HE DON IT AGAIN

Don Henley's Columbia is once again the overall marketshare leader among record labels. This marks the fifth straight year the label has led the pack, and the sixth win overall during a decade in which they've never dropped below third. Columbia's projected sales should be around 55 million for 2002. Among the label's successes were resurgent vets Bruce Springsteen and James Taylor, full-fledged superstars Dixie Chicks and breaking acts John Mayer and System of a Down. And Donnie can always use this HITS Contents appearance as kindling for his yuletide hearth.

12 2002: DOWN, BUT NOT OUT

Thank God that's over. One of the least memorable years in music business history saw the sales slump continue, though it didn't seem to affect BMG's Clives, Calder and Davis, multimedia phenom Eminem, Doug Morris' UMG or Don Henley's Columbia, which continued to dominate marketshare. And while the stock of media companies Vivendi-Universal and AOLTV continued to plummet, adult pop-rock, heritage superstars, post-teenpop, country and garage-punk all managed to buck the down trend.

19 MUSICIANS' ASSISTANCE PROGRAM AT 10

A very special Year-End section marking the 10th anniversary for one of the industry's bright spots, Buddy Arnold and Carole Fields' groundbreaking Musicians' Assistance Program, which has helped countless individuals in our business recover from drug and alcohol abuse. Among the features are a dialogue with Buddy and Carole, a harrowing tale told by an anonymous survivor and an interview with musician Bob Forrest, whose life was saved by MAP.

34 YEAR-PICKS

Once again, a selection of quasi-celebrities, the ones that we could cajole into responding, weigh in with their Year-End best-ofs in a variety of categories. Don't tell us you're not interested in ex-Stones producer Andrew Loog Oldham's Top 10 all-time Laurence Harvey performances, the fact that Avril Lavigne's favorite flick was jackass: the movie or that one of Michelle Branch's favorite things of 2002 was "Bush choking on a pretzel."

50 RETAIL YEAR-PICKS

Who would've even thought these guys listen to records?

56 RADIO YEAR-PICKS

These are not the songs their Clear Channel, Infinity and/or Radio One overlords told them to play, but the ones programmers liked best. Oh, they're one and the same? Our bad.

62 YEAR-END CHARTS

Like Santa, we're making lists and checking them twice (for any mistakes by our editorial elves, naturally) for this survey of the year's winners on the Album, PoMo, APM, Active Rock, Crossover, Urban, Hot AC and CHR charts.

ON THE COVER

RCA's Christina Aguilera is here to heat up the holidays, and even though she's been more naughty than nice, she's the perfect stocking-stuffer, celebrating her hit album, Stripped, and the huge single, "Beautiful."

*Happy Birthday
Baby Jesus!
Please Don't Send Us To Hell!*

Country provided some comfort to the retail biz this week. Yep, pardner, after a post-Thanksgiving dip, records are moving out of the stores in sizable numbers, especially the twangy ones. Can we get a "hee-haw"?

Santa's cap looked more like a cowboy hat to retailers, with Mercury Nashville thrush Shania Twain holding at #1 for the fourth straight week, Open Wide/Columbia/CRG's Dixie Chicks surging back to #3 (with a remarkable 111% increase) after last week's primetime TV special and Curb cowboy Tim McGraw hitching his horse at #4.

HMV's Jeff Davidson spat out his chaw of tobacco and dribbled: "Shania will run the table through the rest of the holidays, while Dixie Chicks, thanks to their TV special, and McGraw are also huge. In fact, I'm so pumped, I'm going to spend my vacation in Branson."

The late Aaliyah's posthumous Blackground/Universal bow, I Care 4 You, was the top newcomer, entering at #2 with close to 300k in first-week sales.

It was a spectacular week at retail across the board. There were 31 albums over 100k and 37 records in all with double-digit or higher increases, including Rod Stewart's #18 J Records debut, up 93%, and Norah Jones, whose Blue Note album returned to the Top 10 with a 67% increase.

Added Davidson: "Norah Jones continues to perform, with no end in sight, and Rod Stewart is showing a lotta legs, if you'll pardon the expression."

Rounding out the Top 10 was Shady/Interscope/UMG Strx's 8 Mile soundtrack (#5, up 26%), Arista sk8te chanteuse Avril Lavigne (#6, with a 49% increase), UTV's Now 11 (#7, up 20%), Epic's Jennifer Lopez (#8, +35%) and RCA's Elvis Presley package (#9, up 44%).

Other chart newcomers included Epic's B2K (#11), Arista's Whitney Houston (#15, with more than 175k sold), Columbia/CRG's Nas, whose release was moved up to last Friday (#21, with 143k in a mere three days) and the return of Elektra jam-band Phish at #48.

As for next week, who cares? Certainly not us, because we're outta here...until 2003, that is.

▼ 2002: DOWN

■ THE SALES SLUMP OF 2001-2002: The retail and wholesale communities took some devastating hits in 2001. After enjoying one of its biggest years ever in 2000, the industry looked on anxiously as sales decreased 4% from the previous year pre-9/11 and slid to 6% below the 2000 level afterward. This year, they're down another 11%, and the comparisons are even worse for the all-important holiday season. Downloading, CD-burning, crappy music, the boom in video games and DVDs and the depressed economy have been fingered as the primary causes of the malaise. Most likely, it's the combined result of all of them, along with the growing perception that CDs are way overpriced for the value, and this at a time when margins are even smaller than in the past. So, how do we fix it? We have absolutely no idea, but somebody'd better start trying to figure it out—and soon. (BS)

■ DOUG MORRIS' UMG MARKETSHARE MACHINE: Anyone wondering what "dominant" means need only look at how Universal Music Group, under chief Doug Morris and team, has steamrolled its way to 30% current-album market-share, with no signs of slowing down. In a field of five major groups (and dozens of indies), 20% would be a more than fair slice, but UMG's got half again as much, and is hard at work on a full one-third of the current-album market. With powerhouse labels Interscope Geffen A&M (the single-label marketshare winner for the year) and Island Def Jam hitting on all cylinders, along with the rest of Morris' label heads, don't be surprised if they do it in spite of mothership Vivendi Universal's wobbly knees. (JO)

■ SO MUCH FOR SYNERGY: It was a bad year indeed for megamerged entities AOL Time Warner and Vivendi Universal, as both stocks tanked. AOLTW shares fell to under 10 from a 52-week high of 34.25 (rebounding recently to the mid-13s), as CEO Gerald Levin and then-COO Bob Pittman both called it quits. Throw in a federal accounting investigation, rumors of a "spinoff" (read: demerger) of the lagging AOL division and calls for Chairman Steve Case's head, and you've got quite a year. For VU, meanwhile, overwhelming debt following the company's buying spree brought the ouster of chief Jean-Marie Messier, now under investigation himself. Shares fell below 9 after being in the high 50s in January (currently in the low 16s), and spinoff is now a key word for VU's entertainment assets, including UMG—assuming new guy Jean-Rene Fourtou can outface Barry Diller. (JO)

■ A TALE OF TWO CLIVES: It was a great year to be named Clive and work for German media giant Bertelsmann. In a somewhat surprising move, BMG acquired the half of J Records it didn't already own and anointed industry legend Clive Davis as Chairman of a newly reconfigured RCA Music Group, which will include both RCA Records and J. BMG Chairman/CEO Rolf Schmidt-Holtz told employees the two labels would remain separate "entities" under a single leadership team, with Charles Goldstuck serving as Group President/COO and Richard Sanders continuing as GM for RCA. BMG also completed its purchase of the Zomba Music Group for $2.74 billion. As part of that deal, Zomba's Chairman/CEO Clive Calder resigned, but will remain on a part-time basis in an advisory role. (MP)

■ ADULT RECORD SALES COME OF AGE: Maybe it's because most people over 40 don't have the time or inclination to download records. Perhaps it's the Boomer generation vainly trying to recapture its lost youth. Or could it just be that quality records by artists with something to say can still sell? Whatever the reason, the adult demo came alive this year, and not just for heritage artists like Columbia's matched set of Bruce Springsteen and James Taylor, whose ubiquity on TV and the Internet reached out to old and new fans alike. Sophisticated singer-songwriters and certain Grammy nominees like Blue Note's Norah Jones and Aware/Columbia's John Mayer tapped into a multigenerational audience hungry for music of substance and craft, and both came through with efforts that sounded timeless—as the best pop always does. (RT)

■ GUESS WHO'S BACK...BACK IN TOWN? Whatever you call him, he's rap's bad boy made good, a cultural phenomenon who turned playground dissing into an art form. Star of stage and screen, Eminem's The Eminem Show (Aftermath/Interscope) was not only the best-selling album of the year, but rewrote the rules of retail by coming out on the Friday before Memorial Day weekend to counteract widespread Internet bootlegging. Despite the piracy (or maybe even because of it), the album racked up 1.7 million in sales for those first 10 days on the street and is now up to more than 7 million sold OTC. Throw in his critically acclaimed (and maybe even Oscar-nominated) performance in the #1 box office smash 8 Mile and the current hit soundtrack, and we can even forgive the guy for trying to punch out Triumph the Insult Comic Dog at the MTV Video Music Awards. (RT)

■ ROCK 'EM, SOCK 'EM RADIO: The industry's behemoths underwent changes in their upper echelons during 2002. At Clear Channel, powerful radio chief Randy Michaels was abruptly shoved from his throne and exiled to the company's New Media division by CC big cheese Mark Mays, who installed John Hogan as Michaels' successor and moved the radio operation from Cincinnati to company HQ in San Antonio. Concurrently, new Infinity ruler John Sykes began reshaping the company, naming Andy Schuen and John Fullam his top lieutenants, while giving Dan Mason his walking papers, causing wonderers to wonder whether Infinity would begin consolidating programming, a la the Clear Channel model. Independent promotion became a hot-button issue, as the Big Five, fed up with shelling out big bucks to do-nothing toll-takers, started slashing lists and rates, while Radio One principals Alfred Liggins and Mary Catherine Sneed brought the issue to primetime TV with their appearance on ABC's 20/20. (BS)

■ TEENPOP POOPED, BUT POST-TEENS POPPED: The eternal pop cycle continued. As teenage fans matured, their tastes turned from the slick, manufactured spectacle of the Backstreet Boys and NSYNC to the no-less-slick, but more self-contained, "genuine" sounds of post-teenpop tunesmiths like Maverick's Michelle Branch, A&M's Vanessa Carlton and Arista sk8te-punk phenom Avril Lavigne—perhaps the biggest new artist breakthrough of the year. Mainstays Britney Spears and Christina Aguilera tarted up their images to good chart effect, and newly solo Justin Timberlake surprised skeptics with a soulful debut, though his opposite number Nick Carter's effort wasn't nearly as successful. In the wake of Lavigne, Carlton and Branch's success, expect a steady stream of post-teen grunge grrrls slinging guitars to a pop beat. (RT)

BUT NOT OUT

■ REVENGE OF THE OLD-TIMERS: Older rock fans partied like it was 1969 this year, as a parade of legends staged massive tours in front of packed houses. After the death of his bandmate George Harrison, Paul McCartney opened up his entire songbook on a triumphant tour. The Who rebounded from the death of John Entwistle with speed and pragmatic determination. Bruce Springsteen and the reunited E Street Band staged a TV blitz the week of release on The Rising, resulting in the Boss' biggest sales week ever. James Taylor used the same formula for his biggest album in years. The Rolling Stones showed off a triangle offense far more effective than that of the 2002-03 Lakers (so far), hitting a stadium, an arena and a concert hall in several major markets. The tour began as the band's entire '60s catalog was reissued, with stunningly improved sound, followed by Virgin/EMI's two-CD career retrospective Forty Licks, which has an excellent shot at being the biggest record ever for the World's Greatest Rock & Roll Band, and that's saying something. (BS)

■ COUNTRY POPS WIDE OPEN: Country superstars like Arista Nashville's Alan Jackson and DreamWorks Nashville's Toby Keith hit the sweet spot with post-9/11 songs that turned into pop anthems. Monument/Columbia's Dixie Chicks launched their new Open Wide label with an album that bowed at #1 in September, racking up one of the year's highest first-week sales totals at more than 750k. WB's Faith Hill debuted in the top spot in October, with a hefty 463k in sales, while hubby Tim McGraw later came in at #2, notching more than 600k in sales for his new Curb album. But it was Mercury Nashville's Shania Twain who made the biggest impression. UP!, the country-pop diva's first album since '97's 14 million-selling Come On Over, stormed the charts last month with a whopping 862k its first week, the second-largest total of the year to Eminem, and looks poised to continue as the top seller through the end of the year. (RT)

■ ARTISTS GET THE SEVEN-YEAR ITCH: This year saw the tenuous relationship between artists and labels reach the breaking point, with politics—and politicians—coming into play. Artists and managers joined together to mutiny against recording contracts, accounting practices and the so-called seven-year statute, forming the Recording Artists Coalition. California Sen. Kevin Murray made a name for himself by publicly siding with the artists and seeking to repeal the 1986 amendment to the bill. The Big Five defended themselves behind the RIAA's Hilary Rosen, and the two sides flirted with a compromise. Murray later withdrew the proposed legislation before it had been voted on, but vowed to push the issue again next year. (MP)

■ GARAGE-ROCK REDUX: NEXT BIG THING OR LAST BIG HYPE? With mope-rock and teenpop on the wane, A&R types and hipper-than-thou journoes helped raise an array of garage-rocking "The" bands to phenom status. But while The Strokes, The White Stripes and The Vines scored significant gains among fans and The Hives became an instant cult sensation, some wondered if the entire "movement" was a little too cool for school. More alarmingly, the signing frenzy that followed the hype—where weasels roamed the planet's garages, waving their checkbooks at every Nuggets knockoff in sight—was reminiscent of the profligate post-Nirvana '90s. Is this a bona fide movement, or a critic-fueled fad? It's too early to say. But as with any other genre, the bands with hit songs will survive and the rest will probably be relegated to the pop dustbin. (SG)

■ MUSICAL CHAIRS: Following the merger of RCA and J Records, Clive Davis is named Chairman of a newly reconfigured RCA Music Group, with Charles Goldstuck named President/COO... EMI Deputy Chairman David Munns taps Ivan Gavin as COO EMI N.A. and Phil Quartararo as Exec. VP EMI N.A.... Matt Serletic and Roy Lott are brought in to replace Ray Cooper and Ashley Newton as leaders of the revamped, New York-based Virgin... Former IDJ Chairman Jim Caparro named CEO of WEA, while Julie Greenwald and Kevin Liles are upped to Presidents at Island and Def Jam/Def Soul, respectively... Tom Whalley boosts Warner Bros.' A&R department by tapping Rob Cavallo and Perry Watts-Russell as key executives... Daniel Savage segues from Hollywood to Maverick... Steve Backer is back in the saddle with a GM appointment at V2... And former label chiefs Gary Gersh, Steve Rifkind and Bryan Turner are all back in business with new gigs. (MP)

LOOKING AHEAD TO 2003

- Next Year's Model: Did EMI's deal with Robbie Williams, which prioritized revenue-sharing, set a precedent for major-artist contracts?
- Merger Mania: With the EU relaxing its merger criteria, can we expect more moves toward consolidation in 2003?
- Seeing Pink: Not even the most relatively successful operations in the music biz are immune from cutbacks. Unfortunately, we'll be seeing more pink slips handed out in the coming months.
- Burning Revenue: Did Q4 sales of CD-burners erase the gains of Q4 retail, and will this trend continue to erode the bottom lines of the Big Five?
- Clive Alive, Jive Revived at BMG: How will Clive Davis shape the combined RCA and J labels, and what will Rolf Schmidt-Holtz do with onetime teenpop stronghold Jive?
- Neil & Norah at the Grammys: Expect a short speech from new NARAS head Neil Portnow and a long list of nominations for adult-pop princess Norah Jones.
- Seven-Year Redux: What's on Sen. Kevin Murray's 2003 agenda?

LIST

A Blatant Rip-off of a Good Magazine

WHAT WEASELS ARE WEASELING ABOUT THIS WEEK

- DOUG MORRIS: UMG commander leads music group to unprecedented marketshare, passing 30% without slowing down. All's well that Vivendi's well.
- TOMMY MOTTOLA: Sony Music Entertainment capo di tutti capi is media-ubiquitous, generating almost as many headlines as J.Lo. Just don't call him T.Mo.
- CLIVE CALDER: After "putting" it to Bertie to the tune of $2.74 billion, the ex-Zomba owner is now the richest man in showbiz. Is EMI on his shopping list?
- JIMMY IOVINE: Interscope's cat in the hat caps off '03 with #1 current label marketshare honors, thanks to Eminem, No Doubt, Sheryl Crow, Enrique, Vanessa Carlton and more—but the making of the 8 Mile movie makes him MVP label head.
- DON IENNER: Columbia ruler's #1 overall label market-share crown studded with icons (Bruce, James Taylor), megastars (Dixie Chicks) and young lions (Mayer, System). And you should check out his golf swing.
- LYOR COHEN: Another fantastic f**kin' year for IDJ supremo, who rolls into the promised land thanks to Ashanti, Nickelback, Shania, O Brother, Ludacris, Ja Rule, Jay-Z, Mariah, et al.
- L.A. REID: Arista kingpin produces results, as Avril sk8tes to superstardom, Pink makes elephant bucks, Santana strings up another hit and Usher guides his audience.
- CLIVE DAVIS: The man who invented the record business is RCA victor, as BMG puts J ruler in charge of housebreaking Nipper.
- WMG: Roger's rabbit jumps, looks to regain its rightful place atop the music-group firmament with furry friends Azzoli, Caparro, Rhone and Whalley. And th-th-th-that's not all, folks.
- EMI: Can a Frenchman lead the English back to glory? Levy and Munns vow to turn EMI from limp biscuit to world power with Capitol's Slater, Virgin's Serletic and Lott, Blue Note's Lundvall and veteran Phil Q.
- BMG: Schmidt-Holtz never halts, working to unify German forces with Zomba acquisition, naming Clive Davis Kaiser of RCA Music Group. Nothing Smellie about those moves.
- DAVE GLEW: Chairman Dave has long been the Glew that held Epic together. Is he ready to lift a large weight off his shoulders?

BEAT'S ME

BY ROY TRAKIN

TEN THE HARD WAY: Sure, it was another year of depression in the music industry, but you wouldn't know it from the music. There was interesting stuff all over the place in different genres, from neo-garage-rock to classic singer-songwriters, from prog-hop to art-rock, and everything in between. And while albums are decreasingly viable as a listening format, they're still the best way to judge artistic invention. So here goes: 1) Eminem, The Eminem Show (Aftermath/Interscope): Where he goes from here is anybody's guess, as the world's best rapper now has to cope with mainstream Hollywood success. Whatever else you say about the guy, his lyrical flow remains unmatched, his social criticism doesn't exclude himself and he had the two top songs of the year in "Without Me" and "Lose Yourself." 2) Bright Eyes, Lifted... (Saddle Creek): Conor Oberst isn't just the next Dylan; even more importantly he's the next Alex Chilton or Paul Westerberg, as well. 3) Beck, Sea Change (Geffen): A song cycle about loss and resurrection that, like all indelible melodies, insinuates itself into your very being. 4) Queens of the Stone Age, Songs for the Deaf (Interscope): An oasis in the heavy metal desert, this heady stoner rock revived an exhausted genre, as did ...Trail of the Dead and, on the punk tip, Andrew WK.

5) Pink, Missundaztood (Arista): The female performer of the year, she provided the most unorthodox distaff pop-music role model since Patti Smith. 6) Joey Ramone, Don't Worry About Me (Sanctuary): A warm farewell from the great beyond that matched George Harrison's equally luminous Brainwashed as the most touching posthumous release of the year. 7) Flaming Lips, Yoshimi Battles the Pink Robots (WB): Wayne Coyne's joie de rock is a beacon of light in an otherwise dark corporate landscape. 8) Suicide, American Supreme (Mute): Contains the single most harrowing post-9/11 song of the year in "Dachau Disco." 9) Red Hot Chili Peppers, By the Way (WB): No record captured the allure and the angst of the City of Angels better. 10) Bruce Springsteen, The Rising (Columbia): A lotta fans were disappointed, but the record was a noble attempt by a heritage artist to deal with the big issues in a selfless way, and the bottom line is, I didn't play another record more this year. RUNNERS-UP: The Hives, Elvis Costello, Doves, Northern State, The Streets, Coldplay, Jurassic 5, Johnny Cash, The Breeders, MC Paul Barman. SONGS: Moby, "We Are All Made of Stars," Nickelback, "How You Remind Me," Avril Lavigne, "Complicated," Pink, "Let Me Be Me," X-ecutioners' "It's Going Down," Nirvana's "You Know You're Right."

WIN YOURSELF

EMINEM: Making Hollywood safe for hip-hop.

(The HITS management wants you to know that Roy Trakin's column is Roy Trakin's column and does not necessarily reflect the opinion of HITS.)

MINI MUGS

SILVERCRUSH GRIDLOCK: RED Distribution execs take advantage of their newly expanded 15-minute lunch hour to enjoy an intimate acoustic performance by Redline act Silvercrush. The group was in town to play Jones Beach Jeep World Outside Festival, as they wonder which of the following suspects ate the brown M&Ms required by their contract rider (back, l-r) RED's Frank Falkow, band's Jim Stauffer, Steele Croswhite, Carl Broemel, Dave Christensen & Mike Flynn and RED's Dean Tabac; (fr, l-r) RED's Laura G. Marques, Mike Worthington & Russell Fink.

LITTLE BIG TOWN MEETING: Sony Music's Little Big Town get foreign policy tips from George Dubya himself as they launch their national voter registration campaign at the White House, where they sang the National Anthem at the Prez's charity Tee-Ball game. Afterward, the whole gang repaired to the War Room, where the following helped Condoleezza Rice aim nuclear warheads at Baghdad (l-r): the band's Phillip Sweet and Karen Fairchild, Dubya, the band's Jimi Westbrook and Kimberly Roads. Consider this magazine a weapon of mass self-destruction.

MILES PRESSES THE FLESH: Vet industry exec Miles Copeland silently computes how much the worldwide rights to bellydancing are worth as he celebrates the recent "Superstars of Bellydance" performance at L.A.'s Roxy in W. Hollywood for the release of the album of the same name. Shortly afterward, Miles recounted the time he once charged Sting interest for changing his English pounds into German deutsche marks.

Year-End Special:

Musicians' Assistance Program at 10

For anyone who has ever struggled with drug or alcohol addiction, the isolation and increasing desperation of the disease can seem utterly hopeless. Fortunately, those involved in the music business have had somewhere to turn since 1992.

Over the course of 10 years, Musicians' Assistance Program has been there for some 1,300 people, all of whom have received treatment whether they could pay for it or not. The only requirement is a sincere desire to turn it around.

We don't pretend to know what turns an otherwise reasonable person into an addict or what allows them to find their way out of the hole, but we do know this: MAP needs your help. While the member companies of the RIAA have generously supported the program in previous years, the recent economic crunch has seriously impacted MAP's funding.

Now it's time for those who have received help or know someone who has, as well as everyone who just thinks it's a good idea for people to help each other, to come together and ensure MAP's future.

Again, we don't pretend to know much about giving, but it is that season. Whether you make a donation, volunteer or just want to find out more about what MAP does, get in touch.

MAP-ING THE ROAD TO RECOVERY

When Buddy Arnold and Carole Fields got together, sparks flew—both romantic and creative. The pair, married since 1986, shared difficult pasts—Buddy, once a successful jazz saxophonist with a promising career, spent over 30 years as a junkie and ended up in San Quentin after one last scheme to score went bust, while Carole, a successful modeling agent, lost her two adopted children to an airplane crash in 1985. Together, they have helped each other rebuild and find something positive in life again. Together, they co-founded Musicians' Assistance Program in 1992.

Now 10 years old, MAP, a unique agency devoted to helping those in the music industry with substance abuse problems get help, is still going strong, thanks to Buddy, Carole and a network of artists and executives who give of their time and money to keep the program going as it was intended: 82 cents of every dollar raised still goes directly to helping those in need, while over 60% of those receiving treatment stay clean—an unusually high percentage in the recovery business. “The road to recovery has a MAP,” the tagline goes. Indeed, MAP’s guidance has saved hundreds of lives.

Open to anyone in the music business regardless of ability to pay, MAP has also had the help of advisors and substance abuse professionals such as the late Gloria Scott (a former junkie pal of Buddy’s who, like him, got clean and worked with rock musicians as a drug counselor, in her case with Cri-Help) and, more recently, Warren Boyd, whose generosity has allowed MAP to establish its first sober-living home. But the key to the program’s continuing success remains money—something that’s become a lot harder to come by lately. In an interview from their modest Musicians’ Union office in Hollywood, Buddy and Carole describe the state of MAP at year 10.

How big is MAP at the 10-year mark?

Carole Fields: We’re international now. We’ve had clients from England, from South Africa—one who allows us to use his name is Hugh Masekela. He actually started a kind of MAP in South Africa six or seven years ago. We have 13 representatives around the country and one in London. The reps case-manage in their area, and then we work as a team. We've helped over 1,300 people at this point, and we're still giving about 80% of our money away. That hasn't changed.

Buddy Arnold: Besides England, last year we had someone from Latvia. And we had someone from Ireland. I think there were five other countries we had people come in from.

CF: And we now have a board [of directors] in New York, where we have meetings three times a year.

It's been a rough year for the music business and the economy in general. How have your fundraising efforts been affected?

BA: We're certainly feeling the effect of the economy in our fundraising. Our recent event at the [Hollywood] House of Blues was a wonderful success, and we just about hit our goal, netting about $200,000—which is less than one-sixth of our budget. But certain people who have always supported us in the past, in terms of buying tables, co-chairing and things like that, were unable to do so this year because they didn't have the money. MAP's future is tenuous. We've been mainly supported by the recording industry—the RIAA—and they're hurting. They continue to stand behind us, they're there to help us, but they can't promise us anything.

CF: And yet people still really need help, big-time. And even in the leanest of times, there are ways to still get the job done and help other people. People just have to put their egos aside and say, "A fraction of my life is going to be devoted to doing something for those who can't help themselves." The money's tenuous, but there's so much good energy and willingness to help and keep things going; there's a lot of creative thinking going on.

Are more people coming to you for help now than when you started 10 years ago?

BA: We're able to do much more today than we were 10 years ago, or even six years ago, thanks to what the recording industry did for us with their initial grant of $2 million over three years. It enabled us to grow a great deal.

CF: And some of the artists have been fabulous.

BA: This year, we expect to come very close to 300 clients. It was 253 last year—it'll be more this year.

CF: But what we've had to do, depending on funding, is lower and raise our cap—how much we can give to one person. At one time that was as high as $7,000; now it's at $4,000. That changed with how many people come through and how much money we have in the bank. If the money decreases, and the number of people coming through increases, the cap goes down.

How have you maintained a 60% success rate?

BA: I think it's becoming easier, because as more people get treatment through MAP, the community of people who are clean grows. We're seeing more and more people largely because of word-of-mouth. There are more people getting clean and staying clean and talking to each other. The whole principal behind AA or any 12-step program boils down to one drunk talking to another. So nowadays we have a whole bunch of clean ones out there who can talk to the guy that just got 30 days, and I think that person has a better chance of staying clean because of it. It's the fellowship, the ongoing MAP groups—which are not 12-step meetings, but are held here three times a week and in different cities at least once a week—where somebody can come in and express his feelings about nobody hiring him as a drummer in the last year, or how someone hired him and he hated the band. It provides a forum, a venue to talk about things like that.

What sets you apart from other programs in terms of your success rate?

CF: I think it has to do with commitment and passion. The people who are involved, the people who are here—whether it's Bob Forrest or others you probably know—have tremendous passion and energy to not say no to anyone—even those who call and don't fit our guidelines. We will never hang up the phone without saying, "Call here. You can get help here." Whatever the problem is. Our people are just committed to doing this.

Does a person with a problem need to have "bottomed out" before you can help them?

CF: There's an expression in 12-step programs that says, "You can get off the elevator at any floor." My bottom was different from Buddy's bottom. His was San Quentin, and I wasn't going there. But for me, given how I grew up, what my life became about was absolutely a bottom. For me, I couldn't have felt any more humiliated, demoralized, horrified, and sick at the point where I stopped, but I didn't reach out for help because I didn't identify it as a drinking problem, or a drug problem. But people around me knew, and I was intervened on. In Buddy's case, he has another kind of story. Some people walk in and say, "I need help." Some people are on the verge of getting fired or divorced, or something horrible physically happens to them—a disease sets in. Some don't make it, as you know. Even though they've hit the so-called bottom, they can't stop. That's why interventions are important. Because when you're at that place, there are people who are more alert who can try to help. I once heard somebody say, "How can you make sense with someone who's under anesthesia?" When someone is loaded out of their mind on something, they're not going to the gym, or riding a bicycle. You need something else to do, to get nuts about—as nuts as you were about your drinking and using. One of the reasons we think MAP works is that we acknowledge the uniqueness, or the difference, that musicians especially possess, or believe they possess. They're more inclined to talk to another musician than they are to an accountant—you know, because most have this built-in fear of accountants.

I read that MAP pays something like 96% of clients' treatment costs.

coherent, they're not with it. It takes somebody who's not under anesthesia to try to intervene and say, "This is a life at least worth trying to save." A lot of people come in that way.

Are you still able to monitor everyone you help?

BA: We try very hard to. Once every six months, we do a survey, but it's extremely difficult.

CF: But the reps around the country have databases now, which make it a little bit easier, because we don't have to do it all here.

BA: The difficulty lies in the nature of musicians. They move. They change phone numbers a lot. They forget to get a referral or something, and the mail doesn't get there. One thing we've done recently—this was Carole's idea—is to add a page to the application to give us somebody else to contact if we can't find you. Somebody who's likely to be there six months from now.

CF: We had to do that with models, when I represented them for a zillion years. We always had to have someone to contact, because we could get a check and look for them for 10 years. They'd just disappear.

What else is involved in aftercare?

CF: Case management is so important. As opposed to just giving someone a check and saying, "Have a good time—hope it works." We case-manage. So we may say, "Look, there's so much going on in your life, if you really want to stay clean, maybe the next step for you before home or the band or whatever should be to go into a sober-living home for a while." Sometimes, getting right back out there without having more stability can be like a setup to use again.

BA: We don't cram one way down your throat. A good case manager has more than one option, and more than one suggestion. If you're really scared off by 12-step programs, there are other ways. You have to get kind of crazy, or very involved. Maybe get totally immersed in BA: Probably more. As often as possible, we ask, "How much can you come up with?" If you do that, you're liable to get something, rather than just going ahead under the assumption that they have nothing. But by the time you get here, at least half the time why you're here is you've exhausted every resource. You've begged, borrowed and stolen, and you ain't got nothin' left.

CF: But then, MAP was really started for people who were not names, who had no insurance, who had nothing and nowhere to go. They just started to call as Buddy worked in substance abuse, and the need became so great that we took it out of our house and formed a foundation.

How much help does $4,000 get a person these days?

CF: Buddy's negotiated a lot for people. He gets facilities to take people for $4,000 and less. Now, some people have other things—they have to be detoxed, which costs more. And there are a lot of dual diagnoses now that we didn't have 10 years ago—psychological disorders—anything from manic depression and depression to psychosis. It's a really big problem, especially among kids. And it's unfortunate, because more and more facilities are scaling back, even though there's greater need.

Buddy once said that, in addition to getting as many people into treatment as possible, part of MAP's mission was also to de-glamorize drug use with kids. How's the prevention part going?

CF: In the last 10 years, we've done about 14 public service announcements with recording artists through Partnership for a Drug-Free America. We're currently doing a radio campaign—the last one was with B2K—and we're working on a wish list for more. We're still doing the outreach to kids, to try to make a difference in their thinking about drugs. It's not our primary purpose, but we feel morally responsible to try to do something for the young people. It can do nothing but help.

MAP has had plans to establish a halfway house.

CF: We just got one. We were offered a house out in Malibu, attached to a treatment facility named Wavelengths, and the guy who runs it, Warren Boyd, is just the coolest. He said, "I have a house, and I'm going to give it to you, for your people, at your cap," which is $4,000. And we said, "You are a god."

BA: It's three or four bedrooms on a 250-acre piece of property, and we're going to use it as a primary treatment facility as well. We'll be able to put our people there at $4,000 for the month, but they'll be able to take part in the activities down at, for want of a better name, the big house, where people are paying like $35,000 for the month. I said, what are the people who are paying 35 grand going to say when they find out some guy

How big a help is having somebody like Bob Forrest, who, like Buddy, is a musician with a harrowing drug past, actually work with you side-by-side?

BA: He's an incredible amount of help, because he's really our conduit, our liaison to the world of The Mars Volta and others. He's a joy to have around, although he talks as much as I do...

CF: He has such energy to be of service. Besides his connection to the younger music world, he's really active in going the 10 extra miles to help someone. You don't find that often. He's interning here, and he should be licensed by February.

THE PEOPLE WHO ARE INVOLVED, THE PEOPLE WHO ARE HERE, HAVE TREMENDOUS PASSION AND ENERGY TO NOT SAY NO TO ANYONE—EVEN THOSE WHO CALL AND DON'T FIT OUR GUIDELINES.

from the MAP house up there only paid $4,000? Warren said, "They're learning to give something. Learning to help somebody."

There were also plans for a senior living facility.

BA: We're hoping for that. MusicCares has been putting one together for the longest time, and it's supposed to happen right up the street here, to be called Encore House. Turns out they're having some licensing problems.

CF: It's really needed. A lot of older people, with a lot of years of recovery, relapse. They get arthritis, they get this, they get that, and then doctors give them a pain prescription. And when you're an addict and you take

Those who come into contact with MAP seem to develop a fierce loyalty about it.

CF: I'm certainly grateful, and love them back, but I don't know. You'd have to ask them.

BA: I think it's because Carole is so real. There is no bullshit, no pretentiousness, no hidden agenda. Now, with me, it's a different story. If you're a horn player, you get better treatment.

CF: Buddy has helped so many people. He never says no.

Just one more question: What's Dave Adelson really like?

BA: [laughs] He's extraordinarily loyal—a great friend to us. And he's absolutely nuts.

HOW I ENDED UP ON BUDDY'S COUCH

Mine is the classic story of drug and alcohol abuse. I am the 30-something son of an alcoholic father and a drug-addicted mother.

I remember my dad kept a bottle of Johnnie Walker Red on the kitchen counter. Periodically, he would ask me to make him a double on the rocks and bring it to him in the den. I would stir it with my finger and lick the scotch off. As I got older, the licks turned to quick sips. Upon reflection, that's when my run began. I was six years old.

I had my first real drunk when I was 13, and smoked my first joint shortly thereafter. In high school, my friend Howard, who worked at a dry cleaners, called to tell me he had found a packet of white powder in a customer's pocket and asked if I wanted it. Who was I to say no? Little did I know that I wouldn't get around to saying no for a very long time. From that moment, I began an affair with cocaine that lasted 22 years. The frequency of my use varied from once a week to every day.

My experimentation with drugs continued through high school, as I dabbled with pills—mostly Valium, but other downers and uppers as well. All this came before I turned 17. By the time I reached the legal drinking age of 18 in New York, I had already moved past beer and on to hard liquor, was snorting coke and speed regularly and had been frequently mixing in psychedelics like mushrooms and acid and, later, ecstasy. I figured the only thing left to try was heroin, which I swore I would never do.

When I got into my late 20s and early 30s, I realized just how nicely a little heroin took the edge off the cocaine. Another promise broken. I was strung out. I'd stop for periods of time, but I always came back to what I knew. I loved getting high. I lived sex, drugs and rock & roll, and my intake capacity seemed so much higher than everyone else's, I could party down and still be out in public. I could handle it.

I was once a weekend warrior, but that was a very long time ago. At some point, Friday and Saturday's party became an all-week event. In fact, I found that over time, I was actually going out less on the weekends because I thought they were "amateur nights" and I couldn't deal with "immature partiers"—the slurring, falling-down drunks we all know and love. I could handle my shit, and those idiots really annoyed me.

I hated New Year's Eve the most because that evening in particular gave people the license to go crazy, and they bothered me...simply because every night was New Year's to me.

I didn't realize until fairly recently that the amounts of alcohol and drugs I was consuming were progressively increasing. Maybe I knew, but I didn't care because I could handle my shit—even when my shit came to consist of a wide mixture of anything I could get my hands on.

I never thought I had a problem. Being involved in the music industry, I thought my behavior was acceptable, and everyone was getting high. But somewhere along the trip, I went from bragging about how much I drank and snorted to lying about how much I drank and snorted. I can't pinpoint that date, but I realize now that that's when I turned the corner from use to abuse.

My using had a direct effect on every aspect of my life. Despite making a good living, I was broke and deeply in debt. I lived in a pig pen. I never cleaned the house, and laundry was often optional. It was all too much of a hassle. When it got too bad, I just chose to spend as little time at home as possible.

The most emotionally devastating effect of my abuse was the destruction it caused within my family and relationships. My parents and sisters had stopped trusting me years ago. I was the outcast... by my own choosing. My drug and alcohol use and the lies that came with it also put a permanent rift in my three-year relationship with my girlfriend. The damage done is beyond repair, and I still mourn losing her.

My health was also becoming a concern. I was smoking two packs of Marlboros a day, I was bleeding from the hole I'd put in my septum, I'd lost a couple of teeth, and my blood pressure and cholesterol count were off the charts. And my mental state was wrecked. Paranoia reigned supreme.

I LIVED SEX, DRUGS AND ROCK & ROLL, AND MY INTAKE CAPACITY SEEMED SO MUCH HIGHER THAN EVERYONE ELSE'S, I COULD PARTY DOWN AND STILL BE OUT IN PUBLIC. I COULD HANDLE IT.

Before cleaning up, I was up to a bottle of Jack Daniel's, 12 beers and one to two grams of coke a day. And that doesn't include the occasional heroin, Valium, Vicodin, Xanax or ecstasy that I took over the course of those days. I was no longer handling my shit. I was out of control and I knew it: I had stopped liking it years before, but I just couldn't stop doing it.

I was insane.

Because of my destructive behavior, I was really close to losing my job, which I now truly value. It has provided me with the ability to live this wonderful rock & roll life, and I was letting it slip away. I was dangerously close to hitting bottom. I was within arm's length.

---

And then it happened. Just as I was coming to the same conclusion, my bosses came to me and suggested that I needed some help. But I didn't know what to do. One of my bosses said to me, "When a Mercedes breaks down, you take it to a Mercedes specialist. Why don't you go see Buddy Arnold? He specializes in people in music with drug and alcohol problems. If you are serious about this, take as much time as you need. Your job will be here when you get back."

I called MAP and made an appointment to meet the man.

On a Thursday in late June 2001, I stumbled into Buddy's office, sat down on his couch and played with his dog, Mingus. Before me sat an older gentleman with clarity in his eyes. Without saying anything, I knew he knew, and I was in the right place. We spoke. I told him my story—one that I am sure he's heard thousands of times. But he really listened. He may have been the first to ever hear my truth. I had trouble fathoming that I had actually ended up in this position, but I felt comfortable for the first time in a long time.

We know times are tough, but...

Thanks for leading the way, guys.
Happy holidays, from Marty and everyone else at EMI Music Publishing.

He told me he could get me a bed at Las Encinas rehab in Pasadena on that Friday, and if I was truly ready to stop, that was the way to start. I was “so busy,” I told him, I couldn’t go that soon and needed the weekend to get my affairs in order. So Buddy reserved a bed for Monday, Aug. 6.

Well, after a three-day binge, a friend and I turned up at Las Encinas on Monday morning, and so began my life of recovery. Following a painful and surreal detox, I began a journey of rediscovery. I realized that drug addicts and alcoholics are the only people who try to cure loneliness by isolating and being alone—wacked thinking, for sure.

The first few days at this “resort” in Pasadena are a complete blur. In fact, I probably wasn’t awake for more than an hour at a time during the first five days. I was given medicine regularly—to halt the chances of a seizure and to help kick my addictions—and my vitals were checked hourly by the staff. When I finally came to, I was told that I had to get involved in a 12-step program that the hospital provided.

While I was being weaned off the meds, I was simultaneously getting my fill of Alcoholics Anonymous programming. Each day consisted of eight hours of sessions, sometimes more, with AA, CA and NA meetings, process groups, therapy and presentations.

Well into the second week, I started to awaken. Surprisingly, my senses—except for my sense of smell, due to the damage I’d done—became heightened. I could see things more clearly, hear things better and feel again. I began to work the steps, and the desire to use or drink had been lifted.

Now it was time to adjust my thinking. Through therapy and multiple meetings, I’ve been able to get a handle on some of my alcoholic thoughts. I’m a work in progress, and I don’t know if I’ll ever be “normal,” but I do know that things are a helluva lot better than they were.

Once a week, MAP holds intense group therapy sessions, and these sessions have been integral to my recovery. Through my time inside and since, MAP and their caring personnel have helped guide me to a new life. It’s been 16 months now, and I haven’t had a drink or drug. I owe my life to MAP and the program of Alcoholics Anonymous.

MAP made me feel like I belonged. They were never judgmental and very supportive. I felt like I could talk to Buddy about anything, and he would not only listen but give advice that seemed right on. Because of his own past and the similar surroundings he and the MAP crew have lived through, I felt comfortable and at ease, which is not my normal state. I am irritable and discontented by nature.

My life today is a complete 180. I’ve become more spiritually aware, I go to meetings regularly, I participate in MAP events and help my fellow alcoholics. I’ve had to cut ties with some friends and make amends for many of the things I did while I was out there. I’ve dealt with my own character defects, and I’ve regained respect for myself. I’ve repaired my relationship with my parents and sisters. I now have balance. And I have my life back.

RHINO SUPPORTS THE MUSICIANS' ASSISTANCE PROGRAM (MAP) AND THE GREAT WORK THEY DO.

"Some of your more famous rock stars have been arrested in this park," laughed Bob Forrest as we looked across the open-air drug den officially known as MacArthur Park, half a mile or so west of downtown Los Angeles. • Bob had told me stories about his days and nights as a junkie in this park and we decided it would be the right place to shoot my somewhat pandering "Junkie Musician Gets Clean, Helps Save Other Junkie Musicians" story for E! Entertainment Television News. • "It just seems to be the magnet of the bottom of the barrel of drug and alcohol addiction in Los Angeles," he said. "Obviously, I didn't plan on coming down here, but this is where I ended up." • Bob's a pro and a ham. He knew I needed 15-second sound bites and delivered on cue. I scored four-and-a-half minutes for the piece on the newscast the day after Bob accepted his award from the Musicians Assistance Program (MAP). Bob, Scott Weiland and Daniel Lanois also performed an epic "I Shall Be Released" that evening. • Sound bites aside, Bob painted a vivid picture of the professional recording artist as a strung-out junkie on the verge of death. • I'm thrilled to have this opportunity to share the entire interview.

BEEN DONE

This was your home?

Yeah. My life down here was a constant hustle of always getting money. As you can see, there's not a lot of job opportunities. You'd get little jobs spotting for drug dealers. It's just the bottom of the barrel right here.

What kind of drugs were you buying?

Crack and heroin. It's all up on Sixth St. and all through this area. The park is the place where you go to do it.

How much crack and heroin were you doing?

As much as I could get my hands on. When I was playing music and had records out, I could get two, three, four hundred dollars worth of drugs, and do them with my friends who also had two, three, four hundred dollars. Once you're living down here, you get better prices. That's one of the added bonuses of residency here.

What was your daily life like?

I just felt sick all the time. There's only an hour out of the day where you feel like a human being at all. I can't tell you what a hard job it is to live in this park and in these streets. You have to be moving constantly,

When you weren't on the road, this was home?

I remember coming home from a show in Phoenix in the early '90s, begging the bus driver to let me off at Alvarado, because the bus was going to the Capitol Records parking lot to drop everybody off with their suitcases and their girlfriends. I was coming down here. I didn't have a suitcase and I didn't care.

What about your friends?

They didn't want anything to do with me anymore. Why would they? I had lied to them, stolen from them. When my friends abandoned me and couldn't stand looking at me anymore, that hit me hard.

Did you have many friends left?

Anthony Kiedis really tried to help me so many times it was ridiculous. He'd come down here looking for me. Once, he came into a drug house and brought me to rehab. And as soon as he left, I asked the desk for his deposit money so I could come back here.

How'd you get out? When did you bottom out?

I have no idea. It's so crazy. I just woke up one morning here and stopped.

You're kidding

Honestly. I just woke up one morning and one thing led to another. It's such a mystery. I had been in more than 30 rehab centers, and nothing really had an impact on me. They talk about that in 12-step programs, you know, that you hit bottom. But it didn't really seem like a bottom I had hit before.

I expected something a little more dramatic

It was weird. I woke up with every intention of drinking and taking drugs that day, just like every other day. For some reason I haven't yet figured out, everything that I was told in those rehab centers kind of clicked with me. I didn't like who I was, and became willing to do pretty

THERE, THAT

Addict First, Leader of Thelonious Monster Second. He Should Be Dead Now.

Interview by David Adelson

because you have no car, the police are after you, you have no money and you have to get drugs. It's a tough job.

How about a more extreme horror story from down here?

I woke up down there on Wilshire Blvd. My pants were down around my legs. I don't know really how that happened or what had happened. I know that I had a spoon of heroin that I had obviously OD'd on. I woke up and I had my glasses on, and I looked and saw the rain splashing the heroin out of the spoon. I was wet and my pants were down, and all I could think was "Why does this keep happening to me?" What bothered me was that my dope was being rained on and spilled out of my spoon.

How does the leader of Thelonious Monster end up down here? What were you thinking?

I would come down here and it would seem like I was living some Jim Morrison fantasy life. The best thing I ever heard about a drug-addict musician is, you think a movie's being made of your life. It's like somebody's watching this tragedy go down. Then you get down here and you realize that there's no movie being made of your life. You're not Jim Morrison. It's just pathetic and sad and tragic, and then you can't get out. I'm amazed that people get out of here.

So all your band money went to your habit?

I spent all the money that I ever made on drugs. Our tour bus used to drop me off at the Hollywood Freeway and Alvarado, and I would just walk down here. The good thing about being on the road was that I had a place to stay and a thing to do. But even during the last couple of years of successfully playing music, my life was dictated by the magnetic pull to come down here.

much anything to not be who I was. I didn't want to be me anymore. You can go down just as far as you can go down, and I went down pretty far—and then one day something just clicked.

So, once you decided to get straight...

Then I had to find some new people to look up to besides Jim Morrison. The main one I found was Buddy Arnold.

Why?

He gets it. He was right where I was. There's no one more self-obsessed than a drug addict; multiply that by a million when dealing with drug-addict musicians. The drug-addict musician is just the hybrid of selfishness, and selfishness is the core of my problem.

You're saying the junkie musician is a unique breed?

It doesn't surprise anybody that a musician is predisposed to this kind of life, because it's the most selfish, narcissistic industry you can be in.

You started to get your life back?

Yeah. I was playing music again. I got a publishing deal and got records out again. That gave me a lot of spare time, which used to be filled with drugs. I chose to spend it working with Buddy and with junkies I'd meet.

So, have you dedicated your life to saving other musicians from what you experienced?

I don't know if you can save anybody. But I made a decision in my life that I was good at this. I was good at talking to musicians. So the answer to your question is yes. What else you gonna do? There's only so much CNN.

young Marble Quarts - colossal youth - lying in an iron lung filled with warm water and cesium salts.

wipers - "is this real?" - yeah it is.

Shannon Fife - Burning from EP - when i finally got to see them live - I was transfixed into a historic three year old gal at a Beatles concert.

Sue Trishols - Newmarket - belters - one million times more important than the Clutch.

Jed & I - great expectations - with my head phones on, Jed and I ~~share~~ share "our little secret" walking thru shopping malls and air ports.

DAVE DAVIES (The Kinks)

1. Bowling for Columbine: Michael Moore received a 13-minute standing ovation at the Cannes Film Festival... He deserved twice that.
2. Michael Moore, Stupid White Men... and Other Sorry Excuses for the State of the Nation: God Bless Michael Moore.
3. The amazing synchronicity on Sept. 11, 2002—the winning lottery numbers in New York were 911, drawn in that order.
4. The Jeeva's single "Once Upon a Time in America": Crispian Mills, ex-Kula Shaker, a spiritually infused mix of rock and wisdom.
5. Son of the Beach: With episode titles like Silence of the Clams, Queefer Madness and The Long Hot Johnson, who wouldn't like this Baywatch spoof? It's funny!
6. Andrew Harvey, Sun at Midnight: A story about what mystics call the "Dark Night of the Soul." Author Marianne Williamson says of Harvey, "The light he sheds is like a meteor burst across the inner sky." Couldn't agree more.
7. The Hives: They sound and look great. Reminds me of the Kinks when we started.
8. The Flaming Lips: I love their song, "In The Morning of the Magicians." Also, their artwork is beautiful and spiritually stimulating.
9. Congressman Dennis Kucinich: More a mystic than a politician. His advocacy of a Dept. of Peace seeks not only to make non-violence an organizing principle in our society, but to make war archaic. I'm for anyone who rings the chimes of Peace, Love and Unity in 2002.
10. A tie between Kelly Osbourne and Avril Lavigne: I love Kelly's personality. She is the consummate punk and Avril rocks!

THE DONNAS

1. Guns N' Roses, Appetite for Destruction

BOB EZRIN (producer, Pink Floyd, Kiss, Alice Cooper)

1. Bowling for Columbine: The most provocative film of the year (made me want to move back to Canada).
2. The Sopranos final season: The deepest, most intense and artful soap opera on television.
3. Eminem, The Eminem Show: Undoubtedly the best album of the year.
4. Margaret Atwood, The Blind Assassin: The most important novel of the century so far.
5. Peter Gabriel, UP: The most thought-provoking and inspiring album of the year.
6. Nina Nastasia, The Blackened Air: The most promising new voice.
7. Jane's Addiction at the Warfield, live concert: The best live performance.
8. Jurassic 5, Power in Numbers: The most inventive album
9. 24 Hour Party People/Y Tu Mama Tambien: The most important foreign films.
10. The exoneration of Paul Burrell by the Queen of England; the sale of the remaining 50% of J Records to BMG. The most unbelievable but actual events honorable mention: the meltdown of the Democratic National Party and the ceding of control of everything to the Republicans—the most dangerous event of the year.

JOSH MILLS (It's Alive Media)

Top 10 Best Reasons It's Good to Be Out of Tech Pr and in Consumer Pr

10. I can finally talk to a journalist without having to explain who Portishead is.
9. Knowing I will be talking about "White Light, White Heat" more often than where the "white board" is brings a smile to my face.
8. Can crank the new Nashville Pussy CD Say Something Nasty on Artemis at full volume and no one can tell me to turn it down.
7. I can finally concentrate on learning the subtle nuances of the Electro-Clash movement instead of the proposed portability of digital media.
6. It's much more entertaining to BS with journalists about the relevance of Richard Hell than the latest software sale at Fry's.
5. Music journalists like to go out to lunch and I like to eat.
4. The only sound compression I now care about is how well my ear plugs work.
3. "I'll send you a sound file" is no longer an issue when I want the latest Peter Gabriel reissues from Universal in trade.
2. I don't care what anyone says, I still like LPs.
1. No longer have to worry that the only way to get an analyst to commit to a meeting with a tech company is if the company must pay thousands of dollars to be a part of their "research," which seemingly only touts the general health of the industry, which smacks of payola. And they say the music industry is corrupt?

BRAM HUMMUS (YIDcore)

My 10 Most Embarrassing Jewish Moments of 2002

Winona Ryder: Enuff said.

Adam Sandler stealing YIDcore's lyrics for his new Chanukah Song. Seriously, isn't one thieving Jew enough for one year?

Gene Simmons: Retire. Please.

Mr. Deeds: What were you thinking, Adam Sandler?

That Long Island rabbi who took the whole Fiddler on the Roof thing too far.

Jews in the New York Mayor's Office... Judith Nathan, then Bloomberg. Go figure.

Madonna's newfound Judaism: It takes more than strapping tefillin to your tits and quoting Kabbalah.

That nice little Jewgirl called April Levine. Oh, sorry, I mean Avril Lavigne.

Bram and Natalie Portman: The press almost got wind of it.

Rob Schneider: There's already one Adam Sandler, and that's way too many.

YEAR-END 2002 ROCK2K

2002, the year that was: Is "flaccid" too strong a word? Record sales were at an all-time low, a depressing number of our label and radio friends became (and many still are) unemployed, and the future remains uncertain. Despite these bleak truths, a great many Americans still start and end their days with music and rely on us for much of their musical education. As we stand at the edge of a precipice, it's clear that we must remain focused and unified. We have to draw from the same passion for music that lured us into this chaos at the onset of our careers, while we trudge forward with new business models in both the radio and record industries. Even in the best of times, self-analysis and the pursuit of goals by means of unorthodox methods can be healthy for any business... For example, playing female-fronted bands on the radio can actually help a station's ratings/image. Maybe with all of the Donnas, Distillers, Evanescence and Sahara Hotnights airplay, that portion of PoMo and Active's model is changing... The Dave Grohlathon (Foo Fighters, Queens of the Stone Age and new/old Nirvana) helped solidify a 2002 rock-fest that started with System of a Down and Puddle of Mudd records that were already massively successful at the end of '01. Audioslave's thundering debut hit radio like a hammer of the gods and looks to be a format staple until the next major technological advancement, when the blue-laser players allow consumers to put the entire Zeppelin catalog on a single disc... The White Stripes and The Strokes also started the year with much momentum and a sound that helped open up the PoMo world to garage rock, e.g.: The Hives and The Vines (not to be confused with three-car-garage rock, a la Hoobastank)... While labels clamored to find the next big "The" band, Chevelle, Coldplay, Disturbed, Mudvayne, Saliva, Sum 41 and Taproot saluted the sophomore-jinx monster with their middle fingers via impressive airplay and sales... Seether and Stone Sour are making a run for the end zone in a breaking-artists game that has points on the board from Default, Good Charlotte, Hoobastank, TRUSTcompany and The Vines... Jimmy Eat World also broke wide-open, after building their emo base for the past eight years. The kids also sang along to Dashboard Confessional and praised genre patriarchs Weezer for their latest gem... As Eminem proved once again, quality music that connects effortlessly transcends all demographics and sociocultural distinctions... 2002 will be remembered as the year that APM truly impacted the marketplace with exceptional sales. John Mayer was clearly the breakout APM artist of 2001, scoring a #1 record with "No Such Thing," which went Top 10 at Top 40 earlier this year. But the Mayer story was just starting. He went on to score a second #1 APM record with "Your Body Is a Wonderland," which helped propel Room for Squares to double-platinum status this year. Then, of course, there's Norah Jones, now also double-platinum and showing no signs of slowing, as Come Away With Me continues to sell boatloads. And Jack Johnson's platinum-plus Brushfire Fairytales gave us the #1 APM song of the year in "Flake"... Nobody truly knows what the coming year will bring—but we do know that we continue to love music. We also know that, despite the stress and chaos, we wouldn't want to work anywhere else... Bands to watch in '03: The All-American Rejects, Bleu, The Datsuns, D4,

Interpol, Jason Mraz, Kathleen Edwards and The Music... People to watch: Yourself, along with your friends and family...

BRING ON 2003: Another year, and a pretty shitty one at that. I promise this won't be a depressing column. I don't have it in me. I'm just grateful that we're still here. Well, some of us. Anyway, what the hell am I gonna write about? Let me just ramble. I'm much more interesting that way. What a weird time at radio. Independent promotion has completely changed. The toll-booth approach has totally affected radio at the station level. Streamlining most of the money and decisions to the corporate level has left most of the properties empty-handed. But many of these programmers have kept it together in spite of the changes. We must give it up to Robert Scorpio, Darryl Huckaby, Boogie D, Brian Wallace, Dion Summers, Terry Foxx, Tiffany Green, Jamillah Muhammad, KJ Holiday, Tosha Love, Carla Boatner, Aaron Maxwell, Cedric Hollywood and a slew of other radio vets who have really hustled to keep their ships afloat. They're paddling hard, but they're still afloat. And it's been no picnic on the record side, either. How many record companies will be left standing next year? With the recent BMG consolidation of RCA and J Records and the continual downsizing at almost every label this year, one has to wonder. Many of our friends have lost their gigs and really need our help. So please make it a point to reach out to them and look out for them in what will be another trying year in '03. Cary Vance, Bruce Reiner, Davey D, Dwight Bibbs, Dawn Fox, Johnny Coppola, John Trienis, Mark Boyd, David Linton and Demmette Guidry and Sandra Sullivan. A lot, right? Think about how this will shape the industry in the next couple of years if it continues. Many of these talented people might just move towards the production, management or independent promotion sector of the business. I hope so. And how about the lack of quality music this year? Pretty pathetic. I don't think I've ever seen it this bad. But then again, I'm incredibly young. And I have good skin. Anyway, I don't know about you, but I was truly effected by the limited releases this year. Thank God for Vivian Green, Christina Aguilera, Ja Rule, Jay-Z, Eminem, Nelly, Missy, LL Cool J, Clipse, Musiq, B2K, Justin Timberlake, Amerie, Mariah, Jaheim and Nas. In a whole year. It's crazy. I give credit to the record folks that have kept it together and have not only managed to promote, market and sell music in such a fucked economy, but also managed to break some new talent. Lisa Ellis, James Brown, Andrea Foreman, Rick Sackheim, Lionel Ridenour, C.C. McClendon, Kevin Liles, Marthe Reynolds, Motti Shulman, Johnnie Walker, Joe Hecht, Richard Nash, Liz Pokora, Dave McPherson, Rodney Shealey, Nino Cuccinello, Step Johnson, Michael Williams, Ron Gillyard, Ken Wilson, John Strazza, Larry Khan, Benny Pough, Tony Monte, Geo Bivens, Danny Coniglio, Joey Carvello, Val DeLong, Gary Marella, Michael Horton, Franco Iemmello and Waymon Jones are all masters of their trade. How 'bout that for sucking up? And all in one sentence, too. Anyway, I know I wasn't supposed to be depressing, but I can't help myself. As someone once told me, I love you in spite of yourself. Nice. So what else? Should WPGC be considered an Urban or Crossover station? Just kidding. Call Rodney. Is it time for lunch yet? Let's talk about Christmas. I did all my shopping. Did you? And I got some fabulous bargains (this is called buying time and filling space 'cause I'm out of things to say). How about that Jennifer Lopez? Unreal. I won't get into it too much, but can I get just a million? I'll walk around half-naked/half-Versace, take a couple of voice lessons, book a commercial, fuck a rapper and get engaged three times. What do you think? So happy that Mariah is on her way back. But my question is, where did she go? The media is ridiculous. They painted this picture of a psychotic, neurotic, crazy chick. And all she did was sit in a bathtub in a negligee on MTV, walk around in short-shorts pushing an ice cream truck on TRL and had dinner one night with a short white rapper. C'mon. Watch her stick it to everybody next year. And can we all leave Whitney alone already? She's concentrating. Poor thing. Anyway, other exciting topics this year, you ask?

How 'bout some short Asian man stalking Britney? How hilarious is that? Just picture it. Got it? Funny, right? Anyway, poor Michael, he was just giving the baby some fresh air. So he forgot to remove the towel. An easy mistake. Do you think that if I punched him in the nose it would come off on my fist? I know, I'm trying to lighten up this masterpiece. Is it working? How many words am I at? Can I stop yet? Great. Happy holidays! And remember—crack is whack.

YEAR-END 2002

MIX

IMAGINE... As I sit here listenin' to The Beatles on my boom-box, singin' one of history's greatest power rock ballads, "Let It Be," @ 1 am, candles lit, reflecting on my life in the music business & writing my last column of 2002, I want'cha to come on a little journey with me. Imagine being a DJ on the radio in late-1968 to late-1970. Imagine the times in your heart and soul. You had an uncle, a sister, or some friend that was 1000s of miles away in Vietnam. Everytime you turned on the TV, you saw scores of young people, dead, being carried across a field somewhere over there to be sent home to their family, wondering, God forbid, if it was someone you knew or close to you. Every day you'd go into the station and the talk was about war, the horrid assassinations of Bobby Kennedy & Martin Luther King Jr. & the riots that ensued. Detroit, DC, LA... On TV, the story moves from the war to burning buildings around the U.S., demonstrations, discrimination. Imagine being a DJ on our weekly Conference Call back then. James, Aretha, Marvin, the Stones, the Who, Jimi, Diana, Beatles, Temps, Creedence, Zeppelin, CSNY. "Think," "What's Goin On," "Revolution," "Find the Cost of Freedom." You were somebody that brought one of the most vital forms of relief to the world via the airwaves: MUSIC! SONGS! Songs that meant something, damnit! Lyrics backed by deep feeling, innovative instrumentation that took you somewhere—either away from the dark clouds that hovered over the world or asked you to rise up & do something about this world. I can just imagine Miggedy or Kelly G shoutin' out on the Conference Call to the rest of the DJs: "Hey, did ya'll hear that new Stevie Wonder song," then Ron Love screamin' about the new 45 he got from James Brown. DJs happy about what they were doing for a living, playing music they loved for fans they loved & wanted to make happy. And now, with the world in daily fear of terrorism, the U.S. on the brink of war, the economy goin' to shit and our own business deteriorating as we breathe, our weekly get-together to talk about the music comin' out has had the air of utter, musical and sociological boredom. We are bankrupt of great songs to talk about, sing along with, share with our audiences. This DJ

has never, ever seen it this bad in his life—EVER! Same feeling is shared among all of us in the mix. What've we got? A bunch of self-centered, unaware, immature artists who can try to sing or rap about nothing more important than their personal possessions, who can beat up who, etc. Whatta bunch of bullshit music that came out this year! There it is; I said it. Where is the GREAT music that we need for deeply troubled times? Where's our "Bridge Over Troubled Waters"? "Imagine"? Fresh (WTLZ): "All I want is to be blessed. There's so much 2 be thankful for! I'd also take it back to 1983-'84 when music was fun!" Derek Jurand (WQQK): "I want hip-hop to be fun again! I'm tired of the gangsta mentality that has overshadowed hip-hop for the past few years!" Mad Linx (WTMP): "For those select rappers (y'all know who y'all are) to get those blocks knocked off their shoulders, bring it back home and recognize that the DJs set their whole shit off." 4-Real (KGGI): "I want Lyor Cohen's job. And I want his money!!" Justin "Tyme" Prager (MTV): "The only thing I want is for Ricky to shut the f@#$ up about his wack-ass Deadskinz because the only Bowl they're going to as long as we're alive is the TOILET BOWL!!! Also, world peace would be nice." Harold Banks (WHXT): "I need a serious pair of CDJ 1000s, Pioneer 600 mixer and a hot girl in a Jacuzzi, yeah!" Latin Prince (KKUU/MCA Records): "The only thing I want is for us to end all the senseless killing." EZ-Cutt (KBTU): "What I want for Christmas was best said by both the Queen of Soul, Aretha Franklin, and Rodney Dangerfield... RESPECT! A lil more respect from record labels, artists and our own radio stations!" DJ Orion (WXAJ/WKFR/KSYN): "One request, a date with Dark Angel!" B Brian (XM Satellite): "I want the Grinch to come and take away all tunnel-vision PDs who think you shouldn't break new music in a mix show as well as all the mix show jocks who think that you can play nothing but ALL new music in a mix show!" Kid Jay (LA Lakers): "I want good ole Saint Nick and I to lose some weight!" Tung Ha (KKBT): "For throwback jerseys to go out of style and a partridge in a pear tree!" Sonny D (KKUU): "I want all these new jack DJs who think they're hot shit and got their hands out to sit the fuck down and find a new hobby!" Eric V (Baka Boyz): "A morning show in a top market...paying me whatever the hell I want!" Ron Love (WDME): "Two pair... A pair of skip-proof needles and a pair of Luke dancers!!!" Steve "Miggedy" Maestro (WGCI): "Hmmm... I'd like a nice, fat production deal, then build that into a label imprint, then slide into a CEO position at a major label... Yeah, that's what I want for Christmas!" Big Bear (KCAQ): "All I want for Christmas is for these damn T-shirts the labels send to me to just ONCE come in my size. All I get is 2x's! I was wearing that sh** in 6th grade!!! It's all about 5x! 5x! 5x! :) On the real, happy holidays to everyone. Spend it with your loved ones, and enjoy it." X-Cel (WMBX): "I WANT MY FIRST DAMN PLAQUE FOR ALL THE RECORDS I BROKE THIS YEAR!!! (just playin) What I really want is a pair of those Pioneer CDJ-1000s, so I don't have to carry so much damn wax around. Also, I want a terrorist-free world." Doctor B (WKKV): "I want all MDs & PDs to have had mix-show experience. Fa real tho... Holla!" Boogaloo (KXHT): "I want that new Stanton Final Scratch where you can mix from computer on ya turntables." Ricky Leigh: I give my love & respect to my bosses Dennis, Lenny, Toni, Todd, Karen & David Adelson for allowing me the privilege of being @ HITS; also my man Roy "Shecky" Trakin, who's put up with editing this column for almost 10 years; my family Phyllis, Mitchell, Cindy, Barry, Brandon, Justin & Shaina for their undying love & support for me, my man Wolf D & Matt Chong for their incredible support, & to all of you, my friends & family in the mix-show community, for all your love as well. Here's hoping for better times & music to go along with it in 2003 & beyond. Thank you & may God bless you all..."

YEAR-END 2002 FOR ADULTS ONLY

What a year for the format! I wish I could get into nitty-gritty details, but space is limited. So let's get right to who really kicked ass in 2002. We begin with the lovely and talented Etoile Zisselman of Arista, who had one hell of a year. Avril Lavigne just exploded, becoming a household name with "Complicated" and following up nicely with "Sk8er Boi." "I'm With You" will take this 18-year-old sensation into the new year in style. Closing out the year with a bang was "Game of Love," the first single off Santana's album, featuring Michelle Branch. Can you say Grammy nominations?... Astralwerks' Jenni Sperandio and Dan Connelly did a very good job building a story for singer-songwriter Beth Orton. She is a true talent and will be making big noise in the very near future... The story of the year: Blue Note's Norah Jones. The team of Kevin Carroll and Virgin's Hilary Shae, Danny Cooper and Jason McFadden just blew everyone away with their determination to show the format that this kind of sound would work with females of all ages and sell like hotcakes. Norah will be holding a Grammy (or two or more) very soon... Hard work paid off for Capitol's Mark Rizzo, who was relentless on behalf of Coldplay and Dirty Vegas. Both bands sold like crazy. Coldplay's latest single, "Clocks," is already heating up. Kylie Minogue's "Can't Get You Out of My Head" crossed over from Pop and had a nice run at Adult... Not only did Columbia's Pete Cosenza and Laura LaBadia become parents this year, but they were also unstoppable with the Adult hits. Five for Fighting's "Easy Tonight" took the album to platinum. Pete Yorn's "Strange Condition" was a great example of the label's fighting spirit. What can you say about John Mayer that hasn't already been said? This guy is the real deal. Our Lady Peace had a nice run with "Somewhere Out There," coming over from the Rock side. The Boss, aka Bruce Springsteen, was back with a bang and touched lives everywhere with "The Rising." Set your TiVo, because he'll be opening the Grammys with a stellar performance. You couldn't write a better ending to the year than the Dixie Chicks smash "Landslide." When we come back, it will be even bigger. #1 callout everywhere... Curb's Bob Catania and Lindy Thurman had a good run with developing artist Sofia Loell. Newly married LeAnn Rimes returned with a new look and sound, and radio liked it. We will hear a lot more from this Texan in '03... The road warrior of all time: DreamWorks' Marc

Ratner. We've all figured out by now that he doesn't take no for an answer. It's a good thing, too, or Nelly

YEAR-END 2002 FOR ADULTS ONLY

Furtado might not be a star. "On the Radio" had a nice run at radio, and a tour to back it up. The talented Dana Glover's "Thinking Over" keeps chugging up the chart, with lyrics that make females melt. The callout just keeps getting bigger on "Spin" from Lifeshouse. Rockers Jimmy Eat World had a huge hit with "The Middle," along with solid follow-up "Sweetness"... Hats off to a new face at Hot AC, Epic's Jo Hodge, and his relentless effort to deliver Tori Amos. "A Sorta Fairytale" will be around for a long time... Hollywood's Nick Bedding did a smoking job with John Rzeznik's "I'm Still Here." Get ready, everyone—Alexandra Slate's "Guilty" will go full throttle in January, following the great set-up job done over the last couple of months.... I just love Dishwalla, and Immergent's Michelle St. Clair did one hell of a job with these talented guys. "Somewhere in the Middle" had a great run, as did "Angels and Devils." It's so refreshing when a small label stands up and kicks ass... Exploding now and continuing into 2003: "Big Yellow Taxi" by Counting Crows featuring Vanessa Carlton. The callout is already looking great. The song's exposure in the movie Two Weeks Notice, starring Sandra Bullock and Hugh Grant, won't hurt, either... A big highlight this year comes from the Mercury Nashville camp's explosive sales on Shania Twain. Selling over 2 million in two weeks is awesome. Island's Mike Easterlin and Lost Highway's Patty Morris teamed up on this one. Rubyhorse's "Sparkle" was one of the most played of the year as well... Jive's Jennifer Love Hewitt's "Bare Naked" was a big record for females. Tom Cunningham hammered radio to play this multi-talented artist; if you were smart, you did... Newly installed as Lava's Head of Promotion, Lisa Velasquez took the bull by the horns and delivered Uncle Kracker's "In a Little While." She proceeded to close out the year with a bang, thanks to the Christmas smash Trans Siberian Orchestra. Take your pick among the album's tracks—stations are playing all of them... MCA's Dara Kravitz spent six months of setup letting everyone know how special and talented Frou Frou is. Dara has lined up a great group of stations that believe in "Breathe In" as much as she does. The solid airplay will definitely take her to early success and chart moves in the new year... The Energizer Bunny of the Year award goes to Nettwerk's Tom Gates for his work on Luce's single "Good Day." This song's a hit, and it won't go away. Just ask David J at WVRV and Mary Ellen at WTMX how massive it is. Way to go, Tom... Big

michelle branch

congrats to a dynamic team, RCA's Cheryl Khaner and Adrian Moriera, on The Calling's "Wherever You Will Go," the #1 most played song of 2002. It doesn't end there, Dave Matthews Band "Where Are You Going" had huge success and sales. Aussie Natalie Imbruglia was one of the most played with "Wrong Impression." The King is not dead, judging by the JXL remix of the Elvis classic "A Little Less Conversation," which blew up all over the world. American

Idol paved the way for Kelly Clarkson to become an instant celeb. The label finished up the year with Christina Aguilera's "Beautiful," a multi-format smash that will be around for months to come... RCA Label Group's Butch Vaughn and Cheri Lyn Martin had great success with Carolyn Dawn Johnson's "Compli-cated." The callout stories were everywhere. They're now gearing up for Kellie Coffey's "When You Lie Next To Me," coming in early January. This song will go directly to the airwaves... Reprise Alex Coronffy had a good year starting off with Chris Isaak's "Let Me Down Easy." He also partnered with Maverick's Ken Lucek to deliver Alanis Morissette's singles "Hands Clean" and "Precious Illusions." The graduation song of the year, by far, was Dropline's "Fly Away From Here"... Universal's Jack Johnson was already selling briskly before Dave Reynolds delivered tons of airplay on "Flake," at which point sales went through the roof... V2's Matt Pollack had one of the year's hippest singles, Moby's "We Are All Made of Stars"... WB's Debbie Cerchione had monster hits with Goo Goo Dolls' "Big Machine" as well as (with an assist from Ken Lucek) Michelle Branch's "All You Wanted" and "Goodbye to You." Debbie's also looking at a rosy New Year with the solidly gaining Red Hot Chili Peppers' "Zephyr Song" and Faith Hill's "Cry"... Wind-up's tenacious Lori Holder-Anderson rode hard on two Creed smashes, "My Sacrifice" and "One Last Breath." Meanwhile, she gained ground every week with baby band Stereo Fuse's "Everything," setting up the project nicely for 2003... The RCA/J merger will herald the arrival of a strong new team—look for the reconfigured company to make huge strides in the coming year... DEBUTS TO WATCH FOR IN 2003: Wilshire, Duce, Maroon 5, Telepopmusik...

WAVELENGTH

BY LENNY BEER & TODD HENSLEY

This was quite the year in the business, as labels tightened down, independents went from being everybody's best friend to being the empty chair that took the blame for all of the industry's evils, several trade magazines went under, the top programming teams at the #1 and #2 radio companies were changed, labels continued to consolidate and adult artists grabbed most of the sales headlines. Unfortunately for you, we are still among the living and will continue to print this magazine and publish online for as long as we can think of enough hogwash to pass along to you, our reader. As we look forward to the new year, we will be following the developments surrounding the

J/RCA merger, new deals for some of the industry's biggest players in records and in broadcasting, expected major changes in management strategies and programming at the new John Sykes/Andy Schuon-led Infinity, increased creativity at the local radio level to replace seemingly unlimited promotion dollars from independent promoters and records companies and a partridge in a pear tree. We wish you all the happiest and healthiest of holiday breaks, hoping that all our friends with jobs keep them and those on the sidelines get back on the field. We'll be back in the office on January 6, publishing our first issue of the year that week. Any breaking stories of interest will be covered on hitsdailydouble.com in the interim. As for the year gone by, here's how we saw it: Lenny's picks: Album of the Year: October Road by James Taylor..... Single of the Year: "Complicated" by Avril Lavigne..... New Artist of the Year: Norah Jones..... Book of the Year: Everything Is Illuminated by Jonathan Safran Foer..... Movie of the Year: Roger Dodger (haven't seen Gangs of New York yet)..... Best Toy: Cleveland Launcher 5 Wood. TV Show: Larry Sanders Show reruns..... Todd's picks: Best Album: In Search Of... by N.E.R.D..... Single: "Lose Yourself" by Eminem..... New Artist: Norah Jones..... Book of the Year: Everything Is Illuminated by Jonathan Safran Foer.
