NEXT WEEK

MARRIED a year, Barbara Stanwyck and Bob Taylor already must be listed among the most happily married—and most likely to stay that way—couples in Hollywood. While a year is a comparatively short span in which to pass judgment upon such a thing as a Hollywood marriage, James Street, after meeting and visiting with the Taylors in their rented and modest Hollywood home, has decided their marriage is as firmly founded as the Rock of Gibraltar—and more so in these days of rapid world changes. In a way, Mr. Street found their wedding was an all-American affair, uniting the way of life of our prairies, whence Mr. Taylor hails, and that of Brooklyn, where Barbara was born and reared and where, she admits, she learned the fine art of lease-breaking. In "Cupid's Chosen People," beginning next week, Mr. Street has compounded another revealing study of Hollywood marriage around the Taylors. For facts, figures and information, this story is something to read.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor

When Radio Goes to War

What happens to radio when war comes? In past weeks, more American ears have been glued to loudspeakers when war news and diplomatic maneuvers filled the air with more dramatic events than radio entertainers have been able to cook up. But if war should come to America, what would happen to radio? What would listeners demand of the broadcasters?

Bob Bowman

War news? Music? Light comedy? How heavy would the hand of the censor bear down upon our listening life? For a quick look at what has happened in a western hemisphere nation at war, we take you to Canada to see what has happened to radio there where Bob Bowman, CBC ace announcer, covers the war from England. It's all in "It Could Happen Here!" a feature of next week's issue. Also in that same big issue you'll find a preview of baseball's biggest event—the major leagues' All-Star game—written for the radio-baseball fan by Bob Elson, MBS world series announcer and baseball authority. In the same issue, cram-packed with radio lore and the sort of stories, information and pictures radio listeners want, is a full-page picture of the "Ma Perkins" serial family.

THIS WEEK

THIS is a season of program changes, and fans who have grown accustomed to finding their favorite programs at certain spots on the dial at certain times are apt to find their patience tried at sudden changes which cause them to miss favorite shows. For example, the Burns and Allen show is not only undergoing a time change, it's being switched from one network to another; even more important, that temperamental maestro Artie Shaw, takes over the baton for it. This is Artie's first commercial show since his appearance with Bob Benchley. The one way, of course, to keep up with the radio times and miss nothing worth hearing is to use your Movie and Radio Guide complete program section, where this—and other changes—are duly brought to your attention. The program section is a regular weekly feature. Special this week, however, is an insight into how gagmen—those odd fellows who write radio comedians' lines—operate. In "Confessions of a Gagman's Wife."

The Girl on the Cover

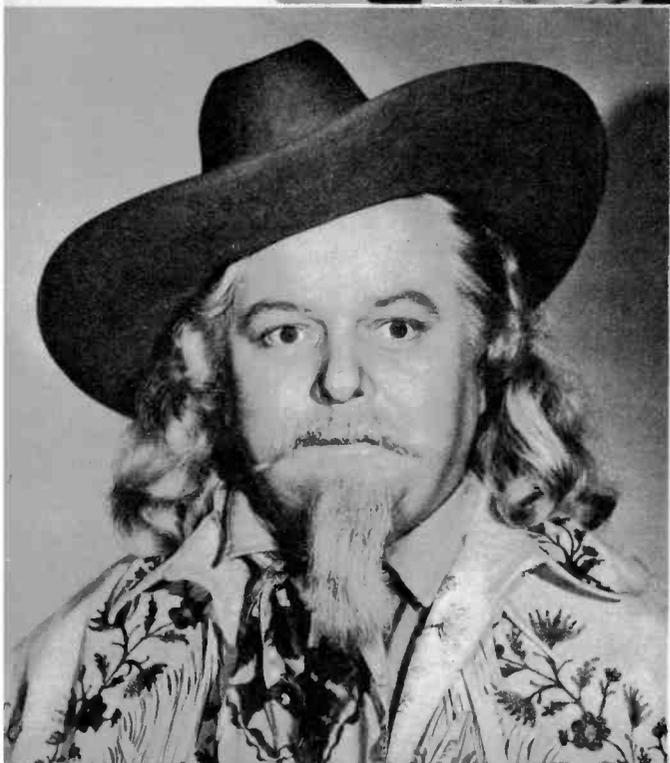

Not only the youngest star in motion pictures but one of motion pictures' most bewitching personalities is Baby Sandy. At a period when most babies are occupied with teething-rings and toy rattles, Baby Sandy has stepped out in the cinema world and, in three pictures, succeeded in capturing the hearts of the nation. Although the sex of this beguiling youngster was permitted, through three films, to remain a moot question, in her latest, Universal's "Sandy Is a Lady," the truth is let out of the bag. Her real name is Sandra Henville and she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Henville. Mr. Henville happened to be the milkman on the route of a Universal executive when he learned by the back-door-gossip route that Universal was searching for a baby to play with Bing Crosby in "East Side of Heaven." Next day milkman Henville left a note in the executive's milk-bottle. It read: "I have just the baby you're looking for." Baby Sandy got the part, won stardom as a result. Sandy works only two hours a day, admits she has a "whale of a lot of fun." Natural color photograph of Baby Sandy is by Jack Albin.

HISTORY GOES HAYWIRE

HISTORICAL FIGURES CAVORT IN "PUBLIC DEB NO. 1"

ELSA MAXWELL, famous for her ideas for parties which are original and unique, now brings that talent to the screen. In 20th Century-Fox's "Public Deb No. 1" Miss Maxwell stages a historical costume ball which goes completely haywire. Above, Elsa, dressed as Benjamin Franklin, dances with an Uncle Sam who is none other than Charles Ruggles. Left, Charles Winninger chooses to be Buffalo Bill . . . or is it General Custer? Right, Brenda Joyce, as Pocahontas, completely scrambles the annals of history by making up to an Abraham Lincoln who is really Ralph Bellamy. Fourteen Lincolns attended the ball that Doggone Doghouse!

HOW about it? Been in the doghouse lately?

You know, it's a funny thing about that American institution called the doghouse. None of us intend to get in, but we all manage to land there sooner or later. No matter how hard we try to avoid it, no matter how good our intentions may be, sooner or later everyone does something. That something gets us in bad with somebody, and there's the doghouse waiting with an open door.

Take the movie stars, for example. Offhand, you'd think important people like that would be immune. But are they? They are not! Come to find out, they wade right into the same kind of doghouse woe all of us do. All their glamour and fame and money can't seem to keep them from pulling the same boners and making the same human little mistakes as the rest of us. I suppose there is some measure of comfort in that.

A few of them, like Pat O'Brien and Don Ameche, even do it with alarming regularity. Pat says his return address has been In the Doghouse so consistently this past year that he is thinking of filing it with the post office department to save wear and tear on the boys in gray. And nothing in the world but his big Irish heart is to blame!

"I invite people," he told me sadly. "You invite people; my wife, Eloise, invites people; everybody invites people, and nothing happens but a happy time for all concerned. Yet, so help me, every time I invite people, I wind up in the canine clink."

Something must be rotten in Denmark, I said. Friendliness per se is no crime in America, or even a doghouse offense. Pat agreed and said he couldn't understand it.

"Unless," he added slowly, "it could be that occasionally I forget to tell Eloise anything about the invitations I have extended. Maybe that's it," he mused, "because she sure gets mad as hops when ten or fifteen people show up for dinner at our house when she didn't expect them."

The door-sill of his latest sojourn still was hanging around his neck, he admitted, but he said he expected to be a free man again in a few weeks. On the Thursday just past, it seems, he had bumped into some old friends from his home town, Milwaukee, when he was lunching at the Brown Derby. He wouldn't tell me their names, because I once wrote a story about some clothes of Eloise's which he had given away (that's another of his generous propensities that gets him into doghouse trouble) and he got into an awful jam. Anyway, they were three married couples who were in Hollywood on a vacation and, in his joy at seeing them, Pat had tossed off an invitation to the whole bunch to have dinner at his home that night. The invitation was accepted with alacrity and enthusiasm.

"Doggone if it didn't slip my mind to tell Eloise anything about it until I heard the front door-bell ring," he said. "Unfortunately, I also had forgotten it was Thursday, the cook's night off. By unhappy coincidence, my daughter, Mavourneen, had had the sniffles all day and Sean, my young son, had fallen downstairs and banged his head, which put him in a touchy temper. To make things a little worse, Laurie, the Scottie, had been chewed up that afternoon in a dog fight. Eloise finally had broken up the fight with a broom and the garden hose, but it hadn't improved her disposition. And lastly, it seems she had planned a meat pie from Wednesday's leftovers for dinner. So—" he sighed deeply, "here I am, in again."

Bette Davis looks like a pretty self-sufficient young woman, well able to take care of herself in any emergency. That's what she thought, too, and that's what landed her in the doghouse. Currently, I mean. As Bette tells the story, she was utterly worn out one night at the end of a day's shooting on "All This, and Heaven Too" with the heavy costumes she had been dragging around and all the emotional scenes she had been playing with Charles Boyer, who is an intensely nervous person. The drive to her Beverly Hills home seemed too much of an effort, so she calmly curled up on the couch in her dressing-room at the studio and stayed the night.

"I ADMIT I didn't call my home and leave word where I was," she said. "There was no point in it, because it was the servants' day off and they would not be back until late. Naturally it didn't occur to me to call Mother, because she doesn't live with me, and two or three days frequently go by when I don't see her or talk to her. After all, I'm free, white and over twenty-one and not accountable (or so I thought) to anyone for my comings or goings. So I went to sleep."

Unfortunately, however, Mrs. Davis chose that night to call her famous daughter's home. Receiving no answer, she kept calling at intervals until the servants returned. When she learned they had had no word from Bette and didn't have the faintest idea of her whereabouts, Mrs. Davis became frantic, as mothers the world over will do, and immediately decided Bette's bruised and broken body must be lying helpless on some deserted road. By 9 a.m. she was ready to call the police, the army and the marines if necessary, when the telephone rang.

ENVIOUS OF THE PUP to whose house lovely Bette Davis was banished by her mother are thousands of male admirers. Neither the Davis loveliness nor her power of persuasion availed when she spent the night at the studio without notifying her mother or friends

DON AMECHE'S irresistible urge to pull telephone gags on his trusting wife has made him a habitual inhabitant of Mrs. Ameche's doghouse

HUMPHREY BOGART'S doghouse days are due to forgetfulness. One time he drove off, leaving his wife locked in a canary cage Movie stars get into trouble with their families and friends like anyone else—and for the same identical reasons!

BY KAY PROCTOR

"Good morning, Mother dear," said Bette brightly. "Did you rest well last night?"

"Bette Davis, where are you?" Mrs. Davis demanded.

"Why, I'm at the studio, of course," Bette said. "I've been here all night."

Mrs. Davis' relief at finding Bette safe and sound immediately exploded into wrath—and Bette's been in the doghouse ever since.

An ingenious variation of giving his wife the bird clapped Humphrey Bogart into his last stretch of durance vile. He still swears it was an accident.

THE Bogarts keep thirty or forty canaries, love-birds and parrakeets in a big cage in the back garden. Genuine bird-fanciers, they personally see to it that the cage, five feet square and shoulder-high, is kept spotlessly clean. They were working at cleaning the cage one Saturday morning, with Mrs. B. hunched inside and Bogey opening grain sacks outside. The house-boy was away on an errand, so, when the telephone rang in the house, Bogey sprinted to answer it. Unconcernedly, Mrs. B. went on with her work.

Five minutes passed, then ten, then fifteen without a sign of Bogey returning. Suddenly she heard a car grinding into gear in the driveway.

"Bogart, you numskull!" Mrs. B. screamed. "Come back here! Let me out!"

The racing motor drowned her words. There followed a great silence, broken only by the twitterings of the birds as they flew about, tangling her hair, whirring by her legs, and nipping the back of her neck as she frantically worked to loosen the automatic lock on the outside of the cage door. Each time she straightened from her stooping posture, she banged her head on the solid plank ceiling. For one full and miserable hour, until the house-boy's return, she crouched in the cage. Bogey was dashing to Hollywood to meet his agent, blissfully unconscious of everything save the exciting news he had received on the telephone.

Never again will Nancy Kelly try to play Cupid. The worst doghouse she ever got into, she says, came from trying to help a couple of friends who were in love.

"I had introduced them in the first place," she told me, "and so I felt sort of responsible for them. They fell very much in love but always were having little tiffs and quarrels and separating. Then each of them would come to me and ask for my help in patching things up. What they needed was a good jolt to bring them to their senses."

A good dose of jealousy would produce the needed jolt, Nancy felt, so she put the necessary machinery in motion. The next time the girl called, she told her she had seen the boy in question out having a wonderful time with a beautiful stranger. When the boy called, Nancy told him the same story in reverse.

"It worked like a charm," she said. "Inside of a week they were so scared of losing each other that they patched up their troubles and were cooing like a couple of doves."

"Then it happened! In their happiness at being together again, each told the other what I had said. Both of them landed on me like a ton of bricks for telling such 'outrageous lies.' I pointed out that I had done it only to help them, and that they were back together, so why quibble about details. Did I get any thanks? Don't be silly. They both wailed that I might have ruined everything, and sent me to a double doghouse. I'm still in it."

Leave it to David Niven (now somewhere on the western front, I believe) to discover a unique and untraveled path to the doghouse. He accomplished it the last time before leaving Hollywood for England, where he rejoined his regiment. Cheese was his modus operandi.

For some time Niven and his boss, Samuel Goldwyn, had been bickering about radio offers made to him. David wanted to accept one offer in particular, a spot on Bing Crosby's program. Goldwyn said thumbs down, and inasmuch as he held the Niven contract, his word was final. Eventually, however, David wangled permission for the coveted appearance, with the provision that half of the earnings from it be returned to the Goldwyn coffers, the usual stipulation for all Goldwyn players.

Faithful to the agreement, Niven split his check from Bing's show fifty-fifty with Goldwyn. Then one week later, when all was quiet on the Niven-Goldwyn front, a line of Western Union boys solemnly filed into the Great Goldwyn's inner sanctum and deposited six large and odorous packages on his desk.

"Mr. Niven's compliments, sir," said the leader.

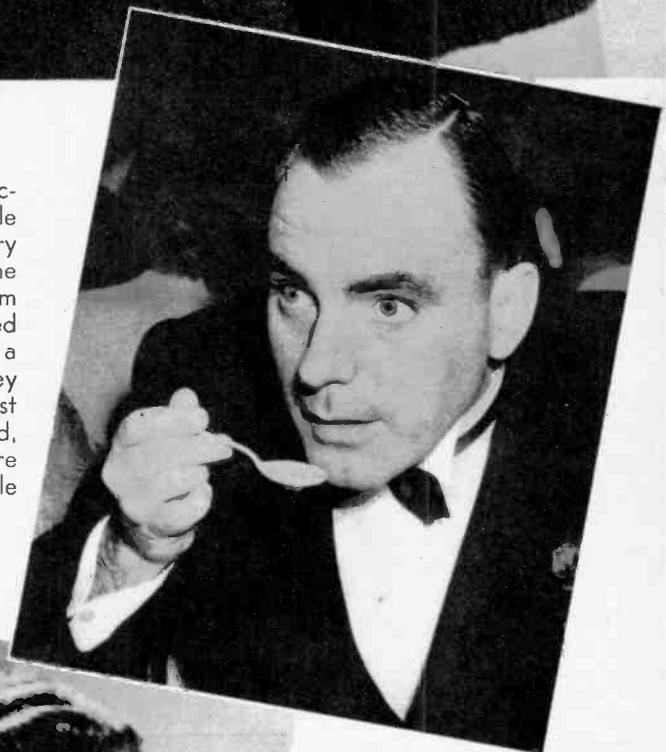

AS IS its custom, the cheese company sponsoring the Crosby radio show had sent David six large wheels of its different cheeses as a "thank you" gesture. Living up to the letter of his agreement, Niven had sliced each wheel exactly in half and sent it to Goldwyn. He thought it was funny; Goldwyn was not amused.

Don Ameche is an ideal husband. No denying that. But he runs Pat O'Brien a close second for getting into the doghouse. It's his irrepressible

NANCY KELLY'S occupancy of a double doghouse—and very pretty doghouses she must have made them—came when she tried to play Cupid to a couple of friends. They both turned against her. Playing Cupid, says Nancy, is a surefire way of inviting trouble

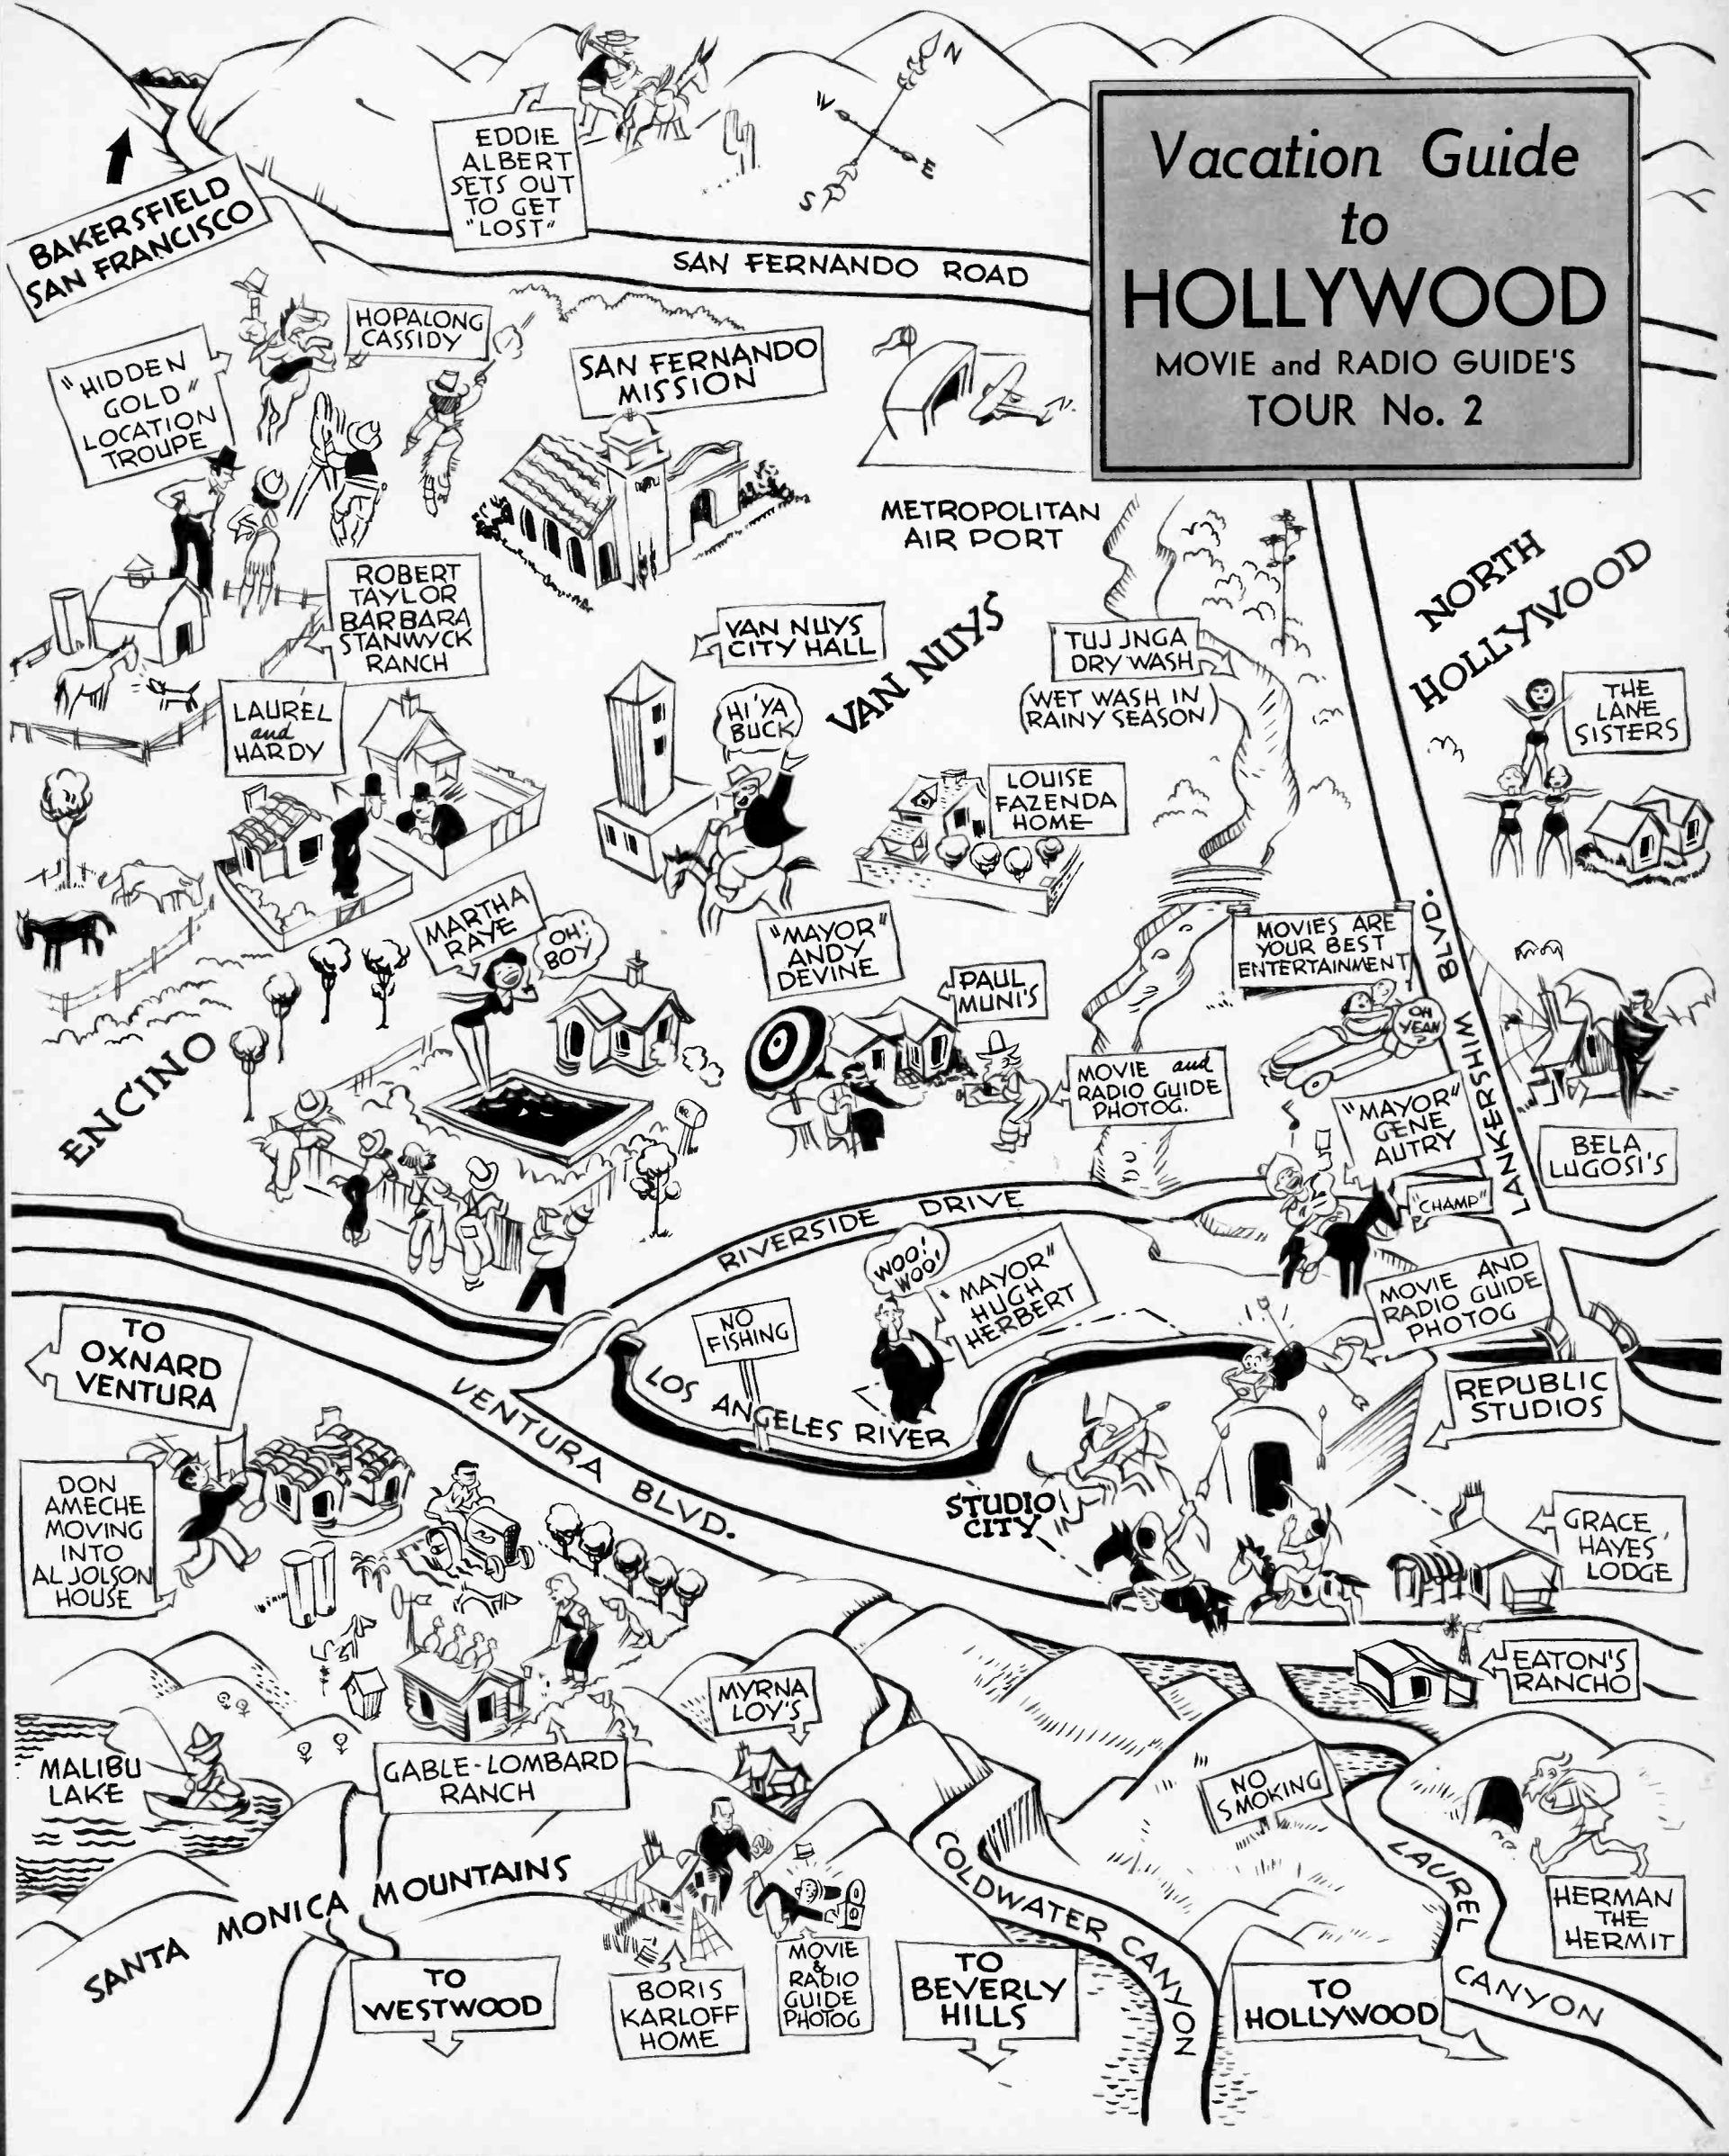

PAT O'BRIEN is another star whose fame and fortune carry no weight when it comes to Mrs. O'Brien and the O'Brien doghouse

DAVID NIVEN (l.) entered the Goldwyn doghouse via the gag route, as explained in this story; just before he left Hollywood to enlist for war service

Items of interest about Hollywood, as explained by a famous writer to his fourteen-year-old son.

By James Street

Hollywood, California
June 10, 1940

DEAR Jack:

Boy, this section of the country is sports mad. They have every sport out here we have back East, and with the exception of a few games, they have better athletics. But not better athletes. Because of a year-round playing season, a tremendous transient population, lots of money and an almost childish determination to be the biggest and best, Hollywood and southern California are able to out-shine us in sports.

I saw an ice-hockey game the other night played outdoors. The temperature was hot. It was a college game with lots of scoring and was not exactly good hockey. Most of the players were from Canada, and I learned that when the University of California decided to have a hockey team, it just went out and got itself one.

Without doubt, the University of Southern California has better baseball, basketball, football, etc., than any other school in the country. It can afford the best teams, because the people out here will turn out in droves for a tiddledy-winks match. They even are talking about having major-league baseball in Los Angeles! Los Angeles says that it could buy the franchise of some ailing big-league club and use airplanes for transportation. I laughed at first. And I'm still smiling, but, on the other hand, never sell this country short. These people out here have a way of doing what they say they will do, and nothing seems impossible to them.

They are everlastingly tearing down and building up. Construction crews work day and night. One of the first things I missed was the usual "Federal Works Project" sign. I was told that most of the men who are swinging picks and shovels are not on relief.

The airplane trip out was uneventful. It was my first time on a sleeper plane and I slept like a top. I could hear only a low hum and it helped sing me to sleep. The berths are very much like Pullman berths and very comfortable. The best part of the trip was from Salt Lake City to Los Angeles. We were flying over brown, dead land, and then suddenly all the world was green. A Californian pointed down to the green land and said, "That's what a bit of water does."

Southern California has everything except water, and some day it's going to have plenty of water because of the mountain dams. Then there will be no deserts. The deserts, son, are not sandy wastes but are parched lands filled with valuable chemicals and fertilizer. In the desert, a man can throw a bucket of water on the ground and flowers will bloom. The land is that rich. Sometimes moisture gets to the deserts and almost over night the poppies bloom. It is a magnificent sight.

I went out to Palm Springs, an oasis in a desert and one of Hollywood's playgrounds. It is a hurdy-gurdy resort, one main street flanked by souvenir shops. Men and women go around about half dressed and lap up the sun. It is not particularly attractive—gaudy, loud. It reminds me of a bargain basement on Saturday night.

ON THE way out, we passed many freight trains, and on each train there were hundreds of hobos. They are not molested. They are the "Grapes of Wrath" boys. We also passed scads of "Grapes of Wrath" jalopies—evicted America on wheels. The Government and California really are trying to solve the problem of transients out here. Mr. Steinbeck's novel and the movie have aroused public indignation.

Incidentally, southern California does not call the transients Oakies (wanderers from Oklahoma) or Arkies (wanderers from Arkansas), as we have been told. It seems that the Oakies and Arkies object to the names. They ain't dignified. So southern Californians call them transients. Southern California and its newspapers are very nice and do not like to hurt people's feelings. Except Florida's. Every time they can take a crack at Florida, they do it. It's very childish and rather amusing, but Florida is just as bad about California.

Every time anything opens out here it's a premiere. When a movie opens, the theater that is honored has searchlights out in front. Even meat-markets have grand openings, with lights and all the trimmings.

I had a lot of fun at one grand opening. Two fellows were out in front of the theater handling the lights. Their job was to move them from right to left so their rays would split the skies. They paid no attention whatsoever to the stars. I asked one of the men how many times an hour he moved the light. He thought I was nuts, but I learned that it takes him a second to swing his light from left to right. That's sixty swings a minute. He swings for about two hours. He's got the best job in Hollywood. He can watch the heavens where real stars are, and he doesn't have to stare and ogle at all the folks that pass by him.

At premieres, the crowds applaud everything. Even the names of the designers. I noticed that the names of the writers drew the least applause.

There are orange groves all along the roads, and at many places you can pay a dime and drink all the orange juice you want. I almost took a bath in it. But in Hollywood orange juice costs as much as in Connecticut and is no better.

Every place out here of more than an acre or so is called a ranch. Many of the stars have their own ranches. Oh, yes, I had some funny experiences the first few days. Every so often I would see a man or girl I thought I knew. It took me several days to wake up to the realization that I had seen them in bit parts on the screen.

I can't blame you for having Deanna Durbin as your favorite. She is a very remarkable young lady, well mannered, modest and normal-headed, which is a tribute out here where fame does strange things to heads. However, my favorite still is Judy Garland.

WENT to the Hollywood ball-park with Gene Autry. Gene wanted to be a big-league player once. He says he was pretty good back in Oklahoma. He's very popular out here with the kids, but his pictures are not so popular here. However, he gets more fan mail than any other star. He was delighted when I told him that back in Connecticut he is the idol of many boys. He always wears a cowboy suit, rain or shine, day and night. Republic Studios, where he works, has a new plant, and Autry's popularity built it.

Oh, yes, they don't call tourist camps by that name. They are "motels." Combination for motor-hotels. And the craziest thing I've run into is a nutburger. It's a glorified hamburger. You drive into a place and tell a beautiful girl in pants, "Gimme a nutburger."

She brings out a sandwich. It is a hamburger roll stuffed with a bit of meat, a gob of cole slaw, a dash of relish, a blob of salad-dressing, pickles, onions and nuts! I got it in my ears. I believe I prefer to have it in my ears than in my mouth.

Take care of things at home for me.
Love and good luck,

DAD.

This is the third and last of a series of letters written by author James Street to members of his family in Connecticut during his recent trip to Hollywood. This was written to John Street, age fourteen.

I LOVE YOU Again

WILLIAM POWELL AND MYRNA LOY are at it again, once more portraying a slightly zany husband and a wife with a sense of humor. Their next will be "I Love You Again," now before the cameras, and the course of their matrimony becomes, as usual, more too smooth, although everything (as usual) eventually turns out all right after a series of amusing situations

TYPICAL of the comedy which hilariously marks "I Love You Again" is a scene depicted by the pictures at left. Myrna, the usually sweet and much-enduring wife, has been roused out of bed at midnight to prepare a snack for her screwball husband, Bill Powell. When he refuses to eat what she prepares, Myrna grows angry, with the pictured results. A departure from the "Thin Man" series with which the Loy-Powell team has usually been associated, this is grand marital comedy.

All This, and Heaven Too!

CHARLES BOYER AND BETTE DAVIS play the roles of the Duc de Praslin and Mlle. Henriette Desportes in this tragic love story. Henriette, just out of school, arrives at the household of the Duc to be governess to his children—three daughters and a tiny baby son

Movie and Radio Guide Picture of the Week

ONE OF the most sensational murders in the history of France furnishes the theme around which the book "All This, and Heaven Too" was written, and from which the motion picture has been made. Because of its tragic and deeply stirring plot, the excellent characterizations given by Bette Davis, Charles Boyer, Jeffrey Lynn and a splendid supporting cast, this film has been chosen MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE's Picture of the Week. The murder upon which the film is based had reverberating consequences. It fomented a revolution, drove King Louis Philippe from the French throne and deeply involved an innocent woman. This woman, taking refuge from scandal and gossip in America, later married into one of America's leading families of that period. Also, this woman, whose fictional counterpart is played by Bette Davis, was the great-aunt of Rachel Field, author of the sensationally successful novel from which the film was adapted. When filming was finished, Warner Bros. executives learned that so many scenes had been made that they must either release the picture in two parts or perform a stern job of editing. They chose the latter course and, in order to lose none of the authentic flavor of the best-selling novel, assigned Rachel Field the job of cutting and editing. Period bric-a-brac and furniture used was valued at over a half-million dollars.

THE DUC REALIZES, too, how much Henriette has come to mean to his children, and a tense situation arises when the Duc and Henriette, alone, keep vigil through the night at the bedside of the ill Raynaldo. Next day, the Duchesse (Barbara O'Neill) accuses the Duc of being in love with Henriette and, without notice, discharges her

BECAUSE THE DUCHESS is too preoccupied with social affairs, the children (l. to r., Virginia Weidler as Louise; June Lockhart as Isabelle; Richard Nichols, on Miss Davis' lap, as Raynaldo; Ann Todd as Bertha) turn to Henriette for the love and counsel they had never had from their mother, the Duchesse

TURNED OUT without letters of recommendation, Henriette is desperate, when the Duc learns of her plight. Next day, Paris awakens to the news that the Duchesse has been murdered. Rather than involve Henriette by admitting his love, the Duc absolves Henriette of all blame, takes poison

BUT HENRIETTE IS INVOLVED anyway and the black scandal of the murder makes employment in Paris impossible. Added to this is the knowledge that she, too, loved the Duc. In this critical period, she is comforted by a young American, Jeffrey Lynn, who urges her to come to America and accept a position in a fashionable girls' finishing-school

LEFT: But Henriette learns that her past has followed her, that her pupils know of the murder. She faces them, tells the whole sad, true story and, by routing idle gossip and rumor, wins the affection and respect of the entire student body

WITH COURAGE for the future in a brave new world, and with the promise of love already in the eyes of the young American who had helped her so, Henriette at last finds the peace and understanding she had been seeking for so long

This Week in Hollywood

Bette Davis and Ann Sheridan feud over "Calamity Jane";
Ginger Rogers discusses marriage—here's the latest news!

GEORGE RAFT and Rhea Gable, Clark Gable's second ex-wife—an unusual twosome seen on opening day at Hollywood Park races

ALICE FAYE was rushed to the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital (June 6) for an emergency gall-bladder operation, which was satisfactorily performed. Hospitalization for two weeks delays the start of her new picture, "Down Argentine Way," in which she will be co-starred with Don Ameche. Rumors that Betty Grable will replace Miss Faye were unverified at this writing. Oddity: That Cesar Romero, also suddenly taken ill and in Hollywood Hospital, was likewise scheduled to appear in "Down Argentine Way."

BETTE DAVIS and Ann Sheridan are rapidly nearing the open-feud stage with the announcement that Bette will play the role in Warners' "Calamity Jane" which Ann claims was promised to her months ago. It is understood that when Bette read the script prepared for Ann by Jerry Wald, she told her bosses she felt like playing a non-neurotic toughie for a change and demanded the part. She has been queen of the Warner roost for a long time, but recently Miss Sheridan has been getting the cream of the publicity emanating from the lot, and also the exclusive attention of George Brent, former Davis admirer. To thicken the plot, Brent refused a role in Miss Davis' present picture, "The Letter," stating that he didn't like the character he was supposed to play. Bette has fired two shots so far in retaliation for any volleys aimed at her throne: (1) She has acquired the romantic as well as professional services of Warners' ace publicity man, Bob Taplinger; (2) she still has first choice of all female star stories on the lot, as proved by the "Calamity Jane" assignment. Predicted: Ann Sheridan is "going to raise the roof" at the studio!

VIRGINIA FIELD AND RICHARD GREENE gave a benefit for the Allied Relief at the Cafe Lamaze, with several thousands of dollars gleaned from voluntary contributions, the gaming tables that ran all night and several auctions. A star-studded floor show included Edgar Bergen, who gave his inimitable and unbroadcastable Ophelia characterization; Reginald Gardiner, as master of ceremonies; Mischa Auer, the auctioneer, who sold a hat for $28 and a magnum of champagne for $46; Lee Bowman, who turned crooner, and sweet-singing Alec Morison, Patricia's brother. The Hollywood Touch: Slim Gordon, owner of the cafe, redecorated the roof-garden for the event with a gaily striped tent with sawdust on the floor. Gordon ordered $16.80 worth of sawdust, then had to spend $20 on an emergency crew to shovel out most of it. The stuff was ankle-deep!

GINGER ROGERS, pressed for more details of her marriage to Howard Hughes, said, "I don't believe in making plans. I have pictures to keep me busy for eleven months. After that, who knows?" Well, if Ginger doesn't, neither do we!

ELEANOR POWELL, unable to be seen the day after an operation, could not answer the rumor that she would retire when she married M-G-M art director Merrill Pye, but Mr. Pye told a MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE reporter: "Some columnists we know, but there are just as many we have never met who are authorities on our plans and have us either breaking our engagement or planning to retire to a farm and grow potatoes. We have never discussed our careers ending, but I feel sure that we will both continue. The one thing we know, and that seems to have been overlooked, is that we are very happy as we are and are not planning any radical changes in our personal lives or careers."

JANE WITHERS ducked off the 20th Century-Fox lot for an unauthorized personal appearance at the local Postman's Ball at the Shrine auditorium. The reason: Her postman, Edward Karweise, begged her to make personal use of the tickets she bought from him. Jane did more than that. She attended the ball with Karweise and, although he is a grandfather, insisted on jitterbugging with him. (Biographical note: Karweise is the Brentwood postman who donned roller skates to travel his ten-mile daily beat, was made famous by Bob Ripley, and because of notoriety was ordered by the U. S. Government, to take off the skates!)

SONJA HENIE is denying rumors that her expected marriage to Dan Topping will keep her from making any more pictures. She is under commitment to 20th Century-Fox for two more. In New York on business, Miss Henie is believed to be arranging an earlier tour of her "Ice Follies" than usual, so Miss Henie's fans may expect to see her either in person or on the screen in the near future. Sidelight: Insiders think that Miss Henie is shopping for a trousseau. They believe that she will have a real wedding and not a Hollywood elopement.

FLORENCE ROBERTS, who played the grandmother role in seventeen editions of the 20th Century-Fox "Jones Family" pictures, died in her sleep at her Hollywood home after returning from a Panama trip. She was seventy-nine. The studio finished its yearly quota of "Jones" pictures in February, whereupon Jed Prouty, who played the father, expressed dissatisfaction over his part in them and left the lot. Spring Byington, the mother, is now appearing in "Laddie" at RKO. Asked if more "Jones Family" pictures are on their future schedules, the studio stated that it all depended on the fans. If there is a demand for more of this series, the family will be reassembled, with the sad exception of Miss Roberts.

ORSON WELLES actually must be contemplating making his last-announced picture, "Citizen Kane," since he has sketches of some of the characters on the walls of his office. Contrary to title and to general expectations, "Citizen Kane" will be a period picture, beginning in Europe and winding up in America. Welles' inspiration: Producers in neighboring offices on the RKO lot swear Welles gets into the mood for work by playing a transcription of his Mars broadcast. They have

STYLE OF THE WEEK: Anita Louise (who recently became Mrs. Buddy Adler) wears a smart younger-married slacksuit of blue gabardine, very effective in highlighting her blond beauty. Designed by LaBelle, Hollywood designer, the outfit features a fashionable Eton jacket with a shawl collar. The blue-and-white-striped cotton blouse has amusing buttons of self material with the stripes running horizontally. Plain white-linen slacks shoes accent the smart comfort of the costume—and comfort is its keynote. Added touch: Note Anita's initials on the collar lapel. They're "A. L. A.," representing, of course, her newly acquired married name, Anita Louise Adler

SONJA HENIE, at the "Susan and God" premiere, was well photographed and, shhh! that's Dan Topping behind and to the left!

CLAUDETTE COLBERT, also attending the "Susan and God" premiere, was with her mother. Missing (as usual): Hubby Dr. Pressman heard it so much they all know it by heart—and no longer are frightened!

GINGER ROGERS AND RONALD COLMAN, teamed in an RKO comedy, "Lucky Partners," have found making the film not so lucky; the picture has been delayed by story trouble. In it Colman will be seen dancing on the screen for the first time.

CAROLE LOMBARD takes her work seriously. Director Garson Kanin has inaugurated a new method of film-making for the new Laughton-Lombard feature, holding two weeks of advance rehearsals in his office on the RKO lot. Carole plays a waitress in a spaghetti joint, and she'd been practising with trays and dishes for days. One morning La Lombard, attired in a city-smart suit and whoop-de-do hat and carrying a breakfast-tray on her arm, knocked on the Kanin office door. A writer just out from New York got one glimpse of Carole in the hall and dashed back into his office. He collapsed into his second-best chair and wheezed at his secretary: "That guy Kanin must be screwy. He even makes his waitresses dress up like Carole Lombard."

MAUREEN O'HARA has been announced for a role in Harold Lloyd's "Three Girls and a Gob." Lloyd visited the set of RKO's "Dance, Girl, Dance," in which Maureen is now starring, asked to be introduced to the actress. Mystified lookers-on watched the meeting with amusement. Miss O'Hara, questioned later, said: "I thought Mr. Lloyd was going to act in the picture. I didn't know he was going to produce it. No one has told me yet whether I'm to be in the film or not. I suppose the studio doesn't want to worry me with another assignment while I'm finishing 'Dance, Girl, Dance.'" Reflection: It could happen only in Hollywood that a producer has to crash a set to meet the star he is supposed to have signed for his picture!

BING CROSBY is Hollywood-wise. He knows, for instance, all about the many contest winners who come to the town with six-month contracts, never make a picture, and go home broken-hearted. He also knows the impossibility of actually sponsoring a newcomer who is a big question mark at the box-office. That is why the inside story of Bing's interest in Janet Waldo is both wise and commendable. Bing chose Janet two years ago as the most popular girl in a contest in his own home town, Spokane, Washington. He placed her under contract with his brother's agency and quietly arranged for her to be given bit parts in each picture of his. She's a secretary in "Rhythm on the River." But, between Crosby pictures, Janet has had to manage on her own. Result: She is up for a good role in "Kiss the Boys Good-bye."

TYRONE POWER'S telegram to Robert Taylor was one of the nicer gestures one star can make to another. The wire: "Bob, when anyone does as grand a job as you did in 'Waterloo Bridge,' they ought to be told so. Although I am a little late, I would like to add my voice to those who have already said you're swell." Indication of the wire's meaning to Bob: The message is carried around in his wallet with only important papers.

FUNNIEST series of complaints was heard during the fog scenes in "Captain Caution." Fog for the movies ordinarily is produced by a mixture of oils, but players complained so much that the ingenious prop department tried adding vanilla! Indignation turned to pleading to go back to plain oil. Explained Vic Mature, who has the title role: "Everything tasted like vanilla—even chocolate sundaes. And don't ever try a chocolate sundae that tastes like vanilla!"

JAMES HALL, film star of the silent era, passed away recently in Jersey Medical Center at the age of thirty-nine. He will be remembered by many for his performances with Clara Bow in "The Fleet's In," with the late Jean Harlow in "Hell's Angels," and as the leading man of many pictures of that same period. For the past several years he had been working as master of ceremonies in night-clubs in Jersey City and Union City in New Jersey.

JUDY CANOVA breathlessly sat down between poses for publicity pictures and had heavy scrubbing-brushes removed from her shoes. Offered sympathy for having to skate on the slippery, weighty things, Judy said: "This is nothing. You should have seen me yesterday. I spent the day hanging on awnings." Competitor for the tired-out-after-the-day's-work award is Rita Hayworth, who has been spending days lifting bicycle tires for her role in the recently retitled "Gribouille," now "It Happened in Paris."

ANDREWS SISTERS' opening June 7 at Casa Manana, in Culver City, brought out the cream of the music set, with radio and screen names tagging along for the ride. Paul Whiteman stopped work on M-G-M's "Strike Up the Band" at 11 p.m. and dropped in, minus scheduled-to-appear Mickey Rooney, who had been sentenced to bed in preparation for next day's work. John Scott Trotter, who is working in Bing Crosby's "Rhythm on the River," stayed the whole evening together with Larry Crosby and Bing's song-writers, Johnny Burke and Jimmy Monaco; Lew Pollack, who also does all right with his songs, listened in. Phil Harris and bandleader Ken Baker, after finishing their own dance engagements, rushed over to congratulate Johnny Richards (Cascales), who took over Victor Young's band for his first dance job. Dennis Day and Bill Thompson had fun wandering around with Andy Devine. Harry and Al Ritz, minus brother Jimmy, who are making "Argentine Nights" with the Andrews Sisters, gagged through a routine that had photographers in seventh heaven.

DICK POWELL, interviewed on

Paramount's "The New Yorkers" set, expressed regret that he would be unable to attend Joan Blondell's opening in the play "Goodbye to Love" at the Santa Barbara Lobero Theater. He is on daily call at the studio. But when Dick is finished at Paramount and Joan has completed the run of her play, it's good-bye to Hollywood for three months. Said Powell: "We just want some time to be together."

PRISCILLA LANE, who has been suspended by Warners for the past six weeks as a result of refusing to appear in "Money and the Woman," probably is going to settle her differences with the studio and make "Honeymoon for Three" with Olivia de Havilland and George Brent. Priscilla hasn't made a picture since February, at which time she took her regular twelve-week vacation without pay. Added to the vacation was the six weeks' suspension without salary, which cost her around $10,000. To be expected: Priscilla will be glad to get back to work.

JOHN BARRYMORE, clanking in a Hamlet vest of neatly polished silver mesh and black tights, began his first week of stealing scenes from scene-snatcher Gregory Ratoff in "The Great Profile." Queried by a MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE reporter on his reaction to living his life over again for the cameras, Barrymore said wistfully, "This is the craziest nut I have ever played. But it's marvelous to retrace my youth. You know, I actually feel young again." Sidelight: Mr. Barrymore is recapturing his youthful and famous Hamlet legs with symmetricals (leg-corsets).

"SUSAN AND GOD" has Fredric March, long absent from the screen, as the husband driven to drink by Joan Crawford, his society wife, who becomes a religious faddist

THIS WEEK ON The Screen

Bob Hope, Paulette Goddard score in "The Ghost Breakers"; "Susan and God" is unusual problem play

"THE GHOST BREAKERS" is another of those eerie, thrill-filled but comic dramas starring Bob Hope and Paulette Goddard. With them, above, is sinister Paul Lukas (L.)

"Susan and God"

Cast: Joan Crawford, Fredric March, Ruth Hussey, John Carroll, Rita Hayworth, Nigel Bruce, Bruce Cabot, Rita Quigley, Rose Hobart, Constance Collier; Gloria de Haven, et al. An M-G-M picture, produced by Hunt Stromberg; directed by George Cukor, who also directed "The Women"; from the play by Rachel Crothers.

"SUSAN AND GOD" is a sophisticated film of society, its manners, foibles and more particularly its religious manias. As such, while the intent is to present a religious theme with sincerity and depth of feeling, it will delight many and will offend others with the biting quality of its attack upon religious faddists.

"Susan and God" will be remembered also for another Joan Crawford reascension to film pinnacles and for the return of a better-than-ever Fredric March to the screen after a prolonged stage appearance in "The American Way."

The story of Susan is the story of a self-centered, frivolous soul who adopts religion as a fad, only to have it save her own relationship with her husband and daughter. Miss Crawford, as the feverishly hectic society woman, is seen to better advantage here than in any of her efforts of recent months. Fredric March, as her husband who turns in bewilderment to drink and later bargains with his wife, offering her her freedom in exchange for a summer spent with him and their daughter, leaves a feeling that movie audiences have been the losers in March's long absence from Hollywood.

Find of the film, however, is Rita Quigley, older sister of Juanita Quigley, well-known child star seen in "That Certain Age" and many other films. Miss Quigley plays with sureness the unsure adolescent daughter who, in the end, effects a reconciliation between her parents. Her appearance here was quite by accident. Juanita had always been the stellar figure in the Quigley family, but last Christmas producer Hunt Stromberg met Rita, was impressed by her, tested her and assigned her the part of Blossom in this. Starting as a mouselike, unattractive youngster, she blooms into a charming, beautiful subdeb before the picture ends.

Adrian, who designed the stunning gowns and ensembles seen in "Susan and God," for the first time designs clothes for a sixteen-year-old—Miss Quigley. Incidentally, a large part of the budget for the film went into clothes and it is a veritable fashion feast for women. It is a preview of what they will be wearing this summer and fall.

Producer Hunt Stromberg and director George Cukor repeat here the full but unostentatious mountings and restrained performance which marked their success, "The Women." The part Joan Crawford plays in this is, too, reminiscent of the part she played in "The Women." Much deeper, emotionally, however, her delineation of the society woman here will aid a Crawford fighting her way back to the top after several unfortunate pictures.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Los Angeles Times: "... Stinging sort of satire on religious faddists..." Variety: "... Will tend to shock the strait-laced, though its intention is anything but that..." Hollywood Reporter: "... Brittle drawing-room comedy-drama..."

"Private Affairs"

Cast: Nancy Kelly, Hugh Herbert, Roland Young, Robert Cummings, Montagu Love, Jonathan Hale, Florence Shirley, et al. A Universal picture, produced by Burt Kelly; directed by Albert S. Rogell, who also directed "Start Cheering."

"PRIVATE AFFAIRS" is a fresh and whimsical little comedy-drama with an excellent cast and a neatly written screen play. It will delight its audiences and add to the popularity of Nancy Kelly, Roland Young and Hugh Herbert, its principals. Hugh Herbert particularly has here the most ingratiating part in his career.

The story revolves about the eventual triumph of Roland Young, the black sheep of a Boston Back Bay family, whose father is bearish and dogmatic Montagu Love. As the picture opens, Love stands between Young's daughter, Nancy Kelly, and her fiance, Robert Cummings, and Young is determined to do something about the tyranny under which Love holds the whole family.

Together with Hugh Herbert, a taxi-driver to whom he becomes increasingly indebted as the fare rolls up, Young decides to crash Boston society and financial circles. This he succeeds in doing, setting everything right between Nancy and Cummings at the same time.

Crammed with good solid humor and with a clever story, "Private Affairs" has a pleasant taste from start to finish.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Variety: "... An amusing comedy abounding in delightful character combinations..." It sustains a note of whimsical fun along with romantic warmth..." Los Angeles Times "... A farce with romantic interludes..."

"Earthbound"

Cast: Warner Baxter, Andrea Leeds, Lynn Bari, Charles Grapewin, Henry Wilcoxon, Elizabeth Patterson, Russell Hicks, et al. A 20th Century-Fox picture, produced by Sol M. Wurtzel; directed by Irving Pichel, who also directed "Topper Takes a Trip"; from the book by Basil King.

LESS pretentious—but far more effective—than many of the life-after-death films recently made is "Earthbound," a remake of a film released in the almost forgotten "silent" days of 1920.

Warner Baxter is seen as a ghost who is earthbound until his murderess, protected by the false confession of her husband, is faced with her crime. Andrea Leeds, as his grief-stricken widow, and Lynn Bari, as the guilty "other" woman, have difficult roles and make the most of them.

Stages upon which the film was made were closed to outsiders to avoid revelation of secret photography which has Baxter walking through doors, watching himself fall after he is shot, and attending his own funeral.

Following the "Topper" school of ghosts, with emphasis on the lighter side, "Earthbound" is entertaining without the "Topper" zaniness.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Hollywood Reporter: "... Mystic adventure of more than passing interest..." Variety: "... A ghostly whodunit..."

"The Ghost Breakers"

Cast: Bob Hope, Paulette Goddard, Richard Carlson, Paul Lukas, Anthony Quinn, Willie Best, Pedro de Cordoba, Virginia Brissac, Noble Johnson, et al. A Paramount picture, produced by Arthur Hornblow, Jr.; directed by George Marshall, who also directed "Destry Rides Again."

EVER since "The Cat and the Canary" was shown to screen audiences, the cry of "encore" has been raised with ever-increasing volume for a second comedy-thriller starring Bob Hope and Paulette Goddard. "The Ghost Breakers" is not only an answer to that cry but one of the best comedies of its type ever made.

The story itself is a slight but nonetheless gripping little thing which has Paulette Goddard inheriting a castle in Cuba in which her forebears had met strange and eerie deaths. Paul Lukas, dark and malignant, meets her in New York, warns her against going to the castle, advises her to sell the ruin to him. Woman-like, Paulette decides to investigate her inheritance. On the boat she meets—for the second time—Bob Hope, who offers to help her.

A ghost-breaker is a man who undertakes to rid a house of ghosts. Bob Hope becomes the most hilarious ghost-breaker ever to undertake that precarious task—and in a land of voodoo where he is pitted against an unearthly creature, The Zombie. Hope gives his lines with an impromptu air which makes them startlingly effective, while Miss Goddard, rapidly developing into a farceur of real stature, highlights the Hope performance.

Ace comedy director George Marshall speeds the film along at a mile-a-minute, laugh-a-second pace with thrills and chills thrown in with a reckless abandon. What happens in that ghost-infested castle becomes something to see.

The castle was reproduced from a real and supposedly haunted castle in Cuba. It required five weeks for studio carpenters to build it, two more weeks to build in the spooky stuff—sliding panels, trap doors, and coffins filled with bodies one minute, empty the next.

An amazing sound-device is used in this film for the first time. Called the Sonovox by its inventor, Gilbert Wright, son of famed novelist Harold Bell Wright, it combines the human voice with mechanical sound to produce an eerie effect. Thus, even the wind speaks with a semi-human quality that will, if you have hair, make it stand on end, and if you haven't hair, it will make your scalp crawl.

The bats seen in the film were trained to perch or fly about on order of the director. They also were made up by make-up men to let their protective coloring stand out against the dark background. Miss Goddard climbed a niche higher in the affections of the studio crew during the filming. Given three bathing-suits by the designer, she let workmen see her in all three, then vote for their favorite. They selected a yellow, form-fitting suit.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Variety: "... Fun, shivery suspense, picturesque settings, shocking thrills..." The best chill-thrill comedy yet turned out..." Hollywood Reporter: "... Better than its predecessor, 'The Cat and the Canary,' it is a hilarious attraction..."

COMING RADIO EVENTS

For the Week of June 29-July 5

Saturday, June 29

ALISON SKIPWORTH, grand old trouper who has brightened many a Hollywood production with humorous, expertly done character portrayals, will be the guest star of the "Lincoln Highway" program, appearing in a dramatization of what might have happened along America's great Coast-to-Coast thoroughfare. NBC.

Summertime Program Changes

ABBOTT AND COSTELLO, popular Kate Smith comedy team, strike out with their first all-Abbott-Costello radio show, "The Hour of Smiles," Wednesday, July 3 (NBC, 9:00 p.m. EDT; 8:00 EST; 8:00 CDT; 7:00 CST; 9:00 MST; 8:00 PST), taking over the first half of the hour vacated June 26 when Fred Allen parted for the summer—and permanently—with his sponsor. Sal Hepatica. Benay Venuta, well-known and well-liked rhythm singer, will do the vocals.

"THE ALDRICH FAMILY," with Ezra Stone, will make a second and final appearance on vacationing Jack Benny's Sunday NBC spot on June 30, then move to Thursday (8:30 p.m. EDT; 7:30 EST; 7:30 CDT; 6:30 CST; 9:00 MST; 8:00 PST), beginning July 4. "The Aldrich Family," which is the summer Jell-O show, thus takes over for the remainder of the summer the spot formerly occupied by "I Love a Mystery."

BURNS AND ALLEN make a revolutionary change in their broadcast schedule Monday, July 1, as they go on the air Monday (7:30 p.m. EDT; 6:30 EST; 9:30 CDT; 8:30 CST; 7:30 MST; 6:30 PST) instead of Wednesday, over NBC instead of CBS, and advertising Hormel meat products instead of Hinds hand lotion. Their new Monday spot was formerly occupied by Sammy Kaye's "Sensation and Swing." Biggest change in the program itself is the withdrawal of Ray Noble's orchestra and the installation of Artie Shaw as Burns and Allen music-maker, this being Artie Shaw's first commercial spot since he was heard with Bob Benchley over a year ago.

DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT ALLEN, famed originators of the Washington Merry-Go-Round newspaper column, open a series of news comment broadcasts on Monday, July 8 (NBC, 8:30 p.m. EDT; 7:30 EST; 7:30 CDT; 6:30 CST; 8:30 MST; 7:30 PST), for the sponsor of "True or False," which will be heard for the last time this Monday, July 1.

"GOOD NEWS OF 1940" moves to a new spot—still NBC and Thursday night—on July 4. Formerly heard at 9:00 p.m. EDT, it will now be aired at 8:00 p.m. EDT; 7:00 EST; 7:00 CDT; 6:00 CST; 8:30 MST; 7:30 PST.

"HOLLYWOOD PLAYHOUSE" welcomes, for the second summer, Gale Page and Jim Ameche as its personable co-stars on Wednesday, July 3 (NBC, 8:00 p.m. EDT; 7:00 EST; 7:00 CDT; 6:00 CST; 8:00 MST; 7:00 PST), as Charles Boyer leaves the air for a vacation. Miss Page, who has starred with Boyer on many broadcasts during recent months, returns with Ameche after a three-week vacation.

"FUN IN PRINT," under the guiding hand of "Tune Detective" Sigmund Spaeth, quizzes experts on everything and anything that can be found in print. With New York newspaperman Lewis Gannett as guest expert, you'll hear another interesting session this week on "Fun in Print." CBS.

"KRAFT MUSIC HALL" will be heard one hour earlier beginning July 4, but will remain a sixty-minute show. Tune in Bing Crosby and the KMH gang Thursday on NBC at 9:00 p.m. EDT; 8:00 EST; 8:00 CDT; 7:00 CST; 6:00 MST; 5:00 PST.

"MEREDITH WILLSON'S MUSICAL REVUE," an experimental musical broadcast under the direction of "Good News" maestro Willson, will entertain Fibber McGee's huge air audience during the vacation months. Willson's Revue will be heard Tuesdays, beginning July 2, over NBC (9:30 p.m. EDT; 8:30 EST; 8:30 CDT; 7:30 CST; 6:30 MST; 5:30 PST, the McGee show's regular time).

"MORTIMER MEEK," latest in comedy dramatic sketches, starring Jack Smart, will premiere Wednesday, July 10 (CBS, 7:30 p.m. EDT; 6:30 EST; 6:30 CDT; 5:30 CST; 4:30 MST; 3:30 PST). Adelaide Klein will have one of the leading feminine roles.

"MR. DISTRICT ATTORNEY," outstanding anti-crime thriller formerly heard on Thursday nights at 8 p.m. EDT, will be aired Wednesdays (NBC, 9:30 p.m. EDT; 8:30 EST; 8:30 CDT; 7:30 CST; 9:30 MST; 8:30 PST), beginning July 3, thus taking over the second half of the hour vacated by Fred Allen June 26. The show will not change sponsor.

"THE NATIONAL BARN DANCE," NBC-Blue's biggest broadcast, switches to the Red network Saturday, June 29, but will not change broadcast time. The famous Saturday night show will be fed to more than fifty stations (9:00 p.m. EDT; 8:00 EST; 8:00 CDT; 7:00 CST; 8:00 MST; 7:00 PST).

"QUIZ KIDS" is the title of the new program which replaced "Alec Templeton Time" for Alka-Seltzer June 28. Heard Fridays (NBC, 10:30 p.m. EDT; 9:30 EST; 9:30 CDT; 8:30 CST; 7:30 MST; 6:30 PST), instead of on Templeton's Monday spot, the new show will be a juvenile "Information, Please," on which Joe Kelly, master of ceremonies, will quiz boys and girls under fourteen. Alec Templeton will return in the fall.

"RUDY VALLEE'S PROGRAM" will move ahead a half-hour beginning July 4, thus going on the air Thursday over NBC at 10:00 p.m. EDT; 9:00 EST; 9:00 CDT; 8:00 CST; 7:00 MST; 6:00 PST.

TOMMY DORSEY and his orchestra took over Bob Hope's popular Tuesday night program on June 25 (NBC, 10:00 p.m. EDT; 9:00 EST; 9:00 CDT; 8:00 CST; 7:00 MST; 6:00 PST) until Hope's return to the air next fall.

LOS ANGELES salutes Admiral Byrd's U. S. Antarctic Service Expedition with a program under the auspices of the Los Angeles Times. Originating in NBC's Hollywood studios, the broadcast will follow the same pattern as previous salutes, in which two-way communication via short-wave spans the ten-thousand mile stretches of land, water and ice between the Byrd explorers and their home folks. The mail-bag period, during which letters from friends and relatives at home are read, has proved enormously popular with listeners-in, and will be continued. NBC.

The March of Music

Edited by LEONARD LIEBLING

"... An ampler Ether, a diviner Air..."—Wordsworth

Stations on which you may hear these programs are listed on our program pages on the day and at the hour indicated

We, the Operatic People

EACh one of us, if you've thought about it, is part owner of the Metropolitan Opera House and of its singing company. That is what we were promised when the momentous million-dollar drive started. The Metropolitan, the executives told us, would be "democratized." Made into an institution representing the average populace. Belong to all the country instead of only to New York and its top crust of society. Send in your contributions to swell the purchasing and sustaining fund, was the cry, and all those potential wonders would be realized.

Well, the contributions came (from radio dialers most generously) and considerably more than the desired million is on hand.

Meanwhile we are hearing much from parlor impresarios who have schemes for helping to democratize the Metropolitan. Make the top price of admission two dollars, they suggest; give all the works in English; engage only American singers; produce more operas by Americans; make the Metropolitan a "nursery" for our young native vocalists; use movie methods by speeding up action in the librettos by cutting them to the bone—and by cutting the beards off the Wagnerian characters with a view to pleasing the women present in the audiences.

My own guess is that the Metropolitan may be expected to go on practically as it was, retaining most of the former casts, operas and conductors, charging a bit less perhaps for the best seats, and endeavoring to give up as little of the former glamour as possible.

Highlights of the Week

SUMMER broadcasts strive to please rather than to instruct, and therefore one must expect to find plenty of musical desserts served with the weightier compositions.

However, some of the programs manage to keep up a respectably high standard, thereby enabling the superserious music-lover not to be entirely deprived of his accustomed tonal menus.

Music Hall's current broadcast features three amiably romantic D's (instead of the famous classical three B's). They are Dohnanyi, Debussy, Dvorak.

Of the trio, Dohnanyi (born 1877), now conducting, teaching and playing the piano in Budapest, is the only one alive. In his native country he ranks with those other Hungarian masters, Bartok and Kodaly. However, he is superior to them as a melodist and in generally euphonious writing, those qualities being easily apparent in his quintet excerpt on the Music Hall list. The same program also has another ingratiating number—Schumann's set of piano pieces, "Childhood Scenes," here arranged for string quartet.

Columbia Symphony Orchestra evidently considers Wagner to be good fare all the year round (most of us agree), and Barlow chooses some of the best-known examples. The real novelty of the program is the appearance of William Fein-schreiber as commentator, succeeding Aaron Copland in that post. The new man is no musical tyro, for in addition to his regular research and production work at CBS, he also has supplied the scripts during the past few years for the announcers at the Philharmonic concerts, Columbia Concert Hall, Stadium, Essays in Music, etc. Under his informed and authoritative guidance, there will be added enjoyment in listening to the Barlow series.

Vera Brodsky plays Brahms' early piano sonata, opus 2, which endures mainly because of its dramatic first movement and the hauntingly lovely andante.

Edwin MacArthur, much discussed baton protege of Flagstad, introduces a new American work, by Victor Young, at the distinctly highlight concert of the NBC Orchestra. MacArthur, born in Denver, 1908, started there as a choir-boy, and after fifteen years in New York (mostly as a piano accompanist), went back to his home town recently to receive the degree of doctor of music. During the past two seasons he catapulted himself into sudden and sensational success as a conductor with leading orchestras and at the Metropolitan, Chicago and San Francisco Operas. "He will bear watching," as the critics say.

Young's ballet excerpts are subtitled "Grand Salaam," "Shadows and Sunshine" and "Parade of the Robots." The story of the ballet concerns a modern scientist who builds a machine that makes mass productions of robots, two of whom engage in a romance that unlocks their mechanical hearts. All ends happily with a gala climax by the entire ensemble of imitation humans.

A characteristic phase of the German invasion of France is that the same hour the Nazis entered Paris, they took over the government radio station there and at once began to send out programs of German music. That is at least one form of warfare which doesn't kill anyone.

Record of the Week

ORPHEUS (SYMPHONIC POEM NO. 4). By Franz Liszt. Played by the Columbia Broadcasting Symphony Orchestra. Howard Barlow, conductor. Columbia Album X-165. $3.50.

Those who remember and enjoyed last summer's broadcast by Howard Barlow and the CBS Orchestra of this unfamiliar work, now have the chance to own a permanent record of it. The music is ardent and flowingly lovely, and Barlow's performance is excellent.

On Short Waves

RADIO-ROMA BECOMES A NAZI MOUTHPIECE

Despite the speed with which MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE is edited and printed, Hitler's hordes have moved even faster. Countries that have had a proud existence for thousands of years crumble in the dust overnight. History is being made not day by day but minute by minute. Under these circumstances your short-wave editor is attempting to foresee Hitler's advance moves and provide items that will prove of most timely value to its readers. It is inevitable that from time to time an item may be buried in the crash of a falling army or country.

ITALIAN short-wave broadcasts haven't changed much since the entrance of that country into the war. The news bulletins which had become increasingly pro-Nazi for some time are now entirely Nazi in character, as might be expected.

In Radio-Roma the Nazi cause has acquired one of the world's most elaborate and powerful short-wave stations. The Italian Short-Wave Center at Prato Smeraldo, near Rome, broadcasts twenty-four hours daily, with transmissions directed to each continent at hours most favorable for reception in that particular region. The following languages are utilized in the broadcasts over Radio-Roma: Arabic, Bengali, Bulgarian, Chinese, Danish, Dutch, English, Esperanto, French, German, Greek, Hindustani, Hungarian, Italian, Iranian, Japanese, Portuguese, Roumanian, Russian, Serbo-Croat, Spanish and Turkish. The foregoing gives this station the distinction of being the greatest radio language-mill on earth.

Frequencies employed at present over Radio-Roma are: 2R03 (9.63), 2R04 (11.81), 2R06 (15.30), 2R08 (17.82), 2R09 (9.67), 2R014 (15.23), 2R015 (11.76). Of these 2R04 (11.81), 2R06 (15.30) and 2R08 (17.82) are the most consistently received in North America. 2R06 is the best daytime frequency, 2R04 is best at night. The complete and complicated broadcasting schedule of the Italian short-wave station follows (clip this schedule for reference). Time is Eastern standard.

Transmissions of Radio-Roma are easily identified by the twittering-bird signal and chimes of St. Peter's, which usher in all programs. English broadcasts are announced by a woman. The afternoon and evening broadcasts over Radio-Roma are well heard in North America, although a fading may often be noted.

War news in English is best heard at 4:30 p.m. over 2R04 (11.81) and 2R08 (17.82) and evenings at 10:00 p.m. EST over 2R04 (11.81) and 2R03 (9.63). Topical talks concerning events in Italy and Europe may be heard daily at 4:45 p.m. over 2R04 (11.81) and 2R08 (17.82) and at 8:30 p.m. EST over 2R04 (11.81).

GENERAL NOTES: With the occupation of Paris a few days ago by the German troops the great short-wave centers of France, all located in Parisian suburbs, were taken over by the Nazis. At the time of writing, the Paris station is still off the air, but you can bet Nazi propaganda will soon be streaming forth from these new and powerful outlets. Many frequencies are available, but those that will probably be used for these broadcasts will be 15.24, 11.885, 11.845 and 9.52 meg. Germany now has under its domination practically all of the important short-wave centers of Europe, with the exception of the Empire

Complete
Does away with Aerial entirely
-Just place an
F & H Capacity
Aerial Eliminator
(size 1 1/2 in. x 4 in.)
within your set.
Simple instructions
(furnished with unit.
Easily connected by anyone to aerial and ground of set. Your radio will then operate and tune in the same manner as if it were connected to an aerial. Operates on both short and long waves.

DISCARD YOUR OLD AERIAL

It is Most Likely Corroded and Has Poor or Loose Noisy Connections
No MORE BUZZES. CLICKS and shorts from summer rains and winter snow and sleet when using an F & H Capacity Aerial Eliminator. Anyone can connect it in a moment's time to the radio set—occupies only 1 1/2 inch by 4 inch space behind the set. Yet enables your radio to operate without an aerial and tune in stations over the entire broadcast band frequencies and short wave channels.

ELIMINATE THE AERIAL FOR GOOD
Attach this unit to your radio—make your set complete in itself—forget aerial wires and troubles—move your set anywhere—no more roof climbing, unsightly lead-in or aerial wires.

NOT NEW—VALUE ALREADY PROVED
On the market five years, 100,000 customers in U.S. and foreign countries.
In use from the Arctic Region of Norway to the Tropics of Africa. Each factory tested on actual long distance reception. Cannot harm set—Easily connected to any radio, including radios having no ground or radials for doublet aerial. Note: It will not operate on battery or automobile radios.

5 DAYS TRIAL
Mail coupon at once. Pay postman $1.00 plus a few pennies postage on delivery. If not entirely satisfied, return within five days and your dollar will be refunded without question.

Form with fields for Name, Address, City, State and a coupon for the product.

Strong as the evidence may seem, Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom is NOT biting Rudy Vallee's ear in this photo taken during Rudy's Thursday night (NBC) comedy show. Maxie's not that "slapsie"!

Charming feminine attraction of Tommy Dorsey's summer "Pepsodent Show" (Tuesday, NBC) is Connie Haines. Tommy's orchestra, with Miss Haines, took over Bob Hope's spot on June 25

Covering the Crisis

What America decides to do about the war, both in the matter of aiding the Allies and of preparing for home defense, depends more than many people realize on what radio's war commentators are saying. That is apparent to any who have noted a universal tendency these days to wait for "what Kaltenborn says" or for "what Swing suggests" before deciding what to believe, and even more in the tendency to quote the war commentators as final authority.

Responsible at least partly for this attitude is the editorializing which is being done increasingly by these men, in addition to their presentation of available facts. Most of them are well qualified to do so. Raymond Gram Swing, Elmer Davis, H. V. Kaltenborn, John Gunther and William Hillman, all familiar to radio listeners, are journalists of wide experience. Other journalists are coming into the picture too. Vincent Sheean, long-time intellectual journalist and resident of Italy, has been making some very pointed comments on the Italian position over NBC recently. T. R. Ybarra, distinguished writer for Collier's and famous biographer, is currently (NBC, Monday through Friday nights) offering detailed and colorful background commentaries as the war progresses.

It is interesting to note that war-talkers stationed in Europe are encountering a new kind of reporting job in many instances. What with capitals moving from city to city, with governments capitulating, with ever-changing censorship problems, the regular broadcast schedules of a few months ago naturally cannot be maintained. In the confusion of the French defeat and of conditions in the temporary capital of Bordeaux this proved especially true when, the other night, a United Press correspondent came in on a CBS round-up broadcast, reported an air raid in the city, and concluded with the hope that someone had heard his broadcast. He was not even sure that he was on the air!

Tommy Takes Over

Popular as are Bob Hope and his Tuesday night comedy show, many listeners won't be too heart-broken during his summer lay-off if Tommy Dorsey holds to the high level of his first in a replacement series (Tues., NBC) on June 25. Connie Haines, lush-voiced songstress for Tommy, was outstanding . . . Appearance of W. C. Handy as a very special guest of the "Basin Street Chamber Music" broadcast a couple of Sundays ago (CBS) was a treat. The hard-to-get composer of "St. Louis Blues" performed his onomatopoeic composition, "Tinkling Brass and Sounding Cymbals" . . . Cobina Wright, Jr., and Walter O'Keefe made an interesting pair of guests with Rudy Vallee and Maxie Rosenbloom.

In Case You Missed Them

When Alec Templeton made his exit from the airlines for the summer months on June 17 (NBC, Mon.), he did it with one of the most perfect of his always near-perfect broadcasts. Sharing largely in the honors was Pat O'Malley, Alec's fruity comic, who impersonated 'Erbert Pinwinkle. 'Erbert Pinwinkle was the little boy who grasped a charged wire and was thereafter useful as an electrical appliance around the house until a movie star kissed him and blew his fuse. Incidentally, you may now secure O'Malley's published stories—the ones you've been listening to—in a volume called Lancashire Lad, published by Howell, Soskin & Co.

Sinclair Lewis, Nobel prize novelist and actor, proved himself a brilliant and impressive guest on "Fun in Print" June 16 (CBS, Sun.), combining glittering ad-lib comedy with a high percentage of correct answers. "Fun in Print" is the only quiz show which allows its audience to run wild, but when they tried to help out Lewis with an answer, he quipped: "I can make an ass of myself unassisted."

If you heard Tommy Dorsey's broadcast on a recent Saturday night of a pleasing number called "When You Say the Word," you'll be interested in knowing the whole story behind it. It is the story of a dog romance with a happy ending for the canines and humans as well. Swanky Sutton Place on the East Side of New York is the locale and the principals are Dione, a Seeing-Eye dog, and Punchy, a well-groomed airedale. Evenings Dione had a habit of leading her blind master from a near-by street to Sutton Place. One evening she encountered Punchy and this was the start of a beautiful friendship. The airedale's mistress also exchanged pleasantries with the blind chap, and one evening learned that he was attempting to write popular songs.

The lady confided that her husband was a well-known conductor, and although not featuring popular songs at the time, she felt sure he would get some well-known bandman to inspect the blind man's work. The conductor did just that. And so blind Carl Lille's song "When You Say the Word" got a break. The mistress of Punchy, the airedale, was Mrs. Raymond Paige, whose husband conducts "Musical Americana." Mr. Paige happens to be Mr. Dorsey's good friend.

Convention Echoes

Politics became the biggest thing in radio during the Republican National Convention which opened June 24. Speeches, cheers, boos, band music and ballyhoo no doubt are still ringing in American ears, but one of the memorable events of the week was none of these. It was the presentation, as an opening feature of the convention, of "Ballad for Americans." Months ago when "Pursuit of Happiness" introduced this wholeheartedly American epic, radio audiences went wild, acclaimed it with thousands of congratulatory letters and telegrams. The "Ford Sunday Evening Hour" repeated it with no less success. Now, with its presentation by a national political party, radio listeners saw the work which they had acclaimed take another step toward immortality.

Kate Smith's June 14 broadcast (CBS, Fri.) closed as usual with the rendition of "God Bless America," but this time she was leading 50,000 people in the singing of Berlin's song. Her voice was piped by a special wire to a stadium in Buffalo, N. Y., where the huge crowd were gathered for the annual Flag Day celebration of the Adam Plewacki American Legion Post. Once Kate was disparaged for flag-waving; these days she's lauded for it.

CHICAGO, ILL.—In 1937 Rubi-noff and his violin set an attendance record for Chicago's Grant Park concerts, when 225,000 people sat and stood to hear him play. He returned recently to play in the summer series of outdoor concerts again. But the chief activity which engaged his energy and enthusiasm during the several days he was in Chicago was visiting and contributing free entertainment to many of the city's schools. This generous gesture is a regular practise, a personal hobby for the Russian-born violinist, who says, "America gave me all I have. I want to give back to America all I can."

Tragedy for Paul Douglas

NEW YORK, N. Y.—While Paul Douglas was going blithely through his announcing-paces on the Fred Waring show recently, a message came for him. They held it till the show was over and then had to hunt the announcer down to deliver it to him. Only then did he know that his mother had died before the Waring show went on.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Edmund Taylor, seasoned American newsmen in Europe, has joined the CBS staff in France, it was announced in New York. Taylor resigned from the Chicago Tribune's Paris bureau to take up the new post in association with Eric Sevareid.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Application has been filed by NBC with the Federal Communications Commission for permission to double the power of the two NBC international short-wave stations serving Latin-American and European countries. The two stations broadcast sixteen hours daily in six languages. With doubled power, the stations would increase their effectiveness in acquainting foreign listeners with world news and American attitudes.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Procter and Gamble company has renewed twenty-two and one-half hours weekly on NBC for another fifty-two weeks. The renewal affects nineteen shows, all of which are daytime serial dramas except one, "What's My Name?"

Portable Transmitters Banned

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The FCC has banned the use of practically all portable or mobile amateur transmitters operating in the United States and its possessions, thus affecting several thousand such stations. The commission had already recently prohibited amateur radio communication with foreign countries.

NEW YORK.—Wendell Willkie is participating in an "Information, Please" movie which may be a catch for theatergoers in view of Willkie's prominence as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. His movie engagement resulted from a recent "Information, Please" appearance, when he was said to be one of the wittiest and best-informed of first-time guests.

War Romance

It's mighty good to know that something real can come out of a mess. We had always heard the trite saying that everything is fair in love and war. But we didn't know before that love and war sometimes go hand in hand. We're glad to know that our European commentators find time for love. It must be hard, too, for these men must remain awake at night to broadcast to Americans who want their bulletins precisely at 11 p.m., and they must hop from place to place to miss falling bombs, which is, we think, a heck of a way to work, woo and wed. We checked on the stories of love that we had heard and this is what we found:

Thomas Grandin, the sandy-haired correspondent who covered the Balkan conference for CBS, became a groom in Belgrade February 8. In Neuilly, France, the night of April 25 (the only night during that week there wasn't an air-raid in France) Sir Stork winged his way to a little hospital and left twin boys with Mrs. Eric Sevareid, wife of CBS' French correspondent. Bill Henry, who worked for CBS in Finland and England and who is now employed by CBS in New York, became a grandfather twice in twenty-four hours. Peter Tompkins, Mutual's Rome reporter, was married June 7, and next day kissed his wife good-by and put her on a ship bound for America. That same day, June 7, Patrick Maitland, Mutual's Belgrade commentator, married a lady-in-waiting to the Queen of Yugoslavia. Mutual now boasts it has the only representative in a news-gathering capacity able to enter the Yugoslav palace without a special pass—which strikes us rather coldly when we recall what has happened to a lot of other palaces and the people who live in them.

We cannot help but note that this role of romance in the theater of war is confined to CBS and Mutual. NBC men seem content with work.

Maybe, after all, there is something to the lyrics of a popular song of a few years back which say: "It's still the same old story, a fight for love and glory, a case of do or die—the world will always welcome lovers as time goes by."

Lenox R. Lohr, former army officer who came from Chicago's World's Fair to become president of the National Broadcasting Company, has resigned effective July 12. On that day Niles Trammell, NBC's executive vice-president who has risen from the ranks,

"WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"—Featured ingenue of that popular CBS serial, Joan Tetzel got married—but really—on June 21. This week she and her new husband, CBS engineer John T. Mosman, will return to New York after a short Bermuda honeymoon

moves into the top position. Mr. Lohr returns to Chicago to become president of the Museum of Science and Industry.

Arlene Francis Plays Summer Stock

Arlene Francis, oomph girl of "What's My Name?", goes to Ivoryton, Conn., in August to appear in the summer stock engagement of "No Time for Comedy" . . . Bob Trout, who was too busy to go boating, has finally sold his cruiser. He still has a schooner which he's too busy to use . . . Adelaide Klein, who recently became Mrs. Gross in "Valiant Lady," will have a lead role in "Mortimer Meek," new show which debuts July 10, with Jack Smart, on CBS . . . Four of the members of the "Court of Missing Heirs" cast are Mr. and Mrs. in private life. Jeannette Nolan is married to John McIntyre and Barbara Weeks is married to Carl Frank. The latter couple expect an addition around September 15.

Boake Carter Sued for Divorce

Boake Carter is having family trouble. Mrs. Carter has filed suit for divorce. She did not reveal the grounds. The Carters have two children . . . After playing in the Texaco Star Theater's "The First Year" with Frank Craven June 12, Doris Dudley was rushed direct to a hospital. She became ill during rehearsal but, after a rest, insisted upon going on. Her condition is now improved . . . Sometimes the local boys aren't given the breaks. Foreign conductors seem to have so much more appeal in the eyes of certain executives. But now, at long last, NBC has recognized Alfred Wallenstein, conductor of various Mutual programs and of "Voice of Firestone," and has invited him to conduct the NBC Symphony for one month next winter. Other conductors will be Hans Wilhelm Steinberg, assistant to Toscanini, and Georg Szell, formerly of the Berlin State Opera, and, of course, the one and only Toscanini.

Edward Wragge, Dan Chester of the "Renfrew of the Mounted" radio program, is working in summer stock . . . Major Bowes continues to spend long week-ends at his Rumson, N. J., home. He leaves New York Thursday night or Friday morning after his "Amateur Hour" and broadcasts his Sunday "Capitol Family Hour" via remote control from his home.

Announcers' Boner

Certain CBS announcers are red in the face. By error, the local announcement "WABC, New York," which was intended for New York only, went out over the Dixie division of the network. That prompted a CBS official to send a memorandum to the WABC announcers' room. It read: "I understand that a certain type of clowning manifests itself in the studios in the form of phony local announcements and other unorthodox cracks, presumably made on dead mikes. One of these went to the network." The rest, left unsaid, was thoroughly understood by the word-slingers.

IN HOLLYWOOD

with Evans Plummer

Oh, Shaw, Says Gracie

Artie Shaw, bandom's stormy petrel, who premieres with his new twenty-two-piece orchestra on Gracie Allen and George Burns' new NBC show July 1, has this to say about his return to the podium:

"Music is my work. What I thought last year (he gave up his band and said no more of it for him) is different from what I think this year." His new band will play dance music with more variety than heretofore, he added. Which probably means he will get away from the jitterbugs. In fact, one of his aims will be "classical swing." . . . Incidentally, Gracie Allen's new book, "How to Become President in Three Easy Terms," is on the bookshelves; 15,000 advance copies were sold! Maybe to Republican candidates, huh?

Henry Aldrich Moves Around

Henry (Ezra Stone) Aldrich came all the way from Havana to bow in June 16 and "sample" on Jack Benny's closing broadcast; "The Aldrich Family" moves from the Sunday Jell-O spot to Thursdays July 4 . . . Hollywood Tropics' recent luau, or South Seas pit barbecue feast, which is eaten with hands only, brought out celebrities galore, including Andy Devine, Don Wilson, Benny scripters Bill Morrow and Ed Beloin, and the Jimmy Wallingtons. Betty (Mrs. J.) Wallington, talented dancer, drew top applause with her authentic hula dance . . . That long-postponed Fibber McGee and Molly mo'om picture will be started in August; locale of story will be Wistful Vista and its inhabitants fresh from the radio show's cast . . . Richard Carlson, young RKO star, has bids from sponsors for a new idea in dramatic broadcasts which he whipped up . . . Gale Page returns July 3 to the air for Woodbury with Jim Ameche, after a three-week vacation with her parents at Liberty Lake, Washington . . . It was a boy (June 11) at the Ed Calligans' (Mrs. is Ann Jamison); he'll answer to Joseph Patrick. . . . Fred Allen's "Merry Macs" may be split up a bit by Paramount studios if that lot, as it threatens, signs the singing group's charmer, Helen Carroll. Which reminds that it sounded like old times to hear brat Walter Tetley with Allen on his Hollywood-originated airings. Tetley and Fred are like hot cakes and syrup, or corned beef and cabbage. They need one another.

Our Own Kolum Kwiz:

What does Kay Kyser's mother call her famous son? . . . That's wrong, you're wrong. She still calls him JAMES—which is his correct name, not Kay!

Who is the real heart of Martha ("Career of Alice Blair" and stage-screen star of "Our Town") Scott? . . . Students? . . . Maybe (1) Owen Davis, Jr., who dates her, (2) Perc Westmore, who sent her so many flowers, or (3) Carleton Alsop, her radio producer, who's here making her transcriptions. That's right, number three is right—maybe, unless it's (No. 4) Joseph Cotton, her air-serial leading man, who has been spending oh-so-much time with her lately.

What radio comedienne used to go to the beauty parlor once a week for a hair-do before she had her nose resculptured, and now is hair-dressed differently nearly every day since the surgery turned her into a glamour girl? . . . Aw, go on! You do too know the answer.

Bert Wheeler Wows 'Em

Bert Wheeler came back to Hollywood as a very clever m.c. and comedian with the opening of Earl Carroll's summer edition of the "World of Beauty" June 11. All his cronies were there to give him a hand—which he didn't really need, considering the applause. Present were W. C. Fields, Mary Livingstone Benny with sis and brother-in-law and Burns and Allen, Hedy Lamarr gossiping with a woman at her table while hubby Gene Markey looked very bored. Novelty of the new Carroll production is excellent snake-dance of Francis and Grey against an extraordinary living-beauty curtain. Observation: That Wheeler's success marks him as airplane possibility.

Noisy Noises That Made Audience Laughs

Al Pearce's demand of CBS soundman Billy Gould for a "tremendous crash" brought unexpected results. Gould heaved trunks, smashed boxes and banged thunder drums until the roof shook, then collapsed behind his sound-effects cabinet and waved a white flag on a stick at the audience. Their laughs almost stopped the show.

At "Texaco Star Theater," their closing announcement called for the usual siren and fire-engine bells—but instead, a dead silence prevailed. Soundman Ray Erlenborn blushed, stammered and explained after the show had ended. A page was missing from his script—THE page calling for the fire-engine effect!

Add realism in noises: On Hedda Hopper's June 12 Sunkist airing, Bob Hope's brief and unsuccessful prize-fighting career was dramatized, so two soundmen put on regulation padded gloves and pummeled one another!

Sound-effects can be messy, too. "Blondie" script called for the effect of a spilled malted milk. It was spilled all right—all over Blondie (Penny Singleton) Dagwood . . . Then there was the Fibber McGee show needing the noise of the slapping of paste on wallpaper. To get the authentic effect a wet sponge was slapped back and forth against a studio wall, and Mrs. Uppington (Isobel Randolph) and the King's Men suffered an unexpected shower bath!

Romance in Door Slams

Speaking of the sound-effecters, Al Span, the CBS Hollywood noise boss, gave a matrimonial party for members of his staff June 26. Of his staff, Clark Casey and Miss Maurie Fleck, of the CBS music department, are planning an August wedding; Ray Erlenborn was making plans to travel to Texas and bring back a Mrs., and Jimmy Murphy plans to take the vows early in September with an unnamed miss.

IN CHICAGO with Don Moore

Talent Search Ends—With Search

The "Carrie Carter Talent Search," held in connection with the MBS serial, "Carters of Elm Street," closed with the selection of Thelma Hansen of Lowell, Mass., and Mrs. Ethel Christie of Eugene, Ore., as winners—and it had an exciting anticlimax in a Coast-to-Coast search for Mrs. Christie, whose middle name is Chase. Howard Meyers, MBS press representative, wired the Oregon town to notify Mrs. Christie of her good fortune. She had left for Chicago. Then followed a telephone chase that traced Mrs. Christie from Chicago to Mackinac Island to Follansbee, W. Va., to New York City and back to Mackinac, always one step behind her. As this is written they're contemplating putting out a radio call on the "Carter" program for the winner to come home to Mother Carrie. Mrs. Christie is a high-school English teacher. The other winner, Miss Hansen, is twenty years old, works as a demonstrator for Canada Dry's new drink, Spur. When notified of her selection she said, "You're kidding!" Both winners were to be brought to Chicago, quartered at the Stevens Hotel with expenses paid, and written into the script for two weeks at $112.50 a week. You may be hearing their voices now.

Crossroads' Changing Scene

Uncle Ezra signs back on with his powerful little five-watter for Camels July 13 in the Saturday night spot occupied by Bob Crosby's program, which moves to a new spot for the same sponsor . . . William Bacher, noted radio director, formerly of Hollywood, did such an expert job handling WGN-Mutual's operetta series and "Symphonic Hour" that he has been signed to be chief of all production of the Mutual set-up here . . . Curley Bradley, one of the Ranch Boys, who won his spurs as a soloist on "This Amazing America," carries on further now as "Club Matinee" vocalist, after Wayne Van Dyne temporarily filled the spot left vacant by Johnnie Johnston's going west.

Helen Trent in Films

"Romance of Helen Trent" follows rapidly in the footsteps of "Scattergood Baines" with a deal to be filmed. At least four screen features will be made from the serial. Although at this writing star Virginia Clark has not been signed to do the movie role, it would not be a surprise. It is recalled that several years ago Virginia had a very successful screen test and a lucrative offer from a major film company, and turned it down in favor of marriage . . . Lucy Gilman, bronze-haired younger of the famous radio Gilman sisters, is back in Chicago after several months in New York appearing in "Myrt and Marge" . . . Betty Barrett, who has sung over the air since she was eight, about half her life, is cutting a wide swath swinging her songs with Jan Savitt at the Hotel Sherman. Betty won the assignment when Major Frank W. Bering (husband of actress Joan Winters), manager of the hotel, heard her sing the Martha Tilton swing version of "Alice Blue Gown" on a Mutual production of "Irene."

Savitt, incidentally, is swinging high and low in the Panther Room with his flashy arrangements and his own compositions, such as "It's a Wonderful World," "Hit Parade" leader, "720 in the Books," and the controversial "WPA" . . . Blue Barron, at the Blackhawk, has two chief reasons for not having a girl vocalist. One: They too often get married and leave you in the lurch; two, the boys need to let off steam to keep their balance, and a gal cramps their style . . . Uneasiness over Far Eastern conditions put the kibosh on Alec Templeton's plans for a Honolulu vacation . . . It pleased me, by the way, to hear Alec add his prediction to mine that the Dinning sisters, who did a keen job as his guests June 10, will be the number one sister outfit in a year or so.

Red Skelton Hot Stuff in Hollywood

And it's pleasing too, since I've given my meager moral support to comedian Red Skelton all along, to hear that the former "Avalon Time" comic is pretty hot stuff in Hollywood, with several studios making bids, and Red's return to radio soon wouldn't surprise me . . . As a youngster, Ed Prentiss, of "Guiding Light" and three or four other sketches, got his first taste of backstage glamour when he visited Ruth Chatterton playing in "Daddy Longlegs." His first close-up of the star since then came this week, when he supported her in a "Fifth Row Center" show.

On the Heartbeat

Visited the Wayne King show June 8 and an impression crystallized in my mind. Maybe you've had the same idea, but you'd have to watch Wayne and his orchestra perform for the idea to become a conviction. It's simply this: The secret of Wayne's large and lasting popularity is that he has music in his heart and puts heart in his music—heartbeat music. You can see it in his facial expression, his gestures. The pulse of the music is not always romantic, though Wayne is at heart a sentimental cuss. When the pulse quickens, Wayne kicks up his heels too. By the way, the decision to take the program off the air for the summer was sudden. It will return September 21. King, who takes those closing speeches seriously and nervously, "hopes you'll remember."

Romance rumors, record reviews and up-to-the-minute news of favorite melody-men on the BANDWAGON

by
MEL ADAMS

BAND OF THE WEEK is Gray Gordon's, whose "Tic Toc Rhythm" is currently heard from New York over NBC wires. Gordon, seen at the microphone with his fifteen-man orchestra, did his first band-leading at the Chicago World's Fair in 1934. Band line-up is given below

ONE of the newest of the style bands to make a dent in public consciousness during the past year is Gray Gordon's "Tic Toc Rhythm" orchestra, currently heard on NBC from the Green Room of New York's Hotel Edison and on Bluebird recordings. The Gordon baton-waving saga dates back to the Chicago Century of Progress of 1934 when Gray fronted his first band at the Fair's Canadian Club exhibit. Subsequent engagements at the St. Anthony Hotel, San Antonio, Tex.; Lookout House, Covington, Ky.; Chase Hotel, St. Louis, Mo.; Brown Palace Hotel, Denver, and Claridge Hotel, Memphis, all built up to Gordon's debut at the Hotel Edison in New York on December 31, 1938. It was this jump-off point that marked the band's emergence into the national spotlight. The band's style, typified by clocklike rhythm effects as portrayed in its theme, "One Minute to One," and its revivals of "Ain't You Ashamed" and "I Love Me," makes for smooth, lilting dance music. The Gordon crew lines up: Lionel Begun, Chicago, Elick Gale, Oklahoma City, Cliff Grass, Indianapolis, Johnny Johnson, Chicago, saxophones; Chet Bruce, Phil Raskind, Frank Linale, all of New York City, trumpets; Bobby Blair, Chicago, trombone; Carl Carelli, Racine, Wis., accordion and trombone; Walter Nagrodsky, New York City, bass; Bill North, Chicago, guitar; Frank Adams, Chicago, drums; Ray Mace, Salt Lake City, Utah, piano; Meredith Blake, Madison, Wis., Art Perry, Buffalo, N. Y., vocalists. For its refreshing, distinctive style of dansapation your correspondent names Gray Gordon and his orchestra—the MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE Band of the Week.

Behind the Podium

Enoch Light will be out of action for eight weeks as a result of an automobile accident. His band carries on without him through June . . . Henry King due to follow Skinnay Ennis on Mutual at San Francisco's Mark Hopkins, beginning July 22 . . . Jack Leonard, ex-Tommy Dorsey vocalist now a CBS sustaining feature, signed to wax for Vocalion records . . . It's a boy at the maestro Jerry Livingstons . . . Tiny Hill follows Johnny Long into Pittsburgh's Kenneywood Park July 8 with a Mutual wire . . . Glenn Miller has taken on his younger brother Herbert as road manager . . . Les Reis, formerly of the Reis and Dunn radio team, now managing Bobby Byrne's band, NBCing from Glen Island Casino, New Rochelle, N. Y. . . Following his July stand at Chicago's Palmer House, Ray Noble due for a September stop at Boston's Ritz-Carlton Hotel . . . Jimmy Van Heusen, Tin Pan Alley's most prolific tunesmith, is forgetting songstress Nan Wynn with his new Luscombe plane. Nan, incidentally, will accompany Raymond Scott's dance band on its forthcoming tour of one-nighters . . . Ranny Weeks' crew follows Pinky Tomlin into Memphis' Claridge Hotel June 29 . . . The drop-a-nickel juke box has inspired a new ditty, "The Record Machine Song," by Mort Greene and Fred Stryker.

Song of the Week

"Imagination"—music by Jimmy Van Heusen, lyrics by Johnny Burke—Van Heusen, one of the most prolific of Tin Pan Alley's contemporaries, has to his credit "Heaven Can Wait," "Shake Down the Stars," "Darn That Dream," "Polka Dots and Moonbeams," among others. Burke, known for the Bing Crosby picture scores, scored with "Pennies From Heaven," "I've Got a Pocketful of Dreams" and "I Haven't Time to Be a Millionaire." Vocal records available on "Imagination" include Kate Smith (Columbia), Ella Fitzgerald (Decca), Dinah Shore (Bluebird), Chick Bullock (Vocalion). Dance versions include Al Donahue (Vocalion), Tommy Dorsey (Victor), Glenn Miller (Bluebird), Jan Savitt (Decca), Ted Straeter (Columbia), George Auld (Varsity).

Diskussions

TANGO—An album of four records (Columbia C-15, $2.50) featuring Raymond Littee and his Orquesta Tipica—Eight typical tangos up to high Latin-American standard, plus a set of instructions for tango dancing from Arthur Murray himself. "La Cumparsita," "Caminito," "Por Que?" and "El Choclo" are beautiful.

ARTIE SHAW—"My Fantasy" (Victor 26614, $0.75)—Artie's clarinet and Pauline Byrne's vocal highlight the jazz adaptation of Borodin's "Prince Igor" theme . . . In "Mister Meadowlark," the Johnny Mercer-Walter Donaldson ditty on the reverse, Shaw introduces new vocalist Jack Pearce.

ELLA FITZGERALD—"Shake Down the Stars" (Decca 3199, $0.35)—The buxom, dusky chanteuse at her best in this lovely Jimmy Van Heusen ballad . . . "I Fell in Love With a Dream," in the same mood, backs up.

RECORDMENED—Jimmy Dorsey, "Contrasts" (his theme song, Decca 3198); "Minute Waltz," John Kirby's orchestra (Vocalion 5542); "No Name Jive," Charlie Barnet (Bluebird 10737).

why program music
is a man-size job

LEITH STEVENS, above, giving sign to orchestra, has forged to the front as musical director of such programs as the "Ford Summer Hour" (Sun., CBS), because he recognizes that radio requires new technical modes

Leith Stevens, brilliant young musical director of "Big Town" and the "Ford Summer Hour," gives listeners an insider's view of his job in this sixth "Men Behind the Dial" article. In next week's issue Jimmy Wallington, popular announcer for "Texaco Theater," continues the series, telling listeners, through Kate Holliday, exciting details of an announcing assignment.—Editor.

MUSIC has been acknowledged for centuries to be one of the strongest media of emotional release known to man. The great actors and actresses of the past, no matter what their field, have used the power of music to stir them to emotional heights.

With the advent of radio, therefore, it was immediately recognized that music or a musical background could be used to augment the emotional intensity of radio drama.

The musician's work in broadcasting is to aid and abet what is being presented in words. In a radio play, he can tell with ease those parts of the story which might be difficult to portray through the medium of the voice alone. He can show the passage of time. He can tell the reaction of one character to another. He can give the effect of a hundred different physical and mental sensations, ranging all the way from the purely mental condition of anger to that of physical deformity. He sets the scenes. He prepares the audience emotionally for what is to follow in the story. He transfers it from one idea to the next—all by the power of music.

In a purely orchestral program where there is no drama involved, he again tells his listeners a story. In each selection that he plays there is a definite implication which hits each person singly as the music goes on.

This is the main difference, to radio musicians, between playing for a dramatic show and for a purely orchestral one: In a dramatic show the audience reaction must, in all cases, be the same; in an orchestral show the reaction varies according to the individual listener.

For this reason a dramatic show, with only a few orchestral interludes, is in many ways harder to produce musically than a program which is entirely music. Perhaps you will be able to see the difficulties which I have to overcome if I tell you how we produce the Edward G. Robinson show, "Big Town," which is now vacationing for the summer.

My particular part of the production of "Big Town" starts with the primary rehearsal on the Friday night of every week. (The program, as you know, was on the air on Tuesday.) At that time I attend the first table reading which the producer holds for the cast.

Outside of learning what the script is about, I have to watch at this rehearsal what the approach to the script is going to be. I have to notice how the various actors end their scenes and begin them—whether they are ended brutally, for instance, or whether the ending of a passage is on a tone of resignation or one of a hundred other emotions. This, later, will be vitally important to me in the matter of the music, for it is my music which will bridge the scenes and bind the entire script together. The delivery of the lines must go with the music.

BEGIN to get musical ideas as I watch the actors Friday night, but I cannot start writing until Sunday or Monday in this case, as there is usually a period of rewriting on the script after the first actors' session. Therefore I don't get the final draft until the week-end is nearly over.

Sunday or Monday—or Sunday and Monday, as the case may be—I write the musical bridges between the scenes. And, in practically every instance, the scores must be original. I cannot even use one of my own bits of music a second time. So much depends on the atmosphere and the playing of a particular show that it is almost impossible for me to repeat myself.

For instance, to take a common situation, let us imagine that there is a scene between a father and daughter. They are discussing the love of the daughter for someone who is unsuitable for her. If the girl is a rich girl, the music is written one way. If she is poor, it is written another. If the father rants and roars, the music which comes after must have a feeling of that anger in it. If he is resigned, it must be resigned. Every single element which enters into the scene must be present in the score which follows it, so that the audience is never emotionally jarred.

I must also take into consideration the contents of the next scene. If the first passage is succeeded by a jailbreak, as it was in a script we used a few weeks ago, there must be a definite bridge between the father's reaction to what his daughter told him and the violence of the criminal's liberation. The change of spirit must be shown in the music!

Therefore on Sunday or Monday of every week I am faced with a new problem. And on Sunday I usually loathe the people who are having their days off!

When the music is written it must, of course, be rehearsed by the orchestra. This takes place on Tuesday morning and is a separate rehearsal from that of the cast.

At about two-thirty of the day that the show is to go on the air, the orchestra and the cast have their first meeting. It is at this "dress rehearsal" that the show is really put together for the first time. The producer now has a chance to see how the show will sound on the air, and, naturally, there are many details which must be cleared up when it is finished.

One of these details is a thorough going-over of all the music cues, with both the orchestra and the cast. This is highly necessary, so that no member of either department will lose the strict timing which is mandatory to the success of the program.

THE music-cue rehearsal—it's about the third, all told, isn't it?—is finished an hour before we go on the air. And another element of great importance must be cleared up at this time, too—the matter of balance.

Perfect balance is an essential to radio music. There must never be one instrument which overrides the rest, unless that instrument is being played by a soloist. Many a beautiful arrangement has been ruined by the failure of the musical director or the producer to balance his orchestra correctly.

Musical instruments, as the engineer hinted, are all of different frequencies. That is, roughly, one will carry farther than another; one will sound more prominent than another, even though they are the same distance from the microphone. For this reason, an orchestra must be set up so that every player is spaced properly in relation to the pick-up. In that way, what the listeners will hear will be a composite whole.

I have been fortunate, on the Robinson show, in having a director who

CONFESSIONS OF A GAGMAN'S WIFE

By Jeanette Connor

THREE years ago I didn't have the faintest notion what such words as "Crossley," "first routine," or "blackouts" meant. I had never seen a stop-watch, never met a sponsor or a stooge, and Joe Miller was just another name to me. When I listened to radio comedians it did not occur to me that these jolly fellows, who each week amused millions of citizens, did not write the funny stuff that so glibly gushed from their mouths.

Occasionally I become nostalgic for the old days, when a joke was just a joke and wasn't automatically classified as coming under the heading of "switch," "topical" or any of the other various classifications that jokes have a habit of coming under when you depend on them for a living. In other words, I didn't know that you could take humor so seriously until the day I innocently murmured, "I do," and found myself married to a gagman!

Every self-respecting bride comes equipped with a trousseau these days, and along with the towels and tablecloths I managed to squeeze in a fairly good sense of humor. The day after my marriage I learned very pointedly that I could get along without the tablecloths and towels but not without the sense of humor. We didn't embark on a honeymoon, because my blushing groom was busy on a program. I succeeded in taking this in stride, as there was some vague talk about a beautiful trip later on. What I wasn't prepared for, however, was the shock of seeing him depart at two o'clock Monday afternoon—we were married on Sunday—and not having him return until Tuesday at five a.m. It is true that he called me at hourly intervals during the day and night, but this was definitely not the manner in which I expected to launch my marital career.

Perhaps if I had possessed some inkling of the shape of things to come I would have been able to cope more successfully with my new existence. In self-defense, though, I mention that we met one week and were married the next—yes, just like in the movies—and I had no reason to suspect that I was getting involved with an owl instead of a male.

THE trouble all began with my not knowing that a group of writers concoct practically every big-time comedy show. The number may range from Bob Hope's eight to Fibber McGee's one, although the latter is an exception. Where or how these writers work is strictly their own affair. They can reserve a tower apartment at the Waldorf-Astoria or a piece of the Black Hole of Calcutta, the only stipulation being that the script is in on time.

About a week after my marriage I thought it would be a cute idea to drop in on my husband and the two other writers who were working on that particular show. One hasty look convinced me that the Black Hole type of environment was preferred. A small, dingy room in a musty midtown hotel comprised the headquarters, and, at first, I refused to believe my eyes, mainly for the reason that the smoke hit me in the face like a Joe Louis wallop. Among empty coke-bottles, half-eaten sandwiches and countless cigarette butts, I spied the three writers' hazy figures in various stages of undress.

As I reconstruct the scene—you see, I've never revisited my husband since that date; I just stay home and get morbid about it—my little man was walking around sans shoes, socks and shirt, and might have been a beachcomber on relief. Gagmen, it seems, have the neurotic habit of tearing off their outer garments while in the throes of creating humor. This symptom, although not in itself conclusive, might be of interest to close students of psychiatry.

These sessions always take place at night and last until the earlier hours of the morning. It is obvious that one's rising hours are slightly different when one retires at such a strange time, and how to run an efficient household with this schedule is a question that would even bother John Kieran.

NEVER shall I forget the expression on the face of the first maid I interviewed when I solemnly explained that we ate breakfast between two and three, and from there on it was anybody's guess concerning lunch or dinner. Understandably, she wasn't enthusiastic about the job and neither were any of the others who rapidly followed in her footsteps. It suddenly became very clear to me that my settlement cook-book would remain in its virgin state, and the elaborate plans I had made for intimate little dinner parties would have to be held in abeyance. That is exactly where they've been held for the past three years. The cook-book, and the recipes, are in a convenient corner, so that when the day arrives that finds my husband out of a job (God forbid!) I'll have dinner served at seven o'clock in the evening, just like all the nice people I know.

For three long and weary years I have been a member of that vast and dyspeptic army of restaurant diners. My husband doesn't seem to mind, because he has long since developed "radio stomach," which means that practically nothing agrees with him. Menus are beginning to have as much fascination for me as a swastika, and if Monsieur LaMaze of Beverly Hills, or Jack and Charley of Fifty-second Street want to make something out of this, it's all right with me.

Don't think that in the beginning I took this new mode of living without any further questioning. I decided that if my existence were going to be one long milkman's matinee, I, at least, wanted to know why. In a friendly manner I explained to my husband that in my untutored mind a job, unless it was a night watchman's, or such, was something you gave your all to during the day. It didn't seem to me to matter very much whether one wrote jokes or sold insurance or worked in a department store.

I carefully pointed out that the way we were living it was almost impossible for us to maintain normal social relations with our friends. Dates at night were out of the question, and the only contact I had with the outer world was by telephone, or by occasionally meeting one of the girls for lunch. I continued at great length about the number of hours I spent waiting for him to come home, waiting for him to get up, and just plain every-day waiting. I could have saved my breath, for his explanation for all the night work was short, logical, and superbly unbeatable. He simply said, "I'm funnier at night, dear."

Among other items that this depressing little chat cleared up for me was the futility of planning on having a home of my own; that is, while we were still in radio. The best thing you can do under the circumstances is either take an apartment for a few months or live in an apartment hotel on a month-to-month basis. A year's lease is out of the question when you don't know on what coast you are going to make your headquarters. It has been my sad experience to learn that

Marriage to the man who concocts funny gags for your favorite radio comedian can be a very unfunny business. Here's the lowdown from a gag-writer's wife a comedian is as flighty an individual as his writers, and on a moment's notice will decide that he'd like a meal at the Brown Derby if he's in New York, or if he is peacefully settled in Hollywood he'll suddenly develop a yen to see some Broadway shows. Then, before you can say "Don Ameche," the Twentieth Century or the Super Chief is off with a careful of writers, agency executives, stooges, and, huddled in the corner, their wives.

The question of moving may also come up when a thirty-nine-week contract is finished. Contracts are usually for this length of time with thirteen-week options. If your agent, the man who takes ten percent of your weekly salary when he gets you a job and takes the same ten percent when you get it yourself, happens to fix up a nice, juicy contract, it isn't exactly smart to quibble about the location. I should like to bet the toupee of the comedian my husband is now working for that if he were offered a job writing in Little America he'd grab it, providing the money was suitable, or, as he puts it in Lindy's English, "the dough was right."

Moving a program from one city to another may be the suggestion of the sponsor, and when a sponsor suggests, the command performance commences. This shift is often attempted when the boss thinks the show needs a shot in the arm. Just what good this does, I have yet not been able to determine, because if a program is down in the ground (if my husband reads this, I'm not referring to the writing) the geographical change may give it a temporary boost, but that is about all. Sponsors, however, make mistakes; especially the one who allowed his wife to persuade him into firing Jack Benny and hiring an organist.

SHOULD any of my female readers still be interested in marrying a professional humorist, I think it's only fair to impart a bit of instruction concerning the retort proper when someone coyly asks how it can take one person seven days a week to write a half-hour radio program. I first explain that my husband doesn't write the program by himself, which raises the eyebrows of my listener considerably, and then when I explain that the actual comedy dialog is only about sixteen minutes on a half-hour program, said eyebrows jump to the rear of the scalp. I then launch into my explanation, which, by now, I have down very pat, and therefore is very little trouble for me to repeat.

There are roughly one hundred and thirty million people in the United States, and except for that small percentage who think Teddy Roosevelt is still in the White House, most of them listen to the radio. When you break this large proportion down further you soon discover that most of these people are members of religious organizations, political parties, professions, lodges, clubs, and cults. This list is only the beginning, as you learn when putting a comedy program on the networks.

The ultimate achievement of any comedy program is to sell the product, make the studio audience laugh, the listeners at home chuckle, and never offend anyone. The first three feats are more easily accomplished than the fourth, for it seems that a large number of people listen to the radio with pen and paper in hand, and as the announcer's voice fades out, telling you to hurry to your neighborhood grocery store and buy Crunchy-Wunchys, they immediately dash off a note, filled with abuse, to the sponsor or the broadcasting company.

AN INNOCENT joke about a dentist will bring letters from dental societies, and a quip about a Philadelphia lawyer will not only bring you letters from legal societies but also from residents of Philadelphia. Last summer Phil Baker had a line about the King and Queen of England eating skinless frankfurters when they were guests at Hyde Park. The day after the broadcast a representative of the company who had served the frankfurters called Baker and demanded a retraction on the program the following week, because the dogs, eaten with such relish by their Majesties, were complete with layers of delicious skin.

Before the names of people, books, plays, motion pictures and songs are mentioned on the air, written permission must be obtained. Add to this the restriction against anything off color, any slighting reference to public officials, and, now that the war is on, jokes about the countries involved. As a matter of cold fact, about the only characters safe for writers to mention are mothers-in-law.

They're a proud race, these gagmen, regarding their craft, and I know that, in my husband's case, uncomplimentary references to his ancestry, parentage, or character do not evoke the ire called forth by a sincere inquiry as to whether he has a reference library which he consults when he writes jokes. This definitely is his Achilles heel, and when answering the above-mentioned query he says scathingly, "I am not a file writer!"

This little dossier would not be complete unless the spotlight were momentarily thrown on the hiring and firing of writers. Writers are paid for either by the comedian or by the advertising agency that puts the program on for the sponsor. Most writers prefer working for the comedian direct, for the very good reason that they usually get paid more. Agencies have the annoying habit of employing a five-thousand-dollar-a-week personality and then quibbling over twenty-five dollars where a writer is concerned.

I may be a bit prejudiced, but I'm of the school that believes that the writers of a program are equally as important as the comedian. For years Bob Hope floundered around with inferior material. His timing and delivery were as good as they are today, but you could have put his Crossley could read a musical score. Most of them can't. But, even with Mr. Robeson's ability in this field, there had been the great difficulty both of receiving cues from him and of hearing for myself how the performance sounded.

THE MUSICIAN

Up to a few months ago, the latter would have been impossible. I could never tell how the balance of the orchestra sounded until I heard the performance record. And directions from the control-room had been given in the form of signals, which were often hard to understand.

Therefore we evolved a special set of ear-phones for me. To one ear, I have a direct connection to the control-room. I can hear exactly what Mr. Robeson says in the matter of direction. This is vital, of course, in the question of timing, if for no other reason. If the show is going to be too short and he wants me to "stretch" a section of music, he can tell me definitely where he wants this done and the exact number of seconds which have to be used up. I'm sure that you can see many other valuable uses for this phone, too.

Into the other ear of my head-piece, I have a connection to the show itself. I hear the entire production as it is being played. (It's really not as complicated as it sounds, because most of the time there is only one group at the mike—either actors or musicians.) In this way, I can hear the balance of my orchestra and can immediately repair that balance if there is anything wrong. This is of inestimable value, as you can see.

Besides the idea of balance, my ear-phone also affords me the chance to keep absolute pace with the show. Before now, for instance, if we were playing a musical background to a bit of dialog, I could never hear the words above the orchestra. The only way I could get any idea of pace would be from the producer. I now can pace the words and the music exactly.

This ear-phone idea is really the beginning of a revolutionary development which will soon hit radio, I'm sure. There has always been, you see, that insurmountable difficulty for the conductor: To hear the sound as he produced it, and as it would sound over the air. (There is a great difference in the way music sounds—or voices, for that matter—when in the studio and when coming out of a receiver.)

Ultimately, the conductor's place will be in the control-room. He will be surrounded by glass so that his men are able to see him, and he will lead his orchestra from there. He will, therefore, not only be in constant and reciprocal communication with the producer of the show but he will be able to hear every note and every instrument in the same way that the audience does.

The double ear-phone, as I have said, is just the preliminary test of this idea, and has proved very valuable. I have used it on the Robinson show all winter, and am using it in Detroit for the "Ford Summer Hour."

And in this latter program we shall, I hope, touch you all. We shall play music which can have a different connotation to every one of you. We shall make you forget some of the unpleasant things in the world and release you from your every-day problems. This, whether in radio or not, is the power and value of music.

DOROTHY LAMOUR screams for freedom as Ken Murray, left, and Rudy Vallee judge her effort. "Wenches" are imprisoned in the brig and freed only after they scream loud enough to satisfy the pirates urge to play telephone jokes that's responsible. Honore, his wife, is his favorite victim.

NEWEST Hollywood night spot—and one of interest to radio listeners for the part radio stars have in its operation—is the Pirates' Den. Backed largely by Rudy Vallee, Bing Crosby, Jimmie Fidler, Ken Murray, Bob Hope and Tony Martin, it is colorfully decorated with authentic pieces and replicas of pirate lore valued at more than $40,000. Waiters, attendants, check and cigarette girls wear pirates' costumes and refer to the paying guests as "wenches" in the case of women, "swabs" in the case of men. Floor show includes a slow-motion duel by pirates, exotic dance by a girl stow-away and an "almost" hanging which is postponed from night to night. These pictures were made on opening night.

Classic among the examples of the times Don's telephone gags have gone sour is what happened in Chicago not long ago. Two of his friends, Betty and Gerald Yore, had a dairy which they were trying to sell. Don knew it, and several times a day he would call up, using different names and voices and posing as a prospective buyer of the dairy. Each time Mrs. Yore patiently explained at length about the dairy's fine points, only to have Don burst into laughter as she tried to clinch the sale. After a week or so it began to get on her nerves. One morning, therefore, when a strange male voice telephoned and inquired about the property for sale, Mrs. Yore was convinced it was Don! Oscar Q. Cornfinkle indeed!

"Listen, you block-headed palooka," she screamed into the phone, "I'm sick of you calling up this way. We haven't got a dairy to sell, and we wouldn't sell it to you if we had one. We are particular people and want no truck with the likes of you. Good-by, you fathead, and don't bother me again!"

Without waiting for a reply, she slammed up the receiver. If that didn't hold Mr. Don Ameche, nothing would. When she cooled off a little, she called Honore to explain what had happened. "What did the man say his name was?" Honore asked.

"Cornfinkle or some such name," Mrs. Yore said. "Why?"

"Then I'm afraid you owe Mr. Cornfinkle an apology," Honore answered. "Don was broadcasting at that particular time. I heard him myself, so it couldn't have been he who called."

A contrite Mr. Ameche telephoned a baffled Mr. Cornfinkle later that day and explained what had happened. Mr. Cornfinkle eventually bought the dairy, but he still thinks the Yores and the Ameches aren't quite right in the head. I can't say that I blame him.

Yep, the movie stars, important personages though they may be, do get in the doghouse even as you and I. And they languish there for the same uncomfortable periods of time. All their money and all their connections don't do a bit of good. They get out in the same way the rest of us poor suckers do. The peeve wears itself out in a due number of days or weeks or they buy their way out with candy, flowers or other tokens of remorse.

But Louis Hayward hasn't been able to find anything yet to do the trick after the prize he pulled.

For some time the Haywards have indulged in the charming practise of giving informal little dinner parties on Sunday nights. Ida Lupino, as Mrs. Hayward, naturally took charge of all arrangements. Suddenly Louis decided he would have a whirl at it and really dish up a masterpiece of entertaining. So all the arrangements for the next dinner were left to him.

The party hour arrived, with Louis floating over the perfection of his plans. The menu was an epicurean delight. The decorations were unique, the flowers were exquisitely different. From beginning to end, his management of the affair was a triumph.

Well, almost a triumph. One little item went wrong. Nobody came to the party. In his preoccupation with the finer details of the feast, the host had forgotten to invite the guests!

Preparedness Program

Dear V. O. L.:

Last year on Army Day the "Magic Key" program was presented with the cooperation of the U. S. Army from its various posts. There is quite a bit of discussion right now whether the defense set-up of this nation is what it should be. Here's a suggestion: Have a program like this broadcast around the Fourth of July, with the Army, Navy and Marine Corps participating, so that Americans and others may know how and how well we are protected.

Paul Moser, Springfield, Mo.

Cheers for Cheerio

Dear V. O. L.:

I have often thought to write you about a program that for many years has been tops in my opinion, yet is often overlooked by the average listener because the person giving the program asks no personal fame, accepts no compensation, and gives his service just to add good will and happiness to those who understand his ideals.

I wish I had written before, for now the program is off the air. I'm speaking of Cheerio. I could tell you case after case where Cheerio has brought back hopeless and despairing invalids, elderly people, and even mothers fighting to keep their families going through the years of depression;

how he has given them strength, how he has even stayed hands that might destroy their own lives, how he has injected such cheer into sorrowing lives that they have held out hands of helpfulness to others, forgetting their own suffering.

To the average listener this seems incredible. He doesn't want to be inspired as much as he wants to be entertained. So comedians and dramas get the high ratings. But for years Cheerio went quietly on with his inspiring work, placing hundreds of radios in homes where invalids were too poor to buy them, helping, cheering and bringing a new outlook to unhappy lives.

Now the world is facing a more sober era. We need courage. Cheerio has given it in the past. We need his kind of service now. I speak not only for myself but for many thousands who miss him more than the average radio personality is missed when taken away from listeners.

CONFESSIONS

in a match-box. At long last he rounded up a group of terrific writers, and at the present date Jack Benny can feel Hope's hot breath on his neck. And just for the record: comedy writers are never good, bad, or indifferent. They are either terrific or they stink!

Some day a definitive work will be written about the radio comedian—his life, his habits, and how he should be hunted. Whether I am qualified to judge them fairly is questionable, mainly because my judgment is colored by what my husband happens to think of them. Unfortunately my husband's approximation of a comedian's character is based solely on how big a bellylaugh the comedian can get on one of my husband's jokes. As a rule, most of them haven't been too funny outside of office hours. With a script in front of their face they can make you howl, but for casual conversation I'll take my husband any day.

He's one of those people who's been funny since the day he was born. I'm willing to wager that when most children were being rocked to sleep with Mother Goose stories, the only way he'd hit the hay was if nurse would give him all the switches on "Who was that lady I saw you with?" In high school he was elected the funniest boy in his class, and at college—which makes him unique among gag-writers—he was editor of the humor magazine.

These, then, are my confessions, and if my home life isn't all that it ought to be—if instead of a family I'm raising two dachshunds—if at all hours of the day and night I'm bombarded with the query, "Do you think this is funny?"—I still think I'm pretty lucky. I'm in love with my husband, if not his work, and some day, date unknown, we'll settle down to a more normal existence. In the meantime I meet a lot of "interesting" people, and each week my little man brings in a check of five hundred dollars, which, according to the same little man, "ain't exactly hay."

ception of a romantic costume. Like the bride to whom I referred at the beginning of this article, she has chosen to dress according to her individual taste rather than to follow tradition, and her frock is of silk marquisette in the palest, mistiest shell pink! (I am told that three of the smartest New York brides have copied this gown in other pastel shades, one in a faint lemon color that is a dream!) She could have achieved this same romantic effect, however, had the material of her gown been tinted tulle, lace or net, but in any case she would require a soft rose make-up keyed to the color of her costume, rather than the pastel finish worn by Elizabeth Russell.

Perc Westmore's dainty Continental Foundation Cream with Pepper Red Lipstick and Continental Powder, all three worn as lightly as thistle down (what the French call "a la sourdine"), will strike the right cosmetic note for this glamorous costume. She could also lacquer her pretty finger-tips with Revlon's Windsor, a conservative rose color, and match it in her lip rouge.
