Welcome to this sample issue of ANTIQUE RADIO CLASSIFIED. The purpose of this issue is to give you a chance to see what future issues of this publication will look like. As the first formal issue is planned for September 1984, there will be enough time for any changes that may have to be made from suggestions provided by yourself and other collectors. I openly invite any comments or suggestions you may have concerning the layout or content of ANTIQUE RADIO CLASSIFIED, along with your ideas of what else you would like to see in this new publication.

This publication is being started because of the need for a means in which the collector can actively buy, sell or trade radio related items on a regular basis to a large readership of other collectors with the same interest. The radio collecting hobby has grown to the point where there are an estimated five thousand people involved in some aspect of the radio hobby. As in other hobbies, there is always a need for a publication that provides a means of communication for the collectors in the hobby.

It is the goal of ANTIQUE RADIO CLASSIFIED to become the standard publication by which the collector can buy, sell or trade radio related items on a large national basis. Because it will be published once a month/12 times yearly, there will be no long delays of waiting every three months for ads to appear as in the quarterly publications now available. As this will be a national publication, there will be more exposure to collectors all over the country, then some of the more highly regional publications.

This publication will deal mainly with the buying and selling aspect of the hobby thru the means of published classified advertisements provided by the collectors. This classified ad format should enable the collector to accomplish his goals in the way of buying and selling, because of the large national readership. It is a known fact that many collectors subscribe to some of the other publications mainly for the classified ad sections they may have. Why not have a strictly classified ad publication such as ANTIQUE RADIO CLASSIFIED and let the other publications concentrate on the other aspects of the hobby which they provide.

This publication needs your support now in the way of a paid subscription. For your subscription you will receive 12 monthly issues of ANTIQUE RADIO CLASSIFIED, plus a free 20 word classified ad in each issue. Additional words over the limit are 10 cents per word and display ads are also available. For all the benefits you will get out of this publication, the $1.25 cost per issue is a small price to pay. Again I must stress the need for support from everyone if this publication is to be a success. Those people with a "wait and see" attitude are not beneficial to the publications' success, because it is now during the growing period of the publication that the support is needed. If you like the idea of this new publication, then please let us hear from you soon. As September is rapidly approaching, we need your subscriptions now, along with your classified ads for up coming issues.

Yours truly,

Gary B. Schneider
Gary B. Schneider

P.S. Please keep in mind that this is a sample issue, and that the classified ads shown in this issue are a random compilation of collectors "for sale and wanted" ads. Because some of the ads are a month or more old, you should be aware of this when answering the ads.

ANTIQUE RADIO CLASSIFIED

Antique Radio Classified is a new publication for those people who are involved in one of the fastest growing hobbies - collecting old radios and electrical apparatus. This encompasses collecting interests such as old radios, transmitters, early wireless equipment, telegraphy, telephone, television, speakers, audio equipment, test equipment, vacuum tubes, magazines, literature, and many other categories.

It is the intent of this publication to provide a means of communications within the hobby on a national basis. The growth and interest in any hobby is only perpetuated when the common interest of each collector is shared by all. It is this interest that all collectors face - namely the acquisition of new items for their collections, along with the dispersal of items not needed. In simple terms this means to buy, sell or trade items.

It is in this aspect that this publication is being published. A survey was given to many collectors nationally, and the results showed that they felt a publication of this type was needed. This publication will be mainly a classified ad type of format where collectors may advertise their wants and items for sale, and be able to reach a large readership. This large unified readership of collectors will permit the individual collector to accomplish their goals. This publication will not attempt to cover other aspects of the hobby, as there are many fine club bulletins and periodicals now available that fulfill this need.

It is envisioned that subscriptions will number between one and two thousand people. This is an immense undertaking in the way of labor and cost. The printing and postage costs in any publication are extremely high along with many hidden costs. It is this problem that must be faced by the subscriber. A trade off between a quality publication and a reasonable subscription fee has to be considered. The overall survey suggested that the classified ads should be free to all subscribers within a reasonable word limit. Therefore, to cover cost, the basic subscription price would have to be higher as there is little additional income to support such a large publication. Considering what the benefits of a publication of this type will provide to the collector, the additional cost over-shadows this aspect.

With the support of collectors like yourself, this publication will become the standard of this great hobby. With my twelve years of providing services to the radio hobby, along with my reputation and dedication, this publication will succeed!

If you would like to see our hobby grow and be unified, then let us hear from you with your comments and suggestions. Subscribe today to Antique Radio Classified. A one year subscription entitles you to 12 monthly issues, plus a free 20 word classified ad per issue. Additional words or display ads are available at nominal cost.
