Reynolds and Lennox to head up UMG Canada

The new worldwide structure of the Universal Music Group (UMG), encompassing the combined Universal and PolyGram music companies was announced (Dec. 10/98) by Doug Morris, who is Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of the new company.

In making the announcement, Morris pointed out that the new music group, which immediately became the market leader in every region of the world, "will embody the best of both Universal and PolyGram executives, artist rosters and business practices." He continues with "The integration of these two companies presents a rare opportunity to create an organization that is well positioned for profitable growth. UMG will be a lean, flexible organization that will benefit from economies of scale while nurturing a strong local entrepreneurial spirit in its management team around the world."

The important news for Canada is that Universal Music Group (Canada) will be headed by Ross Reynolds as Chairman and Randy Lennox as President.

Also of particular interest is the role of John

Reid, outgoing Chairman of the Canadian operation of PolyGram, who has been appointed President of the merged Island and Mercury labels based in New York. The label group is headed by Jim Caparro as Chairman.

Morris also revealed that his worldwide executive team will comprise Bruce Hack as Vice Chairman; Zach Horowitz as President and Chief Operating Officer; and Jorgen Larsen, who has assumed the post of Executive Officer of Universal Music International.

A west coast group of labels, located in Los Angeles, will comprise Interscope, Geffen and A&M labels and will be run by Co-Chairmen Jimmy Iovine and Ted Field and Tom Whalley as President. It's expected that UMG will purchase the rest of the Interscope label it doesn't presently own.

MCA Records Nashville will continue to be headed by Bruce Hinton as Chairman and Tony Brown as President.

Jay Boberg will continue to head up the Los Angeles-based MCA Records as President.

Universal Music & Video Distribution will remain headquartered in Los Angeles with Henry Droz as President and with Jim Urie and Craig Kornblau as Co-Executive Vice-Presidents and General Managers. It was also revealed that the merging of these two companies will place UMVD as "the leading single supplier of home entertainment product in the country."

It's been a long haul for both Reynolds and Lennox and they've managed to keep their cool in the face of tremendous pressure from within the industry and particularly from the media.

With the above announcement from Morris, Reynolds and Lennox reveal they are very much looking forward to taking the process to the next level.

Regarding their Canadian roster and the Canadian independents they distribute, Reynolds explains, "our overall philosophy is that we will continue to be very supportive and try to further develop the roster. And we have some strong relationships with the independents and we look forward to continuing the relationship there."

Obviously the integration of two very successful companies, which is unprecedented, and the added marketshare that goes with it, will be demanding on Reynolds and Lennox and their mid-management team which might require a timetable that could conceivably extend into the new year.

"The added marketshare is extremely exciting," says Lennox, "But I think that under the category of 'attitude is everything', and although it's going to be a 30 plus share, one thing we're adamant about is that we have the marketing and A&R energies of our current marketshare, which is half of that. We want to be the best record company in the country and the fact that we may in fact be the biggest, is a little less important."

Reynolds adds, "We want to be hungry, artist friendly and people friendly and we want to be supportive of retail."

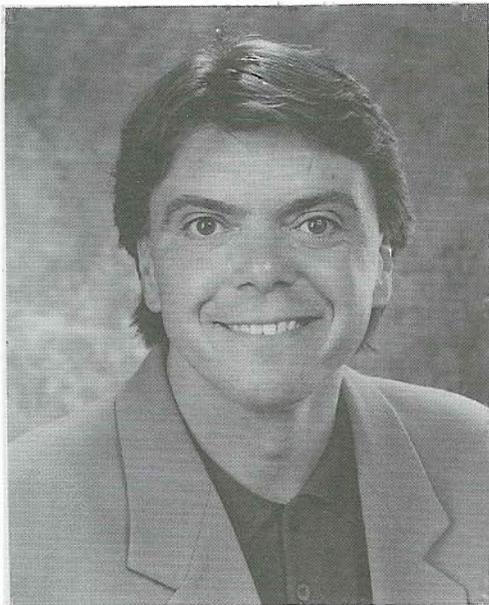

Reynolds also points out that the integration planning process has moved ahead smoothly. "There are eight teams made up of representatives from both organizations that are looking at various functional areas and trying to map out the best way and the best time frame to integrate the two companies. So, it's already moved down to various levels and will continue to do so because it is a massive undertaking and will require input from a significant number of people from both organizations."

Integration of distribution will also be a challenge and one that is expected to also continue into the new year.

Moving ahead and addressing the integration process properly is a priority, says Reynolds. "We want to move as quickly as possible and yet we want to do it right. So we're trying to balance those two."

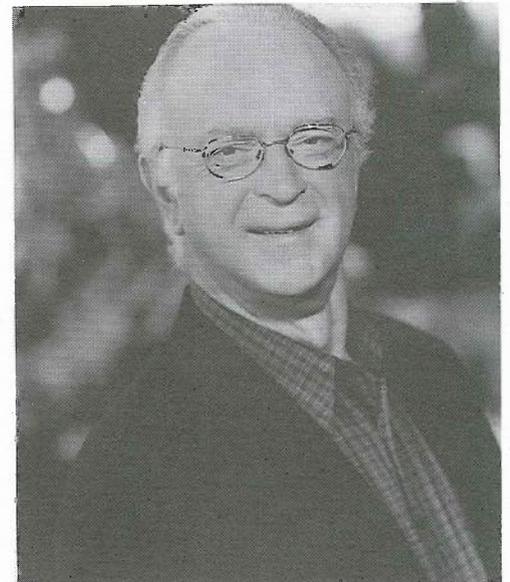

There are obviously a lot of questions that can't be addressed at this time, being as the deal was only closed today (Dec. 10), but as Reynolds stresses. "We want to make sure the process is as fair and open as possible."

Universal Music Group is a unit of The Seagram Company Ltd., a global entertainment and spirits and wine company.

WALT SAYS . . . !

with Elvira Caprese

Nice going Mike!!! How 'cum Canada's most popular comedian, when he's doing stand-up, that is, screwed up the names of the two most powerful guys in the industry? GN became GL and RL became RN . . . and they were both in the same room. Maybe it was by design? You know Bullard. And while we're at it, did you notice the pic on the front cover of last week's RPM of the gathering of the Warner clan and Colin James and his band. Who's the only guy not looking at the camera and worse still, looks like he's about to yawn? (EC: Maybe he's pissed off he didn't get an award!!)

By the way!!! Remember this? "Mike Bullard is something else. After witnessing his instant wit and great knowledge of the business, I think he would be perfect to host the Juno Awards next year." That was in this column dated March 17, 1997. We've been plumping for Bullard to host the Juno awards ever since. He didn't get the nod last year, but guess what? Yeah! He's the host for the one coming up in March. (EC: Don't give me that crap about the power of the mighty pen, again!!!)

Another comedian??? JR was obviously in good form at that same function with Bullard (EC: Why shouldn't he be . . . he's got a job!!!) He followed a video showing RC and a couple of people doing something or other, and quipped, "Well, there's living proof RC does exist!" And it got a laugh, even from RC's people who felt safe because true to his reputation . . . he wasn't there. (EC: Presence, nor personality, aren't necessary when you have a black BLACK bottom line!!!)

It's No. 1 for Centro!!! Centro, which happens to be a popular upscale Toronto restaurant, is obviously highly thought of by a lot of people. The readers of En Route magazine, and there must be a few million of them considering the magazine is tucked into the seat pockets of every seat on Air Canada and regional partner aircraft, have voted Centro as the No. 1 restaurant in Canada. A nice four-colour shot of the restaurant's dining room, sans customers, is included in the 1998 Dining Guide which was written and edited by food critic Sarah Waxman. It would have made for a more interesting shot if the seats had been filled with satisfied diners. Anyway, considering who Centro beat out, and we won't name them, owner/manager Tony Longo and owner/chef Marc Thuet were beaming from kitchen to vestibule when En Route's president Richard Staunton made the presentation of the award. (EC: From kitchen to vestibule???)

Country music in Canada??? It seems we have a problem of our own up here regarding country music and artists. It's tough getting enough submissions to come up with a credible looking nominee list for the three country Juno awards. The fault doesn't lie with the Juno people however and it's interesting to see what the CCMA's executive director Sheila Hamilton has to say, "Needless to say, the lack of support for the Junos by the country community, makes it very difficult indeed to make the case that country should even be a part of what is, after all, the most prestigious awards show that covers the entire music spectrum, and one with huge promotional opportunities and a massive television audience." Well said Sheila! She also suggests there's one school of thought that claims country has its own awards show, so why bother with the Junos? "Let's not bury our heads in the sand," says Hamilton. Yes indeed! One hand feeds the other, or something like that. (EC: Yes indeed . . . something like that. Maybe it washes the other!!!)

Me too! Me too!!! Look who made that list of power people in that other RAG! Insightful and affluent he may be, but breaking power? (EC: Breaking wind, maybe!!!) Now who do I have to talk to so my name won't be on any list that I publish! On the other hand, give the guy some credit!!! (EC: I hear . . . many have!!!) I never miss his rambling!

Gone but not forgotten!!! Interesting news out of Hollywood this week. Michael Ovitz, the $20 million "angel of . . ." for Livent, is still the major shareholder of Artist Manager Group (AMG) which he founded away back when, and he's still calling the shots. He's playing it close to the vest however, not wanting the outside to know what's going on which might confuse what's going on up here. (EC: Hey! Only a genius knows how to lose money to make money!!!)

The cream rises!!! While the big L Liberal leaning Toronto Star tried frantically to take over the little paper that grew, the Star came off like a bully, but worse, the Sun allowed too much space trying to fight the monster. Standing on the sidelines, the Globe content has improved so much their "read up" campaign must be working. And no longer lurking on the sidelines is the National Post. Boy, have they got it together. Their writers, a few they took from the Sun, have obviously been hustling their buns, although Christie Blatchford was much better when she was controlled at the Sun, I mean spacewise. In the December 5th edition of the National Post, Theresa Tedesco filed one of the best pieces yet on the crumbling of Livent, under the heading "Livent's playhouse of cards." She's grabbed all the players by the short ones, and opens the door to even more speculation. This whole mess could go on for months. (EC: I'm impressed by who Tedesco does have by the short ones!!!)

Welcome Quebecor??? My how things do change. Wasn't it about three years ago when Quebecor was a contender for the Sun? And didn't the emotions run as high against that proposed takeover as they did for the Star's pitch? Getting into bed with Quebecor will at least guarantee that the Sun will continue. But we might see a backing off of separatist-bashing. It's interesting how the founders of the little paper that grew have taken lesser roles, one even being squeezed out, and how the lawyers and ex-politicians have taken over. But then again, isn't that what happens to most founders and/or creators? (EC: I guess you know what you're talking about!!!)

The real work now begins!!! Well, the other shoe has dropped, kinda, and we know who the executive survivors are, and there weren't any surprises. Now comes the tough job of who goes and who stays. But let's not be too depressing. I'll lay odds that 85 per cent, maybe even 90 per cent of those who find themselves loose with a nice severance package will find their way back into the industry within four to six months. (EC: Nice positive message!!!)

Do you believe it??? There I was sitting in the Elgin Theatre amidst hundreds of screaming and roaming kids and their parents, waiting for the curtain to go up on Aladdin. It did. The kids still roamed and screamed, particularly at the bad guy on stage and cheered and joined in singing something about a wiggly worm with Mr. Dressup, yes Ernie Coombs, who was as fit as a fiddle, and the star of the show Tyley Ross, who, as you probably guessed, was Aladdin, and a very, pardon the pun, polished Aladdin. It's the kind of show however, that does grow on you and I began to sing the wiggly worm song, and even wiggled my finger just like all the other kids. A wonderful cast, and a comfortable theatre, I might add, and what's more important, a delightful take on the time-worn pantomime or fairy story as the kids probably refer to it. The audience participation adds to the entertainment value of the show which runs through to mid-January. (EC: We had fun, didn't we???)

That's another wrap!!! As we fade into yet another year, 35 to be exact, and after a tumultuous one, it's time to wish everyone a Merry, very Merry Christmas and a Happy, very Happy New Year, particularly to all "the boys and girls", to use a JR euphuism, at PolyGram. (EC: We are the champions, to use a Freddie Mercury euphuism!!!)

Gross/Keeley release boosts Special Olympics

Santa Drives A Pickup, a CD single featuring the vocals of Due South's Paul Gross and David Keeley, is now at radio in time for the Christmas season where it is picking up significant spins.

Written by Gross, Keeley, Jay Semko and Dean McDermott, the single was recorded in Nashville and qualifies as three-parts Cancon (MAL). The track was recorded for Holiday Heroes, a special Christmas CD produced by Jack Lenz and Gilles Godard, created to raise funds and awareness for Canadian Special Olympics. Gross and Keeley donated the track to the project.

A video of the single is also available. "We were obviously ecstatic when they donated the song," says Glenn MacDonell, executive director of the Ontario Special Olympics, "but to go through the tremendous expense of actually bringing over 50 professionals on set to shoot this fabulous video is truly unbelievable." MacDonell was referring to the "far reaching benevolence and time" that Lenz and his wife Debrah donated to both the single and video.

Holiday Heroes, which was released Oct. 27, includes a previously unreleased track of Pretty Paper by Roy Orbison along with songs by Kevin Bacon, Michelle Wright, Alan Jackson, Brooks & Dunn, Stef Carse, Donna Summer and Rita MacNeil. The album has already sold more than 30,000 copies.

"It's hard to explain sometimes the strong urge you get to really support a cause," says Lenz, "I just knew that David and Paul would be excited about helping and the truth is, the more we discovered about the tremendous effects Special Olympics have in the development and building of self esteem and self confidence for these athletes, the more we wanted to do. Our hope is that the video and single will truly create a heightened awareness and subsequent sales of Holiday Heroes."

For more information call Lenz Entertainment at 416-966-6665.

shop industries as well as traditional record retailers.

Holborne also pioneered the "Interactive" sales kiosks that are now common place throughout the world, and their signature Tapestries series makes Holborne the merchandiser of choice.

Besides the Newmarket base, Holborne's Canadian operation also includes offices in Calgary. Internationally there are sales offices and warehouses in Sydney for Australia-Asia, Farnham, England for Europe, and Buffalo for the US.

ON-STAGE

Fame On Stage

by Bill Watt
of Bill Watt's World

First, there was the motion picture, then the television series. Now, finally and properly, Fame has made it to the legitimate stage in a spanking world premiere at Toronto's Royal Alexandra Theatre. After T.O., it's scheduled for a North American tour before arriving in New York City.

Extensive touring and probable concomitant rewriting and tightening might make it a Big Apple success, but we have reservations . . . in the mind and not, as yet, for the New York engagement.

It's a show for young people about young people, the last class to graduate from the old New York High School of Performing Arts. It's a high energy spin in the manner of today's youth. Which is to say, the dancing is rather more athletic than balletic; the singing confuses volume with passion and much of the dialogue is of the gutter.

It's a pity really because the cast is gifted musically, vocally and terpsichoreally. It does well with mostly less than memorable songs, poorly staged tableaux and over the top direction.

Young people in the opening night audience hugely enjoyed it. We doubt though, that top dollar and long yen New York theatregoers will warm to Fame, at least in its present incarnation.

But then, Brooks Atkinson didn't like or appreciate Oklahoma when he first saw it.

This just in: in view of the response to the current sold-out run of Fame, David and Ed Mirvish are bringing the musical back to Toronto for two weeks in August. Tickets for this run are now on sale. As part of the its 40-city North American tour, the musical will play Ottawa's National Arts Centre in January and Montreal's Place des Arts in April.

New Releases

as good as it gets outside a concert venue. Peabo Bryson, Melissa Manchester, Jeffrey Osborne, Oleta Adams, Roberta Flack, Sheena Easton and Philip Bailey sing, in solo or duets, songs associated with The Most Wonderful Time of the Year which just happens to be the first selection, sung with brio by Peabo Bryson. The twelve tracks are varying lengths, thus allowing each artist to get the most out of them. The last, we suggest is the one that should receive the most airplay though, given the overstated political correctness of most programmers, it's unlikely. That's The Lord's Prayer sung with reverence and feeling by Sheena Easton. An excellent album, soul or otherwise. -BW wondrously melded western world and other musicians together with the Vancouver Chamber Choir, directed by Jon Washburn in presenting a collection of Yuletide selections that glorify the occasion as well as one's auditory senses. The orchestrations are novel though not arcane and the choir is mindful of the Robert Shaw Chorale in its majesty. We can write nothing more except, listen, and enjoy -BW

NOËL - Christmas
Early Canadian Christmas Music With the Elmer Iseler Singers
 Marquis Classics-77471-81227-F

Perfect programming for the Christmas season. This is the real thing, traditional religious music of Christmas past. Includes Canada's first Christmas song, the famous Huron Christmas Carol with melody and lyrics by the Jesuit missionary Jean de Brébeuf. This is also the last complete recording of Elmer Iseler and is dedicated to his memory. Also of importance is that this album is "an authoritative collection," selected by the Canadian Musical Heritage Society. Featured with the world-renowned Elmer Iseler Singers are tenor Michael Schade and mezzo-soprano Norine Burgess. Liner notes are in both English and French. Features organist Mireille Lagacé and Ruth Watson Henderson on the piano, harmonium and organ. -WG

Caruso, Lanza, Peerce and McCormack. The others are Domingo, Hadley, Heppner, Pavarotti and Seiffert. Of the late artists only Jan Peerce is heard in stereo. The others are heard in mono and one is grateful. Mono can be, and has been, transferred into stereo but the results aren't always satisfactory. Far better to leave them as simply restored and still enjoyable. John McCormack, for example, though popular, was essentially a light "Irish" tenor and an "electronically enhanced" recording of the Ave Maria from Cavalleria Rusticana could not possibly capture the purity of his sustained final note. And, what a delight once again to hear Fritz Kreisler and Vincent O'Brien on violin and piano in sublime and natural accompaniment. Technical sentiments aside however, for us the finest of the 15 tracks is that of Placido Domingo singing Panis Angelicus with the Vienna Symphony (Helmuth Froschauer, conducting) and the Vienna Choir Boys. Yes, we weep listening to it, every time. -BW

ROB McCONNELL & THE BOSS BRASS - Seasonal
Big Band Christmas
 Concord Jazz-4844-4844 (St. Clair Ent.)
 Some will consider this as seasonal music played more or less in seasonal style. Others might think the beloved Sally Ann have stumbled into the flesh pots of secularism. Either way, enjoy. -BW

THE BOSTON POPS - Seasonal
Holiday Pops
 RCA Victor-09026-63252-N

There are many Pops orchestras in North America, but none approaches the Boston Pops with its lush arrangements, "feel" for popular favourites and how to present them.

Current conductor Keith Lockhart puts it through its musical paces in 13 Yuletide selections ably complemented by the Tanglewood Festival Chorus directed by John Oliver. We suggest that Good Swing Wenceslas, arranged by Sammy Nestico, could become the next holiday classic. It grooves but with respect. Delicious! -BW

ETTA JAMES - Christmas Jazz
12 Songs of Christmas
 Private Music-01005-821662-N

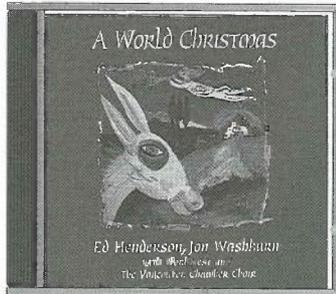

One of the weekly glossies south of the 49th suggests that Ms. James is an under rated R&B singer. Well, allow us to become again the little boy looking at an emperor's supposed new clothes and state that she is rather much over rated; that she is a singer who barely lands on key but who compensates with seeming true emotion. Here, she turns her talent to jazz readings of Christmas "standards" and, in the main, does well with them although some listeners might consider her approach disrespectful. What ever. This reviewer knows only that he recommends the album if for no other reason than that she has actually made The Little Drummer Boy enjoyable. It's an odious song that we usually avoid like the plague but, sung by her with a decided Swing beat it becomes positively pleasurable. Anyone who can do that is aces with us. -BW

WORLDFFEST! - Seasonal
ED HENDERSON - VANCOUVER CHAMBER CHOIR/JON WASHBURN
A World Christmas
 Miracle Records-98202

Quite the most refreshing Christmas album to be heard this year, or any other for that matter. We borrow respectfully from the liner notes to advise that this is a cultural feat of 16 carols and songs from China, England, Liberia, Puerto Rico, Argentina, Germany, France, Wales, Costa Rica, the U.S., the Far East, Spain Czechoslovakia and Argentina. Vancouver-based Ed Henderson has

PATRICIA JOHNSTON - Light Classics
KIMBERLY SHIPPEY - On Wings Of Song
Great Canadian Flute and Harp Company-GCFH03

We first heard this during the Yuletide and immediately thought of "angels bending near the earth to touch their harps" -- and flutes -- of gold. "M'selles, Johnston and Shippey have collaborated again on a superb collection of songs to soothe the mind and soul. The title song sets the mood and all the others follow. It's impossible to choose a single favourite but we are much taken by the Chopin nocturne and by his Variations on a Theme by Rossini, Enchantingly simple and simply enchanting... as is the entire album. -BW

JOHN GRACIE - Christmas
Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas
 Great-Sea-3055 (Atlantica)

What a treasure, and sure to be a perennial favourite. Includes 12 of the more popular holiday songs, including the title track, Winter Wonderland, Silver Bells, White Christmas, O Holy Night, Away In A Manger, plus a Children's Christmas Medley of Rudolf The Red-Nosed Reindeer, Frosty The Snowman and Jingle Bells. The production is crisp and pristine with Gracie's vocal warmth intoning the necessary ingredients to make each track memorable. An unusual acoustic sound featuring nylon-string guitarist Ken Enman, and some of the best pickers in the east: a little fiddle and mandolin by Gordon Stobbe, cellist Shimon Walt, Ross Billard on keys, trumpeter Mike Cowie, Celtic harpist Cheryl Reid, bassist Dave Isner, percussionist James Faraday and Kevin Evans on rhythm guitar. Produced by Gracie at SoundMarket Studios in Halifax. Mastered by Don Chapman at DC Productions. -WG

WOMEN & SONGS 2
 Pop
 Various artists
 WEA-37040-P

Warner Music's Director of Special Projects Allan Fletcher has done it again. Following on the success, almost to the day, of last year's release of Women & Songs, this package should do as well, perhaps better. The lineup of artists represented here is pretty impressive, some new, but most established: Loreena McKennitt (The Mummers' Dance), Chantal Kreviazuk (Surrounded), Billie Myers (Kiss The Rain), Jewel (Who Will Save Your Soul), Amanda Marshall (Birmingham), Sarah McLachlan (Unchained Melody) k.d.lang (If I Were You). Also of particular note is You And I, the track from Quebec artist Catherine Durand, and the introductory track of I Know by Toronto artist Sarah Slean. A pretty good follow-up to the first album which sold more than 300,000 copies, the biggest selling compilation of female recordings in Canadian history. Lots of in-store play goodies, and radio friendly tracks. Front-racking would attract as well. -WG
