A Tribute Fit For A King

The October 8th all-star tribute to Elvis Presley at The Pyramid arena in Memphis is shaping up to be a landmark event. The talent confirmed (but not yet officially announced) includes U2, the Grateful Dead, Elton John, Tony Bennett, ZZ Top, Wynonna and Naomi Judd, k.d. lang, Aaron Neville, Bon Jovi, Willie Nelson, and Lyle Lovett. In addition, Michael Jackson and his new bride, Lisa Marie Presley-Jackson will sing at least one song together. Musical director Don Was is planning a number of unusual pairings among the 22 acts (so far) which will perform classic Elvis tunes during the three hour show. The event, a benefit for the T.J. Martell Foundation and St. Judes Children's Hospital, is the first major event sanctioned by the Presley estate. PolyGram's Island Records label will release a live album of the show. The show also will reportedly include a screening of never before seen film clips of the King taken from the Presley archives. In addition, all the artists involved in the event are also being invited to go into the legendary Sun Studios in Memphis to shoot a video and cut a tribute song to the King. "Elvis Aaron Presley: The Tribute" is being produced by Avalon Attractions, PolyGram Diversified Entertainment, and Elvis Presley Enterprises — with an assist from CAA. Tickets are expected to go on sale early next month. The mega-event will also be available on pay-per-view.

Bethel Goes Bust

Sid Bernstein pulled out of Bethel '94 July 30th because his authority was being nibbled away by his former partners, Shea Entertainment, the promoter said. "I wasn't consulted the last number of weeks," Bernstein said. "After all, it is their checkbook. I respect that," he added. But Harry Rhulen, president of Shea Entertainment, closed his checkbook August 1st citing lack of interest in the commemorative concert. Rhulen said the minimal interest (they sold only 1,600 tickets) didn't justify the multimillion-dollar expenditure. Rhulen expects to lose $2 million on the aborted concert and said an additional $3 million would have been needed to follow through with plans for the weekend show even though it lacked any legitimate headliners. But when Bernstein heard the money men were abandoning his baby, he decided to hang-in-there and try to make Bethel '94 a reality. Bernstein said he urged Sullivan County officials to give him a chance to seek a new source of money to put the show back on track. He is making a public appeal to Donald Trump, Michael Jackson and the ex-Beatles to lend a hand and a wallet. He also said there is a woman in New Jersey who is trying to round up some support for the concert. And with no organized event at the site of the original Woodstock, county officials now fear a pilgrimage of thousands of fans with no place to go. On the 20th anniversary of Woodstock, the former Yasgur's Farm drew thousands to an impromptu party and free concert. In recent years, local officials have tried to discourage the pilgrimage by setting up roadblocks. And last year they spread chicken manure on the farm to discourage a gathering of peaceful spirits. "We haven't a clue, at this point, how many people are going to show up," said a spokeswoman for the State Emergency Management Operations Woodstock team. Meanwhile, free spirited promoter Richard Pell is organizing a free concert, Freedomfest, on land five miles from the Bethel site. He said some of the artists booked for the now defunct Bethel '94 have contacted him about playing his show.

Lollapalooza Of A Row In Rhode Island

The town of North Kingstown, R.I., filed a lawsuit in an attempt to stop the Don Law Co. from staging a Lollapalooza show at the Quonset Air Field August 3rd. North Kingstown Town Manager Richard Kerbel said state officials were out of line when they gave the promoter permission to stage the concert at the air field without getting a local exhibition permit. But Law and the Lollapalooza organizers questioned whether the local license was needed because the concert takes place on state-owned land. Also, a license wasn't required for last year's concert at the same site. North Kingstown officials claimed they were concerned about safety since the distance from a local fire station to the site exceeds the distance needed for an efficient response time by emergency vehicles. After all was said and done, the town's fire and police chiefs removed their objections after Law agreed to supply some extra safety personnel to satisfy their concerns.

TOBY KEITH

What do the oil business and the music business have in common? Toby Keith, of course. It was the fall of the oil business in Oklahoma City that forced the country singer out of his career in black gold and into the arms of music. "There was nothing else to turn to," Keith said. "And the only other thing I was real successful at, that I could turn to immediately, was music. And it was my favorite thing to do."

Even though music seemed like the only way to go for Keith, he wasn't too confident that the odds of making it big were in his favor. For a boy coming from Oak City, he said, "It's almost like a figment of your imagination to even think about getting a record deal. I mean, that's like being a movie star in Hollywood." But when Mercury Records veep Harold Shedd came across Keith's demo tape, the record deal fell right into place.

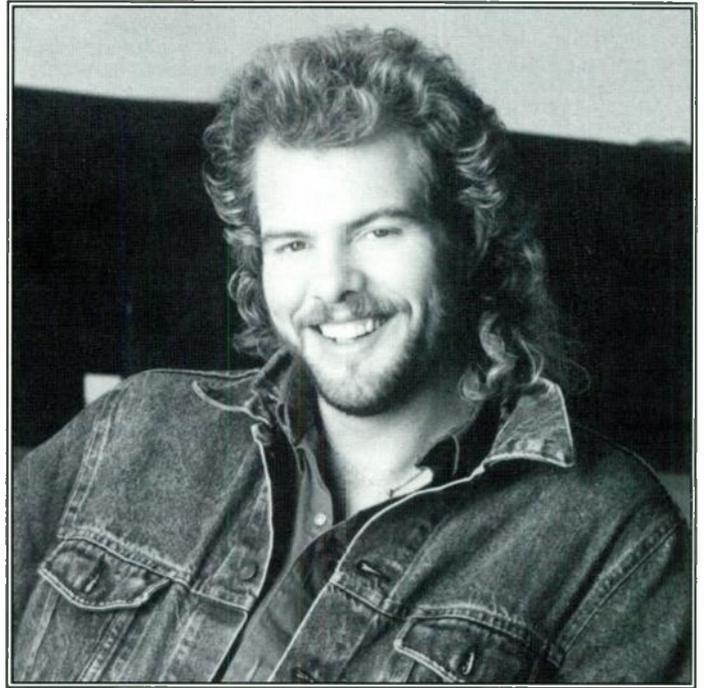

But Keith worked long and hard before his "overnight success." He said it took him and his Easy Money Band about three or four years to establish themselves as a regional act. Then it took two or three more years to catch the attention of Shedd. From there, it took a couple more years to get his first record out. But this is in line with what Keith believes it takes to achieve success. "Talent, I think, is probably 30 percent of it," he said. "I think the other 70 percent is drive and desire and belief in yourself and having a little faith and luck."

When Mercury signed Keith in 1992, he was put right to work on the journey to success. By the time he finished a promotional tour for the label, things had made a 180 degree turn. "In that six weeks, 'Should've Been A Cowboy' broke into the charts and started climbing. And at the end of that six weeks, it was approaching the top 10 pretty fast." So Keith went back to Oklahoma City, picked up his boys and instantly started playing one nighters. "We went from just doing five or six nights in the same room to the very next week doing six nights in six different rooms."

Toby Keith & the Easy Money Band were playing together long before stardom was an issue. They were the original high school garage band. "I played a little guitar and [so did] two or three other buddies and we'd sit around and have these guitar pools," Keith said. "And even though it was bad at the time, we didn't realize that four or five years down the road, it was going to really pay off." Although those original band members left over the years and were replaced by other musicians, Keith didn't forget about the friends he got started with. "After I got signed, I went back and hired the two guys that were in the original threesome," he said. One is his road manager and the other is his stage manager.

Seeing as how Keith managed himself and the band for so long, he tries to maintain a hand in the business aspect of his career. But, he said, "I get in trouble sometimes from people above me for trying to be too hands on ... I learned from mistakes coming up and it's real hard to tell me anything when it comes to doing my job out here on the road, especially if it's something I've made a mistake at before." Though he's hard headed when it comes to being involved with business, Keith said, "For the most part, if it's something I don't know anything about, I'll leave it to those that feel like they do."

And Keith feels like he's got a pretty good team on his side. His manager, Fred Cortez, was the owner of an Oklahoma City club where Keith frequently played. Cortez saw a bright future in Keith and had some industry ties to get him started. Keith carefully chose his agency, CAA, as well, where he is represented by Ron Baird.

As for his record company, Keith recently moved to Mercury's sister label, Polydor. When Polydor was put together, Shedd was appointed president of the new label. By this time, Keith did not want to be separated from what he considers his mentor, counselor, teacher and his producer. "He's like a brother to me. He's been the driving thing behind my success," Keith said. So Keith thought it best to move to Polydor as well.

Since Keith's been getting more and more attention from his success, he's having a hard time understanding why people treat him differently. "I don't feel like a star," he said. "I'm just a dude." He said that his non-star attitude aggravates some people. "They've come on [the bus] expecting to be around this star and new they're around this country Joe." He said it disappoints people who are out to get shunned by a "star."

But Keith was thrilled with the reception he got at Fan Fair this year. "I could've sat at my booth all day, everyday," he said. "[Fans] were lined up plum out of sight. You have to take care of these people that take care of you," he said.

After finishing up some tour plans that will take him through the rest of this year, Keith will prepare for movie stardom. He'll be starring with Sinbad in a flick called "Burning Bridges." Keith will play a road manager for a country star. Film execs contacted Keith after watching some of his videos and said he was perfect for the part. Keith had never acted before and didn't even have to screen test for the part. But he said, "It can't be harder than shooting videos." Plus, he said, the script fits him to a tee. "So it's not that I have to change my accent or prepare for the role," he said. "I read the thing over night and I said, 'This is like I wrote this thing.' So, I'm gonna give it a whirl. If it stinks, I'll never do it again. If it's great, I'll say I knew it all along."

Keith's second album, Living In A Boomtown, is due out in September. He'll be touring this fall with Sawyer Brown.

U.K. News Report

(London) CONCORDE INTERNATIONAL ARTISTES has closed its rock division, following the departure of agents Paul Bolton, Simon Bennie and Robin Catto. Bolton has moved to ICM / FAIR WARNING, taking bands Therapy?, Carter USM, Senseless Things and Ned's Atomic Dustbin. Catto and Bennie are pursuing other interests. There is no final decision on the representation of bands they were booking, except for Credit to the Nation, which has been signed by Neil Warnock at THE AGENCY. Concorde will maintain its extensive dance roster which boasts, The Prodigy, Snowboy and 2 Unlimited among others..... Nigel Hassler at PRIMARY TALENT has added to his jazz/dance roster with the signing of Gil Scott Heron..... Following Sony's example, EMI RECORDS has created a touring department in the London office. Mark Pinder has been appointed to oversee touring budgets for the label's younger bands. He has worked on a consultancy basis for the record company since earlier this year on tours for Blur, Blink, Skin and Sass Jordan..... Further to promoter DEREK BLOCK's cancellation of the Bolshoi Ballet open air shows (see last week's column), his company, Derek Block International Concerts has gone into liquidation..... The great British festival season marches on, with last weekend's major events both proving very successful. The CAMBRIDGE FOLK FESTIVAL, an institution now 30 years old, sold out comfortably a week in advance. Organizers hadn't experienced such healthy sales for some years. The highlighting of the event's anniversary was as much a tribute to founder Ken Woollard (who died of a heart attack last year), as a celebration of the festival's longevity. Highlights on the bill were Joan Baez, Mary Black, Ralph McTell and Sherman Robertson. The event has a dedicated following, but was also able to attract newcomers for this year's anniversary line-up..... DF Concerts' T IN THE PARK festival appears to have impressed itself firmly in the minds and pockets of the 20,000 strong Scottish crowd that turned out. A new event, the festival passed without any hitches, although timing was apparently tight for some bands who were flown in especially for the show. CYPRESS HILL only played for 20 minutes after experiencing delays at U.K. airport immigration; several other bands had hectic schedules as they were also performing at the Ireland's Feile Festival. Plans to tie up these two festivals with a third one in Southern England next year could present some complex logistics..... London's Mean Fiddler Organization is gearing up for a repeat of the Madness event in Finsbury Park on August 6th. "MADSTOCK '94" is the moniker, but this time the band is only doing one show. When they last played the park in '92, it was for a promised one-off reunion. A sell-out weekend two years ago, the band has since done a number of arena shows and may not prove such a hot ticket this time round. Accompanying Madness on the bill are fellow eighties pop veterans, Ian Dury and the Blockheads, Aswad, the Buzzcocks and the more current popsters, Credit to the Nation and The Tyrell Corporation. As always, the British weather will affect the walk-up figures..... Another hit band of the 1980's which continues to maintain a strong live profile is UB40. The band has two outdoor shows coming up. They play the National Bowl at Milton Keynes on August 13th and Don Valley Stadium in Sheffield on August 21st. The band are effectively promoting themselves and have added Jamiroquai, Chaka Demus & Pliers, Bitty McLean and Ovi3 to the bill. Ticket sales are reportedly average..... On the U.K. INDOOR CIRCUIT, the market is entering into its customary summer lull. There are no major shows until the end of this month. Some venues are searching for new angles to attract concert-goers. One notable success is London's SOUTH BANK CENTRE. The arts complex has been increasing the volume of contemporary music presented at the Royal Festival Hall, better known for its classical concerts. The recent themed week of culture from the American South presented musical entertainment ranging from Allen Toussaint to Rosie Flores among others and proved very successful. Another short festival has just begun, entitled "Now You See It." This is a broad-ranging bill, presenting artists like Gaetano Veloso under the same banner as singer Jimmy Scott and the Pan African Orchestra. Artists from David Byrne's Luaka Bop label will also be appearing as part of the festival..... At club level, THE BORDERLINE in central London has a busy schedule, with a high proportion of sell-out shows. The recent selection of country artists who have played at the club have all sold out. Since the performance by Martina McBride in May, the club has been trying to feature country music on a regular basis. A recent expansion into the Dublin club circuit allows the Borderline to offer two cities to visiting U.S. acts. The Cactus Brothers are the first act to take advantage of the Dublin-London booking..... The developing country

Hangin' Outside The Ladies Room

The Eagles July 3rd concert at Texas Stadium in Dallas broke the venue's record by extracting $3,526,000 from more than 53,000 fans. Stadium manager Bruce Hardy is seen presenting commemorative jerseys to (L-R) Eagles' mentor Irving Azoff; self-described Eagles' watchdog Terry Bassett, who co-promoted the show with 462; Hardy; and attorney Peter Lopez of Lopez & Gonzalez.

The Comic Cola Caper

The cola wars didn't stop actor-comedian Paul Rodriguez from giving a Pepsi-sponsored speech for 1,000 middle school students in Fort Worth. The talk occurred despite the fact that a local Pepsi distributor initially pulled the plug because the school's vending machines sold only Coca-Cola and not "The Right One." Rodriguez's speech encouraged the predominately Hispanic students at J.P. Elder Middle School to resist involvement with gangs and drugs. During the half-hour talk, Rodriguez dropped to his knees and apologized to the students for the confusion surrounding his appearance.

The Real Woodstock Moves Forward

Tickets for Woodstock '94 may not sell out but the plans for the commemorative concert, designed for the Twentysomething generation, are proceeding at a rapid pace. In addition to the ever expanding line-up of main stage performers, the 150,000+ who have already purchased tickets to the August 12-14 festival will get to witness spoken word performances, world music presented by W.O.M.A.D., two all-night raves, a Sunday morning gospel and all star jam sessions. The rules, regulations and security list for Woodstock '94 seem to be expanding as rapidly as the event itself. One of the interesting (albeit expected) aspects of the celebration of the biggest peaceful gathering of all time is the security force — 1,000 security guards and a "secured area" where unruly types can be held until police arrive. For those planning to commemorate Woodstock by showing up without a ticket, organizers have set up a series of 32 checkpoints surrounding the area. Concert-goers are discouraged from bringing their own food and encouraged to spend their cash at one of the hundreds of food vendors at the site. If carrying camping equipment is a hassle, there will be tents etc. for sale inside the gates. Concert-goers will be assigned a time to arrive but the departure on Sunday night will be a free for all. Children won't be banned but their presence is highly discouraged. And leave your guns, knives, and hatchets in the car because this is Woodstock after all. One important restriction, however, has been relaxed. Tickets can now be bought in pairs with one parking pass rather than the previously required block of four. Those yearning for the experience, '90s style, can visit one of the millions of homes wired for pay-per-view TV and watch the concert in the comfort of one's own home for $50. The concert is expected to break the PPV concert record held by "The Judds' Farewell," which was seen in about 250,000 homes. The consumer press has made a big deal about the fact that the show has not (and probably won't) sell out. But with gross ticket sales of more than $20 million and multiple major revenue streams yet to be tapped, the show may not need to sell 250,000 tickets to be a financial success — something, it should be remembered, the first Woodstock was not.

No Marley Mon

The Bob Marley Foundation was granted a restraining order against the organizers of the August 9-13 Reggae Sunfest '94 show in Montego Bay, Jamaica. The Supreme Court in Kingston ruled July 27th that Sunfest's promoters could not call the site of their 80-act event the Bob Marley Center. The foundation said it had not granted permission for the use of Marley's name and that the site being used was unsuitable for a reggae festival.

Short Items Of Note

While Warren Zevon was lifting his audience to new heights with a performance at Juanita's nightclub in Little Rock on July 27th, thieves were lifting equipment from his RV. The robbers got away with a 12-string guitar, two cameras, lenses, a television and a VCR — about $4,300 worth of equipment.... Robert Plant and Jimmy Page will definitely get together on stages in London, Wales and Morocco to tape an MTV special with the working title "Unledded." The former Led Zeppelin mates will perform new arrangements of classic Zep songs as well as newly written material. The MTV special, featuring both electric and acoustic instruments, is scheduled to air in October.... Police were nervous after a wild adult puma evaded capture near the site of two upcoming Pink Floyd concerts 20 miles north of Paris late last month. The wilder-kitty was spotted three times in the Chantilly forest but quickly disappeared into the woods. Police

It's the company's second Emmy. In 1991, Vari-Lite was honored for its Series 200 automated lighting system. The 1994 honor is for the Vari-Lite VL5 wash luminaire.

Atlanta Showers Indigo Girls With Green

Kingdome Repairs Continue

The Kingdome in Seattle has completed the removal of all 40,000 of its 26-pound wood fiber ceiling tiles nine days ahead of schedule but not without some problems. While removing the tiles, some of them fell and broke seats in the stadium. Workers covered the seats with plywood but the falling tiles continued to damage some seats. The cost of the repair job for the ceiling is estimated at $5 million, not counting the lost revenue from Mariners' and Seahawks' games which were moved to other venues. King County officials were reportedly warned that the ceiling tiles might be loosened by water leaks apparently created when the roof was resurfaced. Much of the tile's tar paper backing is still stuck to the roof and must be removed. Workers also discovered some chipped concrete and exposed rebar in the roof and engineers were called in to evaluate whether that effects the venue's structural integrity. New sound insulation must also be installed before the stadium can be effectively reopened.

Battle Of The Survivors

Two founding members of Survivor asked for a preliminary injunction July 28th to prevent singer Jimi Jamison from using the band name when he performs alone. James Peterik and Frank Sullivan, who founded the band in 1977, said Jamison does not have permission to use the name. The case was filed in federal court in Milwaukee where Jamison performed at the Waukesha County Fair as Survivor in 1993. Jamison's attorneys argued that the name was never copyrighted.

Chippendale's Founder Cops To Murder

Somen "Steve" Banerjee, founder of the Chippendale's touring male exotic dance review, pleaded guilty in federal court July 29th to arranging the murder of a television producer. He also pled guilty to a racketeering charge which grew out of an attempted arson at a Southern California restaurant. Banerjee, who at the height of his success owned male strip clubs in L.A., New York, Dallas and Denver, admitted he was behind the 1987 murder of Nick Denoia, an Emmy Award-winning television producer who was also once a choreographer for Chippendale's touring dance troupe. Denoia was shot in the face at his midtown Manhattan office by an unidentified assailant that was hired by Banerjee and another man for an undisclosed sum, according to the murder for hire indictment. Banerjee also admitted to orchestrating the 1984 attempted burning of a Red Onion Restaurant and Bar in Marina del Rey. Under the term's of Banerjee's guilty plea, he will be sentenced to 26 years in prison and he must forfeit his interest in the Chippendale's review.

They Didn't Do It For The Money

It's official — the King of Pop has indeed married the King's daughter. Lisa Marie Presley-Jackson, 26, confirmed rumors August 1st that she and Michael Jackson wed about three months ago in the Dominican Republic. Amid nasty "how come?" rumors, MJ and Lisa Marie claim they are in love like any other newlywed couple and they plan to raise a family. But speculation still flourishes with talks focusing on MJ's unusual behavior and the couple's extreme wealth. MJ's economic worth is at least $100 million, while Lisa Marie's inheritance from the Elvis estate is also more than $100 million and growing. Priscilla Presley said she supports her daughter's marriage to MJ but there has been no comment from the Jackson family camp. The couple is living in a duplex at Trump Towers in New York. And on the business side of things, MJ will shoot a video in Budapest this month. In the video, MJ "saves" Eastern Europe from the grip of Soviet oppression, a Hungarian newspaper reported. Original plans had MJ staying in the states to shoot the video against a blue screen but he decided to join the crew in Hungary instead. It is unclear whether Lisa Marie will join her new hubby or remain in the U.S. with her two children from a previous marriage. MJ has a new album due later this year and he may tour to support it.

Whatever Happened To....

A smiley faced Bob Seger stopped by Capitol's studios in Hollywood recently to finish up two new tracks that will appear on his greatest hits record due for release this fall. Lately, Seger has been spending more time on jury duty in Detroit than in the music biz but that all may be about to change. (L-R) Capitol's prexy Gary Gersh, Seger, and Capitol's John Fagot and Bruce Kirkland.

Snoopin' Around The Court House

Snoop Doggy Dogg and two co-defendants pleaded innocent to additional charges which stem from the drive-by shooting of Philip Woldemariam last summer. Snoop Dogg, aka, Calvin Broadus, appeared in Superior Court in Los Angeles July 29th to face a new indictment that adds conspiracy to commit assault with a firearm and accessory after the fact to the murder charge Snoop already faces. The new charges could add three years to the 25-years-to-life sentence the three defendants face if convicted of murder. Snoop Dogg is free on $1 million bail and a pretrial hearing has been set for August 29th. In addition to facing criminal charges, Snoop also faces a multimillion dollar civil suit that was filed by the murder victim's family. Also named in the wrongful death suit were Interscope Records, Time Warner Inc. and Warner Music Group. During previous court appearances, all three defendants had denied committing murder. They contend the shooting was self-defense because the victim was stalking the rapper and had threatened him twice. And in an unrelated case, an actor sued at least three of Snoop Dogg's backup singers, claiming they attacked and robbed him on a music video set. In the Superior Court lawsuit filed July 27th, Michael Todd Jones claims four members of Snoop's "Dogg Pound" attacked him March 12th in a commissary trailer. Jones said the backup singers asked him if he was a member of the "Dogg Pound" and when he said he wasn't, the defendants allegedly began to beat him. The suit also claims the singers stole Jones' watch and wallet containing $300. Jones is seeking unspecified damages from the defendants and Underdog Films, which was also named in the suit.

ACOG Passes On Cobb

The Atlanta Committee for the Olympic Games pulled the 1996 volleyball competition out of suburban Cobb County because of the public outcry over an anti-gay resolution passed last summer by local officials. Gay activists and some athletes, including diver Greg Louganis, had been urging ACOG to switch venues for months. The preliminary volleyball rounds will now be held at the University of Georgia in Athens.

Resolving A Taxing Situation

After 14 years of investigations, threats and negotiations, Willie Nelson is finally square with the IRS. Nelson ended up paying the taxman $16.7 million. That's down from a bill that had reached $32 million. The IRS auctioned some of his properties to help pay the debt and Nelson raised money through an album he made called Who'll Be My Memories: The IRS Tapes... And thanks to the IRS, Jerry Lee Lewis is inviting fans over to his house. The killer is opening his Nesbit, Miss., home to tours to pay off the $560,000 he owes Uncle Sam. But don't expect an open invitation. The house will only be open for tours half the week since Lewis and his family actually live there.

Early Rockers Lose Round In Legal Skirmish

A U.S. District Court Judge in Atlanta August 2nd ordered the dismissal of key portions of a lawsuit against AFTRA and most of the nation's major record companies. The suit, filed last year, charges that the defendants cheated some early rock 'n' roll stars out of millions of dollars due to them for pensions and insurance. The plaintiffs include members of the Drifters and Coasters, Sam Moore, Curtis Mayfield, Lester Chambers and Felix Cavaliere. Judge Clarence Cooper said the plaintiffs waited too long to raise the allegations and they failed to try and resolve their grievances out of court. However, racketeering charges against the record companies have been allowed to proceed though Cooper did not rule on the merit of those charges.

 music scene in the U.K. also will get a boost at least in the London area, with the arrival of a new radio station, COUNTRY 1035, to be launched September 1st..... Dashing hopes of his return to the U.K., PRINCE has now scrapped his tentative plans for a U.K. and European tour this year. Any plans for live shows have been postponed until 1995.

Australian News Report

(Sydney) GARTH BROOKS has added a second show in Sydney. The August 31st date at the Sydney Entertainment Centre will bring his Oz tour schedule total to 10 shows. He's also playing one show in Auckland, New Zealand on his swing Downunder..... The ROLLING STONES new Voodoo Lounge release debuted at the top of the album charts here. It took the Stones release to finally unseat MARIAH CAREY who had held the top spot for an amazing 44 weeks. Garth Brooks is holding down the chart's third position..... After no live performances for some time, rumours are strengthening that R.E.M. will return to the stage with a concert tour of Australia in late January or early February. Frontier Touring Company are tipped as the promoters..... Midnight Oil lead singer PETER GARRETT recently announced that he has resigned from the board of Greenpeace International. Garrett, who had been a board member since January 1993, has cited work commitments as his reason for resigning. Greenpeace Australia issued part of Garrett's letter of resignation which said that he would remain committed to "both the philosophy and the campaigns of Greenpeace."..... There's hardly a major Australian music industry figure not speaking at a new NATIONAL ENTERTAINMENT INDUSTRY CONFERENCE which is being held in Sydney on September 3-4. The managing directors of virtually every major Australian record label (including Mushroom's MICHAEL GUDINSKI who also doubles as one of the country's leading concert promoters) will be in attendance. A keynote address will be given by the Honourable Michael Lee, who is Australia's Federal Minister for Arts & Communications. Among the international panelists will be POLLSTAR editor Gary Bongiovanni. For details contact IMMEDIA! at (61 2) 2126677 or fax (61 2) 2115938..... The DIVINYLS are undoubtedly mighty pleased at having cut a deal with Aaron Spelling to have their song "I'm Jealous" used on MELROSE PLACE and as the lead track and single on the forthcoming Melrose Place soundtrack album. It's expected that the song will be played twice on Melrose Place and once each on Beverly Hills 90210 and Models Inc. The previous 90210 soundtrack sold 1.3 million copies and a Melrose Place album is expected to have sales exceeding 2 million..... Among the current or upcoming Australian tours are: Pavement (now in mid-tour), Bad Brains (August), Beck, plus Jon Spencer Blues Explosion (August), Lydia Lunch (September), Ted Hawkins (August/September), Sepultura (September), Helmet plus Beastie Boys (October), and Pantera (November)..... PEARL JAM is rumored to be planning a tour here in December. Other artists being mentioned for upcoming tours in the local music press are: Crash Test Dummies (August/September), Ride/The Charlatans (September), Melissa Etheridge (September), Dr. Alban (September), Red Hot Chili Peppers (November/December), Primal Scream (January), and Violent Femmes (January).
