EDITORIAL

Setting A Positive Tone

The latest announcements of new marketing approaches to the selling of prerecorded cassettes are a very encouraging sign. Based on more sound marketing logic than mere hype or hoopla, these new programs and developments — the WEA, MCA and CBS two-for-one series, A&M's audiophile-quality tape for the new Supertramp LP, I.R.S.'s "Cassingle" and Island's continuing experiments with variations of the One Plus One format — are in a position to set the tone for some time to come.

By this time, most people in the industry would probably agree that the prerecorded cassette will eventually become the dominant configuration — in many cases, sales of prerecorded cassette units already surpass those of LPs. Cassettes already have many advantages over the conventional record — portability of both the software and hardware being the most obvious — and with the continuing evolution of high-quality tape, any difference with LPs in the area of sound quality will soon disappear.

Thus, it is vital that the industry seriously consider the implications of the current cassette developments. Home tapers have long known the virtues of the cassette, and it's about time that the industry began to offer them better product than what they can copy and at a lower price. If past trends based on advancing technology come to pass, the cost of manufacturing prerecorded tapes on a large scale should decrease while we should also see a continual increase in quality.

And that should be a turning point. Many in the media and in the industry itself have placed much of the blame for this current slump on seemingly constant price increases for what has come to be seen as inferior product. For a product that the industry likes to call "the best value for the dollar," this is a tragic public image. Those manufacturers actively trying to counter that image are to be commended.

ON THE COVER

Like his fine, classy Ferrari, Lionel Richie has to shift gears once again to accommodate the high-speed traffic on the highway he is now travelling. With release of his debut solo album on Motown, he is entering still a faster lane of pop stardom.

The first single from his self-titled LP, "Truly," was the highest debut this week on the Cash Box Pop chart at #66 bullet. Having started out as the lead singer and chief songwriter with the Tuskegee Institute-bred aggregation known as the Commodores, and helping bring this outfit to the threshold of its own pop fame, Richie in recent times has distinguished himself as a songwriter and producer. The most evident example was the composing and production work he did on Kenny Rogers' hottest selling single "Lady," which helped propel Rogers' "Greatest Hits" package to multi-million unit sales worldwide.

In addition to winning several awards as a member of the Commodores and as an individual songwriter and producer, he has earned numerous nominations and awards as a performer.

CBS/Fox Holds Video List Price Down In Effort To Stimulate Sales Market

by Michael Glynn

LOS ANGELES — CBS/Fox Video is holding the line on suggested list prices for its top new videocassette titles. None of the seven titles in the joint venture's October release — which includes last winter's box-office hit Taps (a rental-to-sale conversion), Author, Author!, Megaforce and Visiting Hours, among others — will retail for more than $59.98, and one, a music video program featuring R&B star Teddy Pen-dergrass, will carry a $39.98 tag.

What appears to be a conscious attempt on the part of CBS/Fox to keep a lid on retail prices can be viewed as part of a continuing trend to lower lists as manufacturers attempt to establish sales over rentals at the dealer level. The most dramatic example of this came when Paramount recently announced that its November release, Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan, would retail for $39.95 as an isolated test of the market's sales potential (Cash Box, Sept. 11).

Unlike Paramount, CBS/Fox's strategy, like some other manufacturers', seems to have been to lower prices slowly and quietly. Five of the seven titles in the joint venture's September release carried a $59.98 suggested list, while two, Quest For Fire and the James Bond film From Russia With Love, went out at $69.98. The French Lieutenant's Woman and On Golden Pond were released earlier this year at $79.98.

CBS/Fox Video executives declined comment last week on prices for the October titles. However, a recent press release from the company recounting testimony by 20th Century-Fox Telecommunications president Stephen Roberts before a subcommittee of the House Judiciary in Washington, D.C. on Sept. 22 emphasized Roberts' prediction that "we would be able to reduce our prices today up to 50% on most titles" if the Fair Marketing Amendment to the Home Recording Act of 1982 were passed by Congress.

$40 Seduction?

That seems unlikely in the near future, with the current Congress breaking for recess now and such legislation already low on the list of its priorities (Cash Box, Oct. 2). Nevertheless, other home videocassette suppliers are seriously considering experimenting with price reductions of their own. Paul Culberg, vice president of domestic operations for Media Home En-

CBS Plans $8.98 Two-For-One Cassette Series

by Jeffrey Ressler

LOS ANGELES — Following similar moves by WEA and MCA, CBS Records is planning to release a "twofer" cassette line offering two albums by popular artists on one tape at a special list price. Midline albums from Columbia, Epic and CBS Masterworks labels will be involved in the project, dubbed "Double Play Cassettes," and each will probably retail for $8.98, a dollar less than MCA's "Twin-Pax" tapes and two dollars cheaper than WEA's "Two On One" line.

Approximately 18 tapes will initially be released in the CBS series, the first shipment due to rollout in late October. Retail sources have stated country titles will be the first to arrive in stores.

The CBS twofer line will include both old and new $4.99 midline product, and although specific information could not be ascertained at presstime, sources indicate a new type of packaging will be used for the "Double Play" software, with some jokingly referring to the cassette container as a "modified spaghetti box." The 90-minute tapes are also said to be carrying a wholesale code prefix, "DT."

Country artists and albums in the series will include Charlie Daniels' "Saddle Tramp"/"High Lonesome" and Willie Nelson's "Sound In Your Mind"/"The

by Jeffrey Ressler

LOS ANGELES — With all of the activity taking place in the home video game arena this winter — new, third generation hardware systems bowing from Atari and Coleco, numerous software companies offering dozens of programs with upgraded graphics, and innovative accessories and add-on modules like Mattel's IntelliVoice speech synthesis unit — the event most distribution outlets seem to be looking forward to most is the release of Atari's E.T. game cartridge based on the highly popular Steven Spielberg fantasy film. Targeted for shipment around Nov. 19, a week before Thanksgiving, the cartridge will carry a $39.95 list price, according to Dave Mount, national sales manager of video for WEA, which distributes Atari product to record retailers. Another game derived from a Spielberg movie, Raiders Of The Lost Ark, should be available in early December and will list for $37.95.

Both games use plot elements from the original films in their programs, say insiders who've seen advance showings of the cartridges. In E.T., the alien is pursued by shadowy government agents and scientists, and must find its way back to its spaceship while gobbling up Reese's Pieces candies for additional points. The Raiders cart pits adventurer Indiana Jones against obstacles in 13 different rooms of an ancient Egyptian crypt before he can find the mystical Ark of the Covenant.

TV Advertising Becoming Retail's Favorite Medium

by Michael Martinez

LOS ANGELES — The advertising of prerecorded music on television — both network and pay/cable — is becoming an increasingly important tool for many record retailers and will be used extensively during the upcoming holiday sales season, according to a Cash Box survey. Showing a decided preference for TV, most retailers surveyed said it offered a wider audience plus a more diverse range of musical styles and acts than radio, with only minimal differences in cost.

"I think the active record buyer can be reached through outlets such as MTV because it is developing a reputation for airing some things that radio will not," said Michael Vassen, director of advertising for the Durham-based Record Bar chain's Adventures. "The mass media approach may be maturing right now."

Dealer enthusiasm for TV advertising, based on the belief that television is the most effective mass media exposure tool available to them, is tempered by an understanding that record manufacturers are reluctant to spend money on video advertising, primarily due to the high price of production and time costs. Some dealers also noted that labels fear that local advertising productions for TV airing are shoddy prepared and lack quality.

According to some surveyed, such apprehensions are unfounded, saying that a local TV spot can be produced for less than $2,500 and then run more than once

Demand Doubles For 12-Inch Singles; Price Is Cited

by Jim Bessman

NEW YORK — Merchants in locations where 12" dance product has been a strong seller since the days of disco report that the demand for the configuration has doubled in the past year. A Cash Box survey finds that the main reason is consumer price, as the $4.98 or $5.98 list price seems just right for a growing and increasingly price-conscious clientele seeking one cut at longer length for less than album price. This, coupled with the proliferation of indie labels releasing 12" product, has caused many dealers to call 12" the sole "bright spot" on the current retail scene.

"It's like a midline type thing," said Sikhulu Shange, at his Sikhulu Records store in Harlem. According to Shange, sales of 12" product — now up to roughly 35% of both his retail and one-stop operations — started to pick up around the second quarter of last year "when the change in record prices started coming around." He said that because of the increases and inflation, consumers are more particular now and comparing prices to make sure they get what they want at the price they want. "Many albums aren't all that hot, and they don't want to have to spend all that money for just one cut that they've heard and like and prefer in a longer form. And with 45s rocketing up to $2, it's too steep a price for kids to spend for a little bit of music. Right now the 12" discs are the only things that are selling well."

Howard Appelbaum, vice president of Washington, D.C.'s 19-store Kemp Mill chain, has also found that where many album buyers — particularly R&B buyers — buy albums on the strength of a specific song, many consumers won't spend the money for an album when that song is available for less on a 12" disc. For him, "$5 is the magic price point," so he sells his 12" product below that.

Good Entertainment Value

At Kemp Mill's R&B-oriented stores, dance discs make up 20-25% of the total gross receipts from prerecorded product and accessories, including video games. Sales of 12" product has "probably quadrupled" in the past year, this despite the economy and 52% black teen unemployment. "Music is still a good entertainment value," explained Appelbaum. "A $4.99 Dazz Band 12" is extremely attractive compared to $30 for a Pac-Man cartridge."

Besides the price point, dealers say that the surge in 12" product sales is fueled by the growing number of independent labels releasing the discs, as opposed to the major labels, which are just beginning to follow the indie lead. Keith Hudson, general manager of Ted's One Stop in St. Louis, which operates six Hudson's Embassy stores in the area, said that more than half of the 12" titles that come in are independent releases. Ray Barney, head of Barney's One Stop in Chicago, credited the many new New York and East Coast-based labels with gaining a foothold in the marketplace by picking up some of the slack in album sales.

"We have to chase to New York to get product," said Larry Myles, manager assistant and buyer at Audie's in Milwaukee, which has two retail outlets and a wholesale operation. "We don't mind, though, because if it sells, we move 'em out."

According to Myles, the success of indie labels that put out 12" product is encouraging the major labels to follow suit. "When you get something like Sugar Hill or Prelude or Tommy Boy, it inspires others to do the same thing. Warner Bros. originally shied away from 12" product but is now picking up on putting out remixes and product not available in any other format."

Kemp Mill's Appelbaum said that his high percentage of 12" sales was a compelling reason for the major manufacturers to be into 12" product. He lauded all efforts to release product at lower cost to the consumer, including 12" discs and EPs like Kurtis Blow as a means of encouraging consumer experimentation.

In St. Louis, Hudson disagreed with the traditional fear of the major labels that 12" sales cut into album sales. "The Evelyn King 'Love Come Down' 12" came out at the same time as the 'Get Loose' album and didn't hurt the LP at all but sold right along

BUSINESS NOTES

Atari Pushes WCI To Record Qtr., Half

LOS ANGELES — Led by significant gains by the Consumer Electronics division during the second quarter and first half ended June 30, Warner Communications, Inc. (WCI) reported record earnings for those respective periods. WCI's net income for the quarter and half reached $68.2 million and $146.1 million, respectively, as the Consumer Electronics division once again doubled its earnings.

The corporation's net income for the quarter and half, increases of 60% and 59% over the same periods last year, were accompanied by equally unprecedented totals in gross revenues — for the quarter, an increase of 34.1% to $907.1 million and for the half, an increase of 43.9% to $1.8 billion.

Earnings per share for the quarter jumped 59% above the previous first quarter high to $1.05. For the half, earnings per share jumped 53% over the same period last year to $2.25.

The Consumer Electronics division, which manufactures and markets the Atari line of video arcade games, home video games and home computers, led all WCI divisions with a 127% jump in operating revenues to $461.1 million and a 185% jump in operating income to $111.8 million during the second quarter, both records for the division. Operating income for the quarter leaped to $111.8 million, a 183% increase over the same period last year; for the half, there was a 195% jump to $212.4 million.

Revenues and earnings for the Recorded Music and Music Publishing division both dropped during the quarter and half. Operating revenues for the quarter dropped 2.5% to $175.1 million and, for the half, 1.8% to $365.1 million. Operating income for the quarter dropped 3.6% to $12.2 million and, for the half, 25.2% to $28.0 million.

BMI Composers Competition

LOS ANGELES — Broadcast Music, Inc. (BMI) will present $15,000 to young composers as part of the 31st annual BMI Awards to Student Composers competition. The 1982-83 contest is open to students who are citizens or permanent residents of the Western Hemisphere and who are enrolled in accredited secondary schools, colleges or conservatories, or are engaged in private study with recognized and established teachers anywhere in the world.

There are no limitations as to instrumentation, stylistic consideration or length of work submitted, although students may enter no more than one composition (which need not have been composed during the year of entry. Contestants must be under 26 years of age on Dec. 31, 1982.

Compositions, entered under pseudonyms, are considered by a preliminary panel of judges before final judging. The amount of each prize and the number of prizes awarded are at the discretion of the final judging panel. In the 1981-82 competition, 17 winners, ranging in age from 15-25, were given awards. Prizes range in size from $500 to $2,500.

To date, 275 students, from ages 8 to 25, have received BMI awards since the competition was first established in 1951. Five previous winners — George Crumb, Mario Davidovsky, Donald Martino, Joseph C. Schwanter and Charles Wuorinen — have gone on to win Pulitzer Prizes in Music.

The 1982-83 competition closes Feb. 15, 1983. Official rules and entry blanks are available from James G. Roy, Jr., director, BMI Awards to Student Composers, Broadcast Music, Inc., 320 West 57th St., New York, N.Y. 10019.

Court Dismisses Interim Fee Appeal By ABC-TV

NEW YORK — The U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit last week dismissed an appeal by ABC-TV to review the interim fee order requiring the network to increase its interim license fees to the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP). ABC will now continue to pay an annual fee of $8.5 million in music license fees to ASCAP until either the Court sets a final fee, ASCAP and ABC agree to one, or the current interim fee is further adjusted by the court.

The interim license arrangement between ASCAP and ABC began in 1976 when the network's ASCAP license ran out. Since then, ABC has been paying ASCAP $3.8 million annually, subject to retroactive adjustment. ASCAP requested an increase in September 1981, and on April 16, 1982 ABC offered to up the fee to $5 million at a hearing before U.S. District Judge Edmund L. Palmieri.

Then on May 26, Palmieri increased the fee payment to the annual rate of $8 million for the final three-and-one-half months of 1981 and $8.5 million annually for the period starting Jan. 1, 1982. These fees matched a payment agreement by CBS and ASCAP in June 1981.

Bernard Korman, ASCAP's general counsel, said that the dismissal of ABC's appeal, which was sought by ASCAP, would clear the way for the court determination of a "reasonable music licensing fee" for ABC.

Island Records Introduces New Tape Format

NEW YORK — Island Records will introduce a new tape configuration containing the same entire album on both sides of the cassette tape. According to a label spokesman, the new format brings attention to the "One Plus One Issue" and is "the first inroad in our goal of marketing Island albums on Island cassettes in the One Plus One format."

The controversial One Plus One cassette line brought out by Island two years ago, whereby an album is similarly presented on one side of the cassette while the other side is left blank, has met with stiff resistance from WEA, which distributes Island Records product. Island's Antilles/Mango division uses the format, but it is distributed independently.

The spokesman said that WEA has been very positive about the new tape format, which will be used on all Island cassette releases beginning with the soundtrack for the film An Officer And A Gentleman, which ships with the LP version on Oct. 4. Antilles/Mango will continue in the One Plus One configuration.

With the new cassette format the listener can conveniently flip over the cassette at the end of the album and start again at the beginning. This eliminates the need to rewind as well as flip the tape over to get to side two.

Grammy Entry Forms Are Due October 7

LOS ANGELES — The National Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences (NARAS) has issued a reminder to its members that Entry Forms for the 25th annual Grammy Awards are due Thursday, Oct. 7. The Entry Form includes 32 categories (the most in the history of the awards) under which NARAS members can list what recordings they consider to be in the running for this year's awards.

NARAS members' Entry Forms and similar ones from recording companies (due at NARAS Oct. 4) will be used to compile the Eligibility Lists from which the nominations for this year's awards will be chosen.

Family Fare Is Focus Of Holiday Video Promotions

by Michael Glynn

LOS ANGELES — Holiday promotions and programs, highlighting a mix of family-oriented titles and major new releases, are, as one might expect, the primary focus of fourth quarter marketing strategies for most video software suppliers. As Halloween draws near, RCA SelectaVision Videodiscs and Media Home Entertainment, for example, will be putting individual promotional pushes on horror film titles, but during November and December studios and major independent manufacturers will be placing the promotional emphasis on titles with broad audience appeal, from new "A" category film releases to best-selling catalog items and Christmas staples, such as Walt Disney's A Walt Disney Christmas.

The thrust of these efforts will be principally directed toward the area of in-store merchandising, with a plethora of new point-of-purchase items, such as banners, posters, stand-ups, flyers and new release sheets being provided to retailers either directly or through distributors. Such companies as MGM/UA Home Video and MCA Videocassette are creating special brochures and posters keying in on gift-oriented titles for the Christmas season.

"As people buy or receive hardware during the holiday sales season, there is a tendency to purchase classic or perennial hits, mostly family-oriented titles, as initial software," said MGM/UA Home Video vice

AOR, B/C Formats Post Mixed Results In Summer Arbs

by Larry Riggs

NEW YORK — Leading San Francisco AOR station KMEL gave up its distinction to neophyte rocker KRQR, according to results from the Summer 1982 Arbitron ratings sweep. Similarly, the book exhibited traditional fluctuations between market leaders and mixed results from black-oriented stations.

In Boston, for example, A/C outlet WBZ regained its #1 post in the market, nudging up from 8.4 to 8.6. It took the lead away from its competitor, WHDH, which slipped from 8.5 in the Spring Book to 8.0 this time around. Soft rocker WEEI-FM also slipped from a 3.9 to 2.9.

Summer, however, was a good book for the AOR format, as WBCN skyrocketed from 4.7 to 6.3 in the book, and dominant rocker WCOZ gained slightly, posting 7.5 over 7.4 in the spring book. B/C outlet WILD plummeted to 1.3 from a 1.9 share last time, and U/C outlet WXKS-FM rose to 7.8 from 7.0.

In Philadelphia, the AOR ple was more mixed but general favorable, WMMR, with

E Streeter Van Zandt To Release LP On EMI

LOS ANGELES — EMI America will release a new LP by Little Steven and the Disciples of Soul on Oct. 15. Little Steven is Miami Steve Van Zandt of Bruce Springsteen's E Street Band.

Entitled "Men Without Women," the new LP also features original Young Rascals drummer Dino Danelli, ex-Plasmatics bassist Jean Beauvoir, Alvin Alley and percussionist Monty Louis Ellison.

Along with the LP, a video featuring a recent performance by the band at New York's Peppermint Lounge, among other things, will also be released.

OUT OF THE BOX

LIONEL RICHIE — Motown 6007ML — Producers: Lionel Richie and James Anthony Carmichael — List: 8.98

As a member of the multi-platinum Commodores and performer, composer and/or producer of three smash records last year ("Endless Love," "I Don't Need You" and "Lady, You Bring Me Up"), Lionel Richie's reputation for hits far precedes this debut solo sojourn. In this collection of love songs, the majority self-penned, Richie enlists the aid of elaborate string arrangements to give his simple but poignant lyrics richly layered texture. The LP's first single, "Truly," is a touching, romantic tune as suitable for A/C as for Top 40. "Tell Me," with its scorching guitar work and up-tempo rhythms, is the most energetic track.

SILK ELECTRIC — Diana Ross — RCA AFL1-4384 — Producer: Diana Ross — List: 8.98 — Bar Coded

Glamorous is the adjective that immediately springs to mind when describing Diana Ross' second LP for RCA, and that encompasses everything from the chic cover art by Andy Warhol to the clean, crisp sound of the music. "Muscles," produced and written by Michael Jackson, seems the perfect follow-up single to the earlier "Work That Body," and in its second week on the pop charts, it's taken a 12-point jump to #54 bullet. That finger-snapping ditty is followed on the LP by a variety of styles ranging from hard, metallic rock ("Fool For Your Love") to MOR ballads ("In Your Arms") to supremely synth-assisted R&B ("So Close").

between '60s hits and newer material. A James Taylor and Ronstadt mellow duet on Ike and Tina Turner's R&B classic, "I Think It's Gonna Work Out Fine," is one of the more interesting tunes here, as is her high-velocity rendition of The Knickerbockers' "Lies." Country radio may find the ballad, "My Blue Tears," in which Dolly Parton and Emmylou Harris help on three-part harmony, the top pick.

YES, GIORGIO ORIGINAL SOUNDTRACK — Luciano Pavarotti — London PDV 9001 — Producer: Ray Minshull — List: 9.98

Luciano Pavarotti, one of the opera world's most renowned tenors, made his celluloid bow in the recently-released romantic comedy Yes, Giorgio, and the wide publicity the film has been getting can only help sales of the soundtrack LP. Whether bellowing "O Sole Mio" or gently intoning more contemporary selections like "I Left My Heart In San Francisco," the affable opera performer's voice is filled with power and grace. Recorded digitally, this soundtrack should appeal primarily to dedicated Pavarotti fans, as well as those seeking a souvenir of the movie.

OPUS X — Chilliwack — Millennium/RCA BXL1-7766 — Producers: Bill Henderson and Brian MacLeod — List: 8.98 — Bar Coded

This Canadian pop trio, which scored a Top 20 single last year with "My Girl (Gone, Gone, Gone)," is as adept on high-energy rockers relying on reeling guitar solos, rough vocals laced with soaring harmonies and pulverizing drum work as it is with softer, adult contemporary sounds. "Midnight" seems just right for middle-of-the-road outlets, while "Don't It Make You Feel Good" and "Really Don't Mind" are made to please listeners who like their music rough and raunchy.

ZOMBIE BIRDHOUSE — Iggy Pop — Animal/Chrysalis APR 6000 — Producer: Chris Stein — List: 8.98 — Bar Coded

One of the "grand old men" of the punk scene, The Ig has served as an inspiration to Bowie, Lou Reed, Patti Smith, Jim Carroll and a score of other contemporary musicians. In his debut solo trip on the Chrysalis-distributed Animal label, Iggy receives production and bass support from Blondie's Chris Stein, and the result is one of his most poetic, moving albums to date. With AOR acceptance of Talking Heads, Devo and other quirky art-rockers, Mr. Pop (as the New York Times referred to him) may receive wider airplay with this effort, particularly accessible tracks along the lines of "Angry Hills."

SPECIAL BEAT SERVICE — The English Beat — I.R.S. SP 70032 — Producer: Bob Sargeant — List: 8.98

This third LP from Britain's clever ska/rock outfit (and its bow on I.R.S.) casts away the political sarcasm of 1981's "Wha'ppen?" in favor of a more personal lyrical content. Still, wisecracking wordplay abounds in numbers such as "Jeannette," a skankable love song about a "substitute Ronette" backed with campy accordion riffs. Reggae fans will appreciate much of the disc, particularly "Pato And Roger A Go Talk" for its fine toasting and "Ackee 1 2 3."

BLACK CONTEMPORARY

THE BAD C.C. — Carl Carlton — RCA AFL1-4425 — Producers: Various — List: 8.98 — Bar Coded

A multitude of producers, from David Rubinson to Narada Michael Walden, have mined many a groove from this Bad Mama Jama's earthy voice. The result is dance floor delights like the cover of the Four Tops' "Baby, I Need Your Loving," "Dance With You" and "Groovin'," melded with emotive crooning exercises on ballads including "Fooled Myself Again" and "Just One Kiss." Pop and B/C PDs must give a listen to "Kiss" for its especially sexy delivery.

WILD NIGHT — One Way — MCA MCA-5369 — Producers: Irene Perkins and ADK — List: 8.98 — Bar Coded

On the sixth album from this seven-piece ensemble of first-rate funkies, jacket art depicts a lingerie-clad temptress, giving a good indication of the tasty music contained inside, including the partytime screamer "Wild Night" and the Godfatheresque "Making You An Offer." Coming off Top Five B/C chart success for its "Cutie Pie" single and having earned its chops opening for Al Green, Natalie Cole and James Brown, the band gained a solid reputation among urban audiences, and this waxing should only help reinforce its popularity.

THE WOMAN IN MY LIFE — Stevie Woods — Cotillion 90015-1 — Producer: Jack White — List: 8.98 — Bar Coded

A lot of folks were delightfully surprised by Woods' auspicious debut LP and especially the single "Steal The Night," which made quite a good showing on the charts. "The Woman In My Life" shows a further maturing of this young R&B/pop talent, as he easily handles a number of different styles with the sort of professional panache you'd expect from an established veteran as George Benson, as well as the vigor of an Al Jarreau. Stirring ballads, such as the title track and the bittersweet "Love You Back To Sleep" on side one, remain Woods' forte, but he flexes and stretches on

NEW FACES TO WATCH

Toni Basil

Although Toni Basil made her initial debut on the American pop singles charts in late August with "Mickey" from her "Word of Mouth" album, she's been a behind-the-scenes figure in rock since the '60s and, as a flamboyant dance/performance artist, she's built a cult following of her own over the last decade. Undoubtedly, even more folks in the U.S. will become familiar with her through "Word of Mouth," which is being released not only in a record format but also as a "video album." Unlike previous forays into the field by Blondie and ABBA, both Basil's platter and the video were conceived concurrently, and the result is a multi-media product that's earned the singer/dancer platitudes like "queen of the freeze-frames" and "the First Lady of the videoage" from the British press after "Mickey" zoomed to the #2 spot on the English pop charts with the help of a BBC broadcast of the video.

Born Antonia Basilotta in Philadelphia, Pa., Basil comes from a show business family — her father was an orchestra leader, and her mother had once worked with relatives in a vaudevillian acrobatic act. Young Antonia began taking dance lessons from the time she could walk; "I don't recall ever not going to ballet class," she says today. Moving from Philadelphia to New York to Chicago and then to Las Vegas during adolescence, she put all her years of dance lessons to good use when she became head cheerleader at Las Vegas High School. On the "Mickey" segment of her video album, coincidentally, she once again dons her LVH uniform and leads a squad of kids in spirited pep rally style.

After graduating from high school, Basil drove to Los Angeles to pursue a career in dentistry. Enrolling in Laughton Dental School, she took classes in oral surgery but also continued her studies in ballet. When she received her degree from Laughton, however, she started work as a dancer, and soon landed a job as assistant choreographer on the seminal rock television program, Shindig. Earning a reputation as a person who could creatively blend pop music with modern dance routines, Basil was in strong demand as a choreographer of network rock shows and teen exploitation movies. She formulated dance numbers for several AIP beach party films and even played a go-go girl in the 1965 Village Of The Giants.

A hip injury from a ballet class caused Basil to forego dancing for a year, but she still insisted on performing and expanding her acting abilities. She portrayed a prostitute in Easy Rider and a lesbian hitchhiker in Five East Pieces, and when her hip healed, she became involved with an innovative inner-city rock-dance troupe from South L.A. called The Lockers.

Her horizons in movement and music were further broadened when she choreographed much of David Bowie's "Diamond Dogs" concert tour, and Bowie was sufficiently impressed to encourage her to develop her own shows.

When British label Radialchoice was looking for an audio/visual person to put out a simultaneous single, album and video release, someone who could make "records you can watch," it decided on Basil. After "Mickey" rose to #2 position on the British charts, it quickly captured the top singles spot in Australia, and with Chrysalis picking up domestic distribution of the Basil project, the tune may once again provide the spark that ignites public response to the talented lady's career as a video artist.

Be My Lady (3:54) (Alien Music — BMI) (P. Sears, J. Sears) (Producer: K. Beamish)

High, piercing yet extremely melodic lead guitar notes set the mood for this mid-tempo romantic exercise from the Starship. The rock riffs are kept to the absolute minimum, which gives some of the band's finer points, such as the great male-female harmonies, a chance to come to the fore. From the "Winds of Change" LP.

DAN FOGELBERG (Full Moon/Epic 34-03289)

Missing You (3:59) (Hickory Grove Music, admin. by April Music, Inc. — ASCAP) (D. Fogelberg) (Producer: D. Fogelberg, M. Lewis)

Expecting a ballad? Guess again, 'cuz Fogelberg's come up with a shaking pop tune that one might usually expect from, say, Kenny Loggins. It's not a rocker by any means, though; strings add a dash of slickness to the midtempo percussive groove and sharp leads. From an upcoming "Greatest Hits" set.

LUCIANO PAVAROTTI (London LON45 20103)

If We Were In Love (2:26) (Affiliated Music, Inc. — BMI/Variety Music, Inc. — ASCAP) (A. & M. Bergman, Williams, orch. Spencer) (Producer: none listed)

The accent is pretty thick, naturally, since this is Pavarotti's first English language recording, but the King of the High C's makes more than a game showing on this Alan and Marilyn Bergman tune from the movie Yes, Giorgio.

BLACK CONTEMPORARY

TEDDY PENDERGRASS (Philadelphia Int'l ZS 4 03284)

I Can't Win For Losing (3:12) (Mighty Three Music — BMI) (G. McFadden, J. Whitehead, V. Carstarphen) (Producers: V. Carstarphen, G. McFadden, J. Whitehead)

Ducking and weaving electronics set this no luck tale in motion, as Teddy Bear gets totally in character for the performance. Although it's slick, the song's got a definite street beat.

MARVIN GAYE (Columbia 38-03302)

Sexual Healing (3:52) (April Music, Inc. — ASCAP) (M. Gaye, O. Brown) (Producer: M. Gaye)

Gaye turns the rhythm box on and takes off into the kind of sexy vocal turns that made songs like "Let's Get It On" such big hits. Some stations may avoid this because of the title but the actual tone of the music (not the lyrics) is far from risqué.

SONNY CHARLES (HighRise SHR 2001)

Put It In A Magazine (3:38) (Pari-Wax Pub Co./Sun Hill Pub. Co. — ASCAP) (S. Charles, B. Paris) (Producer: B. Paris)

Charles, former member of the Checkmates, scored a few years back, you may remember, with the Phil Spector-produced "Black Pearl." He's back in a big way here with a bright, uptempo spinners-type of tune that is already making an impression at B/C stations.

NEW AND DEVELOPING

TRANSLATOR (415/Columbia 38-03311)

Everywhere That I'm Not (3:46) (Very Safe Music/Sleepless Music — BMI) (S. Barton) (Producer: D. Kahne)

Even at its most accessible, S.F.'s Translator tends to veer from the mainstream. Despite the presence of some melodic acoustic guitar work on perhaps the most popular song in the band's repertoire, there is an underlying tension in the group's angular musical approach that is truly compelling.

THEY HAVE RETURNED...Waylon & Willie!

WWII

This is the big one...WWII. The album that will bring legions of fans marching back into stores all across America!

In 1976, Waylon and Willie started a whole new movement in country music with their "WANTED: THE OUTLAWS" album, which sold over 3 million!

Then came "WAYLON AND WILLIE" in 1978, which went double platinum! Now, "WWII"...the album to top all albums!!! With solos by Waylon...solos by Willie...and powerful duets. This is all new music, recorded especially for "WWII", and includes the Otis Redding classic, "Sittin' On The Dock Of The Bay", as the first single release by Waylon and Willie together...the satiric "Write Your Own Songs", written by Willie and sung by Willie and Waylon, "The Last Cowboy Song", (title soundtrack to an up-coming PBS TV Special), "The Teddy Bear Song" and "Clayton Delaney", both of which are solos by Waylon.

Both Waylon and Willie are currently touring major markets in the U.S., and their media coverage has never been stronger. "WWII"...Waylon and Willie, our five-star cultural heroes, have returned!

After all, old outlaws never die, they just keep on recording great albums!

REVIEWS

ALBUMS

"Ladies Of The '80s," "Into The Light" and some of the other brassy uptempo fare on side two.

JAZZ

DESIRE — Tom Scott — Elektra/Musician 60162 — Producer: Jeffrey Weber — List: 8.98 — Bar Coded

Simplicity has always been Tom Scott's strong suit, and on "Desire" he shows a handful of aces. And whether carried by vocalists Richard Page and Stephanie Sprull or by Scott's own saxophone and lyricon, melody is the mainstay here. A strong net of sidemen augment the leader, including Victor Feldman, Buzzy Feiten, Ernie Watts, Chuck Findley and Pete Christlieb, making for a seamless foray into light funk and jazz pop.

NEW AND DEVELOPING

VERSIONS — Robbie Krieger — Passport PB 6017 — Producer: Robbie Krieger — List: 8.98

Instrumental covers and originals with a strong accent on Krieger's slide, rhythm and lead guitar skills makes this effort one both rock and jazz fusionists should groove on. Doors mates

John Densmore and Ray Manzarek contribute to a couple of cuts, most noticeably "Crystal Ship," which sounds supernaturally soothing, even without Jim Morrison's mystic vocals. Krieger's axwork evokes a dreamy, ethereal mood, although it's capable of kicking ass, too.

THE HIGH AND THE MIGHTY — Donnie Iris — Carousel/MCA MCA-5358 — Producer: Mark Avsek — List: 8.98 — Bar Coded

Donnie Iris' third MCA album following last year's "King Cool" features a gaggle of original songs inked by his band, The Cruisers, and a monster cover of The Dave Clark Five's early '60s chart-topper "Glad All Over." Palatable and highly melodic pop, Iris' material may be heavy on hooks yet rarely traverses into simplistic bubblegum-type music. AOR might want to check out "The High And The Mighty" for its anthem-like qualities and "Love Is Magic" for its upbeat, catchy chorus.

Phax Appoints Promoter, Names Distrib Network

LOS ANGELES — Don Graham Ltd. Promotion and Marketing has been chosen to head the national promotion of the initial single from Phax Records and Filmworks, titled "I'm Gonna Make This World A Better Place," by the group Patches.

Also, Roy Simon, president of the new company, which is located in Long Beach, Calif., has appointed several distributors.

The distributors include Pacific Records and Tapes (San Francisco), Pickwick (Los Angeles), Big State Distributors (Dallas), Stan's Record Distributors (Shreveport), All South Distributors (New Orleans), Music City Distributors (Nashville), Hot Line Distributors (Memphis), Tiara Record Distributors (Atlanta), Bib Record Distributors (Charlotte, N.C.), and Sunshine Distributors (New York), Action Distributors (Cleveland) and Associated Distributors (Phoenix).

CBS Announces Home Computer Software Unit

NEW YORK — CBS Software, a unit aimed at developing, licensing and marketing home computer software, has been formed as part of the CBS/Columbia Group. The outfit, which will focus on game, education and home management software, will report to Edmund R. Auer, senior vice president, Columbia Group. CBS Software's first licensing agreement is with K-Byte, a division of the Troy, Mich.-based Kay Enterprises, for the exclusive worldwide marketing and distribution rights to K-Byte computer games.

In announcing the new CBS unit, Thomas M. Kirwan, president, CBS/Columbia Group, said that CBS "intends to play a leadership role in selected new businesses being opened up by technological development, and to do so in a way that builds upon our basic experience and expertise without unduly heavy initial investment. The home computer software market has an exciting and significant potential for growth. Current household penetration of home computers is minimal, but all projections show dramatic increases. A real need has developed in the consumer software industry for companies like CBS to perform the basic functions of product evaluation, development and marketing."

The CBS Software Unit's initial four K-Byte entries, slated for shipment early in the fourth quarter, include "K-Razy Shoutout," and three new titles: "K-Razy Antics," "K-Star Patrol" and "K-Razy Critters." Additionally, the deal covers games to be developed by K-Byte over the next four years. CBS will initially offer the games for the Atari 400 and 800 systems.

Commenting on the licensing agreement with CBS, Patrick Flynn, president, K-Byte, said K-Byte was "especially pleased to be able to marry the creative resources of our company with the worldwide marketing and distribution strengths of CBS. Together we will make a combination that should insure the success of K-Byte products in the home computer software marketplace."

S. Allen Selby, III, vice president, CBS/Columbia Group, will assume management responsibility for product acquisition and development within CBS Software. Distribution will be through CBS Video Games.

Ray Named To Chair Copyright Royalty Tribunal

WASHINGTON — Edward W. Ray, named commissioner of the Copyright Royalty Tribunal (CRT) earlier this year for the term that ended last week, was renominated by President Reagan and reconfirmed by the U.S. Senate for a full seven-year term.

Ray, former music record company executive who was appointed to succeed resigned Commissioner Clarence L. James Jr., is scheduled to become CRT chairman Dec. 1. Prior to his appointment to the CRT, Ray was in the investment business.

Meanwhile, a nominee to fill the vacancy caused by the completion of the term of Frances Garcia on Sept. 26 is expected to be made by the White House shortly. Garcia, who was chairman of the CRT during the past year, decided against seeking a second seven-year term since there were indications that the White House did not have her reappointment in mind. A native of Texas and a CPA, Garcia has become the Washington partner of a Los Angeles accounting firm (Quesada, Navarro & Co.).

During the interim period between Garcia's departure and Ray's assumption of the CRT's chairmanship, the five-member agency is being led by Commissioner Thomas C. Brennan, veteran CRT member.

a 6.5 this time, gained nearly a share and a half over its Spring Book rating of 5.1. WYSP, its main competitor, registered a 4.4, up from 3.7. In contrast, WIOQ, lost over a share, posting a 3.1 compared to 4.4 last time around.

In a continuation of its slide, talk station KYW posted a 7.9, a drop of nearly a share from the Spring Book's 8.8. Even with Phillies broadcasts, it was supplanted as the #1 station by B/C outlet WDAS-FM, which jumped from 7.4 to 8.8. Black listenership was generally up in the book as its AM sister remained steady at 1.9 and WHAT gained slightly to 2.1 over last times' share of 2.0.

In contrast, A/C audiences were generally down as WMGK registered 7.2, a .4 loss from last time. WPEN lost the same amount, posting 4.0, and WCAU-FM, the "Hot Hits" station in town (see separate story), captured a 6.3 share, a .1 decline from the Spring Book.

While AOR stations in other Eastern seaboard cities gained listeners, such was not the case with the Washington D.C. rockers. WWDC, for example, plummeted to 3.1 from 4.8. WAVA also lost .1 share, registering 3.9 this time around. But, progressive rocker WHFS gained slightly, posting a 1.4 over last time's 1.3.

B/C Up In D.C.

Nevertheless, B/C continued its climb as WKYS captured a whopping 10.2 share over 8.4 in the Spring Book, and captured the #1 overall spot in the process. WHUR also fared well, as its 7.4 share was half a point greater than its Spring Book figure. WOOK also rose to 4.2 from 3.9.

B/C figures for Cleveland, however, were not as strong. While WDMT captured a 6.7 share over its Spring Book high of 5.9, WABQ dropped from 3.2 to 2.8 during the same period. WJMO also lost .1 share, posting a 2.6 this time. But WZAK rose to 4.4 from 2.8. AOR king WMMS retained its title as market leader, rising to 9.6 from 8.2 in the Spring Book.

The Motor City, on the other hand, showed a mixed AOR book this time around, with the general trend pointing downwards. While WABX rose to 4.0 from 3.4. WLLZ plunged to 4.7 from a Spring Book share of 6.1. WRIF also fell to 5.6 from 6.3. But black radio numbers were mixed, as urban outlet WDRQ skyrocketed to 6.6 from 3.0, thanks partly to Arbitron differential survey treatment. Commercial jazz outlet WJZZ also rose to 2.7 from 2.4 last time, while WJLB fell slightly to 3.5 from 3.8. But WCPR fell from 4.9 to 3.0 during the same period. And Tiger game broadcasts may have helped market leading news/talk outlet WJR-AM rise to 11.2 from 10.8.

Down Houston way, AOR fared decently this summer, as KLOL upped its share from 6.5 to 6.9 and KRBE to 5.6 from 5.2, although KSRR dropped .1, capturing a 3.4. Black stations posted mixed readings, as KMJQ fell to 8.6 from 9.1. Its share may have been taken by urban contemporary station KRLY, which jumped up to 7.0 from 6.5.

In San Francisco, AOR station KRQR overtook the format leadership from KMEL, registering a 3.7 share over its 3.3 during the Spring Book. Simultaneously, KMEL did exactly the opposite, registering a 3.3 this time around. San Jose station KSJO, rated in the San Francisco market, gained slightly, posting a 2.9 share over 2.8 in the Spring Book.

B/C stations also registered mixed readings as KDIS rose to 3.2 from 2.7, but KSOL fell to 4.2 from 4.8. Interestingly enough, A/C station KNBR gained .7 from last Spring's 3.5. Probable cause could be Giants baseball broadcasts. In addition, talk outlet KGO maintained its market leadership, although its share fell to 7.2 from 8.6.

All figures quoted here represent average quarter hour shares 12+ in metropolitan areas, Monday-Sunday 6 a.m. to midnight, June 24-Sept. 1.

Classical Music Assn. Names Board

NEW YORK — The newly formed Assn. for Classical Music, a non-profit corporation devoted to the art form, elected its interim board of directors last week.

Initial board members include conductor Gerard Schwartz, composer John Corigliano, National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences (NARAS) New York chapter president Ray Moore, publicist Margaret Carson and Martin Bookspan, coordinator, symphonic and concert activities, at the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP).

Other members elected are musicologist and attorney Teri Noel Towe, WNCN/New York general manager Matt Biberfeld, musicologist Schuyler Chapin, artist representative Jack Roman, record retailer Stuart Schwartz and radio personality Leonard Marcus.

Membership in the association is $25 per year for individuals and $250 a year for corporations. All inquiries should be addressed to the Assn. for Classical Music, 128 Central Pk. South, Suite 5D, New York, N.Y. 10019. The telephone number is (212) 581-2440.

The Who

BIRMINGHAM, England — As a warm-up to an imminent U.S. tour, The Who played two nights at Birmingham's National Exhibition Centre Arena last weekend. The high-tech ambience of the 30,000-capacity-filled American style venue served as an ideal setting for the warm-up.

The audience ranged from 12-40 years old and gave the band a resounding welcome as it opened up the set with a tight blast of its '60s song, "Substitute." Despite sound difficulties that caused some feedback distortion occasionally and hindered certain pieces during the set, it was obvious from the start that each member of the band is in fighting-fit form, especially Pete Townshend and Roger Daltrey.

Denim-clad Daltrey, with his short cropped blonded hair and his swashbuckling mannerisms, maintained an inspiring pace. His vigorous vocal delivery was well coordinated with his on-the-spot athletic training session — running, kicking and bending his way through the songs. Daltrey's well-known microphone antics of shot-putting, swinging, throwing and retrieving appeared to be as fresh and exciting as ever to the audience, which responded well to new pieces from the latest Who album, "It's Hard." "Eminence Front" an untypical Who song from the new LP that opens with a rhythm box and synthesizer was effective in whipping up audience enthusiasm as was the title track.

Townshend's voice was also in great shape, while his flawless guitar style and the intense manic relationship he has with his instrument still keeps him well-entrenched in the rock guitar leadership stakes. His occasional Chuck Berry bops and his own perfectly timed leaps and jumps maintained audience excitement and kept the very special relationship The Who has with its fans red hot.

Despite initial sound problems, one high spot that had Who magic flowing was the rendition of "Rain On Me" from the "Quadrophenia" LP. The lovely dramatic angst Daltrey is able to create between his gutsy vocal aggression and the soft vocal melancholy he evokes, held the audience spellbound, as it also did during "Face Dances," the title track from the group's last album.

John Entwistle and Kenny Barker were not messing around either and despite successful solo projects, The Who continues to maintain the special strength of unity on stage that has steered it to the heights.

Anne Murray

GREEK THEATRE, L.A. — It is entirely possible that the Country Music Assn. just had too great a choice of artists to nominate this year for its annual awards. And certainly miffed about its nominations is an artist whose last four singles from a gold album all went Top 20 on the Cash Box chart.

In an interview prior to her opening performance of her two-night engagement at the Greek, Anne Murray expressed disappointment over exclusion from the nominations, but is still grateful for the continued support from her fans and radio that make her one of today's consistent and versatile performers.

With a set reminiscent of Las Vegas, complete with back-up singers, an orchestra consisting of a string and brass sections that supported her own band and effective lighting with live plants dotting a tiered stage, Murray emerged upstage beaming and swept down stairs bedecked in a dark, sequined gown. Swiftly moving center stage amidst the roar of applause, she warmly began her show with her former #1 country hit "Shadows In The Moonlight."

The Canadian songstress had earlier said that she likes her audiences to get to know her and take part of her with them when they go. Well, Murray certainly left part of her larger-than-life heart with the sold-out crowd that night.

Stopping at times to relate personal experiences and background on certain hits, Murray kept her fans smiling with "Another Sleepless Night," the Grammy Award-winning "Love Song," "Danny's Song" and her current hit "Hey! Baby!" among others.

Most effective were her expressive gestures and the lighting when she sang the Paul Anka-penned "Change," the moving "Somebody's Always Saying Goodbye" (one of her favorites from her new LP) and the magic, literally, when she "changed" a kerchief to a cane as she dazzled the crowd with "Everything Old is New Again."

Changing outfits during intermission, Murray began the final part of the show with an energetic version of "What About Me." The melodic "Broken-Hearted Me" came next, followed by "Daydream Believer," "Walk Right Back" and the ever-popular "Snowbird" and "Could I Have This Dance?"

Al Kooper

THE BOTTOM LINE, N.Y.C. — Al Kooper's second of two nights at the Bottom Line was marred somewhat when the stripper who surprised the band and house by coming onstage and baring all during an instrumental on the first night turned out to be just another one night stand. It was probably just as well for Kooper, though — his folks were in the audience.

Visuals aside, the underappreciated legend was more than satisfying in front of his first band in a year or so. Besides accompanying Bob Dylan on tour last fall, Kooper used his free time cutting "Championship Wrestling," his first album in six years, from which two songs in the set emerged. Other tunes went back to his '70s solo output, though "I Can't Keep From Crying Sometimes" harked back to his '60s Blues Project period. All songs were expertly arranged, as to be expected, and played by very accomplished players, also to be expected. His fine five-piece band, by the way, was happened upon by Kooper at the tiny uptown club J.P.'s.

The first part of the set found the leader doing songs at the piano, singing in his plain but pleasing laid-back style. But on "Albert's Shuffle," which he recorded in 1975, Kooper strapped on the guitar and picked out slow blues leads until the rest of his band's soloists — lead guitarist Larry DuBarry, keyboardist King Louis and saxman Greg George — took their turns. The quality of the solos broke up the lengthy instrumental, especially a duel between Kooper and DuBarry following the former's stroll halfway out into the room to make his stand.

Then it was back to the piano and an eclectic mix of material. Best were a hard rocking "Out On The Avenue," a dynamically controlled version of Dylan's "Tears of Rage," which was shaped by a sudden rhythm shift each time the chorus came around, and a swirling Ray Charles encore tune, "No Use Crying," which he offered after winningly shrugging off requests for "Season Of The Witch."

Traditional Blues, Folk Labels Aggressively Adding Reggae

by Fred Goodman

NEW YORK — Citing a relatively untapped market and their knowledge of specialty record sales, several established, independent labels are switching their focus to reggae. Over the last year, Alligator and Nighthawk, both deep catalog blues labels, and Shanachie Records, a traditional Irish folk label, have expanded and redirected their catalogs to include the popular West Indian music. Additionally, Heartbeat Records, a Boston-based label closely aligned with the folk and ethnic-oriented Rounder Records, has bowed as a reggae-only label. And while the newcomers presently characterize the reggae market as small, they report that their reggae sales already outstrip those of their original lines.

"We're still talking limited potential," says Heartbeat's Duncan Browne, who is also general manager for Rounder. "But on our level, which is comparatively small, we realized it was hot. More so than blues, for instance."

A similar market assessment was offered by Richard Nevins, president of Shanachie Records, who characterized good numbers for an independent reggae album at "around 20,000." But Nevins added that an independent label like Shanachie could easily live with those figures if it budgeted accordingly. "I don't think the reggae market will grow in leaps and bounds," says Nevins, "but the growth will continue. There's a committed following for reggae."

Already Hot

For some, the payoff has already arrived. On the verge of releasing only their fifth reggae album, Nighthawk Records' Robert Schoenfeld reports that reggae titles on the label already outsell Nighthawk blues titles by four-to-one.

But aside from the healthier numbers, the specialty labels were willing to tackle the reggae market because they felt they had already developed relevant marketing skills in similar or parallel markets.

"Chicago has become quite a reggae center," says Bruce Iglauer, president of that city's Alligator Records. "When I go out, I see a lot of the same faces at blues and reggae concerts. Alligator has always been a black roots label, and it seemed like a logical extension." In terms of marketing and sales, Iglauer added that the targeted white record buyer for reggae is frequently "very similar to the one who buys blues records." He characterized the West Indian buyers in the United States as much more diversified.

Like Iglauer, Nighthawk's Schoenfeld sees an affinity between blues and reggae, although he bases his assessment more strongly on the music. "It may already be a little cliché to say this," offers Schoenfeld, "but as far as I'm concerned, reggae is the blues of the future."

For Shanachie, whose initial and continuing line in Irish and English folk music has less in common with reggae than the blues do, the move into reggae was almost happenstance.

Started With Imports

"We were importing a lot of records from England and Ireland," recalls Nevins, "and we noticed that one of our suppliers there had a lot of reggae labels. So we asked our distributors here if they wanted any of those labels. As it turned out, they had been looking for quite a few of them but had been unable to find them. So we started importing reggae records, and that was how we got our education. Eventually, people started coming around and asking us to put out their records."

Along with recording and releasing their own albums, Shanachie has become the North American agent for the Jamaican Greensleeves catalog and also handles the Message label.

Despite the kinship between the reggae market and the original specialty markets in which the labels worked, the newcomers are noting some dissimilarities, particularly as it concerns the differences between the white record market and the transplanted West Indian market.

"Our targeted buyer is not the same with each release we put out," says Heartbeat's Browne. Adding that the label's first three releases had been available before as imports, Browne said those releases had been "geared towards the white middle class mainstream. We wanted to get them into places like Sam Goody's. The Jamaican and Third World buyers in the States already had them." Heartbeat's next two releases, an album by Burning Spear and a DJ compilation, are expected to have a broader appeal. "Obviously, anybody would try to hit as many markets as possible," adds Browne. "We feel the Burning Spear can get into every account, but 'DJ Explosion' is a little bit weirder and will probably do a bit more in the hard core market."

The split market for reggae is seen by manufacturers as comprised mainly of middle class white listeners on one end and West Indians living in the U.S. on the other. Because of the split, all labels surveyed said they employ two distribution networks.

"We sell Heartbeat to all regular Rounder accounts," says Brown, "plus 10 or so that only buy Heartbeat." Among the reggae-only distributors that Browne and others mentioned were the New York-based Chin Randy, Charlie's, VIP and Gee's. "It's probably premature to try and predict where our new records will do well," added Browne. "Every record is a different story. It's been a surprise to see how divided the market is among the West Indians." In support of this, Browne cited sluggish sales in that market for Heartbeat's "Dread Beat An' Blood" by Linton Kwesi Johnson, which he said West Indian distributors found "too English."

Split Market

Owing in part to this splintering, all the labels surveyed reported that the bulk of their sales at present come from the mainstream market where reggae is viewed as another ethnic folk music, similar to the ones they previously sold. But sales have been encouraging enough for each to make long range plans for future reggae releases, while still attempting to cement their new identities.

"One of the reasons for our new double release is to show the American market that we're serious about reggae," says Alligator's Iglauer of the just-issued "Forward" by The Abyssinians and "Youthman Penitentiary" by Edi Fitzroy. He added that the label will be seeking stronger ties with Jamaican producers. "With reggae, the producers are in many respects the key to the music," he says.

While Nighthawk's Schoenfeld takes a different tack with the label, preferring to produce the sessions himself, he also sees a long future for reggae on Nighthawk. "We have an agreement with The Itals for the next five years," he says, "and we also have an agreement with The Gladiators." Both of those groups, along with Culture, Wailing Soul and The Mighty Diamonds, will be featured on the next Nighthawk release, a collection entitled "Calling Rastafari." Schoenfeld adds that the label will soon enlarge its 12" line and plans to expand into Jamaica within the next year.

Similarly, Shanachie has inked both Rita Marley and Judy Mowatt to four-album

COAST TO COAST

EAST COASTINGS — The Federal government has chipped in $1.5 million to help renovate Harlem's famed Apollo Theater. Upon completion, the Theater will be used to tape programs for Percy Sutton's urban contemporary cable company . . . Fred Seaman, a former aide for John Lennon and Yoko Ono, was arrested in New York last week and charged with stealing memorabilia from Lennon's apartment . . . Gramavision Records has bowed its own studio, primarily for mixing and overdubbing. In addition to label projects, the studio is available for outside projects . . . Cachalot Records has inked Personal Effects from Rochester. An EP is expected before Christmas . . . Down in Atlanta, Robox Records has signed Norman Nardini & The Tigers, whose debut LP on Sutra last year managed to stir some excitement in the heartland. And Hib-

BROADWAY JOE — Island recording artist Joe Cocker recently performed at New York's Ritz in support of his label debut, "Sheffield Steel." Joining Cocker for a bit of post-performance bubbly are group vocalists Linda Lawrence (c) and Maxine Green.

Tone records, whose past releases have included titles by R.E.M. and The Throbs, has collaborated with publisher Bill Lowery on the joint release of local talent R.F. & The Radar Angeles first LP, "Pictures Of Linda" . . . An encouraging word: sources at CBS tell us that L.A.'s Music Plus chain went through 6,000 copies of Bruce Springsteen's "Nebraska" in its first day of release . . . Congrats to Steve and Debbie Allen on the recent birth of their son, Mathew Joseph. Pop's with Buddy Allen Management . . . New York has been blessed these past few weeks with Little Shop Of Horrors, a tongue-in-cheek look at the dark side of the '50s. Based on the Roger Corman B-movie of the same title, the musical relies heavily on an accurate recreation of the Crystals/Ronettes girl group sound. "We did some affectionate listening for our research and tried to keep our own style," composer Alan Menken recently told us. Menken and director/lyricist/author Howard Ashman have previously combined on such projects as God Bless You, Mr. Rosewater, but both are particularly pleased with the response to their comedic tale of a voracious, man-eating plant that conquers the world. "There's definite talk of a London and an L.A. company," said Menken, "and hopefully it will be produced for years to come. We had considered moving the show uptown, but in many ways it really belongs downtown in this little punky space." By-the-by, the cast album will be released next month on Geffen Records, and was produced by Phil Ramone, engineer for many of these original Phil Spector sides the show owes so much to . . . Special thanks to Rounder recording artist Marshall Chapman for dropping by the East Coastings citadel while in town to play The Other End. We had a swell time with the Carolina native, leafing through back issues of official beach music bible, It Will Stand, and talking about her days as a shagger. "I grew up listening to beach music," recalled Chapman, "but I didn't know what I was listening to, just that it was music for shag dancing." However, Chapman recently re-examined the music during a recording hiatus. "I took two years off because I wasn't having any fun," she said. "I just spent most of that time listening to the music I loved — mostly beach music and people like Tony Joe White and J.J. Cale."

POINTS WEST — An upcoming Atlantic Deluxe package spotlights two classic albums from keyboard artist Phillip Glass, "Einstein On The Beach" and "Dance" . . . A five-song EP by Los Angeles' "other" girl group, The Bangs, is due this month on Faulty Products. Songs titles include "Real World," and "How Is The Air" . . . The Toasters are putting the finishing touches on its new record, with RCA's Ron Fair assisting . . . Ruby Records signed Dream Syndicate, an avant-garde group that uses a wall of feedback effect in its tunes, and an LP called "Days Of Wine and Roses" should appear in stores soon . . . Pompell 99 plans a "ritual release party" for its latest single on the Nostradamus indie, "Ignorance Is In Control," b/w two ditties from the band's self-titled long player, "Love Me For My Mind" and "The Nothing Song" . . . One Step Ahead, a newsletter re Australian and New Zealand music, just published its third issue, containing a Q&A with Men At Work's Colin Hay and Greg Ham, and a rundown on the antipodean artrock genre — for more info, write 6038 Reseda Blvd., Tarzana, Calif. 91365 . . . Kirk Nurock's latest album, "Natural Sound" offers a collection of aural resonances like grunts, chortles, sighs, growls, squeaks, groans and jazz-tinged scat . . . Bad Religion, Flesh-eaters, Adolescents, Channel 3, Red Kross and Minutemen, luminaries of L.A.'s hard-core thrash anti-movement, all have cuts on the Invasion/Thunderbolt platter, "American Youth Report Part One — Los Angeles" . . . Peter Gabriel has pledged the profits from "Wallflower," a track off his latest LP, to Amnesty International . . . Michael Stanley recently stopped in town, and we got a chance to talk with him about two of his favorite subjects: music and baseball. Seems the Ohio rocker is really up on the career of Joe Charboneau, formerly a punk outfielder for the Cleveland Indians . . . A Santa Monica combo called Joyride just jammed at Hop Singh's in Marina Del Rey with its Doobieish brand of pop 'n' roll . . . A new waxing by Meat Puppets on SST Records is distinguished by the vocal work of Curt & Cris Kirkwood . . . An outstanding surf music anthology on Rhino Records is divided up into four LPs: original instrumental hits 1961-1963 (Dick Dale's "Surf Beat," The Lively Ones' "Goofy Foot," The Pyramids' "Penetration"), original vocal hits 1961-1964 (The Beach Boys' "Surfer Girl," Jan & Dean's "Surf City," The Surfaris' "Surfer Joe"), the revival of 1980-1982 (The Surf Punks' "Hot Sand-Cold Feet," Jon & The Nightriders' "Suicide Bay," The Malibooz' "Hot Summer Nights") and a disc with the best of The Challengers. Cowabunga!

LAST WHISKY WALTZ — Tom Petty (l) joined bassist David Paho and the other members of newly-signed Geffen group The Plimsouls, as well as Heartbreakers keyboardist Benmont Tench, for some rousing oldies on the last live music night of L.A.'s famed Whisky.

president of marketing Bill Gallagher. "What we've done at MGM/UA is to group the titles we feel would make the best gifts, such as the Wizard of Oz, in a color brochure that would catch the consumer's eye."

Likewise, MCA Videocassette is shipping what a company spokesman called a "Christmas-themed" poster, tying gift titles together. As with many other software firms, MCA's fall mix features a range of general interest programming from cartoons/animation (Woody Woodpecker and Friends, Best of Marvel Comics), adventure/fantasy (The Sword & The Sorcerer) and contemporary box-office hits (Dead Men Don't Wear Plaid), with promotions and/or special merchandising aids to accompany each. MCA will also be releasing two instructional titles in the popular home fitness genre, Aerobic Dancing and Jazzercise, also with POP aids.

Walt Disney, as was previously reported, has come up with an all-new holiday promotion for its revamped A Walt Disney Christmas cartoon collection, featuring a plush doll giveaway and large scale floor display (Cash Box, Aug. 21). Although the package is the most important element in what is unquestionably the biggest sales season of the year for Disney, it is by no means the only release that will receive marketing attention. The company is re-releasing Mary Poppins, in stereo, and Alice in Wonderland, previously available in June 1981 as a rental-only title. Disney will also ship Babes in Toyland; Snowball Express; Fun and Fancy Free, a cartoon compilation featuring Mickey and the Beanstalk and Bongo; and Disney's Storybook Classics collection, including Little Toot, Chicken Little, Grasshopper and the Ants and Peter and the Wolf.

Vestron Video is "on the verge of announcing a major promotion involving (the family film title) Benji," said Vestron president Jon Peisinger recently. In addition to Benji, Vestron will be placing "special emphasis," in terms of marketing, on the release of the John Ford classic, Stagecoach, starring John Wayne, "due to the nature of the products and the time of year, which is geared towards family fare," added Peisinger.

Music titles are near the head of the list of releases which both Thorn EMI Home Video and Embassy Home Entertainment will be concentrating on during the fall and early winter. According to Embassy president Andre Blay, the company is "making a major commitment" to marketing Elton John: Visions and Rod Stewart: Tonight He's Yours, along with Escape From New York. Blay noted that that support involves trade advertising, which has already begun, and consumer print. In addition to the John and Stewart titles, Blay indicated that the company will also be embarking on a November-December print campaign tying in its three upcoming youth market releases, Summer Lovers, Zapped! and Paradise.

Original programs from Billy Squier and Ashford & Simpson, in addition to The Who's The Kids Are Alright are among a mammoth fall release from Thorn EMI, according to president Nicholas Santrizos. "We're going to introduce 25 titles in October alone," said Santrizos, "with 40 more following, including The Long Good Friday, Evil Under the Sun and a number of films starring Peter Sellers and Alec Guinness, such as The Lavender Hill Mob."

Supporting the Thorn release will be "a consumer promotion keyed to a trip for two to the Cannes Film Festival as first prize," noted Santrizos. "We're trying to apply as many consumer marketing techniques as possible to our releases."

Dealers will no doubt be inundated with some of the most elaborate POP displays ever this season, such as the Columbia-RCA joint home video venture's motorized stand-up featuring Cheech & Chong's Nice Dreams. However, Independents such as Nostalgia Merchant and Media, although utilizing the usual array of In-store aids items, are also using preview clips to cross-merchandise titles in their respective catalogs.

Nostalgia, along with supplying fold-out brochures and 16" x 20" posters with its releases Cross of Iron, Night of the Juggler, The Amazing Dobermans and The Uncanny, is providing (to its distributors for dealer use) 15-minute promotional tapes featuring clips from the movie. Taking the idea one step further, Media is adding trailers, approximately 9 minutes in length, to various new titles that will feature clips from other Media product, related by subject or genre. And NFL Films Video is making available, free to dealers, 1,000 30-minute videotapes containing highlights from its catalog (Cash Box, Sept. 18).

Advertising, of course, was continually mentioned as a major part of the overall marketing support for the holiday season, with print generally regarded as the prime media to be used. Studios, such as MGM/UA and the Columbia-RCA joint home video venture, stressed the fact that they offer co-op advertising programs through distributors for local newspaper ads.

However, the RCA/Columbia venture's vice president of marketing, Robin Montgomery, pointed out that, in their case, those efforts will be augmented during the season by advertising in the city books — such as New York Magazine, California and the Washingtonian — in the Top 10 ADI markets and in what she called the "video buff books." Both schedules will run through January.

"If you buy nationally right now, I think, you're throwing your ad dollars to the wind," said Montgomery. "With the regional books, you have a much tighter demographic target... We also feel strongly about running consumer advertising in January because that's when people who received VCRs and videodisc players for Christmas start buying hardware."

RCA SelectaVision is not only supporting its James Bond, horror film and comedy title promotions with continuing national print advertising (which started in August, according to director of marketing Howard Ballon) but also airing 30-second network TV spots beginning this month that detail national consumer electronics group player promotions. "It's all part of an interlocking effort," said RCA's Ballon, "cross-promoting software and hardware."

WHAT'S IN-STORE

PUSHING PIL — Bruce Kirkland, general manager of Stiff America, is hoping to set up a nationwide "retail network" of record stores to handle sales of T-shirts at concert venues where Public Image Ltd. and other Stiff America acts perform. "We give them a percentage and exclusive access to the venue, and they give us up-front promotion in-store for the concert date and recorded product," explains Kirkland, envisioning a situation where retailers tag themselves "the concert store" or "the concert chain" in the manner that a radio station with similar exclusivity refers to itself as "the concert station." Noting that "the concert station" in a particular locality is usually the FM station most highly regarded by the concert clientele, Kirkland suggests that an equally fine reputation could be fostered by retailers. Subsequently, the label will circulate an offer to determine which stores and chains are most excited about joining the network, though Kirkland adds that close relationships with stores in some areas have already been established. The current Public Image tour, which involves a dozen or so irregularly scheduled dates throughout the country, will permit a "phasing in" of the network. In addition, Stiff America is preparing to shrinkwrap its T-shirt line as a means of gaining wider distribution, particularly through retail chains. "We've recently seen retailers diversify in product lines," says Kirkland, "so the time is right. To facilitate this process, we will shrinkwrap the shirts around 12" x 12" cardboard so that they are the same size as albums and can be racked as such." So far Stiff offers its generic line of company shirts with the wry slogans, shirts fronting their bands and various others. Kirkland says that the company is also dealing in T-shirts by Sportmaster, a U.K. company that specializes in "large screen shirts" that utilize a "full image" covering the shirt front.

ELVIS DOLLS AND WHO DISCS — St. Martin's Press has a pair of new rock-related books that might be especially suited for record retailing. Elvis: The Paper Doll Book is a 32-page full-color novelty book published last month. Created by Al Kilgore and Jim Fitzgerald, co-authors of the hugely successful First Family Paper Doll And Cut-Out Book, the book traces the King's career and clothes in over 30 outfits ranging from his rockabilly roots to superstar status, including attire worn in specific films and phases. St. Martin's publicist Lloyd Jassin says that First Family sold some 300,000 copies unofficially and that 90,000 of the new Elvis book had moved since its release in late July. Jassin also reports that The Who: Maximum R&B includes a two-song flexidisc, containing the original demo of "My Generation" and an also unreleased demo of "Pinball Wizard." The book shipped last week on a fully returnable basis to record retailers, and a 40-copy floor display highlighting the flexidisc has been created especially for record retailers. Jassin says the book will be heavily promoted, with MTV giveaways and a full-page ad in the Who's tour program included in the effort so far. Incidentally, the Elvis cut-out book is also available in a 40-copy floor display, as well as a 10-copy prepack display.

ACCESSORY FAIR — City One Stop in Los Angeles is holding an "accessory fair" for its accounts on Oct. 22, when 27 vendors of blank tape, video games, cassette cases, and other items will show off their wares and meet merchants. "We want to get our customers in here to show that accessories mean profits for the holidays," says manager Sam Ginsburg, who expects 300-400 guests from as far off as Arizona, Oregon and Washington. The company has been particularly active this year in rounding up accounts and getting them pumped up, having previously held a video fair and Black Music Day celebration, the latter event drawing 450 people. Ginsburg adds that a PolyGram luncheon was held last Friday to introduce the label's new R&B releases, and that Tierra was scheduled to drop by last Friday. Says Ginsburg, "It's easy for someone to sit back and say, 'Business is lousy,' but what are you doing about it? We're positive about the state of the business and aren't complaining like so many others you read about. Our accessory fair has the vendors and customers excited and has accomplished a lot of good will." Incidentally, accessories manufacturers will not be the only vendors present. Ginsburg promises plenty of hot dog push carts and distributors of popcorn and other edibles.

Display Contest Part of 3-Phase Yes, Giorgio Plan

LOS ANGELES — PolyGram, through its PolyGram Classics division, is presently in the midst of the second phase of a three-phase marketing program centering on the original soundtrack to the MGM/UA motion picture Yes, Giorgio starring Luciano Pavarotti. A single from the all-digital London recording entitled "If We Were In Love," has just been released and serviced to classical and branch managers, employees, radio stations and press as part of the overall marketing effort.

The first phase of the campaign covered the period from the initial shipping date of the LP through the premiere of the movie in New York, San Francisco and L.A. Sept. 24. During that time, Pavarotti made a number of appearances, including performances at the Hollywood Bowl Sept. 10; the Presidential Premiere in Washington, D.C. Sept. 19; and the Metropolitan Opera opening in N.Y. Sept. 20. Pavarotti also made a number of personal appearances, including a stop at Tower Records in Los Angeles.

Phase two covers the period from Sept. 24 through the October rollout of the movie in most major U.S. markets. Lists of all venues and openings will be updated as information is supplied by MGM/UA. The third phase will cover the opening of Yes, Giorgio in secondary markets, and throughout the remainder of the fall sales period and Christmas season, with the final stages incorporating piggyback marketing of "O Holy Night."

A wide range of media will be utilized to promote and advertise the Yes, Giorgio LP. Ad mats, ad aid mats, black & white and color minis will be furnished to retailers. A 30-second radio spot has been designed for pop formats, while a 60-second spot is presently being aired on classical stations. TV will be used during phase three, the nationwide break, with buys for a 30-second spot incorporating footage from the film. A five-minute video clip from the movie is also being made available for branch sales meetings and special promotions.

An extensive press kit is being supplied to all key media representatives, who, along with branch personnel and retailers, have been invited to screenings of the film in major cities throughout the country. A variety of merchandising aids from both PolyGram and MGM/UA is available in coordination with the release of the movie in each market during the campaign's three phases. London (PolyGram) materials include Yes, Giorgio posters, trim fronts streamers and LP shipping cartons, which open to become self-contained display units. MGM/UA aids include Yes, Giorgio one-sheets, 8"x10" and 11"x14" color stills from the film and 14"x36" and 22"x28" Yes, Giorgio lobby display cards.

According to John Harper, vice president of sales and marketing for PolyGram Classics, the marketing program's in-store merchandising campaign is centered around a Yes, Giorgio display contest, which began Sept. 1 and continues to the end of the year.

"Actually, what is happening is that many contests are going on simultaneously in different cities, under one big contest based on an incentive system of earned points, which can be redeemed for prizes at any time until the end of the contest," said Harper.

Under the contest structure, 1,000 points are awarded for each display per store, with an additional 1,000 points for Yes, Giorgio counter-top box displays at point-of-purchase locations. Another 2,000 points are awarded for displays in a pre-eminent store location, such as a window, and 2,000 points are given for each display that is cross-merchandised at local movie theater locations. Between 1,000 and 5,000 points are awarded for the creativity of each display and bonus points are being added throughout the contest to encourage further participation.

Up to 7,000 points per store can be accumulated, according to Harper, and each participant must submit pictures from at least 10 separate accounts, marked with the name and address of the account, name of the participant and the date of the display. The prize for 25,000 points accumulated is a Kodak "Disc" camera or designer flip phone; for 35,000 points, a Seiko "Pulse Beat" jogger's watch or Canon "Sure-Shot" camera; for 50,000 points, an automatic Pentax SLR camera or telephone answering machine with remote portable telephone; for 75,000 points, a portable color TV or Commodore home computer for JVC mini-component stereo system. Grand prize, for 100,000 points will be announced Oct. 1.

Poor Sound Mars Monterey Festival's Silver Anniversary

by Michael Martinez

MONTEREY — Northern California's annual celebration known as the Monterey Jazz Festival reached a milestone this year when the 25th such gathering was staged. The event appeared to satisfy many who attended despite sound problems and a relative shortage of engaging new talent.

The more than 7,000 people that assembled over the three day Silver Celebration at the Monterey Fairgrounds heard five shows featuring a thin spread of music talent, that was also incessantly plagued by a deficient audio system.

During lulls in the music action, it was not uncommon for the audience to seek other diversions outside the fairground arena. It was easy to find peripheral amusements, as this year, perhaps more than before, the festival was heavily merchandised. Vendors offered everything from Silver Anniversary Monterey Jazz Festival belt buckles and T-shirts to commemorative programs and seat cushions.

While people shopped for the commemorative item, it was also not uncommon to see walkmans or blasters in tow as live radio broadcasts of the music offered better sound than the arena system.

Chance To Party

In the truest sense, the Monterey Jazz Festival has evolved into more of an annual fete than a substantive serving of jazz, as the music is becoming less of the reason that many attend. Although sets led by hornman Dizzy Gillespie, pianist Dave Brubeck (Friday night), Ira Sullivan with Red Rodney and Joe Williams (Sunday night) offered the most inspired jazz over the weekend, the excitement barely lingered.

For those coming to the crisp, sunny weather of the Monterey Peninsula to hear good jazz they would not leave unsatisfied; and there was also evidence that the traditional, mainstream line-up that comprises the festival each year would stretch the Monterey mold with fresh energy.

The clearest manifestation of new energy from an established source was through the set delivered by Dizzy Gillespie's Quartet with guest pianist Bobby Enriquez. Gillespie's set hit a peak during his updated, uptempo rendering of "Night In Tunisia," where guitarist Ed Cherry and bassist Michael Howell played with sharply honed sass. Enriquez almost spoiled the set during particularly percussive pyrotechnic playing on the tune "Tanga." But the discipline that Gillespie drills into his players through rehearsal overcame the pianist's disparate spirit.

Latin Jazz Energy

The Cal Tjader Sextet, with John Rae and Tito Puente sitting in on vibes for the late Tjader, offered the energy that was largely missing from much of the other music Friday, which included a set by Ernestine Anderson with the Monterey Jazz All Stars, Bobby Brookmeyer joining Mel Lewis and the Jazz Orchestra and the Dave Brubeck Quartet.

As usual, Saturday afternoon's blues matinee was a thorough throw down highlighted by a colorful parade of costumed characters and rock steady blues/funk from artists like Eddie "Cleanhead" Vinson, Lloyd Glenn, Pee Wee Crayton and Percy Mayfield with Mark Naftalin and his Rhythm and Blues Revue.

But it was Albert Collins and the Icebreakers who stood out during this open air blues jamboree. The spirited guitarist/vocalist rocked the fairgrounds with a controlled flurry of heavy metal blues guitar. Ester Jones brought the house up with her version of "Get Down, Get Loose, Get Funky," performed with Mark Naftalin in his outfit. Etta James was the finale on this sunny afternoon, serving up heaping portions of simmering black pop and blues.

International Language

The Saturday night show centered on the theme "Jazz, The International Language." A group from the Philippines featuring Rita Soriano with the Romy Osadas Quartet, Takashi Ohi and Eiji Kitamura from Japan, Sweden's Arne Domnerus and Putte Wickman and Martial Solal with Christian Escoude from France comprised the evening's roster along with Tito Puente and the Latin Jazz Big Band.

Unbridled exuberance best characterized the Sunday afternoon concert, which featured the now traditional California High School All-Star Jazz Band. Joining the young all stars, who operated under the direction of Dr. Jack Wheaton and Bill Berry, were Martial Solal, Clark Terry, Bob Brookmeyer and two former all stars — Matt Catingub and Patrice Rushen.

Also on the bill was the Dick Grove Jazz Composers Orchestra and the De Anza Vocal Jazz Ensemble.

Sunday night's performances were often marred by uneven audio. Free Flight, led by flautist Jim Walker and pianist Milcho Leviev, plied its brand of jazz/classicism, which did not approach the imaginative scope of other acts of this mold such as Oregon. The quartet was joined by Ron McCroby who played his lips like a piccolo much to the delight of the audience.

Although Joe Williams and Woody Herman and his Thundering Herd provided a crescendo for the evening, it was the quintet led by Ira Sullivan and Red Rodney that played most smoothly, but not without its own tasteful spirit.

While musically there were only sporadic flashes of excitement, the audience made the event a success. It was a party atmosphere and, after all, that's what festivals are all about.

ON JAZZ

RECORDS RECORDS RECORDS — New York-based Muse Records has just hit with its first batch of fall releases, including a real house-rocker in the form of "Eddie 'Cleanhead' Vinson & Roomful of Blues." Other titles in the release are: "In The Pocket" by Charlie Earland with Houston Person, Melvin Sparks and Idris Muhammad; "Good Vibes" by Johnny Lytle, which also features Person, Sparks and Muhammad as well as Neal Creque, Jimmy Lewis and Ralph Dorsey; and "Just The Two Of Us" by Art Hodes and Milt Hinton. . . New from the Prestige re-issue series are: "The Red Norvo Trios" featuring the vibraphonist with bassist Red Mitchell and guitarists Jimmy Raney and Tal Farlow; "After Hours," a repackaging of two sessions led by trumpeter Thad Jones and featuring Frank Wess, Mal Waldron, Teddy Charles, Kenny Burrell, Paul Chambers, Doug Watkins, Art Taylor and Elvin Jones; and "Basie Reunion," '57 and '58 dates featuring Buck Clayton, Freddie Greene, Jo Jones, Walter Page, Paul Quinichette and Jack Washington. . . Columbia has delivered its second album by guitarist James Blood Ulmer. Entitled "Black Rock," the disc is no less eclectic than Ulmer's previous work, but somewhat more commercial, including a couple of vocal duets. A well-balanced album, "Black Rock" should succeed in enlarging Ulmer's following without raising the ire of the faithful. . . Epic has gone into the vaults for "The 1976 Solo Keyboard Album" by George Duke. . . "Words, Sounds, Colors And Shapes" is the most recent offering from trumpeter Donald Byrd & 125th Street N.Y.C. Producer and guest on the disc is the old chocolate chip himself, Isaac Hayes. . . Warner Bros. has hit with "Touchstone," a diverse but balanced project from keyboardist Chick Corea. . . New titles from MCA are "Incognito" by Spyro Gyra and "Touch The Feeling" by Stix Hooper of the Crusaders. . . The Georgia-based Progressive label brings us "Stepping On Cracks" by pianist Walter Norris, featuring drummer Ronnie Bedford and bassist George Mraz, and "Two-Handed Stride" by pianist Judy Carmichael. Backing Carmichael and drummer Harold Jones, bassist Red Callender and Basie alumni Freddie Greene and Marshall Royal. . . Worst news to come down the pike since the gutting of the Blue Note label: Columbia has been quietly weeding its Contemporary Masters series. Casualties include all five volumes of the indispensable "Lester Young Story." However, the label will soon bow new additions to the series, including the two-record "Live At The Plug Nickel" by Miles Davis, a superior mid-'60s recording featuring Wayne Shorter previously available only as a Japanese import. And speaking of Miles, the trumpeter is back in the studio with his regular work band plus Gil Evans. BOBBY'S JUST BLOWIN' — In this age of 24-track, computer mixed albums, the spontaneous quality of music frequently manages to slip between the cracks of the mixing board. But the spirit of discovery and adventure has always been paramount for the success of jazz. That truth was confirmed again for trumpeter Bobby Shew and pianist Bill Mays when they recently turned a few obstacles to their advantage and emerged with the intimate "Telepathy" duo album for Jazz Hounds Records. "It was a complete fluke," said Shew. "We were working on a sextet album, and a couple of guys got gig offers at the last minute and cancelled. Bill and I had done some messing around, and noticed a natural rapport. When the guys cancelled, we got a quick idea and went in with lead sheets and fake books and just started the tape rolling. There were no discussions about the tunes we were going to play — we just called a key and started playing — and did one take of a whole lot of tunes. It was an incredible experience. The engineer was a little baffled and wanted to know if we were going to overdub the tracks. But it later got to the point where he was hollering in tunes that he wanted to hear. We spent about five hours in there and got enough for two more albums." For Shew, the experience reinforced his feeling that he had made the right choice a few years back when he opted to quit the studio scene for meatier fare. "I spent eight years as a studio musician and I just couldn't peak doing Chips and Mork and Mindy," said the trumpeter. "I decided I wanted something more than the money, and it's probably one of the smartest moves I ever made." Aside from recording for Jazz Hounds, Shew spends a good deal of his time on the road, teaching at about 130 clinics a year. Additionally, the trumpeter hosts a prime time jazz show for New Zealand television, where he says there are "some amazing musicians." Somewhere in there, Shew manages to write and lead his own group, and while the schedule is hectic, he maintains that it has its rewards. "I'm really having a ball," he said. "I feel good about my group and about my chops, and it has to do with concentrating on my playing. I feel very focused, and I'm pleased with myself for having made the change after being established with the studios. It wasn't that I wanted to play — I needed to play."

AIRPLAY

OFFSIDES AND HOLDING — The National Football League (NFL) players strike has left some injuries in its wake. One is the CBS Radio Network, which has a multi-million dollar contract to broadcast the games; but it's hanging on, according to Dick Brescia, senior vice president, CBS Radio Networks. "The advisers are spending their money on our inventory like the baseball playoffs, so we really haven't lost that much money," he said. As for filling the slots intended for game broadcasts? "We felt that the local stations could better fill the time than we could," he added. That, of course, leaves nearly 400 stations across the country with loads of time to fill on Sunday afternoons and Monday and Thursday nights and no network feeds other than six minutes per hour of national news. While most of the stations are substituting news and talk shows, San Diego A/C powerhouse KFMB had a different idea. "Last Sunday (Sept. 26), we broadcast a fantasy football game between the Chargers and the L.A. Raiders," KFMB promotion director Joan Hiser told Airplay. "We got NFL announcer Charlie Jones and Tom Bass, the Charger's defensive coach, to announce the game and do color broadcasts of the crowd reaction. The game lasted nearly two hours with a half time break, and the Chargers won." The fictional game script was penned by the two announcers, with assistance from the KFMB news staff. But the concept behind a make-believe sports event is not novel. "It was thought up by Paul Palmer, our general manager, who did the same thing last year during the baseball strike," added Hiser. But when all is said and done, most fans and stations want the games to resume in earnest.

'TO SPREAD LIKE A SUNRAY' — To promote its midlines and jazz catalog, CTI Records has launched a contest in conjunction with sympathetic record retailers and college, National Public Radio (NPR) and the few commercial stations that program jazz. To wit, stations are asked to pay a cut from a CTI record in its $5.98 midline series, and listeners are asked to call the station to identify the track. The first 25 listeners are asked to call the station to identify the track. The first 25 listeners calling in with the correct answer receive a free LP that they can pick up at the participating retailer. "We did this to get our midline product greater radio exposure," said Duke Dubois, CTI national promotion director. "It will make the public more aware of it." So far, the label has run the contest on NPR all-jazz station WBGO/Newark, N.J., with J&R Music World. The label plans further campaigns at commercial outlet WYRS/Stamford, Ct. and at college stations WYBE/New Haven (Yale's station), WUSB/Stony Brook (the State University Center's station) and others. While the promotion is now concentrated in the Mid-Atlantic region, Dubois has ambitious plans for it. "It will spread across the country like a sunray," he told Airplay.

A POLITICAL APPOINTMENT — The National Assn. of Broadcasters (NAB) has once again engaged William B. Ray, a former Federal Communications Commission (FCC) official, to man the group's political hotline between Oct. 1 and election day, Nov. 2. Weekdays, he will answer questions from NAB member stations, as he did during the 1980 election. "The political broadcasting laws, thanks to recent FCC and court decisions, are increasingly difficult to answer," said NAB general counsel Erwin Krasnow. "Unfortunately, common sense often is not a guide to the legally correct answer."

STATION TO STATION — Most radio stations only throw parties at the end of a successful Arbitron ratings sweep. Not so, at AOR station WJQ/Rochester, N.Y. On Thursday, Sept. 23, the first day of the Fall book, program director Tom Hunter decided to fete the station's programming and sales staff. "It was no big deal — we had a couple of bottles of champagne and a big cake with the station's logo and we had a bunch of balloons," Hunter told Airplay. "It was actually my wife's idea, and it was really a celebration for the unity of the station." His wife had previously worked in radio but now works at a local television station. . . Football may be off the airwaves at this moment, but country station WHN/New York has agreed in principle with the Mets to broadcast their games beginning with the 1983 and lasting through the 1985 season. . . Beginning Saturday, Oct. 2, Detroit AOR station WABX and Brass Ring are presenting up and coming acts in the first of its Budget X-posure shows. Hosted by DJ Greg St. James, tickets are going for a mere $2.99. . . Speaking of up and coming acts, AOR outlet WMMR/Philadelphia has announced the five finalists of its Big Shot contest. They include Tommy Anderson, E.B. Hawkins, Memo Lender, The Missiles, and The Zebras. During October, songs penned by these five will air over the station. Listeners will choose the grand prize winner by sending WMMR postcards with the artist or group receiving the chance to cut a single for Elektra/Asylum Records. . . While other stations are running promotions aimed at getting its listeners records, A/C station KIOI/San Francisco is running a sweepstakes whose grand prize, $101,000 paid out over a year, is intended to let its listeners freeload for that time. Other prizes in this "cost of living" contest include rent or mortgage payments for a year, and the opportunity not to worry about food and utility bills for the same period. Last prize is a Club Med vacation.

SYNDICATION INDICATIONS — Narwood Prods., one of the oldest radio syndicators, is celebrating its 25th anniversary this month. Beginning in 1957 with Coke Time, hosted by Eddie Fisher, the company has since produced such programs as Inside Track with Allison Steele and Country Cookin' with Lee Arnold.

NETWORK NEWS — The top three programs attracting the coveted 25-54-year-old audience are local news, time and weather information and national and international news. So says CBS Radio research vice president Sylvia Hughes. But commercial free music blocks and music specials rank a respective fourth and fifth, according to the study released at the CBS Radio Network's affiliates recent confab in Phoenix. Interestingly enough, the study found that audiences don't care which band gives them their information and that women over 25 show a greater preference for music specials than their younger sisters. "I think we're seeing a 'radio keeps me company' reasoning here," stated Hughes.

AOR Likely To Soften Sound Say Program Consultants

by Larry Riggs

NEW YORK — As the post-World War II "baby boom" generation approaches the 35-54 age group, a number of those in the radio industry see the need for a gradual shift in programming emphasis. While some programmers contend that there is still a sufficiently large adolescent group to support such youth-oriented formats as AOR, a number of others feel that with the majority of the population entering the 30+ group, a softening of the programming is necessary.

A $50,000 study on the future of radio, featured at the recent National Assn. of Broadcasters (NAB) Radio Programming Conference (RPC) in New Orleans, suggested that the medium will need to gear its programming increasingly towards the 35-54 demographic group as the population ages and becomes more affluent. "On the basis of this study, it looks as if AOR may turn into an exclusively golden oldies format or may at least have to soften its sound a bit," said Wayne Cornils, NAB radio vice president, at the time.

Still, there are those who disagree. One program consultant staking his format on the teenage listenership is Rick Carroll, former program director at new wave Top 40 station KROQ/Los Angeles. "Our format is geared towards the teenage listener, and this will work in our favor as they get older," says Carroll. "Listener habits are usually established at that time and records like the second Devo album have become legitimate oldies because somebody who first heard it when he was 16 is now 19 but still fits into our 12-24 demographic."

Carroll also believes that time is on the side of his format. "The traditional AOR audience is going to spend less time with the radio as it gets older, while we're likely to keep growing," he explains. As for AOR, Carroll feels that the traditional stations are likely to begin eroding. "I think you'll have one AOR in markets where you now have three, and I think you'll see more of us and WLIR-type stations, and you'll see more SuperStars II stations."

WLIR/Garden City, N.Y., recently adopted a format similar to Carroll's and program director Dennis McNamara does not rule out the possibility of working with Carroll in the future. SuperStars II, primarily an oldies format pioneered by consultant Lee Abrams, has so far signed only KFOG/San Francisco (Cash Box, Sept. 19). SuperStars II, however, is an idea that Abrams has reportedly been trying to sell for some time. It consists of rock songs from the '60s and '70s mixed with selected "new music" songs. "It's for the older, more sophisticated AOR listener who can't stand REO Speedwagon," says Abrams.

In contrast, the Sebastian, Casey & Assoc. AOR consultancy believes that AOR is alive and well. "I would say that we're as bullish on the format as we ever have been," says Dave Gariano, director of client relations. "We have a lot of profitable stations like WMMS in Cleveland, WCOZ in Boston and KLOL in Minneapolis, so it's probably premature to say that AOR is becoming like beautiful music, that is, not keeping up with the tastes of our audience."

Radio is likely to narrowcast to a greater degree than it does now and may have competition from other media, Gariano adds. "I think we'll see a lot more fragmentation and a lot more soft rock competitors. Further down the road, we'll probably see our shares decline because of competition from cable and MTV."

"But," he adds "if we play our cards right, we can expand our base to include part of the soft rock audience." He declines to elaborate on this point, although he has predicted a future softening of the format. "In five years, AOR will probably be a hybrid format with soft rock, but it's really hard to say at this point."

Gariano is not alone in thinking that AORs are going to have to lighten their sounds as times goes on. "I think the future is going to pose a problem for AOR stations that musically put themselves into a corner," says Al Peterson, vice president, programming, at Jeff Pollack Communications, another AOR consulting house. "A softening is happening right now since you have AORs playing Alan Parsons and Kim Carnes. It's hard to predict where the format is going but AORs will probably have to compete with more stations that just AORs. We've all seen the resurgence of CHR." (CHR, a contemporary hit radio, is another name for Top 40.)

Ironically, program consultant Mike Joseph, whose soft Hot Hits format recently helped WBBM-FM/Chicago double its summer Arbitron share from 2.7 to 5.3, discounts Bortz's statistics. "I disagree totally with what he says," says Joseph. "You can't put demographics on a national basis. You have to do it on a market-by-market basis to get the socio-ethnic landscape."

Despite the population statistics, Joseph, like Rick Carroll, says that the teenage audience will continue to be a factor in radio. "Even though there are fewer teenagers today than there were 10 or 15 years ago, there are still more than there were in the 1930s and 1940s, so it's all relative," he says.

It's difficult to judge just how AOR will go, relative to the demographic make up of the audience. On one hand, new music purveyors still believe the adolescent audience is radio's mainstay. At the same time, programmers like Abrams, whose SuperStars II format aims to capture the older, more affluent 35-54 year old audience, thinks that AOR's future lies there. Traditional AOR stations are beginning to soften their sound to compete more with Top 40 stations. In addition, AOR faces competition from cable music channels and, farther on, from direct broadcast satellite (DBS) and other new technologies.

CBS-FM Meeting Examines Future Of Rock On The Radio

by Larry Riggs

NEW YORK — Disagreements over the direction music will take during the 1980s and the on-going issue of radio station/record company relations highlighted the CBS FM national sales seminar held here at the St. Regis Hotel Sept. 29-30. The gathering featured a Wednesday lunchtime speech by Bob Sherwood, vice president, marketing, Columbia Records, and a panel of the four most prominent AOR radio consultants.

The future of rock music was a source of disagreement between Sherwood and the four consultants. "In trying to find out the direction of music from the youth standpoint, the only thing we can look for is the Human League type of sound," said Sherwood. "It sells, so we're going to look for all that we can find, and we're telling our A&R people to pass that information along to the artists that they work with."

On this point, there was partial agreement among the four consultants, Lee Abrams, Bob Hatrik, Jeff Pollock and John Sebastian. "The Human League has no inspiration," said Abrams. "If you take a group like Asia, which sold three million records, they just took what they had each previously done one step further. We probably will see more synthesizers in the '80s, but groups will learn how to use them just as musicians learned how to use the electric guitar after the 1960s."

While Hatrik concurred on the greater prominence of electronic music, Sebastian professed a belief in the tried-and-true. "Something is going to have to happen now that the record companies are in bad financial straits," said Sebastian. "I would think that Asia is more the direction of music instead of the experimental direction."

In the same vein, both Sherwood and the consultants expressed skepticism about the viability of the new music format by Rick Carroll, former program director at KROQ/Los Angeles. "It would be interesting to see if his format takes off in Dallas," said Pollock. "I think it can work in L.A., but Dallas is such a conservative market that if it works there it will probably be able to work anywhere." Hatrik attacked the KROQ demographic target, whose core is the teenage audience. "It's a dangerous thing these days to program to the 16-24 demo," he said.

Quick Burn-Out

Sherwood saw the Carroll phenomenon a little bit differently. "KROQ in Pasadena successfully challenged KLOS and the Mighty Met (KMET), but I think it's going to be a little bit like disco was a few years ago and will burn out quickly," he said. "A lot of the contemporary stations were playing disco every 15 minutes, and there was even a disco station in Denver for a while, although station research would tell you not to do that."

Another issue that concerned the AOR consultants was the lack of good new musical talent. "The new music around now stinks," said Abrams. "Ten or 12 years ago, you had a lot of musicians that were striving to be better than Clapton. You don't have that anymore."

While acknowledging the need for caution, Sherwood expressed a desire to sign newer and developing acts because they do not cost as much as the superstar artists.

But Sherwood also lambasted the radio consultants for making it more difficult for his promotion staff to get airplay on certain newer tracks. "They add another layer to the process," he said. "We've lost a decision maker — the PD who makes a couple of hundred bucks a week. With the consultants, that guy is frightened to put himself on the line for anything."

In the same vein, he also attacked the massive reliance AOR radio has on research. "My problem is that I am hard pressed to believe that 40 people from Dallas would react to a record the same way 40 people from Detroit would," he said. "But that's the problem with testing, and unfortunately, it's a part of the decision-making process."

The consultants, all of whom except Abrams entered the business within the past four years, emphasized the necessity of research for their service and its place in an intensely competitive radio environment. "Our greatest strength is research, and AOR has never been more successful partly because of it," said Sebastian.

"I think you have to balance science with your emotions," said Abrams. "First you go on a record on emotion, and then you use the research to see if your emotion is full of it." Pollock also endorsed the use of research because of the amount of money invested in the success of a radio station. "You don't play around with millions of dollars," he said.

Additionally, Sherwood forecast that Columbia would put greater emphasis on alternative avenues of exposure. "You have a new threat," he told the gathering of radio sales managers. "It's called MTV, and it's a proven record seller. In Boston, which is not wired for MTV, sales of our Loverboy album stayed the same while they went up in all the surrounding communities that have it."

Despite Country's Progress, Acts Still Fail To Draw Rock-Size Attendance

by Tom Roland

NASHVILLE — Although country music is near the crest of the biggest boom in its history, the bulk of its artists are still not the drawing card that their rock counterparts have become. While a number of rock acts are able to command sell-out performances with regularity at auditoriums and pull large numbers of people to outdoor events, only a handful of country performers, such as Willie Nelson, the Oak Ridge Boys, Alabama and Kenny Rogers, are performing similar feats at the box office.

Part of that is a matter of demographic appeal. While country artists have widened the scope of their audience, promoters who deal with both kinds of events note that the older concertgoer is still dominant at most country shows and that those ticket buyers are more selective in the artists they will pay to see. Rock fans, on the other hand, are not only younger and more inclined to spend money on live entertainment, but also more concentrated in their interest in the music and musicians.

Herb Frank, who handles box office and local promotion in shows in the Dane County Coliseum in Madison, Wis., is also the buyer for a number of shows outside the market by Johnny Cash and Charley Pride. He indicated that, at least in Madison, the promoter must be more careful with competition for a country lineup, while rock shows can be staged with more frequency. According to Frank, Madison, a city of 170,000, can feasibly handle three or four rock bills per month if they are staggered a week to 10 days apart, but country acts must be separated by a greater period of time, or the promoter will lose ticket sales.

"Adults who have a Kenny Rogers or a Statler Brothers in the same month are probably going to pick," he said, "but if you have a Styx and Journey in the same month, the kids will go to both of them. There's nothing more important to the kids, and they aren't going to be worried about food bills or rent or utility bills."

Audience Perception Crucial

The audience perception of an artist is also a crucial factor in the relative ability of the act to sell tickets. Frank said that although Ronnie Milsap is well-received by listeners in both country and pop audiences, he is not the draw that Kenny Rogers is because pop radio listeners still perceive Milsap as a country artist singing on pop records, whereas Rogers is an accepted part of the pop medium. "Ronnie Milsap's got a lot of crossover records," Frank maintained, "but pop listeners are not coming to see him as they would a Kenny Rogers. He is just not a crossover artist, but he has fans on both sides of the dial."

Milsap is getting a lot of play off country, and those people will listen to him and like him, but they're not going to buy tickets."

The riders of many country acts who have proven successful at the larger venues, such as Alabama and the Oak Ridge Boys, have become more excessive, but Frank felt that promoters have little room to complain about the rider once they accept the contract. "We have no grounds to complain about the rider after we've signed the contract," he said. "If you say, 'I didn't see the rider when I made the deal,' why did you as a purchaser make the purchase? It's similar to owning a movie theater and paying a very high price for a picture without seeing it, but only knowing who's in it. Most of the riders in the rock end are excessive. Whether they need it all or not is not our decision, it's the fans' decision."

While he admitted that some country acts have been more demanding in the terms of their riders, he also pointed out that longstanding country draws, particularly Cash, Pride and the Statlers, are usually much easier to work with. In addition, he indicated that some pop acts, such as Rick Springfield and Air Supply, had adopted much more frugal riders than the heavy metal units like Van Halen.

Building Process

John Scher, of Monarch Entertainment, the firm that books the Meadowlands in New Jersey, suggested that country has the potential to be a much bigger commodity in the Northeast, especially in the New York-New Jersey area, but that acts like the Oaks, who are filling up halls in the rest of the country, are not willing to go through the building process necessary to make them a profitable act for auditoriums in the region.

"I find most country artists who have broken very big in the rest of the country and command $25-50,000 a night are not worth that kind of money here, and they are not willing to build their careers in the logical, slow manner," he said. "The Oak Ridge Boys are not proven arena ticket sellers here. I've been trying for more than a couple of years to get them to play the right theater-sized venues in New York, New Jersey and upstate New York. Although their management and agencies are cooperative, we've not been able to get together on it."

Scher indicated that it causes a problem when the artist faces both a cut in pay and a smaller production than what the group is usually using. Oftentimes, the act either has to avoid the Northeast or go to "someone who might give them the price they want," but, says Scher, "more often than not, that

Country Results Uneven As Summer Arbitron Figures Begin To Emerge

by Tom Roland

NASHVILLE — As advance numbers from the Summer Arbitron survey begin to surface, the country format appears to have taken an equal number of "ups and downs" in the first 10 metropolitan areas — with such eastern cities as New York and Washington, D.C., showing a marked improvement in overall country figures, but far-western markets as San Diego and Los Angeles taking a significant nosedive in the Arb ratings.

In addition, country also showed gains in Chicago, San Francisco and Cleveland, while it was off slightly in Philadelphia and Houston. In Detroit, any comparative gains or losses were offset by the first full book under a country format for WCXI-FM.

In the Big Apple, total country listening improved from the 4.4 posted in the Spring Book to 4.8 during the summer survey period. AM stronghold WHN remained fairly stable, producing a 2.6 figure in the metro area, off from the 2.7 it garnered in the Spring Book. The FM competitor, WKHK, however, rose to a 2.2 in the ratings. Posting its highest share since abandoning the jazz format two years ago, the station had maintained three consecutive 1.5 scores before moving to a 1.7 in the spring. That move should quiet the last of the jazz holdouts, who still were asking that the station return to its previous format.

WMAQ regained much of the 0.4 it lost between the Winter and Spring books in the nation's hub, scoring a 3.8 after last spring's 3.5. The monster-signalled AM outlet retained the lead in Chicago, besting two FM competitors, WJEZ and WUSN. JEZ held steady in the ratings race, picking up a 2.1 share of Chicagoland, while newcomer USN moved from a 1.6 to an even 2.0, providing a heated battle for country supremacy on the FM band.

Each of the four country stations in Los Angeles proved to be a major disappointment, and three of the four outlets in San Diego lost shares. KZLA-FM/Los Angeles had taken the lead in the city in the Winter Book with an impressive 2.5, but the "soft"-formatted outlet dropped into a tie with KLAC in the Spring Book at 2.1. It fell another 0.5 to 1.6 this time. Mainstay KLAC, meanwhile, dropped less significantly to a 1.9, regaining an uncontested reign as top country station in the market. KHJ-FM lost a tenth of a share for the second consecutive book, tallying a 1.4 mark, and KZLA-AM, which managed a dismal 0.2 in the Spring Book, was a "no-show."

Down In San Diego

In San Diego, the format dropped more than one share-point, as three of the four stations lost listeners. KSON-FM, which finished up the Spring Book a tenth behind market leader KCBQ-FM at 2.9, fell an even 1.0 to 1.9, last of the quartet. KSON's AM sister, now programming with a heavy reliance on oldies, also dropped from 2.7 to 2.3. KCBQ-AM added 0.2 to post a 2.6 figure during the summer, and the FM retained its lead while dropping a tenth to 2.9.

In the nation's capital, both market leaders, WMZQ-FM and WPKX-FM, added to their shares, although MZQ replaced the latter station in the #1 position. WMZQ shot from a 2.7 to 3.5, while WPKX improved to a lesser degree, tacking on an additional half-share to turn in a 3.4. WPKX-AM remained below a 1.0 share.

Two of the three country outlets in Cleveland combined to raise the format's share 1.4 points. WHK widened its lead over recent country convert WWWE, as it moved from 4.8 to a 5.2, while 3WE lost a tenth in scoring a 4.4. The market's FM signal, WKSX, showed significant improvement, garnering a 3.8 after the Spring

SINGLES REVIEWS

OUT OF THE BOX

CHARLY McCLAIN (Epic 34-03308)
With You (2:54) (Onhisown Music — BMI/Arian Publications/Ron Muir Music — ASCAP) (L. Shell, R. Muir) (Producer: none listed)

The second single from her "Too Good To Hurry" album, McClain's latest is a shimmering affair with a glimmer of strings and subtle female backing vocals. The record succeeds in painting a picture of sensuality behind McClain's rich, supple vibrato and provocative vocal texture.

FEATURE PICKS

WAYLON & WILLIE (RCA PB-13319)
(Sittin' On) The Dock Of The Bay (3:21) (East/Memphis Music Corp./Irving Music — BMI) (S. Cropper, O. Redding) (Producer: C. Moman)

MOE BANDY (Columbia 38-03309)
Only If There Is Another You (2:57) (Baray Music, Inc. — BMI) (D. Mitchell) (Producer: R. Baker)

VERN GOSDIN (AMI 1310)
Today My World Slipped Away (2:59) (Vogue Music c/o Welk/Hookit Music/Gary S. Paxton Pub., Inc. — BMI) (M. Wright, V. Gosdin) (Producer: B. Fisher)

COUNTRY TONY MARTIN (American Spotlight ASR 101)
In Honky Tonk Heaven (2:50) (Friendly Finley Music/Bama Boy Music — BMI) (B. Colwell, M. Brown) (Producer: M.L. Brown)

NARVEL FELTS (Compleat CP-101)
Smoke Gets In Your Eyes (2:34) (T.B. Harms Co. c/o Welk Music Group — ASCAP) (J. Kern, O. Harbach) (Producer: J. Morris)

ROY CLARK (Churchill CR 94011)
Here We Go Again (3:04) (Dirk Music — BMI) (D. Lanier, R. Steagall) (Producer: R. Clark)

NEW AND DEVELOPING

SKIP AND LINDA (MDJ 68179-A)
I Just Can't Turn Temptation Down (3:00) (Blackwood Music, Inc. — BMI) (D. Cusic) (Producers: P. Baugh, L. McBride)

After their last record showed signs of crossover potential, this new duet comes with a second platter esconced within the traditional musical and lyrical heritage of the country genre. A simply constructed piece, bolstered by choppy guitar lines and a floating steel, the tune shows the diversity of material that this pair is able to effectively cover.

ALBUM REVIEWS

WW II — Waylon and Willie — RCA AHL 1-4455 — Producers: Chips Moman, Waylon Jennings — List: 8.98 — Bar Coded

In spite of the album's billing only five of the 11 cuts present on this second collaboration feature both Waylon and Willie, with the former pulling solo efforts on the remaining tracks — but when they do pool their respective talents, the result is magic. Three tunes in particular — "Mr. Shuck And Jive," "Heroes" and "Write Your Own Songs" — will certainly bring their loyal regiment to attention, and retailers should be well-stocked to handle the immediate volume that this set should generate.

SURE FEELS LIKE LOVE — Larry Gatlin & the Gatlin Brothers Band — Columbia FC 38135 — Producers: Jerry Crutchfield, Larry Gatlin — List: none — Bar Coded

Their first effort with producer Jerry Crutchfield, "Sure Feels Like Love" finds the Gatlin trademark falsetto harmonies in top form, set in the midst of a platter centered on melodic, pop-sounding ballads. Currently on tour with Kenny Rogers, the clan's production is more subtle and less cluttered, while the tunes ooze with sentiment and crystalline clarity.

THE COUNTRY MIKE

NEW MORNING SHOW FOR SAN DIEGO — Present morning drive DJ for KSON-AM/San Diego, Rod Hunter, will be joined with KSON-FM program director Ed Chandler to produce a new morning drive show to be simulcast on both KSON-AM and FM. The new show will feature the best in modern country from KSON-FM and the hits of yesteryear from the vaults on KSON-AM. Current morning drive personality for KSON-FM, Bill Macky, will move to afternoon drive to fill the air spot vacated by Chandler's move to mornings. At the same time, both Hunter and Chandler will continue to direct the programming for KSON-AM and FM, respectfully.

BASEBALL RETURNS TO WHN — The New York Mets baseball club and WHN/New York have entered into an agreement-in-principle for the 50,000-watt station to become the flagship station in the Mets radio network. The Mets play-by-play broadcasts will begin with the 1983 schedule with all 162 regular season games and continue, under the agreement, through the 1985 season. WHN previously aired the Mets games from 1972-74.

FRIEDMAN NAMED TO NBC RADIO NEWS POST — Former New Jersey bureau chief for WNBC-TV, Sid Friedman, has been appointed director for radio news operations for the NBC Radio network, according to James Farley, Jr., managing director for radio news. For the past eight years, Friedman has worked with WNBC-TV/New York in a variety of positions within the news department. Previous to working with NBC, Friedman worked for four years with WBAL-TV/Baltimore as a news operations supervisor, WARM radio and WNEP-AM&TV in Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

BOSTON STATION PREPARES CMA WEEK BROADCASTS — Country station WDLW/Boston will air a live broadcast from the Country Music Assn. (CMA) week festivities back to Boston listeners with WDLW's mid day DJ Jim Murphy interviewing top name entertainers while playing the regular rotation for the Boston area. Over $7,000 has been spent by the Massachusetts station for a special equalized phone line to send the transmission signal back to Boston for Murphy's regular 10 a.m.-2 p.m. radio show. The show, which is the furthest live broadcast from Nashville during CMA week, will run for four hours without any cutaways from Nashville. Any interested performers looking for interviews should contact Murphy at (617) 897-1400. In a related story, WDLW DJ Duncan Stewart has been named Massachusetts Country Music Assn. Disc Jockey of the Year for the second year in a row. Congratulations!

CHANGES IN FLINT RADIO — Music director for WKMF/Flint, Ernie Hadaway, has moved to morning on the country station after working afternoons for the AM station. Past morning man for the station, Big Bill Anderson, has moved across town to WTAC-AM where he will continue to air a morning show. WKMF's Lee Philips will move to afternoons to fill Hadaway's previous time slot.

LIVE COUNTRY MUSIC FAILS IN SAVANNAH — Starting Oct. 4, radio station WQQT/Savannah will begin programming an all-news format, eliminating its present country programming. According to former music director and future operations manager Brady McGraw, WQQT will make no staff changes at the Georgia station when it picks up Ted Turner's Cable News Network and goes news full time. "It all boils down to dollars and cents" claimed McGraw. Listeners in south Georgia will now rely on Savannah's only other country station WCHY-FM, which is presently an automated one programmed by Drake-Chenault services.

ANOTHER THREE IN A ROW — Country music station, KYKR/Port Arthur joins the growing list of stations that play three songs in a row for its Texas listeners. The first person who catches the station playing less than three will collect $5,000. country mike

COUNTRY COLUMN

IS THERE ANYBODY OUT THERE? — Columbia Records has introduced some projects to further define the market penetration of two of its acts, David Allan Coe and Larry Gatlin & the Gatlin Brothers Band, into specialized market areas. The label has set up a mail order scheme to back Coe through Easyriders, a national biking publication with circulation in the neighborhood of 500,000. Coe has quite a following among bike clubs, and Columbia is interested in just how significant that portion of his audience is. The advertisement in the magazine's November issue plugs five Coe packages — "Rough Rider," "Tennessee Whiskey," "Invictus (Means) Unconquered," "Rides Again" and his latest set, "D.A.C." The Gatlin clan has an unusually high female following, and Columbia has scheduled its first single artist advertisement with Soap Opera Digest, backing the clan's new "Sure Feels Like Love" LP and a forthcoming Christmas release, "A Gatlin Family Christmas." The label has placed multi-artist ads with the publication before, but this is the first on an individual act. The Gatlin ad will appear in the Nov. 23 issue, making its impact during one of the record industry's peak selling periods — between Thanksgiving and Christmas. Soap Opera Digest has a circulation of around 600,000.

STAYING ON TRACK — Wilma Burgess, a former recording artist in her own right ("Misty Blue" and "Don't Touch Me," among others, with Decca), has opened Track 9, a new restaurant/showcase at 2025 Eighth Ave. S. Built with a trolley theme, the venue is ideally designed for featuring artists, with plenty of space and no visual obstructions. The facility opened for business Sept. 13 and has generated some exposure through print ads in the entertainment section of the Tennessean.

LOOK WHAT THE CATS DRUG IN — When the Stray Cats appeared at Cantrell's recently, the group attracted so many fans that the event had to be staged beneath a tent in back of the club. Not only did the Cats attract a number of young Nashvillians, but also Ann and Nancy Wilson of Heart and some members of John Cougar's band. Heart and Cougar played earlier in the evening at Municipal Auditorium. BRANDAN MAKES NASHVILLE DEBUT — Del Riz Records' Jerry Brandan made his stage debut in Nashville at the Radisson downtown, a pretty lavish affair for someone who is just making his initial appearance. Brandan mixed his own material in with a heavy cross-section of country tunes and old rock 'n' roll numbers like "Hey! Baby!" currently an Anne Murray single, and "Earth Angel." Del Riz officials also took the opportunity to recognize the contributions of the songwriters who penned Brandan's recordings and producer Lynn Kitchens, who hosted the show. Of particular interest were plaque recipients Kelth Stewart and Bob Saporiti, independent promoters who have worked with the label. Saporiti, in particular, was noted for his honesty and charisma ("If hearts could be weighed, then this guy's would tip the scale."). Sounds like a paid advertisement, Bob.

MSMA ACQUIRES NEW EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR — The Muscle Shoals Music Assn. (MSMA) has appointed William M. (Bill) Jarnigan, a veteran journalist from the area, to assume the recently vacated position of executive director. The organization's first director, F.E. (Buddy) Draper, has left the association to pursue political aspirations, after taking the post in 1975. Jarnigan, who has a background with such diverse mediums as Country Music magazine, the Birmingham News and WLAY-AM&FM/Sheffield, Ala., indicated that his initial plans for the MSMA include an extensive membership drive and an increase in publicity.

SO YOU THINK YOU KNOW COUNTRY MUSIC? — There are two new ways to test your skill and knowledge of the country format. One is the new Fandango game show, scheduled to debut on the Nashville Network in February. For those who are not contestants on the program, however, You're So Cold, I'm Turnin' Blue: Martha Hume's Guide To The Greatest In Country Music, may be a wise alternative. Hume, who has written for Country Music, Rolling Stone and the New York Daily News, has published a book that purports to give the "real lowdown" on country music and its artists. Judging from the excerpts from the manuscript, which will be released Oct. 28, the edition should be both a wealth of country trivia and, at times, a humorous look at the way the business is conducted, with such insight as "How To Talk Like A Country Star" and "Roadhog's Rules For Being A Country Star."

ARE WE BEING STUDIED? — The Nashville chapter of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences (NARAS) is sponsoring a master session workshop for Belmont students Oct. 9 at Bullet Studios. The session was made available to the college, with only 55 spots available, and registration was filled within 24 hours at $15 per student. The session provides hands on experience for the entire operation of a recording session — from basic tracks to overdubs and mixing — and will include local talents such as the Nashville Strings Machine, with Carl Gorodetzky, the Goodtime Horns, led by Dennis Good, engineers Scott Hendricks and Travis Turk and vocalist Karen Taylor.

MORE ACTIVITIES FOR THE GRAND OLE OPRY CELEBRATION — Encore Talent will showcase two of its acts, Joe Stampley and Gene Watson, during deejay week, on successive nights at the Stockyards. Stampley will appear Oct. 14 and Watson Oct. 15. The 10th annual Chuck Chellman/George Twitty Radio Golf Invitational, which also encompasses some tennis events, is scheduled for Oct. 14, commencing at 8 a.m. at Nashboro Village. Interested disc jockeys, artists and industry execs should call (615) 320-7287.

IS THERE LIFE AFTER CASH BOX? — Apparently so; former Cash Box country editor Don Cusic wrote the latest single for MDJ act Sklp & Linda. The catch, however, is that Cusic wrote the tune, "I Just Can't Turn Temptation Down," in 1972, long before he latched on to the post with the magazine.

Despite Country's Growth, Artists Still Fail To Attract Rock-Size Audiences

might not be the top-flight promoter."

Scher suggested that artists such as the Oaks, Alabama, Waylon Jennings and Hank Williams, Jr., all have the potential to draw sell-out crowds at area arenas, but that they should go through a building process similar to the one Willie Nelson employed. The "classic example," Nelson supported the Grateful Dead four years ago in a successful outdoor show, then returned 2½ years ago and sold out the Capitol Theater. Following that, he appeared in a Ron Delsener-produced show at the Palladium, and, in September, sold out the 21,000-seat Meadowland venue two weeks in advance. "We think Willie's big enough to headline a stadium show next summer," commented Scher, "so he's a perfect example of the things that we need to see from some of the other bigger artists."

Potential To Build

Scher pointed to Larry Gatlin & the Gatlin Brothers as an act with the potential to build its following in a similar manner. The Gatlins opened for Kenny Rogers at two consecutive sold-out shows co-promoted with C.K. Spuroclock, and he indicated that if the Gatlins were to return and play a smaller venue as headliners, they could slowly build their image in the area similar to that of Nelson.

Wallace Barr, of South Carolina-based Beach Club Promotions, a company which books approximately 400 concerts annually in the Southeast, suggested that, because of the concentration of musically inclined individuals within particular demographics, that rock had a strong advantage over country in soliciting large-scale productions. He noted that while country music has a broader base of appeal — 15-75 years old — that 15-30 years olds are more interested in live music, and that that age group is still much more predisposed toward the rock genre.

Barr, whose company handles shows in such diverse locations as Memphis, Chattanooga, Roanoke and Miami, added that country shows are easier on the promotional budget. He claimed that most markets are dominated by one country station, and that the bulk of advertising can be concentrated in that station and a newspaper, while the same market may have three fairly equal rock outlets, and that advertising for a rock show would have to be spread out more.

Bill McElrath, of the Des Moines Civic Center, added that ticket buyers are in general becoming more and more selective in deciding what shows to attend. "The old days of throwing out a concert and selling out the thing regardless of who's on the show is no longer there," he said.

The most discerning customer in the general population is the country fan, and McElrath said that their general pattern of behavior is hurting the attendance at concerts geared to middle-sized venues like the center. He suggested that even established acts such as Johnny Cash and Tompall & the Glaser Brothers are attracting marginal crowds in spite of their predisposition to be more concerned about the concert's production.

"Country acts don't have as many production requirements," he commented, "but the requirements they do have are well thought out. Country acts are not extravagant, but they are concerned about the quality of production, about giving a good show to the individual in the 15th row. I don't think rock acts are too concerned a lot of times; they just want to have the biggest and the best."

RCA Waging Cross-Promotion Pushes Behind New Country Album Releases

NASHVILLE — Peavey Electronics and White Rain shampoo are engaging in cross-merchandising campaigns with RCA to back releases by Steve Wariner and the Louise Mandrell & R.C. Bannon duo.

The red T-60 Peavey guitar is featured on the cover of "Steve Wariner," the artist's debut album, and the tie-in is currently under way at the radio and retail levels. Posters, flats, T-shirts and guitar logo military style belts are being used as promotional items in support of the album.

Although a fall 1981 release date had been anticipated by some, Wariner's first album actually was never scheduled until this fall when RCA felt the marketplace was ready. Prior to the release of the album, which is produced by Tom Collins and includes most of the singer's singles, Wariner had been on a major market tour with Barbara Mandrell.

The first RCA album by the Mandrell/Bannon duo, "Me and My R.C.," tied in with R.C. Cola and White Rain shampoo for a merchandising venture. Louise will remain as White Rain spokesperson through the end of 1983.

The duo's new LP, "You're My Super Woman, You're My Incredible Man," is produced by Eddie Kilroy and contains songs penned by Bannon, music director of the Barbara Mandrell and the Mandrell Sisters show, along with two solo performances by each singer, the remainder of the tracks being rounded out with duets.

Says Joe Galante, division vice president at RCA, "Both of these releases present unique album projects. R.C. and Louise have done very well at the retail and rack levels with their last album, 'Me and My R.C.' Steve Wariner has been with RCA almost three years and has established himself at the radio level.

Atlantic America Label Bows With Campbell LP

NASHVILLE — With the release of Glen Campbell's "Old Home Town" album, Atlantic Records has established its new country label, Atlantic America. While a base for the label has not yet been chosen, the company is releasing the title track as the first single from the LP.

THE RHYTHM SECTION

HOT FROM THE ICE — Jerry Butler's latest LP, "Ice 'N Hot," which is being marketed and promoted by the Ice Man's own Fountain Records of Chicago, Ill., is a fine mixture of Butler's passionate insights and colorful delivery. But the crooner is not relying solely on his vocal charms to sell this record, which debuts this week at #70 on the B/C Albums chart. He's been on a promotion tour in the East in support of the album's release and has had help developing a fan club through flyers inserted in his album jacket. The fan club offers members everything from T-shirts to autographed pictures. Aside from the $7 required to join the club, the application asks for what Fountain vice president Wes Phillips calls "psychographic" information like age, favorite radio station and record store. Butler recently completed taping a segment for Soul Train, where he performed his current single, "No Love Without Changes."

RENAISSANCE — "Baby, Come To Me," the last single released from Patty Austin's Qwest Records debut LP, "Every Home Should Have One," in recent months has unexpectedly sparked a resurgence of album sales in a most unusual way for the versatile songstress. Much like the way Herb Alpert's 1979 "Rise" album gained sales momentum from the title cut's play on General Hospital as the theme music for the infamous characters Luke and Laura's rape/romance, now Luke (Tony Geary) and his new love are currently embracing to the swooning duet of Austin with labelmate James Ingram. According to Qwest general manager Ed Eckstine, in the last two weeks the album has registered an additional 25,000 unit sales and begun to reappear in radio rotation around New York, Philadelphia, Miami and Detroit. First released in August of 1981, Austin's Quincy Jones-produced LP has tallied 200,000 plus unit sales overall. As the single, which re-emerged on the Cash Box Pop singles chart last week at #96 and moved to #94 this week, continues to spread nationally, Qwest staffers will hasten to have Austin and Ingram appear as guests on General Hospital, which will continue to air the song twice a week for the next couple of months. The album debuts again this week on the Cash Box B/C Albums chart at #72.

D BLUES — The Smokey Wilson Revue and Bernie Pearl will be the featured artists during the fourth Southern California Blues Society concert, set for Sunday, Oct. 10, at the Music Machine in West Los Angeles. The non-profit group was formed last May after a group of blues musicians, including Pearl and Margie Evans sparked interest through radio shows on KPFK and KCRW. The first concert, given during the summer featured Pearl, Blind Joe Hill, Long Gone Miles, A Band Called Sam, Evans and the Blue Wave Band. A subsequent show featured Joe Liggins and the Honeydrippers and Bill Clarke and the Night Owls. The first shows were given at Club 88 on L.A.'s Westside because, as Society spokesperson Betty Miller put it, "We're trying to bring blues to an audience that held an image that the music was only played in dingy, dirty environments, which is not true." The third show, which was Sept. 21 and featured John Littlejohn of Chicago, Oregon's Robert Cray Band and local offering Butch Mudbone and the Roadmasters, was moved to West L.A.'s Music Machine. Miller said that the Southern California Blues Society was very visible at the recent Blues Festival in Long Beach, Calif., where Pearl served as master of ceremonies. She said the idea was to promote the cause and broaden the base of blues enthusiasts. Miller admitted that it has been tough going trying to get a substantial black audience to the concerts and that the Society would be trying to improve such attendance at future shows.

JAMES TOUR CANCELLED — Motown artist Rick James had to cancel the last five weeks of his tour due to persistent abdominal pains that caused him to collapse during a show in Dallas Aug. 12. James followed that incident with a week's rest and returned to the circuit with a show at the Inglewood Forum Aug. 20. But according to a James spokesperson, when the stomach pains did not subside and after his recent show in Denver, the artist decided to call off the remaining tour dates and return to his Buffalo, N.Y. home for medical treatment.

SOLO RITCHIE — A massive promotion and press campaign is being advanced by Motown Records to support release of Commodore Lionel Richie's first solo project. In addition to a four-color gatefold album jacket, featuring Richie attired in the latest preppy chic, there is an extensive press kit highlighted visually by a reproduction of the inside cover art of the LP and two additional black and white shots on the inside. Trade advertising and consumer exposure are planned for the album, along with a tour late in the year. The first single from the self-titled debut, "Truly," is a heart-wrenching ballad of love, which immediately reminds one of the Commodors' crossover smash, "Still," and the more recent Richie-penned tune, "Lady," which helped carry Kenny Rogers' "Greatest Hits" LP to platinum-plus status. Richie as a solo artist would seem to be adopting the identity of the soulful balladeer, a far cry from his early "Machine Gun" and "Brick House" days. The new image is fitting for Richie, who in the last year has distinguished himself as a respected producer/writer/performer of pop music.

SHORT CUTS — "Buckets O' Duckets," the new 12" and 7" single by J.S. Theracon on Akashic Records, is actually written, produced and performed by Walter "Junie" Morrison, former Ohio Players keyboardist and chief music architect... CBS/Fox Video is preparing release of an in-concert video featuring Teddy Pendergrass that will list at $39.95.

Attic-Quality P&D Deal Terminated In Canada; WEA Re-signs Island Label

by Kirk LaPointe

TORONTO — Attic Records Ltd., the largest Canadian independent label, has severed its production and distribution arrangement with Quality Records of Canada Ltd. only months after it moved to the firm and jumped to PolyGram Canada Inc.

In other developments, WEA Music of Canada Ltd. has re-signed Island Records, and Quality has come to terms on a long-term agreement with Motown Records — both pacts keeping the labels where they were, but ending months of speculation about possible shifts.

The Attic signing for PolyGram is considered a coup in some respects, given the extraordinary track record of the label in Canada and its successes in launching such acts as Hagood Hardy, Triumph and The Rovers into international markets. But the feisty independent has had its troubles this year, and its fortunes are being pinned greatly on a Triumph release either late this year or early in 1983.

The Attic deal with Quality, announced only this year, included some seed money from Quality for joint productions with Attic. Both sides apparently agreed the relationship was not working out, even though the move to Quality from CBS Records Canada Ltd. was heralded as a turning point for the manufacturing-heavy Quality operation.

The Island-WEA deal frees up several shelved projects, including the "Sheffield Steel" release by Joe Cocker, which has been delayed for more than two months as the two sides came to terms. WEA is also expected to be able to pick and choose projects from the Island-run Mango and Antilles labels.

The Motown-Quality renewal came on the heels of successful touring by several of the Hollywood-based label's signings in the Canadian market. Motown's Canadian operations were closed three years ago and the label then signed with Quality.

Ruiz To Manage A&M Product For CRI

NEW YORK — Mario Ruiz has been named manager, A&M label development, at the Latin American Operations (LAO) division of CBS Records International (CRI). In this position, he will be in charge of coordinating the day-to-day sales and marketing activities of the A&M line between LAO and CRI's Latin American subsidiaries. He reports to Phil Alexander, director, marketing, English product, LAO, CRI.

INTERNATIONAL DATELINE

Italy

MILAN — WEA Italiana held its convention in Venice Sept. 17-20. The event was attended by all the managing executives of the group. On the same occasion, WEA announced the birth of the new Home Video division, which will be directed by Claudio Bertoli.

Editoriale Sciascia group decided to return to its own distribution system after two years of distribution through Dischi Ricordi. The announcement was made by Armando Sciascia, managing director of the company, who also told the Sciascia back catalog will be distributed by Ricordi until December.

RCA presented on the Italian market the first "cassingle," including two releases by Lucio Battisti, "E Gia" and "Straniero," on the Numero Uno label. The price of the cassette — called "cassetta due" — will be the same as the price of a single.

Miguel Bose on the 19th edition of Festivalbar, the song contest organized by Vittorio Salvetti, which took place in Verona on Sept. 11, with the single "Bravi Ragazzi," on CBS label. In the LP section, the first position went to Ron with the album "Guarda Chi Si Vede," on RCA.

Classical conductor Riccardo Muti renewed this month his exclusive contract with EMI Italiana . . . Ronnie Jones, formerly with WEA, signed with Panarecord . . . Mimmo Cavallo has left CGD to join Fonit Cetra. His new album will be on the market next month . . . The Spanish group Barrabas, previously with CGD-Vip, is now licensed by Delta Italiana.

Japan mario de luigi

TOKYO — Nippon Phonogram will promote a "Seiji Ozawa Fair" from Sept. 25-Nov. 20 throughout Japan. The label will push three albums, released Aug. 25, as part of a celebration of 30 years in this market by Philips Records.

Toshiba/EMI has announced plans to release a "Letter Vision" system to help in cataloging activity. Developed by parent company Toshiba Electric Works, Letter Vision is a system to reproduce titles and lyrics of songs using the memory capabilities of 8-track tapes.

Polydor of Japan will join Sony, Hitachi, Toshiba/EMI and Canyon in releasing a Compact Disc (CD) system here during October. The official release date is Oct. 20, and there will be 50 titles included. The Polydor system comes from PolyGram of Germany and The Netherlands, and the 50 titles for release here will come from the 100-title CD catalog of PolyGram International and Decca International. Sony and Hitachi will release their CD systems here Oct. 1 (Cash Box, Sept. 11 and Sept. 18), and Canyon will release its CDs Oct. 21. A fall release date has been set for Toshiba/EMI's product (Cash Box, Sept. 18).

The Pony/Canyon Group has adopted a new logo for all of its products, which include records. The new logo will appear on the records starting Oct. 21. Canyon/Pony will also mount a promotional campaign to push the new logo during the year-end sales season. kozo otsuka

United Kingdom

LONDON — Some indignant responses have ensued from various quarters of the music business following the latest WEA, Records (U.K.) attempt to combat home taping — WEA managing director Charles Levinson undertook a bold attempt by sending out 50 letters to the editors of publications all over the country warning them that any form of support or encouragement of home taping would result in the immediate withdrawal of WEA advertising. Most of the U.K. consumer music press has called the WEA move a gross infringement of basic democratic principles and even the U.K. trade press bible, Music Week, carried a sharply indignant editorial response that read: "WEA's well-meaning but sadly misguided attempt to persuade the press to support the campaign against piracy and home taping will almost inevitably have the opposite effect. There is nothing like the threat to withdraw advertising to raise a journalist's hackles, and WEA's letter will merely serve to reinforce the opinion of most consumer music journalists that record companies are run by two-headed, autocratic, money-grabbing tone-deaf tyrants. As far as Music & Video Week is concerned, "WEA's threat has a hollow ring — not only do we already support the industry's stance against piracy and taping, but WEA rarely takes trade press advertising these days anyway." . . . CBS is set to release a new Adam Ant LP on Oct. 11, titled "Friend Or Foe." All titles were written by Adam and Marco Pirroni except one, The Doors' "Hello, I Love You." Both Pirroni and Adam Ant produced.

A rush release from Arista of the New Barry Manilow single, "I Wanna Do It With You," taken from Manilow's forthcoming as-yet-untitled LP due out in November. The single is a departure from Manilow's usual style and is out Oct. 8 . . . Paper Tiger books has just put out the second volume of the successful Album Cover Album by Storm Thorgerson, Roger Dean and David Howells. The first book of the best LP sleeves came out in 1977, but since then, the emergence of new design techniques to express punk, new wave, techno-pop etc. show some interesting new music-visualizer effects. The book's 160 pages feature over 500 album covers reproduced in full color.

Fat Larry's Band is due to play two nights at London's Venue in a few weeks following the success of its Virgin/WMOT single "Zoom." nick underwood promotional plans have been announced. Mount says extensive television advertising and POP displays will be used to attract consumer attention for the E.T. game. Several spokespersons for major record chains such as Licorice Pizza, Camelot Music and Music Plus feel the E.T. cartridge is "a natural" for cross-merchandising with other items, including the original soundtrack of the movie and T-shirts, and all showed a high level of enthusiasm for the game's rollout.

"The name E.T. alone is magic," commented Show Industries president Lou Fogelman, whose City One Stop will distribute the E.T. software to his chain of 26 Music Plus stores, in addition to about 100 other retail stores.

Along with the "superstar" releases of E.T. and Raiders, stores will be dealing with more software companies this Christmas than ever before for their vid game selections. Whereas earlier in the year only four companies — Atari, Mattel, Activision and Odyssey — carried any weight with record outlets that sold games, in recent months many different manufacturers have surfaced and received positive response for their product, including Coleco, Imagic, Games by Apollo, Parker Bros. and others. What's more, several firms are producing software for other systems — such as Mattel's recent introduction of Atari VCS-compatible "M Network" games and the November release of Activision's Intellivision-compatible vid carts — that will add to the retailer's dilemma of which cartridges to stock and promote.

Several distributors are meeting this challenge by either carrying just the major manufacturers' goods or all games. Record Bar, for example, is sticking just to Atari, Mattel, Activision and Imagic games, while SoundVideo is a full line distributor of all major games and even many new entrants, such as U.S. Games, Data Age and 20th Century-Fox Games of the Century.

Check Everything

"Retailers need to look at all the new lines," said Lee Balasucci, director of electronic games and home computers for SoundVideo. "There've been some companies that had poor games when they first came around, but the following releases proved to be great. Besides games, we're also carrying home computer product from Commodore, Vic, Tandy and Texas Instruments. Home computers seem to be the coming thing, and we think it'll really explode in three years. Everybody who's a game customer now is a potential computer customer, and we have to position ourselves as a supplier of the material now so we can be there when the market blows out in the next few years."

Many distributors are also suggesting retailers carry accessories for video game units, such as different varieties of joysticks, console covers and cartridge holders. Mike Brown, general merchandise buyer/manager for Licorice Pizza, says his company will stock three brands of joysticks — Atari, the Discwasher Pointmaster and the Wico Command Control — in addition to video game storage boxes for the Christmas season.

As any record distributor or retailer who handles video game merchandise will attest, manufacturers are concentrating more of their efforts on large stores like K mart, which deal in high-volume sales, rather than small record stores. Reade White-Spinner, manager of special projects for Durham, N.C.-based Record Bar, says she has to watch her inventory "like a hawk" because of the difficulty in stock balancing.

"Dating doesn't mean a thing," she remarked. "It's deceiving. With return programs it's not like records and a 20% line of return. But if the game industry does have a strong point, it would have to be its co-op program, as all of the major software manufacturers have a definite 3-5% co-op accrual." Adds Stark's director of video purchasing and merchandising Dwight Montjar, "The companies are going to have a ton of advertising this Christmas, and of course, most of them will have a co-op percentage accrual. But like everything else, you have to fight for every advertising dollar you can get." City One Stop's Fogelman agrees, saying "Incentive-wise, they're not breaking the door down . . . it's more like the other way around."

Because of the high demand for the cartridges this year, most orders for Christmas stocking had to be in by early summer. Although each company has its own incentive programs, only three manufacturers — Mattel, Atari and Activision — had any dating programs of consequence towards the end of the summer months, in August. Atari offered a dating program through WEA in a letter mailed to retailers on Sept. 14. This fall program states all product ordered from Sept. 13-Oct. 15 qualifies for dating, which is 50% due Dec. 10 and 50% due Jan. 10, and gives retailers the flexibility of deferring part of their payments until after the Christmas season. This fall dating program is limited to two orders placed within the aforementioned time period.

Besides offerings dating privileges for the holiday season, Atari also plans to launch one of its largest game campaigns ever with a $150,000 "SwordQuest Challenge," a series of four different contests plus a national championship playoff that employs upcoming cartridges "EarthWorld," "FireWorld," "WaterWorld" and "AirWorld" and asks players to uncover "The Sword of Ultimate Sorcery." Prizes, including a gem-encrusted sword, chalice, crown and philosophers stone, will be forged by the Franklin Mint. The SwordQuest games are slated for release at different times between fall 1982 and fall 1983, with the contest scheduled to commence with the EarthWorld cartridge due out this month and retailing at $37.95. The second of the four games, FireWorld, is scheduled for release in November.

Atari, however, is not the only company sponsoring a game-related contest. Imagic has recently initiated its "Defend Atlantis" competition, which employs its new VCS-compatible "Atlantis" cart. Offering over 1,200 prizes worth $40,000, four semifinalists will compete for the top honor in a "Great Defend Atlantis Shoot-Off" scheduled to occur November 14 in Bermuda, with the winner taking home $10,000 and the three runners-up garnering a grand in cash. The first 250 runners-up receive a complete snorkeling set, and the next 1,000 runners-up get a "Defend Atlantis" T-shirt for their efforts.

With these contests, the arrival of so many new software firms into the marketplace, heavy Christmas advertising and the much-heralded releases of the E.T. and Raiders cartridges, this should be a holiday season that record retailers who deal in game merchandise will remember for some time to come.

Levinson Comm. Moves

NEW YORK — Peter Levinson Communications, which represents clients in the music, television, motion picture, books and related fields, has relocated. Its new address is 527 Madison Ave., Suite 604, New York, N.Y. 10022. The telephone number is (212) 935-1036.

Retailers Plan Greater Use Of TV Ads During Holiday Season

with only product tags changed. Others explained that late-night television time in their markets, usually the cheapest to purchase, can lead to substantial record sales, citing K-tel International's success as an example.

The rise of cable and pay-service music programs, particularly Warner Amex's MTV, has encouraged dealers in some markets to more seriously consider such outlets for advertising. The more discernible correlation between record sales and the airing of product only exposed through MTV in some markets has prompted this move toward cable TV advertising, according to a number of dealers.

Dealers say that television reaches a wider cross-section of prerecorded music consumers — both active and passive — and provides them the opportunity to advertise a greater selection of product in a single spot. Some noted that this made television more unique than radio or print advertising, since time and space buys on such media reached more specialized audiences.

TV More Flexible

"We're going into television more than ever before," noted Joe Andrews, vice president and general manager of the Miami-based Spec's chain. "TV is a mass media that can reach a wider group of people, of all ages and music tastes, from 14-60."

"With television, we can advertise three of four different titles," he continued, "without having to go to three or four different stations, unlike the case with radio."

Andrews further said that radio is not playing all the records that can be happening in a given market, but that MTV and other cable systems that do are beginning to have an impact at the cash register.

In some cases, retailers report that they hope to do most of their holiday sales season advertising needs with TV. "We plan to spend 50% of our advertising resources on TV, about 45% on radio and five percent on print and other mediums during the holiday season," explained Tom Keenan, president of the Portland, Ore.-based Everybody's chain. Keenan said that late-night television was a fertile exposure ground for hard rock music and that certain prime time spots were suited for promotion of pop, R&B and country.

Because he believes that consumers in his market feel TV is a cheaper form of entertainment than records and tapes, Cal Simpson, head of Simpson's Wholesale/Bad Records, Inc. chain of Detroit, said, "We use a lot of late night television; it's cheaper than radio and reaches a broader audience than print in most cases."

"I also feel that black product reaches a wider variety of people through television advertising," he added. Simpson also noted, however, that there was very little good video footage available on black acts and that many record companies were reluctant to provide resources for TV advertising because they feared the quality of locally produced spots would be lacking.

Disputing this contention, Simpson said that his company has financed production TV spots for between $1,500 and $2,000. "We employ the generic approach to our TV advertising; we have a standard tag at the beginning and end of a TV spot which highlights the store, and then we plug in the current product featured in the middle of the commercial."

Such spots, called "doughnuts," are commonly employed by chains that are aggressive in TV advertising. But other dealers claim less success with such advertising strategies and note that labels are increasingly hesitant to provide dollars for such campaigns.

Many Considerations

With plans to primarily heighten the chain's visibility during the holidays with print and radio advertising, Jerry Glazio said that TV advertising will be done on a market-by-market basis and will "depend largely on the number of stores we have in a given market."

"Since we must rely on manufacturer resources to produce TV spots or for them to provide broadcast-ready video, we don't anticipate using a great deal of TV advertising," Glazio said. "I don't think any chain in the country can afford to maintain a video staff, facilities and such because it is simply too costly."

Marcy Penner, advertising manager for the Washington D.C.-based Waxie Maxie chain, disputed the premise that TV allowed more versatility in promoting a wider variety of music. "It's hard to mix your product on TV because manufacturers usually pay for a particular artist to be advertised," she said.

Penner continued that "if I get a TV ad budget from RCA to promote the new Hall & Oates album, that's what I use the money for."

She further said that "newspapers can put everything together. I can put country next to rock next to soul next to classical with newspaper advertising."

But even Penner admitted that cable and pay-TV services are "gaining momentum" and that more comprehensive ratings and market research on such systems as a selling tool must be developed before substantial time buys can be made on this medium.

Vassen at the Record Bar noted that the chain will be aggressive with its use of MTV and some other cable spot buying in an upcoming campaign waged in conjunction with WEA.

The Record Bar/WEA promotion will feature the distributor's mid-priced and frontline catalog product in promotion dubbed, "The Event," carrying the tag line, "Anyone Who's Anyone is on Sale." The campaign is set to run for 28 days, Sept. 30-Oct. 27. In addition to the MTV spots, the chain is planning to run print ads and radio teasers and make spot buys on the USA network and the Atlanta Music Channel.

CBS/Fox Holds Video List Price Down

ertainment, a major independent, told Cash Box last week that the company has been mulling over a $20 cut in the suggested list price for its hit title The Seduction, which presently retails for $59.95.

"At the moment, I don't know if it will happen, but if the numbers are there, we could do it," said Culberg.

$39.95, in most retailers' and some manufacturers' eyes, would seem to be the magic price point necessary to induce consumers to start buying, rather than renting, videocassette product. While not everyone agrees on that figure, dealers in particular generally felt it was a good place to start.

Weston Nishimura of Bellevue, Wash.'s Video One Video felt that "there has to be an industry-wide reduction of prices by manufacturers, unless they want to sell just 'one and one' (one VHS and one Beta cassette per title) to most dealers." However, while Nishimura noted that "$39.95 is a great price given the costs of manufacturing," he suggested that "the actual sale price may be lower, either $29 or even $19."

"What we may have to do with a title retailing for $39.95 is get about eight rental turns on it and then sell it off at $19 if we're going to make a reasonable profit," he indicated.

The fact that manufacturers are slowly but surely moving to lower prices was "not unexpected as a result of the VSDA (Video Software Dealer Assn.) Conference, where Paramount announced the Star Trek test," according to Gene Kahn of Highland Park, Ill.'s Columbia Video Systems. Kahn, however, said that he and other dealers would ideally like to see the abolishment of list pricing.

Drop List Price

"The only thing we have continually suggested to the studios is to stop talking about retail prices and let us worry about that," he stated. "If we had Fair Trade, that would be one thing, but as long as we don't have Fair Trade, list price is silly."

The chance that manufacturers would abolish list price any time in the foreseeable future is still quite remote, especially in light of the fact that companies such as MCA and Vestron, among others, are still holding prices for top new movie titles in the $70 and up price range. Only in original programming and older catalog has the market begun to see what dealers feel are "reasonable" prices from a number of suppliers.

Popular Legs

Exercise programs are a prime example of this at the moment and, indeed, many of them have sold quite well to consumers. Jane Fonda's Workout on KVC/RCA has reportedly sold 37,000 cassettes at a retail price of $55.95, while, even at $79.95, Paramount's Aerobicise received gold awards from both the ITA and RIAA/VIDEO for more than $1 million in cassette/disc sales.

Now, in hopes of improving on those sales figures, Paramount is releasing what has been referred to as the "prequel" to Aerobicise, entitled Aerobicise — The Beginning Workout, for a suggested list price of $44.95. Not to be outdone, MCA Videocassette will be releasing both Jazzercise, with Judy Misset Sheppard, and Aerobic Dancing, with Judy Taylor Sorenson, for $39.95 each.

Budget-priced titles continue to proliferate as well, although Paramount, the first to introduce a separate budget line (Gateway), decided at its recent distributors meeting in San Diego to phase out the classification and incorporate that product back under its regular banner.

The real test of the market's sales potential, dealers feel, will not be based on budget titles but lower-priced "A" category releases; in other words, hit motion pictures. Rumors, unconfirmed, are presently spreading among dealers that CBS/Fox will offer Rocky III at $39.95 if Star Trek II brings the large number of sales that everyone anticipates. Judging from initial orders, Star Trek II is doing "very nicely," stated Paramount's Brown.

12-Inch Sales Continue To Grow

with it."

"The sentiment was that a 12" takes away from the album," observed Barney. "But the 12" can actually enhance album sales if it's a different mix and length than the album version. It sparks interest in the album, same as 45s."

At Atlanta's Music Scene, where 12" product makes up 12-15% of sales, general manager Gerald Richardson sees both major labels getting into the 12" act and more "contemporary" artists like Diana Ross, Evelyn King and Eddie Murphy releasing 12" product. This appeals to what he calls the "soft disco" 22-35 age crowd, as opposed to the 16-23 age "hard disco" consumers who partake in the Sugar Hill rap records and the more experimental artists like Soul Sonic Force and Imagination.

Betsy Heady, dance music buyer for the Record Bar chain, which over the summer doubled its yearly 2-4% 12" disc sales, has discovered that rap discs far outweigh 12" sales by "traditional" R&B artists like Stephanie Mills and Gap Band, as well as new music product by the likes of Yaz and Soft Cell. Heady assumed her current position at the 145-store chain only last June; she said that until then dance music had been a low priority, but that the chain has since conducted a survey of all the stores to get a grip on what is selling and where product was obtained.

According to Heady, the bulk of indie label 12" product is left to individual store managers since it is difficult to order into a central warehouse and much of it sells only regionally. But she is aggressively buying all major label product, which is "flying through the warehouse," and is even stronger on import titles. "Right now we're stocking 12" product by Kool & The Gang, Jermaine Jackson, Rick James and Shalamar, to name a few, as well as new music acts like Soft Cell and ABC, which show up on our black charts."

Record Bar gets much of its import 12" product from Disc Trading Co. in Carrboro, N.C. Disc Trader also recently obtained a dance buyer and now includes a dance tracks newsletter with its regular mailings.

According to Heady, most importers are reluctant to handle black dance titles since there is no return policy. Getting the import titles for Record Bar is made more difficult by the fact that the chain needs quantities of 250-500 pieces, which most importers don't have on stock, and thus must telex over special orders to their suppliers.

A further problem is that import titles must be sold at $5.98 list, but better vinyl and attractive picture sleeves overcome the higher price. "Our stores are very pleased with the import product because it sets their store apart from other stores in the malls," said Heady.

According to Hudson, the major labels are starting to "get hip" to the success of imported black dance titles. He suspects that they will soon put out more 12" titles by the more popular acts simultaneously with album release, something already starting to happen.

Lee McCarroll, manager of special projects at the Record Industry in Los Angeles, reported that imported dance discs are now being tracked at the store and make up 10% of the 12" sales, which altogether total 20 percent of the business.

McCarroll and Audie's Miles both said that sales of independent product depends largely on in-store play.

contracts, while Heartbeat expects to release five albums in the next three months, including titles by Lee Perry, Culture and Sugar Minot.

Despite the segregated market and a strong dependence on college and non-commercial radio for exposure, manufacturers are guardedly optimistic about the spread of the music. Browne cites a recent Boston performance by Yellowman, sponsored by that city's black contemporary station, WILD, as evidence of a growing awareness of reggae in Boston's hard core black music market. But most assume that there will be some shake-out before the music gains a much broader audience.

AMOA Expo '82 is shaping up to be a record convention, as we learned from Leo Droste, the association's executive vice president. AMOA has, at this point, secured expanded exhibit space at the Hyatt Regency "as far as we can go," Leo told us, in order to accommodate the additional number of exhibitors who will be participating this year. There just isn't any more room for expansion, space-wise. AMOA exhibits will be housed on two levels, utilizing Wacker Hall, the Columbus Rooms and part of the International Ballroom at the Hyatt Regency — which adds up to significantly more space than the show occupied at the Conrad Hilton in previous years. "It will be the largest exhibit in the convention's history," Leo noted, "with over 400 booths" (as opposed to 379 in '81). A waiting list is being maintained, in the event that last minute revisions might make space available. Leo also advised that advance registration and banquet reservations are coming in very heavy. Eddy Arnold is headlining this year's banquet show and the Hyatt can accommodate about 1000 in the banquet room so it's wise to plan in advance. Because of the increasing number of inquiries received

PROVOCATIVE SPEAKER — David Rosen, chairman and chief executive officer of Sega and one of the industry's most articulate spokesmen, is shown delivering his thought-provoking opening address at the factory's recent "Pride In Performance" distributors meeting and conference.

CARLSBAD, Calif. — Unless the coin-operated amusement industry moves away from doing "business as usual" and adopts an aggressive, consumer-oriented marketing approach, it will "bring to an end the U.S. distribution system as we know it today," David Rosen, chairman and chief executive officer of Sega, said at the factory's annual distributors meeting at Rancho La Costa here.

In his Sept. 24 keynote address, Rosen said,

"In years to come, we may look back on this specific period, the fall of 1982 and the early part of 1983, as a very crucial transition period for the industry.

"I am certain we all clearly see that the industry's business environment today is not the same as that enjoyed only a few short months ago — and that the 'boom market' of the past several years is, for the present, behind us." In its place, according to Rosen, is what he ter-

Williams Prevails In Landmark Copyright Decision

CHICAGO — In a landmark decision that could have far reaching consequences for the video game industry, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit has upheld the rights of Williams Electronics, Inc. to copyright the computer program of its video games. The court also held that Williams computer program copyright was infringed when the computer program was used in a microprocessor system which controls a video game.

The decision, handed down on Aug. 2, is significant because the Third Circuit Court of Appeals has recognized the copyright of an object code computer program.

Previously, the U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey had found that Artic International, a New Jersey firm, had infringed both Williams copyrights for the computer program and for the audio visual works of its video game "Defender," according to Williams. Artic did not deny selling systems containing the computer program which reproduces the "Defender" audio/visual effects, but in its appeal to the Third Circuit, challenged the scope and validity of the copyright laws which it was ruled to have infringed, Williams noted.

'Pac-Man' Products Are Debuted At Chicago Press Conference

CHICAGO — Bally Midway's phenomenal "Pac-Man" video game character reached still another dimension in popularity as the subject of more than 375 different products ranging from wallpaper to bicycles to adult clothing, manufactured by approximately 100 licensees of the Bally Midway Manufacturing Company.

On Sept. 24, a giant exhibition of these products was held at the Holiday Inn O'Hare Kennedy in suburban Rosemont, Ill. On display were bicycles, roller skates, children's toys, wallpaper, furniture, clothing, candy, popsicles, key chains, coloring books, jewelry, decals, watches, glassware, shoes — the list is endless — all bearing the familiar "Pac-Man" symbols.

Joining Bally Midway executives who were on hand to greet the press corps and guests attending the special event were Mr. and Ms. Pac-Man, costumed and circulating around the exhibit floor. Adjacent to the displays was a lineup of equipment, including "Pac-Man," "Ms. Pac-Man," "Solar Fox," "Kick-Man" and the "Mr. & Ms. Pac-Man Pinball."

History Making Game

Since the introduction of the "Pac-Man" video game in late 1980, approximately 100,000 machines in the U.S. have been attracting millions of players. It is known as the most successful and the largest selling coin-operated amusement game in the industry's history.

The success of the game has been chronicled in hundreds of newspapers, on all major television networks, in several national magazines and has even inspired a gold record, "Pac-Man Fever." The video celebrity is now starring in the new animated Pac-Man television series, which premiered at 7:30 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 25, on the ABC television network. According to Stan Jarocki, vice president of marketing for Bally Midway, "This is undoubtedly the first time a video game character has inspired a television series, instead of vice versa."

Success Breeds Success

Pac-Man's success led to the release of a delightful counterpart, "Ms. Pac-Man," who has developed into a sensation in her own right.

Pac-Man fever has been spreading rapidly, even into motion pictures such as Walt Disney Productions' Tron and Universal Pictures' Fast Times At Ridgemont High. In upcoming productions Pac-Man will be seen in My Little World, Jekyll And Hyde-Together Again and Petaluma Pride, in addition to two films for television, 6 Months With An Older Woman, starring John Ritter, and MTM Productions' Remington Steele.

Eddy Arnold

Eddy Arnold To Headline 1982 AMOA Banquet

CHICAGO — Eddy Arnold, legendary country music artist whose records have enjoyed extensive popularity on jukeboxes throughout his career, will headline this year's AMOA Expo banquet show on Nov. 20 in the Grand Ballroom of the Hyatt Regency Chicago Hotel. Reservations for the show are available from AMOA at $50 per person.

In the record business for more than 20 years, Arnold was honored by RCA Records in 1970 with a commemorative award for over 60 million records sold. That figure has since increased to more than 75 million and he is listed among the top four recording artists of all time in the world, surpassed only by Elvis Presley, The Beatles and Bing Crosby.

Arnold was elected to the Country Music Hall of Fame in 1966 and the following year was named Entertainer of the Year by the Country Music Assn. He has performed twice at Carnegie Hall and is credited with introducing country music there.

During the past few years, he has appeared on major network variety shows both in the U.S. and Europe. A partial list of his jukebox hits includes "Bouquet of Roses," "That's How Much I Love You," "Anytime," "Cattle Call," "Make The World Go Away," "I Want To Go With You," "The Last Word In Lonesome Is Me," "What's He Doing In My World," "Lonely Again" and "Misty Blue."

Because of limited seating in the Grand Ballroom, AMOA suggests that show reservations be made as early as possible. Further details may be obtained by contacting the AMOA office at 2000 Spring Road, Suite 220, Oak Brook, Ill. 60521 or phoning (312) 654-2662.

MVS Celebrates A Banner Sales Year In Grand Fashion

LOS ANGELES — MVS Amusements, Inc./Modern Vending Sales reported a record year in 1981-82 with a 600% increase in route operations and a 300% increase in equipment sales to operators. Commemorating these high figures, MVS owners Florence and Albert Calderon and Janie and Tom Goldberg turned the company's annual picnic into a gala weekend party.

Employees from 14 states took part in the festivities, which began with a catered buffet dinner party in one of the company's Indianapolis, Ind. warehouses on Aug. 27, and concluded on Sunday morning with a brunch for out-of-state visitors. In between the dining receptions, a wide range of activities and sports, including softball, swimming, football and tennis was enjoyed by the firm's staff and families.

One of the event's more outrageous moments occurred during the performance by Savannah, Ga. routeman Bob Talucci (aka "Bouncing Bob") and his human slingshot. Scaling a tree, he suspended a giant rubber-band from a branch 60 feet in the air. Several of the attendees at MVS's Saturday Picnic, held at the Hillside Beach Club in Westfield, Ind., took turns sitting in the rubberband and being "shot" into the air.

After the weekend came to a close MVS co-owner Al Calderon said, "It gave me the greatest sense of pride to meet all of our employees and to see so many happy, friendly faces in one place. Our employees are hardworking and dedicated. To see them all enjoy themselves made the effort worthwhile."

from non-members AMOA has issued a special mailing kit and these individuals are invited to call the AMOA office at (312) 654-2662, if they have not as yet received this material.

DATLINE EL CAJON, Calif., home of Cinematronics, Inc. Sales manager Steve Blattspieler notes that the factory has a couple of new pieces out on test which it is quite enthusiastic about and other new products on the planning board for premiere at the Nov. 17-20 AMOA convention in Chicago.

State Association News: Ohio Music & Amusement Assn. issued a bulletin earlier this month regarding a number of ordinances passed in the city of Parma, which require a permit and a fee for the installation and operation of amusement machines, in addition to a 3% tax on collections. These ordinances were contested (with OMAA as amicus curiae), the result being that a hearing was held and an equitable settlement was obtained on the licensing part of the contested ordinances. Still to be settled is the matter of the 3% tax which, OMAA warns, could have far reaching effects. . . Here's word from the newly organized Pennsylvania Amusement & Music Machine Assn. that several firms in the state have been questioned on why they do not file an IRS form 1099 for locations (collections). As explained in the PAMMA Newsletter, "shared" collections need not be reported on a 1099 so the association suggests that members consult their accountants and legal counsels before making any decision regarding the filing of this form.

The Philip Moss & Co. branch in Omaha recently moved to much larger quarters at 4404 S. 76th St. in that city. To mark the occasion a gala open house celebration was held on Sept. 19 with more than 350 people in attendance, including the various manufacturers represented by the distrib. There was a huge product display of current and brand new pieces, as noted by co-manager Steve Wolf, and plenty of food and drink (roast pig on a spit, barbeque chicken, etc.). The party was held in a 40 foot by 60 foot tent set up outdoors. Hawaiian dancing girls entertained the guests and an exciting fireworks display added the finishing touch to a delightful gathering. The new premises contain about 19,000 square feet of space for administrative offices, showroom, shipping/receiving and an enormous parts and service department.

Dateline Hialeah, Fla., home of Centuri, Inc. and a brand new video game called "Swimmer," which has just been sample shipped to the factory's distributor network. As described by sales & services coordinator Tom Siemieniec, "Swimmer" combines a "comical" theme with challenging play action. There are four phases of play and an 8-position joystick for full maneuverability of the main character (swimmer) as he follows his course in the water, avoiding various obstacles and adversaries along the way while trying to accumulate points.

Industry At A 'Crossroad,' Sega's Rosen Tells Distributors Meeting

med the "replacement market."

In Rosen's opinion, it is the transition from an expansion market, in which operators were "scrambling" for new games, to a replacement market, where "the operator looks to maintain revenues and simultaneously limit new equipment purchases," that has brought the coin-op amusement industry to a "crossroad."

He went on to say that current market conditions have been further complicated by several factors: a slow-down in average income per machine, increased competition from new locations opening near existing ones and an unprecedented explosion in the number of games on location — a figure he pegged at more than one million.

'Disastrous Consequences'

If operators continue to be "unduly conservative" in their buying decisions, it will have disastrous consequences for the industry, according to Rosen. "If new, hit games do not find their way to the marketplace in significant numbers, it will only be a matter of time before the player and location operator become disillusioned with the industry's entertainment offerings," he cautioned.

Indeed, according to Rosen, the most immediate problem facing the industry today is the "lack of conviction on the part of the operator as to the fundamental health of his operation." He urged manufacturers and distributors to work together to restore operators' confidence in the long-term prospects for the industry; this can be accomplished, he said, by instilling a "buying mentality" as the key to sustaining an operator's revenue base.

Rosen also commented on the coin industry's new relationship vis a vis other forms of entertainment. "No longer will there be large increments of growth at the expense of alternative forms of entertainment, such as motion pictures or recorded music. The coin-op amusement industry is today a major segment of the overall entertainment industry — and as such, we have a major market share to protect and nurture.

"I believe that the basic principles of consumer marketing hold the key to our industry's future prosperity," he said.

With consumer awareness, and acceptance, of arcade video games currently at an all-time high, Rosen said it is imperative that the industry capitalize on the momentum, which he called its biggest asset. "That we recognize the fundamental importance of this consumer momentum — and direct our actions positively — is, I believe, the single most crucial factor which will impact our industry in the months and years ahead," he said.

Advertising Necessary

Rosen believes the way to maintain the current level of public awareness is through television, radio and print advertising, in addition to national promotional tie-ins with major consumer-oriented companies. Not only will such activities stimulate player interest and location demand, he pointed out, but they will also push up video game revenues and enhance the industry's image.

While noting that Sega intends to use various forms of advertising to promote new game introductions, Rosen said such efforts can only be effective when accompanied by the wholehearted support of its distributor network. "In essence, the distributor is the field marketing arm of the manufacturer, in many of the same ways the distributor serves today as the manufacturer's product representative," he concluded.

Following Rosen's remarks, vice chairman Frank Fogleman introduced three new Sega games — "Pengo," "Subroc-3D" and "Tac-Scan."

Pengo, which will be featured in Sega's next series of television commercials (Sega's "Zaxxon" spots that ran in selected markets in June marked the industry's first TV commercials for an arcade video game), is a cartoon maze game set in a polar environment. It has 14 levels of play, the object of which is for Pengo, a tuxedo-attired penguin, to squash attacking snow bees against blocks of ice while avoiding their deadly sting.

"This is destined to become a classic game," Fogleman said. "The changing playfield is a unique concept that makes the game different each time you play it."

Subroc-3D is billed as the industry's first genuine three-dimensional game. The game's unique three-dimensional viewing assembly was designed by Japanese electronics giant Matsushita and is the result of a two-year development program. By teaming up with Matsushita, parent company of Panasonic, Sega was able to produce "a reliable product without the tremendous (financial) exposure if we had done it alone," according to Fogleman.

Tac-Scan, the newest addition to Sega's Convert-A-Game product line, combines the excitement of drag racing with the thrill of skydiving, Fogleman said. A space themed game, Tac-Scan allows the player to view the action from different eye-level perspectives as he maneuvers his fighter squadron against a plethora of intergalactic foes.

Other highlights of Sega's three-day (Sept. 23-25) distributors meeting included:

- A welcoming cocktail party and Mexican buffet dinner.
- A tour of Sega's new state-of-the-art manufacturing plant in nearby Rancho Bernardo, hosted by president Duane Blough and marketing director Leonard Wisz.
- A deep sea fishing excursion.
- Golf and tennis tournaments.
- A gourmet dinner and awards presentation with entertainment provided by Bobby Gordon and his band.

Full photo coverage and the complete text of David Rosen's keynote address will appear in an upcoming issue of Cash Box.

of marketing of Williams, stated, "We are delighted to have received this favorable ruling by the U.S. Court of Appeals. This decision will give the industry another powerful tool in protecting the rights of manufacturers, such as Williams, who are making significant investments in original game development."

A PAIR OF ACES YOU CAN BET ON!

EARL KLUGH AND BOB JAMES

TWO OF A KIND

Smart dealers know. If you want to win in the music game, you've got to play your cards right. And when two ace artists like Earl Klugh and Bob James play together, you've got the bullets to beat any bluff. So bet on this pair to bring you the blue chips—and a full house of customers, too.

Produced by Bob James and Earl Klugh
