DISPLAY AND BUSINESS CARD ADS - DETAILS AND RATES

The deadline is the first of the month for display and business card ad artwork, payment and repeat requests. Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be so identified. Advertisers must agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisfied, and to comply with a buyer's refund request on unaltered returned items.

Advertising must be prepaid, except as noted below: see "Payment" paragraph above for details. Late ads will be run only if space and time permit. Since artwork is reduced to 63% in the printing process, originals must be the artwork size listed below. Do not send in artwork on art board or send negatives. Ads should be typeset or typed neatly with a carbon ribbon, black ink (not pencil) on white. If used, reverse type must be limited to 25% of the ad. If you want us to prepare your ad, include the one-time cost below for A.R.C. to make up the ad.

Photos should be at an 85-line screen; otherwise, add $14.00 per photo for screening. Do not cut or trim photos or glue photos to artwork; submit separately.

If you are confused by these requirements and terms, please contact A.R.C. before beginning to prepare your ad. We will be happy to advise you on your ad ideas, estimate how much the ad will cost, recommend an ad size, etc.

We assume that advertisers want all ads which are submitted to run without delay; therefore, we will run the ad and bill for any additional work required for the ad to meet these specifications. A late ad will run beginning with the next month. "Tear sheets" will be sent only for 1/8-page or larger ads and only if requested when the ad is submitted.

Business card ads are limited to one per advertiser.

The 3-month rates represent about an 11% discount, the 6-month rates 23%, the 12-month rates 30%. Placement requests: add 15% but call first. Clubs: write for discount policy.

EDITOR'S COMMENTS

This has been a year of commemoration, primarily of the 1940s and World War II. In that context, it suddenly seemed appropriate this month to feature on our cover a 1943 Zenith cartoon provided by Brad Jones. In our lead article, Zenith Corp. President E.F. McDonald's 1943 letter to Zenith dealers, also contributed by Brad, reminds us that consumer television was put on hold by World War II.

However, signs that the TV industry was ready to burst upon the communications scene were evident by the mid-1940s. President Harry S. Truman made his first network telecast at a Navy Day celebration in New York in 1945, and the end of the war was marked by a TV broadcast of the opening session of the United Nations Security Council. Still, the early sets were either very small or very expensive, and McDonald's concern about promoting unrealistic expectations for TV was certainly justified.

Now, fifty years later, the device on our cover might best be approximated by one of today's audio/visual computers with its built-in television tuner, CD-ROM (phonograph) player, fax modem, and audio input for a radio receiver. But, the price is more than 200 times the $14.92 suggested by Zenith's cartoonist. (See "On the Cover.")

Harold Cones has amplified the Zenith material with some information from his files on the distribution of the McDonald letter.

Ian Sanders contributes another article in his excellent series on foreign sets. His topic this month is the three Ethophone crystal set types produced in the early 1920s by Burndept Wireless Limited. I was pleased to see an explanation of the two versions of the Ethophone Jr. in Ian's article since I have both in my personal collection.

Joe Greenbaum in his article "Controlling Saturation through Sanding" explains the purpose and use of various types and coarseness of sandpaper. Stain coloration is determined by the depth of the stain penetration, which itself can be controlled by sanding technique.

James Newton describes another approach to obtaining the natural depth of the original finish. However, always remember that an original or restored cabinet is preferable to one stripped and completely refinished.

Jim Clark's report on the Michigan Antique Radio Club's Extravaganza '95 is enhanced by Bruce Tanner's photos. This meet with its over 600 attendees Friday night social hour, and well run flea market with no selling before "show time" is one of the best meets in the U. S.

Ray Chase has provided a report on a Smith Auction Company estate auction. And Jim Watson not only reports on the Larry Cannon Estate auction, but also tells us something about Larry himself as a dedicated collector.

Interestingly, a number of items, rarely seen in auctions, appear in these reports — an Electro-Voice Patrician speaker (a mid-1950s, 5' high, 300-plus pound monster speaker system) for $625; a Grebe CR-2 tuner and RORF detector/amplifier (the RORF is a version of the RORD) for over $2,000 each; and an Adams Morgan Paragon RA-10 and a Paragon DA-2 for $510 and $425.

The coming Henry Ford Museum Radio Auction in October continues to be the radio talk of the town. An article by museum curator Erik Manthey informs us about a few more items that will be offered at the auction, and provides us with insight into the permanent radio exhibit at the Ford Museum. Remember that the Ford Museum and Deerfield Village are worth a visit, even if there were no radio auction, so plan to bring your family.

Dave Pope reviews Maurice Sievers' Crystal Clear, Volume 2, which he concludes is a valuable complement to Volume 1. Not only does Volume 2 provide coverage of additional crystal sets, detectors, etc., it provides additional info on some sets in Volume 1 and extended reports on several crystal set manufacturers.

Two distinctive cathedral radios and a radio that tunes only one station are included on the Photo Review pages this month. These sets, along with the British crystal set and Magnatone guitar amplifier, illustrate the wide interests of our readers. Also, Radio Miscellanea includes several reader responses on the Internet and on sets in past Photo Reviews.

Coming Radio Events. Forty events are on the September radio calendar, and leading off is the Antique Wireless Association's 34th Historical Conference. This 4-day event opens at sunup with a continuous flea market on Wednesday. Other activities include seminars, auctions, banquets, an old equipment contest, tours for noncollectors, as well as tours of the AWA Museum. On Thursday morning, your editor hosts a seminar on collecting books and magazines. A.R.C. will be both in the outside flea market and at the inside book fair. For years I've said, "If you can make only one meet, make this one!"

Happy collecting.

ON THE COVER

The wonderfully detailed cartoon on our cover this month is taken from the cover of Zenith Radiorgan, Vol. 1, No. 7, May 1943. This Zenith Corp. publication was subtitled, "The National Field Newspaper for Zenith Men and Women Everywhere." Over 65,000 dealers received this cartoon as a humorous advertising gimmick to curb expectations for postwar television.

The cartoon is captioned: "Great Christopher Model — Priced at $14.92 in honor of the discovery of America by Columbus. 40% off for cash. Liberal trade-in allowance for your old radio."

VINTAGE TELEVISION

Zenith Television Then and Now

CONTRIBUTED BY BRAD JONES

Brad Jones shares a 1943 letter from E.F. McDonald, President of Zenith Corporation, to Zenith dealers operating in a wartime market. The letter, accompanied by the cartoon on our cover, sounded an alarm against premature, "crystal-gazing" advertising for postwar radio and television. This little window on the workings of the wartime corporate mind gives an ironic twist to the 50-year history of Zenith as we now know it. A note of restraint is hardly what we would expect from a company about to assume a leadership role in the TV industry.

As its name suggests, Zenith became a post-war power and a household word in the American economy. For truly sentimental reasons, we mourn its recent sale to South Korea's LG Electronics. Thus, an American electronics pioneer has become one of the last in the field to succumb to the new realities of a worldwide market economy. (Editor)

May 1943. The United States was at war and radio manufacturers had shifted their attention to war production. That left retailers with little to do but wait out the war, selling last year's designs with an ever decreasing supply of parts.

Although RCA was already heavily invested in television, Zenith's McDonald asked his dealers to hold off on excessive advertising of this emerging technology. "Technically, television is all right," McDonald writes, "but economically it is just as unsound as it always was." He cautions his sales force about the potentially damaging effects on their business of promises that could not be fulfilled.

This unusual stance of a man whose business centered on selling new products and planning for the postwar years makes us reflect on how times change. McDonald's approach seems refreshing in the light of today's mania for newer, bigger, better, faster products that hit the market every few months.

The intricate cartoon accompanying the article is also a reflection on the expectation of the times for consumer attention. McDonald recommended that this cartoon be placed in shop windows to demonstrate the industry's ability to laugh at itself. Today's "soundbite" mentality would hardly be expected to spend the time extracting the humor from the many details of this imaginative piece.

The McDonald letter was given to me by a friend who operates a radio shop founded by his father in the 1930s. As a Zenith dealer during the war, he received this letter perhaps as a kind of pep talk to offset the frustration of being stuck without new models to sell and with few repair parts for old models. Whether McDonald actually signed these letters is unknown, but it remains an interesting document taken in the context of the times.

(Brad Jones, 4801 Crofton Springs Ct., Greensboro, NC 27407)

After 10 years of collecting, Brad Jones focuses mainly on plastic radios of the 1930s and 1940s, microphones, televisions, and jukeboxes. When he is not looking for radios, he anchors the news at WFMY-TV in Greensboro, North Carolina.

Ridicule Better Than Argument More on the Zenith Letter and Cartoon

CONTRIBUTED BY HAROLD N. CONES

The following excerpt from the Zenith files of Harold N. Cones and John H. Bryant, authors of The Zenith Trans-Oceanic: The Royalty of Radios, reveals the scope of E.F. McDonald's thinking about the power of humor to convey a serious message. We assume that the letter presented on the opposite page was one of the 65,037 sent to radio dealers.

"Concerned with the unrealistic claims being made for postwar radios by many manufacturers, Commander McDonald sent this cartoon to a large audience on May 15, 1943. Seven different individualized cover letters were sent as follows: Auto manufacturers (64), personalized Trade Paper list (37), personalized daily newspaper editors (1,657), personalized distribution list, which included the presidents of many major industries (72), weekly newspapers (2,575), automotive accessories list (6), card file list (592), and radio dealers (65,037), for a total of 70,000. As one of the letters stated, "I feel that we can kill wild speculation by ridicule much better than by argument."

"The Zenith Trans-Oceanic: The Royalty of Radios," published by Schiffer Publications, Ltd., is available from The Radio Professors, P.O. Box 952, Stillwater, OK 74076, at $24.95 plus $2 shipping. It is also available from A.R.C. and other A.R.C. advertisers. Be sure to check these suppliers for ordering information.

ZENITH RADIO CORPORATION

OFFICE OF
E. F. McDONALD, JR.
PRESIDENT

May 15, 1943

TO ZENITH RADIO DEALERS:

From time to time, I have written letters to you in an endeavor to take you behind the scenes. In a letter I wrote to Zenith stockholders on October 29, 1938, of which I sent you a copy at the time, I made some predictions as to how far, in my opinion, television was "around the corner," and what I said to you then about television still goes.

Technically television is all right, but economically it is just as unsound as it always was. It will be a great industry one day when a means is found of paying for the programs; in other words, a box office. There is nothing wrong with television that money will not cure, but that cure has not been found — yet.

1938 advertising and publicity on television was premature and potentially harmful to your business then. And now again, the impractical type of crystal-gazing publicity and advertising on television and most all postwar radio can be extremely detrimental to your future business. Sensible, practical advertising, on the other hand, can be immensely helpful to you.

A terrific injustice has been done all automobile dealers and manufacturers by "dream designers" who have produced pictures of postwar gas chariot designs that will not lend themselves to production and will probably never grace the public highways — they vanish with the pages on which they are printed. The public have been led to believe from these pictures that they are going to get an Alice-in-Wonderland automobile the day after the war such as cannot be produced, and they are therefore going to be disappointed. This false hope dreaming by armchair strategists is putting both the dealers and the manufacturers in an unfair position, which they do not deserve, and is definitely going to hurt auto sales.

The same thing is happening in radio — your business. The public is being led by peek-a-boo advertising and publicity to believe that the postwar radio will contain television and many other mysterious and miraculous devices at an unbelievably low list price.

If this type of advertising and publicity continues falsely to raise the hopes of the public, it is going to hurt your business and mine after the war as the public will expect too much and may be disappointed with what is offered.

Mind you, I am not saying there are not wonderful developments coming out of our Radionic war work in building military radios for the Armed Forces (we are engaged 100% in war work). We have learned, as well as contributed, much. We have experienced new fields in Radionics, and the postwar radios to be produced by Zenith will contain many interesting new developments. The future holds much for the great industry. Radionics, and its subdivisions — electronics, radar and radio.

But let's be practical in our prophecies. Let's take the whiskers off. Let's not kid the public into believing they are going to have a combination radio-phonograph-F.M.-facsimile-television set for $14.92 with 40% off for cash, as illustrated by our cartoonist in the enclosed drawing. It might be well for you to post this picture in your window and let the public see that at least we have a sense of humor.

Seriously speaking, wouldn't it be better to have your postwar prospects pleasantly surprised with future developments than disappointed? We do have such developments and will have some interesting "firsts" to show you once more. But let's be practical. If we do that — if we are conservative in our mutual approach to the public beginning today, there will be no question that your postwar business will be greatly benefited.

Zenith's record of progress and "firsts" in the past is your guarantee of what the future will hold.

Cordially

E. F. McDonald, Jr.

President

(Letter retyped & reformatted for A.R.C. publication. The underlining for emphasis in the letter is McDonald's.)

The Ethophone Crystal Sets by Burndept Wireless

BY IAN L. SANDERS

Burndept Wireless Limited of Bedford Street, London, was established in March 1922. The company, together with Siemens, had the distinction of each providing one of the two independent directors elected by the "smaller firms" to the board of the British Broadcasting Company (BBC) when it was formed in the winter of 1922.

Burndept Wireless was renowned in the early 1920s for the exceptional quality of its line of wireless receivers. Included in this line were three crystal set types — the Ethophone Junior, the Ethophone No. 1 and the Ethophone No. 1 Mk. III.

ETHOPHONE NO. 1

The Ethophone No. 1, shown in Figure 1, was introduced in late 1922. The set carries the BBC approval stamp and was given the Post-Office registration number 114. In addition, the panel is engraved with "Registered Design No. 690578," although the significance of this number is not clear.

The cabinet is constructed of polished walnut, measuring 9 x 9 x 5½ inches, with a lift-up lid and brass latches. Two cabinet styles are known — with and without a moulding around the lid and the base; the set shown in Figure 1 has the moulding.

The set appears to have been supplied with either a conventional open catwhisker/galena type detector, or the Burndept enclosed detector, as is the case for the set in Figure 1. The Burndept detector (which could be purchased as a separate component) was fitted with a gold catwhisker and was controlled by a rotary micrometer screw adjustment. This adjustment moved the contact relative to the crystal, but did not allow it to rotate.

The tuning was of the tapped inductance type with coarse (1-9) and fine (A-H) controls covering wavelengths between 300-500 meters. The last position of the fine control was marked: "PARIS." In this position an external tuning coil (number 300, supplied with the set and shown in Figure 2) was selected, and it extended the tuning range to 2,600-4,100 meters. This allowed reception of the long-wave Paris time signals broadcast from the Eiffel Tower on 2,600 meters. An additional tuning coil for the long-wave reception of the Croydon aerodrome transmissions on a wavelength of 900 meters was also available.

Occasionally during the 1920s, the same basic receiver design was produced concurrently by more than one British manufacturer. The Ethophone No. 1 and the Sterling No. 1 crystal set, manufactured by the Sterling Telephone & Electric Company, are good examples of this practice — the construction of these two sets being essentially identical. It is interesting to note, however, that despite the similarity of appearance, and the fact that the circuit was the same, the Sterling version was given a different Post-Office registration number, 130. The "Registered Design No. 690578," nevertheless, was the same as for the Ethophone No. 1.

The instructions provided with the receiver gave the precise details of the Paris time signals. (Since these signals were only transmitted for two 5-minute periods each day, accurate timing was most important!) The following is a description of the instructions:

"These time signals are sent out from the Eiffel Tower every morning and evening, commencing at 10:45 and finishing at 10:49 Greenwich Time. They are read as follows:

At 10:44 Paris sends a number of long dashes, thus — — —

At 10:45 exactly, one single dot.

At 10:46 Paris sends — · — ·, etc.

At 10:47 exactly, one single dot.

At 10:48 Paris sends — · · · — · · ·, etc.

At 10:49 exactly, one single dot.

The single dots give the exact time correct to about 1/10 of a second."

ETHOPHONE NO. 1, MK. III

Little published information is available on this model. I have so far been unable to find a reference to the receiver in any contemporary literature, and the only recent source of information is the photograph given by Anthony Constable in Early Wireless.

The Ethophone No.1, Mk. III was introduced some time after the Post-Office registration period (July 1924), probably late 1924 or early 1925. The cabinet was approximately the same size as the Ethophone Junior, and Constable shows a receiver with a glass-enclosed "Bumdept" detector and a single tuning control.

Note: I do not know any details of the existence of an Ethophone Model No. 1, Mk. II. However in 1925/26, a variation of the Ethophone No. 1 was advertised. See Figure 4. (Guy Biraud also shows a photograph of this model in his Radio & TV Collector's Guide Book). The position of the detector and the tuning coil socket and the layout of the terminals differ from the standard model, although the cabinet and tapped inductance tuning closely resemble the original Ethophone No. 1.

The price of the Ethophone No. 1 in 1923 was six pounds, five shillings (£6.25) including aerial equipment and extra coil, but excluding headphones.

ETHOPHONE JUNIOR

The Ethophone Junior, shown in Figure 3, was a lower-priced model than the No. 1. Since it carries the preceding Post-Office registration number 113, the two sets were probably introduced at the same time. The cabinet construction in polished walnut resembles that of the Ethophone No. 1, except that it is narrower, measuring 7 x 9 x 5½ inches.

The set could be tuned between 250-650 meters by means of a single, 0-60 degree, slide-coil control. Like the No. 1, examples of the receiver, with either an open catwhisker/galena or the Burndept micrometer screw-type glass-enclosed detector, are known.

The Ethophone Junior was moderately priced at two pounds, twelve shillings six pence (£2.625) in 1923, less headphones and aerial accessories.

ETHOPHONE JUNIOR MK. II

A Mk. II model of the Ethophone Junior was also produced, and was probably introduced in late 1923 or early 1924. This version had provision for a long-wave loading coil ("...for the projected high power station on 1600 meters") to be plugged into a socket on the panel located behind the detector. Otherwise, the set was identical to the original and was given the same Post-Office registration number.

Three Refinishing Secrets

BY JAMES C. NEWTON

James Newton provides some alternate refinishing methods using spar varnish. While spar varnish does not appear to be among the original finishes used by radio manufacturers, readers may want to try his methods on a radio cabinet that requires stripping and refinishing. However, authentic refinishing using original materials is recommended. (Editor)

In collecting old radios I have enjoyed the grace and style of the wood cabinets, especially the Art Deco styles of the consoles of the late 1930s and the 1940s. This enjoyment led to the natural desire to refinish the cabinets. I have tried some of the synthetic finishes with unsuccessful results; they just don't seem to have the natural depth of the original finish. Perhaps I just have not found the right combination of materials.

Any way, the best finish that I have found is the old and tried marine spar varnish. My preference is Ace Hardware's Super Spar Varnish. But note that the application of spar varnish is highly labor intensive, when compared to the much more expensive spray spar varnish. At any rate, after stripping the cabinet, never using metal against the wood, I recolor the wood as required, using common artist oil colors, principally burnt umber, burnt sienna, and rose madder.

After I let the oil colors dry for a week, I hand-brush the spar varnish, using very thin overlapping layers. I make about three passes, allowing drying time in between. Spar varnish tends to run, and so the cabinet is positioned in as flat a plane as possible.

Now here are three secrets that I discovered.

Secret #1: Go ahead and suffer through minor runs, let dry for several weeks, and then start with 240-grit paper and water. Rub good and hard, but not enough to get to the bare wood. Wipe very clean with several rags. Next, use 360-grit paper, again with water; and wipe clean. Finish off with 600-grit paper and water and lots of rubbing.

Now, if you find in the first step that the finish appears too thin, add several more layers of varnish and repeat the sanding business. The first secret is the use of the intermediate 360-grit paper. If this step is skipped, the ultimate finish will have fine lines in it and will not have the depth that can be obtained.

After the 600-grit process, with the cabinet still damp with water, you will be able to see what the true finish will be like. If it does not look absolutely gorgeous, go back and repeat one or more of the sanding processes and examine again. Wipe the cabinet very clean of all white-looking sanded spar, and let it dry for at least two days.

Secret #2: In a way, I suppose that the second secret is that the varnish can be rendered flat and almost finished by sanding with water. This step gives the impression that a good paste wax would finish up the job, a process which, indeed, you might want to do.

Secret #3: But, the third secret is the magic that occurs when you do the following: dilute the varnish with one-third to one-half paint thinner, stir well, and apply this with a new fine brush, thinly but evenly. Because of the sanding, the original gloss finish, which is much too garish, is gone. This final thin coating gives just the right amount of satin-with-depth look to it.

I have been most happy with this process, except, as mentioned, it is time-consuming and takes patience with the drying process, plus a lot of elbow grease. A couple of cautions: 1. Never, but never, put the refinished cabinet out to dry in the sunlight as this will cause a surface hardening and a soft underlay which may result in a dreadful reticulation of raised wavy lines. 2. Always varnish outdoors in the shade or in a well-ventilated garage as the fumes may be toxic to some people, causing headaches a few hours later.

RADIO MISCELLANEA

"Antique Radio Classified" invites its readers to contribute letters and information for inclusion in "Radio Miscellanea" and elsewhere in the magazine. The topic should be of general interest and sent to A.R.C., P.O. Box 2, Carlisle, MA 01741. All material submitted should be verified for accuracy and may be edited for publication, which is not guaranteed. See the masthead for more details.

On Collecting Vintage Tubes

Dear Editor:

Great story on vintage vacuum tubes in the February issue of A.R.C.! I'm quite interested in tubes, and I got interested in A.R.C. and vintage radios while searching the New England Antique Radio Club's Nashua, N. H., show last fall for tubes for my vintage musical amplifiers. I must say, you meet some nice people at vintage radio shows. I plan to pass along to A.R.C. any information that I come across that might be of interest. Thank you and the great staff at A.R.C.

On and Off the Internet

The mail received regarding A.R.C. on the Internet continues to be varied as shown by the messages below:

Dear Editor:

I had my fill of computers when I was in business before retiring, so I would never go back to it for my radio hobby! I say no to Internet and e-mail.

Joe Svihel, Avon, MN

Dear Editor:

Thanks a lot for joining the Cybernetwork. I LOVE IT!! And A.R.C.!

Stan Lopes, Concord, CA

Dear Editor:

Please don't stop the monthly magazine with a new computer method.

Paul Fulton, Westwood, NJ

Dear Editor:

I vote to have the ads on-line (for subscribers) two weeks after mailing.

Randy Cook, Cupertino, CA

Dear Editor:

The e-mail system is terrific. Glad to see that you're on-line.

Marty Dzik, Schererville, IN

Dear Editor:

Regarding e-mail, I'm just a peanut farmer in regards to your advertisers, but A.R.C. as it stands today and your separating For Sale and Wanted ads (which was the most welcome move) is very well done. The way A.R.C. is mailed [staggered] gives even the smallest collector an even chance against a power buyer. E-mail, or computer, to me will erase all of this.

But, I will put in a fax machine for my buyers' benefit.

Bernie Samek, Palmer, MA

A few comments by A.R.C.: Subscribers be assured, we have no plans to make the current ads available to Internet users. However, the use of e-mail and the Internet to send ads, orders, etc. to A.R.C. doesn't affect non-computer users; it is similar to sending a fax. (Editor)

KOCE-TV's Antique Radio Day

Dear Editor:

Sunday, September 3 is "Antique Radio Day" on KOCE-TV in southern California. At 8:30 A.M. KOCE will begin with the continuous broadcast of all five "Radio Collector" shows. At 11 A.M., the station will air Broadcasting's Forgotten Father: The Charles Herrold Story. Don't forget to tune in and call the station at (714) 895-5623 to thank them for their interest in our hobby.

Belmont DC Cathedral Research

Dear Editor:

I have researched Bill Harris' unknown Belmont DC cathedral radio (A.R.C. August 1995, p. 11). There are several sets that use (3) Type 36 and (2) Type 38 tubes, but none of them are Belmont. There is, however, a 1932 Belmont DC Model 500 that uses (2) Type 39/44, (1) Type 36, and (2) Type 38 tubes. Since a Type 36 is a substitute for a 39/44, then it is possible that this radio does not have the original tube types. I like to find out if there are tube numbers on the sockets in the radio. Unfortunately, there is no schematic in Rider's for this set. If this turns out to be other than what I am suggesting, I'd like to find out about it so I can add to my database.

Ron Boucher, Goffstown, NH

Info Exchange

Dear Editor:

In regard to Jon Andreasen's WOR mystery radio in the April issue of A.R.C., the Sky Chief Radio Co. of New York City produced a radio Model WOR or WOR receiver. Unfortunately, Rider's lists only three Sky Chief models, all in Volume XI, and none of them have the same tube complement as Jon's set.

I will be glad to search my data for a matching schematic by some other manufacturer. There are well over 100 schematics in Rider's using the same tube complement, and the additional information will help to eliminate most of them. I can supply a list of the remaining sets by Rider's volume number, manufacturer's name, and page number.

The following information would be appreciated: 1. A method to drop the line voltage for the filaments (ballast tube or line cord resistor). If ballast tube, what is the ID number on it? 2. Values of the electrolytics in microfarads. The voltage rating isn't necessary.

Dear Editor:

Just a brief note to inform you that I also have one of the Regal Ultradyne radios that was pictured on page 12 of the April 1995 A.R.C. There is more than one out there.

FORD MUSEUM AUCTION

Ford Museum and Auction Preview Dearborn, Michigan — October 7-8, 1995

CONTRIBUTED BY ERIK MANTHEY, CURATOR, HISTORICAL RESOURCES

Last month we ran an article by Richard Estes explaining the auction at the Henry Ford Museum. This month we have an article from the curator of the museum and photos of the permanent exhibit. This is a significant auction in radio collecting so A.R.C. will be there and will keep you posted including the results. Also, A.R.C. has learned of some of the added items in the auction, not in the Estes list. Since the auction is on the grounds of the museum, bring your family and friends along and give them this excellent opportunity to spend some leisurely and informative time in the halls of this famous "must see" museum. See you at the Ford. (Editor)

A classic E.H. Scott communications receiver, the "Stradavarius of Radio," and a Hallicrafters SX-28 are featured in this display of shortwave sets. (Note that these items are part of the permanent museum exhibit and are not in the auction.)

After a thorough review of its radio collections, the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village is auctioning on October 7-8, 1995, a selection of deaccessioned radio artifacts, including over 1,800 pieces of early radio equipment and over 1,100 vacuum tubes. The wide array of radio equipment includes early spark transmitters, receivers, experimental apparatus, diverse components and home broadcast receivers. Vacuum tubes range in scope from early audions and valves to more common tubes such as the UV-199.

Many pieces came from significant early radio developers and collectors such as McMurdo Silver,

If it has a handle, it's portable! As tubes were miniaturized and then replaced by transistors, portable radios became smaller and personalized, as evidenced from left to right. (Note that these items are part of the museum exhibit and are not in the auction.)

John Hays Hammond Jr., Magnavox, and most notably George H. Clark. The accompanying photos in Erik Manthey's article represent some of the historic radio exhibits that will remain a part of the permanent collection at the Henry Ford Museum. Although the number of items offered for auction appears large, the Henry Ford Museum will retain the majority of its holdings, particularly those in the historically important Clark Collection.

HISTORY OF THE COLLECTION

What is popularly known as "The Clark Collection" originated during the 1920s, when George H. Clark persuaded David Sarnoff to support a museum of radio development. RCA budgeted $100,000 for developing and maintaining a National Radio Museum in 1928. Collections and objects were sought from private individuals, wireless and radio companies, and relevant government agencies, particularly the Navy Department which had played a leading and active role in radio development.

Since many objects remained government property, RCA was required to work in conjunction with the Smithsonian Institution to acquire them. A large number of objects was eventually collected, stored in an RCA warehouse and assigned to the direct care of George H. Clark — hence the name "The Clark Collection."

The RCA Museum board's cooperative plan proposed to collect numerous examples of pre-1918 artifacts. These then represented the historic prebroadcast radio era of development. Anticipated plans provided for a display of such objects at the 1933 World's Fair before disseminating them to established museums across the country. In 1931, these plans fell through.

THE AUCTION

Richard Estes of Estes Auctions will conduct the auction at the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, 20900 Oakwood Blvd., Dearborn, Michigan, a suburb of Detroit. The first auction on Saturday, October 7, will be held from 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. The second auction on Sunday, October 8, will continue from 10 A.M. until all items are disposed of. Previews will be held on Friday, October 6, from 3 P.M. until 6 P.M., and on each day of the auction from 8 A.M. to 10 A.M.

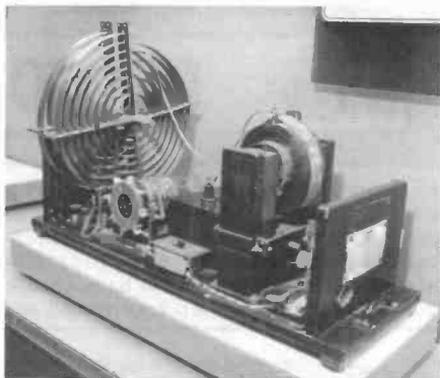

This outdoor auction will be conducted under a suitably weatherproof tent in the museum's parking areas. A three-dollar admission fee covers all three days of the event.

ADDITIONAL AUCTION ITEMS

Last month we listed a number of items from the Estes Catalog. This month we list a few of the non-cataloged items obtained from the Ford Museum: two Atwater Kent Model 10-C breadboards, a Federal Model 61, a Fada 160-A, a Philco Model 70, and RCA Radiolas 17, 18, 28 and 33. Several additional consoles are an Edison R-7, a Grebe radio-phonograph, a Majestic Model 60, a Zenith Model 92 (an ornamental high cabinet) and RCA Radiolas 47 and 64. Some of the later vintage radios to be auctioned are: an Emerson Model 508 portable, a GE Model 250 portable, a Monarch table radio and a York AM/FM receiver.

FUN FOR NON-COLLECTORS TOO

The Henry Ford Museum is a place to visit for all the family. While you radio collectors attend the auction, the rest of the family could be enjoying a wide range of exhibits which explore the impact of various technologies on American life. Many of the vast number of artifacts are not to be found anywhere else in the world. In addition, there are carriage tours, and carousel, steamboat, wagon, and steam engine train rides. There are also fun places to eat and to shop.

The museum is open 9 A.M. to 5 P.M. daily. Separate admission charges to the museum and the village are as follows: adults $12.50; youths (5-12) $6.25; children (under 5) free; senior citizens $11.50. A combination 2-day (consecutive) unlimited admission to the museum and village is available. For additional information, call: 1-800-835-5237.

Estes Auctions has compiled an auction catalogue with 23 photographs and a listing of over 200 items, as well as maps of the area and motel information. It is available for a $3.00 shipping and handling charge from: Estes Auctions, 7404 Ryan Rd., Medina, OH 44256. Phone: (216) 769-4992; Fax: (216) 769-4116.

(Erik Manthey, Henry Ford Museum, P.O. Box 1970, Dearborn, MI 48121-1970)

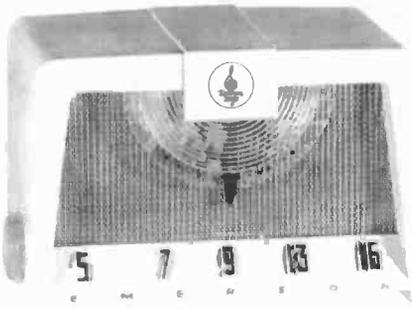

This RCA Radiola exhibit features several early battery sets that can still be found at antique radio meets and even occasionally at yard sales or in antique shops. (Note that these items are part of the museum exhibit and are not in the auction.)

Controlling Saturation Through Sanding

BY JOE GREENBAUM

There are several ways to control the saturation of wood by stains or dyes. One is to use either a more concentrated stain or a thinner stain. Another is to apply a sealer to the wood prior to staining. A third is by sanding, the method I will describe in this article.

Let's follow the progress of a typical cabinet that has been stripped and grain-filled, and will eventually receive a medium walnut stain and a spray lacquer finish. Keep in mind that sanding requirements are different depending on the top coat that a piece receives.

CHOOSING THE PAPER

Let's say the cabinet has a regular straight grain veneer. Once I have filled the grain (I prefer to grain-fill prior to staining), I sand with 120- or 150-grit aluminum oxide paper, depending on how well I removed the grain filler while it was wet. After this, I use 220-grit wet/dry paper.

At this point I have to decide if I want to go to 320-wet/dry paper. If the wood has a lot of open pores, more than usual, and/or it feels exceptionally dry, I will decide to use 320-wet/dry. If the veneer feels healthy (that's a hard one to explain — once you have worked with veneers for a while, you'll know what I mean), then I will stop at 220-grit. The veneer is OK on this particular cabinet so I'll stop at 220-grit.

Why stop at 220-grit? Why not go to 320-grit? The higher the grit, the less penetration of stain. At 220-grit, the stain will penetrate the surface properly and produce the medium walnut that I desire. If I stop at 150-grit, the abrasion on the wood will be too open and porous, will soak up too much stain, and will probably give me a dark walnut. Past 320-grit to 400- and 600-grit, the surface will start to be burnished (especially with 600), allowing only for minimal stain penetration, and I will end up with light walnut.

Let's say the cabinet has some molding around the base that is fabricated from alder or poplar. Most woods (not all) used for molding will really soak up stain. Moldings can consist of face grain, side grain, and end grain, depending on how deeply they were routed. In this case, I will sand the molding with 320-grit.

SANDING BURLS

What happens if this cabinet also has a burl veneer front? From a staining viewpoint, I look at burl as one big piece of end grain. Because burls do not have grain direction, I always sand burls in the longest direction. Since the straight grain veneers run up and down and on tops from side to side and will be sanded that way, I always sand burls in the same direction — that is, up and down, top to bottom and vice versa.

With burls I will sand up to 400-grit, but there have been times when I have gone as far as 600, and even 4/0 steel wool. Again, it's a judgment call that is impossible to write down, but can only be decided with experience.

TREATING PLYWOOD EDGES

What happens if on the sides there is a small border of plywood edging where the side edge meets the front edge? Normally this would have been hidden when the radio was finished in the factory with toned spray lacquer. But if you aren't using a spray gun where you can tone your lacquers, then other methods must be employed.

Treat these surfaces like end grain. Sand one grit higher than the adjoining surface. If the side was sanded with 220, sand that edge with 320. This should help you obtain a more even color. Some color glazing may still be necessary after the stain and sealer have been applied.

STAINING

At this point I'm ready to stain, and with the extra time I took in sanding I should be able to apply the same concentration of stain over the entire cabinet.

Generally speaking, walnut and mahogany require sanding up to 220-grit. Figured maple can go up to 220 for a lighter color and 150 for a slightly darker color. Maple has a closed grain, and by its nature does not take a stain well. End grain should be sanded one grit above the face grain.

Take extra caution and use a light touch at the edges. It is so easy to sand through the veneer at the edges. If there are any veneer bubbles that were not reglued down, be careful around these. Usually these high spots, however slight, can be detected quickly with one or two light passes of a sanding block. I circle these areas with a lumber crayon (they are wax free) to help avoid sanding them with a block. I gingerly sand these freehand.

When the surface allows, use a sanding block. I use a one-inch-thick cork block along with a variety of contoured rubber sanding blocks that are great for moldings. And don't forget to dust or vacuum the cabinet between grits to remove any particles of sandpaper from the previous grit that may scratch the surface.

I hope I've been able to share some helpful and workable information with you that you may not have already known.

AUCTION REPORT

Smith Specialized Electronics Auction Downington, Pennsylvania — June 17, 1995

CONTRIBUTED BY RAY CHASE

This major electronics auction consisted of part of the estate of Bruce Bonney of Audubon, Pennsylvania, along with some additions. A catalog was provided for about 65 percent of the items. A total of 525 lots were hammered down between 10 A.M. and 4 P.M., including some notable pieces of telegraph and hi-fi equipment, tubes, military gear, ham equipment, transistor radios, crystal sets, microphones early and late test equipment, vintage radios, and books — truly something for everyone.

Highlights of this auction included an RCA Victor R39 radio/phonograph which sold for $650. This custom console was made in 1932 for the owner of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. Other items of interest were an Electro-Voice Patrician speaker selling at $625, a cable key made in Paris at $725, and an Emerson Mickey Mouse midget radio at $525.

Many box lots of parts and junker radios were sold at bargain prices too numerous to list here. For example, after the better books were sold individually, the remainder were sold by the shelf. There was a 10 percent buyer's premium so the listed prices should be adjusted accordingly.

Auctioneers were Harold Smith, Jr., Annette

Smith and Dennis Childers. Apparently this was not the complete Bonney estate as another auction is planned in September.

Larry Cannon Estate Auction Fresno, California — June 24, 1995

REPORTED BY JIM WATSON

Howard Leach, Inc., conducted the Larry Cannon Estate Auction at 4707 E. Hedges in Fresno, California, on June 24, 1995. Longtime antique radio collector Larry Cannon passed away earlier this year. After his wife had given several close friends some of his radios, the balance was sold at this auction. The auction consisted of over 700 lots, including test equipment, battery radio sets, AC radios, speakers, consoles, tubes and assorted parts.

This large auction drew buyers from all over California, as well as bids from out-of-state. Many buyers were longtime collectors, while others were just starting their radio collections.

Auction sales totaled $35,750. Highlights were a Grebe CR-2 tuner selling at $2,300, a Grebe RORF detector/amp at $2,200, a Philco Model 70 grandfather clock at $850, and an RCA Victor Service fluorescent sign at $800.

Known conditions of items are noted. Most radios included tubes.

About Larry Cannon and His Collection Thanks To A Friend

BY JIM WATSON

In my early days of radio collecting, I had the great fortune of meeting a wonderful gentleman by the name of Larry Cannon. I had heard of Larry through a local auctioneer from whom Larry had bought many a radio. A quick phone call resulted in an invitation to drop by for a visit and a tour of his collection — and what a tour it was!

I soon found that this kindly looking, white-haired gentleman, who looked like an ideal grandfather, was, in fact, a real collector of all kinds of things. At that time, Larry's collection was housed in an old warehouse building near the local airport. When we slid the stubborn, barn-style door open, I was astonished to see some 400-plus radios stored, stacked, and piled in a dark, dusty building of about 2,000 square feet. Some were on shelves, but many more were simply piled on the floor with appropriate walkways so as to allow passage from one treasure to another.

And this dark, dusty building literally glowed with surprises. There were many early battery sets, horn and cone speakers, AC and battery consoles, cathedrals, tombstones, crystal sets, a Catalin, an Atwater Kent breadboard, test equipment, old military equipment, pinball machines, phonographs, and early televisions. There were also early carpenter's tools, stamps, early farm gas engines, gas engines for Maytag washing machines, and even a couple of kidney dialysis machines — the price was probably too good to pass up!

Involved in electronics during World War II and also a longtime ham, Larry began collecting radios in those early years after the war. He often told me how no one wanted these outdated things back then. So he searched for all the radios he could find — and the older the better.

As with most of us, Larry's collection was a labor of love. A few years ago, he moved his vast collection to a modern warehouse where all could be properly displayed. Soon that warehouse too was filled, and the overflow was sent off to several mini-storages.

Radio collecting was one of Larry's greatest prides and joys, and he was always eager to share his collection with anyone interested. No matter what the style — Art Deco, early battery, communications, or plastic radios — Larry Cannon found them, saved them, and cared for them. Now they have gone on to new homes — grateful homes. I know that would have pleased him.

Michigan Antique Radio Club Extravaganza '95 Lansing, Michigan — July 7-9, 1995

REPORTED BY JIM CLARK

The Michigan Antique Radio Club (MARC) held its 10th annual Extravaganza convention at the Holiday Inn South Convention Center in Lansing, Michigan, on July 7-9, 1995. Extravaganza has grown each year; however, it experienced a significant increase in attendance this year. Officially, 322 families registered, and, combined with other guests and visitors, the show had a total attendance of between 600 and 800 people from 29 states, Canada, and Australia!

The flea market was again held in the large auxiliary parking lot immediately to the south of the hotel. Many sellers took advantage of MARC's $10 price for additional flea market spaces after the first one had been purchased for $20. The result was that 229 flea market spaces were occupied by 137 different sellers. The parking lot has over 400 total spaces, and thus, there is plenty of room for growth in future years.

MARC scheduled four interesting programs on topics such as radio repair for beginners, repairing cone speakers, collecting radio premiums, and the early days of radio manufacturing. Additionally, Warren Lane of Australia graciously offered a spontaneous talk about collecting vintage radios and related items in his country. He drew an interested crowd under the large tent located in the middle of the flea market, used primarily for registration and hospitality purposes.

A display of Hopalong Cassidy radios, advertising and novelty items. Shown are two versions of the radio with red and black cabinets.

An informal (come as you are) social hour capped Friday's events. When the attendees first entered the ballroom that evening, the contest entries and associated awards were the main point of interest, since this was the first public viewing of these items after they had been judged. There were many fine entries in each of the twelve categories. However, the Best-in-Show and also the People's Choice Award went to a beautiful Ozarka cathedral entered by Jay Volke of Lyons, Illinois. The social hour concluded with a multimedia presentation on early broadcast programming, followed by a local group playing memorable old-time music.

The main auction on Saturday totalled $19,107.50. There were 153 bid cards distributed, and a total of 250 items offered for auction. While 200 items changed hands, another 50 were buy-backs or no-sales (any lot not receiving a $20 minimum opening bid). MARC's auction is unique in that, although as a purchaser you cannot check out early, at the conclusion of the auction the buyers settle up, and the club also pays the sellers at the same time. Everyone is thus taken care of within an hour or so of the final auction bid.

Highlights of the auction included an Addison Catalin selling at $650, a DeForest Crosley table set at $290, a Grebe RORD at $440, a Grebe CR-3 at $500, a unique Motorola cylindrical console at $600, a Paragon RA-10 at $510, a Paragon DA-2 at $425, and an RCA Victor scarf/runner at $925.

Also taking place on Saturday was a raffle of a beautiful Atwater Kent Model 10 breadboard, Atwater Kent horn speaker, and ARBE-III power supply, all in working condition. The crowd grew silent as the winning ticket was pulled from the jar and its number read. An astounded Dan Volke stepped forward to claim the prize. In a rare set of coincidences, 10-year-old Dan had purchased $10 worth of tickets and won the Atwater Kent Model 10 at this 10th annual show. The number 10 must certainly be his lucky number!

For those who stuck around for Sunday morning, there was a lively donation auction (items sellers had not sold and did not want to take home again) held under the big tent. It took Colonel Don Colbert nearly 2½ hours of selling, but after the dust cleared, nearly $750 had been raised for the club. Clubs should not dismiss this activity as a means of not only raising money to help offset their expenses, but of encouraging sellers to bring more items (especially parts, etc.) to the shows, knowing that many items that don't sell will not have to be brought home with them again!

In addition to thanking those who attended, MARC would also like to thank the many volunteers who contributed their time and efforts in making Extravaganza '95 such a huge success again this year. Our hope is that even more of you will come experience Extravaganza '96 for yourselves — next year on July 11-13.

BOOK REVIEW

Crystal Clear: Volume 2 Vintage American Crystal Sets, Crystal Detectors, and Crystals, by Maurice Sievers

REVIEWED BY DAVID A. POPE

Good News! The long anticipated Crystal Clear Volume 2 by Maurice Sievers has been published and easily matches the superior preparation and high quality so evident in Volume 1.

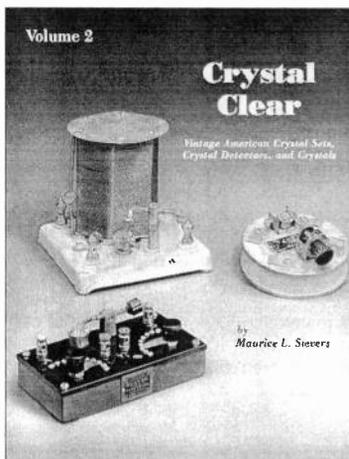

While some supplements and amendments to the data of Volume 1 are included, Crystal Clear Volume 2 addresses new subjects, and identifies an additional 172 crystal sets, 91 crystal detectors and 26 crystals. It also provides unique observations of "early and late" versions of the same set, marketing strategies, and interrelationships of competing manufacturers. With enviable skill, Mr. Sievers has expanded on all facets of crystal sets and their history with referencing and precise detail that every collector will appreciate.

A chapter on crystal set accessories features headphones, antennas, slide tuners, variable capacitors, and loose couplers. There is also a special section that discusses the Western Manufacturing Company, a producer of crystal sets available by mail order for almost 30 years. With the exception of the Philmore Manufacturing Company, also highlighted in this section, the Western Manufacturing Company may have been the most influential crystal radio manufacturer.

Although the strength of this book rests with the photographs of crystal radio equipment and accompanying identifying information, the section that provides details on characteristics and variations of important factory-made sets is especially enjoyable. Equally satisfying is the discussion of crystal detectors through such radios as Crystal Mystery, Giblin Radioear, Gilbert, Gled, Monarch, Pandora, Radjo and others.

The chapter on crystals and their containers (with photographs) continues the documentation initiated in the first volume with such curious entries as "Night Hawk Non-Skid Crystal" and "Loud as a Brass Band Radio Detector."

Early advertising of crystal equipment appears throughout the book and is always identified by source and date of publication.

The author's attentiveness to detail is probably best demonstrated by the tables provided for crystal sets, detectors, and crystals, as well as by the index. The tables provide cross-referenced information of manufacturer, style, dating, original price, shape, material, size, and other miscellaneous headings for all the equipment in Volumes 1 and 2.

The index is divided into two parts: one for general equipment ("Accessories" through "Wood's metal"), and the other for crystal set equipment. The index is also inclusive of Volumes 1 and 2.

In summary, Crystal Clear Volume 2 stands on its own merit as a superb learning and reference source. It is certain to become a "must have" guide for every serious collector. Volumes 1 and 2, as a pair, represent invaluable documentation of one of the earliest and longest enduring types of wireless apparatus. Good news, indeed!

Crystal Clear Volume 2 is published by Sonoran Publishing, 116 N. Roosevelt, Suite 121, Chandler, AZ 85226. It has 252 pages and 479 new photos in a softbound 8½" x 11" format. The suggested list price is $29.95, and it is available from the publisher, A.R.C., and other A.R.C. advertisers. Be sure to check these suppliers for ordering information.

In order to meet our September issue deadline, Dave Pope reviewed a proof copy of this book and therefore could not comment on the quality of the pictures. We now have a copy of the book in hand and can state that the photographs, with only a few exceptions, are excellent. For some rare sets, Sievers made the choice of using photos that are not of the highest quality rather than no photos at all. We agree with this choice. (Editor)

"Do you know me?"

I started the world's first broadcasting station. I'm Charles Herrold, and between 1912 and 1917 I was sending music and news to an audience in San Jose, California, on a regular schedule. But while I may have been first, most people forgot all about me. Now there's hope; my story is told in this exciting new videotape from the creator of the award-winning PBS series 'Radio Collector.' It's available from the Perham Foundation. Don't leave home without it!"

Radio Restoration Parts

Vacuum Tube Repair Wafers

These tube repair wafers are solid-state devices for quick and easy repair of early vacuum tubes. The wafer is installed by simply sliding it over the tube pins and reinserting the tube into its socket. If the filament is intact, but there is little or no emission, the filament may be lit for best visual effect. However, the tube can be open filament.

No change in radio operating voltages is required. Any number of tubes may be repaired in a radio. If wafers are installed on all tubes, the B+ voltage may usually be reduced without sacrificing volume or sensitivity. Performance will vary between radio models.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING POLICY

ONE FREE 20-WORD AD for subscribers in each issue; additional words are 22¢ each. See details below. Classified ads sent by mail, fax or by any other method must be received (not just postmarked!) by Noon Eastern Time on the classified ad deadline date to guarantee inclusion in the current issue. Late ads are held for the following issue. Please enclose correct payment with all ads. Stamps or cash are OK for small amounts. (Canadian and other foreign advertisers, please see "Payment" on page 2 for methods.) "Free words" cannot be accumulated from month to month; free words must be requested when ad is submitted.

Faxed & e-mailed ads: Please see additional information on the inside front cover.

When including ads with other A.R.C. correspondence, write the ads on a separate piece of paper. Include SUB# with ad. Ads may be sent in advance; but, write each ad on a separate piece of paper and indicate the month (or successive two months) you want the ad to run.

To minimize our typing errors: Please write legibly. Use both capital and small letters. Do not use a dash between words. Carefully write the following numbers and letters (especially in model numbers) since some can look alike; for example 1, I and l (the number one, the capital i and the small L.) Also: 0, O, o, Q and D; r and n; 6, b and G; V, U, u, v and Y; A and R; 5, S and s; 2, Z and z. We try to correct spelling errors, so when using an uncommon word or manufacturer which we might mistake as a more common word or manufacturer, note it so that we do not "correct" it. Editor's annotations are in [brackets].

Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be so identified. Advertisers must agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisfied, and to comply with a buyer's refund request on unaltered returned items.

The publisher reserves the right to edit ads without notification to the advertiser and to reject ads for any reason. Names other than the advertiser will be edited out of ads. Ads with non-radio-related items will be returned or edited unless the non-radio-related items are for trade of radio-related items, or they are incidental to and appear at the end of an otherwise acceptable ad. The publisher is not responsible for errors due to illegibly written ads or for any other reason.

Clubs: Since club activities receive free coverage on the Coming Radio Events pages, the free 20 words may not be used for club activity ads. See inside front cover for additional information.
