EDITOR'S COMMENTS

Where does the time go? Events of the summer and fall, the radio collector's "high season," already seem in the distant past. Though the holidays with all their distractions are well underway, it's always a pleasure to look back and enjoy those good, warm-weather times.

One of those times is, of course, the annual AWA Conference, which continues to be an outstanding event. Yes, compared to past peak years, attendance and flea market activity were down, but the faces that go away smiling from this event can't be denied. The number of auction items was up from recent years and 12 of them went for over $1,000. But you didn't have to spend $11,000, as someone did for a Canadian Marconi receiver or $1,500 for a DeForest Audion, to go home with a treasure.

The flea market offered even more opportunities for successful purchases. Steve Johnson, pictured in our report, is a case in point with his test equipment acquisition. Others like me found some rare and unusual items in the market to add to our collections. In fact, there really did seem to be something for everyone.

Beyond the brisk sales of the auction and flea market are an old equipment contest, seminars, banquets, and more. It all adds up to my conviction that the AWA multiday event is not to be missed. In addition, the organization is working on improving the Conference, beginning with a schedule change for next year — Thursday will be the first full day, not Wednesday. This change will accommodate more folks who can't take a full week off from work. We encourage the planners to listen to other suggestions from the membership.

Listening to suggestions from Chuck Grossman concerning yard sale addiction would benefit many of us. With tongue in cheek, Chuck tells us about one man's way of building a collection. For the most part, big national events like AWA are not possible for him. Yard sales, on the other hand, are part of his weekly routine, and they have led to a sizable collection. Here's a man who can laugh at himself, and at the same time, outline for you a step-by-step approach to success in yard "sailing." Enjoy and take heed.

Joseph Chambers' article on the Truetone Model D2121 reminds us of another bit of collecting advice. Though a set may not be in your particular line of collecting, be aware of its unusual features before you

PRINTED WITHOUT COMMENT

We continue to receive reports from advertisers of e-mail responses to their classified ads proposing to pay them with a check, sometimes via a third party, in excess of the purchase price. The seller is asked to refund the difference by wire. In more than one case reported to A.R.C., the check received was "bad."

To minimize problems, we suggest that you always know whom you are dealing with or ask for references.

dismiss it. This radio has many 1920s attributes, but it was manufactured in the late 1940s. For Joseph, the lure was the loop antenna. But, this set is almost bizarre with its odd combination of styles — a big, heavy cabinet to meet the market demand of the times, plus a small loop — strange and worth collecting.

As we all know, a picture can tell the story. Claude Chafin shows his step-by-step restoration of a Philco Boomerang in the kind of clear photos that A.R.C. welcomes. Claude's bio tells us that his is a no-nonsense approach to any repair job. The technique he describes using on the Boomerang makes me wonder if it could be used on those petal horn speakers that so often have pieces broken off. Let's hear from anyone who gives such a project a try with Claude's method.

On the other hand, a more relaxing activity for the holidays might be reading the entertaining mystery novel The War of the Worlds Murder by Max Allan Collins and reviewed in this issue by David Spivey. Though not about radio itself, this intriguing story is really about programming. It weaves the famous Orson Welles radio program, which caused a panic about an invasion from Mars, into a murder mystery — a clever mix of fiction with fact.

Programming also shows up as an interesting topic in Radio Miscellanea. Rabishu Xul tell us about Marion Webster who broadcasts music and stories of the 1890s to the 1920s from her attic. Jim Aphorpe's inquiry about a mystery radio and Steve Adams' list of scammer "red flags" are more food for thought. Regarding the latter subject, note also on this page our periodic notice.

A.R.C. Benefits. For collectors on your holiday list, be sure to take a look at our book list, and continue to take advantage of A.R.C. benefits: a toll-free number (866) 371-0512; Discover, MasterCard, American Express, Visa accepted; the Web, www.antiqueradio.com; books shipped free in the U. S. by USPS media mail; and for current subscribers, a 10 percent discount on all book orders.

Coming Radio Events. As always in the holiday season, there are fewer radio events. However four meets, an Estes auction, and 23 meetings and holiday socials are listed. Slip at least one of these into your busy schedule.

Happy Holidays from all of us at A.R.C.!

John V. Terrey, Editor

ON THE COVER

Every year we try to "lighten up" our cover for the holiday issue. Our choice this year is a vintage postcard from the John V. Terrey collection. More often than not, foreign postcards have radio themes, but this one is American with the label "Whiney Made, Worcester, Mass." on the address side. The child listening to a 1920s set offers another headphone to her dog. The message that they hear but we have not reproduced is, "This is Station M.C.T.Y — Merry Christmas to You."

MEET AND AUCTION REPORT

Antique Wireless Association Conference and Auction Report Rochester, New York — August 23-27, 2005

COMPILED FROM REPORTS BY RAY CHASE, LARRY BABCOCK, LUDWELL SIBLEY, JOHN TERREY AND THE AWA

For the 44th Annual AWA Conference held in Rochester, New York, August 23-27, the weather couldn't have been better — not too hot, sunny and beautiful the entire time. Though attendance continues to decline, this is still the largest multiday meet in the U.S., and those who do attend have a very good and productive time.

Our reports over the last five years show that attendance continues a downward trend to about one-half — in 2000, it was 981; in 2005, 453. In contrast, our report last month on Radiofest showed a reversed trend — new highs in both attendance and club membership. The key to ARCI's success appears to lie in opening the meet to the general public, and there's every reason to believe that AWA could achieve the same success with a similar policy.

There are indications that AWA is listening to the argument that decline is not inevitable and that what is still an outstanding meet can be improved. The plan for a Thursday, Friday, Saturday format for next year's meet is a step in the right direction. Another issue addressed at the membership forum on Wednesday morning was better advertising and marketing. If opening to the general public were part of the mix, this important meet would be reinvigorated and enjoy its original popularity with the collecting community.

The AWA reports that the number flea market spaces sold was 203, down from 215, 251 and 288 in the previous three years. In my traditional walk-around the flea market on Wednesday noon, I counted 115 sellers, down from 123 last year and certainly down from the record high of 225 in

Ed Bell was not at the meet but sent his offerings for the flea market which included a number of early and desirable radios. From left to right, with asking prices, are an Echophone F, $900; a Federal 58, $1,100; an Airway G, $2,800; a Federal 57, $1,200; and an Airway F, $1,050. Reportedly, all sets were sold.

1997. The flea market area had been reduced by one isle and there were a number of empty spaces. In general, buying traffic seemed to be lighter than last year. Unfortunately, some unauthorized selling went on Tuesday afternoon, well before the official Wednesday opening.

However, many wonderful items, as well as some real bargains, showed up in the flea market. It's not always easy to add to an already large collection, but your editor picked up several significant items for his, including Adams Morgan, Jones, and Marconi sets. Others reported similar success.

Larry Babcock reports that almost all the sellers he talked with said their sales were excellent. He mentions a nice Atwater Kent 10 offered for $900 and a very large loose coupler priced at $500. A Federal 110 with a slightly bowed lid had a reasonable price of $475, while a mint, 4-knob blue mirror Sparton was offered at $2,850.

This year's conference theme, Western Electric, brought 80 impressive entries with over 100 items to the Old Equipment Contest. Many said that the contest was better than ever this year, and, for some, it was the highlight of the meet. In fact, Ray Chase commented that "The contest in itself is worth the trip."

The Western Electric theme was taken up in Bob Murray's seminar on the history of Northern Electric, the Canadian WE. A.R.C. will review Bob's book on the subject in a future issue. Larry Babcock reports that, as a result of Bob's talk, he just had to buy the very nice Northern Electric/Victor radio that showed up in the flea market.

Larry also reports on a pleasant visit with his friend Alan Carter from England, who had brought English items for the auction. Such exchanges always add another dimension to this meet. Although England, Sweden, Japan, Canada, Germany, Switzerland, Australia, and possibly a few other countries were represented, total foreign attendance seemed to be down this year.

Other talks and presentations covered a wide range of topics. Bob Perera was a busy presenter: in one seminar, he talked about "Body Worn Military Direction Finding Receivers and the Newly Discovered Russian Enigma"; later, he moderated a key and telegraph seminar with presentations by Russ Kleinman, Greg Raven, and Gil Schlehman. AWA editors chatted with potential authors and editors at a get-together for those with a literary bent. Bart Lee gave a shortwave report, John Rollins hosted a meeting for Hams, while resources like the David Sarnoff Library available to collectors were Alex Magoun's topic.

In addition, Lauren Peckham moderated a discussion of pre-1912 wireless and electrical apparatus where participants were invited to show items from their own collections. A "Moonlight Restoration Forum" hosted by Mark Ellis was an opportunity for everyone to discuss case histories and to field questions. This kind of exchange of information is, after all, one of the great pluses of such a meet.

Other events of interest were the annual ladies' luncheon, which this year featured a very informative slide presentation on wild flowers.

Alan Jespersion offered this 1937, 12-tube Zenith Model 12U159 in the flea market. The asking price was $2,900.

Visits to the AWA Museum with its important collection of the early wireless years is always a treat, especially to those who haven't attended the conference before.

The Awards Banquet is usually a highlight of the social events of this meet; however, the three most important and oldest awards (the Tyne Tube and the two Houck Awards) were not given this year. In addition, many took exception to the tenor of the entertainment which seemed out of touch with the socio-political awareness of our times. In fact, about two dozen people left the room because of the insensitivity of the jokes about minorities in this country — not, in our judgment, appropriate for AWA to seem to espouse.

Once again it's worth mentioning that the Rochester Institute of Technology and Conference Center, formerly the Thruway Marriott Hotel, is a very acceptable venue. The restaurant is good and prices are at student rates — not a bad perk, to say the least. The bar area makes an excellent gathering place, and the hamburger/coffee stand at the flea market is a great convenience. Though the rooms are still student housing, they are certainly comfortable enough, and no students are present during the conference.

A happy Ernie Hite displays his purchase — a Clapp-Eastham C-3. Ernie quotes Ed Bell as describing this radio as a "very ra-are set."

THE AUCTIONS

The tube auction was as usual a Thursday evening affair with auctioneer Bruce Roloson who spiced up the event with his repartee. There were about the normal number of entries in this auction, but notable were the many bags of big pin and octal tubes that went for practically nothing. These were all entered by Bruce as part of his personal clean-out program and there seemed to be no reason why they were not

Depending on where you look, the flea market offerings were many.

Two rare sets seen in the flea market. At left, a Marconi 122 with an asking price of $6,500. The set lacked a switch cover and a cabinet, but was otherwise complete and in very good condition. Shown at right is an IP-500 with a reproduction cabinet and tag. Its asking price was $5,700.

Highlights of this auction were a DeForest spherical, double-wing Audion in excellent condition selling at $1,500, and a 1917 Telefunken EVN 171 in the original box selling at $250. Two WE 212-D large transmitter tubes sold for $260 and $300 respectively.

Once again Walt Buffington handled the paper, books and general equipment auction starting at 9 A.M. on Friday, which turned out to be one of the biggest ever, lasting 6½ hours. Among the exceptional paper items were a pair of ARRL Convention badges, 1924 and 1927, selling at $1,000 and $1,050. A Civil War Morse Telegraph pamphlet sold for $950.

Of the 413 items offered in the equipment auction, 12 sold for over $1,000. According to the AWA Journal, the auctions totalled $65,335, almost twice last year's total and reversing a downward trend since the lows of '01 and '02.

A number of outstanding items appeared in the equipment auction. Among them was a Marconi early marine crystal set receiver in fair condition and needing a lot of work; yet, it sold for $11,000. An 1880 Knox and Shane telegraph register sold for $5,600; a 1920s Adams Morgan III-A battery set, an attractive, small table model with doors, that could sit in any living room, for $2,000; an early 1920s Kennedy 110 and a 220, for $1,200 and $1,350 respectively, with a matching amplifier going for $900; and, from the Muchow Collection, electronics for a McMurdo Silver Master-piece 6 console for $2,000.

Although there is no longer a separate communications equipment auction, occasional nice items show up. This time it was a Collins S-Line station selling at $800.

The 2006 dates are from August 23, Wednesday evening, through August 26, Saturday. The conference theme is Military Radio/Signal Corp.

In all, your editor continues to recommend that if you can attend only one major meet, AWA is the one to fit into your schedule. If you've been disappointed in recent years, give it another try, as there is much to be enjoyed.

Or... depending on where you look, the flea market offerings were few, indeed.

This Adams Morgan III-A with two red-top tubes sold in the auction for $2,000.

From the early 1920s, these two Kennedy items, a Model 220 receiver and a Model 525 amplifier sold for $1,350 and $900 respectively in the auction.

Cathedral style radios are always popular auction items. Shown left to right: an Atwater Kent Model 206, an Atwater Kent Model 84, and a Jackson-Bell "Sunburst." All three radios were in working condition. Unfortunately, the Atwater Kent Model 206 and the Jackson-Bell "Sunburst" were among the 27 items that did not reach the reserve amount. The Atwater Kent 84 sold and brought $300.

A warning: Auction prices are not current values. Our selection of auction items is not necessarily complete. A listing such as this cannot adequately include the condition of cabinets, chassis, transformers, tubes, the operating status of the set, and the inclusion of incorrect, restored or replica components, etc. Auction prices are the result of the excitement of the auction process, the skill of the auctioneer and the specific interests of the participants. Nevertheless, auction prices serve as useful references and as another element in the value determining process. The possibility of error always exists, and if we are notified, corrections will be reported.

Elinor Williams is shown with her contest entry — a Western Electric Model 14-A amplifier and a Model 2-A power supply. Mrs. Williams is continuing to operate the "Voice of the Twenties" radio museum in Orient, Long Island, New York, that she and her late husband established.

This year's AWA theme Western Electric was very evident in the impressive number of the company's products displayed in the equipment contest. One fine example is this WE SCR-68 entered by R.W. Schaumleffel.

Front and back views of a rare Canadian Marconi 2848 crystal receiver that brought $11,000 in the auction, even though it was very dirty, had multiple cracks in the front panel, and had some coils in need of rewinding.

RADIO RAMBLINGS

Confessions of a Yard Sale Addict

BY CHUCK GROSSMAN

Chuck Grossman's "confessions" are familiar to a great many collectors. How to resist those Saturday morning "sails" around yard sales is the question. Perhaps the answer is simply to give in to the thrill of the hunt and enjoy! (Editor)

I started to write a letter to the editor, but this grew into an article that may bring a smile or two to a few other collectors. I've been collecting radios for over 30 years. Luckily, I'm still married to a wonderful wife who tolerates my addiction, or passion, for my radio retirement home. As she tells others, "He never met a radio that he didn't like."

My first radio was a Hallicrafters S-38 that my father bought for me just after World War II when I was in high school. I've been a Ham (WA5JRI, now WB4LBE) since 1964. Presently, besides my house and garage, I have three large storage areas full. I named them, "Full, Fuller, and Fullest."

Most of the old radios that I have collected have been the results of going to yard sales, garage sales, estate sales, etc. I have attended local auctions and purchased several items, but have not been able to attend some of the national radio auctions that are too far away.

A picture of Nipper, "His Master's Voice," and an A.C. Dayton XL-5.

Upper, an Air King 4603, an Emerson, a Motorola, and a 1941 RCA BP-10 portable. Lower, a Howard 700, a 1946 Mantola P654-PM, a Gilfillan and an unknown cathedral.

PREPARATION FOR THE HUNT

The thrill of the hunt on weekend mornings starts out on the day before. All newspaper classified ads are examined and plotted as to area, day and time of sale. Then, starting with the addresses that began early in the morning, I plan my route to be able to attend as many sales as possible as quickly as I can. If any of the ads mention radios, I go there first.

My advice: plan your route with a good local map, gas up your car, and have one or two flashlights and extra batteries. Carry a few empty boxes and old blankets to protect some of the treasures that you find. Keep a supply of calling cards with your name, phone number, and a picture of an old radio. List what items you are looking for: parts, tubes, books, etc.

Then just before you leave, check the morning paper for any last minute ads that may have been added to the paper. Bring along a poncho or a large trash bag with arm and face holes in case it rains. It's hard to carry some radios with one hand while you're holding an umbrella. Set your alarm clocks (I have a windup clock in case the electricity goes off), and go to sleep early.

ENJOYING THE DAY

Don't take garage sailing too seriously. Have fun with it. Get to know the other early birds and what they are looking for and trade information. There was a group of us that would see each other every weekend at almost the same addresses. It was almost like a social club, and we advised each other about what could be found at the sales some had already surveyed. We looked out for each other. Sometimes we would play jokes on each other, if someone needed cheering up.

Starting out early to beat the competition does get good results, but getting to a sale late in the afternoon or the next day could bring results too. Once I almost drove by a yard sale that had only a few items on a table, but I parked and looked at everything. As I was leaving I told them I was looking for old radios. One of the ladies said, they didn't have any, but the other one asked, "What about that old wooden thing in the attic?" It turned out to be an old American Bosch with tubes and an indoor antenna.

At another sale that I had gone to during lunch, I asked about any old radios or tubes, and a neighbor from down the block said that he had a few. Those tubes ended up being two Atwater Kents and speakers that were covered with dust.

I have found Amateur equipment, military surplus, old TVs, old books and magazines, test equipment, and a lot of junk that I can't (or won't) get rid of. Once I found the glass cabinet of the "Spartan Bluebird" but not the radio.

At one time I had over 400 radios, including novelty and transistors. My wife thinks I have more than that because she keeps finding some that I've had hidden somewhere.

EFFORTS TO CURE THE DISEASE

Have you seen those commercials that say "Don't try this at home"? Unless you have an understanding spouse and a large storage area, don't bring home too many radios. I went from storing them in a spare bedroom to putting 12 consoles in the living room and 87 in the den, filling up the two-car carport and the workshop, flooring the attic, and then adding on a 12' x 20' storage room, fully shelved. All this was the result of too much yard "sailing."

I tried to stop. Just like those cigarette commercials that try to get you to stop smoking, they should have them for yard sailing. I tried going to sleep late and getting up late. I tried not to gas up or read the paper. But almost every street corner seemed to have a yard sale sign on it.

I tried collecting only small transistors, but that didn't work. I tried substituting cameras, and then movie projectors, old records and record players. I tried not to go out of the house one weekend and almost drove my wife mad. She had to get out of the house, even though it was snowing hard.

We finally moved and most of the radios went into storage. I'm still watched very closely. They try to hide the car keys and limit me to doing yard work outside of the house. But somehow, I still end up with one or two radios a month.

Last week, on the way to the supermarket, I saw a yard sale sign that had been up for three days. The sale was just about over when I went in. I was walking out feeling good that I hadn't bought anything when I saw a familiar shape, behind the door, partly hidden. Now I'm trying to figure out how to sneak this beautiful 1937 Zenith tombstone into the house.

Oh well, maybe they'll come out with a pll or something to break this habit. Next week we're trying hypnosis.

Let me leave you with one last bit of advice. Before you purchase that box of parts or an old

The Truetone Model D2121

BY JOSEPH L. CHAMBERS

Loop antennas may have been phased out in the 1930s, but reappeared in Zenith Trans-Oceanics. Here Joseph Chambers tells us about another radio of the 1940s that employs a loop. (Editor)

The Truetone Model D2121, shown in Figure 1, is an unusual radio manufactured in the late 1940s, probably 1948. The set is powered by a 1½-volt/90-volt battery power-pack. The tube complement is five octal types: one 1P5GT RF amplifier, one 1A7GT converter, one 1N5GT IF amplifier, one 1H5GT diode detector and audio amplifier, and one 3Q5GT power amplifier. This tube complement is very common for a radio of this era.

Radios like these are not particularly attractive to collectors because they are very plain, and since they are battery-powered, there isn't much to be desired, except for one thing — the Model D2121 has a loop antenna mounted in the top of the cabinet, and it's not just any loop antenna. Notice the front cover of the loop. In fact, the rear is the same — it is covered with the same material as the speaker grille cloth.

The very first time I saw this radio I had to have it. I don't collect sets from the 1940s, but I do collect battery sets, loop antennas, and radios with loop antennas mounted on the tops of the cabinets.

The Truetone D2121 is a nice radio. It plays well, looks good, and is very unusual for the late 1940s. The circuit is a superheterodyne with an unusual 5-inch speaker. It has an extremely large magnet, and its tone control makes for a very good sounding radio.

(Joseph L. Chambers, 6967 Kimberly Ln., Lithia Springs, GA 30122)

Joseph Chambers' interest in radio began with building a transistor radio in a high school project, described in the November 2003 issue of A.R.C. Starting with a Radiola II, his collection has grown to several hundred antique and transistor radios, novelties, horn and cone speakers, and loop antennas. He also builds and repairs radios and assemblies kits.

RESTORATION TOPICS

Philco Boomerang Restoration

CONTRIBUTED BY CLAUDE CHAFIN

Never give up on a set that has potential for restoration. Claude Chafin tells one successful repair story, and we look forward to others. (Editor)

The Philco Boomerang shown below turned up recently at a local garage sale. My seeing its "potential" is the reason this radio ever got restored.

When I first saw this set, I noticed that it seemed to be still intact. It turned out that it needed only new electrolytics and a power cord. These took five minutes to replace.

The cabinet was quite a different matter. Figure 1 shows the extent of the cabinet damage. Since a large chunk was missing from a rather obvious place, I decided to cut out a similar piece on a band saw. I used Bakelite from an old plain cabinet that was already broken. Notice the grooves I cut to help form the curvature of the cabinet. Then I used tape to hold the piece in place while I tacked it down with Super Glue, as shown in Figure 2. Once the glue had dried, I could flip the set over and pour Plas-T-Pair in the cracks with the tape preventing it from running through the other side, as shown in Figure 3. While the Plas-T-Pair was drying on the seams, I also used Super Glue, which helps to create a rigid bond. JB Weld also helps as a reinforcement for any thin areas. Once everything has dried, it is just a matter of sanding smooth.

Figure 1. In its as-found state, the cabinet was broken and large pieces were missing from its top.

Figure 2. A replacement piece of Bakelite has been cut to size and taped in place on the top.

Then I put a thin coat of primer over the seams to look for faults — i.e. cracks or pinholes not sealed. Sometimes you can't see these flaws without the primer. Now the set is ready to prime and paint. Figure 4 shows the finished product.

(Claude Chafin, 4223 E. 42nd Way, Independence, MO 64055)

Claude Chafin, an old radio collector for 15 years and a Ham operator for 25, asks three questions before taking on a repair job: Will his techniques bring it back to normal? Is it too far gone to make the time spent worthwhile? and Does it have a good collectible potential? Affirmative answers mean success, as in this article.

BOOK REVIEW

The War of the Worlds Murder

By Max Allan Collins

REVIEWED BY DAVID SPIVEY

This is a wonderful read for anyone who loves old radios and is interested in 1930s radio broadcasting. I mean, could anyone who loves old radios fail to pick up a paperback with a picture of an early Detrola on the cover?

The radio broadcast by Orson Welles of H.G. Wells' Martian invasion of earth was a monumental event in radio history. KDKA in Pittsburgh may have introduced thousands to radio, but this broadcast by Welles in October of 1938 really brought the "theater of the mind" to the forefront.

THE BROADCAST

Welles had been involved in The Shadow radio series as the voice of the Shadow. He left that endeavor, and began working with his own show, the Mercury Theatre of the Air. This production was broadcast every Sunday evening at 9 P.M. on CBS, where he went head to head against Charlie McCarthy & Edgar Bergen's Chase & Sanborn Hour, the most popular radio show in the nation. Welles' Mercury Theatre had produced several shows like Bram Stoker's Dracula and Robert Lewis Stevenson's Treasure Island. But, in competition with Charlie & Edgar, Welles' Mercury Theatre was drawing less than four percent of the radio audience.

It's ironic that when Welles and his troupe explained to the audience in the opening that his hour-long broadcast of The War of the Worlds was just a radio show, many people were listening to the opening of Charlie & Edgar. Then when that broadcast went to a commercial and listeners turned to CBS to kill some time, they were immediately hooked into a "real" invasion from Mars. Welles' writers had updated the original novel to include local people and places. The resulting panic changed radio into a force never before envisioned.

THE BOOK

The War of the Worlds Murder is told from the perspective of Walter B. Gibson, the creator of The Shadow comic series. He supposedly had recommended Welles for the part of the Shadow on the radio show. In the novel, he comes to visit Welles in New York, and is present for the three days up to and through the Sunday evening broadcast. Gibson is involved in solving the murder mystery that plays out during the broadcast.

The real enjoyment of the book is the twists and turns of the actual broadcast. These include the music, the sound effects, the personalities of the people involved, and, of course, the effect the broadcast had on radio listeners across the country. In fact, some critics complain that the night of panic triggered by the broadcast overshadows the mystery plot.

However, the broadcast was the defining moment in Welles' career that catapulted him to Hollywood, and production of what many people consider to be the best film ever made — Citizen Kane.

The book is a great mix of fact and fiction, centered around a monumental event in radio broadcasting during what has been called "The Golden Age of Radio." Max Allan Collins is also the author of Road to Perdition, upon which the Tom Hanks movie was based.

The War of the Worlds Murder by Max Allan Collins was published by Berkley Publishing Group in July 2005. It is a 256-page paperback format, 6.8 x 4.3 x 0.7, and can be ordered from amazon.com and other book sellers for $7.99. Please check for shipping instructions.

Marion's Attic Radio Show

Dear Editor:

I am a huge fan of Marion Webster who has a radio show that I would like people to hear. It features music and stories of long ago. She plays mostly Edison cylinder records from the 1890s to the 1920s and Diamond Discs.

She does all of the radio shows from her attic on the simplest equipment — a simple microphone mixer and four microphones: one for herself, one for a guest, one for the Edison Amberola 30 Standard Model D, and one for the Diamond Disc phonograph. She has a tape playback for her theme music and an electric 78 rpm player for non-Edison records.

Hope you will tune in to the one hour a week show on Saturdays at 9:00 P.M. EST either on your snortwave radio WBCQ, "The Planet" at 7.415 MHz, or on the net at <http://www.wbcq.com>. The Marion's Attic Web site is <http://hometown.aol.com/marionweb>.

A "Roman" Radio?

Dear Editor:

Did anybody ever hear of a "Roman" radio?

The only other thing it says anywhere on this set is "Always Ready."

I couldn't find it in Alan Douglas's books, but I understand that Douglas confines his listings of the 1920s sets to companies that were in business for three or more years.

I recently purchased it for $10. It appears to be a typical 5-tube (01-As) radio of about 1925. The front panel is shiny Bakelite or hard rubber.

Jim Apthorpe, Leesburg, FL

"Roman Radio" also was not found in Grinder's Radio Collector's Directory and Price Guide or McMahon's Radio Collector's Guide, both of which list thousands of sets from the 1920s. [Editor]

Watch Out For Scammers!

Dear Editor:

I notice your "printed without comment" box, and thought you'd like to hear more about these scammers.

I make a concerted effort to educate all my advertisers at the Radio Attic on the dangers of Internet fraud. Aside from the dangers of stolen credit cards and faked checks, most Internet fraud is easy to spot before you get cheated. I devised a short list of "red flags" which will alert you to all but the craftiest scammers before agreeing to sell them anything. The more red flags you see in their e-mails, the more likely you are being set up for a scam. The more e-mails you get from them, the more red flags you will see.

Important: I do not suggest that a seller disregard an offer to buy just because one e-mail has one or two of the below red flags; it may be a genuine offer! But, if the offer is not genuine, in the course of the back-and-forth e-mails between seller and buyer, virtually all the below flags will be "hit." It just happens that way.

[As many of Steve's "red flags" as we could fit follow:]

- Wants you to ship to Nigeria.
- Bad use of the English language; this includes the utter lack of spell checking.
- Lots of CAPITAL LETTERS.
- E-mails that look like something has been pasted into the text (a different font or size).
- Telling you out of the gate how he is going to pay (and they will never say Western Union).
- Use of the word "advert" when he's not from the UK, or "Good day" when he's not an Aussie.
- Any e-mail from "Outblaze" (look at the very bottom of the text); these scammers operate out of internet cafes in Lagos and are virtually untraceable.
- Any request for information the buyer would normally know from your reply.
- ANY mention of a third party shipper.
- ANY mention of an intermediary who will assist in the purchase.
- Use of the phrase, "hoping to read from you."
- Intends to send you much more than the item's purchase price and requests "change," especially if he wants to pay you with a check but wants you to send the change via Western Union.

• A variation of the above is when a "business associate" in the States owes the buyer some money, so the associate will pay you, and you have to send the change via Western Union to the buyer or shipper.

• Entire e-mail is one sentence void of punctuation.

From what I have heard, the only 100% reliable way to get REAL money from international sellers is Western Union. One of my advertisers said all the questionable buyers disappear after he sets that requirement.

Ads may be sent in advance; but, write each ad on a separate piece of paper and indicate the month (or successive months up to your subscription expiration; 12-months, maximum) you want the ad to run.

To minimize our typing errors: Please write legibly. Use both capital and small letters. Do not use a dash between words. Carefully write the following numbers and letters (especially in model numbers) since some can look alike; for example 1, l and I (the number one, the capital i and the small L.) Also: 0, O, o, Q and D; v, r and n; 6, b and G; V, U, u, v and Y; A and R; 5, S and s; 2, Z and z. We try to correct spelling errors, so when using an uncommon word or manufacturer which we might mistake as a more common word or manufacturer, note it so that we do not "correct" it. Editor's annotations are in [brackets] in ads.

Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be so identified. Advertisers must agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisfied, and to comply with a buyer's refund request on unaltered returned items.

Classified ads must have a standard heading such as WANTED, FOR SALE, FOR TRADE, FOR SALE/TRADE, SERVICES, MESSAGE, HELP, AUCTION, MEET, FREE. This heading is the only bold or all-capitalized words allowed in the ad. Capitalize only manufacturer names, model names, etc. This standard ad format makes scanning the ads easier.

Before writing your ad, please look over the ads in a recent issue of A.R.C., and try to write your ad in the same style. Full name (or company name) and address is required in all classified ads; we will add it if you forget.

The publisher reserves the right to edit ads without notification to the advertiser and to reject ads for any reason. Names other than the advertiser will be edited out of ads. Ads with non-radio-related items will be returned or edited unless the non-radio-related items are for trade of radio-related items, or they are incidental to and appear at the end of an otherwise acceptable ad. The publisher is not responsible for errors due to illegibly written ads or for any other reason. See also Publishing Rights on opposite page.

Clubs: Since club activities receive free coverage on the Coming Radio Events pages, the free 20 words may not be used for club activity ads. A discount on display advertising is available for clubs.

Classified Ad Rates per Month

Deadline: NOON ET- 10th of the month!

Subscribers:

First 20 words: FREE***

29c per word for extra words over 20 plus

PHOTO & DRAWING DETAILS

Deadline: 1st of the month

for all ads with drawings or photos!

Drawings and photos are encouraged as the response to your ad is much larger and the reader knows better what you want or are selling. Send in your drawing or photograph, and A.R.C. will reduce it or enlarge it as needed.

Photo and Drawing Rates per Month

$23.00 per month for each photo or drawing

(If ad is canceled, this amount cannot always be refunded.)

CHANGES & CANCELLATIONS

Please check your ads carefully before sending them in. Once ads are received, it is not always possible to refund the amount sent, pull the ad or make changes.

IMPORTANT — COUNTING WORDS — IMPORTANT

The standard headings: WANTED, FOR SALE, etc., count as one word each time used in an ad. Name, address and (one) telephone number, count as 6 words, regardless of length. Ham call letters and business name can be included in the 6 words and do not count extra. Full name (or company name) and address is required in all classified ads. Each additional word, abbreviation, model number or number group, extra telephone numbers, fax, e-mail, etc. count as one word each. Hyphenated words count as two words.
