EDITORIAL

This Week In Cash Box...

This edition of Cash Box marks our first annual "Sweetheart Issue" - in which we salute today's women of contemporary music, as well as those influential in all aspects of the industry. The inception of this annual spotlight will allow us to offer an in-depth overview of the women in our industry who have dominated the charts and radio in all formats. We also investigate new phenomenons and trends, offer insightful profiles, and introduce you to up and coming young performers. We will look at the powerful women in the business end of the industry: from the presidents to the publicists...

In this issue we spoke to such influential artists as Gloria Estefan, Brenda Russell and the legendary Gladys Knight, offering insightful profiles on each. We also investigated the recent teen phenomenon, spearheaded by such talented young ladies as Tiffany, Debbie Gibson and Shanice Wilson.

The Independent Way, Cash Box's unique magazine-within-a-magazine devoted to the independent music industry, has also sought out those women in music who are setting trends, whether those trends be in the area of promotion, distribution, radio, label management or in the writing and performing of recorded material. Flowers for all.

To coincide with the upcoming Country Radio Seminar (to be held in Nashville, February 11-13), we present the results of our annual "Cash Box Country Programmers' Choice Awards." The awards are tabulated from the results of ballots sent to country radio programmers at all of our reporting country stations.

This year, the Country Radio Seminar will be celebrating nearly 20 years in existence. The Seminar has grown from an original three or four dozen broadcasters to an annual attendance now approaching 1,000 country radio leaders and music industry professionals. We salute the individuals who bring us the invaluable seminar, and congratulate them on their success.

Primerica Considers Selling Musicland

By Neal St. Anthony

MINNEAPOLIS — Primerica Corp. said Tuesday that it is discussing the sale of the Musicland Group, its fast-growing record and video company based in St. Louis Park.

Primerica, which bought Musicland as part of its 1977 acquisition of Pickwick International, took the company public a year ago at $20 per share. It retained a majority ownership at 81 percent.

The announcement caused Musicland's stock to rise $5.25 a share yesterday to $29.50.

Analysts expect Primerica to sell Musicland for more than $35 a share to a smaller competitor, a big foreign company or even Musicland's management. At that price, Primerica would gross $314 million for its 81 percent stake.

Primerica, in a brief statement from its headquarters in Greenwich, Conn., said that talks have been inconclusive and that the deal is not assured. Musicland officials had no comment.

Primerica has evolved from industrial-oriented American Can, its predecessor company, into a financial services and specialty retail company. It also owns Fingerhut Corp., the direct-mail marketing firm based in Minnetonka. "Primerica increasingly has concentrated on financial services," said Parker Barnum, industry analyst at Wood Grundy in New York. "Musicland is increasingly profitable and has a great future so they're in no rush, but they would sell it at a price."

Musicland, the nation's largest specialty retailer of produced music and video home entertainment products, has been turned around by management that took over the money-losing concern in 1981.

Although Primerica said it hadn't solicited bids for Musicland, last year's public offering was considered ample advertisement of the resurgent company's prominence and potential, industry analysts said.

Under Chairman Jack Eugster, Musicland dropped the record pressing, wholesaling and other operations of its former parent, Pickwick International, to focus exclusively on the retailing of records, tapes, compact discs, video-cassettes and other products through its Musicland, Sam Goody, Discount Records and other stores. It has 616 stores in 47 states.

Musicland accounts for 14 percent of Primerica's revenues. In 1987 net income rose 71 percent to $22.6 million on sales that rose 24 percent to $510.5 million. The firm has grown through expansion and acquisition to employ more than 5,000 full- and part-time people.

Industry analysts expect its suitors to include W.H. Smith, a British retailer of stationery and recorded music, or other foreign companies that have strengthened buying power against the weakened dollar and a desire to crack the big U.S. market for discs, records and tapes.

Trans World Music of Albany, N.Y., the nation's second-largest music retailer behind Musicland, also is considered a possible buyer. The bidders might include U.S. department stores or mass merchants seeking to diversify from an apparel industry plagued by slow growth and high prices for imported clothing.

Keith Benjamin, analyst at Silberg, Rosenthal & Co. in New York, said that based on the recent sale of Warehouse Entertainment, a weaker company than Musicland, at 14 times its estimated 1988 earnings, Musicland should sell for at least $35, based on projected earnings of about $2.50 per share. "There's no question in anybody's mind about a sale," Benjamin said. "The only question is at what price."

The once-flagging retail music industry has revived around the compact disc, as customers replace their worn albums and tapes with new recordings. And even though sales of video-cassette recorders have slowed, the estimated 40 million sets in operation in the United States will provide double-digit sales demand for new tapes indefinitely. Historically, entertainment retailers have shown little sensitivity to recessions, analysts said.

RAD Kicks Off '88 Public Service Campaign

LOS ANGELES — The non-profit Rock Against Drugs (RAD) Foundation has kicked off its 1988 anti-drug campaign with the filming of a mini-video by recording artist Siedah Garrett. The spot, a 'rap' by Garrett about a 'dog on crack', is the first in a series to come in 1988.

In the past year and a half, RAD's public service announcements have appeared on MTV and other national outlets.

Danny Goldberg, RAD's president, stated "...we are continuing our philosophy of providing the production vehicle for musicians to make a positive statement about life without drugs. Extensive research illustrates that the positive, non-preachy approach is what's working best to influence American kids."

Rockers, Rappers And Raisins Gather January Gold And Platinum Honors

By Lee Jeske

NEW YORK — The January list of RIAA gold and platinum certifications shows the continuing diversification of music-buying: As such cutting-edge rap acts as Whodini, Dana Dane, and Salt N Pepa scored big, along with a heavy dose of heavy metal, such as aging British veterans as Stevie Winwood, Elton John and George Harrison and those upstart ex-prunes, The California Raisins.

Topping the list were nine multi-platinum certifications, and topping that list was Whitesnake, having slithered to a sales tally of five million copies. Also garnering multi-platinum honors in January were '87 Grammy winners Stevie Winwood's Back in the High Life and Paul Simon's Graceland (three million each), Def Leppard's Hysteria (three m), and Fleetwood Mac's Tango in the Night, John Cougar Mellencamp's The Lonesome Jubilee, George Michael's Faith (simultaneously notching up gold and platinum plaques), Randy Travis's Always and Forever, and Pink Floyd's A Momentary Lapse of Reason (two m).

Joining George Michael in the platinum parade in January were INXS' Listen Like Thieves, R.E.M.'s Documents, Billy Idol's Vital Idol, Belinda Carlisle's Heaven on Earth, Stryper's To Hell With the Devil, and (all of the following going simultaneously gold in January) Stevie Wonder's Characters, Dokken's Back for the Attack, Madonna's You Can Dance, and George Harrison's Cloud Nine (marking the ex-Beatle's first platinum album and ninth gold album).

Also scoring gold in January were Elton John Live in Australia (the bespectacled one's 21st gold album), Salt N Pepa's Hot, Cool and Vicious, The California Raisins, Stevie Winwood's Chronicles, David Sanborn's A Change of Heart, Billy Joel's Kohuept, Earth, Wind & Fire's Touch the World, Whodini's Open Sesame, Dana Dane with Fame, Tom Petty & The Heartbreakers, INXS's Shabooh Shoobah, and Squeeze's Singles: 45 and Under.

Two music videos earned RIAA awards in January: the Grateful Dead's So Far went gold, and Whitesnake Trilogy went platinum and gold.

RCA/A&M/Arista Dist. Changes Name To BMG Dist.

NEW YORK — RCA/A&M/Arista Distribution will now be officially known as BMG Distribution. According to Pete Jones, Distribution president, the name should help to eliminate any confusing abbreviations or misrepresentative connotations. Said Jones, "RCA, A&M and Arista have been, and always will be, fundamental associations of which we are very proud. Our logo reflects the origin and that pride. But over time, we have found that the name RCA/A&M/Arista Distribution has been too cumbersome for people in the industry."

Gloria Estefan And Miami Sound Machine

By Joe Levy

NEW YORK – "People always say it was an overnight success," Gloria Estefan says of Miami Sound Machine's good fortunes. "Well if it was a very, very long night. It was a big struggle." It was a bigger struggle than most people know, but the pay off has been worth it, because Gloria Estefan and Miami Sound Machine are one of the biggest success stories of the last few years. Their present record, Let Loose (Epic), has been out for ten months, and it's climbing back up the charts on the strength of their current No. 30 single, "Can't Stay Away from You." And the kudos just keep coming in: producer/percussionist Emilio Estefan, Gloria's husband, was recently honored with a Grammy nomination for Producer Of The Year. "I think it's one of the biggest things that's ever happened to us," Gloria.

Most people know Miami Sound Machine for "Conga," the '85 salsa-fueled smash off of Primitive Love that broke MSM in the American pop market. But most people don't know about Miami Sound Machine's phenomenal Latin-American track record prior to "Conga." Primitive Love was their second all English language LP, but in their nine years together before that album they had seven smash Spanish language albums for CBS International. In their hometown they were big enough stars that Miami renamed the street where Gloria and Emilio live "Miami Sound Machine Boulevard."

Things have changed since then. For one thing, MSM are even bigger now. For another, Gloria and Emilio are moving. "We're moving to an island," explains Gloria. "One of the islands off Miami. It's called Star Is-

Gladys Knight And The Pips: Still Hot After 35 Years

By Lee Jeske

"What can I say?," says Gladys Knight, when asked how things were going. "I woke up this morning, I've got a record that's moving – hey, everything's great."

Sounds like the story of her life. Gladys Knight and the Pips have been together for 35 years (with the exception of a single Pip change some 25 years ago) – since Gladys was eight years old. In a fickle business – a business where a partnership like Wham! goes poof! moments after it goes boom! – Gladys Knight and the Pips have been a constant

HEART

I Want You So Bad (4:15) - Capitol (P-B-44116) - Billy Steinberg Music-Denise Barry Music/ASCAP - B. Steinberg-T. Kelly - Producer: R. Nevison

Another offering from the hugely successful LP Bad Animals. Ann Wilson here plays her voice like Eric Clapton plays the guitar, soulful-soaring at times to emotional and technical highs. Producer Ron Nevison creates huge, majestic backing for Wilson's vocal pyrotechnics.

OUT OF THE BOX

LEVERT

Sweet Sensation (3:50) - Atlantic (7-89124) - Trycep Music Pub. Co.-Ferncliff Music/BMI - G. Levert-M. Gordon - Producers: G. Levert-M. Gordon-C. Cooper

Levert crafts an excellent tune that progresses smartly to a really hooky chorus. They're soulful singers, who understand the law of understatement. Production-wise, the record uses some high bells and pulsating base under the chorus to create a sonic contrast, another auditory hook. Sounds like a hit on Black Contemporary and CHR radio.

This is a cool, moving groove for Winwood to articulate Will Jennings' story of a lonely visionary coping with life in the big city. Steve Winwood creates truth in the smallest touches - breaking the stride right before the chorus he breaks into it with only the slightest deflation of spirit, perfectly mirroring the point of the song.

BOBBY WOMACK

Outside Myself (4:19) - MCA (MCA-53263) - Prize Creation-Tenacious Tunes-Jonathan Apple Song-Evan Ash Music/BMI - G. M. Elian-R. Ash-B. Rothstein - Producers: B. Womack-F. Hamilton.

There is no one who can out-gravel Womack, except maybe Satchmo or Tom Waits, but Bobby's brand of rough crooning is at the same time smooth as taffy. He can go up to a falsetto in the same breath and leave us breathless. Already a legend, this song only confirms that Womack's fame is much less than he deserves.

MELI'SA MORGAN Here Comes The Night (3:59) - Capitol (B-44022) - Music Corp. of America Inc.-Bayjun Beat Music/BMI - C. Sturken-E. Rogers - Producers: Kashif-C. Sturken-E. Rogers

A sensuously produced medium-slow track, that brims with deft sonic brushstrokes of percussion and keys. Meli'sa is under control as she slips her way into your ears with her soothing soul. An alluring track demanding airplay.

BILLY OCEAN - Get Outta My Dreams, Get Into My Car (4:43) - Jive (JS1-9678) - Zomba Enterprise Inc./ASCAP - B. Ocean-R. Lange - Producers: R. Lange

"Mutt" Lange is a brilliant producer, pulling all kinds of sounds of his hat and creating a feast for the ears. Ocean's at his best with this slightly dangerous song. He really digs in and delivers.

GREENWAY - In The Danger Zone (4:08) - Atlantic (7-89118) - Windfall Music-Roxamillion Music-Irrational Music-Sack Cymbal Music/BMI - B. Greenway-T. Howe - Producers: M. Simon-P. Northfield

Former April Wine member Brian Greenway delivers a well designed and powerful cut from his Atlantic album Serious Business. Should do extremely well on AOR radio.

THE CURE - Hot Hot Hot!!! (3:33) - Elektra (7-69424) - Bleu Disque Music Co./ASCAP - Smith-Gallup-Thompson-Williams-Tolhurst - Producers: D. Allen-R. Smith

The Cure go funky, funky, funky with a shakin' track that sizzles with energy. Tribal chant vocal keeps the whole thing appropriately left of center, to the relief of their fans. Strange, but really fun. Should excel on dance radio.

CHARLIE SINGLELTON & MODERN MAN - Thank You (falettinmebemicelfagain) (3:52) - Epic (34-07719) - Mijac Music adm. Warner-Tamerlane/BMI - S. Stone - Producers: C. Singleton-MM

An energetic and fresh remake of Sly Stone's classic number. These guys are popping like corn in hot oil, keeping everything dry and choppy. This version should keep entire nations dancing well into the morning. Great.

ROBERT PLANT - Heaven Knows (4:40) - Atlantic (7-99373) - Virgin Music Pub. - D. Barrett-P. Johnstone - Producers: T. Palmer-R. Plant

From the Es Paranza Album Now and Zen, this is a fascinating song for Plant to sing, with a powerful, broken drum feel and big backgrounds. Should do extremely well on AOR.

DAVE WAKELING - She's Having A Baby (3:45) IRS (IRS-53238) - Famous Music Corp.-Nancy Hughes Songs-IRS Songs, Inc.-MCA Music Pub./ASCAP - D. Wakeling-I. Ritchie - Producer: S. Levine

From the John Hughes film of the same name, Wakeling applies his unique rock-pop synthesis with an almost sixty-ish feel. Reminiscent of some of Paul Simons earlier work.

CLANNAD - Something To Believe In (3:59) - RCA (6868-7-RAA) - Clannad Music/ BMG Music Ltd. PRS - C. Brennan - Producers: R. Kunkel-G. Ladanyi

A lovely song and arrangement, with Bruce Hornsby lending a hand on harmony voice and piano. Maire Brennan and family know how to make emotion on a record. From the album Sirius.

ROSIE FLORES

ROSIE FLORES - In keeping with this issue's "sweetheart" theme, Points West decided to contact one of Los Angeles most prized possessions, Reprise recording artist Rosie Flores. Flores first gained West Coast notoriety as the focal point of the The Screamin' Sirens, an all-girl rock/country/thrash band who made quite an impact on the local club scene (and released a critically acclaimed LP, Fiesta, on the Enigma label). Not long ago, Flores amicably departed the ranks of the Sirens to pursue her own career. She signed a solo deal with the rejuvenated Warner/Reprise label and, together with producer Pete Anderson (Dwight Yoakam, George Highfill, etc.), released one of the most startling debut LPs in recent memory. Since the release of Rosie Flores, L.A.'s best-kept secret is no longer... besides gaining recognition at the hard-to-crack country level, Flores has retained her loyal L.A. following - as is continually introducing hoards of new fans to the joys of her special brand of traditional country music.

Flores, who began her career performing country, explained her decision to leave the Screamin' Sirens to go solo: "I felt it was the right time to leave the Sirens, I had been with them for four years and I was really itching to go back to singing country music." She submitted a demo tape to Warner Bros. records, who instantly realized the artist's potential: "I had some real positive response from Warners on the demo I sent in... After they signed me to the demo deal, they decided to sign me as a singles artist." It was after seeing Flores perform live that the label realized what they had and immediately signed her to an album contract. The result was her auspicious debut, Rosie Flores.

Flores is currently gearing up to head into the studio to record her second LP with veteran producer Ray Baker (Merle Haggard, Charley Pride, George Strait). "I really like the sound he got," Flores explained. "His music sounds very country and he doesn't really come from a pop [background]."

"I stopped listening to country radio because it was getting so 'pop'. The only reason I started listening to it again was because there are people like Randy Travis out there who are producing some real good music and real good songs with that 'rootsy' sound that made me fall in love with country to begin with. I think one of the last great country artists was Gary Stewart, and when they stopped playing him is when I stopped listening to country radio."

Flores resists the idea of altering her sound to make it more acceptable to a pop-oriented audience, she would rather record the way she enjoys most and hope people will lend an ear and like what they hear. Take for example such artists as Randy Travis, Dwight Yoakam, and the trio of Linda Ronstadt, Dolly Parton and Emmylou Harris, who have all enjoyed success with large audiences while retaining their traditional sound. "To keep me happy and also to keep the people at Warner Brothers happy, I would be best sticking to my guns and doing country the way I've been doing it and the way that I was doing it when I got signed," Flores stated. "It is a man's world out there, and I think it is a little harder for a woman to be taken seriously - I think it might take a little longer for me to be taken seriously for what I'm doing. If people see me sticking to it with my heart, they'll realize that I'm not just trying to ride a trend."

No one who has heard Rosie Flores could possibly accuse her of trying to 'ride a trend' - if anything, what this talented woman is doing is creating a trend. After all, Patsy Cline started out somewhere, didn't she?... Some may find that an extreme comparison - but before you doubt, listen... you'll be impressed.

HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY! CHIVALRY AIN'T DEAD, DEPT. - This being the "sweetheart" issue and all, I would like to salute a few of the label sweethearts who make my life much easier with all their cooperation and help: Meryl Zukowsky from Warner Bros.; Lisa Millman over at Elektra; A&M's Laura Swanson; Hanna Bolte at MCA; Joy Broome at Capitol; EMI's Angee Jenkins; Milhan Gorkey at Chrysalis (New York); Grace Ensenat at Slash; Island's Loni Emmert and Rachael Donovan; and, especially, Kathy Acquaviva and Shelly Andranigian over at Atlantic. ...I want to marry all of you...

Ray Price

by Joe Henderson

Once you have heard him sing, you won't forget him or his voice! He may perform in a tuxedo, but Ray Price always has his boots on. Those are country roots boots...Texas type. Yes, Ray Price has brought sophistication to country music, has been an innovator, and has developed a dignity and finesse in representing his beloved country music. Ray has never accepted the thesis that country music is restricted or secondary to any art form. He has given country music a new depth and perception through his career. If any man has expanded his own art form, it has surely been Ray Price.

The native Texan became a member of the Grand Ole Opry twenty five years ago, and his popularity with country music fans has spanned the quarter century and never waned. In fact, his album sales, today, are simply astounding in number. Step One Records is proud of the success and excitement Ray Price has created for their label.

Ray has a new single, "Big Old Teardrops," which has just been released. After hearing a sneak preview in Ray Pennington's office, I must say that Ray Price has another in a long line of super hits coming your way. Ray Pennington is vice president of Step One Records, and he smiles when he speaks of Ray Price (as well he should). "His new album is the best since the 'For The Good Times' album! It's titled 'Just Enough Love', and the title cut on the album was Ray's latest chart climbing single. But, his new single will also put Ray back on top of the charts."

Ray Price packs the house whenever he makes a personal appearance. The fans don't forget the country classics which have come from the heart and lips of Ray Price. Songs like "Release Me," "Crazy Arms," "City Lights," "Heartaches By The Number," "Burning Memories," and "For The Good Times," just to mention a few, are requested by his fans at each and every performance. They remember those songs and rejoice at Ray's new releases.

Ray Price's career has spanned three decades, and the devotion of his fans keeps getting stronger. Pennington said, "We plan on making the biggest push on Ray that we have done to date. We have put Ray's albums on national TV for the past 18 months, and the sales have been fantastic! That goes to show you just how popular the man is with the country fans out there in the world."

Ray Price once said, "I never felt I had to come in the back door." And, he never has! Ray has found new doors to open, and he has opened them, not only for himself, but for others who have followed him. Certain to be a member of the Country Music Hall of Fame, Ray Price has earned the titles of "master" and "legend" through the lights of his talent and efforts.

His outstanding albums are available through Step One Records in Nashville. Currently, Step One has no less than eight of his albums in production, including the brand new "Just Enough Love."

Personally, I have been a staunch Ray Price fan since my teens. There is something unforgettable about his voice and style. The man, the master, and the legend simply keep on happening. So, to Ray Price, I would say..."When it comes to country music, Our Shoes Keep Walkin' Back To You!"

TALENT ON STAGE

Tina Turner

MARACANA STADIUM, RIO DE JANEIRO - The summer of '88 - because it is summer already here in Brazil - will go down as the time when Brazil firmly and finally established itself as an important stop on the international rock circuit.

Sting visited Brazil in November for a lengthy tour, which culminated in a show for 120,000 at Maracana, the world's largest soccer stadium. Tina Turner followed with a short tour, culminating at Maracana, in January.

Tina Turner's Rio concert was a memorable event. Not only did it attract the largest audience of her career - estimates vary between 110,000 and 180,000 spectators - but it also closed out the Break Every Rule Tour, which has been criss-crossing the world since early 1987.

According to Tina, and her manager Roger Davies, it will have been her last major outdoor stadium concert for some considerable time, as she now intends to concentrate on recordings and films. As the concert was her last, and biggest, show, it was captured by Brazil's TV Globo as a TV special, and transmitted live for the US for HBO.

As a live transmission, it counted on a few added surprises, the first of which was Turner's choice of the Beija-Flor samba school to fill the role of support act to warm up the

The Reivers

by Julius Robinson

LOS ANGELES - From deep in the heart of Austin Texas, home of one of the liveliest roots-rock scenes in the nation, there springs the Reivers. They are one of the best out of that fertile region. Founder-writer-singer-guitarist John Crosline started the band in 1984 along with another University of Texas student, singer-guitarist Kim Longacre. Along with bassist Cindy Toth and drummer Garrett Williams they formed a band under their old name Zeitgeist. The band put together a 3 song EP on their own label, Kickwood Records, distributing it themselves at their gigs and to record stores. The EP caught the attention of the fans and critics (especially the acclaimed tune "Freight Train Rain") and the band was on its way. In '85 the Atlanta based DB Records signed them and they produced Translate Slowly which included parts recorded by Crosline in an underground parking garage. The album went on to be a hot-selling indie. Changing their name to the Reivers (from the William Faulkner novel), they were soon signed to a major deal with Capitol.

Saturday is the Reivers' new album, on which John Crosline wrote all the songs except for "In Your Eyes" (the single) and "Wait for Time" which were written with Kim Longacre. It is an album of lyrical depth, with a definite southern rock flair. The album was produced by Don Dixon, whose credits include REM, Marshall Crenshaw, Smitherens and Fetchin Bones.

"(Dixon) pulled the album together, and made it cohesive," says Crosline. "He helped us learn how to sing most effectively in the studio. He helped us pull together the loose ends. We wanted to work with him for a long time. He's so busy, it's lucky we got together."

As the main songwriter, Crosline talked about what he wants a song to accomplish. "I hope that a song makes me feel better, and consequently the listener too. Now, the song on the album 'A Test' that's the most angry song. It's about looking at the future and not seeing a lot of hope there. It's a song about being mad that things are not working out. Now things are working out real well...that song was written at a different time in my life."

Real well indeed. The Reivers Capitol deal and the LA scene are new experiences for the laid back Crosline. "The LA audiences, compared to the Austin crowds, are a little more critical. You're playing for people that are listening, so it's cool in that way. As far as the major record deal, well it's more money than an indie deal. We're still not making enough to keep our kids in diapers, through. The only negative thing is some of our fans expect us too sell out and put out a piece of crap. The people at Capitol have been real liberal about us being the deciders of our own fate."

The selection of the single, however, was left up to the label. "We deferred to the experience of the record company. I'm not sure if there was really one clear radio single on the album. But I think that's good, just about every song is a good song, and that's what's important to me. If one works out as a radio single, that's great."

Crosline believes in pre-planning before going into the studio. "Up to this point we've been arranging our songs in practice. That might change when we start making records quicker. We had two and a half years for this one." The album has a rough edge to it, with very few keyboards

Turner joined the samba school, who were placed to one side of the stage, and actually took to the stage via one of Beija-Flor's magnificent Carnival floats, blasting straight into Robert Palmer's "Addicted to Love."

For the Rio concert, Turner had to split her show into two separate segments, the first being a whirlwind one-hour to fit the HBO schedule. In that hour, Turner rang through many of the biggest hits from her most recent albums, including memorable readings of "Private Dancer," "We Don't Need Another Hero," and "Help," changing clothes four times in the process.

Despite her magnificent performance, she was nearly upstaged by the audience, who, to express their delight, decided to throw the fans they had been given into the night skies. The sight of 100,000 fans bobbing and weaving through the night made for an extraordinary spectacle.

Turner closed her one-hour HBO set with "Nutbush City Limits," but immediately returned after another costume change for a final highly-charged half-hour, closing the tour out with "Paradise is Here," a particularly strong hit for her in Brazil.

Strangely, Tina Turner had picked up only limited airplay prior to the concert, but exploded after the show with most of the main FM stations giving heavy airplay to the new "Tina Live" album, which had been rush-released in Brazil in time for the Christmas market.

Christopher Pickard

DEBBIE GIBSON - She's part of the only truly exciting thing in pop music today. And I'd like her to be my Valentine.

LOVER'S ROCK - Let's not get into it, but I hate Valentine's Day. A holiday is a hateful thing when the celebration only rubs your nose in your own misery, and lately everything from department store windows to a Charlie Brown TV special has been reminding me that an empty heart is an empty life.

They say that where life fails us, popular culture fills in the gaps. So this Valentine's Day I think I'll do what I did last Valentine's Day day, and the year before that, and the year before that. I think I'll stay home and listen to records.

Nothing special in that, I do it most days. But this year I think I'll break a personal V-Day tradition and leave the Irma Thomas records on the shelf. Thomas's "It's Raining" has helped me through more than one or two of rough spots. Irma Thomas, the Queen of New Orleans Soul, recorded this Allen Toussaint penned and produced soul ballad in 1963. A chorus of female voices - "drip, drop, drip, drop" - set up the inescapable rhythm of rain on the window, and, Christ, you know that the last thing you need - and the first thing you get - when you've got the blues is bad weather. Though her career saw its fair share of testifying (enough to win the admiration of Mick Jagger and Otis Redding, who covered her recordings of "Time Is On My Side" and "Ruler Of My Heart" - as "Pain In My Heart" - respectively), on "It's Raining" Thomas's vocal has a controlled, quiet fortitude. Not resignation, not struggle: just another night when her man is gone and the rain makes her think of times when he was there and how this would be the right time for holding him tight. "I guess I'll just go crazy tonight," Thomas sings simply. Sometimes life is like that.

Irma Thomas is still the Queen, and I'll be there both nights when she plays the Lone Star Cafe on February 18 and 19. But this year calls for something more than the world-weary acknowledgement of everyday (and everynight) existence. I've got daily headlines for that. This year calls for something more insouciant. This year I want to dance my way out of my restrictions. This year calls for Debbie Gibson.

A lot of people laugh when I tell them I love Debbie Gibson. A lot of people think it's a camp affection for the mechanically reproduced refuse of the junk culture. A lot of people just don't get it.

Sixteen years old when she entered our lives, now seventeen, she presently languishes in some high school somewhere on Long Island. She'd like to go on tour, but she's waiting to graduate. She writes all her songs, plays on the record, co-produces some tracks, and has Billy Joel ranked three steps below God on her Thanks list. Every single song on her debut, Out Of The Blue (Atlantic), is a love song. It's either a song about being together, being apart, or realizing how much it hurts to be apart or together. "I was half now I'm whole...wake up to love...I just can't shake your love...As real as it might seem it was only in my dreams." Every single song on the record. This is the Lover's Discourse of popular music: a meta-pop where all lyrics are based on other lyrics, predicated on every notion of romance that can be received and retransmitted. It also, for the most part, kicks like the soundtrack to the James Brown 30 Minute Aerobic Workout for Young Boys And Girls.

Debbie Gibson is the best part of the only truly exciting thing happening in popular music today: hot-Latin-teen-Miami-Sound-disco. Not good, but exciting. In a medium which gets its life-changing force from the seconds of pleasure which make up the pop moment, exciting means good, but there's just no explaining that to some people.

Company B, Cover Girls, Brenda K. Starr, Expose, just about all of the recent Sleeping Bag greatest hits package and Profile's house sampler, and of course, Pepsi and Shirley, especially Pepsi and Shirley this week. Together they form an aesthetic collective centered in the clubs and on the radio. Together they are The Voice of Disembodied Desire. This is music stripped of the specificity of personality and experience - it's often nothing more than techno blip vocals over an overactive beat - but that DESIRE is very, very real. I know you've heard this explanation before, and I know it's lame, but it's also unavoidable: at a time when the miracle of physical love could get you killed, the Voice of Disembodied Desire will have to do.

Does all this add up to the rebirth of Eisenhower-era teen idols? Emotionally hollow formulaic music with a glamorous facade...I dunno, but I figure this stuff is even more vacuous than all that, and far more funky. It's harmless. It's fun. Who cares? Live, dance, and find love this Valentine's Day. Only in your dreams.

except some piano on "Saturday" and organ here and there. "Guitars sound so good...we don't have a synthesizer, so we don't use one. I'm still just trying to master the guitar!"

As far as musical influences, Croslin's are wide...from the Beatles to Elvis Costello to ZZ Top. "We've had people say we sound like X, like the Mama's and the Papa's, the Jefferson Airplane, REM, Velvet Underground...that to me means we don't sound like anybody."

The Reivers are beginning work on

presence, a dependable sea of musical sanity in a world of entertainment upheavals. There have been moments when they've been hot and moments when they've been cool, but Gladys Knight and the Pips have always been around. Right now, with "Love Overboard" - their first single from "All Our Love" (their first MCA album) - having reached the top of the Black Contemporary chart, Gladys Knight and the Pips are very, very hot.

"I'm just trying to hang in there," says Gladys Knight, "and I'm just trying to apply basic philosophies of life to whatever I do, and maybe it helps me. I really don't know what the key is. I've basically had control over the things I do and I'm just trying to do the best I can. It's what I would tell my kids: Try to be the best at what you do. You've got to work hard, ain't no getting around it. Even in our business - and it happens to some people - overnight success can be harder than getting their slow. Because you've got to work triple hard to stay there. Like our choreographer, Pops, used to tell us all the time, he'd say: 'Once you get to the top, then people start looking for little things to tear you down.' You know? When you're on your way up, it's like, 'Yeah, they're alright.' But once you get there, it goes back the other way. So you've got to be very intentional about honing your craft, being able to compete. It's hard to stay up there. It's like life: you've got to work for what you get, don't think nobody's going to give you nothing. Even if you have talent, it's more than that."

The curriculum vitae: Gladys Knight begins singing at the age of four, wins Ted Mack's Amateur Hour at the age of seven, forms Pips at the age of eight. First top ten record, "Every Beat of My Heart," in 1961. Other hits include "I Heard It Through the Grapevine," "Friendship Train," "Midnight Train to Georgia," "Help Me Make It Through the Night," "Neither One of Us," "If I Were Your Woman," "Best Thing That Ever Happened to Me," "I've Got To Use My Imagination," and "Save the Overtime (For Me)." Previous record labels include Motown, Budah and Columbia.

One thing that has kept Gladys Knight and the Pips timeless, perhaps, is their sound: a romantic, lightly-funky, snuggling-in-the-night sound that never really goes out of date.

"Well, you know, it all comes back to love," says Gladys Knight. "It's just like life - everything revolves back around to what love is all about. Maybe that's why I like a ballad like I do, because it never grows old. Ballads, the whole thing of what a ballad's all about - which is love - is just timeless."

Gladys Knight has been quietly branching out into other avenues of late - acting (she has a small role in an upcoming Eddie Murphy movie) and producing (she produced Sisters in the Name of Love, the HBO special starring herself, Patti LaBelle and Dionne Warwick).

"You have to be intentional when you try to be diversified," she says, "or when you try to be more than one thing - you have to be careful that you don't mess up everything. So right now, I'm concentrating on Gladys Knight and the Pips, but I'm also cultivating other areas. Like acting - I really want to be good at that. I don't want to move over there and say, 'Well, I'm Gladys Knight and I've got a following, so I should go into the movies.' I respect those people who do that all the time; they put a lot of their lives and time into what they do, just like I put a lot of my time and my life on this side, in what I do. So I must practice. If I respect them, I must hone this talent that I feel like I have. I want to get better, and someday I will do something noteworthy."

"And I'm working on another TV special, as a producer. With Sisters, I wanted to bring some quality entertaining, innovative variety back to television, to give people an option. I know there are experts in the business that, every day, are trying to do this. And I'm not claiming that I'm an expert, but I just know in my heart that I had something special to give. When it comes to music, I've had 40 years in it, so I felt like I could produce this and present it. When you see my name on a musical piece, I want you to be able to identify that, to know it's going to be a quality piece, to know it's going to be entertaining, and to know it's going to be something unexpected. That's what I'm trying to do as far as my musical

EXCEPTIONAL TALENT-Our special sweethearts issue would not be complete without a few special words about Ornetta Barber Vice President Black Music Marketing for WEA.

Born and partially raised in St Louis, Missouri, Ornetta joined Warner Communications, Inc as a management trainee in September, 1978 after receiving a Bachelor of Arts degree in Radio and Television broadcasting from California State University/Los Angeles.

She was one of nine trainees selected out of a field consisting of more than 1,000 applicants. After a year with Elektra/Asylum as an apprentice, she became a full time member of E/A in Los Angeles as chart and store report coordinator, pop and R&B and as a key retail account contact. She was later elevated to senior director of national research. In June of 1986, she joined WEA as director of Black Music Marketing.

While working with Elektra, Ornetta never stopped taking her community commitment seriously. She is remembered fondly by the people she has helped and inspired under the guidance of one of her mentors, Mary Henry director of the Avalon-Carver Community Center and member of the Compton School Board. For eight years, under the guidance of the late Betty Myles, Ornetta was associate producer of the very popular "Frankly Female" public affairs program on KHJ-TV (channel 9) Los Angeles.

A very special salute to one of the best executives in the entertainment business, Ms Ornetta Barber.

HONORING CHOLLY-For half a century, Cholly Atkins has been the giver in the world of entertainment. But now the musical stars and friends in his life have decided that it's time for Cholly to be the recipient. On Saturday evening, February 27, 8pm, the Wiltern Theatre will be the site of a massive musical outpouring of love to Charles "Cholly Atkins.

"High Steppin' With Cholly" will be a grand, once-in-a-lifetime tribute. The O'Jays, The Temptations, Gladys Knight & The Pips, Ron Townsend and Mary Wilson love Cholly. They'll show it by performing before the audience of 2500. News of this event is spreading quickly. Each day, the roster of performers increases.

Cholly and his friends have decided that this tribute to his past should also impact the future. The proceeds from "High Steppin' With Cholly" will be used to foster the careers and progress of blacks in music through the Black Music Association and the BMA Foundation Projects, in the creative and business arenas of the music industry.

Tickets are on sale at the Wiltern Theatre Box Office, 3900 Wilshire

Boulevard, or call 213-388-1400. For any additional information call the Black Music Association at 215-732-2460.

ON JAZZ

BETTY - "I recorded for record labels, but there was really hardly any promotion," says Betty Carter, who, since 1970, has put her records out on her own Bet-Car label. "What record companies tend to do about jazz is that, if the market says that jazz is only one percent or ten percent or three percent or five percent of the business, this is all that they seem to put their initiative in. 'Okay, we're going to sell 10,000 records, so let's just put out 10,000 records.'

"I still think there is a wider market out there for jazz, but I think that the record companies just tend to lean over and deal with the percentage that they've been going with all these years. So that is the problem - if you sell a record, the record company will just put the record out there; and if it doesn't sell, then that's the end of it. But I think that, like they do in the pop field, they should put more into it. I think that we would develop a much wider market for jazz. Because I think that the time is really right for a new audience."

The time, it would seem, is really right for Betty Carter. One of our very best jazz singers - indeed, one of the very few bonafide jazz singers - Betty Carter is about to put out her first major label album in years. Verve will release a new Betty Carter album in the spring and, on top of that, will issue all the Bet-Car albums - and there are some mighty fine Bet-Car albums - in all three formats. To date, Bet-Car has been a vinyl-only operation.

Besides her prowess as a vocalist - and there is nothing in jazz quite like the sight and sound of Betty Carter singing herself into a corner on a standard, reinterpreting the lyrics so that you hear a song you've known all your life and hear ironies where there were never ironies before - Betty Carter has been one of the most eloquent drum-beaters for jazz. She sits on panels, she makes speeches, she has been very vocal in her opinion about what is jazz, what isn't jazz, and what's happening in this art form.

"Well, Wynton's taken over for me now, he's doing it now. And the thing about him doing it is he's a man and he's a classical person, which gains a lot of respect. And he's young. And when young people see a young person telling them this or that, they seem to be more affected by that. I thought that the young people seeing me with young people playing with me would help. And it does help. But with Wynton, with the kind of press he's been getting, he's been really effective in getting a lot of young black kids interested in the music. Because that's really what I'm interested in dealing with: getting young black kids interested in this music.

"The white colleges - the large colleges - have brought us to their colleges. In the black colleges, we have not had the chance to really get down there and sell, sell, sell, sell this music like we should. And when we do bring this music to the black colleges, we bring down a bunch of old fuddy-duddies. And young kids are not interested in looking at old fuddy-duddies, the think it's old-time music. So if they brought a bunch of young kids down there, their peers, I think it would be more effective. So now that Wynton's doing it, I'll just let him do that. And I'll still continue to do my thing, because it's all about the culture, it's all about black culture. I want to make these young kids realize that it was the black people who started this wonderful music of jazz, and not Dave Brubeck.

"In fact, I was in Ann Arbor recently and there was a group of young black kids who came to seem me. And one of the students asked me, 'Why are there more white people here than black people?' You see what I mean?"

Another project that should see the light of a record release this year is a very unusual meeting of a pair of jazz divas. Betty Carter and Carmen McRae recorded together live at San Francisco's Great American Music Hall, but the release of the record has been held up due to some legal wrangling. Betty is confident that it will be sorted out soon, and this unique item - which she says is "very, very, very good. Very interesting and very good" - will hit the streets.

"They've got to market jazz, they've got to do better," says Betty Carter about the record company powers that be. "I hope I can inspire PolyGram and Verve, I hope I can have a real affect on their marketing side of the business. The companies can just promote the artists they get a little better. And they can get good artists, young good artists who have the enthusiasm, the inspiration, the love for the music, so that they won't have to defect later on. Let them stay in the business a little longer, so they can just improve on their art, get better and better, and not have to say, 'Well, nothing's happening to me, so I guess I'll just go over and get a hit record and be unhappy.'

"I don't want that to happen."

A Special Sweetheart Salute

Women In Music Make The Music Happen

Two of the hottest songs on the Top 100 charts in every trade publication are 4th & Broadway's "Pump Up The Volume" by M/A/R/R/S and Next Plateau's "Push It" by Salt-n-Pepa.

It's unusual enough to see independent product reach this level . . . to fulfill the airplay and sales criteria necessary to entering the chart stratosphere, being in the top twenty with a bullet . . . and it is doubly remarkable when both those records are being brought home by companies with women at the helm.

Jenniene Leclerc, partner and co-owner of Next Plateau, the label home of the dynamic female duo Salt-n-Pepa, has strengthened the company's internal operations while achieving a tremendous market growth and a higher degree of visibility for her label and its artists. Her long range goals include the hope for broader, wider-ranging success, with controlled upward growth that will see Next Plateau becoming even more dominant in the years to come.

Cathy Jacobson, who is vice-president and general manager of 4th & Broadway as well as Antilles and Mango Records, is responsible for coordination of all sales, marketing and promotion efforts in addition to personally arranging for the independent distribution of the product. In addition to her success with M/A/R/R/S, Jacobson also enjoyed chart action last year with Eric B. & Rakim's "I Know You Got Soul" and "I Ain't No Joke" and their enormously successful album Payed In Full, which is still on the Top 100 Albums charts after 26 weeks.

Both these women have broken ground through their competitive spirit and their continuing belief that all things are possible. The Independent Way is happy to recognize and salute their contribution to the independent record industry.

The Girls of Satellite

Competition Is The Name of The Game

TINA MOORE
Executive Director

"We intend to compete . . . and we intend to win." So speaks the dynamo whose energy provides the driving force behind the business and administrative operations of both Satellite Records and its sister company, PACM International Music.

"I'm not in this business by accident, it's a business I grew into through the years, - through watching it happen, and participating in all phases of the industry while my husband and partner, Pete Moore (an original member of Smokey Robinson and the Miracles) went through Motown's Musical University. Believe me, it was quite an education. Publishing, booking, managing, public relations . . . we picked up all the tools of the trade and we learned how to use them."

Tina has applied that knowledge and experience in breathing life into the company that's very name places it in the stratosphere of the entertainment industry, Satellite Records.

DENISE STEWART
Recording Artist

Following the advice Denise offers in her debut album title, Check Me Out, Cash Box did just that. What we found was a personable young artist with a 4-1/2 octave plus vocal range, a songwriter, a producer and a strong advocate of the Satellite label and its policies and philosophies.

"I have some freedom here, I allowed to go where my talent take me. For instance, I have been writing for "Magic Lady" one of Motown's newest acts and Tina gives me her total support. I'm not sure that would be true elsewhere." Among Denise's upcoming projects are doing the producing chores for Satellite's newest recording artist Shakeena, and continuing to hone her songwriting skills with an eye towards her own second album.

SHAKEENA
Recording Artist

"There is a definite freshness about Shakeena," says label head Tina Moore about her newly signed artist. "She has a unique style that is true to her heritage without losing its commercial value. In the last few months working with her both from a business stand point and watching what's happening as she and Denise work on her LP in the studio, I have come to realize that this artist is going to generate a lot of interest. In fact, we have simply named her debut album Shakeena because it is a reflection of the artist, and needs no other title."

The self-titled LP is scheduled for an April release. Watch for the review in The Independent Way

Kat On a Hot Vinyl Record

PR Sweetheart

Music Business Institute, she accepted an internship with the Mark Pucci organization, which led to her present position handling national tour publicity.

Kat's PR style is southern-warm . . . honey-baked . . . a "pleased as punch" kind of approach that has served her well in working with clients which include such blues labels as King Snake, HighTone, Black Top and Landslide as well as with groups such as Elektra's Guadalcanal Diary.

Kat says, "No matter what I do in the future, I know it will be music industry oriented. I'm a music person, and that won't change."

Mark Pucci and Associates' Kat Stratton has been pushing product, groups, solo artists and nightspots for the last three years. A native of Virginia, Kat is a graduate of the Tidewater School of Broadcasting. After relocating to Atlanta to attend the

The Cat Women of Austin

Austin, Texas is just one of a handful of "alternative" music hotbeds that grew out of the musical stagnation of the seventies. At the heart of this movement were individuals whose lives were literally centered around the music scene. One evening in 1981 at Club Foot, a happenin' night spot at the time, two of these personalities met. Laura Croteau, a bass player educated in Radio/TV/Film production, and Stacey Cloud, a native Texan with an art background, hit it off immediately. And so began the collaboration that would eventually become Rabid Cat Records.

Executive producer Croteau and her band La Danza recorded an EP on Laura's own Frodo Records. Due to legal pressure from Tolkein enterprises, the label was forced to change its name. And thus, in 1984, Rabid Cat Records was born. The first release on the new label was the single, "I Hate Myself/Bad Times" by the Offenders. Later that same year, two other 7" EP's would be released by stablemates Not For Sale and N.O.T.A. (None Of The Above). The beginning of 1985 would see the release of what was, and still is, Rabid Cat's biggest seller to date - Scratch Acid's 12" EP. From this point on, the label would release only LP's. Full-length albums followed by the likes of the Offenders, N.O.T.A., Not For Sale, and Scratch Acid. It was the latter release that sports the limited edition spectrum paper cover. Although sales were good, Rabid Cat faced the problem of being pigeonholed into the role of "Austin's hardcore label." Last year, the eclectic releases by new artists Happy World and Texas Instruments would change all that.

"Our approach from the beginning has been to hand select bands that seem to be bursting with potential, and we would develop their careers; then, us as a label would grow along with our bands...We like to consider ourselves a breeding ground for new bands." Cloud and Croteau are totally committed to excellence. They allow their bands 100% artistic control and work hand-in-hand with them on every step of each project. The two women work A & R together. With Laura being the risk taker and Stacey playing "the guardian of sane planning," they complement each other perfectly. Cloud's main responsibilities center around the designing and laying out of record jackets, lyric sheets, advertising, and all other creative aspects in general. She is also the label's own radio promotion department. Croteau basically handles the "business" end of the company, while also playing chief publicist. The label has a distribution deal with Mordam Records of San Francisco. Run by Ruth Schwartz, this is the company that also distributes the women-run and controversial label, Alternative Tenacles. In Europe, where the Rabid Cat releases are at least as popular as at home, the product is released through the G.W.R., AM Music, and Fundamental Music companies.

The spring of this year will see the release of albums by Texas Instruments and Happy World. The T.I.'s will continue their week long jaunts throughout the southwest and central states, while Happy World is planning an extensive U.S. tour to support their LP. Rappin' With Sweet Tee Profile artist Sweet Tee was rappin' when rappin' wasn't cool. Since the first time the Queens native heard The Sugarhill Gang's "Rappers Delight," she was hooked. At school, she spent all her free time working on her rhythm and style and writing lyrics. Soon after, The Fantasia opens which gives Tee (Toi Jackson) the opportunity to check out many aspiring rap acts while hearing the latest releases.

Through her connections at The Fantasia, she hooks up with Davey D. The majority of the next few years are spent dancing and rapping with the Davey D road show. While on tour, Sweet Tee hooks up with fellow Queens native and producer, Hurby Luvbug. Upon their return, they record a rap with DJ Jazzy Joyce and are quickly signed to Profile. Next comes an appearance on Profile's X-Mas Rap LP with the single, "Let The Jingle Bells Rock."

Now for the good stuff. January, 1988 - Sweet Tee and Hurby hook up again for the 12" release of "I Got Da Feelin'" b/w "It's Like That Y'All." Currently, the single is at number 64 and bulletting up the Cash Box B/C chart. Bigger in England than her home turf at the moment, Tee is quickly climbing London's pop charts while gracing the cover of one of the city's most prestigious music periodicals. With her debut album set for a March release, Tee will most likely be one of the top female artists in her field - Now ain't that sweet.

Joyce Sims Climbing Towards Stardom

When Joyce Sims started writing songs in Rochester back in 1983 she wanted to achieve success, and, after having one of her songs receive an honorable mention at the American Songwriters Festival and then Robby Watson cutting a few demos on her at his Smoking Amigo Production Company and telling her they were good enough to "shop around," well, Joyce just knew she was on her way.

The folks at Sleeping Bag were well impressed, too, and by mid-1986 they had released her first single, "All In All," which topped the international dance charts and led to Joyce's being named Best New Female Artist by both the Boston Record Pool and the New England D.J. Association. In 1987 Sleeping Bag released a second 12" single, "Lifetime Love," which ran for 15 weeks on domestic black contemporary charts and made Joyce the darling of clubs up, down and across America as well as in Europe and the United Kingdom. This gave momentum to the release of Come Into My Life, the Sims album that is still selling in what Sleeping Bag's Juggy Gales calls "excellent numbers" world wide. The second 12" single, the album's title cut, was sent out shortly before Christmas last year and is currently 20 with a bullet on black contemporary domestic charts and is enjoying its third week at number one on England's pop charts.

"It's all really new to me. It's not what I expected as far as the work goes . . . but it's the life - I love it."

In support of her British Isle's success, Joyce recently returned from London where she taped Top Of The Pops and immediately headed for a gig in Jacksonville, N.C. hosted by KIS 102, then went on to an appearance in Washington, D.C. before winging it to the Golden State to appear on Don Cornelius' Soul Train on February 7 (check your local papers for air date later that month). In her spare time, Joyce is working on putting together a back-up band and stage show for a tour of England and Europe. While still in the planning stages, it is expected that this tour, currently pencilled in for late April, could possibly last till early June.

And get this. Joyce is also still writing songs for her Tawanne Lamount Music Publishing company, and expects to be in the studio by summer working on her next album!

Her label is on the brink of releasing the third 12" single from Come Into My Life, the danceable ditty, "Walk Away." It would be reasonable to expect that she will also be covering a lot of territory promoting that product as well. When Joyce says she didn't realize how hard she'd be working in pursuit of stardom, it's easy to believe her. But it's also easy to believe that she loves it . . . as she said, "It's the life!"

Nocera

Experiencing Sweet Success

After hitting last year with "Summertime, Summertime," which began as a hot dance single before invading both the top black contemporary and top 100 pop charts, Nocera has been working on promoting her new album, Over The Rainbow.

The first single from the LP, "Let's Go," was released in late 1987 to club acclaim for its and the hip, hop editing of the Latin Rascals. Nocera's long time association with her co-producer, Floyd Fisher, has paid off in a what will apparently be an enduring career. Nocera is a multi-talent in her own right as she plays guitar, bass and synthesizer in addition to writing and singing her own songs. Watch for her videos and, if your in New York, look for her live appearances at dance clubs. She's quite a performer.

A Private Conversation With Val Young

Ring....ring....

V.Y.: Hello.

C.B.: Hi, Val. This is Cash Box calling... you have been selected to represent Amherst Records in our Sweethear issue, focusing on female recording artists and other women in music. How's that sound?

V.Y.: Great, terrific. You know, I'm still doing dates based on the success of Private Conversation, it's (the album) still very popular on the east coast, so I'm constantly working in clubs in Philadelphia, Detroit, Toronto, New York and Buffalo ... and smaller towns in between.

C.B.: Rick James wrote and produced that album; how did that association come about?

V.Y.: Well, I was in Memphis, Tennessee on tour with George Clinton's Parliament/Funkadelic show and I heard that Rick James was coming in to play the Mid-South Coleseum. What can I say - I had been wanting to meet Rick ever since I first heard "You And I," so I just let Parliament/Funkadelic go on without me and stayed over to meet him. That was in 1979 and we've been friends ever since.

C.B.: How about signing with Lenny Silver's Amherst label, were you shopping demos, or how did you meet?

V.Y.: Lenny Silver was well acquainted with Rick, they were industry associates as well as friends and Lenny often came over to Rick's studio and visited in Rick's home. It wasn't long after he had been there listening to what Rick and I were doing that he contacted me and said he wanted Val Young on Amherst Records. So we got together, the deal was made and that was that.

C.B.: What about the future, are you going back into the studio anytime soon?

V.Y.: I hope to, but right now I'm still in Detroit, my hometown, getting ready to relocate to Los Angeles. I'm very interested in expanding my career into movies and television, but I know that's going to take some hard work. That's why I'm planning to study acting, drama ... whatever it takes till I feel confident. I want to do my homework before I step out there.

C.B.: Thanks, Val, for the Private Conversation. See you in L.A.

V.Y.: I look forward to it.

Val Young's personal representative spoke to Cash Box and shared the following information: "We're expecting to release another single from Val's album (which is still very active), and hope that she will be at work on her second album soon. We all wish her well in Los Angeles ... she's a sweetheart."

Next Plateau's Sweet Sensation

Talk about showstoppers! Talk about singing! Talk about dancing! Talk about talking the hip, hop, right on rap! As anyone who caught their summer engagements in Florida last summer can attest, these three young lovelies are definitely worth some spirited conversation.

Although they are all still in their teens, they bring a natural effervescence and musical maturity to both their recorded and live performances. Two members of the group, Betty and Margie, have both studied modern dance. Betty was a vocal music major at New York's famed

Music and Art High School while Mari, the youngest member of the group, has developed an exciting rap style that belies her training in the most classical of all dance forms, the ballet.

Their debut single, "Hooked On You" was a chart item for 14 weeks in 1987, and even sweeter things are due for Sweet Sensation in 1988.

HAVE WE GOT SWEET LINES FOR YOU!

Pam Wells: KACE's Ace PD

Los Angeles radio station KACE took a giant step towards improving their market share in November of 1987 when they hired Pam Wells, formerly program director at Memphis' #1 share station, WHRK. Pam had joined WHRK on a sunny March Monday back in 1983.

"I recall the exact date," Wells said. "It was March 21st, and I was the morning air personality. That was before the AM station was sold. We were steady holding on to 2nd and 3rd spot and were moving into 1st when the program director position became available.

"Now, you don't go into a winning situation and try to fix it. It's finding the areas that you can improve . . . while maintaining what you already have . . . that's what takes judgement."

Pam proved more than capable at decision making both in her morning airtime slot and in wearing her PD hat as WHRK kept its #1 share for three years running. Her philosophy is now as it was then, to look for a need in the market area, to find a void and fill it. She says, "Our cumulative share is increasing . . . miracles are not possible overnight. We're working to build a consistency; getting out in the community and doing things for the kids that the parents can appreciate. Actually, we're just getting started in building a community base. We've got a foot in the water, but it will be awhile before we're doing laps in the pool."

Pam passes a lot of the credit for KACE's strides on to the rest of the KACE staff, pointing with obvious pride toward Steve Woods, a veteran announcer who fills the mid-day slot; Lisa Lipps, KACE's music director and afternoon drive DJ; E.Z. Wiggins, a mainstay in the 7-Midnight post; and Marsha Robinson who hosts KACE's overnight Slumber Party. Pam, herself, continues her morning show, Toast and Jam, which she pilots with co-host Sam Putney, former morning news personality at KJLH.

With regard to picking records for the KACE playlist, Pam says, "I listen to them all. Every one that comes in. I don't care if it comes in a gold wrapper delivered by six women in satin or if it's just part of the regular morning mail. I listen. Out of 50 records, one might be the one your looking for. You never know where you're going to find a hit."

"The hard part is being the independent label out there on a limited budget . . . with an anxious artist and a lot of money tied up in product that he knows many radio people won't even listen to. I think it's just as much a part of my job to listen to and play good independent product and it is to listen to and play good records from the majors. I don't just slam a single on the playlist because it comes from a known label; I don't believe that's a guarantee of anything. I trust my own judgement and I do listen to a record before I even think of adding it."

While Pam Wells is content with her position for the time being, she admits that she has keen desires to investigate talents she is just becoming aware of. "I recently signed to do Shooting The Breeze, an interview-type format radio program being nationally syndicated by Westwood One. I'm pretty pleased with myself right now, but there's so much more to do. I want to get into acting . . . I don't know . . . no one knows what the future holds. But one thing is certain, it will always revolve around radio. Radio forever. ■

For Eclectic Tastes

With A Little Luck
DEIDRE McCALLA
Oliva Records (LF 953)

Eclectic defines McCalla on this collection of self-written songs. Her instincts for writing accessible tunes lead her from country to jazz to R&B...all handled professionally. Highlights include "The Cat Song", a funny interaction with a feline foe. Also strong in a country vein is "Mama's Little Girl." "Would You Like To Dance", if re-cut with an established R&B artist could be a hit...in fact a career as a songwriter might be a good move for McCalla. (Ask Holly Knight how she got her start.)

With You On My Side
BONNIE KOLOC
Flying Fish Records (FF437)

Fans of Judy Collins and Joan Baez will enjoy Bonnie Koloc's sweet voice. High point on LP is an acapella rendition of her "Love Song For Iowa" which ought to be the state's song. She shows a harder bluesier side with the songs "Gun For the Game" and "Mama Chicago". Although we like some of her songs, we'd like to hear a couple of standards, just to see how she'd interpret them.

Ms. Hornsby has taken on a considerable challenge in attempting to be singer, songwriter and, according to her own bio, "personally took every step from lacquer/master at Capitol Records to WEA manufacturing processing plant to printing of the record sleeves." The product has merit. Nikki has a wonderfully pleasing and well-developed singing voice and the song itself meets the basic criteria for country airplay. Perhaps what's missing here is simply direction and knowledgeable guidance, which will undoubtedly come with time. Listening copies of the two single available are yours for the asking at C. Junquera Productions, P.O. Box 393, Lomita, CA 90717.

The Stax Soul Sisters
VARIOUS ARTISTS
Stax/Fantasy (MPS 8543)

Stax Records existed as a company for only fifteen years between approximately 1960 and 1975, but its contribution to the history of American music is an important one. Founded by brother and sister Jim Stewart and Estelle Axton, the company brought together a unique collection of talented black performers to create the "Memphis Sound". Although "soul" as we knew it when was the confluence of many musical styles that were constantly evolving, it was Stax that captured the grittier, tougher, street side, as opposed to another great black label Motown, which had a slicker approach. This collection is a brilliant example of some of the best women ever to sing in this genre, and some of the best written and produced tracks that Stax ever turned out.

Side one opens with "It Ain't No Fun", sung by Shirley Brown who was responsible for the firm's last hit in 1974, "Woman to Woman"). Her gospel background and tone gives her a very "Aretha" sound. Brown worked closely for many years with Albert King, who brought her into the Stax roster.

Mavis Staples

The sound on this ballad, as on all the cuts is excellent - Fantasy (who acquired the Stax masters) has done a great job with the stereo remastering.

Veda Brown follows with the memorable reggae-tinged "Short Stopping". Next is Barbara Lewis, singing "You Made Me a Woman", written by Tony Hester of the Dramatics. Linda Lyndell sings "What a Man", one of the most exciting tracks on this collection, and her only big hit. It is a mono cut, yet it still manages to get your foot tapping. Carla "Queen of Memphis Soul" Thomas sings the song "Guide Me Well" and "You've Got a Cushion to Fall On". Her alluring voice has a certain innocence, making these performances truly memorable.

A great Mavis Staples cut comes next: "Since I Fell For You". This is an often covered standard, but she lends her unique, contralto sensuality to it. Side One is rounded out by one of the biggest Stax successes, Jean Knight, singing "Carry On". She also opens side two with one of the biggest Stax hits Mr. "Big Stuff". Both tracks were produced by veteran Crescent City arranger Wardell Quezergue at Jackson, Mississippi's Malaco Studios.

Mabel John sings "Running Out", another mono track on the album. She is the sister of the late Little Willie. This song was written by the famous writing team of Nickolas Ashford and Valerie Simpson. When Mabel left stax, she went on to sing with Ray Charles.

"Your Sweet Loving" follows with a great soulful performance by Margie Joseph. Filling out this outstanding collection is Inez Foxx singing "The Time", Jean Knight again with "You Think Your Hot Stuff". Finally is a cut by Judy Clay, "Bed of Roses". Clay comes from the New Jersey family that produced Dionne Warwick, Dee Houston and Cissy Houston and her daughter Whitney.

The Stax Soul Sisters is one of the best definitions of a unified sound from one of the most influential labels around, and is highly recommended for everyone who loves great, soulful music. Julius Robinson

This One's For You, Bev.

When The Independent Way attended the NARM Operations Conference in North Carolina, we apparently went snow-blind in the course of the Record Bar store and distribution center tours. At any rate, we certainly had foot-in-mouth disease when our last issue came out and we found out that we had relocated Record Bar's prototype store from its true location in the South Square Mall in Durham to two other locations, Southside Mall and Southcoast Mall, which, we insisted, were to be found in Chapel Hill. We must have inhaled too much developer when we were printing the photographs.

Then Beverly Orchard, a Record Bar employee who participated in the distribution center tour, made us feel a whole lot better by telling us that the stories were "wonderful anyway." Thanks, Beverly, and congratulations on your appointment to interim manager of Record Bar's University Mall store. One of your co-workers, Spike McFadden, who manages that wonderful prototype plant in the South Square Mall, said of you, "Beverly is always a help in locating information or product. She has a wonderful personality and is a great source of information and she's probably the most cooperative person I know . . . I never hesitate to contact Bev when I need assistance."

We're going to remember that the next time we go to Carolina. Thanks again, Beverly Orchard. You're a sweetheart!

Sa-Fire, aka Wilma Cosme, encapsulates a latin influence mixed well with the soul sounds of a gospel choir and sprinkled with the distinct vocal stylings of a Barbara Streisand and a Cyndi Lauper, topped off with the audacity of a Madonna. It didn't take the folks at Cutting Edge Records long to realize that they had something of a phenomenon on their hands, especially when their new young star was chosen to tour the U.S. with Menudo last summer, leaving behind a chain of potential record buyers all anxiously awaiting her next release.

Current dance catalog includes three 12" singles, including two of 1987's biggest club records, "Summertime, Summertime" (which also made it to the pop charts), and "Let Me Be The One," and an innovative video interpretation of the latter done entirely in black and white using a 16 mm. camera.

Sa-Fire has already begun to pay back her youthful fans by participating in benefit concerts for such worthy causes as the fight against Muscular Dystrophy and lending her support to C.A.R.E. as that well-respected organization continues its aid to the underprivileged children in Latin America. She recently was the recipient of an award given by the New York City Substance Abuse Anti-Drug Campaign for her contributions to that effort.

All in all, Sa-Fire has already proven herself to be an up-and-coming artist with the humility and humanity to be around for a long time. Look for her new single within the next few weeks, and her first album, It's A Crime to be released in early June.

Joyce Lynn Works For Unity

As a charter member of the Independent Action Committee, and as president of Great Bay Distributors, Inc., Joyce Lynn has constantly sought to help in opening communications between independent record manufacturers and independent distributors. She has devoted considerable time and energy in pursuing this goal, as well as in supporting The Independent Way as an important vehicle in helping to bridge the communications gap.

Her future goals include seeing to the continued growth of Great Bay through providing the best in sales, promotion and merchandising while investigating expansion into other areas of the industry. As far as the pressures of the independent distribution business go, Joyce says, "It's a business that demands that I be innovative, that I stay aware of trends, that I be constantly on the go . . . I can't imagine doing anything else . . . I love it."

Cover Girls Heading West

Just back from their ultra-successful Japan jaunt, Cover Girls their individual dreams come true. Margo Urban, Caroline Jackson and lead singer Louise "Angel" Sabater, are on the road again. The group's "Show Me" was #1 on Japan's Dance Charts in December, leading to a second trip to that country in January. Now, with "Because Of You" still riding high, the girls have packed their high-fashion clothes for a February trek to the west coast.

Their beauty, talent and unique style has already made them the recipients of considerable (and enviable) press coverage, including the New York Daily News, where the editors saw fit to give The Cover Girls front page exposure at a time when they had only one hit song to their credit, and no album. Then, of course, there was Andy Warhol's Interview magazine, which included photography by Rudolf Van-domere; a fashion feature in Seventeen, a Dance Music Report cover, a feature in Cleveland's Plaindealer and a nifty write-up in The Boston Herald. All this in addition to regular coverage over the past year in the record industry trades and all types of fan/fashion magazines.

How does this happen? Superior planning. Luck. Good music. Fantastic follow-up. Excellent label support. Great P.R. Three girls whose ambitions allow them to put aside any personality conflicts . . . working as a unit to see that Fever president Sal Abbaticchio and producer Andy Pandolopoli searched for when they set out to find the ideal young women to create the ideal girl group.

If the amount of work you do has any relationship to the amount of success you wish to achieve, look for The Cover Girls to be around for quite awhile. Their west coast tour begins in San Francisco, continues to Sacramento, Salinas and Los Angeles before crossing the California state line into Las Vegas, Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona, and heading back east for more appearances in the dance clubs in Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island. The group will then proceed to Puerto Rico before returning to their native New York, where they are hoping to get back in the studio and continue their recording success with product that explodes across dance, black contemporary and popular charts.

Skyline Sweetheart

Roseanna Vitro

One of the most challenging pathways for a contemporary musician is that of the jazz vocalist. Dianne Schuur, Diane Reeves, Sarah Vaughan, and Shirley Horn are a handful of singers currently enjoying successes in an often neglected art form. Each has paid her dues along the way and carved a niche in a culture obsessed with video/pop goddesses. The fortitude and commitment necessary to develop and sustain a career as a jazz singer is rare and admirable, and exemplified by recording artist Roseanna Vitro.

Vitro grew up in the small town of Texarcana, Arkansas, in a family of Gospel singers. She enjoyed a wide range of styles from "classic show tunes to folk to Jimi Hendrix" which eventually prompted a move to Houston, Texas. "I was sort of a Janis Joplin clone at the time, until I was discovered by jazz vocalist Ray Sullenger." Sullenger coached Roseanna, exposing her to music by the likes of Ella Fitzgerald and Nancy Wilson. She also began studying with world renowned tenor saxophonist, Arnett Cobb.

During her stint in Texas, Vitro played "The Houston Jazz Festival," "The Greenroom," and "Rockefeller's" among others. She hosted her own weekly radio program on KUHF in Houston and played numerous clubs in Dallas as well. The next big move was to the east coast den of jazz, New York. Since arriving there she has headlined at "The Blue Note," "Fat Tuesday's," "The Jazz Forum," "Jazzmania," "Town Hall," and "101 Greene St." She further developed her improvisation abilities through studies with Marie Moss and Bobby McFerrin and operatic skills with Professor Gabor Carelli of the Manhattan School of Music.

Vitro has two solo LP's to her credit. The first album, "Listen Here," featured musicians Kenny Barron, Buster Williams, Ben Riley, and Arnett Cobb, and received healthy national airplay in February and March of 1985. The newly released disc for Skyline Productions, "A Quiet Place," includes playing and compositions by Fred Hersh, Mark Egan, Joey Baron and Eddie Daniels and is again getting regular national exposure. Both records have some of the smoothest, most appealing vocal emanations on vinyl.

Currently in the works is a record for TV and radio personality Steve Allen, with interpretations of a wide range of his material. The two have appeared together in several concert appearances for network radio and television. And as they say in jazz "you are who you play with," Vitro has also shared a stage with such lofty musicians as Wynton Marsalis, Oscar Peterson, Lionel Hampton, Buddy Rich, Hank Jones, Mel Lewis, Ben Riley, Billy Hart, Sal Nestico, Bob Moses, Marc Johnson, and Archie Schepp to name a few.

For additional information on Ms. Vitro contact The Brad Simon Organization at (212)980-5920, or Andy Kaufman of the Willard Alexander Agency at (212)751-7070.

Productions are concerned, and the next one's going to be just that."

Gladys Knight - who will start a lengthy tour with the Pips in April - sounds like a woman in charge of her life, in charge of her career. Was this attitude, this confidence, something she learned, or is it something she always had?

"Well, some of it I learned, of course I did," she says. "I learned by doing, and I got knocked down a bunch of times. And I got, sometimes, to where I just felt, 'Well, what do I do now?', and those kinds of things. Yeah, I got that. So it's going great now, but even when it was going bad it was going great, because that helps me get ready for this. For the most part, I've been optimistic. That's just me and that's just the way I am about life. Period."

land, no pun intended. It's really nice. I've always wanted a house on the ocean, and it's not on the ocean, but it is on the bay. It's very secluded and private. It's like my dream home that we're building there. It should be done by early September. My sister will be moving to our house, so I guess they can still leave it as Miami Sound Machine Boulevard."

Gloria's current plans are to continue touring until the end of September, and then come off the road for a hiatus: "I want to take some time off. I want to have another baby. And we want to write a new album and spend some time in the studio. And I think the market itself needs a break. Every once in a while you have to get off the market for a while."

The market, contends Gloria, is fickle. "There's a Latin explosion right now, in music, in fashion, in everything. But how long can that last?" Miami Sound Machine's music is bi-cultural - part Latin percussion and part Anglo pop - like the city it's named after (Gloria quotes her husband as describing their sound as, "Rice and beans and hamburger"), but she says, "Our music isn't Latin enough to go in and go out (of fashion) and I think we've proved that already." Indeed, Cash Box expects there to be a Miami Sound Machine long after the Miami sound has faded from the discs.

Brenda Russell

But most of all, Russell is a gifted and versatile musical artist in her own right, an artist who has garnered wide respect for producing, writing and singing her own records. Her 1979 critically acclaimed Brenda Russell album containing the hit "So Good, So Right" put her on the map. Her new release on A&M Get Here, her first solo effort in five years, is a masterful R&B and jazz-tinged pop album that proves that if you're good enough, and you work hard enough with talented people, you will eventually become one of "them".

Russell talked to Cash Box about her evolution and success, first as a songwriter. One of the keys, she says, is writing every song for herself, instead of trying to tailor it to any sound or artist. "When I try to second-guess what people are going to like, it doesn't come off. When people come to me for songs, they want the songs I write for me. I remember once trying to write a song for Aretha Franklin, and it ended up sounding like something she would have done twenty years ago. You get your mind set on what an artist is and what they're about, but often they're trying to break that image. Now when you're producing, that's different, you don't want to make it sound like it's your own record."

Recently, Russell found herself in a dilemma over one of her pet songs, "Dinner With Gershwin" which she had been saving for her solo album and was eventually recorded by Donna Summer. "My publisher, Ronnie Vance from Geffen Music, heard the song and sweet-talked me to death. (Laughing) We played for David Geffen, and Geffen was sweet talking. Between David Geffen, Ronnie Vance, Donna Summer and Richard Perry, it was very hard to say no! I couldn't see that missing, that combination of energy."

The song became an international hit for Donna Summer. But more importantly, it raised awareness in the industry of Russell's skill as a writer/producer. "I got into it by becoming involved in making my own records. It was a natural extension, as long as your not intimidated by the label 'producer'." Russell also found that her extensive experience as a background singer helped. "I've done a lot of session work, and I got to work with a lot of producers, and the greatest lesson was learning what worked and what didn't. I got to see how producers could feel when things were right or wrong...and how they didn't know at all what they were doing!" Besides co-producing Get Here she will be writing for and producing Lia, a new artist on Virgin, Phil Perry, a great vocalist on CBS, and she is talking to Anita Baker's people about working with her.

Brenda Russell's overall style parallels Baker's as a matter of fact, but on Get Here Russell has given the up tempo cuts a harder edge. Her vocals throughout are clean, yet emotional. The first single off the album, a mid-tempo song titled "Piano in the Dark," is a tour-de-force of pop songwriting and producing, at once simple and hooky, but with a complexity of form and emotionality that distances it from the track-oriented stuff you hear. The song was co-written with Jeff Hull and Scott Cutler. "It makes me so happy when people say 'it sounds like real music.' That is what I strive for - to make good music that's accessible. I like to write in the universal style. That's just where I'm coming from."

under 18 years of age. Cash Box investigated the recent teen phenomenon - and discovered the genuine talent behind the hype.

Shanice Wilson was signed to A&M in 1984, shortly after the label's John McClain spotted her performing locally in the play Get Happy. Late last year, her debut album Discovery was released, unleashing the talents of young Shanice to an unsuspecting public. Discovery's first single, "(Baby Tell Me) Can You Dance," made an impressive showing on both the Cash Box Pop and B/C singles charts; the follow-up, "No 1/2 Steppin'," is currently riding high on the B/C charts.

During our interview, Shanice (who will turn 15 on May 14) demonstrated the qualities of both a charming teenager and that of a seasoned professional; all in all, she appears genuinely unaffected by her recent thrust into the limelight. "It's a dream come true," Shanice said about her career progress. "I've been singing almost all of my life - I started singing melodies at seven months... I never thought that I'd have a record deal, I was just doing it for fun."

With her next album (set to begin recording in a few months), Shanice plans to take a more active role in songwriting and will follow-up by undertaking her very first tour. She has wowed audiences and critics alike with her select live shows and television appearances; on stage she possesses the energy and charm of someone who's been in the business for years. This 14 year old wonder shows no signs of hesitation when faced with the prospect of touring. She enthused, "I love it! Out of everything in the business, I love to perform."

Considering her age, Shanice is surprisingly frank and realistic about her future plans: "I plan on going to college to have something to fall back on. [In this business] you could have a career one day and the next day it could be completely gone." Shanice needn't worry though, her extraordinary talent is destined to be around for quite a while. If she continues in the music business, Shanice has some ideas about what she would like to accomplish: "I would like to produce [records] for both myself and other people, and I want to do a movie about myself, a comedy maybe..."

"Since the album came out I haven't been able to hang with my friends as much as I used to," she confessed. "If this was something I didn't want to do, I wouldn't have as much fun. I didn't expect to be this busy." She concluded, "I'm still the same person I was, I'm not going to change. I'm just having a lot of fun right now..."

Debbie Gibson hit big last year with her debut album on the Atlantic label, Out Of The Blue. The LP's first single, "Only In My Dreams," quickly climbed into the Top 10, a feat rapidly matched by her next release, "Shake Your Love." Currently, The 17 year old songstress is rising up the charts once again with her latest, (the album's title cut) "Out Of The Blue." During her phone interview with Cash Box from her native New York, Gibson enthusiastically talked about her career and explained the rigors of being a teen in the business. It is obvious that Gibson realizes her destiny and is very much in control of her career. "From when I was little I always knew that music was going to be my life," Gibson stated. "I never really wanted to do anything else."

Out Of The Blue has recently been certified Gold by the RIAA and is well on its way to Platinum status. Gibson admitted that although she dreamed of worldwide success, when she was working on the LP her main concern was the music: "When I write and record I really just concentrate on the song and on the production. What happens after that is up to the public... I'm glad that it's gotten a good response." She continued, "I saw the gold album for the first time yesterday and I just gasped, it was very exciting. I remember sitting in my room writing these songs and it was a great feeling to know that half a million people have them."

For the most part, the excessive media exposure devoted to Gibson has been attributed to her age; although she wants the public to understand that she is not simply a 'teen idol': "I understand where people are interested because I am 17... I never wanted to be 'packaged' just because I'm young. I want people to know that I have a lot of musical background and knowledge. I'm not just a teen idol, I don't want to be thought of someone who is just promoted a lot, because, in my opinion, there has got to be something behind the promotion and all of the hype."

"My parents got a piano in the house when I was about three, and I started playing by ear then. I have three sisters and we all play classical piano - and it was always by choice, we were never forced to take lessons - we always knew that if we ever wanted to stop, we could. We actually used to fight over practicing - we were probably the only household in America that did that."

"I did a lot of musical theatre, and I've taken voice lessons and dance lessons and the whole bit. I also did some TV commercials for a while. The first song I ever wrote was when I was five - it was a song about going into kindergarten called 'Make Sure You Know Your Classroom,' (laughs) I still remember it." Was it then that Gibson realized her destiny? "Well I didn't, but my mom did (laughs)."

"I started writing seriously when I was 12. One of the first real songs I wrote I entered in a songwriting competition and I won first place. Since then I've written about 300 songs..."

Gibson will begin recording her follow-up to Out Of The Blue this spring and will undertake her first full fledged tour this summer with her new band. She stressed her preference of touring with a live band as opposed to playing track dates (performing to pre-recorded music): "I did that for a while to promote but I couldn't stand doing track dates because I had no musical freedom, you can't be spontaneous with a tape... I'm really enjoying having a live band."

"As of now I have a definite 10 strong songs [for the next album]. My style has changed a bit since the first album because when I was writing [before] I had my drum machine and my keyboards so it was more dance/pop oriented. Now I have a live band so a lot of the stuff is a little bit more guitar oriented and piano oriented, I put piano on a lot of my songs now. My next album will be more rock and roll/pop..."

Tiffany was just 15 years old at the time her self-titled MCA debut LP was released; now, a few months later, Tiffany is nearing three million in sales. Since the album's release, Tiffany (now 16), has enjoyed two #1 singles on the Cash Box pop singles chart, most notably her cover of Tommy James 1967 classic "I Think We're Alone Now."

Tiffany first gained media exposure with her highly publicized "mall tour" - in which the performer traveled around the nation performing free shows for audiences in various shopping centers. The successful performances garnered the teen much attention at both retail and radio levels instantly. "I Think We're Alone Now," the second single culled off the LP quickly rose to the top of the charts, establishing the pop vocalist with audiences everywhere. The next single, "Could've Been," quickly followed suit - reaching the #1 peak even faster than the last. MCA is now gearing up to release "I Saw Him Standing There," a gender-bending cover of the Beatles' classic, as the LP's next single.

Tiffany was just 12 when she auditioned for (manager and producer) George Tobin. Tobin instantly recognized the vocalist's natural talent and potential and devoted his time to developing the artist. At 13, Tiffany recorded a demo that resulted in a bevy of label offers, with MCA eventually winning out and nabbing the songstress.

Tiffany, along with producer Tobin, headed into the studio and recorded a slick and polished debut LP for MCA. The next step, obviously, was promoting the artist - to make Tiffany's debut stand out among the barrage of pre-Christmas releases. It was MCA Senior Vice President Larry Solters who proposed the idea for the shopping mall tour... The rest, as they say, is history.

SWEETHEARTS WHO STILL CALL US NOW AND THEN

Minnie Pearl.....Sarah Cannon

Let's begin listing the Sweethearts of Country Music with the sweetest-of-the-sweet, Minnie Pearl (Sarah Cannon). No country music fan ever fails to recognize the famous straw hat, with the price tag still attached, or the familiar "howdee," when Minnie Pearl steps on the stage. But, Minnie Pearl becomes a truly dignified and charming lady in the form of Sarah Ophelia Cannon.

She is a graduate of Nashville's Ward-Belmont College, and her education and intelligence have enabled her to feel perfectly comfortable and charming as either Minnie Pearl or her real self. Often, and justified, Minnie Pearl has been honored by the music industry. However, she remains a truly humble and hard working "sweetheart." Her love and devotion to country music, and worthy causes and charities, is matched only by the same for her husband, Mr. Henry Cannon.

Sarah Ophelia Colley was born in Centerville, Tennessee on October 12, 1912. She majored in stage technique in college. She taught dancing before she joined a production company as a drama coach in 1934. But, Sarah had become Minnie Pearl on the Grand Ole Opry by 1940. Instantly, she became a big hit with country music fans, and Minnie Pearl was elected to the Country Music Hall of Fame in 1975.

Sarah Cannon recently called this editor to offer her thanks for a recent article I wrote about her in Cash Box. Not many superstars are kind enough to do that. I don't mean that in a snide way. Many simply don't have time in their busy schedules to thank every journalist who writes something nice about them...but, Minnie did! After that conversation, I am absolutely certain of what I had long suspected...Minnie Pearl is the Queen of Country Sweethearts! If I know Minnie, she sends her love to the world, in hopes that the world will find it on the way to peace and harmony among all.

Kathy, Kim, Christy, June..
The Forester Sisters

June Forester called the Cash Box office from Jacksonville, Florida, where The Forester Sisters were preparing for a performance with Lee Greenwood. True to the country music traditions, June said the entire group wanted to extend their first special Valentine's Day message to their parents, Vonnie and "Bunk". June said, "They have always worked so hard and supported us so faithfully, and we love them!"

When questioned about their outstanding success in country music, June said, "It all started in the 80's. There have been so many changes in our lives. Kathy and I were teachers, and Kim and Christy were in college. The big break in our singing career came quite unexpectedly. We're so grateful to those who have helped us and accepted our music."

Warner Brothers has been the "helping hand", and country radio and the fans have accepted The Forester Sisters in a big way.

Nancy Shapiro

Cash Box's Country Sweetheart list would be incomplete without an Executive Sweetheart for 1988. That honor goes to Nancy Shapiro, executive director of the Nashville chapter of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences (N.A.R.A.S.).

Nancy came to Nashville in 1975 from her hometown of Memphis, Tennessee. She commented on her feelings concerning Valentine's Day. "I feel that it is a special day for sweethearts in love, of course. However, it is more than that. It is also a day to remember and recognize lovely people everywhere.

"I enjoy all the people I get the opportunity to work with." Nancy has the opportunity to work with many of the most important people in the music business. "And, very special wishes of love go out to my family...my husband Steve, and my two children Scott and Lindsay."...Nancy Shapiro, our executive country music sweetheart is truly that!

Kathy Mattea

Things couldn't be better for Kathy Mattea. This Valentine's Day will be something extra special for the talented Mercury/PolyGram recording artist. She has just celebrated her first #1 song ("Goin' Gone"), but even more than that, Kathy will be married on February 14th!

The beautiful lady from Charleston, West Virginia will marry songwriter John Vezner on Valentine's Day, and Kathy sends her special message to John.. "Please keep your calendar open, and don't forget to show up for the wedding!"

The Steffin Sisters

The Steffin Sisters really are sisters: Jenny, Marianne, Beth and Kathy, all are originally from West Monroe, Louisiana, but now live in various states. Born to missionary parents as they worked with churches from Oregon to Uruguay, the sisters grew up in West Monroe, singing with their three brothers in churches across the country and in the car as they traveled.

Jenny, who has continued to sing professionally, is the wife of Denver Broncos offensive tackle Dan Remsberg. Marianne lives in Denver while finishing nursing school. Beth VanZandt is a Shreveport realtor and interior consultant. She and her husband have two sons. Kathy Davenport, an R.N., teaches at Harding University. She and her husband have two daughters.

Now, they're singing together again with a harmony that could only come from sisters who have been making music all their lives. They're not only making music, they are making a name for themselves in the country music world with their recent chart actions. The Steffin Sisters wish to send their love to their families, friends, associates, country radio personnel, and their ever-growing number of fans. These sisters are certainly sweethearts on the rise in country music!

Sweethearts of the Rodeo

In just over one year, this pair of sisters from California have become Country Music Sweethearts in the truest sense of the word! The Sweethearts were attracted to Nashville by the vitality of the songwriter community.

Janis is married to RCA recording star Vince Gill, and Kristine's husband serves as road manager for the duo. They are both mothers of five year-olds, and according to Kristine that was very carefully planned. "We wanted to have daughters the same age, so they could grow up and have the same kind of relationships Janis and I have had." It looks like their plan worked!

Their career plans are working equally well, and judging from the response, their brand of music is here to stay.

Dusty Martin

Dusty Martin is all smiles these days because of a career on the upswing. The Kansas-born singer has her sights set on bigger and better things to come in 1988. In '87, Dusty had her first chart song on Sony Track Records. It was titled "Don't Give Up On Lovin' Me."

Just this past week, Dusty captured the Cash Box Indie Spotlight position with the release of her new single, "I Don't Love You."

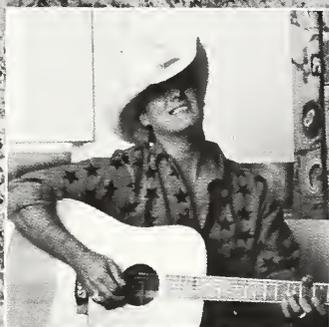

In mid-December, she received an invitation from station KXAL, Texas, to be the featured Indie act on their big birthday celebration show. Dusty was awed with the results. "It was such an exciting thing for me to be invited! Even more thrilling was the fact that I got to meet and open the show for one of my all-time country music favorites...Ray Price!"

Dusty Martin has a very refreshing innocent outlook to her approach to success in country music. Yes, she is a genuine country music sweetheart who sends a special Valentine's Day message to all the music directors and on-the-air personalities who have given her a chance to be heard..."I love you, one and all!"

Grant Turner: "You Gotta Have Heart!"

For almost twenty years now, country radio broadcasters have gathered in Nashville for the annual Country Radio Broadcasters Seminar to discuss the changes and new frontiers of the business. However, few people have seen the entire industry through as much change as Grant Turner.

Grant is known to his many friends and fans as "the Dean of The Grand Ole Opry announcers," but his radio roots go way beyond his 44 years behind the announcer's podium at The Opry. Grant recalls getting involved in radio when radio, itself, was just six years old, in his native town of Abilene, Texas. "We operated the station out of a hotel, with windmills on the roof, and the penthouse suite was the transmitter room. We only operated with 250 watts of power, but we were heard as far away as Canada," says Turner. Grant also recalls working with Jimmie Rodgers. "Jimmie came to town to autograph his records, and to my knowledge, I'm the only announcer who got to work with him."

As a child, Grant grew up with music and radio as his hobbies. He constructed crystal sets and one-tube radios. As broadcasting grew, he began to visit early radio stations, many of them crude backyard transmitters owned by churches and department stores. Grant recalls his first radio station boss going into the studio before air-time, and shaking up the carbons in the old carbon-but-ton microphones.

After college, Grant was looking for the "big-time" and, after securing an audition at a Cincinnati station, changed his mind and came to Nashville. He auditioned for WSM, and was hired. But, on his opening day, the invasion of Europe by the allied forces occurred. All through D-Day, Grant stayed with the network, carrying the accounts from the bloody beaches of Normandy. He was invited by Opry announcer George D. Hay (the solemn old judge) to sit on a bench at the side of the Opry stage. Little did he know they were looking for another Opry announcer. Before long, Grant had his own show on the Opry and, eventually, the coast to coast Prince Albert show with Red Foley.

Grant Turner vividly recalls the history of broadcasting, and has hundreds of fascinating stories about it's development and changes over the years. He says that the two highlights of his career were his induction into the Country Music Hall of Fame, which occurred in 1981 with his friend Roy Acuff presenting the Award, and, his involvement in the 60th Anniversary Show of the Grand Ole Opry.

When asked about what advice Grant would give today's radio broadcasters, he simply says, "To be a career radio person, you gotta have a lot of heart. If I had one thing to say to radio people today, it would be to listen to what your listeners tell you. Remember that every listener is important, and listen to them. Listen with your heart!"

Grant Turner is truly one of the pioneers in the broadcasting industry, and country music. Whether you need some good Hank Williams stories, or just good old warm, friendly conversation...backstage at the Opry, with Grant Turner, is the best place to find it in Nashville.

OUT OF THE BOX

EDDY RAVEN (RCA, 6831-7-R) I'm Gonna Get You (2:28) (Dennis Linde-BMI) (D. Linde) (Producer: B. Beckett)

Eddy Raven gives us a typically super vocal performance on this hot-beat Cajun song. Eddy shows his Louisiana roots with the Cajun musical yell just before the ride. Yes, this is a remake of the song Billy Swann released previously, and it's great! The arrangement is wonderful in that it retains the Cajun feel while adding some new modern sounds. Like the title says, "I'm Gonna Get You"...and Eddy Raven certainly will with this one!

FEATURE PICKS

ANNE MURRAY with DOUG MALLORY (Capitol, B-44134) Perfect Strangers (4:17) (Edition Sunrise, Young Musikverlag-BMI/GEMA) (Field, Anderson, Sareussen, Spiro) (Producer: J. White)

Love this lady's voice! Doug Mallory joins in suddenly, however, and the initial sound is a little confusing. Don't worry. They soon blend into perfect harmony and the result is very pleasing. It's a lover's song all the way. Beautiful. Mallory deserves fine performance credit, too. It works!

HANK WILLIAMS, JR. (Curb/Warner Bros., 7-28120-A) Young Country (3:29) (Bocephus-BMI) (H. Williams, Jr.) (Producers: B. Beckett; H. Williams, Jr.; J. E. Norman)

Hank surely doesn't need to justify young country artists and fans..but, he does! Many of us, who are a few years past the "young" adjective, surely do love this type of young country music. This one should appeal to a huge audience of fans, both young and older. It's a raw and appealing production. Barroom audio at it's best!

GLEN CAMPBELL (MCA, 53245) I Remember You (2:48) (Paramount-ASCAP) (J. Mercer, V. Schertzing) (Producers: J. Bowen, G. Campbell)

It's a great day for country music fans! Glen Campbell has taken Slim Whitman's country classic into new territory. What a beautiful song and sound. Yes, the falsetto is there! And, Campbell does it very well. To those young'ns, it will sound new and different. To us old'ns, it brings back smiles of memories. Thank you, Glen Campbell!

THE STATLER BROTHERS VISIT POLYGRAM'S NEW OFFICES. Mercury PolyGram recording group, The Statlers, were in Nashville recently for recording sessions with producer, Jerry Kennedy, for their upcoming album. The group just released "The Best I Know How," which is their third single from their current LP "Maple Street Memories." While in town, the group also managed to stop by to visit label executives at PolyGram's new offices at 901 18th Avenue South. Pictured (l. to r.) are: Phil Balsley; Steve Popovich, sr. vice president Nashville operations; Jimmy Fortune; Paul Lucks, vice president and general manager Nashville operations; Harold Reid; Bobby Young, regional promotional manager; and Don Reid. Photo by Beth Gwinn.

REBA AND MICHAEL MARTIN MURPHEY VISIT WWQM-FM. Prior to a recent concert in Madison, Wisconsin, WWQM-FM took advantage of Reba's hit single to offer listeners a contest and pose a question, "Who'll win and where will they go? We'll all be The Last One To Know!" The lucky winner was in attendance at the concert, and was announced between Murphey's and Reba's performances. Shown in the photo are (l. to r.): Q106 midday personality, Jeff Davis; Reba; Murphey; and Q106 morning personality Mark Hunter.

NASHVILLE NOTE-ABLES

Missing Sweethearts...
Remaining Memories

This is the first Cash Box Sweetheart Issue, and there are plenty of true sweethearts in country music. Just look at the feature stories and you will be aware of that. However, it seems only fair that we not only recognize some of the present ladies of country music, but also remember a few of the sweethearts from the past. We will always miss them, both as friends and talented individuals.

We miss...Patsy Cline! Patsy had the sweetest voice that any sweetheart of country music has ever had. Oh, how I would love to hear her record with today's recording equipment and facilities! Her 1960's recordings are simply beautiful, and her vocals will always remain as country classics.

Patsy Cline was born Virginia Patterson Hensley in Winchester, Virginia in 1932. She became a local club favorite during her teens. Her recording of "Walking After Midnight," on the Decca label, climbed the country and pop charts in the late 50's. However, 1961 was the year that started her rise to stardom. Her great hits, "I Fall To Pieces," "Crazy," "She's Got You," and more, came one after another. She became a favorite on the Grand Ole Opry, and was gaining more and more popularity when her career and life were cut tragically short in a plane crash near Camden, Tennessee on March 5, 1963.

Patsy Cline has continued to inspire female country singers to this very day. She was inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame in 1973. She was, indeed, a country sweetheart, and she will be missed and remembered always.

We miss...Maybelle Carter! "Mother Maybelle," as she was often called, came from a family of country music pioneers, and left us with a talented family of current day performers. Born Maybelle Adair on May 10, 1909 in Nickelsville, Virginia, she married Ezra Carter in 1926. She joined Ezra's brother, A. P. Carter, and his wife Sara, in forming the original Carter Family.

The Carter Family first recorded in 1927 in Bristol, Tennessee. The group had great success with their recording of "Wildwood Flower." During the 1960's, Maybelle became a very prominent figure among a new generation of folk singers. In fact, she performed at many folk festivals, and was a fan favorite at the Newport Folk Festival in those years. Her daughters are talented singers in their own rights. They performed with Maybelle before her death in 1978. The Carter Family, today, is comprised of those talented daughters...Anita, June, Helen and Carlene.

We miss...Molly O'Day! Molly O'Day passed away on December 5, 1987. We miss her very much. Many have said that Molly was the greatest female country singer ever. She had an honest and energetic style like so many of the artists of her day.

Molly was born LaVerne Williams in Pike County, Kentucky in 1923. She first began performing professionally in 1939. She was known by a variety of stage names early in her career. She adopted names like Mountain Fern and Dixie Lee. She married Lynn Davis, a fellow bandmember, in 1941. Molly and Lynn began performing together and traveling around to many southern radio stations.

It was in Knoxville, Tennessee that Fred Rose heard them and made arrangements for them to record in Nashville. Her Columbia session of 1946 was very fruitful for Molly. She recorded many of her hits, like Hank Williams-written "Tramp On The Street."

Molly and Lynn eventually left the music business to become ministers in the Church of God. Molly O'Day quit the business long before she would have reached the peak of her career. Had she stayed in country music, she may have been the first female superstar! Molly O'Day, another country music sweetheart from the past, and to be remembered far into the future.

DON JUAN (Maxx, M-821-A)
 We're Gonna Love Tonight (3:05)
 (NMI-ASCAP; Nee Boo Che-BMI)
 (E. Rager, V. Pratt) (Producer: F. Morris)

This group has been performing together for more than a decade, and it is evident. There is a super blend of harmonies here. Maxx Records has found a very commercial product in Don Juan. This release is smooth and flowing. Outstanding production. Maybe the best first release we have heard for a good while. Positive lyrics and powerful vocals. We predict good acceptance from country radio and the listeners. Watch for it on the charts!

INDIE FEATURE PICKS

ALLEN PACE (Art Pro, AP-8706) That's Not Exactly What I Had In Mind (2:34) (Art Pro-BMI) (A. Pace) (Producer: unlisted)

Allen Pace is on the right pace. He keeps sounding better and better with each new release. His country delivery is always the dominant force for the listener. This song has a "rebel" rhythm pattern which demands some quick, tricky phrasing, and Pace handles it well. "Lost lover" lyrics with a happy sort of melody.

JOHN PATRICK (Timestar, TS-2419) Hillbilly Girl (2:28) (Newwriters-BMI) (J. P. Timko) (Producer: W. Hodge)

John Patrick's tenor voice is honest and melodic. This "hillbilly" song has some big city arrangement and production, featuring good musical rides interspersed throughout. The short play-time is refreshing. John says what he has to say and moves right along. Enjoyable listening.

GAIL VEACH (Choice, CH 101) Deepest Shade Of Blue (3:23) (King Coal-ASCAP) (L. Alderman, R. Fagan) (Producer: D. Goodman)

Country right from the Dobro kickoff! Gail Veach delivers this one in grand country style. This is one good country song, too. Another happy melody/hurting lyric combination. Pleasant and perfect tempo for the feel of the lyrics. Yeah, it's country all the way, and Gail Veach has picked a good one here.

DARK HORSE CONSENSUS

CARLTON MOODY & THE MOODY BROTHERS - You Turned The Lights On - Lamon, LR 10174-45.

We knew this release was going to come on strong with country radio. It is a fine product done by fine artists. The Moody Brothers are European country music Award winners, and they have always been winners with us. Some of the many stations voting for them as the Dark Horse of the week were: WGSQ, WASP, KXAL, WELO, KWKA, WQTE and KMOO.

THANKS!!

RAPPIN' WITH THE WRITERS:

JANE MARIASH BACH

Jane was born in Manhattan and raised in Forest Hills, New York. And, this big city girl has become one great "country" writer. She began piano lessons when she was very young and grew up listening to the classical music her mother chose on the radio dial. Jane says, "I have always written songs, since I can remember. I worked at some other jobs. I was with ABC-TV in New York; vice president of creative services for an advertising agency in central Florida, and so on. But, when I returned to New York and stayed home to raise my three children, I really started writing then.

"In 1981, I came to Nashville for an N.S.I.A. weekend, and I knew, at once, this was it! I moved here less than a year later. I spent the first year meeting people and constantly writing. I met a lot of talented writers. I would often simply sit and watch them write...and I learned!

"In 1983, Jim Hurt (my good friend) signed with Merit Music, and he got me my first writing deal. I was with Merit for nearly 2 years. I got my first recording there. Tammy Wynette cut "After Dark" in 1983. Later I signed with Chappell and, now, I have my own publishing firm "Jane Mariash Music." Reba McEntire got me my first gold record when she recorded "If You Only Knew", which I co-wrote with Diana Rae."

Jane Mariash Bach has had her songs recorded by the elite country music artists, such as: Tammy Wynette, T.G. Sheppard, Jim Glaser, Ray Price, Reba McEntire, and Jack Greene. She is now doing a lot of co-writing with Judy Rodman, MTM artist. "MTM sent me to Lake Tahoe to begin writing with Judy. She is a great writer, and we have some great songs together."

AROUND THE ROUTE

After hearing about the new pieces intro'd by Atari at the ATE show we checked with marketing chief Mary Fujihara to get some additional info. First off, there's "Blasteroids", which is a re-make of "Asteroids" (and that speaks for itself), with updated features and plenty of extra's. There's also "Final Lap" (licensed from Namco), which is a Pole Position type, sit-down, driving game. And, as the frosting on the cake, Atari's first non-video, mechanical, redemption game called "Pot Shot", which has a unique concept in that players use a gattling gun, loaded with ball bearings, to literally shoot at the prizes! Commencing the week of February 1, the now famous Atari Road Show took off, to give U.S. distribs the opportunity to view this interesting trio!

Makin' it on t.v.! As a follow-up to its television appearance on Super Bowl Sunday (1/31), the Rowe R-92 will now be a regular on MTV as part of the show's permanent set. For the remainder of this year MTV VJs will be using the Rowe Video Jukebox from time to time to introduce videos and give out other information on the box's monitor. Thus, Rowe's advertising will carry as "As Seen On MTV" tag to provide greater visibility for the machine.

Isn't it romantic! AT&T and the Hyatt Regency Chicago, will celebrate Valentine's Day beginning Friday, February 12 through Sunday, February 14, by offering Chicagoans complimentary long distance telephone calls to loved ones anywhere in the U.S., via the "love lines" which will be open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily in the Hyatt's East Tower lobby.

Mark your calendars. The Ohio Coin Machine Association announced the dates of May 5, 6 and 7 for its annual state convention and exhibit. This year's show will be held at the Hyatt Regency-Ohio Center in Columbus. For exhibit info and other specifics contact OCMA headquarters at 40 S. Third St., Suite 450, Columbus, OH 43215.

Ops in the news. Batavia, IL operator Dick Buri, 52, was recently honored with the 1987 Batavia Citizen of the Year Award. He was nominated for the award by area Police Chief Robert Warner, who cited Dick's many years of community service through his Funway Family Amusement Center, which he built and has owned and operated for the past twenty-seven years. The center is the realization of a dream to create a facility fashioned after that of his childhood hero, Walt Disney. With the help of his wife, Joy, his oldest daughter Deidra and her husband Scott Owens, Dick Buri has developed the Funway Family Amusement Center into a small scale Disneyland, complete with a bumper car track, roller skating rink, bike track, miniature golf range, restaurant and a large arcade outfitted with just about every game imaginable. He maintains an impeccable establishment patronized by the youngsters of Batavia and enjoys the respect and admiration of the town's citizenry. The December 9 edition of The Windmill News described him as a dedicated family man (he's the father of four); and a special friend to youth and to the entire community of Batavia!

Dateline Springfield, NJ. Spoke with Mondial's veepee Tony Yula a few days after the latest snow storm, which had made for messy conditions out there. As we spoke, however, the sun was shining and the thaw was well in progress! Newly arrived, and lookin' good on the showroom floor is Premier's "Diamond Lady" pin. Tony's quite enthusiastic about it. He also told us that shuffle alleys seem to be on the upswing in this area, with Williams' "Gold Mine" adding to the momentum. Taito's "Double Dragon" is still moving extremely well and "Operation Wolf" is in a demand exceeding supply situation - where they just can't get enough of them! So, what else is new! In the music department, Wurlitzer's "One More Time" nostalgia model and NSM's "Galaxy 200" jukeboxes are at center stage, doing good business!

binning it with the technology of today, we have created a unique attraction for a whole new generation of players."

In the new model, players blast their way through four different galaxies filled with asteroids and other challenging obstacles. After each galaxy has been cleared, the player meets Mukor, the green slime monster who taunts, "Mukor controls this galaxy", one of several voice phrases used in Blasteroids. The player can choose from four different starting difficulties, based on the four galaxies that must be conquered.

Blasteroids brings back the best in exciting space shoot 'em up games and adds much more. For example, there's the "distinctive transformation" feature whereby at the press of a button, players are able to change their ship into three different sizes, each with its own advantages and disadvantages for different game play situations. When "special temporary powers", as enemy ships are destroyed, their hidden cargo is revealed and players can acquire special attributes from the debris of the enemy ships they conquer. In the "hidden source energy" feature, crystals concealed within red asteroids provide the player with the energy needed to continue the outer space adventure. Atari's new Housequake sound system provides both auditory and tactile feedback to the player while drawing a crowd of spectators. The deep, rumbling sound effects can be felt by players through the vibrations of the cabinet.

These are but a few of the many outstanding features of the game which will be available in February, according to Atari. Further information may be obtained through factory distributors or by contacting Atari Games Corp. at 675 Sycamore Drive, P.O. Box 361110, Milpitas, CA 95030.

MEET THE CHAMP. Arachnid's $100,000 BullShooter III World Challenge Champions tour has held five successful $5,000 qualifying regional tournaments thus far on its tour around the world; the most recent being in Orlando, Florida and Leavenworth, Kansas. The Great Plains $5,000 Regional in Leavenworth was sponsored by Bird Dist. and drew players from throughout the midwest, the Great Plains and even from Pennsylvania. Mike Bell of Springfield, Illinois, pictured with Arachnid's Bob Hodges, shot his way through the best of the best to become Great Plains' Champion of Masters Singles 301 Double In/Double Out; and also nailed first place in Cricket Singles. Top finishers in all of the events were awarded cash prizes and qualifying certificates allowing them entry in the BullShooter $35,000 Finals to be held May 28, 29 & 30, 1988 in Chicago.

Atari's 'Blasteroids'

Atari Games Corporation has just introduced a new space action video game called "Blasteroids" which has all of the proven appeal of the factory's 1979 classic hit, Asteroids, and some additional special game play features for today's players.

"Blasteroids is an updated version of one of the most successful games in the history of the industry, Asteroids", said Linda Benzler, product manager for Atari Games. "By taking this highly successful game concept of yesterday and com-

Data East's 'Oscar'

Here you have a rather unique portrayal of a familiar theme presented in "Oscar", a new generic horizontal kit from Data East. The factory reports that the game has garnered consistently high earnings in both arcades and street locations.

The scenario focuses on Oscar's space cop character who must fight off machine-like creatures who are trying to overthrow the planet. There are eight different stages of mechanical enemies Oscar must combat, using such ammunition as ground missiles, grenades, jumping power, gun cannons and the indestructible Psycho Control Unit. The game offers non-stop action and plenty of challenge.

"Oscar is available in kit form, which includes PC board, graphic package, joystick and buttons; and also as an upright.

This model was among the new products introduced by Data East at its recent distributors meeting in Chicago.

Further information may be obtained through factory distributors or by contacting Data East USA, Inc. at 470 Needles Drive, San Jose, CA 95112.
