DOUBLES YOUR RADIO ENJOYMENT

731 PLYMOUTH COURT, CHICAGO, ILL.

For Your Neighbor . . .

If your neighbor was one of those scared to death by the recent Orson Welles Mercury Theater broadcast, pass these paragraphs on to him. He needs them much more than any reader of RADIO GUIDE. For RADIO GUIDE readers listen intelligently, knowing what they are going to hear. The others, the dial-twiddlers who dart all over the kilocycles like water-bugs, are the ones responsible for the recent panic.

Of course, people should not have been scared out of their wits. But why all the hue and cry for somebody's hide? Let's admit that it was a blunder and let it go at that. Demands have been made that the Federal Communications Commission do something about protecting the public. From what? From broadcasting? That Sunday night's program was not broadcasting. It was a single show on a single network conceived and presented by one man. A thousand programs preceded it and a thousand have succeeded it without one word being said about "protecting the public."

How Sweet and Innocent . . .

It was a beautiful hoax, unplanned and unwanted, but a hoax nevertheless. But there have been other hoaxes. How sweet and innocent this one was compared to the False Armistice that a whole nation thought ended the World War. England went through a scare not many years ago when half the country throbbed with stories that the Communists had taken over London. Edgar Allen Poe wrote a hoax that is a classic. He printed the story in the New York Sun of a daredevil balloonist who had been blown from South Carolina to England in three days. Everyone believed it. Remember the Cardiff Giant, that primordial and petrified man dug up from under the earth of Cardiff and shown about the country as a true sample of the missing link between us and the apes. A practical joker had fashioned the giant out of limestone, buried him, and allowed others to "discover" him. When it learned the truth, the country laughed it off.

WELCOME — MEN FROM MARS

Three circumstances combined to produce this radio panic, and three more to turn it into a tremendous news story. The Sunday night scare was caused by the press-radio newscaster technique being used in a dramatic vehicle, plus the fact that men's minds were still frightened by the recent specter of another European slaughter, plus the fact that many listeners dial away from Charlie McCarthy as soon as he has completed his "turn" on the rival Chase and Sanborn hour. Result: Thousands of ears, without any preparation, began to hear that horrible things were happening in New Jersey.

Monday Morning Was Dull . . .

Three more circumstances were required to turn this fact into a headline story. First, Monday morning is deadly dull in journalism; nothing happens on Sundays and editors give their headlines to the best stories available. So the radio hoax got top billing. Then, newspapers like to tell their readers that broadcasting isn't too dependable, anyhow. They tell it because broadcasting and newspapers are rivals for the advertiser's dollars and no love is lost between them. Finally, many of our politicians would like to see American radio taken in hand and harnessed to their own political uses, as it is in Germany and England and Italy. They would love to make such a broadcast as this their pretext for a campaign to "protect" the listener. In many centers, their demands for censorship fed the flames.

But wasn't it all a tempest in a teapot? We believe it was. Everyone has apologized to everyone else. It appears now that no one was seriously injured beyond a dislocation of one's peace of mind.

Friendship Is Skin Deep

The visit of the men from Mars did several things for which we feel grateful. It illustrated forcefully the tremendous power of radio. It revealed that the friendship of many publicists and politicians is only skin deep, and that those of us who value our American system need to guard it with all our skill.

But best of all, it showed that only RADIO GUIDE listeners had the key to the panic in their hands all during that frightening Sunday evening hour. All they needed to do was turn to our Sunday program page and read the listing there which said: Mercury Theater, Orson Welles, director. Drama: H. G. Wells' "War of the Worlds."

For that, Men of Mars, we thank you.

THE VIENNA CHOIR BOYS
BRING HARMONY UNSUR-PASSED TO THE NATIONAL
BARN DANCE PROGRAM
OVER NBC THIS SATURDAY

Famous Vienna Choir Boys on the concert platform, they are just normal, healthy youngsters when it comes to swimming and all other sports

IN 1498, six years after Christopher Columbus started the vogue that Douglas Corrigan has now made famous in reverse, Maximilian I, Emperor of Austria, sought an escape from the fears and intrigues of state that were plaguing him. So he turned to music. That year he commanded the organization of a remarkable group of boys with golden voices whose choral singing might sweep the troubles from his royal brain. The group was called the "Wiener Saengerknaben," or the Vienna Boys' Choir, and it is by that latter name that it has sung in a thousand cathedrals and in many hundreds of palaces during its amazing career, which has already endured for 440 years.

Why it has lasted may be apparent in the quality of its music, which we modern listeners with troubles not royal but no less important to us may hear this Saturday night, November 19, on the Alka-Seltzer National Barn Dance program. An NBC network will carry it. In 1498, Georg Slatkonia, chaplain of the emperor's private chapel, had no idea of what his tiny choir would become. He was merely obeying orders given by Maximilian. Quite unaware of it, he was fathering all of the rich and satisfying musical life that was to make Vienna famous. Quite unaware of it, he was founding a kindergarten for such musical giants as Franz Schubert, Josef Haydn, Hans Richter, Felix Mottl and others who sang as children in the Vienna Boys' Choir.

Until the fall of the Austrian Empire in 1918, this boys' choir sang only in the imperial chapel of the Hapsburgs. When the World War turned the empire into a republic, the choir was still strong enough to survive as a private enterprise until it was taken over by the reorganized city government of Vienna. After that it began to sing in public and soon was making tours throughout the world.

At present the choir is divided into four groups of twenty each. Two of these go on tour and two remain at home in Wilhelminenberg Castle.

On tour the boys are accompanied by two professional nurses, whom the boys always address as "Sister." These two "sisters" have a man-sized job looking after twenty pairs of ears that would often lack a scrubbing if it weren't for their eternal vigilance.

There are sixty pieces of baggage containing twenty different wardrobes. Each boy is allowed three suitcases on all trips, and these contain plentiful changes of clothes. They include warm pullover sweaters for mornings, sailor suits for more formal wear, in addition to costumes for plays they give, and the regulation vestments of the choir for sacred concerts.

THE duties of the "sisters" include strict supervision of the boys' daily physical routine and diet. There must be an hour's rest before a concert, with no indulgence in tea, coffee, or chocolate. The boys have milk with their meals, water between times. In earlier centuries their fare included a half-pint of wine for each boy at mealtime, but today that is taboo.

Even when they are invited to parties, they are under the eagle eyes of the "sisters," and for good reason.

In Paris, an enthusiastic admirer who hadn't forgotten his own boyhood tastes, invited the young choristers to his house on the afternoon of the concert. It was a "knockout" party in more ways than one, even to the delicious little cakes of almond paste, of which they consumed many. For they were so good!

But by the time the hour for the concert arrived, they weren't so good. For twenty little singers, marching out onto the concert platform with an international reputation to uphold, were too full of cakes to sing well. When the concert was over, they trooped sadly back to their hotel, knowing in their hearts that their performance had been an artistic flop.

Their meals are well planned for growing boys, but there is no waste or extravagance. The slogan "Work and Save," held up to the choristers when they are at home in Vienna or at summer school in Hinterbichl in Tyrol, is never forgotten. There the young musicians, in addition to regular school work, learn many things besides music. Gardens and hothouses are tended. The produce which they yield helps to pay the bills. A dairy farm and vineyard serve a similar purpose.

All the money earned this way is needed, for while the concert tours are profitable, the members of the choir are

PANIC!

THIS IS THE
ORSON WELLES
BROADCAST THAT
HOAXED AMERICA

America thought scene from H. G. Wells' movie, "Things to Come" (above) had come true October 30

IT COULDN'T HAPPEN — BUT IT DID

Patrolman John Morrison was on duty at the switchboard in Bronx Police Headquarters when "all the lines became busy at the same time." Plugging in, Patrolman Morrison heard a man shouting: "They're bombing New Jersey!"

"How do you know?"

"I heard it on the radio! Then I went to the roof and I could see the smoke from the bombs, drifting over toward New York. What shall I do?"

"I can see the fire from here!" screamed a Boston woman to a newspaper reporter. "I'm getting out of here! Everybody in the neighborhood is getting out of here!"

Not all listeners were terrified. A San Franciscoan roared into the telephone: "My God, where can I volunteer my services? We've got to stop this awful thing!"

In Macon, Georgia, a man hospitalized to recover from a surgical operation leapt from his bed, tearing the stitches loose, collapsed.

The city power plant at Concrete, Washington, failed at the height of the broadcast, plunging the town into darkness. To the already terrified populace, this was final proof. Many of them fled into the surrounding hills, would not return to their homes until posses had been sent for them.

A puzzled old lady called Station KSL, Salt Lake City, for information. Told that the horrifying broadcast was only a piece of fiction, she said, "Well, if it didn't do anything else, it made a lot of people pray."

A Pittsburgher entered his home in the middle of the broadcast to find his wife clutching a bottle of poison, screaming, "I'd rather die this way than like that!" He snatched away the poison, succeeded in calming her.

Weeping and hysterical women swamped the switchboard of the Providence (Rhode Island) Journal with requests for information about the "massacre" in New York, and the local power company was besieged with calls demanding that all lights be cut off to save the city from "the enemy."

Running into an Indianapolis church during evening services, a hysterical woman drove the congregation into panic-stricken flight when she screamed: "New York is destroyed! It's the end of the world! You might as well go home to die! I just heard it on the radio!"

A New Jersey man telephoned the Dixie Bus Terminal in New York to "keep your busses out of the war zone." He refused additional information, saying, "The world is coming to an end, and I have a lot to do."

In East Orange, New Jersey, a man searched frantically for gas-masks, found two of the ammonia type, useless against modern war gasses. For his wife, his mother-in-law, his three children and himself, he could find no other protection. So he loaded his shotgun. "If we could not escape the gas I was going to use the gun to kill my children," he said. "And when I found out it was only a play I wanted to kill the man responsible."

All over the eastern seaboard, hundreds of doctors and nurses telephoned police to volunteer their services for aid to the victims of the Martian's death-rays and gasses.

Officers and men of the National Guard heard that mobilization was ordered; they heard that the troops sent against the Martians were being burned to death like ants in a forest fire—yet hundreds of them telephoned New Jersey headquarters asking where they should report for duty to take their turn.

Here follows the script of a historical broadcast. Nothing ever put on the air has stirred up such a tempest of both indignation and amusement. When, on the evening of October 30, Orson Welles and his Mercury Theater players stood before the mike with the script of a dramatization of a Mr. H. G. Wells novel called "The War of the Worlds," they were anxious about the public's reception because they were afraid the book was "too old-fashioned." They thought the hackneyed theme of "men from Mars" might drive all their listeners away. But they forgot that the world was only two short weeks from a heart-breaking war scare, forgot that millions of Charlie McCarthy's listeners would tune away from him and therefore give their ears to the Mercury Theater only after the stage had been set. They reckoned without placing full value on their own acting ability and the frightening potency of the devices with which Mr. Welles had adapted "The War of the Worlds." The broadcast is history. What its eventual result will be we do not know. More time must pass and government officials and broadcasters must study again and again the innocent causes and the unlooked-for consequences of this famous program. So, here it is . . .

A N N O U N C E R: The Columbia Broadcasting System and its affiliated stations present Orson Welles and the Mercury Theater on the Air in "The War of the Worlds" by H. G. Wells.

A N N O U N C E R: Ladies and Gentlemen: The director of the Mercury Theater and star of these broadcasts, Orson Welles . . .

W E L L E S: We know that in the early years of the twentieth century this world was being watched closely by intelligences greater than man's and yet as mortal as his own. We know now that as human beings busied themselves about their various concerns they were scrutinized and studied, perhaps almost as narrowly as a man with a microscope might scrutinize the transient creatures that swarm and multiply in a drop of water. With infinite complacency people went to and fro over the earth about their little affairs, serene in the assurance of their dominion over this small spinning fragment of solar driftwood which by chance or design man has inherited out of the dark mystery of time and space. Yet across an immense ethereal gulf, minds that are to our minds as ours are to the beasts in the jungle, intellects vast, cool and unsympathetic regarded this earth with envious eyes and slowly and surely drew their plans against us. In the thirty-ninth year of the twentieth century came the great disillusionment.

It was near the end of October. Business was better. The war scare was over. More men were back at work. Sales were picking up. On this particular evening, October 30, the Crossley service estimated that thirty-two million people were listening in on radios.

P R O G R A M F A D E S T O A N A N N O U N C E R G I V I N G A W E A T H E R R E P O R T: . . . for the next twenty-four hours not much change in temperature. A slight atmospheric disturbance of undetermined origin is reported over Nova Scotia, causing a low-pressure area to move down rather rapidly over the northeastern states, bringing a forecast of rain, accompanied by winds of light gale force. Maximum temperature 66 . . . minimum 48. This weather report comes to you from the Government Weather Bureau.

We now take you to the Meridian Room in the Hotel Park Plaza in downtown New York, where you will be entertained by the music of Ramon Raquello and his orchestra.

(SPANISH THEME SONG . . . FADES.)

A N N O U N C E R: Good evening, ladies and gentlemen. From the Meridian Room in the Park Plaza in New York City, we bring you the music of Ramon Raquello and his orchestra. With a touch of the Spanish, Ramon Raquello leads off with La Cumparsita. (PIECE STARTS PLAYING.)

A N O T H E R A N N O U N C E R: Ladies and gentlemen, we interrupt our program of dance music to bring you a special bulletin from the Intercontinental Radio News. At twenty minutes before eight, central time, Professor Farrell of the Mount Jennings Observatory, Chicago, Illinois, reports observing several explosions of incandescent gas, occurring at regular intervals on the planet Mars. The spectroscopic indicates the gas to be hydrogen and moving towards the earth with enormous velocity. Professor Pierson the atmosphere . . . the background of this . . . fantastic scene. Hundreds of cars are parked in a field in back of us. Police are trying to rope off the roadway leading into the farm. But it's no use. They're breaking right through. Their headlights throw an enormous spot on the pit where the object's half buried. Some of the more daring souls are venturing near the edge. Their silhouettes stand out against the metal sheen.

(FAINT HUMMING SOUND.)

One man wants to touch the thing . . . he's having an argument with a policeman. The policeman wins . . . Now, ladies and gentlemen, there's something I haven't mentioned in all this excitement, but it's becoming more distinct. Perhaps you've caught it already on your radio. Listen: (LONG PAUSE) . . . Do you hear it? It's a curious humming sound that seems to come from inside the object. I'll move the microphone nearer. Here. (PAUSE) Now we're not more than twenty-five feet away. Can you hear it now? Oh, Professor Pierson!

PIERSON: Yes, Mr. Phillips?

PHILLIPS: Can you tell us the meaning of that scraping noise inside the Thing?

PIERSON: Possibly the unequal cooling of its surface.

PHILLIPS: Do you still think it's a meteor, Professor?

PIERSON: I don't know what to think. The metal casing is definitely extra-terrestrial . . . not found on this earth. Friction with the earth's atmosphere usually tears holes in a meteorite. This thing is smooth and, as you can see, of cylindrical shape.

PHILLIPS: Just a minute! Something's happening! Ladies and gentlemen, this is terrific! This end of the thing is beginning to flake off! The top is beginning to rotate like a screw! The thing must be hollow!

VOICES: She's a-movin'! Look, the darn thing's unscrewing! Keep back, there! Keep back, I tell you. Maybe there's men in it trying to escape! It's red hot, they'll burn to a cinder! Keep back there! Keep those idiots back!

(SUDDENLY THE CLANKING SOUND OF A HUGE PIECE OF FALLING METAL.)

VOICES: She's off! The top's loose! Look out there! Stand back!

Ladies and gentlemen, this is the most terrifying thing I have ever witnessed . . . Wait a minute, someone's crawling out of the hollow top. Someone or . . . something. I can see peering out of that black hole two luminous disks . . . are they eyes? It might be a face. It might be . . .

(SHOUT OF AWE FROM THE CROWD.)

Good heavens, something's wriggling out of the shadow like a gray snake. Now it's another one, and another. They look like tentacles to me. There, I can see the thing's body. It's large as a bear and it glistens like wet leather. But that face. It . . . it's indescribable. I can hardly force myself to keep looking at it. The eyes are black and gleam like a serpent. The mouth is V-shaped with saliva dripping from its rimless lips that seem to quiver and pulsate. The monster or whatever it is can hardly move. It seems weighed down by . . . possibly gravity or something. The thing's rais-

Fictitious observatories were used in play. Below: Actual one of the observatory at Princeton confirms Farrell's observation, and describes the phenomenon as (QUOTE) like a jet of blue flame shot from a gun. (UNQUOTE.) We now return you to the music of Ramon Raquello, playing for you in the Meridian Room of the Park Plaza Hotel, situated in downtown New York.

(MUSIC PLAYS FOR A FEW MOMENTS UNTIL PIECE ENDS . . . SOUND OF APPLAUSE)—CUE TO

Now a tune that never loses favor, the ever popular "Star Dust," Ramon Raquello and his orchestra . . . (MUSIC).

ANNOUNCER: Ladies and gentlemen, following on the news given in our bulletin a moment ago, the Government Meteorological Bureau has requested the large observatories of the country to keep an astronomical watch on any further disturbances occurring on the planet Mars. Due to the unusual nature of this occurrence, we have arranged an interview with the noted astronomer, Professor Pierson, who will give us his views on this event. We are ready now to take you to the Princeton Observatory at Princeton, where Carl Phillips, our commentator, will interview Professor Richard Pierson, famous astronomer. We take you now to Princeton, New Jersey.

(There follows an interview in which Professor Pierson explains that although Mars is popularly supposed to be inhabited, it probably is not; and that it is approximately forty million miles from the earth. During the interview a message arrives from a New York scientist stating that his seismograph has registered a shock of earthquake intensity within a radius of twenty miles of Princeton. Professor Pierson is asked to investigate. The program is switched back to the New York studio.)

ANNOUNCER: Ladies and gentlemen, here is the latest bulletin from the Intercontinental Radio News. Toronto, Canada. Professor Morse of Macmillan University reports observing a total of three explosions on the planet Mars, between the hours of 7:45 p.m. and 9:20 p.m. eastern standard time. This confirms earlier reports received from American observatories. Now, near home, comes a special announcement from Trenton, New Jersey. It is reported that at 8:50 p.m., a huge flaming object, believed to be a meteorite, fell on a farm in the neighborhood of Grovers Mill, New Jersey, twenty-two miles from Trenton. The flash in the sky was visible within a radius of several hundred miles and the noise of the impact was heard as far north as Elizabeth. We have dispatched a special mobile unit to the scene, and will have our commentator, Mr. Phillips, give you a word description as soon as he can reach there from Princeton. In the meantime, we take you to the Hotel Martinet in Brooklyn, where Bobby Mill-ette and his orchestra are offering a program of dance music.

(SWING BAND FOR 20 SECONDS . . . THEN CUT.)

ANNOUNCER: We take you now to Grovers Mill, New Jersey.

(CROWD NOISES . . . POLICE SIRENS.)

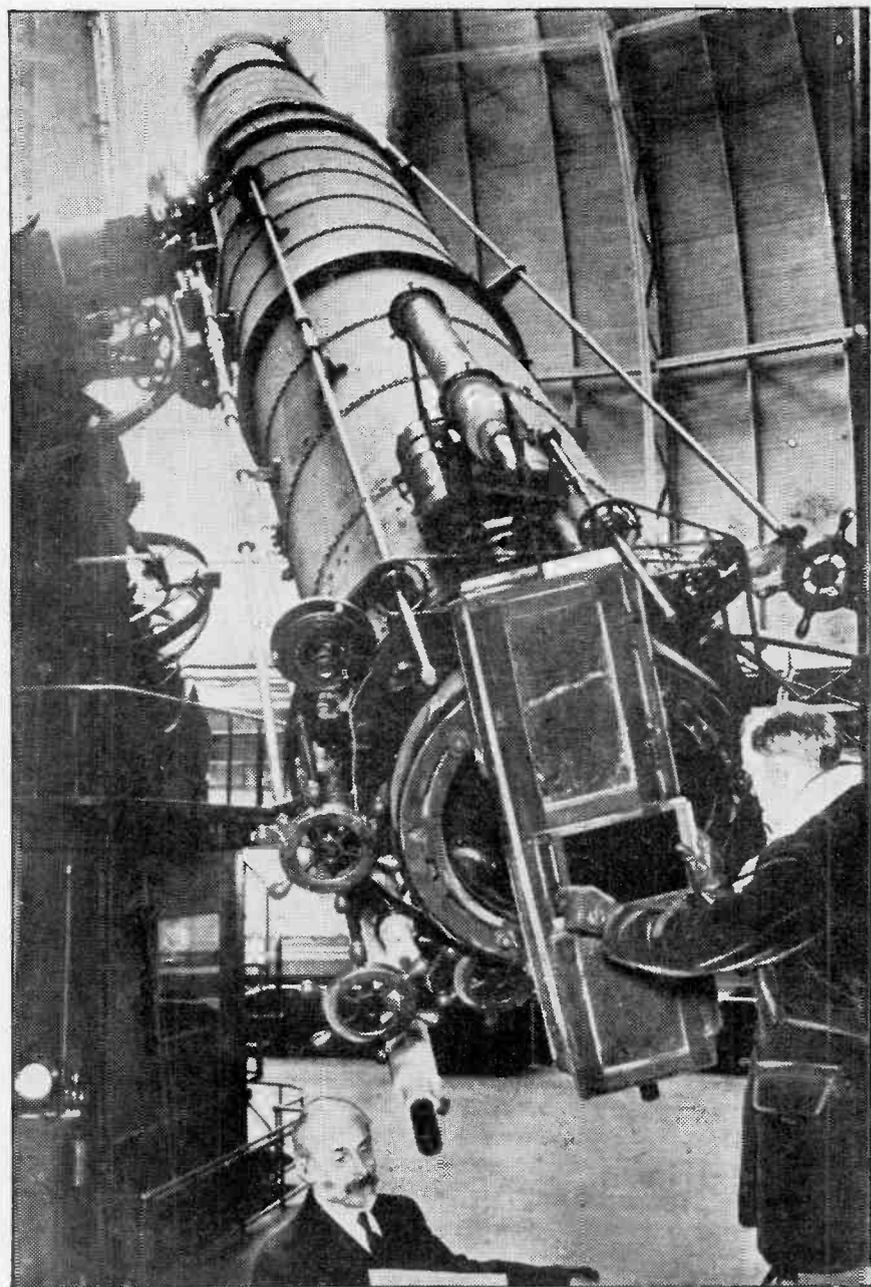

PHILLIPS: Ladies and gentlemen, this is Carl Phillips again, at the Wil-muth farm, Grovers Mill, New Jersey. Professor Pierson and myself made the eleven miles from Princeton in ten minutes. Well, I . . . I hardly know where to begin, to paint for you a word-picture of the strange scene before my eyes, like something out of a modern Arabian Nights. Well, I just got here. I haven't had a chance to look around yet. I guess that's it. Yes, I guess that's the . . . thing, directly in front of me, half buried in a vast pit. Must have struck with terrific force. The ground is covered with splinters of a tree it must have struck on its way down. What I can see of the . . . object itself doesn't look very much like a meteor, at least not the meteors I've seen. It looks more like a huge cylinder. It has a diameter of . . . what would you say, Professor Pierson?

PIERSON (OFF): About thirty yards.

PHILLIPS: About thirty yards . . . The metal on the sheath is . . . well, I've never seen anything like it. The color is sort of yellowish-white. Curious spectators now are pressing close to the object in spite of the efforts of the police to keep them back. They're getting in front of my line of vision. Would you mind standing on one side, please.

COP: One side, there. One side!

PHILLIPS: I wish I could convey ing up. The crowd falls back. They've seen enough. This is the most extraordinary experience. I can't find words . . . I'm pulling this microphone with me as I talk. I'll have to stop the description until I've taken a new position. Hold on, will you please, I'll be back in a minute.

(FADE INTO PIANO.)

ANNOUNCER: We are bringing you an eye-witness account of what's happening on the Wilmuth farm, Grovers Mill, New Jersey.

(MORE PIANO.)

We now return you to Carl Phillips at Grovers Mill.

PHILLIPS: Ladies and gentlemen (am I on?), ladies and gentlemen, here I am, back of a stone wall that adjoins Mr. Wilmuth's garden. From here I get a sweep of the whole scene. I'll give you every detail as long as I can talk. As long as I can see. More state police have arrived. They're drawing up a cordon in front of the pit, about thirty of them. No need to push the crowd back now. They're willing to keep their distance. The captain is conferring with someone. We can't quite see who. Oh yes, I believe it's Professor Pierson. Yes, it is. Now they've parted. The Professor moves around one side, studying the object, while the captain and two policemen advance with something in their hands. I can see it now. It's a white handkerchief tied to a pole . . . a flag of truce. If those creatures know what that means . . . what anything means! . . . Wait! Something's happening!

(HISSING SOUND FOLLOWED BY A HUMMING THAT INCREASES IN INTENSITY.)

A humped shape is rising out of the pit. I can make out a small beam of light against a mirror. What's that? There's a jet of flame springing from that mirror, and it leaps right at the advancing men. It strikes them head on! Good Lord, they're turning into flame!

(SCREAMS AND UNEARTHLY SHRIEKS.)

Now the whole field's caught fire. (EXPLOSION.) The woods . . . the barns . . . the gas tanks of automobiles . . . it's spreading everywhere. It's coming this way. About twenty yards to my right . . .

(CRASH OF MICROPHONE . . . THEN DEAD SILENCE . . .)

ANNOUNCER: Ladies and gentlemen, due to circumstances beyond our control, we are unable to continue the broadcast from Grovers Mill. Evidently there's some difficulty with our field transmission. However, we will return to that point at the earliest opportunity. In the meantime, we have a late bulletin from San Diego, California. Professor Indelkoffer, speaking at a dinner of the California Astronomical Society, expressed the opinion that the explosions on Mars are undoubtedly nothing more than severe volcanic disturbances on the surface of the planet. We continue now with our piano interlude.

(PIANO . . . THEN CUT.)

Ladies and gentlemen, I have just been handed a message that came in from Grovers Mill by telephone. Just a moment. At least forty people, including six state troopers, lie dead in a field east of the village of Grovers Mill, their bodies burned and distorted beyond all possible recognition. The next voice you hear will be that of Brigadier General Montgomery Smith, Commander of the State Militia at Trenton, New Jersey.

SMITH: I have been requested by the Governor of New Jersey to place the counties of Mercer and Middlesex as far west as Princeton, and east to Jamesburg, under martial law. No one will be permitted to enter this area except by special pass issued by state or military authorities. Four companies of State Militia are proceeding from Trenton to Grovers Mill, and will aid in the evacuation of homes within the range of military operations. Thank you.

ANNOUNCER: You have just been listening to General Montgomery Smith commanding the State Militia at Trenton. In the meantime, further details of the catastrophe at Grovers Mill are coming in. The strange creatures, after unleashing their deadly assault, crawled back in their pit and made no attempt to prevent the efforts of the firemen to recover the bodies and extinguish the fire. Combined fire departments of Mercer County are fighting the flames, which menace the entire countryside.

We have been unable to establish any contact with our mobile unit at Grovers Mill, but we hope to be able to return you there at the earliest possible moment. In the meantime we take you—uh, just one moment, please.

(LONG PAUSE.) (WHISPER.)

Ladies and gentlemen, I have just been informed that we have finally established communication with an eye-witness of the tragedy. Professor Pierson has been located at a farmhouse near Grovers Mill where he has established an emergency observation post. As a scientist, he will give you his explanation of the calamity. The next voice you hear will be that of Professor Pierson, brought to you by direct wire. Professor Pierson.

PIERSON: Of the creatures in the rocket cylinder at Grovers Mill, I can give you no authoritative information—either as to their nature, their origin, or their purposes here on earth. Of their destructive instrument, I might venture some conjectural explanation. For want of a better term, I shall refer to the mysterious weapon as a heat-ray. It's all too evident that these creatures have scientific knowledge far in advance of our own. It is my guess that in some way they are able to generate an intense heat in a chamber of practically absolute nonconductivity. This intense heat they project in a parallel beam against any object they choose, by gentlemen, we have a special statement from Mr. Harry McDonald, vice president in charge of operations.

(Talks are then made by McDonald, stating all radio has been turned over to the State Militia. A Captain Lansing of the Signal Corps states that the situation is well in hand. His troops are advancing, seven thousand strong, against the handful of invaders and their metal cask. He concludes:)

LANSING: But wait. I see something on top of the cylinder. It's something moving . . . solid metal . . . kind of a shieldlike affair rising up out of the cylinder. It's going higher and higher. Why, it's standing on legs . . . actually rearing up on a sort of metal framework. Now it's reaching above the trees and the searchlights are on it. Hold on.

(There follows further description of the battle between the Thing and the soldiers, the dreadful heat-ray, invincible. Then a break in his talk . . .)

Editor's note: The following announcement, a part of the dramatization, is probably largely responsible for the panic among certain listeners, inasmuch as persons just tuning to the broadcast would have no choice but to think that they were hearing news dispatches. The added speech by the Secretary of the Interior gave a shuddery authenticity and awfulness to the "realistic" treatment.

ANNOUNCER: Ladies and gentlemen, I have a grave announcement to make. Incredible as it may seem, both the observations of science and the evidence of our eyes lead to the inescapable assumption that those strange beings who landed in the Jersey farmlands tonight are the vanguard of an invading army from the planet Mars.

Orson Welles: "I am terribly sorry . . ."

ORSON WELLES EXPLAINS . . .

No more interesting interview was ever given than that granted to the press on Monday, Oct. 31, the day after the hoax broadcast, by Orson Welles, who played Doctor Pierson, who adapted the novel to radio, and who directs the Mercury Theater. He entered the interview room, unshaven since Saturday, eyes red from lack of sleep, read a prepared statement, and then answered questions.

Question: Were you aware of the terror such a broadcast would stir up? Answer: Definitely not. The technique I used was not original with me. It was not even new. I anticipated nothing unusual.

Question: Would you do the show over again? Answer: I won't say that I won't follow this technique again, as it is a legitimate dramatic form.

Question: When were you first aware of the trouble caused? Answer: Immediately after the broadcast was finished when people told me of the large number of phone calls received.

Welles said that at 8:38 EST, the program's producer asked him to be less facetious. As a result, he began to read his lines with more vigor. Taylor stated that he knew of audience reaction before the broadcast was over.

Question: Should you have toned down the language of the drama? Answer: No. You don't play murder in soft words.

Question: Why was the story changed to put in names of American cities and government officers. Answer: H. G. Wells used real cities in Europe, and to make the play more acceptable to American listeners we used real cities in America. Of course, I'm terribly sorry now.

means of a polished parabolic mirror of unknown composition, much as the mirror of a lighthouse projects a beam of light. That is my conjecture of the origin of the heat-ray . . .

ANNOUNCER: Thank you, Professor Pierson. Ladies and gentlemen, here is a bulletin from Trenton. It is a brief statement informing us that the charred body of Carl Phillips has been identified in a Trenton Hospital. Now here's another bulletin from Washington, D. C. Office of the director of the National Red Cross reports ten units of Red Cross emergency workers have been assigned to the headquarters of the State Militia stationed outside of Grovers Mill, New Jersey. Here's a bulletin from State Police, Princeton Junction. The fires at Grovers Mill and vicinity now under control. Scouts report all quiet in the pit, and no sign of life appearing from the mouth of the cylinder . . . And now ladies and

The battle which took place tonight at Grovers Mill has ended in one of the most startling defeats ever suffered by an army in modern times; seven thousand men armed with rifles and machine-guns pitted against a single fighting machine of the invaders from Mars. 120 known survivors. The rest strewn over the battle area from Grovers Mill to Plainsboro, crushed and trampled to death under the metal feet of the monster, or burned to cinders by its heat-ray. The monster is now in control of the middle section of New Jersey and has effectively cut the state through its center. Communication lines are down from Pennsylvania to the Atlantic Ocean. Railroad tracks are torn and service from New York to Philadelphia discontinued, except routing some of the trains through Allentown and Phoenixville. Highways to the north, south and west are clogged with frantic human traffic. Police and army reserves are unable to control the mad flight. By morning the fugitives will have swelled Philadelphia, Camden and Trenton, it is estimated, to twice their normal population. At this time martial law prevails throughout New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania. We take you now to Washington for a special broadcast on the national emergency . . . the Secretary of the Interior . . .

SECRETARY: Citizens of the nation. I shall not try to conceal the gravity of the situation that confronts the country, nor the concern of your government in protecting the lives and property of its people. However, I wish to impress upon you—private citizens and public officials, all of you—the urgent need of calm and resourceful action. Fortunately, this formidable enemy is still confined to a comparatively small area, and we may place our faith in the military forces to keep them there. In the meantime, placing our faith in God, we must continue the performance of our duties each and every one of us, so that we may confront this destructive adversary with a nation united, courageous, and consecrated to the preservation of human supremacy on this earth. I thank you.

ANNOUNCER: You have just heard the Secretary of the Interior speaking from Washington. Bulletins too numerous to read are piling up in the studio here. We are informed that the central portion of New Jersey is blacked out from radio communication due to the effect of the heat-ray upon power lines and electrical equipment. Here is a special bulletin from New York. Cables received from English, French, German scientific bodies offering assistance. Astronomers report continued gas outbursts at regular intervals on planet Mars. Majority voice opinion that enemy will be reinforced by additional rocket machines. Attempts made to locate Professor Pierson of Princeton, who has observed Martians at close range. It is feared he was lost in recent battle. LANGHAM FIELD, VIRGINIA—Scouting planes! report three Martian machines visible above tree-tops, moving north towards Summerville with population fleeing ahead of them. Heat-ray not in use. Although advancing at express-train speed, invaders pick their way carefully. They seem to be making conscious effort to avoid destruction of cities and countryside. However, they stop to uproot power lines, bridges, and railroad tracks. Their apparent objective is to crush resistance, paralyze communication, and disorganize human society.

Here is a bulletin from Basking Ridge, New Jersey—Coon-hunters have stumbled on a second cylinder, similar to the first, embedded in the great swamp twenty miles south of Morristown. U. S. Army field-pieces are proceeding from Newark to blow up second invading unit before cylinder can be opened and the fighting machine rigged. They are taking up position in the foothills of Watchung Mountains. Another bulletin from Langham Field, Virginia—Scouting planes report enemy machines, now three in number, increasing speed northward, kicking over houses and trees in their evident haste to form a conjunction with their allies south of Morristown. Machines also sighted by telephone operator east of Middlesex, within ten miles of Plainfield. Here's a bulletin from Winston Field, Long Island—Fleet of army bombers carrying heavy explosives flying north in pursuit of enemy. Scouting planes act as guides. They keep speeding enemy in sight. Just a moment, please. Ladies and gentlemen, we've run special wires to the artillery line in adjacent villages to give you direct reports in the zone of the advancing enemy. First we take you to the battery of the 22nd Field Artillery, located in the Watchung Mountains.

(Listeners hear an officer giving directions to a gunner as they fire at the Martians. The Martians reply with gas which routes the army. Next voice is that of an army aviator in a plane off Bayonne, New Jersey. He is in command of eight bombers. They sight the enemy and wheel to attack. The Martians spray them with flame, annihilating them. The play switches to various radio operators giving news of the attack, news of the Martians advancing on New York, then fades to an announcer back in New York.)

ANNOUNCER: I'm speaking from the roof of Broadcasting Building, New York City. The bells you hear are ringing to warn the people to evacuate the city as the Martians approach. Estimated in last two hours, three million people have moved out along the roads to the north Hutchison River Parkway, still kept open for motor traffic. Avoid bridges to Long Island . . . hopelessly jammed. All communication with Jersey shore closed ten minutes ago. No more defenses. Our army wiped out . . . artillery, air force, everything wiped out. This may be the last broadcast. We'll stay here to the end . . . People are holding service below us . . . in the cathedral.

(VOICES SINGING HYMN.)
Now I look down the harbor. All manner of boats, overloaded with fleeing population, pulling out from docks.

(SOUND OF BOAT WHISTLES.)
Streets are all jammed. Noise in crowds like New Year's Eve in city. Wait a minute . . . Enemy now in sight above the Palisades. Five great machines. First one is crossing river. I can see it from here, wading the Hudson like a man wading through a brook . . . A bulletin's handed me . . . Martian cylinders are falling all over the country. One outside Buffalo, one in Chicago, St. Louis . . . seem to be timed and spaced . . . Now the first machine reaches the shore. He stands watching, looking over the city. His steel, cowl-like head is even with the skyscrapers. He waits for the others. They rise like a line of new towers on the city's West Side . . . Now they're lifting their metal hands. This is the end now. Smoke comes out . . . black smoke, drifting over the city. People in the streets see it now. They're running towards the East River . . . thousands of them, dropping in like rats. Now the smoke's spreading faster. It's reached Times Square. People trying to run away from it, but it's no use. They're falling like flies. Now the smoke's crossing Sixth Avenue . . . Fifth Avenue . . . 100 yards away . . . it's fifty feet . . .

VOICE OF RADIO OPERATOR:
2X2L calling CQ. 2X2L calling CQ. 2X2L calling CQ . . . New York. Isn't there anyone on the air? Isn't there anyone . . . 2X2L—

(MIDDLE BREAK)

ANNOUNCER: You are listening to a CBS presentation of Orson Welles and the Mercury Theater on the Air in an original dramatization of "The War of the Worlds" by H. G. Wells. The performance will continue after a brief intermission.

This is the COLUMBIA . . . BROADCASTING SYSTEM.

ANNOUNCER: "The War of the Worlds" by H. G. Wells, starring Orson Welles and the Mercury Theater on the Air . . .

(MUSIC.)

Editor's note: At this point, after approximately thirty minutes of broadcasting, the mischief had been done. Listeners were in panic, police stations were besieged, eastern telephone exchanges were jammed, New Jersey highways were a shambles. Not in our time has any misunderstanding spread with such prairie-fire rapidity. From this time on, sensible listeners were quick to perceive that the words they were hearing was not news but fiction. Because of its interest, we continue the story to its end in condensed form.

PIERSON: As I set down these notes on paper, I'm obsessed by the thought that I may be the last living man on earth. I have been hiding in this empty house near Grovers Mill—a small island of daylight cut off by the black smoke from the rest of the world. I look down at my blackened hands, my torn shoes, my tattered clothes, and I try to connect them with a professor who lives at Princeton and who on the night of October 20, glimpsed through his telescope an orange splash of light on a distant planet. In writing down my daily life I tell myself I shall preserve human history between the dark covers of this little book . . . But to write I must live, and to live I must eat . . . I find moldy bread in the kitchen, and an orange not too spoiled to swallow. I keep watch at the window. From time to time I catch sight of a Martian above the black smoke.

Exhausted by terror, I fall asleep . . . It's morning. Sun streams in the window. The black cloud of gas has lifted. I venture from the house. No traffic. Here and there a wrecked car. I push on north. Next day I came to a city vaguely familiar in its contours, yet its buildings strangely dwarfed and levelled off, as if a giant had sliced off its highest towers with a capricious sweep of his hand. I found Newark, undemolished but humbled by some whim of the advancing Martians. Presently, with an odd feeling of being watched, I caught sight of something crouching in a doorway. I made a step towards it, and it rose up and became a man—a man, armed with a large knife.

STRANGER: Stop . . . Where did you come from?

PIERSON: I come from . . . many places. A long time ago from Princeton. Have you seen any Martians?

STRANGER: They've gone over to New York. At night the sky is alive with their lights. Just as if people were still living in it. By daylight you can't see them. Five days ago a couple of them carried something big across the flats from the airport. I believe they're learning how to fly.

PIERSON: Then it's all over with humanity. Stranger, there's still you and I. Two of us left.

(They talk, the professor and the stranger. The stranger is an ex-artilleryman. He has thought it all out. He realizes that men don't know enough to fight the Martians but they can learn. He outlines his plans to live underground in the subways and in the tunnels where the Martians cannot find them, studying, learning. Then, when he gets enough good men together, they'll steal some of the Martians' own machines and turn the heat-ray guns on the Martians and wipe them out. But Professor Pierson wants none of that plan. He walks on through Holland Tunnel, under the Hudson, and arrives in New York City.)

H. G. Wells: "I did not give permission . . ."

I reached Fourteenth Street, and there again were black powder and several bodies, and an evil, ominous smell from the gratings of the cellars of some of the houses. I wandered up through the Thirties and Forties; I stood alone on Times Square. I caught sight of a lean dog running down Seventh Avenue with a piece of dark-brown meat in his jaws, and a pack of starving mongrels at his heels. He made a wide circle around me, as though he feared

OPINIONS

"The United States must be the laughing-stock of Europe today. To populations who have really been endangered by air-raids or the immediate threat of air-raids, it will be to laugh that countless Americans were driven into a panic by a make-believe radio dramatization of an H. G. Wells gas attack on this planet by the Martians."—Dorothy Dunbar Bromley, columnist.

" . . . I doubt that anything of the sort would have happened four or five months ago. The course of world history has affected national psychology. Jitters have come to roost. We have just gone through a laboratory demonstration of the fact that the peace of Munich hangs heavy over our heads, like a thundercloud . . . if many sane citizens believed that Mars had jumped us suddenly they were not quite as silly as they seemed."—Heywood Brown, columnist.

"Radio has no more right to present programs like that than someone has in knocking on our door and screaming . . . Programs like that are an excellent indication of the inadequacy of our present control over a marvelous facility."—Senator Clyde L. Herring of Iowa.

"I withhold final judgment until later. But a broadcast that creates such general panic and fear as this one is reported to have done is, to say the least, regrettable. The widespread public reaction to this broadcast as indicated by the press is another demonstration of the power and force of radio and points out again the serious public responsibility of those who are licensed to operate stations."—Frank R. McNinch, Chairman, Federal Communications Commission.

"It is not too much to say that the whole performance was monstrous and cruel. Certainly it was a monumental piece of bad judgment."—The New York Herald-Tribune.

"This incident illustrates the need for radio being in the hands of persons with proper judgment, proper perspective of the fitness of things in the fine sense of the qualities of broadcasting programs."—Eugene O. Sykes of the Federal Communications Commission.

"If so many people could be misled unintentionally, when the purpose was merely to entertain, what could designing politicians not do through control of broadcasting stations? The dictators of Europe use radio to make their people believe falsehoods. We want nothing like that here. Better have American radio remain free to make occasional blunders than start on a course that might, in time, deprive it of freedom to broadcast uncensored truth . . ."—The New York World-Telegram.

"Utmost caution should be utilized to avoid the danger of the commission censoring what shall and shall not be said over the radio. Furthermore, it is my opinion that the commission should proceed carefully in order that it will not discourage the presentation of the dramatic arts. It is essential that we encourage radio to make use of the dramatic arts and the artists of this country. The public does not want a spineless radio. It is also my opinion that, in any case, isolated incidents of poor program service do not of necessity justify the revocation of a station's license, particularly when such station has an otherwise excellent record of good public service. I do not include in this category, however, criminal action by broadcasting station licensees."—T. A. M. Craven of the Federal Communications Commission.

I might prove a fresh competitor. I walked up Broadway in the direction of that strange powder—past silent shop windows, displaying their mute wares to empty sidewalks—past the Capitol Theatre, silent, dark—past a shooting-gallery, where a row of empty guns faced an arrested line of wooden ducks. Near Columbus Circle I noticed models of 1939 motor cars in the show-rooms facing empty streets. From over the top of the General Motors Building, I watched a flock of black birds circling in the sky. I hurried on. Suddenly I caught sight of the hood of a Martian machine, standing somewhere in Central Park, gleaming in the late afternoon sun. An insane idea! I rushed recklessly across Columbus Circle and into the park. I climbed a small hill above the pond at 60th Street. From there I could see, standing in a silent row along the Mall, nineteen of those great metal Titans, their cowls empty, their steel arms hanging listlessly by their sides. I looked in vain for the monsters that inhabit those machines. Suddenly my eyes were attracted to the immense flock of black birds that hovered directly below me. They circled to the ground, and there before my eyes, stark and silent, lay the Martians, with the hungry birds pecking and tearing brown shreds of flesh from their dead bodies. Later, when their bodies were examined in laboratories, it was found that they were killed by the putrefactive and disease bacteria against which their systems were unprepared . . . slain after all man's defenses had failed, by the humblest thing that God in his wisdom put upon this earth.

Before the cylinder fell there was a general persuasion that through all the deep of space no life existed beyond the petty surface of our minute sphere. Now we see further. Dim and wonderful is the vision I have conjured up in my mind of life spreading slowly from this little seed-bed of the solar system throughout the inanimate vastness of sidereal space. But that is a remote dream. It may be, that the destruction of the Martians is only a reprieve. To them, and not to us is the future ordained perhaps.

Strange it now seems to sit in my peaceful study at Princeton writing down this last chapter of the record begun at a deserted farm in Grovers Mill. Strange to see from my window the university spires dim and blue through an April haze. Strange to watch children playing in the streets. Strange to see young people strolling on the green, where the new spring grass heals the last black scars of a bruised earth. Strange to watch the sight-seers enter the museum where the dissembled parts of a Martian machine are kept on public view.

WELLES: This is Orson Welles, ladies and gentlemen, out of character to assure you that the WAR OF THE WORLDS has no further significance than as the holiday offering it was intended to be. The Mercury Theater's own radio version of dressing up in a sheet and jumping out of a bush and saying Boo! Starting now, we couldn't soap all your windows and steal all your garden gates by tomorrow night . . . so we did the best next thing. We annihilated the world before your very ears and utterly destroyed the Columbia Broadcasting System. You will be relieved, I hope, to learn that we didn't mean it, and that both institutions are still open for business. So good-by, everybody, and remember, please, for the next day or so, the terrible lesson you learned tonight. That grinning, glowing, globular invader of your living-room is an inhabitant of the pumpkin patch, and if your doorbell rings and nobody's there, that was no Martian . . . it's Hallowe'en.

(CLOSING)

ANNOUNCER: Tonight the Columbia Broadcasting System, and its affiliated stations Coast to Coast, has brought you "The War of the Worlds" by H. G. Wells . . . the seventeenth in its weekly series of dramatic broadcasts featuring Orson Welles and the Mercury Theater on the Air.

HIGHLIGHTS

PREVIEWS OF SOME OF THIS

—Ted Allen

Academy Award winner Luise Rainer will appear in "Tovarich" on "Hollywood Hotel" Friday

THE PLAY'S THE THING

Let's look at the histrionic highlights:

Sunday: NBC's "Great Plays" series presents "A Midsummer Night's Dream" in mid-winter. Only Shakespeare's genius could do that. Do you believe in fairies? The Bard of Avon did, and what's sauce for his goose-quill is worth a gander (he liked slang, too!). Even if you don't believe in fairies, you probably agree with other readers of Shakespeare that this play is his piece de resistance for fancy and frolic, drollery and romance, and Bottom is tops for humorous asininity. This is a Puck production.

Sunday: Helen Hayes has been a star for quite some time without variation from her orbit. She should be and is well able to play "Stars in Their Courses," by I. A. R. Wylie. The play will be in two parts, with Miss Hayes appearing both this week and next on the "Silver Theater" program. One of the most distinguished of stage personalities and an accomplished screen actress, Miss Hayes is also considered an outstanding radio performer, so much can be expected of this duo-drama. Orson Welles, who recently precipitated, unintentionally, a storm of "stars out of their courses," may act as m.c.

Sunday: This same Orson Welles and his Mercury Theater troupe will present this week on CBS Charles Dickens' "Pickwick Papers," based especially on the famous courtroom episode. Young Welles has won an unprecedented dramatic recognition, and testimonial of his ability as a director and actor to attain astonishing realism is the nation-wide near-panic which resulted from his too-real presentation of H. G. Wells' "War of the Worlds" two weeks ago. "Pickwick Papers" should cause no such reverberations, but will be no less realistic, for Welles is at his best in classical portrayals.

Thursday: Hang your horseshoe over the door, kiss your rabbits-foot, and run out and pick a four-leaf clover from the lawn. Now relax by the radio and listen to "Columbia Workshop's" dramatization of "Luck." This is Wilbur Daniel Steele's prize-winning short story, adapted by himself for the Workshop's experimental style of radio production. The setting is in the North Woods, where men are men and card-cheaters are handled roughly. The villain is discovered playing dirty. He devises a scheme to get revenge on the man who exposed him. Does his plan prove successful or does his ace in the hole drag him into the hole? Tune in this week and find out.

Friday: Luise Rainer, the little dramatic dynamo who has twice won the Academy Award and been acclaimed on two continents, is European-born, has played roles of many nationalities—French, Austrian, Chinese and others—and likes American apple pie. Joseph Calleia was born in Malta, is part Spanish, part Italian, part German and part English, did Scotch comedy for a while and now does typically American roles on the screen. Miss Rainer and Mr. Calleia now appear together on "Hollywood Hotel" in the Russian "Tovarich."

AMERICAN SAINT Sunday, NBC

The first beatification of an American citizen will be broadcast Sunday from the Vatican, the world's largest private residence. Impressive religious services attending the elevating to sainthood of Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini, including specially written music sung by the Sistine Chapel Choir, will be heard over NBC. Although born in Italy, Mother Cabrini was a naturalized American citizen, devoting her entire life to the care and aid of young girls. After an exhaustive study of her life and good deeds, the honors of sainthood have been conferred upon Mother Cabrini twenty years after her death.

(As we go to press, exact time of broadcast is not available.)

IDYLLS OF THE AIR Sunday, NBC

King Arthur's Round Table may be the oldest such conclave of chivalry—but avault there, our doughty knights! The University of Chicago Round Table claims to be the oldest large-scale educational feature in radio. And just as the gallant Launcelot and Galahad went forth to combat the foes of virtue, so the intrepid professors resolutely and earnestly combat the evil forces that beset our society and its economic ramparts. Carried by a half-hundred stations to an audience of well over a million listeners, this three-way informal discussion of vital problems avoids dogma and bias, seeking to draw spontaneously the listeners along with them into the under-surface currents of thought. This week the featured speaker is Lord Russell, distinguished English philosopher and author, who will join with T. V. Smith and Paul H. Douglas of the university faculty in an exciting joust: "Taming Economic Power."

Sunday, CBS

Does the word "immigrant" fall from your lips with contempt? Just remember: Where would you be if there had been no immigrants to America? Do you think of all incoming foreigners as tramps, gangsters and spies? Remember: Your father or your grandfather or somebody farther back was an immigrant. Do you consider all immigrants worthless and disloyal? Did you ever hear of Edward Bok, Carl Schurz or Albert Einstein? A new series called "Americans All—Immigrants All" is being inaugurated by CBS with a view to broadening and deepening the understanding, tolerance and respect of immigrants from all over the world by telling the full story of some of their contributions. Out of the picturesque history of our United States will be built the drama of deeds, written by Gilbert Seldes, brilliant author and critic. Shall we listen and learn to be lenient?

"Hello, operator, can you tell me the name of that swell quiz program on the air tonight?" "One moment, please, I'll give you information." "That's it—'Information, Please'—thanks for tipping me off." "Thank you for reminding me. I want to hear it myself." And don't we all? This unusual question-and-answer program—unusual because it puts experts on the spot—has captured the fancy of a public already somewhat sated with quizzes, and has won its spurs by selling itself to a commercial sponsor, starting this week. The learned but lively session, where intellect and entertainment meet each other half-way and sense and nonsense mingle in blithe abandon, boasts in its line-up Clifton Fadiman, literary editor of the New Yorker, quizzier; the noted columnist F. P. A. and John Kieran of the New York Times, regular quizees, and prominent guest experts. Here is real meat wrapped in red cellophane.

KNUDSEN BOLTS Tuesday, MBS

America rolls into 1939 on the wheels of the finest cars ever to flatter the highways and flaunt the by-ways. On the seven-league tires of the automotive industry prosperity takes one more stride in our general direction, and our pulses of hope quicken just a bit to match the tempo of the wheels that are whirling at least for the present. Bigger assembly-lines mean smaller bread-lines. So, when William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors, and Richard C. Patterson, Assistant Secretary of State, speak at the international dinner for visitors to the National Auto Show in New York, they will have more than after-dinner trifles to speak about. The story of the glorified nuts and bolts is music to our ears as well as a treat to our eyes.

SHOW US, BARNEY Thursday, NBC

If something in the way of extreme static envelops your receiving-set during the "Valley Variety Hour" this week, don't be alarmed. It won't really be static and it won't be a Man of Mars. It will be only a scissor-bill from Thunderbolt, Missouri, with a plain terrestrial name—Barney Grant. (A scissor-bill is a hillbilly who can read—unless proved otherwise.) Barney was born twenty-seven years ago in Missouri of a theatrical family who in vaudeville billed themselves as "The Youngers." Now Barney has scissor-billed himself into a radio spotlight trial. If the flash from "down thar" in Thunderbolt strikes us listeners in the funnybone, let's give him a thunderclap.

"Can't be bothered now, brother, I'm on my way to 'America's Town Meeting' to discuss 'How Can the American Nations Cooperate for World Peace?'" Gracious, that fellow should go to the Town Meeting and learn a more American method. Doesn't he realize that he fell right in with the Japanese method, the Nazi method, the Fascist method? Who knows, maybe the consensus of the Town Meeting participants will be that America should step on a few toes. You can't tell in a wide-open forum. But you can depend on it that there won't be a dull or a dolorous minute when the speakers, the prodders, the hecklers, and the talking-listening groups all get together for a verbal jam session. The speakers will be Edward Tomlinson, authority on South America; Maj. George Fielding Eliot, former member of the U. S. Military Intelligence Reserve, and Charles G. Fenwick, professor of political science at Bryn Mawr.

AUTO SUGGESTION Thursday, CBS

"35,000 Auto Workers Recalled to Jobs." All of us undoubtedly widened our eyes and said "Good!" when that headline and other similar ones confronted us recently. And the auto worker himself probably said "Good!" with a couple of forceful adjectives. Why not? For our buzz-buggies are their bread and butter as well as a substantial course in the nation's economic diet. We who do not know would surely like to know how they slap our jalopies together. We'll have a good chance to sample the assembly-line when the "Americans at Work" program brings workers from the auto factory assembly-lines to the microphone to tell how they turn steel and rubber to dream chariots.

IN ORDER to enrich the fading solo repertoire of the cello, Gaspar Cassado, forty-year-old Spanish cellist (pupil of the preeminent Casals), has rearranged for his instrument several classical compositions originally composed for other mediums.

The refurbishing of the Schubert pages, however, is not far removed from that creator's basic intention, for the "Concerto" which Cassado devised was at first a sonata for arpeggione—an arpeggione being a sort of guitar-cello played with a bow, on a fretted keyboard of five strings. The instrument now is obsolete, more's the joy!

Joseph Schuster, thirty-three-year-old Russian, has made a rapid career since coming to America in 1934, for in 1936 he attained to the first cello desk of the Philharmonic. As a performer, his leading qualities are musicianly style, sureness of technic and full tone of fine texture.

HERRMANN takes the trouble to compile a piquant roster and spice it with a soloist of high worth.

Vera Brodsky, young New York pianist, should establish herself as an ideal Mozart interpreter, because of her musical insight, refinements of tone and graces of delivery and technic. This A Major Concerto, composed five years before Mozart's death, is perfect writing, gay, lightly sentimental, spirited and consistently melodious.

"... An ampler Ether, a diviner Air..."—Wordsworth

When the Mighty Meet

"FAMOUS MUSICAL EVENINGS," featuring the Columbia Concert Orchestra and soloists directed by Bernard Herrmann, are doing re-created musical events drawn accurately from history. Each program is devoted to a concert given in one of the famous music halls or salons, or courts of Europe, with continuity centering on the "presence" of an important personage.

The undertaking probably includes the eventful musical meetings of Bach and Frederick the Great, Mozart and Marie Antoinette; Liszt and Chopin; Johann Strauss premiering his "Blue Danube" for the Emperor of Austria, and perhaps a court concert of Cherubini music before Napoleon I—with the two quarreling about the program.

Males to the Fore

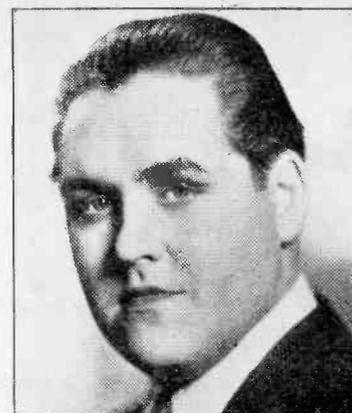

Ungallant as it may seem, truth forces me to report that at the October 30 Metropolitan Auditions of the Air, again a male vocalist stood out as the best on the program. He is Edmond Boucher, basso, with rotund tones expertly employed and musical feeling convincingly emphasized.

Ego in Art

A Florida lady's letter chides the many broadcast "special arrangements" which tastelessly distort some of the great compositions. The complainant's objection is echoed also by other persons who have been writing bitterly to the New York newspapers and voicing horror at "jungled clarinets" and "savage saxophones" in arrangements of the classics. Arrangements, transcriptions and adaptations are not in themselves reprehensible, but their degree of merit stands in proportion to the reverence and taste displayed in the treatment of the composer's intentions and material. For the refashioner to superimpose upon them his own ideas is an act of vain and unpardonable effrontery. The best arrangers, transcribers and adapters are merely the best tonal translators, as witness such artistic retouchings from the pens of Bach, Brahms, Schumann, Liszt, Busoni, Stokowski, Respighi and Godowsky.

Italian composer, fathered many operas, and had the added distinction to figure long after his death in a poem by Browning.

John Blow (1648-1708), another dignified master from the shadowy past, preceded the illustrious Henry Purcell as organist at Westminster Abbey and returned to that post after the latter's early death.

Benjamin Britten represents the youth of today. Born 1913 in Lowestoft, England, he has already issued a number of part-songs, and symphonic and chamber-music compositions.

"Rossiniana" offers Rossini themes skilfully bouqueted by the late Respighi.

TENOR Bjoerling, whose resplendent success on the air last year won him a contract with the Metropolitan for this season, chooses no sensational display arias tonight, but confines himself to numbers requiring chiefly taste and feeling.

Of course, he would not be a real operatic tenor if he altogether omitted the chance to register with at least one of his thrilling top tones, and so in the excerpt from "Faust" we find him mounting to high C near the end of the lovely piece of music rhapsodizing innocent Marguerite.

Iturbi pays tribute to his native land by listing two brilliant Spanish proclamations. "Goyescas," one-act tragic opera (based on pictures by Goya), had its world premiere at the Metropolitan Opera in 1916. The original manuscript score of the work is in the Museum of the Hispanic Society in New York.

Ride of the Valkyries

THE program for the kiddies (I hope they won't be offended at the title, for I too shall be listening) is a real tribute to their intelligence. Ordinarily, a Wagner bill is considered musical food only for elders.

Uncle Ernie Schelling will be telling us the stories of the works; all about the unfortunate Dutchman condemned to roam the seas forever and how he was released; the gorgeous pageant attending the marriage of the lovely Elsa to the magical knight in shining armor; the devout "Tannhaeuser" pilgrims on their holy travels; the mischievous "Meistersinger" apprentices who danced even in church; the valorous Siegfried setting forth on his prodigious deeds of bravery; the sufferings of Tristan, who died because he loved too well; and the band of heroic Valkyries, riding their magical horses through the skies.

What would Wagner say, I wonder, could he know that his works, once a puzzle to even erudite musicians, now is offered to some auditors not yet graduated from the nursery?

Arturo Toscanini, conductor

Overture "Manfred" (Schumann)
"Reformation" Symphony (Mendelssohn)

Love Scene from "Romeo and Juliet"
(Berlioz)

Two Dances from "William Tell"
(Rossini)

AT THIS hour the stimulative signor is not blazing any universal favorites across the ether, as he did recently with his unforgettable versions of Tchaikowsky's "Pathetique" and Dvorak's "New World."

Schumann's highly romantic "Manfred" music (sixteen incidental numbers in all) illustrates Byron's drama of the same name and was given an 1852 premiere in Weimar. The overture, a picturesque and polished piece of writing, has outlived the rest of the score. Manfred is characterized by a vehement theme, Astarte by a plaintive one. The finale suggests the death of the hero.

Deeply attached to Rossini, Toscanini gives him abiding attention. The fragments from "William Tell" are lesser moments in the opera with which the composer closed his stage career at the age of thirty-seven. He retired partly because of the resounding triumphs of his rival Meyerbeer in Paris. However, history often moves strangely, and while Meyerbeer has almost disappeared from the boards, Rossini holds steady place there with his "Barber of Seville."

Special Concerts Offered At Regular Matinee Hour

A UNIFORM daily hour at which one may go to the loudspeaker and be sure of a concert of high-class music is a welcome offering on the part of CBS. Six days a week, at 3 p.m. EST (2 CST; 1 MST; 12 noon PST), a period called the "Music Hour," featuring fine compositions performed by orchestras, bands, smaller instrumental groups and soloists, is being presented just now.

On Mondays come the familiar Curtis Institute programs, extended to an hour, and a novel feature is the commentation by students from the class of Music Criticism. Here is the chance for youngsters to shame us old-time commentators.

Tuesdays the first half-hour brings "The Story of the Song," with modern English examples on November 15. The rest of the hour reverts to higher spheres, with guest chamber ensembles in standard string quartets. On irregular Tuesdays, however, that scheme gives way to the Cincinnati Orchestra's concerts for children.

Wednesdays, during a full hour, we meet the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, led by Fabien Sevitzyk, starting November 23 and continuing to December 28. On other Wednesdays there are "Keyboard Concerts" (for piano and harpsichord) and "Exploring Music," its orchestra conducted either by Howard Barlow or Bernard Herrmann, and disclosing unusual ancient and modern works.

Thursdays, enter the United States Marine or Army Band for thirty minutes, followed for the rest of the period by a "pop" orchestral concert under the Barlow baton.

Fridays, and again the Marine or Army Band, dividing the hour with the Columbia Chamber Orchestra (Bernard Herrmann) in old and new music for strings.

Sundays are doubly generous, with two hours by the Philharmonic and Barbirolli.

WHAT about Saturdays? Currently the afternoons resound to the unmelodious voices of the football criers, so we move to the earlier hours and get the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music concerts, to be succeeded November 19 by the series of six New York Philharmonic Young People's Concerts.

Of course the evenings are not neglected by CBS, with the familiar "Everybody's Music" (now heard Wednesday evenings), the new "Famous Musical Evenings," and the Ford Sunday Evening Hour.

Young People's Concerts Resumed by Philharmonic

A WARM welcome awaits Ernest Schelling when he steps onto the Carnegie Hall stage in New York on November 19 to conduct the first of the annual six New York Philharmonic Young People's Concerts which illness compelled him to delegate to Rudolph Ganz last season.

The youthful auditors will greet an "Uncle Ernie" fully restored to health, and their gratification will be shared by his Philharmonic players.

Now in their sixteenth year, these concerts as heretofore offer education in the pleasant guise of entertainment and the prospectus promises that "good music is to go hand in hand with good fun." Colored stereopticon slides show appropriate pictures, and at the end of the season suitable prizes are awarded to the listeners who have written the best note-books.

As exciting extra attractions for the 1938-39 concerts, Uncle Ernie dangles before his devoted followers the prospect of a gala Christmas festival: special Mendelssohn and Wagner programs; an entire Beethoven symphony with its separate movements done at different concerts; and one session explaining orchestral instruments and showing their role in the development of symphony.

MOST of the major American orchestras have adopted the idea of concerts for younger hearers, and what that means in the way of creating future intelligent concert audiences hardly needs any reminder.

NEW YORK.—Orson Welles' too realistic broadcast of "War of the Worlds" caused a last-minute cancellation of a broadcast that had been in preparation for weeks, because CBS wasn't taking any more chances. It was called "Spooks, Inc.," and was scheduled to be broadcast from a haunted house at midnight on Hallowe'en. Announcer Charles Stark and his colleague, John Reed King, were all set to do the program after collaborating on the material for days. CBS had inserted an ad in the New York World-Telegram stating they wanted to rent a haunted house for thirty minutes. They received seventy-five replies and the house selected was one where a man had been murdered, with his body disappearing during the wake and never found.

As this column is being written, one of my secret agents reports that rehearsals for the next Orson Welles broadcast have been cancelled. If true, it just proves that all's (H. G.) Wells that ends Welles.

Seen up at "We, the People" rehearsal: Harry von Zell, announcer for the show, very busy buying neckties from a man who sells them backstage, and discussing his boat with one of the stagehands at the same time. Gabriel Heatter, deep in conversation with one of the guests of the week, the young convict who was released from a Tennessee prison under his father's care, and was subsequently pardoned by the governor. All afternoon telephone calls were going out from CBS Playhouse No. 2, the scene of the rehearsal, to the governor's mansion in Tennessee, so that the exact phraseology of the pardon signed by the governor would be correct for the broadcast. Mark Warnow, musical director of the program, sticking his head in the stage door of the Playhouse at Forty-fifth Street and saying he'd be back for rehearsal soon, but he had to rush off to the Paramount for his stage show now. The Paramount is only two blocks away, and Mark had dashed in just a few moments before he was due on the stage.

The same evening, your reporter covered three broadcasts in three different sections of the city. The first stop was at "Information, Please" in Radio City to witness the appearance of Harpo Marx on the show. Listeners on the outside report that they were built up to a terrific let-down and were very much disappointed in Marx because they expected to hear him talk and not whistle. However, to the studio audience he was slightly amusing because they could watch his facial expressions, and they seemed to get a chuckle when he took a banana out of his pocket and later a turkey-leg out of a big bag and started a private feast. It wasn't amusing to me because—I was hungry. After the broadcast was over, the audience remained in their seats to become movie actors and actresses. The Pathe News Reel was on hand and took movies showing what goes on during an "Information, Please" broadcast. Incidentally, your reporter has been taken to task by quite a few readers for suggesting "Information, Please" come down a few notches in the type of questions used. The voice of the people has been heard and therefore I admit my error. So, to "Information, Please," please stay as sweet as you are; that's what the listeners want.

Fifteen minutes later I was in another part of the town entering the CBS Playhouse to watch Benny Goodman and his band perform. When I walked into the playhouse it was full of bugs—I mean the kind with the jitters. Yes, sir, and yes, ma'am, the place was really full of jitterbugs. Announcer Dan Seymour came out on the stage a few minutes before broadcast time and welcomed the audience, whose average age didn't seem to be more than eighteen. Dan asked everyone to please refrain from feet-stamping, applauding or whistling while the band was playing because it could be heard over the air, making it difficult for the listeners at home to hear the music.

Dave Rubinoff, fully recovered from his recent illness and looking very well, was sitting in the first row at the Goodman broadcast. It was his first day back in New York, and the following Tuesday night he was scheduled to be Benny's guesstar. Dave, who has quite a reputation for being a ladies' man in these heah parts, apparently didn't waste time in contacting his old girl friends, because he had a very attractive damsel hanging onto his arm.

Next stop was at the repeat Al Jolson broadcast at midnight from the New Amsterdam Theater roof. Went backstage and found Al trying to stifle a severe cough. He brought a bad cold with him from "sunny" California. (If the California Chamber of Commerce is reading, I'm only kidding.) Nevertheless, Al was in good humor, with his friendly, informal manner, making everybody feel immediately at home. Before the show starts, he comes out in front to welcome the studio audience, sits down casually on a chair, and just chats with them for a few minutes. Al wears glasses when reading his script, and takes them off when he sings. He has each page of his script pasted on a separate piece of cardboard to prevent the pages sticking together or rustling before the sensitive mike, which means he carries quite a load on his arm. Parkyakarkus wowed the audience just by his clothes when he came in. He wears a tiny beige derby hat, much too small for him, a bright-red bow tie, and a tight-fitting jacket. Gail Patrick, the movie star, and Connie Boswell were the two guests on the show—Connie substituting for Martha Raye, who didn't come east with Jolson. Gail had a little burlesque skit with Parky, which ended by him kissing her loudly, much to the delight of the audience. Parky practically never looks at his script when he's before the mike. He carries it in his hand and glances at it only occasionally, learning his lines practically by heart beforehand.

Kilocycle Chatter:—Bob Benchley is on his way to New York to start rehearsals for his new program, which gets under way November 20. CBS producer Marty Gosch and the writers of the show are going to spend a week at Virginia Beach preparing the first few scripts . . . Ben Bernie and his lads will open an engagement at the International Casino on November 15 . . . Howard Clancy is on leave of absence from NBC and is still over in Europe, which is the reason for his not acting as commentator for the NBC Symphony series this year . . . Mr. and Mrs. Parks (Vox Pop) Johnson flew to Houston, Texas, between broadcasts last week, combining business with pleasure . . . The reason for the Vox Pop show being dominated by Notre Dame and Ohio State football players the other Saturday night was because the broadcast originated in the lobby of the McAlpin Hotel, which was the New York headquarters for the two teams . . . This Tuesday night "Johnny Presents" program is dropping the three-minute thrills and in its place listeners will hear the "Tale of a Tune" . . . Edward Roecker of the Pick and Pat show is auditioning his baritones for another sponsor.

AIRIALTO LOWDOWN

BY MARTIN LEWIS

HOLLYWOOD.—Boo! I'm the Man from Mars! While mythical meteor showers and boogy men were haunting gullible CBS listeners tuned to the Mercury Theater on Sunday, October 30, Charlie McCarthy was assisting his supporting cast (excepting the very good Nelson Eddy) to lay its second egg for the second successive week. Yessir, Charlie, you little punk, if you don't get in there fast and start pitching better ball, RADIO GUIDE's Hollywood reporter is going to start a collection to buy a nice big goose to give to your boss, Bergen, to substitute for you on his right knee. Then at least we will know the goose-eggs are genuine—for, after all, we know you can do better than you have been of late, or are you through? Betcha your cousin, Mortimer Snerd, could do better . . . and Charlie, you might tip off your Saturday night nemesis, W. C. Fields, to keep it clean and work hard to equal his first broadcast, or his last broadcast may come too soon for that feud you're planning.

The Hmmm, Hmmm Dept.: First planned as guests of the Texaco Theater November 2 airing, the appearance of the tough "Dead End Kids" was postponed because of a cold which Dead-End-er Billy Hallop was suffering. Truth is that the "cold" was really a case of the mumps! . . . We might title this "The Taming of the Shrew" or "Carole Grows Up." Anyway, Miss Lombard's rehearsals for her recent Lux Theater performance were so quiet that Cecil B. DeMille wondered if the lively Carole might be ill? It seems she only fired off a sound-effects gun and took one fling at conducting the orchestra . . . C. B., by the way, is passing the cigars for his eight-pound grandson born October 27 to his daughter Katherine, Mrs. Tony Quinn . . . Yep, honest, they're still testing to cast "Gone With the Wind." Radactress Martha Scott, of "Pepper Young's Family," was in town last week to try out for the role of Melinda, and—shhh!—Clark Gable's agent has notified the film-producers that they must start making the picture by January 9 or he won't be available as Rhet Butler. And shhh! again—you can still take long odds that Bette Davis is the best bet for Scarlett . . . Burgess Meredith confides that his jaunt to Europe emptied his pockets so thoroughly that he had to come to Hollywood again to replenish his wallet. Russia, incidentally, converted him to vodka . . . You'll never hear it, probably, but the best satire yet on commercial broadcasting is the private recording made by Joe Venuti and his pals and titled (with editing) "The Fertilizer Hour" . . . "Good News" ticked off its first anniversary November 3 by removing from the El Capitan Theater to the new NBC Hollywood Radio City studios amidst the tears of that inseparable trio of Frank Morgan, Bob Young and Fanny Brice, who now are far removed from the formerly convenient Seven Seas Cafe, where they were wont to recess for lunch and things.

Rom-Antics: Rudy Vallee arrived in Glamourtown just in time to learn that his last year's buddy and rumored "fiancee," Gloria Youngblood, has found the legal hand of lawyer Sam Woolf an able guide to night spots . . . The Frank Parker-Mitzi Green twosome, somewhat dashed by Frank's emigration to Hollywood to take over the Tony Martin Chesterfield chore, will be somewhat compensated perhaps by bandleader Abe Lyman's westward-ho plans. Abe has been phoning dancer Eleanor Powell from New York to learn, if he comes to Hollywood, will she marry him? . . . Delivered October 27 to Baby Snooks, one divorce from Billy Rose (who had one too many thorns).

Speaking of romance, that very funny fella, Bob Hope, is trying to beat Cupid's Crossley rating. Seems that Pauline Byrne and Vincent Deane, the Miss and one of the Six Hits of the Pepsodent sextet, are unhappy when apart, and Mel Shavelson, of the Hope writing-staff, is sending for his New York heart, Lucille Myers, to come west and marry him this month. 'Tis said Hope also inspired his film leading ladies, Shirley Ross and Martha Raye, to get their men. Maybe, one wag (not me) explains, it's because Bob has a Hope chest . . . And say, if you haven't listened to Hope's new Tuesday night Pepsodent series, start this week! Since Bob's October 25 broadcast, when Billie Burke was guest, the laughs have been much more than merely Hopeful.

President's son Jimmy Roosevelt, whose super-insurance business was spotlighted not long ago by a weekly magazine's article entitled "Jimmy Has It," was a surprise visitor (he thought) on the 20th Century-Fox set of comedian Jack Haley. Just as Jimmy was watching Haley in the midst of a scene in a doctor's office, Jack ad-libbed a line at the "doctor," saying, "Wait, Doc, if you're examining me for insurance, Jimmy has it!" Young Roosevelt, realizing he was being ribbed, chuckled and took it like a sport.

Backstage Stuff: At Jack Benny's late broadcast October 30: Actor Dennis O'Keefe was a front-row spectator, while hidden away in a back-row seat was 1938's greatest screen conqueror, John Garfield. Martha Raye, in the stage wings, being amused by Benny while waiting for her dress rehearsal on the Bob Hope show. Never-satisfied Jack, changing lines in the script after his eastern broadcast and before the West Coast airing to but one-tenth as many listeners. Mary Livingstone wearing her weekly smart new hat on auburn tresses a few rinses lighter than usual. Jack, entertaining the studio audience before airtime by sourly fiddling "Thanks for the Memory," and being showered by pennies, which he carefully picked up . . . At Hollywood Hotel rehearsal October 27: French crooner Jean Sablon having pronouncing trouble and drilling his tongue over such simple words as "one" and "there's" (but you should hear Plummer speak French!) . . . At Texaco Theater rehearsal October 26: Kenny Baker, in sports shirt, crawling under an electric organ to see how it works. Charlie Ruggles admiringly snapping Producer Bill (Curlilocks) Bacher's blue suspenders. Dave Broekman's tuba-player amazingly extracting a pack of cigarettes from the bell of his giant horn.

Memo to Martin (Manhattan Snooper) Lewis: If you are told by Parkyakarkus, now visiting New York, that the tall, pretty brunette with him is his secretary, believe him. She's also (as you know) his wife, Thelma Leeds. Thelma agreed to act as his secretary so that she could take in the Broadway shows . . . And if you wandered into the club car of the Century which bore Eddie Cantor to your bailiwick, you'd have seen a tiny eighty-eight-note piano. Cantor installed it on the Chief when he left here and transferred it at Chicago to the Century so that he and his cast might rehearse while rolling across the prairies. They did, and the club-car passengers had a free preview of the next Caravan.

CHICAGO.—Jeanne Juvelier, one of Chicago's finest dialecticians, is now taking the new part of the Jewish woman in "Kitty Keene." Jeanne's also Madame Babette (French) in "Arnold Grimm's Daughter," Angelina Pasquale (Italian) in "Guiding Light," and also enacts the role of the Russian woman in "The Story of Mary Marlin." Jeanne's a veritable radio league of nations . . . You're never too young to break into radio. Alice Sherry Gootkin, "Clarice Maywood" in "Those Happy Gilmans" and "Patsy Donovan" in "Captain Midnight," will be 17 years old on November 16. She graduates from John Marshall High School in February . . . Like mother, like daughters. Jeanne Spencer, Chi actress, has two daughters now doing radio work around town . . . Ken Griffin, the new James Brent in "The Road of Life," and Blair Walliser, Mutual producer, co-owners of the championship racing-boat, "Revenge," have put their craft in drydock. "Revenge" won the famed Chicago-Mackinac race last year.

Scattergood Baines

"Tell us more about Chicago's script-shows" is the general tone of the letters your Tattler receives. Here's some dope on a show that has proved so popular on the West Coast that the advertiser, a Chicago gum manufacturer, has brought it to the Windy City and expanded it Coast to Coast. The program is "Scattergood Baines." Your Tattler watched Scattergood's nation-wide debut. Leading character is Jess Pugh, a tall, lanky, gray-haired veteran radio actor. In the radio program, Scattergood Baines proves to be the same genial, old, stout storekeeper that Clarence Budington Kelland has written about in the American Magazine for the past 20 years. Ed Potts, the town garage-owner, is played by Arnold Robinson. John Hearne, at one time Moran of Moran and Mack's famous Black Crows team, ambles up to the mike to enact the role of Hypocrates Brown, Scattergood's colored and none too energetic assistant. The part of Pliny Pickett is taken by Francis (Dink) Trout. The cast was all male when I saw the show, the role of Clara Potts, the garage-owner's shrewish wife, not being in the script that day. Katherine McCune takes the part of the shrewish Mrs. Potts.

The entire above-mentioned cast was transplanted last summer from Hollywood, where the show first originated, to Chicago. I believe this is the first instance where all the leading characters of a script-show were moved from one radio center to another. When "Road of Life" moved from New York to Chicago a few weeks ago, the entire original cast was dismissed and a Chicago cast installed. Here's another Ripleyism about "Scattergood Baines." Holidays seem to exert a good-luck influence on the program. It made its debut in Hollywood on Lincoln's birthday in 1937. The show moved to Chicago on an extended list of stations last July 4. On Hallowe'en the program went Coast to Coast.

Musical Notes

Your Tattler learns that Frankie Masters leaves the "It Can Be Done" show after the first of the year. Masters has been on this Wednesday night commercial for the past year and a half and has done a bang-up job. Sponsor, to date, hasn't signed a band to replace Masters . . . Maxine Gray, Hal Kemp's vocalist while Judy Starr was recuperating, has signed a television contract with the Don Lee network. Wonder if the fact that Tommy Lee, son of Don Lee, was in town had anything to do with it? It is reported that Tommy is "that way" about Maxine. The pretty warbler headed westward following Kemp's Drake Hotel engagement. Kemp himself is now on a midwestern tour which will take him into Kansas City, Minneapolis, Indianapolis and Milwaukee before returning east in mid-December . . . Up-and-coming band is "Tiny" Hill's. Tiny, I believe, is heaviest orch-leader in the business. By actual weight, he tips—and I do mean tips—the scales at 353 pounds . . . Keep an eye peeled on Orrin Tucker's band. The outfit's going places. Tucker seems to be following in Guy Lombardo's footsteps. When the new Lady Esther maestro left the Hotel Roosevelt in New York last March, it was Tucker who succeeded him. When Guy Lombardo left Chicago's swanky Palmer House, the band replacing Guy was Orrin Tucker's. Watched the Tucker band perform at the Chicago Theater, where they proved a big hit. Tucker's femme warbler stopped the show cold. And the management of the theater told me that this same thing happened at every performance. The girl's name is Bonnie Baker. Naturalness is her greatest stock in trade. She's a sweet singer and not the swing type . . . Jan Garber returned to Chicago's Blackhawk Cafe November 10, replacing Bob Crosby, who went on tour. Bob Crosby will return to the Blackhawk on Lincoln's birthday.

THE RADIO TATTLER

BY HAL TATE

What is this attraction that two of Hal Kemp's bandmen hold for New York heiresses? 'Tis said that the real reason Suzanne Hatch, wealthy New Yorker, broke off with Enzo Fiermonte, the Italian boxer, was because of Bob Allen, good-looking baritone with the Kemp band. Another member of the band, John Peterson, is said to be the object of affection of Rosemary Cox, another New York heiress. Doggonit, why did I balk at those piano lessons when I was a kid?

Snerks to You

In radio circles, the term "snerk" is used in describing odd mike mannerisms. For instance, Ken Griffin's "snerk" is to lean toward the mike and gesture wildly when broadcasting. Ken takes the part of James Brent in "The Road of Life" . . . Roy Shield, conductor of the "Roy Shield Revue," plays a silent piccolo solo on his baton while the band is not playing . . . Ed Prentiss, Dave Allen in "A Tale of Today," removes his seal ring and juggles it in his non-script hand . . . Other "snerks" of Chicago radio actors are: Rupert LaBelle, "Rufus Kane" in "The Story of Mary Marlin," plays with his top vest-button . . . Sid Ellstrom, heard as Grandpa Putterball on "Sunday Dinner at Aunt Fanny's," transfers his watch from pocket to pocket, doing a complete loop of the cubbyholes in his vest . . . Ethel Owen, Lady Gertie in "Kitty Keene," ties one-hand knots in her string of pearls . . . Bob Guilbert, "Don Winslow of the Navy," shoves the tail end of his tie down inside his shirt-collar . . . Bruce Kamman, Professor Kaltenmeyer, gradually unloads every pocket as the broadcast proceeds.

The Tattler's Tidbits

Betty Lou Gerson, new femme lead in "Road of Life," has a far-away look in her eyes these days. She's thinking of plots for her short stories. Betty is a writer as well as an actress, and she sells the stuff, too.

MERCY MONEY

LISTENERS-IN WILL LEARN HOW THE RED CROSS SPENDS IT WHEN THEY HEAR THE ROLL CALL SHOW SUNDAY

"THE Power and the Glory." That's the title of a radio drama that will be presented by the National Broadcasting Company and the American Red Cross on November 13, with Dorothy Gish, one of the greatest American actresses of this or any other generation, in the starring role.

But it's more than merely a play—title, more than a mere play. Behind the simple majesty of that phrase stands the greatest humanitarian organization the world has ever known. Under its banners march millions upon millions of men, women, and children, all over the face of the globe—the millions who have found in the Red Cross their sole refuge and salvation in disaster and suffering. "The Power and the Glory." The Power—the power to stretch out the hand of mercy. The Glory—the glory of a good deed well done. In those words there is bound up all that the Red Cross stands for, and in them is contained the appeal for support that will be broadcast to the nation in the annual Red Cross Roll Call—from Armistice to Thanksgiving Day—the Roll Call of which Dorothy Gish and "The Power and the Glory" are an important part.

When you listen to the NBC broadcast on November 13, you'll hear the announcer say, "... the characters in this drama are in no way intended to resemble actual persons, living or dead..." In other words, the play is a piece of fiction. But is it? Certainly not. It's based on solid fact, and the hair-raising thrills it contains are duplicates of commonplace incidents in the lives of Red Cross workers.

Have you ever seen a flood? Even just an ordinary little flood—a country creek overflowing its banks, for instance? If you have—well, it doesn't really matter whether you have or not. The memory can't much help you to visualize the raging horror that is a flood of true disaster proportions—the Ohio-Mississippi flood of last January, for instance. But try to think of it. Think of the dead of winter. Think of torrents of rain sluicing down from a gray sky in volume absolutely unprecedented: rain enough to cover 204,000 square miles to a depth of nearly one foot! Think of 1,500,000 people helpless in the face of the roaring waters, many of them powerless to do more than save themselves, and lucky to do that, while the sullen, muddy-yellow river swept their homes, their every movable possession, like tumbleweeds down to the Gulf. Think of the thousands upon thousands fleeing from everything that they knew and held dear, crowding, cold and wet, into crude concentration centers, often enough separated from their families, worrying, wondering, hungry, sleepless, sick. Three hundred million dollars went down the river in January, 1937, lost forever. That is a conservative estimate, soberly made by sober men. Those same men termed the flood the "worst disaster to strike America since the World War!"

WHERE there is disaster and suffering, there too is the Red Cross. That's the story of "The Power and the Glory." A lone farmhouse, the vanguard of the floodwaters lapping insidiously around it; a knock on the door in the cold dawn, a sleepy farmer admitting a policeman and—a Red Cross nurse. Ten miles away there is a completely flooded town, six hundred people, hopelessly trapped, are huddled in the only safe building left—a school built to contain a third of that number. Food and fuel and water are desperately limited. There is only one doctor, and to minister to the sick and injured among six hundred people he has only the supplies and medicine he could carry with him when he fled his flooded office. From Red Cross Regional Headquarters there has come an order to Nurse Clare Howard: "Go to Rivertown immediately. Somehow, anyhow, get there—no matter what!"

The road? There is no road, the river has taken care of that, and even the hard-boiled patrolman accompanying Nurse Howard dares to go no further. An airplane? Out of the question. There is only one solution—a boat. The farmer has one, yes, an old fishing rowboat with a cranky outboard motor. But

"Lady, you'd never make it. That flood's deep, an' full a' ice, an' there's fence posts and gosh knows what else in it, that'd go through th' bottom of a boat like a knife through cheese... I'd do it, lady, if I thought there was a chance—we'd be committin' suicide, that's what we'd be doin'."

Anyone who has ever gone through a major disaster knows that deep down in man there's a something, a glorious, intangible something, that brings out the best in human nobility when the need is the greatest. Cowards turn brave, weaklings are strong, to the panic-stricken comes a deadly, fighting calm. The farmer in his flood-threatened house was no exception. Out with the boat! Let the fence-posts look out for themselves, let the floating logs keep out of our way, and the rolling, roily waters lie calm. The Red Cross is going through! There's work to be done: the sick to be nursed, the hungry fed, the fear-crazed calmed. Six hundred people, unorganized, frightened, their nerves stretched taut—are a mob, and mobs are dangerous, even to themselves. But give those same six hundred responsible leadership, give them help and comfort—and they'll become human beings again. They'll stand their ground and fight. When you listen to "The Power and the Glory" you'll hear them, you'll see them doing it. And part of their triumph, and Nurse Howard's triumph, will be yours, when finally the Red Cross rescue steamer comes chugging up the river.

THE six hundred wet and frightened people in the schoolhouse at Rivertown were only a fractional part of the Americans who found succor in the Red Cross last year. There are 420,000 people in these United States today who were snatched from the threat of a hundred kinds of deadly danger, who are today alive, and well, and happy—sheltered, clothed, economically secure—because there happens to be an organization called the Red Cross. Those 420,000 men, women and children were the direct recipients of Red Cross aid during the past year alone. Six and one-half millions of dollars were spent to aid them—every penny of it well spent, and every penny of it donated voluntarily by American citizens.

For the Red Cross, contrary to a sometimes widely held belief, is supported entirely by donations. It is not

Sundays

Peace—How Long and How, NBC. What are the prospects of peace after the Munich agreement? Answers to this perplexing question have come from many quarters; in this series the dean of American war correspondents, a newspaperman who, from experience in covering wars in every part of the world, is well qualified to speak authoritatively on this momentous issue, gives a well-grounded viewpoint on the subject. Time: 10:30-10:45 p.m. EST; 9:30-9:45 CST; 8:30-8:45 MST; 7:30-7:45 PST.

In the month that will elapse before the appearance of the next EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM CLASSIFIER, new programs will be introduced and changes will be made in the day and time of some of the broadcasts here listed. You can keep up to date by applying corrections and additions found each week in the "Schedule Changes" box on the Saturday program page of subsequent issues. Thus you will always have an accurate and complete schedule of educational broadcasts. For the station in your vicinity broadcasting these programs please refer to the listings in our "Program Section," pages 20 to 35, inclusive.

Mondays

Let's Talk It Over, NBC. Ladies are treated to their own quarter-hour thrice weekly. Comments on cultural subjects are presented by distinguished educators, writers, musicians and nationally prominent people. Time: 1:15-1:30 p.m. EST; 12:15-12:30 CST; 11:15-11:30 a.m. MST; 10:15-10:30 PST. (Also Wednesdays and Fridays.)

Between the Bookends, NBC. For the listener who can afford to devote fifteen minutes in the afternoon pleasantly and profitably on the wide scope of subjects found between any set of bookends. For the poetry-lover, one listener-contribution is read each day. Time: 3:45-4 p.m. EST; 2:45-3 CST; 1:45-2 MST; 12:45-1 PST. (Daily except Saturdays and Sundays.)

Tuesdays

Between the Bookends, NBC. Same as Monday.

Of Men and Books, CBS. This is a "must" for the book-lover. Professor Frederick's reviews of contemporary books and comments about their authors have the keen understanding of a man who not only reads books but writes them as well. Time: 4:45-5 p.m. EST; 3:45-4 CST; 2:45-3 MST; 1:45-2 PST.

Wednesdays

Between the Bookends, NBC. Same as Monday.

Thursdays

Time: 4-4:15 p.m. EST; 3-3:15 CST; 2-2:15 MST; 1-1:15 PST.

Be Sensible, NBC. For the person who has more trouble to understand psychology than he has to spell it, this program should launch the project with little effort. In this series a noted authority on the science of the mind, Dr. Joseph Jastrow, reduces psychology to the common denominator of every-day life, then advises how its principles can be applied to living. Time: 10:45-11 p.m. EST; 9:45-10 CST; 8:45-9 MST; 7:45-8 PST.

Wednesdays

Your Health, NBC. See "Classroom Aids."

Et Tu?

The headlines accentuated the day's outstanding tragedy. Crowded between long columns devoted to reports of wholesale slaughter in the Orient, dissension in Europe, monkeyshines in national and local politics, was an inconspicuous little item that held an inspiring lesson for any human who ever entertained desire to better himself. It was a casual account of a woman who, at seventy-three years of age, decided to learn to read and write, walked seventeen of twenty-seven miles to the opening of an adult education class and expressed her intention of working her way through school by doing odd jobs to supplement a small, monthly old-age pension check. She had always wanted an education, but her duties as wife and mother left no time for schooling.

Who can deny that if there were more of this kind of spirit to learn there would be little time or place for the disaster that breeds of idleness and the greed for earthly things? Compare the supreme effort that this old lady made to do something that she never before had had the opportunity to do with your own efforts to take advantage of the golden opportunities that are placed in your lap. Can you face a mirror without blushing?

Science ...

Sundays

The Farmer Takes the Mike, CBS. The altered procedure in this series has a farmer interviewing several scientists on the advances in scientific farming. Time: 1:45-2 p.m. EST; 12:45-1 CST; 11:45 a.m.-12 noon MST; 10:45-11 a.m. PST.

The World Is Yours, NBC. Historical facts that make the background of the arts and sciences, based on the exhibits in the Smithsonian Institution are dramatized by the Office of Education. Time: 4:30-5 p.m. EST; 3:30-4 CST; 2:30-3 MST; 1:30-2 PST.

Mondays

National Farm and Home Hour, NBC. The man who tries to keep abreast of the many-fold applications of farming will find this series indispensable. Time: 12:30-1:15 p.m. EST; 11:30 a.m.-12:15 p.m. CST; 10:30-11:15 a.m. MST; 9:30-10:15 PST.

Science in the News, NBC. Designed for those who are interested in the latest developments of science but cannot understand the technical language usually used to describe the advances and complex applications of scientific work. Time: 6-6:15 p.m. EST; 5-5:15 CST; 4-4:15 MST; 3-3:15 PST.

Science on the March, NBC. Of the heavenly bodies—planets and satellites—the average man knows little. Many have professed interest and for them Dr. F. R. Moulton presents this series. Time: 7:45-8 p.m. EST; 6:45-7 CST; 5:45-6 MST; 4:45-5 PST.

Tuesdays

National Farm and Home Hour, NBC. Same as Monday.

Wednesdays

National Farm and Home Hour, NBC. Same as Monday.

Thursdays

National Farm and Home Hour, NBC. Same as Monday.

Fridays

National Farm and Home Hour, NBC. Same as Monday.

Men Behind the Stars, CBS. Having completed a comprehensive cycle on the mysteries in the sky, this series now turns to the men who devoted their lives to the study of astronomy. Time: 5:15-5:30 p.m. EST; 4:15-4:30 CST; 3:15-3:30 MST; 2:15-2:30 PST.

Saturdays

This Wonderful World, MBS. Men who study the stars know well many of the wonders of this world, and, in this series from Hayden Planetarium, describe some of the most interesting aspects. Time 12-12:15 p.m. EST; 11-11:15 a.m. CST; 10-10:15 MST; 9-9:15 PST.

National Farm and Home Hour, NBC. Same as Monday.

Men Against Death, CBS. Dramatizing science's fight against a multitude of scourges, this series is made to order for the leisure of the person who would like to learn of man's momentous sacrifices in the interest of humanity. Time: 9-9:30 p.m. EST; 8-8:30 CST; 7-7:30 MST; 6-6:30 PST.

A Money-Making Opportunity for Men of Character

EXCLUSIVE FRANCHISE FOR

AN INVENTION EXPECTED TO REPLACE
A MULTI-MILLION-DOLLAR INDUSTRY

Costly Work Formerly
"Sent Out" by Business Men
Now Done by Themselves at a Fraction of the Expense

This is a call for men everywhere to handle exclusive agency for one of the most unique business inventions of the day.

Forty years ago the horse and buggy business was supreme—today almost extinct. Twenty years ago the phonograph industry ran into many millions—today practically a relic. Only a comparatively few foresighted men saw the fortunes ahead in the automobile and the radio. Yet irresistible waves of public buying swept these men to fortune, and sent the buggy and the phonograph into the discard. So are great successes made by men able to detect the shift in public favor from one industry to another.

Now another change is taking place. An old established industry—an integral and important part of the nation's structure—in which millions of dollars change hands every year—is in thousands of cases being replaced by a truly astonishing, simple invention which does the work better—more reliably—AND AT A COST OFTEN AS LOW AS 2% OF WHAT IS ORDINARILY PAID! It has not required very long for men who have taken over the rights to this valuable invention to do a remarkable business, and show earnings which in these times are almost unheard of for the average man.

Not a "Gadget"—

but a valuable, proved device which has been sold successfully by business novices as well as seasoned veterans.

Make no mistake—this is no novelty—no flimsy creation which the inventor hopes to put on the market. You probably have seen nothing like it yet—perhaps never dreamed of the existence of such a device—yet it has already been used by corporations of outstanding prominence—by dealers of great corporations—by their branches—by doctors, newspapers, publishers—schools—hospitals, etc., etc., and by thousands of small business men. You don't have to convince a man that he should use an electric bulb to light his office instead of a gas lamp. Nor do you have to sell the same business man the idea that some day he may need something like this invention. The need is already there—the money is usually being spent right at that very moment—and the desirability of saving the greatest part of this expense is obvious immediately.

Some of the Savings
You Can Show

You walk into an office and put down before your prospect a letter from a sales organization showing that they did work in their own office for $11 which formerly could have cost them over $200. A building supply corporation pays our man $70, whereas the bill could have been for $1,600! An automobile dealer pays our representative $15, whereas the expense could have been over $1,000. A department store has expense of $88.60, possible cost if done outside the business being well over $2,000. And so on. We could not possibly list all cases here. These are just a few of the many actual cases which we place in your hands to work with. Practically every line of business and every section of the country is represented by these field reports which hammer across dazzling, convincing money-saving opportunities which hardly any business man can fail to understand.

Profits Typical of the Young, Growing Industry

Going into this business is not like selling something offered in every grocery, drug or department store. For instance, when you take a $7.50 order, $5.83 can be your share. On $1,500 worth of business, your share can be $1,167.00. The very least you get as your part of every dollar's worth of business you do is 67 cents—on ten dollars' worth $6.70, on a hundred dollars' worth $67.00—in other words two thirds of every order you get is yours. Not only on the first order—but on repeat orders—and you have the opportunity of earning an even larger percentage.

This Business Has Nothing to Do With
House to House Canvassing

Nor do you have to know anything about high-pressure selling. "Selling" is unnecessary in the ordinary sense of the word. Instead of hammering away at the customer and trying to "force" a sale, you make a dignified, business-like call, leave the installation—whatever size the customer says he will accept—at our risk, let the customer sell himself after the device is in and working. This does away with the need for pressure on the customer—it eliminates the handicap of trying to get the money before the customer has really convinced himself 100%. You simply tell what you offer, showing proof of success in that customer's particular line of business. Then leave the invention without a dollar down. It starts working at once. In a few short days, the installation should actually produce enough cash money to pay for the deal, with profits above the investment coming in at the same time. You then call back, collect your money. Nothing is so convincing as our offer to let results speak for themselves without risk to the customer! While others fail to get even a hearing, our men are making sales running into the hundreds. They have received the attention of the largest firms in the country, and sold to the smallest businesses by the thousands.

EARNINGS

One man in California earned over $1,600 per month for three months—close to $5,000 in 90 days' time. Another writes from Delaware—"Since I have been operating (just a little less than a month of actual selling) and not the full day at that, because I have been getting organized and had to spend at least half the day in the office; counting what I have sold outright and on trial, I have made just a little in excess of one thousand dollars profit for one month." A man working small city in N. Y. State made $10,805 in 9 months. Texas man nets over $300 in less than a week's time. Space does not permit mentioning here more than these few random cases. However, they are sufficient to indicate that the worthwhile future in this business is coupled with immediate earnings for the right kind of man. One man with us has already made over a thousand sales on which his earnings ran from $5 to $60 per sale and more. A great deal of this business was repeat business. Yet he had never done anything like this before coming with us. That is the kind of opportunity this business offers. The fact that this business has attracted to it such business men as former bankers, executives of businesses—men who demand only the highest type of opportunity and income—gives a fairly good picture of the kind of business this is. Our door is open, however, to the young man looking for the right field in which to make his start and develop his future.

No Money Need Be Risked

in trying this business out. You can measure the possibilities and not be out a dollar. If you are looking for a business that is not overcrowded—a business that is just coming into its own—on the upgrade, instead of the downgrade—a business that offers the buyer relief from a burdensome, but unavoidable expense—a business that has a prospect practically in every office, store, or factory into which you can set foot—regardless of size—that is a necessity but does not have any price cutting to contend with as other necessities do—that because you control the sales in exclusive territory is your own business—that pays more on some individual sales than many men make in a week and sometimes in a month's time—if such a business looks as if it is worth investigating, get in touch with us at once for the rights in your territory—don't delay—because the chances are that if you do wait, someone else will have written to us in the meantime—and if it turns out that you were the better man—we'd both be sorry. So for convenience, use the coupon below—but send it right away—or wire if you wish. But do it now. Address

Classroom Aids...

Mondays

Adventures in Reading, NBC. To heighten interest of listening school groups in the works of outstanding authors, episodes in their lives which best illustrate the influences that led them to their careers are dramatized. Though primarily designed to supplement classroom work, the series is a "must" for all book-lovers. Time: 2-2:30 p.m. EST; 1-1:30 CST; 12-12:30 MST; 11-11:30 a.m. PST.

American School of the Air, CBS. Monday programs explore, by commentary and vivid dramatization, the fundamental principles guiding our democracy and the ways in which they affect our every-day life. Time: 2:30-3 p.m. EST; 1:30-2 CST; 12:30-1 MST; 11:30 a.m.-12 noon PST.

Tuesdays

Music Makers, NBC. Radio music lessons by Dr. Maddy. Ideal for anyone with a musical instrument and the desire to play it. Time: 12:50-1:15 p.m. EST; 11:50 a.m.-12:15 p.m. CST; 10:50-11:15 a.m. MST; 9:50-10:15 PST.

Science Everywhere, NBC. Nature-study for elementary and intermediate grades. Time: 2-2:30 p.m. EST; 1-1:30 CST; 12-12:30 MST; 11-11:30 a.m. PST.

American School of the Air, CBS. Music, besides serving as an excellent form of entertainment, has, in a more practical vein, affected the social, cultural and economic life of the communities in which it originated. Blending art with incident to illustrate this fact, the Tuesday sessions will be a study of music from Colonial days to the present. A symphony orchestra and commentator handle the assignment. Time: 2:30-3 p.m. EST; 1:30-2 CST; 12:30-1 MST; 11:30 a.m.-12 noon PST.

Wednesdays

Your Health, NBC. Interesting and informative lessons in personal health are presented in this weekly series. Dramatization and brief commentary accentuate rules of health, their value and application to every-day life. Time: 2-2:30 p.m. EST; 1-1:30 CST; 12 noon-12:30 MST; 11-11:30 a.m. PST.

American School of the Air, CBS. To point out that current events are something more tangible than the paper and ink that records them, the Wednesday programs illustrate that they are the accounts of actual experiences of flesh-and-blood people, the daily happenings in a living world. Time: 2:30-3 p.m. EST; 1:30-2 CST; 12:30-1 MST; 11:30 a.m.-12 noon PST.

Thursdays

Ideas That Came True, NBC. Using the popular style of the historical short story, dramatizations show how the first steamships ran, when the first telegraph lines were laid, where the first movies were shown, and a host of other interesting and exciting information about the origin and development of present-day methods of communication and travel; final score is a pleasant lesson in social science. Time: 2-2:30 p.m. EST; 1-1:30 CST; 12-12:30 MST; 11-11:30 a.m. PST.

American School of the Air, CBS. The drama and excitement of scientific exploration are combined with its entertainment and educational possibilities on Thursday, when Roy Chapman Andrews takes the Columbia microphone direct to the exhibits in the American Museum of Natural History. Time: 2:30-3 p.m. EST; 1:30-2 CST; 12:30-1 MST; 11:30 a.m.-12 noon PST.

Fridays

Music Appreciation Hour, NBC. Convinced that merely hearing the classics and semi-classics does not create an understanding of them, Dr. Damrosch in this series uses an easily understandable approach to the study of music. In this music workshop types of compositions are analyzed, functions and effects of instruments are described and illustrated, works of outstanding composers are reviewed and compared. Time: 2-3 p.m. EST; 1-2 CST; 12 noon-1 p.m. MST; 11 a.m.-12 noon PST.

American School of the Air, CBS. Blending dramatizations of American literature with the comments of contemporary writers, the Friday programs are designed to show how literature can be used to increase an understanding of other human beings. Time: 2:30-3 p.m. EST; 1:30-2 CST; 12:30-1 MST; 11:30 a.m.-12 noon PST.

Sundays

The Reviewing Stand, MBS. Ideal for the person who uses Sunday morning leisure to keep abreast of important issues. Authorities on current problems "hash over" outstanding events that affect the common weal. Time: 11:15-11:30 a.m. EST; 10:15-10:30 CST; 9:15-9:30 MST; 8:15-8:30 PST.

University of Chicago Round Table Discussion, NBC. Lively treatment of timely topics characterizes this half-hour. Experts and prominent figures in both national and international affairs are matched to defend divergent viewpoints on subjects of momentous concern in spontaneous, straightforward, uncensored discussion. Time: 12:30-1 p.m. EST; 11:30 a.m.-12 noon CST; 10:30-11 a.m. MST; 9:30-10 PST.

The People's Platform, CBS. Convinced that the vital force contained in public opinion takes shape in the informal discussions of the dinner-table, Columbia has created just that atmosphere to present this series of actual dinner-table conversation between typical citizens chosen from all walks of life. Solutions to social and political problems are sought through the exchange of ideas between the housewife, the expert, the layman. Time: 7-7:30 p.m. EST; 6-6:30 p.m. CST; 5-5:30 p.m. MST; 4-4:30 p.m. PST.

Mondays

National Radio Forum, NBC. Men who make and administer our laws in Washington, D. C., come to the microphone to explain them and their oft-confusing applications. Unequaled for those who wish to keep posted on legislative measures before Congress. Time: 10:30-11 p.m. EST; 9:30-10 CST; 8:30-9 MST; 7:30-8 PST.

Thursdays

America's Town Meeting of the Air, NBC. In this most popular forum for the discussion of vital public affairs, authorities present opinion and interpretation of the proposed question, then submit to query by the audience. No editorial is imposed on either, other than that they keep on the subject and within good taste. Examples of the questions discussed are two that will be tackled within the month: "How can the American nations cooperate for world peace?" and "What does free speech mean today?" Such prominent speakers as Dorothy Thompson, General Hugh S. Johnson, Norman Thomas, Harold L. Ickes, are heard each week. Time: 9:30-10:30 p.m. EST; 8:30-9:30 CST; 7:30-8:30 MST; 6:30-7:30 PST.

Saturdays

American Education Forum, NBC. See "Parent Aids."

Drama...

Sundays

Shakespeare's England, NBC. Faithful followers of the great bard's work in this series are acquainted with England as it was in his day. Shakespeare is here introduced as a human being influenced by the political and economic conditions of his era. Time: 12-12:30 p.m. EST; 11-11:30 a.m. CST; 10-10:30 MST; 9-9:30 PST.

Great Plays, NBC. A panorama of the theater from the days of early Greek tragedies to the newest hits on Broadway that should be a sure-fire hit with playgoers, drama enthusiasts. Time: 1-2 p.m. EST; 12-1 CST; 11 a.m.-12 noon MST; 10-11 a.m. PST.

Americans All—Immigrants All, CBS. See "History."

Mercury Theater, CBS. Orson Welles and the Mercury Theater Company promise surprises in this series; then deliver them. Witness recent adaptation of the H. G. Wells classic, "War of the Worlds." New techniques in presenting the broadcast dramatization are used, fields of literature heretofore untouched by radio are explored. Time: 8-9 p.m. EST; 7-8 CST; 6-7 MST; 5-6 PST.

Thursdays

Columbia Workshop, CBS. Veteran experimental series where Columbia tests the latest broadcasting devices, tries revolutionary approaches in presentation, adapts unique writings for microphone treatment. Examples: Pulitzer prize-winning poet, Archibald MacLeish, wrote expressly for this series, created the memorable "Fall of the City" and "Air Raid." The works of America's great short-story writer, Wilbur Daniel Steele, were never presented over the air until he personally adapted three of his O. Henry Memorial Award yarns for "Workshop" dramatization. Time: 10-10:30 p.m. EST; 9-9:30 CST; 8-8:30 MST; 7-7:30 PST.

Fridays

The Nation's Playhouse, MBS. This is a wise choice for the listener who likes to combine the practical with the entertaining. The flexible fields of biography and history are treated with authenticity in enjoyable dramatization. Time: 11:30 p.m.-12 mid. EST; 10:30-11 p.m. CST; 9:30-10 MST; 8:30-9 PST.

Saturdays

Original Plays, NBC. For lovers of light comedy, simple intrigue and dramatic romance, the works of contemporary authors presented in this series are ideal. Time: 8:30-9 p.m. EST; 7:30-8 p.m. CST; 6:30-7 p.m. MST; 5:30-6 p.m. PST.

History...

Sundays

Americans All—Immigrants All, CBS. America is a nation built by immigrants. In this series the contributions of all races and nationalities to the greatness of the United States will be dramatized. As the panorama of the development of this country from a wilderness to a world power in three centuries, the programs hold interest and enlightenment for all public spirited citizens. Time: 2-2:30 p.m. EST; 1-1:30 CST; 12-12:30 MST; 11-11:30 a.m. PST.

The World Is Yours, NBC. See "Science."

Saturdays

Lives of Great Men, NBC. Through the ages, really great men contributed more than their names to posterity. In this series a man who has distinguished himself as lecturer, author and critic bases the story of civilization on outstanding characters, tells how each influenced his own and future times. Time: 7:45-8 p.m. EST; 6:45-7 CST; 5:45-6 MST; 4:45-5 PST.

Men Against Death, CBS. See "Science."

Parent Aids...

Wednesdays

Your Health, NBC. See "Classroom Aids."

Our American Schools, NBC. A series directed at parents of school-age children that attempts to acquaint them with the changes that have taken place in the classroom since the era of the little red schoolhouse. Time: 6-6:15 p.m. EST; 5-5:15 CST; 4-4:15 MST; 3-3:15 PST.

Wings for the Martins, NBC. Through the lives of an average family, the teachers of the children, their school officials, today's problems and the attacks on those problems recommended by modern education are brought into the American home. This dramatic series holds much of interest for the entire family group. Time: 9:30-10 p.m. EST; 8:30-9 CST; 7:30-8 MST; 6:30-7 PST.

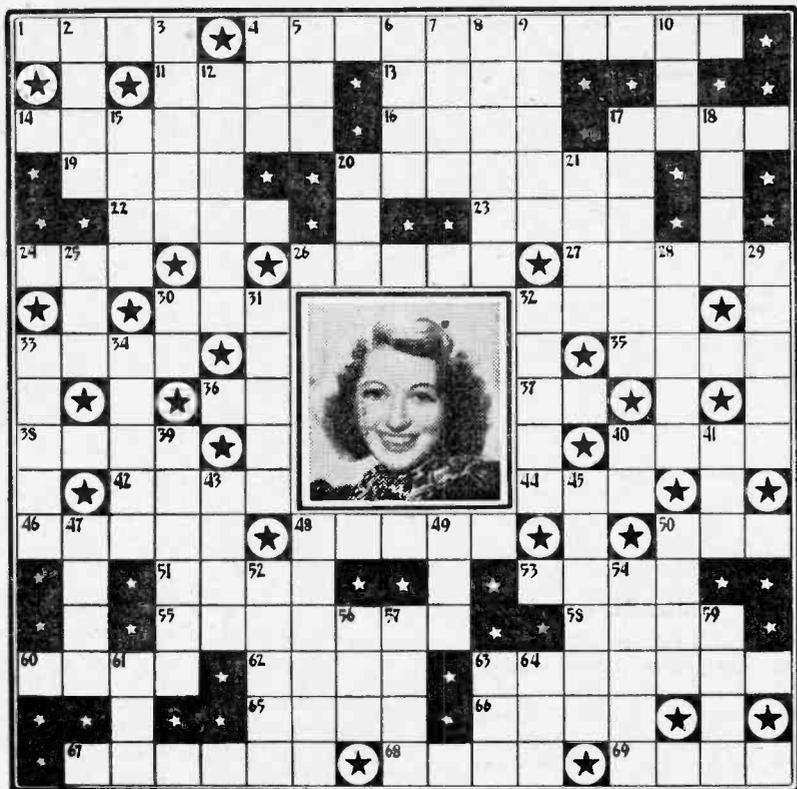

Saturdays

The Child Grows Up, NBC. A woman who has been active in social work for more than twenty-five years gives practical hints and expert advice on the problems of child-rearing. Time: 10:30-10:45 a.m. EST; 9:30-9:45 CST; 8:30-8:45 MST; 7:30-7:45 PST.

Florence Hale Forum, NBC. This is another series aimed principally at the parents of children of school age. The talks by Florence Hale, trustee of the NEA and editor of the Grade Teacher, explain the methods of classroom procedure in order that education may continue at home as well as in school. Time: 10:45-11 a.m. EST; 9:45-10 CST; 8:45-9 MST; 7:45-8 PST.

American Education Forum, NBC. Leading educators present round-table discussions of the problems confronting American teachers today. Ideal for teachers and parents of school-age children. Time: 12-12:25 p.m. EST; 11-11:25 a.m. CST; 10-10:25 MST; 9-9:25 PST.

Solution to Puzzle Given Last Week

HELEN HAYES IN RADIO SERIES

HELEN HAYES, diminutive First Lady of the American Stage on this week's cover of RADIO GUIDE, will appear on the Silver Theater program for two successive weeks. The play will be a two-part original drama by I. A. R. Wylie, titled "The Stars in Their Courses." When Miss Hayes signed her radio contract, she announced her decision not to return to pictures, that radio and stage would take all her time.

provided for and educated until they come of age at twenty-one, sometimes more than seven years after their treble voices "break" and they can no longer sing as boys.

Poverty is no bar to entering their ranks, nor can wealth buy a place there. The boy whose name is transferred from the long waiting-list and admitted to the school must have not only an exceptional voice, and be intelligent; he must prove, too, that he is of honorable caliber, that he lives cleanly, and that he is ready to work hard, and willing to obey.

In many cases a candidate lives at home and is a "day pupil" in the city school for a year or two before he is admitted into the choir's country "konvent."

Once taken there, his parents formally relinquish all legal rights of control. When the Vienna choir boys were first organized, opera was unknown. The boys' singing was chiefly sacred, heard at masses and vespers in the imperial chapel. Then it was the only reason for their existence. "Profane" or secular music was indulged in rarely, as a sort of informal amusement.

It wasn't until the end of the seventeenth century that they branched outside the field of sacred music and began their present association with the theatrical art. Today their concerts include productions of "Bastien and Bastienne," by Mozart, and Haydn's "The Apothecary," one-act comedies admirably suited to their voices. Their ability as actors is on a par with their sincerity as singers. And the boys have great fun dressing up in wigs and girls' clothes for the parts.

TELL ME!

HOW MANY MILES DID I TRAVEL?

(Each Dot is a Mile)

It's Easy
(Oh Yeah!)

Think You
Can Count Em?

So, you think anybody can do it, huh? Well JUST TRY IT. It starts out nice and easy like there's nothing to it, but I'll bet before you're through, you'll be seeing dots hopping all over where there ain't no dots, and big black jumping dots will probably chase you all over the ceiling after you go to bed tonight. You'll probably forget how many dots you've counted just about when you think you've got it finished too—so, you'll have to start all over again, and that'll be just dandy. But, if you should be interested enough to try, you might WIN FIFTY DOLLARS cash, and I suppose

YOU WOULD LIKE TO WIN $50.00 CASH RIGHT NOW—WOULDN'T YOU?

If you are interested in making an easy $50.00 extra cash on the side in your spare time, then send in your answer QUICK! For first prize I'LL PAY $50.00; 2nd $15.00; 3rd $10.00; 4th $7.50; and 5th $5.00. So, whether you win $50.00 or $5.00, YOU'LL BE PAID REAL CASH MONEY promptly. You may send your answer any time up to midnight, December 19, 1938—BUT send it NOW because I'll give

$25.00 EXTRA—FOR PROMPTNESS

If you send your answer now—within 3 days—I'll give you an EXTRA $25.00 CASH for Promptness if you win the first prize of $50.00. Both the $50.00 and the $25.00 Extra may be yours. So, HURRY!—WIN THEM BOTH. That's easy money now— isn't it?

THEN WHAT ARE YOU WAITING FOR?

Let's go! Times a'wastin'. So hurry! Start NOW to Lassoo, shoot, net or club every last dot on the map. And, the idea of course is to TRY and count them ALL—so don't keep a couple out for pets when you send your total in. Only one answer can be accepted from each family and the judges' decision will be final. And you can be sure that your answer will receive full and careful consideration when the entries are judged and the prizes awarded for accuracy, originality and neatness, and remember that as the winner, you will receive $50.00 cash and an EXTRA $25.00 if you answer promptly. Duplicate prizes will be paid in case of ties. So, hurry! Rush your answer now. BE THE BIG WINNER.

WE INHERIT AN EMPEROR'S LEGACY

something that every Viennese boy looks forward to if he has a special talent for music. One season recently there were three openings in the choir, and three hundred boys applied. Tested on musical ability first, the number was reduced to twenty-six, then to six. From the last half-dozen, the three most needy boys were finally selected.

Boys are admitted at the age of seven, never younger. Those who go on tour are usually from nine to thirteen. When their voices begin to change, they are kept at the school until they are twenty-one. Then they go out into the world really equipped to take their places as citizens.

In sports and games, as with all youngsters, quarrels break out often, and naturally lead to fisticuffs. When this happens, on tour or at home, the adults in charge conduct a solemn court of justice, at which every boy attends. Twelve boys not implicated in the ruckus are selected by their members to form the jury. The charge is made, and witnesses are called to testify. The jury regulates the punishment handed down in the decision of the court. This usually consists of the time-honored trip to "Coventry," that mythical yet nevertheless mighty uncomfortable region where the culprits, mingling freely with their mates, may not be spoken to by any of them.

By and large, they are grand boys, devoted to their music, even with all their youthful pranks and forgetful ways. On one of their trips to New York, an admirer offered to supply them all tickets for a new movie at an expensive theater. The boys went into a huddle. After consulting the newspapers, they asked through a spokesman, "Can we go to the Metropolitan Opera instead?"

The Vienna choir boys love the music of the great masters, and listen to it with the intense appreciation of the true artist. Yet when they sing the songs familiar to all Americans, whether it be "Dixie" or "The Star Spangled Banner," their tidy English is a joy to all who have had the privilege of listening to them.

Whatever these world-famous choristers sing when they go on the air Saturday, November 19, listeners-in have a treat in store. For there is something of the celestial in the rare quality and sweetness of these boy voices, a detachment which is never reached by any other type of musician.

Even as the emperor who lived four and a half centuries ago found the beauty and exquisite harmony of the choir boys' music a happy interlude in the worries and cares of government, so will radio's music-loving millions find it still today a brief interlude of magnificent harmony in a world beset by trouble and tempoed to jazz-jittermania.

Vienna Boys' Chpir may be heard Saturday on the "National Barn Dance" over an NBC network at:

and never has been aided by the government or any other agency. It doesn't have to be! Cheerfully, gladly, America brings to the coffers of the Red Cross the money necessary for its great work. The annual Roll Call membership appeal has never failed. Of it, President Franklin D. Roosevelt has said: "I urge our people everywhere to respond generously and promptly to the Red Cross membership Roll Call." And even that request wasn't really necessary! America knows its friends.

Most spectacular of Red Cross activities, of course, are those engendered by disaster. Tremendous as they loom, the great disaster-relief works are only a part of the picture. Last year, for instance, Red Cross nurses made one million visits to the sick in communities where nursing and medical care weren't readily obtainable. Reported a nurse assigned to a group of small islands off the coast of Maine: "I spent three nights with an ill couple. They were no relatives to do for them. I spent the first night chopping ice from a near-by stream, applying compresses to the heads of my patients, rubbing backs, giving drinks and baths... they recovered..." Nothing extraordinary in that report, as far as the nurse was concerned. Merely routine. Those two people were sick, weren't they? They had to be taken care of, didn't they?

The Red Cross, strangely and curiously enough, stems from one man, and the effect on his mind of an almost-forgotten battle in an unimportant war. When fire, tornado, famine and flood strike Americans, they can thank a Swiss named Henri Dunant. If Henri Dunant hadn't happened to be independently wealthy... if he hadn't happened to have a love for travel... if the French and Austrian armies hadn't come together in June, 1859, in deadly battle over a hill in Italy called Solferino... if these things had not come to pass, the Red Cross might never have been conceived. For it was the appalling suffering of the wounded, left to die on the field after Solferino, that inspired Dunant, and the Red Cross was the result. For three days after that battle Dunant worked like a madman. He organized the women of the locality into battalions of nurses; he persuaded Napoleon III, in command of the French, to release Austrian doctors who were his prisoners, and he then and there established the principle, unknown in warfare before his time, of the neutrality of doctors and nurses, no matter what nation claimed them. The Red Cross—the insignia, that of the Swiss flag reversed, is a tribute to Henri Dunant—was organized at an international conference in 1864, and in 1882 Clara Barton, whose name is forever enshrined on the roster of great American women, founded the Red Cross in the United States.

Clara Barton would like to hear "The Power and the Glory" next Sunday. So would Henri Dunant. They wouldn't know about radio. But they'd recognize bravery, mercy, self-sacrifice. They'd know that the ideals for which they fought had come to glorious fruition. They would know that the standards they gave their lives to establish ride secure in the hearts of their successors.

The annual Red Cross Roll Call broadcast may be heard Sunday over an NBC network at:

EST 3:30 p.m. — CST 2:30 p.m.
MST 1:30 p.m. — PST 12:30 p.m.

RECORDS OF THE WEEK

A department reviewing the recordings of your radio favorites

Classical—Operatic Items:

AFTER giving us a few minutes of that pretty central theme of Le Coq D'Or on the first record, Eugene Goossens's symphonic suite of that opera drifts into a meaningless and wandering five records, winding up with a Balaban and Katz finish, all leaving us pretty cold. The opera, which is about an offstage bird that cries out occasionally, was written by Rimsky-Korsakoff. Mr. Goossens conducts the London Symphony Orchestra in this reading. (Victor album 504. $5.)

Another Toscanini record for hungry collectors comes forth this week—a fresh, strong and vivacious job of the sparkling overture to Mozart's opera, The Magic Flute. The BBC Symphony Orchestra responds nobly to the Maestro, and the live pick-up is a thing of joy. (Victor 15190. $2.)

Jussi Bjoerling is the latest tenor rave, with amazing strength on top notes and vitality of delivery. Your more musical friends might accuse him of sharpening on occasions, but he is a house-bringer-downer. He is heard on two of Mr. Puccini's punchiest arias—"The Stars Were Shining," from La Tosca, and "Let Her Believe I Have Gained My Freedom," from the neglected Girl of the Golden West. Recorded in Europe, Mr. Bjoerling's performance is supported by an orchestra conducted by Nils Grevillius. (Victor 4408. $1.)

Popular—Whiteman Returns on Wax:

Paul Whiteman's reappearance on our record lists is the most important item on the docket this stanza, with his alliance to the Decca 35c label, eight selections being issued at one slug. After spinning all eight, you wonder if it's Whiteman or the Modernaires who rate the billing, since six of the sides feature extensively those tight-harmony vocalists. Four sides employ what Whiteman calls his "Swing Wing"—and the rest, a full band. Selections vary from Johnny Mercer's two-year-old football killer, Jamboree Jones, to Billy Hill's newest simplicity, All Ashore, and the current When I Go A-Dreaming, I Used to Be Color Blind, and My Reverie. (All Decca.)

Which brings us to My Reverie, the dulcet Debussy air, which Larry Clinton set to swing time and modern lyrics. Several more versions since Clinton's are now out, including the Whiteman, Mildred Bailey's on Vocalion, and an excellent job by Glenn Miller on Bluebird.

Wacky Dust, an unusually different swing ditty, which was waxed by Bunny Berigan some months back, gets another whirl by Ella Fitzgerald, one of our best swingsingers. Another Fitzgerald killer just out is McPherson Is Rehearsin', one of the better of highland swings. (Both Decca.)

By the Waters of Minnetonka. About time someone caught up with this old turkey for a swing treatment, and Glenn Miller's solid band does it on two sides. An off-key trombone is the only blemish. (Bluebird.)

Mighty Like the Blues gives Duke Ellington his best vehicle in many months, and the Duke is capable of some awfully good stuff. It's melodic, subtle, infectious, especially that second chorus. (Brunswick.) Leonard Feather wrote the tune, and Joe Marsala recorded it some weeks ago on Vocalion.

—Joe Thompson.

DISCARD YOUR OLD AERIAL
It is Most Likely Corroded and Has Poor or Loose Noisy Connections
No MORE BUZZES, CLICKS and shorts from summer rains and winter snow and sleet when using an F & H Capacity Aerial Eliminator. Anyone can connect it in a moment's time to the radio set—occupies only 1 1/2 inch by 4 inch space behind the set, yet enables your radio to operate without an aerial and tune in stations over the entire broadcast band frequencies and short wave channels.
ELIMINATE THE AERIAL FOR GOOD
Attach this unit to your radio—make your set complete in itself—forget aerial wires and troubles—move your set anywhere—no more roof climbing, unsightly lead-in or aerial wires.
NOT NEW—VALUE ALREADY PROVED
On the market five years, 100,000 customers in U.S. and foreign countries. In use from the Arctic Region of Norway to the Tropics of Africa. Each factory tested on actual long distance reception. Cannot harm set—Easily connected to any radio. Including radios having no ground or radios for double aerial. Note: It will not operate on battery or automobile radios.
5 DAYS TRIAL Mail coupon at once. Pay postman $1.00 plus a few pennies postage on delivery. If not entirely satisfied, return within five days and your dollar will be refunded without question.
—JUST MAIL THIS COUPON—
F & H Radio Laboratories, Dept. 115, Fargo, N. Dak.
Send F & H Capacity Aerial. Will pay postman $1 plus few cents postage. If not pleased will return within 5 days for $1 refund. Check here if sending $1 with order—this saving postage cost—same refund guaranteed. Check here if interested in dealer's proposition.

THE TRUTH ABOUT LIFE

BROUGHT TO YOU ON RADIO'S GREATEST
HUMAN-INTEREST PROGRAM!

● Real people—not actors—men, women and children from all walks of life bare the facts of their personal experiences! Some tragic, some weird, some hilarious, some pitiful... but all intensely interesting.

Don't miss "WE, THE PEOPLE." Columbia coast-to-coast network. There's nothing like it on air! Sponsored by Sanka Coffee.

NEW PROGRAMS

America's Town Meeting, one of the air's outstanding educational features, returned Thursday, November 10, at 8:30 p.m. CST. George V. Denny, Jr., as in the past, will be the moderator. Formerly, speakers have discussed only political and economic problems; this year, however, the discussions will be devoted to social and cultural questions as well, covering the fields of science, literature and art. The Town Hall broadcasts have won their popularity through the subjects and importance of the guest speakers.

Information Please, popular quiz program, has been signed by Canada Dry Ginger Ale. This program differs from the usual type of quiz broadcast in that it has a board of experts to answer the questions instead of the average layman. The initial broadcast under the sponsorship of Canada Dry can be heard Tuesday, November 15, at 7:30 p.m. CST.

Scattergood Baines (Wrigley's Gum) made its inaugural broadcast Monday, November

7, at 10:15 a.m. CST. This new serial drama, heard Monday thru Friday, features Jess Pugh, Francis Trout, Cathrine McCune, Arnold Robertson and John Hearne.

Sophie Tucker (Roi Tan Cigars), the last of the "red-hot mamas," started a new series of programs November 7. This program, featuring the popular tunes of yesterday as well as the current tunes, may be heard Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 5:45 p.m. CST.

This Day Is Ours (Crisco), a new daytime serial featuring Jay Jostyn and Templeton Fox, began November 7, and will be heard Mondays thru Fridays at 12:45 p.m. CST.

PROGRAM CHANGES

Edward MacHugh (Ivory Soap), Scottish-born Gospel singer, can be heard over the NBC network Monday thru Saturday (except Friday) at 8:30 a.m. CST.

Jimmie Fidler (Drene Shampoo), Hollywood reporter, switches to the CBS network for his regular Tuesday night broadcast. The new time for the program is 9:30 p.m. CST.

Life Can Be Beautiful (Ivory Soap), the plot of which is woven around a little girl (who is a street urchin), a cripple and an aged book-seller, changed time and network November 7. The program can be heard at 12:15 p.m. CST, Mondays thru Fridays over the CBS network.

Uncle Ezra (Alka-Seltzer), heard week-days on Tuesdays and Fridays, will broadcast from his make-believe radio station, EZRA, at 9:30 p.m. CST, starting November 15.

Vic and Sade (Crisco), a comedy sketch depicting the everyday complications arising between the mother, father and their teen-age son, changed time and network November 7. The program can be heard Mondays thru Fridays at 3:30 p.m. CST over the NBC network.

CLOSINGS

Edward MacHugh (Ivory Soap), Scottish-born Gospel singer, left the air Friday, November 11.

Short-wave programs of American stations are shown along with the regular listings beginning on page 20. These are indicated, for example, by (sw-11.87) in parentheses following a program listing. This means that on 11.87 megacycles the same program may also be heard over an American short-wave station. Please note that foreign stations do not always adhere precisely to their announced program schedules.

On Short Waves

Edited by Chas. A. Morrison

President, International DX'ers Alliance

Times given are EST. For CST subtract 1 hour; MST, 2 hours; PST, 3 hours

ON THURSDAY, November 17, at 9:15 p.m. EST, German short-wave stations DJB (15.2), DJD (11.77), and DJZ (11.801) will feature an interesting broadcast portraying the life of Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin, inventor of the "lighter than air" dirigibles that bear his name. The history of these sky giants will be dramatized from the time of the first simple balloon down to that of the recently completed successor to the ill-fated Hindenburg.

Music Hall, a regular Saturday feature from Daventry, broadcast at 3 p.m. EST over stations GSG and GSP, will include this week as special guest artists the popular American film stars of a few years back, Bebe Daniels and her actor-husband, Ben Lyon.

The Newark News Radio Club is now on the air Tuesdays at 8 p.m. EST, and Fridays at 12 midnight EST, over apex short-wave station W2XJ1 (26.3) of New York City. A third program originating in Honolulu, Hawaii, is now being heard Saturdays at 12 midnight to 12:30 a.m. EST, Sundays over KQH (14.92) of Kahuku. "The Friendship Hour," an all-English program, is now being heard nightly except Mondays, from 10 to 10:45 p.m. EST, over short-wave transmitters HC1JB (14.42), and HC2JB (12.46), of Quito, Ecuador, according to the station director, Clarence Jones, now on a lecture tour in this country.

DJZ (11.801) of Vienna, Germany, soon to have a power of 50,000 watts, is now relaying the Berlin programs to North America nightly from 7:15 to 10:50 p.m. EST.

SHORT-WAVE SHORTS: ZRO6 (17.82), new frequency for the Rome short-wave station, is being used daily from 6 to 7:30 and from 10 to 11:15 a.m. EST. Z2B (6.96 and 3.48), new experimental broadcaster at Wellington, New Zealand, power 200 watts, is testing nightly from 12 midnight to 7 a.m. EST. A short-wave broadcasting station near Tangiers in the International Zone, is to be put into operation near the end of this year. It is believed that the same 500-watt transmitter that is now being used on the amateur bands under the call CN1AF, will be utilized. As the result of the MacGregor Arctic Expedition having reached America safely, W10XAB is off the air. PCJ, Huizen, Holland, is being heard on an unlisted frequency of 21.48 megas by Herbert Campbell of Athens, Pa. August Balbi of Los Angeles, Calif., reports XEBR (11.826) of Hermosillo, Mexico, back on the air and operating daily from 9 to 11 a.m., 1 to 4 and 9 to 11 p.m. EST. United States short-wave stations are still engaged in a wild scramble for the newly allotted channels. Who will emerge triumphant with the highly coveted frequencies, time alone will tell. W8XAL of Cincinnati, Ohio, will also get an increase in power from 10,000 to 50,000 watts, if the application is granted. W3XAL, on its new frequency of 9.67 megas, is transmitting daily from 5 p.m. to 1 a.m. EST.

"This is Ankara calling," was the station announcement in English heard on Sunday, October 23, at 2:45 p.m. EST, by Eugene Reinhard of Locust, N. J., which definitely identified this transmission as one broadcast over the new Turkish transmitter TAP (9.465). Following the announcements in French, German, and English, the broadcaster left the air at 4:07 p.m. EST.

L. Schlesinger Carrera, director of Radiodifusora Nacional de Guatemala, requests that we publish the operating schedule for the "La Voz de Guatemala," which is as follows: Over TGWB (6.49), week-days from 7:45 to 9 a.m., from 12:45 to 3:45 and from 7:30 p.m. to 12:15 a.m., and on Sundays from 10:30 a.m. to 5:15 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 12 midnight EST; over TGWA on 15.17 megas, week-days from 12:45 to 1:45 p.m., and on Sundays from 12:45 to 5:15 p.m.; on 9.685 megas, week-days from 10 to 11:30 p.m. and on Sundays from 7 p.m. to 12 midnight EST.

"The Schmidts at Home," fortnightly broadcast of the German Short-Wave Stations DJB and DJD, may be heard this week on Friday, at 8:30 p.m. EST. Above: Well-known actors who make up the cast

PSORIASIS

Glamor and romance don't fall to the lot of women if disfiguring psoriasis lesions cause people to avoid them. Siroil tends to remove the external lesions of psoriasis, or the crusts and scales on the outer skin. It is applied externally, does not stain clothing or bed linen and is offered on a strict "satisfaction-or-money-back" guarantee. Write for free booklet on Siroil and Psoriasis.
