RADIO has revolutionized the status of music in this country, according to Peter W. Dykema, Professor of Music Education at Teachers College, Columbia University, whose study of "Music as Presented by the Radio" has just been issued by The Radio Institute of the Audible Arts.

"No other single item of the varied offerings which radio presents is accorded so much attention as music," he states. "Not only are there many periods which are devoted entirely to music, but practically every program, whatever its main content may be, makes use of music to some extent as introduction or close, as a feature here or there, or as an incidental accompaniment throughout. The tendency, moreover, seems to be to provide even greater quantities of music and to make the offerings increasingly important. He who listens to radio will hear music, and he will increase the satisfaction from his listening as he grows in appreciation of the message of music.

"The radio is doing for music what the printing press did for literature: making it available for everybody. Twenty-five years ago music in its higher forms was heard and enjoyed by only a small portion of our people, the musical elite. Today there is no type of music which cannot be heard by anyone who has access to this marvelous invention. Neither travel nor riches at the opening of this century could command what today the turn of a dial brings to humble but discriminating music lovers."

As some of the outstanding types of musical programs to be heard over the radio today, Professor Dykema mentions soloists, quartets, choruses, light and grand opera groups, oratorio societies, a cappella choirs, small vocal ensembles and corresponding offerings in a wide variety of instrumental music.

"The radio gives remarkable advantages for developing the individual," he says, "because by means of it one can control the music he hears. When we go to a concert we are largely bound by what someone else has decided. With the radio, all we have to do is turn the dial until we come to something which is satisfactory.

"As the tones pour in to us over the radio with no actual presence of conductor to distract us, with no audience coughing or whispering, with none of the many distractions of the concert hall, then we are in the presence of music in a pure form."

Under the heading of "Listen for Pleasure," Professor Dykema recommends using music as a pastime, a pleasure: "This, which is a natural condition—for everybody is born with a love of music in some of its forms—has frequently been corrupted or destroyed by unfortunate circumstances, especially by unwise attempts to force people to study or to like music for which they are not ready. Many of us have developed repugnance for certain articles of food, because of some unfortunate contacts, but we still have not lost our interest in eating. So we should remember that early lack of pleasure in music does not shut us out forever from the enjoying of the art in one or more of its phases. While there are other benefits from music besides simply responding pleasurably to it, this is one that must never be overlooked. In fact, all other accomplishments with music, some of which will be discussed below, rest upon genuine pleasure in the music which one hears. Since pleasure is an individual matter, each person must decide for himself what gives him pleasure. If he is wise, if he wishes his pleasure to continue and to grow, he will be absolutely honest with himself. He will say, frankly and fearlessly, 'This is what I like now, and this is what I intend to hear.' Let no one fear that this will prevent growth and development. It simply emphasizes the fact that interest is at the base of all learning. Before long any listener will be discussing his likes and dislikes with other listeners, and thus the way will be opened for growth and development."

MICROPHONE GOSSIP

• • • Every year a southern fund for under privileged children receives a check that varies from $15 to $2000—depending on the number of people who have purchased the Phil Baker accordion that year. Baker, who is heard Friday nights at 9:30 p. m. E. S. T. over the WJZ network, has a trick arrangement in the bass keys on the accordion he plays and one which is marketed in the same style is known as the "Phil Baker Accordion." The accordion pays him royalties which he in turn passes on to his favorite charity.

• • • It was on a recent NBC broadcast from Hollywood that Ben Bernie jokingly remarked "It's raining cats and dogs in Hollywood tonight; if any of youse guys and gals are passing the Sherman Hotel in Chicago will you pick up my umbrella and mail it to me."

Proof that Bernie has listeners was gained when the next week's mail literally showered Bernie with all types of umbrellas from fancy parasols to decrepit old bumbershoots.

Next week the old Maestro says he's figuring on saying something about wrist watches.

• • • Tidal data, weather conditions in the harbor, ship bearings and other information vital to off-shore navigators is broadcast daily at 8 a. m. by KTAB. Planes of the navy also use the information provided by the station.

• • • H. V. Kaltenborn, Columbia's shrewd news analyst, is fond of gardenias. So is Ruth Bryan Owen, U. S. Minister to Denmark. They discovered their mutual fondness for the flower during a reception given for America's first woman diplomat at the Kaltenborn home in Brooklyn. Some weeks later in Detroit Kaltenborn was handed a gardenia as he left his hotel to fill a lecture date. The same thing happened in Toledo, in Cleveland, and in subsequent cities Kaltenborn visited on his lecture tour. It appears that Mrs. Owen preceded him on the same lecture route, and in each town left an order for a buttonhole gardenia for her friend.

• • • Even the most experienced radio singer often gets "mike fright" about talking. But not Armand Girard, NBC basso.

Girard has a season of loud, long and vigorous announcing behind him. Before his national network days, when he was a featured artist on the NBC staff in San Francisco, he once came out of a song program only to be grabbed roughly by the shoulder.

"Take this and read it," ordered a frantic program director. A new program's special announcer was missing. Girard happened to be the nearest available male so he got the job. He was to read a sales talk every fifteen minutes during a ninety-minute program.

"At first I was terrified," he confesses. "If I could have sung those commercials it would have been okay. But talking—!"

However, he was kept on as special announcer because he "sounded so natural." And in addition he sang in the quartet and was featured soloist, all on the same program—but he used three different names.

• • • Announcer Kenneth Roberts' mother, attending a recent "Hour of Charm" broadcast by Phil Spitalny's all-girl ensemble, was surprised to find, in the next seat, the man who taught Ken to play the piano as a boy. "Why, Kenneth is the announcer of this program," she informed him proudly. "And my daughter is the 'cellist," the tutor replied. His 'cello-playing daughter is the talented Mila Wellerson of the Spitalny ensemble.

• • • Barton Yarborough, who is Clifford of One Man's Family, is a real Barbour so far as his home life is concerned. Just like the second son of the Barbour household, Barton can look out through the Golden Gate every evening; can watch the Mile Point light in San Francisco's famous channel flash its message by night, for he lives in a big house in Sea Cliff, right on the cliffs of the Gate. Lois Austin, NBC actress, who is his sister-in-law, and her husband, Arthur Yarborough, noted portrait photographer, live with him. Recently Bart acquired a studio apartment in downtown San Francisco, and it is there he writes the short stories and plays which are his hobby.

• • • For a dignified studio supervisor, Charles Bulotti, Jr., of KHJ, spends his idle hours in a manner most peculiar. Believe it or not, young Charles has a wild passion for electric trains and the birthday or Christmas that does not bring an addition to his accumulation of track, signals or other diminutive locomotive material is disappointing at best. S'fact.

• • • Radio artists are always appreciative of gifts from fans, but Edna Fischer, NBC pianist, treasures one gift far above everything else she has ever received. It is Flip, her little Boston bulldog, whom one of her listeners sent her several years ago, and who is her devoted pal. Flip accompanies Edna to the studio every day and waits in her car while the little Mistress of the Keys is on the air.

• • • A chew of gum for every stroke of the baton . . . that's Gino Severi in person. The tiny but fiery KHJ musical conductor always carries a "wad" while directing the orchestra for broadcast and would feel lost without it. Musicians watching Gino for signals alternate with their gaze between the fast-moving jaws and the baton.

• • • Next fifty Judge Rutherford transcriptions will be made in his San Diego home, Beth Sarim. Freeman Lang has installed a complete recording channel in the lecturer's den so he can speak from that point.

• • • Feminine ancestors of Art Van Harvey, who takes the part of Vic in NBC's Vic and Sade broadcasts, were ladies-in-waiting to the queens of Holland. Art is half Dutch and half Irish.

• • • Frank Farrell's singing of "Star Dust" on a recent program of the Barnyard Serenade (KHJ) caught the ear of a film executive and won for the handsome blond tenor a screen test.

• • • Anne Seymour, star of Grand Hotel, says that if she ever returns to the stage she'll doubtless be a "one-armed" actress. Since radio actors usually hold their script in one hand, she points out, they eventually acquire the habit of making all gestures with the other.

• • • More than one thousand requests have come to Sigmund Romberg for the title of his theme music on his Saturday evening broadcasts, and his publisher wants to put it out in sheet form. But Rommy declines to give the tune a title or to publish it.

• • • A cartoon of three kings sitting on a throne was the only means of identification on a letter recently received at the post office in San Francisco. It was immediately delivered to the Three Rhythm Kings at KFRC.

• • • Some radio performers have horses named after them, some are honored by flower fanciers. Now comes Virginia Rea. The soprano of the American Album of Familiar Music has just been notified by an admirer in Berea, Kentucky—the singer's home state—that a quilt design has been called "the Virginia Rea."

• • • One year ago Jacques Renard, Columbia maestro, began a systematic campaign for the reduction of excess weight. Jacques is celebrating the first anniversary of his undertaking, having reduced to a mere 202 pounds, as against the 302 pounds he weighed a year ago. His friends advise that he watch his step, since if he keeps up at the present rate, in two more years he will weigh two pounds.

• • • Andre Kostelanetz, who abhors nothing more than a cold New York winter, is fervently hoping for a mild season ahead. Yet he grew up in Russia, almost unsurpassed for its chill winters.

• • • George W. Stinson, Al Pearce tenor, has been called a "Second Caruso" by Arthur Brisbane. Stinson still keeps his job of California State Highway patrolman while he sings for the radio.

• • • Morey Amsterdam, Al Pearce comic, has written a song, "Just Plain Old Me," which will be released by one of the major publishers in March.

• • • A group from the Al Pearce Gang attended a preview of Rudy Vallee's new picture, "Sweet Music" and voted it a knock-out. Morey Amsterdam contributed some material to the picture.

• • • Bob Allen, who is heard over KFRC in a variety of featured broadcasts, studied under the noted Dr. Evans, organist at Westminster Chapel, London. Allen started his musical career at the age of eight years.

• • • Benay Venuta, a promising singer from California, recently signed for a series of broadcasts by Columbia, made her debut in her own fifteen-minute broadcast over the CBS network on Friday, March 1, at 12 to 12:15 p. m.

Miss Venuta comes to radio from a finishing school, the films, and occasional guest appearances before the microphone in San Francisco. She is an outstanding athlete and holds numerous swimming championships. Tall, blonde and attractive, she is regarded as one of the prettiest young women in radio.

• • • A flood of requests for Edwin C. Hill's "Human Side of the News" talks had led his sponsors to lay in a weekly stock.

• • • Jerry Wilford, whose new program entitled Old Timer and His Dog is heard on KTAB each Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, at 5:15 o'clock, always has his Irish setter, Don Juan, with him in the studio when he broadcasts.

• • • If Jack Fulton hadn't sung to do a favor for a friend, he'd never have been a soloist on his own program over CBS three times a week. When he was in high school at Phillipsburgh, Pa., a friend took sick and Jack volunteered to sing the lad's part in a high school operetta. The friend is now a real estate man—and Fulton, after eight years with Paul Whiteman, is a star in his own right.

NEWS and COMMENT

Arrangements have been completed through which the National Broadcasting Company and the Radio Corporation of America will cooperate in the 1935 National Geographic Society-United States Army Air Corps stratosphere flight, scheduled to be made the early part of June from the Strato-Bowl near Rapid City, North Dakota.

RCA will install special radio equipment, designed by RCA-Victor and Radiomarine Corporation, similar to that utilized for the 1934 flight, in the gondola of the huge stratosphere balloon, so that reports of the flight may be carried over NBC networks from many miles above the surface of the earth.

Captain Albert W. Stevens, who last year made the flight into the stratosphere with Major W. E. Kepner, will attempt to reach 75,000 feet and establish a new record during the contemplated ascension. His flying partner will be Captain Orville Anderson, of Kelly Field, San Antonio, Tex., who also took part in last year's venture.

While the broadcasting equipment, now being constructed, differs little from that utilized in the 1934 stratosphere flight, several important changes have been made in the new model stratosphere balloon and gondola.

The new balloon will be 25 per cent larger in cubic contents than the balloon used last year. The fabric is one ounce heavier per square yard, insuring less danger from bursting as it enters the rarified atmosphere of the upper regions.

Government-manufactured helium will replace hydrogen, which was used last year for inflation of the three-million-cubic-foot balloon. The helium, it is believed, will prove more suitable at high altitudes.

The gondola will be eight inches larger in diameter, allowing additional space for installation of scientific apparatus. A ten-watt RCA-Victor transmitter will be fitted in the gondola.

The stratosphere balloon will be taken to the Strato-Camp some time between May 1 and May 15.

Secretary of War George H. Dern will join the expedition a short time before the flight, as official representative of the government.

Broadcasts will be heard from time to time over NBC networks from the Strato-Camp. Descriptions of the various tests, and broadcasts from the sealed stratosphere gondola will be carried over NBC networks.

During the actual flight, Captain Stevens and Captain Anderson will make reports of their progress, which will be heard over combined NBC networks.

Many times the speed of radio communication has proved vitally important during emergencies. The latest incident on local airways is reported by KJBS.

It appears that Dr. Alanson Weeks, prominent San Francisco surgeon, was en route to Los Angeles in his automobile when his presence was urgently required at St. Luke's Hospital. An appeal to police for help was relayed to KJBS.

At the time KJBS was linked to KQW in a simultaneous program broadcast. A brief announcement was put on the air describing Doctor Weeks' car and asking that he be notified.

Racing southward at Gilroy, Doctor Weeks, by a curious and fortunate coincidence, was tuned to one of the stations, heard the appeal himself and communicated with the hospital.

Imagine the thrills experienced by the station staff when police informed them of the successful broadcast.

With radio men the friendly combatants, this verbal duel has been in progress at the meetings of the San Francisco Advertising Club.

Spot broadcasting was upheld by C. P. MacGregor, president of MacGregor and Sollie Broadcasting System, at a recent meeting.

The "spot" broadcast—that is the broadcast by a sponsor over a single station and not a hook-up of any sort—has a definite place in the radio horizon, MacGregor argued.

"It is the most flexible, the most certain way of sales promotion for certain types of articles or commodities. Particularly is this true of seasonal commodities. Just for an example, let's take a horticulturist. Why should he advertise the planting of flowers in Spokane, Washington, when as a matter of fact it is 20 below zero that day, when in Southern California it is 80 or 90 degrees and the correct time to plant shrubs?"

In carrying out his arguments in behalf of the spot broadcasting, MacGregor showed how it was possible to have a broadcast electrically transcribed . . . use it on a station at a seasonable time. When it is the correct time in another locality for such an advertising campaign, even if it's weeks or months away, use that transcribed program.

The time element, too, is also to be considered in broadcasting, the radio man said. He went on to state that because of the many differences of time in the United States chain broadcasts don't always reach the audience at a preferred hour.

This can all be easily overcome by using spot broadcasting, MacGregor pointed out.

Stations throughout the world are now broadcasting spot programs produced at the MacGregor and Solly studios in San Francisco. Probably among the most popular features are Cecil and Solly and Eb and Zeb.

Amos 'n' Andy (Freeman F. Gosden and Charles J. Correll) shook the snow of Chicago off their feet and boarded a train on Saturday, March 2, for the desert country around Palm Springs, California, where they plan to vacation for nearly a month, returning about the first of April.

Their broadcasts nightly except Saturday and Sunday are put on the air from their Palm Springs hotel. Announcer Bill Hay opens and closes the programs, as usual, from the Chicago NBC studios.

Correll and Gosden just recently returned to Chicago from a strenuous road trip to the South and East, during which they made personal appearances in a score of cities.

Asked about their California plans, Gosden said: "We're just going to loll around in the desert sand and play golf and swim. We are not going to fill any stage engagements on the trip. No work at all, outside the broadcasts. Mrs. Correll and Mrs. Gosden are coming along.

The internationally famous pair had less than three hours from the time of their arrival in San Bernardino, California, until their first broadcast was scheduled to go on the air at Palm Springs. Palm Springs is fifty miles from San Bernardino and Amos 'n' Andy rushed to their hotel there by automobile.

Radio's most recent "noble experiment" has turned out to be the biggest smash hit among the new programs. It is the Lux Radio Theatre program which is aired Sunday afternoons.

Besides winning the March distinguished service to radio medal of a radio magazine, Radio Stars, the program was chosen the best dramatic program of the year by the radio editors in a nation-wide poll.

And after Frank Morgan's name was affixed to a signature to appear in "Nothing But the Truth," it had proved that it had been able to bring practically every outstanding star to the microphone, with the exception of George Arliss, who is holding out for $100,000 for thirteen broadcasts. But the Lux Radio Theatre has taken the tripe out of radio dramatics and proved that a lot of things which critics said could never be done, could be.

In the first place, most stars of any theatrical magnitude insisted that an hour's time was needed for the air presentation of a good play. That was given. They insisted that adequate time for rehearsal should be provided—and that has been done. They insisted that supporting casts should be chosen from stage actors and not from the nice lads and lassies whose only training for dramatics has been at the microphone. They were granted that, too. Herein a piece of sponsorship wisdom lines. By granting every wish to the stars of screen and stage, they put the whole thing up to them to deliver an excellent job, because with no objection to procedure as outlined by the stars, the actor could have no alibi for even a 95 per cent performance. And so far, performance has been 100 per cent—which accounts for the "solid smash" of the program.

A giant radio receiving set, so large that thousands of persons walk in and out of it daily, is in operation in the National Broadcasting Company studios in Radio City. The set is not for sale nor can it be borrowed by any fan. It is too large to move. In fact, it occupies the entire studio.

The set is, in reality, a giant model constructed by NBC and RCA-Victor engineers as the latest unit in a series of displays which show visitors the mechanics of broadcasting. These visitors who take the NBC guide tours first see the studios with programs in the making. Then they see a model of a transmitter. That is followed by a layout showing the course of a sound from the microphone to the transmitter and through the air. Now they can follow the sound through the receiving set to the loudspeaker. The layman actually sees the radio signal converted into sound.

The model has been built on a scale of twenty-to-one, with tubes five feet high. In the center stands, by way of contrast, a standard size superheterodyne radio set with the cabinet removed and the interior exposed. Identification ribbons extend from various parts of the small set to corresponding parts of the model.

To the right is a complete set with phonograph attachment. The guide plays a record made by some favorite radio artist, or speaks into a microphone. The sound thus made is converted into radio or carrier type energy, then conducted to the array of giant tubes along a line which indicates the antenna lead. Another line conducts the electric current. Cathode ray oscillograph tubes show the course of the sound waves through the various stages of conversion and amplification as the guide explains each step. The final tube, a straight cathode ray, pictures the sound itself as it reaches the human ear. Ed Wynn's "So-oo-o," President Roosevelt's "My Friends," Rudy Vallee's "Heigh-Ho," and other familiar radio vocal trademarks can be shown.

The giant model was installed under the supervision of O. B. Hanson, chief engineer, as an educational exhibit for the public. It occupies one leaf of the NBC cloverleaf studio which was constructed with a view to its ultimate use in television.

The various exhibits are intended to acquaint visitors to Radio City with the mechanics behind the radio program. Now the interested fan, in addition to witnessing a radio program in production, can follow its theoretical course from the studio over the networks, through the air and finally to his own parlor.

More than half a million persons have taken the conducted tour through the studios since they were opened in November, 1933.

Now that the Santa Anita Handicap broadcast is over Clem McCarthy and members of the NBC staff in Hollywood can look back upon Feb. 23 as one of the most exciting days in their lives. It was a day of thrills and spills, and very nearly a day of tragedy.

With one of the strongest winds in the history of Southern California whistling over the track Al Jolson and Ben Bernie swapped gags and chatter atop the roof of the Santa Anita grand stand with NBC manager John Swallow and a technician at their sides. A heavy gust of wind snatched a bunch of folding chairs, clattered them along the roof and deposited them neatly on the technician's foot, while Jolson buttoned his top coat tightly, and Bernie clutched at what remains of his hair.

As McCarthy, ace racing commentator, described the $100,000 handicap Jolson and Bernie kept their fingers crossed. Bernie had his money on Equipoise who failed to come in, so he, too, got hurt. Jolson fared better.

But the big thrill came when McCarthy rushed through 35,000 frenzied spectators with a policeman as interference, dashed through the stewards' stand, and up to the winning Azucar on the track, with Announcer Kenneth Carpenter at his side. Just when excitement was at its height a stable hand suddenly tossed a blanket on Azucar and the horse reared into the air, knocking down McCarthy tearing out the cable lines and telephonic communication system, breaking the microphone and the head-set, and scattering the spectators, with Carpenter and Harold Bock of the NBC staff getting trampled in the rush. None was hurt.

Seeing the accident Swallow opened the mike on the grandstand roof and began talking while McCarthy made his way to the stewards' stand. But because neither could hear or see the other, both began talking at once. Finally order was restored, the recalcitrant Azucar was captured and led to his stable, and the NBC technical crew began a search for the microphone which never was found.

"Azucar must have been kicking at the last joke of yours," Bernie remarked to Jolson as he lit another cigar and twirled his cane.

CHARLIE MARSHALL, the NBC's slow-moving Singing Cowboy, should know his hoedowns, and all the cowboy tunes and home songs that go along with it, for he comes from a family that came out of the Kentucky hills to settle in Kansas before it was a state.

Along with working on the farm in Glasco, Kansas, Charlie had to attend grammar school, but his greatest interest at that time was the fiddle his grandfather was teaching him to play. He still has that fiddle and keeps it in use. His father taught him to play the guitar and many of the favorite tunes that now draw a steady flow of fan mail for the big cowboy. Still in Glasco, Kansas,

CHARLIE MARSHALL

Marshall hears most of his son's programs over the air, and the same tunes he taught him, which were old-timers even in those days, are applauded by audiences from coast to coast.

Many of those tunes, Charlie says, were old in the 80's; their composers are long forgotten; and needless to say, they are now sung in different parts of the country in different ways. Ace Wright, who is one of Charlie's "Boys," and who hails from Nebraska, will have a somewhat different version of an old-time ballad than Charlie, and Mona Greer, who sings with Charlie's Mavericks, and comes from Texas, will have still another version.

To watch the one-time farm boy as he slowly moves through the NBC San Francisco studios getting ready to sing a desert ditty in Death Valley Days, nobody would believe it is the same Charlie who in his stage days was known to write as many as twenty minstrel shows on short order.

Charlie had traveled around the country, playing for barn dances, working in minstrel shows, his whimsical humor and knowledge of American folk songs never failing to please, when a friend wired him to come to San Francisco and join the NBC staff. He did, and his particular brand of music and entertainment given over the air on one of the first really big variety programs went over with a bang.

That was in 1928, and since then he has been entertaining over the NBC networks.

He and Mrs. Marshall have a large country home near Redwood City, on the San Francisco Peninsula. It is built along rustic lines in the log cabin style. Charlie helped clear the grounds and did most of the work; he's happiest when he's hammering away or laying the cement for some improvement. For instance, his barbecue pit—it had to be like the one that was back home in Kansas, and Charlie knew that if he wanted it just so it was his job. His anticipations of thirty or forty guests to his barbecues didn't fall amiss, for it's a frequent event for Charlie and Mrs. Marshall to entertain that many friends.

For an appetizer, Charlie keeps his guests pitching horseshoes, and most NBC folks have at one time or another tossed horseshoes there while the beef was roasting in the pit.

A big library and two fireplaces help to make the inside of the house the comfortable place it is. One room is devoted entirely to a music library, where scores of old-time mountaineer songs, square dances and quadrille music are carefully kept and catalogued in the most efficient manner. Many of Charlie's NBC programs are prepared in this comfortable little room.

Barbour Family Will Just Have to Leave Their Card

Did you ever have a friend or family of friends who were such good pals you felt that without them life would be a little less worth living, and then circumstances over which you and they had no control forced you to part company? Well, that is the way I felt when I read my copy of the Broadcast this week and saw that on and after April 3, "One Man's Family" would be on Wednesday at 5 p. m. Wednesday is fine but 5 p. m. A lot of us poor working people are just folding up the days' work at that time, and can't expect to hear our favorite radio until some time later.

In the office where I'm employed—there are over two hundred people—there are just lots of others that feel as I do. Can there be something done about it so we won't lose our good friends, the Barbours? We are glad they are to have sponsors, of course, because that means keeping them on the air, but cannot a better hour be found? Wednesday for a day is fine and any time after 6 p. m., please.

I think Broadcast Weekly is a splendid little paper, and I particularly like the editorials—sometimes. Being an office girl, as above said, I find it valuable to keep track of my favorite programs, which are too numerous to mention. Being for some time past and some time to come a semi-invalid, my only source of outside amusement is radio and I appreciate the good things we have, but wish there were a few less jazz orchestras and that such programs as Winning the West, Death Valley Days and Blue Moonlight, etc., did not come so late.

Pardon the length of this letter, but I've never written before and I seem to be trying to say everything at once. Will you remember after 6 p. m., please? Thank you for your courtesy.

E. P., Sacramento, Calif.

Bring on the Marines and the Situation Will Be Well in Hand!

What has become of the U. S. Marine Band and especially its hour of music for the shut-ins? The substitutes we get now on Tuesday mornings are not worth listening to and our radio is silent then. Why cut off the U. S. Army Band on Wednesday morning for "Magic Recipes"? I suppose Marine, Navy and Army programs are "unprofitable" to the networks in one way, but I have little doubt that the resentment caused by their "cutting" or omission eventually reacts to greater loss for the networks. "One Man's Family" as planned for 5 p. m. will be impossible for large numbers of its adherents, even those who are glad to note its break with cigarettes! Cannot the CBS find some way of obtaining an outlet for the Pacific Coast that can be heard at all times? KML is good when other stations do not interfere: KPFC is largely impossible because of interference—the same is true of KHJ, while the small stations can rarely be had understandably. When KSL is available it is fine, but it is impossible a good part of the daytime, while it does not carry all the Don Lee programs. Cannot those of us who dislike jazz, "blues" and other undesirable programs have a little more consideration? There are some splendid programs on the air, but there are times in the evening when one can go from one end of the board to the other without finding anything worth listening to; just the same as it is some mornings.

J. B., Atascadero, Calif.

The Time Is All Out of Joint

First I want to thank you here and now for your excellent weekly which I have used for quite a while—and I might mention that through my speaking of it a number of friends of mine are also subscribers.

My principal reason, however, for this letter is to register a protest, and you might as well prepare yourself for a deluge of them—also the National Broadcasting Company had better fortify themselves—briefly, why must "One Man's Family," from April 3 on, be put on the air at an hour when only stay-at-homes and school children can hear it. It is really a family program originating on our own Pacific Coast, so why can't we workers be favored. After all we are the ones who buy radios, and few of us can hear any regular evening programs before 6:30 p. m., Pacific Coast time.

Yes, I'm one of an increasingly large number who never miss this program—either Wednesday, Friday or Sunday, wherever it is shifted—so please see if something can't be done to keep it an evening program. Besides any sponsor responsible for the earlier hour will surely lose favor. We all need that program because it gives us splendid sermons and inspiration and I can not praise too highly the work of each member of the cast as well as the marvelous work of Carlton E. Morse.

Of course, I really do enjoy many other evening programs—but this is my most favorite one.

We of the West miss many of the East Coast programs entirely. Is it asking too much to consider our own pleasure in this one instance.

Mrs. M. C., Oakland, Calif.

Not GENUINE Bayer Program

To the Bayer Company—Gentlemen:

What have you gone and done to the American Album of Familiar Music?

Six-thirty to seven, Sunday evening, Pacific standard time, used to be something to look forward to—a sort of oasis of concert and popular music played in a classical style, in a desert of super-highbrow music and ultra-raucous jazz (with a low bow in the general direction of Richard Himber and one or two others who constitute the shining exception that proves the drab and dismal rule).

But now it's just another one of those "revues," with a lot of hot-cha music and a lady groaner. Frank Munn is as good as ever, but hopelessly miscast in this "revue."

In case you haven't time to read the above, the situation may be covered in two words, not original but expressive—Ise regusted.

L-R. H., San Francisco.

P. S. If there's anyone listening in that cares anything about the great middle class of music, speak up now or forever after hold your peace.

Working Class Barred from Barbours

Please, is this the proper way to register a great big protest. Just what are we poor working people to do when "One Man's Family" is changed to Wednesday at five o'clock.

If it was a question of taking them with Kentucky Winners or not at all, we would vote for Winners. Don't smoke, nor drink tea either, but want the Barbours. There ought to be a law—or something.

Written in protest for the whole family.

Mrs. K. W., Walla Walla, Wash.
