Radio Tries To Save The Record Business

■ by Marc Schiffman

Every angle of the business seems to be struggling these days in this weak economy, but perhaps none so much as the record companies, which are facing dwindling sales, skyrocketing costs, and a whole generation of music fans who are undercutting the majors by pirating the music they want off the Internet. Airplay Monitor canvassed those on the radio side for their ideas on how they would rejuvenate the record industry if they were in the CEO seat at one of the major labels.

Many prompted labels to better use the new technology out there to help expose their releases either through radio Web sites or providing downloads with the lowest cost and the highest quality. Others suggested that artists themselves need to play a bigger role in their self-promotion by being in fans' faces as much as possible through station shows or at least visiting the station while in town. The country world's Fan Fair was mentioned as a good model to use to take artists off their pedestals and bring them to the masses that make them stars. That connection can reap great dividends.

And some dissected promotion department strategies, saying fewer releases, regional plans, and more serious time with the programmers would go a long way in defraying costs and giving a better cost-to-benefit ratio.

Here are the respondents and their suggestions.

CC Employees Asked To Bankroll Committee

Clear Channel employees are being asked to voluntarily kick back a portion of their salaries to bankroll the company's newly formed political action committee, according to the Chicago Sun-Times. Chairman/CEO Lowry Mays reportedly sent letters to employees' homes asking them to help "effectively communicate our political positions with timely access to elected officials."

MAYS

Mays said in his letter that lobbying efforts have become increasingly important and that "as Clear Channel grows, it is critical to tell our story and defend our positions."

The letter contained a "membership application" with a suggested contribution of 1% of the employees' base salaries. The letter also reportedly noted that contributions are voluntary and that employees who do not contribute will not face reprisal from the company.

Speaking at the Deutsche Bank Media Conference this week, Mays addressed a few other issues regarding his company. He's supporting anti-payola legislation sponsored by Sen. Russell Feingold, D-Wis. Calling payola an old problem, Mays said, "It's an aberration... and has in certain instances created some unfavorable aspects of money and other benefits going to the people who are responsible for playing [music]." Mays has also spoken with Rep. Howard Berman, D-Calif., about concerns over Clear Channel's size and growing power in the industry. He refuted claims that Britney Spears suffered lower airplay at Clear Channel stations when she did not sign a deal with Clear Channel Entertainment. Mays cited airplay figures showing his top 40 stations playing her music more while she was on the road.

Interscope's Top 40 Supremacy

Interscope Records becomes the first label in Airplay Monitor history to have simultaneous No. 1 titles at mainstream top 40, rhythmic top 40, crossover, and adult top 40. Those tracks are Vanessa Carlton's "A Thousand Miles," Eminem's "Without Me," Truth Hurts Featuring Rakim's "Addictive," and Sheryl Crow's "Soak Up the Sun," respectively. The first Monitor top 40 charts started in October 1992; the adult top 40 chart bowed in March of 1996; and the crossover charts debuted in July 1997.

Eminem's No. 1 track at rhythmic top 40 ends an eight-week run by Ashanti's "Foolish" (Murder Inc./Def Jam/IDJMG). This comes after his impressive debut atop The Billboard 200 albums chart. The Eminem Show—which Interscope released earlier than planned—had only two days of eligibility for the official sales chart yet still managed to sell 284,000 copies. It's Eminem's second No. 1 at rhythmic—"The Real Slim Shady" spent five weeks at No. 1 in 2000.

Two remakes debut at mainstream top 40. "Papa Don't Preach" (Epic) by Kelly Osbourne debuts at No. 37, while "Heaven" (Robbins) by DJ Sammy & Yanou Featuring Do bows at No. 38. Both of the original songs—by Madonna and Bryan Adams, respectively—were No. 1 hits during the mid-'80s. Both of the remakes have been on the mainstream audience chart for the past three weeks. This week on the audience side, "Heaven" moves 25-21, while "Papa" moves 31-29.

Wyclef Jean debuts at rhythmic at No. 39 with "Two Wrongs" (Columbia), his duet with Claudette Ortiz of City High. It's his eighth chart appearance at rhythmic to date. He has made the charts three times with Fugees and five times as a solo artist. His most successful solo appearance at rhythmic was "Gone Till November," which made it to No. 19 in March 1998. He made it to No. 1 with Fugees back in April 1996 with "Killing Me Softly." That song spent nine weeks at No. 1 and 29 weeks on the chart.

Moby debuts on the adult top 40 audience chart with "We Are All Made of Stars" (V2). It's the first single from his new CD 18, which sits at No. 1 on the Music & Media European top 100 albums chart for the second week. The single moves 34-31 in its third week on the modern AC chart.

John Mayer's "No Such Thing" (Aware/Columbia) debuts at AC at No. 29. Already a top 10 adult top 40 and modern AC hit, "No Such Thing" is also on the mainstream top 40 chart this week at No. 40.

Elton John debuts at AC at No. 30 with "Original Sin" (Rocket/Universal). This marks John's 59th chart appearance at AC, more than any other artist. His first charted single at AC was "Your Song," which debuted Dec. 26, 1970, and reached No. 9. Two other AC chart veterans, Daryl Hall & John Oates, are enjoying their 26th appearance on the AC chart, as their latest single "Do It for Love" (BMG Heritage/Arista/RCA) moves 20-19 in its third week on the chart. It's their first time back on the charts in more than four years. Meanwhile, Josh Groban is top-five bound, as "To Where You Are" (143/Reprise) moves 9-6 and for the third time, earns Greatest Gainer honors at AC.

LABEL NEWS: As reported by Billboard Bulletin, Warner Bros. Records president Phil Quartararo has exited the company after more than four years. There isn't any word yet on his replacement. Quartararo, a 20-year promotion veteran, also held similar duties at Virgin Records.

Charlie Foster segues from senior VP of pop promotion at Universal to VP of pop promotion at TVT Records, effective June 3.

Taking Time Off Isn't Always Easy

Summer means vacation time for the bulk of the population, and it's no different for our Promoganda panelists, who try to schedule time away from work while the weather is warm. But getting away from the office is never an easy proposition, especially when big summer events are going on.

Country WMZQ Washington, D.C.'s Wendie Vestfall claims that in order to take more than a week off, she needs to make "a bargain with the devil." But others, like AC KIMN Denver's Mark Murdock, don't think it's that bad. "I am getting married this year, and I am planning an extended honeymoon too," he says. "My work is totally cool with [taking] time off when you need it."

BY ANGELA KING

615-321-4286 • aking@airplaymonitor.com

Maybe so, agrees country WWKA (K92) Orlando, Fla.'s Kim Riggi, but she maintains that she has to work three times as hard during the week before and the week after her vacation.

Rock KSJO San Francisco's Jim Sheehan says he avoids being away for extended periods. "I don't schedule anything longer than five business days. That's plenty for me."

That's also plenty for most of our panelists, who know what awaits them when they return. Vestfall says, "I was off one day for Memorial Day weekend. I came back to 75 e-mails, my voicemail was full, and I had three salespeople drooling outside my office door ready to strike. Put all of it together, and you're stressed five minutes after you walk through the door."

Sheehan agrees that "gearing back up for the pace [of the office]" is the toughest part about returning to work.

And Murdock says that getting back into the swing of things is most difficult for him. "No one in sales knows or cares where or why you have been gone, and they expect the same out of you as before you were gone."

So what's the best way to hit the ground running when you return to work? Sheehan, who is planning a trip to Puerto Vallarta this year, admits, "I usually sneak in the night before and read some e-mail to get a view of what happened while I was gone."

Murdock also catches up electronically. "I check e-mail while I'm away, but I do not have to be available by phone," he says. "I always worry about stuff while I am away; [it] comes with loving your job."

And Vestfall says she has a compulsion about staying in touch. "I try not to check e-mail when I'm gone, [but] I'm a 'type A' [personality], so usually a day or two before it's time to come back, I'll start to get the jitters and have to check e-mail or our Web site to make sure things are going well."

Vestfall also leaves an "emergency number where I can be reached [while away]. However, everyone's pretty good at only calling if they are desperate."

Riggi, who will be traveling to Sweden this summer, also leaves an emergency number, but says, "The only thing that could happen at the station that I'd want to know about is if Garth Brooks or Gary Allan came by. I'd run back to the station if that happened."

A Building Boom Comes For R&B

If there was any confirmation needed that R&B had become this year's boom format—the successor to Jammin' Oldies or '80s oldies in that regard—it came a few weeks ago when Nashville got its third R&B station. WNPL (Blazin' 106.7) switched from classic rock to protect heritage outlet WQQK (92Q) and flank Clear Channel's fast-rising new rival WUBT (the Beat).

Nashville has spent the past six years with only one R&B FM; within the space of six months, it got two more: one leaning young, one leaning even younger. In that respect, the sudden rush to build new R&B FMs didn't even recall San Diego getting two '80s stations the same weekend—it was more like Pittsburgh going from one country station to three nearly a decade ago. And similar three-way battles have sprung up in Norfolk and Richmond, Va., in recent years.

The opening for a young-end R&B FM in Nashville had been apparent for a while. 92Q had been leaning adult for several years, but there wasn't any interest in filling that hole for some time, in the same way there hadn't been any interest in filling the hole for any R&B and hip-hop on FM in some seemingly obvious markets until just a few years earlier. Las Vegas never had a commercial R&B FM—except for one adult-leaning outlet—until last year. Now it has two. WROU (U92) Dayton, Ohio's owner spent 10 years building a new station to fill a hole when a heritage R&B FM was exiled to AM in the early '80s. A few years later, it had its first head-on challenger. When that station became top 40 WDKF, WDHT (Hot 102.9) came along to replace it.

The R&B building boom is a testament to the undeniable mass-appeal nature of hip-hop and R&B. While the format always had a larger and more diverse listener coalition than it got credit for, hip-hop's expanding place in the consumer press, in pop culture, and on top 40 radio has made it harder to ignore. But there are other factors at work.

One is that many large groups have finally committed to R&B radio. While Clear Channel was never out of the format—in fact, Jacor's first secular outlet was actually R&B-formatted WVOI Toledo, Ohio, in the early '80s—it has started aggressively building new R&B FMs only in the past year or two, adding them in Richmond, Va.; Nashville; Savannah, Ga.; Charleston, S.C.; and, most notably, in New York with WWPR (Power 105.1). That's just a partial list, and there may be more by the time you read this.

Infinity inherited powerhouses WVEE (V103) Atlanta and WPGC-FM Washington, D.C. Now it too has become aggressive, filling the holes in Hartford, Conn., and West Palm Beach, Fla., and relaunching WXYV (X105.7) Baltimore. And smaller groups from Saga to Marathon have also launched their first R&B FMs in recent years. Then there was Radio One, whose growth spurt was responsible for the Dayton battle, as well as one in St. Louis.

The decline of our next-to-last hot format, Jammin' Oldies, probably had something to do with it as well. When that format ran its course, stations were left looking for something to do that at least partially took advantage of the available audience. And while many of the new sign-ons have adhered to a paradigm that WQHT (Hot 97) New York helped create eight years ago by playing more hip-hop than incumbent WRKS, we'll probably see more stations along the lines of WWPR look for an opening by using "Oh, wow" oldies and being a tad more adult-friendly. In fact, because so many of the early '90s' biggest records were hip-hop, it's almost easier for R&B to take advantage of early-'90s gold than a traditional adult top 40 station.

Will there be three mainstream R&B outlets in Nashville indefinitely? History has already answered that question. There aren't two '80s stations in San Diego anymore, and there are no longer three country FMs in Pittsburgh. While consolidation and Clear Channel's touring/radio synergies make it much easier for an owner to commit to R&B than it was a decade ago, some owners will probably decide not to fight a three- or four-way war of attrition indefinitely—if that's what some of the new market wars become. The size of the R&B audience, on the other hand, will probably remain consistent, regardless of the number of players in the market or the amount of music shared between R&B and top 40 radio. It was, after all, a more-than-healthy format even when there weren't new R&B stations every week. But now the industry has woken up.

NHL Avalanche franchise. To win game tickets, the station offered three listeners—who were clad in boxer shorts—a chance to sit on blocks of ice with the team logo emblazoned on them. The last one sitting won the tickets. Garret Doll's ice-maker was working overtime for this promotion.

Country WBEE Rochester, N.Y., is staging a summerlong Random Acts of Country promotion. When artists are in town for a concert or a radio tour, the station sponsors a short, acoustic set at a random location in town. Some of the acts that have already played local parks and parking lots are BlackHawk, Little Big Town, and Hometown News. Ally-Marie Clark is busy scouting street corners and grocery-store deli departments for future shows.

An unusual concert twist is offered by country WFMS Indianapolis, which is staging its Girl's Night Out concert. The station has joined with two sponsors—Weight Watchers and Cash Quick Payday Loans—to give women an up-close ogle at Trace Adkins and Keith Urban. The event includes a pre-concert party with food, drinks, and interactive activities. Lisa Juillerat plans to have a front-row seat.

Get rid of the glitter and the glamour dinners because you're in town, and let's sit down, roll up the sleeves, and get business done.

If I go to dinner with you, I want to get an act for my Miracle on 34th Street show and hear about new music coming out on your label. I want you to learn everything that's going on at my station in the coming year.

Utilize radio with your artist. Treat it like it is a major media. I'm tired of seeing Jennifer Lopez on [such TV shows as] Oprah, Good Day America, Jay Leno, David Letterman; but she won't visit a radio station that plays her records every two hours. Record companies have to step up to the plate and demand that their artists treat major stations with the same respect that they treat TV.

Once a record is added, follow up to the bitter end. So many times a record gets added and they wipe their brow and move to the next record. They never ask, "How's it doing in research, sales, or call-out?" [or] "Is the record in any danger?" Then once it's dropped, they call and ask, "What the hell did you do?" Meanwhile, they didn't ask me about the record once in the previous six weeks.

ALAN BURNS & ASSOCIATES CONSULTANT ALAN BURNS

The first thing I would do is to make sure that I was focusing my resources on the best product I had. Test the product, find out what really had the potential to be a hit, and really chase that hard, as opposed to throwing a lot of product out there and chasing it all.

The traditional method of doing business is to sign an act, make some music, and then spend millions of dollars trying to get it on the radio and then find out if it's a hit or not. What I would do is sign an act, make the music, and find out if it could be a hit and then spend the money.

We have a research company called Pick the Hits, and from what we've done it's very obvious you can find out what's going to be a hit well in advance. We've seen a label throw $4 million at a project that we knew and told them absolutely wasn't going to work. Politically, they probably had to throw some resource at the project, but they didn't have to throw $4 million. They could have taken $3.5 million of that and put it to the bottom line or toward another project.

By the same token, we've seen product out there that had the potential to be a hit record that a company didn't have the resource to support.

There's money being wasted on product that's not going to return the investment. Then there's potential hits that don't happen because resources are not properly allocated.

The other two things would be to try to look at increasing value to the customer. What can we include in a CD purchase that can't be downloaded effectively or at all? I'd also offer low-priced or free samplers of an artist that can further introduce the consumer to an artist and prompt them to buy the full CD.

The third thing is I would start looking at trying to make the Internet my friend and not my enemy. It's much better at establishing a new artist than boosting established artists.

ABC VP OF PROGRAMMING TOM CUDDY

One thing I'd do is give radio stations permission to put song samples on their Web sites to expose cuts on albums that might not be in full rotation at a radio station. With the [Copyright Arbitration Royalty Panel] hearings and so many stations stopped streaming, they're losing a great opportunity to showcase new acts and get peo-

After criss-crossing the country for decades while programming everywhere from and between New York and Los Angeles, including the launch of the first adult top 40—KFMB-FM (B100) San Diego—Bobby Rich settled in Tucson, Ariz., in the early '90s. "I decided to go someplace that I wanted to go to instead of the next place that offered me a job," he says. He purchased a move-in station that went broke after only a year. That's when he signed on as PD/morning co-host of what would become KMXZ. It was then known as KKLD and making the transition from its beautiful-music roots to a full-on AC. "They really wanted a higher profile on the air and wanted a big morning show and wanted not to sound like or be perceived as a background-music station."

Mission accomplished with his arrival. "We've been pretty consecutively No. 1 25-54, [consistently] No. 1 with women . . . and No. 1 or No. 2 25-54 persons." The crowning achievement came in the past book, when KMXZ went No. 1 12-plus. It was the first time Rich was in first place at a station since 1979 when he was at B100. "That 12-plus thing has eluded me all this time," he says, "so this was a really big deal, personally."

Rich says that upon his arrival, there was a complacency at KKLD of "Let's just play a bunch of songs" and "People are so used to having this station on that they'll just keep it there," he says. He tightened the list, picked up the tempo, used more production, stepped up the talent level, and strived for a higher energy between the records that for this format are, by design, usually ballads.

Rich says he upped the ante in mornings too, alongside co-host Brad Behan. "We put on news and traffic and weather and started doing bits and playing sound effects and music beds and laughing out loud."

By the time the station was firing on all cylinders—reflecting the image Rich had in his mind—it ditched the KKLD calls for KMXZ and the Mix handle in 1995. "We were able to tell the story that it was the same great music with a new name," Rich says. "By the time we made the change to calling the station 'Mix,' we had already solidified our position with adult women," and the station was well on its way to cornering the adult audience at large.

Rich is not complacent to leave well enough alone. Even after his first No. 1 12-plus showing of the new century, he was under the hood tinkering. "We've made—what for an adult listening audience—is subtle changes along the way, and we are always [doing that]," he says. While admitting that "in our format, change is not a very good thing," Rich says he hates the warhorse adage, "If it ain't broke, don't fix it," which drives so many in this business. "In my estimation, you should fix things before they break."

So, despite topping the winter ratings heap, the station rolled out a brand-new campaign, with the new handle "Tucson's soft rock" in place of the "Tucson's best music mix" slogan it had been using.

Rich says the "soft rock" phrase was new to the market. "We did a research study [testing] different perceptions of positioners, and the term 'soft rock' kept coming up as how our own listeners were describing our station, even though we had never said it and nobody in the market had ever used it." Following the listeners' lead, KMXZ unveiled a new campaign—"one of our biggest we've ever done"—with TV spots, new art for their station vehicles, and, of course, the new handle.

"It offers us an opportunity to remarket the station with this fresh approach to go out and get some come-building," Rich says. "We recognize an opportunity that is both defensive and offensive," he adds, because the station has now laid claim to the "soft rock" phrase in the market. It has allowed KMXZ to add a new shine to its formula and prevent another station from claiming the term.

While Rich admits some observers might call Mix a soft or light AC, "I think we're mainstream," he says. "It's very broad. We play currents, we play recurrences. We play '90s, '80s, and '70s. As wide as that sounds, it is that very thing—built around all the other structure of our product and our community imagery and how we promote and how we act in town—that allows us to have as large a number as we can haul in."

The market layout contributes to that stance as well. Rich says there are "fewer stations per capita than you find in many other markets, which makes all of us in this market very, very happy." While there isn't a direct competitor, his primary sharing is with an adult top 40 sister and the market's country stations, which Rich says "work almost like ACs would in some markets," as well as classic hits, classic rock, oldies, and even N/T.

So, Rich says, "the upside of being broadly programmed—which is usually considered to be dangerous and not focused enough—[is that] we can be a P1 to a good percentage of listeners and we can be P2 to a whole bunch of others, and the combination allows us to have some pretty awesome numbers."

A major point in Rich's between-the-music arsenal is community involvement, "letting it be known that we care about the community and we support as many things as we feel good about supporting," he says. "It's huge for us. We consider that as important to our overall package as any of the other elements. I don't know why everybody doesn't [think that way] in radio. I can't imagine why you wouldn't, because it's easy and it's obvious and it makes sense, and you build a relationship with your community by promoting and choosing and educating."

Rich adds that his station looks for locally based charities, as opposed to national efforts. "It's a way to be and stay local and connected to our own community." MARC SCHIFFMAN ple to whet their appetite for a new act other than what they hear on the station.

[Another thing is to] cut down dramatically on the number of releases each year. So many records get lost that never get the time of day at radio to get exposed, which is a waste of money and resources and manpower. Labels should spend more time nurturing more acts, the stars of tomorrow, and they could do that if they didn't have as many projects to work. They could make sure more could go the distance and have more money to make the campaigns go further. I don't think that quantity of releases is necessarily better than the quality of releases. Cut back on releases, make sure you're committed to the ones out there, and make sure we get more hits with the ones released.

The record industry is concerned about the piracy happening via the Internet. Instead of trying to fight the process—which is not ever going to go away—the thing to do is embrace it and to offer a better-quality file than what the typical listener can get from the Internet today. What the record industry should do is launch a massive campaign [like], "Get the new Bryan Adams CD via the Internet. These are uncompressed files, created in pristine quality." The campaign could go on: "When you pirate the music via the Internet, you don't know if some 13-year-old with some used sound card created the file. We're going to sell it to you at a much reduced cost since the reseller—the record store—is no longer involved and offer you the best quality you can get anywhere, guaranteed. For an extra $1.50, you can download onto your color printer the liner notes. If you really want the whole CD package with the jewel case, we'll sell that for $11.99 via the Internet and have it to you in 72 hours."

You're getting the originals for $6.99 or $7.99. The consumer wins, because they get a wonderful product for less . . . This way, it's easier for them to choose all the different versions of a song. They'll be intrigued and excited about buying a sound file more so than they've been at a record store.

CLEAR CHANNEL/BAY AREA DIRECTOR OF PROGRAMMING AND OPERATIONS MICHAEL MARTIN

[I would] pull all of my staff in—from the interns to the heads of departments—and get them to hit the clubs, the malls, the flea markets, the schools—everywhere they can be around potential buyers and listeners to see what they are listening to, wearing, saying, etc. What gets them excited about product and artists? Get them to also sit behind a record-store counter one day and watch who comes in and the combinations of music they buy. Teach them to look beyond the paper reports and see who the potential market is. Remind them that through all the research and reports, it's still rock'n'roll. Get out there and be creative and make some noise. Come up with great promotions to offer instead of waiting for radio to come at us. Be creative to cut through.

CLEAR CHANNEL/FLORIDA REGIONAL DIRECTOR OF PROGRAMMING ROB ROBERTS

Make the staff listen to every station in their territory at length to learn what the station is truly about. This will ensure all the right records are worked at each station instead of throwing everything at them, claiming, "They're all priorities."

Get three guys in a back room that you don't know anything about to load viruses onto every server that offers pirated MP3 downloads. This is payback for the record industry. It started with 78s and then went to 33 1/3s and cassettes and CDs, and they kept changing the method of delivery so they could sell new product. This is kind of a turnaround. They have to get on top of the technology and figure out a way to utilize it. If this is a downloading problem, maybe the answer is not to punish but find a way to reward people who download off an official site. Download the new Eminem and have the opportunity to win an MP3 player. It's radio promotion. Find out what people are already doing and reward them for doing it more.

There has to be a change in the dynamic between artists and radio and the fans. People have looked for years at the country world's Fan Fair and the way country artists interact with their fans. In the country world, people see the Dixie Chicks as more accessible and the kind of people they'd like to have dinner with.

There's a dynamic at play that's drawn lines between the superstars and the product they're trying to sell and the way they're reaching out to the community. Unlike movie stars [who] live on a movie or video screen, in the music world, they're taking the CD everywhere. It speaks to them—it in some way evolves their life. Artists have to find a new way to reach out and connect with people. [Just saying], 'I put it out and you buy it' doesn't suffice anymore.

AC WLTV NEW YORK OMCLEAR CHANNEL AC BRAND MANAGER JIM RYAN

The biggest problem the record industry has is the amount of money it costs for them to find a hit. Look at what McDonald's does. If McDonald's is going to put out a new sandwich, they'll try it in Grand Rapids, [Mich.], then Columbus, Ohio, and the Northeast, and then roll it out nationally.

It's really important to find a few radio stations for each record and just see if the record is a hit. Find some PDs or MDs that believe in a record and get them to play it, as opposed to always doing a nationwide launch.

It's insanity, the costs involved; and quite frankly, if you can get a story on a record out of a credible station, if it's me, I'm going to tell the other programmers in my company, and it'll spread. It gets the overhead down dramatically in releasing a record that way.

If the people at the labels spent a little less time in all the meetings that they go to—Columbia comes to mind; every time I call there, they're in a meeting for something—they [could have] a little more time to develop relationships with radio people.

The third thing is that we need to offer some sort of way when a radio station plays a record—for example, we're playing this Casey Chambers song and are aggressively early on it. Why can't we let people download [the song] for a minimal cost on our Web site? And if they like it, they'll go out

INFINITY/WASHINGTON, D.C., VP OF PROGRAMMING JAY STEVENS

[There should be] major price slashing on the CD side. If consumers saw that they could walk into a Best Buy or Circuit City and buy a CD for $7.99 instead of $17.99, suddenly it doesn't make as much sense to download it for free. After all, it's not easy to do that. You've got to buy the CD burner, buy blank CDs, find the CD on the Internet. It would be much easier [to spend] $7.99 or $8.99 to buy the whole CD.

It would be a new way of doing business. It would be like football teams renegotiating all their contracts, [meaning artists wouldn't get so much money up front anymore]. Maybe they'd be paid on performance, sales of CDs. Then the artist would have a vested interest in selling CDs. They'd work harder in terms of making radio station appearances and getting out there to meet their fans.

That's a key component in helping the industry during [its] time of duress right now. It's going to hurt profits... but it would be a good start.

ZAPOLEON MEDIA STRATEGIES CONSULTANT GUY ZAPOLEON

Do research. A lot of record companies aren't doing research, and they need to. Go through all of your artists and analyze their images. If you do a lot of homework in advance, you can develop a better strategic plan. A lot of times there are artists that have image problems, and the label just puts out songs because the manager wants them to. If they did some research on the artist first, they could correct any image problems before they put out the music.

Pretesting music. The label might have 10 songs for a new album and two songs they put on the back burner that could be the biggest success stories.

Make sure they're listening to every potential [hit], keeping an open mind to all of the amazing talent that's out there. Just because it doesn't sound like today, it could sound like tomorrow.

MP3. Have an immediate online initiative and let [people] know that they can buy things for 75 or 50 cents a track. I believe that Napster and all of those things promote music and promote interest in music rather than distract from it. The sooner everyone agrees on a price and gets people to start downloading, the people who are downloading now will start paying for the music that they're stealing.

Songs ranked by number of audience, computed by cross-referencing exact times of airplay with Arbitron listener data. Songs showing an increase in audience over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in audience does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in audience. A song with a gain in audience over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining in audience or each losing in audience, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs become recurrents and are removed from this chart in conjunction with the Mainstream Top 40 Airplay chart.

Songs ranked by number of detections. ○ Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Airplay Adds awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections or each losing detections, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs below the top 20 become recurrences and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.

Songs ranked by number of audience, computed by cross-referencing exact times of airplay with Arbitron listener data. ○ Songs showing an increase in audience over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in audience does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in audience. A song with a gain in audience over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining in audience or each losing in audience, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs become recurrences and are removed from this chart in conjunction with the Rhythmic Top 40 Airplay chart.

Songs ranked by number of detections. ○ Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Airplay Adds awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections or each losing detections, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs below the top 20 become re-entrants and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.

A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in audience. Songs ranked by number of detections. () Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Airplay Adds awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections or each losing detections, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs below the top 20 become recurrents and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.
