Season Outlook OK For Eat, Drink Ops

AS GOOD or better than '57—that's the consensus of opinion so far as the big outdoor food and drink business is concerned this year.

With few exceptions suppliers of equipment and supplies to the outdoor operators who cater to the thirsts and appetites of the millions of fun-seekers, look for a big year. This is tempered, however, by the advice of some who think the concessionaire will be forced to dress up his establishment and promote his wares.

Impulse buying is still the key to successful eat-and-drink merchandising. And this is spurred by better and flashier equipment and a varied menu of high profit articles.

Prices of equipment this year, with few exceptions, hold to levels of 1957. In a survey of food equipment manufacturers and distributors conducted by The Billboard, this was forcibly brought out. In fact, the number that quoted unchanged prices was overwhelmingly in the majority with just a few here and there that reported slight increases of a few percentage points.

Bruce Evans, of Gold Medal Products Company, Cincinnati, O., sums up business conditions as follows: "Most of us who read the Washington prediction letters know that things are not the greatest. Economists do predict a pick-up in late spring, which should be helpful. However, I believe that this year the smart operator is going to make a little money, but some of the boys are going to lose out. Definitely it is going to be harder to get the public to spend their money. They have so many monthly commitments."

"However, we believe that the fellow who offers more in the way of better products, sensibly priced, and sold thru modern, attractive and flashy stands is still going to get his share of the money. The operators must take more pride in their equipment and replace or repair old, worn out junky looking gear. The wartime days of giving the public a short count is definitely over. Sound business principles must be applied to the concession business to be successful," Evans said.

THERE is a best-selling book which expands on the idea that children of today don't have as much fun as did their parents at a comparable age.

The author recounts experiences and attitudes which are familiar to today's adults because they did the same things in the way of play and adventure when they were kids.

But the book says that today's youngsters don't have the same opportunities for fun. Coincidentally, the same idea has been brought out by a builder of playground equipment.

He is Frank Caplan, president of Play Sculptures, Inc., New York. His contention is that present-day city children are hemmed in not only by the city but also new restrictions caused by other changes in the way of life.

And in voicing this idea, he has not only filled his firm aim of pointing out need for playground facilities, but he also has done two additional things.

New Park Idea?

One is to provide a pretty effective outline for why kiddielands, theme parks and allied attractions are needed. His comments could amount to the outline for a brief in which a Kiddieland backer was stating his case.

And the other by-product of his initial aim is the creation of an outline for a possible theme park to interest youths.

Here is the way he worded it: "What are the recreational needs of children that we must strive to meet?" Caplan asks. "Our children live in a complex, prohibitive environment. They do not have the freedom that our parents or some of us had in the early part of this century."

"They do not have trees to climb on, streams or rivers to wade, caves to hide in, deserted cabins to play in. They are not permitted to drive autos, put out fires, ride the rails, deliver the milk, build the house, put on plays and other exciting adult activities."

"They can't tinker with the old car in the dumps, fool with electrical gadgets or hammers and saws. They can't make music, beat the drums. They are continually hushed, quieted, shooed away and contained in an 8 by 8 room barren of sturdy play material and physical activity."

"They no longer have contact with animals. Mother and Father have no time to take them to the farm, take them fishing. Children have an overpowering need to come in contact with nature—its sand, its water, its rocks, its forests"

Officials Move Slowly

Caplan then asks, "Who shall provide these needs? Our public authorities who dread the word 'adventure' playground because it denotes movement or danger, who refuse to provide children with sand and water because dogs mess it up, who refuse to put music-making apparatus in a playground because it upsets the neighbors?"

Our public authorities move slowly, and only when public support is garnered do they take a bold step."

So he declares it is up to business leaders in a community to make up the difference with new recreation and play facilities. In a talk at the convention of the National Association of Amusement Parks, Pools and Beaches, he said:

"Businessmen who make a profession out of providing recreation, entertainment and other community services are usually very sensitive, socially conscious and alert community leaders. . . . Unlike politicians they recognized early a community need or service gap, and without fanfare and with economy of operation, proceeded to fill this gap. A dance hall for adults, a Kiddieland for children, a swimming pool for all the family, a children's zoo, an aquarium or other educational centers—these soon become successful permanent adjuncts of the community"

Outdoor Show Business Gears for Solid Season

IT WILL be another good year. We may be off a little from last year at the outset but by mid-season we should be running as good as last year and even better at the end of the season."

That, in capsule comment, is the consensus of outdoor showmen generally throughout the U. S. over the outlook for the soon-to-open outdoor amusement season.

To be sure, there are, as always, some dissenters. These last by the large are relatively few in number. They are concentrated mainly in Michigan and in some other highly industrialized States.

But, the pessimism of operators in this group is tempered by the belief that corrective measures will be made, in their minds by the federal government, to stem the recession. To them it is largely a question of to what extent and when the government will take the steps.

Washington is being watched closely for developments by these operators. The other, more optimistic showmen also have their ears tuned to Washington, for they, too, feel that federal action will serve to set a timetable for progressively better receipts from their own operations.

Many showmen also are following developments in Detroit, where the auto manufacturers and the United Auto Workers' officials are huddling over new contracts.

To Set Pattern

What happens in those meetings, they believe, will set the pattern for other contract negotiations. Thus, it will signal whether there is to be more inflation, the degree of inflation or, conceivably, a brake to inflation.

Some of the keenest minds in outdoor show business are banking on continued inflation of various degrees over the long term.

One of these showmen, who is highly regarded for his rare sense of timing, is banking on continued inflation.

"I'm investing more money in my operation. Now is the time to do it. It will cost more to get things later on, and it will be much better to pay off with cheaper dollars than for things bought now at lower prices."

Even in hard-hit Detroit, there is long-term optimism.

"After all, this recession is a temporary thing. Most of us realize this. And the general long-term outlook is good," one Detroit pointed out.

"We've got several things going in our favor. The principal one is the population bulge. Each year we've got our share of increasing population to draw from. And the babies born in the years immediately following the war years are now potential customers. What's more, this crop of new customers will grow each year."

Throughout the nation during the past year, indoor shows of various kinds generally reported excellent business. A circus (Polack's), for instance, ran up a record gross in Chicago. Fat stock shows, the indoor equivalent to fairs, pulled bigger-than-'58 crowds throughout Texas. Like reports came in from other sections.

Better Weather

The law of averages is all for better weather this year, particularly in the all-important fair season. Last year fairs in a wide swath of the country extending from Kansas east and south to the Atlantic Ocean were belted hard by rains. And, oddly, drought had its effect in, of all places, the East.

Crop conditions this year, thanks to the unusually heavy snows in many areas, are better than in many years. The winter was one of the most rugged on record from a weather standpoint and it took a heavy toll.

But, the striking thing was that even with weather, such stalwart events as the Florida State Fair, Tampa, stood up amazingly well, both from an income and attendance standpoint. To be sure, both the gate and receipts were down at Tampa from last year, the previous peak year, but the gate and receipts were down comparatively little, and this constitutes a remarkable tribute to the strength of fairs, carnivals and outdoor show business generally.

SEASON'S OUTLOOK

Questions Loom for Ride Manufacturers

THE COMING outdoor amusement season presents more of a question mark to ride manufacturers than many a year which has gone past. The men who turn out adult and kiddie riding devices are less in agreement than at any period in a long time, it is revealed in the 1958 Ride Manufacturer's Survey conducted by The Billboard.

In recent years there has been a general air of enthusiasm in the business about the apparent eagerness of the population to visit the nation's midways. Those new rides offered to the market were snapped up by operators who realized the public's attitude and had money to back up their faith. Successes were scored by Eli Bridge's Scrambler, Allan Herschell's Helicopter and Twister, and the Wild Mouse offered by Ben Schiff and others.

The picture has changed somewhat this year as evidenced by a reluctance to buy at the Chicago convention of the National Association of Amusement Parks, Pools and Beaches. Fewer definite commitments were made at the trade show. Many ride operators have ordered equipment since, but about 20 per cent of the manufac-

Next-Door

The outlook for both manufacturers and operators varies, but there is not as much discrepancy about the price of equipment. Close to half of those on the manufacturing end reported an increase of prices due to higher costs of materials and labor. The price rise, producing a hesitation on the part of several potential buyers, has put the manufacturers in what one termed a "tight squeeze between higher costs and less capital being invested in rides."

Theme parks, he noted, buy a minimum of standard rides while spending principally on other attractions. In general there is less working capital because of tax factors and higher operating costs.

"Operators," it was emphasized in discussing the bind manufacturers get themselves into by creating products so durable they are virtually indestructible, "are reluctant to discard equipment that has served its usefulness. The expanding kiddieland business, which does buy rides, has been our best sales market."

Elsewhere, and in contrast to the view already stated, it was propounded by various manufacturers that:

Manufacturers will suffer but operators will profit from the tend-

Shooting Galleries Have Colorful Past

Of the many traditional money-earners employed by the outdoor showman, few have the colorful history of the shooting gallery, which derives its origin almost from the birth of destructive weapons. Tests of skill have always been a popular diversion, and early competitions evolved over the centuries to the modern supervised range and the public amusement gallery.

It was late in the 19th century that firearms were offered for public amusement use. The emergence of Coney Island as a major fun location drew attention to the pioneer galleries which had become established there along with the bathhouse and sea food emporium.

Traditional names like McCullough and Mangels, prominent for more than 50 years in the outdoor amusement industry, have a well-lighted niche in the development of shooting for fun. The former, represented by James McCullough, a Coney pioneer, was instrumental in presenting the mechanically motivated moving target to the public. The late William F. Mangels had been a prime manufacturer of galleries and the business, carried on by his sons, has lost none of its alertness and skill.

Spin the Sputnik

Alertness in the shooting gallery business is difficult to develop when the product has been worked out to a fine art and, on top of that, is virtually indestructible. Most modern refinements have therefore been in the creation of novel targets. The most enticing of these is Mangels' pilot model Sputnik which is now undergoing tests. This is a highly polished steel ball with a round paddle target at the end of each antenna. The attraction: Hit the paddle, spin the satellite.

Another recent effort is the Peel-a-Peach unit of Capitol Shooting Galleries. In this item a revolving drum shows a model in various stages of disrolement, with a bull's-eye below. The attraction: Hit the bull's-eye, strip the gal to a point, that is.

One of the major developments has been the compressed air machine gun gallery of Meinich and Feltman. Tried with overwhelming success by Charley Feltman at the 1939 New York World's Fair, the guns have an economy advantage in several ways over the .22-caliber single shot firearms. They use shot which is reclaimable for sale as scrap, and they use aluminum targets and lighter steel gallery structures than are required for the .22-caliber units. For the operator whose action is dominated by money considerations, the auto-

At least 250 gun units will be delivered and the number may well hit 500, Sam Wohlberg, president of Chicago Coin, said, adding he based his forecast on sales already on hand and indications of further early sales.

The machine guns were tested at Chicago's Riverview Park last year, where a battery of 10 were operated with highly successful results. The results, in fact, were matic air gallery can be had for much less.

The single-shot operation, however, is the grandpa and most widely used unit on portable and stationary midways, and in theatrical districts.

Lever Rack Popular

Shooting galleries have improved in many ways while steadily increasing in price because of steel and labor conditions. Early targets were loose and knocked off a shelf, requiring setting up by hand and a consequent slowing of the operation. Over the years the lever rack has become common, and now the gallery attendant has merely to tug an overhead cord and pop up 80 hinged soldiers—or tanks, or birds, or pipes.

In early days the danger of injury from ricochets was more a matter of concern than today, since the modern .22-caliber short gallery ammunition pulverizes upon contact. Regular ammunition proved its risky character eloquently during the 1911 fire which swept Dreamland and Luna Park on Coney Island. A McCullough gallery was consumed in the blaze, accompanied by a popping of lead bullets that had an injury toll of three firemen.

Steel and iron predominate in target material. The clay pipe which was popular before World War II was actually a pipe made for smoking, a natural for gallery use because of the way it shattered. These were factory rejects, and after the improvement of manufacturing techniques deprived gallery operators of the pipes, a Brooklyn firm started casting them especially for target use. The bother of replacing them, however, became greater than the operator desired to take. Besides, steel was no longer a nickel a pound and the ensuing rise in his investment made the businessman grab the lever-elevated target racks, which yielded a faster and more profitable play.

But the 25-cents-a-load standard still holds at permanent installations. The load used to consist of 15 shots; now it's seven.

Grease Cups Added

The refinements in manufacture, while safer for the customer and faster for the operator, still present their little irritations. For example, the greased chains which activate such moving targets as swinging bells, rotating parachute jumpers, etc., used to move along with no trouble when the old lead ammunition was in use. The pulverizing bullets created a new problem: In disintegrating, they spattered a film of abrasive dust on the chain links and dried up the grease. Grease cups were instituted to solve the problem.

Today's shooting gallery is as sturdy a piece of equipment as the amusement businessman can obtain. It represents 30 days of labor and bears fore and backgrounds of three-sixteenths steel plating, riveted to angle iron frames. Targets are cast iron and drop forged steel. They stand up surprisingly well despite the constant sledge-hammering of bullet impacts.

An oddity of target usage, which few gallery people convert to their advantage, is the effect all this peening has on the targets. It stretches and warps them. A flat surface held against the face of a star or bell at season's end will show a definite curvature around the outer rim. But the tendency of metal to yield to constant impact can be utilized, Fred Mangels points out. It is especially easy where a foreground tank offers rows of ducks or boats moving in opposite directions. Just take out the cotter pins and reverse the targets, he says, and another season will see them bent flat again, thanks to hammering from the other side.

Park Rates Figured Differently; Each Ride Has Variable Premium

A MUSEMENT park insurance is handled in a distinctive way by most companies and is unlike coverage for carnivals, altho both types of underwriting are involved with amusement riding devices.

While carnivals buy insurance for the whole show as a unit, amusement parks and kiddielands usually are insured by policies which list each ride, show or game to be covered, and a different rate applies to each unit.

Some, but not all, park insurance is written thru the plan set up and operated in conjunction with the National Association of Amusement Parks, Pools and Beaches.

As in similar cases, the premium for park insurance is based on the dollar gross of the park and its various rides and attractions.

Numerous agents handle insurance for parks, and the system of the NAAPPB plan is typical. Here is how it works:

The NAAPPB general liability policy provides coverage for injury to customers on rides, in shows or at games. It covers damages that may be charged against the park for such eventualities as assault and battery by park employees against another party. It covers fireworks displays on a charge-per-display basis.

Important additional points are that this type of policy can cover independent contractors or concessionaires and ride operators who may bring their own equipment into the funspot. It also would provide coverage for damages levied in case of such an event as food poisoning resulting from a park refreshment stand or from some item served at the park. Not long ago one park had $30,000 in claims against it for food poisoning.

Park premium rates are based on a manual which lists almost all kinds of devices that might be in an amusement park. Among them, of course, are Roller Coasters, Ferris Wheels, Dark Rides, Shooting Galleries, and dozens of others.

Safety Pays Off

Charges are based on a minimum payment per ride plus a percentage of that unit's receipts. Thus, a Merry-Go-Round might cost an operator $3.50 per $100 of receipts and the minimum charge might be $250. Concession games might be included in the policy for 20 cents per $100 for each game, with a minimum payment of $15. Dark rides might be rated at $1.25 per $100 with a $150 minimum.

These manual rates can be altered in certain cases and in the event that experience at a specific park causes the insurance company to provide for a change. Thus, if safety measures at one park are particularly effective and accidents are few, the park's insurance rates may be reduced. But if another park has more than its share of accidents, the cost of insurance can go up.

In the case of the NAAPPB insurance plan, a committee of park owners meets with the broker and an expert from the insurance company each spring to make any necessary adjustments in rates for the basic table and for individual parks.

British Rates, Too

Insurance of parks and park rides is obtainable from all firms in the show insurance business. Some of them use the same manual as the NAAPPB plan for determining basic rates. About an equal number use basic rates determined by British insurers. The NAAPPB insurance may be purchased by non-members as well as members of the association.

Manual rates for insurance usually pay for liability up to $5,000 per individual or $10,000 per accident. While this coverage is enough to meet the most frequent claims, most authorities recommend that higher limits be purchased. This precaution is to prepare against more serious losses.

Park insurance requires that each operation to be covered is listed in the policy and any changes must be reported. This will bring about a change in the total premium. In this type of policy, for example, the park and insurance agent would list all the rides, games, and shows, and then add any such attractions as a ballroom, roller rink, swimming pool, parking lot, driving range, miniature golf or others.

Each of these units has a separate premium rate. These are added together to arrive at the park's total premium. Some agencies describe systems which mention a single over-all premium for parks, but it seems to boil down to this system of adding the numerous individual premiums in each case.

Extra coverages for parks include products liability, inclusion of independent concessionaires, provisions for fireworks and other special items.

MRS. ERNIE FARROW

Show Owner's Wife Okays Trailer Life

THE ADVANTAGES of trailer living for a carnival family outweigh any disadvantages.

That's the opinion of Mrs. E. E. (Ernie) Farrow, wife of the owner of Wallace Bros. Shows, who for six months of each year runs a mobile household for her husband and two young children.

"All in all, weighing my likes and dislikes of trailer living, I am reluctant to say I find anything wrong with it. It seems I rather enjoy that six months out of every year," Mrs. Farrow declared. "It has always meant a change of scenery every week and many places to see. There is always a new neighbor on both sides of us every week due to the difference in midway layout. That is one advantage I enjoy—new neighbors."

The Farrows have two children, three and six years old, and use a 40-foot, two-bedroom mobile home. In shopping for a trailer, they look for the best constructed, lightest weight possible that fits the family needs as they tow it with a passenger car.

"Housekeeping, compared to a permanent home, is less trouble, yet it seems difficult to keep a trailer as orderly as a home. Every meal seems to litter up the living-dining area. In a home, meals are usually confined to a room that is out of sight of the front entrance or can be closed off.

Cooking Easier

"In cooking and preparing meals in a trailer, I take less steps and everything is within easy reach. I don't bake as much as I do at home due to the fact that we travel in the summer months and oven meals heat up the trailer.

"We carry most of our appliances each summer but as electricity varies from location to location, we sometimes aren't able to use those that require a heavy load. We take a large supply of linens due to the short stays in each city or town and the sometimes spotty laundry service. We don't carry our finest China or glassware but take an average set of dishes necessary for our family," Mrs. Farrow pointed out.

Fairgrounds and still date lots vary in their advantage, Mrs. Farrow observed. Fairgrounds are generally the most desirable due to level and grassy locations. She prefers to be near the show's office trailer but this is not always possible on a fairgrounds. At still dates, however, the mobile home is parked near the office and the Farrow automobile is always handy for the numerous shopping trips into town. Disadvantages to the trailer dweller at still dates is the mud and dirt that's tracked into the home.

Television plays a big part in entertaining all members of the family. The Farrows enjoy TV with the aid of a telescoping antenna that is mounted on the hitch. It requires a minimum of erection and can be easily beamed toward the nearest station. Reception is good in most places, Mrs. Farrow declared.

Air conditioning of the 40-foot home has never been adequately solved, according to the show-owner's wife, due to the length of the trailer and the arrangement of the rooms. Two separate coolers are needed and this would add too much weight to the hitch. The more weight, the more tire trouble is the way Mrs. Farrow sums it up.

Tent Business Big;
Color Comes StrongCircus, Music Theater, Carnival
Orders Bulk Large; Rentals, TooTHIS spring's show canvas picture is headed up by the new big tops and allied tents being delivered to the Clyde Beatty Circus and the Cristiani Bros. Circus.

Other fields in which buying is heavy include those of carnivals and music theaters. The biggest top this season is for a revivalist. Other construction includes large tents in pastel colors like rose pink, robins egg blue and forest green, all for garden party rentals.

Color also marks the show canvas jobs. Circus big tops are being delivered not only in white, but also in vivid color combinations. Concession tops are being made in plastic coated blue. Music theater tents are turned out in combinations of tangerine, blue, green, orange and more.

Beatty's Details

Canvas for the Clyde Beatty Circus was shipped from the O. Henry Tent plant, Chicago, to Palisades, N.J., for the show's opening. It leads off with a white big top that is a 140 with three 50-foot middles. Side show-menagerie tent is a 60 with three 30's. Also in the spread are two marquees, a cookhouse top, concession tents, and blue and white side walls for all of the tops.

Cristiani Bros. Circus is taking delivery on a large and colorful spread built by the United States

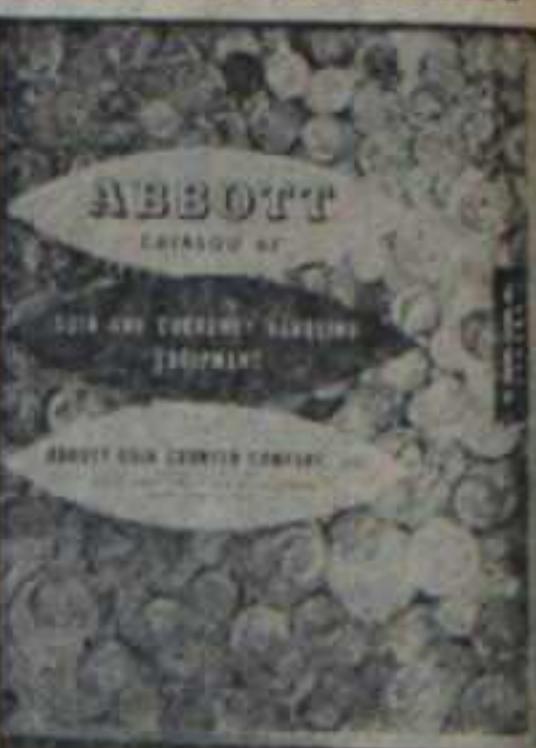

Tent Company, Sarasota, Fla. It has a 140 with three 50's, in a royal blue and orange combination.

Cristiani also is getting a menagerie top that measures 80 feet with three middles and a separate side show that is a 70 with four middles. Other tops are included in this set.

Unique feature of the Cristiani big top is that its three middle pieces actually are made in a single piece measuring 150 feet, with ball ring necks for center poles every 50 feet. Making this as one unit eliminates the need for lacing and it permits spooling of the canvas on a mechanical unit without the bulkiness of lacing.

Other circus work being done by U.S. includes Benson Bros. Circus's new 80 with three 40's; the Beers-Barnes Circus 80 with three 30's plus a marquee, and a new side show top for Carson & Barnes Circus.

U.S. is building a giant 220 with six 30's and one 40 for the Rev. Oral Roberts of Tulsa. This gives an over-all measurement of 220x440. Unique feature is that this top starts with a 10-foot side wall, but graduates up to 10 sections of wall 18 feet high. This section goes over the rostrom. Other large U.S. tents include several

Calliopes Still Draw;
Shops Continue Work

There is continuous interest among showmen and public in calliopes, and these music machines are still being produced.

Calliopes traditionally were powered by steam, and now almost all of them are operated by compressed air. They are generally used around circuses and parades, while the dissimilar band organs are usually found at Merry-Go-Rounds, parks or carnivals.

Roy C. Lee, of Dallas, bought out the old National Calliope Corporation and both builds and reconditions calliopes more or less as a hobby. He is in the theatrical lighting business also.

He reports the calliope field is quite active, with most buyers being collectors or Shriners. He delivered a 43-whistle calliope to the Winona, Minn., Historical Museum recently. Lee also built a 53-whistle National for a Lawrence Welk performance in Dallas. Parts for only five more 53-whistle jobs remain. After that, Lee reports, it will not be economical to make more. Forty-three whistle models are being reconditioned, and some parts replaced with new ones. He has sold about 18 calliopes in seven years, limited largely by the amount of time he can devote to it. Several tapes for records, commercials and other uses have been made on Lee's instruments, the latest being for the Maytag Company.

Repairs and tuning of calliopes are part of Lee's activities, but he rarely deals in used equipment since used machines generally require complete overhauling.

New-Day Pioneers

There are other calliope plants in action now, most of them operated by men who are perfecting their own models. One of these is Perry Cozatt, of Danville, Ill. Another is Dowell M. Singer, of Decatur, Ind. There have been others in recent years.

Cozatt is a veteran pipe organ builder and has constructed one of these on a trailer. But now he has a line of four air calliope models ranging from 37 to 49 whistles. He has devoted much work to perfecting a new blower, new whistles and other parts.

He declares that with his unit the speed of play determines the air-pressure rate, so that now when a chord is held there is no slumming in the sound.

Cozatt has the urge to build a steam calliope and has worked on the project. He recognizes that he is seeking a lost art, since the original steam calliope builders are of a past age and other attempts to build steam calliopes have been marked usually by failure.

However, Cozatt already has overcome some stumbling blocks and is ready to try a new project.

Singer has designed and built his own air calliope also. He expects to put these on the market in the future. Meanwhile, his was recorded for a network radio show.

such that the concession operator plans to double the number of guns this year providing additional space is made available.

The gun was formally introduced to the outdoor trade at the Chicago outdoor conventions in early December and were tested on a fair midway for the first time at the Florida State Fair, Tampa, in February.

Commando offers a number of features, quite apart from its coin-operation. Each unit is self contained, electrically operated, automatically loaded and has no troublesome exterior compressors or air hoses.

Its hopper houses 8,000 rounds of steel balls, which are poured in thru the top of the gun. It comes equipped with a coin chute which is available for 5, 10 and 25-cent play. It is so designed and built that it requires only a matter of seconds to reach and service any part. Adjustment to varying depth location is made quickly and easily.

In action, the gun arrests attention. It shoots in three-shot bursts at less than one-half second per burst, with 150 shots for 10 cents taking only about one minute. The ball target unit is arresting, with the balls made of plastic of long-lasting quality.

NEW FLEETSIDE BY CHEVROLET

Long, sweeping lines, graceful body contours... new truck appearance that's fleet, dashing and completely modern! Yet there's even more to the new Chevrolet Fleetside than the striking beauty that first meets your eye. There's size, for instance: extra room inside to pack many additional cubic feet of payload. And with double-walled lower side panels, durable hardwood floor, and solidly constructed full-width tailgate, the new Fleetside is the toughest of pickup bodies, too! A new adjustable latch keeps gaitight tailgate free from rattles.

Here's a new high in hard-working utility, matched by new styling that makes you stand out on any street. See the new Fleetside at your Chevrolet dealer's now! . . . Chevrolet Division of General Motors, Detroit 2, Michigan.

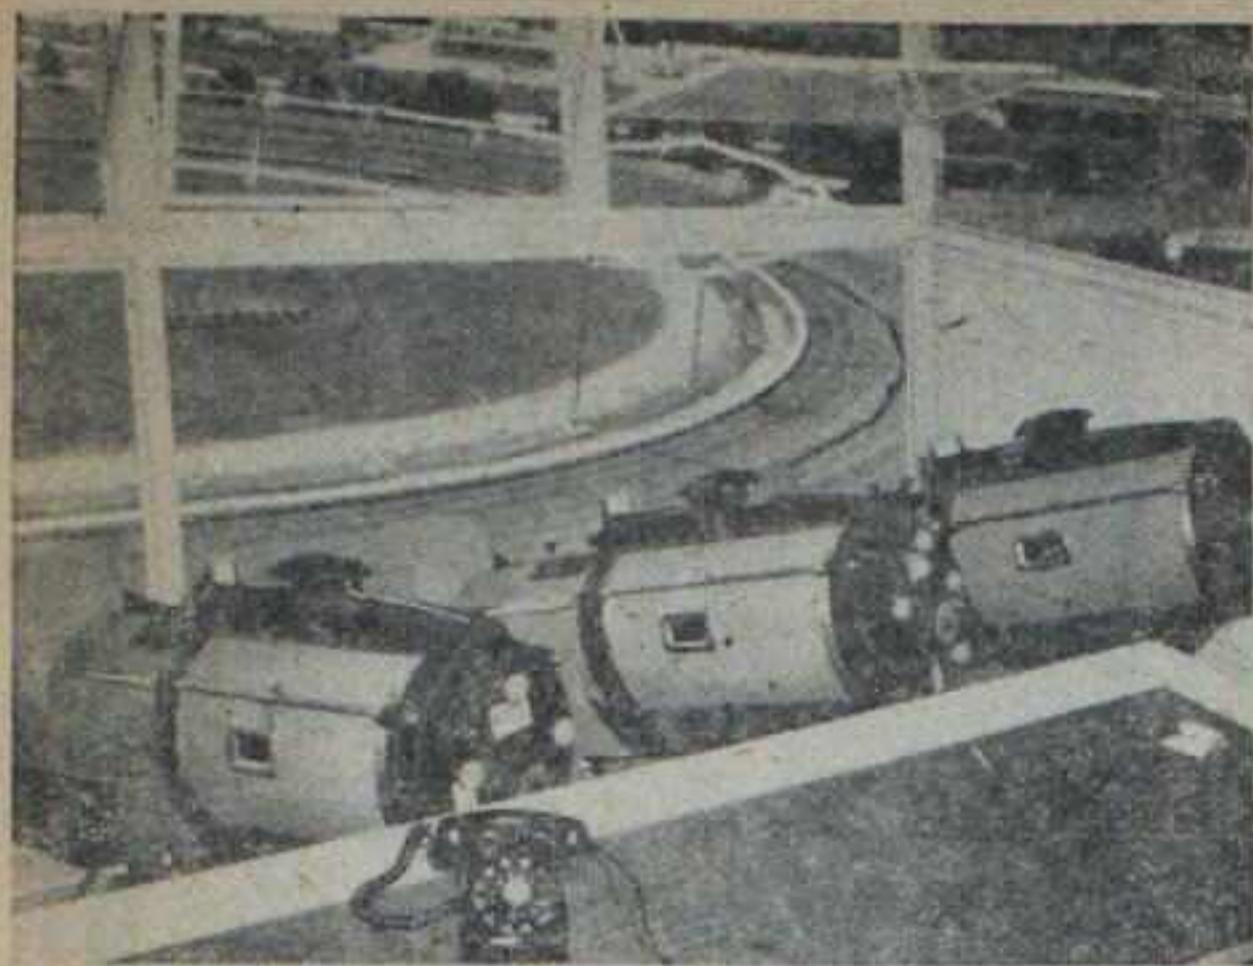

More load space than any other comparable low-priced pickup. In lengths of either 78 inches or 98" inches and a full six feet in width, this new body actually provides 50% more cubic capacity than the conventional pickup box!

*Optional at extra cost.

Plenty of work-whipping hustle and muscle. Your choice of two great engines—standard 145-h.p. Thriftmaster 6 or optional at extra cost 160-h.p. Trademaster V8. And truck-engineered chassis components will take all the abuse your most bruising hauls can give them!

ALL

To reduce the size of the spot of ordinary spotlights, you must mask out, or iris down, part of the light beam, thus wasting much of the available light for which you are paying. The resultant spot is furthermore usually fuzzy-edged and irregularly shaped. With the single control, two-element variable focal length objective lens system of Strong Spotlights, the brilliance of the spot actually increases as it is reduced in size, and is sharp-edged from head to flood.

*Require no heavy rotating equipment. *Horizontal masking control can be angled 45° in each direction from horizontal. *Fast-operating 6-slide color boomerang. *Constructed for permanence. *Portable. Mounted on casters. *Easily disassembled for shipping.

Shown above is an installation of three Strong Super Trouper High Intensity D.C. Arc Spotlights at Roosevelt Raceway, Westbury, L.I. These Super Troupers deliver 2½ times as much light as the most modern A.C. spotlight. Built-in power conversion transformers and selenium rectifiers. Cost only 2/3 as much as those which require a separate and expensive generator or rectifier. Most economical operation. Fully automatic arc control available in 220 or 110-volt A.C. models.

GREAT SOUTHWESTLAND

Giant Dallas-Fort Worth Center Pairs Kiddieland, 'Adultland'

PLANNING and construction are under way on the Great Southwest Corporation's expansive sports and recreation center located between Fort Worth and Dallas.

Here, in time for the 1959 season, is to be a giant fun zone with a kiddieland inspired by such other parks as Disneyland and an "adultland" marked by its wide range of sports facilities.

Great Southwest Corporation is planning a larger industrial center of which the funzones are only a part. Principal investors in the company are Toddie Lee Wynne Sr., a group of Fort Worth businessmen, Webb and Knapp, the Development Corporation of America, and Rockefeller Center, Inc.

The amusement sections will be the Great Southwestland—the amusement park phase; and the Great Southwest Sports Center—the section devoted to many types of participating sports activities.

Six-Part Park

Great Southwestland is still in planning stage but it is intended to have six basic sections with names and themes that parallel "Texas Under Six Flags."

Thus one section will have a Spanish theme, another will be linked with Mexico, the next will be concerned with the Republic of Texas, fifth will be the Confederacy and sixth is to be the United States. The latter would bring things up to date with a theme of space and the world of tomorrow.

This area will include not only the theme elements but also amusement rides and similar devices. Preliminary sketches call for an elaborate miniature railroad, Ferris Wheel and many more familiar units. One estimate is that there will be 20 rides on the 60-acre section.

DALLAS/FORT WORTH TURNPIKE

TOP NAMES in television and motion pictures—with emphasis on the newer media—will top the menus at many of the nation's fairs this season.

In tune with the times, video cowboys, currently riding the top rating ranges, are increasingly popular not only with the customers but with the fair executives who have their ears cued to the box office receipts.

Roy Rogers, Dale Evans and Company, who racked up whooping grosses at fairs during the past two seasons, will be seen at more this year than in '57 when they played only the Mexico State Fair, Albuquerque.

This year the Rogers aggregation will head up shows at the Wisconsin State Fair, Milwaukee; Eastern States Exposition, Springfield, Mass.; Kentucky State Fair, Louisville, and the Nebraska State Fair, Lincoln.

Gene Autry, also a perennial favorite with the horse opera fans, will again play a series of one and two-day stands at Midwestern county fairs on a percentage basis, a deal he introduced last year with success. On Autry's route are fairs at Mason City, Ia.; Janesville, Wis.; Maquoketa and Davenport, Ia.; Wausau and DePere, Wis.; Escanaba and Caro, Mich. These will be followed by rodeo dates.

An added starter in the Western field is Dale Robertson, of the "Wells-Fargo" TV series, who will head up rodeos at fairs in Winston-Salem and Raleigh, N. C. Richard Boone, veteran actor, is also being sought as a result of his gun-slinging tactics as Paladin of the "Have Gun, Will Travel" video series. Ward Bond, featured in "Wagon Train," is another.

James Arness, the Marshal Matt Dillon of "Gunsmoke," has already made a number of appearances with outdoor shows and is being sought by a number of fairs and rodeos for this summer. Arness recently was the name at a Shreveport, La. rodeo and has made several appearances at indoor circuses during the past winter.

Altho the emphasis is on the Western performer, other top names in television are signing lucrative contracts. Tennessee Ernie Ford will head the list at the Michigan State Fair, Detroit, this year with additional dates in the making. Jack Benny and Giselle MacKenzie are being sought by several major fairs and Red Skelton, Gordon MacRae and Tommy Sands have each been penciled in by at least one major agricultural annual.

Herb Shriner has again been signed for a route of smaller fairs in the Middle West. On his list, and with a number of additions yet to come, are fairs at West Union and Monticello, Ia.; Champaign and Kankakee, Ill., and Ashland and Canfield, O. The Lennon Sisters, from the Lawrence Welk TV show, were popular enough at the Canfield fair last year to be booked again for this year.

Even some of the glamor girls are turning to the fair-type of event. Typical is Jayne Mansfield, who was featured at the recent Buccaneer Days celebration in Corpus Christi, Tex. Ricky Nelson, of the "Ozzie and Harriet Show," was the name at the recent Mesa County Fair, Mesa, Ariz.

Numerous other bookings are in the works. The big Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, has yet to set its show. Others that are working on their bills are the Indiana State Fair, Du Quoin (Ill.) State Fair, and the Illinois State Fair.

The big Pacific National Exhibition in Vancouver, B. C., has indicated it will sign a list of names to help celebrate British Columbia's 100th birthday this year. And a number of outdoor events in Oregon are thinking in terms of names for their 1959 centennial celebration. In fact, the committee planning the Oregon celebration has already indicated it would like Johnnie Ray to come up and sing a special song that's being written for the State's birthday.

started, a de luxe bowling alley. Not far away is to be the sport sales mart. Here the operators expect to establish a giant supermarket for sporting goods. To measure 242 by 410 feet, the building will be larger than a large store in New York, according to the backers.

In the sports center they will offer all types of equipment and clothing to sports participants. They expect to offer inexpensive fishing equipment for youngsters on the one hand and de luxe big game rifles for advance hunters on the other. They foresee selling not only ball gloves and golf clubs, but also sports cars and cruisers. There will be a tower from which one can test binoculars. Numerous ranges will be designed for testing rifles, fishing equipment and many other items.

The sports center also is to include a ski-jump with artificial snow, travel agency facilities for booking sportmen's trips to foreign spots, and many similar features.

Additional amusement features in the sports section of the layout will be a driving range, skeet and trap shooting ranges, and deer, quail and other wildlife.

The location is at the intersection of the Dallas-Fort Worth Turnpike and the Great Southwest Expressway, north of Highway 80. The overall project is reported to be estimated at about $34,000,000. Amusement phases are expected to exceed $3,000,000.

For the carnival trade they are offering two electric poppers with six and 12-ounce capacity that can be used in conjunction with large popping units to produce fresh corn thus taking advantage of the important aroma.

Gold Medal is also selling a new blue-raspberry flavor for snow cones and has gone all-out in pushing two new flavors for the floss operator, grape-purple and blue-raspberry. In Evans' opinion, the two-color floss operation will be almost universal this year, with the concessionaire running two machines, each with a different color. A ring of candy is taken from one and then a ring from the other.

Lawrence S. Goldmeier, president of Poppers Supply Company of Philadelphia, this year is offering a long list of new products designed to bring more of the amusement-seeker's dollars into the concession stands. Slight increases have been put into effect due to the price of steel, some freight rates and labor, Goldmeier reports.

Topping the Poppers' list of new equipment is its Roast-King gas peanut roaster, the first of its kind to be manufactured since 1935, Goldmeier reports. The unit roasts 15 pounds per roast and up to 50 pounds per hour. It lists at $249.50. A powdered mix to coat candy apples is being offered at $1.50 per batch which is enough to coat 115 apples. The mix comes in a moisture-proof bag. The firm's new ice chest for snow ball and soft drink operations holds 200 pounds of ice and is heavily insulated. It has split lids for quick service and lists at $39.50.

New Tents

Also new at Poppers is its dancron candy stripe concession tents that list at $119.50 and $139.50; a snow ball flavor dispenser turn-table that holds up to six gallons of flavor and spins around at the flick of a finger and lists at $32.50; red and white striped floss paper; foldaway concession stands in several sizes, and a line of display cases and warmers for candy apples, popcorn, peanuts and caramel corn.

S. T. Echols, Inc., Bismarck, Mo., manufacturers of snow cone machines and supplies, is quoting unchanged prices this season and look for a good year in outdoor show business.

B. H. Brockway, veteran manager of Concession Supply Company, Toledo, O., is pushing two new articles this year, its new gas-fired, electrically stirred corn popper and an infra-red sandwich oven.

The popper has an output of from $30 to $50 per hour and can be easily installed by means of four bolts, Brockway points out. The base is stainless steel, chrome and cast aluminum construction. The kettle is of heavy gauge drawn stainless steel, has a large seven-inch gas burner and operates on 115 volt, 60 cycle AC current. The unit is priced at $237.50 and is designed for parks, carnivals, race tracks, trailers, rinks, theaters and other outdoor locations.

Quick Cooker

The oven handles sandwiches of practically all types, sealed in cellophane bags. The pre-prepared sandwich is removed from the refrigerator, placed in the oven, the automatic timer set and when the buzzer sounds, the sandwich is ready to be served. Hot dogs in buns are cooked in three minutes; pre-cooked barbecue sandwiches in four minutes, and hamburgers the same. The oven has a capacity of six hot dogs at one time. Ovens are available with heat sealers for the cellophane bags at $79.50 f.o.b. Toledo.

Latest entry in the snow cone field has been introduced by Sno-Master Manufacturing Company, Baltimore. This new unit occupies one square foot of space, holds approximately 25 pounds of ice and is 65 pounds. It is approved by health authorities because its product does not come into contact with the operator's hands. It produces dry, fluffy snow cones as needed with no storage of shaved ice necessary.

Multiplex Faucet Company, St. Louis, has introduced its new Multiflo automatic carbonator designed for operation with barrels and dispensers. The compact unit was designed to fit into a small space, is 16 inches long, 17 inches high, 12½ inches wide, weighs 45 pounds. It is said to produce a large volume for the establishment requiring fresh carbonated water at all times. According to the manufacturer, it produces two to four times the amount of carbonated water on 75 pounds of gas pressure with half the running time of previous large models.

Latest entry in the milk shake field has been introduced by General Equipment Sales, Inc., Indianapolis. The new machine, called Model 301, is said to be the smallest heavy-duty shake maker in the field. The model is 29 inches wide, 20½ high and 18 deep. It is equipped with torque control, will produce 22 gallons of malts and shakes and has a mix capacity of

Krispy Is Busy

S. T. Jacobson, owner of Krispy Kist Korn Machine Company, Chicago, reports the firm is very busy and looks for one of the best seasons in many years. Prices on its line are unchanged, including its floss stands, caramel corn equipment, candy apple equipment, taffy pullers, roasters, popcorn machines and snow cone makers.

Krispy is featuring a custom-built twin color cone stand. Made of chrome and stainless steel, it has fluorescent lights, two sugar bins for different color cones, and two bins for holding a carton each of pre-rolled cones.

C. R. Frank National Supply Company of St. Louis is featuring bright colors and new flavors in a number of its products this season. New snow cone flavors, according to President S. Tomken, include blueberry, cinnamon and watermelon. Also being offered is a dry mix for candy and caramel apples. Prices on its big line of products are unchanged. The firm distributes the products of Gold Medal, Echols, Star Manufacturing and also Multiplex Faucet Company.

H. E. Chrisman Jr., vice-president of Cretors and Company, Chicago and Nashville, looks for business to be on a par with 1957. Prices are unchanged. The firm, which manufactures popcorn machines and warmers and butter dispensers, is featuring a new deep fryer. This unit is said to be the only automatic fryer on the market. When the food is fried, the basket automatically lifts out of the grease. It is said to take the guess-work out of cooking and eliminates burnt or undercooked food. It has a 10-pound fat capacity and an hourly output of 20 to 25 pounds of food. Unit is priced at $139.50, f.o.b. Chicago.

Superior Refrigerator Manufacturing Company, St. Louis manufacturer of soda dispensing units, is holding to 1957 price levels. The outlook is good, according to officials.

Altho present business is not too good for Derr Bros., of Booneville, Ind., Frank Derr, manager, figures it'll be okay once the weather breaks. Prices are up about 3 per cent on its line of soda water, fountain and snow ball supplies and flavors.

Clement Clawson, president of the Clawson Machine Company, Flagtown, N. J., figures it's a little early to predict what 1958 has to offer. Thus far, early buying has been slow, due to the cold weather in the South. Prices are unchanged on its line of ice shavers, chippers, dicers and snow cone units.

Prices on the hot dog broiler and popcorn warmer manufactured by Hollywood Servemaster Company, Kansas City, Mo., are unchanged, Clarence Bean Jr., manager, announced. The outlook for business is also called good by Bean. New to their line is a new spit for barbecued chickens, hams and roasts. This is an accessory for its rotating grill that broadens its use.

A new hot chocolate serving unit has been introduced by Lacy-Dane Corporation, Chicago. The dispenser is available in 4, 8 and 12-quart capacities. According to the manufacturer, it has high-speed whipping action that aerates the drink and has a removable product container for fast, easy cleaning. The faucet has automatic return and is drip-proof.

Another new product introduced by a Chicago concern is the new soft-serve ice cream maker being marketed by Freez King Corporation. The unit has a capacity of about 24 gallons per hour and is said to be able to dispense 14 four-ounce servings per minute for peak load output. It is 56 inches high, 30 in width and 28 in depth.

TIGHT MARKET

Popcorn Shortage Boosts Prices 50%

THE CYCLE has again turned and popcorn concessionaires are faced with 1958 raw corn prices that will be in the neighborhood of 50 per cent above those that prevailed a year ago.

This is just the reverse of conditions that existed in the spring of 1957—when supplies were plentiful and prices, if anything, were on the soft side.

The current tight situation is the result of inclement weather that delayed planting early last year and equally bad weather later in the year that made it impossible to harvest a sizable percentage of the crop that was planted.

Floyd Bennett, Tarkio Popcorn Company, Tarkio, Minn., summed it up in a recent address before the Oklahoma City meeting of the National Association of Concessionaires, when he said:

"Popcorn supplies are tight due to reduced acreage planted and inclement weather conditions. A minimum of 30 per cent of the entire crop planted was never harvested, and general quality and reduced popping volume is the worst since 1945."

McCarty Bullish

J. A. McCarty, head of the Evansville seed firm bearing his name and often looked upon as the dean of the popcorn business, is also bullish, quoting $11 per hundred pounds now against the $5.75 that prevailed in March of 1957.

McCarty also adds: "In a normal year, the government reports that have been sent out have been quite accurate but we feel that during the past year, their December report was very much out of line because of the things that happened after that report. Their statistics were gathered during the month of November when in many areas there was only about 40 per cent of the popcorn harvested.

"After that time we had continuous rain for six to eight weeks. The popcorn went down badly. The farmers could not get in the fields and there was a tremendous loss of popcorn after that time. In fact, there was a great deal of the popcorn that could never be harvested because of the bad weather. Much of that which was harvested was not of top quality and the quality of this crop on the average cannot be any ways near the quality of the past few crops.

"In order to get popcorn in the cribs, processors took popcorn in with an average of 5 per cent higher moisture than a normal year. The sortout would probably be 10 per cent more than a normal year. The popping volume will be considerably less than normal. When we take all of these things into account, there is just less good popcorn for delivery from the 1957 crop. This means what we should have a very firm market on popcorn until the new crop of 1958 is ready for harvesting," McCarty added.

Higher Prices

Central Popcorn Company, Schaller, Ia., is even more bullish, quoting prices of yellow popcorn at a cool 100 per cent ahead of a year ago, altho the firm says that the appearance of Southern corn in August or early September might level off prices. White popcorn, however, is being quoted at 50 per cent over that of June, 1957.

The 100 per cent increase is also quoted by Pathfinder Corn Products Company, Fremont, Neb., who blame the short acreage and frost damage in November of last year. High prices are expected for six months to be followed by a leveling off provided weather is favorable for this year's crop.

C. E. Strum, president of the Midland Popcorn Company, Minneapolis, looks for a good season, pointing out that there are a large number of centennial celebrations in Minnesota this year which should help move much popcorn and other concession merchandise. Current prices on yellow popcorn are running 30 per cent ahead of last year, Sturm reports.

The market on raw corn in the Southwest is a full 40 per cent higher than last year, according to Charles E. Darden Company, Richardson, Tex. This firm believes there is a possibility of still higher prices before the new crop is available in fall.

The 50 per cent price increase is currently being quoted in Missouri by the Prunty Seed & Grain Company, St. Louis. F. H. Barnidge, president, blames the increase on the poor harvest. He also reports they are now packing corn in 12½-pound polyethylene bags, four to a corrugated case.

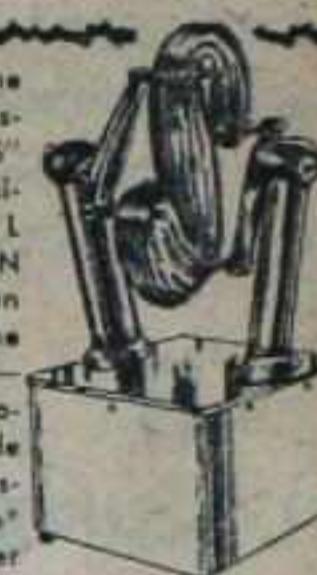

George K. Brown, vice-president of Wyandot Popcorn Company, Marion, O., says popcorn will be in extremely short supply until the new crop is ready in fall. At that time, if the 1958 growing season is satisfactory, there probably will be ample popcorn of all varieties. The shortage is greatest in large kernel yellow hybrids. The supply of hulliness is moderately short, while the supply of white hulliness is ample. Prices being quoted by Brown run 50 per cent above those of a year ago. Victor Popcorn Supply, Richmond, Va., is quoting 50 per cent ahead of last year.

Virginia & Spanish Peanut Company, Providence, R. I., is quoting prices 10 per cent higher on peanut and popcorn supplies due to short crops. Lummis & Company, Philadelphia, thru Walter W. Watson, assistant vice-president, report prices on peanuts in the shell as unchanged.

HAND-IN-HANDSlum Jewelry, Midways
Longtime Partners

By IRWIN KIRBY

For more than 50 years slum jewelry has been a standard item on the nation's midways, originally as a giveaway item to concession game customers, then as a straight sales piece and prize. Development of the carnival industry saw jewelry sales keep pace, and the two businesses grew hand-in-hand.

For domestic low-cost jewelry Providence, R. I., always has been the mecca, the producer of jobbers' products thruout the country. It has been a long time, however, since $1 per gross jewelry was available, today's pin findings alone being priced at that level. Today the prevailing range is from $2.90 to $14.40 and more, for a gross of similar items, altho it's better quality than the early ones.

Few Old-Timers

There aren't a great many people in the business who recall the early days. Sam Pockar, who has been handling slum for more than 40 years, is one of them, and he says he still can produce jewelry items from a penny up. Pockar's experience harks back to the days of the Montana diamond scarfpins, Battleship Maine pin, and brass imitation diamond ring (stamped "14K" on the inside of the hoop). They are days long past, such as in 1907, when at the age of 13 he pitched jewelry and agented on midway games. Next stop was buying closeouts and jobbing them from a Model T Ford to shows and parks along the Eastern Seaboard. Son Bill Pockar has been involved in the operation for years as partner.

There were manufacturers in the early days who could afford to make jewelry cheap enough for use as giveaway items for the outdoor trade. Popular were the scarf pin, novelty brooches, old gold plain wedding bands, Battleship Maine key chains, the man's Montana diamond, and men's brass white stone ring with phoney "14K" stamping. The Montana was a white stone scarf pin.

The basic metal item was brass jewelry dipped to brighten it like gold and lacquered to preserve its finish, at least for awhile, Pockar recalls. Some of these pieces—scarf pins, brooches, wedding rings, etc.—sold as cheaply as 60-90 cents a gross. Among the imports were the Georgia rose pin, gollywog pin and many other novelty pins that were crudely produced in comparison with the American goods, but the industrialization of Japan has enabled that country to turn out a vastly improved product today, just as the domestic product is also much finer.

Imports Were Carded

The imported pins were carded, a display method retained to this day, for the cheaper jewelry handled today is almost invariably mounted on paper cards for flash display and ease in counting.

During World War I when jewelry spindles and pitch-tilt-o-win hoopla became popular, slum jewelry items were used in quantity and, for the most part, almost exclusively as prizes. Prior to World War II the public's increasing jewelry-consciousness was being catered to by manufacturers who were turning out an immense volume of inexpensive costume jewelry. Jewelry items were being introduced around the carnival lots as a straight sales piece in conjunction with a game. Slum jewelry spindle operators, for example, took to selling engraving-type items and cheap rings that were either cast or stamped out of brass.

Today the straight sales jewelry stand is a fixture wherever there is foot traffic. Boardwalks are cluttered with them, almost every carnival has one, and fairgrounds have them, it sometimes seems, in every commercial or industrial building.

Popularity among the operators stems from jewelry's cheap cost, compact packing and almost non-existent breakage. In addition, because of jewelry being such a blind item on the retail market, the customer usually feels he is getting his money's worth, as it is almost impossible for the average customer to determine the true value of the item. There is also the inescapable appeal of jewelry for the female. Many operators of games who used to pass out slum novelty items as giveaways—fingertraps, crickets, razors, etc.—are now working for higher customer prices and feel able to give away a better piece of merchandise for a loser's prize. Quite often the origins of the pieces are closeouts, job lots and obsolete manufacturer's lines.

Some Old Firms

The face of the manufacturing city of Providence is changed now, altho a couple of the old-timers still provide material for the outdoor trade. Pockar recalls Smith Bros. at 14 Blount Street, now Imperial Place; Armour Manufacturing at Eddy Street; A. Bellin on Orange Street, and Sturdy Bros. in Chartley, Mass. Armour bought out Smith Bros. at the time of World War I, occupied the latter's location and with two other firms bought a building from Vesta Knitting Company and renamed it the Armour, Rex & Imperial Building. Rex made mechanical pencils and Imperial is Imperial Knife Company. Armour later changed its name to that of the owner, S. Chiappinelli, before quitting the business. Archie Bellin is one of the few pioneer slum manufacturers still active in the business.

Among the many who have passed out of the field are Goldsmith-Harzberg, Sturdy Bros., McRae, Keeler of Attleboro, Mass., Marden Kettell and John C. L. Shebeck.

Their places have been taken by others, however, and the Providence area's products blanket the country during the outdoor fun season. The basic sum item has been elevated to a higher plane thru improvements in the manufacturing process to where a wide range of quality is available from a city that was once known, in the outdoor trade, for $1-per-gross slum. Smaller operations have become overshadowed by multi-story plants like Uncas which pour millions of pieces yearly into syndicate (chain store) outlets. Slum is a small, cheap jewelry item, but the business volume of its manufacturers, importers, jobbers and users reaches a staggering figure annually.

Pipes for Pitchmen"IT SURE . . .

looks good to see a few pipes coming in, and Smiley's report about the preacher who tried to steal his tip sure got a laugh out of me, altho it's no laughing matter to build a tip, beat your brains out getting a dollar and then have some lame brain try to steal it from you," writes Harry R. Day, the Greensboro, N. C., maestro. "A few years ago Charlie Hudson and I had a med show up in Ashe County. The third night there we were working to a packed house when a Holy Roller preacher decided to hold a revival meeting a couple of blocks away. When nobody showed up he went to the county fathers and, believe it or not, my license was revoked for disturbing a meeting. Try to beat that one. At the Forest City trade day I pay a Holy Roller preacher two bucks if he doesn't holler in my tip. When one asked Tex Watts for $2 and he refused, she said she would put the hex on him, and so it goes.

We have an ex-pitchman who will try to break up your tip by preaching, if he can, and the only thing to do is to smile at them and try to get a buck. The weather in Greensboro has been mean and rainy for the past couple of weeks, but the sun will shine again soon. I am looking forward to the day when my friend, Cliff E. Horton, of Connecticut, will join me for the summer. I am glad to hear that Peg Leg is still around. He is one swell tip getter and a real showman. I may run down to Charlotte, N. C., one of these days to see my friend, Charlie Hudson."

visitors on Maxwell Street, Chicago, were Bernard D. Kantor and Joseph Weil Jr., who pitched two gross of iridescent Japanese parasols. However, said Kanfor, the customers showed great reluctance to part with the coin, haggling, debating, etc., before concluding negotiations. The same evening, Sunday (24), said Bernie, "we dashed over to the Modern Living-Exposition and Flower Show loaded with Mickey Mouse balloons and space arrows, but violent winds demolished many a balloon as well as our high hopes."

EYE-CATCHERSee French Basket
As Sturdy Seller

By HERB DOTTON

Outdoor-Merchandising Editor

SEEING is believing. And, we've seen the French basket. And, on the basis of first-hand observation (and some experience), we have no hesitancy in predicting that this demonstration item in its first full year before the U. S. public will run up whopping sales.

The French basket . . . or Le Gracieux, which, translated means The Graceful, is really something. It is, indeed, graceful. It is also amazingly useful. And, when being demonstrated or in any one of its many shapes and usages, it is eye-catching and eye-holding.

Ingeniously made of wire, it lends itself to a wide variety of shapes and uses . . . shapes and uses which delight the fems and arrest men on the look-out for something distinctive and useful to give members of the fair sex.

With a quick movement of one's hand or hands, it can be transformed into (1) a floral centerpiece; (2) a serving tray; (3) an ivy planter; (4) a pedestal for serving candies and snacks; (5) a hot casserole carrier; (6) a hand bag; (7) a salad and vegetable washer; (8) a server for fruit and rolls—to cite just some of the many uses to which it can be put, both appealingly and practically.

Something of a Doubting Thomas, we had heard of the French basket and the claims for it but were not convinced of its strong appeal and of its tremendous sales potential until a recent visit to San Antonio.

There we visited Bob Olson, of the French Basket Sales Company, who has the exclusive distributorship on the imported novelty.

We expressed our skepticism to Olson.

He laughed and said he understood. He related how he, too, had been skeptical and how, before seeing one of the baskets, he had turned down an offer made to him to handle all U. S. sales on it.

The manufacturer, however, did not accept Olson's first "no." He wanted Olson to handle the sales. This was understandable; Olson already had demonstrated his ability to sell products on a nationwide basis. The manufacturer figured that the basket itself would sell Olson. So, he shipped Olson several.

When the shipment was opened, Olson was delighted; the baskets were so unusual. His delight mounted as he showed them to others. He quickly closed for the distributorship.

Taking a leaf from the manufacturer's book, Olson, on our visit to his office, interrupted the conversation early to show and demonstrate the basket. We were, to put it mildly, deeply impressed.

We were struck not only with the unusualness of the item but with the ease with which it can be demonstrated and how the demonstration compelled our interest.

Upon our return to Chicago, we found a dozen French baskets had been shipped to us by Olson. These we distributed among the men and women in the office who were intrigued and delighted by the French importations.

More impressive, the next day several asked where they could buy one at the suggested sales price of $2.95 and one man reported his wife wanted six, also at the suggested $2.95 price, to give away as gifts to those who had befriended her while she was in the hospital.

Olson himself can provide abundant documentation of how well the item is received.

Up to the present time, the outlets have been largely in department stores, where the results have been excellent. But, recently, they have been introduced at indoor shows of various kinds. At a recent horse show in Chicago the item went like proverbial hot cakes.

During the coming fair season, the French basket should go over big. And, at all types of indoor shows, ranging from home shows to flower shows, the basket should ring up whopping sales.

Displayed in its various shapes, the French baskets themselves make an attractive display for a demonstration whether indoor or outdoors, at various events. As for demonstrating it, we saw a 12-year-old boy come up with a remarkable demonstration only a scant few minutes after the basket was placed in his hands.

To demonstrators looking for the unusual, this is the answer to their prayer. The profit margin is there for them, Olson assures us. And, we certainly believe it has tremendous sales potential.

The novelty of the item has captured the attention of some of the top women's page editors in the nation, and at fairs and other shows throughout the country it should do the same, all of which should spur sales. Similarly, it's the kind of demonstration item that snags the attention of columnists and TV men covering major events who look for something truly unusually to treat—and this, too, should serve to heighten sales.

For the demonstrator faced with quick jumps between fair or show stands, the item has special advantages because it collapses into very small space, is light in weight, and comes well packaged.

Unless we miss our guess, you'll see many, many buyers of the item this year at fairs and other shows walking the grounds or thru the buildings, with basket in hand—and this, too, should serve to heighten sales.

YOUR "LIVE" BASKET MAGIC DEFIES MECHANICAL "LAWS"—TAKES IN MONEY FROM AMAZED CROWDS!

Every woman wants one on sight! A real goldmine for salesmen, crew managers, demonstrators, party plan people!

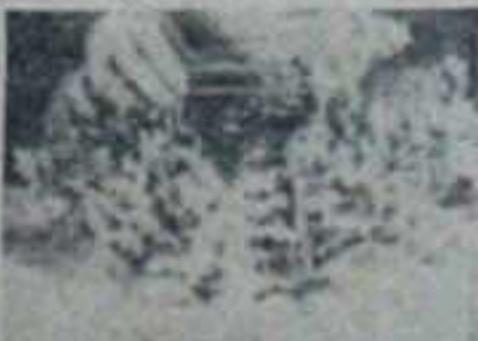

This amazing import from France is acclaimed by salesmen as the NINTH WONDER OF THE WORLD. When you see it, you'll know why pictures can't begin to reveal the real thrill of seeing the FRENCH BASKET in action. It seems to defy every mechanical law as it changes itself into an endless variety of useful shapes at the touch of your fingers! Astounds everybody more than taking a rabbit out of a hat . . . you make fantastic magician's pay just by showing it. This mechanical marvel is so different in construction that it can NOT be made by machinery—each one is hand assembled by French craftsmen. Women buy just as quickly as they recover from astonishment—in about 20 seconds. As one salesman says—"I leave everybody dumbfounded—with their money in my pocket!" See for yourself. We'll positively guarantee that you've never had so much fun making money!

START COUNTING YOUR SALES IN THOUSANDS

If we seem to bubble with more enthusiasm than you can feel as you read these words, remember that we've actually seen what happens when FRENCH BASKET is shown. Until you've seen a demonstration for yourself—you'd better keep an open mind. It doesn't matter where you go or how you sell, you'll take in money anywhere you see people! In homes, in stores, in factories, in offices the FRENCH BASKET draws people—even crowds—like a busy circus. Put your trust in any woman to fall in love with the FRENCH BASKET on sight—even if you show it a hundred times a day! At the low retail price of just $2.95 it's a wild runaway seller!

Comes to life as you touch it, magically forming into dozens of useful shapes. Made of polished metal wire with plastic handles and hinges. Withstands boiling water; rust-proof. Use as receptacle for plants; as basket to hold eggs in boiling water; as server for hot casserole; dozens of uses. Saves time . . . saves work—yet is the ultimate in graceful design.

How does it work? This invention baffles everyone—fills your pockets with profits. Turns, bends, twists, opens, closes to form:
Planter for flowers
Cookie Pedestal
Holder for washing vegetables and fruits
Ladies' Handbag
Pie Plate
Serving Tray
Trivet for hot dishes
USES UNLIMITED!
New uses discovered every day.

GO INTO ACTION NOW—MAIL COUPON FOR SAMPLE

See for yourself why all the "raving" about this product is completely justified. Don't let skepticism cheat you out of a small fortune. Believe your own eyes ONLY—but give yourself the chance you deserve to cash in. Just say "Watch this!" and see how the French Basket gives you the master salesman's touch by the uncanny way it does the "impossible." No sales experience needed . . . demonstration means action—and action sells. So act now. Rush just $2.00 for a demonstrator postpaid—or send $21.24 for a full dozen (Retail value $2.95 each or $35.40 per dozen). Quantity buyers ask for special gross lot discounts. Mail coupon at the right.

ICE SHOWS

"ICE CAPADES"

Operated by John H. Harris, Pittsburgh, playing principal cities and buildings, including arenas belonging to the Arena Managers' Association. The organization operates two companies, each continuing a single production for two years. Currently, the 18th edition is playing its first season, making principal cities, and the 17th edition is completing its second year. In the fall the 19th and 18th editions will operate. "Ice Capades" is equipped to play indoor or outdoor engagements requiring portable rink equipment.

"ICE FOLLIES"

Operated by Shipstads and Johnson, Los Angeles, playing principal cities and buildings. Annual route starts at Los Angeles and takes the show to East, then back to San Francisco, where it operates most of the summer. Plays only buildings with built-in rinks.

"HOLIDAY ON ICE"

Operated by Morris Chalfen, Minneapolis, playing principal cities and using both indoor arenas and outdoor locations such as fairgrounds. Equipped with portable rink facilities. Corporation also operates units of "Holiday on Ice" in Europe, Asia, Africa and South America. Secondary units in this country have been discontinued.

In addition to the above major ice shows are numerous other ice productions which are offered by various booking agencies. Some of these are in operation regularly, some operate intermittently or for specific locations, and some have been discontinued. Among these titles are:

"Carnival on Ice," offered by Ray Beaudet in New England.

Ed Leary's Ice Show, offered by Music Corporation of America.

George Arnold's "Rhythm on Ice," Hollywood, Calif.

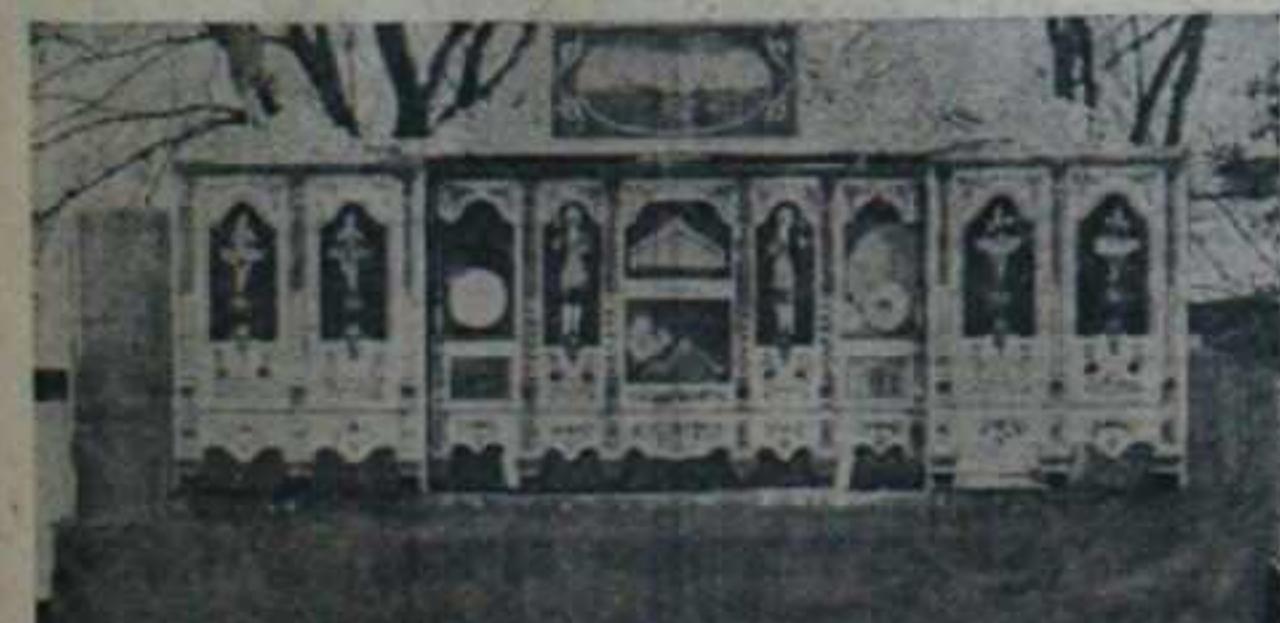

Joan Hyldorf Ice Show, Jimmy Hetzer Agency, Huntington, W. Va.

"Ice Time," operated by Harry Hirsch, handled by Barnes-Caruthers Agency, Chicago.

"Ice Varieties," formerly operated by L. N. Fleckles, Chicago.

"Stars Over Ice," offered by the C. W. McCafferty, Hollywood.

"Icelandia," Pan-American Amusement Corp., Thousand Oaks, Calif.

THE PARATROOPER

AN ENTIRELY NEW AND DIFFERENT RIDE MADE FROM THE SPITFIRE FRAME AND OUR NEW, EASY TO ASSEMBLE, LOW COST CONVERSION KIT

This Conversion Kit consists of a new set of cars with necessary supports and hangers which fit the Spitfire frame without alteration, except to weld one fitting to each wheel spoke. This can be done in three to four hours.

The car suspensions have universal joint action, so while in operation they are free to swing in and out as well as forward and backward giving a real lively ride action.
