FOREWORD

For Radio, the first year of peace has once again opened the dynamic door for additional unselfish contribution to the culture, entertainment and education of not only our own, but the countless millions of the entire world.

There's a lot of truth to the statement that a radio station is no better than the people who man it and the policies that guide it. And WINS is no exception! With this in mind initial steps toward improvement have been made. Currently WINS personnel has been increased 21% while payroll's up 60%, thus providing a more adequate size and quality of staff. Programming too has progressed. Approximately 48% of it represents new and improved shows. Also, a 50kw transmitter is being installed. All efforts continue to improve WINS . . . to make it a better entertainment and information vehicle for listeners and an honest, resultful medium for advertisers.

RADIO'S YEAR OF EXPANSION

SETS THE 1947 PATTERN OF INCREASED MOMENTUM

By CHARLES R. DENNY
Chairman
Federal Communications Commission

WITH wartime fetters removed, radio in 1946 chalked up a year of unprecedented activity and expansion in its many phases, and 1947 gives every promise of appropriate follow-up acceleration.

The development in aural and visual broadcasting, as well as in other radio services, will provide the nation with the most extensive array of program and communications facilities in history. Establshed rado facilities, busy with the improvement and expansion of their outlets, were joined by hundreds of newcomers during the past twelve months.

Frequency modulation and television, newest members of the broadcast family, made significant strides as grants were issued and as station construction and set production were stepped up.

The Commission's report, "Public Service Responsibility of Broadcast Licensees," unanimously adopted last March, inaugurated a policy of a more detailed review of broadcast station performance in passing upon applications.

During 1946, the Commission began hearings incident to determining what changes, if any, should be made in the present method of allocating "clear channels" in the standard broadcast band.

The post-war impetus given to FM indicates that this new type of broadcasting will make great progress within the next few years.

Following public hearings, the Commission withheld, until June 30, 1947, the assignment of one out of every five Class B FM-channels tentatively allocated for various areas. The purpose of this reservation is to safeguard equitable distribution of FM frequencies, offer opportunities to newcomers and, at the same time, prevent monopolistic tendencies.

Television moved out of the blueprint stage and into the construction phase. A hearing was scheduled in December, 1946, to obtain information on the status and possibility of adding color to commercial television operation.

The Commission, fully conscious of its responsibility to encourage the orderly expansion of the complex radio art, looks forward to 1947 as a year in which more complete and adequate services will be available.

Broadcasting will continue to be unsurpassed in its ability to serve the American people through the dissemination of information, education, culture and entertainment. Broadcasters will continue to have a great responsibility to see that the technical resources at their disposal are matched by an awareness of the public interest, imagination and courage on the programming side.

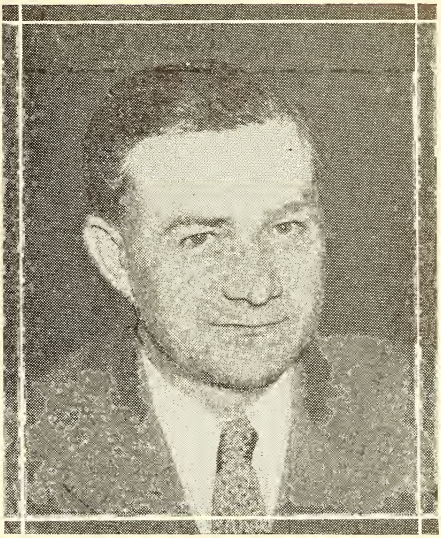
1947-THE YEAR OF DECISION

FOR THE INDUSTRY'S PRACTICES-PROBLEMS



By JUSTIN MILLER
President
National Association of Broadcasters

THE NAB looks forward to 1947 as the year of decision in many of the radio industry's practices and problems.

New legislation, a new NAB Standards of Practice and new standards of program performance, spear-headed by the establishment of the NAB's new Program Department, are the top items of a full agenda.

In the field of legislation, I have recommended (1) that renewals of licenses should be automatic except when the Commission protests that the licensee has not been performing in the public interest; (2) that revocation and renewal upon protest of the Commission should be triable in a Federal District Court with a fair hearing and the usual guarantees of a fair hearing in a Court instead of in an administrative hearing which proceeds without those guarantees and without an opportunity for appeal except on the grounds of law.

I would make the FCC a party complainant in such cases; (3) that to the extent the discretion of the licensee is withheld from him, as in political broadcasts, his liability for libel and other penalties should be removed; (4) that the scope of Judicial review of the Commission's decisions be enlarged, whether there is an aggrieved person or not, to cover the interpretations of its (the Commission's) power in cases in which decisions themselves are not adverse to anyone but in which opinions are written having the effect of regulations.

I would, also, enlarge the scope of Judicial review to permit an appeal by any citizen where freedom of speech is abridge; (5) that the scope of the free speech limitation be made explicit. If it isn't sufficiently plain in the Act as it stands, then Congress should write it in terms which no one can misunderstand. There should be an express repudiation of the "scarcity doctrine" as a limitation upon freedom of speech; and (6) that, in order to avoid any indirect attack upon freedom of speech, Congress provide expressly that the Federal Communications Commission shall have no supervision over program content or the business structure of radio stations.

With respect to the new Standards of Practice, the full membership of the NAB, at its last meeting in Chicago, cleared the way for quick and effective action by ratifying a by-law giving to the Board of Directors of NAB the power to formulate Standards of Practice and provide means for their observance. NAB's new Standards of Practice Committee has been appointed and will hold its first meeting in February or March and, working directly with the NAB Board and with headquarters staff, it will immediately begin to formulate policies which will guide the broadcaster and protect the listener. The new Program Department will seek, also, to establish even higher standards of program performance and program practices and to encourage experimentation in the limitless field of new program ideas and techniques.

1947 POTENTIALITIES GREAT

By FRANK BURKE, Editor, RADIO DAILY

RADIO can't miss in 1947 if the industry makes use of its great potentialities.

Station expansion in the AM, FM and television fields, an unprecedented market for receivers and the many new sponsors in prospect for commercial radio are just a few of the signs that forecast prosperity during the new year.

Frank Burke

In the AM—standard station field — there are 1,064 stations of record today with the Federal Communications Commission and a total of 890 applications for new and changed stations awaiting processing. In addition, the Commission reveals, that there were 532 AM grants during the calendar year and that most of these stations are still in the process of construction. Last year at this time there were 1,027 AM stations on the air.

The FM station prospects for 1947 are bright. FCC Chairman Charles Denny predicted recently that more than 700 FM stations will be on the air before the end of the year. On Jan. 1, 136 FM stations were of record at the Commission and 500 applications were awaiting processing.

Television stations are expected to increase in number during this year. On January 1 there were nine video stations operating, 46 grants and 19 applications pending. A spokesman for the FCC predicted that construction would get under way on 100 tele stations during the new year. Among those in prospect are stations in Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul, Los Angeles, Baltimore, Boston and Philadelphia.

Other trends in the expanding electronic industry has been stepped up, production schedules in the radio, television and facsimile receiver fields. While production in radio and television receivers during 1946 were limited largely to table models the year coming will see expanding stocks of all-purpose console receivers and combinations of radio-phonographs.

Organizational Expansion

Industry organizations took on added importance as the year 1947 got under way. The National Association of Broadcasters, which in 1940 had a membership of 536 at the San Francisco convention, announced during their January board meeting on the coast that membership now totals 1,169. Another important organizational trend was the formation of the Frequency Modulation Association in Washington with a charter membership of 250 FM broadcasters interested in the development and exploitation of the FM field. The Radio Manufacturers Association is also playing a vital role in the industry expansion with stepped-up plans for manufacturing, merchandising and promotion. In New York, the Institute of Radio Engineers announced approximately 7,000 in attendance, and unprecedented buying of new equipment at their March meeting and exposition.

Webs and Stations Active

Networks and stations throughout the country have buckled down to creative selling in a market which bids fair to become highly competitive as the year progresses. One trend noted in commercial programming with the advent of the new year is the growing emphasis put on co-operative programming with the major networks as well as independents going after the business. Notable among the new co-op shows is "America's Town Meeting of the Air," on ABC; Fulton Lewis on Mutual; Red Barber's sports show on CBS and NBC's "World News Roundup." Platter spinners continued to garner local business on stations throughout the nation and the husband-and-wife gossip shows were thriving in cities such as New York, Chicago and Los Angeles.

On the labor-management front the most important developments was the AFRA-Webs negotiations for new artists' contracts, the Government's appeal of the Federal court decision favoring James C. Petrillo and AFM who were prosecuted under the Lea Act, and the settlement of strikes which involved IBEW groups in several cities.

Growing emphasis on the importance of public relations was also a development as 1947 got under way. The NAB board meeting in San Francisco, gave President Justin Miller broad powers.

FREE RADIO AND FREE SPEECH

By M. H. SHAPIRO, Managing Editor, RADIO DAILY

TAKING into consideration some specific programs one heard during the past year, it begins to seem as though the broadcasting industry is developing an Achilles heel, self-made, purely through a desire to lean backward in seeing to it that free speech remains unimpaired. Particularly pampered in this respect were those who attacked radio, its programs, and style of living, as it were.

M. H. Shapiro

Chronologically speaking, three books apparently started something. There emerged the FCC's "Blue Book"; Siepmann's "Radio's Second Chance," and Wakeman's "The Hucksters." Concurrently the press agents got busy, even organizations like the American Civil Liberties Union (and their press agent). Radio was suddenly flooded with discussions, and the regular commercial and sustaining forums brought forth authors (or vice versa), pro and con sitters-in, and the industry mostly began to take it on the chin. To the average listener, it appeared that radio from then on accepted the negative while the attackers placed themselves in the light of being on the affirmative side.

Radio's only recompense appeared to be the faint cry in the midst of these programs in question: "See, if this weren't a free country and radio wasn't free, you couldn't be on here razzing the dickens out of us. Isn't it better this way?" Which is the obvious and must be known to a great many American people by now.

What radio did during the war, and even before that, in preparing the nation for it; what it is doing now in the way of contributing millions of dollars worth of free time and energy on the part of its executives and staff; its help to the government in the reconversion task and various other contributions to governmental needs apparently is taken for granted. There are numerous other laudable phases of radio as millions of listeners will attest.

Yet, during course of the forums et al. none of the good radio programs came up for discussion.

Next phase was the disposition of network heads to issue words of warning regarding too highly commercialized radio. At least one network series sought to analyze the situation with a view toward learned people having their say and presenting the picture from an impartial standpoint. And one might ask, who listened? Not so many of the people who squawked about radio's shortcomings. It is indicated that the so-called squawkers were listening to the commercial program on another network—at least the vast majority of the listeners preferred the commercial show to one intended to be constructive for their benefit.

So much for the good intentions of the broadcaster. He did what he thought was the right thing; John Q. Public did what he thought right—he preferred the commercial show, or which he at least considered the more entertaining. Thus John Q. contradicts himself and repudiates his champions for better and less commercial radio.

Could it be that radio suffers on many an occasion from an inferiority complex? One that stems from the fact that there is an FCC—a Government agency which licenses it. John Q. is sure he has a stake in the industry, overlooking private investment at the same time. His stake, in so far as governmental expenditure is concerned, is no greater than that invested by way of second-class post office privileges accorded newspapers and periodicals. No one would want to revoke this subsidy because fewer people could then afford newspapers and periodicals received by mail. Illiteracy would mount, something not desirable in a democracy.

Radio must and can free itself from such a complex, if that is the term. It can educate listeners to the fact that selectivity is up to themselves. Eventually his choosing will determine the future course of radio, commercial or otherwise.

THE KEYS TO PROGRESS IN '47

By BRIG. GENERAL DAVID SARNOFF, President, RCA

THE uncertainties, largely related to shortages of raw materials and other industrial deterrents, which cloud the horizon of the New Year, must be cleared without delay to avoid economic paralysis. If industrial unrest is ended and the flow of basic components is increased, 1947 holds promise of being America's first major television year, for science has equipped that great new industry to move forward as a service to the public. Furthermore, trade estimates indicate a large replacement market for radio sets and radio tubes which were in service throughout the war. In addition, a potential market for radio-phonographs and television receivers exists in the 7 to 10 million homes which may be built during the next ten years.

David Sarnoff

Television in 1947 can make big strides in taking its place alongside the older arts, and in many instances visual communication can give them new and modern import. Although the television camera already has scanned national political conventions and presidential candidates, it will be ready to play its first big role in the 1948 campaign. That year will be to television what 1924 was to broadcasting, when Coolidge, Davis, Dawes, Cox, Bryan and other orators picked up the microphone for the first time in a national campaign and marveled at its ability to reach the people. Political techniques were vastly changed in that era of the headphones and gooseneck loudspeaker horns. Similarly, in 1947, television will be studied as a new factor in politics as plans are laid for the '48 campaign of radio sound and sight. In 1948, it may be expected that in the United States there will be several hundred thousand television equipped homes.

Increased activity among the broadcasters in television programming during 1946 revealed that the showmen are prepared to present an interesting variety of entertainment, newsreels and sports events. Their technique in the operation of new cameras has attested that they are on the mark and ready to go! They now have mobile camera-equipped television trucks to relay on-the-scene programs by short-waves to the main transmitters. New York is the television capital of the world—the center of this great new medium of entertainment, which will expand through networking across the country from city to city and from state to state—and finally nation-wide.

On October 30, RCA Laboratories demonstrated for the first time in history, clear, flickerless, all-electronic color television. And it was accomplished without moving parts. It was done all-electronically by means of electron tubes and electron beams "painting" pictures in colors. The pictures were viewed on a 15 x 20 inch screen.

The realization of this universal system of television, which transmits and receives both color and black-and-white pictures with equal quality, is as far-reaching as was the creation of an all-electronic television system which supplanted the mechanical discs used in black-and-white television when it first began.

The new RCA electronic color television system, which contributes to the television leadership of our country, will be available to the entire radio industry. The initial demonstration firmly established the basic principle; it will be followed in 1947 by the transmission and reception of color pictures in motion, then outdoor scenes and finally, in 1948, electronic color television on large-size theatre screens.

Sensitized by wartime research and development, television's electronic eye now rivals the human eye in what it is able to see. Performance of the RCA Image Orthicon television camera during 1946 greatly advanced the art and proved that television no longer needs brilliant lighting; it can see whatever the eye can see in twilight, moonlight, candlelight, and even go a step further and see in "black light," or infra-red, to which the human eye does not respond.

A. W. B. EXTENDS ITS INFLUENCE

Alma Kitchell

THE year 1947 finds the Association of Women Broadcasters of NAB ready and eager to meet the challenge of a new year, while reviewing a record of marked progress during the previous twelve months.

With the conclusion of the war and resumption of normal traveling facilities which made possible district and national meetings, the women broadcasters became increasingly aware of the benefits to be derived from membership in our Association. The roll, as of January 1st, includes the names of 1026 active and associate members on approximately 500 NAB stations in 350 cities and in allied fields. With the further cooperation of station managers, that number will grow.

While the Association was originally conceived and organized by a group of women on the air, and has thus far found its greatest strength within the ranks of program directors and commentators, there is a definite indication that its scope and influence is constantly broadening. For that reason, a change of name was voted upon and passed during 1946. The present year will bring an improvement and an expansion in the benefits which will accrue to all members, both active and associate.

Patterned after the parent Association's division into seventeen districts, A.W.B. has profited by a number of regional meetings arranged by district chairmen and national officers. The practical help which such program clinics have proved to be and the recognition which several State Governors have given by their attendance insures an extension of them. It is expected that during 1947, each district will hold at least one such meeting.

Plans are well under way for the Annual Convention to be held in New York City, March 7, 8, 9, when new horizons for women in the broadcasting industry will be explored.

There are many concrete evidences of the value of the Association to its members. It has brought inspiration and help through united effort toward common objectives; through the exchange of ideas for the improvement of program service; through a broader knowledge of radio's over-all purposes and problems; through the interpretation of the changing function of the woman broadcaster; and through the recognition accorded our group by national, state, civic, and private agencies for important help rendered during the war and since.

There are also many signs of its value to the Industry. Through Dorothy Lewis, N.A.B.'s Co-ordinator of Listener Activity and Vice-President of A.W.B., important information has been channelled from N.A.B., also from Government agencies, and national women's organizations and others. It has developed patterns for the celebration of National Radio Week, and played no small part in that event by conducting a national contest via women's programs on the topic—"What I Think About Radio." It has been cited in a public ceremony at the White House by Herbert Hoover for its significant role in the success of the food emergency campaign. It has advanced in three rapidly developing areas of influence other than through the established channel of the microphone.

A.W.B., collaborating with some 125 major national organizations which total 40,000,000 members; participating in college and university conferences; and cooperating with Radio Councils wherever established, is becoming the feminine voice which serves the larger purpose.

A.W.B. is the means by which its members in the majority of radio stations in the United States may benefit from the studies, surveys and technics being developed by N.A.B. for the improvement of radio in this country. It is also the channel through which they can implement their interest, their talents, and their experience; thereby giving greater significance to their contribution to the American system of broadcasting.

BMB COMPLETES FIRST STUDY

By JOHN K. CHURCHILL, Director of Research, BMB.

John K. Churchill

THE number of families that listen to a radio station—its total audience—is basic information. Yet until the formation of BMB no definition of a station's audience was universally agreed upon by the Radio Industry and naturally no measurement of that audience had ever been made on a uniform basis for all stations. BMB's first contribution to this radio research problem was a definition of a station's total audience acceptable to broadcasters, advertisers and agencies alike. Simplified and stated briefly the BMB definition is: The total number of radio families that, without undue aids to recall, report that some member of the family listens to the station at least once a week—separately for daytime (before dark) and for nighttime (after dark).

Why does BMB use "once a week" as a criterion for determining whether a family is a member of a station's total audience? Because radio uses the weekly programming cycle. True, some programs recur more frequently, but the station's complete program cycle covers an entire week.

And since a station's listeners are those who tune to specific programs, those who listen to any of the week's programs must be included in the total audience.

BMB does not imply that the average listener to one station hears as many programs on that station as the average listener to another. One station may enjoy more days per week or hours per day of listening by the average member of its audience than another station. Any definition finer than the complete cycle would require evaluation of the significance to any particular advertiser of the amount of listening. Such an evaluation enters a different field of measurement.

Having defined Station Audience BMB next determined the time of measurement. March (1946) was selected as the better of the two months in the year when the change in signal characteristics from day to night coincided most closely with the change from daytime to nighttime programming. Daytime and nighttime audiences were to be measured separately because station reception varies day and night and because audiences reflect differences between daytime and nighttime programming.

The method by which station audience is measured is dictated largely by the size and complexity of the required reports. The location of each station's audience is as important as the number of its listeners. In order to measure simultaneously 3,000 counties and approximately 1,000 cities, BMB used controlled mail balloting. Over a half-million radio ballots were mailed to representative families in every urban, village and farm population group in every county in the U. S. By a system of intensive follow-up and premiums, answers were received from two-thirds of the U. S. sample—nationwide—with at least 50 per cent replying in any reported group.

Because station audiences are reported for each of some 4,000 places, it is necessary to place certain statistical safeguards in the published findings. Station audiences are therefore limited to counties and measured cities in which 10 per cent or more of the radio families report listening to the nation. Fortunately this 10 per cent lower limit eliminates all "fringe" listening, yet includes all concentrations of listening of significant commercial value based on the experience to date of broadcaster, advertiser and advertiser representatives on the BMB committees. BMB has reported station audience in two forms:

For the benefit of those seeking complete audience information on particular stations, the Station Audience Reports and Reprints list the counties and cities served by the individual station alphabetically by city and county, together with the number of day and night listening families and the per cent of total radio families in each place comprising those audiences.

For the benefit of report users seeking similar information for any and all stations by market, this same information is published in the BMB Audience Area Report for over 700 subscribing stations as of publication date.

TELE'S FIRST MAJOR YEAR—1947

By J. R. POPPELE, Pres. Television Broadcasters Assn., Inc.

J. R. Poppele

IT is much easier—and certainly much less hazardous—to review a year's activity than to attempt to portend the future. This is particularly true in television where so many factors have to be considered.

Be that as it may, there is every indication currently prevailing that the television industry is about to experience its first major year of activity. The foundation for such an assumption was laid in 1946, and unless unforeseen situations arise which might upset the applecart, television will be well on the way toward its ultimate and inevitable goal of national service in 1947.

STATIONS: During 1946, the Federal Communications Commission granted 47 construction permits for new commercial television stations in 22 of the nation's most populous states. Add to this figure the six commercial television stations now operating, as well as additional permits issued since January 1, and one realizes that potentially, at least, the television industry should be going great guns within the next 12 or 18 months.

TRANSMITTING EQUIPMENT: Bottleneck of television station expansion in 1946 was the paucity of television transmitting equipment deliveries. It has taken the television industry more time to tool up for production than other industries. The reason is simple: television manufacture is starting from scratch; there are no moulds or dies or previous know-how to make a resumption of manufacture a relatively simple procedure.

RECEIVERS: Production of television receivers during 1946 lagged for the same reason that new transmitters failed to leave production lines in appreciable quantity. During the latter quarter of 1946, three companies were beginning to step up television set production. On the basis of present information, it is safe to say that by the end of the second quarter of 1947, television receivers in large numbers should be moving out of at least six manufacturing plants in to the hands of the consumer. The potential market for receivers is immense. Granting normal manufacturing conditions, 250,000 to 400,000 television sets should be available before the end of this year.

PROGRAMMING: Television programming, which in the past has failed to keep pace with technical excellence of equipment, should begin to come into its own during 1947. Marked improvements in techniques were evident during the past year and the know-how of production, which comes only with experience, is definitely manifesting itself. Thanks to the wonderful image orthicon, the scope of television programming has been vastly expanded. Remote pick-ups at various scenes of activity—indoor and outdoor—were increasing during the past year and will become even more elaborate this year.

COMMERCIALS: The national advertiser's interest in television "perked up" perceptibly during the past year, this despite the fact that the number of receivers remained relatively few. The reason, of course, is obvious. Television offers the advertiser a potential service unequalled in any other media, and he wants to know more about it; be ready for the day when his television audience will equal, if not exceed, that of radio or newspaper circulation.

NETWORKS: Television's commercial success depends largely upon the ability of the industry to network programs. The Washington-to-New York coaxial cable link was set into operation by the American Telephone & Telegraph Company last year and announcement was made that the nation-wide coaxial cable program, which was expected to take five to seven years to complete, will, in fact, be compressed into a three-year period. Commercial programming between stations in New York and Philadelphia was inaugurated on a network basis last year. Surely before the end of 1947, the Boston-to-New York radio relay of A. T. & T. will be operating, providing programs between Boston and Washington, via cable and relay.

FACSIMILE BROADCASTING TODAY

By JOHN V. L. HOGAN, Pres. WQXR and Radio Inventions, Inc.

John V. L. Hogan

THE recent demonstrations of practical system of facsimile broadcasting to newspaper publishers, broadcasters and members of the press have resulted in so much publicity that the questions "What is facsimile?" and "What can facsimile do?" are being heard from all directions.

Facsimile is the science of printing words and pictures by wire or radio. In its developed state facsimile can today print in your home, through your radio set, anything that appears in your daily newspaper. This includes type, photographs, cartoons and other drawings, and advertisements.

While a practical method of doing this has been successfully demonstrated to the persons who are most interested in its future, the public must understand that months of preparation face manufacturers before recording sets will be available to the home owner.

The next question that most people will ask is, "What can facsimile do that my present newspaper and my present radio set cannot do?" The prime advantage offered by fax is immediacy. Fax offers the speed of radio, and it delivers intelligence in permanently recorded form as does a newspaper.

Radio broadcasts aural speech or music; fax delivers printed words and pictures into the home with the same speed. The record left by a facsimile broadcast is permanent; it can be filed away, mailed to a friend, pasted in an album, carried to school.

The newspaper delivers words, pictures, cartoons, and advertisements in permanent form; but fax cuts the time between the newspaper plant and the reader by eliminating most of the mechanical work necessary to print a day's edition and all but a few seconds of the time consumed in distributing the printed paper from a central office to far-flung readers.

Immediacy is thus an exclusive and unique attribute of facsimile broadcasting, in the wide field of recorded communications.

How can this new medium best serve the public? Newspaper publishers see the opportunity to augment the service rendered by their standard-sized editions by printing bulletins and "flashes" in the homes of their readers as important news develops during the twenty-four hours of the day. Results of baseball games, races and other sports events will emerge from the facsimile printer as soon as the winner has been declared. Stock market reports, produce prices, and other such information when time may mean money will be instantly delivered. And equally as important, pictures will be flashed across the world and into the homes of set owners in a matter of minutes.

Broadcasters can deliver printed news and pictures while a commentator is discussing latest developments, and can augment sound programs with visual material in many ways.

To enjoy the advantages of facsimile broadcasting a person need only buy a recorder as a part of, or to be attached to, an FM radio receiver. A year or more from now, when manufacturers will place mass-produced recorders on the market, the buyer should be able to secure a fax attachment for approximately what he will have to pay for a phonograph record player.

This recorder will occupy about the same space as a record player or a portable typewriter, and will be offered as a unit to be attached to an existing FM set as well as included in larger consoles in combination with AM and FM receivers, record players and television.

Comparatively simple in operation, the recorder requires very little attention from the set owner. He will load his set with a roll of paper that will print up to 500 pages, he will replace a simple printer-bar at infrequent intervals, and he will turn the set on when he wants his facsimile program and turn it off when he doesn't.

Faxprints will emerge from the machine at the rate of four 9 by 12 inch pages per standard fifteen minute broadcast period.

RADIO IN CANADA 1946-1947

By HARRY SEDGWICK, Pres., CFRB and Board Chairman, CAB

Harry Sedgwick

PREPARATION for the peace was the 1946 keynote in Canadian radio. During the year, the independently owned stations worked vigorously to build a solid foundation for the years ahead. In 1946, private stations struck back for the first time at their most vocal critics. The opportunity was presented by meetings of the Special House of Commons Committee on Radio Broadcasting. Through its Canadian Association of Broadcasters, the independent industry prepared a record of its public service activities, its development of personnel, of talent, and of information activities. The record proved a surprise even to veteran radio executives, long well aware of the shaky ground on which many of radio's critics stand. A story of proud achievement brought forth from outside sources the editorial comment: "It has never been so clearly evident that radio's chief sin is that of omission."

Also for the first time, the Committee itself included in its final report to Parliament a clear and unequivocal word of praise for activities of the independent broadcasting stations.

The Canadian Association of Broadcasters complained bitterly of the injustice in the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation having supervisory and regulatory power over all broadcasting, including its own activities and those of the independents, and it was therefore strongly recommended to the Parliamentary Committee that an independent tribunal be set up to which appeal could be made. The Committee did not take action on this point, but deferred it until the 1947 sittings. From the tone of the report, it seems apparent that the Committee was impressed with supporting arguments advanced for the Court of Appeal.

Near the year's close, a complete reorganization of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters was made, on the basis of direct and specific service to the industry. The changes followed the pattern suggested by members at the Association's annual convention in May, 1946. The appointment was announced of Colonel K. S. Rogers, Managing Director of CFCY, Charlottetown, P.E.I., and veteran radio operator, as Honorary President of CAB. T. Arthur Evans continues as Secretary-Treasurer. Harry S. Dawson is manager and technical advisor. Mr. Douglas Scott of Toronto was appointed as Director of Broadcast Advertising, and Mr. T. Jim Allard of Ottawa as Director of Public Service.

The two latter appointments mark a new departure in policy. Mr. Scott is charged with the duties of "radio ambassador"; will keep the advantages of broadcast advertising consistently before the attention of advertisers. Mr. Allard will direct public services and public relations activities for the industry organization.

The Canadian independent radio stations must proclaim with an ever-increasing voice that successful radio commercial and industrial promotion and advertising is a proper and important part of developing and maintaining the greatest possible industrial and commercial potential in our country, that the standard of living of our public, the maintenance of the national income, the capacity of the people to pay taxes and to provide social services is directly dependent upon the greatest possible development of successful commerce and business, and that it should not only be permissible but highly desirable that there should be in Canada the most effective independently owned commercial radio service as an integral part of our business and industrial community and its activities.

The Canadian Association of Broadcasters, representing the independent radio stations of the country, must create a vigorous association between their organization and all in the business community. We must persuade the hundreds of important industrial enterprises who have a common interest with us in making use of commercialized radio, in having available to them the greatest possible opportunities for independent radio to serve their industrial needs.

FROM THE AGENCY VIEWPOINT

By FREDERIC R. GAMBLE, President, American Assn. of Advertising Agencies

FREDERIC R. GAMBLE

EARLY this year when our Association held its Annual Meeting in New York, we had as our convention theme "Distribution —or bust!"

Some thought this slightly undignified, others that it expressed perfectly the great effort we must make toward successful distribution in America, or die in the attempt. Many of our California-bound progenitors did die en route, but some fought through and reached their goal.

The thought behind this theme has been pretty widely adopted among advertising people—the realization that if our factories are to produce as much as they are capable of producing, then our distribution activities must function better and still better to keep the goods flowing. Advertising, one of the most important of the few dynamic activities there are in distribution, must do more than ever before in helping sellers to sell and buyers to buy.

To help advertising agencies do their part in achieving this goal of more productive advertising, we have been working on four major aims: (1) to recruit and train better personnel, (2) to enlarge the scope and accuracy of our fact-finding, (3) to improve advertising content and (4) to gain wider and more complete understanding of the services that advertising performs.

It is gratifying to see how broadcasters have been working together with agencies in a number of these key areas.

For instance, in the area of Fact Finding, 1946 saw the first release of Station Audience Reports and Area Reports by Broadcast Measurement Bureau. This joint enterprise—whose findings are validated by representatives of broadcasters, advertisers and agencies and which is financed on such a broad and enthusiastic basis by the broadcasting industry—is a remarkable achievement. As in most new projects, there are some things about BMB that need further exploring, but this need not detract from the substantial progress already made or the sound things that BMB is doing for the first time in broadcasting. With proper understanding and continued good judgment, BMB can move even further ahead in 1947.

In the area of Improvement, 1946 saw headway made jointly by broadcasters, advertisers and agencies toward the betterment of taste in radio advertising copy. This experimental work has yet been given no publicity. 1947, we hope, may unfold details and results.

In the area of Understanding, a significant feat is the way that broadcasters, advertisers and agencies continue to work together through the Advertising Council to spread information on projects in the public service.

As recently summarized by the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion, radio gives to public service campaigns "344,195,000 listener impressions a week or time on 300 commercial radio shows with well established audiences. In addition to these 300 commercial programs, the Advertising Council schedules public interest subjects regularly on approximately 150 sustaining programs weekly."

We agree with Niles Trammell, President of NBC, in his statement that this is utilizing "the established structure of advertising on a scale nobody would have dreamed possible before the war." It is vastly to the credit of radio advertising and a healthy thing for our future.

These 1946 accomplishments indicate fuller realization by radio stations, advertisers and agencies of their mutual responsibilities.

In addition, 1946 saw healthy progress made toward sounder business relations between stations and agencies.

Both NAB and the AAAA approved a new Standard Order Blank for Spot Broadcasting, replacing the form in use since 1933 and revised in 1942.

Also sent out to radio stations were the new NAB Standard Rate Card recommendations, which incorporated largely the suggestions made by the AAAA Radio Timebuyers Committee. Two years ago, AAAA asked whether something might be done to improve the radio rate card situation by adopting a standard format, more complete information, uniform definitions as to services and copy limitations, and simplification of discounts. The NAB recommendations are a gratifying answer, and we hope they may be widely adopted.

Especially encouraging is the beginning of a trend on the part of radio stations to adopt the customary 2 per cent cash discount on national advertising, already allowed by all national radio networks and by more than 95 per cent of all magazines and 94 per cent of all daily newspapers.

There is need for much more progress in this direction.

Radio still seems to lag behind other media in realizing that the cash discount is indispensable in our present advertising structure—as necessary as the agency commission, but performing an altogether different service.

The cash discount is, of course, passed along by agencies to their clients to stimulate prompt payment, so that advertisers will consider agency bills separately from all other bills and pay them far ahead of the ordinary commercial time of 30 to 60 days. It is this cash discount which enables agencies to collect promptly and pay media by their due dates, usually in fifteen days or less.

Hence, 1946 has provided its full share of significant developments.

What will 1947 bring?

It should bring, for one thing, progress in each of the activities already mentioned.

During 1947, also, agencies will continue to watch with interest the development of FM broadcasting and television. A number of agencies are already working in an experimental way, to be prepared for the time when enough programs are being transmitted and enough receivers have been distributed to enable FM and television to take their place among the established media.

During 1947, agencies and the AAAA will continue ready and willing to cooperate with the broadcasting industry in every way possible, in the public interest, to advance the welfare of advertising and radio as a whole.

Commercial radio should face its 27th year with boldness and imagination. They are the birthrights of broadcasting.

PROGRESS — By Brigadier General David Sarnoff

Radio, which gave a world-wide voice to Peace and Freedom, now gives to them the added advantages of vision through space. With the scientific revelations of 1946 as the foundation, more and more people, more and more nations will extend their radio sight in 1947 and in the years to come. Those who witnessed the dawn of all-electronic color television beheld triumphant colors of progress—a rainbow of promise that eventually will arch over a world-wide horizon.

There are countless and unbounded frontiers of radio research extending into the upper atmosphere and far beyond the orbit of the moon. As radio penetrates the secrets of outer space, it will bring back new knowledge that will open many undiscovered frontiers for other branches of science. The scientists of this planet, who are only beginning to reach upward in their conquest of Nature, continually will be challenged anew.

Those who have been working scientifically with atomic energy have been looking underneath the ground for metals such as uranium and other materials which are employed to release the power contained within the atom. Yet, who among the scientists would be willing to say that there may not be more nuclear energy between the heavens and the earth than is within the earth? Will a way be found to release the nuclear energy of hydrogen, nitrogen, helium or other gasses that may be in space? When we seek atomic energy that may be released from cosmic rays, we may find that there are greater treasures in the emptiness of space than in the solid earth.

Broadcasting and television now are supplemented by the service of FM, or frequency modulation. RCA approached the end of the year with facilities in readiness to produce tens of thousands of FM receivers and combinations.

Broadcasting, which won the rapt attention of anxious listeners throughout the world in wartime, finds people no less anxious for news, forums and entertainment in peacetime. Ears, which for six years were tuned to theaters of war now are turned to the microphones that put UN on the air, listening in hope that the voice of Peace will grow ever stronger in every language.

GOLDEN ERA OF SPORTSCASTING

By STAN LOMAX, President, Sports Broadcasters' Association

Stan Lomax

DURING the year of 1946 — sports launched its second Golden Era.

The Jack Dempseys, the Bobby Jones, Babe Ruths, Earl Sandes and the other immortals whose deeds in the arena turned sports into a Midas touch—have not arrived as yet in this current day of S.R.O. Perhaps they will come—and perhaps they will not. But the cash registers; at practically all sporting events have jangled an ever-merrier tune than they did in the first post-war boom.

And with the record breaking attendances in practically every phase of sports—the craft of bringing accurate, intelligent and interesting reports to the listening public also had its advancement.

To meet this unprecedented interest in sports—a far wider coverage than ever before has been developed. And with the expansion—the old law of competition has forced long strides in improvement of coverage and technique.

This past year—radio went on the road with baseball—travelling from city to city with the New York Yankees to bring the home fans the accurate and colorful picture of the team's progress. From the turn of the century, newspapers had covered a team's doings on the road—but radio—through short-sightedness and perhaps penny pinching had been satisfied with wire reconstructions. And wire reconstructions of sporting events reverse the precepts of reporting—for they depend solely upon an announcer's imagination and histrionic ability rather than reportorial accuracy.

The widespread interest in all forms of sport has spurred the quality of radio reporting. Although the development has been slow—even the front offices and agencies have finally discovered that a sound knowledge of sports is necessary—not only in the booth and studio but in the administration as well.

The Sports Broadcasters Association—composed of men who go in front of the microphone, their assistants, spotters and sport writers of the various wire services—have been steadily driving forward. An example of progress can be seen this year in the request to the Association from three universities for plans and suggestions for radio booths in stadii to be constructed.

Although the task of furnishing the best possible facilities for radio reporting should be that of the stations, networks and agencies involved—after years of inattention—the S.B.A. stepped in three years ago to see what could be done about bettering working conditions.

Each radio booth used during the year by our members—which now number more than 300—and stretch from coast to coast and border to border—is rated by the men who use it. Location, construction, roominess, vision, service and other points are listed.

The first survey found the University of Notre Dame adjudged the tops of the nation—and a plaque commending the university was presented the acting athletic director, Ed McKeever, at a special function in New York. The second year's award went to Princeton University—with Athletic Director Ken Fairman accepting for the university.

These plaques—for excellence—and conversely the complaints lodged against impossible working conditions—are having their effect. One of the nation's most important football schools despatched a man to New York to ask our organization for recommendations. The S.B.A. has drawn up a model broadcasting booth—which four schools have incorporated into their post-war building plans.

I cite this merely as an example of progress the Sports Broadcasters Association has made in the past few years. Our code of ethics, adopted two years ago—has served to lift the sports broadcasting profession—particularly in the minds of our listeners. We firmly believe that radio sports reporting is at its highest peak of all time in accuracy, fidelity and interest.

With all sides predicting 1947 as the boom year of this Golden Era—the men who will describe and handle the description of sports are ready for another great job—bigger, and better than ever.

THE YEAR IN WASHINGTON

By ANDREW H. OLDER, Staff Correspondent, Radio Daily

Andrew H. Older

THE first postwar year turned out to be one of surprises. Completely confounding the prophets, AM broadcasting continued a tremendous expansion, with well over 1,000 stations on the air by the end of the year. Although it had been expecting to be the busiest in assigning FM frequencies and regulating that traffic, the FCC found the major part of its energies devoted to the AM field.

Largely responsible was the slowness of receiver manufacturers in turning out FM sets in volume. Although no accurate count was possible, it was believed that well under one million FM sets were tuning in at the end of the year to the few dozen FM stations actually on the air.

At the same time, many of these stations were offering little inducement to the public to buy FM sets, since they were merely duplicating the programs of affiliated AM stations.

Result was that while nearly all leading AM licensees had FM signals on the air or planned, the major emphasis through the country and in Washington continued to be on the AM signal. Late in the year worried FCC officials began to talk vaguely of shifting their emphasis, but the cold fact was that set manufacturers were not turning out the sets to create a demand for distinctive and profitable FM programming, while only a handful of FM licensees was airing exclusive programming to stimulate the sale of FM receivers.

On the regulatory front, the FCC stirred up the greatest industry controversy since the chain broadcast rules with its publication in March of the Blue Book. Condemned by a major portion of the industry, led by NAB, the Commission's assertion of its right to demand that broadcasters live up to public service standards—particularly those they themselves set forth when seeking their licenses—drew vigorous support from a number of civic groups and the tacit approval of many legislators.

NAB President Justin Miller spearheaded the opposition to it, terming the FCC a group of "guileful" men and suggesting that "Communist" influences were at the root. Miller even accused Thurman Arnold, his former colleague on the District of Columbia Circuit Court bench, of having spoken in support of the FCC proposals without having read them. A public spat was averted when Arnold decided, "Life is too short for me to get into an argument by answering th atone."

As the year ended, the FCC policy still stood but it did not appear likely that any decision enforcing it to the hilt would be forthcoming for several months, at the least. Several renewal applications had been set for hearing, with the commission to determine whether by Blue Book standards the broadcasters had merited the withdrawal of their licenses.

Noteworthy, too, is the so-called "AVCO" policy. Although implemented and followed during the year, no major test of this policy had been posed late in the year. It represents a claim by the FCC of the authority to insist that when a station is up for sale open bidding shall be entertained for a 60-day period—with all comers permitted to match the offer of the Prospective buyer whose name appears on the transfer application. It would then be up to the FCC to choose between all comers on the basis of which would be likely to provide the greater public service.

Again, industry leaders were displeased.

One thing the FCC could not help—and here the NAB reluctantly admitted that it preferred that the FCC not act—was the economically dangerous increase in new stations. Towns which had long had but a single station suddenly found two or three competitive AM stations—with FM'ers still to go on the air .

Here NAB ruefully admitted that the Communications Act did not permit the FCC to withhold licenses simply to protect the business of existing stations. And, NAB continued, it is better to have more competition than to have the FCC extend its authority further into broadcasters' business and program affairs.

CHICAGO OUTLOOK FOR 1947

By NAT GREEN, Staff Correspondent, RADIO DAILY

A DECLINE of the seller's market, due to increased production and other causes, and a consequent increase in competition faces radio this year; but indications are that a very good year is ahead, according to the predictions of local network heads. Network representatives are agreed that there is plenty of work to be done this year to assure steady progress in programming and production and also in sales of time.

Nat Green

I. E. Showerman, manager of the central division of the National Broadcasting Company, is quite optimistic over Chicago's radio outlook for 1947. "Chicago," says Showerman, "is not holding a wake for a deceased broadcasting industry. On the contrary, the fellow is up and about and doing well.

"Granted a lot of radio talent has left Chicago in the past few years, the fact remains that this talent was discovered and developed in Chicago. The feeling that this crop of departees is all there is or ever will be is about as logical as the assumption that Chicago's schools have graduated their last student.

"I believe 1947 will be an increasingly good year for radio in Chicago."

Ade Hult, vice-president in charge of Mutual's midwest operations, sees a prosperous year ahead. He told RADIO ANNUAL: "Prospects for 1947 look very promising but the big increase will come in the latter half of the year, as it looks now. Competition from other media will be more severe than has been the case for the past five years. Also, that same competition will cause advertisers to scrutinize costs of broadcasting as well as all other media.

"We should not be misled by the slowing up of activity at the opening of the year."

E. R. Borroff, vice-president in charge of the central division of American Broadcasting Company, predicts network competition will be greater in 1947 than ever before. Continuing, he says: "This coming year undoubtedly will be marked by greater production, the consequent decline of the seller's market, and resultant sharpening of competition. The last will be reflected in radio three-fold: (1) manufacturers will turn more and more to radio in competing for markets, (2) advertisers will demand programs of proved selling caliber, and (3) the comparatively new forces of television and FM will be brought into fuller play.

"The American Broadcasting Company has the distinction of being the first network to launch video programming in Chicago. Up to and including the present time, ABC is the only network which has actively engaged in telecasting in this metropolis. It has furthered the use of the medium by selling packaged television programs to such outstanding sponsors as General Mills, Inc., of Minneapolis; Henry C. Lytton, and Television Associates, of Chicago.

"The optimistic outlook for the year 1947 which currently predominates radio circles is well grounded. It is anticipated that the names of many new advertisers will be added to radio rolls during the current year and that present advertisers will widen the scope of their radio advertising."

H. Leslie Atlass, vice-president in charge of Columbia Broadcasting System's central division, sees a great year ahead. Says he: "I predict that this new year, 1947, will be the biggest in the history of WBBM-CBS both in sales revenue and in programming, production and the expansion of public service programs."

WCFL, independent labor station, looks for a good year. Maurice Lynch, general manager, stated.

Art Harre, general manager of WJJD, independent station owned by Marshall Field, says: "All indications point to a banner year for radio in 1947. The total business should equal, and possibly exceed the figures for 1946, but the net profit will be slightly less, due to increased overhead."

COAST EXPANSION CONTINUES

IN 1946 more licenses to operate radio stations in Southern California were granted than in any other previous year and indications are that 1947 will surpass 1946 in this respect. The result will be intense competition among the outlets of the Southland. KIST started operations at Santa Barbara, with Harry Butcher, well known broadcaster, as owner, and Fox Case, another industry veteran, as manager. The station is affiliated with NBC.

KSDJ came into being at San Diego, with Purnell Gould, a seasoned radio man, as general manager. The outlet is affiliated with CBS. KMPC, Los Angeles, was granted authority to increase its power from 10,000 watts to 50,000 watts, while KFAC, also of Los Angeles, will boost its power from 1,000 to 5,000 watts. KFVD, Los Angeles, which has been a 1,000 watts station, becomes a 5,000 watts outlet in February. KLAC, also of Los Angeles, has been granted authority to increase its power to 5,000 watts. Arthur L. Croghan, a veteran Minneapolis broadcaster, will operate a new station, KOWL, at Santa Monica. The California Broadcasting Company has also applied for a license to operate an outlet in Santa Monica.

Carl A. Haymond, pioneer Northwest operator, is invading the Southland and has applied for permits to operate stations in San Bernardino and Monrovia. He has already been granted permission to establish a 5,000 watt station in Phoenix, Arizona.

KAFY, a new Bakersfield station, has become a Don Lee affiliate, as have KCOK of Tulare-Visalia, and KPRL, Paso Robles. KHON, Honolulu, became a Don Lee affiliate in July, 1946.

The new Indio station, KREO, will be an ABC affiliate and will be a bonus station with KPRO, Riverside. KCOY, Santa Maria, which will also be affiliated with ABC, will become a bonus outlet for KTMS, Santa Barbara.

The Burbank Broadcasters, Inc. plan to operate an FM station in Burbank, while the San Fernando Valley Broadcasting Company, of which J. G. Paltridge, formerly promotion manager for KFI, is the prime over, plans to open an outlet in San Fernando Valley.

KERO is a new outlet in Bakersfield. KCMJ is a comparatively new station, with Palm Springs as its home.

The Hollywood Community Radio Group, headed by Alvin Wilder, newscaster, applied for a permit, but faced considerable opposition at an FCC hearing. Attorney General Robert W. Kenny is among the stockholders in the organization.

A new regional network, the California Rural network, has been launched by J. L. Gleason, owner of KPRO, Riverside. It is aimed at blanketing the Imperial Valley and will embrace area from Victorville to the Mexican border.

The new network comprises stations in Riverside - San Bernardino, Brawley - El Centro, Indio and Calexico.

Sales managers of Los Angeles independent and affiliated stations agree that billings for their outlets in 1947 should exceed that for 1946 and also agree that the business will have to be earned. Their various sales forces have been alerted and in some cases shaken up. The sales managers also point that local programming will have to be improved to win more business and that heavier exploitation and promotional expenditures will have to be made, involving individual campaigns aimed at consumers and advertising agencies.

"War babies" are dropping out of local radio and are being replaced by other sponsors, who are using radio as an addition to their sales forces. Department stores are more open-minded regarding radio than ever before and are expected to become extensive, regular users of the medium. Dealers in furniture and household appliances and accessories are resuming the use of radio time.

A heavy upturn is expected in the use of time by the food industry as a whole.

RMA WIDENS ITS SERVICES

By BOND GEDDES, Executive Vice-President, RMA

Bond Geddes

IN keeping with the tremendous wartime expansion of the radio manufacturing industry and in line with the steady increase in production of radio sets and their components during 1946, the Radio Manufacturers Association has expanded its services to member-companies in industrial relations, industry statistics, public relations, and other trade association fields.

Throughout the past year RMA's most important job was to keep the industry constantly informed of developments and changes in OPA pricing regulations and to work with official OPA Industry Advisory Committees on sets, parts and tubes in obtaining industry-wide price selief and, finally in seeking price decontrol.

Not only did radio set production pass that of the greatest prewar year—1941—by early summer of 1946, but the fall and early winter months saw rapid increase in the output of FM-AM receivers and the beginning of television set production. FM transmitter production got underway on a regular schedule in the fall and was increasing steadily as the year ended.

The first RMA Industrial Relations Seminar, held May 21-22 in New York City, inaugurated a new service for members and proved so popular that a second seminar was held in Chicago on October 31 and November 1. The proceedings of the first seminar were published in the late summer and widely distributed.

Another RMA publication, even more widely distributed, was the "School Sound System" brochure, prepared by the RMA School Equipment Committee with the active assistance of the U. S. Office of Education. This brochure, for the first time, established basic commercial standards for school sound system equipment and components. More than 30,000 copies of the brochure were distributed by the U. S. Office of Education, together with a letter from Commissioner John W. Studebaker, to public, parochial and private schools and colleges throughout the United States.

The RMA Engineering Department completed the first postwar revision of its Manual of Engineering Standards and thus brought RMA standards in line with wartime advances.

The RMA Production Source Code, which was begun in 1945, continued to expand as many suppliers of RMA member-companies registered and were assigned code numbers by RMA.

Among the various promotion projects initiated by RMA through its Advertising Committee to acquaint the public with Industry advancement were National Radio Week, which was jointly sponsored by RMA and the National Association of Broadcasters, November 24-30, and a merchandising program with the theme, "A Radio in Every Room—A Radio for Every Purpose". In both of these programs RMA enlisted the active support of other trade associations, representing department, furniture and music stores, and electrical retailers.

Recognizing the expansion of the industry, the RMA Board of Directors at its June convention enlarged its membership from 34 to 42. R. C. Cosgrove, of Cincinnati, vice president of the Crosley Corporaation, was "drafted" for a third term as president to direct the Association's new activities. RMA Headquarters staff was enlarged.

RMA is organized to serve all factors in the radio manufacturing field. It has five major divisions to which manufacturers of sets, tubes, parts, transmitting equipment, and amplifier and sound equipment are assigned. In addition, it has several over-all committees to handle particular industry problems, such as surplus disposal, industrial relations, excise tax legislation, exports, and traffic. A new committee to deal with growing radio amateur activities was formed during the year.

TRANSCRIPTION STATUS 1947

By FREDERIC W. ZIV, Frederic W. Ziv Company

CONDEMNED — condoned — commended! That is the history of electrical transcriptions.

Frederic W. Ziv

Old timers recall the early days when transcriptions were called "pancakes" and "platters"; when the announcement "This program is transcribed" was the cue to turn the dial. But today, millions upon millions of radio listeners are enjoying their favorite programs via electrical transcription.

The reason for the early condemnation? Threefold: first, transcribed quality in the early days was a far cry from the transcribed perfection as we know it today; second, transcribed programs seldom featured talent in a class with the great array of talent and elaborate productions available on transcription today; third, the FCC constructed an artificial barrier requiring all electrical transcriptions to be identified, which unquestionably retarded the growth of the electrical transcription industry.

But look what has happened: first, today's transcriptions on pure vinylite are nothing short of perfection. Listeners cannot distinguish between network and transcribed. What is more important, Hooper ratings prove conclusively that listeners will tune in their favorite programs regardless whether "live" or transcribed.

Second, the biggest names in the entertainment world are today available via electrical transcription. Stars who avoided transcribed programs in the early days today clamor to be on transcription. Bing Crosby, Wayne King, Kenny Baker, Morton Downey, Burl Ives to name a few who are entirely transcribed. But in addition to these, most of the leading network shows are broadcast by transcription in many markets. For example: one of the most popular programs in Cincinatti as this is being written is Ralph Edwards' "Truth or Consequences," a Saturday night program. But is "Truth or Consequences" broadcast in Cincinnati on Saturday night? No! It is broadcast on Sunday night via electrical transcription; and Hooper ratings prove beyond question of doubt that the listening audience tunes in "Truth or Consequences" regardless whether live or transcribed. In fact, more people tune it in at the convenient transcribed time than would tune it in at the inconvenient "live" time.

Third, the FCC's attitude seems to be changing. In its March 7, 1946 Report, the FCC recognized the role of transcriptions and enumerated "five particular advantages from their use":

"(a) transcriptions are a means of disposing of radio's most ironic anomaly—the dissipation during a single broadcast . . . of all the skill . . . of writer, director, producer, and cast.

(b) transcriptions make possible the placing of programs at convenient hours. . . .

(c) transcriptions make possible the sharing of programs among stations not directly connected by wire lines. . . .

(d) transcriptions offer to the writer, director, and producer of programs the same technical advantages that the moving picture industry achieves through cutting-room techniques. . . .

(e) portable recorders make it possible to present to the listener the event as it occurs rather than a subsequent re-creation of it. . . ."

Today, the most lavish shows are available transcribed. Not only network shows which are transcribed and broadcast at a more convenient time. Not only the Bing Crosby type of show which is broadcast by transcription on the network. But transcribed programs made available for local and regional sponsors.

To sum up: national, regional and local sponsors have all forgotten their old superstition against transcriptions for one very obvious reason: the little people who pay the bills, the final consumer, namely, Mr. & Mrs. Listener, have forgotten their old superstition against transcriptions.

MAIN STREET-REFLECTIONS

By SID WEISS, Staff Writer, RADIO DAILY

Sid Weiss

● ● ● A long time ago, a sage said that a man makes his biggest mistake when he starts taking himself and his success too seriously. Mme. Radio, the Belle of the Kilocycles, then, is coming of age and proving that she's a lass of wisdom, for in the past few annums, she has arrived at a point where she can take kidding with the greatest of ease. The humor with which the quipsters giggle about "John's Other Wife," the munificent rewards of the quizmasters, the out-landish boasts of the commercials, (i.e., the pen that writes under water themes) the Mr. Agony radio series and the constant other million and one patterns which cake the radio-lanes a corglamoration, to coin a phrase, of everything including the kitchen sink, represents to us an attitude of the grown-up lady. In a way, the good-natured kidding has a way of pointing up such parts of radio which need improvement and which must in time to come develop into better mike fare if radio, as an entertainment medium, is to continue to be as popular as it is today. In the early days of mike-life, too many so-called "brains" behind the scenes used to hesitate to nod Yes when a Jack Benny or an Ed Wynn tried to kid a commercial. Sure, Wynn was allowed to do it—but you sort of felt that he, as one of two exceptions (himself and Benny) was doing it with the fear of being cut from the air at any minute. Today, the attitude changeth.

● ● ● Too, when the esteemed Fred Allen sang his parodies on radio agencies, to the tune of Gilbert and Sullivan, aptly substituting "Petrillo" for "Tit-Willow," over at our hut, radio was growing up. Of course, there are still several programs which would better be replaced by static but it will be ever thus so why continue going into tantrums about 'em? The gagmen have fashioned humorous quips about the morning breakfast series—the husband-and-wife radio shows. We've laughed at their jokes. We've printed some versions of 'em. But we have come to respect the shows as really enjoyable. When we tune in for our Dorothy and Dicktation of a morning at 8:15, we feel the warm glow of their conversation, can almost smell the toast at the breakfast table. And if you think their's is an easy assignment, try talking interestingly yourself for three-quarters of an hour some morning. We said interestingly! And the Kollmars, the Fitzgeralds (who originated the whole idea) and the Jinx-and-Tex-appealers really are interesting.

● ● ● Likewise, radio has built talent such as a Mel Blanc, who, aside from any show of his own, plays 51 different radio voices—going from the parrot or the train announcer on the Jack Benny show to the happy postman on the Burns and Allen opus. Blanc is a product definitely of radio, having never played another medium. No field allows for as much experimenting as does the mike. We've heard Sinatra as a dramatic actor, Fred Allen in a non-comic role, singer Dick Powell as a sleuth, suave Carl Brisson as a mystery solver, and others. What we applaud most is the chance radio gives its children to stroll from the beaten path. Judy Canova, for years a hillbilly chanteuse, steps out of that role for her final singing number each week, performs a song straight and, brother, she's got one of us really swooning with her torrid renditions of such songs as Berlin's "Blue Skies" and the immortal "I Can't Give You Anything But Love." Similarly, cute Beatrice Kay, famed for Gay 90's tunes, has proved her adeptness at torrid and modern songs as well. Radio is not as staid as is the theater where too many customs remain life-long institutions—and drive the audiences into institutions to boot.

● ● ● We'll admit that in the over-all picture, there are many instances which bore us to death. Listening to a quizmaster ask Mrs. Housefrau where she comes from, the silly applause that follows, the idiotic queries sometimes featured on such shows, is by far a hardship on a dial-turner's ear—but the reward, the way we see it now, is that radio is growing up. It's laughing at its own commercial blurbs, its deflating pompous politicos by stuffing punch lines into their mouths, it's got the Melchiors trading jests with the Mad Russians. The little lady, Madame Radio, has come of age.

RADIO DEVELOPS SONGWRITERS

By HERMAN PINCUS, Staff Writer, RADIO DAILY

SEVERAL years ago an importan music publisher, awed by the massive grandeur of the NBC Studios in Radio City, New York, remarked, "To think that our Music was responsible for all this." His audible ejaculation, though an exaggeration, was likewise far from an untruth. For Music invariably was the sound heard in the early days of the crystal sets. With the passage of time, improvements both in transmission and reception were perfected until today Radio is the international medium for expression of ideas, political campaigns, educational forums, performances of Grand and Light Operas, Dramas, on-the-scene broadcasts of major sporting events, etc. The importance of music in radio kept pace with the rapid progress of Radio itself and it is estimated that at least 73 per cent of radio programs are comprised wholly or partially of music.

Thus while Music proved a vital factor in the expansion and prosperity of Radio, the latter in turn, is responsible for the increased earnings of songwriters, music publishers, arrangers, singers, orchestra leaders, coaches, contactmen (songpluggers), etc. Before Radio, publishers were obliged to maintain large offices in key cities equipped with as many as six or eight piano rooms respectively and staffed with four or five pianists, who, besides teaching vaudeville artists and singers new songs, often had to arrange their train schedules, deliver props to the theatre in time for rehearsal and even playing "nursemaid" to their children in dressing rooms. Headline Acts, in many cases, were on the payroll of major publishers, to sing and popularize songs, often requiring at least a year or two of consistent use to make a song a Hit.

Too, in those days, a major music publisher, in order to satisfy the musical requirements of vaude artists, published several types of songs simultaneously, the catalogue generally consisting of the plug ballad, a novelty, a rhythm, an instrumental and often a comedy. Today, because a song can be "made" in three or four months, via a concentrated radio plug, music publishers publish and work on but one tune at a time.

In recent years many of the nation's outstanding hits (featured on the "Hit Parade") were products of comparative unknowns, admittedly a phenomena made possible by Radio. We'll list a group of such songs and their composers. "I Dream of You" (More Than You Dream I Do)—Marjorie Goetschius and Edna Osser; "My Dreams Are Getting Better All the Time"—Mann Curtis and Vic Mizzy; "And Then It's Heaven"—Eddie Seiler, Sol Marcus and Al Kaufman; "To Each His Own"—Jay Livingston and Ray Evans; "Love Love Love" and "Candy"—Joan Whitney, Alex Kramer and Mack David; "Oh What It Seemed to Be," "Surrender" and "Rumors Are Flying"—Bennie Benjamin and George Weiss; "There I Said It Again"—Redd Evans and Dave Mann; "Shoo Fly Pie and Apple Pan Dowdy"—Sammy Gallup and Guy Wood; "I Don't Know Enough About You"—Peggy Lee and Dave Barbour; "Laughing on the Outside, Crying on the Inside"—Bernie Wayne and Ben Raleigh; "Chickery, Chick"—Sylvia Dee and Sid Lippman; "There's An Awful Lot of Coffee in Brazil"—Bob Hilliard and Dick Miles; "Choo Choo Ch' Boogie"—Vaughn Horton, Denver Darling and Milt Gabler; "Cynthia's In Love"—Jack Owens; "Cement Mixer"—Lee Ricks and Slim Gaillard.

Radio has often been referred to as a "hungry giant"—ever on the hunt for new ideas, new material, new jokes, new personalities and new songs—songs and more songs. The preceding paragraph is proof that its quest, at least insofar as the latter is concerned, is proving fruitful. For added to the wealth of songs contributed by the newer songsters, is the constant out-pouring of music by the dependable "old-timers" including Irving Berlin, Oscar Hammerstein, Richard Rodgers, Cole Porter, Rudolf Friml, Irving Caesar, Harry Warren, Harry Ruby, Bert Kalmar, L. Wolfe Gilbert, Charlie Tobias, Sigmund Romberg and many others.

PRODUCING THE PACKAGE-SHOW

By LOUIS G. COWAN, President, Louis G. Cowan, Inc.

Louis G. Cowan

IT IS the function of the independent package producer to bring to the microphone the best in showmanlike ideas and personalities that will attract great listening audiences. The talent agencies differ mainly from the independent package producer in that their essential strength for package sales grows out of contracts with name talent they control, rather than out of the creation of new shows as such. Thus, their own function is to create, if possible, package vehicles for their talent.

The independent package producer lives, eats, thinks Entertainment and Show Business with capital letters. His life, fortunately, is not involved with the worries of clients, time-buys, advertising copy and the many other problems that beset network, station and agency people. In addition to the shows created within their own program departments, many agencies draw upon the qualified independent package producer as a constant source of show ideas. To these they can apply their own skills and know-how. At a given point, the talents of agency and producer blend in producing the airbourne finished product.

The independent package producer is radio's counterpart to the producer in the theater or in the movies. He knows that radio is essentially Show Business, and that he must have the ingenuity to capitalize on the greatest media for audience in America today.

Unencumbered by the multitudinous problems of business management, his sole problem is to give the radio advertiser the largest possible audience before whom the advertising message can be delivered. His main self-imposed injunction is that of good taste.

The agencies, clients, stations, networks provide the facilities (or theaters). He must provide the entertainment creativeness and talent that serve as magnets for these facilities.

In developing his ideas, he can move freely into all realms of the arts seeking the greatest showmanship values, adding to them his skill and know-how in producing shows that will attract listeners. Those who use these shows or their facilities must make the greatest use of their opportunities with these audiences.

The so-called "selling" of the best of these ideas is not easy, for many reasons. But, it is also difficult in theaters to find backers, theaters, etc. And it is even harder in movies. Those independent package producers who have the creativeness, the skills of development, and the courage to persist can find great personal satisfaction by bringing great entertainment, and often enlightenment, to millions of listeners.

All of this requires courage. Financially, those producers who attempt to create only for network programming, no matter how conscientious their efforts may be, limit their financial risks to written proposals or waxed auditions. But, the independent package producer who extends his field into that of transcriptions must go even further. Because at that point he is backing his own convictions of showmanship, taste, know-how and great audience appeals with huge sums of money.

The future of radio in terms of live network shows and transcriptions look bright indeed—but it is a future that promises to envelope a new horizon of thought. From all indications, we are moving from the lush era of name stars to a period of tighter scrutiny of program budgets and extended use of AFRA talent. Evidences of this are already apparent. Here again the independent package producer comes into his own for this regime will require the development of new and fresh concepts for entertainment.

The same holds true in terms of the transcription business. This facet of the radio industry must also come of age. The needs of the individual stations parallel those of the networks. They must be provided with first-rate programs that are skillfully produced and embrace bright and stimulating radio entertainment as fresh as the New Year.

UN'S BIG RADIO JOB FOR 1947

By CHRISTOPHER CROSS, In Charge U. S. Radio At UN

Christopher Cross

AMERICAN radio has a new product to sell.

It's stupendous, terrific, colossal product,—a product created to cure mankind of its greatest headache: war.

If all the merchandising experts in radio had been gathered around a shiny conference table they could not have better timed the appearance of this product.

Following a war that took millions of lives, uprooted millions more, and razed countless cities there was conceived the Charter of the United Nations,—"to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war . . . to reaffirm our faith in fundamental human rights . . . to establish conditions under which international law can be maintained . . . to promote social progress, economic and social advancement . . . to encourage respect for human rights and for fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion. . . ."

This, in part, is the product. And a ready market of 1,750,000,000 people of the world are waiting to be sold.

The $64 question of international radio is:

Will American radio harness all its skills to properly merchandise the United Nations Charter?

It wasn't so long ago that American radio had another important product to sell: World War II. It was realized that Victory could be ours only if the people really wanted it and supported their desire with sacrifice. The industry threw all its resources into the task of selling the war to the people.

The Battle for a Lasting Peace began almost two years ago in San Francisco with the birth of the United Nations. This battle too cannot be won without the support and sacrifice of the people. The statesmen, delegates and members of the United Nations secretariat cannot alone win the second and complete Victory,—the Victory of Lasting Peace,—no more. than the generals and statesmen could have alone defeated the Axis.

We hear altogether too many radio executives say: "Does anything special really have to be done about the United Nations? Who could possibly be against lasting peace?" Our answer always is that anyone is against lasting peace who does not actively work for it. We wonder if the many products sold by radio would actually enjoy any popularity if the sponsors and merchandisers took the position: "Our product is good, so why should anything have to be done about it."

Who can say that the United Nations does not deserve the intensive merchandising that is given to the many products and services that are so successfully sold to the American people!

Public service is a word much used and much abused. Perhaps the one factor that will best determine if American radio is really discharging its public service responsibilities will be how well the industry helps to integrate the United Nations into the day-to-day lives of the people.

Individual stations and network have made a good beginning in trying to meet their responsibility to their listeners whose dominant wish is for a world free of war.

WLW went to the community to find out what it could do. They found that their listeners and the community organizations were interested and had plans.

In Hollywood Warner Brothers' KFWB has shown how an independent station can give leadership to a community in the fight for lasting peace.

New York City's WNYC has demonstrated that the people will listen to their on-the-spot broadcasts of United Nations sessions.

So active has NBC been in UN activities and programming that the visitor to the RCA building might get the impression that there is a United Nations annex housed there.

These are but a few examples of outstanding service and leadership; 1947, we hope, will find many more broadcasters coming into the fold.

REPORT ON THE 20-YEAR CLUB

By H. V. KALTENBORN, Founder, Twenty-Year Club

IT ALL began on April 4, 1942, when the National Broadcasting Company gave me a dinner to mark the 20th anniversary of my first broadcast. This seemed a suitable occasion to launch an organization of radio pioneers so, with that modesty which distinguishes so many radio personalities, I decided to become the founder of radio's only Twenty-Year Club.

H. V. Kaltenborn

Because broadcasting on a large scale began in 1922, twenty years seemed a proper period. In addition, that made it just possible for the founder to qualify for membership.

Every effort has been made to contact those who are eligible, but some people are too retiring. All a person need do to join is to write a letter to me at 167 E. 64th Street, New York City, listing chronologically his career in radio. Mention of as many names and incidents as possible is desirable. Human interest stories recalling the inevitable pioneering difficulties are particularly wanted. The prospective member's two decades in radio must be unbroken. Nineteen forty-five was set as the limit from which to "pioneers of radio broadcasting" will not measure the 20 years so that the term lose its meaning.

In order to put the information received to useful purpose, it has been my pleasure to publish a roster of the Club members which is now in its fourth edition. Earlier editions of the Twenty-Year Club Book have found their places in many reference libraries where frequent use is made of them.

Another important purpose of the roster is to enable members to keep tabs on the people with whom they shared radio's beginnings. Time has caused many old friends to lose track of each other and the Twenty-Year Club Book has enabled scores of members to relocate each other. The book itself is a gold mine of information and unusual facts.

A sample is a record of what is perhaps the first fan letter ever received by a radio personality.

It was received by the late "first lady of radio," Vaughn De Leath, and said in part: "You have inaugurated a form of entertainment which will no doubt become very popular in the future."

During the past two years, a wealth of additional information concerning the pioneers of radio broadcasting has reached the editor. The format adopted for the Twenty-Year Club book makes it impossible, however, to present more than the bare chronological outline of the interesting radio careers of the men and women who are so largely responsible for the creation and development of radio broadcasting in the United States, Canada and the British Isles.

As a result, the Club files now contain much material which will be placed at the disposal of those who will carry forward the task of preserving the history of radio's early years. Any information or suggestions that might advance this project will be very welcome.

The editor is frank to say that he did not realize what he was letting himself in for when he so blithely announced the publication of this roster. But he has been well rewarded by the pleasure of the occupation and the friendly cooperation of his radio colleagues. Radio has done so much for him that he is happy to have performed his minor service for radio.

The founder of the Twenty-Year Club is now organizing an Executive Committee which will include some fifty outstanding members of the Club. From this Committee, Officers and Club Committees will be chosen at the Club's first meeting. This will take place on April 11, 1947. Many of the Club's 250 members will attend. The 1947 edition of the Club Book will be published in time for the meeting. Plans will be discussed for writing and publishing a history of radio broadcasting in terms of the personal experiences of radio pioneers. To recall the triumphs and mistakes of the past will help us realize the greater triumphs of tomorrow.

BROADER SERVICES—Each succeeding year finds BMI service to broadcasters building and expanding. Today, broadcasters receive regularly such special BMI aids as CONTINUITY—COPYRIGHT RESEARCH—DISC DATA—HOLIDAY MUSIC LISTS—PIN UP SHEET—NEWSLETTER—SONGS OF THE MONTH—MUSIC COPIES—RECORDATA—MUSIC MEMO—RECORD PURCHASING ASSISTANCE—PERSONAL ATTENTION IN THE FIELD.

These special services are provided without cost to all BMI licensees.

MUSIC FOR EVERY PROGRAM NEED—To provide broadcasters with a large and adequate variety of every type of music has been the aim of BMI since its inception. Year by year the BMI catalogue has steadily grown in size and in value. The 1947 repertoire of BMI music is more than 400% greater than it was six years ago.

BMI's repertoire of American folk music surpasses that of any other licensing agency. In the field of Latin-American music BMI is outstanding. In every other classification of music, current popular songs, dance music, hot jazz, serious and semi-classical, the BMI repertoire provides you with sufficient music to fill every program need.

THERE'S ALWAYS A BMI HIT FOR YOUR SHOW.

INDUSTRY OWNED AND OPERATED—BROADCAST MUSIC, INC. was established and is maintained and operated by and for the broadcasting industry.

Management of BMI is directed and guided by a Board of Directors elected by the broadcasting industry, and functions solely in your interest as a broadcaster.

...YOURS TO BUILD—

...YOURS TO PERFORM—

HOW YOU CAN BUILD A STRONGER BMI

Thanks to the support and cooperation of the broadcasting industry, BMI is strong now — you can make it even stronger.

BMI's strength comes from its family of 1,336 affiliated commercial stations; All of the national and regional networks, the important FM, Short-wave and Television broadcasters; Exclusive performing rights to more than 850,000 copyright selections from the catalogues of publishers throughout the country and from important publishers and performing rights societies in Mexico, Cuba, Brazil, France, Canada, Holland and Greece; An ever growing storehouse of current phonograph records featuring BMI-licensed music together with thousands of titles available in all the ET libraries.

These facts and figures show our strength. But as a broadcaster you can help to build an even stronger BMI. By making use of the many services and the various programming aids furnished you by BMI, and by the consistent and frequent use of BMI-licensed music, you can increase that strength manyfold.

HOW YOU CAN BOOST BMI PERFORMANCES

Keep your BMI Pin-Up Sheet posted conspicuously each month and perform all of the numbers it lists at least once each day.

The BMI Pin-Up Sheet is more than a colorful promotion piece. It is a carefully selected list of current popular songs chosen from the catalogues of hundreds of BMI affiliate publishers. It contains only those current numbers which are receiving all-out publisher exploitation. They are numbers of unquestioned quality and are the songs most accepted by name artists.

All BMI Pin-Up Tunes are potential hits, and they can be actual hits by the simple process of repeated radio performances. Radio has proved that it can make hit songs constantly.

Remember these winners in '47

Last year was an exciting year for these ABC stations! The same step-up in national spot billings continued from '45. Figures over a ten months' period show a 21.3% increase in 1946 . . . a clear indication that advertisers who want more for less are swinging to ABC.

Added highlights of the year: thanks to ABC programming and Spot Sales representation, American Pacific Network sales jumped 14.5% from 1945 . . . WMAL, the Washington Star's station in the nation's capital (which ABC Spot Sales represent), showed 22% increase over the past year.

And now ABC Spot Sales will open a new office in Detroit, on January 15, 1947. So you can see the new year will be bigger than ever for ABC. It's gratifying to know we're a "going" concern, but it's even more gratifying to realize that we've made so many new friends this past year. We'll do our level best to justify their confidence in us this coming year and make 1947 a record-breaker!

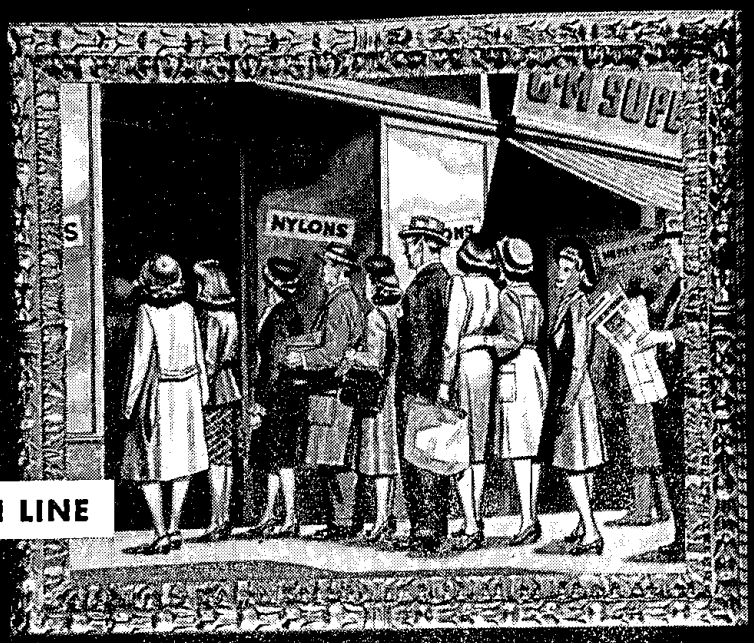
THE NYLON LINE



TODAY—WE'RE BACK TO SELLING

Only yesterday they stood in line . . . triumphant if they could carry home a pair or two of nylons. Today, they look at gauge and denier and color. Today they look at brands. And not in nylons alone, but in more and more kinds of consumer products.

That's why we're back to advertising for sales' sake — to advertising that delivers the most coverage and impact for each dollar invested.

In network radio, the medium which delivers the most for the dollar is Mutual—in coverage and cost per 1000.

Mutual's daytime coverage is over 28,750,000 — 84% of U.S. radio homes. Mutual does a great job in the major metropolitan areas and is dominant in more "one-station markets" than all other networks combined.

Mutual reaches and sells people where they live and earn and buy. That's why when you're buying to sell — Mutual is your best network buy. Ask for our story—"more for your advertising dollar."

YOUR BEST BUY TO SELL IS MUTUAL BROADCASTING SYSTEM

AFN—STILL BUILDING MORALE

By BILL MURRAY, New Chief, American Forces Network

THE portly gentleman who was Bishop of Mainz, Germany, in the fourteenth century, commissioned his workmen to build him a strong castle—one that would last beyond his lifetime. But neither the Bishop nor any of the slaves who lifted the huge blocks into place six hundred years ago dreamed that the great castle would last long enough to become, in the twentieth century, the nerve center of one of the most powerful American radio networks in the world. But that is what it is today—the Bishop's castle along the River Main, just outside Frankfurt, is the key station and headquarters for the American Forces Network, bringing American radio personalities and American music to the men and women who make up the occupation forces in Germany.

From the ancient stone tower rising high above the slow German river are beamed American voices, twenty hours of every day. The crooning of Bing Crosby, the trumpet-wooing of Harry James, the sock of a bat against a ball in Yankee Stadium, and the solemn pronouncements of Harry S. Truman are carried from the castle in Frankfurt, and the other stations of the network, to all the Americans, in uniform and out, who are staying in Europe to see that the peace is secure. Through its powerful transmitters, AFN is heard by other peoples, also—in England, Ireland, Sweden, France, and Africa. Some of the programs, notably news coverage, are picked up and rebroadcast by smaller networks in Austria and in Italy. Request letters have come from as far away as Texas and China.

The American Forces Network is operated in Germany by the U. S. Army, and the men and women who staff the stations are soldiers, WACs, and War Department civilians. The parent organization is Armed Forces Radio Service, which operates a network also in Japan.

The project started the fourth of July, 1943, with a few small stations in England. Dozens of transmitters amplified the signals throughout the U.K. And when the Yanks landed on the continent in June of the next year, AFN announcers and engineers took over mobile broadcasting units and boxes of discs bearing labels like "Jack Benny Show, half-hour" and "Music by Glenn Miller, quarter hour." And in the lulls between battles, American soldiers heard the encouraging words: "You are listening to the American Forces Network, United States Army."

Mobile units were attached to the First, Third, Ninth and Seventh Armies. As soon as possible in each area, AFN then set up studios and began live shows to supplement the AFRS discs. Newscasts kept the men informed on what was happening on other fronts, what was going on back home, what the world was thinking about, what songs the folks in Wisconsin were singing.

Then, as today, most of the broadcasting day was made up from platters pressed in the United States. This unquestionably vital morale-building project was made possible through the generous co-operation of the men and women who were keeping radio alive here in the U. S. Sponsors of coast-to-coast shows employing millions of dollars worth of talent agreed to let the Army record their broadcasts and ship them overseas, completely decommercialized. Any mention of the sponsor's product, whether spot-announced or worked into a gag shot in comedy routine, had to be deleted, because the Army was not in commercial business. But the sponsors and the stars had the deep satisfaction of knowing they, too, were helping America to win.

By V-J Day, the network reached its peak of strength, with sixty-four stations scattered throughout Europe, and with a personnel roster of more than five-hundred men and women of the Army and the Navy. Since then, the operation has gradually been consolidated. Today, it consists of four big permanent stations, all in Germany—but by way of its powerful short-wave service, in addition to the regular medium-wave, it reaches as great, if not greater, an audience than ever before. Two of the transmitters are 100-thousand watts each.

The old castle of the Bishop of Mainz, just outside Frankfurt, houses the main studios and administrative offices of the network. There also is the AFN News Bureau, with a staff of a dozen newsmen who keep their listeners informed on up-to-the-minute developments in U. S. politics, labor, sports, and entertainment, as well as in European and world news. Once each night, correspondents broadcast also from each of the other stations of the net in Berlin, Munich-Stuttgart and Bremen. Newsmen, announcers, writers, producers, spinners, engineers, actors, and administrative personnel bring the staff side stations carry only programs of their own net AFN carries all the best programs of all the American networks.

Most popular of the programs broadcast by AFN are the music, drama, and comedy shows that make top-notch radio entertainment in America. Through AFRS, AFN gets the cream of American radio entertainment. Discussion programs, provided they have a practical application to American life, have a wide listening audience. And the day's schedule reads much like that of any big station in the States with this exception: whereas stateered the recent Nuremberg trials, from a special booth in the courtroom, and broadcast direct the reading of the verdicts against Goering and his fellow-criminals, as well as the sentencing. Such happenings as the Peace Conference in Paris and the U-N meetings in London were covered by newscasters for the net.

The American Forces Network has come a long way since the first words went out from London on Independence Day, 1943. Experienced civilians now work side by side in the studios with the soldiers, and except for the flash of uniforms among the civilians in mufti.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH TELE?

By LEONARD F. CRAMER, Executive V.P., Allen B. Du Mont Lab. Inc.

Leonard F. Cramer

WHEN will television become a commercial reality? When will television become self-supporting, like radio? And why is it that the industry is still crawling feebly when it should be walking upright?

The answer to all three questions is the chaos and disorganized thinking within the industry itself. All are in agreement with the obvious conclusion that television is destined to become a great industry. But there agreement ends. Unity among those responsible for the success of television is conspicuous by its absence. And industry leadership is non-existent.

Why does this condition exist? Because with the exception of a few zealous pioneers, each exploiting its own plans, no strong industry front has been developed. I am not depreciating the well-intentioned efforts of the Television Broadcasters Association nor the American Television Society, but I must point out that it takes more than the formation of a society or association to accomplish the objectives and purposes set forth in its articles of incorporation. Their weaknesses lie in the fact that their members are influenced by the policies and self-interest of the companies they represent rather than the vital interests of the industry as a whole.

Generally, the television industry is considered to be one of the future which will provide profits to currently profitable industries which through their similarity feel they have a preferential right and a duty to take over at the propitious moment if and when it arrives. Meanwhile, they wait on the side lines, contributing nothing substantial to television.

Why has the propitious moment not arrived? Certainly not because of any technical imperfection in the state of the art. Certainly not because of any shortcomings in television as an advertising medium. In fact, there is hardly a person connected with the advertising business who does not recognize the tremendous potentialities of television as an advertising medium. Going further, I would say they recognize its present immediate power, even if there were to be no further improvements in the art. One of the largest durable goods manufacturers in the country, a longheaded, farseeing business executive, is authority for the statement that television is the first advertising medium in our history really designed to sell durable goods effectively.

It is an obvious fact that the success of television will mean a decline in the very industries which seem to be charged with the responsibility of making television successful. We need only to look at the commercial potential of television as it has already been proved in a small way to know that as the public buy receivers they will listen to the radio less and less.

Who would listen to a boxing match on the radio if he were able to follow the blow-by-blow progress of the bout on television? This thought certainly does not tend to spark the enthusiasm of the successful radio broadcaster for television. To the motion picture industry, television is a threat of unknown proportions, and to what extent it will have an effect on box-office receipts is a matter not to be dismissed lightly. This same fear, however, existed in the early days of radio but time proved it to be without foundation. In a lesser degree perhaps, television may have an effect on the legitimate theater.

Generally speaking, no one, with perhaps a few well known exceptions is deliberately plotting to stop television, but the effect of doing nothing to help it adds up to about the same result.

This is television's third swing at the ball in addition to several foul tips, which only count as one strike. If we don't hit the television ball out of the park this time the boys who have been backing the show may head for the showers.

THE BUSINESS SIDE OF RADIO

By M. H. SHAPIRO, Managing Editor, RADIO DAILY

BUSINESS of commercial broadcasting while not in the position of bearing the brunt of any specific industry's recession due to various upheavals and uncertainties, managed to weather a strong backwash and temporary wave of resultant pessimism. The latter was especially true during the summer season of 1946 when what appeared to be a concentrated number of national accounts cancelled further commitments.

Impact of the cancellations was not as great as some sources expected, yet one network was hit more so than others; actually the business of this network was off going into the first month of the year and continued until the final percentage was 8.6 per cent less gross revenue for 1946 than in 1945. Apart from this, each of the other major networks registered again. Thus National Broadcasting Co. passed the $66,000,000 mark for an increase of 3.1 per cent; American Broadcasting Co. reached the $40,604,000 mark for a gain of 1.4 per cent and Mutual Broadcasting System with gross billing of $25,907,000 had an increase of 26.1 per cent. Adding the $60,063,905 of the Columbia Broadcasting System which was 8.6 off from the year previous, the total gross of the four major networks exceeded $193,000,000 for an overall increase of 1.2 per cent. August and December were the two months in each case in which three out of the four networks showed recessions. Due to absence of the excess profits tax, the net revenue for all webs was up.

Net times sales by the four major networks and ten key stations owned by some of the networks, totaled $70,008,962 after payments to affiliated stations. This was an increase of two per cent over that reported for 1945. Combined network and station net time sales including 751 individual stations showed an overall increase of 7 per cent. The 751 stations involved, accounted for 97.7 per cent of the net time sales of all stations. Reports from three out of five regional networks indicate a 10 per cent decrease in net time sales.

The 751 stations mentioned above, on their own, indicate a possible increase of 9.2 per cent over net time sales in 1945. This according to the FCC, is attributed to a 4.9 per cent increase in time sales to the networks and a 8.1 increase in time sales to non-network advertisers. Also revealed was a decrease of 9.2 per cent in commissions paid to various agencies. Along with revenue from sale of talent, etc., these 751 stations indicate an increase in total revenue of 8.9 per cent over 1945. Radio talent bill for all types of broadcasting was close to the $60,000,000 mark.

Spot business, both national and local, had its jittery times, both from the station and station representative angle. But this is conceded to have quieted down shortly after the turn of 1947. Labor situation is held to be comparatively good, and partly attributed to the fear of adverse labor legislation. Labor itself affected the stations indirectly as to strikes. Radio itself signed new agreements with AFRA and in some cases with the AFM.

Most important thing is that the business of handling spot is past its day-to-day and month-to-month shadow-boxing with accounts. There are definitely more and firmer commitments. There were some gains and some decreases in spot business, but generally the gains were slight. It was not in the "grand manner" to which spot business had been accustomed in past years.

Expansion of the broadcasting industry however, continues apace, with hundreds of applications for construction permits having been granted the past year in the AM and FM fields. New outlets are springing up throughout the country. Television is still girding its loins for the final leap which shall once and for all place it on the map, literally. This is the year wherein it appears to be "now or never."

Manufacturers of radio equipment have a tremendous backlog to fill, one that will take years in seeking to supply the station equipment on order. Millions of receivers, both for the home and automobiles, have been manufactured and distributed to make up for the wartime deficiency when parts and repairs were not always available.

By and large the industry as a whole is optimistic as usual.

IT DOESN'T PAY TO IGNORE THE OUTSIDE* AUDIENCE

on the Pacific Coast, either!

A C. E. HOOPER 276,019 coincidental telephone survey proves that only Don Lee covers the outside (as well as the inside) audience . . . the people living outside the counties in which Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, San Diego, Portland, Seattle and Spokane are located, and who account for nearly half of the Pacific Coast retail sales.

JUNIOR will only get his trousers warmed for ignoring his outside audience—but you'll lose approximately half of the 12,117,584 population and $9,038,433,000 retail sales if you turn your back radiowise on the important Pacific Coast outside audience. For only Don Lee gives complete coverage to the more than 3½ million radio families in the Pacific Coast area.

ONLY DON LEE has enough stations (41) to cover all the important mountain-surrounded markets.

ONLY DON LEE can deliver both the inside and outside market.

ONLY DON LEE can say, "More than 9 out of every 10 radio families on the Pacific Coast live within 25 miles of one of our network stations."

Any network can deliver the inside half of the market, but only Don Lee can deliver the whole market. Chalk that up on your blackboard when you're making up your next Pacific Coast radio budget.

EVERY RADIO STATION HAS A Problem

We are better equipped to do a real selling job for those radio stations that should be doing more than one hundred thousand dollars per year in national spot business and are not doing it today. If you are the owner or manager of one of these stations let us show you our plan of operation.

INTERCOLLEGIATE BROADCASTING SYSTEM

A year ago we said, "It is our aim and objective . . . to bring the business of station representation out of the doldrums of passivity into the realm of aggressive activity." We believe we are accomplishing this aim for the stations we represent. "Aggressive activity" has paid dividends and we believe it will continue to pay dividends for these important properties.

We will continue, in 1947 and the years to come, to give radio stations, advertising agencies and advertisers alike, service geared to the ever-increasing competitive situation.

NAB STANDARDS OF PRACTICE

As adopted by the BOARD in 1945 and Amended in 1946

FOREWORD

BROADCASTING is dedicated to freedom of expression, limited only as prescribed by law and by considerations of decency and good taste.

The National Association of Broadcasters formulates and publishes the following Standards of Practice as a guide to assist the licensee in operating in the public interest.

Determination of what shall be broadcast rests entirely with the station licensee and this responsibility may not be delegated.

Public Questions

Station licensees should provide time for the presentation of public questions. Such time should be allotted with due regard to the value and interest of the subject to the public.

Treatment of Political and Public Question Broadcasts

Broadcasts designed for the presentation of political, economic, social or philosophic questions or the candidacy of any person for public office or a measure to be voted upon should be presented by straightforward statement appealing to intelligence and reason.

News

News should be presented with fairness and accuracy and the station licensee should be satisfied that the arrangements made for obtaining news insure this result. News should not be selected for the purpose of furthering or hindering either side of any public question nor should it be colored by the opinions or desires of the station management, the editor or others engaged in its preparation or the person actually delivering it over the air, or, in the case of sponsored news broadcasts, the advertiser.

The fundamental purpose of news dissemination in a democracy is to enable people to know what is happening and to understand the meaning of events so that they may form their own conclusions.

Children's Programs

Programs designed specifically for children reach impressionable minds and influence social attitudes, aptitudes and approaches and, therefore, they require the closest supervision of broadcasters in the selection and control of material, characterization and plot.

This does not mean that the vigor and vitality common to a child's imagination and love of adventure should be removed. It does mean that programs should be based upon sound social concepts and presented with a superior degree of craftsmanship; that these programs should reflect respect for parents, adult authority, law and order, clean living, high morals, fair play and honorable behavior. Such programs should not contain sequences involving horror or torture or use of the supernatural or superstitious or any other material which might reasonably be regarded as likely to over-stimulate the child listener, or be prejudicial to sound character development. No advertising appeal which would encourage activities of a dangerous social nature should be permitted.

To establish acceptable and improving standards for children's programs, the National Association of Broadcasters will continuously engage in studies and consultation with parent and child study groups. The results of these studies will be made available for application to all children's programs.

Education

While all radio programs possess some educative values, broadcasters should endeavor to assist specific educational efforts. In cooperation with educators and other appropriate groups, broadcasters should search for improving applications of radio as a medium of education.

Religion

Broadcasting, which reaches men of all creeds and races simultaneously, should not be used to convey attacks upon another's race or religion. Rather it should be the purpose of the religious broadcast to promote the spiritual harmony and understanding of mankind and to administer broadly to the varied religious needs of the community.

Commercial Programs and Length of Commercial Portion

Acceptance of programs and announcements should be limited to products and services offered by individuals and firms engaged in legitimate commerce; whose products, services, advertising, testimonials and other statements comply with pertinent legal requirements, fair trade practices and accepted standards of good taste.

Brief handling of commercial copy is recommended procedure at all times, with special consideration being given to the effect on the listener of the manner of presentation.

Member stations should hold the length of the commercial portion, including that devoted to contests and offers, to the following number of minutes and seconds:

Five minute programs	1:30
Five minute news programs	1:00
Ten minute programs	2:00
Fifteen minute programs	2:30

In participation programs, announcement programs, "Musical Clocks," shoppers guides and other programs of fifteen minutes or longer falling within these general classifications, the commercial portion should not exceed 20% of the total time utilized.

The 20% limitation does not apply when a fifteen minute or longer segment is sold to one sponsor. The commercial portion should then be the same as given in the table on page 905.

"Standards of Good Taste"

The following are deemed to be generally unacceptable under these Standards of Practice:

1. Unfair attacks upon competitors, competing products, or upon other industries, professions or institutions.

2. Misleading statements of price or value or misleading comparisons of price or value.

3. Continuity which describes repellently any functions or symptomatic results of disturbances, or relief granted such disturbances through use of any product.

4. Cures and products claiming to cure.

5. Advertising statements or claims member stations know to be false, deceptive or grossly exaggerated.

6. Any remedy or other product the sale of which or the method of sale of which constitutes a violation of law.

8. Any fortune-telling, mind-reading, or character-reading, by handwriting, numerology, palm-reading, or astrology, or advertising related thereto.

9. Schools that offer questionable or untrue promises of employment as inducements for enrollment.

10. Matrimonial agencies.

11. Offers of "home work" except by firms of unquestioned responsibility.

NOW IS THE TIME...

to "position" your station in the minds of advertisers. The patterns of postwar advertising have not yet crystallized. They are still fluid, because of the thousands of new minds now working on advertising. Many are old hands at the business, but in new jobs after years of military service. Many old friends are gone from the scene forever, replaced by men with new and different ideas, who have to be sold on your station. Not all the casualties were on the battlefield. Men who held the line satisfactorily during the war often aren't equipped for the desperate competitive struggle ahead. Now, before opinions become set, is the time to "position" your station.

AND THIS IS THE PLACE...

to do it. Advertising Age goes to the 17,275 most important advertising desks in America every Monday morning—to 5,900 executives of manufacturers, service companies, and marketing organizations; to more than 3,800 advertising agency executives. Its large page size offers the biggest impact available in the field. Look over any current issue and see what your competitors are doing to "position" themselves.

We Are Justifiably Proud of our "Associate Editors"...

AMONG the many notable Advertising Executives who have written articles for past issues of the ADVERTISER and MARKETS of AMERICA are the famed Chairmen and a host of members of the Association of National Advertisers and American Association of Advertising Agencies respectively. We like to call them our "Associate Editors," for they have immeasurably enriched our editorial fare.

Like their many confreres, they have written pertinent articles of interest and lasting value to the men and women who read The ADVERTISER—the nation's advertising and merchandising executives and their advertising agency personnel.

Both of our widely read publications are the products of the men who create and place advertising . . . control the billion and more dollars spent in all media and notably radio.

In each instance we select an authority to write on his subject . . . not a long-haired theorist. Thus our readers are fully informed and appreciative of the contents of our publications. Thus, too, they prove to be every broadcaster's best advertising prospects. Many of them are now clients—yet there are many more to reach! Reach them quickly and keep them sold on your station or network, via the advertising pages of The ADVERTISER (monthly) and MARKETS OF AMERICA, (Annual).

Copywriters are such unhappy people

They get that way from writing copy!

Take this ad, for instance. The copy is supposed to tell what ABC has been up to in the past year. How it's been a good year.

But there's a catch to it. No horn-blowing, please, say the brass hats. No back-patting. Sure, you can mention that Sterling Drug, Derby Foods, Eversharp-Schick and other top advertisers joined the fold—but don't brag about it. Of course say something about ABC bagging Bing Crosby... and coming up with Henry Morgan, the comedy sensation of the year... and getting the all-time-high Hooper for any commercial broadcast (67.2) with the Louis-Conn broadcast. And even a word about the 9.0 Hooper for the Fat Man, an amazing Hooperating for a sustainer. Sure, get 'em all in the ad, but be humble about it.

Somewhere in there, too, say the big boys, mention that American Television Society Award. And the memorable "readings" of John Hersey's "Hiroshima." That's about all, except that the number of American Broadcasting Company stations has been upped from 194 to 238... that ABC is now first in network food advertising... that night-time Hoopers all week long average 13% higher than a year ago.

Oh, if only the copywriter could shout from the housetops "Boy, what a year! We've made some swell progress and we've got even sweller plans!" But he can't. You just don't do that sort of thing if you're a copywriter.

MARK WOODS

RADIO, which celebrated its 25th birthday in 1945, grew up in a hurry during the years between Pearl Harbor and V-J Day, and having reached maturity, last year turned the spotlight of constructive criticism on itself.

Through such programs as the ABC broadcast of "America's Town Meeting," in which the question "Is Radio Serving The Public Interest?" was discussed, and other network programs in which the broadcasting industry was analyzed by industry members as well as by outside critics, radio programming in 1947 is expected to advance considerably.

In all phases of broadcasting, including FM and television, the American Broadcasting Company expects to expand operations in 1947. In Los Angeles, ABC has been granted channel seven for television operations and the site of its transmitter is Mount Wilson, the best location in the area. As additional construction permits are received this network will place facilities in operation as soon as possible under the uncertainties of equipment production.

The year just concluded saw radio broadcasting successfully gear itself to the post-war readjustment of industry in the United States. Despite equipment shortages and strikes, which in some instances forced sponsors temporarily to put aside their plans to use radio, ABC's gross time sales for 1946 amounted to $40,617,130, an increase of $571,164 as compared with gross billings of $40,045,966 reported for the previous year.

Heralding the optimistic outlook held at ABC for 1947 was the announcement made late last year that two full hour symphonic programs were sold within a week of each other. Beginning January 19, "Musical Digest" magazine-assumed sponsorship of the Detroit Symphony under a 52-week contract, and on January 21, the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company made its debut in radio with the sponsorship of the Boston Symphony.

With the issuance of Rate Card Number 2, ABC provided that despite anticipated rising costs elsewhere in advertising, a sponsor will be able to maintain his advertising budget with the assurance that costs for time periods on the network will remain constant.

In addition to our sponsors, much of the credit for the successful year just closed by ABC must go to its 235 affiliated stations and to the many specialists employed by the network to broadcast special programs.

Meantime, during 1946 great stress has been laid on programming and as a result ABC closed the year with a well-balanced program lineup running the gamut from specially built adventure programs for children through its highly praised programs designed to combat juvenile delinquency to such skilled works as the broadcasts of the Metropolitan Opera, and notable forums such as America's Town Meeting. In addition, during the closing months of 1946, Henry Morgan —termed, by many listener polls, "radio's most promising star"—began his network program and in three weeks gained Eversharp, Inc., as a sponsor. The new Bing Crosby show likewise made radio history.

Attesting to ABC's skillful programming is the incomparably high number of network-built programs which have been purchased during 1946 by sponsors for airing on the network.

Growth of ABC as a network can best be measured by the 235 affiliated stations at the close of 1946 as compared with 195 reported in the 1945 review for Radio Annual. To the sharp increase in the number of stations must be added the many facilities improvements including power increases granted by the Federal Communications Commission to ABC affiliated stations during the past year.

That advertisers are taking advantage of these facilities gains and improvements on ABC can be seen from the expanded lineup of sponsors on the network.

FRANK STANTON
President

TO an industry dynamic as broadcasting must necessarily be, every new year is filled with promise and challenge. If 1947's promise and challenge is realized, it will be largely because radio has spent a good deal of 1946 taking the measure of its peacetime tasks. The range of these tasks have been wide and will continue so, but their focus, unmistakably, is the nation's and the world's need for preserving our hard-won peace and for extending its benefits.

It is not by mere chance that the Columbia network's reemphasis on programs, with a marked increase in public affairs broadcasts, and William S. Paley's recent pronouncement on radio's need for earnest self-examination are inter-related aspects of radio's reconversion. The past year also saw the realization of Columbia's color television development in public demonstrations and an extensive hearing before the FCC.

In the field of news coverage, reconversion was not merely a matter of shifting the emphasis to domestic affairs. New program formats needed to be devised and realignments of overseas reporting staffs, newsgathering and transmitting facilities effected. These things were done with the conviction that spreading news and knowledge of peace would be as important and exacting as any of radio's wartime responsibilities. A preview of a network newsroom's place in the post-war scheme of things, incidentally, was spotlighted when CBS reluctantly decided to withdraw its staff correspondent from Moscow. The decision was made after the Soviet Ministry of Foreign Affairs informed CBS that shortwave facilities for transmission to the United States would no longer be available to foreign broadcasters.

Many of the findings were clearly summarized in the facts compiled by the University of Denver's National Opinion Research Center. These showed, among other things, that 84 per cent of the public believes radio is doing a good or excellent job as compared with substantially smaller percentages holding the same opinion concerning the press, schools, church and government.

Mr. Paley's address before the 24th annual convention of the National Association of Broadcasters clearly defined objectives for the future. One of Mr. Paley's conclusions, the need for keeping the listening public adequately informed of radio's operations and inherent problems was turned immediately into action. Beginning December 1, 1946, and continuing for an indefinite number of weeks, CBS is undertaking to help radio listeners reason more intelligently about broadcasting by a series of programs entitled "Time for Reason—About Radio."

The most striking result of Columbia's endeavors in the field of television, at the end of 1946, has been to enable the American people to make an intelligent decision based on factual data and practical considerations concerning the kind of television they want—color or black-and-white. To achieve this vantage point for the public, Columbia expended more than $2,000,000 in two years, maintained a laboratory staff numbering more than 100, and held over 200 demonstrations for representatives of government, industry, press and public.

Exhaustive field tests were made to demonstrate the immediate serviceability of color television in large urban areas. A dual-band combination receiver was developed to permit reception of black-and-white as well as color television programs. A fully electronic receiver tube was demonstrated for use in projection or direct viewing under sequential standards. The actuality of color was further underlined by licensing of three major manufacturers to produce transmitter equipment and home receivers for color television. In December the FCC conducted a public hearing to decide on commercial operation of color television stations to operate in competition with present black-and white stations.

The Commission's decision will probably be handed down early in 1947. And until that decision is known, all predictions for near future of tele should be withheld.

EDGAR KOBAK
President

HERE we are facing another year, and the network Presidents are all facing the problem of their annual statements to the radio business papers. This is an assignment I take a little more seriously each year because it gets to be a little more difficult each year. I don't particularly relish the role of prophet, but I do like to make the annual statements as honest and realistic as possible.

Looking toward 1947, I frankly see nothing ahead more clearly than a big pile of hard work to be done. I think it is bound to be a year in which re-appraisal of values and re-aligning of sights will be very much in vogue.

During 1946 we have seen the breaking of the status quo of the war years and the establishment of a great number of new stations, coupled with the expansion of networks, notably Mutual. During 1946 we also passed through the experience of a change from a "war economy" in advertising to the economy of stringency brought about by material shortages, labor difficulties and other largely unexpected obstacles.

As far as Mutual is concerned, we have been buckling down to the task of fitting our network to the needs of a competitive, stringent economy—while at the same time increasing our penetration of hometown America by the addition of stations in many markets which heretofore have been deprived of Mutual Network service. Our job has been to expand our coverage and at the same time to keep prices down, and we enter 1947 with a sense of very real achievement in having so largely reached this goal.

In building new programs for 1947—both sustaining shows and those intended for sale—and including programs which have a definite public service aim as well as those whose sole object is entertainment—we are holding our ideas to a very simple basic pattern. We are making a very special effort to build our programs with primary concern for the viewpoint of the average listener. Instead of thinking in grand terms—what might be called the "auditorium school of thought"—we are thinking in intimate terms, the "living-room school," or maybe the "kitchen school" if you like. No matter how large or broad or comprehensive a basic program idea may be, we plan in 1947 to hold it to its simplest factors—its impact upon the ears and minds of individual listeners.

We don't expect this thinking to win many headlines of itself because it is not sensational or even dramatic, but we think it is practical, that it is in keeping with the tone of 1947 as we sense it, and we hope it will produce results which will win their own headlines.

While we shall, of course, continue our search for new comedians, artists and writers, one of our chief objectives will be to build new and different types of programs which can be made available for commercial sponsorship at reasonable cost, because we believe 1947 will be a year in which good "idea" programs that do not cost too much will be the most salable shows. We believe that sponsors will be watching the dollars more closely than ever in 1947—not merely because the times are conducive to such careful watching of expenditures, but because advertisers are all the time learning more about the proper control of the advertising dollar and are getting keener sense of values in all forms of advertising including network broadcasting.

This keener sense of value is, of course, being aided by the improved factual material made available by the various research agencies. We feel that there has been a very healthy clearing up of the situation in respect to radio research, particularly in program audience research.

From the standpoints of network and station development, of programming, and of advertising strategy, of research and fact-finding, and of the use to be made of the facts when they are found—from all of these standpoints. I believe that 1947 will be a year of noses applied to grindstones, of saws being applied to wood and of sledge hammers being applied to the rock pile. We have to stick to it.

NILES TRAMMELL
President

TWO great responsibilities face American radio now that the fighting war has ended: To help win a secure peace and to help heal the ugly scars of war that deface the world. And overshadowing these two companion missions is the great problem of harnessing atomic energy for peace rather than destruction.

Radio can face these tremendous problems of the future with a feeling of confidence because of its record in mobilizing this country for war and helping to win the war. That it was able to do so with such effectiveness is a tribute to the American system of democracy under which radio broadcasting exists as a free competitive enterprise, regulated by the government and supported by public spirited advertisers.

In the new era, which is now open, television will step forth as a gigantic new technical advance to aid radio in the fulfillment of its great obligations. In this new era, television will become the greates means of mass communication and education the world has ever known. Television, of course, will not entirely replace radio broadcasting and eventually each will find its place in the American home as complementary educational and entertainment services.

For radio to help solve the world's problems, governments must make it possible for all people to have freedom to listen. Only thus can truth triumph over rumor, and only thus can people have facts and knowledge which they must have to work out a world-wide peace.

Toward this end the National Broadcasting Company is making one of its chief objectives the education of our nation for the responsibilities of peace. We are attempting to meet that responsibility through the NBC-United Nations project which is designed to acquaint every American with the meaning and objectives of the problems they face. This project has extended the hand of co-operation and friendship to the radio industry leaders of our Allies and through it we hope eventually to work out a world-wide system of co-operation which will bring enlightenment and information to all.

Our record of public service is comprised not alone of these fine programs which our Public Service Department originates for the network and its independent affiliated stations. Our record of public service is all that we do for the radio public—all our programs of drama, comedy, news, discussion, debate, religion, sports, symphonic music and talks. We recognize also that it is our advertisers who make possible an economically sound network which enables us to utilize our resources in the service of our audience—both the mass audience and the class audience.

Let us be fundamental about this. Advertising in our competitive economy is not only necessary to the operation of modern industry but it is the very keystone of the expression of the free competitive spirit which has made our standard of living. There can be no freedom without competition and no competition without freedom.

Therefore, not only is advertising in the public interest but it is the very expression of that interest—interest in all that is new, all that is better, all that inspires, stimulates, and drives us to make this a world of peace, of strength, of freedom, of equal opportunity for all.

We broadcasters, who are the stewards of radio's service to the public, must be vigilant in preserving its good name and reputation. No one station, no one network, can fulfill this responsibility alone. It must be fulfilled by the entire broadcasting industry, united in the conviction that the only kind of advertising which serves the best interests of broadcaster and sponsor is that which serves the best interests of the public.

Our basic standard must always be "Truth in Advertising." Good salesmanship is not enough. It must be truthful salesmanship—truthful not only in what it says but also in what it implies. This maintenance of truth is a responsibility which must be shared not only by the advertiser who pays the bill and by the advertising agency which prepares the copy, but also by the broadcaster who accepts and transmits the message to the public.

HOW to extend your market

Annex the vast, largely untapped "BEYOND-METROPOLITAN" areas . . . the rich rural and small town centers where a population of 31,325,000 potential customers lives . . . where 20% of the nation's total retail food sales and 18% of total retail drug sales are made.

The ONLY network catering exclusively to BEYOND-METROPOLITAN America is the Keystone Transcription Network.

KEYSTONE NETWORK

B-M-A tunes in

Surveys prove that B-M-A inhabitants prefer their own local stations by overwhelming margin; those who come in from remote places. Listen are the kind of stations included in the Mutual Network. The unique MBS transcontinental operation enables you to extend your national wired network programs to Mutual-Metropolitan America, at new low cost per actual new listener.

SERVICES OFFERED: Keystone Broadcasting System is a transcription network principally covering BEYOND-METROPOLITAN markets from coast to coast. Its affiliated stations are joined together in a national system by means of transcriptions, eliminating wire charges. At time of going to press, the network includes 230 affiliated stations. The network supplies its stations with 48 fully scripted sustaining shows per week filling 2 hours per day, seven days each week, to a total of 14 hours per week. This is the only national, full-sized network in the United States offering national radio advertisers the opportunity to cover the BEYOND-METROPOLITAN markets intensively, in a single transaction, by means of electrical transcription. The system offers its facilities in network time periods from one hour down to five minutes and also makes available announcement periods down to twenty-five word length.

It's impossible

You can't cover California's Bonanza Beeline without on-the-spot radio

• Take California's vast central valleys . . . add neighboring Reno and prosperous western Nevada. And you've got the Beeline market. A bonanza market with total buying power now almost half again that of St. Louis!

But it's a market set apart by mountains — mountains that stop most outside radio signals cold. To radio-sell California's Bonanza Beeline, you need on-the-spot radio.

So let the five BEELINE stations introduce you to these people with all that "buyability." Each of these stations dominates its area. KMJ Fresno, for instance, maintains an audience of 6 to 20 times that of the next best Fresno station. The flexible Beeline group is not a network or a chain. You can buy it any way you want it — one or all five. Find out how much these stations can sell for you.

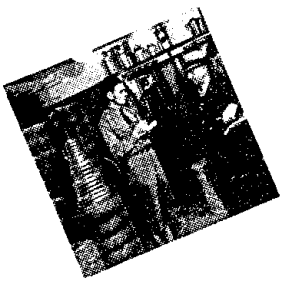
WIBW Serves the First families of AGRICULTURE

Over 90% of the farm men and women in this five-state area turn first to WIBW for helpful information and sound, dependable guidance concerning every phase of farming operation.*

ON its first broadcast almost a quarter-century ago, WIBW was dedicated to the service of American Agriculture. We have never lost sight of this goal. Each passing year has brought additional services that would help our listeners increase yields, save work, make farming more profitable, and farm life more attractive.



Because we've never given him a bum steer, the man of the house has absolute confidence in the brands we recommend. He asks for and buys them by name.

Through carefully planned programs and close cooperation with farm organization and 4-H Club leaders, WIBW is building a second generation of those who buy because they "heard it on WIBW."

Because our years of homemaking suggestions have helped the women of these "First Families" make their homes more attractive and their housework easier, they are quick to act upon our buying suggestions. Just ask any merchant how much faster WIBW-advertised products move.

The First Families of Agriculture LIVE HERE

Here is our ½ m.v. line. It encloses the accumulated buying power from years of bumper crops—plus that of 1946, the largest ever harvested and sold at such high prices. Here too are the homes where WIBW is the "most-listened-to" station.*

* Kansas Radio Audience, 1946.

WHAS

LOUISVILLE

enters its 25th year on the air
A respected pioneer today as yesterday

A radio pioneer in fact as well as spirit, WHAS went on the air July 18, 1922 with a power of 500 watts. Today, twenty-five years later, broadcasting on a clear channel frequency of 840 kilocycles with a power of 50,000 watts, WHAS continues its leadership in radio.

Power . . . receptibility . . . program and technical excellence—these represent only one side of the WHAS story. The interests, the sympathies, the labors of WHAS are part-and-parcel of its millions of listeners. Through service during flood and prosperity, in peace and war, Radio Station WHAS has become indigenous to the market it serves. There is no greater tribute.

WHAS is again pioneering with the first and only operating FM station in Louisville: WCJT, 24 kc, 99.5 mc.

50,000 watts, clear channel

Let's see your license

That's Sadie and her four Black Bear Cubs. It was taken just about the time we opened up W-I-T-H. And it seems out there in the Great Smoky National Park they stopped the show . . . literally stopped traffic to get snacks from passing motorists.

Know the comparison we're going to make? That's right.

We've been stealing the radio show down here in Baltimore.

Because today W-I-T-H, the successful independent, produces more listeners-per-dollar-spent than any other station in this big five-station town.

Facts that back up our license to say that are available. Glad to show them to you.

A YANKEE HOME-TOWN STATION has a distinctly local character. It's an integral part of community life — as familiar as the post office or the town hall.

A Yankee home-town station brings to its community the best in radio entertainment — coast-to-coast programs, with Yankee Network News Service, thrilling sportcasts, plus programs of New England flavor and local interest. Yankee home-towners listen to their local stations. They hear the best without dialing outside stations.

A Yankee home-town station promotes local business. There is a community of interest between it and the local merchants. It is used by the very merchants whose cooperation you seek and who are ready to push national brands locally advertised.

This is local acceptance in the Yankee sense — acceptance by the audience and by trade outlets — acceptance that is a strong, active daily influence on buying habits, that gives you direct penetration and greatest sales impact in each key market.

Yankee's 24 home-town stations tie these markets together. They provide complete radio coverage of New England in the only way it can be obtained.

Showmanship... the first prerequisite of successful public contact—including broadcasting—is constantly evident in the skilled programming and exploitation of WWJ features. This combination of science and artistry has won outstanding audience loyalty for WWJ during the past 26 years . . . maintaining the leadership expected from the first radio station in the nation! A pioneer always, WWJ will be on the air this winter with television through its sister station, WWDT. Obviously advertisers can anticipate—and are assured—impressive results from sales messages which capitalize on WWJ's penetration of America's 4th market!

YOU MAY BE ABLE TO LIFT 1836 POUNDS*—

BUT—YOU CAN'T "RAISE" WESTERN MICHIGAN WITHOUT WKZO-WJEF!

Everybody knows about the veritable wall of fading that keeps outside stations from "raising" much of an audience in Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo and Greater Western Michigan. But look at what a two-station inside combination can do—WKZO at Kalamazoo, and WJEF at Grand Rapids! The following Hooper report figures (Spring, 1946) are the latest available as the Yearbook goes to press:

SHARE OF AUDIENCE—Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo

	SETS IN USE	WJEF-WKZO	OTHER CBS	ALL ABC	ALL MBS	ALL NBC	ALL OTHERS	HOMES CALLED
8:00 AM—12 NOON (MON. thru FRI.)	17.5	34.0	11.2	22.5	6.2	24.0	2.1	6481
12:00 NOON—6:00 PM (MON. thru FRI.)	18.1	37.4	11.7	13.8	6.4	27.3	3.4	9798
6:00 PM—10:00 PM (SUN. thru SAT.)	29.5	37.3	6.7	11.0	6.7	36.9	1.4	18,161

If you are trying to cover Western Michigan with radio—or with any other medium—you deserve to know the real facts about the situation here. Our studies of this market are certain to be helpful. Call us—or Avery-Knodel, Inc.

* Thomas Topham did it in Derby, England, in 1741.

we're sorry,*

But it's so . . .

For weeks our researchers—very diligent people—have been poking carefully into BMB's report on WOR. They find—

1. that in the 40 counties in 7 states with retail sales greater than 100 million dollars each

WOR outranks any other N. Y. station

in total BMB Station Audience in the daytime and exceeds by more than 1% the next highest ranking station at night.

2. that in the 5 counties in 3 states with retail sales greater than one-half billion dollars each

WOR outranks any other N. Y. station

in total BMB Station Audience in the daytime and exceeds by more than 1% the next highest ranking station at night.

It's advantages like these, plus a rate structure deliberately planned to meet the requirements of the small budget advertiser, that have made WOR one of the most economical and effective radio buys in the United States.

NOTE: If you would care to have any facts or figures to prove or amplify the statements made above, just call PE 6-8600; or write, WOR—that power-full station, at 1440 Broadway, in New York.

we mean, as far as our competitors are concerned.*

Fred Robbins, popular WOV disc-jockey and emcee of the "1280 Club"

We Have Analyzed Our Audience For Sponsors of the "1280 Club"

WE want you to know what you get for your dough! That's why WOV asked "The Pulse, Inc." to analyze the first 25,000 registered members of, and ardent listeners to, Fred Robbins' "1280 Club" program, broadcast nightly over WOV from 6:30 to 9:00 p. m.

The results really tell a sponsor what he gets on this popular, six-day-a-week program. For example:

The "1280 Club" delivers 1280 listeners for a dollar.

56% are women . . . 44% are men.

96% live in metropolitan New York. And we can give you the home address of each one.

Get the complete facts on this most revealing of all listener surveys . . . age, sex, income, where and how these ardent listeners live. Phone or write for a WOV representative today.

25th Anniversary

A QUARTER OF A CENTURY IS ONLY THE BEGINNING

MARVEL of the Twentieth Century . . . means for mass communication . . . disseminator of education and entertainment . . . Radio broadcasting is a tribute to man's inventive genius. In little more than 25 years it has grown from novelty to necessity in our daily lives.

Proud to have played a part in the phenomenal growth of the radio art, pioneer Station WGY, on the occasion of its Silver Anniversary (February 20, 1947) looks back through the years with a deep sense of gratitude to those who have made its operation possible.

Firm in the belief that there is an even greater tomorrow for broadcasting with the addition of Frequency Modulation and Television, General Electric Stations face the future with plans for further expansion and better service.

"Y'all oughtta be on the radio"

A blue-jeaned guitar strummer hears neighborly praise... and reckons it's so. Ambling down from the Great Smoky Mountains or across the Piedmont Plateau, he heads for 50,000-watt WBT—talent headquarters for the Carolinas.

For more than a quarter-century the wealth of talent in North and South Carolina has been funneling into WBT. Because people know that WBT has a knack of spotting unknowns with promise and helping them to national prominence.

Carolinians remember it was WBT that launched Lansing Hatfield and Norman Cordon on operatic careers that led to the stage of the "Met"... that Skinnay Ennis, John Scott Trotter, and The Golden Gate Quartet got their first big break at WBT... that Johnny Long and Kay Kyser first drawled into a WBT microphone.

Thanks to this flair for discovering stars, WBT gets its pick of the area's performers. The WBT audience hears the best in Southern radio. And WBT advertisers meet—and beat—sales quotas for the Carolinas.

MARION, OHIO

Changes Statistics into Service And Service into Sales For You

BMB

Community service is a by-word to every staff member of Marion, Ohio's Friendly Neighbor Station WMRN. The results of such service are yours for better sales in a seven-county market area where buying power is estimated at more than $200,000,000 annually.

In this seven-county market you can get 200,000 listeners who know, like and stay tuned to news of their city, farm, church and school activities over the station they prefer. Their time is your time with WMRN.

WMRN serves its audience through all the seasons of the year. Your share of that audience can mean better sales in an already prosperous, ready-to-buy central Ohio market.

Very Personal...

TO LISTENERS in one of the nation's top 25 industrial areas . . . to local and national advertisers . . . the call letters WKBN stand for personal contact.

To the Listener, they mean personal contact with constant fine entertainment . . . strong local and national news coverage . . . information on better products and services . . . extensive public service features. This contact is one of personal preference for more reasons than the quality and scope of programs. The listener has come to know WKBN as a friendly station and staff . . . vitally concerned with affairs of the area served. Twenty years of sincere and authoritative station conduct have demonstrated this to his satisfaction . . . and the WKBN-habit is welcomed as a personal part of his life and home.

To the Advertiser, WKBN means an opportunity for personal contact with a great family of radio listeners in a densely populated tri-state area. These call letters mean the one advertising medium that binds this vast purchasing power together. They represent unique market contact through a regional personality . . . a proved-power selling force . . . a friendly and profitable business relationship, based on WKBN's long-established reputation for utmost cooperation towards mutual objectives.

IF YOU COULD CHOOSE ONLY 25 U. S. MARKETS . . . YOU WOULD HAVE TO CHOOSE YOUNGSTOWN—WKBN

WHEN EVEN NEWS WAS "NEW"

KGW LED IN SERVING THE PUBLIC

Complete news coverage has been the goal of KGW since the station broadcast its first news flash—the state primary election returns on May 19, 1922. For the next ten years KGW supplied news through bulletins and unscheduled news broadcasts. Early in 1932, KGW carried one scheduled daily news broadcast, and by the end of that year had three locally prepared and scheduled newscasts plus one network program.

On January 3, 1934 a KGW news bureau was opened and in 1935 KGW installed the first teletype used in a Portland radio station. KGW now utilizes the services of AP, UP and INS.

The growth of public interest in the use of radio as a source of news has led KGW to increase its scheduled daily newscasts during its 25 years of service until at present KGW broadcasts 46 local and 30 network news programs weekly.

WFIL is an integral part of the Philadelphia community. WFIL knows and understands the people to whose service it is devoted. In its unflagging service to the community lies the potent appeal of WFIL to the people of Philadelphia.

Advertisers have learned that WFIL has always attracted the ears and attention of the great Philadelphia Metropolitan area. They have learned, too, that WFIL's planned program of promotion wins more listeners for their programs, and that WFIL's merchandising helps convert listeners into buyers.

Who's Listening?

Men and women. Teen-aged, middle-aged, old-aged. Veterans, non-veterans. The well-off and the not so well-off.

We asked Philadelphians what they listen to. Out of every 100 listeners: 97 said they want the news. 88 like good music. 61 tune to sports.

Progressive WPEN aims to please Philadelphians from all walks of life. That's why WPEN features news every hour on the hour, straight from the newsrooms of the Evening Bulletin, America's largest evening newspaper. More good music than ever before. And the kind of sportscasting that daily wins new friends.

So—it is not surprising that 88% of Philadelphia listeners know WPEN . . . far more than know any other independent and one network outlet. WPEN is welcomed into a fast-growing number of homes in this city of homes—the nation's third market.

At 950 on the dial, Philadelphians of both sexes, all ages and incomes find what they want when they want it.

It's a

that holds 9 big communities in its fifteen-mile radius!

ORDINARY COMMUNITIES? Heck, NO! Recent figures credit our folks with incomes 38% above the national county average. That puts 'em in the luxury-item class . . . definitely! And only nine big communities? Mister, those are the cities and towns that could sue us if our towers fell over on 'em! WFCI pushes 5000 watts far and beyond that golden circle into densely-populated southern New England, reaching thousands of ears that don't show on Rhode Island statistical charts.

American programming and a rate that offers you more time for your dollars make WFCI the Rhode Island "buy"!

A favorite in Texas for a quarter of a century!

A PIONEER STATION WITH A GREAT RECORD OF FIRSTS ★

WBAP now operates full-time using two choice frequencies, 50,000 watts on 820 kc (clear channel), and 5,000 watts at 570 kc.

The WBAP know-how for Texas continues the favorite NBC shows and local programs on 820 just as they have for years, and the other half-time on ABC shows and the snappy KGKO productions just about as it has been in this area since 1938.

WBAP divides time with WFAA on 820 and 570. The listener does not have to move the dial for continuous service. Joint transmitters for each station midway between Fort Worth and Dallas.

What do you mean by

First?

Do you mean "earliest" ... or "of highest repute"

Whichever way you take it, CFRB is the best radio buy in Canada's richest market!

THE FIRST TWENTY YEARS: Since 1926, this station has pioneered! Today, it still pioneers, spending more money, working towards an even more successful future. As one small example, CFRB has been broadcasting Frequency Modulation for six years. Because this station serves Ontario listeners best, it pays you best as an advertiser!

PUBLIC SERVICE: In Ontario CFRB is first for entertainment, first for information, first for inspiration! It supports every community effort, reports all important news and rounds out its broadcast pattern with excellent public service programs. By consistently planning a balanced program schedule, CFRB has built up and holds a loyal, responsive audience!

SALES RESULTS: This station is the unquestioned first as an advertising buy in Ontario. The proof is simple: take (1) widest coverage (2) largest share of popular programs (3) greatest listener loyalty . . . and you have the most productive station. An investment in a CFRB audience is a solid investment!

CFRB

PLANNING NOW FOR THE NEXT TWENTY YEARS!

ASSOCIATED MUSIC PUBLISHERS, INC. (AMP)

By GRETL URBAN
Vice-President and Manager of Music Department

FOUNDING OF AMP: Associated Music Publishers, Inc., was founded as a private corporation in the State of New York on December 22, 1926. Radio licenses have been issued since August, 1928. The corporation conducts a music publishing business and is exclusive agent for numerous foreign music publishers.

Scope: The AMP repertoire, representing 45 U. S. and European catalogs, has now been increased to include 501,000 titles, of which approximately 19,100 are copyrights. Copyright registration in Washington is in the name of AMP as owner. Ranging from symphonic works to dance music, including concert works for ensemble, solo instruments and voice, its repertoire constitutes a flexible and rich source of distinctive music for radio program builders.

AMP licenses: Licenses cover performing rights, "small" (i.e., strictly musical) and "grand" (i.e., musical-dramatic). AMP's radio license is unique in that it covers "small" and "grand" rights under a single fee. The radio license stipulates that: (1) the monthly fee shall be equal to a station's highest quarter-hour rate card; (2) that AMP will sell the licensee any music (covered by the license) which is for sale, and rent such music as is not for sale; (3) that AMP will indemnify the licensee against claims arising from the use of music covered by the license.

AMP licensees: The national networks, the principal regional networks and most of the important independent radio stations are holders of AMP liceses.

AMP headquarters: 25 West 45th Street, New York City. Telephone BRyant 9-0845. Cable address: MUSICPUB—NEWYORK.

AMP officers: H. E. Houghton, President; John R. Andrus, Vice-President and Treasurer; Gretl Urban, Vice-President and Manager of Music Department; Anna M. Kerner, Secretary; Alexander J. Sayles, Assistant Secretary and Assistant Treasurer.

BROADCAST MUSIC, INC.

By M. E. TOMPKINS

Vice-President and General Manager

WHILE the nation's broadcasters are fully aware of Broadcast Music, Inc. and its concerted efforts to maintain efficient and progressive service to radio through its facilities in the licensing of performance rights in music, it is both timely and appropriate to consider the varied activities of BMI from the viewpoint of more than six full years of operation.

From its very inception the growth of BMI, which has had the full support of the broadcasting industry, has kept pace with the general expansion of the industry. All but a handful of the broadcasting stations in the United States and Canada today (1,366 as of January 15) as well as all national and regional networks are licensees of BMI, and all of them make a very substantial use of the BMI music repertoire.

Of the total number of licensees, 829 are stations affiliated with a national network, 348 are independent stations, 99 are F-M and shortwave broadcasters, and the remaining 90 are Canadian stations.

To these licensees, a figure, incidentally, which is current but which is steadily increasing, BMI extends a multitude of special services not limited merely to the granting of performance rights only. It distributes to licensees, without costs, a variety of sheet music and recordings which consitute a valuable portion of any station's music library. It furnishes script services adapted to the specific needs of broadcasting stations, and regularly makes available to its licensees a wide range of helpful information pertaining to better musical programming.

Bulletins are sent periodically listing vital changes in the basic BMI catalog so that stations are always aware of music available to them under their BMI license.

An experienced staff of field representatives, specially trained radio men, are constantly visiting the stations with helpful suggestions for better programming and continually gathering opinions and suggestions from station men in order to make possible even better progress in BMI's service.

Many other special services provided by BMI are all designed to aid program and production men, music directors, librarians and every activity of the broadcasting station concerned with the use of music. The BMI monthly Pin-Up Sheet of Hit Tunes, Disc Data, Music Memo, Holiday Music bulletins, Record Index and monthly News Letters which reach the broadcaster regularly comprise an integral part of this overall service to the industry.

In the field of educational and standard music, BMI is consistently building, through its own publications and those of its affiliate publishers, an extensive and valuable library of distinctive music which will never be out of public favor.

FOR the past 17 years, the word SESAC has been synonymous with service to the entertainment industry . . . music service to thousands of radio stations, advertising agencies, record and transcription companies, motion picture producers and the concert stage.

This Complete Music Service is ready to serve broadcasters with:

1. The DIVERSIFIED CATALOGS OF SESAC PUBLISHERS, containing more than 100,000 copyrights, all performable without limitation, without copyright checkup, and without annoying bookkeeping headaches under your SESAC Performance License.

2. The SESAC PROGRAM BUILDER, an indexed compilation of several thousand favored musical compositions, designed to assist you in building live shows and special occasion programs. The selections in this volume are arranged in classified and alphabetical sections for overall program building convenience.

3. The SESAC TRANSCRIBED LIBRARY, built on individual broadcasters' specifications, is fully meeting the exacting needs of radio stations large and small. The selections on each record side are blended into a complete 15-minute pre-built program. These separate cuts, with an average playing time of 1½ to 2 minutes, can also be utilized for individual program building and are ideal for participating program purposes. The SESAC TRANSCRIPTION PROGRAM GUIDE furnished with each subscription contains program notes on every selection, which can be used as a basis for continuity or ad lib. The distinct advantages of this Transcription Service provide, (a) elimination of copyright clearances, (b) no restrictions, no logs to keep, no forms to fill out, (c) reduction of script writing problems, and (d) the opportunity to cut the perfrmance rights costs of commercial programs with the top saleability of SESAC Transcription material and the SESAC Blanket Performance License. The extensive everyday usage of this Library's compact features by hundreds of stations throughout the country has proven it to be an unprecedented time-saver and money-maker.

4. The SESAC STATION RELATIONS STAFF, providing personalized service to over 1,150 radio stations in the United States, Canada, Hawaii and Alaska, licensed to perform SESAC music. The SESAC field men are expertly trained to help you meet your program needs and are prepared to offer suggestions and solutions to your broadcasting problems.

5. The SESAC PROGRAM SERVICE DEPARTMENT, ready to assist stations, agencies and transcription companies in matters of music requirements and copyright clearance. The prime function of this department is to make authorized performance of SESAC music as simple as possible by deleting all red tape.

"THIS Was THE ARMY" . . . MR. JONES*

This is the first of a series of messages to put complimentary and congratulatory trade advertising to fuller constructive use—for the advancement of the entertainment industry by bettering the opportunities of its lesser-known but highly talented members.

Ezra Stone
NBC—NEW YORK

Here are four men you might like to know more about.
They are men of outstanding and varied abilities.

Some of them you undoubtedly know but it may not have occurred to you that they are back in show business . . . after prolonged engagements of GI business.

Some may be entirely new faces to you but all possess talents for which you search at various times.
All of them are not "At Liberty."
Most of them lost no time in swinging back into civilian action.
But for bigger and better assignments all of them are deservingly available.

RICHARD S. BURDICK

2780 Filbert Street, San Francisco 23, Calif.

Here is a talented writer who's versatile. (Too many writers are just mediocre in various fields.) Successfully marketed everything from lowdown nite-club material, complete with special songs and lyrics, to upper case radio scripts for COLUMBIA WORKSHOP.

Has written over 1000 broadcasts embracing every type: dramatic, variety, documentary, comedy, musical; produced on all major networks.

Enlisted in the Army just about the time Mr. Stimson was scouring the War Department attic for that gold fish bowl. There he wrote and directed the first original full-length musical comedy of World War II.

He was then ordered to create dialogue sequences for both the stage and screen versions of "THIS IS THE ARMY"; followed in rapid succession with "AT YOUR SERVICE," "BONDS AWAY" and "YOU BET YOUR LIFE."

Currently Production Manager of station KSFO in San Francisco but does plenty of national free-lance work on the side. Remember the name RICHARD S. BURDICK. You'll see and hear it often.

JERRY JAROSLOW

Actor (character juvenile), variety entertainer
374 State Street, Brooklyn 2, N. Y.
CUmberland 6-8114 (AEA—AGVA)

A very funny fellow on a night club floor, musical or revue stage. Has been said he's a young Bobby Clark, Groucho Marx, Frank Morgan and Danny Kaye rolled into one. But he rolls his own . . . into the nearest aisle.

Appeared in several intimate revues: "TIDBITS OF '46," "FUN WITH MUSIC," "KEYNOTES OF UNITY" . . . and will gladly forgive you for not remembering them.

Has had his share of straight and comedy roles in sundry stock ventures, particularly outstanding in the HOLLYWOOD ACTOR'S LAB, production of IRWIN SHAW'S "THE SHY AND LONELY."

In the Army he was engaged in "THIS IS THE ARMY," "AT YOUR SERVICE," "FLYING VARIETIES" and a number of Training Films for the FIRST MOTION PICTURE UNIT. Without prejudice to his talent, he also had numerous tours of CQ, KP and guard duty.

Jaroslow is currently emceeing and entertaining in a New York basement bistro where business is worse than the liquor. (Such a thing is possible!)

He calls the spot: "The well of loneliness!"

JOSEPH TOMES

Actor, narrotor, announcer
610 West 155th Street, New York, N. Y.
LExington 2-1100 (AEA—AFRA—SAG)

His outstanding features are his faultless comedy sense, his superb resonant voice and his impressive height, 6'3".

First appeared in New York as "Gregory" in Laurence Olivier's then unappreciated production of "ROMEO AND JULIET." Several seasons of summer stock and Los Angeles Federal Theatre, playing leads and supporting roles, comedy and dramatic, in modern and costume pieces.

Radio and television stations WGXAO, KWID, KGFJ, KFI, have all used his acting, announcing and narrating talents.

Columbia Pictures mugged him in "SHADOWS IN THE NIGHT." So did two AAF training films.

Saw 37 months' military service, a good hunk of it in the Philippines and Japan, with the 5th Air Force. His efficiency and dependability won for him a Staff Sergeancy. For a while Tomes was even top kick of his outfit.

But don't hold that against him, for even then he was only acting a jawbone 1st Sergeant.

Currently featured as regular narrator and actor on NBC's "VOICE OF THE ARMY."

LEWIS FISHER

356 East 57th Street, New York, N. Y.
PLaza 5-2649 (AFRA)

He left a staff announcing job on WCAU in Philadelphia in 1940 to swab decks for the Navy. His rise from Midshipman to Lieutenant-Commander is typical of his drive and capabilities.

He pitched and tossed on the first Murmansk convoy runs; got into the African invasions and then transferred to the Pacific in time for the hot Kamikaze stuff.

His executive efficiency as a top signal officer earned him a promotion as Flag Secretary to the Admiral commanding the 16th Cruiser Division.

His distinguished voice has repeatedly sparked the PARAMOUNT NEWSREEL as a narrator. He's also been well received in sundry free lance radio chores.

It took the Navy, a beautiful wife and considerable fortitude to resist the temptation of locating permanently in Philadelphia. Instead of resuming his old WCAU job (CBS key affiliate) he took a staff announcing assignment in New York and hung out his shingle for free lance work.

This guy is so dynamic he even found an apartment in Manhattan!

"THEY ARE OUR FOLK SONGS"

By RILEY SHEPARD, President, American Federation of Folk Artists

Riley Shepard

NOTHING explains the basic characteristics of a Nation so well as its music, —especially its folk songs. Folk songs are reflections of the ideas, the religious and moral beliefs, the humor and despair of a people. In America, our folk songs are found in many interesting varieties. We have, for instance, the "blues," the "spirituals," and the ballads and jingles of the rural areas and the far west. But America, more than any other nation, has overlooked its folk songs. It has, instead of giving them the proper attention, imported folk songs of other nations. These importations are now in vogue, and are exploited as real folk music through-out the country. In fact, the exploitation of this imported folk music has been so successful that our own crop of folk songs, except those composed by Stephen Foster and a few others, are ignored as folk songs and are classified, in the large, as "hillbilly."

Contrary to the commercial and so-called "artistic" opinion, folk songs do not have to be traditional. That is to say, they do not have to be so old that their composers are forgotten before being classified as folk songs. A folk song is not a complicated musical composition, nor is it necessarily a simple composition that has endured through the years due to continued exploitation. A real folk song is a song of and about the people, and it is kept alive by the people. The status of a folk song is not determined by its age, and whether the composer is known or forgotten is a superficial point. "HOME ON THE RANGE" is a folk song, though the composer is unknown; yet it is no more of a folk song than are the compositions of Stephen Foster, whose name is a household word. This comparison holds true for the thousands of "spirituals," "blues tunes" and hillbilly and cowboy songs. They are folk songs whether they were written last year or a hundred years ago. If they were accepted by the people and kept alive by them as musical and lyrical expressions of their beliefs and feelings, then they are folk songs! The most important thing to remember is that a folk song of any one nation could not have been produced in any other nation.

Folk songs are exclusive to the countries and people that give them birth. That is why "hillbilly" and "cowboy" songs are American Folk Songs, and should be classified as such. "Red River Valley," "Frankie and Johnnie," "Bury Me Not on the Lone Prairie," and other such songs, whether of the past or the present, are purely American and could not have been produced in any other Nation. Nearly all folk songs are similar in form and construction—but if we study the folk songs of different Nations, we find that they are psychologically different in content. This psychological difference is even found in folk songs that originate in different sections of the same Nation. This is especially true of America, where even the manner of speech varies. And if we study the contents of these songs attentively, they will give us a better understanding of America and its people than all the books on civics, geography and history combined. People sing of their likes and dislikes, their joys and sufferings, their political and moral opinions; in short, they sing of any and everything that affects their lives.

Suffice it to say that the population of America is still composed essentially of country folk. Industry developed and concentrated and wrought a shift in population and economy so that today we have more people living in towns and cities than are living in the country, but this sudden change from agricultural to industrial economy has not as yet worn away the rural ideologies of the people. The average American is nothing more nor less than a farmer moved to town; and when he came, he brought along his philosophy. Therefore, if you would know America, you must first know these people; and there is no better way of getting to know them than through the songs that reflect their ideas and tell of their activities. The majority of these songs are currently called "hillbilly"—but in them you will find the story and the thoughts of the average American.

FUNCTIONS

The American Association of Advertising Agencies was formed in 1917 by the amalgamation of the New England, New York, Philadelphia, Southern and Western Advertising Agency Associations—to promote the interests and raise the standards of advertising and of the advertising agency business.

It welcomes to membership any advertising agency qualified to aid in this purpose by reason of its ability to serve the cause of advertising, its financial soundness and its demonstrated desire to adhere to sound and ethical business practices.

The aims of the Association are partly ethical and partly economic. It is a professional body and also a trade association. It aims to raise standards, to improve technique, to ascertain values, to safeguard relations, and to cooperate with other organized effort in related fields.

One of the major aims of the Association is to keep advertising agency practice on a high level, in order that it may be most useful to the advertiser, most helpful to the publisher and respected by business men.

Early in its career the Association adopted for the guidance of its members two official statements. One is entitled "Agency Service Standards," in which agency service is defined, so that advertisers and publishers may know what to expect and agencies may know what should be required of them, thus discouraging the incompetent and encouraging those equipped to render effective service.

The other statement, entitled "Standards of Practice," deals with agency relations with media, clients and the public with fair and ethical agency competition, and other professional ethics.

TELE IS HERE—OUTLOOK BRIGHT

By FRANK BURKE, Editor RADIO DAILY—TELEVISION DAILY

TELEVISION arrived the past year with well defined black and white pictures, increased production of receivers and equipment and experimental progress in the development of color.

Many significant things occurred reflecting the progress of video. One was the successful establishment of a coaxial cable network linking Washington, Philadelphia, Baltimore, with New York stations. Another was the pronounced improvement in programming, especially special events coverage, and the growing number of major advertising agencies who have come to recognize the potentialities of the new art.

The lag in receiver production due to lack of component parts, labor strikes, and the black and white-color controversy probably did most to retard full stride development of television. However despite the delays the nation's television audience increased from around 10,000 to more than 20,000 receivers and the forecast is that 100,000 receivers will come off the lines of the major manufacturers during 1947.

Receivers on Market

Tele receivers placed on the market the past year ranged from small portables priced at around $250 to massive all-purpose console models which were priced at $2,500. The table models in some instances were not entirely satisfactory until RCA came along with a precision built instrument that is giving satisfaction. Du Mont led the field of custom sets with elaborate direct image console models which included AM, FM, shortwave and a record changer. While Du Mont's line was produced in only limited quantities they found ready sale.

Other Manufacturers Ready

As we enter 1947 other manufacturers will make a bid for the television receiver business. These include Philco, Farnsworth, General Electric, Crosley and Stromberg-Carlson. Experimental models were produced and tested during 1946 and production lines were made ready with the beginning of the new year.

While manufacturers are cognizant of the necessity of building an audience through the production of new receivers they are also mindful of the immediate needs of television transmitters in furthering the development of the new art. During the coming year approximately 50 transmitters are scheduled for delivery. These include station equipment for such cities as Baltimore, Washington, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, San Francisco, Minneapolis, Detroit, Chicago and Buffalo. Stations in Detroit, Chicago, Washington and St. Louis expect to be on the air before summer.

Programming Progress

Stations in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Schenectady, and Los Angeles led the way in program development the past year. New ideas and techniques for presenting live talent shows and films and the strides made in the coverage of sporting events highlighted the progress made. Noteworthy among these accomplishments was the network coverage of the Louis-Conn fight, pickup of major league baseball games in New York, and the Washington remotes on President Truman's appearance before a joint session of the House and Senate. The direct pickups from United Nations headquarters and the special tele films of the Bikini atom bomb tests were also among the special events classics.

While the controversy over the merits of black and white television as compared to sequential color scanning continued through 1946, public acceptance of the monochrome pictures was apparent. Black and white pictures of fine definition were provided through improved transmission and the use of the new Image Orthican cameras. Then, too, the tuning refinements, brighter pictures and improved antennas contributed to the eye appeal of the pictures.

B. and W. vs. Color

The color tele fight brought demonstrations of CBS' improved system of mechanical scanning and RCA's experimental electronic color. It was contention of Dr. Peter Goldmark, CBS color expert, and his associates that color was ready for immediate commercial development. RCA, Du Mont and officials of Television Broadcasters Association, on the other hand, stressed the acceptability of black and white and indicated that perfected electronic color was some years off. The merits of black and white vs. color was still a hot potato in the hands of the FCC when this article was written.

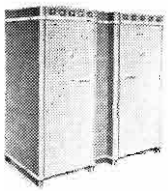
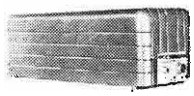
LOOK TO THE GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY

AM Among the first to design, build and operate transmitters in the AM field, General Electric has always maintained its interest in advancing the art and technical development of this phase of broadcasting. The 250 watt AM transmitter shown here is the first of General Electric's completely new line that includes all types, from the lowest to the highest power ratings.



FM As a pioneer in the development of FM broadcasting, General Electric has acquired the background and experience which has proved so invaluable to the newer stations entering this field. As a leader in the development of FM, General Electric has a complete line of FM transmitters for broadcasting stations of every size.

COMMUNICATIONS



In the broad field of communications, General Electric has placed emphasis on the importance of quality, reliability and simplicity of design in this type of equipment. Since many of the applications for radio communications equipment are in the nature of public services, extreme care has been exercised to design each unit for maximum utility. Complete systems for the bands available to these services are provided, both station and mobile.

AVIATION To the pilot, the radio equipment is the most valuable instrument in his plane, since his life may depend upon it. In designing the complete General Electric line of Aviation Electronic Equipment, reliability far beyond accepted standards was demanded. The high quality that is being built into these entire lines is assurance of dependability under the most critical conditions.

TELEVISION For years General Electric has pioneered in television. Station WRGB has provided outstanding facilities for both technical and program experimentation. This union of engineering with studio production supplies General Electric with experience of incomparable value to those entering the television field.

MARINE RADIO

During the war General Electric was one of the largest producers of radar for the Armed Forces. Many of these developments have been refined and simplified for use in peace. The Electronic Navigator, a radar development, is one of these peacetime applications which is now being used in navigation to protect shipping. Other equipment now being developed will aid in saving untold millions of tonnage and numbers of lives in the future.

ALL-ELECTRONIC COLOR TELE

By E. W. ENGSTROM, V. P. In Charge Of Research, RCA Lab. Div.

E. W. ENGSTROM

COLOR television pictures, produced by all-electronic means, were demonstrated publicly for the first time on October 30, 1946, at the RCA Laboratories, Princeton, N. J. Groups of newspaper and magazine writers, and representatives of the radio industry, who attended the demonstration, saw that flickerless, all-electronic color television is practical without rotating discs or other moving parts.

The new system is a complete departure from mechanical color television, shown in various forms since 1925. With the demonstration, it was emphasized that approximately four years would be required to bring any color system to the present status of black-and-white television.

Many interesting features are embodied in both the transmitting and receiving apparatus. Fundamentally, the RCA system transmits images in the three basic colors—red, blue and green—simultaneously. In other words, all colors comprising a scene are transmitted together and produced together. Existing mechanical color television systems transmit the three colors in sequence, one color at a time, relying on the persistence of the eye to combine them properly.

To accomplish the simultaneous transmission of three colors, RCA scientists and engineers developed a special camera for the pick-up and a multiple cathode-ray projection system for the receiver. The equipment, as demonstrated, effectively transmitted color "stills" and motion picture films. There are under construction color television cameras for studio and outdoor pickup of live subjects.

Transmission of the picture on slide or film is achieved in natural colors when a light beam from a kinescope scanning raster is focused onto the transparency and the light passing through is separated into component colors by a system of color selective mirrors and converted into electric signals in multiplier-type photo-electric cells.

Each of the three transmitted images—red, blue and green—is arranged to have the same number of lines, that is 525; also each one has the same horizontal scanning rate and the same picture repetition rate of 30 pictures a second as in present commercial television broadcasting.

The receiving set is equipped with three 3-inch kinescopes, which separately receive the signals representing red, blue and green and produce television images in these colors. This trio of kinescopes is called Trinoscope. From it, the three color images are optically projected to form a brilliant composite picture on a 15 x 20-inch screen in natural color, free from any flicker, color gringes or break-up of color.

Since the standards for the green image —including the synchronizing pulses—are identical to those of the present black-and-white standards, any broadcasts from color stations using the electronic simultaneous system can be received clearly in monochrome on black-and-white receivers by the addition of an inexpensive, easily installed radio-frequency converter. No modifications whatever are required inside the set.

Likewise, it will be possible for electronic color television sets when introduced to receive the broadcasts of black-and-white stations.

A station owner can begin with a black-and-white broadcast service. He may operate a black-and-white transmitter on the presently commercialized channels and also an electronic color transmitter on ultra-high frequencies, using the signal of the color camera to operate both transmitters.

Engineers, scientists and commercial personnel have been greatly concerned by the prospect that when color television was developed it would quickly make the existing black-and-white system obsolete. The simultaneous color system happily solves this problem of obsolescence and at the same time is a superior color television system.

IT WOULD seem reasonable to assume that when the term "Commercial Television Programming" is used, the reference is to the type of show the viewing audience will demand as a regular bill-of-fare, or else. If television is to take its rightful place as a great advertising medium along with its predecessors, newspapers, magazines, billboards, direct mail, carcards, and radio, it will have to have a commercial sponsor to be an economic success.

This is in no way a reflection upon the many excellent sustaining radio and television programs. Unfortunately, star talent costs money. Continued use of top talent, the makings of a good show, can only be had for free when a sponsor pays the bills. And, a good show is the only thing that is going to keep Mr. and Mrs. John Q home to tune in and view with enough regularity to make television a real "Huckster's" paradise.

To date the good shows have been few and far apart. An Army-Notre Dame, nothing-to-nothing tie comes once in a schedule. Play-offs in baseball for "dem Bums" has never before occurred in baseball. Unfortunately champion Joe Louis can only K.O. Mr. Conn once in a contest. Most of the other good shows have happened by accident and usually because it was accidental, few have taken the time, trouble, or used enough ingenuity to discover the various elements that went into making it a hit show.

This hit-and-miss procedure has too long been tolerated by a small, long-suffering group of pioneering "squinters" on over-tired, pre-war, pre-radar television sets. Fortunately, their day of freedom is at hand. The number of super-duper post-war sets are doubling daily. The new sets include all the latest electronic improvements. Cabinets are streamlined; the number of knobs and dials have been reduced; even the price is less than that of their predecessors. All that is left is to give this growing group of hopefuls a good show.

The latest surveys indicate it is safe to say a good football contest is a natural for television. Your seat is in the middle of each play. On a pass, your views sails into the receiver's arms. On an end around, you, the invisible blocker, clear the way for the future all-American ball carrier. Point after touchdown lifts you over the crossbars as gracefully as the dansant of the Ballet Russe.

World championship bouts come too few and too far apart. But when they do occur, there' not a hundred dollar reservation in the arena that can give you half the view or comfort of your television ringside seat.

Other sporting events will undoubtedly take their rightful, pictorial place after reasonable experimental coverage.

Needless to say, all sporting events offer ideal commercial opportunities. The outcome of the contest is usually in doubt until the final gun. Athletic games are spontaneous, thereby requiring continuous viewing. Commercial messages, properly inserted and of an acceptable length, will reach and impress the largest possible audience.

Other types of good shows are bound to be developed. Audience participation seems to be on the bill of fare. Because of the spontaneity and final outcome, the viewers' interest is at a peak throughout the show. What more can an advertiser ask?

The audience will be there if the entertainment is good, so all that remains is ways to trick the viewer into looking and listening to your advertising message. Integrated commercials will come into their own. The minute movie technique will be widely used. Minute movies, a firmly established and successful advertising medium, has many things in common with television commercials. Good one-minute shorts appearing on the screens of thousands of theaters in the nation have proven themselves capable of increasing sales by almost unbelievable percentages. There is every reason to expect that the same general technique, modified for television use, can develop perhaps an even greater record of success.

PROGRESS OF CBS COLOR TELE

Peter C. Goldmark

ON SEPTEMBER 27, 1946 the Columbia Broadcasting System petitioned the Federal Communications Commission to adopt recommended standards for the commercial broadcasting of color television in the ultra-high frequencies. Although CBS ultra-high frequency color television had already been demonstrated during the latter months of 1945, many of the developments that led to its application for acceptance as a public broadcasting service came about during 1946. Here is an abbreviated chronology of developments since the beginning of the year.

January 31 saw the first of a series of semi-public demonstrations of ultra-high frequency color broadcasting. These demonstrations marked the first use of an ultra-high frequency transmitter of commercial design, one built expressly for CBS by the Federal Telephone and Radio Corporation.

The pictures represented a marked improvement over the results we had been able to obtain in the low frequencies before the war. Then, the definition had been limited to a figure well below 400 lines. The color images we had now were scanned in 525 lines, interlaced 2 to 1. And the occasional difficulties we had encountered in the rendition of certain colors, notably the darker shades, were eliminated entirely.

Besides proving the existence and appeal of color television to an increasingly large number of people, the demonstrations established these technical facts:

(1) It was possible to modulate a 10-megacycle video band.

(2) It was possible to broadcast a signal of commercial strength in the ultra-high frequencies.

(3) "Ghosts" could be eliminated in ultra-high frequency broadcasting.

Later in the spring it was shown that the present coaxial cable could successfully transmit an ultra-high frequency color television program.

This important demonstration was conducted in cooperation with engineers of the Bell Telephone laboratories. A program was picked up by ultra-high frequency color equipment here in New York City, sent by coaxial cable to Washington and back, and broadcast from the Chrysler Tower. The overall distance was over 450 miles, a record for any kind of television transmission by coaxial cable. The cable itself had been in no way modified for the test. In the pictures that finally reached the receiver screen the loss of apparent definition was negligible, establishing the fact that the coaxial cable offered no serious obstacle to the progress of ultra-high frequency color television broadcasting.

Among other things it was established that color television images can be seen clearly and without strain under normal ambient illumination—in other words, "you don't have to pull the shade down to look at color television."

Another phase of the progress of ultra-high frequency color television was represented by the following field intensity surveys:

(1) On 700 megacycles, in cooperation with the Commission, a survey of seven months' duration (covering seasonal variations in tropospheric transmission) to determine medium and long distance propagation characteristics in the ultra-high frequency television band.

(2) An extensive field survey of six months' duration to determine the coverage of television station W2XCS in New York operating on a carrier frequency of 490 megacycles. This survey included observation of reception at 188 locations scattered throughout the New York metropolitan area as well as extensive field intensity measurements. Numerous subsidiary problems involved in the propagation and reception of ultra-high frequency television signals were also investigated.

TELE EYED FROM THE CAPITAL

By MANNING CLAGETT, Staff Correspondent, RADIO DAILY

TELEVISION was Big Business even before it burst out of New York and a few scattered cities and began to spread across the nation.

Manning Clagett

Millions of dollars were sunk in television before there were enough sets on hand to support one station with audience-money. And these millions, as the saying goes, are only the beginning.

Just when people began to wonder just how old this television baby had to be before it was born, the multi-million dollar youngster let the world know that he was here—and here to stay. If television won't grow to maturity this year, it may at least reach adolescence, because it already has growing pains.

The FCC, at first convinced that it could stop the rush of big money towards television and give the "little fellow" a better break, soon realized that a prospective tele broadcaster needed more than a heart of gold to build a video station, let alone keep it on the air. The Commission began asking financial questions and the applicants who couldn't produce a little green began to fall by the wayside. But a little think like money couldn't stop this television baby and at the end of last year six stations had been granted licenses, more than 50 other applicants had been granted construction permits and nearly a score of others were either pending or in hearings. Soon, a few other growing pains developed. The FCC found itself confronted with the multiple ownership question. After granting five permits to applicants which, the Commission said, were "controlled" by Paramount Pictures, the FCC clamped the lid on further grants. The Commission finally admitted, however, that the question was a difficult one and agreed to explore the whole question. A strict interpretation of the rule could keep the lid on some of television's pioneers.

After finally settling on black and white tele standards in the lower bands more than a year ago, the Commission last year had tossed in its laps another tele problem—whether to throw the old standards in the ashcan and start from the color scratch demanded by Columbia Broadcasting System. The industry formed sides, with RCA color lined up against CBS color and most other black and white enthusiasts insisting that b&w tele should be left alone for the time being. The Commission apparently agreed that the future of tele was in the high frequencies but hesitated to agree to CBS's plea "why not now."

The FCC never worried quite as much over the television receiver problem as it did over FM receivers. Tele receiver production was meager in the days after the war's end, but in the latter half of 1946 picked up and this year should take care of the number of tele stations actually on the air. Sets generally were expensive, but this was another growing pain that was expected to ease off, as its older brother radio found out.

Towards the end of last year, too, the FCC began to realize that television would bring it many other problems. Instead of worrying about what was heard over the air, the Commission realized it would soon be concerned over what was seen over the air. New problems would thus be dumped in the Commission's lap. In many cities and municipalities, authorities have set up local censorship boards to pass on movies. Movies that are approved for nation-wide distribution often run into local trouble. What about televising a play or movie that some city might not like? What to do about a Huey Long who comes into a million homes by television? There are plenty of people who will say that it's none of the Commission's business. The Commission may agree, but at the same time it realizes that its troubles with this big baby are only beginning.

OPTIMISM KEYNOTES CHICAGO

By NAT GREEN, Staff Correspondent, RADIO DAILY

TELEVISION activity in Chicago will be greatly accelerated during 1947, it is indicated in plans that are being worked out by local station and network officials and members of the Electrical Association's organization to promote Chicago television. Chicago began 1947 with at least two "ifs" clouding the television situation. If the black-and-white vs. color were settled, and if equipment could be obtained, it appeared that several stations would be in operation before the end of the year, joining Captain Bill Eddy's WBKB which for the first few months was assured of holding its place as Chicago's only operating station.

WBKB, the Balaban & Katz station, has taken its place as one of the country's leading video stations and during 1946 it surpassed all others in the country in number of hours on the air. Its total time on the air has been increased to 28 hours a week, and during the year it provided some outstanding programs, particularly in sports. In an effort to find out what kinds of programs are best suited to video and what finds widest acceptance among patrons, the station has telecast hockey games, style shows, ice shows, music, variety shows and many special events. Out of the difficulties encountered they are learning what to do and what not to do, and are constantly accelerating their activities.

Captain Bill Eddy is enthusiastic over the future of television in the Chicago area. "We are constantly extending our activities," he told RADIO DAILY, "and believe that television audiences are due for a tremendous growth this year. At present there are about a thousand sets in use in this area. By the end of the year there will be nearer 50,000. We refuse to concede first place in television to New York and are out to challenge them."

As this is written it appears as if WGNA, the tele-sister of WGN, will become the second Chicago television station, coming on the air in June or July if transmitters and other equipment are received. WGNA's activities up to February 1 were confined to non-air demonstrations of two cameras and half a dozen receivers. Construction of WGNA is under supervision of Carl J. Meyers, director of WGN engineering. The WGNA transmitter is to be located on the 29th floor of Tribune Tower, with the antenna atop the building. The construction permit from the FCC assigns WGNA to channel 9-186-192 megacycles. Effective radiated video power will be 18.4 kilowatts and audio power 11 kilowatts.

Frank P. Schreiber, WGN general manager, told RADIO DAILY: "WGN has been a pioneer in AM broadcasting for 25 years; one of the pioneers in FM broadcasting, which we began in October, 1941 (WGNB), and a pioneer in facsimile broadcasting, which was resumed in July after experimental work in 1939. Now we enter the television field, and as in all previous radio operations, we will be a leader in television."

ABC, which has had a working agreement with WBKB for some time, plans eventually to have its own station here, according to Jim Stirton, television sales head; and Manager Chick Showerman of NBC says that network will have a tele station just as soon as possible. The main thing holding up these stations is a scarcity of materials.

With the expected increase in the installation of television receivers in the Chicago area, dealers have set up a plan for training their representatives in the technique of set installation. Once a week for ten weeks there will be classes supervised by Capt. Bill Eddy of WBKB to teach television fundamentals. Later the manufacturing companies will give advanced instruction.

The outlook for commercial video programs is bright. Prospective sponsors who have been watching the results of sponsored programs on WBKB believe that video will be a powerful sales medium. Just how rates will be worked out remains to be seen. It is generally agreed that present rates will have to be periodically revised as the number of sets increases. Local dealers report that sales of receivers are growing rapidly, and that every indication points to huge television audiences in the very near future.

HOLLYWOOD TELE A REALITY

By RALPH WILK, West Coast Representative, RADIO DAILY

INDICATIONS are that all seven of the prospective Los Angeles - Hollywood television stations will be on the air early in 1948. Despite some estimates that all seven could be operating commercially by the holiday period of this year, local engineers will be satisfied if their respective stations are doing business early next year.

KTLA, which was formerly W6XYZ and which is owned and operated by Television Productions, Inc., a subsidiary of Paramount Pictures, took to the air commercially on Jan. 22, 1947.

Tupman Motors of Los Angeles bought the privilege of being the first to sponsor a video show in the Southland in the interest of its distribution of Mercurys and Lincolns. Klaus Landsberg, who is in charge of West Coast operations of Television Productions, produced the hour show, and was given assistance by Leon Benson of the J. Walter Thompson agency. Several representatives of Eastern advertising agencies came West to attend the initial show.

Landsberg used six cameras to pick up the premiere for relay to his company's Mt. Wilson transmitter 18 miles away from where it was rebroadcast to an area between Santa Barbara and San Diego and as far inland as San Bernardino, Riverside and Redlands.

KTLA's signal carries 150 miles with a clear, undistorted picture at the reception points. Four iconoscope cameras and two candle light or image orthicon cameras were used in connection with the initial commercial program.

Harry R. Lubcke, who is still in charge of television for Don Lee, organized the Thomas S. Lee television system in November, 1930. The first televised image on W6XAO, transmitted through equipment Lubcke built and in many instances invented and manufactured himself, was a short motion picture film, the subject a wagon rolling across western plains.

The initial full hour program presented on the station was on Dec. 23, 1931 and the first regular program services was begun March 10, 1933. An important chapter in television history was the purchase of a Hollywood mountain, right in the heart of the city, and the construction there of the first built-for-television studios in the world.

KFI has been granted Channel 9, with five kilowatts, visual, and two and a half kilowatts, audio. It has already made some important outlays of money to improve its three-quarter acre transmitter site atop Mt. Wilson.

KLAC has been granted Channel 13, five kilowatt, visual, and three kilowatt, audio. KLAC's sister station, KYA, San Francisco, has also a tele permit.

ABC will use Channel 7, 4.5 kilowatt, visual, 2.7 kilowatt, audio. It has a half acre site on Mt. Wilson, and is nogotiating for a site for its proposed Hollywood tele station.

NBC has also been granted a permit, and plans erection of a tele studio at its present site in the heart of Hollywood. It also has a transmitter site on Mt. Wilson, and Hal Bock, veteran publicity director of NBC's Western Division, will be in charge of its video plans here.

The Times-Mirror Company, which publishes the Los Angeles "Times," will operate KPTV and has Channel 11, 19.45 kilowatt, visual, 19.15 kilowatt, audio. It has ordered a transmitter from RCA and is hopeful of delivery in October.

One month after television was authorized on the West Coast, Patrick Michael Cunning Television Productions had four shows in preparation.

Cunning is also associated with Edgar Bergen in Bergen-Cunning Television Prods., which will concentrate on the making of 16 and 35 mm. films for television.

Telefilms, of which Don McNamara, former program director of KFI, is in charge of tele activities, is making a strong bid for national video film business. It filmed the Los Angeles open golf tournament in January for the United States Rubber Company and rushed the films East for televising over WABD, New York; WTTG, Washington, and WPTZ, Philadelphia. Telefilms is also planning to televise a fashion show for the California Apparel Creators, which would be shown in department stores as well as over tele stations, and has other important video plans.

THE TELE RECEIVER MARKET

Jim Owens

FEW industries have appeared on the American scene adorned with as much enthusiasm and prediction as to its economic and cultural capabilities, as did commercial television in the early months of 1946. And few industries were plagued in their early beginning with the economic ironies of a nation still in the process of a sluggish return to peacetime production, as was television. Further,—few large scale industries had a "ready" market potential of millions of dollars per year as had video manufacturers who were equipping plants during the early months of last year, albeit with the scant amount of necessary materials available and the attendant high costs of labor.

Although there were only seven to 10,000 sets in existence at the end of '45, several surveys indicated that anywhere from three to 10 million persons were waiting, money in hand, to buy receivers within the next couple of years, if not immediately. Television was growing city by city, and Charles R. Denny, Chairman of the FCC, predicted 100 stations on the air by the end of 1947.

However, the spread of the teleset market, according to industry executives, depended greatly on the spread of television networks. Only via networks, the listening audience, i.e., the buying public, would television begin to reap the tremendous profits predicted for it. Quality programs were necessary for video to attract a steady audience; and quality programs were of prohibitive expense without the aid of the advertisers' dollars.

By the end of 1946, only one phase of this two-cornered problem had begun to show signs of solution. By the end of the year, according to an official report of the Radio Manufacturers Association, 6,476 telesets had been produced and marketed. The unofficial figure, however, according to a check of those companies actually producing sets during 1946, shows that over 10,000 receivers were turned out —the bulk of which were made available during the last six months.

The production outlook for this year, while greater beyond comparison in unit total, does not begin to approach settlement of the market problem—although it should be noted here that present distribution techniques render physical limitations somewhat less confining.

At the Television Broadcasters Association Convention in New York last Fall, manufacturers made an ambitious prediction of a million sets by the end of 1947. However, due to the continued uncertainty of economic conditions, the best estimates for production this year indicate that something over 500,000 receivers will be turned out. Companies who will combine to produce this figure, (some of which were in production last year) include: RCA, Philco, General Electric, Du Mont, Federal Telephone & Radio Corp., Westinghouse, Garod, Viewtone Television Corp., Sparks-Withington, Bendix, Stewart-Warner, Crosley, Farnsworth and Stromberg-Carlson. About half of this amount or 250,000, are expected to be produced by RCA alone.

While the demand was high last year, and is expected to continue so for an undetermined period, price of sets will be the most important factor in maintaining it, according to manufacturers. The range will probably be from $200 to $500 in the "popular" category, and extend to $2500 in the "deluxe" class.

Significant is the prediction by RMA chief R. C. Cosgrove who feels that "until we turn out a good set for $150, we won't get profitable volume." Costs of materials and labor, however, based on last year's performance, offer little to indicate the achievement of this level during 1947.

The distribution angle is of equal importance to the actual unit output, industry experts feel, since the manner in which it is handled will greatly facilitate the early establishment of video networks. Market-wise manufacturers are apportioning sets to cities presently served, or about to be served, by television stations, rather than concentrating on areas with huge buying potentialities.

VIDEO IN BRITAIN 1946-47

By E. C. THOMSON, British Broadcasting Corp.

BRITISH television opened up again last June after the screens had been dead for nearly seven years. Since then the staff have made gallant and successful efforts to make up for lost leeway, and it can be truly said this Christmas that the service lags little, if at all, behind the standards of September 1939, when the BBC high definition television service had completed three years as the first of its kind in the world.

First renewal of activity began in November 1945, after the Government's acceptance of the recommendations of Lord Hankey's Television Committee that the service should be resumed where it left off. The station occupies a modernized corner of Alexandra Palace, an old amusement center in North London, 300 ft. above sea level. Among the first arrivals was the new Head of the Service, Maurice Gorham, lately in charge of the Light Program and before that Director of the A.E.F. Program. Around him gathered the new program staff—new only in the sense that they were taking up television afresh: Denis Johnston as Program Director after a long spell as radio war reporter; Cecil Madden as Program Organizer after directing the Overseas Entertainment Unit; George More O'Ferrall as Senior Play Producer after years of army service in the Far East and work with the A.E.F. Program.

And while the program staff laid their plans, the technicians, led by the Superintendent Engineer, Douglas Birkinshaw, submitted the entire transmission plant to the most thorough overhaul it had had since the pioneer days of 1936. As a result of this overall spring-clean, the apparatus, by the time the service opened, was producing better pictures, with improved detail, finer gradation and less "streaking," than in 1939.

All this time the two disused studios were being put in working order, stored equipment was being brought out again, and studio staffs were recapturing the old skill. One of the two mobile units was being overhauled piece by piece.

Zero hour was 3 p.m. on June 7th. Up to that date, activity at the television station, though never leisurely, was deliberate and comparatively unhurried, but everyone knew that once the plunge was taken, there could be no pause. Television, perhaps the most absorbing, is also one of the most exacting forms of entertainment; to keep the screens "alive" for at least three hours a day—and this was what the new schedule demanded—requires concentrated teamwork. Actual screentime produced in a day's "shooting" by the average film studio is less than three minutes.

At the scheduled hour the plunge was taken. Miss Jasmine Bligh, one of the original television announcers walked towards an emitron camera on the terrace in Alexandra Park and to the strains of a Television March specially composed by Eric Coates, smiled into the lens and made the first announcement. At the inaugural ceremony a few moments later in Studio A, the Postmaster-General, the Earl of Listowel, formally declared the service open, stressing that television was intended as a recreation for the many, not a luxury for the few, and expressing the hope that the service would be extended to Birmingham in the not far distant future.

Viewers then saw their first studio program, but in less than twenty hours the service was put to a supreme test. The result was a triumph. Television cameras mounted on a stand in the Mall opposite the Royal saluting base defied cloud and shower to present an open-window view of the complete Victory Parade—the arrival of Their Majesties, the long procession itself and even some of the aircraft in the Fly-past.

People who had cherished their television sets for this moment through all the miseries of air-raids and black-out were not disappointed. Some confirmed that pictures were better than in 1939; all awaited with eagerness the promise of those ever-popular features, plays, variety, "Picture-Page," demonstrations, children's features, cartoon films and the panorama of "O.B.'s" from sports grounds, theaters and dance-halls.

Outside Broadcasts continue to yield the most spectacular successes. From the Mall the mobile unit proceeded a week later to Wimbledon for the final matches for the Wightman Cup. Wimbledon is far outside the circle of co-axial cable which rings the West-End and gives direct connection between the mobile unit and Alexandra Palace.

Since then the television audience has been taken to other theaters for dress circle views of such shows as "Follow the Girls" at His Majesty's and "Sweetheart Mine" at the Victoria Palace. From time to time the old Bedford Music Hall, camden Town, was "taken over" by the B.B.C. for an evening of televised "Variety on View," in the presence of a specially invited audience. In July the mobile unit drew up at the Open Air Theater, Regent's Park for a complete performance of "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Public ceremonies give full scope to television's unique quality of "actuality" or "immediacy," demonstrated in a most spectacular manner by the Lord Mayor's Show and most impressively by the Service of Remembrance at the Cenotaph.

Television cameras also roamed the ballroom floor at the Royal Albert Hall and the Palais de Danse, Hammersmith. In the open air they ranged from Barnet—in the north—for amateur football, to Ascot—in the south—for the new King George VI Stakes. Ascot, twenty-nine miles from Alexandra Palace, is the most distant point from which the mobile units have operated.

The Zoo was toured and another Regent's Park fixture was the Jubilee Motor Parade. In November the second mobile unit was restored to the service.

Among studio programs, plays have come first in popularity. Casting a wide net, the producers brought in dramas, comedies, thrillers — Shakespeare and Shaw, Oscar Wilde and Edgar Wallace. Besides Shaw's "St. Joan," Ian Hay's "The Middle Watch," Eugene O'Neill's "Anna Christie" and many other established successes, demanding the utmost resource in studio accommodation, scenery and costumes, viewers saw numbers of plays specially written or arranged for television, among them J. B. Priestley's new play "The Rose and Crown," and the well-known stage and film story, "Thunder Rock."

New television personalities have emerged. Mr. Philip Harben, suave and deft, early established himself as a master of televised cookery; in the Television Garden, Mr. F. Streeter has enlivened horticulture with an engaging sense of humor. The three announcers—familiar guests in every television household—are Miss Winifred Shotter, of stage, screen and E.N.S.A. fame; Miss Gillian Webb, R.A.D.A. prizewinner, who was appointed in July on the resignation of Miss Bligh; and Mr. McDonald Hobley, former actor and S.E.A.C. radio announcer.

Cartoon and interest films were shown in abundance, but permission has not yet been obtained for televising newsreel. The B.B.C.'s own Film Unit has not, however, been inactive and among its scoops was an exclusive interview with Mr. George Bernard Shaw on his 90th birthday. The Queen Elizabeth trials off the west of Scotland were filmed and shown to viewers on the day the liner set off on her maiden peacetime voyage to New York. As part of a regular exchange arrangement with the National Broadcasting Company of America, films taken on board during the voyage were flown back from New York and televised a week later.

BELL SYSTEM COAXIAL CABLES

L. G. Woodward

FOR many years, in the interests of economy and better service, the Bell System has devoted a large amount of research work to carrier systems of transmission, by means of which a number of communication channels can be provided over a given physical facility by the modulation of suitable carrier frequencies.

An early fruit of this work appeared in the form of a relatively narrow band carrier system for use on open wire lines, which made it possible to superpose three voice channels on the basic channel provided by one pair of open wires. Later a broader band system was developed which provided an additional complement of twelve voice channels on an open wire pair. A similar system supplied a total of twelve channels on two cable pairs. Still later came the very broad band coaxial cable system, by means of which several hundred voice channels are provided over a pair of coaxial tubes about the size of a lead pencil. This system can be arranged to transmit television signals.

Ten years ago the first inter-city coaxial cable was installed by the Bell System, between New York and Philadelphia. This cable contained but two coaxial tubes, the repeaters were spaced 10.5 miles apart, and the system was capable of transmitting a frequency band one megacycle in width. These early repeaters have since been replaced with repeaters of a later design, the spacing cut in half and the band width increased to about three megacycles. All coaxial cables now in service transmit this band of frequencies, but an increase in the diameter of tubes from about one-quarter inch to three-eighths of an inch has made it possible to lengthen out the repeater spacing from five to eight miles.

In 1940, two more short coaxial cables were installed, one between Stevens Point, Wisconsin, and Minneapolis, and the other between Baltimore and Washington. The war then substantially halted construction and until last year only two additional cables were placed—Atlanta to Macon and Philadelphia to Baltimore—both of which were installed in 1942 but were not activated for broad band service until about a year ago.

By the end of 1945 there was a total of some 1100 miles of coaxial cable in the plant. At present there are nearly 3000 miles. Next year alone, barring material shortages, we expect to install an additional 3000 miles. By 1950 we hope to have some 12,000 route miles of coaxial cable in service. The mileage of single cable will be even greater than this figure, since on some routes there will be more than one cable. Most of this cable will contain eight tubes.

The map accompanying this article shows the cables now in place or being installed and those projected for the next few years. The southern trans-continental route to Los Angeles is expected to be completed by the end of 1947, as well as an extension to Miami. We hope also to reach Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis and other cities in this general area by the end of 1948 or shortly thereafter. Not shown on the map is the radio relay system now being installed between New York and Boston which at present is planned to be put into service on an experimental basis in the spring of 1947.

As has been indicated the development of broad band transmission systems, including the coaxial cable, was undertaken primarily to provide facilities for the regular communication services of the Bell System. The program ahead is controlled chiefly by the need for additional telephone circuits. From the viewpoint of network television service, it is of special interest that these telephone circuit needs are so great as to require the very large program of coaxial cable construction here outlined. By the addition of special equipment, including the necessary transmitting and receiving terminals, and by making adjustments of greater precision than are required in the operation of coaxial systems for telephone service, coaxials can be adapted to the transmission of television programs. These measures take some time, however, so that television service is not expected to be available until a little later than the dates indicated in the preceding paragraph.

Thus far, two one-way television circuits operating in opposite directions between New York and Washington have been made available to television broadcasters on an experimental basis since February, 1946. We plan to add two additional one-way circuits between these points by the end of next year, and next spring it is expected that an extension of television facilities from New York to Boston will be available by means of the radio relay system mentioned previously.

Owing to the heavy demands for telephone service, it is probable that for the next two or three years there will not be enough coaxials available for television service on most of the major routes to permit exclusive use of the facilities to be assigned to individual networks. While this will require sharing of facilities, as has been done in the case of the New York-Washington cable, such part-time use may prove to be sufficient to care for the needs of the broadcasters in the early stages of network service.

Looking to the future, the Bell System has under development a new type of repeater which, as now projected, will make it possible to transmit a band of frequencies about seven megacycles in width over coaxial systems. This entire band could be used for television or a part of the band could be assigned to television and the remainder to telephone, thus enabling the coaxial tubes to be used simultaneously for the two services. In addition to the increase in television channels obtained by this means, our present plans call for additional cables on some of the heavier routes.

Further, the results of the New York-Boston radio relay trial may indicate the application of this type of transmission system to other routes. In view of all these factors, we can be confident that sharing of use of facilities for television network service will not long be necessary, assuming that the needs of the individual broadcasters are such as to require exclusive use.

FM—FUTURE STANDARD SYSTEM

By ROY HOFHEINZ, President, FM Association

Roy Hofheinz

WITHIN a short period of time FM will become the standard system of broadcasting in the United States.

I say that without reservation. The American people demand the best. When an improvement is made in a commodity of daily use, the people not only accept, but demand the improved product.

Frequency modulation is an improved method of broadcasting. To assist the American public to learn of this improvement over AM the FMA will sponsor a nationwide promotion campaign.

Our objectives, as set forth in our constitution, are these:

1. To encourage the development of Frequency Modulation broadcasting.
2. To publicize the superior qualities of FM as an improved broadcasting service to the public.
3. To disseminate information among the members of this Association regarding the general problems incident to FM operation.
4. To cooperate with receiver and transmitter manufacturers, and other suppliers of FM equipment and services with the objective of establishing the widespread operation of FM stations as rapidly as possible.
5. To act as liaison between its members, the Federal Communications Commission and other agencies and organizations on the continuing overall problems affecting FM broadcasting.

To accomplish these objectives the FMA has established national headquarters in Washington. We have employed as paid executive director J. N. (Bill) Bailey, who is charged with carrying out the policies of FMA as formulated by an Executive Committee under our constitution.

Our overall immediate objective is three-fold:

1. To acquaint the public with the advantages and qualities of FM reception in contrast to previous methods of broadcasting.
2. To advise FM broadcasters of various methods of promotion that may be utilized in acquainting local audiences, dealers and advertisers with the potentialities of FM broadcasting.
3. To work in close liaison with the FCC in the consideration of FM broadcasting problems.

We accept, with pleasure, the invitation of FCC Chairman Charles R. Denny to meet at regular intervals with the Commission to discuss mutual problems on an informal basis, that we might better understand each other. To accomplish that purpose the FMA has created a liaison committee composed of Wayne Coy of WINX-FM, Everett L. Dillard of KOZY and WASH, Gordon Gray of WMIT, C. M. Jansky Jr. of Jansky & Bailey, and Leonard H. Marks, FMA general counsel. I will serve with the committee.

We plan a monthly release containing various ideas on successful promotion as gathered from all members of the FMA. We anticipate setting up an exchange whereby methods of trade practices which have proved successful in some markets will be passed on to new stations. Audience promotion is another phase.

We will maintain up-to-the-minute information from set manufacturers on production and expected production for the immediate future.

A flood of sets is just beginning to roll from the production lines. By mid-year FM receivers in all price ranges will be available for hundreds of thousands of homes.

We are urging our members on interim operation to make it clear to their listeners that they are operating at reduced power. We strongly urge our members to increase power to the full authorized effective radiated power at the earliest possible moment.

Some broadcasters have stated publicly that FM as a commercial medium "has not arrived." That is not true. At the beginning of 1947 at least six members of FMA were operating FM stations out of the red or at a profit.

THE FCC'S FAVORABLE FM POLICY

By MANNING CLAGETT, Washington Bureau, RADIO DAILY

IN WORDS and deeds, the FCC is actively and persistently pushing FM Broadcasting. Make no mistake about that. The Commission right down the line is convinced that FM will shove AM Broadcasting back into history. As Charles R. Denny put it: "FM is not coming, it's here." And here to stay. From Commission economist to engineer you'll get the same answer to the general FM question: will FM supplant AM?

Split the question into "when's" and "how's" and the answers diverge within the Commission, though not so widely as among broadcasters. Standard broadcasting is still the oldest broadcasting baby and will fight in varying degrees the inroads of its FM cousin. The Commission during the year splurged with FM grants —total of more than 100 FM stations putting out programs in some form or another at the year's end and a total of more than 1,000 FM applicants. But while this FM activity was going on, AM stations climbed above 1,000 for the first time. More and more CP's for new AM stations were being granted in areas where an FM station would have given better coverage. Large AM licenses and even networks were paying whopping prices for other established standard stations—prices far and above what an FM station would cost.

All this was being done when AM was supposed to be fighting for its life. Criticism—some of it from within the Commission itself—was leveled at the FCC's apparent practice of spending more time on AM applicants than on FM. For a while the Commission was concerned over the large number of AM licenses who were climbing aboard the FM bandwagon. This in a field where the "little" broadcaster, the veteran, the independent were to be given their big broadcasting chance. FM broadcasting was not to be such a select, tight circle. A ceiling was put on the number of hours for FM duplication of AM programs for a joint operation. Finally, the Commission majority threw off all restrictions and called on all AM licensees to join the FM party and duplicate programs to their heart's content. All of which wraps FM up a little tighter for the AM customer. Whether this is good or bad only a few more years of history will tell. It's Commission policy and it will fatten the number of FM licenses and speed the demise of AM.

Another question plaguing the Commission for a while—and still does—was the dirth of FM receivers. Commission comments ranged from charges of outright sabotage by manufacturers to "suggestions" that radio manufacturers step up their production of FM receivers. It was the well-known vicious circle of economics. The manufacturers claimed there was no market for FM sets because there were few FM stations. Prospective FM broadcasters said an FM station wouldn't pay because there were few sets to receive the programs and make the investment pay. So more and more applicants first got an AM grant, then obtained an FM grant and made enough money, they said, so they duplicate programs and not worry for the moment about the handful of FM sets. With the year's end, though, FM production began climbing, although still not keeping pace with the number of stations. As was expected, what FM sets there are produced are in combination with AM. These FM-AM combination sets still are high in price but, as shown by the history of AM sets, after early days of fabulous prices came days of prices better designed to fit average pocketbooks.

So, maybe you can blame it all on growing pains. Whenever or however AM is knocked out—FM is the broadcasting baby that can do it.

So it is that Denny can get full backing in speaking for the FCC when he said:

"The Commission has expressly authorized me to say to you again that it is our opinion that FM is the finest aural broadcasting system attainable in the present state of the radio art."

1947—THIS IS THE FM YEAR

By IRA HIRSCHMANN, President, WABF

WITH the predictions of manufacturers that there will be three to five million FM Sets manufactured and distributed through the 1947 year, it looks as if finally, FM, the new superior form of broadcasting, will come into its own.

There should be no fear or concern on the part of present broadcasters from the addition of this new means of transmission, and we all fervently hope that the days of timidity are past. The American people have always welcomed improved services of any kind, and business has been able not only to absorb them, but to thrive from the invigoration of new competition.

New blood is desirable in all industry. Radio especially can use it. It has grown fast, somewhat like Topsy. With its great contribution it has also been subject to some abuses and excesses. This is natural.

Newspaper and magazine advertising went through a rough evolution before they settled down to standards of accepted practices. Look through your advertising of several decades ago, and you will find "medicine-man" advertising and tactics, the use of highly colored and exaggerated statements to sell products. Gradually advertisers learned that the American people did not need to be screamed at, fooled, kidded or lied to; that the best way to sell was to tell the truth simply, interestingly and informatively. Also advertisers learned that the best typography, superior art and the employment of the finest Art Directors paid in the long run; that the purchase of space was merely automatic; that what went into the space, the message and the technique in the presentation was what counted.

The same development must occur in radio advertising. That radio advertising has in many ways put its worst foot forward in its beginning period is unfortunate but not incurable. That people do want to be shouted at in their living rooms, bedrooms or bathrooms is obvious. Yet it goes on every minute of the day. Announcers use stentorian voices. Even if the audiences were in a market place or in a public square, this variation of radio demagoguery would be unconvincing. Considering the fact that most of it reaches right into the intimacy of people's homes, no wonder that there is too much clicking off of radios and resentment against advertising bilge.

There are signs of awakening. Recently advertisers, agencies and radio stations have heard the murmur of resentment among their listeners. They have begun to realize how quickly it can grow into a chorus. They have become aware of the fact that the average person does not necessarily have average taste; that radio is not a medium for talking down to people; that it is not necessary to distract them to inspire them to purchase something out of an emotional urge. Programs are showing some improvement. This will increase.

FM offers that new opportunity for a better type of program in the public interest; not necessarily austere or "high-b ow" (to employ a much abused word), but a service aimed not below the belt of the customer or hitting at the least common denominator. With a more faithful means of transmission, a truer, more faithful program service will be a direct answer to the people's long-felt desires.

Nor is this said in derogation of radio's prodigious contribution and public service in the last quarter of a century. Where it has been used and not abused, it has provided a new dimension in the life of our people. The opening up of endless reservoirs of experience from great music, has made this a nation more alive to the possibilities of fulfillment from this world of culture which heretofore was available to the few instead of the many.

During the war radio was the clarion call to people, and the medium of information which kept us aware of each move of the war's progress and of our duty. In the field of entertainment the nation has been vastly distracted, if not always entertained.

Some major improvements are called for in the need for the full truth in public information and in programs which might loosely be called "educational."

FM Broadcast Stations In Operation

As of Jan. 15, 1947

ACCORDING to the FCC nearly all FM stations are employing interim equipment pending completion of full construction, and in some instances operation may be interrupted due to equipment changes and construction. Nearly fifty of the stations listed were licensed before the war, and some of these stations are continuing to operate equipment in the old FM band on a temporary basis.

Temporary frequency assignments are noted by asterisks.

FM NEWS HIGHLIGHTS—1946

JANUARY

2—Mark Woods, president of the American Broadcasting Co., in a year-end message summarized the network's position with regard to FM and urged "every local and regional affiliate to apply for FM" and to become active in its development.

2—Paul W. Kesten, executive vice-president of CBS in a year-end statement said that "it is a healthful fact that the public knows of the war-born technical advances that are now available to radio" and that "CBS has long been convinced that FM because of its superior quality, must eventually replace AM broadcasting. Public insistence on the improved system should hasten the removal of any obstacles yet remaining in the path of its development."

3—FCC Chairman Paul Porter, in a radio address broadcast over ABC said "FM is a new kind of broadcasting—free of interference and conveying the full tones of music and the human voice with life-like fidelity. This type of broadcasting got started in a small way before the war, but today is poised for a rapid expansion. Whereas there are only 50 FM stations on the air I expect to see the number at least tripled or quadrupled during the next 12 months."

3—Edgar Kobak, president of the Mutual Broadcasting System, Inc., in his report on operations for the past year said that "a comprehensive study of the network's present facilities and coverage, and its future FM requirements is now in progress to bring to Mutual all the technological improvements of the postwar era."

7—The FCC's battle with Zenith Radio Corp. over assignment of the Corporation's request for 42-50 mc. FM band was blasted back into the open when the Commission ordered a public hearing on the subject following a strongly worded petition from the company.

8—All Westinghouse FM radio stations are operating on both the old (42-50 mc.) and new (88-106 mc.) frequency bands as provided by FCC regulations effective Jan. 1.

14—Changes in FM Standards of Good Engineering Practice were approved by the FCC. The changes affect Sections 14 and 15.

15—An RMA survey of receiving set manufacturers revealed the majority favor use of official FCC channel numbers on dial markings of FM receivers. Tabulation indicated that 47 of the set manufacturers polled favored FCC markings, with 19 companies favoring dial markings using the assigned megacycles. Nine companies made qualified reports and seven companies did not submit any replies.

21—Zenith Radio Corp. began its plea before the FCC that an additional band be assigned FM broadcasting. Zenith requested assignment to the 42-50 megacycle band.

24—Attendance record was broken at the opening of the IRE meeting in N. Y., with more than 4500 radio and electronic engineers in attendance. Displays by 135 companies included the latest developments in radar, AM and FM radio, tele, sound recording, communications, testing devices, vacuum tubes, magnetic recordings, remote control devices and many other phases of electronics and allied fields.

25—The FCC denied Zenith Radio Corporation's request for an extra FM band.

28—Maj. Edwin H. Armstrong, inventor of FM assailed the FCC's decision eliminating low frequency allocations for FM broadcasting, claiming the issue is "no longer a technical one" but a public one.

29—MGM will begin immediate construction of a new FM radio station covering the Los Angeles area, with broadcasting schedule to start about May 1. Station will bear the call letters KMGM and will be located at the top of Mulholland Drive in Beverly Hills.

FEBRUARY

4—A strong protest against the FCC denial of petitions by Zenith and GE for use of the 42-50 mc. band for FM was registered with the FCC. Major reason cited by Arthur Freed, chairman of pioneer FM manufacturers conferences and v.p. of Freed Radio, was unavailability of transmitting equipment for the higher bands.

6—The FCC granted six new FM stations and scheduled hearings for 52 applications in four major cities, including N. Y. and Washington.

7—The Midwest FM network, a subsidiary of WGN, Inc., has placed an order with the General Electric Company for transmitter equipment for WGNB and four proposed new frequency modulation stations.

11—The FCC planned to push FM into action with a series of conferences designed to clear up engineering and other details. The FM plan is part of a general pattern set by FCC Chairman Paul Porter to get both FM and television out of the "talking stage" and on the air. Porter is determined to smooth the governmental path toward widespread operation of FM and television before he leaves the Commission.

15—The FCC granted CP's for five new standard stations in scattered sections of the country and OK'd the first two units in a proposed State-wide education FM network in Wisconsin.

26—Stratovision tests for FM verify "all of the optimistic estimates" of the systems possibilities according to a report filed with the FCC by C. J. Burnside, manager of the Westinghouse Industrial Electronics Div. which conducted the tests in cooperation with the Glenn L. Martin Co. Usable signals were transmitted over a distance of 240 airline miles from an altitude of 25,000 feet using only 250 watts of power.

MARCH

1—The FCC granted 15 additional FM stations and designated one application for hearing. This brings total conditional grants to 345.

6—Blasting Zenith Radio Corporation's stand on low-band FM, the FCC released its reasons for pushing FM up to 88-108 megacycles. "Despite earlier warnings and predictions," the Commission said. "the salient fact is that the band assigned to FM broadcasting by the Commission will furnish excellent service."

7—CBC expects to be able to make recommendations within the next few weeks regarding the granting of licenses for low power frequency modulation transmitters to private stations applying, A. D. Dunton, CBC chairman said. Outlining CBC's views of frequency modulation broadcasting, Mr. Dunton said that as part of a move to introduce FM broadcasting in Canada, the CBC is about to begin operation of 250-watt FM transmitters in Toronto and Montreal.

11—Declaring that FCC engineers erred in recommending the assignment of FM to the 100 mc. band, Major Edwin H. Armstrong, inventor of FM, revealed that these errors will be laid bare at the round table discussion on March 23rd, of the Broadcasting Engineering conference at Columbus, Ohio.

12—The FCC began hearings on FM applications despite the withdrawal of four applicants. Eleven firms are seeking the 11 channels available in Washington, D. C.

14—NBC officials predicted to the FCC that in three to five years there will be 2500 FM stations operating in the U. S. and the number of standard outlets will be sliced nearly in half "by FM's static-free competition."

14—WGN, Chicago FM station invited the public to attend a special live concert. Purpose of invitation was to stimulate interest in FM and explain principal features of frequency modulation.

14—Announcement was made by Major Edwin H. Armstrong of the revision of transmitter license fees for FM radio. This followed the reduction some time ago of receiving set licenses.

15—Hearing on 11 applications for Washington's 11 FM channels wound up, with the possibility that a scheduled night session would not be needed. The pace-making hearing was expected to set the pattern for future FM consolidated proceedings.

15—WGHF, the new FM-FAX broadcasting station. New York City is now undergoing station equipment tests on a frequency of 99.7 mc.

18—Theodore Granik presented to the FCC his radio "dream"—an FM station built around the public forum theme. Stating that only an "enlightened democracy is a true democracy," Granik outlined plans which would in effect, give Washington and the nation the first commercial radio station using the public forum idea as a basis for virtually its entire programming.

20—Early returns now tabulated from the FCC's poll of radio manufacturers indicate record-breaking production figures for 1946, with FM generally left out in the cold in favor of standard broadcast receivers. The Commission is known to be concerned over a trend which thus far amounts to a virtual "freeze out" of FM receivers.

20—The FCC set hearing dates on two of the four FM stations sought by the midwest FM network, subsidiary of WGN, Inc. Stations would provide coverage as follows: Fort Wayne, 7850 square miles; Peoria, 7900; Grand Rapids, 6850, and Milwaukee, 7750.

29—Niles Trammell, NBC president at a press conference in Chicago stated that if the Petrillo edict against the duplication of standard broadcast programs on FM stands, it would make necessary the setting up of separate and distinct FM networks which would be in conflict with the FCC philosophy opposing dual avenues of communication under one ownership.

APRIL

4—Radio manufacturers expect to produce nearly 20,000,000 receivers this year—a record-breaking total, nearly 60 per cent higher than pre-war output, the FCC said. Of the huge total, only 9 per cent of the receivers will be devoted to FM, the poll indicated.

4—The Western Electric Co. has been granted a license by Maj. Edwin H. Armstrong, inventor of FM, for the manufacture and use of apparatus for mobile and certain other communication purposes. Bell System is conducting extensive trials of mobile radio telephone service, and Western Electric plans to provide FM apparatus for use in that service.

5—The FCC approved the basic engineering plans submitted by nine applicants for FM stations. This action is only one step from outright grants and makes a total of 24 applicants with approved engineering plans.

8—Criticism of the FCC report on set production plans for 1945 was voiced in FM circles in N. Y. One FM spokesman pointed out that Zenith Corp. in Chicago, pioneer manufacturers of FM receivers, was not among the manufacturers who furnished the FCC with an estimate.

8—The development of FM represents radio's "second chance" to fulfill its promise of service in the public interest, which has been neglected by present-day AM broadcasters. This is the theme of "Radio's Second Chance," a book by Charles A. Siepmann, former FCC consultant, published by Little, Brown & Co.

10—Stating that this year is "crucial" for FM, the Senate Small Business Committee called on the FCC to be "vigilant" to avoid "monopolistic tendencies" and give veterans a better break in FM broadcasting.

11—The FCC has declared it is "wholeheartedly" in accord with the objectives of the Senate Small Business Committee's report on FM.

12—The FCC denied two NAB requests for changes in FM rules and approved two other suggestions. At the same time, the Commission took no action on suggestions of the Senate Small Business Committee that the FCC reverse its abandonment of requirements for separate FM programming.

15—WGYN, the Muzak FM station in New York began a ten-hour broadcast day, the largest FM schedule in the city. Broadcast schedule will be from noon to 10 p.m. except Sundays, when station goes on the air at 3 p.m. Programs will be almost entirely transcribed music with newscasts three minutes before each hour.

18—Representatives of six Ohio newspapers which received conditional grants from the FCC for FM radio stations met in Ashland, Ohio to discuss construction plans.

22—The FCC issued a special statement designed to clear up the misunderstanding in the industry about its "one to a customer" policy in the granting of FM licenses. That policy it was explained, affects the order in which FM applications are being processed —and does not affect the number of FM stations which might ultimately be granted a single applicant. The multiple-ownership regulation remains applicable, banning the owning of two FM stations in the same service area and banning the holding of more than six licenses in different areas.

22—WHNG, the MGM Loew's owned FM affiliate of WHN, New York received the FCC's authorization to change its call letters to WMGM, effective immediately. The MGM outlet in Los Angeles, KTLO has also been granted permission to change to KMGM.

24—A total of 561 FM applications and grants, as of April 1, were from AM licensees, the FCC revealed in a breakdown of FM applicants. Two hundred and seventy-three applications were from individuals or firms with no standard broadcasting affiliations. These figures include both pending applications and those to which conditional approval has already been announced.

25—The FCC approved the bids of 38 more FM applicants, bringing the total conditional grants to 425.

25—Forecasting a great future for FM and declaring that there is grave danger of retarding this new service if the government inaugurates a general re-allocation of present-day standard broadcast frequencies, Frank Stanton, president of CBS testified at the clear channel hearing conducted in Washington by the FCC.

29—Justin Miller, president of the NAB, in course of rebuttal to Charles Siepmann's defense of the FCC pointed out that all was not well in the thinking of the FCC, especially if it was going to continue to suppose that men going into the FM broadcasting business with eight or ten thousand dollars would be expected to give ideal programming with a minimum of commercial time sold. In this case, Miller stated, there will be "a considerable number of bankrupt broadcasters around within the next few years."

30—Mark Ethridge, v.p. of The Louisville Times and The Courier Journal (WHAS), told the FCC that the commercial value of high-powered standard broadcasting is "bound to be diminished," by FM.

30—In a six month period since V-J Day, August 14, 1945, the FCC has granted applications for 425 FM stations.

MAY

1—Addressing 100 radio and advertising agency executives at a discussion at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in N. Y. on the future relationship of FM to agency planning and thinking, Maj. Edwin H. Armstrong, inventor of FM said that the future of frequency modulation broadcasting is so great that "no one can readily forsee its possibilities" and added that "its life blood depends on getting sets into the hands of the public.," In this way, he said, listeners will then be able to discern between present-day AM quality and the marked superiority of FM reception.

6—Commissioner Clifford J. Durr of the FCC, at the opening session of the 16th annual Institute for Education by radio in Columbus, Ohio said that while conditions for launching FM are "ideal," its advent is being held up because of "a disturbing inclination on the part of radio to cling to its old system of aural broadcasting, rather than give free rein to a new system."

9—In a N. Y. trade showing, Freed Radio Corp., makers of Freed-Eisemann FM radiophonographs, introduced their new post-war models at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. Seven models, all consoles, housed in period and contemporary cabinets were shown, representing the first line featuring the new FCC approved FM range from 88 to 108 mc.

9—Rich's, Inc., Atlanta, Ga., has made application to the FCC for a class 2 experimental urban-mobile land station. The store requested any single frequency in the band 152-162 mc., using link equipment; also 50 mobile units to be installed on trucks.

13—A new facsimile transmitter-monitor system, consisting of two Finch high-quality precision broadcast facsimile scanners, each with associated monitor receiver, power units, amplifiers and selective switching arrangements for insuring uninterrupted transmission for any number of facsimile pages was announced by W. G. H. Finch, president of Finch Telecommunications, Inc., Passaic, N. J. The equipment will be priced at $7500, subject to OPA approval.

24—The FCC in a roundup of the FM situation showed the picture shaping up as follows: 48 stations; 5 stations under construction (authorized prior to wartime restrictions); 52 additional construction permits authorized since Oct. 8, 1945; 441 conditional grants since Oct. 8, 1945; 126 applications in hearing; 261 applications on which there has been no action.

29—Sweeping changes in FM rules proposed by the FCC is expected to place it in a more practical position to compete with standard broadcasting and in the absence of any protest on or before June 15, the Commission will not schedule oral argument relative to the proposed change. Under the changes, FM will be reduced to two classes and additional power authorized up to 20 kw. under certain conditions.

JUNE

5—The Balaban & Katz Corp. owner and operator of television station WBKB, Chicago, revealed plans for large-scale construction of FM studios and transmitting tower.

7—The first post-war FM transmitter to come off the General Electric production line has been delivered to WGN, Chicago, and placed in operation on WGNB, WGN's FM sister station.

10—The FCC adopted a precedent-breaking order proposing to withhold for one year the assignment of every fifth FM channel throughout the nation. The unusual reservation of FM channels is based on the Commission's allocation plan of last year, assigning between 1500 and 1600 channels to metropolitan cities. Under the proposed order approximately 300 FM channels would thus be "reserved" for a period of 12 months.

11—FCC Commissioner Clifford Durr is preparing to ask the Commission to approve a rule drastically curtailing the joint ownership of AM and FM stations. Durr will call on the Commission to extend the multiple-ownership Rule to cover AM and FM stations serving "substantially the same area" unless the coverage is considerably greater than that of the FM stations involved. The "divorcement" would take effect three years after approval of the rule.

14—The FCC concluded hearings in Chicago on applications for the nine FM channels remaining to be allocated in that area. Chicago now has 5 FM stations in operation out of a total allotment of 17 channels. Under the new FCC policy 3 of the remaining 12 will be lopped off for the present, leaving 9 to be granted.

17—A "great deal of the impetus" and promotion being given FM "arises out of the general problem of allocation of broadcasting facilities, as distinguished from any real need for FM on the part of the public," James D. Shouse, v.p. of The Crosley Corp. in charge of broadcasting told editors and publishers assembled in Colorado for the annual convention of the National Editorial Association.

18—Hearings for the five remaining FM channels in New York, originally scheduled for this date will be held sometime next month. Of the 20 channels set aside by the Commission for N. Y., 11 have so far been licensed, or CP's have been granted and a total of 9 remain available.

20—FM radio will be used for the first time by police departments in the Toronto area when installations already approved for the York Township and Scarboro are completed.

24—WGHF, FM station owned and operated by Capt. W. G. H. Finch, has its formal opening recently as a commercial outlet.

24—Current FM problems will be discussed tomorrow at a meeting of NAB's FM Executive Committee in New York. Chairman of the committee is Walter Damm, of WTMJ, Milwaukee.

24—The FCC further brushed up its FM rules to put FM on a firmer footing to compete with standard broadcasting. Most of the new rules were announced last month but present amendments clear up a few "loose ends."

25—Senator Glen H. Taylor, Democrat of Idaho called on the Dept. of Justice to make a "thorough" investigation of radio set manufacturers to determine possible violation of anti-trust laws in "withholding" FM receivers from the market.

27—Following a two-day session of the NAB's FM Executive Committee at the Hotel Ambassador in N. Y., the committee adopted a resolution calling upon the NAB to instruct its counsel to take part in the oral argument set by the FCC on July 12. At this time the proposed order of the Commission allocating and reserving every fifth channel on FM for one year, for various areas, will be contested by the NAB.

27—RMA officials declined to comment directly on charges made by Sen. Glen H. Taylor, Idaho Democrat, that radio set manufacturers were withholding FM receivers from the market.

JULY

1—Denying charges of a "holdback" on FM receivers, a top RCA executive told the FCC that beginning in September, 60 per cent of all "technically feasible" radio sets produced by RCA will contain FM in combination with AM.

2—The Philco Corp. has licensed the Radio Corp. of America to use its "Advanced FM System" and approximately 600 other Philco patents and inventions relating to radio and television receivers and electrical phonographs, John Ballantyne, president of Philco announced. "The new Philco Advanced FM System is an entirely new system of frequency modulation detection which is considered one of the fundamental advances in the radio art," he said.

2—WIL, owned and operated by the Missouri Broadcasting Co., in addition to being the first AM station to operate commercially in the St. Louis area, came up with another first when their new FM station took to the air with announcements and a play-by-play account of the ball game from Sportsman Park.

5—The General Electric Co. is scheduled to begin production on FM receivers next week at its Bridgeport, Conn. plant, with the first sets due to appear in dealers' stores early next month. FM transmitters already are in production at the firm's Syracuse plant.

9—Hearings for New York's five remaining assignable FM channels got under way in U. S. Court House with FCC Attorney J. Alfred Guest presiding and Commission Attorney Charles Hubert assisting. Guest is regional attorney for FCC in the N. Y. area.

10—The Cowles Broadcasting Co., owners of KRNT, has purchased the Shrine Temple in Des Moines, Iowa to be used as a new location for their new FM outlet.

11—St. Louis University, said to be the first institution of higher learning to operate a radio station, will be the first university to go on the air with FM, as a result of a contract for a 10 kw. transmitter and associated equipment with Federal Telephone and Radio Corp.

12—Revolutionary developments in the field of radio communications are expected as a result of a deal concluded through which RCA will manufacture the klystron tube by arrangement with Sperry Gyroscope Co. Radio relay systems employing transmitting and receiving set-ups on towers, spaced from 25 to 30 miles apart, are being experimentally constructed to carry telegraph messages, FM and television programs, and the new klystron tube is ready to be used in these systems.

15—The FCC heard a wide variety of witnesses alternately blast and approve the Commission's plan to reserve every fifth FM channel. In general, veterans, labor and farm groups lined up in favor of the reservation plan, while NAB and broadcasters condemned the plan for varying reasons. From the interest of most of the Commissioners, observers predicted the plan would be given final approval by the FCC.

15—NBC and RCA have perfected a new antenna that will broadcast simultaneously, and without mutual interference, television pictures, television sound and FM it was revealed. The antenna, which is said by NBC to provide this type of transmission for the first time in broadcasting history, will be ready for operation in the fall.

16—Radio and television broadcasting is slowly moving toward a period where all facilities will be able to compete with each other, with FM regarded in some FCC quarters as the "key" to the coming battle. A statistical roundup of present applications and grants approved by the Commission only gives an inkling of the battle which is expected to show that FM grants are increasing at a more rapid rate than AM, and that tele applications are dropping off steadily.

16—The first FM broadcast tubes for 50 kw. FM transmitters have been developed by the Federal Telephone and Radio Corp., Newark, N. J. Two of these tubes have a rated output each of 25 kw. at 110 mc.

19—Following oral argument last week, the FCC gave final approval to its plan to reserve one out of every five Class B FM channels. The Commission revealed that a new plan incorporating changes which have occurred in its allocation plan is "being prepared." At the same time, the FCC hinted that it might also come up with a reservation plan for the large number of Class A FM channels.

25—A sweeping investigation of the FCC, it's alleged "exercise of control over broadcasting programs," the recent re-allocation of FM frequencies, the allocation of AM and other frequencies and its general administration was demanded in the Senate by Sen. Charles W. Tobey (R., N. H.).

29—In a move calculated to speed up FM construction and discourage alleged "squatting" on FM channels, the FCC warned that it will not permit delay in the planning and construction of FM stations for which permits have been granted. In the provision of full FM broadcast service, the Commission also announced that it is questioning all present holders of FM permits concerning the steps they have taken toward getting on the air, and will send questionnaires for reply by new permittees two months after their permits are issued.

30—Taxis in Montreal, Canada are to have FM radio communication equipment in the near future and are awaiting final arrangements with the Dept. of Transport. The elimination of the need for returning to call-boxes or offices after each trip had made the advantages of FM radio to taxicab operations so apparent that all that remains to be proven is the economic feasibility of its use in their particular case.

31—WWDC, the only standard station in Washington denied an FM outlet under the Commission's proposed grants, indicated that an appeal to the high court will be if the FCC again turns down their application.

31—N. Y. State Police have completed arrangements for the installation of a state-wide, three-way FM radio system for use by the police, calling for 73 radio telephone transmitting and receiving points. Superintendent John A. Gaffney, Div. of State Police, set the deal at the direction of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

AUGUST

2—Described as a "glorified hatpin" owing to its 18-inch aerial, delegates to the Ontario Police Assoc. conference in Toronto, were treated to a two-way demonstration of the latest in police radio communications system. G. Gordon Patterson and J. R. Warren, engineers from Rogers-Majestic, manufacturers of the FM equipment, were in charge of the demonstration.

5—The first FM transmitter on Canada's Pacific Coast will be erected in Vancouver this fall by the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. The new 250 watt unit will be installed on the roof of the Hotel Vancouver and tests are scheduled for Oct.

9—The first General Electric post-war FM transmitter to be delivered on the West Coast has been placed in operation atop Mt. Wilson near Los Angeles, Calif. by Earle C. Anthony, Inc., operators of KFI.

soon as business and operating conditions make it possible. Some stations already have secured construction sites for transmitters, and others have options on several tentative locations.

29—A campaign to inform the public of FM receiver scarcity has been inaugurated by KCOY in Oklahoma City. KCOY broadcast three spots daily urging the public to investigate before they buy a new radio set, due to the fact that Oklahoma will soon have four or more FM stations.

SEPTEMBER

4—In a new shakeup of its FM allocation plan, the FCC added a total of 78 additional channels to a total of 55 cities throughout the country and withdrew 22 channels previously allocated to 20 other cities. The revised tentative allocation plan, the FCC said, has been developed to provide an "equitable distribution" of channel for Class B stations (for Metropolitan and Rural service) with "consideration given to the present demand for channels in the various localities."

5—A final construction permit for the first FM broadcasting station in the southwest has been granted the Express Publishing Co., and the new station will be on the air within 60 days according to an announcement made by C. D. Lutz, radio division manager for the Express Publishing Co., an Antonio, Texas.

5—Harry C. Wilder, president of WSYR-FM, Syracuse, N. Y. has started an extensive campaign to "manufacture" a listening audience" and help break the FM production bottleneck by offering to buy for cash 5,000 receiving sets and distribute them to established dealers in station's listening area.

6—The FCC awarded conditional grants to 10 applicants for new FM stations in five states.

6—Announcement was made by the FCC that it has granted station WILM, Wilmington, Del. an authorization for the new FM station. Authorization is contingent upon the separation of station WILM from the Steinmann interests which at one time controlled the station.

10—Reported to be the first New York frequency modulation station on the air with full power on the new FM band, WGYN announced the installation of a new antenna atop the Cities Service Tower. Station is carrying programs on the new band, 96.1 mc. channel 241, with transmission from the tower, 950 feet above the ground.

10—California's second commercial FM station, KRFM, Fresno, has just begun operations with a 19-hour day schedule including special emphasis on transcribed musical programs and public service features.

10—International General Electric Co., will offer demonstrations of two-way FM communications, two-way aircraft radio and ultra-high frequency waves at two separate conventions to be held in Mexico City late in September. A 250 watt FM transmitter with revolutionary GE phase-modulated circuit scheduled to be placed in regular commercial service by leading Mexican broadcasters, will be a highlight of GE's exhibit at the broadcasters conference.

12—Delivery of postwar transmitters by major manufacturers has stepped up considerably the past few weeks with both Federal Telephone & Radio Corp. and General Electric Co. reporting sizeable production schedules. The G.E. plan at Syracuse reported that FM transmitters were coming off the lines at the rate of about one a day with 50 deliveries to broadcasters and newspapers already made. Orders for 150 transmitters from all parts of the U. S. have been received.

16—The Board of Cook County Commissioners in Illin is has received a request for $30,000 to convert the country's highway police two-way radio system from AM to FM Signals between stations and cars would be clearer and more intelligible with the use of FM.

17—Only 15,000 of the approximately 100,000 FM receivers in the Greater N. Y. area are equipped to receive on the new 88-108 mc. band and indications are that it will be some time before receivers covering the new frequencies are available in quantities in the N. Y. market. This was learned through a survey conducted by RADIO DAILP. Seven of eight FM stations in the N. Y. area are broadcasting a total of 51 hours daily on the new frequencies. None of the stations have been able to give accurate data on their listening audiences to date although two are in the process of making surveys. Blame for the plight of FM broadcasters rests with the manufacturers, all station managers agreed. They reported that new receivers—covering the 88-108 band are coming into the market in very limited quantities and the shortage of these receivers has hampered development of audiences.

18—Southern Illinois' first FM station, WMIX, owned and operated by the Mt. Vernon Radio & Television Co., Inc., organized by a group of 25 business and professional men went on the air Sunday.

Sixteen percent didn't consider FM essential and three per cent didn't answer. Mail survey reached 4000 representative families of American Magazine readers and was distributed in proportion to the distribution of the magazine's circulation by city-size groups and geographical areas. Research department of Crowell-Collier Publishing Co. made the survey.

9—The Caidian Broadcasting Corp. began full time FM broadcasting in the Toronto area when its new transmitter on top of the Canadian Bank of Commerce buiding went into operation for the first time. Call letters of the new stotion are VE9EV and it broadcasts on the 99.1 mc. band.

15—Seventy-one educational institutions are licensed, have received initial authorization or have applied to operate non-profit broadcast stations, the FCC announced. In the non-commercial educational FM service, six stations are on the air, 21 are under construction and 23 applications are pending. Of 29 educatioal organizations functioning in the standard broadcast band, 20 are on a non-profit basis. Since the war and in spite of material shortages, 58 applications have been received from colleges, universities and public school systems for FM stations, integrated more or less, with statewide plans.

16—If present talk and planning among FM licensees comes to poss a new FM group distinct from NAB will be mapped out during the NAB convention in Chicago. 21—Mass production of FM receivers for the low-price market was stated to be one of the chief aims of the Bendix Aviation Corp. One new model is designed for both AM and FM and it was pointed out that the company will approach the low-price market with the caution of good economics and will seek to establish itself in the quality market at in-between prices. Other new model is a combination FM and phonograph set, and all of the Bendix receivers will have built in FM antennas.

delays incident to launching FM and predicted wide development of FM within the coming year.

23—Thirty-seven members of the FMBI organization bolted the NAB's FM group when the FMBI dissolved. Several meetings will be held during the NAB meeting to take deánite steps "to formulate ideas for the new FM organization primarily interested in the promotion and development of FM." Roy Hofheinz of KTHT and FM station KOPY of Houston, Texas stated that "due to the avowed policy of NAB which was to abstain from involvements in intra-industry disputes, it was necessary to establish an independent FM organization."

24—Charles Denny, acting chairman of the FCC urged broadcasters who have not yet áled for FM grants to "re-examine their position" to make certain they will not be left out in the cold when the nation-wide shift to FM comes. That the FCC looks for such a shift was made clear to the NAB convention in Chicago by Denny. He pointed out that 579 (65 per cent) of the AM stations licensed prior to Oct. of last year have applied for FM.

24—The RMA announced that a slight rise was noted in production of FM sets in Sept. A totol of 17,541 were manufactured compared with only 13,892 in August.

24—Paul Mowrey, national director of television for the American Broadcasting Co. told the NAB convention that television will be one of the greatest mediums in the education field, presenting history as it actually occurs. He further stated that television would be an enormous asset to instructors and would simplify the teaching of current affairs.

29—The American Broadcasting Company has decided to make available to affiliated stations with FM outlets, a considerable portion of the web's regularly scheduled broadcasts, with the proviso that the program in question is broadcast simultaneously with the AM transmitter. It is understood that the non-musical programs will be the ones made available to FM in order to avoid tangling with the AFM edict against musicals. Under the new service ABC makes avoilable 107 programs throughout the week for simultaneous AM-FM transmission to affiliated stations.

31—Winnipeg, Canada will become the first city in Canada to install FM equipment, which will operate on 152 megacycles, in its waterworks and fire department vehicles.

NOVEMBER

1—Growing interest in FM radio as a sequel to the address of Charles R. Denny, acting chairman of the FCC at last week's NAB convention, is indicated in reports from several cities on FM developments. Zenith Radio Corp., Chicago, reported that advance demands of the public for radios containing FM were so heavy that it would be many months before the company could catch up with the backlog of orders.

1—Zenith Radio Corp. has launched a program to help FM stations teach the public the advantages of frequency modulation. Under its promotion plan, Zenith has promised to concentrate deliveries of FM sets to areas where new FM stations are scheduled to start operation.

6—A total of 90 FM stations are now in operation throughout the nation, the FCC reported. Last roundup was made by the Commission on September 19 which showed a total of 65 FM stations broadcasting. Approximately half of the 90 stations now operating were licensed before the war and a total of 27 of these stations are continuing to operate in the old FM band on a temporary basis. Nearly all FM stations are employing interim equipment pending completion of full construction, the FCC said.

6—More than 250 radio distributors, dealers and service men were guests of KYFM, owned and operated by the Express Publishing Co., San Antonio, Texas, at a demonstration and dinner. Following the dinner the guests were shown a Frequency Modulation film produced by the General Electric Co. A demonstration of FM broadcasting was made from the new studios and rebroadcast from the stage of the auditorium.

7—The Stromberg-Carlson Co. announced development of a low priced FM converter which restores the usefulness of some 350,000 prewar frequency modulation receivers so they can pick up programs on the new band as well as the old. The "Driscoll FM adapter," invented by George Driscoll, manager of Stromberg-Carlson's FM station, WHFM, in Rochester, N. Y., can be attached to the receiver chassis as a replacement for the built-in antenna. It will sell for a list price of $6.35 plus installation cost.

11—Roy Dunlop, CBC representative will leave for Shanghai shortly to set up broadcasts in English for Canada and the U. S. for the Chinese Broadcasting Administration. CBA is planning to build up a chain of FM stations along the Chinese coast.

13—A set of five objectives and plans for an industry-wide FM meet to be held next month or in Jan. were agreed upon at a meeting of FM broadcasters and manufacturers in Washington this week to organize the new FM association. This is the group

exclusively predicted by RADIO DAILY more than a month ago to grow out of a meeting of FMers during the NAB convention in Chicago last month.

13—Approximately 52 FM stations owned by AM broadcasters affiliated with the four major networks, are now open for a free ride in programming, since all networks permit them to use web shows which do not contain music. ABC was the most recent network to set up the same policy as the other three webs in regard to AM affiliates with FM stations. All nets now allow use of their non-musical programs where FM transmission is simultaneous with AM broadcasts. This policy includes both commercial and sustaining programs, although some networks stipulate that an FM station cannot mix both categories of shows in the same operating day. This is done as a fairness measure to the advertiser.

14—FM transmitter production added momentum this week with announcements by Federal Telephone & Radio Corp. and General Electric that shipments had been made on back orders to stations all over the country, with the bulk of outstanding orders going to stations which are already on the air or set to begin operations.

19—FM receiver output at General Electric is rapidly nearing the "full production" mark on the company's new post-war model "417," it was announced, although actual figures were not broken down. New set incorporates the low and high FM bands, standard and shortwave bands and a phonograph.

19—Ewell K. Jett, member of the FCC, speaking over WWDC, Washington, predicted that at least five million FM sets will be produced during the next year.

19—R. Alton Reed of Dallas, Texas, chairman of the Texas Baptists radio commission recommended to the Baptists meeting in convention at Mineral Wells, Texas that the Baptists should consider owning and operating FM stations over the state. Reed told the group that "this is a new field of broadcasting in which we can get in on the ground floor." He proposed that the key station would be located in Dallas with Baptists of Dallas owning and operating the station and the State Baptist board the network. All network stations would be owned and operated locally.

26—United States listeners own a total of about 500,000 FM receiving sets, according to an estimate by the FCC. Of these, about 400,000 sets were on hand before the war. The FCC estimated that FM sets now are being produced at the rate of 17,000 a month.

26—A new method of "variable inductance tuning," designed to overcome problems arising from the transfer of FM broadcasting to higher frequencies, has been perfected by engineers of the receiver division of General Electric Company, it was announced by I. J. Karr, manager. Method is described as being more efficient than gang condensers in the reception of FM at its new position from 88 to 108 MC; it is also said to be highly efficient in short-wave tuning. This type of tuner, according to Karr, has the advantage of being entirely tool made.

29—Facsimile broadcasting on FM channels will begin early in 1947 from 12 or more cities, according to a statement by Capt. W. G. H. Finch, president of Finch Telecommunications, Inc.

DECEMBER

2—Appointment of seven new committees and five sub-committees was announced by NAB in Washington this past week-end. Committees named include FM Executive, International Broadcasting Advisory Legislative, Public Relations Executive, Sales Managers Executive, Small Market Stations Executive and the Standard of Practice Committee of the Program Executive Committee. The personnel of the FM Executive Committee follows: Walter J. Damm, Chairman, WTMJ-FM, Milwaukee, Wis.; Gordon Gray, FM Station WMIT, Winston-Salem, N. C.; John Shepard, 3rd, FM Station WGTR, Boston, Mass.; John V. L. Hogan, FM Station WQXQ, New York, N. Y., Leonard Asch, FM Station WBCA, Schenectady, N. Y.; Lester Nafzger, WCOL-FM, Columbus, O.; Everett Dillard, FM Station KOZY, Kansas City, Mo.; Clarence Leich, FM Station WMLL, Evansville, Ind.; Cecil Masten, WNBF-FM, Binghamton, N. Y.; Matthew Bonebrake, KOCY-FM, Oklahoma City, Okla.

2—In a letter to the newly-formed frequency modulation association, Acting FCC Chairman Charles R. Denny reaffirmed his faith in FM as "The finest aural broadcast system attainable in the present state of the radio art. An organization such as yours," Denny wrote, "can perform one of the most valuable services in the history of broadcasting."

5—The first FM station in Kansas, WIBW-FM was formally dedicated in special ceremonies, presented simultaneously over WIBW and WIBW-FM.

6—The FCC, in a statistical analysis of AM and FM grants and applications since V-J Day reports the total FM applications filed as of Oct. 1946:

(A) 70.8 per cent were from persons in the AM field. (B) An additional 12.3 per cent were from non-AM newspaper interests. (C) The remaining 16.9 per cent were from persons without either AM or newspaper interests. (D) Overall 34.2 per cent of the applications were from persons with newspaper interests. 4. Total FM authorizations (CP's and CG's) issued as of October 1, 1946: (A) 74.6 per cent were issued to persons in the AM field. (B) An additional 13.5 per cent were issued to non-AM newspaper interests. (C) The remaining 11.9 per cent were issued to persons without either AM or newspaper interests. (D) Overall 37.8 per cent of the authorizations were issued to persons with newspaper interests.

10—The first post-war radio station to be opened in Chicago's metropolitan area will be WEAW, an FM station, in Evanston, North Shore suburb and home of Northwestern University.

11—First batch of 16 orders for FM transmitting equipment placed with Federal Telephone and Radio Corp. during the last six months have already been filled, according to Norman E. Wunderlich, executive sales director, while the remainder will be shipped within the next few months. All of the 16 orders came from newspaper publishers in 11 states, some of whom have never before been associated with broadcasting. Total amount of the orders placed with Federal is estimated to run more than $250,000.

12—About 3,750,000 home radio sets produced in 1947 will have an FM band, according to a prediction yesterday by Ray C. Cosgrove, president of the Radio Manufacturers Association. The nearly 4 million sets affording FM reception constitute 25 per cent of the over-all set production figure predicted by Cosgrove.

13—First privately-owned concern in Canada to receive a license for an FM broadcasting station on a regular basis will be the Canadian Marconi Co., a Transport Dept. official has revealed. The "FM" license has been approved and will be issued shortly. It will cover broadcasts from station CFCF in Montreal at 3,000 watts. The only other FM licensee in Canada at the present is the CBC.

19—A tubeless FM converter costing an estimated $2.39 for component parts, which can be attached to an old band set in a few minutes has been developed by Henry R. Kaiser, chief engineer of Pittsburgh stations WWSW and its FM affiliate, WMOT.

24—An agreement for the designing and construction of FM stations and transmitters in St. Louis, Mo., Chattanooga, Tenn. and Los Angeles, Calif., owned by Unity Broadcasting Corporations of those states (International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union), was signed Friday by Frederick F. Umhey, executive secretary, and Paul Demars, representing Raymond M. Wilmotte, Inc. Construction, expected to start next spring for completion in July, is said to be in excess of $300,000 for the three sites. Amount is said to be one of the highest expenditures in the history of FM construction.

26—In order to clear the 42-44 megacycle band for use by non-Government fixed and mobile services to which it has been allocated, the FCC has assigned temporary channels to FM stations now operating in the low band. The changes are effective January 1, and in no case later than February 1. Date for cessation of all FM operation in the 44-50 band has not yet been set, and will not be until the Commission gets a clearer picture of the outlook for early accessibility of FM receivers.

27—Forecasting that FM will make its greatest strides in 1947, Arthur Freed, vice-president and general manager of the Freed Radio Corp., declared that nearly 100 FM stations are now in operation and 900 applications have been granted or are pending in hearing before the FCC. "This prediction is based on several factors," said Mr. Freed. "For one thing, the production of table model broadcast (AM) radio sets is now catching up with demand and is soon expected to meet domestic requirements. When this occurs, receiver manufacturers will increase production of FM receivers, and in this way sustain and go on to surpass the high rate of radio production attained during 1946.

31—Opposing viewpoints as to the operation of FM broadcasting are expected to enliven the Frequency Modulation Association's organizational meeting in Washington, D. C., on Jan. 10. Members attending the meeting will include broadcasters who propose duplication of FM-AM programs, those who propose to operate FM and AM separately, newspaper publishers entering the FM field and individual FM station operators. The meeting will also be another pioneering step since this will be the first time that such a group has ever considered the commercial aspects of FM and made plans for its promotion.

31—A significant move in the history of radio in Minneapolis, Minn. was made over the weekend when WTCN-FM went on the air for the first time, using what is described as "the world's first permanent super-directive FM antenna." Principal point of interest in the opening of the new station was the 80 foot FM transmitting antenna which dominates the Minneapolis skyline from the top of the Foshay Tower. New antenna is said by station officials to be "the first FM broadcast antenna of its efficiency to be erected."

PRODUCTION GAINS MOMENTUM

By S. P. TAYLOR, Mgr. Distributor Sales, Radio Div., Western Electric

S. P. Taylor

PRODUCTION to meet the radio industry's increased demands for new equipment was the Western Electric Radio Division's prime objective during 1946. At the beginning of the year the phenomenal growth of FM, the pressing needs for replacement of equipment in existing stations and the many new applications of radio and audio facilities posed seemingly unsurmountable production problems for the electronic industry.

The many new products designed by Bell Telephone Laboratories and the continuing improvement and re-design of established equipments necessitated almost complete re-tooling at Western Electric before production in large quantities could be attained. Two new plants were acquired in Winston-Salem and Burlington, N. C. adding over 500,000 square feet of factory space to Western's production facilities devoted exclusively to the manufacture of radio broadcasting, radio communications equipment and electronic apparatus of all types.

It was only natural for the Bell Labs-Western Electric team responsible for the negative feedback amplifier, the grounded plate FM transmitter, the non-directional and cardioid microphones and other major developments, to continue pioneering in the many expanded fields of radio communications. New Bell Telephone Laboratories designs which were put into production by Western Electric during 1946 included a multitude of items from microphone to antenna.

Early in 1946 Western Electric served the radio industry by field conversion of installed Western Electric FM transmitters and within a short time after the FCC assigned the new frequencies, many of these transmitters were converted and back "on the air" at the station's new frequency. By the end of the year 22 Western Electric FM transmitters were in operation daily in the United States.

High points of the year included the introduction of the 54A Clover-leaf Antenna for FM. Symbolically this "good-luck" antenna made its bow to broadcasters on St. Patrick's Day. The use of this high gain, broad band antenna eliminated the need of complex coupling and mounting equipment and solved many of the pressing technical problems of the industry.

The new line of "Transview" FM Transmitters with power ratings up to 50 KW, was announced in July 1946 and the first 1 KW equipment of this new series was delivered in October. These transmitters employ the field tested Western Electric method of Direct FM and Synchronized center frequency control and were engineered for the best over-all efficiency and the lowest possible distortion and intermodulation products.

New developments in Speech Input Equipment included Custom Built Studio Control Desks and the Relay Type Master Control Line Switching System. Because of the unique "plug-in" type of unit construction, control booth equipment using standardized components can be custom built for a station's individual needs and assembled in a compact attractive console. The Line Switching System in itself is an outstanding piece of flexible audio facility equipment. Individual panels, one for each line, can be added to accommodate the number of lines to be controlled.

A host of new Western Electric electron tubes, thermistors, crystals, deposited carbon resistors, etc. opens the way for still further advancement in the radio and communications art.

The Graybar Electric Co., national distributors for Western Electric, increased its service facilities for the industry by the addition of a number of trained sales engineers with electronic and broadcasting experience supplemented by Western Electric's newly organized Broadcast Field Engineering Force assures the broadcaster of full realization of the unsurpassed quality and reliability which is designed and built into the equipment.

BROADCAST EQUIPMENT—1947

By CLYDE E. DICKEY, Gen. Sales Mgr. Federal Telephone & Radio Corp.

A POLICY of continuing development and improvement coupled with maximum production of currently needed equipment is the keynote of Federal Telephone and Radio Corporation's broadcast equipment manufacturing program for 1947. Federal, a manufacturing associate of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., is being called upon to supply a substantial portion of the equipment required by new stations, particularly FM, as well as replacement equipment for improvement and expansion of existing AM and FM stations. To meet these needs in the shortest possible time with equipment featuring the most recent advances in radio engineering has been Federal's prime consideration in developing its 1947 production program.

The diversified line of Federal equipment being produced under this policy includes such items as transmitters for AM and FM, broadcasting tubes for those applications, high frequency cable and a complete line of speech-input and transmitter control equipment. In the latter field, the latest model of the Federal transmitter control console was already being delivered at the start of 1947 and will be increasingly available during the year. Studio control consoles, as well as speech-input and allied studio equipment, have been subjected to the same intensive production schedule and are expected to be available in ample quantity within the next few months.

Federal has been a leader in the broadcast tube field since the earliest days of radio and is currently emphasizing the production of such tubes as a recently developed series of high output FM triodes and the highly regarded 6C22 television triode . . . the first tube ever to develop 600 watts output at 600 megacycles. In addition, the full Federal line of standard broadcast, industrial and special application tubes are being produced in quantities sufficient to permit immediate delivery.

In the field of FM, an indication of the extent of the 1947 equipment requirements came at the end of 1946 when the FCC announced that more than 900 applications for FM broadcasting licenses had been received and 426 construction permits and 211 conditional grants had been issued.

Since FCC has indicated the desirability of stations getting on the air as soon as possible after issuance of the CP and with the highest power obtainable within the allowed power output, it is noteworthy that Federal is now delivering transmitters rated at 1 KW, 3 KW and 10 KW. These are designed so that amplifiers for higher power may be added later.

Under this program, Federal has already made delivery on a large number of FM transmitters, antennas and associated equipment, most of which are already on the air. The first Federal 10 KW transmitter went on the air for Station WELD, Columbus, Ohio, early in 1947.

The accelerated production of Federal transmitters has been matched by the production rate of Federal's exclusive high-gain, super-directive Square Loop FM antenna. Hailed as one of the major post-war FM developments, this antenna has brought a new concept of operating efficiency and effectiveness to FM broadcasting. Impressive savings in initial transmitter investment and in day-to-day operating costs, as well as super-efficient coverage and high signal quality, are achieved through the use of these unique Square Loop antennas.

Thus is Federal carrying out its program of producing 3 and 10 KW FM transmitters to catch up with the demand in the early part of the year, pending delivery of 25 and 50 KW equipment later in the year.

The scope of expansion in FM during 1947 becomes impressively apparent through the FCC's estimate that 700 FM stations will be on the air by the end of the year. Federal is confident that the demands for its share of these requirements will be met during 1947.

Manufacturers of Frequency Modulation broadcasting equipment, confronted with the demands of an ever-increasing number of FM licensees anxious to go on the air, have adopted a policy of supplying low-powered temporary equipment rather than holding deliveries until permanent high-powered systems are available. Gearing this policy to a program of maximum production, the industry seems confident that the bulk of the demand will be satisfied, on an interim basis, at least, by the end of 1947.

BETTER RECORDING EQUIPMENT

By THOMAS B. ALDRICH, General Sales Manager, Presto Recording Co.

AS RECENTLY as eight years ago the quality of reproduction offered by instantaneous recordings was such that the average broadcasting station was by no means certain that such recordings were of any value to it. The acetate disc was just beginning to offer a material quality assuring some sort of uniformity in frequency response, lack of surface noise and consistency of behavior. Today the acetate coated disc is performing splendidly notwithstanding the fact that recording personnel continue to wish for something better.

Thomas B. Aldrich

Advances in turntable (recording and transcription) equipment have been noticeable during the last eight years but improvements in magnetic cutting heads and reproducers have been more important. The standardization of the desired characteristic by the National Association of Broadcasters has been of great help. Today the best manufacturers offer equipment which will assure the user of a recording having adequate modulation to minimize surface noise, low distortion, and the proper characteristic—the latter of course, assumes adequately wide frequency response. The manufacturers of broadcast reproducers are today offering products whose characteristics complement the accepted standards for recording. As a result of small mechanical impedance and adequate vertical compliance of the stylus, distortion has been reduced to a new minimum. Frequency response equals or exceeds the recorded frequencies. The wearing of transcriptions has been greatly reduced and the durability of the pickup head much improved.

Diameter equalization to pre-emphasize high frequencies toward the center of the disc has become less important now that the NAB recording characteristic is becoming widely accepted. The NAB equalization at 10,000 cps is such that to add to this the usual diameter equalization at the inner part of a sixteen inch disc would only produce high frequency overloading and distortion. Some recording engineers still wish to add a small degree of high frequency equalization for diameter but the amount is strictly limited.

It is to some extent surprising that a few individuals still refuse to completely accept the new recording characteristic. That these few may consider their own curves superior is understandable but those who must play back these off-standard recordings are faced with a real problem. Fortunately the situation is better today than previously and the characteristics of reproducers and compensators may be standardized with less fear of discs of individualized response making their appearance.

The high power amplifier, 50 watts or more, is obviously what the recording engineer of today wants. The 10 watter was adequate for recording a flat characteristic of limited high frequency content. However, equalized high frequency peaks can easily require an instantaneous output peak of 35 to 45 watts. It may be argued that a cutting head will not respond to such power but at least the 50 watt amplifier will and without reaching a point of high distortion.

The trend in turntable drives seems to be leaning toward direct gear drives at both 78 and 33-1 3 rpm. Idler operated rim drives, belt drives, and ball bearing planitary drives all have their advantages and disadvantages. Positively connected gear drives offer the most perfect speed regulation and modern tools make possible a much finer gear than previously—a gear which can be completely filtered with a reasonably simple mechanism.

The requirements for frequency modulation are somewhat higher than for amplitude modulation. The best recording and transcription equipment can meet the new specifications as far as speed regulation and mechanical background noise are concerned. Uniform frequencies between 30 and 15,000 cps are not strictly attainable with commercial equipment today but are closely approached. Considering the fact that most of the listening audience will not be in a position to purchase receivers of such fidelity, the frequency question should not be serious.

With Leading Stations from Coast to Coast

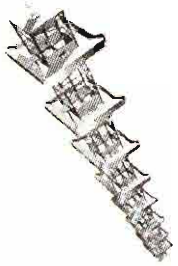
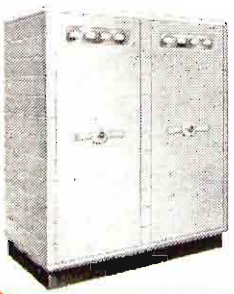
FEDERAL'S SQUARE LOOP ANTENNA MULTIPLIES POWER OUTPUT



The 8-Element Square-Loop Antenna – an outstanding Federal development – gives your FM station an effective radiated power more than eight times that of the transmitter rating. A siogle adjustment per loop tunes for any frequeocy from 88 to 108 mc. Complete antenna and rugged supporting tower are designed to withstand heavy winds and icing loads.

FEDERAL FM TRANSMITTERS FEATURE "FREQUEMATIC"* MODULATOR



The "Frequematic" modulator an exclusive feature of every Federal FM transmitter assures outstanding fi-de"ty and mean carrier stability. Simple all-electronic circuits with standard receiver tubes simplify initial alignment and reduce maintenance expense. Holds center frequency within .001%. Signal-to-noise ratio reduced to 5600-to-1.

*Trade Mark

TODAY, station operators everywhere look to FM for finer broadcasting. And they look to Federal for the finest in FM. Already, Federal equipment is on the job in major FM stations throughout the country—setting new records for performance and dependability.

Remember that FM by Federal means complete equipment—and complete service, too.
