Monitor, Industry Mourn Timothy White

■ by Melinda Newman, Billboard

Timothy White, Billboard editor in chief since 1991, died suddenly of an apparent heart attack June 27. He was 50.

White collapsed in an elevator at Billboard/Airplay Monitor's New York offices and was rushed to St. Vincent's Hospital; he died shortly thereafter. He is survived by his wife Judy Garlan, his 10-year-old twins Christopher and Alexander, and seven siblings.

During White's 11 years at Billboard, he was also an editorial adviser to Airplay Monitor, coining the "We Listen to Radio" slogan that appears on the front cover of all four Monitor publications. White was also a part of the Billboard/Airplay Monitor Radio Seminars, most recently interviewing Paul Simon live at the 2000 Radio Seminar in New York.

White came to Billboard after a lengthy career in rock journalism that also included stints on the airwaves: working with both LBS Radio Network (in 1987) and Westwood One Radio Network (starting in 1988). He was host/co-producer of Timothy White Sessions, an award-winning nationally syndicated radio series.

Westwood One founder and chairman of the board Norm Pattiz recalls, "Timothy was really plugged in to the music scene. He had a special relationship with artists. He was able to get interviews that were tough to get. He was able to get people to not only talk to him on his radio show but also to play acoustically, which at the time

Flexibility A Must When Promoting Shows

Whether it be an NTR event or a listener appreciation show, radio stations are more involved in concert promotion than ever, with our panelists carrying the weight of booking acts, securing venues, and handling vendors. While that may not be in a promotion director's job description, flexibility is a necessary trait for any Promogandist.

says. "At WMZQfest, we run a very tight schedule, and one sound-company guy took us literally. [He] cut an artist's sound off during the middle of their performance."

Other headaches, she contends, are logistical. "Travel issues are a big concern when it comes to artists. Are we paying to fly them in? Do they need a limo, or will a rental car be fine?"

Concerts, like most of life, are susceptible to Murphy's Law, according to adult top 40 KIMN Denver's Mark Murdock. "Things will go wrong," he says. "[You have to] roll with the punches."

So what kinds of things go wrong most often? And how do you prevent them? Country WPOC Baltimore's Sheila Silverstein believes in pre-planning. "You have to start early, make a commitment, and go for it," she says. "Most of the really good or affordable acts are being booked by December or the first of the year."

On the upside, some concert burdens are being taken care of elsewhere. Silverstein says, "This has been an interesting time for me, working for the first time with Clear Channel Entertainment [CCE] in their venue. In the past, the radio station has owned the real estate, and making decisions was faster. But I like the idea of not worrying about security, ticket takers, [or] clean up. Our staff is so small. Really, [it's] just me and a part-timer plus account executives to do an entire concert for 10,000 listeners. Working with the CCE partners lets the radio station do its job putting fannies in the seats, owning the concert, and letting the concert folk do what they do best—put on concerts."

Also a part of Clear Channel, country WMZQ Washington, D.C.'s Wendie Vestfall believes the technicalities are more than just that. "Most of the time, our issues are finding reliable sound and lighting companies," she Plus, did they get picked up? Here in D.C., traffic is a huge problem. We try not to book shows that require them to travel during drive time if at all possible. The biggest nightmare is getting a call from the record rep saying they are stuck in traffic, and it's five minutes to show time."

Murdock, who also worries about "being able to put the artist on the stage when you want them" and "having really lame curfews," recommends working with sister stations. "Try to network with a station within your company [that] is doing a concert so you can piggyback [its] event and have the same artists the previous or next day. That will eliminate the problem of bands coming from all different places."

So with all the potential problems and concerns, why bother with station concerts? Murdock says, "It's like giving something back to the listeners. It's great to have your station's name on a concert."

Retro Abhors A Vacuum

Top 40's return to prominence in the mid-to late '90s was a gradual one. Unlike 1981 and 1982, when Mike Joseph's "Hot Hits" stations sprung something entirely different (if not exactly new) on the industry, the stations that filled the hole for top 40 in many markets in 1995 and 1996 did so more tentatively, sounding more like adult top 40 stations at first. And gold was a notable part of that.

While few stations that adapted some variant of "Hot Hits" in the early '80s hewed to Joseph's all-currents policy, gold libraries were usually tight, sparsely used, and went back only a year or two. (I remember WAVA Washington, D.C., in 1983 using a request call for "some old Rolling Stones" to stage the 2-year-old "Start Me Up," obviously the only Stones title in its library.)

By contrast, the 1996 success of WKTU New York—and a library that went back to the '70s disco era—made a lot of mid-'90s PDs comfortable with "I Will Survive." Format pioneer KHKS Dallas, which had evolved from adult top 40, played "Brick House." WPMY Rochester, N.Y., played "You Shook Me All Night Long." And most libraries still contained "Tainted Love" or at least "When Doves Cry" and "Like a Prayer."

In 1997, driving around the country on Memorial Day meant going from one Top 300 Countdown to another. By May 1998, with modern AC crossover at its zenith and teen acts poised to explode, many PDs no longer felt that those weekends were more compelling than "today's hit music." Top 40's evolution into today's more current, younger-leaning format was under way.

Four years later, there are only a handful of consensus hits at top 40. And unlike 1992, when top 40's celdrums coincided with boom times in country and hip-hop, there isn't another format with its own body of exploitable music. Modern rock is the closest, but its own PDs are careful not to make too much of the "low-fi" and "emo" movements that brought the format the Strokes, the White Stripes, the Hives, the Vines, and Dash-board Confessional in close succession. And if mainstream top 40 was unsure of how to deal with Nirvana a decade ago, the new crop of modern bands hardly seems to be an issue for top 40—yet.

So it's no surprise that retro is staging a comeback in almost all formats. New R&B outlet WWPR (Power 105.1) New York puts itself on the map with the judicious use of "The Choice

Is Yours" by Black Sheep and "They Reminisce Over You" by Pete Rock & C.L. Smooth. Adult top 40s follow the lead of KPLZ Seattle and KYSR Los Angeles, instituting '90s specialty shows. Modern rivals WKQX (Q101) and WZZN (the Zone) Chicago add '90s lunches within days of each other, and many other modern rockers have already retro-fitted their retro lunches from '80s to '90s.

The first '90s weekends came to top 40 almost as soon as the '90s had ended, but often at adult-leaning stations, such as WLAN Lancaster, Pa., and WSTW Wilmington, Del. In early June, however, a party-songs weekend came to WHITZ (Z100) New York, bringing with it "Rump Shaker," "Here Comes the Hoisteper," "California Love," "Come Baby Come," "Buddy Holly," "Coco Jambo," "Mambo No. 5," "Lump," "Tubthumping," "Naked Eye," "Da Dip," "Poison" by Bell Biv DeVoe, and, at least once, "Ice Ice Baby."

Some of those songs, of course, held up better than others. "Ice Ice Baby" was good for one listen; "Rump Shaker" has actually been back on Z100 in subsequent weeks. But the excitement of hearing those songs again, particularly on a station that helped lead the charge for a younger, more musically aggressive top 40, speaks volumes about the state of today's hit music.

Around Grammy Awards time, when the severity of the record industry's problems became obvious, the response from almost all quarters was to cut back—trim rosters, sign fewer acts, and release fewer singles, even from hit albums. Working fewer records to radio was easier for many labels than confronting the cost of doing business directly, although that issue has come to the fore anyway. That strategy may stanch the bleeding or please those PDs who felt that labels had always thrown too much product out there. But not releasing records isn't likely to yield the event record or breakthrough artist that top 40 needs right now.

Programmers aren't wrong to start paging through the "hold" category in their Selector programs again. The lost hits of the '90s were always a part of listeners' lives, and enough time has passed for "Two Princes" to sound good again. Like "I Will Survive" in 1996, retro can draw adults' attention back to top 40. But just as it took "Macarena," "Wannabe," and "You Oughta Know" to close the deal with adults in 1996 and 1997, it will take something new to keep them here. And it's scary to think that those songs might not be forthcoming.

GET PRESS PLAY OF THE WEEK

Modern rock WLIR Long Island, N.Y., got the scoop of the millisecond recently when jock Gary Cee secured the only recent interview with Amy Fisher, aka the "Long Island Lolita." Fisher, who was released from prison three years ago, recently re-entered the spotlight as a columnist for a local entertainment paper.

ANIMAL INSTINCTS

Top 40 WKRZ Wilkes-Barre, Pa., had a trip to Hawaii to give away and wanted a new way to pick the winner. The station staged a "lucky monkey" promotion, with each contestant being assigned a coconut. A live monkey then picked the lucky winner's coconut.

QUICK HITS

Country WYAY (Eagle 106.7) Atlanta fit a recent promotion to a "T" with its VIN It and Win It car giveaway. The station gave away a 2002 Ford T-bird by qualifying listeners who could guess the next digit of the car's vehicle identification number (VIN). Eagle also tied in a "T-Byrd" concert—a free show by Tracy Byrd.

For Father's Day, country KBEQ Kansas City staged a Dad for a Day promotion at a baseball game. Volunteer dads for kids without fathers included station jocks, local TV anchors, and Kansas City sports heroes.

WMZQ was set to put an all-out effort behind its Independence Day celebration this year, with plans to spend the holiday at a local army base and offer music, fair food, and a patriotic marching-band show. Wendie Vestfall says, "This year, because of Sept. 11, is going to be emotional for people, especially our military listeners. We are also running patriotic-flavored promos, kids saying the Pledge of Allegiance, and playing [songs] like Lee Greenwood's "God Bless the USA."

Nelly's #1 Herre, Herre, And Herre

Already No. 1 at rhythmic top 40, Nelly does the same this week at mainstream top 40 and crossover with "Hot in Herre" (Fo' Real/Universal). This marks the first time since TLC's "No Scrubs" in May '99 that a single has been No. 1 at mainstream, rhythmic, and crossover simultaneously. It's Nelly's first mainstream No. 1 and second crossover No. 1, following the eight-week stay of "Country Grammar" in July 2000. "Hot in Herre" is also No. 1 on the Airplay Monitor mainstream R&B and rap charts. Meanwhile, Nelly's new "Dilemma," featuring Kelly Rowland of Destiny's Child, becomes the highest rhythmic top 40 debut of the year at No. 20. The previous record-holder was "I'm Gonna Be Alright" (Epic) by Jennifer Lopez Featuring Nas, which debuted at No. 24 the week of April 20. "Dilemma" is the first rhythmic title this year to earn Airpower status in its first week on the chart.

A former No. 1 at crossover and R&B, "Addictive" (Interscope) by Truth Hurts Featuring Rakim debuts at mainstream top 40. So far this year, all five songs that made it to No. 1 at R&B have charted at top 40. Last year at this time, only three out of the six had charted.

Lifeshouse and Train are now tied for the longest-running adult top 40 single. "Hanging by a Moment" (DreamWorks) and "Drops of Jupiter (Tell Me)" (Columbia) are both spending their 73rd week on the chart. Santana Featuring Rob Thomas' "Smooth" held the previous record of 72 weeks.

THE FOLLOWING STATIONS are re-added to their respective panels after being temporarily removed because of technical difficulties: ACs KISC and KXLY Spokane, Wash.; adult top 40s WRQX Washington, D.C., and WVOR Rochester, N.Y.; and modern AC KCDA Spokane.

Lawmaker Drafts Bill To Stem Consolidation

Sen. Russ Feingold, D-Wis., has introduced a bill intended to stem consolidation in the radio industry, which he says has robbed consumers of local input in programming and music choices. The Competition in Radio and Concert Industries Act—which had been expected—also seeks to modify U.S. payola laws to address "pay for play" arrangements, in which labels pay an alleged $3 million per week to independent promoters who try and secure airplay. Those arrangements, up until now, have been considered within the letter of the law. The bill will also target concert ticket prices, which have increased dramatically in recent years.

Feingold's bill targets the half-dozen major players in radio that own more than 60% of stations following passage of the 1996 Telecommunications Act, which lowered ownership caps. In past remarks on the Senate floor, Feingold has specifically mentioned Clear Channel Communications, which owns 1,200 radio stations nationwide and numerous concert venues.

In response, Clear Channel issued a lengthy statement, saying, in part, "We particularly value any such evaluation that puts the needs and interests of consumers first... and we will enthusiastically join that dialogue." The company also disputed the contention that radio is too concentrated. "Clear Channel, the largest owner of radio stations in the country, owns only 11% of the stations."

RADIO ONE STOCK CRISIS

Radio One's stock dropped 17% between June 24 and July 1, both as the result of rumors preceding and the aftermath of a Wall Street Journal article that appeared June 27. The article detailed loans the company made to executives for stock purchases, as well as dealings with third-party Atlanta broadcast companies owned in part by CEO Alfred Liggins. The company held an emergency conference call with investors, analysts, and press June 26, after a WSJ reporter contacted Liggins regarding the transactions. During the call, Liggins contended that all dealings were above board and disclosed to the Securities & Exchange Commission and investors. Liggins said loans were made to himself, CFO Scott Royster, and one other high-level manager to "stabilize and solidify senior management ranks."

The company also faced rumors that the SEC was planning to investigate these deals, which prompted stock analyst Jeffries & Co. to substantially lower its price target of Radio One because of "looming uncertainty." But Liggins said during the conference call that "we have not been contacted by the SEC about a probe." On the day after the call, Radio One stock fell to its lowest price in a year, at $13.82.

After the conference call, several analysts, including Wachovia Securities and CIBC World Markets, rated Radio One a "strong buy." At press time, the company had released its second-quarter results, stating it will achieve the highest revenue and broadcast flow in its history, exceeding its second-quarter guidance.

Also during the conference call, Liggins answered press questions regarding the possible FCC scrutiny of exclusive independent deals, to which he responded, "The concerns are primarily over Clear Channel because of their related companies in the concert touring business." But Liggins added, "Labels are complaining because they can no longer control where the money goes... We're making sure that in these deals, we control where the money goes in an above-board manner, as opposed to into a programmer's pocket, which is illegal and tax evasion."

GOT UR SELF A GRUDGE

After being told that he could not simulate a lynching of Jay-Z during his performance at the WQHT (Hot 97) New York Summer Jam concert June 26, rapper Nas, who was to be the concert's headliner, canceled his performance. Instead, Nas ended up attacking Hot 97 on-air at rival WWPR (Power 105.1) that night and on crosstown WBSL the next afternoon with Wendy Williams.

In the New York Post, Hot 97 PD Tracy Cioherty said, "We told Nas months ago he could say anything on [the] mike but no videos or props. His people agreed. Then, two hours before the show, they brought a 12-foot gallows onstage. We have a lot of love for Nas, but we had 16,000 people out there and a lot of kids. There wasn't going to be a lynching on our stage."

was really unheard of. Timothy was a real pioneer, and he will certainly be missed by all of his friends at Westwood One."

United Stations executive VP of programming Andy Denemark was assigned to be White's production partner during his Westwood One years. Denemark was struck by White's ability to get artists to open up and reveal very personal details of their lives. "Considering his erudition and his reputation, there was something unimimidating about him, and people would just open up," says Denemark, who adds that those shows in many ways were the precursor to cable's current Unplugged and Storyteller programs. "All of us who knew him and worked with him learned so much from him. What stands out for me is how much we learned from Tim about how to properly present the thoughts of our interview subjects. He knew what was relevant. He knew when an artist was revealing something personal that hadn't been revealed before, and he had a great sense of history and context."

"Most striking were those moments when one of our subjects misspoke or used a malapropism," Denemark continues. "When that happened, Timothy always wanted that left on the cutting-room floor. He knew it was an honor to speak with artists about their artistry, and it was important to him not to embarrass someone who had been gracious enough to share their time and their feelings with us. In a media-crazy world where too often one's guest is treated as one's victim, Tim's sensibilities were truly rare."

White also conceived the Century Award, Billboard's highest honor, which is annually bestowed upon an artist for a lifetime of creative achievement. But he was also adamant that Billboard cover not only the most famous artists; White always saved room in its pages for new acts about whom he or staffers expressed enthusiasm, often giving them equal footing with industry giants and creating numerous features to champion artists outside the mainstream. White was a fearless advocate of artists' rights and often served as the industry's moral compass by tackling controversial music-business issues.

"Besides possessing an inquisitive mind, a deep passion for music, and unmatched writing skills, Timothy led his life with the firm belief that a person had to be willing to stand up and be counted," Billboard publisher Howard Lander says. "I will forever be grateful for his companionship, courage, and friendship."

"Beyond our deep sense of grief and the feelings of sympathy for his family, Tim's passing has robbed music journalism of one of its brightest stars," Airplay Monitor publisher Jon Guynn says. "As Monitor's editorial adviser, Tim was a creative thinker and a trusted confidant."

"The moments Tim and I spent discussing and listening to music are the ones I will remember the most," Guynn continues. "On this topic, Tim's purity, wonder, and joy of discovery always inspired and reminded me why I chose a career related to music in the first place. He will indeed be missed."

Screenwriter Mitch Glazer, White's best friend since 1976 when they worked together at Crawdaddy, had just had lunch with White minutes before his death. "He was in great spirits and was anticipating his 15th wedding anniversary, which was June 28," Glazer says. "He was the most present, alive person at the peak of his game. His last words were to my 16-year-old daughter, Shane, who was anxious about going away to Bennington College for a month. He said: 'You're going to be great,' and he started to leave. He came back, hugged her, and said, 'Rock on,' and walked away. I think that's a perfect epitaph."

Don Henley calls White a "brilliant writer, devoted husband and father, stalwart friend—those things all describe Timothy, but what comes mostly to mind when I think of him is integrity. In an age when looking the other way and moral compromise have become our common cultural trait, Timothy White would have no part of it. He was not for sale. When something got his Irish up, he spoke out bravely and eloquently, no matter what the potential con-

Singers Romeo And DeJai Find Success On-Air As Tha Goodfellas

Just five years ago, Jacque "Romeo" Mastin and Donald "DeJai" Jeffries were aspiring singers who moved from St. Louis to Los Angeles to follow their dream. Today, they are the top-rated afternoon duo Tha Goodfellas on L.A.'s KPWR (Power 106).

After several attempts at a recording career fell through, the two were introduced to then-Power PD Michelle Mercer, who hired them for a part-time overnight gig.

"We had never done radio before, although we did take a broadcast course in high school," Romeo says. "We made an audition tape for Power with us just being our usual crazy selves, and they loved it. We weren't trying to be what we thought a DJ should be. We were simply doing what we would do onstage as singers, and the chemistry was just there."

DeJai explains, "We had all this energy, and listeners loved it. We'd take a song, create our own lyrics about the station or us, do an intro, then go right into the song. Michelle let us run with that, and later Steve Smith [then the VP of programming for Power's parent company Emmis] increased us to four shifts throughout the weekend."

But despite the duo's on-air charisma, the two felt they really didn't have any direction or radio training, until current PD Jimmy Steal "taught us how to take our energy and preserve it," Romeo says. "Now we use it up in smaller doses throughout the entire show, as opposed to using it all up in a couple of breaks. He wanted us to last longer at a slower pace. That's how we are today."

It was Steal who put Tha Goodfellas and sidekick Tito in afternoons, replacing the Baka Boys in 1999. "At first it was just temporary until they found the right afternoon show," Romeo says. "But we proved ourselves, and we've been No. 1 or No. 2 in the ratings since."

DeJai says, "We're understanding radio now, whereas at first, we were just doing it. It's like Kobe Bryant to basketball. The first year he was playing the game. Now he truly understands it."

The duo say their background as musicians, writers, and performers has helped them in other ways on their show. "I think we understand where an artist is coming from," Romeo says, "so we might ask different types of questions than a regular DJ."

DeJai adds, "And because we're accustomed to performing onstage together, picking up where the other leaves off, we can do the same in an interview. We've also learned this radio game, so we not only listen to who we are interviewing, we listen to each other as well. If Romeo leaves off and forgets to ask about a video or the next single, I jump right in, and vice versa."

DeJai tries to remain positive when it comes to interviewing and the gossip segment. "You have to be careful with that stuff. We always try to get the facts and not just put out loose information. And when we have a star in the studio, we try to make them relaxed, rather than the target of a lot of accusations. There are just some things we are not going to touch, and I think they appreciate that. But at the same time, if it's a major news item—like the fact that Brandy was secretly married and was pregnant—of course we have to ask about it."

Having grown up in St. Louis, Tha Goodfellas say they may be more open to other styles of music than some Los Angeles natives, making their East Coast guests more comfortable. Romeo recalls, "We had Shyne on a couple of months back, and he was obviously a little uncomfortable being on the West Coast and with all the 'he say, she say' that was going on at the time. But I think we made him feel very comfortable."

The two are also branching out into other areas, including a return to their first love: singing. The pair, with a third partner, formed the singing trio 3Deep and put out a record last year on their own independent label. They've also written and performed the new theme song for BET's Comic View show.

DeJai says, "We thought it would be easier doing a record now that we have some kind of celebrity on the radio, but it's actually harder. You have to work twice as hard to make sure people in the industry take it seriously. People know us as radio DJs now, but in fact, we were singing our whole lives before radio. People thought Power was doing us a favor by playing the record, but it really did well. And it wasn't like they were simply supporting us because we worked there, otherwise, both singles would have gotten support, whereas only one did well. In fact, it stayed on for four to five months, and that's a long time for an R&B record on Power."

Tha Goodfellas aren't forsaking radio for singing, though. "All that we do in our side endeavors can only help the show and the station overall," DeJai says. "What we're doing to market ourselves can only enhance what we do on the radio."

And they do a lot to market themselves, including joining the Hollywood Knights basketball team, which plays L.A.-area school teachers and brings celebrities like Tha Goodfellas, actors, and sports figures together with school children. Romeo says, "We've visited over 30 schools this year with the program and with the station-sponsored events. We've been involved in everything from career days to grad nights."

"Our goal is to show kids all the opportunities out there for them in terms of careers," DeJai says. "We even arrived at a school once in a helicopter flown by of a friend of ours, Robert Petgrave. With things like that, the kids see that they too could aspire to fly helicopters, or be a radio DJ, or anything they dreamed."

Songs ranked by number of detections. ○ Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Airplay Adds awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections or each losing detections, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs below the top 20 become re-entrants and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.

Songs ranked by number of audience, compiled by cross-referencing exact times of airplay with Arbitron listener data. ○ Songs showing an increase in audience over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in audience does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in audience. A song with a gain in audience over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining in audience or each losing in audience, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs become re-entrants and are removed from this chart in conjunction with the Mainstream Top 40 Airplay chart.

THE NO. 1 HIT MUSIC SPECIAL

From the NO. 1 Hit Music Magazine...

TOP 40 AIRPLAY
Monitor

ISSUE DATE: JULY 26

Tastes change, the industry changes, but Top 40 remains the No. 1 hit music format. Now, just in time for Conclave, it's Top 40 Airplay Monitor's annual state-of-the-industry special. Has last year's embrace of extreme music given way to more balance? Are there fewer legitimate hits (and is 90's stepping into the void)? What are the format's most important acts? And how can Top 40 take advantage of the sea change in today's industry?

Those are just a few of the questions we'll tackle in Monitor's most important Top 40 issue of the year: The No. 1 Hot Music Special.

Songs ranked by number of detections. ○ Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Airplay Adds awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections or each losing detections, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs below the top 20 become re-entrants and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.

Songs ranked by number of detections. ○ Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Airplay Adds awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections or each losing detections, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs below the top 20 become recurrents and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.

Songs ranked by number of detections. (C) Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Airplay Adds awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections or each losing detections, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs below the top 15 become re-entrants and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.

Songs ranked by number of audience, computed by cross-referencing exact times of airplay with Arbitron listener data. (C) Songs showing an increase in audience over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in audience does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in audience. A song with a gain in audience over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining in audience or each losing in audience, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs become re-entrants and are removed from this chart in conjunction with the Adult Top 40 Airplay chart.

Songs ranked by number of detections. () Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Airplay Adds awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections or each losing detections, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs below the top 15 become recurrents and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.
