FCC, Congress Locked In Low-Power Dispute

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) and Congress are at odds over the FCC's plan to issue licenses to hundreds of low-power, non-commercial radio stations operated by schools, community groups, churches and others. The FCC's opponents claim that the signals of newly licensed low-power stations will interfere with the signals of traditional radio stations. The low-power license would allow small stations that are 100 watts or less to broadcast over geographic areas up to seven miles in diameter.

As reported in CMJ (issue #656), the National Association of Broadcasters (NAB) has organized an aggressive campaign to oppose the FCC's low-power radio plan. NAB leader Eddie Fritts has stated that "the plan to cram hundreds if not thousands of low-power FM stations will create unacceptable interference across the radio dial." (Continued on page 9)

National Record Mart Acquires MP3Board.com

Specialty music retailer National Record Mart (NRM) will acquire downloadable music company MP3Board.com. According to PC Data Online, MP3Board.com had 979,000 specific users during the month of January 2000, a distant second to leader MP3.com's 4.1 million users. Detailed terms of the deal were not disclosed, but NRM anticipates that the deal will entail a merger of MP3Board.com with a yet-to-be-formed acquisition subsidiary, which would then spin off about 25% of the shares of the combined entity in a rights offering to NRM shareholders. Tracy Bonham Returns From Hiatus With 'Down Here'

By Chris Parker

Tracy Bonham made it back to the public eye before Kevin Shields, but it's been four years since her gold-plated Island Records debut, The Burdens Of Being Upright, and so a brief reintroduction may be in order. Originally planned for release in late 1998, Bonham's follow-up, Down Here, was delayed more than a year due to the acquisition of Island's parent, PolyGram by Universal. The album, her second full-length, will be released by Island-ID[MG on April 18.

Those with short attention spans may have already forgotten Bonham's careermaking single, "Mother Mother," a reassuring letter home that must have been doubly reassuring once it became a hit. Now (Continued on page 10)

PANTERA Reinventing The Steel (EastWest/Elektra-EEG)

Get ready for the unexpected when you lift the CD of Reinventing The Steel out of its tray. The photo on the inset card is of the four members of Pantera sitting around on what could be grandma's front porch. Autumn couldn't look more pastoral on a Sears Photo Studio backdrop, and the band appears to be giggling like schoolgirls to boot. But when you've made what could easily prove to be the record of your career, you can afford to kick back and chuckle at the pip-squeak opposition. Like metal icons Slaver and Metallica, Pantera competes in a field of one, and on its sixth release, the band continues to take every opportunity to top its own brutal ferocity and prove its total disregard for metal trends. That attitude has allowed the band to raise the bar incredibly high, but these cowboys from hell blast right over it with Reinventing The Steel. Backed by bludgeoning riffs, breakneck speeds and hairpin turns that recall some of the most devastating moments of the band's early-'90s output, vocalist Phil Anselmo rips into every nambypamby weakling that's gotten under his skin in the last few years, and guitarist Dimebag Darrell inserts frantic, squiggling leads that'll make guitar mag-studying shredders drool. No one else makes records like this. That's because no one else - Cheryl Botchick

DEL THE FUNKY HOMOSAPIEN

Both Sides Of The Brain (Hiero Imperium)

Del has come a long way since his days as the token comedy rapper who brought his East Coast aesthetics to the West Coast flavor of early-'90s hip-hop. As a key member of the prominent Oakland collective Hieroglyphics, the Funky Homosapien is showing up those who wrote him off as a "novelty act," displaying the type of jaw gymnastics you would expect from a dictionary assassin on par with crewmates like the Souls Of Mischief. Both Sides Of The Brain is among Del's finest work to date. This 19-track collection finds the Funky Homosapien sharpening his trademark delivery and galactic wordplay beyond any rhyme he's penned in the past. To gain a better understanding of his growth as a lyricist, peep phonics-defying lines like "I'm barnstorming, alluring, curing your ailments with lyrical talismans/Here it is for the scrutiny of every record reviewer you're due to produce a little rhyme to nonexistence" from the industry call-out "Phoney Phranchise." As always, Del has armed himself with beats from some of the hottest studio chemists in hip-hop, including fellow Heiros Casual and Domino, Company Flow's El-P and the invincible Prince Paul. The funky one raises his rank in the empire, simply by using Both Sides Of The Brain. - Ron Hart

MAKERS Rock Star God (Sub Pop)

As Seattle's most prized pack of rock 'n' rollers, the Makers have commanded a mysterious, powerful magnetism from the moment they got together almost 10 years ago. Credit their amphetamine-soaked, rabble-rousing live shows; their impeccable, bad-boy-gone-pretty appearance; or their Dickensian rise from the wrong side of the tracks but with a reputation as leaders of the garage punk/trash rock pack, the Makers are seething with sneering savoir-faire. Incredibly, the Makers' first decade has merely set the stage for a chameleon-like career transformation. Rock Star God lifts even the band's recent, more mature work into another league altogether. Structured as a two-part rock concept album, this massive effort reveals levels of songwriting, arranging, lyric-writing and conceptualization never even hinted at in the Makers' red-raw early output. Stylistically, the band is more closely aligned with vintage British Invasion rhythm and blues than they are with the current underground garage rock scene, and they incorporate a myriad of additional instruments to augment the effect (e.g. violin and viola, for a convincing "As Tears Go By"-like quality). The Makers' je ne sais quoi has been revealed. Beneath the façade of nihilistic danger was a secret ability to produce an album as epic as Rock Star God.

CASH AUDIO

Green Bullet (Touch And Go)

Hip-hop's Cash Money Millionaires may have player-hated them out of their original name, but Cash Audio and its whiskey-stained rock will contime to reign over any posse of blinged-out thugs. Despite the inevitable name change, the group formerly known as Cash Money sticks fiercely to its roots in both John Mayall and Jon Spencer on its third full-length. Green Bullet finds the Chicago duo expanding its personnel by adding blues harpist Dave Passow, and intensifying the purity of its lo-fi, scrapvard bloozecore by cannonballing deep into the 12-bar shuffle of rock 'n' roll traditionalism. Whether tearing through customized renditions of Hound Dog Taylor's ".44 Blues" and the Yardbirds' "Got To Hurry," or putting a gritty spin on Plastic Ono-esque balladry ("Gold Dust Majesty"), Cash Audio is broadening its punk-blues wallop. The glaring highlight on Green Bullet is the scaring, acidscarred harmonica work of Passow, which gives the band the purist chops to really sling the electric mud. Cash Audio has the DIY blues power to rule the indie rock world with style and finesse, and they remain "monev" in our book.

Indiana Unblocks Napster, New Version Of Program On Way

Indiana University, one of the first universities to block access to the controversial Napster program, announced that it will permit users to connect to Napster servers for a trial period of two weeks. The point of the experiment is to test the solution the university and Napster have devised to solve traffic congestion problems caused by the popular MP3-swapping software. If the fix stabilizes Napster-generated traffic, Indiana U said it would continue to allow access to Napster. The school will also make its solution publicly available to other universities, hoping that the new method — if successful — will become an Internet standard for network traffic control. More than 200 colleges and universities have blocked access to the program.

Napster is defending a lawsuit by the Recording Industry Association Of America (RIAA) on charges of vicarious and contributory copyright infringement. Napster recently announced the scheduled release of a new version of its software that would allow the transfer of secure Window Media Audio files in addition to unprotected MP3 files. Napster VP of Marketing Liz Brooks, speaking at the South By Southwest music conference, said that the protected files transferred through the new Napster program will retain their security features. (By contrast, other programs currently in circulation remove such security features.) The new release will add certain features, such as one that gives users the ability to send instant messages to each other.

The company is presently considering whether to seek ASCAP and BMI licenses that apply to music streams and downloads of songs and clips, which are the same licenses used by radio stations and restaurants. Napster executives argue that since they are not directly involved with the transfer of music and generate no revenue from it, they do not need to pay for mechanical rights, which are due anytime a sound recording is distributed, regardless of the medium and whether or not the recording is sold. Meanwhile, the lean 30employee company continues searching for venture-capital funding, a search made more difficult by the legal clouds surrounding the software. In the eight months that the program has been available, its popularity and use have grown exponentially.

with Stiff labelmates Elvis Costello, Wreckless Eric and Nick Lowe, toured the country in a musical travelcade that year, helping usher in new wave and punk rock.

Dury recorded eight albums and had numerous successful U.K. singles, including a #1 with "Hit Me With Your Rhythm Stick," and a #3 with "Reasons To Be Cheerful, Part 3." He was a strong storyteller, unwinding intimately sketched portraits of British life observed with wry wit and biting wordplay, but delivered in a thick Cockney brogue that surely limited his American appeal. (The title track from Dury's second album, Do It Yourself, topped at #126, the best the could manage in America.) After his music career diminished, Dury pursued acting, appearing in Peter Greenway's The Cook, The Thief, His Wife And Her Lover and Roman Polanski's Pirates. The Blockheads reunited in 1998 for a series of shows, and recorded the album Mr. Love Pants, Dury's first since 1992's The Bus Driver's Prayer And Other Stories. A dynamic performer with great spirit, Dury didn't let the polio he suffered since childhood slow him down anymore than he let cancer, first diagnosed in 1995, stop him from performing. In February, he performed at the London Palladium to help his friends and fellow U.K. music veterans Madness promote their recent single "Drip Fed Fred," on which he made a cameo

ASCAP, BMI Bring Business To The Web

The two leading performing rights organizations, ASCAP (American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers) and BMI (Broadcast Music, Inc.), have announced new strategies for using the Internet as a tool to collect royalties for their members. As the number of copyright infringement suits between companies such as MP3.com and Napster and the music publishing and recording industries grows, the development of technology to monitor music use on the Web is especially welcome.

ASCAP recently signed a licensing agreement with AudioSoft Corp. for use of its Rights Management System, which captures, organizes and delivers information about music usage on the Internet. Webcasters equipped with the new technology will be able to submit usage reports for their streamed content automatically, enabling more accurate and efficient payment of royalties to the society's affiliates. ASCAP expects to outfit a small number of webcasters with a trial version of the software this month, with a worldwide rollout expected sometime in the ASCAP peer BMI plans to offer affiliated commercial radio stations a new, Internetbased system to report music use called "Electronic Music Reporting" (EMR). Currently, radio stations submit their music logs on paper, making the data collection for the station and the data interpretation for BMI tedious at best. The new system will enable a station to generate an electronic report that can be uploaded directly to BMI's database over a secure Internet connection. Payment of royalties to BMI songwriters and publishers will thus be faster and more precise. EMR appears to provide many benefits to BMI and its affiliates, in addition to saving a tree here and there.

U.K. Performer lan Dury Dead

Ian Dury, 57, an inimitable British artist who emerged from the pub-rock era dominated by bands such as Brinsley Schwartz to lead the new wave movement, died after a long bout with cancer. After playing with Kilburn and the High Roads in the early '70s, Dury made his mark in 1977 as part of lan Dury & The Blockheads on Stiff Records, recording the classic hedonist anthem, "Sex And Drugs And Rock 'N' Roll." Dury, along

Harry Fox Agency Joins RIAA In MP3.com Suit

The Harry Fox Agency (HFA) has filed suit against MP3.com on behalf of Paul McCartney's publishing company, MPL Communications, Inc., and Peer International Corporation, charging the company with copyright infringement. The RIAA filed a similar complaint in January. Harry Fox, a licensing clearinghouse and monitoring source, claims that MP3.com's new service, My.MP3.com, has succeeded in copying CDs into the MP3.com database without authorization from the publishers. In the lawsuit, Harry Fox claims that MP3.com "has publicly boasted that it has deliberately copied over 80,000 compact discs ("CDs") containing copyrighted musical compositions onto its computer servers without seeking or obtaining the copyright owners' permission." HFA is seeking to have the works removed from their Web site in addition to unspecified damages and profits derived by My.MP3.com.

My.Mp3.com is a service launched my MP3.com in January 2000 that enables a user to purchase CDs from an affiliated retailer and listen to the tracks in streaming audio before receiving the physical CD. Consumers can also create digital files of songs from CD's they already own and stream them wherever they have access to the Internet. According to a statement on MP3.com's website, the system is "designed to give people greater access to their music and therefore encourages the purchase of more CDs." The Harry Fox Agency begs to differ; the law firm representing HFA sent MP3.com a cease-and-desist letter that has been proudly and defiantly posted on the MP3 Web site.

Biafra & Friends Remember The WTO

Musical provocateur and former Dead Kennedy singer Jello Biafra, abetted by Krist Novselic (Nirvana, Sweet 75), Kim Thayil (Soundgarden) and Gina Mainwal (Sweet 75) rocked Seattle's Showbox club last December, while police tussled with World Trade Organization protestors outside. To commemorate the event, Biafra's Alternative Tentacles label is releasing a recording of the show entitled, Live From The Battle In Seattle. The album, which is being produced by Jack Endino (Mudhoney, Supersuckers, Soungarden), will be released on May 8 under the group name No WTO Combo and will feature five tracks, as well as much of Biafra betweensong proselytizing. The track listing is "Battle in Seattle," the old Dead Kennedys' standard "Let's Lynch The Landlord," "New Feudalism," "Electronic Plantation" and "Full Metal Jack-Off."

Beck Injured Following On-Stage Stunt

During the last song of a March 23 show at London's Wembley Arena, Beck "impaled" himself on the top of a band member's bass guitar. In the midst of carefully rehearsed chaos during "Devil's Haircut," Beck not-so-carefully managed to fall into the neck of Justin Medal-Johnsen's instrument and could be seen doubled over in pain. He was rushed to the hospital after the show and was released the same night after being diagnosed with deep internal bruising. Beck failed to appear at his own after-party but returned to the concert stage with performances at the Manchester Apollo and the Clyde Auditorium over the weekend.

Williams Accused Of Lyrical Larceny

Is that a bullseve on Robbie Williams's back, or new "convict fashion" from Benetton? First, Oasis leader and former friend Noel Gallagher took aim at what he called a "fat" target, and now Loudon Wainwright III has filed suit, calling Britain's answer to Jordan Knight a plagiarist. (Williams's former boy band, Take That, was an enormous British phenomenon, selling more U.K. records between '93 and '95 than any band since the Beatles.) Williams has been accused of stealing the words to Wainwright's 1973 song "I Am The Way" for his song "Jesus In A Camper Van" and is being sued for millions of pounds. The song appeared on his 1998 album I've Been Expecting You, the follow-up to his '97 solo debut, Life Thru A Lens.

Wainwright's publisher, Ludlow Music Ltd. alleges that Williams's label EMI approached them in 1998 for permission to use the lyrics. Ludlow refused, and asked EMI to delete all references to Wainwright's song. Also named in the suit are "songwriting" partner Guy Chambers and BMG Music Publishing. Williams was involved in a media flame war with Noel and Liam Gallagher several weeks ago, culminating in Williams's offer to publicly pound the lead singer of Oasis. Last spring, Capitol issued The Ego Has Landed, a U.S.-only compilation designed for breaking Williams in America.

Slipknot Cancels Rest Of European Tour

The nine members of Slipknot recently returned to their hometown of Des Moines, Iowa, after canceling the remaining 12 dates of their European tour. According to a spokesperson at the band's label Roadrunner, Slipknot scrapped the rest of the tour because a few members of the band had to return to the States for the oft-cited "personal reasons." The band hopes to reschedule the cancelled performances, the majority of which affected German venues, during the European summer festival season. All ticket sales will be refunded. According to Roadrunner, the band's North American tour will take place as planned, kicking off on April 7 at the Warehouse in Toronto.

SEX MOB

By Tad Hendrickson

NYC quartet Sex Mob's recently released Solid Sender (Knitting Factory) features odd but fun covers of music by Abba, Ouke Ellington, James Brown and the Rolling Stones, as well as several originals. The album has sat atop CMJ's Jazz chart and has had an eight-week-and-counting run on the CMJ Top 200. Onstage, slide-trumpeter Steven Bernstein is known for using the stage like a pulpit for his unique musical output. With that in mind, we thought we'd ply him with a few questions.

How should a band like the Sex Mob be described? And don't say using semaphore.

A guy named John Mooney in Oklahoma City came up with the perfect description when we played there last month: "Tweaked, avant-sleaze jazz from downtown NYC."

Where did the sense of humor couched in your music come from?

[From] years of practice. I was always this way, and then I got more this way. I was raised in Berkeley in the '70s and moved to New York in the '80s. I toured with the Flying Karamazov Brothers for a long time. I played psychedelic hippie circuses in the Northwest. I hung at the Squat Theatre and Danceteria. I've played with Haitian bands in Queens, Salsa bands in the Bronx, on television with Bootsy and Allen Toussaint. I've opened for the Grateful Dead, wrote horn charts for Robert Altman and Lou Reed. It all adds up after awhile.

How hard is it to get a slide trumpet repaired?

The hardest part is removing the slide from some petty thief club manager's ass.

The liner notes to the album end with a resounding statement: "Free Billy Preston." Oon't you think he deserved to go to jail?

I agree with NYC policy. All citizens should be asked if they know where to get weed. If their answer is "get away," shoot and kill them. [Patrick Dorismond, an unarmed New York City man, was recently shot and killed by three undercover cops soliciting him for drugs in hopes of making a bust. -ed.]

You seem to use humor and a staunchly non-party (or non-traditional jazz) line in your take on jazz. Is this true? Or you just trying to bring back Tin Pan Alley?

Actually my humor is right on the traditional jazz party line. Sex Mob is in the tradition of Louis Armstrong, Roy Eldridge, Fats Waller — jazz was the party music of choice, dude.

INDUSTRYMEWS

China Orders MP3 Takeout

Houston InterWeb Design, a U.S. Web site creation tools company, the Chinese Ministry of Culture and Hainan Dingshen Investment, a Chinese investment group, have teamed up to establish China's first MP3 music Web site. The Chinese government hopes that the new site, Beijing Artists Online (BAO), will acquaint the world with Chinese music from the past 500 years and plans are to offer the first version of the site in English, rather than Chinese. Eventually, the site will also feature English and Spanish music. One of the main attractions that Houston InterWeb Design provides to the Chinese government is the ability of a site's authorities to validate the information being posted. For example, checking songs for objectionable political content is possible through the company's technology. Musicians in China take note: Big Brother is listening.

Copyright infringement wars are being waged daily in the U.S. and abroad, pitting MP3 sites against recording companies and music publishers alike. Houston InterWeb Design plans to design Beijing Artists Online like their AMP3.com Web site, where artists collect a fixed royalty for every download. Perhaps not coincidentally, China's concern over the welfare of artists on the government-sanctioned BAO comes after the recent settlement China-based television portal, MyWeb, agreed to pay the International Federation Of The Phonographic Industry (IFPI) on behalf of Sony Music, Universal Music Group and Warner Music. On AMP3.com, artists are paid royalties from monies collected from sponsors. According to a spokesperson, the Web site has paid over $100,000 to their artists at the rate of "a dime, a download." Another benefit of AMP3.com's method of payment is that it circumvents the paperwork required by performing rights societies like ASCAP

Luaka Bop Reissues Catalog

On March 14, World-music label and home of the Brazil Classics series Luaka Bop reissued most of its back catalog. The label has also made available a two-disc compilation of favorites and "rareties from the vault" in celebration of a delayed 10th anniversary and the imprint's new distributor. Founded by former head Talking Head David Byrne in 1989, the label changed distributors from Warner Bros. to Virgin Records and claims to be finding its new partner more sympathetic to its cause. Luaka Bop has dedicated itself to artists' longevity rather than the number of album sales; according to Luaka, this was not always shared with Warner. The reissues include all but two albums recorded by A.R. Kane, in addition to four that are out of print. With the exception of a Carlinhos Brown track that will replace one by Sergio Mendes on Beleza Tropical 2, the albums will contain the same track listing and artwork as the originals.

Listen.com Rounds Up $70 Million

Downloadable music guide Listen.com has completed a $70 million round of financing. The investment is one in a series of recent financing rounds by the company, the most prominent of which was the strategic investment made by the five major labels in Listen.com two months ago. Attractor Ventures, European venture capital fund Index Ventures, and many of the company's previous investors led this latest "series D" round.

Listen.com directs its visitors only to legal MP3 music downloads, while also providing consumers with editorial reviews of the music it features. The company is attempting to position itself as a leading Internet music company that will survive the online music shakeout.

"Listen.com has positioned itself as an aggressive company in a huge market space by aligning itself with nearly all the other companies in the Internet music market, all five major music labels, the leading independent music labels and some of the top financiers in the U.S., Japan and Europe," said Gigi Brisson, a principal at Attractor.

The equity will be used to build product development, brand marketing and continued international expansion. Listen.com recently entered into a relationship with Trans Cosmos Inc. to establish the Listen.com brand name in Japan.

Emusic.com Invests In Traditional Retail Distribution

Emusic.com has taken a minority equity stake in NAIL Distribution, giving the Internet music vendor a stake in traditional retail distribution. Emusic is the exclusive online distributor of music for hundreds of independent labels with around 75,000 songs available for download. NAIL is a Portland-based distributor serving more than 400 independent record labels and some 600 independent, "mom and pop" retailers.

The move fulfills Emusic's recently stated desire to establish relationships with traditional retailers. The deal is especially fruitful for the associated labels who will, presumably, be given the option of receiving both online and physical distribution from the two companies. The advantages for NAIL's brick-and-mortar retail partners are less clear considering the competition they now face from online retail. NAIL President/CEO Mike Jones admitted the benefits for small, traditional retailers are not as immediately evident as those enjoyed by labels, but said he is confident the deal will be to their advantage.

Seattle Forges New Experience

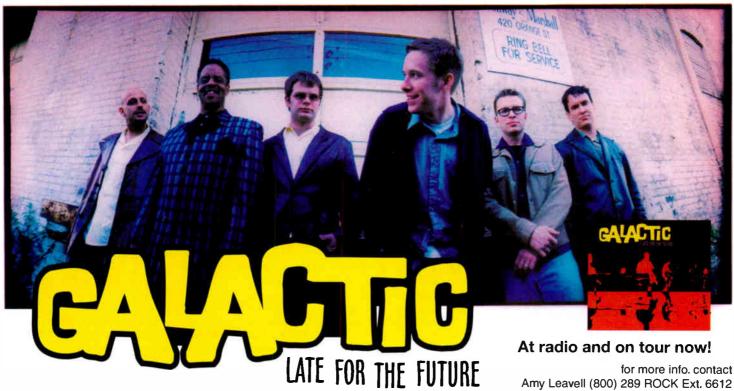

Seattle's Experience Music Project (EMP) is finally visible on the horizon.

After more than a year of delays, it was announced that the museum will open on June 23, ending a long and winding conception. The museum was originally conceived as a shrine to Jimi Hendrix in 1992 by Microsoft co-founder and Hendrix memorabilia hound Paul Allen. However, the focus of the interactive music museum changed after Allen and the Hendrix family parted ways shortly before the ground-breaking in 1997.

The EMP will feature a complement of rock artifacts including the guitar on which Eric Clapton played "Layla" (a 1956 Fender Stratocaster), handwritten lyrics from bands like Nirvana and Pearl Jam, and numerous Hendrix collectibles that Allen has acquired over the years, such as guitars, costumes and lyric notebooks. But beyond the Hard Rock Café®-style artifact display, the museum will feature exhibits tracing the history of jazz, blues, country, punk, folk and rock with videotaped clips of performances and musician comments.

The 140,000-square-foot museum will also play host to several attractions, such as the Sound Lab or Studio, where visitors can play instruments and make music, to the perpetual delight of EMP employees. Other exhibit areas include Artist's Journey, a "ride" through a virtual concert on six giant screens complete with motion platform. The museum plans to hold an opening day celebration with live concerts in its various performance spaces, though the participating acts have not been confirmed.

Anti-Protest Weapons Of The '90s: Boy Bands

What would you endure for a cause? Protesters involved in a sit-in of the University of Toronto President's office have been pushed to the brink of sanity as campus police pump the mindless strains of groups like the Backstreet Boys and N'Sync into the occupied office. Members of the campus group Students Against Sweatshops have been holed up in the president's office since March 8 to protest what they believe to be a delay in the school's adoption of an anti-sweatshop code for merchandise that carries the U of T logo. Armed with a radio and the unchanging playlists of Top 40 radio, campus police have succeeded in reducing the number of protestors from 20 to 8. The university denies any use of Waco tactics and insists that the campus police are merely playing the radio to keep themselves awake. Whatever the reason, conditions for the protesters couldn't be any worse.

Beatnik Files For IPO

Beatnik, Inc. filed registration papers for an initial public offering of its stock with the Securities and Exchange Commission. The company, founded by musician Thomas Dolby Robertson, develops technology and content for online use and hopes to make the web more aurally interactive for users. Beatnik currently offers its Beatnik Player to consumers and hopes to introduce an "e-commerce service for Web sonification" in the near future. This service is intended to provide designers of Web sites easy and uniform access to license content from an extensive library of music production libraries. The company has yet to announce any specific plans for the proceeds, but the IPO could raise as much as $63 million for the company.

Low-Power Dispute

Congress has responded to the NAB, National Public Radio and many lawmakers' lobbying efforts by drafting legislation intended to block the FCC's plan. In the near future, a House Committee will consider the legislation, which has 153 co-sponsors in the House and 21 in the Senate.

The New York Times reported that the NAB recently sent numerous compact discs to Capitol Hill that purportedly demonstrate the types of radio interference that would result if the FCC's plan goes into effect. Government engineers have raised doubts about the authenticity of the simulation, asserting that the results could not be duplicated at the FCC's radio lab.

"The broadcasters have engaged in a systematic campaign of misinformation and scare tactics to shut off new voices from coming onto the airwaves," said FCC Chairman William E. Kennard. "This is not rocket science," he said. "We have studied the way FM signals propagate around the country. The interference argument is being used as a smokescreen to mask an historic battle by incumbents who want to protect their markets.... My plea to people is they should allow this to go forward, and once they see this will not create havoc, they will calm down."

Although Kennard says that the FCC conducted extensive studies before crafting the rules for low-power radio, the radio industry maintains that the rules are insufficient to protect the radio spectrum, also alleging that the FCC has abandoned its duty to protect the airwaves. A White House official told the Times that presidential aides support the FCC's plan and saw no need for the anti-low-power radio legislation.

According to a company press release, "The precise structure of the transaction has not yet been finalized, but when the acquisition is completed, NRM plans to fold MP3Board.com in a newly created NRM subsidiary and then take that new company public."

NRM also plans to position MP3Board.com as an Internet portal for new musical acts, thus enabling consumers to download both audio and music videos to their computer hard drives. The partnership between NRM and MP3Board.com is expected to lead to the sale of new and used music, videos, games and other types of digital entertainment. MP3Board.com's Web site currently offers music, videos, downloads and custom CDs via its partnership with Amplified.com.

solo album, while bringing in a weekly paycheck as a writer for the free weekly New York Press. Keyboardist Mark De Gli Antoni is preparing a new album with the band Horse Tricks and writing the score for an IMAX film. He also plans to play with John Scofield at some venues in Colorado and California in support of the latter's recent Bump (Verve) album. Drummer Yuval Gabay has just completed a tour with his side project, Krust, and plans to continue working on UV Ray, the drum 'n' bass project he formed with fellow Soul Coughing member Sebastian Steinberg.

According to a statement on the band's official Web site, "The band would like to sincerely thank their fans for all the support they have received over the years. They hope that this enthusiasm follows them into the new endeavors that they are now exploring." Soul Coughing's last album was 1998's El Oso.

Island is attempting to repeat the feat with her new single, "Behind Every Good Woman."

"The whole point for us out of the gate is to get that song into as many hands as possible," says Ann Balliro, Product Manager for Island. The track rides a low-end rock groove and proffers the lyric, "Behind every good woman is a trail of men." Employing the lyric's twist on the old aphorism and shot in California by Liz Friedlander, the video features Bonham as a leather-clad biker bandit in a world where gender roles have been reversed.

With the catchy single as a calling card, Island is concentrating on promoting it to radio, while maintaining a realistic attitude. "Our approach from the beginning was we're going to take it slow on this," says Balliro. "We know radio formats aren't what they were four years ago, and we're not going to act surprised about it."

The company intends to continue to work radio, while Bonham makes a quick U.S. tour during April and May before she heads to Europe. When Bonham returns in late-summer, the label will seek to book the singer-songwriter on latenight television and to pursue a collegefocused strategy in earnest. "We need to re-approach it from a grass roots standpoint," adds Balliro, "because it's been a while and so we're just trying to re-establish her."

To help reach the eyes and ears of Bonham's female fans, Tracy has appeared in features for Jane, Oxygen.com and Chickclick.com. Jane includes a spread Bonham did at the magazine's Snow Day event in Montana. "Plus, there's banners and buttons at all the big female sites like Alloy.com, Moxiegirl.com, as well as mainstream sites," offers Balliro. "Basically the top 10 music sites have Tracy as a featured artist with either a review, a banner, a button, or a way to win a promotional item."

That promotional item is the unusual gift of an autographed violin from the classically trained musician, which will be offered at several online sites as well as through the magazine Rockrgrl. Island will also be giving away many samplers both on campuses and in certain clothing stores.

A diverse crowd participated in creating the album. Mitchell Froom and Tchad Blake, as well as Bert Enders, helped with production, while Pete Thomas (one of Elvis Costello's Attractions) and Sebastian Steinberg (Soul Coughing) played on the album. "It was a big extended family production, if you will, because, again, it took place over such a long period of time that many different people were able to participate," Balliro adds. Playing with Bonham on tour will be her drummer/ husband, Steven Slingeneyer (also of Soulwax) and Joe Klompus (Jack Drag). While on tour, Bonham will also be regularly updating her Web site, www.tracybonham.net, with journal entries and show reports.

CAT POWER

Radio 200: 176-22 Core Radio: #18 debut

Cover songs are always a good bet at college radio, but even though The Covers Record (Matador) is made up solely of Chan Marshall's (né Cat Power) interpretations of familiar tunes, it's a bit more challenging than that. Her versions of songs by the likes of Bob Dylan, the Velvet Underground, the Rolling Stones, Moby Grape and Nina Simone, among others, thoroughly reworked to give them new life as Cat Power songs. DJs caught up with Marshall's sleight of hand quickly, moving the album 154 positions on the Radio 200 and debuting it in the top 20 of the Core chart.

AT HOME WITH THE GROOVEBOX

Radio 200: 155-27 Core Radio: #21 debut

Grand Royal's clever At Home With The Groovebox compilation is more than just a collection of tracks by popular college radio artists — though that alone would be enough to explain its chart success. Each artist on the album was sent the same Groovebox (a programmable synthesizer filled with a wide variety of sounds) and asked to build a track from just those sounds and their own voices. The resulting disc proves how differently the same material can be interpreted by different artists, in this case, Air, Pavement, Beck, Sonic Youth, Cibo Matto, Bonnie "Prince" Billy, Buffalo Daughter, Sean Lennon and more.

CHARTACTIVITY

DEATH CAB FOR CUTIE

Radio 200: #51 debut Core Radio: #40 debut

Bellingham, Washington's Death Cab For Cutie completely defies the sophomore slump curse with We Have The Facts And We're Voting Yes (Barsuk). The album is an impressive collection of the band's artful indie rock, featuring a wealth of dark, moody tracks enhanced by the judicious use of production effects. In an otherwise flooded genre, DCFC stands out as one of the more innovative and skillfull of the pack, and college radio isn't afraid to say so. Check out the strong debuts for We Have The Facts..., which occur despite the album's indie status, no doubt in part thanks to the promotion work of McGathy.

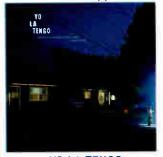

JIMMIE DALE GILMORE

Radio 200: 136-56 Core Radio: #38 debut Triple A: 11-1

Austin, Texas native Jimmie Dale Gilmore has been gathering fans in the Triple A arena for years with his quirky brand of dust-covered Americana. That One Endless Night (Windcharger Music-Rounder), his sixth fulllength, easily strides into the number one position on the Triple A chart is no surprise, but what is exciting is the album's brewing success on the Radio 200 and Core charts. Comprised of a few originals and some truly inspired covers of classic songs (e.g. "Mack The Knife"), One Endless Night is catching on with programmers across the board as the work of a truly unique artist. It moves 80 positions on the Radio 200 this week, and debuts in the middle of the Core chart.

IndiePlanet's motto is "Your Vision. Your Voice. Your Terms." The entertainment Web site is a virtual arts collective that fosters ties between independent artists and followers of alternative culture. IndiePlanet currently features 13 entertainment channels, where independent artists are free to express themselves, and site visitors can contribute personal thoughts and opinions. The "Art" channel profiles emerging visual artists, many of whom have suffered from censorship elsewhere, and also includes features such as one on the collision between art and fashion, regular columns, reviews, articles and an updated artist profile. The "Music" channel maintains reviews, features and interactive segments on artists paddling against the mainstream music tide. Read an interview with Genesis P. Orridge, for instance, or participate in the music poll surveying the current state of music. And in the spirit of the NCAA Final Four college basketball tournament, check out "Notes From Underground," where some of today's most popular music artists are assigned specific positions on the hardwood, and subsequently critiqued on their performance. Thom Yorke (Radiohead) as point guard? Not likely! Other interesting channels include "Humor," where aspiring comedians are given the opportunity, through original content, to display their funny bones, and "Wordz," where underground writers and rising star wordsmiths are profiled via interviews, reviews and video profiles. Future channels include "Extreme Sports" and "Technology." The site prides itself on its networking services where, theoretically, filmmakers in need of soundtrack music can log on to discover future contributing artists, or dancers can keep tabs on auditions in their area via IndiePlanet's classifieds. Also check out the site's auctions on antiques, music, books, clothing, photos and other items; access the site's electronica and underground hip-hop music streams; log on to the IndiePlanet Instant Messenger, or build your own free homepage within the IndiePlanet artist - Bill Konig community.

EMusic.com, Relix To Offer Psychedelic MP3s

Digital music distrib- 📵 enusic.com utor EMusic.com and "Deadhead" label Relix Records have announced a joint distribution deal to make the entire Relix catalog available through EMusic.com. Visitors to the site can preview, download or purchase music for .99 cents per song, or $8.99 for an entire album in the MP3 format. Featured artists include former members of the Grateful Dead such as Jerry Garcia and guitarist/vocalist Bob Weir, Jefferson Airplane, the Flying Burrito Brothers, Johnny Winter and many others. The EMusic site also features an interview with Relix founder Les Kippel.

ChickClick.com Launches Radio Station, Seeks Chick-Jockey

ChickClick.com, a full-service Web site devoted to women's issues, will introduce ChickClick Radio, an hour-long, Top 40-oriented syndicated music and entertainment radio program targeting young women, later this summer. The company recently unveiled its Chick-Jockey Talent Search to find an official female disc jockey to host the program. The company will pay to have the chosen DI relocated to Los Angeles, where she will live rent-free for one year and attend parties and interview music and film celebrities for the program. A Real World-style online diary will also be maintained at ChickClick.com, outlining behind-the-scenes news and interviews, as well as personal thoughts and opinions on the overall Chick-Jockey experience.

Applicants must fill-out an application and provide a demo recording (MP3, cassette, DAT, VHS, Minidisc, or CDR) of a mock radio show, as well as pen an essay outlining their special qualities. Interested parties can view complete rules at www.chickclick.com/contests

QSound To Acquire StreamMagic

QSound Labs Inc., which develops Internet audio solutions, has agreed to purchase StreamMagic, a supplier of online video streaming solutions, in a stock swap transaction worth approximately $100 million. Prior to the deal's closing, QSound reported that it has plans to spin off both its e-commerce and non-Internet audio business sectors to its shareholders in a new enterprise to be listed publicly. The terms of the transaction, slated to close in the second quarter of 2000, calls for QSound to issue 26.5 million shares of preferred stock for all outstanding shares of StreamMagic stock.

WebRadio.com, Westwood One Make Long-Term Pact

Internet broadcaster WebRadio.com has signed a multi-year agreement with America's largest radio network, Westwood One. Under the terms of the deal, Westwood One will acquire a 6% stake in WebRadio, which will be partially paid for by advertising revenues. WebRadio.com will offer banner ads and merchandise such as CDs, digital downloads, video games and movies. Additionally, Westwood will receive up to a 4.5% return for marketing WebRadio to its network of radio stations.

Of the arrangement, President of WebRadio.com Hamid Kohan said, "This partnership will help WebRadio.com become the premier Internet radio community destination for Web users and allow the global Internet audience access to Westwood One's music format affiliates.'

REVIEWS

ALKALINE TRIO

Maybe I'll Catch Fire (Asian Man)

Chicago's Alkaline Trio admits to being energetic and emotional, but actively fights against being tagged an "emo" band. However, the threesome's second full-length, Maybe I'll Catch Fire, bears all the earmarks of the midwestern posthardcore sound. The album's atonal, frenzied songs packed are with heartscraping lyrics, dramatic, hardcorelike chord progressions and the allimportant, soaring, pop-inspired melodies. This baby's selling point, however, is vocalist/ guitarist Matt Skiba's detailed storytelling, which is helped along by his knack for turning unusual phrases ("I've got a painting in my head/A thicker blue bled red"). His easyto-identify-with characters, such as the love-struck couple in "She Took Him To The Lake," are carefully placed in the kind of situations and settings that allow him to express his elation, anger and frustration - Kelso Jacks with life.

ASS PONYS

Some Stupid With A Flare Gun (Checkered Past)

The Ass Ponys' first release on Chicago indie Checkered Past (the Cincinnati band's stint on A&M ended following the Universal/Polygram merger in '99) is perhaps their strongest effort since 1995's Electric Rock Music. With a title that sounds something like what Hank Hill would say to his buddies while swilling beer on the curb, Some Stupid With A Flare Gun finds the boys sharpening their blue-collar rock edge with slice-of-life lyrics and a hybrid of R.E.M. jangle and Crazy Horse burn. With references to lunch buffets, Scatman Crothers and the dirt farmer's wife, the album's oddball detailing adds the requisite character and charm to the band's idiosyncratic roots-rock.

COMMON

Like Water For Chocolate (MCA)

Chi-town rapper Common is a most uncommon lyricist. While most hip-hop acts tend to reach the zenith of their careers sometime during release of their first few albums, Common has reached his creative high point on his fourth album, Like Water For Chocolate. Since his 1992 debut, Common has been one of hip-hop's best-kept secrets, talkin' trash and melting mics with ease. On this album the narrator's work displays a newfound lyrical depth and soul that is musically ambitious, while remaining deeply rooted in a classic, vibeheavy musical stew. The record features a number of guests, including Femi Kuti on the mellow "Time Traveling," Mos Def on the jazzy "The Question" and D'Angelo on a cover of the Family Stand's "Ghetto Heaven." The 16 cuts here represent much more than a verbally skilled MC; they prove Common to be a far more introspective and creative artist than he - Glen Sansone ever was before.

ETIENNE CHARRY

36 Erreurs (Tricatel-Kindercore)

While not renowned for their silliness, the French, when they get giddy, really know how to put on le chien. 36 Erreurs, which contains 36 French-only tracks spanning in length from nine seconds to three-and-a-half minutes, often sounds like the experiments of an exceptionally gifted child prodigy, flitting eccentrically and exuberantly from quasi-lounge to Beatlesque pop to what sound like themes for lost cartoons. If you don't like a song, don't worry — none of them stick around long! very Charry, the former leader of the group Oui Oui, also creates music for films, theater and commercials and is a helicopter pilot and a champion waterskier. It turns out that the James Bond air of his personal CV suits his music and his ultra-suave singing style quite well. Full of bouncy rhythms, loopy sound effects and melodies that are virtually impossible to get out of your head, the album begs the question: With erreurs like these, who - Jean d'Aswad needs perfection?

EXPLOSION

The Explosion (EP) (Jade Tree)

The crashing, searing sound of '77 style, sing-along punk rears its beady eyes and spiky haired head on the Explosion's selftitled debut EP. The band's unapologetic, anthemic punk stumbles straight out of a Boston pub and spills right into the unsuspecting streets with the kind of reckless abandon you'd expect from guys who live to play it loud, raise a glass and cause a mischievous ruckus, all in the name of fun. This quintet is all about fists, fury and not giving a fuck. The Explosion has only six songs, but it's a bruising, battering, whirlwind experience throughout one that ultimately leaves you punch-drunk and wondering where you are and how the hell you ended up there. — Amy Sciarretto

MARIANNE FAITHFULL

Vagabond Ways (It-Instinct)

Marianne Faithfull's first mainstream "pop" record in five years (both 1997's 20th Century Blues and '98's Seven Deadly Sins consist largely of moody Brecht/ Weill compositions) is a welcome break from longstanding affair with sullen cabaret music. As with any of her work, her domineering, nicotine. browned voice remains the focus of Vagabond Ways, but the material — a mix of originals and well-chosen covers — asserts a significant influence over the album's air of solemn nostalgia. Faithfull's delicately trashed-out reading of Roger Water's previously unrecorded "Incarceration Of A Flower Child" epitomizes the album's sense of weary beauty; Daniel Lanois' spectral guitar touch on "Marathon Kiss" and "Great Expectations" proves a perfect foil for her wise and weathered groan.

GREY AREA

Fanbelt Algebra (Victory)

The second effort by New York City's Grey Area, Fanbelt Algebra, is an exercise in melodic punk rock. The youthful outfit associates itself with traditional hardcore, and not just because its members have done time in such bands as Token Entry and Warzone. group The combines clear, highpitched vocals with catchy, swift melodies and upbeat, posicore lyrics, like those used by H2O and Black Train Jack. Grey Area doesn't waste energy on the minutiae of scenester politics either; rather, the foursome recalls a time when the only differentiation that mattered within the NYHC underground was whether you were punk or skin. With Fanbelt Algebra, Grey Area raises life-anddeath issues that should remind kids of the reason why they sought comfort in the scene in the first place. — Amy Sciarretto

M.I.J. The Radio Goodnight (Caulfield)

This Minneapolis trio plays with such fresh-faced enthusiasm and wet-behindthe-ears sincerity, it's easy to assume that three met just a few years ago in the dorms. To the contrary, despite their vouthful looks. the band has been around since '94, and music its reflects the days when the D.Í.Y. ethic was infectious and intoxicated with its own promise. The songs on The Radio Goodnight tend to either charge onward and upward in a manner reminiscent of several Merge artists, or else drift into plaintive, guy-falsetto'd ballads. On "The Last Time Was," the group locks into a Gish-y guitar groove on the verse and swings into a Superchunky refrain on the chorus. The key to the album's overall success, however, is that the guitars chime prettily and the crooned melodies ascend assuredly, proving that practice does make - Deborah Orr perfect.

RECOIL

Liquid (Mute)

For Recoil's second volume of blackhearted beats and verse, ex-Depeche Mode member Alan Wilder again seeks out a few mad, bad women from the NYC spoken-word world and beyond. On this young modern's vision of seaminess and depravity, a cool electro-noir sound throbs throughout. Wilder throws around original, prerecorded rhythm tracks, slick and chilly enough on their own, with scenery-chewing samples that must have come black and white movies with lots of cigarette smoking going Nicole on. Blackman, Diamanda Galás Samantha Coerbell are all goaded into darkening their already dark thoughts, especially concerning male-female relations, and at some points one wishes a female stand-up comic had been invited along to lighten the oppressive shadowcasting. The record's most effectively spooky sound comes from "Jezebel"'s incongruent mix of sampled beats, a hymnal from the Golden Gate Jubilee quartet and Galas' siren wails, which swoop at the edges of the mix.

— Deborah Orr

Wrestlin' With My Lady Friend (Man's Ruin)

Suplecs' guitar work creates more gobs of sludge than a thousand ratinfested urban sewers. Hell, Wrestlin' With My Lady Friend sounds like crawled right out of some scuzzy MYC manhole.

The band features former members of Eyehategod, a band that's synonymous with bottom-feeding, molten scum metal. But Suplecs ooze with its fuzzy tones and epic blues-infused jams, which recall those of Fu Manchu. The boys in Suplecs also use a variety of effects on their voices, so if you aren't completely disoriented by the spacey riffs, Wrestlin' With My Lady Friend's vocals may be trippy enough to trigger a raging case of paranoia. Here's to altered states of consciousness.

TARBOX RAMBLERS

Tarbox Ramblers (Rounder)

The hootin' and hollerin' Tarbox Ramblers are hardly the Boston types. Nevertheless, that's where this distinctly Southernsounding quartet calls home. With its boisterous self-titled debut, the group sets out to reinvent the classic country sound often associated with the Louvin Brothers and Carter Family. Daniel Kellar's perky western fiddlin' and Johnny Sciascia's fervent doghouse bass slappin' keep the Ramblers rooted in vintage Americana, but Michael Tarbox's dirty dog howls and swamp blues guitar boot-kick things into high gear. By irreverently mixing sly originals with an array of covers — including one traditional spiritual "Honey In The Rock" — the Ramblers guarantee a lifetime ban from playing the church social.

TOSHACK HIGHWAY

Toshack Highway (Catapult)

Toshack Highway is the atmospheric endeavor of singer/guitarist Adam Franklin, formerly of England's shoe-gazing monarchs Swervedriver. The project's wonderfully spacious, self-titled effort preserves many of the swirling textures characteristic of Franklin's previous dream-pop band. Toshack Highway's languid soundscapes, however, also chart new territory, traversing through a dazzling world of woozy guitars and spacey synthesizers. The beautiful, Air-like instrumental "Just Landed," with its gently floating six-strings, will lift listeners into the heavens. The bouncy "Wurlitzer Waltzer" provides the ample Technicolor sunshine necessary to sustain pop life. With help from musician/producer Charlie Francis (R.E.M., High Llamas) and drummer Jeff Towsin, Toshack's 12 haunting, guitar-driven daydreams will appeal to fans of spacetravel rock 'n' roll from any galaxy.

VISION

Watching The World Burn (Epitaph)

Vision plays punk rock. If you'd like to question that, you'll find a strong defense in "Close Minded," the first track from Watching The World Burn, the band's E p i t a p h d e b u t . Vocalist Dave Franklin lays down the law with a no-ifsands-or-buts soliloquy that i n c l u d e s these informative ideas: "This is the type of music that we grew up on/This is the type of music that we play/Punk rock is our way of life/It's how we choose to live." Alrighty then. And sure enough, the rest of the album goes on to support that sentiment, song after anthemic song. Vision mixes thuggish blue-collar ideology and chant-along choruses with zippy SoCal-style guitars for an album of speedy, fist-pumping mayhem that one might even venture to label punk rock.

VARIOUS ARTISTS

OHM: The Early Gurus Of Electronic Music 1948-1980 (Ellipsis Arts)

In the 1950s, decades before journalists and producers began defining electronic music with constricting terminology such as "ambient," "techno" and "electronica," groundbreaking audio experimentalists such as John Cage, Otto Leuning and Karlheinz Stockhausen (to mention a mere few) were radically rethinking the use of electronics ounds. Today, next to the more structured, musical-based productions of late-20th century artists, these compositional endeavors might sound rudimentary. Yet, their impact is nothing short of revolutionary. These composers' experiments with early electronic "instruments" built a foundation that inspired generations of enterprising musicians. The sample-based minimalist compositions of Steve Reich, the radical electronic pop of Can's Holger Czukay, and the luxurious ambient works of Brian Eno all grew out of these seminal pieces. the three-disc OHM: The Early Gurus Of Electronic Music, presents pivotal works from the most important forefathers of electronic music. And event though the collection falls short of being comprehensive, it remains exhaustingly educational to new students of technologically produced music. An essential collection, to say the least.

ROOTS 'N' BLUES

BAD LIVERS

Blood & Mood (Sugar Hill)

Punk rock and bluegrass may make for strange bedfellows in most instances, but Austin, Texas's Bad Livers manage to blend them together as smoothly as others have blended hiphop and R&B. And speaking of which, the presence of turntable scratches, thick bass lines and funky tape loops on the trio's latest opus may throw longtime fans off at first. But when you hear how seamlessly the experiments with samples and beats flow into the group's

GEGGY TAH

Grand Opening (Luaka Bop-WB, 1994)

For some people, their favorite records are often ones that they associate with pre-teen memories or certain high school rites of passage. For me it's been a little different. Today I'm not the Rush fan I used to be, and my favorite records tend to be ones I've digested in my current state as a pseudo-adult. It seems the more I learn about music, the more I appreciate it - and how hard it is to actually make a record as inventive and surprising as Geggy Tah's Grand Opening. Maybe I like it because it's so childlike and grownup at the same time. In 1994, before the sampler had really come into play as the instrument of the decade, the duo of Greg "Geggy" Kurstin and Tommy "Tah" Jordan we making their own cut-and-paste creations, using a truckload of instruments, tools and zero inhibitions to craft a dazzling composite of sophisticated white funk, adolescent wit and exuberance. It's no wonder the duo earned their place as one of the few American acts on David Byrne's Luaka Bop label. Their work points out that the label's focus has little to do with geography and everything to do with the lost art of imagination in music. Even when the album gets silly (e.g. "Bomb Fishing," a tune about fishing with high explosives), Geggy Tah distinguishes itself with creative flair and musical chops. If there ever comes a time when I stop responding to music as giddy, funky and brilliant as this, I'll clean out my desk and turn in my — Steve Ciabattoni stereo.

For Fans Of: Soul Coughing, Arto Lindsay, Ween, David

Recommended Tracks: "Go," "Last Word," "Bomb Fishing," "L.A.. Lujah"

Bio-Fact: Geggy Tah can be heard on Luaka Bop's new compilation Zero Accidents On The Job. The label also plans to release Geggy Tah's third album sometime this fall.

KILOWATTHOURS

Lessons In Time Management (7")
(Temporary Residence Ltd.)

Kilowatthours' Lessons In Time Managment is a powerful and awe-inspiring display, a sort of musical counterpart to the teetering stones of the Grand Tetons. Both songs, "Kayla" and "Run Home," feature melodic that dance intricately around one another to create a soundscape that sways and churns chaotically, without

UNWOUND/VERSUS

"Torch Song"/"All In Doubt" (7" EP)
(Troubleman Unlimited)

On this unusually themed splits in gle, Unwound and Versus each cover as on goriginally penned by the obscure band Flower, which once featured Versus's Richard Baluyut and Fontaine Toups. Unwound tackles "Torch Song," a satisfyingly brisk, fuzzed-out little ditty with surprises such as an ominous bass-and-hi-hat interlude followed by an alarmingly choppy melody. Versus turns in "All In Doubt," a moody, bass-heavy ballad with a plinking guitar line that gets disrupted by static and nails-across-blackboard guitar accents.

LAURI KRANZ

How To Disappear (Elastic Ruby)

In 1994, singer/musician Lauri Kranz packed her possessions, hopes and dreams into a suitcase and fled New York for the gentler, sundrencher, sundrencher of Los Angeles. Kranz may have forgotten a few personal belongings, but the talented performer didn't leave behind her sensitive soul or her enchanting voice. Produced by keyboard player Jebin Bruni (Liz Phair, Fiona Apple), Kranz's debut, How To Disappear, is a haunting collection of songs by someone who knows how to convey her innermost sentiments. The heartbreaking opener "Not Another Girl" will forcefully tug at heart strings as Kranz cries, "But you never really knew me at all/I'm just another name in that big book of yours." Just in time for its tour in support of Korn, Elektra Records has serviced college radio with an album's worth of remixes of two tracks by New York City freaks Mindless Self Indulgence. The Bitches/Molly EP includes seven mixes of the song "Bitches," which appears in its original form on the Frankenstein Girls Will Seem Strangely Sexy album. DJ Cam, Kid Rock and industrial wiz Rhys Fulbur are among those remixing the song. There are also four versions of the song "Molly," which originally appeared on Tight. For more information, contact Tyson Haller (Elektra) at 212.275.2860; email: tyson.haller@elektra.com.

Beyond Records has serviced radio with "Born Entertainer," the first single from Veruca Salt's upcoming album, Sustainer, due out on May 16. The album will be the first since co-founding volcano girl Nina Gordon left Louise Post (a.k.a. the seether) and company following the release of 1997's gold-selling album, Eight Arms To Hold You. For more information, contact The Syndicate at 888.666.2061; email: college@thesyn.com.

K-Tel Records has issued the 30-track compilation Gimmie Indie Rock V.I., a treasure chest of tunes that helped define the way we think of indie-rock today. With tracks by acts such as Dinosaur Jr., Half Japanese, Squirrelbait, the Vaselines, the Minutemen, Scrawl and Hüsker Dü, this stellar, 30-track mix is like a time warp through college radio in the '80s. For more information, contact Bill Hallquist (K-Tel) at 612.559.6800; email: bhallquist@k-tel.com.

The good ol' boys of BR5-49 have released a new live album on Arista Records. Coast To Coast Live culls its 11 live tracks from gigs in Pennsylvania, Michigan, Arizona, Indiana and New York. The record is a rip-roarin' mix of originals and renditions of songs by Charlie Daniels and Gram Parsons. As a bonus, the boys threw in one new studio track, "You're A Hum-Dinger." For more information, contact Pete Rosenblum (Arista) at 212.830.2248; email: pete.rosenblum@bmge.com.

If Metallica can do it, then why the hell can't Deep Purple? Spitfire Records has issued a two-CD Deep Purple concert album featuring nearly every original member — Roger Glover, Jon Lord, Ian Paice, Ian Gillan and Steve Morse filling in — getting a little help from a symphony orchestra — the London

Symphony Orchestra to be precise. Simply titled Deep Purple In Concert With The London Symphony Orchestra the album was recorded in September 1999 at the Royal Albert Hall in London. For more

RECORDBRIEFS

On May 9, Mute Records will be releasing a very limited edition of a spoken word and music combination album by Nick Cave. The Secret Life Of The Love Song has already been released in the U.K. by the King Mob label and will be limited to a count of 6,000 for the U.S. The album will be sold in stores in a special perfect-bound book package containing a single CD. The recording includes a 48minute dissertation by Cave on love songs, a 17-minute version of Cave's spoken word piece "The Flesh Made Word," as well as four new studio versions of his songs "West Country Girl," "Sad Waters," "People Ain't No Good" and "Far From Me." Also included is a brand new song, "Love Letter." Guesting on these songs is violinist Warren Ellis of the Dirty Three...As previously reported, Afrohaired emo break out band At The Drive In was recording its full-length debut for the DEN label with producer Ross Robinson (Sepultura, Korn, Slipknot). Well, now we can report that the dynamic group has finished recording and has decided on Relationship Of Command as the album title. The record, which is currently being mixed, will also feature guest vocals by punk forefather Iggy Pop on the track "Rolodex Propaganda." Look for it in stores on July 11...New York hip-hop foursome, Non Phixion, is currently working on their debut album for Matador Records. The underground group, comprised of three MCs (Ill Bill, Gortex and Sabac) and a DJ (Eclipse), recently released its "Black Helicopters" single on the label, and plans on touring before the release of The Future Is Now. The album will feature production work by DJ Premier and Prince Paul. Also expect a collaboration with Rage Against The Machine frontman Zach De La Rocha to appear on the finished product...On April 25, Interscope will deliver Golden Greats the second solo album from former Stone Roses vocalist Ian Brown. Collectors beware, according to the British music paper the New Musical Express, the album's first single for Europe is "Golden Gaze" and its B-side will a cover of Michael Jackson's "Thriller." It will be the second time Brown has covered the King Of Pop; his last single included a version of the gloved one's "Billie Jean" as its B-side...Maverick Records has finally announced the release date of the oft-pushed back third Deftones album. The 11song White Pony is now due to hit on June 20. Expect guest vocals from Cypress Hill's B-Real and Tool's Maynard James Keenan on two separate tracks...The trio of big-eyed, pint-sized cartoon super-heroines known to Cartoon Network viewers as the Power Puff Girls certainly have some cool musicians on its fan list. Devo, Bis, Cornelius and Apples In Stereo are among the artists that have signed on to contribute tracks to Rhino Records' upcoming Power Puff Girls soundtrack album. The record is currently slated for a July 4 release date... According to the Mute Records official Web site (www.mute.com/mute/artists.htm), English electronica noisemakers Add N To (X) are currently recording new material for the follow-up release to 1999's Avant Hard...The reunited members of emo outfit Cursive have completed a new album. The Omaha-based indie Saddle Creek Records will release Domestica on June 19...On June 6, Sub Pop will be releasing the third album from the Murder City Devils. In Name And Blood will be an enhanced CD.

MUST HEAR

THERION Deggial (Nuclear Blast America)

Deggial's title refers to the "one-eyed devil man" that serves as the anti-Messiah in Arabic mythology. That intellectual concept complements Therion's high-brow music, which combines gloomy guitars with classical, woodwind instruments and a heavenly backing choir that will remind you of Sunday morning mass. An ambrosial female voice also creeps into many songs; her pipes will summon, seduce and beguile even the most resistent headbanging warriors into her lair. Deggial is an opulent symphony of destruction that may be an acquired taste for metalheads, but is ultimately a succulent experience.

Arlington, Virginia's Deceased rocks, if only because King Fowley pulls off the amazing feat of being both the drummer and the singer. Only a truly skilled skinsman can crash the cymbals and kick a beat while barking at the moon. Supernatural Addiction proves that Fowley proudly and loudly prefers the glory days of superfast metal, when patches on acid-washed denim jackets reigned supreme and there was no rap or glam in sight. But the album isn't just sound and fury Fowley's lyrics are inspired by the likes of The Twilight Zone, The Blair Witch Project, Edgar Allen Poe and Ambrose Bierce. Death to false metal!

APOLLYON SUN

Sub (Sanctuary)

Apollyon Sun is the brainchild of Tom G Warrior of Celtic Frost fame, but the singer/guitarist's storied past never rears its metal head on Sub. This debut may be wilder staunch Frost-ites with its programmed beats, synth grooves, and loud, machine-like riffs; Sub has more in common with the cybercore crunch of Fear Factory than the power thrash of 'Frost.

metal stations in the country, South Orange's own WSOU. The station recently hosted their Extreme Altitude 2000 at the Hidden Valley ski lodge in Vernon, NJ, located 50 miles northwest of NYC and a good 15 degrees colder. Sick Of It All, Snapcase, Kittie, Reveille, Unband, Ill Nino, Murder 1 and Shadows Fall all graced the outside deck stage of the remote lodge for a cold Sunday afternoon of unholy loudness. The Fall and Ill Nino went on early, but kids banged their heads in the pit — potentially dangerous considering all the rocks on the cold, hard ground. But the thick-skinned Kittie hessians were unphased. Mid-set, Murder I's Cake Boy dove Prodigy vocalist Maxim Reality recently recorded a duet with Skunk Anansie frontwoman Skin for his forthcoming debut solo album. Britain's NME.com reported that the track will be called "Carmen Queasy," and a spokesperson from Reality's camp described the track as being "dark, edgy pop" (no, really?). The single is planned for a late-May or early-June release in the U.K. "Carmen Queasy" will be the second single culled from Maxim's still-untitled LP — the album's lead single, "My Web," was released in August 1999. In addition to Reality's forthcoming work, Prodigy fans can look forward to a new full-length from the U.K. techno-rock juggernaut, which is currently being recorded under the working title Always Outnumbered, Never Outgunned. But don't hold your breath, either: NME.com has reported that while the band has completed two tracks for the new album, the album is not expected to be released until 2001. NME.com has also reported news of another collaboration: Icelandic chanteuse Björk and Atari Teenage Riot mastermind Alec Empire. The site reported that Empire is close to completing mixes on four tracks that feature himself, Björk and the Brodsky Quartet. "It's been planned since (Continued on page 35)

VARIOUS ARTISTS Asian Travels (Six Degrees)

Asian Travels examines the spiritual synergy between electronic dance and the organic sounds of traditional Indian and Pakistani music. Here, early innovators of the enterprising South Asian groove, such as Shankar and the late Nusrat Fateh Ali Khan, are paired with such current disciples as State Of Bengal, DI Cheb I Sabbah and Talvin Singh, resulting in a conscious-raising collection of tunes that fully explores the past, present and future of this ever-evolving scene. From the vibrant, energetic pulse of Transglobal Underground to the almost ambient bliss of Kingsuk Biswas, Asian Travels is guaranteed to stir your soul with its melodies and trance-inducing rhythms.

For Fans Of: Talvin Singh, Banco De Gaia, Fila Brazilia Recommended Tracks: "Currents" (Kingsuk Biswas), "Harvey And The Old Ones" (Banco De Gaia), "Sweet Pain (Joi Remix)" (Nusrat Fateh Ali Khan & Michael Brook)

MEPHISTO ODYSSEY

The Lift EP (Primal-Warner Bros.)

This nine-track EP collects Mephisto Odyssev tracks and remixes recorded when the quartet was just a well-kept Bay Area secret, before the major labels came calling. Produced between 1997 and '98, each cut is a dancefloor stormer powered by textured, acid-house rhythms and hip-swinging, rave-ready melodies. Uplifting, accessible, and unrepentantly underground.

Urban Funk Breaks (Botchit & Scraper-Studio K7) Fusing the technoid breakbeats of electro, the rumble of sub-bass frequencies, and the street smart attitude of hip-hop, Urban Funk Breaks is a two-CD introduction to England's Botchit & Scraper imprint, as well as to some of the most acclaimed names in the nu-skool breaks scene. Disc one offers the floor-fillers in their untouched forms; disc two finds DJ Orange Kush on the decks running through a non-stop assault of sci-fi b-boy debauchery.

WWF Aggression (Priority)

You gotta have cauliflower ears like Bruno Sammartino to ignore this collection of hip-hop versions of the WWF's wrestler theme songs. If you can keep yourself from putting Run-D.M.C.'s brilliant rewire of the Degeneration X theme on perpetual repeat, there are still plenty of tracks on this 13-song collection that will flip you like a Hardy Boyz swanton bomb. Suplex the candy-ass in your life to the sounds of Ol' Dirty Bastard and Kool Keith reworking the Mick Foley/Mankind theme, Method Man's take on The Rock's "Know Your Role," or federation owner Vince McMahon's "No Chance" retooled by Redman, Heltah Skeltah's Rock and Peanut Butter Wolf.

Wyclef Jean canceled his recent concert in Charleston, South Carolina, to protest the state's insistence on flying the Confederate flag over the state capitol building. 'Clef was quoted in an official statement that said that the cancellation was in accordance with the NAACP's rally for economic sanctions against South Carolina's tourism industry. "As much as I hate to cancel a show," Clef wrote in the statement, "I cannot in good conscience perform in a state that has an emblem of racism and division flying over its capitol." 'Clef is currently on a national tour with opening act Kelis throughout the spring and summer...DMX has been issued a warrant for his arrest by the Cheektowaga Justice Court after failing to appear on March 22 to answer the bouillabaisse of charges thrown at him during an incident with local police after a Ruff Ryders/Cash Money show in Buffalo. The Dark Man was busted for driving without a license, driving without insurance and marijuana possession after getting pulled over for driving 65 in a 45 mph zone. NEWS
On June 23, grunge music grandfather Neil Young will receive his own star on the Canada Walk Of Fame located in his hometown of Toronto.

Young will attend the unveiling ceremonies. In the meantime, he is continuing with the Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young reunion tour and is preparing for the April 25 release of his new solo album, Silver & Gold...Loudon Wainwright III's music publisher, Ludlow Music, is suing English pop singer Robbie Williams for plagiarism. The charge is over the lyrics to Williams' song, "Jesus In A Camper Van," from his latest album The Ego Has Landed. The lyrics were allegedly copied from Wainwright's 1973 cut "I Am The Way," which is an interpretation of Woodie Guthrie's "New York Town." Williams gives Wainwright songwriting credit in his album's liner notes and claims that he received oral permission to use the lyrics from Wainwright himself. Williams's U.K. label, EMI-Chrysalis, claims that it has been trying to get written permission from Ludlow to use the lyrics for two years. Ludlow demanded 50% of the royalties from the single, plus a portion of the sales from albums containing the song. (Continued on page 35)

TARBOX RAMBLERS

Tarbox Rambiers (Rounder)

Although Michael Tarbox and his Ramblers hail from Boston, they often sound like a Depressionera bluegrass/gospel group. "Columbus Stockade," from the band's self-titled debut, possesses the swing of an uptempo version of "Will The Circle Be Unbroken," with Daniel Kellar's melodic and hard-edged fiddle matched by Tarbox's acoustic guitar and dark, world-weary baritone. At other times, the Ramblers show their diversity by adding Bob Willis-style slide guitar to songs such as "Honey In The Rock." A haunting, hard-rockin' debut.

ALASTAIR MOOCK Bad Moock Rising (Bad Moock Rising)

Twenty-six-year-old Alastair Moock arms himself with the kind of dusty, care-worn vocals and sentiments that we've come to expect from roots-rock balladeers like Jon Stewart and Steve Forbert. On Bad Mooch Rising, he proves that he can write a memorable love song such as "Woman Like The Wind," while also taking shots at yuppies on the cleverly titled "Here's A Latte And My Middle Finger."

PETER MULVEY

The Trouble With Poets (Signature Sounds)

Peter Mulvey boasts an acoustic guitar style that encompasses the groove-based approach of Dave Matthews with the hard-edged rhythm of Ani DiFranco. He applies his simple, unadorned vocals to often-humorous topics, and Jennifer Kimball (The Story) and Chris Smither enrich the proceedings with their harmonies.

EITHER/ORCHESTRA More Beautiful Than Death (Accurate)

Either/Orchestra's More Beautiful Than Death is its follow-up to 1996's two-CD set Across The Omniverse, which celebrated the group's first 10 years by offering 22 previously unreleased tracks. Remembered for the horn-heavy postbop emphasis of earlier incarnations, the Either/Orchestra has revamped its rhythn section, beefing it up with a hand percussionist. The group responds by really finding a groove on "Ethiopian Suite," which adds a welcome new wrinkle to the sound. Still drawing upon blues, funk, Latin jazz and calypso, this post-bop 11-piece orchestra features a startling variety of contexts, while holding onto the punchy horns that have always kept the energy up.

PAPO VÁZQUEZ

At The Point V. Two (Cubop-Ubiquity)

This Latin jazz disc is the slammin' follow-up to trombonist Papo Vazquez's 1999 Cubop debut. Pianist Arturo O'Farrill, percussionist Richie Flores and a talented cast of backing musicians return to help Vázquez cover all the Latin jazz bases on this sweat-filled, six-song workout, from funked-up merengues and memorable ballads. For fans of Latin jazz, lounge and dance music, At The Point... is a rumpshaking good time.

GLENN SPEARMAN

Free Worlds (Black Saint)

Glenn Spearman's Free Worlds showcases four different groups led by this late saxophone great, who was a guiding light in the avantgarde scene since the '70s. Half of the album's eight tracks feature a freewheeling sextet that takes the music to the energetic outer limits; another sextet date is a highlight that boasts a Middle Eastern feel.

Disaster for the Toronto Jazz Festival was narrowly averted when funding for the 10-day event came through at the last minute. On March 21, event organizers the Toronto Jazz Society announced that the event would be canceled after it was unable to replace funding provided by Du Maurier cigarettes, which had been the event's main sponsor since its inception in 1987. The tobacco company was forced to cut its contribution from $680,000 to $170,000 because of recent legislation limiting tobacco company sponsorship for the arts. On March 21, Toronto Jazz Society artistic director Jim Galloway told Reuters that "today's announcement was not made in hope that a solution for this year. We did say that if an angel were in the wings, it would have to show up very soon." As it turns out, salvation came in the form of Toronto mayor Mel Lastman, who appealed to Du Maurier to increase its support. The legislation does not go into effect until October 2000, so the festival will run as scheduled...In other festival news, both the JVC Jazz Festival in New York City and the Second Annual Indy Jazz Festival have announced their lineups. The New York festival is one of the premiere jazz festivals in the world. Running from June 12-24 at 24 venues, the festival always has a number of very special events. This year's event will feature performers such as Patti LaBelle, Diane Reeves, Diana Krall, Cesaria Evora, Julia Zenko, Etta Jones, Aretha Franklin, Cassandra Wilson, Ray Charles and João Gilberto. Other highlights include John Lurie And The Lounge Lizards, the music of Masada performed in a number of different contexts by John Zorn and company and the Don Byron Sextet featuring Stefon Harris, Dave Douglas and Bill Frisell. For more information, go to www.festivalproductions.net. In its second year, the Indianapolis Jazz Festival will run from June 1418 and will feature more than 90 acts playing at a number of venues throughout the city. Some of the featured performers include Cassandra Wilson, Joshua Redman, Dave Bruebeck, Elvin Jones, Dee Dee Bridgewater, Nicholas Payton, the Yellowjackets, Tito Puente, Ray Charles and Kool And The Gang. For more information go to www.indyjazzfest.org.

NEWS

The dates and a tentative lineup for the First Annual San Francisco World Music Festival have been announced. The three-day festival will take place on the weekend of May 26-28. In addition to musical performances, there will be seminars, master classes, film screenings and other activities. The eclectic list of performers includes acts from all points on the globe. The most current information about the festival, including ticket info, directions to the venue, and a list of lodging options can be found at www.sfworldmusicfestival.org. To speak to a festival representative, call 415.391.0367...Tinder recording act Touré-Touré recently visited New York City as part of a promotional tour. The duo, which is composed of Senegalese/ Mauritania cousins Omar Touré-Touré and Daby Touré, landed a high-profile spot on CNN's Worldbeat, a music magazine program that focuses on international music. The show, which aired on April 1, featured the duo at a live in-store performance, in addition to an interview segment. For those who keep track of such things, Omar and Daby are part of the same family that produced Touré Kunda...Capitalizing on the success of her outstanding new album Eco De Sombras, Peruvian singing sensation Susanna Baca will be performing some North American dates during late June and early July. For her New York City shows at Joe's Pub on June 14-16, the Luaka Bop artist will be joined by label head David Byrne, guitar great Marc Ribot and Medeski Martin And Wood keyboardist John Medeski...V.P. Records crooner Sean Paul has posted an update regarding the status of gunshot victim/singer Don Yute on the label's Web site (www.vprecords.com). Yute reportedly walked into a robbery-in-progress and was hit by a bullet. Fortunately, the bullet missed Yute's major organs, but bruised his lungs. He is expected to make a full recovery.

MUST HEAR

Inspiração (Tinder)

Bau is the nickname of Rufino Almeida, the guitarist and arranger for legendary Cape Verdean singer Césaria Évora, one of the foremost practitioners of the sad and mournful marna style. Almedia plays an instrument known as the aguinho, which may look like a ukelele, but in his hands becomes an instrument of sublime artistic expression. This thrilling instrumental album prominently showcases Bau's aquinho and guitar in a melodic program that features plenty of lilting, minor key tunes and down-tempo rhythms. Inspiração also gives nods to the music of Spain, Cuba and Brazil, as well as to African griots and West African kora music.

NASS MARRAKECH

Sabil A Salaam (Alula)

Nass Marrakech is a Moroccan band that attempts to integrate flamenco, rai, African kora and other surprises into its Gnawan music tradition. The brotherhood of Morroccan Gnawa musicians are known for the power and spirituality of their music, and Nass Marrakech holds onto that even as the group reaches out to music beyond their native land.

TRINITY Shanty Town Determination 1976-1978 (Blood & Fire)

This classic features material originally produced by reggae legends Yabby You and King Tubby. Shanty Town Determination's strong rhythms (courtesy of Sly & Robbie and a portion of the Wailers' rhythm section) and Trinity's chant-like mic style have placed this album firmly in the reggae canon of toasters and DJs.

In addition to guest spots by Keith Murray (who is currently in the bing), Redman, Slick Rick, Kelis, Too $hort, DJ Scratch, Dave Hollister, DJ Quik and Xzibit, the album will also feature a track Sermon recorded with the late Eazy-E prior to his tragic AIDS-related death in 1995. The album's first single, "Why Not" featuring Slick Rick, is at radio now...The recent D'Angelo concert at Radio City Music Hall was without a doubt one of the best shows I have ever seen, and probably the closest I may ever come to actually experiencing what it was like to witness Al Green or Marvin Gaye in concert during their prime in the early early-'70s. With a massive backing band that consisted of jazz trumpet master Roy Hargrove and Roots drummer ?uestlove, Big D tore the roof off the world's most renowned theater with explosive renditions of "Devil's Pie" and "Shit, Damn, Motherfucker," and had all the ladies screaming like he was Beatlemainia-era Paul McCartney and Barry White rolled up into one superhuman sex symbol.

act on the bill, looked great in leather pants and ruffled, pastel shirts. If you're not already a Reveille fan, go see them live and you'll become one. These Rage Against The Machine-inspired Boston cuties absolutely punish. Kittie got a great response, and they weren't even wearing latex tube tops! The grrls are really nice, too. Guitarist Fallon Bowman said to me backstage, "I love Snapcase. I can't believe we're opening for them!" I like her. Snapcase, who come from Buffalo (one of America's coldest cities), played flawlessly, despite the dipping evening temperatures. They were spot-on, even when the stage heater blew up towards the end of their set. Sick Of It All's old-school hardcore inspired plenty of sweat-drenched dancing. Lanky frontman Lou Koller tossed Jägermeister swag into the crowd. A big thanks to WSOU's Jen Kazjer and the rest of the staff for organizing a killer event...The Donnas are metal because they play a down 'n' dirty version of Judas Priest's "Living After Midnight." The California cuties opened for rock goddess Joan Jett at The Roxy, NYC's worst club, because security practically subjects you to an intrusive, full-body cavity search and takes your writing utensils before letting you enter the premises. Ms. Jett, dressed in green latex for St. Patty's day, gave a hellbent performance of all her hits... Death/Control Denied metal king Chuck Schuldiner would like to dispel the rumor that he died. He says, "I hate to disappoint those odd people with such overactive imaginations, but I am alive and letting the metal flow." Mr. Schuldiner, recovering from delicate brain tumor surgery, is currently writing new songs for another Control Denied album and thanks all his compadres for their support...Due to an unexpected venue change, Jack Koshick's L.A.-based festival, Mayhem In May, has been postponed...Slipknot will launch its Tattoo The Earth tour, a travelling rock 'n' ink festival, in mid summer. The tour will feature a body art village along with the earassassinating music of the 'Knot, Sevendust and Coal Chamber. More bands will be announced shortly...Korn drummer David Silveria has injured his wrist, so former Faith No More skinsman Mike "Puffy" Bordin is filling in on the band's current tour... Mayhem's new album Grand Declaration Of War is coming. Even though the members that pioneered this band (Dead and Euronymous) were embroiled in the Black Metal Crisis in the early '90s and ended up dead, I am quite anxious to hear this album... Some tracks on the super-anticipated Deftones album are cryptically titled "Digital Bath," "Knife Part At The Niko," "Pink Maggit," "Feiticeira," and "Elite."...Spitfire Records has inked My Ruin, the new band of ex-Tura Satana/Manhole diva Tarrie B. The band's debut, Speak & Destroy, is due shortly... This is unconfirmed, but I heard that the title of Hatebreed's blazing next album will be Scorched Earth Policy...Danzig, Six Feet Under and Disturbed are heading out on tour. What an electic line up...Vision Of Disorder is hitting the road this summer. Will someone please step up to the plate and sign this band? Thank you.

EMI-Chrysalis, however, rejected those terms. Ludlow is seeking $75,000 in damages and a court order prohibiting Williams, EMI or BMG from using the contentious sections of the song in the future...In other lawsuit news, MPL Communications, which is owned by Paul McCartney, is suing MP3.com for copyright infringement. According to court papers posted on the MP3.com Web site, the suit charges that the playback feature of My.MP3.com "is a cynical attempt to exploit the value of famous songs without the copyright owners' consent in order to attract greater 'traffic' to its Web site." See the complete story in this issue's News section...On April 6, folk-rock pioneer Joni Mitchell will be the focus of a tribute concert at New York's Hammerstein Ballroom. The show will feature performances by Shawn Colvin, Elton John, Richard Thompson, k.d. lang, Wynonna, Diana Krall, Cassandra Wilson, Chaka Khan and others. An All-Star Tribute To Joni Mitchell will be taped for an April 16 broadcast on the TNT cable network as part of the "TNT Masters Series," which has already focused on artists such as Johnny Cash, Bob Marley and Burt Bacharach. Mitchell scored a series of hits during the late-'60s and '70s with songs such as "Woodstock," "Chelsea Morning," "Big Yellow Taxi" and "Turn Me On I'm A Radio," She was inducted into the Rock And Roll Hall Of Fame in 1997...Santana will begin his world tour on April 22 in Tokyo. But before he departs for the land of the rising sun, he will perform at a benefit concert for the San Francisco School Of The Arts on April 11 at the Fillmore Auditorium. Although the Latin-rock pioneer is used to being backed by world-class musicians, he'll be sharing the stage at the benefit with the school's jazz band and orchestra.

last summer and now I want to nail it down over the next two or three weeks," Empire said. "The string quartet performance is very complex. What I'm trying to do is find a good balance between what I do and what they do. There's so much stuff going on with the strings and Björk's very powerful voice, [that] the main thing is to find a balance." The tracks are likely to surface sometime later this year.

THE ART OF SELF-DESTRUCTION

(AND PERSISTENCE) Working under the weight of several distractions, Giant Sand returns after an extended recording hiatus to make its most cohesive album to date. Words by Tad Hendrickson

"We become expert marksman at shooting our own feet," explains a knowing Howe Gelb, singer/songwriter/guitarist of Giant Sand. "And when you do it really well, you learn to enjoy the dance that ensues, when your foot is bleeding and pulsating with pain." Whenever Giant Sand deconstructs its ghostly rock songs during a live set, or creates fleeting roots music ephemera in the studio, it is a trio of marksmen, hunting for the unexpected. The band thrives on these surprises at every turn. Ironically, the unexpected was working against Gelb on the day of this interview—he had accidently locked himself out of his Tucson home and was forced to chat from a pay phone.

The band originally created a Jekyll and Hyde assortment of gentle country-tinged folk songs (à la Neil Young) mixed with loud proto-grunge assaults. But life in Giant Sand has been tenuous at best. Gelb has been at the forefront of the group since the beginning, cycling through a string of sidemen throughout the '80s. In 1989, drummer John Covertino joined, and with the addition of bassist Joey Burns a few years later, the revolving door was closed and the Giant Sand lineup was secured. The teaming of the three provoked significant change. Gelb's songwriting became more open and adventurous, focusing on the happy accidents of spontaneous composition. "You can't get much more abstract than a song, there's nothing to see, touch or feel," Gelb points out. "The self-destruction comes from daring the song to really be there. When we go into the studio I torque it enough so it screams, proving that it is still there."

The band's dedicated audience appreciated those screams and musical departures, chalking them up to the unique character of a brilliant band. But the effort to make the songs come alive eventually became a distraction. According to Gelb, "The problem a few years before [the new record] was that we became predictably unpredictable. And that became a huge annoyance. If we all of a sudden change and go into this or that, then people would say, 'Yeah, that's Giant Sand.'"

On the newly released Chore Of Enchantment, the band decided to try something new and play it straight. "The idea was to see if I could construct this record without getting in its way," Gelb says. "And to see if the Giant Sand curse would still derail it." While its efforts were not fully derailed, Giant Sand faced a series of peripheral distractions just before the recording of Chore... Gelb's longtime friend and musical collaborator Rainer Ptacek died in November 1997, after a long battle with brain cancer. Scheduled to begin recording soon after Ptacek's death, Gelb was inconsolable. "I was stumped. I couldn't get past being [in the same studio with Ptacek] only seven weeks earlier and seeing my best friend there. And now he was completely gone. So I couldn't come up with those songs the way I had done up to that point. It was just a big bummer. And [producer] John Parish was so up for the session and motivating, [but] I just couldn't get past it. I couldn't hear clear."

Plans were made for another session, this time in Memphis with Jim Dickinson, a seasoned producer who has worked with everyone from Big Star to Toots And The Maytals. The sessions brought a good number of songs to the table, but there wasn't quite enough material for a finished record. Time was running out — Covertino and Burns had their other project, Calexico, to attend to, as well as other obligations. (On the strength of their work in Giant Sand, the two had become a very indemand rhythm section.) It was up to Gelb and a third producer, Kevin Salem, to make sense out of the raw material. Gelb isn't shy about Salem's contributions to Chore... "If it wasn't for him, this project would not have been so good and cohesive. In fact it wouldn't have been finished."

Despite all the trials, the Giant Sand curse was unable to dismantle Chore Of Enchantment, but just getting the record made was only half the battle. V2, the band's label at the time, decided that it didn't want to release the album because "it sounded too indie." After three years on the shelf, Chore... has finally been released on the Thrill Jockey label. It was worth the wait - the results are enchanting. The band's moody songs recall a panoramic desert landscape at dusk; every cut captures a different shade but each is crucial to the vividness of the whole. Gelb is understandably proud of the results. The group leader admits that things have changed for Giant Sand. It has become something more fragile, and he clings to it protectively. "I like the name Giant Sand. I don't like the name Howe Gelb so much. Then the whole idea to start another band and call it something else seems so redundant." After well over a decade of adventurous musical exploration, why start from scratch?

Interview by Amy Sciarretto

Capricorn Records is already known for launching the careers of commercial radio hitmakers such as 311 and Cake, but the Atlanta-based label is working to re-establish its presence at college radio in 2000 with new albums by Galactic and Jucifer and the addition of an in-house college radio promotion person. Publicist-turned-promoter Amy Leavell spoke to CMJ about her jump from press to radio and about what Capricorn has up its sleeve this year.

How long have you been at Capricorn? What were you doing beforehand?

I started working for Capricorn when they relocated to Atlanta from Nashville three years ago. I spent my first six months as an assistant in the publicity department, and later started working with 'zines and doing tour publicity. During college, I worked in a great independent record store in Atlanta and did my time doing street level marketing, which is a nice way to say I went to concerts and handed out flyers. Oh yeah, there was also a stint in the restaurant business.

Why did you move from publicity to college promotions?

Capricorn hasn't had anyone in-house to work college radio in years; we've always hired indies. Indies are great, but I think you lose some of the passion that comes from a person close to the label and the bands. It came up one day that we should hire someone. I mentioned that I would love to do it and things sort of fell into place. I love being a publicist and I think the skills you use in publicity are applicable in radio promotion.

How has the transition been? Are you using some of the things you've learned doing press in your new capacity? How are publicity and college promotion the same or different from one another?

The transition has been great so far. The biggest difference is timing. Publicity is set to work so far ahead of the game and in promotion, it's a weekly race. They are both chaotic, an element that I love. Most of the artists who tend to be "critics' darlings" at press are, for the most part, the ones who garner lots of college radio airplay. Those are the records that I buy and prefer listening to, so I've been able to find a common ground whether I am talking to a music editor or a music director.

Do you have any hands-on college radio experience? Did you ever work at a college station?

You know, I went to college for fashion design. It was an art school. We didn't have campus stations. We didn't even have a campus, really. It was, um, very liberal arts oriented. I've always found commercial stations difficult to listen to. I don't think I'm in their demographic. I have also been spoiled because Atlanta is fortunate enough to have two great college stations that impact the entire city, WRAS and WREK. Since I grew up around the area, I was listening to those stations throughout high school.

Capricorn seems to enjoy a lot of commercial radio success with bands like 311 and Cake, but then there are bands like Jucifer, who seem to get their best response at college. How does Capricorn view the college radio market in terms of its artists and airplay?

Capricorn walks the line between being an independent and a major label. I think this is due, in part, to the commercial radio success of 311 and Cake, while at the same time being affiliated with high profile independent artists like Vic Chesnutt, Jack Logan and Jucifer. What people forget is that both Cake and 311 achieved success at college radio far before they ever went platinum, and neither reached that status until they were two or three records into their career at Capricorn. We're very much into artist development and college radio promotion is an important part of the mix in breaking bands before commercial success. Unlike major labels, Capricorn won't drop a band because their first record doesn't sell a million copies. Our A&R department isn't a bunch of trend watchers. Jucifer is a great example of that. They're amazing. Ed... is like Animal from the Muppets on his drumset, and Amber is so amazing to see and hear at the same time. We'll be releasing a new Jucifer studio record in late 2000 or early 2001.

How do you hope to establish Capricorn artists at college radio?

Having someone in-house [to promote them] is the first step. I love the bands that I work with and that's not always something you can get by hiring an indie. Capricorn's artist roster runs the gamut stylistically; there is something here for everyone. I think that element will couple nicely with the fact that college radio playlists tend to be stylistically all over the map.

Can you tell us about some of the other artists on the label, maybe some of the upand-comers or albums coming out later this year?

We've got a new album in April from Galactic, a jazz/funk sextet from New Orleans. Their audience has grown immensely since we've signed them. The first time I saw them play live, in 1998, they were playing in front of 100 people here. The last time, they sold out a 1400-seater and there was a line out the door. Deathray is another release coming in April. There are two former Cake members in the band, including Greg Brown who wrote "The Distance." I tend to hesitate when mentioning this, though, because Deathray doesn't encompass any of the sound that Cake does; the record is new wave/pop. I am a sucker for the three-and-a-half-minute pop song. We'll also be releasing records from Athens, Georgia, natives the Glands and Kevn Kinney. Most people will really be surprised at what we will be signing this year. This is not your parents' Capricorn Records. There are several things in the works that I am excited about, but I have to have secrets.
