the financial gains for the promoter and concession stands. The summer festival experience should be an enjoyable, memorable event, not an expensive survival test.

Stadium shows also haven't provided much relief to ticket buyers. A night out to see Pink Floyd or the Eagles this summer, with their ticket prices averaging $100, could easily turn into a $300 night for a couple of fans. Within the last few years, ticket prices have soared to new heights. Rock music thrives on a live forum, and unless the constricting stipulations and escalating ticket prices improve, we're running the risk of losing the viability of the live show in the '90s.

KEVIN WEATHERLY, PD OF KROQ Los Angeles has joined the Billboard/Airplay Monitor Radio Seminar as co-facilitator of the Modern Rock format session. It will be held Friday, Sept. 9 from 2 p.m. to 3:15 p.m. at the New York Hilton & Towers hotel.

Records showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A record which has been on either chart for more than 20 weeks will not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to those records which attain 800 detections (album) or 400 detections (modern) for the first time. If two records are tied in number of plays, the record being played on more stations is placed first. Records below the top 20 are removed from the charts after 26 weeks.

SAM PHILLIPS
Baby I Can't Please You

ALBUM SALES OVER 100,000

"WDRE is really psyched to play Sam Phillips - she adds a wonderful balance to the station. I wish the Monitor would show how well the record is performing in our Philadelphia and Albany markets too."

-TDM CALDERONE, WDRE

"Sam Phillips is a lyrical inspiration, and a real artist for Modern Rock. Now is her time."

-LESLIE FRAM, 99X
