MEMORIAL DAY '89

American Country Countdown first interviewed the nearly unknown ALABAMA 10 years ago. Since then, the ACC crew has tracked their path to superstardom...from the road to the recording studio...from Nashville to their home in Ft. Payne, Alabama. The result: THE ALABAMA SPECIAL, an exciting 2-hour profile packed with Number One hits, intimate conversation, rare recordings and never-before-released live concert performances. Bob Kingsley hosts THE ALABAMA SPECIAL...a treat for Alabama fans from coast to coast.

JULY 4, '89

Last year we paid tribute to Country Music's LADIES OF THE 80's. This year the guys take over the stage for this special countdown of the biggest-scoring male artists of the decade. In 4 hours Bob Kingsley welcomes the men who made the grade and presents the best of the hits that put 'em there. Randy Travis, George Strait, Hank Jr., Willie Nelson, Ricky Van Shelton and so many more. This one will keep your listeners guessing until we present the #1 male chart topper for the years '80 through '89:
COUNTRY MUSIC'S MEN OF THE 80's.

AUGUST 16, '89

American Country Countdown affiliates join together in a survey to choose the Elvis songs country music fans love best. This 3-hour memorial tribute presents the country side of Elvis along with the spoken recollections of many of the people who knew him best...and the voice of The King himself. This timeless special countdown is a fitting tribute to the man who re-wrote American musical history. Bob Kingsley hosts this timely salute:
ELVIS COUNTRY.

March 1, 1989

Dear Friends:

On behalf of the State of Tennessee, I am pleased to welcome you to Nashville and to Tennessee. We are honored and pleased to host your 20th Annual Country Radio Seminar.

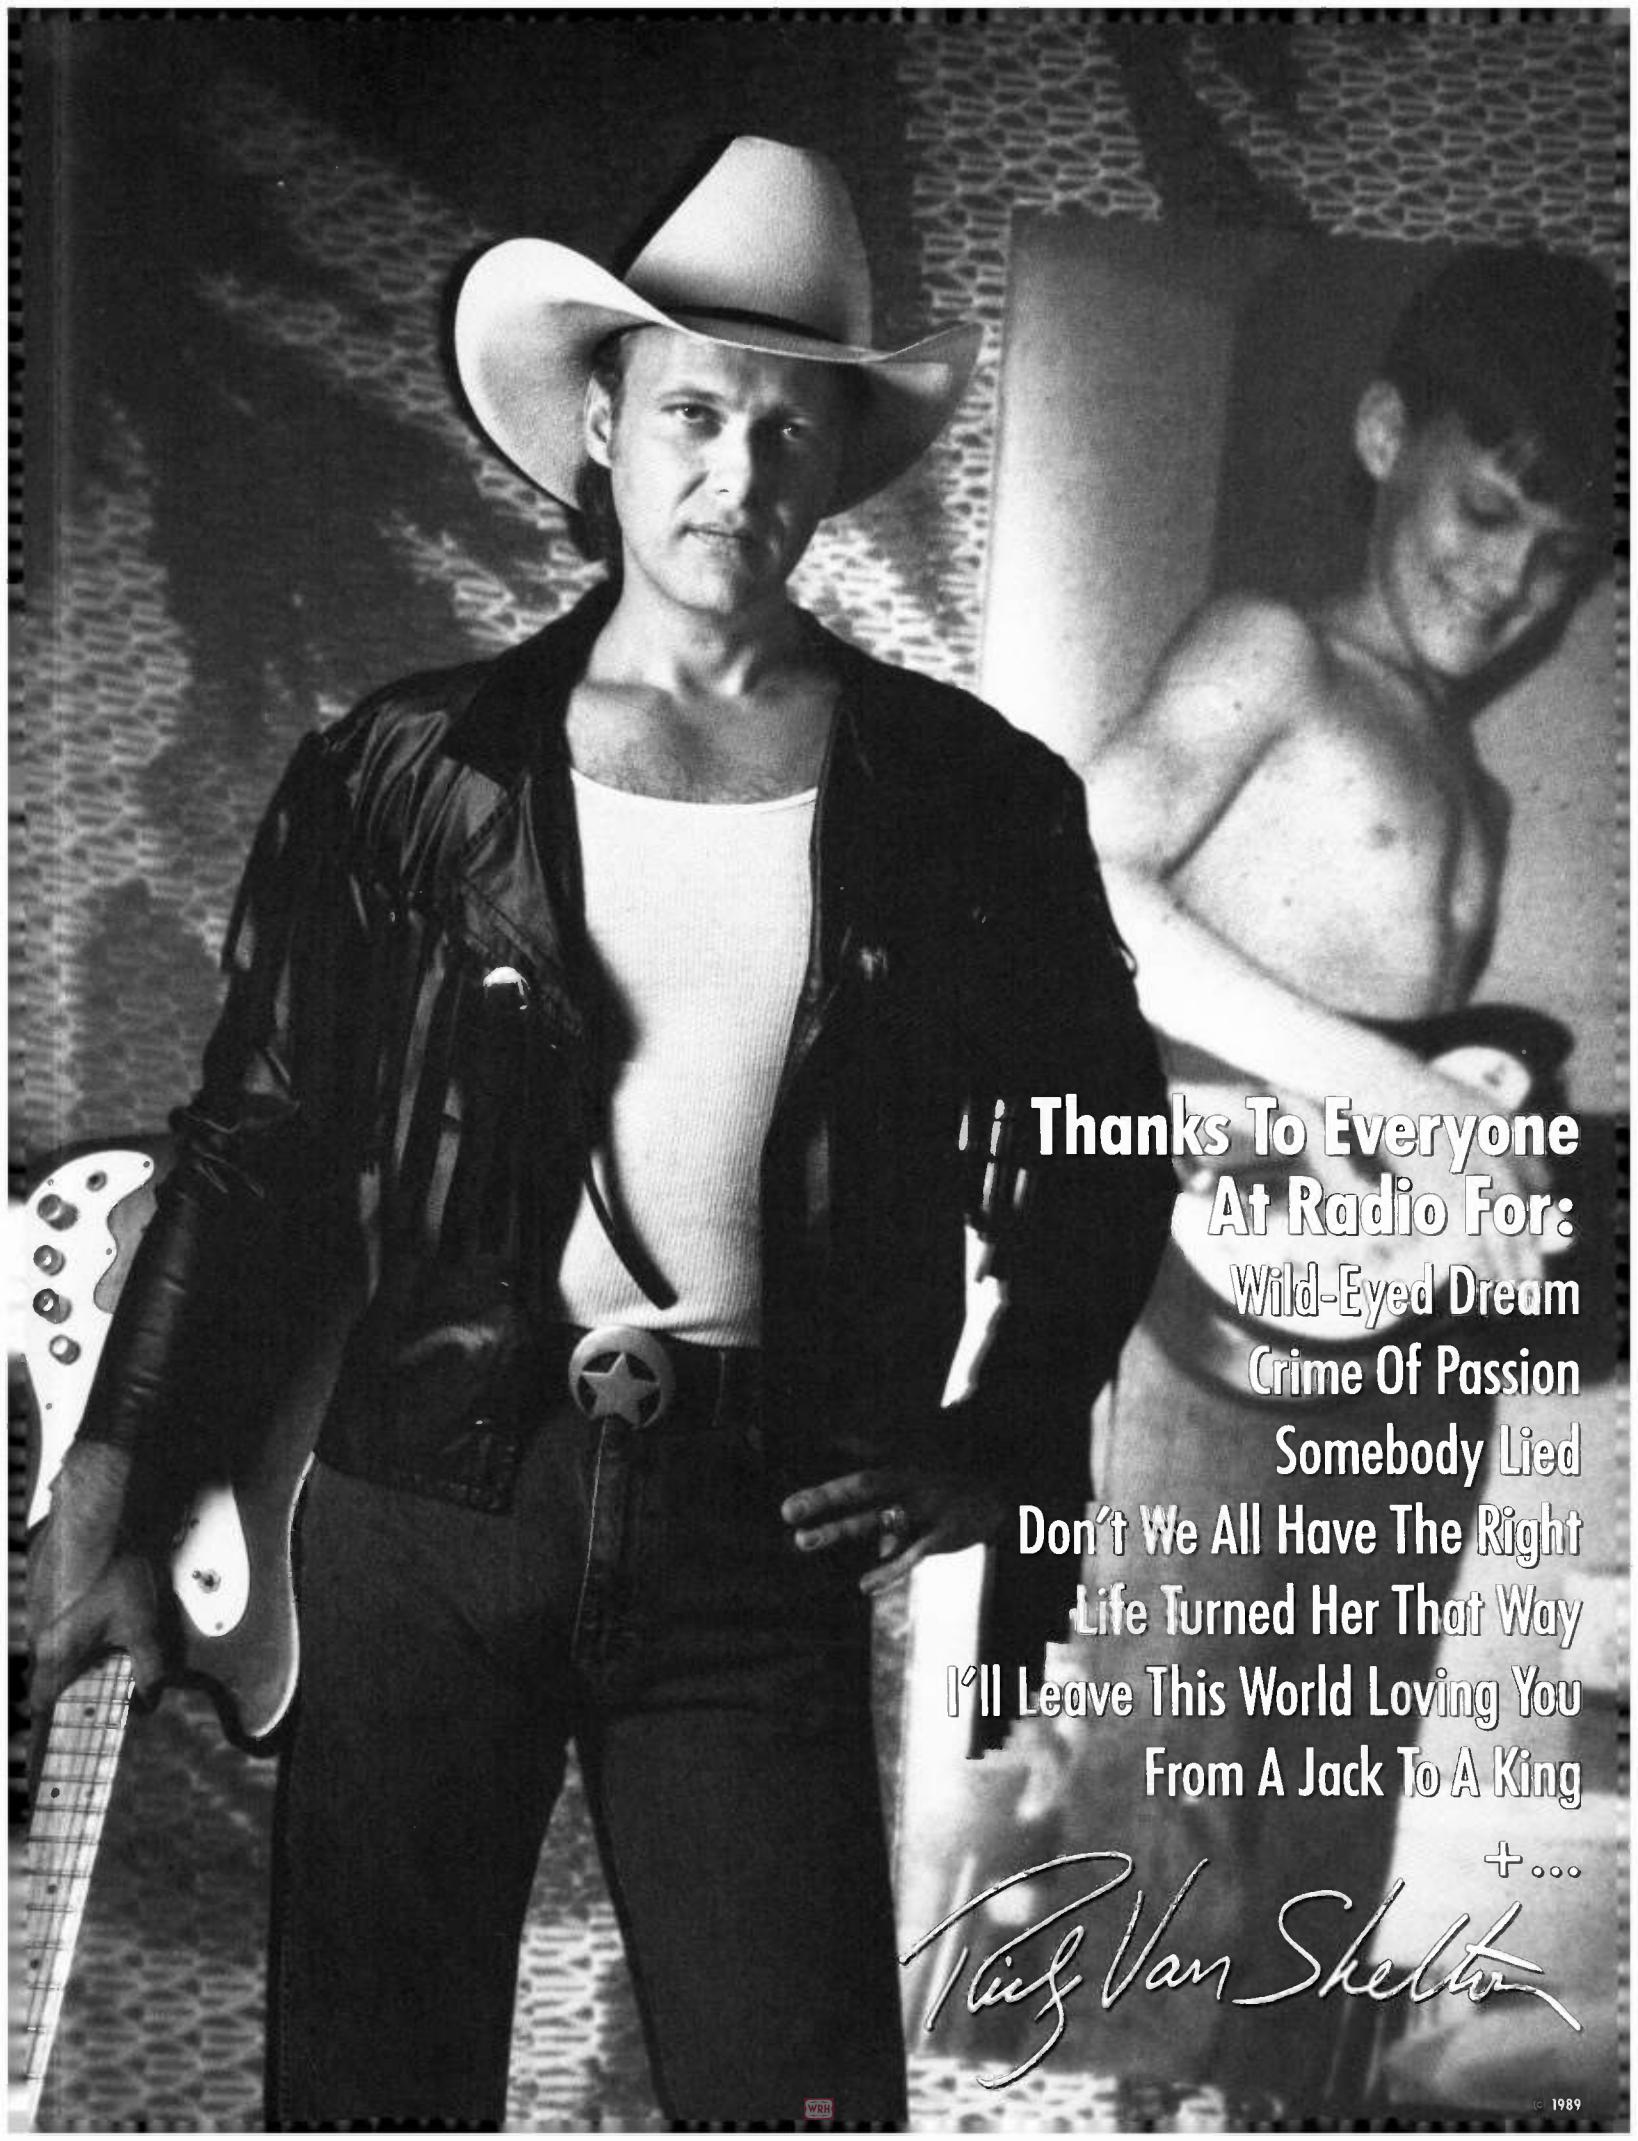

The radio and music industries are an important part of the economy of Tennessee, and I hope your visit to Nashville and the Country Radio Seminar will be enjoyable. The Seminar has grown to become one of the entertainment industry's premier academic events, and we all are excited about celebrating the Platinum Anniversary of the Country Radio Seminar.

Again, we are happy to have you visit Nashville and Tennessee. Be assured that all of us will strive to make your stay a memorable one.

Sincerely,

COUNTRY RADIO BROADCASTERS

The Board of Directors of the Country Radio Broadcasters welcomes you to this, the 20th Anniversary of the Country Radio Seminar.

It is only the country radio and record industry that joins together to work together for the benefit of both industries. Unique in the broadcast and music arena, the Seminar has, over these past two decades, become the quintessential example of co-operation for mutual benefit.

This 20th Anniversary Seminar will, I believe, prove to be the most educational and entertaining yet, and that you'll leave with more valuable information and profitable ideas than ever before.

In June the Agenda Committee meets to begin planning for the 1990 Seminar. Your suggestions and ideas are extremely important in planning your Seminar. Please write your Executive Director, Frank Mull, at your earliest convenience in order that your thoughts may be presented at the planning meeting.

From the opening cocktail reception to the closing New Faces Show, this year's agenda is packed with exciting and highly motivating sessions. The exhibit hall is filled with new technology and high profile products. "Growth through sharing", our motto, has never been more correct, and we thank you for being an important part of this platinum anniversary year.

Welcome!

Cordially,

Charlie Douglas

COUNTRY RADIO BROADCASTERS

Dear Country Radio Broadcaster:

We're pleased to welcome you to our Platinum Anniversary — The 20th Annual Country Radio Seminar.

"Growth Through Sharing" has always been the undercurrent of the Seminar . . . and that undercurrent of personal commitment from the combined efforts of the people in Country Radio and the Country Music Industry has brought the Seminar through its first twenty years. Many people volunteer their time and expertise, at their own expense, to bring this event together every year in the spirit of giving back to the business to keep it growing.

In that spirit, this year's Agenda Committee has devoted much time and energy to the planning of the next few days to bring you a well rounded, informative and entertaining seminar.

Our hope is that you will actively participate in the sessions and take home useful information to keep our business growing.

Enjoy Yourself.

Happy Anniversary CRS:

On behalf of the board of directors and members of the Country Music Association, congratulations on your 20th year of service to Country broadcasters and the Country Music industry. The Country Radio Seminar is recognized as an educational forum second to none. It has played a vital role in the increasing success and professionalism of Country radio. All of the volunteers who have worked so hard and have been so dedicated to the Seminar are truly to be commended.

CMA is very proud of its association with the Country Radio Seminar. We were pleased to be the first organization to officially sponsor a CRS event with our luncheon in 1981. Sponsorships have now become an integral part of the growth and expansion of the Seminar.

In 1984, CMA organized and sponsored the first MIPS sessions as the Seminar schedule expanded to attract more music industry participants. This year, our sixth edition of MIPS is presenting a dynamic and unique view of the creative process.

Along the way, in our nine years of involvement with the Seminar, we are happy to have helped establish the Artist Radio Taping Sessions, the exhibit hall, and more active artist participation as panelists and keynote speakers.

CMA shares a common goal with the Seminar - to establish a stronger, more profitable Country Music business. We support your continued focus on that objective.

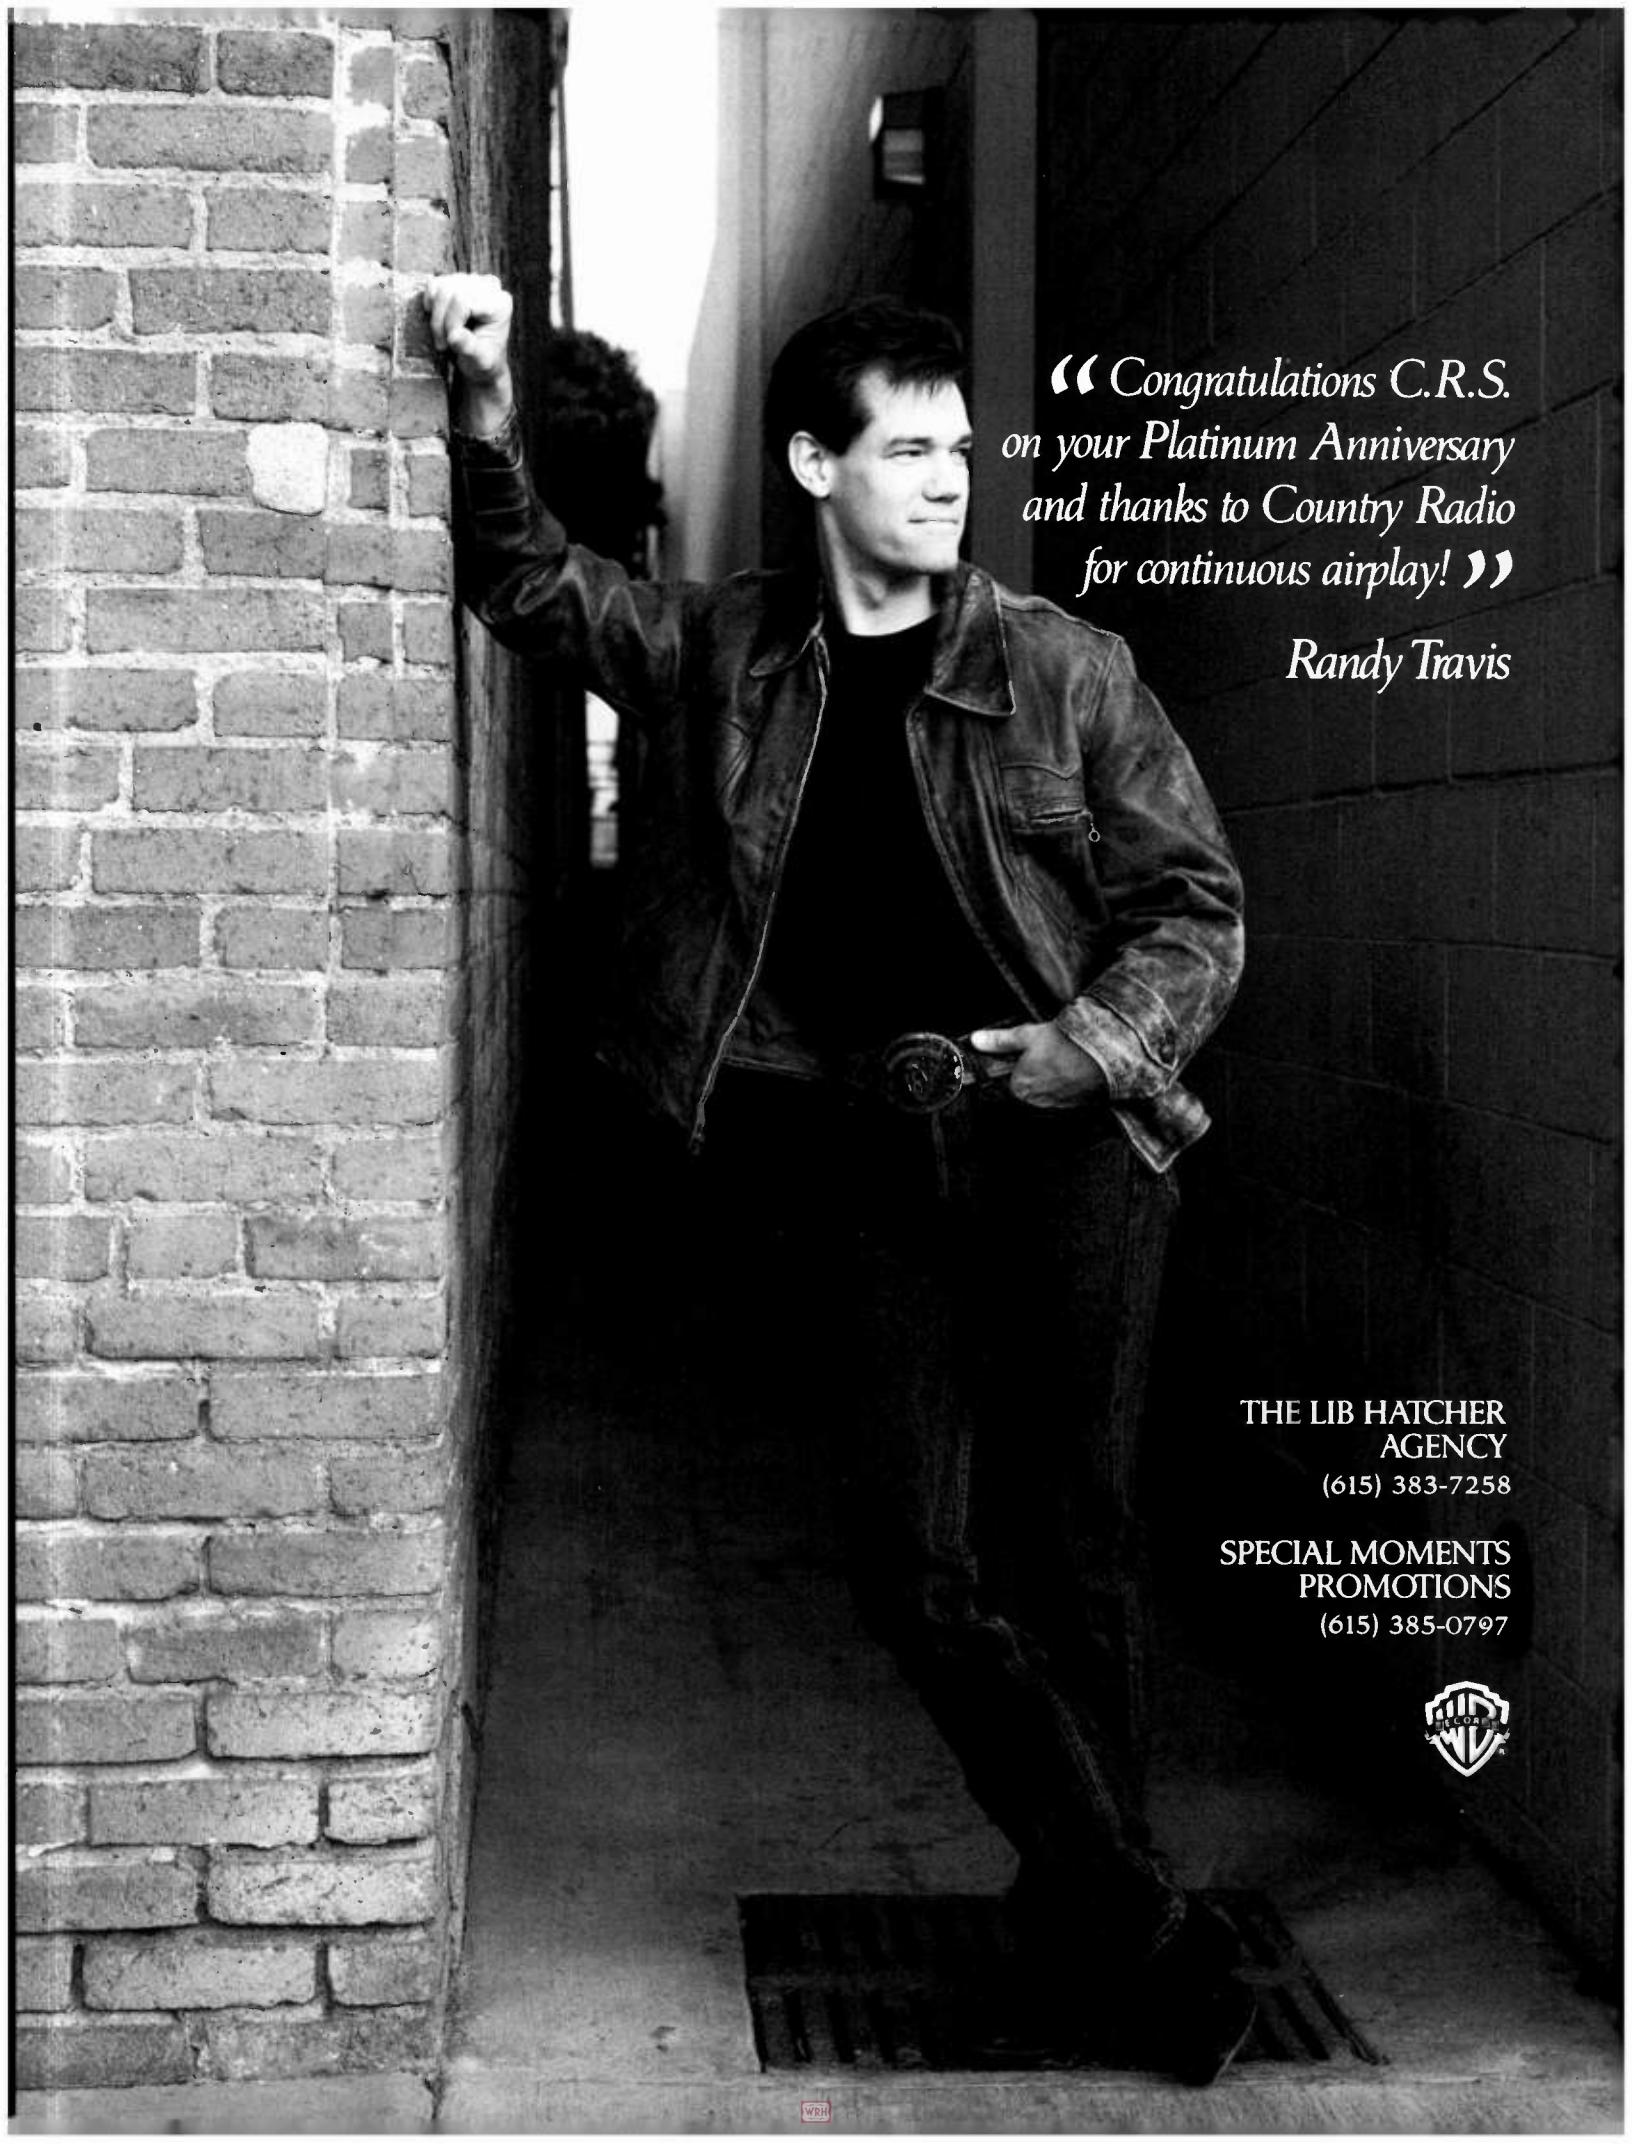

Thanks for letting us play a part in the growing success of the Country Radio Seminar and, again, Happy Anniversary.

Sincerely,

COUNTRY MUSIC ASSOCIATION, INC.

RANDY OWEN

As a member of the phenomenally successful group Alabama, Randy Owen has amassed 21 consecutive #1 hit singles, sold more than 30 million albums, won the CMA Entertainer Of The Year award three times, and gathered enough awards to put a pretty good dent in the remainder of this Seminar program book.

In 1980, Alabama performed on the New Faces Show, and it was their performance on that show that helped get them signed to RCA Records, where their success exploded shortly thereafter. A working class band performing in the working class genre of the musical spectrum — country music, the members of Alabama have never lost sight of their beginnings. One of the most written about and talked about bands in all of music, Alabama has remained true to their fans, "the kind of people who do their work and live by their word," explains Randy Owen.

With its success, Alabama has also thrown its energies into local community and public service affairs in a manner that is far above and beyond the call of duty. The most visible and well publicized of the band's many community activities is the annual "June Jam," held in their hometown of Fort Payne, with the one day concert proceeds being distributed among dozens of community organizations.

"All of the awards we've won are really a great honor, just as it is a great honor to have many people appreciate what we're doing musically," Owen explains. "And for us, all this is something to live up to. We try to conduct our lives, do our shows, and do our business accordingly . . . all those things are important, but the main thing is doing what we do with dignity."

Commenting on addressing the Country Radio Seminar, Owen stated, "this is going to be more like a visit, an informal conversation with old friends, rather than a speech, and I'm really looking forward to it."

Randy Owen addresses the Country Radio Seminar registrants on Thursday morning March 2nd.

BUCK OWENS

Opening the Friday sessions will be legendary recording artist Buck Owens. "I feel honored to have been asked to speak at the Country Radio Seminar," said Owens late last year, "and I have a fews things to say about this wonderful industry known as Country Music Radio."

And you can bet that Mr. Owens' remarks will be worth hearing. The outspoken Owens was through with the record business some ten years ago. In 1979, he quit recording, quit touring, and continued in his business endeavors from his offices in Bakersfield. Several years later, in 1984, he quit as the original host of the successful "Hee Haw" television series.

It took a young upstart by the name of Dwight Yoakam to get Buck Owens interested in "the business" again. Not that he ever left "the business," since he owns two very successful country radio stations, KUZZ in Bakersfield and KNIX in Phoenix. But Yoakam dedicated his first album to Buck Owens, and helped to educate a whole generation to the music of Owens. Recording in a style not unlike Owens, Buck's interest was piqued when he would read Yoakam interviews which were actually homilies to Buck Owens.

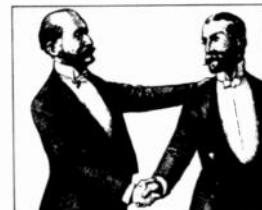

The two finally met, appeared on several television shows together, including the Country Music Association's 30th Anniversary Special, and Owens was once again bitten by the recording and performing bug. "I guess I really missed the music," Owens said in his official record company bio, "and I genuinely thought I didn't. But since I've been back doing it, I can see just how much I did miss it."

Buck Owens signed with Capitol Records in 1988, the same label that helped launch his successful career in the '60s, and the same label which eventually turned Dwight Yoakam on to the music of Buck Owens. His first new album in 10 years is titled HOT DOG.

GREAT RADIO QUIZ

1. Listeners believe that Commercials are wonderful suck.
2. Playing lots of Music without Commercials is agreeing with Listeners that Commercials are wonderful suck.
3. Best Listener Mode for remembering Call Letters and Sponsor's Product is Low-Involvement High-Involvement listening. (are we too obvious?)
4. Commercials never sometimes often always encourage tune-outs.
5. The Relationship between your Programming and Sales Departments is wonderful sucks.
6. Commercials are something to be ashamed of proud of; they should be swept under the rug into our listeners' hearts.
7. The GM likes it hates it when the PD and the SM are OK and cooking on the same WL.

So what's all this got to do with The WORD?

First, The WORD's Teaser-Payoff is the hardest-hitting, strongest audience-holder in the business.

Second, The WORD puts your audience into a High-Involvement mode. It kicks in the left brain and maximizes listeners' comprehension and retention of station IDs and sponsor product.

Third, whatever format you're running—Music, News, or Talk—The WORD blends in like dressing on a salad. Nourishing content and spicy flavor give you a big advantage over the competition.

You gotta hear it to believe it.

A five-day-a-week potent package of experts in the tricky game of life delivering stories and advice from their fields of expertise in a no-fluff, engaging, enriching, entertaining way.

The WORD is not a program, it's a Format Enhancer.

Each WORD is 60 seconds: •10-second Teaser
•Local Spot •50-second Payoff

You get six new WORDs a day to run in Morning Drive and run again in Afternoon Drive.

MINNIE PEARL —THE QUEEN OF COUNTRY COMEDY— TO CLOSE THE COUNTRY RADIO SEMINAR

To close out the 20th Country Radio Seminar, the CRB board of directors have chosen Sarah Ophelia Colley Cannon, better known to the world as Minnie Pearl. A star of the Grand Ole Opry since 1940, Minnie Pearl has delighted audiences the world over with her stories of life in Grinder's Switch, Tennessee. Her opening "How-dee, I'm jes' so proud to be here" and outrageously dated costume are trademarks of a performer who, after more than four decades of popularity throughout America, is now enjoying the applause of a new, wider audience. Most weekends she can be found performing on the Opry, most Friday nights she can be seen gossiping with Ralph Emery on "Nashville Now," and most weekdays she can be found at her Music Row museum (which will be moving to the Opryland complex in the Spring).

"Minnie Pearl is uncomplicated," says Sarah Cannon. "She's apple pie and clothes dried in the sun and the smell of fresh bread baking. I don't think people think of her so much as a show business act as just a friend. When I'm on stage, I'm just plain Minnie Pearl wearing my battered old straw hat and battered shoes. The price tag on my hat seems to be symbolic of all human frailty."

There's old Minnie Pearl standing on stage in her best dress, telling everyone how proud she is to be there and she's forgotten to take the $1.98 price tag off her hat."

Though she has followed a rigorous personal appearance schedule for years (27 years of one night stands), she has cut down on the number of engagements she does. "I've tried to cut back, but there are too many fun things to do," she comments. But Minnie Pearl will always be an important part of the country music scene, and she is the only comedy star to be inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame.

Minnie Pearl has worked with and continues to work with the best in country music; people like Roy Acuff, Tex Ritter, Red Foley, Ernest Tubb, Rod Brasfield and Hank Williams to the current stars of the Opry including Reba McEntire, Barbara Mandrell and Randy Travis.

"We have come a long way in country music," says Minnie Pearl. "It's hard to believe it's a multi-million dollar a year business now, and I'm thankful I've been able to be a part of it."

Minnie Pearl will address the closing session of the Country Radio Seminar on Saturday afternoon, March 4th at 4:00 p.m., and Minnie, we're jes' so proud to have you here!

Would you buy your news from this man?

Of course not. This man is obviously a shyster and anything he tries to sell you is highly suspect.

But appearances can be deceiving. If you're using a news feature from one of the major networks, for example, you may think the news you get is completely fair and objective. It ain't necessarily so.

It's sad to say, but old-fashioned objective reporting has by and large been replaced with a new breed of "advocacy journalism." The major news networks are controlled by people — some of them thinly-disguised social reformers — whose world views run deeply counter to mainstream America. This is not just an opinion, it is a well-documented fact.

In their book The Media Elite, Robert Lichten and Stanley Rothman revealed disturbing facts about this new breed of journalist. Here's what they found out about the people who write, edit and broadcast the news you hear:

- 85% consider themselves political liberals, while only 11% consider themselves conservatives;
- On economic issues, the new journalists are strong supporters of an expanded welfare system, while only 1 in 3 believes that private enterprise is fair to workers;
- On military issues, over 2 out of 5 consider national defense the least important of all goals listed.

Yet these people — who are clearly out of step with the American public, including your listeners — are the ones who determine what the public thinks about.

At USA Radio Network, our view of things is a little different. Many say, "the USA Radio Network is the most reliable and trustworthy news source available."

Have you listened to us lately? If you have, I think you will agree. The best has gotten better.

USA Radio Network offers our affiliates one of the clearest signals in the sky utilizing the SCS Satellite services on Spacenet III. We can even help you get your own satellite dish.

THE AGENDA FOR THE '90s

As we celebrate the Platinum Anniversary of the Country Radio Seminar, it's become increasingly important to the Seminar's board of directors that we don't lose sight of the fact that we are headed into the last decade of the century, a decade that has the potential to change or alter the lifestyles of the American public perhaps quicker than the changes that took place within the last 20 years.

Twenty years ago, there were no compact discs, video cassette recorders, or walkmans. There is no telling where the technology of the future is headed, but the agenda committee of the Country Radio Seminar has looked towards the future in terms of scheduling topics, speakers and panelists for this year's Seminar.

Since the very beginning, the Country Radio Seminar has operated on the premise that radio, record and related industries can work together for the betterment of country radio. This year, as in years past, there is something for everyone at the Country Radio Seminar. Also, since the beginning, the organizers of the CRS have worked hard at keeping the Seminar a learning/educational seminar. Partying is not a major factor in the presentation of this year's 20 panel discussions, two long form sessions, and three CMA-sponsored MIPS sessions. However, the Country Radio Seminar is never boring, and you will have a good time while learning something as well.

The 1989 Country Radio Seminar will feature two insightful guest speakers: the legendary Buck Owens, who in addition to being a well respected entertainer, is also the owner of two very successful country radio stations; and Randy Owen, a member of the incredibly successful group Alabama. It was in 1980 that Owen and his fellow group members appeared at the Seminar's New Faces Show.

The two long form (three hour) sessions are hosted by management/leadership expert Charles S. Menzies and humor specialist C. W. Metcalf. Mr. Menzies' program is directed at managing the most critical asset of the broadcast enterprise, its human resources. Mr. Metcalf's three hour session will explore how a sense of humor can enhance creativity problem solving abilities, and how important humor can be.

The Country Music Association is again presenting three sessions involving the creative aspects of the music industry. The popular and successful MIPS (Music Industry Professional Seminars) will take place on Thursday, March 2nd and include "The Source: Applying The Creative Process," with a panel of artists, writers, producers and record company executives fielding questions on the process of creating today's records.

The second MIPS session is titled "The Musicians Only: We Know Our Parts" discussing, among other things, what it takes to become a first string player. The third session is "The Demo: A Hit Is Born." This session will feature the actual demo recording of a brand new song, and how it all comes together.

There are more than 20 additional sessions and activities, many running concurrently, that provide the basis of the Seminar's educational forum. Included are such topics as "Are Consultants Good For Your Radio Station," "The Marketing Tool Of The 90s: Data Base Marketing," "Marketing Radio: Developing And Assessing Your 'Stationality,'" "Music Programming: A Question Of Balance?" "Successful Small Market Sales: Thinking Big," and "Hot Personalities: Why Can't I Find Them And Why Don't They Know I'm Here?"

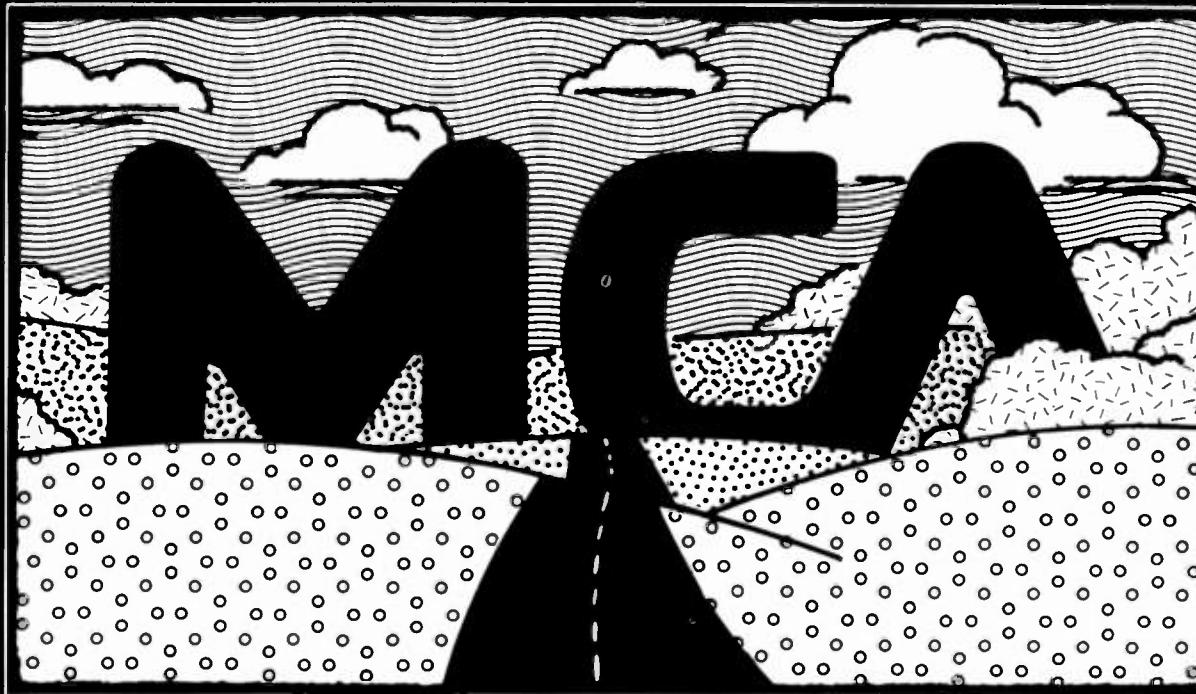

Additionally, Seminar sessions include two production workshops, an aircheck review, the second annual radio promotion awards, plus a variety of roundtable discussions dealing with such topics as the FCC, legal questions, station acquisitions, AM stereo, etc.

Coupled with the academic portion of the four day Seminar, some of the after hours activities include the second annual Super Faces Show, presented by the Academy Of Country Music, and starring the Judds (Thursday, March 2nd); the annual New Faces Show, presenting 10 of country music's top new recording artists (Saturday, March 4th); the Artist-Attendee Welcome Reception, sponsored by the Red Man Tobacco Company (Wednesday, March 1st); plus a Friday afternoon wine and cheese reception in the Exhibit Hall, as well as a variety of exhibitor suites which are open after all working sessions are completed.

On opening day, March 1st, the annual Artist-Radio Taping Session will take place. Numerous recording artists will be on hand to provide station IDs and provide mini-interviews.

All in all, the 20th annual Country Radio Seminar has become the biggest and most thought out seminar in history. Planning this year's Seminar took months of evaluation detail planning. Executing these plans required hours of detail work by the Seminar staff, agenda committee, the board of directors, and many, many volunteers who have donated their time and talents to help provide you with the best possible Seminar. We have tried to present the best possible educational opportunity in broadcasting, and we all hope that you will benefit from it, enjoy it, and that you will plan to return to Nashville next year for the 21st Annual Country Radio Seminar.

C. W. Metcalf is president of C. W. Metcalf and Company, a Fort Collins, Colorado based training firm offering training in communication skills, humor and health, problem identification and problem solving for corporations, health care organizations, government, and education. He has served on the faculties of Bennington College, Florida State University, and the University of Michigan. He is also a professional actor/writer and mime who has been honored for his work on two Los Angeles area Emmy Award winning television shows.

It was C. W.'s volunteer work with Hospice organizations over a period of years that led to his interest in the relationship of humor to physical/mental health. The beginnings of his studies in humor and health evolved out of his experiences at the Center for Attitudinal Healing in Tiburon, California.

"My experience with the terminally-ill children at the center was, quite honestly, a spiritual experience," says Metcalf. "I met nine-year-olds who had learned to experience humor and joy in the face of catastrophic stress. They were my teachers, and what I began learning with them I have since been able to apply to work in a variety of arenas, including the broadcast industry."

Mr. Metcalf's background as a comic writer and performer adds valuable professional insights into the nature and applications of humor, including exercises designed to stimulate Effector Level brain activity that can literally trigger the humor experience into being.

"We do everything we can to create an atmosphere of lightheartedness and laughter in the course of these trainings," says C. W. "Within that framework, we pass on practical information and how to develop and apply a sense of humor to health care, corporate communication and general well-being."

Mr. Metcalf addresses the Country Radio Seminar on Friday, March 3rd at 2:00 p.m. His lecture is titled "Humor Risk & Change."

CHARLES S. MENZIES

The 20th Annual Country Radio Seminar is presenting two "long form" sessions this year. On Saturday morning, March 4th, Charles S. Menzies will conduct his three hour session from 9:00 a.m. to Noon which will be directed at managing the most critical asset of the broadcast enterprise . . . its human resources. Mr. Menzies will be discussing his hands-on technique for enhancing individual performance in both management and sales. The program will examine the behavioral differences in people and their influence on job performance. The objective is to provide methodology and resource material for managers to utilize in enhancing their day-to-day leadership effectiveness and organization performance.

The president of Management Research Associates, a company he founded in 1955, Mr. Menzies is a management specialist whose work as a management educator and consultant has gained him national recognition. His clients cover the broad span of general business including manufacturing, banking, real estate, construction, insurance and service industries. His close personal working relationships with his clients and innovative management techniques have been results-oriented and have produced dramatic improvements in organizational performance and profits.

More than two hundred and fifty owners and executives a year attend Mr. Menzies management seminars on Organizational and Sales Leadership and Management Performance.

Mr. Menzies is a graduate of Bucknell University which was followed by graduate studies at leading universities in the field of management. He is regularly called on as a speaker at universities and industry association meetings such as the Country Radio Seminar. His management techniques have gained him national attention and have been proven, over the years, in the pragmatic world of business.

CMA DEBUTS LANDMARK SERIES OF AD AGENCY PRESENTATIONS

The Country Music Association will debut a landmark series of presentations to advertising agencies and sponsors starting in March 1989. This project marks the first time any music organization has undertaken a direct initiative to focus advertiser attention on a dramatically broadening market for country music. The first presentations will take place in New York, Chicago and Detroit.

The purpose of the presentations is to heighten awareness and emphasize the current scope and quality of the country music audience to ad agency decision makers, including both media directors and senior planners as well as the account groups for clients who have shown a reluctance toward using country media.

Chairman of CMA's Marketing and Promotion Committee, Dick McCullough of Chicago's E. H. Brown Advertising said about the project's start-up, "This marks the culmination of a number of years of CMA bringing country music into the forefront of the commercial marketplace. CMA's new efforts should definitely enhance the reputation of the music as a saleable media format."

Included in the 30-minute presentations will be information derived from the CMA-commissioned Arbitron study, "The Country Music Listener . . . A New Profile," which was released in August 1988.

CMA has produced a new 10-minute sales and promotional video, entitled "Go For The Heart", which will also be shown to the agency executives. The video illustrates the growing diversity and breadth of the country music audience across every lifestyle. The clip clearly evidences that more than ever before country music attracts a vast audience, a quality audience and a loyal audience.

In addition to the video, key national profiles and marketing data on today's country music audience will be presented on slides. A four-color, four-page leave-behind piece, which will include lifestyle information and product purchasing habits will also be distributed at each agency presentation.

Bob Lobdell, director of the New York developmental services firm The Cold Spring Harbor

Group, has been retained by CMA to lead the series of presentations. Lobdell brings much experience in presentation activity at both the agency and client level. As past president of the Radio Network Association, he was responsible for sales development, promotion and publicity for the national radio networks. Lobdell has been a guest lecturer at such prestigious schools as St. John's University, New York University and Farleigh Dickenson University.

Several of the major rep firms — Interep, Eastman Radio, Cristal Radio, Banner Radio — as well as Group W Satellite Communications will be helping CMA by identifying the appropriate personnel in agencies and facilitating the scheduling of appointments. The rep firms will also make available senior sales staffers to accompany Lobdell during many of the agency presentations.

Additionally, CMA will attempt to coordinate schedules and itineraries of major country music artists so that some of them may go along on the presentations. The artists can answer questions and speak about their first hand experience with the country music audience.

If the initial round of presentations is successful, CMA intends to establish an ongoing activity on behalf of Country Music at the agency level. Such would include further presentations as well as periodic mailings to keep the agency personnel aware of the value of country music to their media plans.

CMA associate executive director Ed Benson observes, "This is a logical extension of the efforts CMA has continually made for the good of the industry. CMA has been a principal advocate in the growth of country radio since 1958. Radio is the link between the creators and the consumers. Therefore, the health of country radio is vital."

CMA has sales materials, promotions and many other benefits available to its members. For more information, contact CMA's membership department, Box 22299, Nashville, Tennessee 37202; (615) 244-2840.

THE COUNTRY RADIO SEMINAR — 20 YEARS OF GROWTH THROUGH SHARING

This year marks the platinum anniversary of the country music industry's most important academic function, the Country Radio Seminar. It is the 20th year of continuous, steady growth in the areas of country radio programming as well as the growth of country music. Both can attribute a large degree of their success to the success of the Country Radio Seminar.

Looking back on 20 years of Seminars, it is interesting to note how it all began. Although a number of people were involved in the first Seminar — and have been involved through the years, the key individuals in the formation of the Country Radio Seminar were Tom McEntee and Charlie Monk.

The initial discussion for a seminar involving those in country radio began shortly after the Grand Ole Opry Birthday Celebration in October of 1969. In addition to the birthday celebration for the Opry, that time period was also called "DJ Week" in Nashville.

Radio and music industry personnel both felt that the convention in October held less appeal for the country music disc jockey than when it first began. It was becoming less attractive for radio personnel to attend or gain any meaningful insights or experiences by attending.

Tom McEntee, at the time, had a "tip" sheet called the Country Music Survey, and this sheet, through McEntee, set about organizing a Seminar for those involved in country radio. McEntee was joined in his efforts by Charlie Monk, who was involved in radio at the time; Jerry Seabolt, who was with SSS Records at the time; Barbara Starling, working at Decca Records; Biff Collie, from United Artists Records; and Dave Olson, who was with Shelby Singleton Records.

These people organized the first Country Radio Seminar which was held in Nashville in April 1970, had an attendance of approximately 70 people, 44 of whom came from radio. That first Country Radio Seminar lost money (about $4,500) and the tip sheet went out of business. It was a high price to pay and the future of the Seminar looked doubtful.

There were no plans for a second Seminar, but the reaction to the first one was so positive that talk about another Seminar became strong. However, there was no longer anyone who wanted or was able to underwrite it, yet there still was a demand.

The original purpose of the Country Radio Seminar back then, which still pervades some 20 years later, was to plan an academic event where the radio and record industries could share their ideas of the business all for the betterment of the entire country music industry.

The second Seminar did come off, due to the efforts of Dr. Will Miles of Middle Tennessee State University and his partner Dr. Jerry Prock. These two professors had some experience in staging seminars for various businesses and organizations. They agreed to underwrite the second Seminar. Miles and Prock also became involved in the Seminar's format and lent it an academic air and an element of prestige. The second year also saw the music industry, most notably the record labels, become involved by lending financial support for the Seminar's success.

Even back then, the Seminar was careful to keep the event apolitical with extensive promotion and "hype" banned. That policy exists today with a combination of radio and record people planning each year's agenda. No label is allowed to take advantage of the event to promote or exploit their own product or artists. The Country Radio Seminar, from day one, has become known as a working seminar geared to the radio industry on a business level with an academic, highly ethical atmosphere pervading, which is still the case today.

That second Seminar made some strides, with an increase in attendance, but still lost money. The third year, Dr. Miles left, and his partner, Dr. Prock became the sole sponsor. The Seminar did not lose money in the third year.

The 1973 Country Radio Seminar marked a real turning point as Dave Donahue became the first Agenda Chairman, with the input of those involved in country radio being utilized to determine the topics the Seminar would tackle.

As the years went by, and the Country Radio Seminar continued to grow, its location in Nashville kept changing. The first Seminar took place at the Sheraton Hotel in downtown Nashville, moving to the old King of the Road Hotel, then to the Airport Hilton, settling in for several years in the mid 70s to early 80s at the Hyatt Regency, with home now being the Opryland Hotel, the largest hotel/convention facility in Nashville.

"WHEN DID YOU STOP?"

by

Preston*

Distributed by: AIRBORNE RECORDS

"In the early days, we couldn't get a major act to provide entertainment, so we decided we would showcase new, up-and-coming talent," stated Charlie Monk, who has served as Master of Ceremonies at each of the New Faces Shows. "It was a perfect showcase for new artists, and it has worked well over the years."

What started out as a two-day learning event has now grown to a four-day event, and now includes — in addition to the New Faces Show — the Super Faces Show (which began last year and features a major act performing their concert show), the Artist Radio Taping Session (where CRS registrants can garner station IDs and mini-interviews from the artists). This event used to take place during the October "DJ Week Convention"), the Radio Promotion Awards (which was started last year), a full-blown Exhibit Hall (which began six years ago featuring exhibitors of hardware, programming, promotional items, etc.), plus the annual Artist-Attendee Welcome Reception (where the registrants and artists mingle in a very informal atmosphere for several hours).

However, with all these "extra" activities, the emphasis of the Country Radio Seminar has always remained on the academic. The 20th Country Radio Seminar will feature more than 20 targeted seminars and workshops on such topics as management, sales, research, programming, music, and promotion. The Seminar still retains its initial goal of growth through sharing. Much of the success of the country radio industry and the country record industry can be attributed to the Country Radio Seminar, and now that we've surpassed 20 years, we're all looking forward to the next 20 years. So when you see Charlie Monk, Tom McEntee, Biff Collie, Jerry Seabolt, or Barbara Starling, or perhaps Dave Donahue, David DeBolt or Frank Mull, thank them for their insight and persistence in making the Country Radio Seminar the best event in the nation for those who play the records, those who make the records, and those who market the records. It's a real success story.

THE SEMINAR EXHIBIT HALL: SHOP TIL YOU DROP

For the sixth consecutive year, the Country Radio Seminar's Exhibit Hall will offer a unique opportunity for the Seminar registrants who may be considering some improvements in equipment, programming or other related broadcasting services.

Located again this year in the Jefferson Room on the main floor between the meeting rooms and the luncheon and special events area, the hall will house more than 45 booths from numerous businesses that supply goods and services to the broadcast industry, from syndicated programming to state of the art computers.

"We have grown consistently over the last six years," says Exhibit Hall manager David DeBolt. "The first year we had 19 booths, topping out with 39 last year." As we go to press, there are currently 45 booths ready for the 20th annual Country Radio Seminar with a possible five or six companies poised to attend. "Many of the companies who attended the first Seminar Exhibit Hall are returning," continued DeBolt. "The Exhibit Hall gives the registrants a chance to do some comparison shopping, and because there is more information available, the chances are you will make a better decision."

On display in the Exhibit Hall are hardware products such as consoles, tape players, compact disc systems, and a variety of the latest computer systems or syndicated programming services.

"The hall provides you with more information than you could ever get from having product brochures on hand," states DeBolt. "It's the goal of the Country Radio Seminar to make available some of the outside programming tools that you may not normally find, and it is a beneficial situation for broadcasters."

The Country Radio Seminar may be the only such event many of the registrants will be attending during the year. Therefore, the Exhibit Hall may be your only opportunity to view the latest developments in products and programming services in country radio.

"Exhibitors will go out of their way to explain their products," says DeBolt. "They realize that many of country radio's decision makers attend the Seminar each year."

Hours for the Exhibit Hall have been extended this year to give registrants plenty of time to see everything on display.

Participate in the celebration of the 20th Anniversary of the Country Radio Seminar and be eligible to win one of three $100.00 cash awards just for telling us what we want to know about the CRS.*

THE CRB SCHOLARSHIP FUND

Investing In Radio's Future

Professionalism in country radio has been bolstered over the past decade through the helping hand of the Country Radio Broadcasters, Inc., according to Mac Allen, chairman of the CRB's Scholarship Program.

Through profits raised from the CRB's annual Country Radio Seminar, young broadcasters have been awarded scholarships that help receive quality educations at various accredited colleges and universities across the country. To date, more than $39,000 in scholarships have been awarded through the program to students majoring in broadcasting/communications, and/or journalism.

"We have always tried to involve country radio broadcasters in the selection of colleges and students to receive the CRB scholarships," said Mac Allen. "While we have received some input from country stations, we have had to all but fend for ourselves in finding and awarding students."

As a result, the CRB Scholarship Fund has sent information regarding the scholarship program to more than 600 accredited institutions of higher learning, making them aware of the broadcast-oriented scholarships.

"We still want the input and assistance of the country stations, and we want their involvement," Allen continued, "but it's imperative that we move ahead."

"Twenty years ago, there were very few radio schools in the country," Allen said. "But the level of professionalism in country radio has increased dramatically since then, and I would like to think that we helped it a little bit."

The Country Radio Broadcasters, Inc., is a non-profit organization that was created in the early 1970s to provide a forum for ideas and information valuable to country broadcasters as well as the recording industry. Each year, the Country Radio Seminar attracts hundreds of attendees for three days of workshops, seminars and panel discussions.

The CRB awards five scholarships each year to deserving students. Recipients are awarded $1,000 per academic year to help cover the costs of tuition or other scholarship expenses.

To qualify for the scholarship, a student must meet certain criteria, including: 1) enrollment at an accredited institution of higher learning, pursuing a degree in broadcasting, journalism or telecommunications; 2) be an upperclassman, maintaining a "B" average; 3) have a financial need; and 4) work a minimum of 10 hours per week for the school's communications department.

In addition to the scholarship, the CRB helps some students earn credit while attending the Country Radio Seminar. Students are also able to receive a discount on the Seminar registration as well.

"We encourage students to participate in the Country Radio Seminar," Allen said. "It gives them a chance to meet and talk with veteran broadcasters before they graduate, and it gives the broadcasters an opportunity to see future deejays, station managers, program directors or sales managers."

Foremost, the Seminar offers students an educational environment to learn valuable information about the broadcasting industry through the numerous panels, workshops and lectures.

"Through the CRB Scholarship program, we have helped bring in people who are educated professionals," Allen continued. "This is what we can do to help elevate our own business."

Anyone interested in having a CRB Scholarship awarded to a college or university, or would like additional information regarding the program, please contact the Seminar office at: 50 Music Square West, Suite 604, Nashville, Tennessee 37203. Please keep in mind that the CRB Scholarship committee needs as much information as possible about the institution and its broadcasting or communications department.

FRESH IDEAS TO MAKE YOUR STATION STAND OUT IN THE LISTENER'S MIND

by Joel Raab

Many successful stations are "rolling 10-in-row, back-to-back with a better variety of favorites." While these image and position phrases are often an important part of programming, we must reach beyond phrases to make our stations distinctive in the "listeners" minds. Managers and program directors are becoming increasingly concerned that stations are sounding the same. They become even more concerned when they are "shadowed" or copied by the competition. Some ideas that you can take home to make your station stand out in your marketplace include these:

- Have celebrities, in addition to country artists, record promos and IDs. Use people like the mayor, local newscasters, and nationally famous celebrities who come to town.
- "Humanize" your air talent the following way. Interview them in a production studio about themselves, country music, the station, etc. Make 20-second promos out of these interviews of the talent just being themselves. This makes listeners feel closer to your talent and your station.
- If country artists visit your station, or you have them in an interview situation, ask them to talk about your station and themselves. Incorporate the juicy parts in station image promos.
- Record comments of listeners talking about your radio station. Use brief bites in station promos to sell the strengths of your radio station. No one can say it better than your fans.
- Have a station mascot. Make plenty of references to it on the air. It's best if that mascot relates to your call letters (i.e. WBVR Beaver, WOWW "WOWW Cow"). Have a custom costume ordered so that your mascot can appear at remotes, concerts, station events, etc. If the name of your mascot makes people smile, you stand a better chance of being remembered.
- When your morning talent are on vacation, have celebrity fill-ins. Use a different local celebrity each morning of the week if possible.

• Salute communities or areas in your metro. For example, one week per month, include a community salute as part of your legal ID, citing one or two attributes of that community. "This month WXXX, salutes Morristown, home to the nation's oldest candle factory and 20,000 dedicated medical service workers — Morristown, an important part of WXXX country . . ."

• Have a holiday "count-up" instead of a count-down. After all, that's what it is, isn't it?

• Make a statement about your station that no other can make (i.e. "Louisiana's First Station . . .").

• Put a unique sound effect in a produced on-the-hour ID. Have it come between your frequency and call letters. That "sounder" can become part of your station's signature, helping to make you unique.

• "Localize" holiday weekends. For example, on Memorial Day weekend, several of our clients honored servicemen from their markets. For example: "KXXX Danville remembers the men and women of the tri-state area who have given their lives in the service of our country . . . (3 - 5 names/areas) . . . We salute our service men and women this Memorial Day weekend on KXXX!"

Before putting any idea on the air, ask yourself if the concept you're considering makes the listener feel warm inside or reaffirms his or her own beliefs. People will be more likely to remember and like the station that touches their emotions, and when they do, they ultimately feel good about your station, not the competition.

The Memorial Day Salutes are a good example of how a radio station makes listeners feel proud of their country, themselves, and your radio station. The radio station that retains and nurtures the human touch will stand out from the competition, and win every time!

For more details on any of the ideas mentioned, feel free to call me at (212) 265-9292.

BILLBOARD NASHVILLE: 49 MUSIC SQUARE WEST, 5TH FLOOR, NASHVILLE TN 37203. (615) 321-4290

THE PRICE IS RIGHT

by Ed Shane

"How can you listen to that much radio?" I was asked at a party in London. It was the same week that the British government had released a White Paper recommending additional radio and TV services. Debate had filled the talk shows and the cocktail receptions; questions began to fly when I was introduced as a broadcast consultant from the States.

The answer about "that much radio" was easy. I assured my hosts that no one is expected to listen to all the 10,400 radio stations on the air in the U.S. However, there is comfort in the convenience of tuning in a station that plays nothing but Country and, when the mood strikes, turning to a rock station or an all-news station.

The British have a difficult time understanding that concept when faced with only 78 radio stations in the entire United Kingdom. The BBC serves most needs, but you have to be at the right place at the right time to have programming match your mood. Their commercial broadcasting has begun to provide some vertical programming like all-news and all-rock, but it doesn't compare to what we have in the U.S.

In Britain, they pay for their radio listening. The price is the annual license fee that's as regular as income tax or auto registration. It makes citizens in the U.K. very sensitive about their broadcasting and very proud of it. The people I talked to called it "the best in the world." They were echoing descriptions that were in the government White Paper, so it must be true.

The biggest fear I heard expressed: "If Britain adds more radio and TV channels, the quality will go down, just like it has in the U.S." There's a prevailing feeling over there that our radio and TV is still the "vast wasteland" described in the 60s.

When I returned home, I reflected on the value of what we do, especially in radio, and I constructed a fantasy:

PRODUCED WITH
DIGITAL EFFECT: "Another T-T-T-T-Ten dollar music sweep from FM 99."

LIVE ANNOUNCER
OVER SYNTHESIZER
BURSTS: "The Judds, Randy Travis, and Highway 101, wrapping up another Ten-dollar Ten-In-A-Row on FM 99.

That's just Ten dollars added to your FM 99 monthly billing for a full 35 minutes of Country Favorites."

JINGLE OUT: "It's a Ten-Dollar-Ten-In-A-Row Weekend! . . FM 99."

Ten dollars is a good price, a bargain, thanks to the weekend special. Usually, Ten-In-A-Row costs between $35 and $45, or a dollar a minute. At average usage (about 8½ quarter hours per week), that's $207.00 a week or $428.00 a month per listener. Special weekend rates and off-peak charges for late night and overnight bring the monthly billing to approximately $500.00 per listeners. Not bad when you consider a Cume of 78,600!

Sure, it's fantasy to think about paying for radio listening. Yet those same listeners pay five-to-seven dollars for a ticket to a current movie. A concert costs $20.00 or more, especially if travel to a nearby city is involved. A CD is $10 - $12 with the average discount.

What would happen if listeners did have to pay?

- They would ask for a complete demonstration before they agreed to pay.
- They'd ask for a money-back guarantee.
- They'd haggle, haggle, and bargain.
- They'd ask for barter. ("Can I trade for this bass boat?")
- They'd insist on records you'd never play.
- They'd demand to speak to the manager.
- They'd threaten to take their business elsewhere.

In other words, they'd act like customers, just like they do at Sears, at McDonald's, and at Safeway.

Let's take a look at the potential radio consumer: We know that he or she does not mind using radio, because Arbitron weekly Cume figures hold firm at 93% or better. We also know that radio listeners perceive enough value in their stations to tell friends about them and to ask the boss to let them listen at work.

We also know that radio maintains consistent listenership even with fragmentation. The national quarter hour averages have increased over the past 10 years, from a 15.6 share to a 16.5.

At the same time, network and local TV shares are sagging at the expense of cable, pay-per-view, and VCR programming. Yet in the face of increased fragmentation, radio increases. That indicates real value, and it's a victory for radio.

So here's the big question: Would your station's listeners continue to listen if they had to pay for the privilege?

The answer's not easy. If you say "No," then you admit your station has little value. Your job is to develop tactics that make every day worth paying for.

Media consultant Ed Shane operates Houston-based Shane Media Services, providing tactical management and programming consultation to stations in a variety of formats including Country.

ACADEMY OF COUNTRY MUSIC

Four people, Eddie Miller, Tommy Wiggins and Mickey and Chris Christiansen got together in 1964 with the dream of promoting and enhancing the acceptance of country music. They formed the Country and Western Academy, (now known as the Academy of Country Music), a non-profit organization, and chartered it in accordance with the laws of California.

By 1965 the interest of promoting country music had spread. Individuals in all phases of the industry were joining the newly formed organization — this called for a Board of Directors to oversee its operation. Dick Schofield was elected to serve as Chairman and this first board was to decide which direction should be taken in promoting the acceptance of country music. The board felt the best way to expose the talented artists and put country music before the public was to hold an awards show. This first-ever country music awards show by a major organization took place in 1965. Roger Miller was proclaimed "Man of The Year," and the "Most Promising Male Vocalist" was Merle Haggard.

Tex Williams was elected President in 1966, 1967 and 1968. By his third term the growth and expanding activities of the Academy warranted the opening of a home base. An office was established at the Crossroads of the World and Fran Boyd was asked by the board to assume the duties and responsibilities of Executive Secretary, a position that Fran continues in today.

In 1969, the Academy took a "giant" step. After much consideration, the board made the decision to become more than just a "west coast" organization and opened its doors to any and all country music industry professionals who wanted to join.

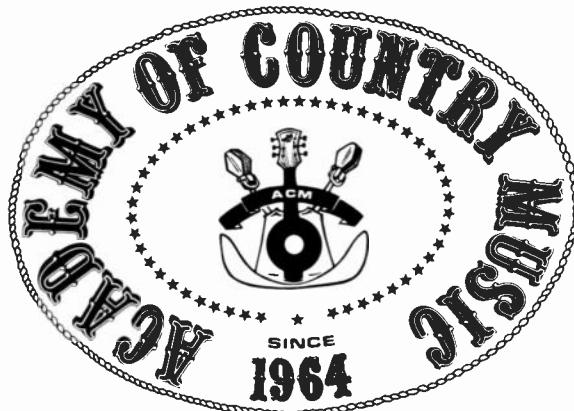

In accordance with the by-laws, an applicant must earn a portion of his/her income from the country music industry. There are thirteen different categories of membership available: artist, composer, musician, disc jockey, radio, record company, publisher, club operator, promotion, manager/booker, publications, TV/motion picture and affiliated.

1969 was also the year the board began concentrating on television for the awards show. In 1972 this became a reality with the taping and syndicated release of the show. The awards show debuted in 1974 on ABC Television where it aired for five years. In 1979, with the involvement of Dick Clark Productions, Inc., the show moved to NBC prime time. This event has become an annual tradition where the entire country music industry gathers to honor musicians, singers, songwriters, record companies, producers and publishers of "America's Music." As major contributors to our industry, the Academy also honors the "Country Radio Station," "Disc Jockey" and "Night Club" of the year. All "Hat" awards given are voted upon by secret ballot.

The Academy is involved year-round in activities and events which are geared to promote country music. Some of our major involvements have included new artists showcases, concerts, backing legislation that benefits the interest of the country community, a research project entitled "What's This Country All About?", charity fundraisers benefitting the T. J. Martell Foundation/Neil Boagart Memorial Laboratories and the American Heart Association. Additionally, the ACM participates in the Country Radio Broadcasters Seminar, and in 1988 became the sponsor of the "Super Faces" show.

The ACM publishes a monthly Newsletter which is mailed to its membership and numerous publications. Press releases from all members are utilized in preparation of the Newsletter.

The Academy is governed by officers and directors who are elected annually by the membership. In 1981, the board employed Bill Boyd to serve in the position of Executive Director, performing all duties relating to that office. Past Presidents include, along with Tex Williams, Johnny Bond, Bill Ward, Bill Boyd, Cliffie Stone, Ron Martin, Johnny Mosby, Charlie Cook and Gene Weed.

TO: Our Friends in Country Radio

Congratulations and best wishes to Country Radio Broadcasters on its 20th Anniversary.

We, of the Academy, are very proud of our involvement with the Country Radio Seminar as sponsors of the "SUPER FACES" show. This year, it is our pleasure to present as the stars of the show, Academy of Country Music award winners, "THE JUDDS."

We take this opportunity to say "thanks" to country radio for your continued support of our efforts to promote and enhance the image of what we consider "America's Music."

Here's to a great year for country music! As part of the ACM's continuing effort toward this end, be sure to join us on Monday, April 10th for our 24th Annual Awards Presentation on NBC-TV.

THE JUDDS — SUPER FACES FOR 1989

Last year, the Country Radio Seminar presented the first Super Faces Show which featured Hank Williams, Jr. Sponsored and coordinated by the Academy of Country Music, the Super Faces Show gives the Seminar attendees the opportunity to see a major headlining act perform their complete show in an intimate setting such as the Roy Acuff Theatre at Opryland. The second Super Faces Show presents one of the hottest acts in all of country music, The Judds.

The Judds success story reads like a fabulous piece of fiction, and if we all thought it wasn't true, it would be a best seller. Out of nowhere, a mother and daughter act gets signed to a major label on the basis of a live, in the record company office, audition. Within five years, they have scored 13 No. 1 hits, and have accumulated three Grammy Awards, four fan-voted Music City News Awards, six Country Music Association Awards, two American Music Awards, and five Academy of Country Music Awards, as well as three platinum and two gold albums.

The Judds' recently released Greatest Hits album spawned the hit "Change Of Heart" which is their latest No. 1 single and was written by Naomi Judd. They were also featured on their first television special on CBS-TV on the road and at home, which aired in November.

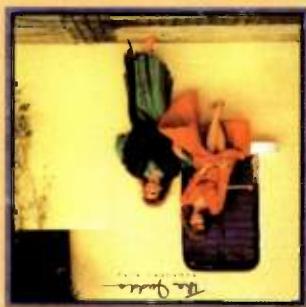

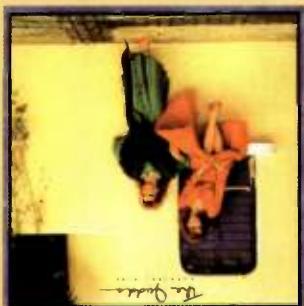

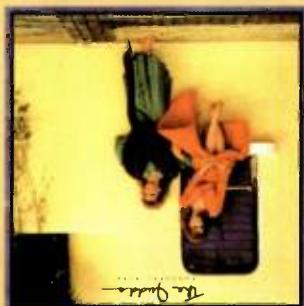

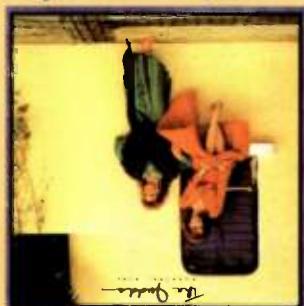

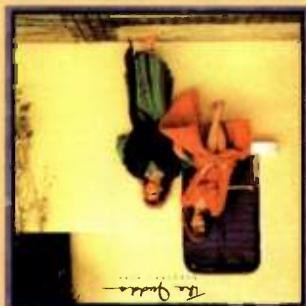

Most acts - even the very good ones - take some time to build and mature in the public eye. But with only their remarkable voices to recommend them, The Judds became an immediate and profound presence in country music upon the release of their first record in 1983. In their voices, listeners could hear the sweet shadings of Appalachian folk music, the lilt and drive of bluegrass and the sassy assertiveness of jazz.

"We know we're a one-in-a-million story," Naomi concedes. "You can't get any more normal than we were five years ago: a nurse and a secretary. We come from the ranks — from blue-collar families. And it's almost as if we get more excited as time goes by, because we know now how involved the music business is and how amazing it is with all the talent around."

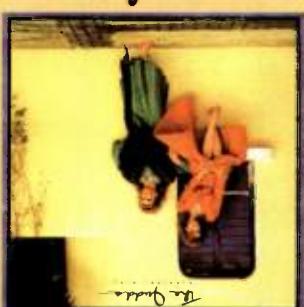

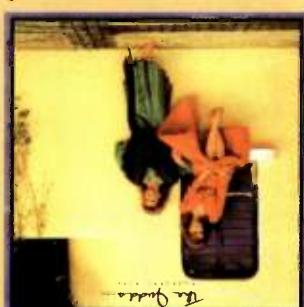

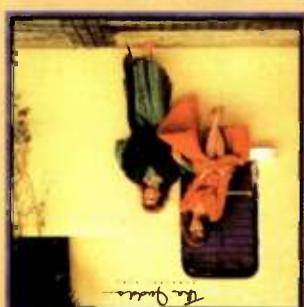

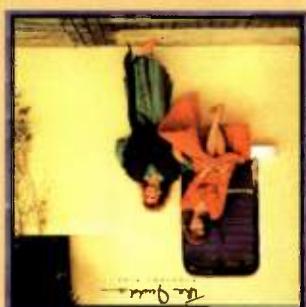

The Super Faces Show starring The Judds takes place on Thursday, March 2nd at 7:30 p.m. in the Roy Acuff Theatre.

ARTIST-RADIO TAPING SESSION

During the past three years, the Artist-Radio Taping Session has become one of the favorite segments of the annual Country Radio Seminar. It's an excellent opportunity for broadcasters to meet the new stars in country, to develop closer ties with the superstars, and to obtain station IDs and mini-interviews to be used throughout the year.

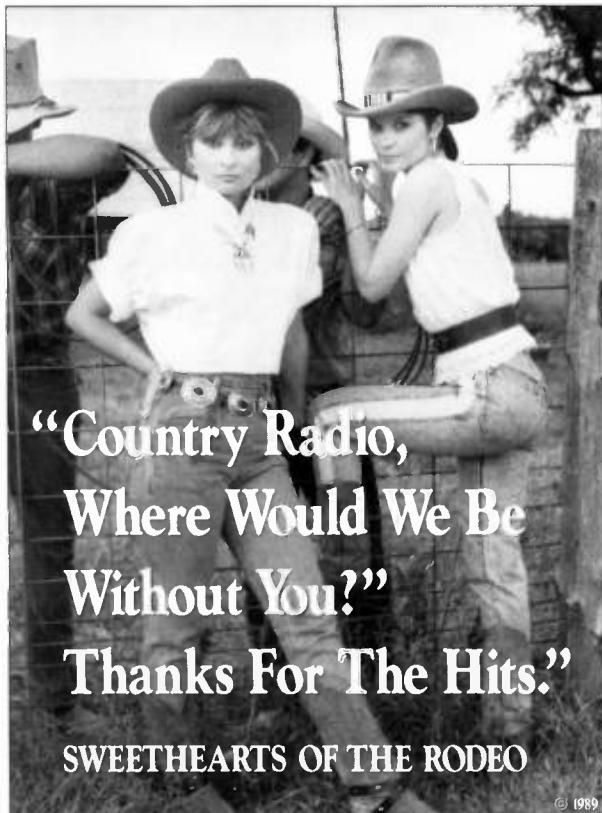

Like last year, the Artist Radio Taping Session is sponsored by The Nashville Network. Set to celebrate its 6th anniversary, The Nashville Network has always felt a close, strong correlation between their viewers and the country radio audience. This year the Artist-Radio Taping Session will begin on the opening day of the Seminar, Wednesday, March 1st at 4:30 p.m.

Here's a glimpse of last year's session . . .

WILLIE NELSON HONORED BY THE CRB

Last August, CBS Records saluted Willie Nelson with a Global Tribute honoring Nelson for the unique milestone of 10 years on the national charts with his STARDUST album, and a preview of his latest album WHAT A WONDERFUL WORLD.

In tuxedo and string tie, Willie performed for the "Who's Who" black tie crowd and the TV cameras of TNN, for about an hour prior to the presentation of numerous awards from the industry, including a first-time presentation by the Country Radio Broadcasters.

In presenting Willie with a special commemorative plaque, CRB President Charlie Douglas stated, "It is a significant step for country music when an artist from our ranks creates an album which becomes so successful that it spends an unprecedented 10 years on the charts. It is also significant when a country artist receives 4.5 million airplays from a single album. Country Radio Broadcasters is pleased to recognize this signal achievement by Willie Nelson."

The Country Radio Broadcasters is not a membership organization, nor does it normally give awards; however, the board of directors felt that the STARDUST album and its 4.5 million performances deserved special recognition.

WEEDECK Radio Network

Serving top radio stations and national advertisers each week with Quality Radio Programming

Country Report™

Two shows daily—2-1/2 minutes in length—with the latest news and happenings of Country Music and flashbacks to its memorable past. Exclusive news and interviews with its biggest stars. Available to one station per metro market. No charge in Arbitron rated market. Customizable for your station to be a part of your air team. Hosted by Chris Lane.

Sittin' In

One of the most anticipated weekend features in Country Radio, "Sittin' In" brings the biggest artists in Country Music to your airwaves as guest DJs, playing as much music (with a similar sort of mix) as in a regular hour of programming. Promos by the artists each week build fantastic weekend cumes, with an intensive music content that will maintain your total audience. No charge in top 100 markets.

Classic Country with HUGH CHERRY

Featuring one of Country Radio's living legends, Hall of Famer Hugh Cherry remembers the golden years of Country. Personal memories of the greatest stars of the past, and in-studio visits with stars of today, this one-hour special will make its debut in the summer of 1989. Available at no charge to the first station to sign on in the top 100 markets.

WEEDECK Country Christmas

Completely up-dated for Christmas 1989—12 hours of new and traditional Country Christmas music with holiday greetings and recollections from all the stars of Nashville. Hosted with warmth and reverence like only Chris Lane can do. Customization for your station with early order.

Celebration

62, 2-minute vignettes that trace the origin and growth of Country Music. Written by award-winning author and noted historian Hugh Cherry, featuring interviews with stars present and past. Excellent special programming for Country Music month. Low cost.

EXHIBIT HALL DIRECTORY

We are proud to continue to present our Exhibit Hall in the same convenient location as last year. This is the largest exhibit area since the inception of the Exhibit Hall six years ago, and will feature more equipment manufacturers, program syndicators, and other broadcast suppliers. Additional special features in this year's Exhibit Hall include Thursday's Hot Dog and Beer lunch (11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.), sponsored by TNNR, as well as a Wine and Cheese Reception on Friday (5:00 to 7:00 p.m.), sponsored by Emerald Entertainment Group and IDB Communications Group, Inc. Additionally there will be more than 10 hours of exclusive exhibit time at the Seminar.

Exhibit Hall hours are: Wednesday, 2:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m.; Thursday, 11:00 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.; and Friday, 11:30 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. As with all Country Radio Seminar events, you MUST wear your badge for admission to the Exhibit Hall.

Marlboro Country Music

Dedicated To Discovering New Talent

 Marlboro

Country Music

Referred to as the "Cadillac of Country Music Tours", Marlboro Country Music has established itself over the years as the premier tour in country music today. The tour is dedicated to bringing audiences the best in traditional as well as contemporary country music superstars. Since it first hit the road back in 1983, the tour has stopped in 71 cities and played before more than one million fans.

"Several former 'New Faces' have played on the Marlboro Country Music Tour and have gone on to become superstars. Through our concert tour and the expanded talent roundup program we further our commitment to foster and develop the careers of emerging artists," stated Susan Charney, manager of Marlboro promotion.

Marlboro's Talent Roundup competition is designed to discover and showcase new talent. The thrill of victory is sweetened when each winner not only receives $7,500 cash but also wins the once-in-a-lifetime chance to open the Marlboro show in their market. In 1988, the 19 local finalists advanced to the inaugural National Talent Roundup finals in Nashville for three days of fierce competition.

The winning group, Ronnie Dunn from Tulsa, OK walked away with $30,000 cash, and 40 hours of recording time at one of Nashville's top studios, Omni Sounds, the famed record producer Barry Beckett at the board.

"Marlboro Country Music has helped bring our dream a little closer to reality," said Ronnie Dunn.

Dunn, who hails from Port Isabel, Texas had a shot at success back in '82 when he was signed with Churchill Records. Under that label he released a couple of singles which hit the charts, but unfortunately the label folded. So, when the Talent Roundup competition came to the Tulsa area last year, Dunn knew he had to give it his best shot, and as they say, "the rest is history." Since completing their recording session with Beckett, the band has been pursuing a major label deal as well as playing clubs regularly.

Beckett, a Birmingham, AL native who moved to Nashville as an independent producer in 1984, has most recently completed work on the Marlboro Country Music Tour's superstar headliner, Alabama's, newly released LP, Southern Star.

"Having worked with artists struggling to break into the music industry for a number of years, I know first hand what an exciting opportunity Marlboro Country Music has offered Ronnie Dunn as the National Talent Roundup winner," commented Beckett.

Marlboro Country Music is proud to be a sponsor of this year's "New Faces" banquet as we look forward to once again bringing you the best in country music with a new and exciting tour in '89.

EVERYTHING YOU'VE WANTED TO KNOW ABOUT COUNTRY RADIO LISTENERS (but didn't know where to find out)

by Bennett M. Griffin

What are country listeners really like? There are lots of stereotypes, opinions, misconceptions, etc. Like most stereotypes, many were not very accurate. Although many country radio broadcasters have known better, there has not been a lot of objective, third-party data on which to base their opinions.

Now there is. The information comes from the Griffin Reports, an in-depth qualitative audience study produced for local markets. We have summarized data from six Griffin Reports markets in the midwest, and have amassed a sizable amount of information — based on a total of 4,784 in-depth interviews conducted during 1988.

You'll be pleased to see what your listeners are like — although you have probably suspected it all along.

The following information is taken from an extensive qualitative profile of country music listeners summarized from Griffin Reports data.

Unlike listeners of many narrowly targeted radio formats, country listeners tend to mirror their markets in many ways. Country listeners are rich and poor, young and old in much the same proportions as all persons living in the marketplace. For example, in the six midwestern markets from which this data was obtained, 53.3 percent of country listeners are between the ages of 25 and 54, compared to 54.7 percent of all persons living in those markets. There are 63.0 percent of the country listeners living in households with annual incomes of $25,000 or more, compared to 65.0 percent for the markets as a whole.

Country listeners mirror their markets in more ways than just basic demographics. In many lifestyle and purchasing characteristics there are also similarities. Out of 1,000 country format listeners, 64 drive a current year vehicle. For the markets as a whole, 65 out of 1,000 drive a current year vehicle. If we look further at these 1,000 people who are representative of country listeners and of the overall markets, 566 country listeners have a bank credit card, compared to 569 for the market; 631 country listeners have a department store credit card, compared to 621 for the market; and 492 country listeners eat at a full-service restaurant three or more times per month, compared to 502 for the market.

While the similarities between the profile of the country listener compared to the market are striking, there are some areas of difference. Country listeners are somewhat more likely to be married than is true for the market as a whole (66.2 percent vs. 63.0 percent) and are more likely to live in a single family residence (85.9 percent vs. 79.7 percent). They are less likely to buy a standard car (69.8 percent vs. 78.5 percent) and more likely to own a truck (21.9 percent vs. 13.4 percent).

Even though there are a lot of demographic and lifestyle similarities, how about purchase activity? Does the country listener also show similarities here? The answer is YES. In comparisons of the percentage of persons who have purchased a product during the past twelve months or plan to make a purchase in the next six months, there are more similarities than differences between country listeners and the overall market. For example, for automobiles, the percentage for country listeners is 11.6 percent compared to 12.4 percent for the total market. For carpeting, it is 13.6 percent compared to 13.9 percent; for tires, the percentages are 29.4 percent compared to 27.0 percent; and for major household applicances, the percentages are 17.4 percent vs. 18.1 percent.

So what is the significance of all of these numbers? Here's what I believe this profile means for the country radio broadcaster:

1. Be proud of the kind of listeners your format attracts. It is, for the most part, a reflection of the kind of people who live in your community.
2. Recognize that one of the strengths of your format is that your audience is the "right" audience for a broad cross-section of advertisers — something that is not true for highly targeted formats.
3. Recognize the buying power of your audience. It is on a par with your overall market in many product categories.

The following table summarizes the attributes of the country listener described above. You might like to save it to show any potential advertiser who questions the value of your audience for his business.

A COMPARISON BETWEEN THE COUNTRY LISTENER AND THE OVERALL MARKET

Description	Percent Country Listeners	Percent Total Market
Age demographic 25 - 54	53.3	54.7
Household income $25,000+	63.0	65.0
Married	66.2	63.0
Single family residence	85.9	79.7
Drive current year vehicle	6.4	6.5
Have bank credit card	56.6	56.9
Have department store credit card	63.1	62.1
Eat at full service restaurant 3 or more times per month	49.2	50.2
Drive standard car most often	69.8	78.5
Drive a truck most often	21.9	13.4
Have purchased in past twelve months or plan to buy in next six months:
Automobile	11.6	12.4
Tires	29.4	27.0
Carpeting	13.6	13.9

HEARING THE SMALL VOICES

by Bishop Ernest A. Fitzgerald

Many years ago there was a young man who enrolled at a famous German university. The boy had an inquiring mind and a compelling curiosity. He toyed with ideas that were considered unacceptable by the responsible people of his day. One day in a class session the lad began exploring some of his radical thoughts. The professor became so impatient with the young man that he sent him from the room. The boy never quite recovered from the professor's harsh treatment. Out of his hurt he began to formulate some strange theories. His writings may have had long-range effects on history. There are those who believe that Adolf Hitler was profoundly influenced by the thoughts of Friedrich Nietzsche, the young man who was expelled from class by an impatient college professor.

Someday a qualified historian needs to take a long look at the past and uncover the origins of the great movements that have altered history. In almost every case the historian will find that such movements began with small events that were almost lost from the record. Many years ago a French physician was watching some children at play. One of the children began to tap on a board with a small stone. At the other end of his plank another child listened. The doctor continued to mull over what he had seen. Out of that reflection came the invention of the stethoscope, one of the primary tools of modern medicine.

For a long time tires were made of solid rubber without inner cushions of air. While such tires were much more comfortable than metal or wood, the ride was still unbearably rough. One day a man was watching his son ride his bicycle over cobblestone streets. Seeking some way to make the tires absorb more shock, the man came up with the idea of an inner lining made of canvas. In that inner lining he pumped a quantity of air. John Dunlop didn't know that day that his invention would have a lasting effect on history. Today the world rides on compressed air encased in rubber tires.

If the records of the past suggest anything, they should remind us of the importance of little things. Most of the time our lives are not changed by gigantic events but by happenings so small that we almost miss them. Centuries ago there was a minor official in a small Roman province in Asia Minor. One day the local courts sent a case to him for review. A carpenter from a nearby village had been charged with civil disobedience. The lower court found the carpenter guilty. The Roman official was supposed to review the case, but he felt that it was of such little consequence that he didn't need to be involved. He turned the matter back to the lower court for disposition. Pilate, the Roman governor, did not know that day that his decision would affect history forever. The carpenter from Nazareth would become the most powerful person of all time. We date our calendars from the year of his birth.

Recently a widely known business consultant led a seminar for middle management people. In one of his lectures he made this observation: "Most managers want to handle major decisions and leave the details to others. We need to remember that most major decisions are finally made by those who have handled the details." That observation may not be completely accurate. Every human endeavor needs someone to set overall directions. But it is true that more often than not the people who set such directions have earned that right by handling smaller things. People who are careful about little things can be trusted to handle larger things.

We need to remember also that unless the smaller things are cared for there may be no larger decisions to be made. Success hinges on giving attention to little things. Businesses survive on such tiny matters as satisfied customers — customers who are carefully treated with courtesy and respect. Factories stay in business by paying attention to small parts made and fitted with precision. Sloppy workmanship will eventually destroy the largest company. Homes are knitted together by small deeds of kindness. Friendships are sustained by those who work at meritng trust and confidence. In life it is the little things that count.

There is a story about a little boy who, one night at dinner, suddenly picked up his plate and smashed it on the floor. His mother sent him upstairs to his room. The next evening at dinner the father said to the family, "I want you to hear something. Last night I discovered I had left my dictating machine on during dinner. By chance I recorded our conversation just before Johnny threw his plate on the floor. Listen to what went on." The father turned on the recorder. There were the sounds of laughter and small talk. Then in the background could be heard a tiny voice, "Pass the butter!" No one seemed to hear the small voice so it came again, "Please, pass the butter!" Still the laughter and talk continued. Again came the wee voice, not much louder, "Please pass the butter!" Nothing happened. Finally there was the sound of the crashing plate.

Life is filled with tiny voices often lost beneath the noise and clatter of a busy world. The people who manage life successfully are those who listen carefully for the wee voices and who are alert for the small things. Never overlook the details. Someday when you least expect it, one of the tiny things could change your life.

He is the author of seven books: There's No Other Way, You Can Believe and Diamonds Everywhere, all published by Abingdon Press; Structures of Inner Peace and Living Under Pressure, published by Fisher-Harrison Publications; and How to Be a Successful Failure and God Writes Straight with Crooked Lines by Atheneum.

WE SALUTE COUNTRY RADIO

THE NEW FACES SHOW

During the past 20 years, the Country Radio Seminar has presented some 188 new recording artists, some of whom have gone on to become incredibly successful, while others have long since gone on to something else. Each year, the brightest and best are presented, and the New Faces Show has become an important kick off to many artists' careers.

For the Seminar registrants, which includes station owners, general managers, program and music directors, sales managers and air personalities, the New Faces Show is usually the first place they get to see a new act perform live. It's a showcase experience for the artist to show what they can do outside of a recording studio, and for many, it has been incredibly successful.

It is truly amazing to look back over the years and discover the talent that was "discovered" at the New Faces Show. A sample listing includes Alabama, Deborah Allen, John Anderson, Razzy Bailey, T. Graham Brown, Ed Bruce, John Conlee, Rodney Crowell, Lacy J. Dalton, Holly Dunn, Exile, The Forester Sisters, Foster & Lloyd, Janie Frickie, David Frizzell and Shelly West, Larry Gatlin, Crystal Gayle, Terri Gibbs, The Girls Next Door, Jim Glaser, Vern Gosdin, Con Hunley, Lyle Lovett, Charly McClain, Mel McDaniel, Ronnie McDowell, Reba McEntire, Kathy Mattea, Gary Morris, New Grass Revival, Juice Newton, K.T.

Oslin, Eddie Rabbitt, Eddy Raven, Johnny Rodriguez, Dan Seals, Ricky Skaggs, Keith Stegall, Sylvia, Sweethearts of the Rodeo, Randy Travis, Ricky Van Shelton, Steve Wariner, The Whites, Keith Whitley, Tom Wopat and Dwight Yoakam.

Elsewhere in this program book is a listing of all the artists who have appeared at the New Faces Show and the year in which they appeared. It certainly makes for interesting reading.

Participants in the New Faces Show are selected by a committee of music industry executives appointed each year by the Country Radio Broadcasters board of directors. To qualify, a recording artist must place a single into the upper reaches of the country music charts. Artists represent both major and independent record companies.

The New Faces Show, initially, was a way to attract talent and entertainment for the Seminar. However, it has grown over the years to become the most prestigious showcase for new talent. In addition to being an important event for the artists, the New Faces Show is a popular attraction for personnel from record companies, booking agencies, music publishers and the media.

For 20 years, the Country Radio Seminar has provided the best new talent, and to help celebrate the 20th anniversary of the Seminar, this year's New Faces Show is a further commitment of that talent.

1989 NEW FACES SHOW

BAILLIE AND THE BOYS

Describing Baillie and The Boys' first single "Oh Heart" and their debut album, People Magazine called the new group, "a fresh country breeze from the Northeast." It was the "Oh Heart" single that brought national acclaim and a top 10 record to the group. Their second album for RCA, Turn The Tide, has just shipped as has the album's first single, "Long Shot," which was written by Gary Scruggs and Don Schlitz. The New Jersey natives — Kathie Baillie, Michael Bonagura and Alan LeBoeuf (who recently departed the group) have been working together for the better part of 13 years. Since moving to Nashville in 1983, they have appeared, vocally, on albums by Randy Travis, Ed Bruce and Dan Seals, prior to recording their first album with Kyle Lehning and Paul Davis producing.

THE BURCH SISTERS

The Burch Sisters—Cathy, Charlene and Cindy—are the pride of Screven, Georgia, a small town in the Southeastern part of the state, where they still reside. Singing since childhood, the three sisters once had a band called Bandit that won the state competition and were top 10 finalists of the Wrangler Showdown in 1986. They recorded in Atlanta and met Doug Johnson who was to become their producer. Johnson took their demo to PolyGram, with the result being their catchy debut single "Everytime You Go Outside, I Hope It Rains." Their second, and current single, "I Don't Want To Mention Any Names" is following the same hit bound pattern, and their debut album New Fire, was released in early January.

Record Label: Mercury/PolyGram

SKIP EWING

There aren't many new artists who have made as much noise during the past year as Skip Ewing has. After picking and singing at the Opryland theme park for more than two years, Ewing was signed as a writer at Acuff-Rose Music with his songs being recorded by the likes of George Strait, Charlie Pride and George Jones. Signed to MCA Records, all the songs on Skip's debut album, The Coast Of Colorado, were written or co-written by the talented newcomer. His hit singles include "Your Memory Wins Again," "I Don't Have Far To Fall," and the most recent, "Burnin' A Hole In My Heart." He co-produced his debut album release with Jimmy Bowen.

Record Label: MCA Records
Management: David Skepner (615) 259-2599
Agency: Variety Artists (213) 858-7800

THE DESERT ROSE BAND

The most legendary of all the New Faces for this year and for several years past is the Desert Rose Band. With band personnel such as Chris Hillman (The Byrds, Flying Burrito Brothers, Stephen Stills), Herb Pedersen (Linda Ronstadt), Jay Dee Maness (Byrds, Buck Owens, Gram Parsons), John Jorgenson (Dan Fogelberg), Steve Duncan (Roger Miller, Ricky Nelson, T-Bone Burnette) and Bill Bayson (the Bluegrass Cardinals and various film soundtracks), it's difficult to capsulize the history of the band members into one paragraph. Their second album, Running, was basically recorded live in the studio with very little overdubbing. Their hit singles include "Ashes Of Love," "One Step Forward," "Love Reunited," and "He's Back And I'm Blue."

Record Label: MCA/Curb Records
Management: Chuck Morris Entertainment (303) 792-3478
Agency: Monterey Artists (615) 726-0950

JEFF CHANCE

Born and raised in El Campo, Texas (where he still resides), Jeff Chance has been playing most stringed instruments since he was about five years old. At age six, he joined his father's country band playing fiddle, and has been involved in music ever since. After playing in several bands as a teenager, he formed his own band called Chance, and got signed to Mercury Records on the strength of a three song demo. Allowing his label contract to expire, Jeff and his band of musicians continued to steadily work throughout the Southwest. In 1987, Jeff was ready to record again, and after cutting more new demos, he was signed to Curb Records. In early 1988, Jeff entered the studio with Harold Shedd producing, scoring two hit singles with his first solo album due out any day.

DONNA MEADE

A longtime favorite with Nashville audiences, having performed regularly in local nightclubs since the early '80s, Donna Meade signed a writer's contract with the powerful Tree International in 1986. A year later, she began recording with producer Buddy Killen, who has worked with a number of artists including Exile and T.G. Sheppard, and shortly thereafter, signed with PolyGram. Her first album, Love's Last Stand, is a potpourri of musical styles with an underlying country music theme. With four successful singles from her first album, "Be Serious," the album's title tune, "Love's Last Stand," "Congratulations," and "Leavin' On Your Mind," Donna Meade's endurance has begun to pay off.

PAUL OVERSTREET

One of the hottest songwriters in Nashville, Paul Overstreet has written the 1988 Grammy Award winner "Forever And Ever Amen," as well as "On The Other Hand," and "Digging Up Bones," (all recorded by Randy Travis), "You Again" and "I Fell In Love Again Last Night" for the Forester Sisters, Michael Martin Murphey's "Long Line Of Love," and the Marie Osmond and Paul Davis hit "You're Still New To Me." Named the 1987 Songwriter Of The Year by the Nashville Songwriters Association and by BMI, we could easily spend the next several pages listing Overstreet's credits and awards. Recording for MTM Records, Overstreet's album Sowin' Love has produced hit singles and has opened a new phase of his incredibly successful career as a recording artist.

SHENANDOAH

With their first album just over a year old and two solid hit singles under their belts: "They Don't Make Love Like We Used To" and "Stop The Rain," Shenandoah have covered more ground in the span of some 12 months than most groups do in double the time. With more than a century of musical background between them, Shenandoah is recognized as a band of five people who are players and singers — not just faces on an album cover. Shenandoah is: Marty Raybon, Mike McGuire, Ralph Ezell, Jimmy Seales, and Stan Thorn.

THE SHOOTERS

Led by lead vocalist/guitarist Walt Aldridge, the Shooters have exploded upon the country music industry as one of the primary country bands to watch. Aldridge's background as a songwriter, engineer and producer have benefitted the group as a whole. Coupled with the writing and playing talents of Gary Baker, the Shooters have years of experience as individuals which is evident on their first self-titled album. Their successful singles include "They Only Come Out At Night," "Till The Old Wears Off," and "Tell It To Your Teddy Bear." In addition to Aldridge and Baker, the remaining Shooters are Barry Billings, Chalmers Davis and Michael Dillon.

DAVID SLATER

The 1987 Star Search "Male Vocalist Of The Year," David Slater has continued to build on his budding success with his debut album Exchange of Hearts, on Capitol. Four of the songs on the album were co-written by Slater. Produced by Randy Scruggs, the album has yielded the hit singles "I'm Still Your Fool," "The Other Guy," and "We Were Meant To Be Lovers," and features Earl Scruggs on banjo, Vince Gill on background vocals, Jim Horn on saxophone, Sonny Garrish on steel guitar, Don Potter on guitar, and David Innis on keyboards. After disbanding his own group, Slater, Wells and Company, he joined Keith Whitley's band as keyboardist. A brief stint at the Opryland theme park resulted in his being noticed by the Star Search talent scouts, and the rest is history. Slater is currently working on his second album for the label.

1988 NEW FACES

“Ain’t Nothin’ Better.”

“When it comes to whisky, I’ve been known to leave one and take up with another. Not anymore. Not since I found this smooth sippin’ whisky from Tullahoma, Tennessee. George Dickel.

Whatever it is they do down there turns out the sweetest sour mash this country boy’s ever tasted. And in my humble opinion, there ain’t nothin’ better.”

EIGHT WAYS TO AVOID OFFICE INTERRUPTIONS

Anyone who's ever worked in an office knows that such work is full of innumerable little interruptions and distractions, be they telephone calls or social chats with co-workers. Whatever the case, these low-priority details steal time away from high-priority tasks, often resulting in overtime and weekend work.

Nevertheless, there are ways to avoid these distractions. According to NYC-based Organization Principle President Stephanie Winston, setting aside even as little as one or two hours a day for interruption-free work can increase your output as much as if you'd worked through the weekend. This can be accomplished by one of the following three ways:

- Out To Lunch. In other words, leave your office. Slip into an unused conference room, or take your paperwork to a nearby coffee shop or public library.
- Do Your Homework. Set aside one day a week for a morning of quiet work at home. Rarely are there office emergencies that can't wait until noon.
- Do Not Disturb. One of these signs on your door can work wonders. At the same time, instruct your secretary to hold all calls.

INTER-OFFICE INTERACTIONS

Of course, it's impossible to avoid all interaction with your fellow employees, but Winston suggests the following tips to make these interactions efficient and not a waste of time:

- Visitation. Confer in somebody else's office. It's easier to excuse yourself from another office than to ask someone to leave yours.
- Attention! Stand up and remain standing when someone drops in your office.
- Saved By The Bell. Ask your secretary to interrupt you with a reminder of your next meeting at a prearranged time if you believe a meeting is going to drag on too long.
- Racing The Clock. Make your telephone calls just before lunch or near the end of the day so the other party won't be tempted to talk long.
- Direct, But Personal. Always answer your phone with a "Hi, what can I do for you?" so the caller will get to the point.

Special Thanks To

As the Country Radio Seminar grows, year after year, it requires an ever increasing amount of time and effort to present. We are especially indebted to those people listed below for the innumerable hours, skills, and resources they have quietly contributed to helping the Country Radio Seminar reach its Platinum Anniversary! Many of these volunteers have been seminar workhorses for several years and this page is often the only acknowledgement of our appreciation. It is their dedication and commitment which helps the seminar run smoothly and professionally. Please take time to offer your personal thanks.

Extra special thanks are in order to . . .
