12282 Home Hour. Children's program (KMTR, Hollywood, CA, 1920s).

12284 Home Service Club. Jane Tucker conducted the weekday program that featured different topics daily:

Monday: Fresh fruits and vegetables
Tuesday: Food suggestions and recipes
Wednesday: Parents Forum
Thursday: Food suggestions and recipes
Friday: Home Bureau speakers.

An orchestra and vocalists also appeared on the program (Monday through Friday, WLS, Chicago, IL, 1937).

12285 Home Sweet Home. The domestic affairs of Frank and Lucy Kent and their child, as they struggled to attain a home sweet home of their own, formed the basis for the story presented on this daytime serial sponsored by Crisco. The major roles were played by Cecil Secrest, Harriet McGibbon and Billy Halop. Joe Latham also appeared on the program. George Ansbro and John Monks were the announcers. The father, played by Secrest, was a salesman in a haberdashery shop, who didn't seem too bright. Perhaps this was the beginning of the portrayal of the bumbling husband on radio, before Blondie's Dagwood made his appearance (15 min., Monday through Friday, 2:30–2:45 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1934).

12286 Home Symphony Orchestra. Symphonic mus. prg. by an orchestra conducted by Ernest LaPrade (NBC, 1937).

12290 Homemakers Hour. Pioneer broadcaster Ida Bailey Allen conducted the women's show (WMCA, New York, NY, 1926). See also Ida Bailey Allen.

12291 Homemakers Hour. Lois Schenck, editor of the Prairie Farmer magazine, and Martha Crane hosted the women's program in 1928 on WLS (Chicago, IL). When Schenck returned to her duties at the Prairie Farmer, Crane conducted the program alone until 1934. From 1928 to 1930 nearly 300 persons appeared on the informative program to discuss such topics as baby care, dental care for school pupils, hot school lunches for rural children, rural recreation, running water in homes and good reading. Home economists and commentators such as Mary Wright, Mrs. Walter Buhlig, Martha Crane, Marjorie Gibson and Helen Joyce provided information for women. The program also included entertainment by organist Elsie May Emerson, pianist John Brown, Evelyn Allan, the singing DeZurik Sisters, Roy Anderson and the Hilltoppers among others. Marjorie Gibson delivered the news bulletins, Mrs. William Sherman conducted the book review segment and Sarah Catlin Weig read her original poetry. Even dramatic segments were included in the program. For example, in 1926 the program contained a Little Theater segment with Marian Gray and Ellen Rice Dickey presenting a one-act play, "Cleopatra—Yesterday and Today." The program enjoyed great local popularity for many years in the greater Chicago area (60 min., Saturday, 1:00–2:00 P.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1928–1937).

12292 Homer, Charlotte H. Pianist (WGY, Schenectady, NY, 1923).

12293 Homespunogram. Tex Taylor, the Lone Star Philosopher, read poetry and delivered his home spun philosophy on the popular Philadelphia sustaining program (15 min., Sunday, 11:00–11:15 P.M., KYW, Philadelphia, PA, 1936).

12294 Homesteaders Orchestra. The popular orchestra included: Joe Justiana,ldr.-tb.; Ben Paul, reeds; Don La Selala, reeds and v.; Larry Marsala, bj., v., and g.; Henry Collins, p.; Ernest Finley, d., x. and p.; Frank Pulsmo, g.; and Jack McWhirter, t. and m. (WHAM, Rochester, NY, 1928).

12295 Hometown Memories. Red Foley and Carol Hammond were the featured entertainers on the interesting program that mixed music and human interest features. The Gillette

Razor Company sponsored the popular program. Chuck Acree, the Hometown Reporter, gave interesting facts about various towns. For example, on December 25, 1937, Acree told about Santa Claus, Indiana and Christmas, Florida. Other entertainers who appeared were the Hilltoppers, the singing DeZurik Sisters and veteran vocalist Grace Wilson (30 min., Saturday, 9:30-10:00 P.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1936-1937).

12296 Hometown Reunion. The sustaining CW music show featured an excellent cast that included singer Eddy Arnold, the Willis Brothers Trio, Annie, Lou and Danny and the Hometown Band and Choir. The show originated from Nashville (30 min., Saturday, 10:00-10:30 P.M., CBS, 1948).

12297 (The) Hometowners. Tenors Paul Nettinga and Jack Elliot, baritone-accordionist Phil Kalar and bass William "Rocky" Rachenbaumer comprised the popular CW quartet that sang and played old tunes on various odd instruments (WLS, Chicago, IL, 1936).

12299 Honey Boys' Orchestra. Local Texas band (WFAA, Dallas, TX, 1926).

12301 Honeyboy (George Fields) and Sassafras (Bobbye Shreves). Blackface comedy team (WGBS, New York, NY, 1929; KSAT, Fort Worth, TX, 1930). Later, Sassafras was played by Johnnie Welsh (15 min., Saturday, 12:15-12:30 P.M., NBC-Red, 1934; 15 min., Monday through Friday, 12:15-12:30 P.M., 1935). The team "worked" at their own Black Panther Detective Agency. Whether the Sassafras character was originated by Shreves or Welsh is uncertain. Honeyboy explained the team's characters in this way: "You see, Sassafras is the levee type of Negro—lean, lanky, active. I am the Alabama blue gum Negro—slow, sloppy, lazy. Humor in Negro skits depends upon three situations. A Negro to be funny must be either broke, hungry or scared and the problem for the creator of blackface comedy is to stick to these situations and still furnish sufficient variety" (Radio Digest, March, 1930, p. 77).

12302 Honeychurch, Dick. Pianist (WSM, Nashville, TN, 1928).

12303 Honeyside Minstrels of Riverside. F. Robert Jones conducted and directed the early radio minstrel show (WGR, Buffalo, NY, 1926).

12304 Honolulu Strummers. The popular band featured "Hawaiian selections" (WHB, Kansas City, MO, 1926).

12305 Honti, Josef. Leader (Josef Honti Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., NBC-Red, 1934-1936; NBC, 1942).

12325 Hoosier Philosopher. Carlton Clay played the role of Cobadiah Quakenbush, the Hoosier Philosopher, who talked about local, state, national and world events with a warm, homey view point (15 min., Tuesday-Thursday-Saturday, 7:00-7:15 A.M. CST, WLS, Chicago, IL, 1938).

12326 Hoosier Poet. Frank Carleton Nelson read his original poetry on the weekly show (15 min., Sunday, 10:30-10:45 A.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1937).

12327 Hoosier Songster. Vcl. mus. prg. by an unidentified performer (WOWO, Fort Wayne, IN, 1933).

12328 (The) Hoot Owls (Orchestra). Musical group featured on the Pantages Frolic Program and the Hoot Owls Lodge—also known as the Hoot Owl Club program (KGW, Portland, OR, 1924). See also The Hoot Owls Lodge.

12329 Hoot Owls Dance Orchestra. Popular local dance orchestra (KFOB, Burlingame, CA, 1926).

12330 (The) Hoot Owls Lodge (aka Hoot Owl Club or The Pantages Frolic Program). The unusual variety program was typical of the "wild" and "zany" late evening shows of the period. The program was broadcast simultaneously on two stations from 1923 to 1925 (KGW, Portland, OR and KHQ, Spokane, WA, 10:30 P.M. to midnight). The first programs were broadcast to a remote audience of 600 persons who were eating an eight-course meal. They supposedly were listening to a "lodge meeting" of the Hoot Owls. The program essentially provided an audio floor show for its dining listeners, who heard Pantages vaudeville acts, comedians, musicians and singers. Soprano Kathleen Duffy and vaudeville singer Helen Lewis often appeared on the lively show. The Hoot Owls Orchestra were program regulars.

12331 Hoover, (Mrs.) Elizabeth. Pianist (WBZ, Springfield, MA, 1923).

12455 Houchins, Ken. Singer (Ken Houchins, vcl. mus. prg., WIND, Gary, IN, 1935).

12456 Houck, Joe. Singer (Joe Houck, vcl. mus. prg., WORK, York, PA, 1936).

12457 Houdek, (Mrs.) Carl. Whistler (WOC, Davenport, IA, 1928).

12458 Houfberg, Holly. DJ (Holly's Sun-Up Follies, KLIX, Twin Falls, ID, 1949).

12459 Hough, Bob. DJ (Off the Record, KVNI, Coeur d'Alene, ID, 1954). Sportscaster (Sports Eye View, KVNI, 1954–1955).

12460 Hough, Harold (aka "The Hired Hand" and "HH"). Hough was born in Kansas in 1887. As a boy he lost a foot when dragged under a train. At 27, he became circulation manager of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, the newspaper that owned station WBAP (Fort Worth, TX). In 1922 the chief—and only—announcer at WBAP was Cam Arnoux. When Arnoux had to go to the hospital for surgery, Hough volunteered to do the station's announcing.

A man with a keen sense of humor, Hough soon attained national popularity. His on the air personality elicited enthusiastic responses from listeners. He identified himself on the air as "HH." When he was asked by listeners what it meant, Hough answered, "Hired Hand," someone who was merely filling-in until Arnoux returned. From then on the station billed him as "The Hired Hand." When Arnoux returned to work, Hough continued his announcing duties.

Arnoux and Hough were responsible for one of the major gimmicks of radio—the phony "feud"—that performers frequently employed in the decades that followed. Hough and Arnoux planned and carried out their "feud" to the amusement of their listeners. Another of Hough's many activities was his role as President of the Radio Truth Society that enrolled ten thousand members, whose purpose was "...to see that the truth is not abused or overworked (Radio Digest, March 10, 1927)." Hough's career at WBAP both as announcer and executive was a long and successful one that afforded him numerous opportunities to open and close programs with the trademark sound of cowbells, symbolic of the great southwest Texas cattle empires.

12461 Houghton, James. Baritone (KLDS, Indianapolis, IN, 1926).

12463 Houlihan, Bill. DJ (Dawnbuster, W'WXL, Peoria, IL, 1947).

12464 (The) Hour Glass. The Harold Sanford Orchestra, chorus and soloists performed light opera and musical comedy music on the weekly show (60 min., Monday, 10:00–11:00 P.M., NBC, 1933).

12465 (An) Hour in Memory Lane. The interesting music program directed by Jerome Stewartson presented specially selected favorite music for each age—grandfather, grandmother, mother, father and children (NBC–Pacific Coast Network, 1927).

12467 Hour of Decision. Rev. Dr. Billy Graham, the most popular American evangelist of the time, was a regular on radio during the 1950s. He was assisted by George Beverly Shea, the Crusade Choir and Jerry Beavan, the Crusade's newscaster. Graham's dedication, magnetism and oratorical skills were apparent in all of his programs (Hour of Decision, ABC, MBS, NBC, 1953–1963).

12468 Hour of Musical Gems. Music for the show was provided by the Pacific Salon Orchestra conducted by Liborius Hauptmann with vocals by Dorothy Lewis, Elbert Bellows and Albert Gillette (NBC–Pacific Coast Network, 1929).

12470 House, Bromley. Baritone (Bromley House, vcl. mus. prg., NBC, 1937).

12471 House, Colonel. Announcer House on WMBB (Chicago, IL, 1926) broadcast the station's slogan, "World's Most Beautiful Ballroom."

12472 House, Eddie. Singing organist (Eddie House, instr. and vcl. mus. prg., CBS, 1935–1937).

12473 House, Edwin. Baritone (WMBB, Chicago, IL, 1926).

12475 House, Lee. Leader (The Lee House Trio broadcast dinner music, WRC, Washington, DC, 1925).

12477 House, Mary Thrash. Pianist (WQJ, Chicago, IL, 1926).

12478 House by the Side of the Road. Music, inspirational poetry and prose were the major elements of the program sponsored by the S.C. Johnson and Sons Company. Tony Wons spoke most of the soft words. Variety observed that Wons provided tacky poetry and homey philosophy. The singing team of Ronnie and Van contributed songs and comedy. Baritone Emery Darcy and soprano Ginna Vanna sang accompanied by an orchestra conducted by Ulderico Marcelli. Guest stars such as Xavier Cugat and Carmen Castilla frequently appeared (NBC, 1934–1935).

12479 House in the Country. On the sustaining daytime serial, a young married couple, played by John Raby and Frances Chaney, moved to the country after living for a year in a small city apartment. They found a suitable house and rented it from their landlord, played by Parker Fennelly, for $30 a month. The program dramatized the many problems they encountered. Other members of the cast were Joan Banks, Patsy Campbell and Ray Knight who also wrote the program. Lyle Sudrow later replaced John Raby. Joseph S. Bell produced the show, whose announcers were Bud Collyer and Hugh James (15 min., Monday through Friday, 10:30–10:45 A.M., NBC–Blue, 1941).

12480 (The) House of Glass. Gertrude Berg wrote and directed this forerunner of The Goldbergs program. Sponsored by the Colgate-Palmolive Company, the story told of life in a small country hotel (Wednesday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., NBC–Blue, 1935). The cast of the House of Glass included Gertrude Berg, Joe Greenwood (Joe Greenwald), Paul Stewart, Helen Dumas, Bertha Walden, Sanford Meissner, Arthur Auerbach, Ann Lubowe, George Tobias, Celia Babcock, Arlene Blackburn, Bertha Walden and Bill Artzt and his orchestra. Gertrude Berg wrote the show conveniently set in a hotel, so that there could always be some entertainment going on. Billboard said the show contained "a little music, a little heart throb, humor [and] philosophy."

The program's warm humanity and good humor made it a national favorite.

Gertrude Berg returned to radio in 1953 with a new version of The House of Glass, about Barney Glass, who owned a resort hotel in the Catskills "one hour from New York City — three hours to be exact." Once again between the dramatic episodes there were many opportunities for listeners to hear the hotel's entertainment offerings. In addition to Gertrude Berg, the cast included Gene Baylos, Joseph Buloff, Arnold Stang, Harold Stone and Ann Thomas. Mrs. Berg wrote the show. The show's director was Ken MacGregor. Cherney Berg was the producer-composer. Original lyrics were written by Arnold B. Horwitt. The musical director was Milton Katime (30 min., Friday, 9:30-10:00 P.M., NBC, 1953). See also The Goldbergs.

12481 (The House That Jack Built). This unique show told the "real life" experiences of Sally and Jack Howard, a "modern American couple," who actually were having a house built in the Northwood section of Baltimore. The concept was developed and the program produced by WBAI's Purnell W. Gould. Elinor McCurley and Edward Wacsche, Jr. The cast members included: Mary Spotswood Warren, Leonie Redue and Walter Linthicum. The program was sponsored by many local Baltimore companies connected with the construction trades (WBAI, Baltimore, MD, 1931-1932).

12482 (The House That Music Built). Rex Mauphin's Orchestra was featured on the sustaining music program. Jack Lester was the program's announcer (30 min., Tuesday, 9:30-10:00 P.M., WFNR, Chicago, IL, 1947).

12483 (The House Undivided). True Boardman produced and Herb Conner wrote the daytime serial that Variety said was an imitation of One Man's Family. This particular family included an elderly man, his wife and children of various ages. Also in the story were their elderly housekeeper and their neighbors (15 min., Monday through Friday, 10:15-10:30 A.M., PST, Don Lee Network, 1937).

12486 Household Hour. The program of home economics information was conducted by Mrs. Elizabeth O. Hiller (WMAQ, Chicago, IL, 1925).

12487 Houser, Lionel. Book reviewer (KFWI, San Francisco, CA, 1926).

12488 Housewives' Half-Hour. The popular local "housewives' program" began on February 2, 1935 (KSAC, Manhattan, KS, 1935).

12489 (The Housewives' Hour). An early regularly scheduled program for women (WEAF, New York, NY, 1925).

12490 Housewives' Musical Program. Begun on September 26, 1927, the program was broadcast until September 1, 1937. It was designed to acquaint the listeners with the appreciation of good music (KSAC, Manhattan, KS, 1927-1937).

12491 Houston, George. Houston was a baritone who performed on the Theatre Magazine program (WGBS, New York, NY, 1928).

12493 Houston, Jean. COM-HE (KGHE, Pueblo, CO, 1957).

12495 Houston, (Mme.) Marie. Soprano (WGPC, Newark, NJ and WHN, New York, NY, 1925).

12496 Houston, Stanley. Chief announcer known as "Curley Bond" (KFKX, Chicago, IL, 1928).

12497 (The How Do You Do Boys). Comedy singing team of Grady and Doc, not otherwise identified on the program (KMA, Shennandoah, IA, 1926). Grady was high school principal Grady Fort and Doc was Dr. J.D. Bellamy, a dentist.

12499 How to Be Charming. The women's program was conducted by an unidentified broadcaster (WJSV, Washington, DC, 1936).

12500 Howard, Allen. Newscaster (WSPR, Springfield, MA, 1944).

12528 Howard, Wed. DJ (WMAQ, Chicago, IL, 1954).

12530 Howard, William. Sportscaster (The Realm of Sports, WJPG, Green Bay, WI, 1960).

12531 Howard Dandies. The music program sponsored by Howard Clothes featured the Freddie Rich Orchestra, contralto Betty Smart and tenor Ben Alley (15 min., Sunday, 6:30–6:45 P.M., CBS, 1931). When it went on the air April 27, 1929, the band was called the Howard Fashion Plate Orchestra. See also The Howard Fashion Plates.

12532 Howard Fashion Plates. The popular music program was sponsored by Howard Clothes. What's on the Air magazine (April, 1930, Vol. 1, No. 6, p. 38) described it as "Beau Brummel set to music." Tenor Ben Alley was the featured singer accompanied by the Freddie Rich band (30 min., Friday, 7:30–8:00 P.M., CBS, 1930). See also The Howard Dandies.

12533 Howatt, Louise. Pianist-contralto Howatt was known as the "Happiness Girl" (KFWB, Hollywood, CA, 1925; KMTR, Hollywood, CA, 1928).

12534 (The) Howdy Boys The Boys were the entertaining singing team of Harry Geise and Joe Allabaugh (WMAQ, Chicago, IL, 1928).

12535 Howdy Doody. Variety said that after he had gained national popularity with his Howdy Doody television show for children, Bob Smith made a successful transition with the program to radio. In addition to Buffalo Bob Smith, the program presented Dayton Allen playing Mr. Bluster, Bill Cornac as Flubadub and Judy Tyler as Princess Summerfall-Winterspring. Clarabelle the Clown also was a cast regular. Bob Smith played both Buffalo Bob and produced the voice of the puppet star, Howdy Doody. Each week guests such as Milton Berle and Helen Hayes appeared. Eddie Kean and Bob Cone were the program's writers and Simon Rady the producer-director (60 min., Saturday, 8:30–9:30 A.M., NBC, 1951–1954). Bob Smith said that Howdy Doody grew out of a character he had used previously on his Big Brother Bob radio show. On that show Smith had used a "Mortimer Snerd voice" to create a character by the name of Elmer. Elmer said, "Ho, ho, ho, howdy dowdy." Children who came to see the show often asked Smith where Howdy Doody was. Therefore, a radio character came to television before making the transition back to radio.

12536 Howe, Harold. Newscaster (KSAC, Manhattan, KS, 1941).

12537 Howe, Leonard "Len." Newscaster (WHO, Des Moines, IA, 1938–1942, 1948).

12538 Howe, Nancy. News reporter (WBIS, Boston, MA, 1928).

12539 Howe, Quincy. News analyst and author (WQXR, New York, NY, 1939–1942; Quincy Howe and the News, CBS, 1942–1950; ABC, 1954–1966). One of the most intellectually gifted and objectively honest news broadcasters, Howe wrote several significant books in addition to delivering his uniformly excellent analytic news broadcasts. His radio career began when moonlighting from his editor's job at Simon and Schuster, he began to broadcast the news for station WQXR (New York, NY) in the summer of 1939. He left both WQXR and Simon and Schuster to join CBS radio in 1939. Howe said that his broadcasting career was made possible by the friendship of Max Schuster with Elliott Sanger at WQXR, since the former had always believed that all media were closely related. Schuster maintained that what was good for Simon and Schuster was also good for WQXR.

Howe was a keen observer of the American scene and a perceptive historian. His insights into the broadcasting news business were also particularly penetrating [See also News on Radio]. In a letter to the author written June 9, 1975, Howe commented: "For thirty years I was broadcasting news commentaries, mostly by radio, sometimes by TV, but the day of the all-purpose news analyst has long since vanished. It filled its purpose at the time but has gone the way of the wheelbarrow."

12540 Howe, Trayer. Newscaster (WJEJ, Hagerstown, MD, 1940).

12541 Howel, Maud. Soprano (KFOB, Burlingame, CA, 1926).

12549 Howell, Jim. Sportscaster (Sports Desk, WQAM, Miami, FL, 1960).

12550 Howell, Lois M. Pianist (WORD, Batavia, IL, 1925).

12551 Howell, Rex G. Announcer Howell began his radio career while still a high school senior (KFEL, Denver, CO, 1925). His long broadcasting career also included work as a newscaster (KFXJ, Grand Junction, CO, 1938–1942, 1945; Radiotorial, KFXJ, 1946–1947).

12552 Howell, Wayne. Sportscaster (WTMA, Charleston, SC, 1940). DJ (NBC, 1950).

12553 Howells' Concert Band of Howells, Nebraska. Town band directed by J.L. Sindelar (WOAW, Omaha, NE, 1925).

12554 Howells, Hamilton. Cellist (KTAB, Oakland, CA, 1928).

12556 Howerton, George. Organist (KIDS, Independence, MO, 1926).

12560 Howland, Nellie. Harpist (KFDM, Beaumont, TX, 1927). Director (Magnolia Glee Club, KFDM, 1928).

12561 Howle, Conrad. Newscaster (WMBG, Richmond, VA, 1937–1939).

12563 Hoy, Wallace. DJ (Wake Up Lenoir, WJRI, Lenoir, NC, 1950).

12565 Hoyos, Rudolfo. Mexican baritone (WEAF, New York, NY, 1927).

12567 Hoyt, Lee. Newscaster (WIBW, Topeka, KS, 1939).

12568 Hoyt, Waite. Sportscaster Hoyt was a former New York Yankee pitching star (WNEW, New York, NY, 1939). In 1942 he broadcast Cincinnati Reds baseball play-by-play (WKRC, Cincinnati, OH, 1942–1945; Sports Review and baseball play-by-play, WCFO, Cincinnati, OH, 1947; According to Hoyt, WCPO, 1948–1951; WSAI, Cincinnati, OH, 1953; NBC, 1960). Hoyt's broadcast career began when he bounced from one New York station after another broadcasting sports, after his baseball career with the Yankees was over. He worked briefly on WMCA, WNEW, WABC and WOR before finally going to Cincinnati to begin a long successful career. During his early years, Hoyt unsuccessfully tried to join the extensive Wheaties team of baseball broadcasters [See also Sports], but was turned down because they felt that ex-athletes did not have either a sufficient or suitable vocabulary to do baseball broadcasts.

One of the most informative and entertaining aspects of Hoyt's work was his broadcasts during a rain delayed ball game. Called "Waite in the Rain," the rain delay interlude allowed him ample opportunity to use his large stock of baseball anecdotes that listeners greatly appreciated hearing. Known for his crisp articulation and excellent grammar, Hoyt was never the target of English teachers as was his fellow broadcaster — Dizzy Dean. Smith in his comprehensive book on baseball broadcasters, Voices of the Game, says that Hoyt was one of the first ex-athletes to become a broadcaster and quite possibly was the best (Smith, 1987, p. 73).

12569 Hruby, John. Trumpet soloist (WTAM, Cleveland, OH, 1924).

12773 Hyer, (Dr.) Robert Stewart. Dr. Hyer broadcast Sunday School Lessons (WFAA, Dallas, TX, 1925).

12774 Hyland, Dan. Newscaster (WHA1, Greenfield, MA, 1942).

12776 Hyman, Maxine. COM-HF (WYMB, Manning, SC, 1957).

12777 Hymes, Joe. Leader (Joe Hymes Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., CBS, 1934).

12778 Hymn Time. Hymn Time was an early morning religious program originating from the Chicago Gospel Tabernacle (WLS, Chicago, IL, 1933).

12779 Hymns of All Churches. Singer Joe Emerson and a choir performed spirituals and sacred songs of various creeds and denominations on the long-running program sponsored by General Mills (15 min., Monday through Friday, 9:00-9:15 A.M., MBS, 1935).

12780 Hymns We Love. The program of church hymns honored requests from listeners (KWI C, Decorah, IA, 1927).

12781 Hynd [Hyrd], June. News commentator (Guest Book and Let's Talk it Over, NBC, 1938-1939).

12782 (The) I.G. Glee Club. The glee club was a Black gospel quartet whose first weekly broadcasts made the program an immediate favorite with Memphis listeners. The group included C.H. Evans, R.S. Saunders, E.L. Rhodes and L.S. Brown. The sponsor was the Illinois Central Railroad (Weekly, WREC, Memphis, TN, 1927-1930s).

12783 I Deal in Crime. William Gargan starred on the adventure series as private eye, Ross Dolan. Music was supplied by Skitch Henderson. The announcer was Dresser Dahlstead (ABC, 1945-1947).

12784 I Give You My Life. Molly Picon starred on the program that combined music and dramatic episodes that purported to be the story of her life. General Foods was the program's sponsor (30 min., Tuesday, 7:30-8:00 P.M., WMCA, New York, NY, 1938).

12785 I Love a Mystery. Carlton E. Morse created and wrote the adventure series that told the story of three friends who operated the A-1 Detective Agency. They were: Jack Packard, a rugged, clear thinking stalwart played by Michael Raffetto; Reggie Yorke, a strong, precise British gentleman, played by Walter Paterson; and Doc Long, a tough, devil-may-care Texan, played by Barton Yarborough. Their adventures, crafted by the prolific Morse with his love of language and dramatic daring do, took them all over the world and placed them in some of the most memorable stories broadcast during the so-called Golden Age of Radio. Few listeners can forget how an organ mysteriously played "Brahm's Lullaby" without anyone at the keyboard, how the ghostly baby cried in a house without children whenever some horrible deed was committed, or the strange doings and dangers the three friends encountered in the Temple of the Vampires. Although it began with a 15-minute format broadcast daily during the World War II years, the show eventually evolved into a 30-minute weekly program. Over the years the cast included: Gloria Blondell, Jim Boles, Elliott Lewis, Cathy Lewis, Mercedes McCambridge, John McIntire, Jay Novello, Walter Paterson, Michael Raffetto, Tony Randall, Russell Thorson, Luis Van Rooten, Barbara Jean Wong and Barton Yarborough. The director was Mel Bailey. Michael Raffetto also performed some writing duties with the program's creator-writer, Carlton E. Morse.

When the series was repeated in 1949, the cast included Russell Thorson, Jim Boles and Tony Randall in the cast as the three friends (15 min., Monday through Friday, 7:45-8:00 P.M., MBS, 1950). For more information about Carlton E. Morse and his writing, see the One Man's Family program entry and also Drama.

12786 I Love Linda Dale. Helen Shields played the title role of Linda Dale on the daytime dramatic serial. Her husband, Eric Dale, was played, in turn, by Raymond Edward Johnson and James Meighan. Other members of the cast included: Claire Howard, Arthur Hughes, and Kay Strozzi.

12787 I Sustain the Wings. The U.S. Air Force sponsored the transcribed dramatic show with music and the message: Victory in Europe has been achieved, now let's finish the job (30 min., Saturday, 6:00-6:30 P.M., NBC-Red, 1945). See also Wartime Radio.

12788 I Was a Communist for the FBI. Dana Andrews played the role of Mart Cvetic, a FBI agent who infiltrated the Communist Party. For nine years, Cvetic was a member of a Communist cell and reported to the FBI on its operation. The syndicated adventure series, sponsored by the Kingston Cake Company, was produced by the Frederick W. Ziv Company (30 min., Sunday, 6:00-6:30 P.M., Transcribed, WIP, Philadelphia, PA, 1952).

12789 I Was There. Knox Manning narrated dramatized accounts of various headline events. Four events were featured on each program. The first program presented the political contest in 1916 between President Wilson and Charles Evans Hughes.

12790 Iatone, Leone. Pianist (KTHS, Hot Springs National Park, AR, 1928).

12791 Ickes, Harold. Politician Harold Ickes, former Secretary of the Interior for FDR, delivered a commentary on the news with incisiveness, humor and a definite political slant. The sponsor was Chevrolet (15 min., WGAY, Silver Spring, MD, 1947).

12792 Iceland Orchestra. Local music group (WHN, New York, NY, 1926).

12793 Ici Paris. French talent was presented on the weekly series, sponsored by the Canadian Radio Commission (30 min., Wednesday P.M., 9:00-9:30 P.M., NBC). Jacques Lenoir was the host. Contralto Lucienne Deval and a tenor duo of Jules and Gaston provided the vocal selections.

12796 Ihlenfeld, Warren. DJ (Take It Easy Time, WISR, Butler, PA, 1948-1949). Sports-caster (Sports Spotlight, WISR, 1951).

12797 Ilch, Charley. Leader (Charley Ilch's Sunset Canyon Country Club Orchestra, KFWB, Hollywood, CA, 1925).

12798 Iler, George. Iler was the director in charge of station WSB, Atlanta, GA, when it first went on the air in 1922. Iler and Walter Tison, both licensed radio operators, were station WSB's first employees.

12799 (The Ilka Chase Show. Ilka Chase talked about a variety of topics with charm and intelligence on her sustaining show (30 min., Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 2:00-2:30 P.M., WJZ, New York, NY, 1951).

12800 I'll Never Forget. True Story magazine sponsored the program and provided some dramatic material. Listener letters were also dramatized each week. Most letters were about the trials and tribulations involved with the listeners' romantic entanglements. Pat Barnes served as the program narrator. He frequently read Bernarr MacFadden's editorials. Songs by Frank Luther were regular features of the program (15 min., Wednesday, 1:00-1:15 P.M., MBS, 1940).

12801 (The) Illinois Four. Male quartet (WHT, Chicago, IL, 1928).

12803 Iloa Islanders Orchestra. Instr. mus. prg. (WTIC, Hartford, CT, 1936).

12804 Immortal Dramas. The Montgomery Ward Company sponsored the series of dramatic episodes based on Biblical stories. Unidentified performers appeared on the series (30 min., Monday, 1:00-1:30 P.M., NBC, 1935).

12805 Imperial Hawaiians Orchestra. Instr. mus. prg. (30 min., Sunday 2:30-3:00 P.M., CBS, 1935). The program was sponsored by the Wyeth Chemical Company.

12806 Imperial Male Choir. Vcl. mus. prg. (KUOA, Siloam Springs, AR, 1939).

12807 (The) Imperial Sextet of Harmony. Local vocal group (KDKA, Pittsburgh, PA, 1923).

12808 In a Beer Garden. The pleasant comedy told of the pleasures of beer and presented good music and talk. William Lundell and Henry L. Mencken were featured along with Frank Black's orchestra (30 min., Weekly, WJZ, New York, NY, 1933).

12809 In a Poet's Workshop. Dr. John W. Holland read two or three of his original poems after first explaining how he had decided on the subject matter of each. Many of the Reverend Dr. Holland's poems were published in his book, Mother's Thimble and Other Poems (15 min., Thursday, 11:00-11:15 A.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1935). See also Holland, John W.

12810 In a Russian Village. Peter Biljo and his Russian musicians provided the music on the popular network program (30 min., Sunday, 8:30-9:00 P.M., CBS, 1929-1930).

12811 In Chicago Tonight. Dramatic sketches and musical selections were the major elements of the program. Music was provided by the Harold Stokes Orchestra and singers Annette Stewart and Bruce Foote (30 min., 10:30-11:00 P.M., MBS, 1940).

12812 In Danceland. Joseph Hornick conducting the orchestra and pianist Henry Starr were regulars on the weekly music program (NBC-Pacific Coast Network, 1929).

12813 In the Modern Manner. Johnny Green's orchestra played the music on the program that featured singers Sylvia Froos and Evelyn MacGregor and pianist Herman Wasserman. The program's announcer was Carlisle Stevens (15 min., Weekly, CBS, 1934).

12814 In the Spotlight. Soprano Rosalie Wolfe and baritone Philip Steele were featured on the music show. Ralph Freese was the announcer (15 min., NBC-Blue, 1929).

12815 In the Time of Roses. A women's vocal octet and tenor soloists, none of whom were identified, appeared on the show (15 min., Monday, 9:45-10:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1930).

12816 Inch, Merrill. Newscaster (KOH, Reno, NV, 1939-1942). Sportscaster (KWRN, Reno, NV, 1949).

12818 (The Indigo Girl. Vcl. mus. prg. by an unidentified vocalist (WWVA, Wheeling, WV, 1935).

12819 Information Please. The panel quiz program with a high IQ provided listeners with an opportunity to test its erudite panelists. An unlikely listening audience favorite, the program remained on the air from 1938 to 1951, an extremely long run for an intellectual showcase. After their first broadcast on May 17, 1938, on NBC-Blue, 2,500 letters were received. In 1945, after being on the air for five years, as many as 28,000 were received weekly.

The program opened with the sound of a rooster crowing and the announcer saying: "Wake up, America. Time to stump the experts. Why not join the rest of the great American public that is doing its best to upset our mental giants." Clifton Fadiman posed the questions to regular panel members including Franklin P. Adams, columnist of the New York Post; John Kiernan, sportswriter of the New York Times; and pianist Oscar Levant. Each week they were joined by a guest panelist that sometimes was Basil Rathbone, Walter B. Pitkin, Christopher Morley, Albert Spalding, Harkness Duffield, Gracie Allen, Fred Allen, Boris Karloff, Orson Welles, Deems Taylor, Groucho Marx or some other interesting personality. If the listeners' questions stumped the experts, they received a set of the Encyclopaedia Britannica and a small cash prize. After five years on NBC, the program proudly announced that it had given away 1,142 editions of the Encyclopaedia Britannica and about $50,000. The show's sponsors over the years were Canada Dry, Lucky Strike cigarettes and H.J. Heintz.

12841 (The Inquiring Reporter. France Laux conducted the local program on which each person who could answer a question correctly received a large can of fruit or vegetables (Three times weekly, KMOX, St. Louis, MO, 1936).

12842 (The Inquiring Reporter. DJ Lanny Starr, with wire recorder in hand, traveled to S. Klein's department store several times a week to interview shoppers and give them cash prizes (30 min., Tuesday and Thursday, 9:00-9:30 P.M. and Saturday, 5:00-5:30 P.M., WNEW, New York, NY, 1947).

12844 Inside News from Hollywood. Jay Sims broadcast Hollywood gossip. Hazel Bishop lipstick was the sponsor (15 min., Weekly, NBC, 1952).

12845 (The Inside Story. Edwin C. Hill, who conducted the program, was a distinguished news reporter, who had never made a public speech before he began broadcasting. In 1930, Hill tried out for the position of newscaster on the Literary Digest program, but lost out to Lowell Thomas. The following year he began to broadcast the news for station WOR (Newark, NJ, 1931). Hart, Schaffner and Marx Clothing Company later sponsored his news program on a national CBS network. On the Inside Story for the Socony Vacuum Oil Company, Hill interviewed notables from all walks of life including Jack Dempsey, Ethel Barrymore, Grace Moore, Babe Ruth and Gene Tunney. He endeavored to give his listeners greater insight into the lives of those he interviewed and he was successful in doing so. See also Hill, Edwin C.

12846 Inspector Thorne. Karl Weber played the title role of police inspector Thorne, and Danny Ocke played his assistant, Sergeant Muggins, on the sustaining crime drama. The program opened with the announcer proclaiming, "Tonight the National Broadcasting Company presents the exploits of the spectacular young Inspector Thorne of the homicide bureau, whose investigations rank with many of the most celebrated cases in the annals of crime fiction. An investigator smart enough to claim he is dumb and smart enough to believe it. And now the National Broadcasting Company presents Inspector Thorne in "The Defrosted Refrigerator Case." On the first program of the series, Thorne and Muggins tracked down a millionaire's widow who had killed her husband. When the victim was killed, he fell to the floor screaming, "You killed me." After the case was successfully solved, Inspector Thorne summarized, "Murder is murder, and the price is execution." With dialogue of this nature, the cast had a serious obstacle to overcome. Eugene Edward Francis wrote and Kenneth MacGregor directed the program that was produced by Frank and Anne Hummert (30 min., Friday, 9:00-9:30 P.M., NBC, 1951).

12847 (The Inspiration Boys. Al Cameron and Pete Bontsema were a popular singing comedy team (WMAQ, Chicago, IL, 1929). See also Al and Pete and The Red Apple Club.

12848 (The Instrumental Trio. Pianist Geraldine McNeely directed the trio that included flutist William Fries and violinist Edward Lurton (WHAS, Louisville, KY, 1924).

12849 Insurance Court. A dramatic sketch and an informative talk were broadcast weekly on the sustaining program. "Real" cases were dramatized and listeners' letters answered by Morris H. Siegel. The program sought reform in the insurance business (30 min., Tuesday, 7:30-8:00 P.M., WENX, New York, NY, 1936).

12850 Interdenomination Services. Reverend Claude C. Coile conducted the church services and the Federated Quartet provided vocal selections (WEAF, New York, NY, 1925).

12851 International Airport. Mason Adams, Everett Sloan and Gilbert Mack starred in the sustaining mystery drama series with a flying background. The first mystery broadcast was "Flight from Fear" (30 min., Thursday, 8:30-9:00 P.M., 1949).

12852 International Broadcast from Austria—the Salzburg Music Festival. The Vienna Philharmonic conducted by Bruno Walter was featured on the excellent music program (30 min., Sunday, 10:00-10:30 A.M., NBC, 1935).

12853 International Broadcast from Russia. This was another in a series of excellent music programs from overseas that featured the Moscow Radio Orchestra, its soloists, and singers Katherine Katulskaja, Nicholas Ossipiv and Anatolij Sadonov. The National Folk Instruments Orchestra also performed with Peter Alexeev conducting (30 min., Sunday, 8:30-9:00 P.M., NBC, 1935).

12854 International Liars' Fraternity. Bill Green was the MC on the sustaining show. He told tall tales and wildly fanciful yarns. Music was supplied by William Stoess' Musical Prevaricators Band (15 min., Tuesday, 11:45-12:00 midnight, MBS, 1938).

12855 International Novelty Orchestra. The popular radio and recording orchestra was directed by Nathaniel Shilkret (WEAF, New York, NY, 1925; Victor Hour program, NBC-Blue, New York, NY, 1926). Although personnel for his band varied, often included were: Mike Mosiello, t.; Chuck Campbell, tb.; Andy Sannella, as. and stg. guitar; Lou Raderman, v.; Herb Borodkin, cl.; and Milt Rettenberg, p., bj., and tba.

12856 International Tidbits. Gregory Stone conducted the orchestra on the sustaining music program (30 min., Wednesday, 7:30-8:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1933).

12857 (The Interwoven Pair. Billy Jones and Ernie Hare toured the continent in 1929 and originated some programs of their Interwoven [socks] Pair series from the NBC-Pacific Coast Network stations. Their program's orchestra on the tour was conducted by William Perry (30 min., Friday, 9:00-9:30 P.M., WJZ-Blue, 1930). See also Jones and Hare and The Happiness Candy Boys.

12858 Intimate Interviews. Phil Anderson selected a theme and conducted interviews about it. For example, on one program he interviewed two eye-witnesses of the 1871 Chicago fire—Mrs. Ellen Boening and Walter Thine (15 min., Tuesday, 11:00-11:15 A.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1935).

12859 (The Intimate Revue. Weekly guests appeared on the variety show that featured Dwight Fiske, the Al Goodman Orchestra and weekly guest stars (30 min., Thursday, 8:30-9:00 P.M., NBC, 1940s).

12860 (The Invisible Microphone. The novel variety show took its microphone anywhere to find human interest stories or those with an odd twist. Ruppert Brewery sponsored the show that also featured comedian Arthur Boran, singer Jack Arthur and Lou Katzman's Orchestra (60 min., Friday, 9:00-10:00 P.M., WOR, Newark, NJ, 1933).

12861 Invitation to Learning. Lyman Bryson conducted the stimulating discussion program that each week focused on a classic work of fiction or nonfiction. Alfred Kazin and Leon Edel were among the panelists who regularly joined Bryson in the discussions. Some of the topics covered over the years were The Letter of William James, William Savage Landor's Imaginary Conversations and Arthur Conan Doyle's Sherlock Holmes. The program celebrated its 15th anniversary on May 19, 1955 (30 min., Sunday, 11:30-12:00 noon, CBS, 1959).

12862 (The Iodent Program. Singer Jane Froman and the Roy Shields' Orchestra entertained on the show sponsored by Iodent tooth paste (15 min., Sunday, 3:00-3:15 P.M. CST, NBC, 1932). An earlier music program of the same name was broadcast on the NBC-Red network in 1926.

12863 Iodine, Leon. Organist (WTAL, Toledo, OH, 1926).

12864 Iona, Andy. Leader (Andy Iona Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., NBC, 1937).

12865 Iooss, Walter A. Novelty pianist (WAHG, Richmond Hill, NY, 1926).

12866 Iovino, Charles R. Newscaster (WLAW, Lawrence, MA, 1940-1941).

12867 Iowa Cornhuskers. CW mus. prg. by unidentified performers (WMT, Cedar Rapids-Waterloo, IA, 1937).

12868 Iowa Wesleyan Glee Club. Collegiate vocal group (WFO, Des Moines, IA, 1925).

12869 (The Ipana Troubadours. Popular broadcast orchestra led by Sam Lanin (WEAF, New York, NY, 1925-1926; WJZ, New York, NY, 1926-1929). The band included: Hymie

Farberman and Red Nichols, t.; Chuck Campbell, tb.; Dick Johnson and Allic Evans, cl., as. and bar.; Lucien Smith, ts.; Harry Horlick, v.; Arthur Schutt, p.; Tony Colucci, bj. and g.; Vic Berton, d.; and Joe Tarto, tba. The band's theme, "Smiles," was appropriate for one that was featured on a program sponsored by Ipana Toothpaste.

12870 (The) Ipana Troubadours—Ingram Shavers. Bristol-Myers Co., makers of Ipana toothpaste and Ingram shave cream, sponsored the music show that featured a male trio and the Sam Lanin Orchestra (30 min., 8:30-9:00 P.M., NBC-Blue Network, 1930). A later format was that of a variety show with an emphasis on music (30 min., Wednesday, 9:00-9:30 P.M., NBC-Red Network, 1934).

12871 (The) Ira Staden Show. Municipally owned station WNYC (New York, NY) in 1948 established a precedence. For the first time in its 25 years of operation, the station broadcast a comedy show that Variety said was a good one. Ira Staden wrote and performed in a manner similar to Henry Morgan's satirical style. In the cast with Staden were Rene Paul, Doris Parker, Mike Lewin and Naomi Lewis. Herb Ross was the announcer (30 min., Monday, 9:15-9:45 P.M., WNYC, New York, NY, 1948).

12872 Irby, Bill. Sportscaster (WFEB, Sylacauga, AL, 1945).

Later, Beasley also appeared on a program devoted entirely to her singing Irene Beasley (15 min., Monday, 3:15-3:30 P.M., CBS, 1945).

12876 Irene Franklin. Franklin, a former vaudeville comedienne, performed on her own sustaining comedy show (15 min., Wednesday, 10:15-10:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1933).

12877 Irene Ryan's Toy Town Revue. Comedienne-singer Ryan hosted her variety program (WIND, Gary, IN, 1935). She later played the crusty Granny on The Beverly Hillbillies TV show.

12878 Irish and His Uke. Ukulele performer not otherwise identified (KFBE, 1924).

12881 Irvin, Shirley. Whistler Irvin specialized in performing Rubenstein's "Melody in F" (KFUU, Oakland, CA, 1925).

12882 Irvin S. Cobb's Paducah Plantation. Humorist Cobb hosted his variety show in the role of a southern colonel, who owned a large Kentucky plantation. The show's excellent cast included the Hall-Johnson Choir, baritone Clarence Muse, the Four Blackbirds vocal quartet, singer Dorothy Page, the Henry Jackson Orchestra and actors Norman Fields and John Mather. Guest stars such as Gertrude Niesen appeared weekly. Gayne Whitman was the announcer (NBC, 1936).

12883 Irvine, James. Pianist (WCAU, Philadelphia, PA, 1925).

12884 Irving, Bob. DJ (Platter Chatter, WLAP, Lexington, KY, 1947-1948; Irving Serving, WMAY, Springfield, IL, 1949; Platter Chatter, WLAP, 1950; WMAY, 1952).

12885 Irving, Charles. Newscaster (WGN, Chicago, IL, 1942).

12886 Irving, George. DJ (GI Live, WCMA, Corinth, MS, 1947; 1230 Club, WCMA, 1950).

12888 Irving, Jay. DJ (Music for Moderns, KVON, Napa, CA, 1949).

12889 Irving, Jim. DJ (Radio Bazaar, WESX, Salem, MA, 1947).

12890 Irving, Paul. DJ (Evening Heatwave, WEDC, Chicago, IL, 1947; Midnight Flyers, WEDC, 1947-1949).

12893 Irwin and Davis. Instr. mus. prg. by a duo piano team (KYW, Philadelphia, PA, 1934).

12894 Irwin, Don. Leader (Don Irwin Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., KYW, Chicago, IL, 1933).

12896 Irwin, George. Newscaster (KFJZ, Fort Worth, TX, 1941).

12898 Irwin, John B. Newscaster (KRNT, Des Moines, IA and KSO, Des Moines, IA, 1945).

12899 Irwin, Theodore. Organist (KPO, San Francisco, CA, 1925).

12901 Isaac, Billy. Leader (Billy Isaac Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WCAO, Baltimore, MD, 1934).

12902 Isaacs, Etta. Pianist (WGBS, New York, NY, 1925).

12903 Isabel, Jeannette. COM-HE (WILD, Birmingham, AL, 1956).

12904 Isbell, Harold. Announcer (KYW, Chicago, IL, 1925). Isbell moved to KNX (Hollywood, CA, 1928) after working at KFI (Los Angeles, CA, 1926). At KNX, Isbell was called "The Town Crier of the Night Watch."

12905 Isbell, Lelia. Pianist (KFI, Los Angeles, CA, 1925).

12906 Iseminger, Audrey. Pianist (Audrey Iseminger, instr. mus. prg., WDBJ, Roanoke, VA, 1935-1936).

12907 Ish, Milton. Pianist (KFWM, Oakland, CA, 1929).

12908 Isherwood, James. Baritone (KGO, Oakland, CA, 1925-1926).

12911 Isley, James. DJ (Chocolate Jam, WBBB, Burlington, NC, 1960).

12913 Ison, Janis "Jan." COM-HE (WKO, Hopkinsville, KY, 1956-1957).

12914 Ison, S.W. Sportscaster (WORZ, Orlando, FL, 1953).

12915 Ison, Steve. DJ (Magic Valley Jamboree, WTIP, Charleston, WV, 1948).

12916 Israel, Abner. Newscaster (WGPC, Albany, GA, 1941; It Happened During the Week, WALB, Albany, GA, 1945-1947).

12917 Israel, Ann. COM-HE (WJNO, West Palm Beach, FL, 1957).

12918 Israel, Joseph. Newscaster (WIP, Philadelphia, PA, 1936).

12919 Israel Temple Choir. The choir sang appropriate music and Rabbi Louis Brav delivered the address on the early religious program broadcast (WOK, Pine Bluff, AR, 1922).

12920 It Can Be Done (aka It Can Be Told). Edgar A. Guest hosted the program sponsored by Household Finance Company, on which he also read his own inspirational poems and commented upon the dramatic sketches presented. Most of the program's poems and dramatic episodes shared an inspirational theme that was appropriate for the Depression era show. Often the emphasis was how to obtain wealth. For example, one show dramatized how Mr. John S. Redshaw of Granville, Illinois, made his fortune in merchandising (30 min., Tuesday, 8:30-9:00 P.M., NBC, 1937; CBS, 1937-1939).

Guest was born in Northampton, England, August 20, 1881. He came to the United States at eight years of age and started work at the Detroit Free Press newspaper as an office boy. He later became a police reporter, exchange editor, columnist and popular writer of verse on the paper. Although he was known as the "Poet Laureate of Radio.” Guest modestly scoffed at the practice of calling his rhymes poetry, preferring instead to call them verse.

12921 It Can Happen to You. Eddie Cantor hosted the show that featured the Victor Young Orchestra. Harry Von Zell was the announcer (30 min., Weekly, ABC, 1950s). The show presented a theme of inspiration, love and hope.

12922 It Happened in Hollywood. Vincent Palmieri, assisted by Muriel Kirgbsbury, delivered film gossip and commentary (15 min., Wednesday, 4:00–4:15 P.M., WELI, New Haven, CT, 1938).

12923 It Happened in Hollywood. The Eddie Dunstedter Orchestra, John Conte, Helen Troy and Martha Mears were featured on the quarter-hour domestic show (CBS, 1939).

12924 It Happened in the Service. The dramatic series presented dramatizations of the feats of America's heroic servicemen during World War II. Ben Alexander hosted the program. Earl Ebi was the producer (15 min., Tuesday, 7:30–7:45 P.M., NBC, 1942). Some papers indicate that the program also appeared on ABC in 1942.

12925 It Pays to Be Ignorant. The pseudo-quiz show that parodied intellectual quiz shows such as Information Please was hosted by quizmaster Tom Howard. The program usually contained nothing more than the hilarious antics of its regular panel that included George Shelton, Harry McNaughton and Lulu McConnell. Puns, insults and the raucous shrieks of Miss McConnell were always heard on the wildly funny, low-brow show. The cast included: The Esquires (Vocal Group), vocalist Al Madru, Tom Howard, Lulu McConnell, Harry McNaughton and George Shelton. Music was supplied by the Korn Kobbler in the MBS version, followed by Doc Novak's band when the show moved to CBS. On the air from 1942 to 1949, the show was created by Robert and Ruth Howell (the daughter of Tom Howard, the show's producer) and directed by Herbert S. Polsieci. Ken Roberts and Dick Stark were the announcers. It Pays to be Ignorant began as a local show on WOR (New York, NY, 1942). Tom Howard always asked his daffy panel such questions as these:

What is a bread knife used for?

What is the best time of year for winter sports?

In what room of the house would you find the kitchen range?

Usually these difficult brain teasers stumped the panel, but they invariably produced hilarious answers (WOR, MBS, CBS, 1942–1949).

12926 (The) Italian Street Singer. Vcl. mus. prg. by an unidentified vocalist (WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1935).

12927 It's Always Albert. Irving Mansfield produced the sustaining situation comedy written by Jacqueline Susann and Beatrice Cole. Arnold Stang played the title role of ignorant Albert, whose antics kept his brother, played by Jan Murray, and his girl friend, played by Pert Kelton, always in the middle of a baffling muddle. Jack Miller's Orchestra supplied the music. George Bryan was the announcer (30 min., Friday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., CBS, 1948).

12928 It's Always Sunday. A sustaining situation comedy, the program told the story of a clergyman's family. Variety noted that although it seemed to be straight out of Ozzie and Harriet, at least Reverend Parker on this show was not ineffectual. Coleen Collins, John Stephenson and Nancy McCullom were in the cast. Frank Fox and Jesse Goldstein were the writers. Norman MacDonnell was the producer/director (30 min., Sunday, 4:30–5:00 P.M., CBS, 1951).

12929 It's Fun to Keep House. Home economist Helen Adams tried to do the convincing (15 min., Wednesday, 1:00–1:15 P.M. KWK, St. Louis, MO, 1939).

12931 It's Joan Davis Time. Comedienne Joan Davis starred on the situation comedy show with Lionel Stander, Mary Jane Croft and Bob Jellison. Music was supplied by the John Rarig band. Ben Gage was the announcer (30 min., Weekly, CBS, 1948).

12932 It's Show Time from Hollywood. The Freddy Martin Orchestra was featured on the transcribed show. Clyde Rogers, Stuart Wade, Glen Hughes and the Martin Men sang with the Martin band (15 min., Transcribed, Various Stations, 1950s).

12933 It's the Barry's. Serutan — “Nature's Remedy” (for constipation)—Laxative sponsored the routine talk show featuring Jack Barry, his wife Marcia Van Dyke and their son Jeff (15 min., Monday through Friday, 9:15–9:30 P.M., NBC, 1953). The slogan of “Serutan is Nature's spelled backward” was often heard in the program's commercials.

12934 It's Up to Youth. A panel of teenage boys and girls talked about such problems of youth as teacher infatuations, friction with older and younger sisters and liars on the sustaining program (30 min., 8:30–9:00 P.M., MBS, 1947).

12935 (The) Itty Bitty Kiddy Hour. Perry Charles and Ward Wilson burlesqued almost everything about radio on this entertaining sustaining comedy show. Charles narrated the show and Wilson played many roles in the comedy sketches. Their alleged sponsors were a firm of criminal lawyers, whose radio premium giveaway was a set of crime tools. The set of tools, they said, would be mailed free to any listener for $1000, plus the top of a moving van. All in all, Variety said, the show was one of radio's brightest efforts (30 min., Sunday, 10:00–10:30 P.M., WHN, 1935).

12936 Ivan, Gloria. Russian opera star (WGWS, New York, NY, 1929).

12938 Ivantzoff, Ivan. Baritone (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1929).

12939 Iverson, Earl. DJ (The Music Hall, WRJN, Racine, WI, 1960).

12940 Ives, Bob. Newscaster (Late Evening News, WFBL, Syracuse, NY, 1947).

12941 Ives, Jim. DJ (You Name It, WINR, Binghamton, NY, 1949).

12942 Ivey, Butch. DJ (WGFS, Haleyville, AL, 1956).

12943 (The) Ivory Tent Show. The variety show, sponsored by Procter & Gamble's Ivory Soap, was the final form taken by The Gibson Family Show. Presumably the show was influenced by the success of the Maxwell House Showboat program. Supposedly, the Gibson family was now traveling with a tent show troupe headed by Uncle Charlie, who was played by Charles Winninger. Vocal selections were performed by Jack and Loretta Clemens, Conrad Thibault and Lois Wilson. Music was supplied by the Don Voorhees Orchestra (60 min., Sunday, 10:00–11:00 min., NBC-Red, 1935). See also The Gibson Family.

12944 Izerillo, Guisepppe. Operatic tenor (WRNY, New York, NY, 1928).

12945 Izzard, Wesley S. “Wes.” Newscaster (KGNZ, Amarillo, TX, 1938–1942, 1945–1946).

12946 J. Akubead Pupule Show. DJ Hal Lewis took this Hawaiian name that translated means “crazy fish head.” He conducted a popular Honolulu morning show of news, times, music and community announcements (210 min., Monday through Saturday, 5:30–9:00 A.M., KGU, Honolulu, HI, 1956). His broadcasting rival in Honolulu at the time was KPOA's Lucky Luckman's Lucky Luck program. See also Lucky Luck.

12947 Jack and Ethyl the Motor Mates. Jack and Ethyl spent many months on an extended honeymoon on the dramatic series. Their travels led them to visit practically all the places of historic, romantic or scenic interest in the states of Washington, Oregon and California (30 min., Wednesday, 8:00–8:30 P.M., NBC-Pacific Coast Network, 1930s).

12948 Jack and Gene, the Harmony Boys of WLS. Gene Carroll and Jack Grady first appeared on WLS on January 13, 1928. They broadcast daily. Both played the piano and harmonized. Gene also played the guitar, harmonica and jew's harp (WLS, Chicago, 1928).

12949 Jack and His Buddies. Vcl. mus. prg. (WSM, Nashville, TN, 1935).

12950 Jack and Jean. Harmony singing team (KFI, Los Angeles, CA, 1926).

12952 (The) Jack and Jill Dance Band. Popular local band (KEX, Portland, OR, 1929).

12953 Jack and Paul. Little Jack Little and Paul Small sang on many radio stations (WGBS, New York, NY, 1928).

12954 Jack and Velma. Vcl. mus. prg. by vocal team (W/WVA, Wheeling, WV, 1935).

12955 Jack Armstrong. General Mills, makers of Wheaties, sponsored the juvenile daytime serial. Jack Armstrong, "The All-American Boy," was an outstanding athlete at Hudson High who possessed sterling character. Jack always found adventure while traveling the world with his friends Billy and Betty Fairfield and their Uncle Jim. Whether it was in Tibet, the Philippines or the jungles of Africa, the group found thrilling adventures. Although the title role was originated by St. John Terrell, Charles Flynn is best remembered as Jack Armstrong. Over the years the program's cast included: Don Ameche, Jim Ameche, Robert Barron, Frank Behrens, Herb Butterfield, Roland Butterfield, Kenneth Christie, Frank Dane, Jack Doty, Charles Flynn, John Gannon, James Goss, William Green, Milton Guion, Stanley Harris, Scheindel Kalish, Butler Manville, Naomi May, Art McConnell, Murray McLean, Marvin Miller, Loretta Poynton, William Rath, Michael Rye (Rye Billsbury), Olan Soule, St. John Terrell, Arthur Van Slyke, Sarajane Wells and Dick York.

The program's writers were Irving J. Crump, James Jewell, Lee Knopf, Talbot Mundy and Colonel Paschal Strong. The theme was sung by the Norsemen Quartet (Kenneth Shon, Al Revere, Ed Lindstrom and Ted Kline. James Peterson was the quartet's pianist-arranger). Robert Hardy Andrews was the program's creator-writer. At different times the program was directed by James Jewell, Ted MacMurray, Pat Murphy, Ed Morse and David Owen. Truman Bradley, Paul Douglas, Franklin MacCormack, Bob McKee, David Owen and Tom Shirley were the announcers (30 min., Monday through Friday, 5:30–6:00 P.M., CBS, 1935).

12956 (The) Jack Berch. Berch and a group of talented musicians and singers were featured on the sustaining program (30 min., Tuesday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., CBS, 1938). Later in a different format of the Jack Berch show, Berch alone was featured (15 min., Monday through Friday, 11:45–12:00 noon, NBC-Blue, 1945).

12957 (The) Jack Benny Show (aka The Canada Dry Ginger Ale Program, The Chevrolet Program, The General Tire Show, The Jell-O Program, The Jack Benny Program, The Grape Nuts Program and The Lucky Strike Show). Jack Benny was one of radio's greatest comedians. He is best known for his masterful timing and skillful use of silence as a comedy technique. Benny first appeared on the

Ed Sullivan program of March 29, 1932 by saying: "Ladies and gentlemen, this is Jack Benny talking. There will be a slight pause while you say, 'Who cares?'" Later in 1932, he was given his own show. His many radio shows included the Canada Dry Ginger Ale Program broadcast by NBC; The Chevrolet Program; The General Tire Program; The Jello Program; The Grape Nuts Program; and The Jack Benny Program.

Jack Benny was born Benny Kubelsky on February 14, 1894. Although Waukegan, Illinois, is well known as Benny's hometown, his mother insisted that he was born in a metropolitan Chicago hospital, a suitable birthplace for the show business giant he became. Beginning as a vaudeville star, he made the successful transition to radio and television to become the most popular and best loved comedian of radio's Golden Age. It was on radio that Benny and his talented ensemble was best represented, for it was here that Mel Blanc could best add his touch of genius to produce the vocal sound effects Jack used in so many of his routines. Television could never adequately visually reproduce Blanc's vocal characterization on these comic bits.

Always praised as a master of comedy timing, it was precisely Benny's use of pauses and vocal inflections that made him a master comedian. On his show, Benny always played the role of a vain, stingy know-it-all, who mistakenly thought he was sharper and more intelligent than all those around him. Another secret of Benny's success was the talented ensemble of performers who appeared with him for many years. Mary Livingstone, his real life wife, always proved to know more than Benny, as did band leader Phil Harris, tenor Dennis Day and his Black valet, "Rochester" played by Eddie Anderson.

"Rochester," one of radio's foremost comics, was sometimes criticized as perpetuating such Black stereotypes as doing "too much drinking and gambling." Despite these infrequent complaints, "Rochester" was always ahead of "Mr. Benny." Even though he paid verbal deference to his "boss," there never was any doubt that "Rochester" was the smarter of the two and always in charge no matter what Jack might think.

Don Wilson, Benny's long time announcer, in fact, was the only one who always treated him with true respect. Phil Harris, Dennis Day and Mary Livingstone rarely did. Other talented contributors to the program over the years were dialect comedians Sam Hearn and Artie Auerbach, who played the roles of Schlepperman and Mr. Kitzel, respectively. But of all the members of Benny's ensemble the most memorable was Mel Blanc, the master of vocal sound effects and funny characters.

Blanc vocally produced the wheezing, gurgling, coughing and sputtering sound of Benny's antique Maxwell car and the growling menace of Carmichael, the polar bear who guarded the money vaults in Benny's basement. A running gag on the show was how the polar bear had apparently eaten the gas man, since he was never seen after he went to the basement to read the gas meter. Once on the program, when Rochester answered the door bell, Benny asked, "Who was it?" Rochester replied, "It's the gas man." Jack triumphantly shouted, "You see? It's the gas man. I told you Carmichael didn't eat him. What does he want?" "He wants to know where the other gas man is," Rochester replied.

One of Blanc's best comic moments with Jack was his "Cy-Si" routine in which all his responses were answered "Cy," "Si," "Sue," or "Sew."

BENNY: Excuse me, are you waiting for the train?

BLANC: Si.

BENNY: You're meeting someone on the train?

BLANC: Si.

BENNY: A relative?

BLANC: Si.

BENNY: What's your name?

BLANC: Cy.

BENNY: Cy?

BLANC: Si.

BENNY: This relative you're waiting for—is it a woman?

BLANC: Si.

BENNY: Your sister?

BLANC: Si.

BENNY: What's her name?

BLANC: Sue.

BENNY: Sue?

BLANC: Si.

BENNY: Does she work?

BLANC: Si.

BENNY: She has a regular job?

BLANC: Si.

BENNY: What does she do?

BLANC: Sew.

BENNY: Sew?

BLANC: Si.

Perhaps the funniest joke ever broadcast on radio appeared on a Benny program. Growing out of Jack's stingy radio persona and his masterful sense of timing, the following routine occurred when he was accosted by a hold-up man:

HOLD UP MAN: Your money or your life.

There is a long, long pause.

HOLD UP MAN: Quit stalling—I said your money or your life.

BENNY: (With a loud, frustrated whine) I'm thinking it over.

Another memorable series of comedy events on the Benny show grew from his "feud" with fellow comic, Fred Allen. The supposedly bitter feud began on the Fred Allen Show, when a ten-year-old violinist, Stuart Canin, played Rimski-Korsakov's "Flight of the Bumble Bee" (Josefsberg, 1977, p. 240). After Allen complimented the young man on his performance, he remarked that a certain "alleged violinist should hang his head in shame." The Allen-Benny "feud" ran for years. Benny, who was a talented violinist, went along with the gag even to the extent of playing badly on the show for comic effect. At other times, however, he would play with various symphony orchestras on their benefit concert programs. The "feud" was a great listener favorite for both comedians.

After his radio show ended on May 22, 1955, Benny made the successful transition to television with his ensemble mostly intact. For the rest of his life, Benny retained the popularity he had achieved over the years. In addition, he greatly influenced the style of such television stars as Jack Paar and Johnny Carson. Many recordings of his programs are still available as proof of his comedic greatness.

Benny's fine cast always played a major role in his program's success. During his 23-year radio career, his program's cast included: Eddie Anderson, Artie Auerbach, Bea Benaderet, Jack Benny, Sara Berner, Mel Blanc, Ronald Coleman and Benita Hume Coleman, who played Jack's neighbors, Joel Davis, Dix Davis, Dennis Day, Andy Devine, Verna Felton, Frank Fontaine, Gloria Gordon, Phil Harris, Sam Hearn, Sheldon Leonard, Mary Livingstone, Jane Morgan, Frank Nelson, Ethel Shutta, Blanche Stewart and Don Wilson. Benny's vocalists and vocal groups included the Sportsmen Quartet (Bill Days, Thurl Ravenscroft, Max Smith, John Rarig and, at times, Marty Sperzel), Kenny Baker, Michael Bartlett, Dennis Day, James Melton, Frank Parker and Larry Stevens. His writers were Bill Morrow, Sam Perrin and John Tackaberry and his directors were Robert Ballin and Hilliard Marks. George Balzer, Ed Beloin, Jack Douglas, Milt Josefsberg, Irving Fein and Hilliard Marks were his producers. Several orchestras were featured: Don Bestor, Frank Black, Bob Crosby, Johnny Green, Phil Harris, George Olsen and Ted Weems. The announcers were: Paul Douglas, Alois Havrilla, George Hicks and Don Wilson (NBC, CBS, 1932–1955).

12958 (The) Jack Carson Show. Comedian Carson delivered funny stand-up comedy material on his show. He was joined by singer Doris Drews, the Taylor Maids singing group, guitarist Tony Romano and the Walter Gross Orchestra. Bob Stewart was the announcer (30 min., Tuesday through Friday, 9:30–10:00 P.M., CBS, 1954).

Although he is remembered primarily as a comedian, Carson was a versatile actor, who had a long career in motion pictures. He showed his range by playing villains and gangsters, singing and dancing with Esther Williams in such films as Dangerous When Wet (1953) and playing Paul Newman's brother in Tennessee Williams' Cat on a Hot Tin Roof.

12959 Jack Cooper's All-Colored Review. Weekly variety program (WSBC, Chicago, IL, 1935). See also Cooper, Jack.

12960 Jack Eigen. Eigen introduced a combined DJ-talk show format broadcast from a cafe in New York City (180 min., Monday through Friday, 12:00–3:00 A.M., WMGM, New York, NY, 1951).

12961 Jack Eigen's News Reel. Eigen broadcast the latest Broadway gossip on his sustaining show (15 min., Monday, 9:15–9:30 P.M., WGN, Chicago, IL, 1936).

12962 (The) Jack Frost Melody Moments. Eugene Ormandy conducted the orchestra on the good music program (30 min., Thursday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., NBC-Red, 1929; 30 min., Thursday, 9:30–10:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1931). Tenor Oliver Smith was a program regular and Alois Havrilla was the announcer. The program later returned to the air with Josef Pasternack conducting the orchestra (30 min., Monday, 9:30–10:00 P.M., NBC, 1933).

12963 Jack Haley's Log Cabin (aka The Jack Haley Show. The Log Cabin Jamboree or The Wonder Show). For the program's first season on the air (1937–1938), the sponsor was Log Cabin Syrup. Artie Auerbach, Lucille Ball, Wendy Barrie, Warren Hull, Virginia Verrill and the Ted Fiorito Orchestra were regularly featured. When Wonder Bread became the sponsor during the final season on the air (1938–1939), the name was changed to The Wonder Show. Comedian Haley's particular type of humor never fully succeeded on radio (30 min., Saturday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1938). Hollywood song and dance man Haley is best remembered for his starring role as the Tin Man in the 1939 film, The Wizard of Oz.

12964 (The) Jack Kirkwood Show. Corny jokes and outrageous puns made the program interesting. Jack Kirkwood was the chief comic and the major domo who kept the show moving. A typical interchange between Kirkwood and Gray Seebrook was as follows:

IRVING: I took my sweetheart out to Lover's Leap.

GRAY: What did she do?

IRVING: She leaped.

Kirkwood's comic associates on the show were Don Reed, Bob Sherry, Gray Seebrook and his wife, Lillian Lee. The music was by the Irving Miller Orchestra and singers Julie Conway and Connie Haines. Jimmie Wallington was the announcer (30 min., Monday through Friday, 9:00–9:30 A.M., 1943). The program grew out of an earlier Kirkwood morning show, Mirth and Madness on NBC, that also had featured the music of the Irving Miller and Jerry Jerome orchestras. Kirkwood later was featured on his New Jack Kirkwood Show with a supporting cast that included: Bill Gray, Lillian Lee, John Brown, Gloria Blondell, Dick Ryan, Doris Day and the Lud Gluskin Orchestra (30 min., Weekly, CBS, 1946). When the show was revived, comedian Kirkwood told old jokes, assisted by many talented cast members such as singers Lillian Lee, Lee Albert and organists Gaylord Carter and George Wright. Steve Dunne was the announcer on the sustaining show (The Jack Kirkwood Show, 30 min., Monday through Friday, 4:00–4:30 P.M., MBS, 1952).

12965 Jack Major One-Man Show. Major provided music and comedy on the network program (CBS, 1935).

12966 Jack Oakie's College. Movie comedian Oakie hosted the lively variety show that also featured Stuart Erwin, William Austin, Raymond Hatton, Helen Lynd, Harry Barris, Billy Benedict and the George Stoll orchestra (30 min., Tuesday P.M., CBS, 1938).

12967 (The) Jack Paar Show. This was Jack Paar's first network radio show. It was part of NBC's efforts to present new talent to a national audience. For several years, the show was a summer replacement for the Jack Benny Show. Paar's supporting cast members included Trudy Erwin, Henry Fielding, Hans Conried, Florence Halop, Jud Conlon's Rhythmairs, the Page Cavanaugh Trio and Jerry Fielding's Orchestra. Guest stars such as Dennis Day appeared each week. The announcers were Hy Averbach and Frank Nelson (30 min., Sunday, 7:00–7:30 P.M., NBC, 1947). Paar later had a late night television talk show on NBC for many years, until it was taken over by Johnny Carson.

12968 (The) Jack Pearl Show. Born on New York City's lower East side, Pearl became famous for his German dialect. He entered show business on Gus Edwards' children's revue, School Days. By the middle 1920s, Pearl was a major vaudeville star. He appeared in many guest spots on Ed Sullivan's radio show and in 1931 appeared in the Ziegfeld Follies of the Air. Lucky Strike cigarettes signed him to host the Jack Pearl Show for the 1932–1933 season.

He became famous with his Baron von Munchausen characterization on the Jack Pearl Show, in which he told long, fanciful tales in German dialect. When Cliff Hall, as Charlie his stooge, doubted the Baron's veracity, Munchausen would use his famous line, "Was you dere, Sharlie?" Jack Pearl and Cliff Hall returned to radio many times later for brief periods, but they never again achieved the popularity and listening audience their earlier program had brought them (30 min., NBC, 1932). Pearl later starred on a similar show sponsored by Raleigh and Kool cigarettes that also featured tenor Milton Bowe, the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra with vocalist Edythe Wright, Robert Bernard, Clayton "Bud" Collyer, John McIntire and Jeanette Nolan. Paul Stewart was the announcer. The theme song was "Two Cigarettes in the Dark." The program opened in this way: "Raleigh and Kool cigarettes present their new show starring Jack Pearl as Baron Von Munchausen with Cliff Hall as Charlie" (30 min., Weekly, NBC, 1936).

12970 (The) Jack Smith Show. Oxydol soap powder sponsored "Smiling Jack" Smith, a pleasant vocalist, who performed with guests such as the DeMarco Sisters to the music of Earl Sheldon's Orchestra. Don Hancock was the announcer (15 min., Monday through Friday, 7:15–7:30 P.M., CBS, 1946).

12971 Jack the Bell Boy. DJ Ed MacKenzie conducted the show that was popular with Detroit's bobby soxers (110 min., Monday through Saturday, 3:30–5:20 P.M., WJKB, Detroit, MI, 1947).

12972 Jack the Sweet Singer from the West. Jack, not otherwise identified, was one of the most popular singers on early Southern radio. He was accompanied by pianist Miss Doris Hauser. Jack's favorite songs were "Where the Colorado River Flows" and "Honey, Stay in Your Own Backyard." (WLBN, Little Rock, AR, 1927).

- 12973 Jack West Cowboys. CW mus. prg. (WJR, Detroit, MI, 1935).

Jack Barry co-hosted with DiMaggio. Dramatized episodes from the lives of various athletes were presented with such performers as Jackson Beck, Charles Irving, Leon Janney, Mandel Kramer and Everett Sloane. In addition, a young quizmaster conducted a quiz with the young members of the audience. The announcer was Ted Brown. The sponsor was M&M Candies (30 min., Saturday, 10:00-10:30 A.M., CBS, 1950).

13231 Joe Moss and the Three California Nuts. J.B. Williams Company sponsored the show that combined music and comedy. Joe Moss conducted the orchestra, Vivian Ross sang and the humor was supplied by the Three California Nuts. The "Nuts," formerly were known as the Three Public Enemies, not otherwise identified (15 min., Sunday, 7:30-7:45 P.M., NBC-Red, 1933).

13232 Joe Palooka. A children's serial drama based on Ham Fisher's cartoon strip. Joe Palooka told the story of Joe, a clean living heavyweight boxing champion. The title role, at various times, was played by Teddy Bergman (Alan Reed), Norman Gottschalk and Karl Swenson. Knobby Walsh, Joe's manager, was played by Frank Readick. Other members of the cast were Mary Jane Higby, Elsie Hitz and James Marr. Sportscaster Ted Husing was the announcer (15 min., Tuesday and Thursday, 5:45-6:00 P.M. CST, CBS, 1932).

13233 (The) Joe Penner Show (aka The Baker Broadcast). Joe Penner (Joseph Penta) was born in Nagybeck, Hungary November 11, 1904. He was ten when he arrived in the United States. At an early age he worked as a burlesque comedian in Baltimore's Gayety Theater, where he was discovered by Mike Porter, a staff member of Radio Guide magazine. Penner's frenetic comedy routines featured such catch phrases as "You nasty man" and his frequent query, "Do you want to buy a duck?" On the program Penner was joined by: Margaret Brayton, Stephanie Diamond, Monk Monsel, Dick Ryan, Gay Scabrook and Martha Wentworth. The writers were Matt Brooks, Carroll Carroll, Eddie Davis, Hal Finberg, Parke Levy, Arnold G. Maguire, Don Pringle and George Wells. Gordon Thompson was the director. Ozzie Nelson directed the orchestra and Harriet Hilliard was the featured vocalist. Although Penner enjoyed considerable success and critical praise, he quit the program in 1935 and was replaced by "Believe it or Not" Robert Ripley. Penner returned to radio in 1936 with his own Park Avenue Penner show that ran until 1940. This show featured the band of Jimmy Grier and singers Gene Austin and Joy Hodges. The next year, Penner died of a heart attack at the age of 37.

13234 Joe Powers of Oakville. This "boy meets girl" daily serial drama was broadcast on a sustaining basis. Draper Lewis and Jacques Fink wrote the program that was produced by James Hart and directed by Howard Barnes. The cast members included David Anderson, Elizabeth Keller, Richard Leone and Julian Noa. Organ interludes were provided by George Seaman (15 min., Monday through Friday, CBS, 1946).

13235 Joe Rines' Dress Rehearsal. The program was a simulated rehearsal of a show that contained both music and drama. In addition to maestro Rines and his band, vaudevillian: Mable Albertson, comedian Pinky Lee and tenor Morton Bowe were featured. (NBC, 1936).

13249 John Henry, Black River Giant. Juano Hernandez had a leading singing and speaking role on the program that adapted various African-American legends, songs and material drawn from the writings of Roark Bradford. The result was a fine cultural program. George Burke, Geraldine Gerrick and Rose McClendon also appeared in the program's "all Negro cast" (15 min., Sunday, 8:00-8:15 P.M., CBS, 1933). Later, the format was expanded (30 min., Sunday, 6:30-7:00 P.M., CBS, 1933).

13250 John Henry Faulk. After Faulk's Johnny's Front Porch had been dropped from the network schedule, he was successful with his local sustaining DJ show, on which he dispensed his homey philosophy and incisive wit (50 min., Monday through Friday, 5:05-5:55 P.M., WCBS, New York, NY, 1951).

13251 John R. Black DJ not otherwise identified (W/LAC, Nashville, TN, 1940s-1950s).

13252 John Reed King's Best Girl. On his novel audience participation show, King interviewed studio audience members and a guest celebrity. His goal was to discover what qualities they wanted their "best girl" to possess (30 min., Monday through Friday, 3:30-4:00 P.M., WOR, Newark, NJ, 1949).

13253 Johnen, Louis John. Poetry reader (W/LW, Cincinnati, OH, 1926).

13254 Johnny and Ginny. DJ team (Saturday Night Date, WEXL, Royal Oak, MI, 1950).

13255 Johnny and the Foursome. Vcl. mus. prg. (CBS, 1935).

13256 Johnny at the Piano. Fourteen-year-old pianist Johnny Rudd was a local radio favorite (15 min., Wednesday, 5:00-5:15 P.M., WHO Des Moines, NE, 1938).

13257 Johnny Lujack of Notre Dame. The sustaining daytime adventure show told the "story" of college (Notre Dame) and professional (Chicago Bears) star football quarterback, Johnny Lujack. The summer replacement for Armstrong of the S.B.I. was not limited to Lujack's football exploits. On one of the first stories, for example, he successfully proved the innocence of a 16-year-old accused of stealing. Lujack played himself on the show. Other cast members included Boris Aplon, Jack Evans, Art Hern, Angelyn Orr and Ed Prentiss. Art Ward was the program's announcer (30 min., Monday-Wednesday-Friday, 5:30-6:00 P.M., ABC, 1948).

13258 Johnny Mercer's Music Shop. Mercer, the talented singer-composer hosted his entertaining music show that also featured singer Jo Stafford, the Pied Pipers and Paul Weston's orchestra (15 min., 1944).

13260 (The) Johnny Morgan Variety Show. Johnny Morgan hosted the variety show that featured vocalist Milena Miller (Weekly, CBS, 1945).

13261 Johnny Olsen's Get Together (aka Johnny Olsen's Rumple Room). The show kept the versatile Olsen busy conducting guest interviews, a community sing and even singing himself. The show was produced by Jack Cleary (60 min., Saturday, 10:00-11:00 A.M., ABC, 1949).

13262 Johnny Presents the Rudy Vallee Show. Philip Morris Cigarettes sponsored the entertaining variety show that featured Vallee, Margaret Whiting, Doris Day, Billie Burke, Ruth Etting, the Tune Toppers, Margo and Eddie Albert, Dave Barry and the Wesson Brothers (30 min., Weekly, NBC, 1946-1947).

13263 Johnny Thompson and Ilene Woods. Thompson and Woods were a talented singing team (30 min., 10:30-11:00 A.M., ABC, 1945).

13267 Johns, W.M. Newscaster (WMFJ, Daytona Beach, FL, 1945).

13268 John's Other Wife. Frank and Anne Hummert produced the daytime serial that told the story of John Perry, a wealthy department store owner and his "other wife," his secretary. His faithful wife, Elizabeth Perry's ups and downs generally were caused by her concerns about the "other wife." First heard on NBC in 1936, the program ran for six years. The cast included: Stella Adler, Joan Banks, Don Beddoes, Ethel Blume, Milo Boulton, Alan Bunce, Macdonald Carey, Mary Cecil, Kingsley Cotton, Matt Crowley, Joseph Curtin, Helene Dumas, Florence Freeman, Franc Hale, Neil Harrison, Mary Jane Highby, Pat Holbrook, Irene Hubbard, Rita Johnson, David Jordan, John Kane, Lyda Kane, Elaine Kent, Alexander Kirkland, Richard Kollmar, James Krieger, Erin O'Brien-Moore, Margaret O'Connell, Vivia Ogden, William Post, Jr., Alice Reinheart, Adele Ronson, Hanley Stafford, Edward Trevor, Luis Van Rooten, Linda Watkins, Phyllis Welch and Ruth Yorke. Bill Sweets was the writer. The program's theme ("The Sweetest Story Ever Told") was whistled, sung, and strummed on the guitar by Stanley Davis.

- 13379 (The Johnson and Johnson Program). The program presented a series of "musical melodramas" featuring Joyce Meredith (NBC, 1929–1930).

13402 Johnstone, James H. Mandolin and tenor banjo soloist (KSD, St. Louis, MO, 1923-1924).

13403 Johnstone, Johnny. "Hot" piano player Johnstone also served as a control engineer and press agent (WEAF, New York, NY, 1925-1926).

13405 Joiner, Jerry. DJ (Good Yawnin' and Joiner's Corner, WTOK, Meridan, MS, 1949-1954).

13406 Jolly, Jim. Newscaster (WLBK, Bowling Green, KY, 1945).

13407 Jolly Bill and Jane. Jolly Bill Steinke played the role of Jolly Bill who talked with his little niece, Jane, played by Muriel Harbater. They were joined by various characters such as the Bugle Man and Fritzie the Fiddler on the entertaining children's show (15 min., Monday through Friday, 5:30-5:45 P.M., NBC-Red, 1928-1933). Jolly Bill told Jane the story of how "the little mouse took the great big elephant for a long, long ride in his wheelbarrow." Often he opened the program by saying, "Oooh — just listen to that clatter of hoof beats. It must be those wonderful horses, Harry, Dobbin and Prince, coming to take us for a trip to the jolly land of pixies."

In a later version of the program on their popular San Francisco local show, Steinke was joined by Pat Pritchard, who used a juvenile falsetto voice to imitate that of young Jane (15 min., Monday through Saturday, 5:00-5:15 P.M., KPO, San Francisco, CA, 1947). Jolly Bill was widely known as the "story teller extraordinary to American children." An example of the program's story line in 1933 told how Jolly Bill and Jane travelled to the moon on a fantastic rocket, where they were menaced by the King of the Moon and his army. The Moon King enjoyed using powerful rays to shatter neighboring planets. The King, who resided on the dark side of the moon, next planned to direct his devastating ray on the earth. When Jolly Bill and Jane asked their listeners to send in plans as to how the Moon King could be captured and destroyed, they received more than 2,000 suggestions.

Jolly Bill was the Commander of a club that contained several thousand young members. Each member was given a "gold" scarab that granted them a wish whenever they rubbed it. There is no report of any complaints that Jolly Bill received from unfulfilled young listeners who had rubbed their scarab without results.

13408 Jolly Bill's Cable Car Capers. Jolly Bill Steinke and organist Eloise Rowan began the popular children's program in 1947 (15 min., Monday through Friday, KNBC, San Francisco, CA, 1947-1949).

13409 (The) Jolly Cowboy. An otherwise unidentified singer was featured on the CW music show (KTHS, Hot Springs National Park, AR, 1936).

13410 Jolly Five Orchestra from Egg Harbor City. Popular local band (WFI, Philadelphia, PA, 1923).

13411 (The) Jolly German Hour. Carl Frisher conducted the variety show of music and comedy (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1927).

13412 Jolly Jesters Dance Orchestra. California dance band (KGER, Long Island, CA, 1929).

13413 Jolly Joe. Vcl. mus. prg. featuring a tenor not otherwise identified (MBS, 1937).

13414 Jolly Joe and His Pet Pals. Joe Kelly, as Jolly Joe, conducted the popular Chicago children's program sponsored by Little Crow Milling Company, makers of Coco-Wheat cereal. After three programs, his young listeners sent in 20,000 jokes as entries for a contest for the best jokes. Louis Davis played piano for the Kelly show (15 min., Monday through Friday, 7:00-7:15 P.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1935-1937).

13415 Jolly Joe's Junior Jamboree. Joe Kelly hosted the show that featured young amateurs singing, playing instruments and performing imitations, etc. (WLS, Chicago, IL, 1940).

13416 Jolly Journers. NBC broadcast the program containing "piano sketches for children" in 1935.

13417 (The) Jolly Jugglers. A team of baritone Phil Brae and tenor Billy Scholtz provided comedy and songs on their weekly show (15 min., Wednesday, 5:45-6:00 P.M., CBS, 1930s).

13418 Jolly Lumberjacks. CW mus. prg. (KWK, St. Louis, MO, 1936).

13419 (The) Jolly Wonder Bakers. Wonder Bread sponsored the weekly music program (NBC-Red, 1926).

13420 Jolson, Al. Jolson, the great entertainer, made his first radio appearance on KYW (Chicago, IL) in 1921. He later appeared on such network shows as The Kraft Music Hall. See also The Kraft Music Hall and Shell Chateau.

13421 Jonathan Trimble, Esq. Donald Crisp originated the title role, later played by Gale Gordon, of a 1905 publisher of a newspaper located in a city of 60,000. Trimble was an old, crotchety conservative, who was opposed to any change in his city. Jean Gillespie, Art Gilmore, Jack Mather, Victor Rodman, Earl Ross, Irene Tedrow and Roderick Thomas were also in the cast. The announcer was Tony LeFranco. Mort Green wrote the short-lived sustaining program (30 min., Saturday, 9:30-10:00 P.M., MBS, 1946).

13422 Jones, Albert. Newscaster (WABZ, Albemarle, NC, 1947).

13433 Jones, Bill. DJ (Danceland, WIBG, Philadelphia, PA, 1960).

13434 Jones (Billy) and (Ernie) Hare. The popular singing team began broadcasting as "The Happiness Boys" for Happiness Candy on WEAJ (New York, NY) in 1923, but their first radio appearance was on October 18, 1921 on WJZ (New York, NY). When the Happiness Boys first gained their greatest national prominence with their WEAJ broadcasts in 1924, they were joined briefly by Larry Briers (Radio Age, January, 1925, p. 28). Exactly when Jones and Hare decided to be a two-man team is not clear. It is known, however, that Jones, Hare and Briers were paid a total of $300 for their half-hour program on WEAJ (Happiness Boys, 30 min., Friday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., WEAJ, New York, NY, 1924–1925). When sponsored by the Happiness Candy Company, Jones and Hare used the song, "That's My Hap-Hap-Happiness" to popularize the candy. Another favorite song they frequently sang was "When I Indy Comes Home to his Mother."

Later the team worked for other sponsors that gave them names such as "The Interwoven [socks] Pair," "The Flit [fly spray] Soldiers," "The Taystee [bread] Loafers" and "The Best Food [mayonnaise] Boys." In the 1920s their programs were known as The Happiness Boys, sponsored by the Happiness Candy Company (WEAJ, 1923–1929) and The Flit Soldiers, sponsored by Standard Oil of New Jersey (WJZ, New York, NY, 1928). Their later programs also kept them busy (Jones and Hare, vcl. mus. prg., WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1934; WGAR, Cleveland, OH, 1935). See also the Happiness Boys.

13476 Jones, Louis Marshall "Grandpa." CW music performer Grandpa Jones began his radio career with an early morning show on WJW (Akron, OH, 1930). He was billed on that station as "The Young Singer of Old Songs." Later, when working on a Bradley Kincaid program, he was presented with a pair of old boots, a fake moustache, grease paint, had aging lines painted on his face and given the name "Grandpa Jones." From that time on, he made himself up to appear "old." After working at WWVA (Wheeling, WV), WCHS (Fairmont, WV) and WMNN (Fairmont, WV), he moved to WLS (Cincinnati, OH) to appear on their Boone County Jamboree in 1942. When he left the service at the end of World War II, he joined the Grand Ole Opry.

13543 Joung, Jessie. Conducted the KMA Sewing Circle program (KMA, Shenandoah, IA, 1928).

13544 (The) Journal Ranch. The unusual musical program had a western setting. The sponsor was the Milwaukee Journal. William H. Coffin, the Circulation Manager of the paper, conducted the program and played the role of the ranch boss. Fifteen Journal newsboys appeared as junior cowhands. Each week the program contained a story told by Coffin and some pleasant CW music (Sunday afternoon, WTM, Milwaukee, WI, 1930s).

13545 Journey, Warren. Newscaster (WFEA, Manchester, NH, 1946).

13546 Journeys in Music Land. Professor E. B. Gordon of the University of Wisconsin, known to friends as "Pop" Gordon, began experimenting with music appreciation radio programs in the winter of 1921-1922 on the university's experimental station, 9XM. When Journeys in Music Land began, the announcer said: "The Wisconsin School of the Air presents Journeys in Music Land." After this initial announcement, Professor Gordon said: "Good afternoon, boys and girls. Here we are on a bright and sunny afternoon. Let's start out today by singing." Music would then begin and Gordon would continue: "Here's that starting tone. Everyone sit up straight." As a studio vocal group began singing, the school children in the studio would join them by singing loudly. This was an excellent music appreciation program conducted with enthusiasm (WHA, Madison, WI, 1930s and 1940s).

13547 Jovial Jasper. A comedian-singer, not otherwise identified, appeared on the Crosley Variety Hour program (WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1928-1929).

13548 Joy, Alice. Contralto (Alice Joy, vel. mus. prg., NBC, 1931-1936). Ms. Joy, billed as "The Dream Girl," was born Frances Holcombe in Streator, Illinois. She started her singing in vaudeville, but soon came to radio where she enjoyed a successful career.

13549 Joy, Art. DJ (Doug Pitch, KIEM, Eureka, CA, 1949).

13550 Joy, Jack. Pianist Joy broadcast pianologues (KTAB, Oakland, CA, 1928).

13551 Joy, Jack. Leader (Jack Joy Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WXYZ, Detroit, MI, 1935).

13553 Joy, Leslie. Bass-baritone (WEAF, New York, NY, 1923).

13554 Joy, Richard "Dick." News analyst (Newspaper of the Air and Goodyear Sun-Up News, CBS and KNX, Los Angeles, CA, 1937; KNX, 1938-1942; CBS, 1942).

13555 (The) Joy Boys. Willard Scott teamed with blind DJ Ed Walker on WRC (Washington, DC) on this hilarious program of records, chatter and funny bits. Some of the pair's best creations were the Arthur Godfish Program, a biting satire on the Godfrey phenomenon and that of a drummer, whose solo rendition of "The Waltz You Saved for Me," lacked the important element of a melody. The show originated in Washington, DC, and remained a great favorite there for more than 16 years. It also gained popularity on the NBC network and the Armed Forces Radio Service (AFRS).

The Joy Boys' familiar theme began with the words, "We are the Joy Boys of Radio. We chase electrons to and fro." Ed Walker explains they got their theme from some of their studio engineers who had graduated from the Capitol Radio Institute and sang it to the tune of The Billboard March. Walker and Scott began some of the routines that eventually were expanded on the Joy Boys show, when they worked together on the Two at One show on WRC broadcast 1954-1956. Two at One went off the air in 1956 when Scott went into the Navy. After Scott returned from service in 1958, he and Walker began the Joy Boys show on WRC. Beginning as an afternoon show, it eventually became a three-hour evening show from 1963 to 1971. It became a drive time show in 1971-1972. When WRC changed its format, the Joy Boys moved to WWDC (Washington, DC) where the show ran from 1972 to 1974. See also Scott, Willard, and Walker, Ed.

13556 (The) Joy Digger Club. The early children's program had as its motto, "Dig a little joy out of everything every day. It's there if you dig deep enough." The program was conducted by Nate Caldwell, who used a "whispering singing style" to perform his zany songs (WBBM, Chicago, IL, 1925). Schaden (1988, p. 12) says the program "consisted of songs, stories and instrumental numbers, some of which were performed by children who were members of the Club. Boy Scouts took over the program once a week and from time to time, prominent people gave short talks of interest to youngsters." Membership cards were sent out to the young listeners who "paid" their club dues by writing a letter a month.

13557 Joyce, Bill. Newscaster (WJTN, Jamestown, NY, 1948).

13558 Joyce, Howard. DJ (Melody Merchant, WIAV, Grand Rapids, MI, 1947).

13560 Joyce, Johnny. Sportscaster (WPAQ, Mt. Airy, NC, 1949-1951). DJ (WPAQ, 1949; 740 Club, WPAQ, 1950).

13561 Joyce Jordan, Girl Interne. After Jordan completed her medical education, the program became Joyce Jordan, M.D. Beginning as a general practitioner in the small town of Preston, the program's plot eventually transformed her into a brilliant surgeon. The long-running daytime serial (1937-1955) was broadcast on all the major networks at one time or another. It was first broadcast from 1937 to 1948. A later version resumed broadcasting Monday 10, 1951, starring Fran Carlton and Ethel Owen. The writer was David Driscoll. Himan Brown was the show's producer-director (15 min., Monday through Friday, CBS, 1951). Over the years, the show's cast included: Vera Allen, Ed Begley, Frank Behrens, Ethel Blume, Horace Braham, Carlton Brickert, Kay Brinker, Edwin Bruce, Fran Carlton, Boyd Crawford, Alan Devitt, Virginia Dwyer, Elspeth Eric, Louise Fitch, Michael Fitzmaurice, Jackie Grimes, Larry Haines, Eda Heinemann, Mary Jane Higby, Charlotte Holland, Irene Hubbard, Rita Johnson, Raymond Edward Johnson, Ginger Jones, Joe Julian, Virginia Kay, Ed Latimer, Frank Lovejoy, Myron McCormick, Ruth McDevitt, James Monks, Santos Ortega, Ethel Owen, Aileen Pringle, John Raby, Amanda Randolph, Larry Robinson, Erik Rolk, Pat Ryan, Stefan Schnabel, Ann Shepherd (Scheindel Kalish), Les Tremayne, Gertrude Warner, Elizabeth Watts, Charles Webster, Richard Widmark, Betty Winkler, Lesley Woods, Herbert Yost and Bill Zuckert. Ken Roberts was the announcer and Mende Brown, Ted Corday and Arthur Hanna the directors. The writers were Ralph Berkey, David Driscoll, Julian Funt and Henry Selinger.

13562 Joye, Betty Jean. COM-HE (WPRY, Perry, FL, 1957).

13563 Jubilante Singers. Vocal group directed by Mme. Beatrice Ferris-Hinz (KFWM, Oakland, CA, 1929).

Jubilee see Radio in Wartime

13564 Jubilee Singers (Texas College, Tyler, Texas). Collegiate singing group (WFAA, Dallas, TX, 1926).

13565 (The) Judge. The sustaining mystery program, written by Henry Lee and Richard Pedicini, was produced and directed by Norman Macdonnell. The story was based on the concept of a retired judge who solved crimes. John Dehner played the title role. Larry Dobkin, Georgia Ellis, Vivi Janis, Byron Kane, Sarah Selby and June Whittle were also in the cast. The announcer was Dan Cubberly (30 min., Thursday, 9:30-10:00 P.M., CBS, 1952).

13566 Judge Rutherford—Jehovah's Witnesses. The transcribed religious program appeared on many stations at various times (15 min., Sunday, 10:00-10:15 A.M., WWVA, Richmond, VA, 1935).

13567 Judges, Fred. Radio spokesman for the Automobile Club of Washington (KFOA, Seattle, WA, 1928).

13568 Judith Allen. Ms. Allen broadcast stage and screen news and gossip (15 min., Weekly, WPAT, Paterson, NJ, 1942).

13569 (The) Judson Radio Corporation Program. The Judson Radio Manufacturing Company sponsored the music program that presented, among others, mandolin virtuoso Sam Siegel and the Edison Recording Orchestra directed by Herman Newell (CBS, 1928).

13570 (The) Judy Canova Show. Comedienne-singer Canova came out of the Ziegfeld Follies to begin her radio career on Paul Whiteman's Musical Variety program, where she was a great listener favorite. Variety called her a female Bob Burns, a genuine compliment that stressed the unsophisticated "hillbilly" role she assumed. Actually, she had been in grand opera. She was joined on the show by her sister, Anne, and brother, Zeke. Music was provided by Paul Whiteman's orchestra (45 min., Sunday, 9:45-10:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1936). A later program showed Canova in better form. In the later version, Miss Canova was surrounded with a superior cast on a half-hour comedy show. Written by Fred Fox and Henry Hoople, her cast included Mel Blanc, Verna Felton, Ruby Dandridge, Joe Kearns, Hans Conreid, Sheldon Leonard, Ruth Perrot, Gale Gordon, the Sportsmen Quartet and the Bud Dant Orchestra. One of Mel Blanc's comedy lines in his character as Pedro that endured was, "Pardon me for talking in your face, senorita." Howard Petrie was the program's announcer (The Judy Canova Show, 30 min., Weekly, CBS, NBC, 1943-1953).

13572 Juele, Frank. Leader (Frank Juele Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WIP, Philadelphia, PA, 1935-1937).

13573 Juke Box Jury. Originally a television program, Juke Box Jury came to CBS radio in 1954. Each week a different panel of guests passed judgments on various recordings. The show was hosted by Peter Potter. His first guest panel included Robert Wagner, Ann Sheridan, Mitzi Gaynor and Art Linkletter. The announcer was John Jacobs (30 min., Sunday, 7:00-7:30 P.M., CBS, 1954).

13574 Jukes, Mary Lou. COM-HE (KCKT, Great Bend, KS, 1956).

13576 Jules Klein's Symphonic Ensemble. Classical music group (WW), Detroit, MI, 1928).

13577 Julian, Joe. DJ (Moonlight Serenade, WKOP, Binghamton, NY, 1954; WINR, Binghamton, NY, 1955; WKOP, 1956-1957).

13578 Julie and Red. Julie Conway and Red Benson broadcast songs and lively chatter on their sustaining local program (25 min., Saturday, WOR, New York, NY, 1949).

13579 Jumbo. Texas Company, makers of Texaco Fire Chief Gasoline, sponsored the replacement for Ed Wynn's Fire Chief program. The basic concept came from Billy Rose's successful Broadway production, Jumbo. Rose transferred the property into a spectacular radio program starring comic Jimmy Durante. Rose's eye for the colossal and the special was clearly visible, for the program was broadcast before a live radio audience of 4,500. The dramatic sketch with musical episodes was written by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur with music by Lorenz Hart and lyrics by Richard Rodgers. Adolph Deutsch led a 32-piece orchestra and Charles Henderson a choir of 30 males called the Razorbacks. Durante played the role of Claudius B. "Brainy" Bowers, a press agent for a small circus who meant well, but always seemed to cause trouble for his boss, John L. Considine, played by Arthur Sinclair, who owned Considine's Wonder Show Circus. Donald Novis played the role of Matt Mulligan, the son of a rival circus owner, who was in love with Considine's daughter, Mickey, played by Gloria Grafton. Additional comedy was added by Jellico. Considine's cockney secretary, Mae, played by A.P. Kaye. Louis Witten was the program's announcer (30 min., Tuesday, 9:30-10:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1935).

13580 Junger Maunerchor of Philadelphia. Vocal group conducted by Charles H. Martin, featuring tenor William Ringele, bass Adolph Murta and other soloists (WIP, Philadelphia, PA, 1925).

13581 Jungle Jim. Based on Alex Raymond's comic strip, Jungle Jim was broadcast by transcription. It was immediately followed by Flash Gordon, another Hearst Syndicate comic strip drawn by Alex Raymond. The adventure series told the story of Jungle Jim Bradley, an adventurer who was accompanied by Kolu, his "native" friend. Matt Crowley played the title role for almost the entire run of the program, and Juano Hernandez played Kolu. The program's cast included: Matt Crowley, Kenny Delmar, Franc Hale, Juano Hernandez, Arthur Hughes, Owen Jordan, Jack Lloyd, Vicki Vola and Irene Winston. Jay Clark was the program's writer and producer. The directors were Stuart Buchanan and Irene Fenton. Gene Stafford also wrote some of the episodes. The announcers were Roger Krupp and Glenn Riggs.

13583 Junior Junction. The show was for teenagers who discussed their problems and gave possible solutions. Written by Dick York and Larry Gilmore and produced by Phil Patton, the show was hosted by 18-year-old Elizabeth Woodward, who answered questions written in by young girls. The orchestra was led by eighteen-year-old Mary Hartline. Songs were by seventeen-year-olds Tony Frankina and Lola Ameche. Jackie Dvorak, who was also under 20, talked about fashions, manners and lonely heart matters.

13584 Junior Miss. The situation comedy dealt with the many problems faced by an adolescent girl. It was based on the short story written by Sally Benson. After first broadcasting with Shirley Temple in the starring role as Judy Graves, the program went off the air. In 1948, it reappeared on CBS in 1948 to begin a successful six year run with Barbara Whiting playing Judy Graves. Over the years the cast included: Barbara Eiler, Gale Gordon, Peggy Knudsen, Margaret Lansing, Elliott Lewis, Priscilla Lyon, Myra Marsh, Sarah Selby, K.T. Stevens, Shirley Temple, Barbara Whiting and Beverly Wills. The producer was Fran Van Hartsfeldt and the director, William Royal. Herbert Little, Jr., Jack Rubin, David Victor and Charlie Sinclair were the writers.

13586 Junkin, George. Announcer-director (KMOX, St. Louis, MO, 1928).

13587 Juray, Jack. Newscaster (WKBN, Youngstown, OH, 1942, 1948).

13588 Jurgens, Dick. Leader (Dick Jurgens Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WGN, Chicago, IL, 1934; 1937; MBS, 1939; WGN, 1940-1942).

13589 Just Entertainment. When his doctor ordered Gene Autry to rest, the Just Entertainment program replaced his Melody Ranch program. Wrigley's Double Mint Chewing Gum also sponsored the variety show hosted by Burgess Meredith. He was joined by singers Mahalia Jackson and George Grant, the Four Lads vocal group, comedians Lenny and Colyer and the Caesar Petrillo Orchestra. Joe Foss was the announcer (25 min., Sunday, 9:05-9:30 P.M., CBS, 1956). On a later version of the program, Pat Buttram replaced Burgess Meredith as host. Other members of the cast included Paul Richards, the Jack Halloran Quartet, Bill Kanad, Garry Wells, Betty Martin and Marian Morgan (15 min., Monday through Friday, 1:45-2:00 P.M., CST, CBS, 1956-1959).

13590 Just Plain Bill. Robert Hardy Andrews first wrote the story of small town life that was originally called Bill the Barber. Frank and Anne Hummert produced the story of barber Bill Davidson, who lived in Hartville. Arthur Hughes played the title role during the entire 22 years the program was broadcast. Bill Davidson, in his own way was similar to the character played by Ma Perkins. He was kind, understanding, but above all, he was always humane. The program in 1954 began with the announcement: "Now Just Plain Bill. The story of a man who might be living right next door to you. The real life story of people just like people we all know."

During its long run, the program's cast included: Curtis Arnall, Macdonald Carey, Cliff Carpenter, Ray Collins, Clayton "Bud" Collyer, Elizabeth Day, Audrey Egan, Charles Egleston, Sarah Fussell, Ara Gerald, Arthur Hughes, Teri Keane, Elaine Kent, Joe Latham, Charlotte Lawrence, Bill Lytell, James Meighan, Madeleine Pierce, Bill Quinn, Ruth Russell, Ann Shepherd (Scheindel Kalish), Guy Sorel, Helen Walpole and William Woodson. Robert Hardy Andrews, Barbara Bates, Peggy Blake, Evelyn Hart and Jack Kelsey were the program's writers. Martha Atwell, Gene Eubank, Arthur Hanna, Ed King, Norman Sweetser and Blair Walliser directed the program. The opening theme ("Darling Nellie Gray") and closing theme ("Polly Wolly Doodle") were played by Ha! Brown on harmonica and guitar. Andre Baruch, Fielden Farrington, Ed Herlihy and Roger Krupp were the announcers. The program was sponsored by Anacin.

13591 Justiana, Joe. Leader (Homesteaders Orchestra, WHAM, Rochester, NY, 1928).

13592 Justice Triumphs. The program dramatized "true" police stories drawn from the New York Sunday News. Supposedly the stories originated each week from a different large city police force. Jock MacGregor was the program's producer and director. The series had good production values, but the plots were often weak. The cast included Don Douglas, Nancy Sheridan, Ralph Carmargo, Joan Shea, Humphrey Davis, Jim Boles, Joe Latham, Byrna Raeburn, Sydney Smith, Cameron Prudhomme, Paul Conrad and Grace Carlson. Music was conducted by Emerson Buckley. George Carlson Putnam was the narrator and Frank McCarthy the announcer (30 min., Weekly, MBS, 1947).

13593 Juvenile Jury. Jack Barry hosted the show that featured a panel of children (the "jury"), who gave their opinions on various questions sent in to them by their listeners. They discussed such topics as allowances, keeping their room clean, doing chores at home and suitable punishments. Various guest stars as Milton Berle, Eddie Cantor and Red Skelton frequently appeared. The program was first broadcast in 1946 by MBS. The cast included: Glenn Mark Arthur, Jack Barry, Peggy Bruder, Charlie Hankinson, Billy Knight, Laura Mangels, Johnny McBride, Robin Morgan, Dickie Orlan, Patsy Waller, Elizabeth Watson and Jerry Weinsbard. The producer was Dan Ehrenreich (Dan Enright) and John Scott the announcer (30 min., Weekly, MBS and NBC, 1945–1953). See also Life Begins at Eighty.

13594 Juvenile Roundup. Betty Dugan conducted the popular local sustaining show that featured the singing and dancing of children from Pittsburgh and its surrounding areas

(30 min., Monday, 3:00–3:30 P.M. WWSW, Pittsburgh, PA, 1936).

13638 Kaltenborn, Hans V. (Von). News commentator Kaltenborn, an outstanding broadcaster and the dean of commentators, was born July 9, 1878. A Harvard Phi Beta Kappa, Kaltenborn was a reporter and associate editor of the Brooklyn Eagle when he began a series of half-hour news talks on WEAJ (New York, NY) in 1923 sponsored by his paper. His "clipped" style of speech drew favorable response from listeners who also had critical praise for his commentary. In 1924, he moved to WAHG (Richmond Hill, NY). WAHG received thirty thousand letters praising his broadcasts.

Kaltenborn became the first radio broadcaster to conduct a presidential interview on the air when he interviewed Calvin Coolidge from the White House's Oval Room in 1924. After being denounced by local politicians and officials for his commentaries, Kaltenborn moved to WOR (Newark, NJ) in 1925. Despite protests and pressure brought by New York mayor James J. Walker, WOR gave him freedom of speech and encouraged his broadcast efforts. Kaltenborn also broadcast for WJZ (New York, NY). In 1928, he discussed the news on his Current Topics Talk program (WAHG, 1928). A year later, he appeared on CBS with his Current Events program of news analysis that he broadcast weekly (30 min., Monday, 7:00–7:30 P.M., CBS, 1929).

He became more famous when he made the first radio broadcast from a battlefield of the Spanish Civil War in 1936 and for his broadcast of the Munich Crisis in 1938. Kaltenborn's later career as commentator was equally full (Headlines and Bylines, CBS, 1938; Kaltenborn Edits the News, NBC, 1939–1942; WNBC, New York, NY, 1946–1947; NBC, 1945–1948).

Kaltenborn was known for his rapid, staccato speech delivery that varied from 150 to 175 words per minute with occasional bursts of up to 200 words per minute. In addition, his integrity and authoritativeness was recognized. When CBS declared in 1939 that all news analysts should be neutral and objective, Kaltenborn responded honestly by saying that no commentator could meet that standard. The selecting or omitting of news items, the shading or emphasis given the events selected for description and every editorial judgment of the commentator, Kaltenborn noted, was an expression of opinion (Fang, 1977, p. 10). See also News.

13639 Kaltenborn's Orchestra. Local New York dance band (WNYC, New York, NY, 1925).

13640 Kaltenmeyer's Kindergarten. Bruce Kamman, as Professor August Kaltenmeyer, attempted to preside over his zany "kindergarten kids," who unflinchingly took advantage of him on his comedy show. The professor's pratfalls enriched the hilarious juvenile comedy sponsored by Quaker Oats Aunt Jemima Pancakes. Kaltenmeyer sputtered in his heavy German accent as his kindergarten kids raised havoc. The kids were: Merrill Fugit as Percy Van Schuyler; Cecil Roy as Daisy Dean; Thor Ericson as Yohnny Yohnson; Johnny Wolfe as Izzy Finkelstein; and Jim and Marion Jordan — who later gained fame as Fibber McGee and Molly — as Mickey Donovan and Gertie Gump, respectively. The program was described as "The Nonsense School of the Air" and it always lived up to that billing. Variety (October 9, 1935) said this funny show was a radio descendent of an old vaudeville routine — "Nine Crazy Kids." The program's personnel included: Sidney Ellstrom, Thor Ericson, Merrill Fugit, Jim Jordan, Marian Jordan, Bruce Kamman, Cecil Roy, Billy White and Johnny White. The vocal group of the Escorts and Betty (Betty Olson, Ted Claire, Cliff Petersen and Floyd Holm) and Harry Kogen's orchestra performed the musical selections. Douglas Craig was the arranger and accompanist (30 min., Saturday, 5:30–6:00 P.M. NBC, 1937). When anti-German sentiment arose in the United States in 1940, the program's name was changed to Kindergarten Kapers and Professor Kaltenmeyer's to Ulysses S. Applegate, a name that clearly said USA. In addition, the Professor's customary closing line, "Auf widesehen und adieu" was dropped.

13641 Kalua Hawaiians Orchestra. Instr. mus. prg. (WNBH, New Bedford, CT, 1939).

13702 (The) Kate Smith Hour. Popular singer and famous personality Kate Smith eventually became a DJ on her own sustaining show (55 min., Friday, 8:00-8:55 P.M., WOR, Newark, NJ, 1950).

13703 (The) Kate Smith Show. Talented singer Smith hosted this hour long variety show for many years, introducing along the way many performers who later would become nationally known stars such as Abbott and Costello, Ezra Stone as Henry Aldrich, Henny Youngman and many others. Smith, known by many as "The Songbird of the South," never failed to please her many listeners with her songs. She was famous for introducing Irving Berlin's "God Bless America" and also for popularizing her theme, "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain." Both her opening ("Hello, everybody") and the show's closing ("Thanks for listening. Good night, folks") were well known trademarks. The Jack Miller Orchestra accompanied her. Ted Collins, Smith's manager, acted as the host on her programs. Bunny Coughlin and Bob Lee served as directors. The writers included: Jay Bennett, Al Garry, Doris Gilbert, Art S. Henley, Jean Holloway and Edward Jurist. Andre Baruch was the announcer (45 min., Thursday, 7:15-8:00 P.M., CBS, 1935). Smith had several other shows over the years.

Some of the personnel who participated in Smith's many shows were: Abbott and Costello, the Aldrich Family cast, John Barrymore, Mary Boland, Ted Collins (Host), Greta Garbo, Grace George, Bert Lahr, Bert Lytell, Helen Menken, Edward G. Robinson, Kate Smith, Margaret Sullivan and Henny Youngman. In 1950, like many other personalities, she became a DJ on The Kate Smith Hour. See also Kate Smith Speaks, The A&P Hour and The Kate Smith Hour.

13705 Kathe, Richard. DJ (Song Shop, WMRN, Marion, OH, 1947).

13706 Katie's Daughter. A theatrical background provided the scene of conflict on this daytime serial sponsored by the Manhattan Soap Company. Just as the leading character was about to open as the lead in a Broadway production, she had a quarrel with her boy friend. Does she succeed despite her personal problem? Variety observed that the show didn't remain on the air long enough for listeners to discover the answer. In the cast were Martin Blaine, Grace Coppin and Marie Gayer. The announcer was Ken Banghart (15 min., Monday through Friday, 10:00-10:15 A.M., NBC, 1947).

13707 Katinka Orchestra. Musical group (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1926).

13708 Katlboff, Ruth. Soprano (WGES, Oak Park, IL, 1925).

14082 Kincaid, Bradley. Folk singer Kincaid was one of the brightest stars of the National Barn Dance program, a show that began as the WLS Barn Dance program. He was born in Garrard County, Kentucky in 1895. Kincaid, a graduate of Berea College, began singing on the radio while taking classes at Chicago's YMCA.

His radio career started with a fifteen-minute program on WLS (Chicago, IL, 1926) that became so popular that in the fall he became a regular on The National Barn Dance, where he stayed for four years. Each year at WLS, where he was billed as "The Kentucky Mountain Boy," Kincaid received more than 100,000 letters. He sold his own song folios, and by the time he left WLS he had sold 400,000 copies. Kincaid always resented the term "hillbilly." Instead he preferred to be called a "singer of mountain songs." Because of his recordings and radio broadcasts, Malone (1968, p. 56) said of Kincaid that he "probably did more to popularize old-time songs and ballads among Americans than any other individual." Kincaid later had programs on several stations (Bradley Kincaid, CW vcl. mus. prg., WCKY, Cincinnati, OH, 1933; NBC, 1934; WBZ, Boston-Springfield, MA, 1935-1936; WTAM, Cleveland, OH, 1938).

14138 King, Riley "B.B." Black DJ, musician and singer (Bee Bee's Jeebies, WDIA, Memphis, TN, 1951; Sepia Swing Club, WDIA, 1950-1951). Born Riley King, he got the name "B.B." from his show business billings of "The Beale Street Boy" and "The Boy from Beale Street" that eventually was shortened to "B.B." On the air, B.B. identified himself as "Dr. King, musical chosen of the blues and heebie jeebies." After King persuaded Sonny Boy Williamson to allow him to appear on the King Biscuit Flour Show, he got an opportunity to perform in a West Memphis club that led to a weekly engagement there. He then decided that he also wanted a radio career and began to appear regularly on a segment of Williamson's show as a singer. Shortly afterward King got a show of his own sponsored by Lucky Strike cigarettes. His first DJ job occurred when Hot Rod Hulbert left Memphis to work in Baltimore in 1950. King became a DJ on his Sepia Swing Club and stayed at WDIA as a DJ for several years, as his popularity as a performer grew steadily.

14162 King's Row. The daytime serial, sponsored by the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company, was based on Henry Bellamann's novel of the same name and its sequel, Parris Mitchell of King's Row. Parris Mitchell, a doctor in his home town of King's Row, was played by Francis DeSales. The radio version of the novel was updated to include contemporary topics. For example, Dr. Mitchell offered to give the United States Government real estate to build a war plant, while villain Foster Green blocked his effort, because he wanted to make a killing by selling the government his own worthless land. These were only some of the complexities encountered by the hero in this adaptation written by Welbourn Kelley, produced by Arlene Lunny and directed by Edward Downes. Joining DeSales in the cast were Jim Boles, Doris Dalton, Charlotte Holland and Charlotte Manson. Lee Vines was the program's narrator and John MacDougall the announcer (15 min., Monday through Friday, 3:15–3:30 P.M., CBS, 1951).

- 14460 Kraft, Edwin Arthur. Organist (1923).
- 14461 (The) Kraft Music Hall. Before Bing Crosby made the program famous, Paul Whiteman was co-host. Whiteman's program featured members of his band and such guest performers as pianist Roy Bargy, Ramona, the King's Men, Lee Wiley, William Gargan, Helen Jepson, Johnny Mercer, John Dunbar, Morton Downey and Peggy Nealy. Ford Bond was the announcer (60 min., Weekly, NBC, 1934-1935).
- Bing Crosby took over the Kraft Music Hall show in 1935 and made it one of radio's most popular programs until he left in 1946. With Crosby as the singing-host, many talented performers were introduced to the American radio public for the first time and gained stardom from that introduction. Prior to Crosby's entrance on the scene, Deems Taylor was co-host and the the Paul Whiteman band the program's major feature. Al Jolson took over the show in 1934 when both Taylor and Whiteman departed. Crosby took over from Jolson in 1935. After Crosby left in 1946, Jolson returned to the program for a short time. Nelson Eddy and Dorothy Kirsten took over several summer Kraft Music Hall versions. The final version had Rudy Vallee acting chiefly as a DJ. The program's cast during the Bing Crosby era included: Victor Borge, Connee Boswell, Bob Burns (The Arkansas Traveler), Peggy Lee, Jerry Lester, Mary Martin, George Murphy and the Music Maids and Hal vocal group. Jimmy Dorsey's band appeared one year, but John Scott Trotter provided the music for the remainder of Bing's tenure. The show's writers were Bob Brewster, Carroll Carroll, David Gregory, Ed Helwick and Manny Mannheim. Ed Gardner, Cal Kuhl and Ezra MacIntosh were the directors. The announcers were Ken Carpenter, Roger Krupp and Don Wilson (NBC, 1933-1949).
- By 1955, radio was in transition, harassed as it was by the competition of television. Variety reviewed that year's version of The Kraft Music Hall and found it wanting by noting that the once great Kraft Music Hall had fallen on bad days. Rudy Vallee appeared on this version as a DJ, playing recordings and interviewing such celebrities as Gwen Verdon, Julie Andrews, Eddie Condon and Steve Allen. The announcer in this format was Charles Stark. Variety concluded this was an indication of the low estate to which radio had descended (60 min., Sunday, 8:00-9:00 P.M., CBS, 1955).
- 14462 (The) Kraft Program. Deems Taylor was the host on this music variety show sponsored by the Kraft Food Company. He introduced such performers as Al Jolson, Peggy Healy, the Rhythm Boys, Roy Bargy, Jack Fulton, Ramona and the talented members of the Paul Whiteman band. From the performers listed, it is clear that most of them came from the Whiteman band. Whiteman himself played a major role in the program's creation and production (60 min., Thursday, 10:00-11:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1933). This program was a forerunner of the Kraft Music Hall program.

- 14702 (The Lamplighter. Rabbi Jacob Tarshish broadcast inspirational talks and provided advice on his popular program (MBS, 1935-1941). Tarshish's program was said to have been the Mutual Broadcasting System's first commercially sponsored program. His goal, he said, was to "bring all creeds, all nations, all classes closer together in love and understanding." He certainly had a worthy goal, considering the troubled 1935-1941 era in which he was broadcasting.
- Tarshish first appeared on radio in 1926. His listeners always sought his help and advice in solving their problems of a religious, medical, legal and marital nature (15 min., Monday through Thursday, 11:45–12:00 noon and 15 min., Sunday, 2:30–2:45 P.M., MBS, 1935–1938).

14703 (The) Lamplighter. In a far different format from the show above, the Los Angeles Daily News sponsored Ted Yerza in the title role of The Lamplighter. He played records, talked about music and conducted interviews with musicians and singers. Charlie Arlington was the announcer (15 min., Saturday, 10:15–10:30 A.M., KHJ, Los Angeles, CA, 1942).

The previous year the program was carried on the NBC network (1934).

14715 Land of Health (aka Da-Ra-No). The character "Da-Ra-No," a wise man and ruler of the Land of Health, told stories to children as they hiked through the Slumber Forest with him. The children's program was broadcast by KGO (Oakland, CA, 1927) before becoming a network program that also featured the "Singing Sandman" and the "Rock-a-Bye Lady," who offered advice for healthy living to young listeners (NBC-Pacific Coast Network, 1929).

14716 Land o' Make Believe. Dr. Arthur Torrance and actress Frances Collette appeared on the program for children (60 min., Sunday, 10:00–11:00 A.M., CBS, 1930).

14717 Land of Make Believe. Miss Zel DeCyr told charming stories for children and played all the parts in them on the popular local show. Dick Sugar was the announcer (15 min., Saturday, 3:30–3:45 P.M., WEVD, New York, NY, 1949).

14718 Land of the Lost. The interesting children's program told the story of two children, Isabel and Billy, played by Betty Jane Tyler and Ray Ives, respectively. They found adventures in an enchanted undersea kingdom, where they were guided by a talking fish named Red Lantern. Isabel Manning Hewson was the producer, director and writer of the unique adventure program. The cast included: Jim Boles, Art Carney, Tom Eldridge, Ray Ives, Athena Lorde, Lee Marshall, Kay Marshall, Junius Matthews, Ann Thomas and Betty Jane Tyler. The announcer was Michael Fitzmaurice and Cyril Armbrister was the director (ABC, MBS, 1943–1948).

15183 LeRoy, Harry. DJ (KGGC, San Francisco, CA, 1937). Sportscaster (KGGC, San Francisco, CA, 1937; KQW, San Jose, CA, 1940).

15184 LeRoy, Howard. Leader (Howard LeRoy Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WCCO, Minneapolis–St. Paul, MN, 1939).

15185 Les Ambassadeurs. Comedy singing group consisting of Lou Clayton, Eddie Jackson and Jimmie Durante. This was the team in which Jimmie Durante first began his rise to stardom. Their exuberant comedy was particularly well suited to the Prohibition Era in which they began broadcasting (WMCA, New York, NY, 1929).

15186 Les Paul and Mary Ford. Guitarist Paul and his vocalist wife Mary Ford appeared on this inventive music program that probably was transcribed (10 min., 7:30–7:40 P.M., KLPM, Minot, ND and MBS, 1955).

15187 Lescoulie, Jack. DJ (Mutual-WOR, New York, NY all night show, 1947; WOR, 1950). Although Lescoulie began his broadcasting career in radio, it was his television work that brought him national prominence.

Lescoulie's extensive television career began with his acting appearance on Volume One, a dramatic anthology series on NBC in 1949. After this program, he presented sports and general features with Dave Garroway on The Today Show (NBC, 1952–1961). In addition to co-hosting the Brains and Brawn (NBC, 1957–1958) TV game show and the I-2-3-GO! educational show (NBC, 1961–1962), Lescoulie followed Steve Allen in hosting The Tonight America After Dark Show before hosts Jack Paar and Johnny Carson took over the duties and transformed The Tonight Show into the tremendously popular program it eventually became.

15195 Leslie, John. Newscaster (WOW, Omaha, NE, 1942–1945; REX News, WREX, Duluth, MN, 1948).

15197 Leslie, Maybelle. Pianist (KFWB, Hollywood, CA, 1925).

15198 Lesnevich, Gus. Lesnevich, a former light heavyweight boxing champion, performed as a DJ and talked with his sustaining program's announcer, Bob Emerick (30 min., Saturday, 4:30–5:00 P.M., WOR, New York, NY, 1951).

15199 A Lesson in English. Wilda Wilson Church conducted a program dedicated to the "improvement of our native tongue" (KGO, San Francisco, CA, 1925).

15200 Lessons in Loveliness. Nell Vinick delivered beauty talks on the popular network show (CBS, 1930).

15201 Lester, Ann. Contralto (Ann Lester, vcl. mus. prg., NBC, 1935).

15202 Lester, Bill. DJ (Off the Record, KOY, Phoenix, AZ, 1947; Record Matinee, KOY, 1952).

15203 Lester, Frank C. Newscaster (KFXD, Nampa, ID, 1938).

15204 Lester, Jack. Sportscaster (WNOE, New Orleans, LA, 1946). DJ (Jack Lester Show, WENR, Chicago, IL, 1949).

15205 Lester, Les. DJ (KANE, New Iberia, LA, 1960).

15206 Lester, Rita. Contralto (Rita Lester, vcl. mus. prg., NBC, 1935).

15207 Lesters, Gary. DJ (Breakfast with the Record Man, WRIB, Providence, RI, 1947).

15208 Lesueur, Larry. News commentator (CBS, 1944–1948).

15209 Let George Do It. Bob Bailey played the role of George Valentine, a hard boiled private investigator, who prided himself on taking the "tough jobs." The program opened with him saying, "Danger is my stock in trade. If the job's too tough for you to handle, you've got a job for me, George Valentine. Write full details." The program announcer then added, "Standard Oil of California on behalf of independent Chevron gas stations and Standard stations throughout the west invites you to Let George Do It." Cast members of the program included Eddie Firestone, Jr., Shirley Mitchell, Joe Kearns, Howard McNear, Horace Murphy and Frances Robinson. Organist Eddie Dunstetter provided the music (30 min., Weekly, CBS, 1951).

15210 Let Yourself Go. Milton Berle hosted the variety show featuring Joe Besser, Connie Russell and the Ray Bloch Orchestra (30 min., CBS, 1944–1945). See also The Milton Berle Show.

15211 Let Yourself Go. The local music show was sponsored by Borden's Milk. Singer Peggy Ann Ellis, pianist Teddy Wilson and the Roy Ross Orchestra were featured (30 min., Monday through Friday, 12:00–12:30 P.M., WNEW, New York, NY, 1950).

15212 Letocsky, Stanley Jan. Pianist (WOAW, Omaha, NE, 1925).

15213 Let's Compare Notes. Sally Selby sometimes conducted the daily women's program (KMOX, St. Louis, MO, 1936).

15214 Let's Dance. The Saturday night music program, containing three hours of dance music, began broadcasting in the mid–1930s. In 1935, Don Carney was the MC of the program that presented the bands of Xavier Cugat, Kel Murray and Benny Goodman (180 min., NBC, 1935).

15215 Let's Dance, America. Fred Robbins hosted the sustaining show featuring Tex Beneke's Orchestra and pianist Skitch Henderson (30 min., Saturday, 10:00–10:30 P.M., CBS, 1948).

15216 Let's Draw. James Schwalbach, a Milwaukee high school teacher, conducted the art program on which he claimed that children showed more imagination when instructed by radio than from television (WHA, Madison, WI, 1958). Schwalbach was on WHA radio for more than 30 years.

15217 Let's Follow Forducy. H.L. Ripley wrote these excellent mystery stories for the revised version of the Forducy Minute Mysteries. The first 15 minutes of the show presented a mystery and conducted a contest. The mystery was then solved in the last quarter-hour segment. Richard Gordon, who previously had played the master sleuth on the Sherlock Holmes program, was the featured actor (30 min., Monday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., MBS, 1935).

15218 Let's Get Acquainted. Lee Bennett portrayed character analyst Dr. Blake, whose aim on the program was to inform listeners as to the cause and effects of human personality traits. Soy Food Mills sponsored the program (5 min., Monday through Friday, WGN, Chicago, IL, 1942).

15219 Let's Go to the Opera. The Book-of-the-Month Club sponsored the music appreciation program that presented Lawrence Tibbett and Marie Rogndahl performing operatic selections. The music was conducted by Thomas Scherman. Frank Waldecker was the announcer (30 min., Sunday, 7:00–7:30 P.M., WOR, Newark, NJ, 1946).

15220 Let's Go to Town. The transcribed music program's cast included Gale Storm and the Tony Pastor Orchestra alternating with Perry Como and the Mitchell Ayres band (15 min., Transcribed, 1950s).

15221 Let's Have Rhythm. The entertaining Saturday evening program featured the Top Hatters Orchestra (30 min., Saturday, 3:00–3:30 P.M., NBC, 1936). Although identified only as the Top Hatters Orchestra on the show, they were actually Jan Savitt's band. Savitt, who had originally played violin in Leopold Stokowski's Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, first became a Philadelphia and, later, a national favorite. The band featured vocalist Carlotta Dale, clarinetist Joe "Buddy" Kearns and the "King of the Organ," Arthur Hinnett.

15222 Let's Learn Spanish. Sixteen stations carried the transcribed series of 39 instructional programs. Joel Sayre, Pedro Domec and Duncan Pirnie performed the language teaching (Transcribed, Various Stations, 1946).

15223 Let's Listen to Harris. The Northam-Warren Company sponsored the lively music show that featured Phil Harris, his band and vocalist Leah Ray (30 min., Friday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., NBC, 1934). When the Harris band played at Hollywood's Cocomo Grove, he hired Miss Ray as his band vocalist for $50 a week. She went on to star in motion pictures with Maurice Chevalier in Bedtime Story and Bob Hope in Going Spanish. Harris later became nationally known as a funny cast member on the Jack Benny program. Harris later had a motion picture career and his own radio show with his wife, the Phil Harris–Alice Faye program. See also Jack Benny and The Phil Harris–Alice Faye Show.

15224 Let's Pretend (aka In the Land of Let's Pretend and The Adventures of Helen and Mary). The famous children's program originally was known as The Adventures of Helen and Mary with the title roles played by Estelle Levy and Patricia Ryan. The name was changed to In the Land of Let's Pretend in 1934. Shortly thereafter, the title was shortened to Let's Pretend, the one by which it is best known. The program was on the air 13 years without a sponsor because CBS refused to allow it to be commercially sponsored. The network finally relented and allowed sponsorship by Cream of Wheat in 1943. The program's cast over the years included: Bill Adams, Denise Alexander, Albert Aley, Julian Altman, Arthur Anderson, Brad Barker (animal imitator), Maury Benkoil, Vivian Block, Butch Cavell, Kingsley Colton, Ivan Cury, Gwen Davies (Estelle Levy), Elaine Engler, Marilyn Erskine, Dick Etlinger, Anne-Marie Gayer, Jack Grimes, Billy and Florence Halop, Donald Hughes, Lester Jay, Jack Jordan, Robert Lee, Bill Lipton, Ronald Liss, Rita Lloyd, Sidney Lumet, Bobby and Billy Mauch, Michael O'Day, Patricia Peardon, Bob Readick, Patricia Ryan, Eddie Ryan, Jr., Alan Shea, Jimsey Sommers, Harry Swan (animal imitator), Walter Tetley, Sybil Trent, Betty Jane Tyler and Miriam Wolfe. Music was provided by the Maurice Brown orchestra (CBS, 1930–1957). Nila Mack, the program's creator and director, was a star of the stage and silent motion pictures, where she had appeared with Mme. Nazimova.

15225 Let's Sing. Colgate–Palmolive Company sponsored the audience participation community sing program. The first program host was Jack Arthur, but he soon was replaced by Homer Rodeheaver, formerly the song leader for evangelist Billy Sunday. Rodeheaver did an excellent job as both singing song leader and host (30 min., Wednesday, 9:30–10:00 P.M., CBS, 1936).

15226 Let's Visit the Zoo. Roger Conant, Curator of the Philadelphia Zoological Gardens, told animal stories and provided little known facts about them on his entertaining and educational sustaining show (15 min., Saturday, 11:30–11:45 A.M., KYW, Philadelphia, PA, 1941).

15227 Let's Write Songs. Sigmund Spaeth, known as the "Tune Detective," conducted the program for aspiring songwriters. He analyzed various popular songs and provided suggestions for listeners who wanted to write their own songs

(15 min., Weekly, WNYC, New York, NY, 1939).

15228 Letson, Ed. Newscaster (KFOR, Lincoln, NE, 1938; KFAB, Lincoln, NE and KFOR, 1939).

15229 Letters of the Cartwright Family. A daytime serial drama that told its story in a format by means of family member's letters to each other. When the letters were presented, they were broadcast in the voice of their writers (WTMJ, Milwaukee, WI, 1937–1938).

15278 Lewis, Fulton, Jr. A popular conservative radio commentator, Lewis began his radio career while working for the Washington, (DC) Herald and broadcasting its news bulletins (WMAL, Washington, DC, 1927; WOL, Washington, DC, 1937-1938; MBS, 1939-1941; NBC, 1941; WHN, New York, NY, 1942; WOL, 1945; Top of the News, MBS, 1942-1948). Usually Lewis' program began with an announcer saying, "Fulton Lewis, Jr., bring you the Top of the News."

No radio commentator probably elicited more ambivalent reactions of approval and disapproval than did Fulton Lewis, Jr. His Top of the News program had 529 sponsors. In 1939, Lewis was Washington's best known political commentator. The Charles A. Lindbergh "Baby" Kidnapping case and the Munich Crisis brought him national prominence for his broadcast coverage of them. During World War II, Lewis exposed many government scandals and examples of corruption by defense contractors. FDR, "big labor," and government corruption were his prime targets through the years.

He continued broadcasting after the end of the war, but his strong conservative views kept him under almost constant attack by his rivals and the politicians he angered.

15279 Lewis, Gene. Actor Lewis appeared in early radio dramas (WFAA, Dallas, TX, 1923).

15280 Lewis, Gene. DJ (KTHH, Houston, TX, 1947; Teen Canteen, KTHH, 1950).

15313 Lewis, Ted. Famous band leader and entertainer Lewis led his band on the All-Night

International Program (WHB, Kansas City, MO, 1923). He also led the Ted Lewis and his Synchrophonic Clowns orchestra on the Revue Intime broadcast from New York's Parody Club the following year (WHN, New York, NY, 1924). The 1924 Lewis band's personnel probably included the following: Lewis, ldr., clr., as. and vcls.; Dave Klein, c.; George Brunics and Harry Raderman, tb.; Sol Klein, v.; Dick Reynolds, p.; Vic Carpenter, bj.; John Lucas, d.; and Harry Barth, tba.

Lewis' trademark was his battered top hat and frequent inquiry, "Is everybody happy?" Both served him well for many decades. Among many other broadcasts, the Lewis band appeared later on CBS in 1929 and WLW (Cincinnati, OH, 1935).

15339 Liederkrantz Chorus. Vcl. mus. prg. (WFBL, Syracuse, NY, 1935).

15340 (The) Life and Loves of Dr. Susan. Lever Brothers' Lifebouy Soap sponsored the daytime serial that told the story of the troubles encountered by Dr. Susan Chandler, a widow who lived with her in-laws in a small town. Eleanor Phelps played the title role. Also in the cast were: Fred Barron, Mary Cecil, Elspeth Eric, Tommy Hughes, Alexander Kirkland, Gloria Mann, Mary Mason and Allie Lowe Miles. The director was Ed Rice. Dick Leibert was the program's organist. The show was written by Edith Meiser. Frank Luther was the announcer who also sang the Lifebouy commercial (15 min., Monday through Friday, 2:15-2:30 P.M., CBS, 1939).

15341 Life Begins (aka Martha Webster). Bess Flynn wrote the daytime serial first broadcast in 1940 by CBS. Later the name was changed to Martha Webster (CBS, 1940-1941). The cast included: Ray Collins, Donald Cook, Gretchen Davidson, Jimmy Donnelly, Helene Dumas, Ralph Dumke, Bess Flynn, Charlotte Garrity, Toni Gilman, Margaret MacDonald, Agnes Moorehead, Jeanette Nolan, Ethel Owen, Patricia Peardon, Betty Philson, Janet Rolands, Eddie Ryan, Everett Sloane, Edgar Stehli, Tom Tully and Carleton Young. The director was Diana Bourbon.

15342 Life Begins at 80. This panel show was based on age. On the show, host Jack Barry quizzed oldsters, instead of the youngsters he had confronted previously on Juvenile Jury. The geriatric panel show, appropriately enough, was sponsored by such products for the older generation as Geritol, Campbell's soup and Serutan Laxative. The panelists commented on various personal problems faced by the older generation. The program was produced by Dan Ehrenreich (Dan Enright). Diana Bourbon was the director. Ken Roberts was the announcer. The program appeared on both MBS and ABC (1948-1953).

Over the years, the inspirational program's cast included: Peggy Allenby, Ed Begley, Clayton "Bud" Collyer, Humphrey Davis, Roger DeKoven, Carl Eastman, Gavin Gordon, Mitzi Gould, Vinton Hayworth, Elsie Hitz, John Holbrook, Joe Julian, Waldemar Kappel, Teri Keane, Adelaide Klein, Richard Kollmar, Earl Larrimore, Ralph Locke, Ian Martin, John Moore, Agnes Moorehead, Dick Nelson, Ethel Owen, Minerva Pious, Alice Reinheart, Sidney Smith, Paul Stewart, Charles Webster, Ruth Weston and Ruth Yorke. The directors were Oliver Barbour and Chick Vincent. Don Becker and Carl Bixby were the writers and Don Becker the producer-director. The announcers on the program were Bob Dixon, Ralph Edwards, Don Hancock, Ed Herlihy and Ron Rawson. Herschel Leucke was the organist.

15344 Life in New York. Sidney Garfield described wartime life in New York on the quarter-hour show (15 min., Weekly, WJZ, 1942).

15345 Life in Your Hands. Earle Stanley Gardner created the character of Jonathan Kegg, a wealthy retired lawyer, who frequently acted as a friend of the court [amicus curiae]. Whenever he thought justice was threatened, Kegg redressed the balance to avert the potential injustice. Myron Wallace (Mike Wallace) was the program's narrator and Ken Nordine the announcer. Kegg was played at various times by Carlton Kaldell, Ned LeFevre and Lee Bowman. Other cast members included: Boris Aplon, Marianne Berthrand, Maurice Copeland, Everett Clark, Harry Eders, Carl Grayson, Art Hery, Geraldine Kaye, Ed Prentiss and Beverly Younger. The program was written by Bob and Billie McKee. Brown and Williamson Tobacco Company, makers of Raleigh Cigarettes, sponsored the summer replacement show for People are Funny (30 min., Tuesday, 10:30-11:00 P.M., NBC, 1949-1952).

15346 Life Is a Song. From 1934 to 1936, lovely Countess Olga Albani was the featured singer on the music program with the Charles Previn Orchestra (30 min., Sunday, 8:00-8:30 P.M., CST, NBC-Blue, 1935). After the Count-

15347 Life Is Worth Living. The Admiral Corporation, makers of Admiral television sets, sponsored the series of inspirational and spiritual talks by Bishop Fulton J. Sheen. After achieving success on TV, Sheen came to radio to deliver his inspirational talks. Previously Bishop Sheen had appeared on The Catholic Hour for more than 20 years (55 min., Thursday, 9:05-10:00 P.M., MBS, 1953).

15348 (The) Life of a Student Nurse in a Hospital. The program consisted of a series of talks describing how student nurses were trained (WOO, Philadelphia, PA, 1923).

15351 (The) Life of Riley. William Bendix played the role of Chester A. Riley on the weekly situation comedy sponsored by Prell Shampoo and Teel for a beautiful smile. Later, the title role of Riley was played by Jackie Gleason and Lionel Stander. Other program sponsors over the years the show was on the air were Pabst Blue Ribbon beer, Drefit and the American Meat Institute.

Riley each week had to meet and contend with Gillis, his neighbor, a gloomy Digger O'Dell who called himself "Your Friendly Undertaker," and his understanding and frequently frustrated wife, Peg. John Brown played both the roles of Riley's neighbor and that of the "Friendly Undertaker." Peg was played by Grace Coppin and Paula Winslowe. Other members of the cast were: Scotty Beckett, Conrad Binyon, Peggy Conklin, Hans Conreid, Tommy Cook, Sharon Douglas, Barbara Eiler and Jack Grimes (30 min., Weekly, ABC, NBC, 1944-1951).

15352 (The) Life of Uncle Ned. A dramatic sketch broadcast weekly (Sunday, NBC, 1935).

15353 (The) Life Saver Rendezvous. Life Savers candy sponsored the pleasant music show that featured tenor Phil Duey, singer Jane Williams, a male vocal trio and the orchestra of Aldo Ricci and his Rhythm Strings (30 min., Wednesday, 8:00-8:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1935).

15354 (The) Life Time Review. Shaeffer Pen Company sponsored the music program that featured the music of the Harold Stokes Orchestra and guest vocalists (15 min., Monday, 8:00-8:15 P.M., MBS, 1938).

15355 Life with Luigi. J. Carrol Naish played the title role on the situation comedy sponsored by Spearmint chewing gum. Luigi was an Italian immigrant who with his friends sought and found the good life in the United States. Naish was assisted by such veteran radio character actors as Alan Reed and Hans Conried. Others in the cast were: Joe Forte, Jody Gilbert, Ken Peters and Mary Shipp. The show was directed by Cy Howard. The writer-director was Mac Benoff. Bob Lamond, Charles Lyon and Bob Stevenson were the announcers (30 min., Weekly, CBS, 1948-1953).

(The) Lifebuoy Show see Al Jolson Lifebuoy Show

15358 Light, Ethel. Pianist (WEAF, New York, NY, 1925).

15359 Light and Power Concert Orchestra. Commercially sponsored orchestra (WDAF, Kansas City, MO, 1928).

15360 Light Crust Doughboys. CW mus. prg. (KARK, Little Rock, AR, 1939). The Light Crust Doughboys celebrated their twentieth year on the air in 1950, when they appeared with Slim Whitman, Jack and Ruth Perry. The Doughboys were still an outstanding CW music group at that time (KMAC, San Antonio, TX, 1950).

15361 (The) Light of the World. Frank and Anne Hummert produced the series of dramatized stories from the Old Testament written for radio by Katharine and Adele Seymour. The program was narrated by Bret Morrison. Among the frequent cast members were: Bil. Adams, Peggy Allenby, Jack Arthur, Sanford Bickart, Humphrey Davis, Eric Dressler, Louise Fitch, Barbara Fuller, Mitzi Gould, Ernest Graves, Iris Mann, James McCallion, James Monks, Bret Morrison, Virginia Payne, Lynne Rogers, Elaine Rost, Chester Stratton, Daniel Sutter and Florence Williams. Basil Loughrane was the producer-director. Don Becker was the creator-producer. The directors were Oliver Barbour and Don Cope. Clark "Doc" Whipple was the organist and musical director. Stuart Metz and Ted Campbell the announcers. The Seymours were assisted in their writing by Noel B. Gerson and Margaret Sangster. The program ran from 1940 to 1950 on both NBC and CBS.

15362 Light Opera Gems. Channon Collinge conducted the program of operatic music (30 min., Friday, 4:00-4:30 P.M., CBS, 1934).

15363 Light Opera Hour. Mus. prg. with soprano Emma Kimmel, tenor Charles Beauchamp and an orchestra conducted by Vincenzo Pometti (KFWB, Hollywood, CA, 1929).

15364 Lights Out (aka The Devil and Mr. O). The weekly dramatic series was created by Wyllis Cooper in 1935. The program was best known for the writing and direction of Arch Oboler, who took over from Cooper the following year. Suspense, horror and gruesome sounds were the major elements of the popular show. The program frequently disappeared from the air only to reappear again on a different network in a different time slot (NBC, CBS, MBS, 1935-1947). Originally presented in a 15-minute format, the show eventually was extended to 30 minutes. Often broadcast in the late evening, it was at one time appropriately broadcast at midnight. The cast included: Sidney Ellstrom, Templeton Fox, Raymond Edward Johnson, Ted Maxwell, Lou Merrill and Betty Winkler. The tales of horror were written by Arch Oboler, Wyllis Cooper and Ferrin N. Fraser. Some of the Lights Out shows were repeated in 1970 in The Devil and Mr. O series.

15365 Light Up and Listen. The Imperial Tobacco Company sponsored the transcribed music program. In its various formats the show featured such performers as the Jesters, Delta Rhythm Boys, John Garth Trio, Peg LaCentra, Felix Knight, Ted Steele Novatones, Tony Motola, Jean Ellington, Joan Brooks, Gwen Williams, Frank Banta and the Men of Music, Allen E. Riser and the Evening Serenaders, the Four Belles, Four Flames, Four Showmen, John Edwards, the Spring Wheel Singers, Ramona, Peter deRose and May Singhi Breen, Al and Lee Reiser and Jimmy Sears. The announcer was Milton Cross (15 min., Transcribed, NBC, early 1930s).

15366 Light Up Time. Frank Sinatra, Dorothy Kirsten and Jeff Alexander's Orchestra appeared on the entertaining musical program sponsored by the American Tobacco Company. Don Wilson was the announcer (30 min., Monday through Friday, 7:00-7:30 P.M., NBC, 1949).

Blackface comedians Molasses and January supplied the humor and the William Würges Orchestra the music. Ford Bond was the announcer. (30 min., Sunday, 1:30-2:00 P.M., NBC-Red Network, New York, NY, 1934-1935).

In 1934, 12-year-old Mary Small of Baltimore, Maryland, made her debut on this program. Previously little Miss Small had been a great hit when she sang on Rudy Vallee's Fleischmann program.

15493 Little Night Music. Eva Gabor was a glamorous and charming DJ on her show, written, produced and directed by Bill Kalland (25 min., Tuesday through Thursday, 11:35-12:00 midnight, WNEW, New York, NY, 1952).

15494 Little Orphan Annie. The famous children's daytime serial program was first broadcast on the NBC-Blue network in 1931. Based on Harold Gray's comic strip, the show was sponsored by Ovaltine. While it was on the air a great many premiums were offered to listeners who sent in a seal from an Ovaltine can and a dime. Shake-up mugs for Ovaltine and secret decoder badges were favorite premiums the program offered its young listeners. A familiar part of the show was Annie's dog, Sandy, whose bark was supplied by famous animal imitator, Brad Barker.

The program opened with its famous theme, which began:

Who's that little chatterbox?

The one with pretty auburn locks?

It's Little Orphan Annie.

The program's cast included: Hoyt Allen, Stanley Andrews, Boris Aplon, Brad Barker (Imitated Sandy), Allan Baruck, Shirley Bell, Harry Cansdale, Janice Gilbert, Jerry O'Mera, Henry Saxe, Olan Soule, Henrietta Tedro and St. John Terrell. The director was Alan Wallace. Originally written by Frank Dahm, the show later was written by Ferrin N. Fraser, Day Keene, Roland Martini and Wally Norman. The announcer was Pierre Andre. Harry Lime was a shrewd confidence man, always on the side of right, but inevitably on all sides of the law. McDonald Park and Irene Prador were also in the cast (30 min., Wednesday, 9:00-9:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1951).

Welles previously played Harry Lime in the 1949 British film, The Third Man. Leonard Maltin in his Movie and Video Guide (1992, p. 1235) concludes that [novelist] Graham Greene's account of the mysterious Harry Lime in post-World War II Vienna was a bona fide classic, and that the Anton Karas' zither rendition of "The Third Man Theme" added the right touch. On radio, Harry Lime was portrayed as a more heroic, less sinister figure.

15515 (The Lives of Jewish Composers. Both music and narration were used to tell the stories of Jewish composers on the show sponsored by Maxwell House Coffee. Music was performed by George Touller's Orchestra (30 min., Wednesday, 7:15-7:45 P.M., WMCA, New York, NY, 1935).

15582 London, Joe, Newscaster (KTOK, Oklahoma City, OK, 1941), Sportscaster (KTOK, 1941).

15583 London, Rex, DJ (12-10 Club, KHOZ, Harrison, AR, 1947).

15584 London Singers. Vcl. mus. prg. (KUOA, Siloam Springs, AR, 1939).

15585 Lone Cowboy. CW vcl. mus. prg. with an unidentified singer (WIBA, Madison, WI, 1936).

15586 Lone Journey. Lone Journey was a daytime dramatic serial that had three different incarnations, first on NBC, then CBS and, finally, ABC. The last version told the story of Wolfe Bennett, played by Staats Cotsworth, a successful Chicago business man who left city life to live on a Montana ranch. The cast included Joan Alexander, Cameron Andrews, Fran Carlon, Olive Deering, Charlotte Holland and Delores Gilbert. Sandra Michael wrote the program from 1940 to 1942, but then left to write other shows. She and her brother, Peter Michael, later returned to again write Lone Journey. Variety noted that with their return, the program's characters became more human and the serial's quality greatly improved. The announcers were Nelson Case, Durward Kirby, Henry Morgan and Charles Woods. Axel Gruenberg, Ted MacMurray and Martin Wagner were the directors (15 min., Monday through Friday, 11:45-12:00 noon, ABC, 1951).

15587 (The) Lone Ranger. The best known and most loved hero of radio by both children and adults was the Lone Ranger. With his faithful Indian companion, Tonto, the Lone Ranger fought outlaws in the "thrilling days of yesteryear" astride his great horse Silver. Station WXYZ (Detroit, MI) was the source of three of radio's greatest heroes who battled against crime in their own special way. These super heroes were the Lone Ranger, the Green Hornet and Sgt. Preston on the Challenge of the Yukon. Of all of them none was as popular as the Lone Ranger.

The cast included: Elaine Alpert, Dick Beals, Brace Beemer, Jack Deeds, Earle Graser, John Hodiak, Amos Jacobs (Danny Thomas), Ted Johnstone, James Lipton, Bob Maxwell, Herschel Mayal, Jay Michael, Rollon Parker, Jack Petrucci, Frank Russell, George Seaton, Ernie Stanley and John Todd. The producer-director-writer was James Jewell. The show was also directed by Al Hodge and Charles Livingstone. Fran Striker and Georger W. Trendle were the program's creators. The announcer-narrators included Brace Beemer, Fred Foy, Harry Golder, Bob Hite, Harold True and Charles Woods. Fran Striker was the program's chief writer and story editor. The other writers were Dan Beatty, Tom Dougall, Gibson Scott Fox, Bob Green, Felix Holt, Bob Shaw and Shelley Stark. Although the title role was played by George Seaton, Jack Deeds, Earle Graser, it is Bruce Beemer who is best remembered in the role. Tonto, the Lone Ranger's faithful Indian companion was played by John Todd during the program's entire run (30 min., MBS, ABC, 1933-1955).

15588 Lone Star Boys. CW mus. prg. (WIRE, Indianapolis, IN, 1936).

15589 (The) Lone Star Cowboy. Tex Ritter starred on the dramatic serial in the title role. The program also contained comedy and music. The show replaced the Cowboy Tim's Roundup program (15 min., Monday through Friday, WHN, New York, NY, 1933-1934).

15590 (The) Lone Star Cowboys. CW music program with a Texas music group that included the Sheldon Brothers (Bob and Joe Atlessey) and Leon Chappalear (KGKB, Tyler, TX, 1929).

15591 Lone Star Five Orchestra. Local Dallas band (WFAA, Dallas, TX, 1925).

15592 (The) Lone Star Ranger. Tex Ritter sang cowboy songs and told western yarns on his CW music show (WOR, Newark, NJ, early 1930s).

15594 Lonely Cowboy. CW mus. prg. with an otherwise unidentified performer (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1936).

15595 Lonely Troubadour. Voc. mus. prg. by an otherwise unidentified singer (KWTO, Springfield, MO, 1939).

15596 Lonely Woman. General Mills sponsored the daytime serial that dramatized the loneliness of women separated from their men during World War II. The story described the lives of a group of women living in a women's apartment run by a kindly manager played by Viola Berwick. Barbara Luddy, Betty Lou Gerson, Eileen Palmer, Virginia Payne, Norma Jean Ross, Cliff Soubier, Les Tremayne, Willard Waterman and Harriette Widmer were in the cast. Marvin Miller and Fort Pearson were the announcers and Bernice Yanocek the organist. The show was written by Irna Phillips (15 min., Monday through Friday, 1:15-1:30 P.M., NBC, 1942).

15597 Lonergran, Angela G. Cellist (WBZ, Springfield, MA, 1924).

(The) Lonesome Cowboy see John White

15598 Lonesome Cowboy. The lonesome cowboy was Roy Faulkner, a popular CW singer with a long radio career (WIBW, Topeka, KS, 1937). Faulkner had previously broadcast over stations KFKB (Abilene, KS); WFAA (Dallas, TX); WBAP (Fort Worth, TX); WBOW (Terre Haute, IN); (WHO, Des Moines, IA); and several of the Mexican border stations during the early and mid-1930s.

15599 Lonesome Gal. DJ Jean King talked to her male listeners with a mellow, seductive voice that they liked very much. She made her eastern debut on Monday, May 27, 1950 (15 min., Monday through Friday, 11:15-11:30 P.M., WOR, Newark, NJ, 1950).

15600 Lonesome Ranger. CW mus. prg. by a singer, not otherwise identified (WTNJ, Trenton, NJ, 1939).

15601 Lonesome Yodeler. CW singer Lee Morse was the popular Lonesome Yodeler (WPAY, Portsmouth, OH, mid-1940s).

15604 Long, Buck, DJ (Buck's Back Room, WABB, Mobile, AL, 1949).

15605 Long, Chet. Newscaster (WCOL, Columbus, OH, 1944; Chet Long News, WBNS, Columbus, OH, 1946-1948).

15608 Long, Dick, DJ (Matinee at Radio Center, KROD, El Paso, TX, 1950).

15609 Long, Emmet. Leader (Emmet Long's Golden Pheasant Orchestra, WCCO, Minneapolis-St. Paul, MN, 1926-28).

15612 Long, Harry. Newscaster (KVI, Tacoma, WA, 1941, 1943-1945).

Long, Huey see Charlatans, Demagogues and Politicians

15614 Long, Joe B., Jr. Newscaster (WROL, Knoxville, TN, 1945).

15615 Long, Johnny. Leader (Johnny Long Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., NBC, 1935; WRVA, Richmond, VA, 1936; WCAE, Pittsburgh, PA, 1938; KMA, Shenandoah, VA and KMOX, St. Louis, MO, 1942).

15616 Long, Johnny. DJ (1+00 Club, KIDWT, Stamford, TX, 1947).

15617 Long, Ken. DJ (Late Riser's Club, WGAN, Portland, ME, 1949-1950).

15618 Long, Lucille. Born May 5, 1902. Long began her radio career as a singer on KYW (Chicago, IL, 1924). She later performed on WQJ (Chicago, IL, 1926). Variety noted her versatility by saying she was also a "popular woman harmonica player" (WQJ, 1926).

15619 Long, Mary. COM-HE (WFMD, Frederick, MD, 1956).

15620 Long, Paul. Bass (Paul Long, vcl. mus. prg., WDBJ, Roanoke, VA, 1935).

15621 Long, Paul. News commentator (Plain Talk from Iron City, Studebaker News, Keystone Lumber News, KDKA, Pittsburgh, PA, 1947-1948).

15622 Long, Russell "Russ." Newscaster (WCSC, Charleston, SC, 1940-1942; WCSC, Charleston, SC, 1944-1945). Sportscaster (WCSC, 1942).

15623 Long, Stuart. News commentator (K1BC, Austin, TX, 1945; Texas at Ten, KVET, Austin, TX, 1947-1948).

15624 Long John Nebel. Although he often sounded like a fast talking New York con man, Long John Nebel's primary training was as a Manhattan sidewalk pitchman, band leader, photographer and New Jersey auctioneer. John Nebel (Jack Knebel) is important because he was one of the first and certainly one of the very best radio talk show hosts. Even though Barry Gray preceded him in the New York area, Long John's creativity and imagination made him the model talk show host. Early in his career Nebel took listeners' telephone calls and put them on the air live, thanks to a seven-second delay mechanism.

Long John's guests ranged from some truly great actors, novelists or musicians to an interplanetary traveler just returned from a journey to the planet Venus. Nebel's first radio show on WOR was with Charlie Holmes (The Charlie and John Show, 30 min., 4:40-5:00 P.M., MBS, 1956). This show ran for 13 weeks on 23 of the 260 MBS stations. When it was not renewed for network broadcast, the New Charlie and John Show ran on WOR alone. A little later Nebel had his own show (John Nebel, 30 min., Monday through Friday, 1956). When Jean Shepherd was dropped mid-show for talking too much and playing too few records, Nebel replaced him with a format that allowed him to develop his own entertaining talk show style (Long John Nebel, 300 min., Midnight-5:00 A.M., WOR, 1956). He moved to the NBC network in 1963 (Long John Nebel, 300 min., Midnight-5:00 A.M., NBC, 1963).

Nebel was among the first to discuss topics such as UFOs (Unidentified Flying Objects), extra-sensory perception, witchcraft, voodoo, the occult, interplanetary travel and the experiences of the ambassador from Venus. He chose the right program topics at the right time. In addition, he added a panel of interesting participants to discuss a topic with a guest. Among the interesting guests Long John introduced were:

Dr. Wallace Musto, the inventor of a machine to read a person's aura;

Thomas G. Hieronymous, the inventor of a machine to analyze "cloptic radiation" in minerals;

Orfeo Angelucci, who had ridden in a space ship at the speed of ten million miles per hour;

Andy Sinatra, a barber who communicated with outer space creatures by mental telepathy. Nebel called him the "mystical tonsorial artist from Brooklyn";

George Van Tassel, who hosted an annual Interplanetary Spacecraft Convention at Van Tassel's California spacecraft landing strip; and

Buck Nelson, who had entertained visitors from Venus and received from them a Venusian dog named "Bo."

The topics that Nebel, his panelists and guests discussed included: women's place in the world; Middle East relations; modern philosophy; one world ideologies; Houdini; famous courtroom trials; building pipe organs; Paris and Rome travel; spiritualism; the Sacco-Venzzetti controversy; jazz; folk music and narcotics. Nebel's wide range of interests, topical and universal, made him a late night favorite. Another added feature were the panelists that regularly appeared with Nebel such as: Donald Bain, Lester del Rey; Sanford Teller; Lyle Stuart, Ed Springarn and Al Lottmann.

Long John moved to WMCA (New York, NY) in 1971 to begin a show with his wife, ex-model Candy Jones (The Long John and Candy Jones Show, 240 min., 8:00-12:00 midnight, WMCA, New York, 1971). That same year Nebel learned he had developed the prostate cancer that eventually killed him. Nebel's contribution as a talk show host far overshadowed his brief stint as a DJ early in his career. See also Nebel, Long John.

15625 (The Long Sisters and the Piano Pals). Local music program (WGY, Schenectady, NY, 1935).

15627 Longhorn Luke and His Cowboys. Jules Verne Allen led the popular CW music group (WOAI, San Antonio, TX, 1932). See also Allen, Jules Verne.

15628 (The Longine Symphonette). Mishel Piasto conducted the fine orchestra on the transcribed music program sponsored by the Longine-Whittnauer Watch Company. Frank Knight was the announcer (30 min., Sunday, 4:30-5:00 P.M., CBS, 1950).

15629 Longley, Mary. Singer and ukulele soloist (Mary Longley, vcl. mus. prg., WPG, Atlantic City, NJ, 1935).

15630 Longmire, Cary. Newscaster (NBC-WRC, Washington, DC, 1942; WL1B, New York, NY, 1944; NBC, 1945; WMAL, Washington, DC, 1946; WOR, New York, NY, 1947).

15631 Longwell, Robert "Bob." Newscaster (Orange Crush News and Christian Science Monitor Newscast, WJBK, Detroit, MI, 1937; WIBC, Indianapolis, IN, 1938; WCAR, Pontiac, MI, 1942; WJR, Detroit, MI, 1945). Longwell also worked as a sportscaster during his early years of broadcasting on his Premier Beer Hockey Resume (WWJ, Detroit, MI; Tiger Tales, WJBK, 1937).

15632 Lono [Lano], James L. Leader (James Lono's Hawaiian Orchestra, KPO, San Francisco, CA, 1925-1926). The group consisted of leader Lono, Bob Lee, John Liu, Nicholas Keola, Jesse Fisher and Sylvester Luhan.

15633 Look, Elsie May. Organist (WLS, Chicago, IL, 1926).

15634 Loomis, Ernest. Loomis lent his name to the Ernest Loomis and his Victor Recording Orchestra (KOA, Denver, CO, 1927-1928), but the band was actually led by Earl Donaldson.

15635 Loomis Garden Dancing Palace. Local dance band (KHQ, Spokane, WA, 1926).

15636 Loos Brothers. Singing team (WEBH, Chicago, IL, 1925).

15637 Loose, Carl. Newscaster (WPAR, Parkersburg, WV, 1946).

15638 Looss, Walter A. Pianist (WAHG, Richmond Hill, NY, 1926).

15639 Lopa, Professor. Leader (Professor Lopa's Royal Hawaiian Orchestra, KPO, San Francisco, CA, 1923).

15640 Loper, Dan. Leader (Dan Loper Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., NBC, 1935).

15642 Lopez, Joe. DJ (Memory Song Man, WIOD, Miami, FL, 1952).

15643 Lopez, Lucio Barrios. DJ (Lucky Lager Dance Time, KGST, Fresno, CA, 1960).

15644 Lopez, Vincent. Leader (Vincent Lopez Orchestra, WJZ, New York, NY, 1921-1926; WGR, Buffalo, NY, 1923-1924; Vincent Lopez Orchestra broadcasting from Pittsburgh's Davis Theater, KDKA, Pittsburgh, PA, 1924; Vincent Lopez Hotel Statler Dance Orchestra, directed by Harold Gieser, WGR, 1924-25; WOR, Newark, NJ, 1925; Vincent Lopez and his Hotel Pennsylvania Orchestra, WEAJ, New York, NY, 1924-1926). The Lopez orchestra is said to have been the first to broadcast "live." Lopez first broadcast regularly in 1921 over WJZ from the Hotel Pennsylvania Grill Room, New York City. Some of the band's sessions from the Hotel Statler on WGR in 1924-25 were said to have been directed by Harold Geiser. Later, as Lopez always used to say, he was broadcasting from the Hotel Taft: "Just a stone's throw from Times Square — the Hotel Taft."

In the following decades the Lopez band was very active on radio (Vincent Lopez Orchestra, KYW, Philadelphia, PA, 1933; WBZ-WBZA, Boston-Springfield, MA, 1934; NBC, 1935; CBS, 1936-1939; KGBX, Springfield, MO, 1942).

15645 Lopriore, Michael. DJ (The Italian Hour, WJOC, Jamestown, NY, 1954).

15646 Lora Lawton. Frank and Anne Hummert were the producers of the daytime serial drama in which Lora Lawton left her native Midwest to work as a housekeeper for Peter Carver, a wealthy shipbuilder in Washington, DC. When Lora eventually married Carver, her trials and tribulations really began. First broadcast in 1943, the program ran on NBC for seven years. The cast included: Charita Bauer, Fran Carlon, Marilyn Erskine, Florida Friebus, Walter Greaza, William Hare, Vivi Janiss, Alan MacAteer, Kate McComb, Paul McGrath, James Meighan, Jan Miner, Carol Summers, Joan Tompkins, James Van Dyk, Ned Wever, Ethel Wilson and Lawson Zerbe. The directors were Martha Atwell, Arthur Hanna and Fred Weihe. Jean Carroll, Elizabeth Todd and Helen Walpole wrote the program. The announcer was Ford Bond (NBC, 1943-1950).

15647 Loranger, William F. Newscaster (WSAM, Saginaw, MI, 1945).

15648 Lorber, (Dr.) Z. News analyst (WSBC, Chicago, IL, 1946).

15649 Lorch, Carl. Leader (Carl Lorch Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1934).

15650 Lorcher, Lillian. Soprano (WFBH, New York, NY, 1925).

15651 Lord, Phillips H. Actor, producer and writer Lord was born July 13, 1902. After a career in education and a failure at fiction writing, Lord built a program around a Sunday Evening Singing School that by 1928 was being carried by 32 stations. The following year (1929), NBC decided the program was worth network presentation and Sunday Evening at Seth Parker's was broadcast nation wide. Lord, himself, played "Seth Parker" and the program attained a large listening audience. In the decades that followed, Lord wrote and produced many other popular programs. See also Sunday Evening at Seth Parker's.

15652 Lorelei Quartet. Vocal group that included Flora Howell Bruner, Blanche Hamilton Fox, Easton Kent and Harry Truax (KFRC, San Francisco, CA, 1925-1926). Tenors Hamilton Fox and Gwynfi Jones replaced Kent and Truax in 1926.

15653 Loren, William H. DJ (Turntable Windup and It's the Tops, WLVA, Lynchburg, VA, 1947).

15654 Lorenz, Sherwood. Newscaster (Cook and Brown Newscast, WOSH, Oshkosh, WI, 1947).

15655 Lorenzo Jones. Another production of Frank and Anne Hummert, this daytime serial drama followed the life of good-hearted, impractical Lorenzo Jones, whose inventions and schemes never quite seemed to work out well for him. The long-running NBC program (1937-1955) featured Karl Swenson in the title role throughout the entire run. Over the years, the program's cast also included: Frank Behrens, John Brown, Art Carney, Betty Garde, Louis Hector, Irene Hubbard, Joe Julian, Grace Keddy, Jean McCoy, Kermit Murdock, Ethel Owen, Elliott Reid, Ann Shepherd (Scheindel Kalish), Nancy Sheridan, Chester Stratton, Lucille Wall, Helen Walpole, Coleen Ward, Mary Wickes and Roland Winters. The directors were Stephen Gross, Frank Hummert, and Ernest Ricca. Theodore and Mathilde Ferro were the writers. Don Lowe was the announcer (15 min., Monday through Friday, NBC, 1937-1955).

15656 Lorig, Marvin C. Newscaster (WGPC, Albany, GA, 1941-1942).

15657 Lorin, Harold A. Lorin talked about "The American Indian in Story and Song" (KOA, Denver, CO, 1926).

15658 Loring, August. Tenor (WCCO, Minneapolis-St. Paul, MN, 1928).

15676 Los Caballeros. Spanish orchestra (KPO, San Francisco, CA, 1927).

15677 Los Charros. The music of Mexico was featured. Singers Tito Guizar and Chago Rodriquez were accompanied by guitarist Juariz Garcia (15 min., Friday, 8:15-8:30 P.M., WOR, Newark, NJ, 1932).

15678 Los Gatos High School Orchestra. Scholastic orchestra (KGO, Oakland, CA, 1926).

15679 Los Serranos Country Club Orchestra. California club band (KFWB, Hollywood, CA, 1926).

15680 (The) Loser. The interesting program's concept was introduced: "You are listening to The Loser and the sound of prisoners being locked up for the night. On this program you will hear the actual voice of the prisoner as he tells his crime story." The program's purpose was to prove that crime did not pay (30 min., Weekly, NBC, 1955).

15681 Losser, Ernie. Tenor (KTAB, Oakland, CA, 1925).

15682 Lossez, Bill. Leader (Billie Lossez Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WBZ-WBZA, Boston-Springfield, MA, 1934).

15683 Lossez Biltmore Orchestra. Instr. mus. prg. (WNAC, Boston, MA, 1932).

15684 Lost and Found. Station KGEZ (Kalispell, MT, 1944) inaugurated the unique service program. It is estimated that while on the air the program returned to listeners approximately $27,000 worth of their lost items.

15685 (The) Lost Angels of KHJ. This was one of the many loosely structured late night variety programs of music and comedy broadcast by early radio stations. It featured the Majestic

Six orchestra, the Lost Angels orchestra, the KHJ String Quartet and other local favorites (KHJ, Los Angeles, CA, 1925) See also The Lost Angels Orchestra.

15686 Lost Angels Orchestra. The station band appeared on the popular Lost Angels of KHJ program (KHJ, Los Angeles, CA, 1925). The band featured among many others harpist Walter Biddick. At times, the Majestic Six orchestra was featured on the Lost Angels of KHJ program. See also The Lost Angels of KHJ.

15687 (The) Lost Legion. Willis Cooper wrote and acted in the dramatic romantic-adventure series. Each program told a complete story about the French Foreign Legion stationed in Algeria. This program was highly praised by the Radio Digest (Vol. 28, No. 5, April, 1932, p. 64). Don Ameche, Marigold Cassin, Vinton Haworth and Sunda Love were in the cast (1932).

15688 Lott, Stokes. Organist (Stokes Lott, instr. mus. prg., WOR, Newark, NJ, 1934).

- 15786 Lucky Strike Hour. B.A. Rolfe conducted the Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra on the musical variety show sponsored by Lucky Strike cigarettes. At various times Bert Lahr, Walter Winchell and Jack Pearl also appeared. The program enjoyed continued popularity well into the mid-1930s (60 min., 9:00-10:00 P.M., NBC, 1928-1931). Later, Paul Whiteman hosted the show that featured his orchestra along with Peggy Healy, Jack Pearl and his stooge Cliff Hall and Ramona. Howard Claney was the announcer (30 min., Weekly, NBC, 1933).
- 15787 (The) Lucky Strike Hours. This was a series of three programs sponsored by Lucky Strike Cigarettes that presented different elements on each day of the week it was broadcast. Walter O'Keefe was the MC on all three nights. On Tuesday night, the orchestras of Jack Denny and Joe Sanders performed and Jack Curtin presented dramatized police cases. Walter Winchell delivered the latest gossip on Thursday night with the music performed by the bands of Anson Weeks and Joe Moss. On Saturday, comedian Bert Lahr was featured with George Olson's Orchestra. Despite the apparent abundance of talent, critical reviews of the program were never enthusiastic (60 min., Tuesday-Thursday-Saturday, 10:00-11:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1932).
- 15788 Lucky U Ranch. The Sons of the Pioneers, Shug Fisher and Betty Taylor appeared on the entertaining CW music show broadcast on a sustaining basis (30 min., Monday through Friday, 12:30-1:00 P.M., ABC, 1951).

15804 Luke Slaughter of Tombstone. The western adventure series premiered Sunday, February 23, 1958, sharing an hour with the Frontier Gentleman program. Luke Slaughter was a tough ex-cavalry man who moved to Arizona to become a cattle rancher. On the first program, he ran a herd from Mexico to Texas assisted by a motley crew of cowhands and a runaway girl. Sam Buffington's portrayal of Slaughter was popular with many listeners. The show opened with Buffington saying, "Slaughter's my name — Luke Slaughter. Cattle's my business. It's a big business. I got a big stake in it. And there's no man west of the Rio Grande can take it from me." Robert Stanley wrote, Lucian Davis produced and William Robson directed the show (25 min., Sunday, 2:05–2:30 P.M., CBS, 1957–1958).

15805 Lukens [Luken], Ned. D.] (Jumpin' with Jack, WEAS, Decatur, GA, 1947; Jack the Bell Boy, WEAS, 1948–1952; The Nite Owl Show, WAOK, Atlanta, GA, 1954–1955).

15811 (The) Lullaby Lady. May Sprintz sang sleepy time songs, read poems and told stories for children on her popular children's show. She told many Mother Goose stories (15 min., Monday through Saturday, 7:00–7:15 P.M., WINS, New York, NY, 1932).

15812 (The) Lullaby Lady (aka Lullaby Time). Miss Val McLaughlin conducted the popular children's program that also was sometimes known as Lullaby Time (WLS, Chicago, IL, 1926). See also Val McLaughlin.

15813 Lullaby Lester and the Old Timers. CW mus. prg. (KFEQ, St. Joseph, MO, 1939).

15814 (The) Lullaby Man. Tiny Renier provided bedtime songs and stories for little listeners (WDAF, Kansas City, MO, 1931).

15816 Lulu Belle and Scotty. CW husband and wife singing team (WLS, Chicago, IL, 1935–1937). Although the husband and wife team had many different sponsors over the years, one of their longest standing ones was the Morton Salt Company (15 min., Saturday, 9:15–9:30 P.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1936). Another sponsor was Foley's Store (15 min., Monday through Friday, 7:15–7:30 P.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1936). The team were long time favorites on the National Barn Dance, where they gained national prominence (WLS).

15817 Lum and Abner. Chester Lauck and Norris Goff, two sophisticated gentlemen, for 22 years portrayed the roles of the two kind-hearted owners of the rural Jot 'Em Down Store located in Pine Ridge, Arkansas. The team got their start in the 1920s at station WBAP (Forth Worth, TX) before going on to network fame. These two supposed oldsters at first played all the roles themselves, but this soon changed. Their easy going humor lasted on radio from 1931 to 1953. The show's cast included: Cliff Arquette, Edna Best, Andy Devine, Norris Goff, Chester Lauck and Zasu Pitts. The directors were Bill Gay, Robert McInnes and Forrest Owen. Betty Boyle, Roz Rogers, Howard Snyder, Jay Sommers and Hugh Wedlock, Jr., wrote the program. Larry Berns was the producer-director and Sybil Bock the organist. Gene Baker, Carlton Brickert, Lou Crosby, Gene Hamilton, Roger Krupp, Del Sharbutt and Wendell Niles were the announcers (15 min., Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 7:15–7:30 P.M., CBS, 1940). Lum and Abner eventually appeared on all the major networks — ABC, CBS, MBC and NBC.

One familiar show opening went this way. After the sound of a telephone ring was heard, the announcer said: "That's our ring. Time for Lum and Abner brought to you by Miles Nervine and Alka-Seltzer." In order to honor the men, the town of Waters, Arkansas, changed its name to Pine Ridge in 1936.

15818 Lummis, Dayton. Newscaster (WCAM, Camden, NJ, 1941).

15819 Lunceford, Jimmy. Leader (Jimmy Lunceford Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., NBC, 1934–1936; WTAR, Norfolk, VA, 1938; CBS, 1940).

15821 Luncheon at the Waldorf. Ilka Chase hosted the variety show broadcast from the Empire Room of New York's Waldorf Hotel. The Paul Baron Orchestra supplied music. Bert Parks was the announcer (30 min., Saturday P.M., NBC-Blue, 1941).

15822 Luncheon at the Waldorf: 45 Minutes on Broadway. Ed and Pegeen Fitzgerald brought their bright, entertaining chatter to the Waldorf Hotel, where they interviewed celebrity guests such as James Donald and Carol Burnett (45 min., Monday through Friday, 12:15–1:00 P.M., WOR, Newark, NJ, 1958).

15823 Luncheon Date with Ilka Chase. Actress Chase always conducted a lively show on which she discussed cultural and public affairs (NBC, 1942).

- 15856 (The Lux Radio Theatre. George Wells wrote motion picture and Broadway play adaptations for the program for almost ten years (1934–1944), establishing him as one of the best adaptors for radio. The Lux Radio Theatre was first broadcast in 1934 on the NBC network, originating from New York City under the direction of Antony Stanford. In its earliest version, Broadway stars were used in broadcasts of Broadway plays. The program took on the different format that made it famous in 1936, when it moved to Hollywood and was directed by Cecil B. DeMille. In the Hollywood format, radio versions of motion pictures were broadcast weekly featuring motion picture stars. DeMille's first program, The Legionnaire and the Lady (Morocco) with Clark Gable and Marlene Dietrich, was broadcast June 1, 1936.
- DeMille's showmanship and the glamor of Hollywood made the program a national favorite that was said to attract some 40 million listeners weekly at the peak of its popularity. DeMille's casting indicates both his favorite actors and his flair as a showman. For instance, in relatively minor roles he would cast such famous people as Mary Garden, Jesse L. Lasky, Daniel Frohman and Theda Bara. Among the leading ladies who appeared most often on the program, Barbara Stanwyck had 15 appearances, and Claudette Colbert and Loretta Young tied with 14 starring roles. Don Ameche with 18 and Fred MacMurray with 17 leading roles led all male actors in appearances.
- Although the program continued until 1955 with William Keighley and Irving Cummings acting as host, much of its glamor and verve disappeared when DeMille left in 1945. DeMille's departure was due to his refusal to accept something that was antagonistic to his beliefs. He gave up his position on the show that paid him almost $100,000 yearly to maintain his integrity. DeMille refused to contribute a dollar to his local AFRA (American Federation of Radio) union for the purpose of fighting a California election proposition that would create a "right to work" open shop law. Although the sponsor would have paid the dollar contribution for him, DeMille refused to allow them to make the contribution for him on principle. His refusal to contribute banned him from any further radio appearances, and the Lux Radio Theatre was never the same again although it continued on the air until 1955. Music for the program was provided by the Louis Silvers Orchestra (NBC, 1934–1936; CBS, 1936–1955).
- 15857 Luxford, Nola. Newscaster (Four Star News, NBC, 1939).

- 15931 Ma Perkins (aka Oxydol's Own Ma Perkins). "Oxydol's [soap powder] own Ma Perkins" was one of the best remembered and respected daytime serial dramas. The program featured two radio performers, whose record for longevity in a single role has never been challenged. During the entire 27 years the program was on the air with its 7,065 broadcasts, the roles of Ma Perkins and her son-in-law, Willie, were played by Virginia Payne and Murray Forbes. Almost as remarkable, the role of Ma's old friend, Shuffle, was played by Charles Egleston for 25 years. Notable, too, is the fact that Oxydol sponsored the show for its entire broadcast. Kindly and wise Ma helped her family and many friends through long years of tensions and troubles.
- The program's cast included: Casey Allen, Rita Ascot, Clare Baum, Cheer Brentson, Jack Brinkley, Herbert Butterfield, Kay Campbell, Fran Carlon, Maurice Copeland, Constance Crowder, Mary Frances Desmond, Nancy Douglass, Margaret Draper, Barry Drew, Patricia Dunlap, Charles Egleston, Bobby Ellis, Gilbert Faust, Laurette Fillbrandt, Louise Fitch, Murray Forbes, Margaret Fuller, Don Gallagher, Rene Gekiere, Earl George, Stanley Gordon, Betty Hanna, Marjorie Hannan, Joe Helgeson, Wilma Herbert, Jonathan Hole, Fred Howard, Dora Johnson, Carl Kroenke, Ray Largay, John Larkin, Billy Lee, Sylvia Leigh, Forrest Lewis, Helen Lewis, Judith Lockser, DeWitt McBride, Stuart McIntosh, McKay Morris, Dolph Nelson, Marilou Neumayer, Angeline Orr, Virginia Payne, Jack Petruzzi, Glen Ransom, Mary Marren Rees, Curtis Roberts, Elmira Roessler, Billy Rose, Cecil Roy, Rye Billsbury, Nanette Sargent, Ray Suber, Dan Sutter, Les Tremayne, Beryl Vaughn, Duke Watson, Stanley Waxman, Lillian White, Edwin Wolfe, Arthur Young and Beverly Younger. 16065 Maggio, Joe. DJ (Musical Merry-Go-Round, Six to Seven Club and The Little Show, KIDO, Boise, ID, 1947-1950).

16066 (The) Magic Hour. A transcribed music show. The Magic Show was broadcast five times weekly. The featured singers were Jane Pickens, Virginia Rea, Connie Boswell and Conrad Thibault. Dave Rubinoff, his violin and orchestra, supplied the music (15 min., Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 8:15-8:30 A.M. CST and 15 min., Wednesday and Friday, 11:15-11:30 a.m. CST, WLS, Chicago, IL, 1935).

16067 Magic Island. The opening of the syndicated adventure story transcribed in the 1930s explained its plot: "A wealthy and beautiful California woman, Mrs. Patricia Gregory, has spent 14 years searching the world over for her little daughter, Joan Gregory. Fourteen years ago, Mrs. Gregory, her husband and baby daughter were shipwrecked in the South Pacific. Everyone on board was believed lost except Mrs. Gregory. But she has always felt that her little girl was also saved. This belief has caused Mrs. Gregory to offer a large reward for news of any young, white girl found in the south sea islands, who might prove to be her daughter. Fourteen years she has waited in vain. But now the story begins in Los Angeles." Needless to say, the story became complex and filled with many dangers (15 min., Transcribed, Many Stations, 1930s).

16068 (The) Magic Key (aka The Magic Key of RCA or The Magic Key of Radio). NBC used this quality program to demonstrate the cultural contribution radio could make. Although popular entertainment was stressed, many classical musicians and vocalists were also featured. Among the performers that appeared were: Ruth Etting, Fibber McGee and Molly, John B. Kennedy, Rudolf Ganz, the Frank Black orchestra, harpist Casper Beardon, Paul Robeson, Jane Froman, Doris Weston, Frank Forrest, Paul Taylor Chorus, harpist Margaret Brill, Rudy Vallee, Irving Berlin, Darryl Zanuck, Jan Peerce, Tommy Dorsey, Jack Harris orchestra, Ann Jamieson, Sonja Heine, Tyrone Power, Walter Abel, Whitney Bern and George Shelley. Milton Cross and Ben Grauer were the announcers (60 min., Sunday, 2:00-3:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1935-1939).

The National Broadcasting Company (1935) described the quality program this way:

Famous stars and entertainers of the radio, stage and screen, and musicians of opera, symphony, the concert and the dance will be starred in a new series of Sunday matinee programs to be inaugurated over an NBC-WJZ network on Sunday, September 29, at 2:00 P.M., EST.

The artists will be "co-featured" with technical developments in broadcasting, in receiving and long distance transmission equipment, in motion pictures and in recording under the sponsorship of the Radio Corporation of America. The series is to be known as The Magic Key of RCA.

The full hour broadcast will be an "RCA Family" program. The talent to be presented will include broadcast stars from NBC, recording artists of RCA Victor and screen stars known to the public through the medium of RCA sound picture equipment. Their broadcasts will be available to the entire world through the world-wide communication facilities of RCA. Some of the broadcasts will be picked up from foreign countries and from ships at sea. The coast-to-coast NBC-WJZ network will include stations in Canada and the westernmost NBC affiliate KGU in Honolulu, Hawaii.

The series will present such outstanding artists as Kirsten Flagstad, Lauritz Melchior, Lotte Lehmann, Helen Jepson and Giovanni Martinelli of the Metropolitan Opera Company; the Boston and Philadelphia symphony orchestras; Paul Whiteman and his orchestra; John B. Kennedy, NBC commentator; Albert Spalding, violinist; Dr. Walter Damrosch and Dr. Frank Black conductors; Conrad Thibault, baritone; and Fats Waller. There will be an array of stage, screen and radio favorites. The list of dance bands will include those of Ray Noble, Richard Himber, Benny Goodman, Enric Madrighera, Jan Garber, Jolly Coburn and Xavier Cugat.

Among those definitely scheduled to participate in the inaugural broadcast on September 29 will be Dr. Damrosch, Frank Black, Paul Whiteman and John B. Kennedy. Others will be announced at an early date. Kennedy will act as master of ceremonies and introduce the stars who will parade before the microphone during the series. A new group will be heard each week.

The "Magic Key" used as the title of the broadcast signifies radio knowledge, research and experience, which has unlocked the doors through which the talent of these artists, in broadcasting and the allied arts of phonograph and the sound motion picture, reaches a vast audience.

The "co-starring" of radio development and facilities in the "Magic Key" series will come incidentally in the quality of the broadcast and reception facilities in the ease with which radio reaches out to the world. The fact that a famous artist happens to be half way around the globe will be no handicap to his appearing as a headliner, brought in on short wave by RCA Communications, Inc.

16069 (The) Magic Kitchen. Jane Porter conducted the popular St. Louis cooking program (KMOX, St. Louis, MO, 1934).

16070 Magic Mirror. Donald Novis and the Ted Royal Orchestra were featured on the Wednesday evening music program (CBS, 1936).

16071 Magic Moments. A variety show, sponsored by Borden Company. Magic Moments combined music and comedy with cooking tips provided by Jane Ellison. Marcella Shields and Frank Scanlon supplied comedy and the piano team of Pollock and Lawnhurst the music (15 min., Thursday, 10:45-11:00 A.M., NBC, 1933).

16072 Magic of Romance. Eddie Duchin's orchestra and the vocals of Stanley Worth were featured on the music show (30 min., Weekly, 8:00-8:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1938).

16073 Magic of Speech. Begun in 1925, the self-improvement program featured speech and diction authority Vida Ravenscroft Sutton broadcasting hints on how to improve voice and speech habits. The program was broadcast on the NBC network from 1929 to 1937. The 1927-1929 program was broadcast weekly (15 min., Thursday, 3:15-3:30 P.M., NBC-WFAF, 1927-1929).

When Miss Sutton came to NBC in 1929, she conducted a school for all network announcers, who attended in order to improve their speech and diction. Sutton stressed that in order to improve speech one must, "Listen — Listen — Listen." Because of Sutton's influence, the American Academy of Arts and Letters began awarding an annual prize for the best diction on radio. Some winners of these awards were Milton J. Cross in 1929; Alwyn Bach in 1930; John Wesley Holbrook, 1931; David Ross, 1932; and Jimmy Wallington in 1933.

16075 Magnavox Radio Orchestra. Commercial band (KNX, Los Angeles, CA, 1927).

16077 Magnolene Mike. Announcer not otherwise identified (KFDM, Beaumont, TX, 1926).

16078 Magnolia Glee Club. Singing group directed by Miss Nellie Howland (KFDM, Beaumont, TX, 1928).

16079 Magnolia (Magnoleum) Petroleum Company Band. Fifty-piece company band directed by Dr. Harry Cloud. On January 1, 1924, the band broadcast a concert over WFAA, Dallas, TX, that the Dallas News reported drew more than 7,500 letters and cards from listeners all over the country. As a result, the band's concerts continued to be broadcast over WFAA. The band also broadcast over station KFDM (Beaumont, TX, 1925). In 1928, the band was directed by Prof. R.A. Dhossche (KFDM, 1928).

16080 Magnolia Petroleum Company Orchestra. Company band (WRR, Dallas, TX, 1926).

16081 Magnolia Time. Dan Hosmer was featured on the early morning CW music show that also presented the Hometowners, Helene Brahm and the Hoosier Sod Busters (15 min., Tuesday and Thursday, 8:15–8:30 A.M. CST, WLS, Chicago, Ill., 1936).

16102 Mahoney, William. Baritone (WGCP, Newark, NJ, 1925).

16103 Mahoney, William "Bill." Announcer (KOIL, Council Bluffs, IA, 1928).

16105 Maids of Melody. Singing team consisting of Hortense Rose and Grace Donaldson (WSAI, Cincinnati, OH, 1926; WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1927).

16106 Maier, Walter A. Newscaster Maier began a weekly series of broadcasts of news and current affairs on March 13, 1926 (KFJO, St. Louis, MO, 1926). At the age of 29, Maier delivered a keynote address to a religious convention broadcast by WHAS (Louisville, KY). Soon after he delivered the speech, Maier became a professor at Concordia Seminary in St. Louis, MO. Convinced of the power of radio, he raised sufficient funds to enable the Seminary to operate its own station KFJO—"Keep Forward Upward Onward," which began broadcasting on December 14, 1924. On October 2, 1930, Maier began broadcasting The Lutheran Hour on CBS from WHK, Cleveland, Ohio.

His first program began with ten minutes of religious music sung by the Cleveland Bach Choir, followed by a 19-minute sermon by Maier. Listener response to the Lutheran Hour was enthusiastic. CBS estimated that the program reached a weekly audience of more than five million. See also The Lutheran Hour.

16107 Mailander, H.C. Announcer (KFWA, Ogden, UT, 1926).

16108 Main Street Music Hall. Earl Wrightson used his great baritone voice on the weekly music show. He was accompanied by an orchestra conducted by Alfredo Antonini (30 min., Saturday, 4:00–4:30 P.M., CBS, 1950). The following year there was a cast change on the sustaining program, in which Russ Emery and Nancy Evans replaced Wrightson (30 min., Sunday, 5:00–5:30 P.M., CBS, 1951).

16109 Main Street Sketches. This popular dramatic series contained sketches of small town life. In the cast were Don Carney (later famous as Uncle Don), who played the role of Luke Higgins, Lida Ward Gaston, Allyn Joslyn, Eunice N. McGarrett, Edith Thayer, Roger Bower, Elsie McCormack, Tad Stout, Claire Stenz and Reynolds Brooks. The program was first broadcast on CBS in 1927 and on WOR, 1929–1930.

16111 Mainer, J.E., and Wade Mainer. Leaders (Mainer's Mountaineers, WWNC, Asheville, NC, 1941). The popular CW music group also consisted of Jack Shelton, Curly Shelton, Howard Dixon and Tiny Dotson. The announcer on its 1941 Asheville show was Monty Ayles. The Mainers came from a large mountain family in Buncombe County, North Carolina. They began broadcasting early in the 1930s over WBT (Charlotte, NC). The Mainers' radio theme was "Way Down Yonder in the Cumberland Mountains."

16112 Maines, Marlin. Leader (Marlin Maines Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1938).

16114 Maitland, Patrick. Newscaster (MBS, 1939).

16115 Maitland, Robert. Leader (Robert Maitland Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1936).

16117 Majestic Ballroom Orchestra. Club band directed by Philip Sapiro (KGO, Oakland, CA, 1927; KFON, Long Beach, CA, 1928).

16118 Majestic Curiosity Shop. The Sunday evening music program was sponsored by the General Household Utilities Company. The first broadcast was on October 14, 1928 and the last December 21, 1930 (Weekly, Network, 1928–1930).

16119 Majestic Orchestra. Commercial band directed by Lester Harris (WFAA, Dallas, TX, 1925).

16120 Majestic Orchestra. William A. Hage led the commercial band (KLRA, Little Rock, AR, 1928).

16121 Majestic Theater of the Air. (aka The Majestic Hour or The Majestic Theater Hour). The Majestic Radio Corporation sponsored the popular variety program featuring the music of the Arnold Johnson Orchestra, singer Belle Baker and the comedy of the Two Black Crows, also known as Moran and Mack (CBS, 1927–1930). At various times, different stars were presented, including Eddie Cantor, Ruth Etting, Wendell Hall, minstrel man Eddie Leonard, Edgar Guest, Grace LaRue, Lee Morris, Scrappy Lambert, Redferne Hollinshead, Grace LaMar and blues singer Lee Morse. Later, the program was reduced to 30 minutes in length. At that time the Majestic Tenor Arthur Craft and the Majestic Orchestra were featured.

16122 (The) Majestic Tenor and His Banjo. Singer-musician who was not otherwise identified—possibly Arthur Craft (KHQ, Spokane, WA, 1928).

16123 Major, Clare Tree. Director of a series of half-hour dramatic programs (The Threshold Players Program. WGBS, New York, NY, 1926).

16124 Major, Jack. Singer (Jack Major, vcl. mus. prg., NBC, 1935).

16125 (The) Major and His Orchestra of Ocean Park. Popular local band (KHJ, Los Angeles, CA, 1923).

16126 Major and Minor. This otherwise unidentified piano team was a popular Rochester feature (WHAM, Rochester, NY, 1929–1930).

16127 Major Bowes Original Amateur Hour. Major Edward E. Bowes' long running amateur hour gained popularity at the height of the Great Depression, but eventually faded as did that national economic trauma. Graham McNamee was the program's most popular announcer. Bowes began each program by saying, "Thank you, Graham and good evening friends. Once more the wheel of fortune spins and where it stops nobody knows." From the hundreds of amateurs who auditioned for the program no more than 20 "acts" were included on each program. One of the famous singers who appeared on the show was Frank Sinatra in 1937, when he was a member of the Hoboken Four. Although the young Frank Sinatra's appearance with the Hoboken Four is generally well known, that of another young singer, Maria Callas, is not. Using the pseudonym Nina Foresti, the eleven-year-old Callas sang Puccini's "Un Bei di" from Madame Butterfly.

Bowes was a brilliant showman whose threatened use of the "gong" for those performers not doing well added an additional appeal for his listeners. In 1946, the show was discontinued when Bowes died, but it returned shortly thereafter as the Original Amateur Hour hosted by Ted Mack (60 min., NBC, CBS, 1935–1946, 1948). Mack took the show to television as Ted Mack's Original Amateur Hour on January 18, 1948.

16128 Major Bowes Family (aka The Major Bowes Capitol Family Hour or The Family Hour). Major Edward E. Bowes hosted this music program with his "family" of performers. The program, sponsored by General Mills and Swanson Foods, first appeared on the network July 26, 1925. The Major Bowes Family program developed from the Roxy's Gang program, originated by showman Roxy Rothafel, first broadcast November 19, 1922, from the stage of New York City's Capitol Theater. Originally, Rothafel, assisted by Bowes, conducted the show. Bowes took over the program when Rothafel left it in 1926. Bowes and Ted Mack acted as hosts from that time on. J. Robert Blum and Lloyd Marx directed the show. The 1930 version included Yasha Bunchuk conducting the Capitol Theater Orchestra and announcer John S. Young (30 min., Sunday, 8:00–8:30 P.M., NBC-Red, 1930).

One early featured performer was Belle "Bubbles" Silverman, who later gained fame as opera singer Beverly Sills. A 1933 program presented soprano Maria Silveira; tenor Nicholas Consentino; pianist Hannah Klein; baritone Tom McLaughlin; a male quartet, the Four Minute

Men; and a symphonic orchestra (60 min., Sunday, 11:15–12:25 P.M., NBC, 1933). On Sunday, May 5, 1935, the performers included Waldo Mayo, violinist and orchestra conductor; baritone Tom McLaughlin; soprano Helen Alexander and the Sizzlers vocal group (60 min., Sunday, 7:00–8:00 P.M., NBC, 1935). The program's time slots and lengths varied over the years. On August 18, 1935, the talent presented included baritone Tom McLaughlin, tenor Nicholas Consentino, soprano Helen Alexander, Roy Campbell's Royalists and the orchestra directed by violinist-conductor Waldo Mayo (30 min., Sunday, 10:30–11:00 A.M., NBC, 1935). Among the other performers who appeared on the show were tenors Colin Moore, Wesley Boynton, Carlo Ferretto, Westell Gordon and Will Osborne; baritones Edward LaMonte and Dudley Wilkinson; sopranos Natalie Alt, Louise Dave, Hober Beal, Sylvia Miller and Rella Wynn; contraltos Betty Poulus and Gertrude Wood; the Wandering Minstrels, Artie Dunn and Les Reis; pianists Jacques Pintel and Dave Schooler; trumpeter Robert Denti; saxophonist Clyde Doerr; xylophonist William Dorn; clarinetist Charles C. Thetford; and music glass virtuoso Wesley Ossman. See also Roxy Rothafel and Roxy's Gang.

16129 Major Minor. Theater pianist (WAAM, New York, NY, 1929).

16130 Major Silly and Colonel Nut. The comedy team of Charlie Eggleston and George Lloyd broadcast weekly (WCKY, Covington, KY, early 1930s).

16131 Major V. The interesting dramatic adventure series was written by Charles Gussman. The story concerned an American trapped in Berlin during World War II, when the United States and Germany declared war. He immediately became a leader in the German underground movement to overthrow Hitler. None of the performers on the sustaining program were identified (30 min., Sunday, 4:30–5:00 P.M. WWJ, Detroit, MI, 1942).

16132 Makachu, William. Steel guitar soloist (KTBI, Los Angeles, CA, 1926).

16133 Make Believe. Singers Bill Perry and Ruth Carhart sang on the 15-minute music program, accompanied by Johnny Augustine's Orchestra (15 min., CBS, 1936).

16134 Make Believe Ballroom. When WNEW (New York, NY) was carrying the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the accused kidnapper of the Lindbergh baby, there were long intervals that had to be filled. Martin Block, then a staff announcer at the station, suggested that by playing records the station could eliminate the expense of keeping musicians standing by to provide musical fills. His idea was accepted and this led to Block's highly successful Make Believe Ballroom show. Block talked about the music and the bands as though the broadcast was indeed originating from the ballroom where they were playing (WNEW, New York, NY, 1935). It has been suggested that in 1935 Al Jarvis at KFWB (Los Angeles, CA) used the format before Block.

16135 Making Merry with Sperry. Popular Hugh Barrett Dobbs conducted the show with his musical partner Wee Willie (William H. Hancock). The program included setting-up-exercises, songs, patter and musical interludes. Also on the show were Irish tenor, Kevin Ahearn and pianist Art Fadden. The show was carried on the NBC-Pacific Coast Network on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings in 1930. The remainder of the week — Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday — it was carried locally by KPO (San Francisco, CA, 1930). Hugh Barrett Dobbs was a great West Coast radio favorite. See also Dobbs, Hugh Barrett.

16136 Malchiodi, Carolyn. COM-HE (WGMA, Hollywood, FL, 1956).

16137 Malchman, Nathan. Newscaster (WNBH, New Bedford, CT, 1939).

16138 Malcolm Claire. Claire told fairy tales and folk legends on his excellent children's show. Claire changed his voice to portray all the characters in the stories he told. He had first become famous for his comic portrayal of the blackface character Spareribs on the National Barn Dance program. Claire's famous comedy characters also included the Old Witch, White-wash and the Old Man, but Spareribs was the one for which he is best remembered (15 min., Monday through Saturday, 6:00–6:15, NBC, 1936–1939).

16140 Malek, Clementine. Station staff soprano (WHAD, Milwaukee, WI, 1926).

16141 Malerich, Jack. Leader (Jack Malerich and His Singing Strings Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WCCO, Minneapolis–St. Paul, MN, early 1930s; Jack Malerich Orchestra, WCCO, 1935).

16142 Maleville, Buddy. Leader (Buddy Maleville Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., KOA, Denver, CO, 1940).

16144 Malin, Alice. News commentator (The Woman of Tomorrow, NBC, 1938).

16145 Malin, Donald F. Announcer–music director (WLS, Chicago, IL, 1928). Malin came to WLS in 1926 and became music director in 1928. Malin saw radio as a means to further listener appreciation of good music. Radio Guide praised him for his efforts to provide quality music shows. Malin, himself, conducted a series of piano and talk shows on Personalities in Music (WLS, 1929–1930).

16146 Maliwons, Jane. Newscaster (KVCV, Redding, CA, 1941).

16147 Mallants, Salty. Sportscaster (Salty Says—Boating and Fishing News, WIOD, Miami, FL, 1950).

16148 Malle, Eddie "Dixie Boy". Singer (WCAU, Philadelphia, PA, 1925).

16149 Malle, Eddie and Danny Dougherty. Singing team (WCAU, Philadelphia, PA, 1926).

16150 Mallin, Dorothy Gay. COM-HE (WDOK, Cleveland, OH, 1956).

16151 Mallin, Theda. COM-HE (WEBR, Buffalo, NY, 1957).

16153 Mallon, Neva. Vocalist (KFWM, Oakland, CA, 1929).

16155 Mallory, Virginia. COM-HE (WTVR, Richmond, VA, 1955).

16156 Mallory, Walter. Tenor (WCCO, Minneapolis–St. Paul, MN, 1928). Mallory had appeared as the featured singer on WCCO's local Pence Buick Program in the early 1920s.

16158 Mallotte, Albert Jay. Organist (KYW, Chicago, IL, 1925; Albert Jay Mallotte, instr. mus. prg., KHJ, Los Angeles, CA, 1932).

16159 Mallotte, Stanleigh. Vocalist (Stanleigh Mallotte, vcl. mus. prg., NBC, 1934). Newscaster (Rhyming the News, WAPI, Birmingham, AL, 1940).

16160 Malloy, Les. DJ (Les Malloy Show, KGO, San Francisco, CA, 1947; 1260 Club and Request By Wire, KYA, San Francisco, CA, 1948–1950).

16163 Malone, Bob. Tenor (WKRC, Cincinnati, OH, 1926–1928).

16164 Malone, Danny. Tenor (Danny Malone, vcl. mus. prg., NBC, 1934).

16165 Malone, Francis P. "Frank." News analyst (WIOD, Miami, FL, 1937–1939; News and Views, WIOD, 1940–1942).

16167 Malone, Mary Cornelia. Soprano (WSM, Nashville, TN, 1926).

16168 Malone, (Major General) Paul B. News analyst (Weekly War Journal, NBC-Blue, 1942, 1945).

16169 Malone, Steve. DJ (Rock 'n' Roll WHYThm, WYTH, Madison, GA, 1960).

16170 Malone, Ted (pseudonym for Alden Russell). Ted Malone began work as an announcer-ukulele soloist at KMBC, Kansas City, MO, in 1929. Once when a group of musicians failed to appear, he was told to fill the time by reading poetry. When he insisted upon being introduced with a pseudonym, another announcer called him Ted Malone. After that, Ted Malone was regularly scheduled to read poetry. This eventually became the main element of his popular network feature of later years, Between the Bookends. Malone also broadcast the news (NBC-Blue, 1944, 1948). See also Between the Bookends.

16171 Maloney, James. Newscaster (WBRK, Pittsfield, MA, 1941).

16172 Maloof, Alexander. Director of the Alexander Maloof Oriental Orchestra (NBC, 1928).

16174 Maloy, Jack. Sportscaster (WORL, Boston, MA, 1937; WEEL, Boston, MA, 1944, 1949–1950).

16176 Mammoth Carolina Jamboree. CW mus. prg., (WBIG, Greensboro, NC, 1938).

16177 Man About Hollywood. George McCall broadcast movie gossip on a national network on his sustaining program (30 min., Friday, 8:00–8:30 P.M., CBS, 1940).

16178 Man About Town. A Buffalo brewery sponsored the program of local gossip dispensed by Charlie Bailey (5 min., Wednesday, 6:55–7:00 P.M., WGR, Buffalo, NY, 1939).

16180 (The) Man Called X. Herbert Marshall starred as detective Ken Thurston, who was assisted in his adventures by Leon Belasco. The program's opening explained the show: "Wherever there is mystery, intrigue, romance, in all the strange and dangerous places of the world, there you will find The Man Called X." In addition to Marshall, the cast included: Leon Belasco and GeGe Pearson. The writer was Milton Merlin. The producers were Jack Richard Kennedy, Jack Johnstone and William N. Robson. The show was sponsored variously by Chesterfield cigarettes, Anacin and RCA. (30 min., Weekly ABC, NBC, CBS, 1944–1952).

16181 Man from Homicide. Dan Duryea played the role of plain clothes policeman Lou Dana, who worked the homicide beat. The sustaining program was a summer replacement for Inner Sanctum. The program was written by Louis Bitties, produced by Helen Mack and directed by Dwight Hauser. Basil Adlam supplied the program's music. Bill Boucheay assisted Duryea in his battle against crime. Also in the cast were: Jim Backus, Joan Banks, Larry Dobkin, Maggie Morley, Lamont Johnson, Tom Tully and Arthur Q. Bryan (30 min., Monday, 8:00–8:30 P.M., ABC, 1951).

16182 (The) Man I Married. Frank and Anne Hummert produced the daytime serial drama that first aired in 1939 on the NBC-Red network. The story told of Evelyn Waring, whose major troubles arose because of the personal weakness of her husband, i.e., his drinking, lack of discipline and inability to persevere. The program was broadcast from 1939 to 1942. The cast included: Fanny May Baldrige, Spencer Bentley, Frances Carden, Clayton "Bud" Collyer, John Gibson, Jackie Grimes, Van Heflin, Ed Jerome, Raymond Edward Johnson, Rikel Kent, Barbara Lee, Fred Irving Lewis, Dorothy Lowell, Arnold Moss, Santos Ortega, Ethel Owen, Walter Vaughn, Vicki Vola, Gertrude Warner, Betty Winkler and Betty Worth. The program was written by Don Becker and Carl Bixby and directed by Oliver Barbour. Howard Petrie was the announcer.

16183 (The) Man in the Moon. Bill McNeery, "The Man in the Moon," told stories for children on WOR (Newark, NJ, 1924–1925). Thomas Cowan said that McNeery's Man in the Moon program broadcast on WJZ (Newark, NJ) in 1923 was probably the first children's program on radio.

16184 Man in the Stands. The Duke of Paducah (Benny Ford) interviewed fans at Sportsman's Park when the St. Louis Browns and the St. Louis Cardinals baseball teams were playing at home. He asked fans questions about baseball. Variety said Ford did particularly well on Ladies Day, when an average of 15,000 women attended games by paying only a 25-cent service charge. Ford was sponsored by the Columbia Brewing Company (15 min., Daily, KWK, St. Louis, MO, 1936).

16185 Man in the Street. Announcer Don Kelley interviewed natives of Omaha who came his way in the city's streets (KOIL, Omaha, NE, 1937).

16186 Man on the Farm. The Quaker Oats Company, makers of Ful-O-Pep Feeds, sponsored the program broadcast from the Ful-O-Pep Experimental Farm of the Quaker Oats Company located in Libertyville, IL. Chuck Acree conducted the informative and entertaining program primarily for farmers and their families. Acree interviewed farmers. In addition, Dr. O.B. Kent, Director of the Experimental Farm, delivered poultry news and advice on raising poultry. Music was provided by the Hoosier Sodbusters, Reggie Cross and Howard Black (30 min., Saturday, 12:30–1:00 P.M., CST, WLS, Chicago, IL, 1938). In 1949, the program returned on a sustaining basis with a radical format change. Chuck Acree returned as host, but this time it was an audience participation show. Acree asked such questions as: "Do Holsteins give more milk than Jerseys?" The program's announcer was George Menard (30 min., Saturday, 12:00–12:30 P.M., MBS, 1949).

16187 Manaco, Hugh. Leader (Hugo Manaco Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., MBS, 1939).

- 16188 Manahan, Fred. DJ (Bumper to Bumper, WATG, Ashland, OH, 1954–1956).
- 16189 Manahan, Tommy. Leader (Tommy Manahan Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WOR, Newark, NJ, 1935).
- 16190 Mandarin Cafe Orchestra. Cafe band directed by Lynn Pryor (KPO, San Francisco, CA, 1926).
- 16191 Manderson, Steve. Newscaster (WGAC, Augusta, GA, 1945).
- 16192 Mandolin Musicians. CW music group (KMA, Shannandoah, IA, 1928).
- 16193 Mandrake, Chuck. Sportscaster (Sportraits, WICA, Ashtabula, OH, 1951).
- 16194 Mandrake the Magician. The transcribed daytime adventure serial was broadcast from November 11, 1940 to February 6, 1941. Raymond Edward Johnson played the title role on the program based on the comic strip by the same name by Lee Falk and Phil Davis. The story featured Mandrake—a super magician who had learned his magic arts from a Tibetan master. He was assisted in his battle against crime and criminals by Lorhar, his giant Black servant and the beautiful Princess Narda, played by Juano Hernandez and Francesca Lenni. Laddie Seaman was also in the cast. The program was produced by Henry Souvaine and directed by Carlo De Angelo (15 min., Monday through Friday, 1940–1941). Somehow, Mandrake's escapes from the clutches of various villains by means of his magic powers always seemed to make it a little too easy. Incidentally, Raymond Edward Johnson went on to play the role of Raymond the host behind the Inner Sanctum's creaking door.
- 16195 Manecchia, I.A. Newscaster (WHOM, Jersey City, NJ, 1940s).
- 16196 Manessy and Herring Hawaiian Entertainers. Hawaiian music group (WGBS, New York, NY, 1928).
- 16197 Mangini, Johnny. DJ (Sunday Sports, WKBS, Oyster Bay, NY, 1950).
- 16198 Manguso, Mike. Saxophonist with Harold Gleser in the Vincent Lopez orchestra (WJZ, New York, NY, 1925).
- 16199 Manhattan Beach Orchestra. Popular local band (WSOE, Milwaukee, WI, 1926).
- 16200 Manhattan Guardsmen Orchestra. Instr. mus. prg. with a 28-piece orchestra broadcasting from New York's Radio City studios (NBC-Red, New York, NY, 1935).
- 16201 Manhattan Maharajah. George Ansbro, "The Manhattan Maharajah," was a glorified DJ. Before playing each record, Ansbro would read some classic poetry or original verse against the background of "oriental-sounding music." Variety said the program was reminiscent of radio's earlier days (30 min., Monday through Friday, 4:30–5:00 P.M., ABC, 1951).
- 16202 Manhattan Merry-Go-Round. Ford Bond and Roger Krupp were the announcers for the program that took listeners on an imaginary trip of New York's night clubs and supper clubs. The memorable opening lines proclaimed by Ford Bond clearly identified the program's format: "Here's the Manhattan Merry-Go-Round that brings you the bright side of life, that whirls you in music to all the big night spots of New York town to hear the top songs of the week sung so clearly you can understand every word and sing them yourself." At each location visited, one of the program's vocalists would sing a song. The long-running entertaining show was sponsored by Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder. The cast changed considerably over the years. For example, in the program's early days Jean Sargent and David Percy were the vocalists singing with the Gene Rodemich Orchestra (30 min., Sunday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., NBC-Red, 1933–1949). A few years later the cast had expanded somewhat with tenor Pierre LeKreeun and soprano Raquel de Corlay and the Men About Town singing with the Andy Sannella Orchestra (30 min., Sunday, 8:00–8:30 P.M., NBC, 1935). The program was produced by Frank and Anne Hummert and directed by Paul Dumont.
- 16203 Manhattan Mother. A separated career woman with a daughter to raise was the problem faced by the dramatic serial program's leading character. Margaret Hillas and Kay Brinker were in the cast. Procter & Gamble's Chipso Soap Flakes sponsored the program (15 min., Wednesday, 9:15–9:30 P.M., CBS, 1939).
- 16204 Manhattan Orchestra. Local New York band (WMCA, New York, NY, 1925).
- 16205 Manhattan Serenaders. Club band (WHN, New York, NY, 1925).
- 16206 Manhattan String Trio. Instrumental group (WOAW, Omaha, NE, 1926).
- 16207 Manhattan Trivia. As the title suggested, Richard Brooks dispensed trivial information on his novel series (15 min., Thursday, 5:15–5:30 P.M., WNEW, New York, NY, 1938).
- 16208 Manhattens Orchestra. Instr. mus. prg. (NBC, 1936–1937).
- 16209 Manier, Will R. News analyst (Undercurrents and Current Events, WSM, Nashville, TN, 1940).
- 16210 Manlove, Dudley. Newscaster (KSAN, San Francisco, CA, 1939).
- 16211 Manly, Irving. Baritone (WHN, New York, NY, 1924).
- 16212 Mann, Alan. DJ (KFWB, Hollywood, CA, 1947).
- 16213 Mann, Arthur. Newscaster (MBS, 1939; 1942). During World War II, Mann was Mutual's correspondent in Africa.
- 16214 Mann, Bernard. Pianist (WMCA, New York, NY, 1925).
- 16215 Mann, Gordon L. Leader (Gordon L. Mann's Saxophone Quintet, WBAP, Fort Worth, TX, 1926).
- 16216 Mann, Herbert. Newscaster (WRJN, Racine, WI, 1938).
- 16217 Mann, Joe. Leader (Joe Mann and his Rainbow Lane Orchestra broadcasting from Denver's Shirley-Savoy Hotel, KOA, Denver, Co, 1925).
- 16218 Mann, Joseph. Newscaster (WKWK, Wheeling, WV, 1944; WJAS, Pittsburgh, PA, 1945).
- 16219 Mann, Margaret. Contralto (KTAB, Oakland, CA, 1928).
- 16220 Mann, Marion. Singer (Marion Mann, vcl. mus. prg., WBIG, Greensboro, NC, 1936).
- 16221 Mann, Milton. Leader (Milton Mann Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WOR, Newark, NJ, 1936).
- 16222 Mann, Muriel. Organist (KOIL, Council Bluffs, IA, 1926).
- 16223 Mann, Ned. Newscaster (WHK, Cleveland, OH, 1944–1946).
- 16224 Mann, Peggy. Singer (Peggy Mann, vcl. mus. prg. featuring Miss Mann singing from the Park Central Hotel's Cocanut Grove Room, New York City with Henry Halstead's Orchestra, 15 min., Three Times Weekly, CBS, 1936).
- 16225 Mann, Peggy. COM-HE (WTVD, Durham, NC, 1956–1957).
- 16226 Mann, Si. Newscaster (WJAS, Pittsburgh, PA, 1945).
- 16227 Mann, Stu. Sportscaster (In the Bleachers, WJGY, Minneapolis, MN, 1940–1942; WLOL, Minneapolis–St. Paul, MN, 1944–1946; In the Bleachers, WLOL, 1947–1951).
- 16228 Mann, Suzanne. COM-HE (KEEN, San Jose, CA, 1957).
- 16229 Manna Kea Trio. Instrumental music group (WOAW, Omaha, NE, 1926).
- 16230 Manners, Lucille. Soprano (Lucille Manners, vcl. mus. prg., NBC, 1935–1936).
- 16231 Manners, Martha. COM-HE (WKTV, Utica, NY, 1956).
- 16232 Manners, Zeke. Leader (Zeke Manners Gang, a hillbilly CW music program of highly sophisticated "hillbillies," WIBX, Utica, NY, 1937; WGR, Buffalo, NY, 1938). DJ (Manners played recordings on his Zeke Manners Show, WINS, New York, NY, 1956).
- 16233 Manning, Day. DJ (Dawn Patrol, WIL, St. Louis, MO, 1950).
- 16234 Manning, Knox. News analyst (KHJ, Los Angeles, CA, 1937–1940; Headlines on Parade, CBS, 1939; CBS-KNX, Los Angeles, CA, 1941).
- 16235 Manning, Mary. COM-HE (WLAC, Nashville, TN, 1957).
- 16236 Manning, Ray. DJ (Platter Parade, WIL, St. Louis, MO, 1947; Ray Manning Show, WIL, St. Louis, MO, 1948; Ray Manning Show, KSTL, St. Louis, MO, 1949; Platter Parade and Breakfast Club, WIL, 1950).
- 16237 Manning, Tom. Sportscaster Manning began broadcasting play-by-play baseball games of the Cleveland Indians in 1925 (WJAY, Cleveland, OH) and, later, regularly on WJAM, (Cleveland, OH) for many years beginning in 1928. Manning also broadcast play-by-play of Ohio State University's football games, the National Air Review, Western Open Golf Tournament and the National Open Golf Tournament for NBC in 1937 as well as his regular Leisy's Beer Sport Resume (WTAM, 1937–1939); baseball World Series and the All Star Baseball game, NBC, 1939; WTAM, 1940–1950; Sports Review, WNBK, Cleveland, OH, 1951–1952; WTAM, 1953–1954; Ohio State football games, WTAM, 1955; WNBK, 1955; KYW, Pittsburgh, PA, 1956–1960).

16238 Manning Hawaiian and Jug Orchestra. Instrumental group that included Clarence F. Manning, leader-sg.; J. W. Manning, g.; V. E. Manning, jug; and E. V. Manning, g. (1930s).

16239 Manno, Gaetano. Singer (WJAX, Cleveland, OH, 1924).

16240 Manns, William. Newscaster (WCAM, Camden, NJ, 1939).

16241 Mansfield, Andy. Versatile Mansfield was a pianist, arranger, singer, orchestra leader, program director, comedian and announcer (WLS, Cincinnati, OH, 1929–1930). Before coming to WLW, Mansfield had played with the Little Jesse James Orchestra over Miami's WGBU, WIOD, WMBF and WJAX in 1924. He later joined Ray Miller's Orchestra and Blue Steele's Recording Band in 1926 before joining the WLW staff that same year. In 1930, Mansfield conducted Mansfield's Morning Gazette, a program that included music and news reports. On Saturday evenings Mansfield performed entertaining pianologues. In addition, he appeared in such comedy sketches as "Josephine the Terrible Traveling Piano." Mansfield later may have worked as a DJ in Pasadena, CA.

16242 Mansfield, Andy. DJ (Notes to You, KWKW, Pasadena, CA, 1947; The Andy Mansfield Program, KWKW, 1950).

16243 Mansfield, Dick. Leader (Dick Mansfield Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WIP, Philadelphia PA, 1934; NBC-Red, 1936).

16244 Mansfield, Mike. Newscaster (KGVO, Missoula, MO, 1941).

16246 Mantia's Symphony Orchestra. Symphonic band (WMCA, New York, NY, 1925).

16247 Manuel Cigar Girls. Female singing group with Charlotte Myers and Mary Tudor that previously had appeared on the Red Apple Club (NBC, 1927 and WJR, Detroit, MI, 1927–1928). Lucille Burke was with the group when it first appeared on WCX, before the station became WJR.

16248 Manuel, Ken. Newscaster (WWJ, Detroit, MI, 1942; WWJ, 1944–1945; News by Manuel, WWJ, 1947–1948).

16249 Manzanares, Jose. Leader (Jose Manzanares Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., CBS, 1935–1936).

16251 Maple, Barbara Jane. Pianist (WJAX, Jacksonville, FL, 1924).

16252 Maple City Four. The male harmony singing vocal quartet began their radio career on WMBD (Peoria, IL, 1926). They came to Chicago from LaPorte, IN, and went to work on WLS. When the group first appeared on Chicago radio, the members included Fritz Clark, Al Rice, Art James and Pat Patterson (WLS, Chicago, IL, 1929). By 1931, the group consisted of Pat Patterson, Art James, Al Rice and Fritz Meissner. In 1937, the group included Pat Patterson, Fritz Meissner, Art James and Dewey Kistler and was accompanied by pianist Reggie Peele. When James became ill in 1940, he was replaced by Chuck Kerner. The group was a long-time favorite on Chicago's WLS and that station's famous National Barn Dance program.

16254 Maples, Nelson. Leader (Nelson Maples and his U.S. Leviathan Orchestra cruise ship band, WIP, Philadelphia, PA, 1926).

16255 Marathon Melodies. The local music show was sponsored by the Ohio Oil Company and "its many Marathon dealers." Dan Riss hosted the show that featured the Jimmy James Orchestra, singer Sylvia Rhodes and the Three Devore Sisters vocal group (30 min., Friday P.M., WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1941).

16263 March, Donna. COM-HF (WADK, Newport, RI, 1956–1957).

16264 (The) March of Events. Charles Martin, one of the developers of The March of Time, originated this similar program for WMCA (30 min., Sunday, WMCA, New York, NY, 1932).

16265 (The) March of Games. The sustaining quiz show originally was co-hosted by Jane Martin and ex-vaudevillian Norman Prescott on the Town Hall Big Game Hunt. The children's quiz show portion of the program was hosted by 14-year-old McArthur Ross and 11-year-old drum major Sybil Trent. Portions of the show also included the "Musical Memory" segment, on which contestants identified songs played by the orchestra. There were tongue twisters such as, "A crop of poppies in copper coffee pots" and Topsy-Turvy Teasers in which contestants were asked to correct such statements as, "William Tell shot an arrow through an orange while it was sitting on his son's head."

16266 (The) March of Time. Time magazine originated and sponsored the broadcast, one of radio's best remembered news programs. The half-hour program made its debut March 1931 as a half-hour program featuring 30 actors, 19 musicians and 8 production service personnel. They claimed that 11 editorial and research workers were also involved. Each program contained from six to eight dramatized recreations of contemporary historical events. On the first program, for example, the renomination of Big Bill Thompson as Mayor of Chicago was dramatized.

Fred Smith, Time's managing editor in 1931 created the program. The scripts were written by Tom Everitt. The director was Don Stauffer. Thomas Harrington was the casting director. Howard Barlow conducted the orchestra. At times, Arthur Pryor, Jr., conducted a brass band when the program required it. The original cast included imitations of historical figures. For example Franklin D. Roosevelt was imitated by Bill Adams; President Hoover by Ted De Corsia; James J. Walker by Frank Readick; Joseph Stalin by Teddy Bergman (Alan Reed); Samuel Seabury by Wilmer Walter; Benito Mussolini by Porter Hall; King Alphonso of Spain by Pedro de Cordoba; Ramsey MacDonald by Alfred Shirley and Alfred E. Smith by Charles Slatter. Ted Husing and William Adams were the announcers (30 min., Friday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., CBS, 1931–1932).

In 1935, there was a time and format change. Although the content and mode of presentation stayed the same, the program became a quarter-hour program broadcast five times a week. Howard Barlow remained as orchestral director, but Arthur Pryor, Jr., became program director. The March of Time concept and format was copied by Pathé Company. On their program the motion picture company played soundtracks of historic events from its own newsreels.

The March of Time cast included: Bill Adams, Georgia Backus, Art Carney, Staats Cotsworth, Ted de Corsia, Kenny Delmar, Peter Donald, Martin Gabel, Edwin Jerome, Nancy Kelly, Adelaide Klein, Myron McCormick, John McIntire, Hershel Mayall, Gary Merrill, Agnes Moorehead, Claire Niesen, Jeanette Nolan, Elliott Reid, Charles Slattery, Everett Sloane, Jack Smart, Lotte Staviskey, Karl Swenson, Maurice Tarplin, Louise Wall, Dwight Weist, and Agnes Young. The directors were Homer Fickett, Lester Vail, William Spier and Don Stauffer. Arthur Pryor, Jr., was the producer-director and Tom Harrington the assistant producer. The news editor was Bill Geer. The writers were Carl Carmer, Richard Dana, Brice Disque, Jr., Paul Milton and Garrett Porter. Howard Barlow and Donald Voorhees were the program's musical directors.

Marconi's invention was later developed by Armstrong, De Forest and Fessenden, among others, into what became commercial broadcasting. As Lewis (1993, p. 2) said radio was the creation of three men possessing "genius, vision, determination and fascinating complexity"—Lee De Forest, Edwin Howard Armstrong and David Sarnoff. If radio was an outgrowth of Marconi's product, it was Lee De Forest and Dr. Frank Conrad who developed the process of broadcasting and the business acumen of David Sarnoff and William Paley that made it commercially viable. See also Armstrong, Edwin Howard; Conrad, Frank; De Forest, Lee; Paley, William S.; and Sarnoff, David.

16478 Mary Ellen and Al. Vcl. mus. prg. by harmony singing team (KGNE, North Platte, NE, 1939).

16480 Mary Jane and Her Ukulele. Ukulele soloist (KMOX, St. Louis, MO, 1926).

16481 Mary Marlin (aka The Story of Mary Marlin). Life was fairly ordinary for Mary Marlin on the daytime serial until her young lawyer husband, Joe Marlin, was elected the junior senator from Iowa. Mary, her Senator husband and their young son moved to Washington, DC to meet many new trials and tribulations. Among the complications Mary faced in the serial was her husband's plane crash in Russia, his amnesia and the many snares set for him by attractive women in the Washington social and political scene. After originating in Chicago in 1934, the show was carried by the NBC-Red network in 1935. Joan Blaine created the title role during its Chicago run on WMAQ (Chicago, IL, 1935). On the network the title role was played by Anne Seymour, Betty Lou Gerson, Muriel Kirkland, Eloise Kummer and Linda Carlon. Other cast members included: Bill Adams, Charmie Allen, Bob Bailey, Clare Baum, Helen Bemiller, Judy Blake, Carlton Brickert, Gene Burke, Francis X. Bushman, Betty Caine, Fran Carlon, Constance Crowley, John C. Daly, Frank Dane, Peter Donald, Barry Drew, Eddie Firestone, Jr., Bob Fiske, Murray Forbes, Templeton Fox, Rosemary Garbell, Earl George, Delores Gillen, Sharon Grainger, Robert Griffin, Marjorie Hannan, Elinor Harriot, Harvey Hays, Mary Jane Higby, Eunice Howard, Lucille Husting, Arthur Jacobson, Raymond Edward Johnson, Bess Johnson, Arthur Kohl, Rupert LaBelle, Charlotte Learn, William A. Created and written by Jane Crusinberry, the program was directed by Don Cope, Kirby Hawkes, Ed Rice and Basil Loughrane. The "Clair de Lune" theme was played by pianists Allan Grant and Joe Kahn (15 min., Monday through Friday, 11:30-11:45 P.M., WMAQ, Chicago, IL, 1934-1935; NBC, 1935-1943; CBS, 1944-1945; ABC, 1951-1952).

16482 Mary Margaret McBride. One of radio's most famous and gifted interviewers, Mary Margaret McBride never possessed an exceptionally good radio voice. Despite this, she rightfully enjoyed great popularity because of her skillful and intelligent interviewing techniques. She talked about every possible topic from the arts, motion pictures, Broadway plays, books, politics and world affairs. Politicians, stars of the entertainment world, artists and famous personages from the literary world appeared on her various programs.

McBride was working for the Newspaper Enterprise Association in New York when she auditioned for a job at WOR (New York, NY) in 1935. She immediately was hired and became Martha Deane, the station's copyrighted name for the person who conducted their woman's show. She began a successful broadcasting run that lasted from 1935 to 1940. At WOR, she frequently was joined on her program by Marjorie Moffet, who wrote and recited poetry; monologist Islay Benson; and Juliette "Nikki" Nicole speaking on fashion topics. Vincent Connolly and Dick Willard were her announcers (Martha Deane, Daily, 2:30-3:00 P.M., WOR, New York, NY, 1935-1940). She left the WOR and the role of Martha Deane in 1940, when her sponsor requested that her time slot be changed. McBride then went to work at NBC under her own name. After leaving WOR, she continued interviewing famous persons such as Bob Hope, Jimmy Durante, Danny Kaye, the Dionne Quints, Elizabeth Taylor, Admiral Richard E. Byrd, James Thurber, Eleanor Roosevelt, General Omar Bradley, John Hersey, Henry Morgenthau, Eddie Cantor, Bette Davis, Jinx Falkenburg, Tex McCrary, Fred Waring, Dinah Shore, George Montgomery, Olsen and Johnson, Thor Hegerdahl, Carl Van Doren, Fannie Hurst, Quentin Reynolds, Mary Garden, Poppy Cannon and Jean Thomas. (Mary Margaret McBride, Monday through Friday, NBC; ABC, 1940-1954).

16484 (The) Mary Small Revue. Small, who had entered radio as a child singing star ("Little Miss Bab-O") starred on this entertaining variety show (30 min., Sunday, 5:00-5:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1945). See also Little Miss Bab-O.

16584 Mauck, Vivienne. COM-HE (KBBS, Buffalo, WY, 1957).

16585 "Maudie." Mrs. Boyd Shreffler was "Maudie," a popular pianist in 1929-1930. Radio Guide said she was WIBW's most popular entertainer. "Maudie" played listener requests and received more fan mail in 1930 than any other WIBW entertainer (WIBW, Topeka, KS, 1929-1930).

16586 Maudie's Diary. The Continental Baking Company, manufacturers of Wonder Bread, sponsored the situation comedy based on the events in the life of Maudie Mason as she described them in her diary. During the two years of the program's run, the leading roles were played by Mary Mason and Charita Bauer. Also in the cast were Betty Garde, William Johnstone, Caryl Smith and Robert Walker. The announcer was Art Millet (30 min., Thursday, CBS, 1941).

16587 Maul, Herbie. Leader (Herbie Maul and his Medleys Orchestra broadcasting from the Westwood Club, KLRA, Little Rock, AR, 1939).

16588 Maule, Mary Katherine. Broadcast inspirational talks (KFRC, San Francisco, CA, 1925).

16589 Mauphin, Rex. Leader, Rex Mauphin's Original Texas Hotel Orchestra (WBAP, San Antonio, TX, 1923; Rex Mauphin Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., NBC, 1934). In 1930, Mauphin played trumpet with the Jules Herbiveaux's KYW (Chicago, IL) Orchestra. Versatile Mauphin also played piano, cello and conducted the band at times. Before coming to KYW, Mauphin had played with Pryor's band and also with those of Paul Ash, Mark Fisher, Benny Meroff, Charles Kaley, Verne Buck and Charley Straight.

16590 Mauri, Mauro. Tenor (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1927).

16595 Mauthe, Chick. Leader (Chick Mauthe Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., KWK, St. Louis, MO, 1942).

16596 Maverick Jim. This was an unusual children's western adventure drama, in that a story began on Thursday and concluded on Friday. Sterling Stewart wrote the interesting show. The cast included John Battle, Artells Dickson, Anne Elstner, Alice Frost and Margaret West. Occasionally, Dickson and West performed western songs. Runkel Brothers, makers of Runko Malt Beverages, sponsored the show (30 min., Thursday and Friday, 7:45-8:15 P.M., WOR, 1933).

16597 Max Baer. Heavyweight boxer Max Baer started as taxi driver Al Harper, who wanted to become a boxer, in this series sponsored by Goodrich Tire and Rubber Company. The series led up to the actual heavyweight championship bout that Baer had with the champion, Primo Carnera, which, incidentally was also broadcast with Goodrich's sponsorship. Variety noted that Baer did an acceptable job meeting the adventures he found on the program. At the conclusion of each show, Baer came on to tell of his training in preparation for the title bout with Carnera. Baer went on to win the heavyweight title easily, before losing it to an underdog boxer by the name of James J. Braddock (15 min., Monday-Wednesday-Friday, 7:45-8:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1934). See also Lucky Smith.

16599 Maxemin, Juan. Singer of Spanish songs (KFI, Los Angeles, CA, 1928).

16612 Maxwell Coffee House Orchestra. Commercial band led by Nat Shilkret (NBC, 1927).

16614 Maxwell House Coffee String Quartet. Instrumental group directed by violinist-leader Harry Jackson; violinist H.G. Frerike; cellist Phillip Musgrave; and pianist Harold Shellhorn (KFWB, Hollywood, CA, 1925).

16615 Maxwell House Coffee Time. Maxwell House Coffee was one of radio's most prolific sponsors and, generally, their programs were of the highest quality. The Maxwell House Coffee Time show was no different. It was an extension of the earlier Good News program, also sponsored by Maxwell House Coffee. Primarily a comedy, the program presented both Frank Morgan as a bumbling blow-hard and Fanny Brice as her hilarious Baby Snooks character. The writing was always clever and the performances outstanding. The cast included: Jack Arthur, Fanny Brice, John Conte, Cass Daley, Hanley Stafford, Frank Morgan and Alan Reed (Teddy Bergman). The writers were Keith Fowler, Paul Henning, Ed James, Phil Rapp, Robert Young and Richard Conte were the announcers. Music was supplied by the Meredith Willson orchestra (NBC, 1940–1944).

16616 Maxwell House Ensemble. This good music program had a similar format in the two versions of the show broadcast during the 1931 and 1932 seasons, but the performers were different. In the former, tenor Frank Parker, contralto Helen Rowland, pianist Arthur Schutt, a male quartet and an orchestra conducted by Don Voorhees were featured (30 min., Thursday, 9:30–10:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1931). The latter version, on the other hand, featured tenor Lanny Ross, the Songsmiths Male Quartet (Scrappy Lambert, Randolph Weyant, Leonard Stokes and Bob Moody) and the Don Voorhees Orchestra (30 min., Friday, 9:30–10:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1932).

16617 Maxwell House Melodies. Maxwell House Coffee sponsored the music program that featured the Dixie Vocal Trio consisting of Victor Hall, Leonard Stokes and Tubby Wayant singing with an orchestra conducted by David Mendoza. The announcer was Alwyn E.W. Bach (NBC-Blue, 1929). The following year the program featured soprano Muriel Wilson, a male quartet, a mixed vocal ensemble of eight voices and the Harold Sanford Orchestra. Edmund "Tiny" Ruffner was the announcer (30 min., Thursday, 9:30–10:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1930).

16709 (The McCann Pure Food Hour. Alfred W. McCann, Jr., took over the show in 1931, when his father, Alfred W. McCann, Sr., died. The elder McCann had begun the program in 1925 and established a laboratory to test foods (60 min., 10:00-11:00 A.M., WJZ, 1926). A commercial success, the program stressed the necessity to eat right to prevent disease. Wife Dora joined her husband on the show in the 1950s. Begun on WJZ, the McCanns completed their broadcasting career on WOR (New York, NY) with their McCanns at Home program. See also The McCanns at Home.

16710 (The McCanns at Home. Alfred and Dora McCann, husband and wife, added an afternoon talk session to their weekday morning food and nutrition program (15 min., Monday-Tuesday-Wednesday-Friday, 12:45-1:00 P.M., WOR, Newark, NJ, 1953). When Alfred, Jr., died, wife Dora carried on with the assistance of daughter, Patsy. When Dora died, Patsy carried on the program until well into the 1980s. See also The McCann Pure Food Hour.

16732 McClellan, (Mrs.) George. Singer-whistler (WFAA, Dallas, TX, 1924).

16733 McClintock, Harry Kirby "Mac."

Born in Knoxville, Tennessee, this pioneer country-western singer had an early career that included work as a merchant seaman and soldier and travel as a hobo. He became a popular Victor recording star under the name of "Haywire Mac." McClintock claimed to have composed such songs as "Big Rock Candy Mountain" and "Hallelujah, I'm a Bum Again."

He first sang cowboy songs on KFRC (San Francisco, CA) in 1925 and continued doing so into the 1930s on several highly popular programs such as the daily Mac and His Gang, Mac Round the Campfire and Mac's Haywire Band, all on KFRC from 1925 through 1928 and into the next decade (Mac McClintock, KFRC, 1933). McClintock was an important figure in the development of American country-western music. Radio Guide (February, 1930, p. 97) said that Mac was also a popular entertainer on KFRC's Children's Hour program.

He was said to have probably "wrecked the old 97 more than anyone else." McClintock's songs ranged from country-western to children's tunes. An idea of his range can be seen from the 78 r.p.m. recordings he made for Victor such as: VI 21343: "The Bum Song" and "Hallelujah! I'm a Bum"; VI 21421: "The Old Chisholm Trail" and "Red River Valley"; VI 21567: "The Circus Days" and "The Man on the Flying Trapeze"; VI V-40016: "The Trail to Mexico" and "Get Along Little Doggies." McClintock sometimes recorded as "Radio Mac" singing with Mac's Haywire Orchestra.

16798 McDonald, Al. DJ (Al Mac's Musical, KOYA, Rapid City, SD, 1949; Spinners Sanctum, KOYA, 1954).

16799 McDonald, Arch. Sports-caster and Washington Senators baseball play-by-play (WJSV, Washington, DC, 1934-1942; WTOP, Washington, DC, 1944-1947; Speaking of Sports, WTOP, 1949-1956). When McDonald began broadcasting Washington Senators' baseball in 1934, his engineer at Griffith Stadium was Granville Klink, Jr. McDonald and Klink worked the games from a small corrugated tin booth located on top of Griffith Stadium directly in line with home plate, where they had a good view. Since they were completely out of sight of the fans, on many hot Washington afternoons when the tin booth sweltered like a small oven, both McDonald and Klink stripped down to their shorts to broadcast the games (Klink, 1996).

Klink recalls how McDonald recreated Senators' games when they were out of town. He said a local telegraph operator with a typewriter sat next to McDonald. The telegrapher at the ball park sent a description of the plays and the studio telegrapher would then type out the results so McDonald could announce them. McDonald used a bell to indicate base hits. One, two, three or four bells sounded to indicate a single, double, triple or home run. He was known by his colleagues as "the Rembrandt of Baseball Reconstructions."

McDonald was such a local favorite that his favorite song—"They Cut Down the Old Pine Tree"—was played on the Griffith Stadium public address system before each home game. When McDonald went to New York to broadcast Yankee games in 1939, he was replaced by Walter Johnson, the former great Senators pitcher, to do the team's play-by-play broadcasts.

An example of the McDonald sense of humor can be found on the calling card he carried (see illustration below).

McDonald, who always claimed to be an expert on gin rummy, ironically, died playing the game. One afternoon after broadcasting a Washington Redskins professional football game in New York, McDonald took the train back to Washington. En route he was playing gin rummy with friends, when he suddenly slumped to the table. His death in 1961 was a shock to his many friends and listeners.

16956 McKinney's Cotton Pickers. A popular radio and RCA Victor recording orchestra, that began as the Synco Septet and, later still, the Synco Jazz Band playing in and around Springfield, Ohio, in the early 20s. Saxophonist Milton Senior organized the band. Ex-circus drummer William McKinney, stopped playing drums in 1926 to become the band's manager.

McKinney's Cotton Pickers, contained some conservatory trained musicians, none of whom came from the south. The group was one of the finest bands of the period, due chiefly to the musical direction and arrangements of Don Redman, who had left the Fletcher Henderson Orchestra in 1927 to join it. After playing in such cities as Detroit, Baltimore, and Dayton, the band attracted the attention of orchestra leader-entrepreneur, Jean Goldkette, head of his National Amusement Corporation.

Goldkette took control of the band, while McKinney remained the business manager. Since Detroit's Graystone Hotel was the musical headquarters of Goldkette's management organization, he arranged for the band to play at the Graystone Hotel Ballroom, broadcast frequently, and obtain a RCA recording contract. After this send-off, the Cotton Pickers toured extensively to New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, and Atlantic City. After the tour and numerous broadcasts, the band enjoyed national popularity until about 1931. When the Goldkette organization terminated its relationships with the band in 1930, the group began to deteriorate, disbanding and regrouping several times in the following years. Changing musical tastes and internal problems caused the band to play its final engagement in Baltimore at Carlin's Amusement Park in the summer of 1934. The band's personnel in 1928 at the height of its popularity included: Cuba Austin, Langston Curl, Ralph Escudero, J. Horley, George Jones, John Nesbitt, Todd Rhodes, Prince Robinson, Milton Senior and arranger-musical director Don Redman (WJR, Detroit, MI, 1928).

17007 McNamara, Tom. Football news and conjecture were presented by McNamara (KOA, Denver, CO, 1925).

17008 McNamee, Graham. McNamee, a famous pioneer announcer, was born in Washington, D.C., July 10, 1888. He arrived in New York City with his divorced mother and began studying piano and voice. In 1921, the New York Sun reported his stage debut favorably by writing: "He performed with apparent justness, care and style" (Smith, 1992, p. 10). Furthermore, he performed with apparent success in more than 150 recital programs during his first season for which he also received praise from the New York Times (Smith, 1992, p. 11).

In May, 1923, seeking additional opportunities, McNamee was hired by WJZ. McNamee broadcast a blow-by-blow account of the middle weight championship boxing bout between Harry Greb and Johnny Wilson on August, 1923. His meteoric rise was assisted in September, 1923, when he was teamed with Grantland Rice, who was to do play-by-play, while McNamee provided color commentary at the World Series. After four innings, Rice passed the microphone to McNamee to do the play-by-play (Smith, 1987, p. 11). McNamee's performance caught the fancy of the nation and his popularity rose quickly.

He soon began to broadcast other sports events — football games, boxing bouts, tennis matches, etc. — President Calvin Coolidge's 1923 address to Congress, foreign coronations and both 1924 political conventions. The historic 1924 Democratic Convention in New York's Madison Square Garden lasted through 103 ballots. McNamee broadcast the convention almost continuously for the gruelling fourteen days it lasted. After broadcasting his third World Series in 1925, he received more than fifty thousand letters or telegrams.

When the National Broadcasting Company became a network in 1926, McNamee's usual openings and closings became known to millions of listeners. He opened with: "Good evening, ladies and gentlemen of the radio audience" and closed with, "This is Graham McNamee speaking. Good Night all." By 1939, McNamee was also broadcasting the news on NBC.

After McNamee's death in 1942 at the age of 53 from a cerebral embolism, columnist Heywood Brown wrote of him: "McNamee justified the whole activity of radio broadcasting....A thing may be a marvelous invention and still dull as ditch water. It will be that unless it allows the play of personality. A machine amounts to nothing more unless a man can ride. Graham McNamee has been able to take a new medium of expression and through it transmit himself—to give it vividly a sense of movement of feeling. Of such is the kingdom of art" (Smith, 1992, p. 12).

17009 McNaughton, H. Bliss. Newscaster (WTBO, Cumberland, MD, 1938).

17010 McNay, Ione. Newscaster (WOI, Ames, IA, 1941–1942, 1945).

17011 McNeeley, Marty. DJ (McNeeley and Music, WJR, Detroit, MI, 1949; Music Hall, WJR, 1954).

17012 McNeely, Beth. COM-HE (WTSP, St. Petersburg, FL, 1956–1957).

17013 McNeery, Bill. McNeery became "The Man in the Moon" after a curious mishap. A woman who wrote a series of children's stories in the Newark Ledger, was planning to broadcast them on station WOR, Newark, NJ. The woman had to climb an iron ladder and go through a hole in the roof to reach the studio that was located on top of a factory building. As studio personnel were helping her up the ladder, the lady fainted. McNeery, a reporter who happened to be present, said, "Now what do we do?" Announcer Tommy Cowan handed him the children's stories and at that moment McNeery became "The Man in the Moon," a role he played for many years (Gross, 1954, p. 58–59). It should be noted, however, that during the early years of radio there was more than one "Man in the Moon" broadcasting children's stories in the greater New York area.

17014 McNeil, Dave. Sportscaster (Sportscope, WCRB, Walham, MA, 1951).

17015 McNeil, Dean. DJ (Blues at Sunrise, KWBC, Ft. Worth, TX, 1949–1954).

17016 McNeil, Ida A. A pioneer in radio, McNeil began as announcer and manager of station KGFX (Pierre, SD, February, 1922). She continued in that position well in the 40s. She was still working on KGFX in 1948 as a DJ.

17017 McNeil, Robert J. Newscaster (KGFX, Pierre, SD, 1937).

17018 McNeill, Donald Thomas "Don." Best remembered as host of the popular long-running Breakfast Club program, McNeill studied journalism at Marquette University. It was during his sophomore year as a journalism major that McNeill first became an announcer at WISM (Milwaukee, WI). At that time he was also working at the Milwaukee Sentinel where, among his many chores he drew cartoons. In 1933, he took over as host of the Smiles Before Breakfast program. Later in the same year the program was transformed into The Breakfast Club. See also The Breakfast Club.

17019 McNellis, Maggi. Miss McNellis was a lively and charming DJ (60 min., 10:30–11:30 P.M., WINS, New York, NY, 1956). She

17020 McNerney, Francis. Newscaster (WTOL, Toledo, OH, 1945–1946).

17021 McPhee, John C. Newscaster (KARV, Mesa, AZ, 1946).

17022 McPherson, Aimee Semple. Billy Sunday and Aimee Semple McPherson were the most prominent evangelists of the Twenties. Glamorous Sister Aimee Semple McPherson in her long, flowing white robes preached to thousands who attended her Angelus Temple in Los Angeles. Her dynamic preaching style, physical attractiveness and her striking religious settings made virtually each of her sermons a dramatic presentation. At one service, for example, she dressed as a traffic cop, blew a whistle, and belted, "Stop! You are all going to Hell!" Along with Paul Rader in Chicago and New York's Paul Roach Stratton, she was a pioneer religious broadcaster.

Her first radio sermons were broadcast from San Francisco during the winter of 1921–1922. Her second sermon there was devoted to divine healing. Early in 1924, while alternating with other Protestant ministers broadcasting sermons, she soon realized that radio could be used to expand her ministry. In order to do so, she established her own station in Los Angeles, KFSG — Kalling Four Square Gospel (Los Angeles, CA). The third Los Angeles station to go on the air, KFSG began operations February 6, 1924. KFSG went on the air with the words of Priscilla Owens' hymn, "Jesus Saves."

Give the winds a mighty voice,
Jesus saves! Jesus saves!
Let the nations now rejoice,
Jesus saves! Jesus saves!

The Angelus Temple's organist, Esther Fricke Green, played both religious and classical musical numbers on that first broadcast day.

Every weekday morning, Sister Aimee conducted The Sunshine Hour program broadcast at 7:00 A.M. from her temple in Los Angeles. She began her programs by saying, "You thousands of people here, you in the orchestra, you in the first balcony, you in the second balcony, you crowds standing in the rear, you thousands over the radio." Her station's first programming consisted of her many converts giving their testimonies plus such controversial features as broadcasting the addresses of gambling halls, speakeasies and the names of persons engaging in "white slavery."

One of the high points in Sister Aimee's broadcasting career took place on June 19, 1925, when a caller from Santa Barbara told her of the devastating earthquake the city had just experienced. Sister Aimee immediately entered her studio, stopped the program then in progress and began to tell her listeners of the disaster. Sister Aimee asked them to collect clothing, canned and cooked food. She told anyone with a truck to fill it with gas and come to the Temple. She said, "Be prepared to drive emergency supplies to Santa Barbara. . . If you have nothing to give, give yourself. Come on over and help sort clothing and pack boxes." Her appeal was enthusiastically answered. Her listeners responded generously. By the time the Red Cross met to organize aid for Santa Barbara, two truck convoys from Angelus Temple had already arrived in Santa Barbara with blankets and food for the homeless.

A typical Sunday program broadcast January 18, 1925, on KFSG was as follows:

10:30–12:30 P.M. Complete morning services of the Angelus Temple with a sermon by pastor-evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson.

2:30–4:30 P.M. Afternoon worship service with the Silver Band, Temple Choir and sermon by Aimee Semple McPherson.

7:00–9:45 P.M. Evening service with a special musical hour program and sermon by Aimee Semple McPherson.

10:00–11:00 Organ recital by Esther Fricke Green.

Sister Aimee lost favor with Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover in 1927, because she often changed her station's frequency. When Hoover warned her to stop this practice, she immediately shot back a telegram:

PLEASE ORDER YOUR MINIONS OF SATAN TO LEAVE MY STATION ALONE STOP YOU CANNOT EXPECT THE ALMIGHTY TO ABIDE BY YOUR WAVE LENGTH NONSENSE STOP WHEN I OFFER MY PRAYERS TO HIM I MUST LISTEN TO HIS WAVE RECEPTION STOP OPEN THIS STATION AT ONCE.

Later, public perception of the luster of McPherson's evangelistic zeal was dimmed somewhat by the scandal surrounding the alleged hoax of her "disappearance-kidnapping," believed by many, instead, to really have been a sojourn with a male assistant from her radio station. To the modern ear Sister Aimee's sermons sound old fashioned, but her personal magnetism attracted a large radio listening audience. She used a vigorous delivery style and an extension of her vowels for added emphasis. She mixed humor with a keen insight of human nature. When she died in 1944, her congregation included 22,000 members and 600 churches.

17023 McPherson, Charlotte. COM-HE (WTTM, Trenton, NJ, 1956–1957).

17041 McWilliams, Hal. Sports caster (KCMC, Texarkana, TX, 1951; KCKY, Coolidge, AZ, 1956).

17042 Mead, Dottie. COM-HE (WSPB, Sarasota, FL, 1956–1957).

17043 Meade, Charles. Actor (WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1926).

17044 Meade, Merrill. Newscaster (KXL, Portland, OR, 1945).

17046 Meader, George A. Metropolitan Opera tenor (WEAF, New York, NY, 1928).

17048 Meadows, (Miss) Frankie. Blues singer (WHN, New York, NY, 1928).

17049 Meakin, Jack. Leader (Jack Meakin Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., NBC-Blue, 1938).

17050 Meakin Theatrical News. Jack Meakin broadcast theatrical chatter and gossip on his sustaining show. Al Kavelin's Orchestra provided the music (30 min., Monday, 9:00–10:00 P.M. PST, NBC, 1937).

17051 (The) Meal of Your Life. The unusual transcribed program was broadcast by 63 stations. The show took place at an imaginary dinner at New York's Waldorf-Astoria in honor of some celebrity guest. The celebrity told the story of his most memorable meal. After he began his narrative, there was a fadeout to a dramatization of the story. The guests who told their story included Elsa Maxwell, George Jessel, Ned Sparks, Ilka Chase and Rosemary Lane. David Ross was the program's host (30 min., Transcribed, Various Times and Stations, 1946).

17052 Meaney, Ed. Sportscaster (WESX, Salem, MA, 1946). Newscaster (WESX, 1947).

17053 Mears, Martha. Contralto (Martha Mears, vcl. mus. prg., NBC, 1934-1936).

17054 (The Measles Club). Conrey Bryston, the station's publicity director, originated the program after his daughter had to stay home from school with the measles. She was forced to listen to daytime radio fare that was designed for adults. At Bryston's suggestion, the children's program was initiated. Recorded music for children was broadcast and Roy Chapman, the station's program director, supplied stories and commentary (30 min., KTSM, El Paso, TX, 1938).

17055 Meath, Ed. Sportscaster (WHEC, Rochester, NY, 1949-1952).

17056 Mechlin, Ruth. News analyst (For Women Only, KRMD, Shreveport, LA, 1947).

17058 Medcalfe, Roy. L. Organist (WFOX, Long Beach, CA, 1929).

17059 Medert, Elizabeth. Violinist (WSAI, Cincinnati, OH, 1925).

17060 Medical Question Box. Dr. John R. Brinkley, the famous and infamous "radio doctor," broadcast his medical information program on his own station (KFKB, Medford, KS). Brinkley first went on the air September 23, 1923. The program was the beginning of a long and controversial career in American radio. See also Brinkley, John R. and Clarlatans, Demagogues and Politicians.

17062 Medland, Jack. Pianist (KDYL, Salt Lake City, UT, 1929).

17064 Medrow, Virginia. COM-HE (WDWS, Champaign, IL, 1956).

17067 Meehan, Lewis. Tenor (KYW, Chicago, IL, 1926-1928; KFI, Los Angeles, CA, 1929).

17069 Meeker, Bobby. Leader (Bobby Meeker Orchestra, WLIB, Elgin, IL, 1927; Drake Hotel Dance Orchestra, WGN, Chicago, IL, 1928; Bobby Meeker Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., CBS, 1936; KMOX, St. Louis, MO, 1937).

17070 Meeker, Louise. Miss Meeker broadcast weekly book reviews (WDAF, Kansas City, MO, 1928).

17071 Meeks, Carl. DJ (Tiny's Platter Party, WRLC, Toccoa, GA, 1947).

17072 Meeks, Don. Newscaster (WWVA, Wheeling, WV, 1945).

17073 Meenam, William T. Newscaster (WGY, Schenectady, NY, 1938).

17074 Mees, Dick. Leader (Dick Mees Orchestra, WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1923).

17075 Meet Corliss Archer. Meet Corliss Archer was a situation comedy that dramatized the trials and tribulations encountered by an intelligent adolescent girl. It was based on the writings and original creation of F. Hugh Herbert. Each week Corliss Archer and her boy friend found themselves embroiled in the hilarious situations (to everyone else) that adolescents find so frustrating. The program showed an adolescent girl's struggle with maturity, while Henry Aldrich paralleled the adjustments and frustrations of adolescence on the male side. Although Priscilla Lyon and Eugene Sanders also played the title role, Janet Waldo is best remembered, for she played Corliss for ten of the twelve years the program was on the air. Also in the cast were: Arlene Becker, Tommy Bernard, Sam Edwards, David Hughes, Fred Shields, Irene Tedrow and Barbara Whiting. The writers were Jerry Adelman, Carroll Carroll and F. Hugh Herbert. Bert Prager was the director.

17076 Meet Frances Scott. Mrs. Frankie Basch (Frances Scott) conducted her program of informal talks and interviews of interest to women (WHN, New York, NY, 1942). Previously she had been heard on such network shows as It Takes a Woman and What Burns You Up?

17077 Meet Me at Melton's. Ina Bradley was the hostess of the program broadcast from James Melton's Antique Auto Museum in Bridgeport, CT. Opera star James Melton and Philip Langner appeared regularly on the show. Mike Merrill was the announcer (30 min., Saturday, 11:30-12:00 noon, WICC, Bridgeport, CT, 1952).

17078 Meet Me at Parkey's. Harry Einstein played the role of Nick Parkyarkarkas, the owner of Parkey's, a small restaurant, on the situation comedy sponsored by Old Gold Cigarettes. Einstein had played the Parkyarkarkas character earlier on the Eddie Cantor Show and the Al Jolson Lifebouy Show. It was Einstein's comic character that was the primary focus of the program. The talented cast included: Jean Barton, Leo Cleary, Harry Einstein, Sheldon Leonard, Frank Nelson and Ruth Perrott. The program was written by Harry Einstein and Hal Fimberg. The directors were Hal Fimberg and Maurice Morton. Music was by the Opie Cates Orchestra accompanying the Short Order Chorus and vocalists Dave Street, Patty Bolton, Peggy Lee and Betty Jane Rhodes. The announcer was Art Gilmore.

17079 Meet Me at the Copa. Celebrity interviews with celebrities from New York's Copacabana night club were the sole ingredients of the all-night local program (210 min., Tuesday through Saturday, WINS, New York, NY, 1947).

17080 Meet Me in St. Louis. Russell Beggs wrote the entertaining situation comedy about a 15-year-old heroine's doings in turn of century St. Louis. Ann Gardner played the role of the teenager. Brook Bryon, Jack Edwards, Vinton Hayworth, Raymond Edward Johnson, Billy Redfield, Ethel Wilson and Agnes Young were also in the cast. Vladimir Solinsky's Orchestra supplied the music (30 min., Sunday, 10:30-11:00 P.M., NBC, 1950). The program was based on a book by Peggy Benson. The 1944 movie by the same name starred Judy Garland and Margaret O'Brien and featured such music as "The Trolley Song."

17081 Meet Millie. Audrey Trotter, initially, and Elena Verdugo, later, played the title role of Brooklyn secretary, Millie Bronson. Also in the cast of the sustaining situation comedy were Earl Ross and Bill Tracey. Music was by Irving Miller's Orchestra. Bob Lemond was the announcer (30 min., Monday, 9:30-10:00 P.M., CBS, 1951).

17082 Meet Miss Sherlock. Jane Sherlock, an apartment store buyer, played detective on the summer replacement show written and produced by Don Thompson and Lee Jack Newman. Music was composed and performed by organist Milton Charles (30 min., Weekly, CBS, 1946).

17083 Meet the Artist. Bob Taplinger interviewed various radio stars on his weekly program (15 min., Saturday, 6:00-6:15 P.M., CBS, 1933).

17084 Meet the Artist. Nancy Russell interviewed artists on the New York local program. Later, she conducted a show called Meet the Songwriter, using the same concept and format (15 min., Weekly, WJZ, New York, NY, 1938). See also Meet the Songwriter.

17085 Meet the Folks. Performers of the popular National Barn Dance were interviewed. Ed Paul was the host who conducted the cast interviews back stage at Chicago's Eighth Street Theater. He would then go to the theater lobby to interview visitors to the program. A typical gag Paul would use was to ask a visitor to describe Red Foley. After the guest made his best effort, Paul would introduce him to Red Foley and ask him to describe him once more (30 min., 7:00-7:30 P.M. CST, WLS, Chicago, IL, 1937-1938). The Bar-N-Frolie program replaced the Meet the Folks program in 1938 and featured performances by the National Barn Dance stars.

17087 Meet the Press. Martha Roundtree originated the program in 1945 and served as its first host. A panel of journalists were brought together each week to interview a news maker, usually a politician. The program made a successful transition to television on November 6, 1947. The television version of Meet the Press celebrated its 50th anniversary in 1997.

The radio version introduced the format of several journalists questioning a newsworthy person each week. The same format is used today by all the networks and many local television stations with such programs as ABC's Today (with Sam Donaldson and Cokie Roberts) and Face the Nation on CBS.

Lawrence Spivak, editor of the American Mercury magazine, was the program's best known radio host. Spivak conducted the television version until 1975, when he was succeeded as host by such broadcast journalists as Bill Monroe, Marvin Kalb, Chris Wallace, Garrick Utley and Tim Russert. Unfortunately, not all the television hosts who succeeded him were as consistently unbiased and as fearlessly willing to ask the "hard" question as was Spivak.

17088 Meet the Songwriter. Nancy Russell interviewed songwriters who lived in or were visiting New York City on her sustaining program. She previously conducted the Meet the Artist program (15 min., Tuesday, 12:00–12:15 P.M., WJZ, New York, NY, 1939). See also Meet the Artist.

17089 Meet Your Boys in Uniform. Young Army men were interviewed at the Indian Town Gap, PA, army base on the sustaining World War II program (15 min., Monday, 10:30–10:45 P.M., WCAE, Pittsburgh, PA, 1941). See also Wartime Radio.

17090 Meet Your Lover. Thickly coated with sentiment, singer Frank Luther was very popular on the 1933–1934 program. He would say, "Darling, you are the only one in the world for me. I love you—really I do. I love you so much." Luther always drew great quantities of fan mail (15 min., Network, 1933–1934). Frank Luther entered radio in 1926. He later became part of the famous Revelers Quartet and in 1934 was one of the Happy Wonder Bakers.

17092 Meet Your Navy. The amateur talent of sailors based at the Great Lakes Training Station was featured on the sustaining program hosted by Jack Stillwell (30 min., Tuesday, 7:30–8:00 P.M., NBC, 1942). See also Wartime Radio.

17093 Meet Yourself. Psychiatrist Louis I. Lewis conducted the sustaining program in the style of The Voice of Experience. He provided advice on the mental and spiritual problems of the listeners who wrote him (15 min., Wednesday, 3:15–3:30 P.M., WIP, Philadelphia, PA, 1938).

17094 Meeting of Protective Order of Lake Merritt Ducks. This was another example of the interesting late evening variety programs broadcast in the mid-1920s that featured zany doings (KIX, Oakland, CA, 1925).

17095 Megarle, Ralph H. Announcer known as "TOD" (WDAE, Tampa, FL, 1926).

17096 Mehan, Bob, DJ (Around the Bay After Midnight, KWBR, Oakland, CA, 1947).

17098 Mehl, Ernie. Sports caster (WDAF, Kansas City, MO, 1952).

17099 Mehl, Frances. Whistler (KHJ, Los Angeles, CA, 1926).

17100 Meier, L. Carlos. Organist (WHO, Des Moines, IA, 1924). Meier broadcast organ recitals from the Capitol Theatre, Des Moines, Iowa (WCBD, Des Moines, IA, 1925; WHO, Des Moines, IA, 1926).

17101 Meinhard, (Miss) Cecil. Soprano (WFJC, Akron, OH, 1928).

17102 Meinhold, Kitty. Pianist (WGY, Schenectady, NY, 1923).

17103 Meisle, Kathryn. Contralto on the Atwater Kent Hour program (NBC, 1927).

17104 Meisler, Beatrice. Miss Meisler broadcast various recitations (WGBS, New York, NY, 1925).

17107 Meister, Don. Newscaster (WDSU, New Orleans, LA, 1944).

17108 Meksin, Arnold. Russian pianist (WGBS, New York, NY, 1925).

17109 Mel Blanc Show (aka Mel Blanc's Fix-It Shop or merely the Fix-It Shop). Mel Blanc, one of radio's most gifted performers, was featured on the situation comedy sponsored by Colgate-Palmolive Company. Blanc played the roles of both the owner of a Fix-It shop and his hapless helper, Zookie. Also in the cast were: Jim Backus, Bea Benadaret, Hans Conried, Mary Jane Croft, Joe Kearns, Alan Reed (Teddy Bergman) and Earle Ross. The program was written by David Victor, Herb Little, Jr., and Mac Benoff. The producer was Joe Rines and the director was Sam Fuller. Music was supplied by the Victor Miller Orchestra. Bud Heisland was the announcer (30 min., Tuesday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., CBS, 1946).

17110 Melaney, Howard. Tenor (WLS, Chicago, IL, 1928–1930). Melaney was known as "The Singing Fireman." It was said that he traveled 4,000 miles weekly singing for his employer at Northern Pacific Railroad railway stations from coast to coast.

17111 Melbourne, John P. Newscaster (KXL, Portland, OR, 1942).

17112 Melbourne, Rex. Leader (Rex Melbourne Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WIBX, Utica, NY, 1942).

17113 Melgard, Al. Organist (WLS, Chicago, IL and WBBM, Chicago, IL, 1926; Al Melgard, instr. mus. prg., 15 min., Saturday, 10:30–10:45 A.M. CST, WLS, Chicago, IL, 1937).

17114 Melges, Douglas. Newscaster (KSTP, St. Paul, MN, 1945).

17115 Melledge, (Mrs.) Edgar Cecil. Conducted a women's program (The Women's Hour, WRNY, New York, NY, 1924).

17116 Mellonino, Claire. Pianist (KHJ, Los Angeles, CA, 1925; KNX, Los Angeles, CA, 1927–1929).

17117 Melloy, Jack. Newscaster (WDAS, Philadelphia, PA, 1945). DJ (Rainbow Rendezvous, WHOT, South Bend, IN, 1948).

17118 Melodiana. The Abe Lyman Orchestra and vocalists Bernice Claire and Oliver Smith were featured on the music program (30 min., Sunday, 4:00–4:30 p.m., CBS, 1935).

17120 (The) Melodie Boys Orchestra. Popular radio band (WGY, Schenectady, NY, 1925).

17121 Melodie Musings. Lyons Wickland narrated the program that featured the songs of Warren White and the Carlton Kelsey Orchestra. Ted Bliss wrote and produced the program (15 min., Tuesday, 8:45–9:00 P.M., Mutual-Don Lee Network, 1938).

17122 Melodies de France. George Barre and his symphony orchestra performed on the French music program (NBC, 1931).

17123 Melodies of Not So Long Ago. Joseph Sweiker narrated the popular music program (Weekly, WBAI, Baltimore, MD, 1926).

17125 Melody, Joe, DJ (Spins and Needles, KKKI, Alice, TX, 1949). Sports caster (WOAI, San Antonio, TX, 1956).

17517 Milton, Pegg. DJ (Pleasantly Your Pegg, WMAZ, Macon, GA, 1952).

17518 Milton Berle Show. Although Milton Berle enjoyed some success in the medium of radio, it was in television that he enjoyed his greatest popularity. On radio, Berle was unable to use his considerable talents as a physical comic that made him so popular in vaudeville and on television. Radio never allowed him to become an "Uncle Miltie" or achieve the status of a "Mr. Television." He made his radio debut in 1934, but did not become a regular performer until 1936 with the Community Sing program broadcast by CBS. He followed this with a 1944 series, Let Yourself Go, broadcast by CBS in 1945 and Kiss and Make Up the same year on that network. Berle's radio cast on the Milton Berle Show included some of radio's finest actors: Jack Albertson, Eileen Barton, Jackson Beck, Johnny Gibson, Bert Gordon, Pert Kelton, Mary Shipp, Arnold Stang and Roland Winters. The program's writers were Hal Block and Martin A. Ragaway. Music was supplied by Ray Bloch's orchestra. Frank Gallop was the announcer (30 min., Weekly, ABC, 1947–1948). When the Milton Berle Show went on television the following year, Berle soon became "Mr. Television."

17519 Milton Brown and the Musical Brownies. The early CW band played jazz with a southwestern flavor. After playing with the Light Crust Doughboys, Brown formed his Brownies band in 1932. They became famous with their daily broadcasts on San Antonio's KTAI and WBAP in the early 1930s. Although an influential western swing band, Brown's career was brief. He was killed in an automobile accident in 1936.

17520 Milton Cross Opera Album. After the 1949 Metropolitan Opera season was completed, Cross played operatic recordings and discussed them intelligently. Ed. Reimers was the program announcer (30 min., Sunday, 4:30–5:00 P.M., ABC, 1949). See also Cross, Milton.

17521 Milton C. Work. As bridge hands were being played, Work commented upon them on his unique bridge show (NBC, 1930).

17522 Milvihill, Joseph P. DJ (100 Club, WTAM, Cleveland, OH, 1948).

17523 Milwaukee District Court. Actual cases were broadcast from the city's courtrooms on the program sponsored by the Milwaukee Safety Commission. Two microphones were placed at the judge's bench. Except for a brief introduction by the program's announcer, the only other voices heard were those who actually were participating in the cases. No one was forced to go on the air, but it was reported that few ever declined (WTMJ, Milwaukee, WI, 1935).

17524 Milwaukee Turnverein Symphony Orchestra. Symphonic music group (WHAD, Milwaukee, WI, 1926).

17526 Mims, Ernie. DJ (WOC, Davenport, IA, 1960).

17527 Mims, Slim. DJ (Uncle Ugly, WJMX, Florence, SC, 1949).

17528 Minahan, Ann D. COM-HE (WCCM, Lawrence, MA, 1957).

17531 Mincowski, Pete. Violinist (WKRC, Cincinnati, OH, 1925).

17533 Mineo, Sam. Pianist (WMAK, Buffalo, NY, 1928).

17534 Miner, Don. Singer (KFQZ, Hollywood, CA, 1926).

17535 Miner, Paul. Newscaster (WINS, New York, NY, 1946).

17536 Miner Mike. Ted Rogers, in the role of "Miner Mike," was sponsored by the Utah Mining Association. He told stories about people who had made significant contributions, but never made the headlines (15 min., Sunday, 12:45–1:00 P.M., KALI, Salt Lake City, UT, 1952).

17537 Minevitch, Borrah. Harmonica virtuoso Minevitch performed brilliantly (The Theater Magazine program, WCBS, New York, NY, 1928; Borrah Minevitch's Harmonica Rascals, instr. mus. prg., NBC, 1933; WENR, Chicago, IL, 1934).

17538 Miniard, Julia E. DJ (WATM, Atlanta, AL, 1955). COM-HE (WATM, 1956).

17539 Miniature Biographies. Grace Sanderson Mitchie wrote the weekly half-hour dramas based on the lives of famous personages (30 min., Weekly, 9:30–10:00 P.M., NBC–Pacific Coast Network, 1929).

17540 Miniature Theatre. An hour dramatic program, Miniature Theatre featured stories by great writers such as George Ade (30 min., Saturday, 10:30–11:30 P.M., NBC–Blue, 1930).

17541 Minium, James. Newscaster (WHIZ, Zanesville, OH, 1940; WMAN, Mansfield, OH, 1942).

17542 Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra. Symphonic orchestra directed by Henri Verbrugghen (WCCO, Minneapolis–St. Paul, MN, 1928; Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, sometimes known as the Minneapolis-Honeywell Wonder Hour, 1930–1932). In 1935 the orchestra broadcast a 14-week series of classical music programs. The orchestra at this time was conducted by Paul Lamay and Eugene Ormandy (60 min., Thursday, 10:30–11:30 P.M. CST, NBC–Red, 1935).

17543 Minnie and Maud. The unique daytime serial of "human appeal and native comedy" was probably the first to focus on the lives, customs and idioms of the Pennsylvania Dutch in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania (10 min., Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday, 9:05–9:15 A.M. CST, NBC–Blue, 1936).

17544 Minor, Dick. DJ (Platter Preview, WDUK, Durham, NC, 1947).

17545 Minor, Vernon. Newscaster (KWBW, Hutchinson, KS, 1942).

17547 Minter, Dan. DJ (Ladies Night Out, WOWO, Ft. Wayne, IN, 1952).

17548 Mintz, Dave. DJ (Dave's Ditties, KVOS, Bellingham, WA, 1952).

17549 Mintz, Herbie. Pianist (KYW, Chicago, IL, 1923–1924). DJ (WLS, Chicago, IL, 1955).

17550 Mintz, Herbie and "Our Sally" Menkes. Piano team (KYW, Chicago, IL, 1924). See also Menkes, Sally.

17551 Minute Men Quartet. Vcl. mus. prg. (NBC, 1937).

17553 Miranda, (Mrs.) Erma H. Leader (Beloit College Choir, WBBW, Norfolk, VA, 1925).

17554 Mirsch, Hazel. Variety called her "the official station organist who it was claimed [was] the first woman to broadcast from the station in 1922" (KYW, Chicago, IL, 1922–1924).

17555 Mirth and Madness. Jack Kirkwood was the featured performer on the comedy-variety show. Funny sketches and running gags were the main ingredients of the show first broadcast by NBC in 1943. The cast included: Lee Brodie, Billy Grey, Tom Harris, Jack Kirkwood, Lillian Lee, Jean McKean, Mike McTooch, Don Reid (Reed), Herb Sheldon, Ransom Sherman and Bob Sherry. The show was written by Jack Kirkwood and Ransom Sherman. The director was Joseph Mansfield. Music was supplied by the Jerry Jerome and the Irving Miller orchestras (NBC, 1943). A typical example of the Kirkwood humor about elections and politicians who wanted to be elected follows:

JACK: We now bring you the voice of the man in the street.

DRUNK: I ain't getting up to vote for nobody.

JACK: Is there a cocker spaniel out here who wants a kiss?

DRUNK: Would you kiss a cocker spaniel to get a vote?

JACK: Why not? They go to the polls, too.

See also The Jack Kirkwood Show.

17556 Mirth and Melody. The show opened with the announcement: "Mirth and Melody from New Orleans brings you the Merry Minstrels." Each week the program supposedly originated from a different city and the opening changed accordingly. The radio minstrel show was one of the last of its kind. The featured endmen were William "Algernon" Jefferson and Mr. Ernie "Iodine" Whitman. Ken Christy was the interlocutor and Mr. Nichodemus Brown a cast regular. Tenor Harry Babbitt and the Dark Town Quartet were accompanied by the Buzz Adlam band. Owen James was the announcer (30 min., weekly, late 1940s).

17557 Mirthful Melodies. Simpy Fitts conducted the half-hour program that mixed fun with music (KFRC, San Francisco, CA, 1928). See also Simpy Fitts.

17558 Miserando, Illumento. Violinist (WJZ, New York, NY, 1923).

17559 Miss Broadway. Miss Broadway was Leona Hollister, who broadcast theatrical news and gossip (15 min., Weekly, WBRB, Red Bank, NJ, 1939).

17560 Miss Jane. Not otherwise identified. Miss Jane was a favorite announcer of St. Louis listeners (KSD, St. Louis, MO, 1924). See also Miss Jones.

17561 Miss Jones. Miss Jones was one of the first female announcers on radio in the early 1920s (KSD, St. Louis, MO). She might have been the Miss Jane previously listed.

17562 Miss Maiden Dallas. Weekly talks on what "Milady of the Southwest" should wear were delivered by Miss Dallas. Her program was sponsored by the Manufacturer's Division of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce (WFAA, Dallas, TX, 1927).

17563 Miss Moonbeam. Maurice Barrett wrote the charming little story of Miss Moonbeam, a little bit of the moon who occasionally dropped in on Harvey Graham to help him solve his problems. None of the cast members of the sustaining show were identified (15 min., Sunday, 11:15-11:30 P.M., WHN, New York, NY, 1936).

17564 Miss Nancy. The otherwise unidentified performer broadcast "book chats" (KFI, Los Angeles, CA, 1925).

17565 Miss Patricola. Miss Isabella Patricola was a talented singer who specialized in blues and jazz (WMCA, New York, NY, 1929).

17567 Miss Yvette. Concert pianist (KTHS, Hot Springs, AK, 1928).

17568 Mission Bell Orchestra. Pryor Moore directed the local band (KFI, Los Angeles, CA, 1927).

17570 Missouri Hill Billies. Country music group (WOS, Jefferson City, MO, 1926).

17571 Missouri Ramblers. Dance orchestra (WHB, Kansas City, MO, 1928).

17572 Missouri State Prison Concert Band. Virgil W. Combs conducted the famous early radio band that was comprised entirely of prison inmates (WOS, Jefferson City, MO, 1923).

17573 Missouri State Prison Dance Orchestra. Prison orchestra directed by Hugh C. French (WOS, Jefferson City, MO, 1924).

17574 Mr. Ace and Jane. The situation comedy was not as entertaining as their earlier Easy Aces program, but it still demonstrated the acerbic humor of Goodman Ace and the considerable comic skill of his wife, Jane. The program was sponsored by Army Air Force Recruiting (30 min., Saturday, 7:00-7:30 P.M., CBS, 1948). See also Easy Aces.

17575 Mr. Alladin. Paul Frees played the title role of a private investigator with the ability to perform miracles on the unusual show. Variety criticized the show for containing too many utterly fantastic elements. Music was supplied by Marlin Skiles' Orchestra (30 min., Saturday, 9:30-10:00 P.M., CBS, 1951).

17577 Mr. and Mrs. Old fashioned songs and comic dialogue were the chief ingredients in the weekly program (30 min., Friday, 10:00-10:30 P.M., NBC-Pacific Coast Network, 1929). Each program was hosted by "Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Updike," who were visited by Mr. Whossis and others. The cast included: Ben McLaughlin, Bobbe Deane and Charles Marshall.

17578 Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fisk Carlton and William Ford Manley wrote this early series on which Joe and Vi—the main characters—talked like an ordinary married couple. The series always was amusing and never unrealistic. The cast included: Mary Groom, Gail Taylor, George F. Field, Eddie Albright and Irving Kennedy.

17579 Mr. and Mrs. Blandings. When Mr. and Mrs. Blandings moved to the country, they encountered a series of problems transplanted urban couples often faced. The situation comedy told their story. Cary Grant played Mr. Blandings, the same role he had played in the movie, Mr. Blandings Builds His Dream House, upon which the program was based. His wife, Muriel, was played by Grant's real life wife, Betsy Drake. The capable actors assisting them were Gale Gordon and Sheldon Leonard (30 min., Sunday, 5:30-6:00 P.M., NBC, 1951).

17580 Mr. and Mrs. Go to the Theater. Drama critics Ethel and Julius Colby reviewed the latest Broadway plays and motion pictures on their irregularly scheduled program. The critics broadcast their reviews each evening after they had attended a first night performance of either a play or motion picture (WMCA, New York, NY, 1942).

17581 Mr. and Mrs. Music. Bea Wain, a former big band singer with the Larry Clinton orchestra and her husband, veteran announcer Andre Baruch, joined the already large number of DJs and soon attracted a large local listening audience (204 min., Monday through Friday, 12:03-2:00 P.M. and 4:03-5:30 P.M., WMCA, New York, NY, 1948). When Andre Baruch and Bea Wain left the show, their place was taken by Ted and Doris Steele, another husband-and-wife team. Variety noted that with the change there still was a "lot of homey talk" but the emphasis by far was put on the recorded music (150 min., Monday through Friday, 9:15-11:45 A.M., WMCA, New York, NY, 1949).

17582 Mr. and Mrs. North. The dramatized mystery show was based on fictional characters created by Frances and Richard Lockridge. Humor invariably was part of the well-wired show. In its various formats the show appeared, on and off from 1941 to 1955, on both CBS and NBC. The cast over the years included: Staats Cotsworth, Joseph Curtin, Francis DeSales, Alice Frost, Walter Kinsella, Mandel Kramer, Frank Lovejoy and Betty Jane Tyler. Charles Paul conducted the orchestra. Joseph King was the announcer.

17583 Mr. Andre—Mr. Radio. Veteran radio announcer Pierre Andre was a DJ on the sustaining show. He played all types of music ranging from John Philip Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever" to Jelly Roll Morton playing his own "Tiger Roll" (25 min., Thursday, 7:30-7:55 P.M., WGN, Chicago, IL, 1951).

17584 Mr. Boston. James M. Curley, the former Governor of Massachusetts and four times the Mayor of Boston, talked about politics and philosophy. He even read poetry on his local sustaining program (30 min., Monday through Friday, 5:30-6:00 P.M., WBMS, Boston, MA, 1952). This is additional evidence that politicians on radio are not a modern idea.

17585 Mr. Broadway. Ira Marion wrote and Martin Andrews directed the sustaining program with a clever concept. The program was a dramatic anthology series based on the concept that a Broadway columnist, played by Anthony Ross, told stories to a nightclub singer played by Irene Manning about "the most lovable, most hateful street." The stories, somewhat reminiscent of the Damon Runyon yarns, were then dramatized. Nightclub singer Manning sang three or four times on each program to the music of Glen Osser's band (30 min., Thursday, 8:00–8:30 P.M., ABC, 1952).

17586 Mr. District Attorney. Bristol-Myers sponsored the long-running (1939–1954) crime drama with a memorable opening. The program began with the stern voice of the announcer proclaiming: "Mr. District Attorney ... Champion of the People ... Defender of Truth ... Guardian of our fundamental rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." After a musical interlude the authoritative voice of Mr. District Attorney stated: "And it shall be my duty as District Attorney not only to prosecute to the limit of the law all persons accused of crimes perpetrated within this country but to defend with equal vigor the rights and privileges of all its citizens." This statement of purpose and its reiteration of American principles were particularly appropriate for 1939, a late Depression-era year in which the ominously troubled European scene had begun to disturb many thoughtful Americans.

17587 Mr. Feathers. Parker Fennelly played the title role of a middle-aged drugstore soda jerk unhappy with his lot in life. In addition to Fennelly, Don Briggs, Mert Coplin, Bob Dryden, Ralph Locke and Elinor Phelps were in the cast of the sustaining program. Music was provided by the Ben Ludlow Orchestra. The announcer was Bob Emerick (30 min., Wednesday, 10:00–10:30 P.M., MBS, 1950).

17588 Mr. Fixit. An unidentified performer broadcast fixer-upper tips (KFRG, San Francisco, CA, 1929).

17589 Mr. Fixit. This home repair show was novel in that it dramatized the problems of a "typical domestic couple" who needed help. The couple, played by Loretta Ellis and Art Van Horn, sought the advice of Mr. Fixit, who was played by Jim Boles. The typical couple wanted to learn "how to fix up their home themselves." Greystone Press sponsored the show. There were many suggestions on the program that listeners should purchase a book on home repairs written by Hubbard Cobb published by Greystone Press (MBS, 1949).

17590 Mr. Good. Mr. Good was a daytime serial drama sponsored by Lydia Pinkham Tablets (15 min., Network).

17591 Mr. Hobby Lobby. Dave Elman, who was associated with the Hobby Lobby program, also joined the large number of radio personalities turned DJ (60 min., Monday through Friday, 4:00–5:00 P.M., WFDR, Manchester, GA, 1950).

17592 Mr. Hollywood. Julius Colby broadcast movie gossip on his weekly show sponsored by RKO Theaters (15 min., Tuesday, 6:25–6:30 P.M., WMCA, New York, NY, 1941).

17593 Mr. I.A. Moto (aka Mr. Moto). Peter Lorre played the title role of the fictional Japanese detective created by John P. Marquand. Mr. Moto was "a man of mystery, culture and sensitivity—a man who, while hating violence, ruthlessly fights communism at home and abroad with his courage, his brain and his fabulous knowledge of international persons, places and things." Later, the opening was altered as follows: "Once again, NBC brings you Pulitzer Prize winner John P. Marquand's fabulous and mysterious Mr. Moto—international agent extraordinary—the inscrutable, crafty and courageous little oriental, whose exploits have endured him to millions of Americans in another adventure in the world of international intrigue." James Monks later played the role of Mr. Moto. John Larkin, Gavin Gordon and Scott Tension were also in the cast (30 min., Weekly, NBC, 1951).

17595 Mr. Jubes and His Sunshine Serenaders Orchestra. A popular nine-piece local band (WBRL, Manchester, NH, 1928).

17596 Mr. Keen, Tracer of Lost Persons. Frank and Ann Hummert produced the show that began in 1937 on the NBC-Blue network in a quarter-hour format. In that format, kindly old Mr. Keen actually did seek "lost" persons. When the format changed in 1943, the program became a weekly half-hour mystery drama, in which Mr. Keen attempted to solve murders along with his assistant, Mike Clancy. The cast included: Phil Clarke, Arthur Hughes, Jim Kelly, Bennett Kilpack and Florence Malone. The program was directed by Richard Leonard. Barbara Bates, Stedman Coles, David Davidson, Charles J. Gussman, Lawrence Klee and Robert J. Shaw were the writers. Al Rickey was the musical director.

17597 Mr. Maubattan. Newspaper columnist and author Charles Hanson Towne was an entertaining raconteur on this sustaining local program, on which he talked about Manhattan of yesterday, today and tomorrow (15 min., Wednesday, 9:00–9:15 p.m., WNEW, New York, NY, 1934).

17599 Mr. Morning. DJ, not otherwise identified (WCOL, Columbus, OH, 1949).

17600 Mr. Pep's Pep Meeting for Sales People. A motivational program presented by unidentified personnel (KYA, San Francisco, CA, 1927).

17601 Mr. President. Crucial events in the life of different American Presidents were dramatized each week on the sustaining dramatic program. Edward Arnold always played the Mr. President role. The program was written by Jean Holloway and Ira Marion and produced by Dick Woollen. Although Arnold's supporting cast members varied each week, William Conrad and Betty Lou Gerson made frequent appearances (30 min., Weekly, ABC, 1947–1951).

17602 Mr. Radiobug. Mr. Radiobug was an otherwise unidentified performer who told children's stories on his Skypictures for Children program (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1922).

17603 Mr. Zipp [Zip]. Xylophone soloist with personality (WGN, Chicago, IL, 1928).

17618 Mitchell, Ed B. Cornerist (WIP, Philadelphia, PA, 1925).

17619 Mitchell, Everett G. Ex-bank clerk and insurance adjuster turned concert singer, Mitchell was hired to sing on KYW (Chicago, IL, 1926). He became chief announcer and farm director at station WENR (Chicago, IL, 1926) later that year, a move that eventually led to his fame. He also appeared on station WIBO (Chicago, IL, 1926).

When the National Farm and Home Hour began its long broadcast run on NBC and became known as "the nation's agricultural bulletin board," Mitchell was the program's host. His famous opening for the program was: "It's a beautiful day in Chicago. It's a great day to be alive, and I hope it is even more beautiful wherever you are." If the weather was damp and rain falling, Mitchell add, "Oh, yes! It may be raining out doors and a little damp, but it is a great day to be alive." The opening brought him national recognition. Mitchell also worked as a newscaster (WMAQ, Chicago, IL; WENR, Chicago, IL, 1940 and WMAQ, 1944). See also The National Farm and Home Hour.

17620 Mitchell, Gordon. Newscaster (WSLS, Roanoke, VA, 1945).

17704 Monitor. Faced with a crisis in lower Hooper ratings and the subsequent negative effects on advertising revenues, radio network executives sought alternative programming formats to reverse the adverse effects of the declines and the impact of television. One innovative programming genius, who also possessed the requisite skills of a persuasive salesman and a dynamic showman, was Sylvester “Pat” Weaver, president of the NBC network. It was Weaver's creative genius that was responsible for the revolutionary radio concept of the Monitor programming format.

Monitor, it should be recognized, was not a single program, but a broadcasting format, a continuous service that began Saturday morning at 8:00 A.M. and ended Sunday night at midnight, a 40-hour broadcasting service, that was a complete departure from previous patterns of programming. As Weaver explained it on a line presentation to affiliate stations on April 1, 1955, Monitor was designed to reverse radio's loss in listening audience and in advertising revenues.

As Weaver described it, Monitor would utilize radio's ability to go anywhere on short notice to cover news events and present special events without previous scheduling restrictions. Monitor had no strict time segments. One segment might have a 10-second one-liner by a comedian, a five-minute news interview; a live big band remote broadcast, coverage of a sporting event; a few minutes from a Broadway play or a current motion picture; or a few minutes of music from the Lido Night Club in Paris. Weaver's vision was an ambitious one that was skillfully executed by Monitor's executive producer, Jim Fleming.

It seemed that almost all the famous NBC newsmen and sportscasters appeared on the service, as did such great comedians as Fred Allen, Milton Berle, Henny Youngman, Jimmy Durante, Bob Hope, Fibber McGee and Molly and Bob and Ray. Vignette was one of Weaver's favorite words that he used to characterize Monitor's programming. If a listener didn't like a particular segment (vignette), he or she knew that what was coming later might be more interesting. Weaver said that Monitor would look at the whole world, and that its only criterion was: Will it interest the listener?

Monitor began June 12, 1955, as a 40-hour weekend programming format that offered a little something for everyone, with genial Dave Garroway as one of its most engaging hosts. In November 1955, the format was expanded to five hours Monday through Friday with a Weekday format title. Other networks such as MBS, ABC and CBS also experimented with the Monitor programming format, but none were as imaginative, informative or as entertaining as their model. After a little more than a decade NBC dropped the Monitor format (1955–1967).

17705 Monitor Views the News. Various newscasters delivered news from the editorial room of the Christian Science Monitor (15 min., Saturday, 8:00–8:15 P.M., WBZ, Springfield-Boston, MA, 1934).

17706 Monk, Alfred. Leader (Alfred Monk Orchestra, WHAM, Rochester, NY, 1926).

17721 Monroe Jockers' Orchestra. Popular Los Angeles band (KNX, Los Angeles, CA, 1928).

17723 Monroe, Larry. DJ (WNOE, New Orleans, LA, 1956).

17724 Monroe, Lucy. Soprano (Lucy Monroe, vcl. mus. prg., NBC, 1935).

17725 Monroe, R.A. Sportscaster (Fish and Tiller, WJNO, West Palm Beach, FL, 1956).

17726 Monroe, Vaughn. Leader (Vaughn Monroe Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., NBC, 1934; WCCO, Minneapolis-St. Paul, MN; KFH, Wichita, KS, 1942; CBS, 1942). A popular recording artist, Monroe's strong nasal baritone voice brought him great popularity. Among his many hit records were the best-selling "Ghost Riders in the Sky" and "Racing with the Moon."

17727 Monroe, Willa. COM-HE (The Tan Homemakers Show, WDIA, Memphis, TN, 1949-1957). Monroe was hired by WDIA as the station's first female announcer in 1949, and she immediately began her daily weekday homemakers' show. Her 9:00-9:45 A.M. show often enjoyed a higher Hooper rating than did Arthur Godfrey's popular network show broadcast in the same time period. Beginning with her theme, "Sweet and Lovely," her show included quiet music, recipes and news of interest to women. She allowed her listeners to come to her office personally to receive information on nutrition, budgeting and child care on her own time without charge.

17728 Monroe, Wilson. Newscaster (KTKC, Visalia, CA, 1944).

17742 Montgomery Ward's Trail Blazers. Montgomery Ward, the mail order company, sponsored the program of popular music. The Montgomery Ward and Company Orchestra and many popular CW performers were featured (WBAP, San Antonio, TX, 1926).

17743 Monticello Party Line. On the unique daytime serial, listeners supposedly listened in on a telephone party line in the Midwestern community of Monticello. The program told the story of small town life, where there were no villains or heart-broken wives. Peggy Wall played the leading role of Lorrie Ellis, a telephone operator on the Monticello party line.

Each program began with the buzz of the switchboard in Lorrie Ellis' telephone office. Lorrie, incidentally, was the center of most of the program's love interest. Other characters on the show were the town gossips, Sara and Aggie, and Clem, Aggie's public spirited husband (15 min., Monday through Friday, 9:00-9:15 A.M. CST, WLS, Chicago, IL, 1935; 15 min., Monday through Friday, 10:00-10:15 A.M., WLS, 1936).

17744 Montmartre Cafe Dance Orchestra. Vince (Vincent) Rose directed the club band (KFWB, Hollywood, CA, 1925-1928).

17745 Montreal Symphony Orchestra. Performing primarily in Montreal, Canada, the excellent symphonic group was heard on various American stations in 1930 (WMAL, Washington, D.C., 1930).

17755 Moon River. Moon River was a popular syndicated program of soothing music and poetry that originated from WLW (Cincinnati, OH). Created by Edward Byron, the show was narrated by many different broadcasters, including Don Dowd, Peter Grant, Harry Holcomb, Jay Jostyn, Palmer Ward and Charles Woods, who read the poetic selections (15 min., Syndicated, 1935).

17756 Mooney, Art. Leader (Art Mooney Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., MBS, 1935).

17851 Morey Amsterdam. Comedian-cel­list Amsterdam had his own radio program in 1930 (KNX, Hollywood, CA, 1930). Amsterdam used his cello playing as part of his comic routine, often interrupting his playing with rapid fire quips. Although he started out early in radio, Amsterdam gained his greatest prominence in television. The Morey Amsterdam Show was broadcast from 1948 to 1950 on the CBS and Dumont television networks. The show featured Vic Damone and Jacqueline Susann and was directed by Irving Mansfield. Next, Amsterdam shared hosting America at Night on Tues­day and Thursday nights, while Jerry Lester hosted on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. America at Night, network television's first late night program, was transformed by Sylvester "Pat" Weaver into The Tonight Show.

Perhaps it was Amsterdam's role as Buddy Sorrell, a fast-talking comedy writer, on the Dick Van Dyke television show that brought him his greatest recognition and fame and continues to do so with the show's reruns on the Nick at Night cable network. Amsterdam was also a regular television panel member or host on three radio programs that eventually enjoyed a brief TV run: Can You Top This?, Who Said That? and Stop Me If You've Heard This. See also The Morey Amsterdam Show, Stop Me if You've Heard This One and The Morey Amsterdam Matinee.

17852 Morey Amsterdam Matinee. Amster­dam was a DJ on this show, although he called himself a "Josh Jockey." Phil Goulding was the announcer (30 min., Monday through Friday, 3:00-3:00 P.M., WHN, New York, NY, 1947).

17853 Morey Amsterdam Show. Amster­dam hosted his local variety show that featured Liza Morrow and Vic Damone singing with Joel Herron's Orchestra. Phil Goulding was the an­nouncer (55 min., Monday through Saturday, 1:05-2:00 P.M., WHN, New York, NY, 1946).

Two years later veteran comedian Amsterdam hosted another network variety show with the same name. Featured on the show with him were Charles Irving, Betty Garde, Jackson Beck, Mil­lard Mitchell, Art Carney and Ginney Powell. Music was by Henry Sylvern's Orchestra (30 min., Saturday, 9:00-9:30 P.M., CBS, 1948).

The choir first appeared on radio on a NBC affiliate (KSL, Salt Lake City, UT, 1929). The program moved to CBS in 1932. The directors of the choir through the years were Anthony C. Lund and J. Spencer Cornwall. Richard L. Evans was the program's producer, director and announcer. The famous organists who appeared on the program were Alexander Schreiner and Frank Asper. A regular feature of the program was the inspirational "The Spoken Word" segment delivered by either J. Spencer Cornwall or Richard L. Evans. Early listings of programs give various days and times: The Mormon Tabernacle Choir and Organ. Organist and a choir of 300 voices directed by George B. Durham (30 min., Monday, 6:00–6:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1930). The Mormon Tabernacle Choir and Organ program featured the Choir with organ. The director was Anthony C. Lund (15 min., 2:45–3:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1932).

17894 Morning at McNeill's. A variety program hosted by Don McNeill (Thursdays, 9:15–9:45 A.M., NBC, 1936). Vocalist Gale Page and the band of Roy Shields were featured. McNeill conducted the show in addition to his regular Breakfast Club program.

17895 Morning Devotions. The program of inspirational music was performed by soprano Katherine Palmer; contralto Joyce Allmand; tenor John Jamison and baritone John Wainman. Organist Lowell Pator directed the program (30 min., Saturday, 7:00–7:30 A.M., NBC, 1935).

17896 Morning Devotions. Jack Holden conducted the early morning program of inspirational readings and music. Tenor William O'Connor and organist Howard Petersen were program regulars with Tom Hargis sometimes also singing on the program (15 min., Monday through Friday, 7:30–7:45 P.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1937).

17897 Morning Glory Dance Orchestra. Local California band (KMIC, Inglewood, CA, 1928).

17898 Morning Homemakers Program. Information for women and pleasant music were the ingredients of the program whose cast included pianist John Brown, the Hometowners Quartet and a studio orchestra. The information for women segment was provided by Julia Hayes, Helen Joyce and Martha Crane (30 min., Monday through Friday, 10:30–11:00 A.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1937).

17899 Morning Matinee. R.H. Macy Company sponsored the early morning music and talk show that featured the Ben Bernie Orchestra and Nellie Revell interviewing such guests as Edna Woolman and Gladys Swarthout (45 min., Thursday, 9:00–9:45 P.M., MBS, 1936).

17900 Morning Minstrels. A daily radio minstrel show, that always presented station WLS regulars doing their thing. An early cast featured announcer Jack Holden, the Home Towners Quartet, comedians Chuck and Ray and endman Possum Tuttle (Vance McCune). The program was sponsored by the Olson Rug Company (15 min., Monday through Friday, 8:00–8:15 A.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1935). Later that year the program included Merton Minnich, Walter Tuite, Lew Storey, Clyde Moffett, Osgood Wesley, Eddie Dean, Tiny Stowe and Cousin Toby (15 min., Monday through Friday, 8:45–9:00 A.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1935).

Still later — Joe Kelly, as "Swampy Sam" and Henry Hornsbuckle playing "Morpheus Mayfair" replaced comedians Chuck and Ray. One of "Morpheus" often repeated line was, "I ain't lazy — I've tired." Other cast members on the later program included: Ted Gilmore, Bill Thall, Chuck Haynes, Ray Ferris, Paul Nettings, Jack Eliot, Phil Kalar, Rocky Racherbaumer, Possum Tuttle, Ken Wright, Otto Morse and Zeb Hartley. Jack Holden remained the announcer. The program characteristically ended with Al Boyd producing the sound effect of train sounds (15 min., 8:45–9:00 A.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1936). The program continued into 1937, still sponsored by the Olson Rug Company, with essentially the same cast. However, a little German band, Otto and the Novelodeons, was an important addition.

18082 Mullen, Frank E. Sioux City, Iowa, newspaper farm editor Mullen broadcast "chats with farmers," (KDKA, Pittsburgh, PA, 1921-1927). As a young farm editor of the National Stockman and Farmer journal, he was picked to develop KDKA's farm programming. Mullen is credited as beginning the first daily program for farmers on radio. His program is often thought to have been the forerunner of the popular National Farm and Home Hour. Mullen met with NBC president Merlin H. Aylesworth and David Sarnoff, head of the Radio Corporation of America. Mullen successfully persuaded them to broadcast a national network program for farmers. This led to the first broadcast of The National Farm and Home Hour on October 2, 1928, sponsored by Montgomery Ward Company. The program was carried by the entire NBC network of 13 stations. By mid-1929, the program was moved from Pittsburgh to Chicago, and it was there in 1930 that Everett Mitchell became associated with it. Mullen and Mitchell worked together to make it the outstanding agricultural program it became. See also The National Farm and Home Hour.

- 18130 Murder by Experts. Mystery writer Dickson Carr was the first host and narrator on the sustaining mystery program. Each week a guest expert told his favorite mystery story and it would be dramatized. Cast members included Cameron Andrews, Frank Behrens, Ian Martin, Byrna Raeburn, Lawson Zerbe, Ann Shepherd (Scheindel Kalish), Ralph Camargo and Bill Zuckert. Robert A. Arthur and David Kogan were the show's producer and director. Music was supplied by Emerson Buckley. After Carr left the show, the other host-narrators who followed him were Brett Halliday and Alfred Hitchcock (30 min., Monday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., MBS, 1949).
- 18131 Murder Will Out. William Gargan and Eddie Marr starred as Chief of Homicide Inspector Burke and his assistant, Detective Nolan, on the unusual combination mystery and quiz program. After the mystery was dramatized, four contestants from the studio audience were asked to identify the murderer. If they answered correctly, they were awarded a Gold Detective Certificate certifying that they were expert amateur detectives. The program was sponsored by the Ranier Brewing Company of San Francisco and Los Angeles. Larry Keating was the program's announcer. (30 min., ABC, 1946).
- 18132 Murdock, Alice. Soprano (KTAB, Oakland, CA, 1928).

- 18182 Murray, Thomas “Tom.” Newscaster (WHAM, Rochester, NY, 1938–1941, 1946).
- 18183 Murrie, David H. Newscaster (WTBO, Cumberland, MD, 1938–1941).
- 18184 Murrow, Edward (Egbert) R. “Ed.” Distinguished news commentator on CBS, 1941–1948, Murrow first gained fame with his World War II Sunday afternoon (1:30–1:45 p.m.) broadcasts from London and his famous exaggerated pause trademark opening, “This — is London.”
- Murrow changed his name to Edward and joined CBS as director of talks and education in 1935. In 1937, he was appointed the network’s European News Director. Upon arriving in London, Murrow played down intellectual content in programming, choosing, instead, to emphasize what the “people want” (Fang, 1977, p. 307). At this stage of his broadcast career, drama and human interest were already his goals. He saw the need and value of radio correspondents reporting daily from the major European capitals.
- After a distinguished broadcasting career at CBS and losing a corporate power struggle there, Murrow left to become director of the USIA (United States Information Agency) during the Kennedy administration. Among his last radio productions was Hear It Now, jointly produced with Fred W. Friendly. This program sought to bring the actual sounds of news events to radio. Unfortunately, what the program usually brought to the microphone was only a series of “talking head” experts and politicians. See also Hear It Now.
- Murrow left lasting impressions on broadcast news programming — both positive and negative — that still are found today in radio and television. It has been said that he defined radio-TV broadcast journalism with the intelligence, drama, human interest, ideology and the chill of corporate culture he brought into broadcast news departments. Ironically, some of the fine broadcast newsmen that Murrow (“Murrow’s boys”) brought to CBS to make CBS radio news the excellent department it was, eventually left or retired from the network with bitterness, frustration and disappointment about what the broadcasting news business had become (Cloud and Olson, 1997, pp. 390–393).
- 18185 Murton, Harriet. Soprano (WTAB, Oakland, CA, 1925).
- 18186 Musche, Marguerite. Soprano (KFWB, Hollywood, CA, 1927).
- 18187 Music All America Loves to Hear. Singer Marion Talley and a concert orchestra were featured on the good music program that presented opera arias and light opera selections, along with favorites from the concert repertoire (15 min., Friday, 9:30–9:45 P.M. CST, NBC-Red, 1936).
- 18188 Music and American Youth. The unique weekly broadcast presented the performances of American public school children’s orchestras, bands and choruses (30 min., Sunday, 9:30–10:00 A.M., NBC-Red, 1936).

18189 Music and Moondog. Louis "Moondog" Hardin was a blind, robed New York City street musician, who usually wore a Viking helmet. He was joined on his program by Jim Coyans. Moondog beat out rhythms on his various percussion instruments, discussed his philosophy and read his prose. Earl Cobb and Bud Brandt wrote the strange, but interesting, local program (15 min., Sunday, 10:15–10:30 P.M. WNEW, New York, NY, 1951).

18190 (The) Music and Musings of Dr. Mu. Sage comments by a "mysterious Chinese philosopher," not identified, and soothing music were the main ingredients of the popular network program (CBS, 1928). The "Chinese philosopher" was one of early radio's pioneers. Dr. Mu's tone was not always philosophical, as an early example from 1922 in poetic form illustrates (Radio News, June, 1922, p. 1059):

The right path is near says Mencius
Yet men seek it afar off,
— the Glebe CR-5

The wise radioist need seek no further.

18191 (The) Music Appreciation Hour. Professor Hywel C. Rowland, Head of the Music Department of the University of North Dakota, played recordings of the classics and supplied his commentary on the educational program originating from the university's radio station (KFJM, Grand Forks ND).

18192 Music by Al Goodman. Maestro Goodman conducted a 17-piece orchestra on his weekly music show (15 min., Sunday, 4:50–5:00 P.M. CST, NBC-Red, 1935).

18194 Music by Rosemary. DJ Rosemary Stanger wrote and conducted her show that featured recorded music and intelligent commentary (15 min., Monday through Friday, 6:45–7:00 P.M., CWT, WLS, Chicago, IL, 1942).

18195 Music Everyone Loves. Honey Krust Bakery sponsored the program, first broadcast in 1943. The program featured hymns sung by a trio consisting of Clarence Locke, John Frederick and Don Cavins accompanied by Marion Locke on the pipe organ. Frank Berger was the announcer (30 min., Saturday, 5:00–5:30 P.M. WAVE, Louisville, KY, 1947).

18196 Music for a Half Hour. Frank J. McCarthy produced and narrated the sustaining program that featured music from light operas and musical comedies. The regular cast included pianist Al Fanelli and the Emerson Buckley Orchestra. Different guest stars such as operatic tenor Mario Berini appeared weekly (30 min., Sunday 3:00–3:30 P.M., WOR, Newark, NJ, 1949).

18197 Music from the Heart of America. Falstaff Brewing Company sponsored the entertaining music show originating from Chicago. Singers Jack Haskell and Anne Hershey performed to the music of Joseph Galliechio's Orchestra. John Holtman was the announcer (30 min., Weekly, 8:30–9:00 P.M., NBC, 1948).

18198 Music Guild Program. The good music program featured various musicians such as composer-pianist, Earl Lawrence (NBC, 1935).

18199 Music Magic. Joan Blaine was the program's narrator. She also performed readings of various prose selections. Music was performed by tenor Charles Sears, Joan and the Escorts vocal group and the Harry Kogen Orchestra (30 min., Thursday, 9:30–10:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1936). An earlier version, broadcast on Saturday afternoon, had featured soprano Ruth Lyon and tenor Cyril Pitts and an unidentified orchestra (30 min., Saturday, 2:30–3:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1935).

18200 (The) Music Man. Karl Borawitz played the organ and piano on the music show sponsored by the F.A. North Piano Company. Bill Lang was the program announcer (15 min., Tuesday, 1:30–1:45 P.M., KYW, Pittsburgh, PA, 1938).

18201 Music Masters. Popular twenty-five piece concert orchestra (WBAP, Dallas, TX, 1928–1930).

18202 Music on Radio. From radio's earliest days when its "cat's whisker" crystal receivers, relatively speaking, provided only fair-to-poor quality sound, music has been one of radio's most popular elements. Literally, thousands of amateurs, semi-professionals and professional singers and musicians appeared before its microphones and filled the air with music of great variety and quality. All kinds of music filled the broadcast schedules of early stations and despite crystal set reception and varying performance quality, the audience loved what they heard.

Early popular singers such as the Silver Masked Tenor and Jessica Dragonette led the way for the talented singers who soon followed such as Rudy Vallee, Bing Crosby, Russ Columbo, the Street Singer and Kate Smith. The Coon-Sanders Nighthawk Orchestra from Kansas City; the Cliquot Club Eskimos Orchestra merrily playing from New York; and the country music performers on the Grand Ole Opry and the National Barn Dance entertained millions each week.

The Atwater Kent Hour, Metropolitan Opera weekly broadcasts and the KYW broadcasts of the Chicago Civic Opera Company were some examples of the distinguished programming early radio brought into the home [see also Atwater Kent Hour and Opera]. Semi-classical favorites, operettas and musical theater selections were broadcast by the Chicago Theater of the Air, the Voice of Firestone and the Railroad Hour. Lighter fare was available to listeners on The American Album of Familiar Music, the Coronation Hour and the Manhattan Merry-Go-

Round programs [see also Chicago Theater of the Air, Voice of Firestone, Railroad Hour, American Album of Familiar Music, Coronation Hour and Manhattan Merry-Go-Round]. Popular big band music was supplied by the Victory Parade of Spotlight Bands and the One Night Stand programs, on which virtually all the nation's most popular bands were presented [see also The Victory Parade of Spotlight Bands and Radio in Wartime]. Country-western music programs were also plentiful [see also Grand Ole Opry, National Barn Dance and Country-Western (CW) Music on Radio], as was good classical music appreciation programming by Dr. Walter Damrosch and Arturo Toscanini [see also Walter Damrosch and The NBC Symphony]. Appreciation of jazz and the blues was presented tongue-in-cheek by the Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street program. Rhythm, blues and gospel performers were also plentiful [see also The Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street and Black Radio]. All this music and more came into American homes day and night. Listeners enjoyed it and asked for more.

In radio's early years, most music was performed "live." As years went by, however, DJs and recorded music virtually replaced all "live" musicians and singers. See also Transcriptions.

18203 Music Over Your Radio. Atwater Kent sponsored the series of programs that demonstrated how different sections of a "symphony orchestra combine to form a composite tonal entity" (NBC-Red, 1929).

18206 Music That Satisfies. Singer Ruth Etting hosted the early variety show, sponsored by Chesterfield cigarettes, featuring baritone Alex Gray, United Press sportswriter Henry L. McEmore and Nat Shilkret's 35-piece orchestra. Leona Hagarth was the announcer (30 min., Monday through Saturday, 10:30–10:45 P.M., CBS, 1932). An earlier version of Music that Satisfies had presented the Boswell Sisters singing group, "The Street Singer" Arthur Tracy and Norman Brokenshire as the program's announcer. Shilkret's orchestra was a regular feature (NBC, 1932).

In 1944, the program reappeared on CBS once more with a music format. This time the Paul Barron Orchestra was featured with vocalists Monica Lewis and Harry Prime. In 1945, Music that Satisfies starred singer Johnny Johnston, a tall, handsome baritone, who in the early 1930s had played the guitar and sang with the Art Kassel band. Chesterfield was still the show's sponsor (15 min., Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, 7:15–7:30 P.M., CBS, 1945).

18207 Music Till Past Midnight. Al Buetner was the DJ on the popular show (120 min., Monday through Saturday, 10:30–12:30 A.M., 1947).

18208 Music While You Dial. Trumpet virtuoso Dave Glickstein and other talented musicians were featured on the music show (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1925).

18209 Music You Love. The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra conducted by Antonio Modarelli and various guest artists appeared weekly on the good music program sponsored by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company (45 min., Sunday, 2:00–2:45 P.M., CBS, 1936).

18210 Musical Almanac. "The old almanac explorer," not otherwise identified, supplied information on various topics on the entertaining show. Music and singing was provided by Pat Petterson, Art Janes, Al Rice, Fritz Meissner, Sally Foster, Joe Fredkin, Jack Daly and Lou Klatt (15 min., Tuesday and Thursday, 12:45–1:00 P.M. CST, WLS, Chicago, IL, 1936).

18211 Musical Americana. Tenor Clyde Barrie and sopranos Ruby Elzy and Vivian Collier sang the songs on the special program devoted to the "music of and about the American Negro" (CBS, 1937).

18212 (The) Musical Chefs. The Musical Chefs were the singing team of Don Traveline and Max Freedman (WBAP, Fort Worth, TX, 1928; WCAU, Philadelphia, PA, 1929–1930).

18214 Musical Clock. Bill O'Toole, a great Baltimore favorite, conducted the early morning DJ show. He played records and read the news. He also had a popular segment called "Uncle Bill and Snowball," on which he played both the roles of a kindly old man and that of Snowball, a small Black boy. The brief comedy segment was always concluded with the playing of a recording of "Tin Pan Parade" sung by Vaughn de Leath. Brent Gunts recalls that de Leath's version was a particularly moving ("tear-jerker") rendition. The "Uncle Bill and Snowball" segment was a regular feature broadcast late in each program to get children to brush their teeth (WCAO, Baltimore, MD, 1930s).

18215 Musical Clock. The Marshall Fields department store sponsored the time, weather and music show conducted by Marie Auer (120 min., Monday through Saturday, 7:00–9:00 A.M., WBBM, Chicago, IL, 1936).

18216 Musical Clock. Don Kelley ran the musical clock show for Omaha, Nebraska, listeners (KOIL, Omaha, NE, 1937).

18217 (The) Musical Clock Girl. Angela Warde, known as "New York's Sweetest Voice on Radio," played records and provided the time and weather news (WINS, New York, NY, 1932).

18218 Musical Comedy Memories. The nostalgic program was written by announcer Bob Brown. It featured singer Belle Forbes Cutter in 1927 and tenor Chauncey Parsons in a later version (15 min., Sunday, WBBM-NBC, Chicago, IL, 1927).

18219 Musical Cruiser. Pat Barnes hosted a mythical radio cruise with the music of the Guy Lombardo Orchestra (30 min., Wednesday, 10:00–10:30 P.M., WEAf-Red, 1934).

18220 Musical Diary. Contralto Gale Page, tenor Clark Dennis and organist Jesse Crawford performed on the weekly music program (15 min., Sunday, 3:00–3:15 P.M. CST, NBC-Red, 1935).

18221 Musical Footnotes. Footsaver Shoes sponsored the half-hour music program with soprano Vivian Della Chiesa, tenor Franz Imhof and the Ralph Ginsburgh String Ensemble (15 min., Sunday, 11:30–11:45 A.M., CBS, 1935).

18222 Musical Foursome. A program of semi-classical music (15 min., Friday, 6:00–6:15 P.M., CBS, 1930).

18223 Musical Headliners. Frank Tours conducted the orchestra for the talented singers that regularly performed on the music show. The performers included tenor James Melton, soprano Helen Stiles, the Revelers Quartet and the Pickens Sisters (30 min., Sunday, 7:30–8:00 P.M., CBS, 1935).

18224 Musical Kilowatts. Baritone Russell McIntyre, who sounded something like Bing Crosby, pianist Jane Bartlett, organist Jack Phipps and guitarist Don White entertained on the program sponsored by the Duke Power Company. The announcer was Clair Shadwell (15 min., Monday, 11:45–12:00 noon, WBT, Charlotte, NC, 1938).

18225 Musical Klass. The American Tobacco Company sponsored Kay Kyser and his band on the program, a forerunner of Kyser's Kollege of Musical Knowledge, which was to come later (45 min., Tuesday, 8:00–8:45 P.M., MBS, 1938). See also Kay Kyser's Kollege of Musical Knowledge.

18226 Musical Melodrama. The musical variety program was broadcast weekly (30 min., Tuesday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., NBC-Red, 1929).

18227 Musical Memories. Musical Memories was a variety show that was a forerunner of Welcome Valley. See also Welcome Valley.

18228 Musical Mirth Makers. Boston listeners enjoyed the music and humor provided on the program by such performers as pianist George Benson, saxophonist Austin Rosmer and violinist-vocalist Bert Dolan (WBZ, Boston, MA, 1926).

18229 Musical Moments. Sponsored by Chevrolet, the music show was hosted by Hugh Conrad, who later became famous as Westbrook Van Voorhis. The transcribed program featured the music of David Rubinoff and vocalists Virginia Rea and Jan Peerce (15 min., Thursday, 9:00–9:15 P.M., WMCA, New York, NY, 1935–1936).

18230 Musical Mountaineers. CW mus. prg. (WFBR, Baltimore, MD, 1939).

18231 Musical Musketeers Orchestra. California band directed by Walter Beban (60 min., 11:00 P.M. to Midnight, Saturday, NBC-Pacific Network, 1929).

18232 Musical Newsy. The orchestras of Tommy Tucker and Seegar Ellis provided the music on the transcribed quarter-hour show (15 min., Transcribed on Various Stations, 1938).

18233 Musical Nighthawks. Jazz band directed by Harry Moll (KFBK, Sacramento, CA, 1927).

18234 Musical Reveries. Orson Welles contributed dramatic readings to the variety program that also featured tenor Stuart Churchill and the Ken Woods Orchestra (CBS, 1936).

18235 Musical Romance. Romantic elements on the program were supplied by tenor Don Mario Alvarez and the music of Harry Jackson's Orchestra. Jimmy Fiddler provided gossip about the movies and their stars (NBC-Red, 1934).

18236 Musical Round-Up Program. The pleasant CW music show featured such performers as the Kentucky Girls (Alma and Winona "Jo" Taylor) on WLS (Chicago, IL, 1937).

18237 Musical Steelmakers. Employees from the Wheeling Steel Corporation were the performers featured on the weekly program that originated on WWVA (Wheeling, WV), before it become a network feature. The hosts on the show were Lois Mae Nolte and John Winchell. Regular performers included the Singing Millmen, soprano Sara Rehm and the Old Timer (MBS, NBC, ABC, 1938–1944).

18238 Musical Steeplechase. Joseph Cherniavsky created the musical quiz on which each contestant was given the name of a different race horse (30 min., MBS, 1930s).

18239 Musical Toast. Vocalists Jerry Cooper and Sally Singer backed by an unidentified orchestra performed on the weekly music show (CBS, 1936).

18240 Musical Travelog Program. Pianist J. Van Cleft Cooper was featured on the program that contained musical selections and travel information. Deane H. Dickason was the announcer (KPO, San Francisco, CA, 1926).

18241 Musical Variety. The Paul White-man Orchestra, comic Judy Canova and tenor Frank Parker were featured on the variety show (30 min., Weekly, CBS, 1935).

18242 Musick, Helen. Dramatic soprano (WMOX, St. Louis, MO, 1926).

18243 Musing, Burt. Announcer (KDKA, Pittsburgh, PA, 1925).

18244 Muskens, H. Dutch tenor (KMOX, St. Louis, MO, 1926).

18245 Mustard, Fred. Newscaster (WKMO, Kokomo, IN, 1945).

18246 Mustarde, Herbert. Baritone (WJY, New York, NY, 1925).

18247 Muth, Homer. Trombonist (WHAS, Louisville, KY, 1923).

18249 Muzio, Claudio. Soprano (NBC, 1929).

18250 Muzzy, James "Jim." Sports caster (Today's Sports Today and Sports Whirl, WHBC, Canton, OH, 1946–1956).

18251 Muzzy, Ray. Leader (Ray Muzzy's Carter Lake Club Orchestra, WOAW, Omaha, NE, 1925).

18252 My Book House Story Time. The children's program was conducted by an unidentified performer (15 min., Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 5:45–6:00 P.M., CBS, 1930).

18253 My Diary. Patricia Ann Manners wrote the daytime dramatic serial (WBBM, Chicago, IL, 1938).

18254 My Favorite Husband. Lucille Ball starred in the funny situation comedy based on Isabel Scott Rorick's novel, Mr. and Mrs. Cugat. The show essentially was the basis for Miss Ball's classic television show, I Love Lucy, for it was here that she portrayed a zany housewife. The show's cast included: Lucille Ball, Lee Bowman, Richard Denning, Gale Gordon and Ruth Perrott. Jess Oppenheimer was the writer-director. Bob Carroll, Jr., and Madalyn Pugh assisted Oppenheimer with the writing.

18255 My Friend Irma. Motion picture star Marie Wilson was the "dumb, good-hearted blonde" on the sustaining situation comedy. Her friend, played by Cathy Lewis, was often driven to distraction by her antics. The writers of the funny show were Stanley Adams, Parke Levy and Roland MacLane. The director was Cy Howard. Sound effects were produced by James Murphy. The show's announcers included Frank Bingman, Johnny Jacobs and Wendell Niles. Music was supplied by Lud Gluskin's orchestra with vocals by the Sportsmen Quartet. The cast included: Joan Banks, John Brown, Hans Conreid, Leif Erickson, Gloria Gordon, Cathy Lewis, Myra Marsh, Alan Reed (Teddy Bergman) and Marie Wilson (30 min., Friday, 10:30–11:00 P.M., CBS, 1947).

18256 My Good Life. Sam Taylor and Russell Beggs wrote and Wynn Wright produced and directed the situation comedy that contained many old jokes about hen-pecked husbands and women drivers. The fine acting cast included John Conte, Arlene Francis and Joe Bell (30 min., Friday, 9:30–10:00 P.M., NBC, 1949).

18257 My Little Margie. Making the transition from TV to radio, the situation comedy was sponsored by Philip Morris Cigarettes. It told the story of widower Verne Albright, played by Charles Farrell, as he tried to cope with the antics of a scatterbrained daughter in her twenties. Gale Storm played the title role of daughter, Margie Albright. Also in the cast of the funny comedy show were Verna Felton, Gil Stratton, Jr., Doris Singleton and Will Wright. Lud Gluskin's Orchestra supplied the music (30 min., Sunday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., CBS, 1952).

18258 My Name Is Logan. Newscaster Arthur Van Horne talked to his audience in a folksy manner much in the style of Galen Drake about life and the current scene on his novel program (30 min., Sunday, 10:30–11:00 P.M., WOR, Newark, NJ, 1949).

18259 My Silent Partner. A sustaining situation comedy, My Silent Partner followed the actions of a small town girl, played by Faye Emerson, who moved to New York City. The funny problems she encountered were provided by such talented cast members as: Cameron Andrews, Ruth Gilbert, Harold Stone and Lyle Sudrow. Dick Dudley was the announcer (30 min., Thursday, 8:00–8:30 P.M., NBC, 1949).

18260 My Son Jeep. The half-hour weekly show concerned a small town doctor, a widower with a ten-year-old son and a thirteen-year-old daughter. The doctor's son, Jeep, caused most of his funny problems and tribulations. The program's cast included: Lynn Allen, Donald Cook, Martin Huston, John Lazah and Leona Powers. The announcer was Fred Collins. Walter Black and Bill Mendrek wrote and Dan Sutter directed the program. Music was supplied by John Geller (30 min., Sunday, 7:00–7:30 P.M., NBC, 1953). A later, 15-minute daily version of the program was broadcast in 1955. This time the cast included Bobby Alford, Cameron Andrews, Joyce Gordon, Joan Lazer, Paul McGrath and Leona Powers. Walter Black and Bill Mendrek once again wrote the show. Edwin Duerr was the producer-director. Gaylord Avery was the announcer (15 min., Monday through Friday, 8:00–8:15 P.M., CBS, 1955). This was another program that made a successful transition from TV to radio.

18261 Myatt, (Mrs.) Herman. Soprano (WSM, Nashville, TN, 1928).

18263 Myer, Dick. DJ (Schooltime, WAGM, Presque Isle, ME, 1950).

18264 Myers, Denny. Sports caster (Denny Myers Talks Football, WEEI, Boston, MA, 1949).

18266 Myers, Ed. Leader (Ed Myers and his Peony Park Orchestra, WOAW, Omaha, NE, 1926).

18267 Myers, Ed. DJ (WCHL, Chapel Hill, NC, 1956).

18268 Myers, Gene. Newscaster (KLFH, Houston, TX, 1948). DJ (KLEE Club, KLEE, 1950).

18269 Myers, Hubert. DJ (WIDAN, Danville, IL, 1947).

18270 Myers, J. Clarence. Newscaster (KYA, San Francisco, CA, 1937–1939).

18271 Myers, Joe. Newscaster (KOA, Denver, CO, 1938). Sports caster (KOA, 1937–1940).

18272 Myers, Kent. Sports caster (KSUB, Clay City, UT, 1956).

18273 Myers, Pete. DJ (WNEW, New York, NY, 1960).

18274 Myers, Robert. Newscaster (WMBH, Joplin, MO, 1944).

18275 Myers [Meyers], Stan. Leader (Stan Myers Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., NBC, 1935).

18277 Myers, Vic. Leader (Vic Myers Melody Orchestra, WSB, Atlanta, GA, 1924).

18278 Myers, Wayne. Monologist (WIBC, Chicago, IL, 1926).

18279 Myra Kingsley—Astrologer. Astrologer Kingsley discussed astrological topics and interviewed motion picture stars and pointed out the events taking place in "their stars." Jean Paul King was the program announcer (15 min., Monday through Friday, 11:45–12:00 noon, MBS, 1938).

18280 Myric(k), Thelma. Soprano (KFWI, San Francisco, CA, and KYA, San Francisco, CA, 1927).

18281 Myronoff, Boris. Concert pianist (KFI, Los Angeles, CA, 1927).

18282 Myrt and Marge. The title roles of the popular daytime serial were played by the program's writer, Myrtle Vail, and her daughter, Donna Damerel Fick. Although daytime serials frequently have tragedy as one their major elements, this one's first run ended tragically with the death of one of its principals. One of radio's most memorable daytime serials, Myrt and Marge went off the air in 1941 when Donna Damerel Fick died in childbirth.

Written by Myrtle Vail (Myrt), it began as an evening program before becoming a daytime serial in 1937. The story told of two show girls, Myrt Spear and her sister, Marge Minter. Myrt, the older sister, did her best to guide her sister through the many problems she faced in show business. Originally, the cast included: Ray Appleton, Cliff Arquette, Jackson Beck, Ed Begley, Alan Reed (Teddy Bergman), Cliff Bunston, Marjorie Crossland, Matt Crowley, Joseph Curtin, John C. Daly, Dorothy Day, Roger DeKoven, Alan Devitt, Arthur Elmer, Edith Evanson, Lucille Fenton, Donna Damerel Fick, Michael Fitzmaurice, Lucy Gilman, Ken Griffin, Vinton Hayworth, Ray Hedge, Wendell Holmes, Raymond Edward Johnson, Jeanne Juvelier, Reg Knorr, Joe Latham, Violet Le Claire, Sunda Love, Helen Mack, Warren Mills, Gene Morgan, Marie Nelson, Santos Ortega, Eleanor Rella, Dick Sanaver, Henry Saxe, Olan Soule, Maurice Tarplin, Henrietta Tedro, Betty Jane Tyler, Myrtle Vail, James Van Dyk, Robert Walker and Karl Way. The show's writers were Cliff Thomas and Myrtle Vail. Eddie House, Rosa Rio and John Winters were the organists. The directors were John Gunn and Lindsay MacHarrie. Andre Baruch, David Ross and Tom Shirley were the announcers.

The show returned in 1946 as a transcribed program broadcast by 40 stations. This version was directed by Myrtle Vail and Roy Hedge and produced by John Green. Some early segments of the later version were almost identical with the original program. In the later cast were Alice Goodkin, Vinton Hayworth, Ray Hedge and Alice Yourman. Andre Baruch was the program's announcer (15 min., Monday through Friday, Transcribed on Various Stations, 1946).

18283 (The Mysteries of Paris). This early mystery drama told the story of the pursuit by a daring American heiress and a titled Englishman, who was a member of the British Secret Service, of "The Octopus," a sinister, powerful leader of the Paris Underworld. The cast included Elsie Hitz, John McGovern and Agnes Moorehead. Music was produced by an orchestra directed by Billy Artzt (30 min., Monday, 9:30-10:00 P.M., CBS, 1932).

18284 Mysterious Duo. An unidentified "masked" singing team (WRR, Dallas, TX, 1926).

18285 (The Mysterious Traveler). Maurice Tarplin was the Mysterious Traveler, who each week invited listeners to take a train ride with him into the realm of the supernatural. Each half-hour program presented episodes that told of weird and terrifying events. At the end of each program, the Mysterious Traveler concluded with, "I take this train every week at this time." In addition to Tarplin, the program's cast included: Jackson Beck, Ed Begley, Shirley Blank, Lon Clark, Roger DeKoven, Bill Smith and Bill Zuckert. Jock MacGregor was the director. The creators and writers were Robert A. Arthur and David Kogan. Organist Doc Whipple and the orchestra of Al Pinella supplied the music. Jimmy Wallington was the announcer (30 min., Weekly, MBS, 1943-1952).

18286 (The Mystery Chef). The mysterious culinary expert was John MacPherson. By 1946, his transcribed series of 280 recorded quarter-hour programs were broadcast by 28 stations. The popular show that gave women recipes and cooking tips afforded him an excellent opportunity to attract sponsors. The "mysterious one" enjoyed a long, successful radio career. His entire broadcast career extended from 1929 to 1948 on NBC-Red and NBC-Blue.

18287 Mystery House. The dramatic mystery-adventure series featured Agnes Moorehead. The announcer was Neil Ensen (30 min., Friday, 10:30-11:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1930).

18288 Mystery House. The series of half-hour dramatized mysteries starred horror motion picture star Bela Lugosi who also hosted each show (MBS, 1951).

18289 Mystery Is My Hobby. Private investigator Barton Drake, played by Glenn Langan, found himself involved in crime each week as he prowled the streets and haunts of New York City. Since Drake was a private investigator, the program's title is not accurate. Rod O'Connor was the program's announcer (30 min., Weekly, MBS, 1945).

18290 Mystery Tales. The Marlin Fire Arms Company sponsored the dramatized series drawn from True Mystery magazine. Radio's pioneer acting troop, the WGY Players, provided good performances on these mysteries. The troop included: Eugene O'Haire, Marjorie Tyler, John Sheehan, Irma Lehmkke, Alexander McDonald, Chester Vedder and John Allen (30 min., Sunday, 4:00-4:30 P.M., WGY, Schenectady, NY, 1936).

18291 Mystery Theatre. Inspector Mark Saber, played by Les Damon, was the leading character in the mystery-adventure series sponsored by Sterling Drug Company. Saber and his assistant solved crimes each week on the show written by Ken Field. Gene Patterson produced and Frank Papp directed the show. In addition to Les Damon, the cast included Joan Alexander, Walter Burke, Bob Hague, Luis Van Rooten and Santos Ortega (30 min., Wednesday, 9:30-10:00 P.M. ABC, 1953).

18292 (The Mystery Three). A Chicago vocal trio that unfortunately still remains mysterious and unidentified (WEBH, Chicago, IL, 1928).

18294 Mystic Nights of the Sea Friday Night Minstrel Show. Gosden and Correll conducted the weekly radio minstrel show (WMAQ, Chicago, IL, 1936). See also Amos 'n' Andy.

18295 N&W Imperial Quartet. The Norfolk and Western Railroad sponsored the talented black gospel quartet's vocal music program (WDBJ, Norfolk, VA, 1928).

18296 N. Shellenburg and Company Symphony Orchestra. John A. Carroll conducted the commercial symphonic orchestra (WCAU, Philadelphia, PA, 1925).

18297 N.T.G. and His Girls. Nils Thor Granlund, well known Broadway producer, "presented show girls on radio" on the show that was sponsored by the Emerson Drug Company.

He hosted the program and presented six or seven girls on each show. They told something about themselves and then played an instrument, sang or read some dramatic selection. N.T.G., as he was always known, wanted to demonstrate the talent possessed by the showgirls. Carroll Carroll wrote the show and Herb Polesie was the director. Harry Salter's Orchestra supplied the music. Variety said that the idea of presenting chorus girls on radio had been started a month earlier by Dan Healey on WNEW (New York, NY, 1935). In addition, they commented that after N.T.G. introduced each girl, he made wisecracks that were totally lacking in humor. Variety did note that the girls' talent generally was good. (30 min., Tuesday, 9:00-9:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1935).

Nils T. Granlund was born in Korpilombolo, Sweden in 1892. He came to the United States at the age of nine. After becoming the press agent for Marcus Loew, he later became publicity director for the entire Loew's theater chain. He started in radio in 1922 and by 1924 he had announced several boxing bouts and served as host on several stations. See also Granlund, Nils T.

18298 Nabors, Chick. DJ (Musical Spree, WQBC, Vicksburg, MS, 1948).

18299 Nabors, Pat. Sports caster (Sports Review, WSOC, Charlotte, NC, 1948-1949; BC Sports Review, WSOC, 1950).

18301 Nadig, Henry Davis. Newscaster (WKNE, Keene, NH, 1942).

18302 Nadworney, Devora. Strikingly beautiful opera singer Nadworney was the first person to broadcast opera over a "national hook-up" on January 4, 1923. After that time she was affiliated with WJZ where she broadcast (NBC-Blue, New York, NY, 1923-1928; Devora Nadworney, vcl. mus. prg., NBC, 1934).

18303 Naffziger, Esther. Pianist (WCBD, Zion, IL, 1925; WCBS, Springfield, IL, 1926).

18304 Nafus, Marv. DJ (Top Twenty, WKCT, Bowling Green, KY, 1955).

18305 Nagel, Charlotte. Pianist Nagel was a member of a music group known as Genevieve's Cave Women orchestra (WTAM, Cleveland, OH, 1925).

18306 Nagel, Conrad. Motion picture actor Nagel was interviewed by Marian Grable from his Hollywood home by telephone on her Helen of Hollywood program (WFAA, Dallas, TX, 1928). Nagel became a DJ in 1952 (The Conrad Nagel Show, 30 min., Monday through Friday, 1:30-2:00 P.M. NBC, 1952). As a DJ, Nagel mixed theatrical gossip with the music he played.

18307 Nagel, Harold. Leader (Harold Nagel Orchestra, instr. mus. prg. (NBC, 1936, 1938).

18308 Nagle, Dave. DJ (The Record Man, WCHV, Charlottesville, VA, 1947).

18357 National Amateur Night. Ray Perkins was the host on the amateur hour. If a contestant performed badly, Perkins blew a whistle. This was in contrast to Major Bowes who on his amateur hour gave poor performing contestants a gong. The Arnold Johnson Orchestra provided music for the amateur contestants (30 min., Sunday, 5:00–5:30 P.M., CBS, 1935).

18358 (The) National Barn Dance (aka Old Fiddlers Hour and The Aladdin Play Party). The National Barn Dance had its modest beginning shortly after station WLS (Chicago, IL) went on the air, when a fiddler by the name of Tommy Dandurand made a series of broadcasts that influenced George D. Hay to begin a "barn dance" program. Listener response was immediate and enthusiastic. The program, first known as The Old Fiddlers Hour, became the Alladin Play Party sponsored by the Alladin Kerosene Lamp Company. In 1926 the name was changed to the National Barn Dance. The program was broadcast from a studio with an auditorium seating an audience of only 100 until 1930, when the program moved to a 1,200 seat theater that was filled for each weekly broadcast with paying customers.

In addition to Hay, who later moved to WSN (Nashville, TN), where he was instrumental in developing the Grand Ole Opry, other behind the scene workers such as John Lair, Edgar Bill and George Biggar labored tirelessly and successfully to develop and promote the program. Their skill, faith and perseverance made it a local favorite at first, and soon thereafter a national institution when it went on the network in 1933.

The show's first performers were host George D. Hay, fiddler Tommy Dandurand, square dance caller Tom Owen, a Chicago hospital worker; Ford and Glenn; organist Ralph Waldo Emerson; Bob Hendry; and Ed Goodreau. In 1936, station WLS received 1,515, 901 pieces of mail praising the National Barn Dance. An indication of how the show's popularity grew with the years was shown by the September 19, 1937 broadcast from Chicago's Soldiers Field when more than 20,000 fans showed up for a celebration of Farm Week.

What was special about the program was its interesting mix of personalities, judicious choice of musical selections and comedy routines and its constant attention to its audience's taste. Among the major performers and personalities that made the show a radio favorite for so many years were: George D. Hay, the first host; Jolly Joe Kelly, the host who succeeded Hay; resonant voiced announcers such as Steve Cisler and Jack Holden; Arkie the Woodchopper (Luther Ossenbrink), the all-purpose singer and square dance caller; Grace Wilson the beloved ballad singer; Henry Burr the legendary tenor; Otto (Ted Morse) and the Novelodeons band; and the goofy Hoosier Hot Shots novelty band. Some other National Barn Dance performers were: veteran radio performers Al and Pete (Al Bernard and Pere Botsma); concertina soloist Albert Blaha; pianist Alec Templeton; singer Bill O'Connor; cowboy singer Bob Atcher; the Buccaneers (Captain Stubby Fouts, Jerry Richards, Dwight "Tiny" Stokes and Sonny Fleming); Charley Marshall and his Mavericks (Johnny O'Brien, Johnny Charley Marshall and Abe Wright); Arizona Hopi singer Chief Taptuka; singer Christine the Little Swiss Miss (Jack Holden's wife, Christine Smith); singer-instrumentalist Chubby Parker; singer-banjoist Cousin Emmy; cowboy singer Bill Newcomb; the [later] Cumberland Ridge Runners (Ed Goodreau, John Lair, Doc Hopkins, Karl Davis, Gene Rupp, Hartford Taylor); the original Cumberland Ridge Runners (Linda Parker, Slim Miller, John Lair, Karl Davis, Red Foley and Hartford Taylor); whistler Delia Ann Ragland; the yodeling DeZurik Sisters (Mary Jane and Carolyn); singer Dorothy Sanwald; the Dixie Harmonica King Eddie Allan; the homespun Hoosier poet, Edgar Guest; singer Evelyn (Mary) Wood; veteran radio singing team Ford and Glenn; Russian harmonica virtuoso Fred Zimbalist; comic Cousin Ephrem Z; cowboy singers Gene Autry and Smiley Burnett; the "Little Cowboy" singer, George Goebel; dance caller Gus Colby; singer-whistler Hal "Buddy" Brooks; the Hilltoppers; the Hired Hands (jug, song whistle and harmonica performer Don Gackett, Fred LaCabe on harmonica and spoons, Ben Pigotti on accordion, Tony Pacionelas on uke); comedy team Jimmy James and Cousin Tilford (Holly Swanson); singer Joe Parsons; dance caller John Dolce; singer John Neher; pianist John Brown; five-year-old singer Joy Miller; violinist Karl Schulte; singer Ken Stevens; the Kentucky Girls singing team; singer Lily May (Lily May Leonard), Cousin Emma (Joy Fournier) and the Lindner Twins; Louise Massey and the Westerners; singer Mary Jane Johnson; Hoosier mimic Max Terhune (Max Scully); the Neighbor boys vocal trio (Lawrence Quiram, Louis Quiram and Caroll Hollister); the Ole Harmony Slaves (Chuck Haynes and Ray Ferris) vocal team; comic-musician Otto (Ted Morse) in the role of "Uncle Otto" or "Genevieve"; Otto Clausen, director of Chicago's Norwegian Singing Society; Pat Buttram, the comic pride and joy of Winston County—the "Winston County Flash"; singer Phyllis Brown; singer Polly of the Range (Pauline Beane); organist Ralph Emerson; the Ranch Boys (Curly Bradley, Jack Ross and Shorty Carson); Rex and the Cornhuskers; Rock Creek Wranglers; Roy Leathen, the 13-year-old yodeler; the Sage Riders (Dolph Hewitt, fiddler; Donald "Red" Blanchard, bass and Don White, singer-fiddler-guitarist); singer Sally Foster; Shirley Graham and her Carolina Vagabonds ("a group of colored singers" who specialized in

"spirituals and plantation songs"); Simmons and Clifford; singer Smiling Ed McConnell; the Three Wisconsin Honey Bees a female vocal trio; Tom, Dick, and Harry, popular male vocal trio; singer Tom Hargiser; Tom Corwine expert producer of animal, poultry and wildlife imitations; square dance caller Tom Owens; singer Tommy Tanner; old-time fiddler Tommy Dandurand; Irish baritone Tony Corcoran; the Vass Family (Emily, Louisa, Virginia, Sally, and Frank Vass); Verne and Lee Hassell; Walter Peterson; Douglas Perkins, a 13-year-old fiddler; Gid Tanner and the Skillet Lickers; the Girls of the Golden West; Sigmund Spaeth, the "Tune Detective"; singer Betty Jones (Jane Schultz); singer Ezbaí Wells; singer Grace Wilson; Ralph Dunbar's Bell Ringers (featuring almost 100 bells); cowboy singer Romaine Loudermilk; mimic Purv Pullen; Normaendes Sangforening and the Norwegian Singing Society of Chicago; Olaf the Swede (William Sorenson); the Sodbusters (Reggie Cross and Howard Block); W.B. "Dad" Chenoweth and his Fiddlers; the Maple City Four; Henry Burr; Verne, Lee and Mary (Verne and Lee Haskell and Mary Evelyn Wood); Uncle Ezra; Spare Ribs, Lulu Belle and Scotty (Myrtle Cooper and Scotty Wiseman); the Masqueraders, a masked singing group; whistler Elmer Esping; Otto's Novelodeons (Little German band led by Ted "Otto" Morse consisting of Zeb Hartley, Art Wenzel, Bill Thall and Buddy Gilmore); the Hoosier Hot Shots (Paul "Hezzie" Trietsch, Otto "Gabe" Ward, Paul Kettering and Kenneth "Ken" Trietsch); the Ahn Sisters (singing group of Jean, age 18, Miriam, 16, Virginia, 14, and Mary 12), the Three Stooges Trumpet Trio (William Beamish, Harold Doolittle and Norman Weinberg); cowboy singer Tumbleweed; singer Lucille Long; singer Shelby Jean Davis; dance caller Bob Lough; banjo virtuoso Eddy Peabody; singer Skip Farrell; the Dinning Sisters (Jean, Ginger and Lou), harmony singing team; band leader Glen Welty; and the WLS female vocal trio of Winnie (W), Lou (L) and Sally (S), whose initials just happened to be the station's call letters. Over the years the program had many announcers who acted as MC in addition to Joe Kelly; Harold Safford, Dudley Richards, George Ditlay, Hal O'Halloran, Jack Holden, Steve Cisler and Bill Bailey.

WLS on its Saturday night schedule wrapped its music programs around the National Barn Dance network broadcast. These programs featured regular WLS performers and members of the National Barn Dance crew. Incidentally, this was a pattern also used by the Grand Ole Opry show at WSM. Some examples of the WLS programming and sponsors are given below:

Saturday evening, January 11, 1936

7:00–7:15—Prairie Ramblers and Patsy Montana; Henry Hornsbuckle and the Hoosier Sod Busters (G.E. Conkey Company).

7:15–7:30—Hoosier Hot Shots and guest artists (Morton Salt Company).

7:30–8:00—Keystone Barn Dance Party featuring Skyland Scotty (Keystone Steel and Wire Company).

8:00–8:30—National Barn Dance NBC Hour with Uncle Ezra; Maple City Four; Verne, Lee and Mary; Hoosier Hot Shots; Lucille Long; Sally Foster; Skyland Scotty and other Hayloft favorites with Joe Kelly master of ceremonies (Alka-Seltzer).

8:30–9:00—Aladdin Hayloft Theater.

9:00–9:30—Barn Dance Frolic with Hilltoppers; Patsy Montana; Possum Tuttle (Gillette Rubber Company).

9:30–10:00—Prairie Ramblers and Red Foley (Jelsert).

From 10:00 to 10:30 P.M., the Prairie Farmer-WLS National Barn Dance continued until 12:00 midnight with varied features, including the Prairie Ramblers; Otto and his Tune Twisters; Patsy Montana; Hometowners Quartet; Christine the Little Swiss Miss; Girls of the Golden West; Red Foley; Hilltoppers; Bill O'Connor; Grace Wilson; Hoosier Sod Busters; Eddie Allan; Arkie (The Arkansas Traveler) and many others.

In 1937, many National Barn Dance performers augmented their income by selling song books for half a dollar each. Two favorites were Lulu Belle and Scotty's Songbook and the Prairie Ramblers and Patsy Montana Songbook. Like the performers of its counterpart, the Grand Ole Opry, the Barn Dance stars appeared around the country at various theaters and county fairs. Appearances by WLS Artists for the week of September 6, 1936 were reported by the station's Stand By magazine as follows.

Although the program began by broadcasting old-time and country music, over the years the format became more and more sophisticated. Country music was judiciously intermixed with the current song hits of the day and were performed in a smooth, highly professional manner. When someone referred to the National Barn Dance hillbillies, a cynic replied: "If they're hillbillies, why do they live in penthouses, eat caviar and ride in Cadillacs?" The program's ability to change over the years undoubtedly accounted for its continued popularity among both urban and rural listeners. The program's long time announcer was Jack Holden. Glen Welty conducted the orchestra.

18359 National Barn Dance Fiddlers.

Tommy Dandurand and Rube Tronsor on fiddles, banjoist Sam Mack and dance caller Ed Goodman made up the popular CW music group (WLS, Chicago, IL, 1929-1930). They also played regularly on the National Barn Dance for many years.

18360 National Battery Girls. The popular local female vocal trio consisted of Grace Epperson, Olive Stageman and Rachael Salisbury (KOIL, Omaha, NE, 1930).

18361 National Battery Symphony Program. The National Battery Symphony Orchestra featured, among others, clarinetist and saxophonist George Rice and violinists, Fred Ruhoff and Herman Ruhoff (KSTP, St. Paul, MN, 1929-1930). Also featured in the orchestra were H.C. Woempner, dir.-f.; Max Scheliner, v.-librarian; John Lamber, v.-ss.; Frank Obermann, v.-vl.-p.; James Messer, vc.; Alan Warren, vc.-s.; Frank Kuchynka, sb.; John Stamp, t.; Con Dertus, t.; Spence Adkins, tb.; Earl Handlon, clt.-s.; Marion Teschion, clt.-s.; Marion Cooke, d.; Harry Cunningham, bss.; Alexander Duvoir, o.; Burton Speakman, bj.; and Alan Hustana, f.

18362 National Broadcasting Company Concert Bureau Hour. The Landt Trio, the Bonnie Ladies, the Colonials, the Three Kings and a Queen, crooner Mildred Hunt and tenor Lanny Ross appeared on the popular concert music program. The concert orchestra was directed by Hugo Mariani (NBC-Red, New York, NY, 1929).

18363 National Broadcasting Company Opera Program. Max Dolin directed the weekly hour long operatic music program. Condensed operas were broadcast. For example, Massenet's Manon with Harold Spaulding, William Rainey, Mary Groom Richards, Harold Dana, Barbara Blanchard, Harrison Ward, Maynard Jones, Elfrieda Wayne, J.H. Stewartson, G. Chatfield and Margaret O'Dea was broadcast in 1927. Dolin also provided piano accompaniment (NBC, 1927).

18364 National Carbon Company Program. Operettas were presented such as Franz Lehar's The Merry Widow on the two-hour music program. Directed by Carl Anderson with Franz Vinton LaFerra's Concert Orchestra, the program's cast included: Elfrieda Wynne, Albert Gillette, Claire Harsha Upshur, James Girard and Grace LePage (KGO, Oakland, CA, 1925).

18365 National Church of the Air (aka The National Religious Service Program). Reverend Harry Emerson Fosdick conducted the weekly network religious program (30 min., Weekly, NBC-Blue, 1927-1928).

During its early days, the program was broadcast six times weekly (45 min., Monday through Saturday, 1:15-1:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1929). The customary opening by host Everett Mitchell was, "It's a beautiful day in Chicago." At one time Baukage broadcast the news on the program. A favorite part of the program was the dramatized

"Uncle Sam's Forest Rangers" segment. Actors in the segment were Raymond Edward Johnson, Harvey Hays, Judith Lowery and Lucille Harding. Don Ameche also performed with the group at one time. Music was provided by Harry Kogen and The Homesteaders, Jack Baus and the Cornbusters vocal group and the Cadets male quartet. Mirandy of Persimmon Hollow added a comic touch.

The program was supervised by W.E. Drips and produced by Hervert Lateau. Sponsors of the show at various times included the Montgomery Ward mail order company and the United States Department of Agriculture.

18367 National Grand Opera Company (aka The National Broadcasting Grand Opera Company). During 1929, the radio opera company performed The Secret of Suzanne, Martha, Aida and Hansel and Gretel. The program at that time was known as the National Broadcasting Grand Opera Company. The company included Paula Hemminghaus, Genia Zielinska, Devora Nadworney, Julian Oliver and Astride Fjelde. The orchestra was conducted by Cesare Sodero (NBC-Red, New York, NY, 1929). The program's name was changed to The National Grand Opera Program in 1930.

18368 National Light Opera Company. Operettas were broadcast on Sunday evenings by the group (7:15-8:15 P.M., NBC-KOA, Denver, CO, 1929). A similar program presented by the same group the following year was called The NBC Light Opera Program (60 min., Sunday, 1:00-2:00 P.M., NBC, 1930). See also The NBC Light Opera Program.

18369 National Male Four. The vocal quartet consisted of tenors Earl Stockdale and Raymond D. Waller, baritone Leo Hemminghaus and bass Nels Swenson. They were sometimes known as "Ye Merry Men of Windsor" (KSTP, St. Paul, MN, 1929-1930).

18371 National Musical Comedy Theater. The program's major emphasis was the presentation of musical comedy selections. Among the featured performers was bass soloist, Charles Robinson (NBC-Red, 1928).

18372 National Opera Concert. Wilfred Pelletier conducted the symphonic orchestra on the classical music program. Various operatic singers appeared each week (30 min., Sunday, 2:00-2:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1933).

18373 National Players. William Rainey directed the NBC network dramatic group. A typical production was their 1927 broadcast of O. Henry's "Mamon and the Archer" with M.E. Harlan, Emilie Melville, Wheaton Chambers, Jean Paul King, Doris Cannery and Benjamin Purington (NBC, 1927).

18374 National Radio Home Hour. "Betty Crocker" was the major contributor to the program of homemaking information (60 min., Wednesday, 11:00-12:00 noon, NBC-Red, 1928-1929).

18375 National Radio Homemakers Hour. Begun in 1927, the women's program was conducted by Ida Bailey Allen, one of the most popular female broadcasters in radio history. She was assisted by Mrs. Louise Baker, Joan Barrett, Grace White and Janet Lee. Musical selections were performed by contralto Elizabeth Wood and baritone Richard Hale. Ralph Christian was the program's musical director. The program was broadcast each weekday in 1930. From Monday through Friday, the major topics were food and cooking; beauty hints were also addressed on Tuesday; and some interior decoration topics added on Wednesday (NBC-Blue, 1927-1930).

18376 National Radio Pulpit (aka The Men's Conference). In 1923, the Greater New York Federation of Churches began its radio division and originated the first national religious radio program — The Men's Conference — later renamed the National Radio Pulpit. The program was broadcast by WEAJ (New York, NY, 1923) from New York City's Park Avenue Christ (Methodist) Church. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman was the chief speaker from 1923 until 1936, when Reverend Ralph Washington Sockman took over. Harry Emerson Fosdick, in turn, replaced Sockman. The program, which was broadcast for a little more than four decades, was said to have been the first religious program broadcast from a network studio.

18377 National Radio Symphony Orchestra. Walter Damrosch conducted the orchestra on the symphonic music program (60 min., Saturday, 9:00-10:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1926-1928).

18378 National Spelling Bee. Dr. Harry Hagen conducted the spelling bee sponsored by Standard Brands. Five dollars were awarded to the winner and medals to some of the runners-up (60 min., Saturday, 7:00-8:00 P.M., WMCA, New York, NY, 1937). Spelling Master Paul Wing also conducted a national radio spelling bee, a network broadcast that attracted a surprisingly large listening audience (NBC, 1937-1940).

18379 National Vespers. Dr. Paul Scherer delivered the sermon on the religious program that took the place of The National Religious Service Program, sometimes known as The National Church of the Air (60 min., Sunday, 5:00-6:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1934).

18380 National Youth Conference. Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling conducted the inspirational program for young people broadcast on Sundays from noon to one P.M. on the NBC-Pacific Coast network in 1929. A mixed quartet was featured that included soprano Muriel Wilson, contralto Helen Janke, tenor Richard Maxwell and baritone Earle Waldo. George Shackley conducted the orchestra (60 min., Sunday, 3:00-4:00 P.M., NBC, 1929-1930).

18381 Natural Bridge Dancing Class. The Natural Bridge Shoe Company sponsored the program that attempted to teach dancing by radio. Arthur Murray, the famous dancing teacher, conducted the program (15 min., Friday, 8:45-9:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1931).

18382 Natural Bridge Program. Stories of famous loves and lovers were dramatized with a romantic musical background. The program was sponsored by the Natural Bridge Shoe Company (15 min., Friday, 8:45-9:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1930).

18383 Nature Sketches. First begun in 1941, the program ran for more than eight successive years on the NBC network. The format consisted of various persons extolling the many glories of nature and the great outdoors (15 min., Saturday, 3:00-3:15 P.M., NBC, 1948).

18384 Naughton, Russell "Russ." Sports-caster (WDRC, Hartford, CT, 1942). DJ (Music off the Record, WDRC, 1947; Shoppers Special, WDRC, 1949; Music off the Record, WDRC, 1950; Yawn Patrol, WDRC, 1954).

18393 Navy Wife. A World War II program that told the story of Mrs. Richard Walker, a recently evacuated wife of a Navy Lieutenant. The program recounted the various activities and problems faced by wives of servicemen (KGO, San Francisco, CA, 1942). See also War-time Radio.

18394 Naylor, Larry. DJ (Sunrise Serenade, KPRC, Houston, TX, 1947; Requestfully Yours, KOPC, Tucson, AZ, 1949).

18396 Naylor, Tony. DJ (Tony's Time, WBTM, Danville, VA, 1952).

18397 Nazi Jazz. Robert Garden's orchestra played from Berlin, Germany on the program that included a liberal dose of political propaganda (30 min., Sunday, 11:30-12:00 noon, WJZ-NBC, 1936).

18398 NBC Balalaika Orchestra. String music group directed by Gregory Golubeff and tenor Enrico Martinelli were featured (NBC, 1929).

18399 NBC Cinema Theatre Program. The novel program presented the typical parts of a metropolitan movie theater's show, including an overture, newsreel, stage show (vaudeville), a comedy short and a "feature story" (30 min., Wednesday, 9:00-9:30 P.M. CST, NBC-Blue, 1935).

18400 NBC Club Matinee. NBC Club Matinee was a forerunner of what later became Club Matinee. The early version featured guitarist Sunny Jim Wolverton and singer Betty Bennett (NBC, 1937). See also Club Matinee.

18401 NBC Green Room. Mus. prg. (NBC-Pacific Coast Network, 1929). The show was a 60-minute weekly program featuring soprano Gail Taylor, tenor Irving Kennedy and organist Elmer Crowhurst (60 min., Friday, 7:00-8:00 P.M., NBC, Pacific Coast Network, 1929).

18402 NBC Light Opera Program. The NBC network presented productions of operettas, including Gilbert and Sullivan's H.M.S. Pinafore (60 min., Sunday, 1:30-2:30 P.M., NBC, 1935).

18403 NBC Star Playhouse (aka NBC University Theater). John Chapman, the drama critic of the New York Daily News, hosted the program on which great plays were dramatized. For example, the program presented Frederic March and Florence Eldridge in A Farewell to Arms; Rex Harrison in The Second Man; and Angela Lansbury and Dan O'Herlihy in Cashel Byron's Profession. Other presentations were The Heart of Darkness, Great Expectations, The Way of All Flesh, Lord Jim, Passage to India, The Grapes of Wrath, Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man, The Heart of Midlothian, Sons and Lovers, Babylon Revisited, Ministry of Fear, Henry Esmond, Pickwick Papers, The Marble Faun, Huckleberry Finn, Gulliver's Travels, Tom Jones and All the King's Men. Some other stars that performed on the program were John Lund, John Dehner, Preston Foster and Jane Darwell (60 min., NBC, 1953).

18404 NBC Symphony Orchestra. Symphonic mus. prg. series with maestro Arturo Toscanini conducting these distinguished classical music programs (NBC, 1939). Although Toscanini is generally considered to have been the orchestra's first conductor, Pierre Monteaux conducted the radio debut of the orchestra November 13, 1937 as a combined Red and Blue networks' presentation (9:00-10:00 P.M.). David Sarnoff, NBC's head, had a special studio, 811, constructed especially for the orchestra. Although Frank Black also conducted the orchestra on some programs, it should be recognized that Arturo Toscanini was the first regular conductor to lead a full symphony orchestra created for radio. Ben Grauer was frequently the program's announcer.

18405 NBC Troubadours. Maynard Jones was the musical director of the half-hour music program (NBC, 1929). The dual piano team of Marion Hunter and Doris Blaney was featured.

18425 Neatour, Harold. Announcer (WRVA, Richmond, VA, 1928-1929).

18426 (The) Nebbs. The situation comedy was based on the comic strip of the same name created by Sol Hess and W.A. Carlson in 1923. The comic strip offered a continuous story, not a daily gag. Both in the strip and on the radio program, Rudy Nebb, the husband, was a strong family man. The program was a pleasant, light hearted comedy serial. Announcer Tommy Dixon introduced the show with: "Cystex presents The Nebbs starring Gene and Kathleen Lockhart as Rudy and Fannie Nebbs—straight from America's comic strips with Junior, Obie and all the others you've laughed and adventured with for 22 years." Music was supplied by Bud Carlton (30 min., Sunday, 4:30-5:00 P.M., MBS, 1945).

18427 Nebel, Long John. DJ (WOR, New York, NY, 1956). See also Long John.

18429 Nebraska State Hospital Orchestra. State orchestra directed by Peter Thordsen (KFKX, Hasting, NE, 1925).

18431 Ned Jordan, Secret Agent. The detective serial was written by Fran Stryker, creator of the Lone Ranger. The producer was George W. Trendle, who was also closely associated with that radio favorite. Ned Jordan, Secret Agent was a sustaining program featuring Jack McCarthy in the title role, who also provided necessary narration to clarify and advance the plot. Dick Osgood and Shirley Squires were also in the cast (30 min., Saturday, 8:00-8:30 P.M., WXYZ, Detroit, MI, 1939).

18432 Ned Sparks Show. Dead-pan movie comedian Sparks' comedy show was sponsored by the Travel and Publicity Bureau of the Ontario Provincial Government. Vocalists Sair Lee, Dave Davies and Romanelli's Orchestra appeared with Sparks (30 min., Sunday, 5:3-6:00 P.M., CBS, 1941).

18474 Nellie Revell Interviews (aka Nellie Revell, Nellie Revell at Large, Neighbor Nell and The Nellie Revell Show). Revell was a veteran news reporter, Variety columnist and broadcaster. She originated one of the first and best radio "talk" shows. Her frank, inquiring interviews were examples of early American radio's programming at its best. On her 1931 program she was billed as "The Voice of Radio Digest" (15 min, NBC-Red, 1931). Over the years her program had various names and was broadcast at different times, but remained essentially the same (15 min. Sunday, 9:45–10:00 A.M., NBC, 1935). Revell's programs usually included "cheer-up" material of inspirational talk, poetry and music. Using "Love Thy Neighbor" as her theme, Revell was always an up-beat host. Music was supplied by organist Chandler Goldwithe and vocalist Jimmy Wilkinson.

18475 Nellie Revell the Voice of Radio Digest. Revell, who wrote for Radio Digest, was sponsored by the weekly radio magazine. Revell interviewed various show business personalities and told stories about radio, stage and motion picture stars (15 min., NBC-Red, 1931).

18516 Nelson, Lindsey. Sportscaster (WKGK, Knoxville, TN, 1947; Sports Time, WKGK, 1948; WROL, Knoxville, TN, 1949; This Week in Sports and Ask the Sports World, NBC, 1952–1960). After broadcasting football games at the University of Tennessee, Nelson received battle stars for seven campaigns while serving with the Ninth Infantry Division in World War II. His national exposure came when he began broadcasting baseball games for the Liberty Broadcasting System. He joined NBC in 1952 and worked college and professional football games for more than ten years.

18517 Nelson, M.L. News analyst (The Billboard, WHO, Des Moines, IA, 1947–1948).

18518 Nelson, Nancy. Singer (Nancy Nelson, vcl. mus. prg., KMOX, St. Louis, MO, 1935).

18519 Nelson, Ozzie. Leader (Ozzie Nelson Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., MBS, 1936, 1938; CBS, 1935–1942). In 1940, the announcer introduced the Nelson band by saying, "Young America's favorite from the Blackhawk in Chicago, Illinois, Ozzie Nelson."

Nelson first organized a band while in law school at Rutgers. His successful band appearances caused him to give up a law career for one in music. The Nelson band appeared frequently on radio and motion pictures, in addition to a prolific recording record. In addition to many remote broadcasts, the band appeared on the Baker's Broadcast, first, with Joe Penner and later, with Robert Ripley. The early Nelson band of the 1930s during its busiest radio years included: Nelson,ldr.-vels.; Holly Humphreys, t.; Harry Johnson, t.; Bo Ashford, t.; Abe Lincoln, tb.; Elmer Smithers, tb.; Charlie Bluebeck, cl.-as.; Bill Stone, cl.-as.; Bill Nelson, cl.-ts.; Sid Brokaw, v.-vb.; Harry Gray, p.; Chauncey Gray, p.; Sandy Wolfe, g.; Fred Whiteside, sb.; Joe Bohan, d. and Harriet Hilliard, vcls.

After many radio appearances, Ozzie and wife, Harriet Hilliard (Peggy Lou Snyder), his former band vocalist, began a successful radio program — The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet. After the radio program became an even greater success on television, Nelson was unable to meet the demands of leading a band and disbanded it. See also The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet.

18557 Networks. Networks had their formal beginnings in 1926 with the formation of the National Broadcasting Company (NBC). The inception of NBC began when the Radio Corporation of America (RCA) purchased New York's pioneer radio station, WEAF, from the American Telephone & Telegraph Company (AT&T). WEAF had pioneered "chain broadcasting" in which stations were linked by AT&T telephone lines to form temporary networks for such special events programming as the Dempsey-Carpentier fight, World Series baseball games, election events, etc. All of these "network" events, however, were one-time presentations. By February 12, 1924, the Eveready Hour was transmitted over a telephone system from WEAF in New York to WJAR (Providence, RI). As a result of this successful "chain broadcasting," the telephone system was extended the following year to include twelve stations, including one as far west as Chicago.

When station WJZ, operated by RCA, was unable to use rival AT&T's telephone lines for chain transmission, the station was forced to use Western Union Company's telegraphic lines. Because of the nature of Western Union's lines, WJZ experienced inferior transmission in quality of voice and music. WJZ immediately sought improved means to transmit their chain broadcasts. Sponsors approved the concept of chain (network) broadcasting in order to increase the number of listeners who would hear their commercials. Broadcasters also favored networks because they helped station program directors to fill their daily broadcast schedules with much needed talent (Chase, 1942, p. 28).

In January, 1926, RCA approved the formation of a new company that was to become the National Broadcasting Company. RCA owed 50 percent of the new company; General Electric, 30 percent; and Westinghouse, 20 percent. George McClelland became general manager of NBC and Bertha Brainard the program manager. NBC's formal beginning was on November 1, 1926, when it linked nineteen stations in a gala inaugural broadcast from the Grand Ballroom of New York's Waldorf-Astoria Hotel before an audience of a thousand invited guests. Participants on this spectacular broadcast included: Mary Garden singing from Chicago; Will Rogers speaking from Kansas City, Missouri; pianist Harold Bauer; Metropolitan Opera tenor, Tito Ruffo; the comedy team of Weber and Fields; the New York Symphony conducted by Dr. Walter Damrosch; Cesare Sodero conducting a light opera company; the Edwin Franko Goldman band; and remote broadcasts by the orchestras of Ben Bernie, B.A. Rolfe, George Olsen and Vincent Lopez. The era of network radio had begun.

By the following year, NBC had both the Red and Blue networks in operation, originating from WEAF and WJZ, respectively. Chase (1942, p. 40) noted differences in the Red and Blue networks in 1942, by suggesting that the Red network carried mostly commercial programs, while the Blue network became the "cultural network."

Where RCA, GE and Westinghouse had provided a solid financial foundation for the National Broadcasting Company network, the next to be developed—the Columbia Broadcasting Company—did not enjoy this luxury. From the start, severe financial problems beset United Broadcasters, Inc., the company that became CBS. In the spring of 1926, a group of eastern broadcasters met in New York's Astor Hotel to discuss their mutual problems. George A. Coats, who happened to be staying at the hotel at the time of the broadcasters' conference, saw radio as a potentially profitable business. Coats happened to meet with Arthur Judson, the president of the Columbia Concert Bureau, the company that managed most of the leading concert stars of the day. The two men joined with Major Andrew J. White, who was then working at General Electric's WGY (Schenectady, NY) station, a song broker by the name of Francis Marsh and Edward Ervin, the assistant manager of the New York Philharmonic Association to form United Broadcasters, Inc., in January, 1927.

United Broadcasters, Inc. was formed with great enthusiasm but limited financial resources. After suffering many financial hardships, Major Andrew White, director of the company, negotiated the sale of the company's rights to the Columbia Phonograph Company, who fearing rival Victor Recording Company's joining with RCA, decided to protect their own interests by investing in radio broadcasting. White then organized the Columbia Phonograph Broadcasting Company. On September 18, 1927, the new Columbia Company inaugurated its own spectacular inaugural broadcast day with a symphonic concert by an orchestra directed by Howard Barlow, followed by a presentation of an original American opera, The King's Henchman with music by Deems Taylor and libretto by Edna St. Vincent Millay.

Financial difficulties persisted and the Columbia Phonograph Broadcasting Company sold the network back to Major White and his group after operating for the first three months at a monthly loss of $100,000. Badly needing an infusion of additional cash, White used the influence of a Philadelphia dentist, Dr. Leon Levy, to persuade Jerome H. Louchheim to invest in the network. By chance, another major figure in the development of network radio—William S. Paley—then entered the picture because he was related by marriage to Leon Levy.

Paley, the brother-in-law of Dr. Levy, was the son of the owner of the Congress Cigar Company. Suffering from the competition of cigarettes, Congress Cigars had experienced a drastic loss of sales. In order to stem this continued sales decline, the company tried radio advertising by sponsoring the popular La Palina Smoker program. After twenty-six weeks of radio advertising, Congress Cigar sales zoomed from 400,000 to more than a million sold daily (Chase, 1942, p. 43). Enthused by the effect of the company's radio advertising and the opportunities radio provided, Paley urged Louchheim to sell his interest in United Broadcasters to him. Paley then became president of United Broadcasters, while White remained president of the Columbia Phonograph Broadcasting Company. In January, 1929, the two companies merged and Paley became president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, the company that was created. CBS had formally begun.

Some other networks were:

1. The Quality Network was organized in 1929 with stations WOR (Newark, NJ), WLW (Cincinnati, OH), WLS (Chicago, IL) and WXYZ (Detroit, MI). It became the Mutual Broadcasting System in 1934.

2. The Don Lee Network began in 1929 as the West Coast branch of CBS.

3. The Yankee Network was begun in 1929 by John Shepard III with stations WNAC (Boston, MA), WAAB (Boston, MA), WICC (Bridgeport, CT) and WEAN (Providence, RI) participating. General Tire and Rubber Company purchased the network in 1943.

4. The RKO Network, founded in 1928, was an outgrowth of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum theater chain. It was purchased by the General Tire and Rubber Company in 1955.

5. Gordon McLendon operated the Liberty Broadcasting system, best known for its broadcasts of baseball games, about half of which were studio recreations. It went national in 1950 with 240 affiliated stations. At its peak it achieved a network of 458 affiliated stations before ceasing operations in 1952.

The radio networks that flourished during radio's golden years began to fade in importance with the coming of television. After World War II there were hundreds of stations that were not affiliated with networks. This meant they had many hours of programming to fill at little expense. DJs and recorded music supplied many of the answers as local radio programming began to become more important.

During radio's golden age, there were 56 million radio sets in American homes. By 1951, the number of sets had grown to 99 million sets, but the Hooper ratings showed the medium's popularity was fading. A comparison of some of radio's biggest shows in 1948 and 1951 shows this clearly:

PROGRAM	1948	1951
Jack Benny Show	26.5	4.8

PROGRAM	1948	1951
Bob Hope Show	16	3.2
Groucho Marx Show	12	5.0
Bing Crosby Show	18	3.8
Amos 'n' Andy	13.6	5.9
Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts	20.3	5.9

The old favorites had lost much of their audience. Quiz and giveaway shows enjoyed a limited success, but they were merely temporary stopgaps. Network radio was on its last legs in 1960. The only old favorites still on the air were the Breakfast Club and the Arthur Godfrey Show. These disappeared in 1968 and 1972.

18558 Netzorg, Benedetson. Organist (WWJ, Detroit, MI, 1932).

18560 Neubauer, Von. DJ (KLEE, Ottumwa, IA, 1956).

18561 Neumeyer, Joyce. COM-HE (KRSI, Russell, KS, 1956).

18563 Neuschwander, John. DJ (Music 'Til Midnight, KOOS, Coos Bay, OR, 1952).

18564 Nevada, Charles. Sportscaster (WTMJ, Milwaukee, WI, 1937–1940).

18565 Nevers, Ernie. Sportscaster (Scout Report, KSAN, San Francisco, CA, 1949).

18566 Neville, Bill. Newscaster (KROC, Rochester, MN, 1940).

18567 Nevin, Olvin. Soprano (KDKA, Pittsburgh, PA, 1924).

18568 Nevins, George. Tenor (WSM, Nashville, TN, 1928).

18569 New, James H. "Jimmy." Sports-caster and play-by-play broadcaster of Cartersville High School sports events (WBHF, Cartersville, GA, 1947; Jimmy New's Sports Show, WBHF, 1948–1949; Today in Sports, WBHF, 1950).

18570 New Adventures of Nero Wolfe. A fictional creation by Rex Stout, obese detective Nero Wolfe was more comfortable sitting in an easy chair contemplating the orchids he loved to grow than chasing criminals. Nevertheless, Wolfe was the intelligent sleuth whose orders were carried out by Archie Goodwin, his tough, smart assistant. Archie got the facts and performed the acts that brought criminals to justice, but it was Wolfe's brain and logic that actually solved the crimes. Santos Ortega portrayed the fat master detective on the first Adventures of Nero Wolfe radio series broadcast by NBC-Blue in 1943. Himan Brown was the producer of the first Wolfe radio series. A second series with Francis X. Bushman as Wolfe and Elliott Lewis as Archie was broadcast in 1945 (MBS, 1945–1946). A third series with Sydney Greenstreet was broadcast in 1950 (NBC, 1950). Greenstreet portrayed Wolfe as a traveling detective, completely opposite to Rex Stout's easy chair bound sleuth. Archie Goodwin over the years was played by some five or six actors in the various formats broadcast.

18571 New Arlington Hotel Orchestra. Instr. musical group (KTHS, Hot Springs National Park, AK, 1926).

18572 New Baby of 1939. From the time of its birth, the progress of a baby was reported periodically on the program. The first two programs of the series were broadcast from the hospital where the baby was born. The others were from the baby's home. Broadcast in cooperation with the Milwaukee Medical Society, the program included the baby's parents, doctors and nurses in "how-to-do-it situations" about the "radio baby" (WTMJ, Milwaukee, WI, 1939).

18573 New Big Show. A Pacific Coast music program the New Big Show featured host Frank Gage introducing vocal solos, instrumental trios and quartets and musical selections by Frank Ellis and his Trocadero Orchestra. Vocal selections were performed by Clarence Hayes, "the Voice of the South," with his guitar, Cookie the Sunshine Girl and the Charles Marshall Singers (NBC-Pacific Network, 1929).

18574 New Business World. Merle Thorpe conducted the information service program for business men (30 min., Saturday, 8:00–8:30 p.m., NBC-Red, 1930).

18575 New Century Brass Quartet. The brass quartet included: Harry Kisselman, 1st t.; Walter MacDowell, 2nd t.; Ralph Binz, 1st tb.; James Walde, 2nd tb.; and Loretta Kerk, accompanist (WFI, Philadelphia, PA, 1925).

18577 (The) New Jack Kirkland Show. Comedian Kirkland hosted the network variety show that featured Lillian Lee, Bill Gray, John Brown, Gloria Blondell, Dick Ryan, Doris Day and the orchestra of Lud Gluskin (30 min., CBS, 1946).

18578 New Mail Bag. Roy Baret and Jack Benkey answered listeners' questions about radio personalities, sang and told jokes on their sustaining weekly show (15 min., Wednesday, 2:45–3:00 p.m., KQV, Pittsburgh, PA, 1936).

18579 New Method Laundry and Petroleum Dye Works Orchestra. Company sponsored instrumental group (KTCL, Seattle, WA, 1925).

18580 New Monterey Society Orchestra. Popular club band directed by Elmer L. Cook (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1926).

18581 New Orleans Harmony Kings. New Orleans jazz band (WSMB, New Orleans, LA, 1925).

18582 New Penny. Actress Helen Hayes starred in the dramatic series written by Edith Meiser. Joseph Bell also appeared in the cast (30 min., Monday, 7:00–7:30 p.m., CST, NBC-Blue, 1936).

18584 New Willard Hotel Orchestra. Hotel dance band (WRC, Washington, DC, 1926).

18585 New World a Coming. The distinguished series by and about African-Americans starred such performers as Canada Lee, Maxine Sullivan, Hazel Scott, Marian Anderson, Art Tatum, Ben Webster, Roy Eldridge, the Hall-Johnson Choir, Josh White, Charlie Shavers, Roy Wilkins and Georgia Burke. The topics presented in the series were: "The American Negro Theatre," "The Negro Reporter," "The Story of Negroes and Health," "A Statement by the Black Community on D-Day," "The Negro in Early American History" and "The Meaning of V-E Day to Negroes."

Partially based on a book by Black writer, Roy Otley, the series was broadcast as a local New York program. The series always presented dramatic and documentary programs featuring famous Black performers (30 min., Weekly, WMCA, New York, NY, 1944–1945).

18586 New York by a Representative New Yorker. Newspaper gossip columnist and radio commentator Walter Winchell began his broadcasting career in 1929 with his lively program about New Yorkers and New York life. It was the beginning of a long successful broadcasting career. See also Winchell, Walter, and The Jerjens' Journal.

18587 New York Civic Orchestra. Symphonic music program (WTAR, Norfolk, VA, 1938).

18589 New York Edison Hour. The good music program presented classical and semi-classical music selections weekly (WJZ, New York, NY, 1925).

18590 New York Herald Tribune Observer. The Herald Tribune [newspaper] sponsored the news commentary program (30 min., Monday and Friday, 11:00–11:30 p.m., CBS, 1930).

18591 New York Oratorio Society. Singing group directed by Albert Stoessel (NBC, New York, NY, 1926).

18592 New York Philharmonic Orchestra. Symphony orchestra founded in 1925 (WGY, Schenectady, NY, 1925). The New York Philharmonic Orchestra, instr. mus. prg. began broadcasting in 1927 on Sundays for a variable period that might extend from 45 minutes to two hours (CBS, 1927). In 1930, the orchestra was conducted by Bernardino Molinari (60 min., Sunday, 1:00–2:00 p.m., NBC-Rec, 1930; CBS, 1935). For the 1936 broadcast season, guest conductors from November through April were John Barbirolli, Igor Stravinsky, Georges Enesco and Arthur Rodzinski. Soloists during this period were Metropolitan opera soprano Marjorie Lawrence; soprano Hulda Dashanska; pianist Frank Sheridan; Spanish cellist Yaspas Cassado; pianist Robert Serkin; violinist Joseph Sziegeti; and British pianists Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson (120 min., Sunday, 2:00–4:00 P.M., CBS, 1936). Prior to joining NBC, Arturo Toscanini also conducted the New York Philharmonic in the mid-1930s.

18593 New York Soup Box. John Wingate stood in front of WOR's studios to get the views of passing people, who were willing to speak on microphone for the listening audience (15 min., Saturday, 12:15–12:30 P.M., WOR, New York, NY, 1947).

18594 New York Spotlight. John Hamilton Coombs interviewed celebrities Monday through Thursday from a New York restaurant on Park Avenue. On Friday, Norton Mockridge, crime reporter of the New York World-Telegram-Sun, did the show with the focus on criminal investigative news (180 min., Monday through Friday, 12:00–3:00 P.M., WJZ, New York, NY, 1952).

18595 New York Symphony Orchestra. Symphonic orchestra conducted by Dr. Walter Damrosch (NBC, New York, NY, 1926).

18596 New York Times Youth Forum. Dorothy Gordon moderated the long-running program, on which some famous person discussed various topics with a group of young people. For example, the Times film critic, Bosley Crowther, discussed with them the question: "Is the influence of the movies still great?" This was an example of good radio programming directed toward young people (45 min., Saturday, 10:15–11:00 P.M., WQXR, New York, NY, 1951).

18597 New York Trio. The instrumental group included: pianist Clarence Adler, clarinetist Cornelius Van Vliet and violinist Louis Edlin, v. (WNYC, New York, NY, 1925).

18598 New Yorkers Trio. The vocal trio included Bob Meyer, Bill Baker and Cal Gooden sang "from the Zebra Room of the Town House on Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles, California." Roger Carroll was the announcer (ABC, 1951).

18636 Newman, Zipp. Sports caster (WSCI, Birmingham, AL, 1945–1947).

18637 Newport, Bill. DJ (Beale Street Jive, WMFT, Florence, AL, 1950).

18638 Newport, Joan. COM-HE (KSCB, Liberal, KS, 1957).

18639 News Comes to Life. The local New York program, sponsored by the Remington-Rand Company, was another of the many shows of the period that dramatized the week's news (30 min., Sunday, 6:30–7:00 P.M., WINS, New York, NY, 1936).

18640 News Digest. News commentator Scotty Mortland interpreted the news (KPO, San Francisco, CA, 1929).

18641 News Here and Abroad. Commentators William Hillman and Ernest K. Lindley supplied their analysis of daily events (15 min., Monday through Thursday, 10:00–10:15 P.M., NBC-Blue Network, 1942).

18642 News—No War. During World War II, the innovative program presented city, state and national news only. No war news was ever broadcast (KFRC, San Francisco, CA, 1942).

18643 News of the World. CBS called in their correspondents in the major world capitals to cover the news. The program was broadcast prior to World War II and during most of the war years as well.

18644 News on Radio. American social and cultural life was filled with momentous events during the years from 1920 to 1960, and all of it was chronicled by radio. After the first World War came the Great Depression, World War II and the Korean War, events that inexorably influenced and paved the way for the great changes in social attitudes and behavior that followed.

Many competent radio newscasters reported the day-to-day events during these four memorable decades. There also were a few brilliant analysts, whose thoughtful and objective commentary on the news brought understanding to their listeners. Far too many, however, were little more than rip-and-readers, who took their news broadcasts directly from their teletype machines.

Although some similarities may be found, most radio and television broadcasters today lack the best qualities possessed by the early giants of radio news broadcasting. Few electronic journalists can equal the scholarly preparation of Quincy Howe, the resonant voice and dramatic delivery style of Edward R. Murrow, or the honesty and integrity of Lowell Thomas. Perhaps this is the reason the public has lost so much respect for both print and broadcast journalists.

The issue of bias among early radio commentators was not identified as a problem by many listeners. A 1938 study, for example, conducted by the Columbia University School of Journalism reported that out of 300 radio commentators studied, only 1 of 7 were considered biased (Fang, 1977, p. 6). When CBS declared that news analysts should be neutral and objective, Hans von Kaltenborn, the dean of commentators, responded honestly that no commentator could possibly meet that standard. He noted that the selecting or omitting of news items, the shading of emphasis given to the bits he selects to describe, and every editorial judgment was an expression of an opinion. Kaltenborn's view would not be acceptable in most modern broadcasting newsrooms. Today we see the former employees of powerful members of the House of Representatives, the Senate and even the White House easily move into what is known as "broadcast journalism."

The names of many early newscasters and their radio broadcasts have been dimmed by time. Pittsburgh's KDKA broadcast the results of the Harding-Cox presidential election in 1920. Years earlier in 1916, Dr. Frank Conrad conducted experimental broadcasts from his garage on which he talked and played records. Perhaps Conrad at times even commented upon local and national news, but it is not certain that he did. Only his small listening audience of wireless operators heard him.

Regardless of who were the very first, certain pioneering newscasters, analysts and commentators of the 1920s can be identified. One such newsman was Frederic William Wile with his The Week in Washington (WRC, Washington, DC, 1923-1925; NBC, 1926-1928; CBS, 1929-1938). Another was H.V. Kaltenborn, who first broadcast his Current Topics program on WAHG (New York, NY) in 1926. Kaltenborn gained national prominence with his report of the 1938 Munich Crisis — an event he described in his book, I Broadcast the Crisis. Eating and sleeping in CBS Studio 9, Kaltenborn made 85 broadcasts during the 18 day crisis. Kaltenborn's feat was admirable, even though the Munich Crisis preserved world peace for only a year. During the Spanish Civil War in 1936, Kaltenborn described a battle, while hidden in a haystack located between the combatants (Sterling and Kitross, 1978, p. 176). Unfortunately, today Kaltenborn is generally remembered only as the radio newscaster who erroneously reported Dewey's victory over Truman in the 1948 presidential election.

Another early newsman was the swashbuckling, picturesque Floyd Gibbons. A figure right out of adventure novels, Gibbons wore a white patch over his left eye, which he had lost in the World War I battle of Belleau Wood. On his Headline Hunters program, Gibbons used his rapid fire machine gun delivery to recount his feats with Pancho Villa in the 1916 Mexican Revolution, his later pursuit with General John J. Pershing of Villa in Mexico and his World War I adventures. A genuine hero, Gibbons had received the Croix de Guerre and a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor ribbon from France. After an embarrassing episode that may have resulted from too much imbibing, Gibbons was replaced on his news program by Lowell Thomas.

If Gibbons was the adventuring soldier-of-fortune type newsman, Thomas was an adventuring intellectual, scholar and journalist, whose integrity and objectivity was never questioned. Even though Thomas was a conservative Republican, his listeners never got a hint of partisanship or lack of honest objectivity in his reporting.

Edward R. Murrow first came to national attention during World War II with his broadcasts from London at the peak of the German aerial blitz. Murrow's dramatic opening of "This ... is London" with his characteristic long pause added drama to his insightful account of the courage and perseverance of the British people. Equally important was Murrow's expert executive ability to attract and hire a group of newsmen that evolved into the prestigious CBS News division. If some of the division's luster eventually dimmed in the television era, none of the responsibility for its deterioration can be blamed on Murrow.

Sports events in radio's early days were always treated as news events, not merely as "sports." The Dempsey-Carpentier fight of July 2, 1921, and the broadcasts in 1923 of the Army-Notre Dame football game and World Series were considered news broadcasting "firsts." After the novelty of broadcasting sports events faded, an era of special features and stunt broadcasting began. There were broadcasts from airplanes in the heavens and from submarines beneath the sea. All of them, however, were more demonstrations of technical capabilities than legitimate reporting of the news. One of the stunts most frequently broadcast was the frying of an egg on a sidewalk during a blistering hot July or August day.

Some early broadcasts deserved to be called special features for their coverage of breaking news events. WGN's Quin Ryan broadcast many of them in the 1920s. It was Ryan who broadcast the Scopes Monkey Trial from Dayton, Tennessee, in which the "old time religion" was championed by William Jennings Bryan against the advocate of modern scientific thought — Clarence Darrow. Another special event described by Ryan was Floyd Collins' death as a result of his accidental entombment in a mountain cave.

Another historic special broadcasting event was Herb Morrison's description of the dirigible Hindenburg disaster at Lakehurst, New Jersey. Morrison of WLS (Chicago, IL) was making a recording of the airship's arrival when the great ship burst into flames and was entirely destroyed. Morrison's recording of the event provided radio with one of its most memorable as-it-happened broadcast moments. Although Morrison's account was recorded, three networks suspended their policy against playing recordings to broadcast it.

As early as 1922, the friction between newspapers and radio became obvious when the Associated Press warned its members that any use of AP news by "radio telephone" was strictly forbidden. Furthermore, the AP carried out its restriction by fining the Portland Oregonian a hundred dollars for using AP bulletins on radio to report the 1924 election. Other news services placed similar restrictions on the use of their material by networks and stations in 1933.

Radio and newspapers had not always been in conflict. In radio's early days newspapers frequently owned and operated stations. In fact, it could be argued that newspapers were vitally important in advancing radio's early development. In 1933 when it became clear that radio was in competition with newspapers for advertising, the wire news services, controlled by the newspaper industry, took action to forbid the use of their news services by radio in any unauthorized manner. The American Newspaper Publishers Association in accord with the AP, UP, INS, CBS, NBC and the Press-Radio Bureau agreed to limit radio to only two daily news reports of five minutes or less duration that could be broadcast only before 9:30 A.M. or after 9:00 P.M. Other restrictions placed on radio were that it was forbidden to broadcast sponsored news programs; not be allowed to perform news gathering activity; could not use any news not provided by the Press-Radio News Bureau, or do anything other than broadcast original interpretation and commentary. No hard news was permitted other than that broadcast during the prescribed time periods.

Public demand for more radio news eventually broke the 1933 agreement. United Press (UP) and the International News Service (INS) began providing radio stations with news that could be sponsored. The following year the Associated Press (AP) took similar action. Radio had won the battle. Stations could now gather and broadcast the news and comment upon it.

World War II presented radio with the challenge to not only report the news, but also to maintain and boost civilian morale whenever possible. In England, civilian morale was boosted by the work of such entertainers as Vera Lynn ("The Sweetheart of the Forces") and Gracie Fields ("Our Gracie"). Even more important were the BBC speeches of prime minister Winston Churchill, whose stirring rhetoric personified the tradition of British bravery and tenacity at its best. By contrast, President Roosevelt's radio Fireside Chats were effective in combating the paralyzing economic fears of Americans during the Depression years. Oddly enough, Doctor New Deal never made a fully successful transition to Doctor Win-the-War on radio.

During the war morale was raised by newscasters like Edward R. Murrow with his descriptions of the stubbornly heroic resistance of the British and by Gabriel Heatter's proclamation each evening of "Ah, there's good news tonight." Even radio gossip columnist Walter Winchell became a weekly morale booster with his patriotic commentaries.

Radio readily demonstrated its creativity and technical facility during the war. Broadcasts originated from fox holes in the midst of combat and from the tail gunner's nest of a bomber on a mission. Broadcasts of this nature plus the many programs on which servicemen appeared to talk with their family and friends back home were powerful morale boosts. See also Wartime Radio.

Radio voluntarily submitted to wartime censorship during World War II. Any mention of weather conditions, troop locations or their movements that might help the enemy were not broadcast. Radio proved its value in World War II with its coverage by so many talented correspondents. Perhaps the most outstanding group of correspondents and analysts during World War II were those of CBS. Some of that network's correspondents and analysts were: Carroll Alcott, John Adams, Melvin Allen, Hubert Anderson, John Anderson, Charles Barbe, Dave Baylor, George Bryan, Griffing Bancroft, Mary Marvin Breckinridge, Philip Brown, Robert Best, Winston Burdett, Cecil Brown, Mallory Brown, Curtis Butler, Charles Collingwood, Ed Chorlian, George Cushing, Herbert Clark, Joe Congress, Ned Calmer, Tris Coffin, Bill Costello, W.W. Chaplin, Erskine Caldwell, Wells Church, Hugh Conover, Norman Corwin, Ted Collins, Harry Cramer, Eve Curie, Bill Cullen, Elmer Davis, John Charles Daly, Rex Davis, Bill Downs, William J. Dunn, Robert Emerick, Douglas Edwards, Erlin Ecklin, George Fielding Eliot, H.B. Elliston, John Evans, Robert Evans, Victor Eckland, Webley Edwards, William Ewing, Edward Fleming, Fransworth Fowie, George Folster, Harry W. Flannery, James Fleming, John Fisher, Louis Fischer, Noel Field, Felden Farrington, Jack Findell, Charles Griffin, Thomas Grandin, Chet Huntley, Don Hancock, Edwin Hartrich, John Harrington, John B. Hughes, Joseph C. Harsch, Mark Hawley, Quincy Howe, Russell Hill, Ralph Harder, Richard C. Hottelet, Tom Hanlon, Bill Henry, George Herman, Chester Holcomb, Everett Holles, Ralph Ingersoll, Allen Jackson, Albin Johnson, Hugh Jenks, Russell Jones, Alexander Kendrick, H.V. Kaltenborn, Jack Knell, John Reed King, Walter Kerr, James King, Albert Leitch, Dan Lundberg, Larry Lesueur, Morley Lister, Robert Lewis, Tim Leimert, Bill Lang, Arthur Menken, Alice L. Moats, Arnim Meyer, Chester Morrison, Don Moseley, Edward Montgomery, Edward R. Murrow, George Moorad, Harry Marble, Janet Murrow, Kenneth Meeker, Larry Meyer, Paul Manning, Thompson Moore, Walton Moore, Tony Marvin, Dennis McEvoy, Joe McCaffrey, Paul Niven, Don Pryor, Ernest Pope, Fred Painton, George Putnam, John Purcell, Nelson Pringle, Capt. White, W.R. "Bud" Wills, Leigh White, Stan Wilson and Alexander Woolcott. Other war correspondents from various stations and networks are listed in the Wartime Radio entry.

The Korean War that followed World War II was a "television war." Radio news correspondents still performed their duties and reported to their listeners, but now they played only a secondary role. Radio analysts and commentators were rapidly disappearing. Instead television newsmen, their camera men and television anchor men had replaced them at center stage. Television was now the chief medium the public used to receive its news.

A significant contribution to broadcasting seen on television today (1997) was radio's Meet the Press program. Developed and brought to radio in 1945 by producer-director Martha Roundtree in association with Lawrence Spivak, editor of the American Mercury magazine. The program brought news makers, usually politicians, each week to be quizzed by guest journalists. This program format currently (1998) is used by all national networks and many local television stations. See also Howe, Quincy; Murrow, Edward R.; Ryan, Quin; Thomas, Lowell; Wile, Frederic William; Winchell, Walter; Meet the Press and Wartime Radio.

18645 News Testers. Leonard M. Leonard conducted the quiz show that gave each winning participant five dollars. Leonard compiled and selected the questions that he used on the program from newspapers (15 min., Weekly, MBS, 1938).

18647 Newsom, Oscar. DJ (Rise and Shine, WWGS, Tifton, GA, 1949).

18648 Newsome, Buck. DJ (Melody Corner, KYMA, Yuma, AZ, 1949).

18649 Newsome, (Mrs.) Francis. Pianist (WNAC, Boston, MA, 1923).

18650 Newsome, Gil. DJ (Bandstand Revue, KWK, St. Louis, MO, 1948-1960; First Five, KWK, 1948-1960). Newsome, a former announcer on Coca-Cola's popular Spotlight Bands program, left that show to become a well known St. Louis DJ.

18652 Newstrom, Elmer. Leader (Elmer Newstrom Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WIND, Chicago, IL, 1935).

18653 Newton, David. Newscaster (WKWF, Key West, FL, 1948).

18654 Newton, Dwight. Newscaster (KPO, San Francisco, CA, 1945).

18679 Nick and Noodnick. DJ team not otherwise identified (KROW, Oakland, CA, 1954).

18680 Nick Carter, Master Detective. Nick Carter was the fictional creation of John Russell Coryell. When Carter came to MBS radio in 1943, he was joined by his assistants, Patsy and Scrubby. Nick was portrayed by Lon Clark. His assistants were played by Helen Choate, Charlotte Manson and John Kane. Organist Hank Sylvern supplied the music (MBS, ABC, 1943–1955). Carter's adopted son, Chick, also appeared on his own mystery adventure program, (Chick Carter, Boy Detective), fighting a villainous character known as the Rattler. The Nick Carter, Master Detective program's cast included: Helen Choate, Lon Clark, Raymond Edward Johnson, John Kane, Ed Latimer, Bill Lipton, Charlotte Manson, John Raby and Bryna Raeburn. The producer-director was Jock MacGregor, Alfred Bester, Norman Daniels, Ferrin N. Fraser, Milton J. Kramer, David Kogan and John McGreevey were the writers. Michael Fitzmaurice was the announcer (MBS and ABC, 1943–1955). See also Chick Carter, Boy Detective.

18681 Nickel, Betty. DJ (Nickelodeon, WHK, Cleveland, OH, 1948).

18682 Nickel, Phil. DJ (Melody by Moonlight, KSEL, Lubbock, TX, 1952; Recess for Rhythm, KENM, Portales, NM, 1954).

18684 Nickell, Joe. Newscaster (WIBW, Topeka, KS, 1939–1940).

18685 Nickelodeon. This program presented a radio burlesque of "old five-cent moving pictures" (30 min., Monday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1936). Earlier in the year, Nick- lodeon was broadcast one half-hour earlier on Tuesdays by the NBC-Red Network.

18686 Nickels, Jack P. Sportscaster (The Sports Special, KTRC, Santa Fe, NM, 1947).

18687 Nickerson, Gene. Leader (Gene Nickerson Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WHDH, Boston, MA, 1939).

18688 Nickson, Nick. DJ (950 Club and Musical Showcase, WARC, Rochester, NY, 1948–1950; WBBF, Rochester, NY, 1955–1957).

18689 Nidas, Dan. News analyst (KFKA, Greeley, CO, 1940).

18690 Nidiffier, Randolph. DJ (WBEJ, Elizabethton, TN, 1949).

18692 Niedermier, Rosanna. COM-11E (WPIY, Plymouth, WI, 1957).

18694 Nielsen, Paul. Newscaster (WGN, Chicago, IL, 1948).

18695 Nielsen, Sweyn Hildiry. Baritone (KPO, San Francisco, CA, 1923).

18696 Nielson, Paul. Newscaster (WBBM, Chicago, IL, 1945).

18697 Niersbach, Bill. DJ (Breakfast with Bill, WKBV, Richmond, IN, 1949–1960).

18698 Niesen, Gertrude. Vocalist (Gertrude Niesen, vcl. mus. prg., CBS, 1935).

18699 Niete, Charles. Newscaster (KTKC, Visalia, CA, 1946).

18700 Nieto, Raquel. Coloratura soprano Nieto was accompanied by Jose Perches (KFWB, Hollywood, CA, 1926).

18701 Night Beat. Frank Lovejoy played the role of Randy Stone, a newspaper columnist for the Chicago Star, who roamed the city streets on the sustaining show in search of interesting stories he found each week. Although most were mysteries, some were diverse adventure tales. Joan Banks, William Conrad and Iurene Tuttle were also in the cast (30 min., Monday, 10:00–10:30 P.M., NBC, 1950).

18702 Night Cap Yarns. Frank Graham skillfully told adventure tales for adults on the popular Pacific Coast sustaining program (15 min., Monday, 10:15–10:30 P.M. PST, CBS-Pacific Coast Network, 1939).

18703 Night Caps on Lake Erie. The late evening musical variety show presented, among many others, singers Jean Kibbey and June Ackroyd and banjo soloist Eddie Conner (WJAX, Cleveland, OH, 1924–1925). The program started at midnight and sometimes went on to 4:00 A.M. A rhyme that was repeated frequently on the program was:

A life on the wave from Lake Erie.

A cruise with the Nite Caps' Crew;

It's 2:00 A.M., but I don't give a whoop,

I'll stick till the gang gets through.

The gang of entertainers included: Phil Barker, the Harry Lauder of Cleveland; singer Carrabelle Johnson who led her Neapolitan Orchestra; the Metro Trio (June, Bell and Josephine), a skilled ukulele and vocal trio; operatic soprano Miss Rex Haller; and singers June McMahon, Josephine Peterka and Bell Barrows. The program's orchestra was led by Austin J. Wylie. Talent for the program was selected by Jim Few assisted by Frank Weisenberger.

18704 Night Court of the Air. Dramatized court cases were presented (CBS, 1936).

18705 Night Editor. Cardinet Candy Company sponsored the series of dramatizations of news stories narrated by Hal Burdick (15 min., Tuesday, 7:30–7:45 P.M. PST, NBC, 1935).

18706 Night of Opera. The Little Rock Community Music Association sponsored the weekly program of operatic music featuring singers: Gracie and Elizabeth Scherer, Billy O'Brien, Conrad Farrell and the Methodist Chorus directed by Mrs. I.J. Steed (KLRA, Little Rock, AR, 1929).

18707 (The) Night Owls. Ruth Meade and a number of other talented performers were featured on this late night variety show (KGW, Portland, OR, 1924–1925).

18708 Night Shift with Rayburn and Finch. Gene Rayburn and Dec Finch were DJ's with a difference. They traded witty banter, played records and frequently interviewed celebrity guests (60 min., Saturday, 9:00–10:00 P.M., ABC, 1950). See also Rayburn and Finch.

18709 Night Time on the Trail. CW mus. prg. by unidentified performers (KMBC, Kansas City, MO, 1939).

18710 (The) Nighthawk Frolic (aka The Night Hawks and The Kansas City Nighthawks). The original Night Hawk Frolic began in the early days of radio. The program was conducted by Leo Fitzgerald, who was known as "The Merry Old Chief." The music was provided by the famous Coon-Sanders Nighthawk orchestra. Listeners could write in to get a card issued by the Merry Old Chief to certify they were WDAF Nighthawks. At the peak of its popularity the Nighthawks Club enrolled two million listeners (WDAF, Kansas City, MO, 1922).

Originating in the early days of radio, The Nighthawk Frolic was a lively music and variety show conceived and conducted by Leo Fitzgerald, "The Merry Old Chief," and his assistant John Patt. Fitzgerald and the Coon-Sanders Orchestra broadcasting from the Plantation Grill of the Muehlebach Hotel in Kansas City were said by critics to have "half-a-world burning lights at all hours of the night." This was the era of DX (distance) radio listening and two million listeners from all over the country were tuned to their program.

Fitzgerald explained the program had its inception in the latter part of 1922. He said up to that time at WDAF (Kansas City, MO), they had merely followed the stereotyped formula of introducing a singer or musician in the studio and allowing the performer to sing or play.

Fitzgerald got the idea that he would allow the public to listen to the atmosphere as well. He said, "the hottest thing in town at that time was the Coon-Sanders Orchestra, playing at the local Newman Theatre and at the Hotel Muehlebach. [Therefore] We installed microphones in the hotel, and the next night we were on the air. The listeners had their first taste of transferring a night club into the ether where they heard the chatter of dancers, the playing of the orchestra and such popular pieces of the day as "Gallagher and Sheen" and "Running Wild" (Shurdick, 1946, p.60)."

Fitzgerald had definite ideas about how and why the program attained such popularity throughout the country: "The band would play fifteen minutes and then there would be a ten minute lull that offered a very difficult problem until we started to read telegrams and make alleged wisecracks, which later proved almost as popular as the music. I think the real success of the Night Hawks was that it gave every little town throughout the country its own night club. It was a custom then to gather a few jugs of corn, hold a party and wait for the Night Hawks to start broadcasting for the evening's entertainment. The corn probably contributed as much as the Night Hawks did to the evening" (Shurdick, 1946, pp. 60-61).

The program was known variously as The Night Hawks, The Kansas City Nighthawks and The Nighthawk Frolic. It was one of the most popular programs of early radio. It gained popularity for both Fitzgerald and the Coon-Sanders Orchestra. The Coon-Sanders Nighthawks Orchestra moved to Chicago in 1923, where they continued to enjoy great popularity broadcasting from that city's Blackhawk Restaurant on station WGN. See also Fitzgerald, Leo and Coon-Sanders Nighthawk Orchestra.

Since 1922, when it was initiated by "The Merry Old Chief," station WDAF had a program titled The Nighthawk Frolic. Although in the early days of radio the show was a live variety show, it eventually became a show on which the Merry Old Chief, now played by Bill Leeds, acted only as a DJ (The Nighthawk Frolic). Despite this drastic change, listeners could still obtain a card issued by the Merry Old Chief—a reminder of radio's early days (25 min., Saturday, 11:30-11:55 P.M., WDAF, Kansas City, MO, 1948). 19074 Olchi-Albi, Nicholas. Cellist (KNX, Hollywood, CA, 1928-1929).

19075 Old, Chuck. DJ (Chuckwagon Jam-boree, WMBM, Miami Beach, FL, 1948).

19076 (The) Old Colonel's Reflections. The sustaining show presented Wes Carr as the "Old Colonel." When the Colonel wasn't discussing his warm, homey philosophy, he was singing oldtime songs with his rich bass voice (15 min., Monday-Wednesday-Friday, 6:30-7:00 P.M., WWSW, Pittsburgh, PA, 1936).

19077 (The) Old Company Program. Old Company Coal Company sponsored the concert music program featuring tenor Reinald Werenrath (30 min., Weekly, NBC-Blue, 1929).

19078 (The) Old Company Singalong. Old Company Coal also sponsored the light music program with a sing-a-long format. The performers included baritone Vernon Archibald, baritone Frank Croxton, tenor Charles Harrison, tenor Lambert Murphy and pianist Arthur Leonard. Milton C. Cross was the announcer (30 min., Sunday, 6:30-7:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1929). Later the day and time changed (30 min., Friday, 9:30-10:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1930).

19079 (The) Old Counsellor. General financial questions were answered by the "Counsellor." Music was supplied by the Andy Sanella Orchestra. The program was sponsored by Halsey, Stewart stock brokers (NBC-Red Network, 1929).

19080 Old Cowhand. CW vcl. mus. prg. by unidentified singer (WCAU, Philadelphia, PA, 1938).

19081 (The) Old Dirt Dobber. Joy Floral Company sponsored Tom Williams on the local gardening show. Williams as the Old Dirt Dobber previously had been broadcasting nationally to his loyal gardening listeners for many years (15 min., Monday through Friday, 8:15-8:30 A.M., WLAC, Nashville, TN, 1946).

19082 (The) Old-Fashioned Revival Hour (aka The Joyful Hour). Charles E. Fuller, who first began broadcasting revival services in 1933 over KGER (Long Beach, CA), initiated his Old-Fashioned Revival Hour on KNX (Hollywood, CA) the following year. After attracting a large listening audience, the program switched to MBS in 1937. The program began on only 13 Mutual stations, two years later the program was carried on all 152 network affiliates and heard by an estimated audience of ten million. See also Fuller, Charles E.

19083 Old First Church Orchestra. Religious musical group (WBZ, Springfield, MA, 1926).

19084 Old Gold All-American Football News. Thornton Fisher and coach Slip Madigan of St. Mary's College conducted the football news program sponsored by Old Gold cigarettes (NBC, 1935).

19085 Old Gold Character Reading. Old Gold cigarettes sponsored numerologist Lorna Fanfin. She broadcast "numerological [sic] observations" on news events of the day, character analysis of the famous — living and dead — plus forecasts of the future. She had listeners send in their full names and birth dates for individual numerology readings (15 min., Tuesday, 8:15–8:30 P.M., CBS, 1931).

19086 Old Gold Hour. The music program featuring the Paul Whiteman Orchestra was broadcast from Los Angeles, while the band was in Hollywood filming "The King of Jazz." At the time the Whiteman band included Eddie Lang, Frank Trambauer, Joe Venuti and Bix Biederbecke. Bing Crosby and the Rhythm Boys were kept busy crooning "Mississippi Mud" on these shows. The program was first broadcast January 4, 1928 (60 min., Wednesday, NBC-Red, 1928–1929).

19087 Old Gold Party Time. Bert Parks hosted the local talk and music show sponsored by Old Gold Cigarettes. Singer Kay Armen sang and the Buddy Weed Trio played the music. Don Hancock was the announcer (15 min., Monday through Friday, 1:00–1:15 P.M., WJZ, New York, NY, 1949).

19088 Old Gold Program. The Old Gold Program was a variety show sponsored by Old Gold Cigarettes. Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians [orchestra] was featured. When the program began, humor was supplied by comedian John Medbury. Later, a "Negro mammy" character, Mandy Lou, was added and, later still, comedian George Givot, "the Greek Ambassador of Good Will." Despite the additions of new comedians, John Medbury still wrote all the comic material used (1933). Moran and Mack also performed at times on the show. Later that same year other format changes were made. Music was still supplied by Fred Waring's orchestra, but Harry Richman was added to provide vocals and Milton Berle the comedy. David Ross was the announcer. Variety praised the show as very entertaining (30 min., Friday, 10:30–11:00 P.M., WOR, Newark, NJ, 1933).

Still later, the Old Gold Show's format changed once again: Don Ameche hosted the new variety show format with regular performers Claire Trevor, Pat Friday, Six Hits and a Miss and Victor Young's Orchestra. Each week Ameche and Trevor acted in a dramatization of a Mark Hellinger short story (30 min., Friday, 10:00–10:30 P.M., NBC-Red, 1940).

In 1947, another format change took place on The Old Gold Show (then sometimes referred to as The Frank Morgan Show). This version featured the entertaining comedy of Frank Morgan and a sketch about the Bickersons (Don Ameche and Frances Langford). Weekly guests, such as Dinah Shore, appeared. Carmen Dragon's Orchestra and announcer Marvin Miller were other cast regulars. Phil Rapp was the writer-director. The program was produced by Mann Holiner and Frank Woodruff (30 min., Wednesday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., CBS, 1947).

19089 Old Gold Show. Herbert Marshall was the host and appeared in dramatic sketches each week with different guest stars such as Virginia Bruce. Comedians Bert Wheeler and Hank Ladd and the Merry Macs singing group appeared each week (30 min., Monday, 7:00–7:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1941).

19090 (The) Old Gray Mare Band of Brownwood, Texas. Popular CW music group (WBAP, Fort Worth, TX, 1926).

19092 Old Hayloft Theatre. Each week in the theatre "owned" by Al Halus the Aladdin Players, a WLS station group, was presented in an old-fashioned melodrama. The cast of these dramas included Les Tremayne, Hazel Dopheide, Dorothy McDonald, and Al Halus (30 min., Saturday, 9:30–10:00 P.M. CST, WLS, Chicago, IL, 1935).

19093 Old Heidelberg. A Tuesday afternoon program featuring the German music of Ernie Stenani's Orchestra (CBS, 1936).

19094 Old Heidelberg Ensemble. Instrumental group (Old Heidelberg Ensemble, instr. mus. prg., WMAQ, Chicago, IL, 1935).

19095 Old Hickory. An Iowa minstrel, not otherwise identified, sang old-time songs and accompanied himself on the guitar (KSTP, St. Paul–Minneapolis, MN, 1929).

19096 (The) Old Home Town. The weekly program supposedly broadcast a weekly entertainment held in a village school. Sid Ten Eyck acted as host on the novel program (30 min., Friday, 7:30–8:00 P.M., WCKY, Cincinnati, OH, 1934).

19097 Old Kentucky Barn Dance. William Aldridge produced the entertaining country music show featuring such talented singers, musicians and comics as Randy Archer, Janie Workman, the House Sisters, the Red River Ramblers, Robert Fisher, Maggie Mae, Tom "Cactus" Brooks, Tiny Thomwale, Bernie Smith, the Bell Family and Shorty Chesser. The annoncer was Bob Lawson. The program originated at station WHAS in Louisville, Kentucky (60 min., Friday, 7:00–8:00 P.M., CBS, 1952). By 1955, the Old Kentucky Barn Dance was still a network fixture. The good country music show by this time was hosted by Shorty Chesser who took over the host role from Randy Archer. Others in the cast included Mary Ann Johnson, Sleepy Marlin, Tom Brooks, Tiny Thomwale, Bobby Lewis and Martha Ford. The announcer was Bob Lawrence (60 min., Friday, 7:30–8:30 P.M., CBS, 1955). After being on CBS for four years, the last show on that network was broadcast December 22, 1956. By this time The Old Kentucky Barn Dance had been reduced to a 30 minutes format. Randy Archer returned as the host. He was assisted by singer Judy Marshall, violinist Sleepy Marlin and guitarist Bernie Smith. Tom Brooks was the announcer (30 min., Saturday night, CBS, 1956).

19098 Old King Cole. Designation for announcer N. Dean Cole (WHO, Des Moines, IA, 1924).

19099 Old Kitchen Kettle. Mary Wright dispensed information about fruit and vegetables, including everything from shopping for them to cooking them. Music was supplied by the Hilltoppers and a concert orchestra (15 min., Monday through Friday, 11:15–11:30 A.M. CST, WLS, Chicago, IL, 1936).

19100 Old Man Adam. Bud Raney, playing the role of Old Man Adam, was a good DJ. Adam Hats sponsored the show that allowed listeners to phone in requests. Old Man Adam would then mention their names and play the records they wanted to hear (300 min., Thursday, 11:30 P.M. to 4:30 A.M., WJIN, New York, NY, 1945).

19102 Old Man Sunshine. Bob Pierce sang songs and told stories that were inspirational and up-beat. Milton J. Cross was his program's announcer (NBC-Blue, 1929). See also Pierce, Bob.

19103 (The) Old Missourians. Nine-man country music band plus pretty blues singer, Jean Starr (KFPY, Spokane, WA, 1928).

19104 Old Music Chest. Phil Kalar and organist Ralph Waldo Emerson were featured on the quarter-hour music program (15 min., Tuesday, 11:15–11:30 A.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1936).

19106 Old Painter. Jack Holden used his rich resonant voice to read inspirational poetry. A soothing musical background helped set the proper mood (15 min., Monday-Wednesday-Friday, 12:30–12:45 A.M., WMAQ, Chicago, IL, 1937).

19107 Old Pirate and the Jolly Four. Music and jokes were provided by the Old Pirate and his jolly musical shipmates (KVOA, Fayetteville, AR, 1931).

19108 Old Skipper. Don Hicks in the title role told exciting stories of the early days of sailing ships on the sustaining program. These entertaining little dramas also contained sea chanteys performed by a talented male singing group that was not identified (15 min., Sunday, 11:15–11:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1933).

19110 Old-Time Break Downs (Square Dances). A.B. Williams of Jefferson City, Missouri, directed the CW music program and supplied dance calls (WOS, Jefferson City, MO, 1923).

- 19184 Olympics of the Air. Jack Starr conducted the sustaining sports quiz show (30 min., Monday, 7:00–7:30 P.M., KMBC, Kansas City, MO, 1938).
- 19185 O'Malley, Charles "Chick." Sports-caster (Sports Matinee, WACE, Chicopee, MA, 1948; Sports Page, WACE, 1949–1953). DJ (Tel-O-Quester, WACE, 1950).
- 19186 O'Malley, "Happy Jack." Violinist O'Malley was an old-time fiddler and leader-manager of Happy Jack's Old-Time and New-Time Orchestra (WNAX, Yankton, SD, 1927–1930). O'Malley started his radio career after he won 13 old-time fiddling contests.
- 19187 O'Malley, Nan. Pianist (KFI, Los Angeles, CA, 1926).
- 19188 Oman, "Coach" Tury. Sports-caster (Speaking of Sports, WTJS, Jackson, TN, 1949).
- 19189 Omar Khayyam. Betty Webb and Stuart Buchanan starred on the weekly dramatic show that was heavy on atmosphere, mood and music. Romance was on the air (KHJ, Los Angeles, CA, 1932–1933).
- 19190 O'Moore, Barry. Irish tenor (WCAU, Philadelphia, PA, 1926). Leader (Barry O'Moore and the Bonwit Teller Ensemble, instr. mus. prg., WCAU, Philadelphia, PA, 1926).
- 19191 O'Moore, Colin. Tenor O'Moore sang on the Philco Hour of Theater Memories program with Jessica Dragonnette (NBC-Blue, New York, NY, 1927–1931).
- 19192 On a Sunday Afternoon. This sustaining variety show featured the Harold Stokes Orchestra, tenor Lawrence Salerno and the Three Graces, a female vocal trio consisting of Kathleen and Anette Bretzlaff and Patricia Clayton (30 min., Sunday, 2:00–2:30 P.M., MBS, 1938).
- 19193 On a Sunday Afternoon. Eddie Gallaher hosted the unusual show that combined live and recorded music. Regular cast members included singers Louise Carlyle and Stuart Foster performing with the orchestras of Alfredo Antonini and Russ Case (150 minutes, Sunday, 3:00–5:30 P.M., CBS, 1954).
- CBS tried yet another version of the earlier 1954 program with the same name. This time the host was Byron Palmer and the live music was performed by Joan Weldon, the Pied Pipers and Wilbur Hatch's Orchestra (30 min., Sunday, CBS, 1955).
- 19194 On Olympia. Students from Olympia High School who were studying radio wrote the program, performed on it and were the announcers (KGY, Seattle, WA, 1930s).
- 19195 On Stage. Elliott and Cathy Lewis, a husband and wife team, acted in many of the dramas presented on the series, after already having enjoyed a busy radio career. He also produced and directed the Suspense program. She had played the intelligent friend on My Friend Irma. Others who sometimes appeared with them on the On Stage program were William Conrad, Clayton Post, Peggy Webber and Ben Wright. Iud Gluskin's orchestra supplied the music. The program was written by Ricard Chandler (30 min., Thursday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., CBS, 1953).
- 19196 On the Spot. Ray Barrett roamed Manhattan to obtain man-in-the-street interviews on the spot (15 min., WEAJ, New York, NY, 1934).
- 19197 On Wings of Song. Tenor Roy Russell and the piano team of Virginia Johnson and Alma Green were featured on the entertaining music show (30 min., Sunday, 2:00–2:30 P.M. PST, CBS, 1936).
- 19198 O'Nan, Pat. DJ (Music Library, WINN, Louisville, KY, 1954–1955).
- 19199 Onandaga Hotel Orchestra. Hotel dance band (WGY, Schenectady, NY, 1926).
- 19200 Once Upon a Midnight. Alfred Hitchcock supervised and hosted the mystery show that included all the usual touches of mystery and suspense expected of a Hitchcock production (30 min., Weekly, ABC, early 50s).
- 19201 Ondarcho, S.C. Sports-caster (WBTV, Danville, VA, 1937).
- 19202 One Buck Private's Experiences in World War I. Al Rule recounted his war experiences while Ralph Waldo Emerson provided organ background music. The topics Rule discussed were: "Submarine Dangers," "A Funeral at Sea," "A Battle with Submarines," "Landing in England," "Crossing the English Channel," "Training for the Front" and "Our First Battle" (15 min., Thursday, 7:45–8:00 P.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1936). Rule's program was changed to Sunday at a later date.
- 19203 101 Ranch Boys. Andy Reynolds was the acoustic guitarist and leader of the CW music group that originally consisted of musicians from Oklahoma and Kansas. Smokey Roberts was the accordionist; George Lang the string bassist; and Cliff Brown the violinist. Named for an actual Oklahoma ranch, the group specialized in country-western music and developed a large following with their lively music and entertaining comedy routines (30 min., Monday through Friday, 8:30–9:00 A.M. and 30 min., Monday through Friday, 3:30–4:00 P.M., WSBA, York, PA, 1943–1944). Later in the 1940s the group recorded for Columbia Records and broadcast coast-to-coast on ABC. Eberly (1992, p. 10) notes that the success achieved by station WSBA might not have been reached so quickly if it had not been for the 101 Ranch Boys. Both the group's career and the station's success was advanced when Louis Vyrer, the conductor of the York Symphony Orchestra, became station manager of WSBA. Although he had followed a quite different musical path, Vyrer liked the CW music the 101 Ranch Boys played and increased their air time on WSBA. The group went on the ABC network in the late 1940s, where their program ran for four years on a sustaining basis. On their network show the group played straight CW music, omitting the comedy routines at which they were so adept (30 min., Saturday, 12:00-12:30 P.M., ABC).

19204 174th Infantry Band. Still another military band (WGR, Buffalo, NY, 1926).

19205 172nd Field Artillery Band of Manchester. The military band joined with the Cotillions Dance Orchestra on station WBRL's first broadcast (Manchester, NH, 1925).

19206 116th Regimental Band of the Washington National Guard. Military band that presented weekly radio concerts (KFOA, Seattle, WA, 1924).

19207 136th Field Artillery Band. Military band (WHAS, Louisville, KY, 1926).

19208 (The) $1,000 Reward. This was an unusual sustaining program that combined a mystery drama with a listener participation quiz. Before the mystery drama was completed, a listener was called and asked to solve the mystery. The correct answer brought the listener a prize of a thousand dollars on this "mystery version" of Stop the Music. Ralph Bell, Esther Everett, Ken Lynch and Bill Smith were in the cast. John Sylvester was the program host. Ken Roberts was the announcer (30 min., Sunday, 7:00-7:30 P.M., NBC, 1950).

19209 One Man's Family. The distinguished evening serial drama, One Man's Family was created and written by Carleton E. Morse. One Man's Family was extraordinary for the quality of its writing, acting and longevity. According to Buxton and Owen (1972, p. 179), it was the longest running serial drama on American radio, running as it did from April 19, 1932 to May 8, 1959.

Comfortably situated in the outskirts of San Francisco, just below the Golden Gate Bridge, was Sea Cliff, the comfortable upper-middle class home of Henry and Fanny Barbour, the Mother and Father Barbour of One Man's Family. Although his was the title role, Henry Barbour's life was shared and positively influenced by his wife, Fanny. Well-to-do Henry was a retired stockbroker, the family patriarch of a large extended family consisting of numerous children and grandchildren.

The program was first broadcast on the NBC-West Coast network in 1932 on a sustaining basis. It became a national show May 17, 1933, on the NBC-Red network, where it ran with varying time formats until the last broadcast on May 8, 1959. The show was exceptional, not only for its long broadcast run, but also for the high quality of the writing. Morse certainly deserves recognition as one of radio's most prolific and best writers. [Additional comment on Morse's writing is included in the Drama entry.] One Man's Family's characters aged naturally, made mistakes, matured and, generally, faced the usual trials and tribulations—large and small—found in everyday life. Although this was the story of an upper middle class family, despite the Great Depression they suffered no economic deprivation. With the approach of World War II the family had members go into service and even experienced the death of a loved one and the captivity of others by the Nazis. In short, the program's characters seemed to be real members of the class they were portraying. Throughout the entire series Morse's thoughts and philosophy were strongly expressed.

It was probably Morse's philosophy and values that were chiefly responsible for the program's longevity. Perhaps the two chief messages the program stated and reiterated frequently were: The family was the most important factor in maintaining satisfactory levels of individual, national and world standards of living [conduct]; a strong belief in the value of patriotism and American democratic ideals should be encouraged.

A strong expression of these values can be found in a 1938 publication, One Man's Family Looks at Life (1938), that echoed the program's ideology. In that publication, the family is portrayed as sitting in a comfortable living room discussing the worsening world and national situation. One expresses the thought that it is impossible to isolate oneself from the troubled times: "What's one man's trouble is every man's trouble." The recurring theme of individual responsibility was begun with Father Barbour's statement: "To begin with, it's my opinion that the family is the source whence comes the moral strength of a nation. And the disintegration of any nation begins with the disintegration of the family. The family is the smallest unit in society. Million and millions of these little units make a nation. And the standards of living set up by these units indicate the high or low standards of a nation."

He continued:

I think that you'll find that today there are more broken homes, more divorced men and women, more children without one of their parents than at any time in the history of the world... It's a primary cause. The world's in confusion. Why? In my opinion it's mainly because national thought is confused. Why? Because the thoughts of the citizens of each nation are confused. Again why? Because something has happened to the individual... something that shakes his faith in himself and in all the established institutions he's always believed in.

Father Barbour identified divorce as a major problem:

If a child's world is wrecked before his eyes, what has he to cling to? It immediately colors his conception of the whole world. Immediately his mind forms the belief that there is nothing solid, nothing stable, nothing that he can ever quite believe in, and he grows to manhood a cynical, unbelieving citizen, certain that the only law of the universe is "every man for himself."

Mother Barbour placed much of the responsibility on women:

Why, half the wives I know whimper at the least inconvenience. They feel imposed upon if they are forced to spend their time looking after their children. They dodge responsibility, ignore duty, and dissipate a lot more than is good for them. Well, I'm not talking about bad women.... I'm talking about the new generation of young wives. They're not bad and they're not without courage and honor, but they've simply been perted and humored and spoiled until they don't know anything else.

When the discussion turned to economic conditions, younger son, Clifford, discussed the discord between employees and employers. He deplored it and expressed the need for a common meeting ground between them:

Seriously though, it seems to me that the answer is plain enough... the reason for unpleasantness between worker and employer is simply a lack of understanding! They're too far apart in their points of view, and naturally if you don't understand a person you're a little suspicious and afraid of him. Everything he does you try to interpret as a move to hurt you. So you've got to find a common meeting ground. I mean a common denominator for employer and employee.

As was so often the case, Paul, the elder son, supplied the final concluding statement. He had served as a fighter pilot in World War I and was wounded when he was shot down. He discussed the grim world situation of 1938 and called for individual responsibility in considering the "prospect of war and the rumors of war facing the world of 1938." He suggested that people all over the world believe that the only way out "of all this mess is to return to the fundamental principles each of us learned at his mother's knee."

When war came, all members of the Barbour family made their contributions no matter how much personal suffering it entailed. Although some critics contended that Morse was frequently too preachy, it was obviously preaching that his audience wanted to hear and believe. His was the voice of middle class American values, hopes and dreams.

Over the years One Man's Family was on the air, the program carried several premium offers. Frequently the number of premium requests by listeners were astounding. For example, an offer of a family picture book in 1934, when the program was still being carried only by the NBC-Pacific network, elicited more than 110,000 premium requests. Even though this was a large figure for regional coverage, a later 1937 offer made when the program was on the full NBC network drew more than half a million requests. The major cast members remained in their original roles for an extended period. There were few changes that took place. The most memorable roles and the actors that originally portrayed them were Father Barbour (played by J. Anthony Smythe), Mother Barbour (Minetta Ellen), Paul (Michael Raffetto), Clifford (Barton Yarborough), Hazel (Bernice Berwin), Jack (Page Gilman), and Claudia (Kathleen Wilson).

These performers not only originated their roles, but stayed with them during most of the program's run. Over the years the cast members included: Mary Adams, Barbara Jo Allen, Robert (Bob) Bailey, Jeanne Bates, Dawn Bender, Tommy Bernard, Bernice Berwin, Conrad Binyon, Henry Blair, Bill Bouchee, Francis X. Bushman, Herb Butterfield, Michael Chaplin, Tom Collins, Frank Cooley, Lloyd Corrigan, Mary Jane Croft, Dix Davis, Sharon Douglas, Sam Edwards, Jack Edwards, Jr., Minetta Ellen, Norman Fields, Laurette Fillbrandt, Eddie Firestone, Jr., David Frankham, Barbara Fuller, Page Gilman, William Green, Virginia Gregg, Mary Lou Harrington, Clarence Hartzell, Bert Horton, Floy Margaret Hughes, Billy Idelson, Cy Kendall, Lou Krugman, Mary Lansing, Leone Ledoux, Earl Lee, Jana Leff, Forrest Lewis, Susan Luckey, Wally Maher, Maurice Manson, Charles McAllister, James McCallion, Mary McGovern, Tyler McVey, Dickie Meyers, Marvin Miller, Helen Musselhran, Jeanette Nolan, Jay Novello, Susan Odin, Jill Oppenheim, Dan O'Herlihy, Walter Patterson, Victor Perrin, Ken Peters, George Pirrone, Frank Provo, Michael Raffetto, George Rand, Jean Rouverol, Ann Shelley, J. Anthony Smythe, Marilyn Steiner, Naomi Stevens, Richard Svihus, Russell Thorson, Emerson Tracy, Janet Waldo, Anne Whitfield, Kathleen Wilson, Winifred Wolfe, Ben Wright, Barton Yarborough and Loretta Young. The organists who performed were Paul Carson, Sybil Chism and Martha Green. The directors were by Carlton E. Morse and Charles Buck, George Fogle and Clinton Twiss. Harlan Ware and Michael Raffetto also were the writers at times. The announcers were William Andrews, Frank Barton and Ken Carpenter.

19210 One Night Stand. The excellent long-running big band remote broadcast series began as part of radio's World War II war effort to promote morale. See also Radio in Wartime.

19211 One Night Stands with Pick and Pat (aka One Night Stands). The comedy team of Pick and Pat was featured along with the orchestra of Joseph Bonime (30 min., Monday, 7:30–8:00 P.M., CBS, 1935).

19212 One-String Danny and Banjo Slim. Otherwise unidentified instrumental duo (KFQZ, Hollywood, CA, 1926).

19213 One White Rose. Helen Gotwalt Miller wrote the program that was devoted to local Pennsylvania history (WSBA, York, PA, 1945).

19214 One World Flight. Norman Corwin produced and directed the program based on the trip around the world he took in 1946. During the trip Corwin visited 13 countries to talk with persons there from various walks of life. Although his talks also included interviews with various prominent persons in these countries, Corwin was somewhat disappointed with the documentary-dramas these interviews produced. One World Flight was a 13-part series (30 min., Weekly, CBS, 1947).

19215 O'Neal, Gertrude Ogdén. Pianist-vocalist (KFWM, Oakland, CA, 1927).

19216 O'Neal, J.B. Sports caster (WAYX, Waycross, GA, 1937).

19217 O'Neil, Chuck. DJ (The Chuck O'Neil Show, WFEA, Manchester, NH, 1948; WFEA, 1957).

19219 O'Neil, Jim. DJ (660 Club, KOWH, Omaha, NE, 1948).

19221 O'Neil, Leo. Tap dancer who performed on radio (WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1929).

19222 O'Neil, Lucille. Soprano (WJAZ, Mt. Prospect, IL, 1928).

19223 O'Neil, Pat. Irish baritone (KPLA, Los Angeles, CA, 1928).

19224 O'Neil, Paul. DJ (Commuter's Express, WNMP, Evanston, IL, 1950).

19225 O'Neil [O'Neill], Peggy. Singer, pianist, studio director and actress O'Neil played the role of Maggie on the Maggie and Jiggs program (WGES, Chicago, IL, 1928).

19226 O'Neil, Tom DJ (Be Bop Time, WNAO, Raleigh, NC, 1948).

19227 O'Neill, Dick. DJ (Melody and Rhythm Time, WCVS, Springfield, IL, 1949).

19228 O'Neill, Edward G. Newscaster (WCNY, Newburgh, NY, 1944–1946).

19229 O'Neill, (Mrs.) Gertrude. Reader-impersonator O'Neill was best known for her Scandinavian dialect sketch, "Tillie at the Photographer" (WCCO, Minneapolis–St. Paul, MN, 1927).

19230 O'Neill, Jimmy. Newscaster (KORN, Fremont, NE, 1944). Sports caster (KORN, 1944). DJ (Paging the Stars, KOWH, Omaha, NE, 1954–1955).

19231 O'Neill, Jimmy. DJ O'Neill became the first voice to be heard on KRLA, Los Angeles, CA, at midnight, September 1, 1959. After a musical interlude, O'Neill said, "You have been listening to KXLA. You are now listening to KRLA—Radio for the Young at Heart." Station KXLA, a Los Angeles station with a country-music format, became KRLA in 1959, when a young Jimmy O'Neill, a 19-year-old DJ began his regular program of recorded music (180 min., Monday through Friday, 7:00–10:00 A.M., KRLA, Los Angeles, CA, 1959).

19232 O'Neill, Johnny. DJ (WREV, Reidsville, NC, 1949; Sentimental Serenade, WAIR, Winston-Salem, NC, 1954). Sports caster (WMFR, High Point, NC, 1953–1956).

19233 (The) O'Neills. The O'Neills began as an evening program before becoming a daily daytime serial. The sponsor was the Gold Dust Corporation. Variety said the program had the potential to develop into an Abie's Irish Rose situation with both Irish and Jewish characters on the scene for a potential romance. The program was written by Jack Rubin and Jane West. The director was Carlo DeAngelo and Jack Rubin. The announcer was Ed Herlihy. The cast included: Charmé Allen, Marjorie Anderson, John Anthony, Arline Blackburn, James Boles, Betty Caine, Linda Carlton, Charles Carroll, Helen Claire, Roger DeKoven, Jimmy Donnelly, Violet Dunn, Ethel Everett, Roy Fant, Jessie Fordyce, Janice Gilbert, David Gothard, Burford Hampden, Adele Harrison, Josephine Hull, Gee Gee James, Joseph James, Kate McComb, John McGovern, Harry Neville, Claire Niesen, Julian Noa, Vivia Ogdén, Santos Ortega, Lawrence Palmer, Selena Royle, Jack Rubin, Chester Stratton, Alfred Swenson, Jimmy Tansy, Gladys Thornton, James Van Dyk, Jane West, Betty Winkler and Lawson Zerbe (MBS, CBS, NBC, 1934–1943).

19234 Onli Serenade. The good music program was broadcast twice weekly at different times. The orchestra of Joseph Lugar, soprano Edith Karen and baritone Horace Capps was featured (15 min., Tuesday, 10:00–10:15 P.M. and Sunday 2:15–2:30 P.M., WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1936).

19235 Onslow, Jack. Sports caster (WAAB, Boston, MA and WNAC, Boston, MA, 1937).

19236 Oosling, Marion. COM-HE (WRLZ, Kalamazoo, MI, 1956).

19237 (The) Open Door. Sandra Michael wrote the daytime serial drama that Variety called an imitation of One Man's Family without that show's easy pace. The leading character of the story was Dean Erik Hansen of Jefferson College. Hansen's daughter, Liza, now a widow, had married the wrong man. Further plot complications began when her son, Jeff, came to live in Dean Hansen's house. The Dean was played by Dr. Alfred Dorf, a minister from Brooklyn. Others in the cast were: Charlotte Holland and Alex Scourby. The narrator was Arnold Moss. Chase and Sanborn Coffee sponsored the show. After Sandra Michael left, the program was written by Doris Follitt (15 min., Monday through Friday, 10:15–10:30 A.M., NBC-Red, 1943).

19238 Open House. Baritone Nelson Eddy, soprano Francia White and the Josef Pasternack Orchestra performed on the music program sponsored by the Vick Chemical Company (30 min., Sunday, 7:00–7:30 P.M. CST, CBS, 1936).

19239 Open House (aka The Ona Munson Show). Movie-radio actress Munson interviewed radio personalities on the quarter-hour show. Anita Ellis sang with the Lud Gluskin Orchestra. The announcer was Jay Stewart (15 min., CBS, 1944).

19240 (An) Open Letter on Race Hatred. The program was produced at the suggestion of Walter White, then president of the N.A.A.C.P., with the cooperation of CBS head William Paley. This was one of the few times when network radio presented a program that attempted to assess the role of African-Americans in the nation's life (30 min., CBS, 1943).

19241 (The) Open Road. Red Quinlan, an 18 year old, starred in the dramatized story that told how he had traveled some 6,000 miles walking by foot, hitchhiking by thumb, and by rail on trains. Variety noted that the program attempted to keep youth from "taking wrong paths" in their search for fortune and gold (15 min., Monday, 10:45–11:00 P.M., NBC, 1935).

19242 Opera on Radio. One of early radio's greatest cultural contributions was the rich treasure trove of operatic fare broadcast. Early radio provided listeners with a varied operatic repertoire. In 1910, Lee De Forest conducted an experimental broadcast of Enrico Caruso singing from the Metropolitan Opera's stage. On May 11, 1922, WEAF broadcast Verdi's Aida from the Kingsbridge Armory in the Bronx, New York. Performed by the Metropolitan Opera company, Aida was narrated by pioneer announcer, Tommy Cowan (WEAF, New York, 1922).

Chicago's KYW was the first station to present complete operas on a regularly scheduled basis in 1921 and 1922. When KYW was licensed in the fall of 1921, the station's management made the decision to make good music its chief programming. Distinguished radio historian Gleason Archer (1933) has given an account of KYW's decision to broadcast opera. He says that KYW executives needed programming to fill their broadcast schedule and attract listeners. Mary Garden, Director of the Chicago Opera Company, seeking favorable publicity and wishing to strengthen her company, consulted with KYW management and announced that her company's operas would be broadcast on that station. The effect on radio sales in Chicago and the surrounding Midwestern area was phenomenal. Prior to Miss Garden's announcement the number of radios in Chicago was estimated to be approximately 1,500. By the end of the first opera season that was broadcast by KYW, there were 20,000 sets in Chicago alone.

The Chicago Opera Company came to KYW because of the trouble plaguing the company. Director and conductor Gino Marinuzzi had resigned, because of the trouble in the company, which was losing the patronage of a wealthy businessman, experiencing internal conflicts, and, in addition, a drastic loss of attendance. In an effort to overcome all these problems, operatic singing star Mary Garden was persuaded to become the company's director.

True to her dynamic nature and temperament, Mary Garden made her first season as director a memorable one. First, she announced that American singers would be welcomed. Second, she assembled a stellar group of operatic stars such as Schipa, Galli-Curci, Gadske, Raisa, Dux, Lipkowska, Schwartz, Muratore and D'Alvarez. Perhaps most important of all, Garden, herself, sang two or three times each week. Third, Miss Garden saw the broadcasting of her company's productions as a means to alleviate the problems she faced of inadequate financing and an alarming loss of attendance. Neither Chicago, nor any other American city had ever enjoyed as rich an opera season. The company was saved and the next year the name was changed to the Chicago Civic Opera Company.

Radio Broadcasting News (January 20, 1923) used its cover to illustrate Ina Bourskayha, Feodor Chaliapin, Claudia Muzio, Amelita Galli-Curci, Anna Ludmila and Amata Grassi under a headline that read: Chicago Grand Opera Stars Heard Through Station KYW. The page 3 editorial elaborated on its cover illustrations:

By the time you receive this issue of RADIO BROADCASTING NEWS the Chicago Civic Opera Association will have finished one of the most successful opera seasons ever experienced in Chicago; a season devoted to popular prices, which resulted in packed houses every night during the entire run of ten weeks. At the same time radio broadcasting station KYW, one of the four large stations operated by the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, and the only station in the world to broadcast grand opera, concluded the most important, instructive, and entertaining feature of its daily twelve-hour schedule. During the entire opera season KYW put into the air productions of the best known operas of the Chicago Civic Opera Association, whose hearty cooperation made this feature possible.

The editorial went on to note that the station received thousands of letters from every state in the union thanking and praising them. It added that most of the letters were received from people living in more isolated districts where good music was a rare treat and opera only a dream. KYW broadcast a variety of music as the March 17, 1923 issue of the same publication indicated by showing a picture of jazz greats Noble Sissle and Eubie Blake seated at the piano watching Broadway performers Miller and Lyle on the stage performing Shuffle Along, a musical play that was broadcast by the station.

Both the Chicago Civic Opera Company and KYW were strengthened by their series of operatic broadcasts. The opera company enjoyed good publicity and KGY's evening listening audience greatly increased. When the opera season ended, there was a demand on the part of its listeners for more music with the same high musical standards they had been enjoying.

Bowing to listener expectations, the station hired a musical director and a group of studio (staff) musicians, among them Polly Willis (Polly Willis Archer). By year's end, KYW was able to maintain a 12-hour broadcast day, the most comprehensive broadcast schedule of any American station (Archer, 1938, p. 21). Beginning at 9:25 A.M., the station signed on with a report of the Chicago Board of Trade market prices, which were then repeated each half hour. News bulletins, musical selections and bedtime stories for children were also broadcast daily.

During the first two years of its affiliation with the Chicago Civic Opera Company, KYW broadcast performances of Aida, Carmen, Par-sifal, Tosca, The Snow Maiden, Il Trovatore, La Boheme, The Love of Three Kings, The Barber of Seville, Rigoletto, Cavalleria Rusticana and Madame Butterfly.

Some of the performers that KYW's listeners heard in those years were Angelo Minghetti in La Boheme; Ina Bourskayha in Carmen; Mary Garden in Tosca; Mary McCormic, Carmen; Forest Lamont, Cavalleria Rusticana; Edith Mason, Madame Butterfly; Louise Homer, Il Trovatore; and Ivan Streschenko in The Barber of Seville.

After KYW's initial offerings some of the other operas broadcast in 1923 were Verdi's Rigoletto and Othello and Massenet's Cleopatra. The cast of Rigoletto included Angelo Minghetti, Giacomo Rimini, Virgilio Lazzari, Doria Fernando, Kathryn Brown, Gildo Morelato, William Beck, Lolia Barr and Max Teft. Pietro Cimmini was the conductor. The Othello cast included Charles Marshall, Rosa Raisa, Giacomo Rimini, Maria Classens, Jose Mojica, Lodovico Olivero, Alexander Kipnis, Alfred Gandolfi and Milo Luka with Ettore Panizza conducting. The Cleopatra cast included Georges Baklanoff, Desire Deferei, Alexander Kipnis, William Beck, Gildo Morelato, Herman Dresben, Mary Garden, Myrna Sharlow, Alice D'Harmanoy and Jose Mojica. Dances were by Adolph Bohm, Anna Ludmila and the Corps de Ballet with Ettore Panizza conducting the orchestra.

Other Chicago stations met KYW's challenge by also providing opera broadcasts for their listeners. WMAQ in 1923 presented Ferrier's Monna Vanna with a cast that included George Baklanoff, Claudia Muzio, Edward Cotrevil, Fernando Ausseau, Jose Mojica, William Beck, Jane de Keyser and Gildo Morelato. Giorgio Polacco was the conductor. Later on December 25, 1923, WMAQ broadcast the Chicago Civic Opera Company's production of Humperdinck's Konigs Kinder at Chicago's Auditorium Theater. The cast included Charles Hart, Claire Dux, Alfredo Gandolfi, Maria Classens, Harry Steir, Vittorio Trevisan, Lucie Weston, Jose Mojica, Milo Luka, Ruth Lewis, Max Teft and Katherine Sutherlin. The orchestra was conducted by Isaac Van Grove.

One controversy concerning early operatic broadcasts remains unresolved. It has been suggested that local stations such as KYW and WMAQ in the early years of radio presented little more than condensations or one hour presentations of operas (Jackson, 1992, p. 4). Contemporary sources of that time do not provide a basis for such a statement. The belief that complete operas were not broadcast until the formation of networks is not borne out by contemporary accounts either. It is reported that network broadcasting of opera began with the Chicago Civic Opera's presentation of the garden scene from Faust on January 21, 1927 (Jackson, 1992, p. 4). A publication of the day carried the report that Faust, sponsored by the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company, was broadcast complete from the Chicago Civic Opera Auditorium on the NBC network, January 21, 1927.

KYW was not the only station broadcasting local [non-network] operatic programming. As early as March 15, 1922, Thomas Cowan at WJZ (New York, NY) arranged and announced Mozart's The Impresario with a cast that included Hazel Huntington, Regin Vicarino, Tom McGranahan and Percy Hemus. On March 25, 1922, WJZ presented a two-hour broadcast in English of Martha by the Bijou Opera Ensemble. The following year (April 2, 1923), WJZ broadcast Gilbert and Sullivan's The Mikado from the stage of Newark's Shubert Theater.

West Coast stations also offered early broadcasts of opera. KGY (Olympia, WA), for example, broadcast the complete Bizet's Carmen by means of recordings and story continuity on May 28, 1922. The Bohemian Girl with a cast of Albert Gillette, Robert Saxe, Waldemar Engborg, Edwin Heinsohn, Grace LePage, Eva Atkinson and violinist Robert Bourke was broadcast by KGO (Oakland, CA, 1926). Beethoven's Fidelio with Albert Gillette, Arthur Schmitt, Albert E. Gross, Ruth Louise Hullen, Herman Genes, Irene Weinmann and Gwynfi Jones, a chorus of 30 voices and a 30-piece orchestra conducted by George von Hegel was broadcast by KPO (San Francisco, CA, March 24, 1927). KFRC (San Francisco, CA, 1927) broadcast Gounod's Faust with Flora Howell Bruner, N. Garrett, Blanche Hamilton Scott, Georges Simondet, Jose Corra, James Isherwood and the KFRC Little Symphony Orchestra.

The NBC research department offers the conflicting opinion that the first complete opera was broadcast February 17, 1923, from the stage of the Metropolitan Opera. It is agreed that the opera was Wagner's The Flying Dutchman, but primary sources give the date as February 16, 1923. Jackson (1992, p. 4) suggests that another candidate for the first complete opera broadcast was the KDYL (Salt Lake City, UT) presentation of La Boheme, performed by an eight-piece orchestra and a cast of amateur singers.

There is no argument, however, that the most important event in operatic broadcasting took place on December 15, 1931, with the Christmas Day broadcast of Humperdinck's Hansel and Gretel from the stage of the Metropolitan Opera by NBC over 129 stations. Narrated by Deems Taylor with Milton J. Cross as announcer, it was the first of a long series of Metropolitan Opera broadcasts that over the years provided listeners an opportunity to hear hundreds of great artists singing the great operatic scores. The cast included Editha Fleischer and Queena Mario in the title roles and Dorothee Manski as the Witch. Also in the cast were Henrietta Wakefield, Gustav Schutzendorf, Pearl Besuner and Dorothy Flexer. The orchestra was conducted by Karl Riedel. NBC took over the opera house's box 44, where the engineers and their equipment shared the crowded space with commentator Deems Taylor and narrator Milton J. Cross. It was with this broadcast that Cross began his career as announcer and, later, narrator of the operas, a role that he played brilliantly until his death in 1975.

During much of the depression era, NBC broadcast the Met operas on a sustaining basis. George Washington Hill's American Tobacco Company, makers of Lucky Strike cigarettes sponsored the first series of 15 broadcasts from the Met during the 1933-1934 season. Listerine antiseptic became the second sponsor the following year. RCA was a later sponsor. After running on a sustaining basis for years, the first opera broadcast from the Met sponsored by the Texas Company (Texaco) occurred December 7, 1940, with the production of Mozart's Le Nozze de Figaro with Ezio Pinza, Salvatore Baccaloni, Jarmila Novotna, Licia Albanese, John Brownlee and Elizabeth Rethberg with Ettore Panizza conducting.

NBC broadcast the Metropolitan Opera broadcasts until 1943, when they were switched to ABC. In 1960, the Metropolitan Opera and Texaco formed a partnership to establish its own network to broadcast the operas every Saturday afternoon throughout the United States and Canada and to 22 other countries. The network required that stations carry the entire 20 week Met season and also to broadcast each opera live and in its entirety. The first opera heard on the Texaco-Metropolitan Opera network was Verdi's Nabucco on December 3, 1960.

The Metropolitan Opera broadcast format has changed very little over the years. Today (1998) it is essentially the same as the one used in 1947. A frequent feature was Opera News on the Air conducted by impresario and conductor Boris Goldovsky. The feature presented the news about opera plus many interviews with performers from the worlds of opera, theater and public life. Another intermission feature was the Opera Quiz. The Met broadcast of February 22, 1947 used the program's usual format with Milton J. Cross making the opening statement.

CROSS: Good afternoon, everyone. This is Milton Cross. Again on this Saturday afternoon as on every previous Saturday during the opera season, I am at my place in the broadcasting box of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York City, inviting you on behalf of the Texas Company to listen to the performance of a complete opera as performed at a regular Saturday matinee at this world famous theater. You are also invited to listen to the three Metropolitan radio programs which are brought to you during the intermission periods which occur in the stage presentation.

The matinee opera you will hear today is one of the six operas selected last season by the radio audience as their choice for the season's repertory. It is George Bizer's great masterpiece Carmen. This is the sixth and last of your chosen operas. The others have already been heard on Saturday broadcasts earlier in the season. They were Aida, Faust, Boris Godunoff, Der Rosenkavalier and Hansel and Gretel.

Our cast is headed by famous American mezzo-soprano Rise Stevens, one of the greatest interpreters of the fascinating Spanish gypsy, Carmen. The leading tenor role, that of Don Jose, whose infatuation with Carmen proves disastrous to himself and to her, will be sung today by Ramon Vinay. As this will be Mr. Vinay's first appearance on a Saturday broadcast, let me introduce him to you by saying that he was born in Chile, had a French father and an Italian mother, and that he began his singing career in Mexico. It is interesting to note that—like a number of other tenors—including Lauritz Melchior and Seth Svandholm, Mr. Vinay began his career as a baritone. Mr. Vinay's debut at the Metropolitan was made just a year ago, when he achieved brilliant success in the role in which you will hear him this afternoon—Don Jose. Contrasted with the rather flamboyant Carmen is the simple village maiden, Micaela, sung this afternoon by Nadine Connor. The young American baritone, Robert Merrill, will be entrusted with the role of Escamillo and from him we will hear the famous "Toreador Song." The two soldier friends of Don Jose, Morales and Zuniga, will be sung by John Baker and William Hargrave. There are other gypsies in the story beside Carmen and among them we will find Thelma Voripka, Lucielle Browning, George Cehanovsky and Leslie Chabay. The conductor for Carmen today is Max Rufold.

There are three intermissions in the opera Carmen and our broadcast will include three intermission radio programs. When the curtain falls at the end of the first act, Boris Goldovsky will present another Opera News on the Air. Appearing with Mr. Goldovsky in Opera News on the Air will be two of the most outstanding American artists at the Metropolitan—Eleanor Steber, a soprano, and Jan Peerce, tenor. Between the second and third acts we will bring you another meeting of the Opera Quiz, with our regular quiz master, Olin Downes, throwing in the questions and three well known quiz experts throwing back the answers—Sigmund Spaeth, Robert Lawrence and our special guest for today, Mrs. John DeWitt Peltz, editor of the illustrated opera magazine, Opera News. During the third intermission there will be another discussion of a pertinent operatic question in the series known as The Opera Round Table. Our Round Table participants today will be the director of the Metropolitan Opera Guild, Mrs. Herbert Witherspoon, the well known musical authority, Huntington Watts and the guiding spirit of Opera News on the Air, Boris Goldovsky. Robert Lawrence will be moderator at the Opera Round Table and the question at issue is as follows: "In an opera singer which is the most important? Voice, musicianship or acting ability?"

This all afternoon broadcast is brought to you directly from the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York City by the Texas Company, whose Texaco petroleum products are well known throughout the world. And now let me give you a brief outline of what happens during the first act of today's opera.

The story of Carmen takes place in Spain, a little over one hundred years ago. The scene of the first act is a public square in the city of Seville. On the right hand side of the stage is a cigarette factory. On the left a guard house with a group of soldiers lounging. Passers-by through the square and the scene is a brilliant one, with bright-colored Spanish costumes in the bright Spanish sunlight. Lieutenant Morales, one of the soldiers, notices a shy young girl crossing the square and approaches her gallantly. "I am looking for a certain corporal named Don Jose," she says. Morales tells her that Don Jose is not there, but will come in when the guard changes. Micaela is too timid to accept his invitation to wait for Don Jose and she leaves the square.

After the opera was completed, Cross closed the program in this way:

And now a timely winter message brought to you by the Texas Company. Every week that goes by adds to the strain winter has put on America's cars. And many a car may weaken under that strain — break down at a time when it is needed most. So a winter check up at this time would be an important part of every car owner's personal car safety campaign. It is in your own interest to keep your car in condition. It is also in the public interest. A check up now can save many a car — prevent accidents and help save lives.

The Texas Company hopes you have enjoyed the broadcast including the performance of Carmen, the Opera Quiz, Opera News on the Air and Opera Round Table. You are cordially invited to be with us every Saturday matinee throughout the New York opera season. This is Milton Cross, saying good-bye until next week at this same time, when the Texas Company brings to opera lovers everywhere another complete Saturday afternoon at the Metropolitan. This is ABC the American Broadcasting Company.

When Texaco had completed its fiftieth year of sponsoring the Metropolitan Opera's weekly broadcasts in 1990, a compilation was made of the operas presented and how many times each was broadcast. There were 133 operas broadcast by Texaco from 1940 to 1990, ranging from such familiar favorites as La Bohème broadcast 36 times to Porgy and Bess, four times. Favorite operas were broadcast many times. As of 1990, the most often broadcast operas and the number of times they were presented were as follows:

1. La Bohème (Puccini), 36.
2. Aida (Verdi), 33.
3. Carmen (Bizet), 31
4. Tosca (Puccini), 29.
5. Il Trovatore (Verdi), 25.

Both the diversity and number of operas that were [and are] presented by Texaco and the Metropolitan Opera indicates the significant cultural contributions these broadcasts represent.

Music critic and composer Deems Taylor in 1922 wrote in the New York World that radio would essentially be dead in three years, because the terrible reception then possible would never be improved and that performers would demand to be paid. Taylor who was the commentator in 1930 and 1931 of the Metropolitan Opera broadcasts and, later, the longtime commentator on the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra's Sunday afternoon broadcasts, admitted his mistake in 1937. In his book, Of Men and Music, Taylor (1937, pp. 303–304) estimated that each broadcast of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra reached nine million people. Since the orchestra's founding in 1845, Taylor made what he considered to be a generous estimate that some eight million people had heard the music live in the concert hall. Therefore, he said more people hear one of the broadcasts than those who heard a concert in person during the previous 92 years of the orchestra's existence. Consequently, Taylor concluded, radio certainly had made a significant cultural contribution.

The same can be said of the Metropolitan Opera broadcasts.

19243 (The) Opera Guild. Chase and Sanborn Coffee sponsored the broadcast of a condensed grand opera. The series was directed by Deems Taylor with music conducted by Wilfred Pelletier from the Metropolitan Opera (60 min., 8:00–9:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1935).

19244 Operatic Echoes. Music from various operas was performed by contralto Helen Nugent, soprano Rhoda Arnold, bass Charles Robinson and an orchestra conducted by Vincent Sorey (15 min., Tuesday, 9:00–9:15 A.M., WABC, New York, NY, 1932).

19245 Opfinger, Marie. Lyric soprano (WABC, New York, NY, 1929).

19246 Opheim, Don. DJ (Record Rack, KFAM, St. Cloud, MN, 1952).

19247 Opie, Everett George. Busy announcer, dramatic reader, continuity writer and director Opie (WQJ, Chicago, IL, 1925; WJJD, Chicago, IL, 1929) began in radio at KYW (Chicago, IL) in 1923 before moving on to WMAQ (Chicago, IL); WQJ (Chicago, IL); WIBO (Chicago, IL); WJZ (New York, NY); and KSTP (St. Paul–Minneapolis, MN). His early years in radio were busy ones.

19248 Opie Cates Show. Band leader Opie Cates left his band behind to appear in his sustaining situation comedy. Variety called him a "rural Dennis Day." The story told how Opie from Clinton, Arkansas, came to live at Mrs. Burdick's boarding house in a nearby town. Soon he encountered problems with life in general and his girl friend in particular. Also in cast with Cates were Francis X. Bushman, Barbara Fuller, Noreen Gommil and Fred Howard. The Buzz Adlam Orchestra supplied the music (30 min., Monday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., ABC, 1947).

19249 Opinion. On this man-in-the-street interview show, Tex Antoine with his tape recorder collected the opinions on various topics of the New Yorkers he met in the street (25 min., Sunday, 2:05–2:30 P.M., WRC-A, New York, NY, 1957).

19250 Oppel, Jerry. DJ (Today's Top Tunes, KOLE, Port Arthur, TX, 1948).

19251 Oppenheimer, Kitty. COM-HE (KTFM, San Raphael, CA, 1956–1957).

19252 Opper, Frederick B. News analyst (NBC-Blue, 1944–1945; ABC, 1947).

19253 Opry Spotlight. Ralph Emery conducted the influential all-night CW recorded music and interview show that immediately became a great favorite throughout the country (285 min., Monday through Saturday, 10:15 P.M. to 3:00 A.M., WSM, Nashville, TN, 1939–1957). It was said that Emery combined the skills of a journalist with that of an excellent CW music DJ. See also Emery, Ralph.

19254 Optimistic Do-Nuts. Comedy singing group (KNX, Los Angeles, CA, 1929).

19255 O'Quinn, Evona. COM-HE (WHAB, Baxley, GA, 1956).

19256 Oram, Richard. Newscaster (WMAN, Mansfield, OH, 1941–1942).

19257 Oravec, Frank. DJ (WGFB, Evansville, IL, 1948).

19258 Oravetz, Jule. Newscaster (WRJN, Racine, WI, 1938).

19259 Orbach, Henry. Newscaster (KFEL, Denver, CO, 1939; KARK, Little Rock, AR, 1940–1941; KFRE, Fresno, CA, 1945).

19260 Orchard Park High School Orchestra. Scholastic music group (WGR, Buffalo, NY, 1925).

19261 Orchestra Romaine. Popular radio band (KFVE, University City, MO, 1925).

19262 Orcutt, Eddy. Newscaster (KGB, San Diego, CA, 1945).

19263 Oregonian Concert Orchestra. Popular local band (KGW, Portland, OR, 1925).

19265 O'Reilly, Jay. Sports caster (WJLS, Beckley, WV, 1940).

19266 O'Reilly, Mike. DJ (Atomic Boogie, WJXN, Jackson, MS, 1949).

19267 Oreste's Peck Inn Orchestra. Club band (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1924).

19268 Orfield, Bennett. Newscaster (WTCN, St. Paul–Minneapolis, MN, 1938–1940; News Reporter, WLS, Chicago, IL, 1947).

19270 Organ Jubilee. Organist Arthur Hays played from Omaha's World Theater. Dr. Applesauce (Arthur A. Frudenberg) was the program announcer for WOAW (Omaha, NE) in 1925.

19271 Orgren, Dick. DJ (KLVC, Leadville, CO, 1956).

19272 Oriental Blue Bird Orchestra. Club music group (WEAF, New York, NY, 1924).

19273 Oriental Fantasy. Many "different countries of the world" were the scenes of stories dramatized on the half-hour show. Several of the stories presented consisted of six or more episodes. Ardis Long — staff writer of KFOX — originated and wrote the dramatic feature (30 min., 8:00–8:30 P.M., Weekly, KFOX, Long Beach, CA).

19274 Oriental Male Quartet. Radio vocal group (WLS, Chicago, IL, 1928–1929).

19275 Original Bostonians Orchestra. Popular Boston band (WBZ, Springfield, MA, 1927).

19276 Original Charleston Five Orchestra. Local jazz band (WNYC, New York, NY, 1925).

Original Country Boys see Gray, Otto

19277 Original Dixieland Jazz Band. Pioneer jazz band (WNI, Newark, NJ, 1925).

19279 Original Highland Syncopators. Local jazz band (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1923).

19281 Original Kentucky Night Owls. Jack Seligman directed the band (WHAS, Louisville, KY, 1924).

19283 Original Manford Aces Orchestra. Band directed by John J. Lesko (WHN, New York, NY, 1924).

19284 Original Midnight Serenaders. William A. Seibert directed the jazz group (WHN, New York, NY, 1924).

19285 Original Wonderland Syncopators. Club band directed by Edward L. Watts (WHN, New York, NY, 1924).

19286 O'Riley, Patrick. DJ (WAIT, Chicago, IL, 1956).

19287 Orilkoff, Abrasha. Violinist (KHJ, Los Angeles, CA, 1923).

19288 Oriole Orchestra. Club band (WEBH, Chicago, IL, 1926).

19289 Oriole Male Quartet. The vocal group's members were tenor Fred H. Dempster; tenor William U. Ellis; baritone Dennis Fox; and bass William K. Kleith (KFWM, Oakland, CA, 1928).

19290 Oriole Marimba Band. Novelty orchestra (WEBH, Chicago, IL, 1926).

19291 Oriole Trombone Duo. Brass duet team (WEBH, Chicago, IL, 1926).

19292 Orioles Orchestra. Local band directed by Raymond Atkins (KFI, Los Angeles, CA, 1925).

19293 Orlando, Don. Leader (Don Orlando Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., MBS, 1942).

19294 Orlando, Nicholas. Director (Orlando's Concert Orchestra, WRNY, New York, NY, 1925; Roosevelt Concert Orchestra, WRNY, 1926).

19295 Orlando's Orchestra. Orchestra directed by Herbert Somay (WJZ, New York, NY, 1924).

19296 Orlofski, Dorothy. Contralto (WFLA, Clearwater, FL, 1929).

19297 Ormandy, Eugene. Director (12-piece Hires' Harvesters Orchestra, NBC-Red,

New York, NY, 1927). Violinist-conductor (Jack Frost Musickers Orchestra, featured on a program sponsored by Jack Frost sugar company; musical director, Jack Frost Melody Moments program, NBC-Red, New York, NY, 1929). Ormandy's work was often praised by Variety: "Ormandy injects a lot of his musical personality into that fiddle when he steps into a cadenza." Ormandy later became the distinguished conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra (WABC-CBS, New York, NY, 1929). In 1929, he also recorded several selections under the name of Dr. Eugene Ormandy's Salon Orchestra.

19298 Ornelas, Manuel. DJ (Fiesta Time, KTKT, Tucson, AZ, 1952).

19299 Ornest, Stan. Sportscaster (WGBS, Miami, FL, 1950-1956).

19300 Ornstein, Leo. Russian pianist (WJZ, New York, NY, 1928). Ornstein also appeared on The Ampico Hour of Music (NBC-Blue, New York, NY, 1929).

19301 O'Rourke, John. DJ (KBNZ, La Junta, CO, 1956; KSOO, Sioux Falls, SD, 1960).

19302 O'Rourke, Leo. Tenor (NBC, New York, NY, 1929).

19303 Orowitz, Eli M. Orowitz conducted the Weekly Movie Broadcast programs with its news and reviews (WPG, Atlantic City, NJ, 1928-1929).

19304 Orphans of Divorce. Stage star Margaret Anglin and James Meighan starred in the weekly serial drama sponsored by Dr. Lyons' Tooth Powder. The story concerned a middle-aged wife divorced by her husband, who then married a younger woman. She allowed her children to stay with her wealthy ex-husband, while she opened a small shop to support herself. When her daughter experienced trouble with her husband, she re-entered the picture for she had already known the sorrows of divorce. The serial was another of the Frank and Anne Hummert productions. The cast included: Margaret Anglin, Charita Bauer, Warren Bryan, Richard Gordon, Louis Hall, Joseph Julian, Geraldine Kay, Richard Keith, James Krieger, James Meighan, Henry M. Neeley, Vivia Ogden, Effie Palmer, Patricia Peardon and Claire Wilson. The program's familiar theme was "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen" (30 min., Monday, 7:00-7:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1939).

19314 Orton, Hal. DJ (KRIC, Beaumont, TX, 1950).

19315 Orton, Ray. Singer (KTAB, Oakland, CA, 1925).

19316 Orton and His Ukulele. Instrumental soloist (KPLA, Los Angeles, CA, 1927).

19318 Orvis, Josephine. COM-HE (WJMJ, Philadelphia, PA, 1957).

19319 Ory, Kid. Leader (Kid Ory and his Creole Band, Various Stations, 1948).

19320 Osborn (Col.) F.M. Announcer (KFAJ, Boulder, CO, 1926).

19321 Osborn, Gene. DJ (KWWL, Waterloo, IA, 1948). Sportscaster (KWWL, 1949; KXEL, Waterloo, IA, 1951).

19322 Osborn, Wayne. Sportscaster (WINI, Chicago, IL, 1944).

19323 Osborne, Charles E. Osborne conducted a regularly scheduled physical fitness program (WFAA, Dallas, TX, 1924).

19325 Osborne, Harry. DJ (Haphazard Harry's 1-50 Club, KVMV, Twin Falls, ID, 1948).

19326 Osborne [Osburn], Howard. Leader (Howard Osborne's Vanity Fair Orchestra, WBBM, Chicago, IL and WEBH, Chicago, IL, 1926).

19327 Osborne, Jimmy. DJ (J.O. Jam-borice, WLEX, Lexington, KY, 1948-1950; Jimmy Osborne, 120 min., Monday through Friday, 9:30-11:30 A.M. and 30 min., Saturday, 12:00-12:30 P.M., WKLO, Louisville, KY, 1951).

19328 Osborne, Len. DJ (Len Osborne Show, WTBO, Cumberland, MD, 1952).

19330 Osborne, Roy. Newscaster (KRBC, Abilene, TX, 1945).

19331 Osborne, Tim. DJ (Tim Time, KTHH, Houston, TX, 1948-1952; KTHH, Houston, TX, 1956).

19332 Osborne, Wayne. Sportscaster (WJJD, Chicago, IL and WIND, Chicago, IL, 1946; Sports Roundup, WOPA, Oak Park, IL, 1955).

19333 Osborne, Will. Leader (Will Osborne's Nicollet Hotel Orchestra, WCCO, Minneapolis, MN, 1924; Will Osborne Orchestra, KVI, Tacoma, WA, 1929). Osborne also led the band on the Herbert's Diamond Entertainers program that was sponsored by a Harlem jewelry store. He frequently used medleys and announced his numbers against a musical background, closely imitating Rudy Vallee's popular style (WABC, New York, NY, 1929). Ironically, Osborne later subbed for Rudy on the latter's Villa Vallee dinner broadcasts in 1929. The band also broadcast on KVI (Tacoma, WA, 1929). In the next decade, Osborne's band appeared frequently (Will Osborne Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., 30 min., Tuesday, 11:00-11:30 P.M., CBS, 1930; Will Osborne Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., CBS, 1934; NBC, 1934-1935; WOR, Newark, NJ, 1936, 1940). The introduction to his 1940 network program was: "Listen to the glisten of the slide trombone from the Casa Manana in Culver City, California."

19334 Osburn, Jimmie. Banjo soloist (Jimmie Osburn the Barefoot Banjo Boy, CW music prg., WGBF, Evansville, IN, 1930).

19335 Oscar Brand Folksong Festival. Folk singer Brand performed on the entertaining sustaining program of folk songs. He was assisted by Ursula Brand and Daniel O'Donnell. Jean Ritchie also appeared frequently with Brand. Hillard Edell was the announcer (30 min., Sunday, 6:00-6:30 P.M., WNYC, New York, NY, 1945). The program was still being broadcast by WNYC in 1961.

19336 Osgood, Beatrice. Pianist (Beatrice Osgood, instr. mus. prg., CBS, 1935).

19526 Painted Dreams. The Painted Dreams serial drama originally was broadcast on WGN (Chicago, IL) as Sue and Irene, with the title roles played by Irene Wicker and Irma Phillips, the creator and author of the program. Sue and Irene was considered by WGN to have been the first "soap opera" broadcast on that station in 1930 (Buxton and Owen, 1972, p. 183). The serial dramatized the story of Mother Moynihan's boarding house and its inhabitants. When the program evolved into Painted Dreams, Phillips and Wicker continued in the cast with Phillips still the author. When Ms. Phillips left WGN, she originated and wrote Today's Children for NBC. Painted Dreams remained on WGN where it was written at times by Bess Flynn and Kay Chase. The Painted Dreams cast, in addition to Phillips and Flynn included: Dorothy Day McDonald and her daughter Jean McDonald, Kay Chase and Dick Wells (15 min., 11:45–12:00 P.M., 1934).

19539 Palen, Dan. DJ (Wax Works, WIAU, Laurel, MA, 1947).

19540 Paley, William. Creator and long-time head of the Columbia Broadcasting System. Paley was one of the pioneers of radio's Golden Age. In 1927, he placed an advertisement for his father's cigar company on Philadelphia's station WCAU. When cigar sales doubled, Paley recognized the commercial importance of the medium. Backed financially by his father, Paley purchased a floundering chain of 16 stations that eventually became CBS.

Paley was a skillful executive and an excellent judge of entertainment and popular taste. One of his major coups was the luring of Jack Benny, Edgar Bergen, Red Skelton and many other comedians from NBC to become CBS regulars. He also fostered the development of the CBS news department, one of the best ever created. Aware of the impact of broadcasting upon American culture, Paley did his utmost to combine cultural values with popular and commercial appeal and often succeeded.

19541 Palisades Amusement Park Dance Orchestra. Park dance band led by Adam Grefig (WHN, New York, NY, 1925; WGBS, New York, NY, 1928).

Weekly guests, such as Gladys Swarthout also performed (30 min., Tuesday, 10:00–10:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1934).

19573 Palmer House Victorians Orchestra. Hotel band (WJJD, Mooseheart, IL, 1926).

19574 Palmolive Hour. The Palmolive Hour was a concert music program sponsored by the Colgate-Palmolive Company, manufacturers of Palmolive Soap. The program featured "Olive Palmer" and "Paul Oliver," the names the sponsors used for soprano Virginia Rea and tenor Frank Munn. In addition to these talented performers, contralto Elizabeth Lennox and the Revelers Quartet performed to the music of Gustave Haenschen's orchestra.

The popular Revelers Quartet consisted of tenors Lewis James and James Melton, baritone Elliott Shaw and bass Wilfred Glen. Guest stars such as Fanny Brice, Claudia Muzio and Nellie and Sara Kouns appeared weekly. The program also popularized such instrumentalists as jazz violinist Murray Kellner, Hawaiian guitarist virtuoso Andy Sanella and Larry Abbott, who produced music with a comb wrapped in tissue paper. Phillip Carlin and Alois Havrilla were the program's announcers (60 min., Wednesday, 9:30–10:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1927–1931).

19575 Palmquist, Ron. DJ (Show Time, KMOR, Littleton, CO, 1960).

19727 Pascoe, Ken. DJ (Pascoe's Kitchen, KDB, Santa Barbara, CA, 1948).

19728 Paskman, Dailey. Respected showman, manager and director of station WGBS (New York City, NY), Paskman produced the station's spectacular inaugural broadcast in 1924, featuring Raymond Hitchcock, Rosamond Pinchot, Vincent Lopez, Arthur "Bugs" Baer, Rube Goldberg, Mary Ellis, William Kent, Morris Gert, George Gershwin, the Dolly Sisters, Judith Anderson, Louis John Bartels, Dagmar Godowsky, Sigmund Spaeth and Tony Sarg.

Some of the innovations and programs Paskman produced at WGBS were his music dramas, tabloid versions of plays with a music background. For example, the lives of Mozart and Beethoven were presented. Later he introduced "tabloid operas" and long radio plays. In addition, he initiated a regular musical program broadcast from an plane flying above New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Pennsylvania. The airborne show featured Maxine Brown singing from a Sikorsky biplane. Paskman also produced an early interview program conducted by Sylvia Golden, the Assistant Editor of Theatre Magazine on which she interviewed such entertainment stars as Eva LaGalliene, Jean Tennyson, Ruth Baker, Mary Lawlor, Richard Hale, Ruth Etting, Helen Ford, Belle Baker, Clarence Nordstrom, Vivienne Segal, Sophie Tucker and Irene Bordoni. Her informative program presented performers from vaudeville, the musical comedy and dramatic theater. Paskman probably is best remembered for his Dailey Paskman Minstrels program, sometimes known as the WGBS Radio Minstrels. See also Dailey Paskman Minstrels.

19737 Passe, Noel. Sportscaster (WVOK, Birmingham, AL, 1949; KTHH, Houston, TX, 1950-1953; KTRE, Lufkin, TX, 1954). DJ (Passin' Time, KTRE, 1954).

19738 Passer, Burt. Newscaster (KYSM, Mankato, MS, 1945).

19739 (The Passing Parade. John Nesbitt, a West Coast radio favorite, told interesting human interest stories on the local show sponsored by Dwarf Sales Company (15 min., Sunday, 7:00-7:15 P.M., KERC, San Francisco, CA, 1936). Nesbitt later broadcast on CBS, NBC and MBS from 1938 to 1949 and, at the same time, enjoyed a lucrative career making motion picture shorts (15 min., Monday through Friday, 9:15-9:30 P.M., MBS, 1948). John Nesbitt entered radio in 1930 when he originated his Headlines of the Past, a program that eventually became The Passing Parade.

19740 Passport for Adams. Norman Corwin produced the adventure series that told the story of a small town editor, Doug Adams, and a New York photographer, Perry "Quiz" Quisberry. These two men, played by Robert Young and Dane Clark, were sent on assignment by the Consolidated News Syndicate to various countries. The program had a semi-documentary format, by which the culture and customs of various countries were portrayed. The story concerned itself chiefly with Adams, a "county editor who's been sent on a trip around the world to visit various cities and talk to the people of the United Nations." Adams visited Monrovia, Moscow and Tel Aviv. Other cast members were Myron McCormick and Paul Mann. The director was Corwin who also wrote some of the scripts (30 min., CBS, 1943).

19741 Paster, Freda. Pianist (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1925).

19743 Pastor, Tony (Anthony Pestritta). Leader (Tony Pastor Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., NBC, 1935; WAKR, Akron, OH, 1942).

19745 Paszy, Bertha. Singer (WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1926).

19746 Pat and Sunshine. Pat Flanagan sang, read his own original verse and provided comic monologues on the weekly 15-minute program. Pianist Marigold Cassin accompanied Flanagan (WOC, Davenport, IA, 1928).

19747 Pat Barnes. Veteran radio entertainer Barnes returned to the air with his show sponsored by Procter & Gamble's Drefl. Barnes opened each show with a greeting sung to the tune of "The Isle of Capri." On a typical program Barnes recited poems with a soothing organ background provided by Larry Larsen. His program combined poetry, philosophy, commentary and music (15 min., Monday, 11:00-11:15 A.M., CST, NBC, 1935). See also Barnes, Pat.

19748 Pat Barnes and Ralph Dumke. Knox Gelatin sponsored the unusual show featuring these radio veterans. On the show they engaged in a serious discussion of baseball teams and their players and just about every thing else that happened to come to mind (10 min., Saturday, 3:00-3:10 P.M., WOR, Newark, NJ, 1939).

- 19750 Pat Barnes in Person. Radio veteran Pat Barnes was featured in a solo venture, NBC, 1935.
- 19751 Pat Buttram and Melvinny. Veteran country comic Pat Buttram was the featured performer on the rural comedy show. Supposedly Buttram was working in Chicago on the program and speaking on the telephone to his sweetheart, Melvinny, who he had left back in Harleyville, Alabama (15 min., Monday through Friday, 1:00-1:15 P.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1934).
- 19752 Pat Buttram's Radio School for Beginners Just Startin'. Oshkosh Work Clothes sponsored country comic Buttram, who later became Gene Autry's movie and radio sidekick. On the show, Buttram was joined by Henry Hornsbuckle, the Hoosier Sod Busters, the Hired Hands, Reg Kross, Howard Black, Jim and Eddie Dean. Joe Kelly was the show's announcer. Bill Meredith and Pat Buttram wrote the show that was produced by Al Boyd (15 min., Monday through Friday, 6:45-7:00 A.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1936).
- A typical example of the Buttram humor was the comment he made one day in 1936 about WLS announcer, Jack Holden: "I noted where Holden is a playin' the part of Tom Mix on the air now. Well, it's about time. He's been gettin' mixed up in his scripts for years. Holden says he came from up in Michigan whar 'Men are Men.' Gosh, that's why they ran him out." Buttram also commented on the Chicago scene during Prohibition, "My uncle [in Chicago] was a tail gunner on a beer truck."
- 19753 Patee, Rita. COM-HE (WOAP, Owosso, MI, 1957).
- 19754 Patek, Rudy. Concertina soloist Patek was a member with Ben Ray of a concertina duet team (KYW, Chicago, IL and WDAP, Chicago, IL, 1923).
- 19755 Peterson, (Mrs.) A.W. Reader (WGY, Schenectady, NY, 1923).
- 19756 Pathé News of the Air. The program claimed that it presented the "actual sounds of news events." When this was the case, it was because it was taken directly from the sound tracks of Pathé newsreels (15 min., Twice per week, MBS, 1935).
- 19757 Pathfinders. Dr. William Van Wyck cast a critical eye upon a variety of topics and shared his views with listeners on all of them (15 min., Monday, 8:00-8:15 P.M. PST, KFRC, San Francisco, CA, 1937).
- 19758 Patio Royal Dance Orchestra of New Orleans. Popular jazz and dance orchestra that included Leslie C. George, dir-bj.; Clarence Broth, p.; William Brevan, Jr., c.; Evans Zevely, as.; and Louis Uhle, d. (WSMB, New Orleans, LA, 1925).

- 19765 Patrick, James. Black DJ (WERD, Atlanta, GA, 1950s). James was also known as "Alley Pat." He began his DJ chores at WERD in 1950 and stayed there until 1954, when he moved to station WAOK (Atlanta, GA). Patrick became "Alley Pat" at the result of the station's program director selling two hours of morning air time to Atlantic Beer. Patrick in the morning would say, "Let's get over that hangover with a nice cold bottle of Atlantic Ale." In the afternoon for Steiner Brew, he would say, "Let's go down in the alley and get some beer." His listeners affectionately soon began to call him "Alley Pat" (George, 1997, p. 1).
- 19766 Patrick, Pat. Leader (Pat Patrick and his Orchestra, WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1926).
- 19767 Patrick, Pat. DJ (Lionel Call, WERD, Atlanta, GA, 1949; Dance Party, WAOK, Atlanta, GA, 1960).

Pearson shortly thereafter began broadcasting his own program (Listen America, MBS, 1939; Sunday Evening News of the World, NBC, 1940-1941; The Washington Merry-Go-Round, NBC-Blue, 1942-1944; ABC, 1945-1947).

Pearson taught briefly at the University of Pennsylvania, before embarking on a series of other occupations. After beginning a career in journalism, Pearson teamed with Robert S. Allen to write an interesting Washington Merry-Go-Round column that eventually was syndicated to 620 newspapers. As the result of his columns and radio broadcasts, Pearson was called a liar by FDR, an S.O.B. by President Harry Truman and much worse by senators of such diverse political stances as Joseph McCarthy, Walter George, William Jenner, Theodore Bilbo and columnists Westbrook Pegler and Walter Winchell. It might be concluded that Drew Pearson must have been a valuable commentator if he could attract such a widely diverse set of enemies.

His successful radio career extended from the World War II era through 1953 on ABC. His attacks against perceived wrongs, probably was never more valuable than when he led the charge against Joseph McCarthy.

20063 Perry, William S., Jr. Tenor (WSM, Nashville, TN, 1928–1929).

20064 (The) Perry Como Show. Romantic crooner Como (CBS, 1943–1955) had been on the national scene for many years, but in 1948 he began simulcasting his program on radio and TV. For several seasons, the Fontaine Sisters vocal group were featured with him. Como was one of the top radio crooners of his era. Only Bing Crosby and Frank Sinatra were his real competition for several decades. His relaxed singing style and pleasant personality were his trademarks.

A barber before beginning a professional singing career in 1933, Como came to national attention in 1944 when he made his first record and began appearing on The Chesterfield Supper Club radio program. After Como came to television in 1948 with The Chesterfield Supper Club radio-television simulcast, it marked the beginning of his 40 year TV career.

20065 Perry Goes to Town. Perry Martin sang and the popular piano duo of Al and Lee Reiser played on this sustaining program (15 min., Friday, 11:45–12:00 midnight, NBC-Blue, 1942).

20066 Perry Mason. Earle Stanley Gardner created the character of Perry Mason, a crack lawyer whose major function was to defend the innocent, a task he performed consistently with total success on radio from 1943 to 1955. The radio format of Perry Mason was as a quarter-hour daytime serial, before it became a popular television program starring Raymond Burr in the title role. The radio cast included: Joan Alexander, Donald Briggs, Matt Crowley, Frank Dane, Maurice Franklin, Betty Garde, Mary Jane Higby, Mandel Kramer, John Larkin, Jan Miner, Santos Ortega, Bartlett Robinson, Arthur Vinton, Gertrude Warner, and Charles Webster. Earle Stanley Gardner, Dan Shuffman, Irving Vendig and Eugene Wang were the writers. The producers were Leslie Harris and Tom McDermott and the directors were Hoyt Allen, Ralph Butler, Carlo De Angelo, Carl Eastman and Arthur Hanna. Paul Taubman was the musical director. Bob Dixon and Richard Stark were the announcers (15 min., Monday through Friday, CBS, 1943).

20067 Perryman, Tom. DJ (Hillbilly Hit Parade, KSIJ, Gladewater, TX, 1952).

Pet Milk Shows see The Bob Crosby Show and Saturday Night Serenade

20077 Pet Peeves. Host Jack Shannon collected the peevish of New Yorkers on his sustaining program. They had lots of them and expressed each one vigorously (15 min., Saturday, 8:30–8:45 P.M., WMCA, New York, NY, 1938).

20078 Pete Kelly's Blues. Jim Mosher wrote the entertaining series that combined good jazz with the many adventures cornetist and band leader Pete Kelly encountered in the speakeasy era of the Roaring Twenties. Jack Webb played the title role of Pete Kelly, the leader of his Pete Kelly's Big Seven band, on the sustaining program. The excellent dixieland group was led by talented cornetist Dick Cathcart. The six other fine musicians joining him were Marty Carb, Nick Fatool, Matty Malneck, Bill Newman, Elmer Schneider and Ray Schneider. Only a program such as the Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street consistently offered jazz as good as that broadcast weekly on Pete Kelly's Blues (30 min., Wednesday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., NBC, 1951).

20079 Pete Mack's Moosickers. Veteran comic Pete Mack played a "German professor" who led a brassy, little German street band on the sustaining program. Tenor Jimmy McManus also appeared on the show (15 min., Thursday, 2:45–3:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1935).

20080 Peter Donald Show. Stanback Headache Powder sponsored the transcribed program featuring dialect comedian, Peter Donald. He was assisted by the Three Flames—an instrumental group consisting of guitar, piano and string bass. The announcer was Dennis James (15 min., Transcribed, Various Stations, 1947).

20081 Peter Lind Hayes Show. Al Singer produced and Frank Musiello directed the show that Variety said was an attempt to make Peter Lind Hayes a "Saturday Arthur Godfrey." In addition to Hayes, his wife, Mary Healy, was on hand to assist him as were such program regulars as singers Jerry Vale and Leslie Uggams, pianist Teddy Wilson and the Norman Leyden Orchestra. Guests such as the Mariners vocal group appeared regularly (30 min., Saturday, 2:00–2:30 P.M., CBS, 1954).

20082 Peter Pan Society Orchestra. Talented music group (WEBJ, New York, NY, 1926).

20084 Peterman, H.J. Conductor (U.S. Naval Academy Band, WBAL, Baltimore, MD, 1928).

- 20162 (The) Phantom Dancer. Hen-nafoam Liquid Shampoo (Liquid Sunshine for Your Hair) sponsored the romantic effort by a tenor to sing and speak sweetly to his "imaginary" female companion. The announcer began the program by saying, "A beautiful girl and a handsome man are dancing. Mayfair knows him as the Phantom Dancer. He sings his songs as he is dancing with his new romance." The Dancer talked sweet talk and sang with a thin voice that lacked emotional color (15 min., Transcribed, early 1930s).
- 20163 (The) Phantom Pilot. Langendorf Bread Company sponsored the transcribed adventure show for juveniles. The story of the entertaining series told of the exciting adventures of the Phantom Pilot and O'Hara, his Irish assistant. None of the show's actors were identified (15 min., Monday through Friday, 6:15–6:30 P.M., KHJ, Los Angeles, CA, 1938).
- 20164 Phanton Strings. Phantom Strings was a program of romantic string music conducted by Aldo Ricci (NBC, 1934).
- 20165 (The) Phantom Violinist. Another "mysterious musician," that we now know was Henry Selinger, virtuoso violinist and director of the Drake Concert Ensemble (WGN, Chicago, IL, 1926).
- 20166 (The) Phantom Voice and His Bedtime Story. The Phantom, not otherwise identified, told stories for children on the early evening program (KTHS, Hot Springs National Park, AR, 1926).
- 20167 Pheatt, Jack. "Junior announcer" (WSPD, Toledo, OH, 1929).
- 20168 Pheiffer, Bill. DJ (Musical Nightkap, WKAP, Allentown, PA, 1949; Polka Parade, WWRN Beckley, WV, 1952). Sports caster (WTUX, Wilmington, DE, 1960).

20174 Phelps, Stuart. Newscaster (KFOX, Long Beach, CA, 1941).

20175 Phi Delta Chi Music Makers. Collegiate music group (KSTP, St. Paul, MN, 1929).

20176 Phil Baker Show (aka The Armour Hour and Honolulu Bound). Veteran vaudeville comedian-accordionist Baker hosted the variety show. Comic situations were provided by Bottle, his British butler, played by Harry McNaughton, and Beetle, an heckling off-stage voice produced first by Ward Wilson and later by Sid Silvers. Baker's cast included: Mabel Albertson, Artie Auerbach, Oscar Bradley, Hank Ladd, Harry McNaughton, Agnes Moorehead, Jack Murray, Sid Silvers, Florence Stewart and Ward Wilson. Music was by the Seven G's (vocal group) and the Hal Kemp and Frank Shields orchestras. The show was written by Phil Baker, Hal Block and Arthur Phillips (30 min., Weekly, 6:30–7:00 P.M., CST, CBS, 1936). Three years later the program was known as Honolulu Bound. The sponsor was Dole Pineapples. The Andrews Sisters and the bands of Eddie DeLange, Hal Kemp and Frank Shields were featured. Harry von Zell was the announcer. Baker eventually achieved great success as a quizmaster on Take It or Leave It and other quiz programs. See also Armour Jester, Beechnut Hour and Take It or Leave It.

In a later show in 1951, The Phil Baker Show, Baker's jokes and commercials were recorded, and a local Baltimore announcer, Buddy Deane, played records, read the news, gave horse race results and hosted the unusual format (120 min., Monday through Saturday, 2:00–4:00 P.M., WTTB, Baltimore, MD, 1951).

20177 Phil Cook Show (aka Phil Cook—the Aunt Jemima Pancake Man). Veteran radio comic Cook appeared in dramatic sketches, played the uke and sang on the quarter-hour show sponsored by Bristol-Myers Company. Music was supplied by the Andy Sanella Orchestra (15 min., Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 8:45–9:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1933). In an earlier morning show sponsored by the Quaker Oats Company's Aunt Jemima pancakes, Cook sang, told jokes and stories for 15 minutes each weekday. Much of Cook's program—Phil Cook the Aunt Jemima Pancake Man—consisted of rhymed humor about current events presented in the format of his trademark "I See by the Papers" song.

Cook's program began with the sound effects of a rooster crowing, an alarm clock ringing and the sound of a yawn. The announcer then said: "With these familiar morning sounds, the Quaker Oats Company invites you to Aunt Jemima's breakfast table, where Phil Cook, the pancake man, entertains each weekday morning with a fresh batch of his home-cooked ditties."

After singing his opening song, Cook greeted his listeners this way:

Good morning folks. Get going. It's breakfast time. Did you have a pleasant night? How's your appetite? When the rooster's crowing and alarm clocks chime, it's Aunt Jemima Pancake time. What a breakfast any man makes when they're in sight. Let a stack of golden pancakes start the day right. Here's one man who's knowing he's in his prime at Aunt Jemima's Pancake time.

Well, here we are again. Now if you'll just pull your chairs up to our breakfast tables, while Aunt Jemima's endeavoring to keep your plates filled with those luscious golden browns, the pancake man will annoy you by dishing out some more of my home-cooked foolishness, using the little ole ukulele for a frying pan.

Well, dad, I suppose you're going to the fair today. What? I never heard of holding 'em in winter, but that's what the paper says, "Fair today and tomorrow." I know the fellow who writes those forecasts and he isn't feeling very well—as the weather hasn't agreed with him lately—which reminds me." Cook then followed this introduction by singing, "It Don't Do Nothing but Rain."

20178 Phil Regan Camp Show. During the Korean War, tenor Phil Regan hosted the music show from various service installations such as the Travis Air Force Base (30 min., Sunday, 5:00–5:30 P.M., NBC, 1951). See also Wartime Radio.

20179 Phil Regan Show. Tenor Regan performed with Jud Conlon and his Rhythmairs and Dick Valente's Orchestra on the music show sponsored by the United States Steelworkers of America Union (WMCA, New York, NY, 1959).

20180 Phil Spitalny's Music. Spitalny's orchestra broadcast from New York's Hotel Pennsylvania's Grill (30 min., Saturday, 7:30–8:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1930). See also Hour of Charm and Spitalny, Phil.

20181 Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Band. Forty-five member musical organization (WPG, Atlantic City, NJ, 1925).

20182 Philadelphia Cafe Orchestra. Restaurant dance band (WIP, Philadelphia, PA, 1923).

20184 Philbrick and His Younker Tea Room Orchestra. Restaurant band (WHO, Des Moines, IA, 1926).

20185 Philco Amateur Show. Philco Radio and Television Company sponsored the local radio amateur show hosted by Jimmie Allen, station WIP's press chief (30 min., Saturday, 8:00–8:30 P.M., WIP, Philadelphia, PA, 1936).

20186 Philco Boys. Philco Radio Company sponsored the comedy-music program that dramatized an "informal evening" at the home of one of the boys. Captain Ezra Higby told the boys of his trouble with a neighborhood widow, and they gave him helpful advice. Many songs were performed during the half-hour program by the "boys," Irv, Harry, Tom and Ted accompanied by Johnny the accordionist (30 min., Thursday, 9:30–10:00 P.M., NBC-Pacific Coast Network, 1928). See also Philco Camp Fire Program.

20187 Philco Camp Fire Program. Begun as the Philco Boys, the program changed its format to one in which "Captain Ezra Higby" entertained the "Philco Boys" by telling them his fishing yarns around the campfire. The boys (Irv, Harry, Tom and Ted with Johnny, their accordionist accompanist) listened to the Captain's tales and frequently sang their lively songs (NBC-Pacific Coast Network, 1928).

20188 Philco Hour (aka The Philco Symphony, The Philco Concert Orchestra and The Philco Symphonic Hour). Philco Company sponsored the program of light opera music introduced by Henry M. Neely in the role of the "Old Stager." The program originally featured sopranos Lois Bennett and Barbara Muel (Manuel). The orchestra was conducted by William Artzt. The announcer was Ted Husing (30 min., Wednesday, 10:00–10:30 P.M., CBS, 1930). When the program began in 1927, it was known as The Philco Hour of Theater Memories. In that format it was 60 minutes in length and broadcast by NBC. After the program changed networks and was reduced to 30 minutes in length, it was known variously as The Philco Symphony, The Philco Concert Orchestra and The Philco Symphonic Hour. See also The Philco Hour of Theater Memories.

20189 (The Philco Hour of Theater Memories). Philco Radio Corporation sponsored the program that pioneered in the broadcasting of operettas. Henry M. Neely, in the role of "The Old Stager," hosted the program that featured soprano Jessica Dragonette and tenor Colin O'Moore. The cast also included sopranos Emily Woolery and Kitty O'Neal; tenors Dan Gridley and Henry Shope contraltos Mary Hoople and Doris Doe; baritone Walter Preston; and bass Charles Robinson. Harold Sanford was the program's musical director. The program's theme was "Memories," written by Neely and Sanford.

During its first season on the air the program presented Victor Herbert's The Only Girl and Mlle. Modiste starring Fritzi Sheff, the operetta's original star, and Donald Brian from the cast of the first American production of The Merry Widow. The Philco Hour of Theater Memories presented the first radio broadcasts of such operettas as The Vagabond King, The Student Prince, Blossom Time, My Maryland and Maytime. The program led to the great popularity and national fame of Jessica Dragonette and established her as one of radio's outstanding singers. See also Philco Hour.

20190 Philco Radio Playhouse. Joseph Cotton was the executive producer and narrator of the transcribed dramatic series. Each program was an adaptation of plays previously broadcast on the Philco Television Playhouse. Eugene Schiess directed and James Burton produced the series, unique in that it came to radio from television (30 min., Wednesday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., ABC, 1953).

20191 (The) Philco Serenaders. An excellent commercial orchestra (WMAK, Buffalo, NY, 1926).

20193 Philip, Ray. Leader (Ray Philip Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WHDH, Boston, MA, 1939).

20194 Phillip Morris Playhouse. The famous dramatic series presented various stories of suspense and adventure in various broadcast runs from 1939 to 1943 and later from 1948 to 1949 on NBC. William Spier directed the latter broadcast series. NBC again broadcast the program (1951–1952), now called The Phillip Morris Playhouse on Broadway with Charles Martin as director. In its various formats, the program usually presented entertaining dramatic fare for listeners. The cast included: Alan Reed (Teddy Bergman), Charlie Cantor, Ray Collins, Raymond Edward Johnson, Bill Johnstone, John McIntire, Jeanette Nolan, Ann Thomas, Barbara Weeks and Ward Wilson. Music was supplied by the orchestras of Ray Bloch, Johnny Green and Russ Morgan. The program was directed by Jack Johnstone, Charles Martin and William Spier.

20195 Phillip Morris Program. Phillip Morris Cigarettes sponsored the music show that first featured baritone Phil Ducey, soprano Barbara Schermerhorn and Leo Reisman's Orchestra (30 min., Wednesday, 9:30–10:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1933). The following year the day and time of broadcast changed (30 min., Tuesday, 8:00–8:30 P.M., NBC-Red, 1934). Later, the Russ Morgan Orchestra and various vocalists were featured on the show. Johnny Roventini, who was 43 inches tall and weighed less than 50 pounds, was the famous bellboy whose characteristic cry, an extended, "Call for Phillip Morris," was a permanent feature of the program. Roventini was used in print advertising and radio cigarette commercials for many years. Phillip Morris found him in 1933 after searching New York hotels looking for the "best bellhop in town." They found him working at the Hotel New Yorker and transformed his life by making him a nationally known celebrity.

20196 Philip Morris Presents. The good music program featured the Johnny Green Orchestra and singers Glenn Cross, Floyd Sherman, Beverly Freeland, Jack Smith, the Six Sea Breezes, the Groove Group, and Charles O'Connor (30 min., Weekly, NBC-Blue and MBS, 1939–1940).

20862 Quaal, Ward. Newscaster, announcer and executive (WGN, Chicago, IL, 1941–1960) Ward Quaal ranks as one of the most enterprising and successful broadcaster both in front of the microphone and in the board room. As an entrepreneur, he helped found the Christine Valmy Cosmetics company, produced a Broadway play and founded a Texas oil company. It was his executive management skill, however, that made WGN radio and television a great national station.

While in high school, Quaal worked for three years as announcer, writer and salesman for WBEO (Marquette, MI). Later, while at the University of Michigan he worked on the staff of WJR (Detroit, MI). After he received his undergraduate degree from the University of Michigan on June 7, 1941, he joined WGN the following day.

His announcing job at WGN lasted only to 1942, when he entered the United States Navy. After leaving the Navy in 1945, Quaal rejoined WGN as a special assistant to the general manager. It was while serving as special assistant that his management skills became apparent. He played a major role in the development of the station's farm and public affair departments; represented the station in Washington, D.C.; and assisted in the development of WGN-TV that went on the air in 1948.

After taking a leave of absence to serve as executive director of Clear Channel Broadcasting Service, Washington, D.C., from 1949 to 1952, Quaal joined the Crosley Broadcasting Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1953 as assistant general manager. The following year he became vice-president and general manager of Crosley's radio, television and short wave properties.

He returned to WGN as vice president and general manager in 1956 and initiated an expansion program that resulted in the station becoming a national broadcasting leader with facilities for radio, television, production companies and cable coast to coast. He remained active with the station for many years, eventually retiring as President of WGN Continental Broadcasting Company—now known as the Tribune Broadcasting Company. He continues to serve the company as a management consultant.

Quaal later accepted commission assignments from Presidents Truman, Kennedy and Johnson. In addition to these government assignments, he has co-authored two books on broadcast management and now heads a broadcast consultant company.

This broadcast pioneer has been awarded many honors including: induction in Broadcasting magazine's Hall of Fame; the Illinois Broadcasters Association's Lifetime Achievement in Broadcasting Award; and the Governor's Award of the Chicago Chapter of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences for "developing the finest independent station in the United States." For his many contributions to American broadcasting, Quaal richly deserves the numerous honors and awards he has received.

20929 Quixie Doodles (aka Bob Hawk's Quixie Doodles Quiz). Two teams competed against each other on the quiz program originally hosted by Bob Hawk. Hawk later was replaced by Colonel Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle (Frederick Chase Taylor). Alan Reed (Teddy Bergman) was the program announcer (30 min., Weekly, MBS, 1938–1941). See also The Bob Hawk Show and Take It or Leave It.

20930 Quiz Kids. Alex Cowan was the creator-producer of the unique panel quiz show that included intelligent youngsters of ages ranging from four to sixteen. These amazing youngsters answered difficult questions submitted by listeners. The program was a pediatric Information Please. An idea of the difficulty of the questions posed to the panel can be gained from the first question asked them by host Joe Kelly on the initial program broadcast June 28, 1940: "I want you to tell me what I would be carrying home if I brought an antimacassar, a dingby, a sarong and an apteryx." The program's cast included: Andre Arne, Joan Alizier, Mary Ann Anderson, Lois Jean Ashbeck, Jack Beckman, Joan Bishop, Sally Bogolub, Virginia Booze, Claude Brenner, Sheila Brenner, Robert Burns, Nancy Bush, Pat Chandler, Cynthia Cline, Nancy Coggeshall, Joann Cohen, Gerald Coklas, Sheila Conlon, Naomi Cooks, Gerald Darrow, Muriel Deutsch, Ruth Duskin, Ruel Fischman, Harve Bennett, Inez Fox, Jack French, Richard Frisbie, Arthur Haelig, Geraldine Hamburg, Lois Jean Hesse, Gunther Hollander, Gloria Hunt, Barbara Hutchinson, Anne Israel, Edith Lee James, Nanni Kahn, Lois Karpf, Lucille Eileen Kevill, Paul Kirk, Richard Kosterlitz, Joel Kupperman, Clem Lane, Jr., Rochelle Liebling, Jack Lucal, Lonny Linde, Frank Mangin, Jr., Joan McCullough, Mary Clare McHugh, Norman D. Miller, Tim Osato, John C. Pollock, Charles Schwartz, Corinne Shapira, Van Dyke Tiers, Robert Walls, William Wegener, Richard Weixler, Lloyd Wells, Richard Williams, Elizabeth Wirth, Davida Wolfson, Nancy Wong and Marvin Zenker. Maggie O'Flaherty and John Iwellen were the writers. The directors were Jack Callahan, Riley Jackson, Forrest Owen, Ed Simmons and Clint Stanley (30 min., Wednesday, 8:00–8:30 p.m., NBC-Blue, 1941). The program was on the air from 1940 to 1954 on NBC, ABC and CBS. Originally, it began as a summer replacement for the Alec Templeton Show, before being regularly scheduled on the NBC-Blue network in 1940.

20931 Quiz of Two Cities. The program's unique concept of competition between two nearby cities began in 1938. It was produced by Gene Wilkey and conducted by Clellan Card. Ray Tenpenny was the announcer. A team of contestants from Minneapolis competed with one from St. Paul. Max Karl handled the announcing chores in St. Paul and Eddie Gallaher those in Minneapolis (WCCO, Minneapolis–St. Paul, MN, 1938). On the MBS network from 1944 to 1945, the show featured contests between teams from New York and Chicago. Michael Fitzmaurice was the host. A similar format had appeared previously on local California radio with teams from Los Angeles and San Francisco competing. Reid Kilpatrick and Mark Goodson were the hosts in the California cities.

20932 Quotes from Georgia's Quills. Each week concise summaries of the editorial views of the 50 leading Georgia newspapers were broadcast on this program of news and commentary (15 min., Weekly, WSB, Atlanta, GA, 1942).

Leader (Lou Raderman and his Pelham Heath Inn Orchestra, playing from New York's Pelham Heath Inn, WEAJ, New York, NY, 1926; Lou Raderman Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WIP, Philadelphia, PA, 1936). Raderman also frequently played violin on The Radiotrons program (WJZ, New York, NY, 1927).

20956 Rader, Paul. Born in 1879, Rader has been called the first great religious broadcaster. After first appearing on the Radio Church of America program in New York City, Rader discovered the power of radio when he was invited by the Mayor of Chicago to speak on the inaugural broadcast of that city's station WHIT in 1921. The following year Rader founded the Chicago Gospel Tabernacle and began regular broadcasting. In 1922, Rader used an idle station transmitter to broadcast 14 hours of religious programming every Sunday. After broadcasting his gospel service each week, he also broadcast two evening programs — The March of Ages and The Back Home Hour. He began a series of daily Breakfast Brigade programs on CBS in 1930.

20957 Radford, Margaret. COM-HE (WARL, Arlington, VA, 1957).

20958 Radie Harris. Miss Harris talked about Hollywood stars and their films (15 min., Weekly, MBS, 1938).

20960 Radio Bible Class. The weekly religious program was conducted by Dr. William A. Anderson (WFAA, Dallas, TX, 1923).

20961 Radio Bible Hour. Reverend J. Harold Smith began the Bible study program in 1935. He gained his largest listening audience when he began broadcasting on WNOX (Knoxville, TN). After a controversy, Smith left WNOX to found his own station—WBIK (Knoxville, TN). When the FCC charged him with improprieties, he moved his program to Mexico's XERF in 1953 and flourished until the middle-1980s, when the Mexico government banned English language religious programs on their powerful border stations.

20962 Radio Book Club. In 1930, Iowa State College began a book club program. For a small fee and return postage, club members could borrow books by mail. The club began circulating books February 12, 1930, with 231 members. By June 1, 1939, there were 2,372 members enrolled. The accompanying radio program provided information about new books and extolled the pleasures of reading (WOL, Ames, IA, 1930).

20963 Radio Broadcast Dope. Monte Cross conducted the novel program that gave listeners the latest news about radio and its performers (WIP, Philadelphia, PA, 1923).

20964 (The) Radio Chapel Service. Reverend Robert R. Brown originated the non-denominational religious program in 1923 on WOW (Omaha, NE).

20965 Radio Church of the Air. The Reverend and Mrs. Joseph Irwin conducted the church of the air program (WSBA, York, PA, 1945).

20966 Radio Church of America. This was the New York radio program on which famous radio preacher Paul Rader first appeared. His successful experience on the Radio Church of America, the first continuing religious broadcast series, encouraged him to continue broadcasting his religious message.

20967 Radio Circus. Quaker Oats Company sponsored the juvenile quiz with musical selections. Johnny Olsen, assisted by Jess Kilparick, conducted the quiz show from a Chicago theater (60 min., Saturday, 11:00–12:00 noon, CST; WGN, Chicago, IL, 1939).

20968 Radio City Music Hall Symphony. The Radio City Music Hall Orchestra, an excellent symphonic music group, consistently played such fine music as those offered on their August 18, 1935, program that included: Rossini's "Overture to the Barber of Seville;" Grieg's "The Erl King," "Heart Wounds" and "Last Spring;" Ponchelli's "Cielo E Mar"; and Irving Berlin's "Top Hat," "Piccileo," "No Strings," "Cheek to Cheek" and "Isn't This a Lovely Day?" (60 min., Sunday, 11:30–12:30 P.M., NBC, 1935).

20969 Radio City Party. John B. Kennedy narrated the music program, sponsored by RCA Radiotron tubes, featuring the Victor Light Opera Company and orchestral conductor Nathaniel Shilkret. Comedian Joe Cook also performed regularly (30 min., Saturday, 9:00–9:30 A.M., NBC, 1934–1935).

20974 Radio Explorer's Club. Bosch, Inc., sponsored the weekly dramatized program that presented the exploits of modern explorers (15 min., Sunday, 5:30–5:45 P.M., NBC, 1935).

20975 Radio Franks. The singing comedy team of Frank Wright and Frank Bessinger recorded frequently and often appeared on early radio (WHN, New York, NY, 1924; WJZ, New York, NY, 1925).

20976 Radio Godmother. Lucy Broadstreet (the "Radio Godmother") conducted her unique program on which she combined songs and stories for children and adult listeners as well (WOK, Pine Bluff, AR, 1922).

20977 Radio Gossip Club. Veteran radio entertainers Eddie and Fannie Cavanaugh broadcast gossip about radio and its stars (15 min., Monday, 12:25–12:30 P.M., CBS, 1935).

20978 Radio Guide Revue. Radio Guide magazine sponsored the good music program. Blues singer Fannye Rose Shore—later famous as Dinah Shore—performed. She was assisted by Louise and her Dixie Dons singing group and baritone Joseph McPherson (Weekly, WSM, Nashville, TN, 1936).

20979 Radio Guild. Begun in 1929, the hour-long dramatic series was dedicated to broadcasting 200 years of classics. A 1932 cast included Sheila Hayes, Florence Malone, Harry Neville, Jeanne Owen, Leo Stark, Charles Warburton and Charles Webster. Vernon Radcliffe was the program's director (60 min., Weekly, 4:15–5:15 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1932). The program in a 30-minute format ran until 1940.

20980 Radio Hall of Fame (aka The Philco Radio Hall of Fame). The Philco Radio Corporation sponsored the program that presented the best radio performers and programs as selected by Variety. All types of programs and performers were represented on the unique program hosted by Decems Taylor. Paul Whiteman's Orchestra provided the music (60 min., Sunday, 6:00–7:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1943). When the show was reduced to a 30-minute format the range of its performers was extended to include actors from all forms of entertainment, not merely from radio. Glenn Riggs was the announcer in the half-hour format.

Some of the performers who appeared on the program were: Larry Adler, Brian Ahearne, the Aldrich Family program's cast, Fred Allen, the Andrews Sisters, Kay Armen, Mary Astor, Kenny Baker, Phil Baker, Bonny Baker, Tallulah Bankhead, Red Barber, Sheila Barrett, Ed Begley, Milton Berle, Irving Berlin, Charles Bickford, Ray Bolger, Victor Borge, Connie Boswell, Charles Boyer, Fannie Brice, Burns and Allen, Bob Burns, Billy Butterfield, Jimmy Carroll, Jerry Colonna, John Conte, Laird Cregar, Hank D'Amico, Gloria DeHaven, the Delta Rhythm Boys, Diana Lynn, Peter Donald, Morton Downey, Jimmy Durante, Eddie Cantor, Ralph Edwards, Joan Edwards, Dale Evans, Frank Fay, Verna Felton, Gracie Fields, Jay C. 20981 Radio History of the War (aka A History Book Wired for Sound). Jackson Beck narrated the informative sustaining program of recorded history. Ted Cott was the writer and producer. Henry Morgenthau III was the production coordinator. The program premiered in December, 1950 (30 min., Sunday, 5:00–5:30 P.M., WNEW, New York, NY, 1950).

20982 Radio Household Institute. The Radio Household Institute was a network program that combined information on home economics, domestic problems, and how to rear a healthy family with music. The home economics expert of the show was Elizabeth Carter. A Mrs. Milton told how to raise healthy family members; Billy Brenton and a Miss Byrnes acted out dramatizations of various family problems and sang, as did a baritone, identified only by the name of Mr. Thomas (15 min., Mornings, Wednesday and Saturday, NBC-Red, 1930–1933). The Radio Household Institute previously had been broadcast five times weekly (15 min., Monday through Friday, 10:00–10:15 A.M., NBC-Red, 1927–1928).

20983 Radio Movie Man. Geoffrey L. Whalen broadcast movie reviews (WGI, Medford Hillside, MA, 1923).

20985 Radio Piano Lessons. Miss Maudellen Littlefield conducted the series of piano lessons (WDAF, Kansas City, MO, 1925).

20989 Radio Reader's Digest (aka The Hallmark Program or The Reader's Digest Radio Edition). First broadcast in 1942, the program dramatized stories from the Reader's Digest magazine. The host-narrators over the years were Richard Kollmar, Conrad Nagel and Les Tremayne. The program was produced by Anton M. Leader and Carl Schullinger. The director was Robert Nolan. Van Cleave was the program's musical director. Ralph Berkey, Carl Bixby, Henry Denker, James Erthein, Josephine Lyons, Peggy Lou Mayer, William N. Robson and Robert Sloane were the writers.

Some of the performers who appeared on the program were: Brian Aherne, Lucille Ball, Tallulah Bankhead, Ethel Barrymore, Wallace Beery, Ralph Bellamy, Constance Bennett, Anne Blythe, Shirley Booth, Charles Boyer, James Cagney, Louis Calhern, Dane Clark, Claudette Colbert, Ronald Coleman, Richard Conte, Joseph Cotten, Olivia DeHavilland, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Geraldine Fitzgerald, John Garfield, Sidney Greenstreet, Helen Hayes, Van Heflin, Ruth Hussey, Dean Jagger, Van Johnson, Dick Kollmar, Otto Kruger, Charles Laughton, Peter Lawford, Gertrude Lawrence, Paul Lucas, Frederic March, James Mason, Raymond Massey, Dorothy McGuire, Burgess Meredith, Robert Mitchell, Wayne Morris, Paul Muni, Laurence Olivier, Pat O'Brien, Michael O'Shea, Susan Peters, William Powell, Roger Pryor, Claude Rains, Gene Raymond, Babe Ruth, Anne Rutherford, Karl Swenson, Gene Tierney, Franchot Tone, Claire Trevor, Orson Welles and Robert Young (30 min., Weekly, CBS, 1942–1948).

20990 Radio Realities. Leo Fitzpatrick created and conducted the program dedicated to radio itself. Fitzpatrick discussed aspects of radio that were controversial or misunderstood. The major objective of the program, which was expressed at the end of one of the programs, was to provide "a defense of radio." It went on to say that: "If there is any fair minded medium in the world of today, it is American radio broadcasting, which does not alarm with headlines or sway with skillful words, and subtle editorial policy. But it is as direct as one man speaking directly to another must needs be. Radio stands on the record of its own spoken word, ready to give an accounting to its public at any time." This program format was another of Fitzpatrick's several innovations (WJR, Detroit, MI, 1931). See also Fitzpatrick, Leo.

20991 Radio Revels. Max Dolin and his Grenadiers supplied the music on the network variety show. Also featured on the program were Irving Kaufman, Peg LaCentra, Cameron Andrews, Kent and Kitall and Louise Dawson (30 min., Weekly, NBC, 1935).

21033 Raising Junior. Peter Dixon wrote the daily daytime series about the life and times of an "average" American family. Aline Berry played the mother. Dixon (1931, p. 308) said that his pattern of writing was to have his fictional family have some good luck, followed by some unfortunate events. As he said, "When things look best, something unfortunate happens and when things look bleak, something very pleasant happens just in the nick of time." The daily daytime series was a popular NBC feature (15 min., Monday through Friday, NBC, 1930–1931). The program's opening was as follows:

Raising Junior, the Wheatena serial story comes to you at this time every evening except Monday through the courtesy of the Wheatena Corporation ... maker of Wheatena ... the delicious wheat cereal—sun-browned, roasted and toasted. How frequently you have that hungry empty feeling around eleven o'clock in the morning? Too early for lunch—too late for a snack... so you just put up with an hour or so of discomfort. But try this interesting experiment. Get a package of Wheatena—the roasty, nut-like wheat cereal from your grocer today and enjoy a steaming, fragrant dish of it for tomorrow's birthday. Then observe results around eleven o'clock. How much more alert and energetic you feel. How much better without that empty, hungry feeling. For Wheatena supplies plenty of vital strength and energy to carry you through the long period between breakfast and lunch. Just ask your grocer for this delicious nourishing cereal in the familiar yellow and blue package. And write in this evening for your copy of Feeding Your Child from Crib to College. This little book, you know, was written especially for the Wheatena Corporation by an eminent authority on diet. It contains information on family feeding that every mother should have at hand. And, besides, it provides many attractive menus and delicious recipes to lighten the burden of meal planning. Just send your name and address to the Wheatena Corporation, Rahway—R-A-H-W-A-Y—New Jersey, and you will receive your complimentary copy by mail.

Yesterday, Ken decided to make a study of baby foods, not only in the interest of Junior, but because his firm is anxious to obtain the account of a firm manufacturing such products. Today was a half holiday for Ken and he had all afternoon to spend at home. So let's drop down to the Lee's little apartment and see if he's putting his time to good use.

21200 Raymond Scott Show. Talented Raymond Scott led his orchestra on the weekday music show (15 min., Monday through Friday, 4:45–5:00 P.M., CBS, 1945). Scott earlier had his own show as a solo pianist (Raymond Scott, instr. mus. prg., CBS, 1934).

21201 Ray-O-Vac Twins. Russ Wildley and Bill Sheehan were a popular singing team known as the Ray-O-Vac Twins (KFWB, Los Angeles, CA; KFWB, Hollywood, CA; WSM, Nashville, TN, 1927). For a short period in 1926, the Ray-O-Vac Twins broadcast from KTBS (Hot Springs Natural Park, AR, 1926). The popular team was sponsored by the French Battery Company of Madison, Wisconsin, makers of Ray-O-Vac batteries. The Ray-O-Vac Twins came to station KMA late in the 1920s and remained at the station as the KMA Farm Belt Paint Boys for many years (KMA, Shenandoah, IA, late 1920s).

21202 Razaf, Andy. Singer-composer (WGCP, Newark, NJ, 1925).

21203 RCA Educational Hour. Walter Damrosch conducted the NBC network's orchestra and generally provided instruction in this early national network programming attempt at music appreciation. The program was broadcast at 10:00 A.M. during the 1928 season from October to May. The music appreciation selections played by the orchestra were graded for students from the third grade through college. The program's first half-hour contained music for children in grades three to six, while the last half-hour was for students from grades seven through high school and college. Damrosch soon became a much beloved radio personality whose masterful accomplishments as a teacher were recognized and duly appreciated (NBC-Blue, 1928). See also The Music Appreciation Hour.

21204 RCA Hour (aka The RCA Victor Hour or RCA Victor Program). The 1928 version of the RCA Hour included a dramatic interlude and musical selections performed by baritone Harold Dana with Max Dolin conducting the RCA Orchestra (NBC-Pacific Coast network, 1928). The following year the format changed to that of an informative program that combined an inquiring look at world history, music and philosophy (60 min., Friday, 8:00 to 9:00 P.M., NBC-Pacific Coast Network, 1929). For example, a musical segment of the latter program included the musical compositions of Augusta Holmes with contralto Margaret O'Dea and tenor Harold Spaulding performing them. A later network format in 1930 of 60 minutes length featured the RCA Salon Orchestra conducted by Nathaniel Shilkret. The announcer was John S. Young (60 min., Thursday, 10:00–11:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1930).

21205 RCA Radio Matinee. Performers Rudy Vallee and Hazel Glenn plus the team of Eddie and Ralph appeared on the entertaining weekly variety program (60 min., Weekly, NBC, 1935).

21206 RCA Radiotrons. Baritone John Charles Thomas was often featured on the concert music hour (NBC-Blue, 1926).

21207 RCA Theremin Ether Wave Music. The Radio Corporation of America sponsored the quarter-hour program of theremin music. Although it was listed as ether, the music did possess an ethereal sound (15 min., Saturday, 7:15–7:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1930).

RCA Victor Hour see The Victor Hour

21221 Reagan, Neil. Sports caster (KFWB, Los Angeles, CA, 1940).

21222 Reagan, Ronald "Dutch." Sports caster Reagan's play-by-play of Big Ten football games were considered some of the most colorful sports broadcasts in the U.S. (WOC, Davenport, IA; WHO, Des Moines, IA, 1933). Reagan's first major network radio appearance was on The Warner Brothers Academy Theater program in 1938.

He became a popular motion picture star when he went to Hollywood in 1937. After a bit role in Hollywood Hotel (1937), he starred in Brother Rat (1938); Dark Victory (1939); Knute Rockne, All American (1940); Kings Row (1942); This is the Army (1943); The Hasty Heart (1949); Bedtime for Bonzo (1951); The Killers (1964) and many others.

He also had a busy television career in Amos Burke, Secret Agent (1963); as the successor to Stanley Andrews on Death Valley (1966) and as host of The General Electric Theater (1954–1962). He left television in 1966 to begin a successful career in politics. After serving as governor of California, Reagan became president of the United States.

21223 Reagles, Walter. Tenor (WGY, Schenectady, NY, 1923–1924).

21224 Real Folks (aka Real Folks from Thompkins Corner). George Frame Brown wrote the daytime dramatic serial and also played the leading role of Matt Thompkins. Others in the cast and their roles were Phoebe Mackaye as Dorothy Thompkins and Mrs. Watts; Tommy Brown as Elmer Thompkins; and Edwin H. Whitney as Judge Whipple. Also in the cast were: Virginia Farmer, Joyce Benner, Roger Marsh, Geoffrey Warwick and G. Underhill Macy. Music was produced each week by the "Thompkins Corner Firemen's Band." Brown said he attempted to show life as it was lived in "any upstate city." The show was one of radio's first dramatic series (30 min., Monday, 9:30–10:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1928–1931).

21225 Real Silk. Real Silk Hosiery Company sponsored the veteran radio comedy team of Dr. Pratt and Dr. Sherman (Russell Pratt and Ransom Sherman) on the variety show that also featured the Vincent Lopez Orchestra (30 min., Sunday, 10:15–10:45 P.M. NBC-Blue, 1933).

21226 Reams, Hunter. Newscaster (WJNO, West Palm Beach, FL, 1938; WSTV, Steubenville, OH, 1942; WJPA, Washington, PA, 1945).

21234 Record Boys of WJZ. The popular singing team consisted of Al Bernard, Frank Kamplain and Sammy Stept (WJZ, New York, NY, 1926).

21235 Recording Sessions. DJ Art Ford conducted the interesting sustaining show on which he asked various recording artists how they made their records. Ford would then play the records discussed (25 min., Sunday, 12:35–1:00 P.M., WNEW, New York, NY, 1952).

21236 Rector, Bob. DJ (1560 Club, KSWI, Council Bluffs, IA, 1947; Best by Request, KWTO, Springfield, MO, 1952).

21237 Rector, Gabby. DJ (KLIK Clock, KLIK, Jefferson City, MO, 1954–1955).

21238 Red and Black Revue. Comedian Dean Vine, pianist Pauline Albert and Merle Johnston's orchestra performed on the sustaining variety program (30 min., Tuesday, 10:30–11:00 P.M. WOR, Newark, NJ, 1934).

21239 Red Apple Club. Cornelius D. Tomy conducted the popular early radio show that included music and interviews and performances by famous stage and screen stars. Norman White was the program's featured singer (Tuesday, P.M., WCX, Detroit, MI, 1923). The show, Detroit's most popular program for many years, began when Tomy scheduled the Stickle Sisters Orchestra to perform on a Tuesday evening at 10:00 P.M. Announcer Tomy talked on the air with the band leader, described the girls' dresses and hummed along with the band. A Detroit music publisher, Bartlett Holmes, also sang on the first program. Tomy did not give Holmes' name, but announced that he would award a "nice red apple" to the first person who called in the name of the singer. A correct call soon came in and the "red apple" awarded to the winner. Listeners sent hundreds of letters to the station and the Red Apple Club had its beginnings. The Stickle Sisters band returned the following Tuesday, and once more Tomy conducted the program. Some of the popular entertainers who frequently appeared on the Red Apple Club were: Bernice, a 16-year-old pianist; Whispering Bill Collins, one of radio's first crooners; Al Cameron and Pete Bontsema (Al and Pete); Charlotte (Myers) and Mary (Tudor), a team of singer and piano player; Doc McPhee, a dentist who had been a "rube comic" in vaudeville and accompanied his stories by playing his five-string banjo; the Wolverine Four band; singer Estelle Forbes, Ann Forbes, Gladys Sanderson, Sister Ruby Jones, Edna Rae and Billy Mack. Incidentally, the Red Apple Club singer Norman White became so popular that he later had his own Luncheon Song Review program on WJR (Detroit, MI). The Red Apple Club program remained on the air for more than five years.

21240 Red Cross. Announcer and staff pianist (WWNC, Asheville, NC, 1929).

21241 Red Davis. Sponsored by Beechnut gum, the program was a forerunner of the Forever Young and the Pepper Young's Family programs. Before Beechnut took over the sponsorship, it had been known as Red Adams. Fearing that the name "Adams" would remind listeners of rival Adams' Chewing Gum, Beechnut insisted upon a name change. The program told a warm human interest story of a young man's trials and tribulations with his girl friend, his buddies and a father who didn't understand him. Burgess Meredith played the title role, supported by Marion Barney, Ethel Blume, Eunice Howard, John Kane, Jack Roseleigh, Jean Sothorn and Elizabeth Wragge (NBC, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 8:45–9:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1933–1934). The show also had been broadcast on the same days earlier at 7:15–7:30 P.M. on NBC-Red. See also Pepper Young's Family.

21242 Red Foley and Lily May (aka Red Foley and His Merry-makers). CW singer Rambling Red Foley and his wife, Lily May, appeared with the Girls of the Golden West on the music show sponsored by Pinex (15 min., Monday through Friday, 11:00–11:15 A.M. CST, WLS, Chicago, IL, 1936). See also Rambling Red Foley and the Girls of the Golden West

21243 Red Goes to Camp. The dramatic series told the story of a boy attending the Chicago Boys' Club camp at Winona Lake, Indiana. Camp members took all the parts on the show directed by Howard Tooley (15 min., 2:30–2:45 P.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1938).

21244 Red Grange Forecasts. Football great Red Grange, who in his playing days was known as "The Galloping Ghost," broadcast weekly football forecasts for CBS in 1934. By 1936, Grange was on NBC three times weekly both with football news and his predictions for the coming week's games.

21245 Red Horse Ranch. CW mus. prg. (WFBM, Indianapolis, IN, 1935).

21247 Red Peppers. Hot jazz band led by Frank Silsby (KVOO, Tulsa, OK, 1929).

21248 Red Ramblers. The Ramblers, a popular CW musical group, appeared on the typical early morning local music show broadcast in Missouri (15 min., Thursday, 6:45–7:00 A.M. CST, KWOS, Jefferson City, MO, 1938).

21249 Red River Dave (Dave McEnergy). A story, perhaps apocryphal is that once during a 12-hour TV broadcast McEnergy wrote 52 songs while handcuffed to a piano (Red River Dave, CW mus. prg., 15 min., Saturday, 9:30–9:45 A.M., WOR, Newark, NJ, 1939).

21251 Red Skelton Show. Pantomime comedian Skelton made his successful radio debut in 1939 on the Avalon Time show. On his own show in 1941, Skelton introduced such memorable comedy characters as the Junior the Mean Little Kid, Clem Kadiddlehopper, Willy Lump-Lump, J. Newton Numbskull, and the western gun fighter, Deadeye. He was assisted by some fine comedic supporting actors. In the cast were: Verna Felton, Harriet Hilliard, Marlin Hurt, Tommy Mack, GeGe Pearson, "Wonderful" Smith and Lorene Tuttle. The program's writers were Jack Douglas, Ben Freedman, Johnny Murray and Edna Skelton. Jack Simpson was the program's producer and Keith McLeod the director. Music was supplied by the orchestras of Ozric Nelson and David Rose. The vocalists were Anita Ellis, Harriet Hilliard, Orzie Nelson and the Four Knights vocal quartet. Truman Bradley, John Holbrook and Pat McGeehan were the announcers. Although Skelton was a talented clown, his skills were displayed to best advantage on television and in films, where his pantomime and physical comedy talent could be best utilized.

21252 Red Star Rangers. CW mus. prg. (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1937).

21253 Red Star Revue. Heywood Brown, a New York World-Telegram columnist, hosted the variety show featuring singer Mabel Jackson, the comedy team of Pick and Pat, a vocal group called the Four New Yorkers and the comedy singing team of Gordon, Dave and Benny (30 min., Wednesday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., WOR, Newark, NJ, 1933).

21254 Red Steele, Flying Investigator. Fred Hunter wrote and played the title role on the juvenile adventure serial. G-Man Steele was a Native American Indian, who had been an All-American football halfback and world traveler before becoming a G-Man. In the story, Steele fought crime in all parts of the United States. Paul Gott supplied the program's organ music. Massey's Dairy sponsored the program and offered membership in the Red Steele Membership Club for a milk bottle cap from Massey's Milk. Each program ended with a moral and an injunction to drink the sponsor's milk (15 min., Monday through Saturday, WTMV, St. Louis, MO, 1937).

21255 Red Trails. A dramatic series, based on fact, Red Trails was researched and written by Stewart Sterling. The story told of the uprising of the Metis (half-breeds) led by Louis Riel in Canada's northwest territory in 1895. Red Trails was broadcast weekly (30 min., Tuesday evenings, 9:00–9:30 P.M., NBC-Red, 1929). The program was rebroadcast six years later. Once more the story dramatized the bravery of the Canada's Royal Mounted Police in putting down the rebellion led by Louis Riel in 1895. The latter version, sponsored by the American Tobacco Company, featured Warren Colston as a heroic Mounted Police Sgt. Also in the cast were: Arlene Blackburn, Alfred Corn and Victor McLaglen. Graham Harris was the program's musical director (30 min., Thursday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1935).

21256 (The) Red Wagon Boys. The comedy-singing team were popular local favorites (WMAZ, Macon, GA, 1934).

21257 Redabaugh, Red. COM-HE (KRDO, Colorado Springs, CO, 1956).

21258 Redbook Magazine. Stories from Redbook magazine were dramatized on the 15-minute show. The first two stories presented were "Anything You Want to Know" on May 26, 1932 and "He Knew Women" on June 2, 1932.

21259 Reddy, Lawrence. Baritone (WCCO, Minneapolis-St. Paul, MN, 1928–1929).

21260 Redeen, Robert L. "Bob." Newscaster (WOC, Davenport, IA, 1944–1945).

21262 Redfern, Gene, and Barney Breene. Harmony singing team (KVOO, Tulsa, OK, 1928).

21263 Redfield, Frank. Newscaster (KWJB, Globe, AZ, 1941).

21264 Redford, Lee. DJ (1490 Swing Club, WKAY, Glasgow, KY, 1950).

21266 Redington, Bernice. Miss Redington talked on a variety of home economics topics on her Home Helps segments (KJR, Seattle, WA, 1925).

21394 Religious Broadcasting. Religious broadcasting began early in the history of American radio with both Christian and Jewish services provided for listeners. Sterling and Kitross (1978, p. 78) suggest that KDKA (Pittsburgh, PA) probably broadcast the first religious service on January 2, 1921, when it transmitted the vesper service of the Pittsburgh Calvary Episcopal Church conducted by Junior Associate Reverend Lewis Whittmore (Ward, 1995, p. 208). In New York City the first continuing religious programming began with the Radio Church of America on November 27, 1921. Following soon after came WDM, the first licensed religious broadcasting station, located at 18th and W Streets, Washington, DC. The 100-watt station was owned and operated by the Church of the Covenant, now the National Presbyterian Church.

One of the earliest religious broadcasts in the New York City area was a Christmas message delivered by Reverend George P. Daugherty of the Christ Episcopal Church of Glen Ridge, NJ, on WJZ (New York, NY), December 24, 1921. The success of the broadcast encouraged Reverend Daugherty to begin regular Sunday services program on WJZ, starting in January, 1922. A few months later on March 1, 1922, a series of Lenten Services conducted by the Rt. Reverend Michael J. Gallagher, the Catholic Bishop of the Diocese of Detroit; the Rt. Reverend Charles D. Williams, Episcopal Bishop; and Bishop Theodore S. Henderson were broadcast by WWJ (Detroit, MI).

Pioneer religious broadcaster Paul Rader by invitation of Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago broadcast a message from City Hall in 1922. Rader previously had preached on the Radio Church of America program. Encouraged by the enthusiastic responses of his listeners, Rader began his own radio ministry. The following year on April 3, 1923, R.R. Brown began his Radio Chapel Service on April 3, 1923. When he realized how large his listening audience was, he decided to form an organization for his listeners and founded the World Radio Congregation.

Proof that radio and religion were related in the public consciousness was reported on August 10, 1922, when the Louisville Courier wrote: "God is always broadcasting." Even though the message has some suggestion of Babbitry, it nevertheless shows the state of mind at that time. This was also when the Concordia Seminary began operation of its KFUO (St. Louis, MO) station, and Professor Walter Maier began his religious broadcasting career.

One of America's greatest evangelists, Aimee Semple MacPherson, went on the air February 6, 1924. Her station—WFSG (Los Angeles, CA)—was operated by Sister Aimee's Church of the Four Square Gospel. Two years later, on July 28, 1926, the Concordia (Lutheran) Theological Seminary station, WMBI, began its operation under the direction of program manager Wendell Loveless and station manager, Henry Crowell. The station became a major training group for evangelical radio broadcasters (Ward, 1994, p. 209).

Lois Crawford received her operators license from the Federal Radio Commission in 1927. Hers was the first operator's license received by a woman. Crawford worked at religious station KFGQ (Boone, IA). Women like Sister Aimee Semple MacPherson and Lois Crawford were true pioneers of American religious radio. The extent and variety of religious broadcasting on American radio can be seen in the tables.

Donald Grey Barnhouse became the first to purchase network time from CBS to conduct a religious program, but the selling of time by the network was short lived. Preaching on early radio has been characterized as a "record of violent denomination battles on the air" (West, 1941, p. 268) with emphasis on doctrinal correctness as a means to spread particular dogmas and creeds. An early effort to dignify religious broadcasts and eliminate denominational battling was made by NBC in 1927, when it adopted a self-imposed code that banned the sale of network broadcast time for religious purposes, stating that the time should instead be donated by the network.

By 1931, CBS adopted a similar set of principles when it decided to ban the sale of network time for religious broadcasting. This probably was in reaction to the controversy produced by Father Charles E. Coughlin's broadcasts. In place of his broadcasts, the network acted in cooperation with the Council of Churches to produce its own religious programming.

The Mormon Tabernacle Choir program, originating from KSL (Salt Lake City, UT) for NBC, began in 1929. The portion of the program carrying a religious message was known as "The Spoken Word."

In addition to the growing number of "radio ministers," there also were the great evangelists of the time who broadcast their religious messages. Probably the best known were Billy Sunday and Aimee Semple MacPherson. Sunday, a former baseball player, appeared on several network programs with his famous song leader Homer Rodeheaver. Sister Aimee, on the other hand, established her own radio station on which she broadcast daily. A later evangelist by the name of Billy Graham became a major religious spokesman thanks to the services he conducted on his weekly radio series, The Hour of Decision (ABC, 1950).

Several important religious programs appeared on network after Reverend S. Parkes Cadman first began his National Radio Pulpit in 1926 on the NBC network. Harry Emerson Fordick's National Vespers was carried by the same network in 1928. Programs devoted to specific faiths such as The Catholic Hour, the Mormon Tabernacle Choir program, the Lutheran Hour and The Message of Israel followed. Another memorable religious program that attracted a large and enthusiastic audience was conducted by Elder Solomon Lightfoot Michaux, an inspiring African-American minister. His talented Happy-Am-I Choir was always featured on his programs. Michaux's dynamic and energetic style inspired many listeners.

Ward (1994, p. 54) in his scholarly treatment of religious broadcasting says that radio's golden age produced a large number of evangelical broadcasters and successful programs:

- Henry Schultze and Peter Eldersveld — Back to God Hour
- Theodore Epp — Back to the Bible
- T. Myron Webb — The Bible Fellowship Hour
- Edna Jean Horn — The Church by the Side of the Road

21397 Remand, Ollie. Sportscaster (Grand Prize Sports Review, KEPO, El Paso, TX, 1948).

21398 Remember with Joy. Barry Becker hosted the music program sponsored by Joy Candy Company. Baritone Russ Perkins and pianist Estell Barnes were featured (15 min., Sunday, 4:00–4:15 P.M., WAAF, Chicago, IL, 1937).

21399 Remick, Dean. Concert pianist (Dean Remick, instr. mus. prg., WSBC, Chicago, IL, 1935).

21400 Reminiscences. An old-time Bostonian shared his memories of old Boston on the ten-minute weekly program Wednesday evenings (10 min., Wednesday, WNAC, Boston, MA, 1925).

21401 Remington, Jack. DJ (WKRC, Cincinnati, OH, 1954).

21402 Remington, O.J. Newscaster (WNOX, Knoxville, TN, 1945).

21403 Remley, Helen. Coloratura soprano (WLV, Cincinnati, OH, 1925).

21404 Remsburg, Bill. DJ (WFMD, Frederick, MD, 1956).

21405 Remsen, Alice. Singer-actress Alice Remsen sang on the Stromberg-Carlson Hour sponsored by the Stromberg-Carlson Telephone Manufacturing Company (NBC-Blue, 1927) and the Palmolive Hour sponsored by Colgate-Palmolive Company (NBC-Red, 1927–1928).

21406 Remsen, Walter. Leader (Walter Remsen Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WCAE, Pittsburgh, PA, 1936).

21407 Remy, Helen. Pianist (WLBV, Mansfield, OH, 1928).

21408 Renald, Dr. Pianist (Dr. Renald, instr. mus. prg., WGR, Buffalo, NY, 1927).

21409 Renard, Jacques "Jack." Leader (Mansion Inn Orchestra, WEEI, Boston, MA, 1924; Meyer Davis New Arlington Ensemble, KTHS, Hot Springs National Park, AK, 1924). Renard led the ten-piece Meyer Davis Orchestra on the inaugural program of station KTHS (Hot Springs National Park, AR, December 20, 1924). He also was a violinist with the Meyer Davis Orchestra (WEAF, New York, NY, 1925) and the Boston's Coconut Grove Orchestra (WEEI, Boston, MA, 1928–29). Renard later led his own band, as well as those of various network programs (Jacques Renard Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., CBS, 1934–1937; MBS, 1939).

21410 Renald, Josef. Palmist Renald was sponsored by a nail polish company. Despite being a palmist, somehow Renald plied his trade on the air and received some 2,000 letters from listeners weekly (WOR, New York, NY, 1930s).

21411 Renaut, Frank. Tenor (Frank Renaut, vcl. mus. prg., WORK, York, PA, 1936). Organist (Frank Renaut, instr. mus. prg., WORK, York, PA, 1937–1938).

21412 Renchen, Wilma. COM-HE (WFAY, Robinson, IL, 1956).

21413 Rendell, Arthur. Clarinetist (WCBD, Zion, IL, 1923).

21414 Rendezvous. Popular singer Irene "Bee" Beasley and the Clyde Lucas orchestra appeared on the program (30 min., Wednesday, 7:00–7:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1936).

21415 Rendezvous at 711. Baritone Norman Sweetser presided over a talented group of NBC artists in the weekly music program (WEAF, NBC-Red, 1929).

21416 Rendezvous Musical. This half-hour music program used the clever concept of portraying evenings in a night club, where a romance between the club's two featured singers had begun. The program used actors Eunice Howard and Buford Hampden as the singers. However, the singers who actually sang the songs were Jane Williams and Phil Duey. The Men About Town vocal group also appeared accompanied by the Aldo Ricci Orchestra (Weekly, NBC-Blue, 1935).

21417 Rendezvous with Ramona. Veteran singer-pianist Ramona, who first became famous while playing with the Paul Whiteman Orchestra, performed with Joe Lugar's orchestra on the program (15 min., Monday through Friday, 6:30–6:45 P.M., WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1947).

21418 Rendezvous with Ruth Moss. Miss Moss conducted celebrity interviews on this local show (15 min., Friday, 6:30–6:45 P.M., WAAB, Boston, MA, 1936).

21419 Rendina, S.F. Rendina was the pianist-director of the K.C. Artist Trio and conductor of the WHB Concert Orchestra (WHB, Kansas City, MO, 1928–1929).

21420 Rene, Leon. Leader (Leon Rene and his Southern Syncopators, KFI, Los Angeles, CA, 1928; Leon Rene's Kit Kat Club Orchestra, KFI, 1929).

21421 Renfro Valley Barn Dance (Different versions of this program known as The Renfro Valley Gathering and The Renfro Valley Country Store were broadcast at various times). The popular country music program was carried by the Mutual Broadcasting System from 1937 to 1939. Later, the program was carried on CBS. Announcer Eugene Trace introduced such performers as Clyde J. "Red" Foley, the Girls of the Golden West (Dolly and Molly Good) and country comedian Benjamin "Whitey" Ford, who was known as the Duke of Paducah (60 min., Saturday, 7:00–8:00 P.M., WIW-MBS, 1937). The Renfro Valley Barn Dance, created by John Lair in 1937, was located in a replica of a nineteenth century Kentucky town. Lair, who had been born in Renfro Valley, Kentucky, went north in 1927 to become program director and music librarian at station WLS (Chicago, IL). He was one of those who encouraged folk musicians to appear on the National Barn Dance and other WLS shows. Lair joined with country comedian Ford and country-western singer Red Foley to buy some Kentucky land in 1937 with the intention of building a music barn.

WIW (Cincinnati, OH) made the decision to increase its CW music programming and persuaded Lair to join the station. Lair then began his Renfro Valley Barn Dance, originating the program in Cincinnati from 1937 to 1939. The following year he moved the program to its own "barn" in Renfro Valley, from which he broadcast the show before a large and appreciative paying audience. Lair later produced another popular CW music show, The Renfro Valley Gathering.

Lair said "the barn dance show was the first and only barn dance on the air presented by the actual residents of an actual community." Listener response to the program was enthusiastic. When Lair offered pictures of the barn to those who wrote requesting it, he received some 253,000 requests. Lair was an intelligent entrepreneur, who combined a genuine love of American folk music with a sharp business sense. Located near Mt. Vernon, Kentucky, the Renfro Valley Music Barn attracted a Saturday night paid attendance for the program that averaged 5,000, but sometimes reached as high as 10,000 (Billboard Music Yearbook, 1944, pp. 344–345).

Many CW stars were developed on Lair's programs, including: Homer and Jethro, Old Joe Clark, Whitey Ford the "Duke of Paducah," Martha Carson and the Drifting Pioneers (guitarist Merle Travis, fiddler Morris "Sleepy" Marlin, mandolinist Walter Braun and bassist Bill Braun). Lair's programs were particularly memorable for their haunting theme, "Take Me Back to Renfro Valley." See also Renfro Valley Folks.

21422 Renfro Valley Folks. The network return of the popular country music program — then known as lullbilly — featured the Duke of Paducah (Whitey Ford), the Brown County Revelers, the Harvest Hands, Aunt Idy and Little Clifford and the Coon Creek Girls. Eugene Trace returned as program announcer (Weekly, NBC-Red, 1941). The show was picked up by CBS when it left NBC, but the cast remained essentially the same (Sunday, CBS, 1947).

21423 Renfrow, Charlie. Sportscaster and sports play-by-play (WAKP, Hendersonville, NC, 1960).

21424 Renick, Jim. Sportscaster (WCOL, Columbus, OH, 1944).

21427 Renner, Earl. Tenor (KDKA, Pittsburgh, PA, 1924).

21428 Rennick, Louise. Pianist (WEAO, Columbus, OH, 1925).

21429 Rensch, Ty. DJ (KGFX, Pierre, SD, 1956).

21430 Renwick, Chuck. DJ (WKNX, Saginaw, MI, 1956).

21431 REO Male Quartet. Singing group (WREO, Lansing, MI, 1925).

21433 Reo Wolverine Orchestra. Instr. mus. prg. (KPO, San Francisco, CA, 1928).

21434 Repaid, W. Hal "Billy." News analyst (WJR, Detroit, MI, 1933; WMBC, Detroit, MI, 1938; The Flying Reporter, MBS-WOL, Washington, DC, 1942–1945; WJLB, Detroit, MI, 1946). Newscaster and analyst Repaid was famous for his rapid fire speech delivery that was perfect for his appearances on the Household Musical Clock program sponsored by the Household Finance Company (WJR, Detroit, MI, mid-1930s).

21435 Repco, Joe. Sportscaster (WBKZ, Battle Creek, MI, 1955).

21436 Replogle, Kent. Sportscaster (Sports Scoreboard, WVAM, Altoona, PA, 1960).

21437 Repp, Henry. Organist (WEAF, New York, NY, 1925).

21439 Reppert, James. Newscaster (WSM, Nashville, TN, 1945).

21441 Requard, Jay. DJ (Tunes at Noon, WEPM, Martinsburg, WV, 1947; American Sports Parade, WSID, Baltimore, MD, 1948).

21442 Reseburg, Walter. Baritone (KOMO, Seattle, WA, 1929).

21443 Reser, Harry. Leader (Harry Reser and his Carolina Melody Boys, WHN, New York, NY, 1923). Musical director-banjoist Reser also appeared with the Gold Dust Twins, sponsored by the Gold Dust Corporation (NBC-Red, 1923–1925) and, more prominently, as leader of the Cliquot Club Eskimos, the famous radio orchestra sponsored by Cliquot Club for the Ginger Ale and Sparking Water Company (NBC-Red, 1925–1934) and as orchestra conductor on the Flit Soldiers program, sponsored by the Standard Oil Company (NBC-Red, 1929). In the following years, Reser continued to be busy (Harry Reser Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WRC, Washington, DC, 1935; WHP, Harrisburg, PA and KSD, St. Louis, MO, 1936; NBC, 1936–1937; WMAL, Washington, DC and WHP, 1938). When the Cliquot Club Eskimos first went on the air, they supposedly were playing from the Eskimo Night Club. Their program opened with the sound of sleigh bells and the barking of sled dogs.

21444 Reser, Lonely. Leader (Lonely Reser Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WHP, Harrisburg, PA, 1936).

21445 Resnick, Dean. Pianist (WHI, Deerfield, IL, 1925).

21446 Resnick, Helen. Pianologues (KFWI, San Francisco, CA, 1929).

21447 Resnick, Leo. Operatic tenor (WGBS, New York, NY, 1927).

21448 Resorb, Harry. Leader (Harry Resorb Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WCKY, Cincinnati, OH, 1935).

21449 Ress, George F. Announcer–music director (WRC, Washington, DC, 1929).

21450 Ressler, Minella T. Contralto (WIP, Philadelphia, PA, 1925).

21451 Resta, Francis. Director (17th U.S. Infantry Band, WOW, Omaha, NE, 1928–1929).

21452 Resta, Luigi A. Clarinetist (WHAS, Louisville, KY, 1929).

21454 Rettenberg, Milton. Pianist–orchestra conductor Rettenberg appeared on the Eveready Hour (NBC-Red, 1925–1928); Eastman Kodak Hour (NBC-Blue, 1928–1933); Cities Service Concert (NBC-Red, 1929–1938); and the B.A. Rolf Orchestra instr. mus. program (NBC-Red, 1928–1931).

21455 Retting, Buryl. Pianist (NBC, Chicago, IL, 1929).

21456 Rettner, Kathleen. Rettner was a nine-year-old singer on The Children's Hour program (KSTP, St. Paul–Minneapolis, MN, 1929).

21457 Return Engagement. Brent Gunts and Ad Weinert (who later became announcer Lee Stevens on such network television shows as Ed Sullivan's Toast of the Town) conducted this show on which they played old records and exchanged entertaining talk (WFBR, Baltimore, MD, 1949–1953). Brent Gunts earlier had produced the Varsity Club program with Garry Moore in the middle 1930s at WFBR.

21458 Reuning, Fred. Sportscaster (WOPI, Burlington, TN, 1939).

21459 Reuter, Jerry. DJ (Record Shop, KLRA, Little Rock, AR, 1948).

21460 Reveille in Dixie. The weekly dramatic series was produced locally. It emphasized the ways and means to achieve victory in World War II (WSB, Atlanta, GA, World War II era). See also Wartime Radio.

21461 Reveille with Beverly. Jean Ruth conducted the World War II era show of music and talk designed to improve servicemen's morale (KIMN, Denver, CO, World War II). See also Wartime Radio.

21462 Revel, Arthur. Leader (Arthur Revel Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WCAE, Pittsburgh, PA, 1937).

21463 (The) Revelers. The Revelers were a popular male vocal quartet that appeared on many network programs in the 1920s and 1930s. Initially, the group included Lewis James, Franklyn Baur, Elliott Shaw and Wilfred Glenn. They were augmented later by Ed Smalle, bass, pianist and arranger. In their early days they had recorded extensively as the Shannon Quartet. Their radio and recording work made them nationally known and admired. Tenor James Melton also sang with the Revelers during their earliest years.

21464 Revell, Nellie. Known as the "Voice of Radio Digest," Miss Revell conducted an interesting radio interview program in 1933. She opened her new series in this way: "Howdy friends, you remember me, don't you? I haven't in all the time I've been on radio had as much pleasure out of a program as I'm having tonight. Of course, everybody who's ever listened to me on the air or read any of my writings know my great admiration and affection of Irwin S. Cobb." Nellie then proceeded to conduct an amusing and informative interview with humorist Cobb.

21465 Revelle, Orville. Sportscaster (WKAT, Miami Beach, FL, 1939–1941).

21466 Revere, Everett. Basso with the WSUN Quintet (WSUN, St. Petersburg, FL, 1929).

The following year (Oct. 4, 1922), he broadcast the World Series over another early Westinghouse network. As the New York Times reported: "For the first time, [radio] carried the opening game of the World Series play-by-play direct from the Polo Grounds to great crowds throughout the eastern section of the country, through the broadcasting station WJZ. Granrland Rice related his story direct to an invisible audience, estimated to be five million, while WGY at Schenectady and WBZ in Springfield relayed every play of the contest. All the sounds of the game could be heard by listeners." In 1923, Rice shared broadcast chores of the World Series on 1923 with Graham McNamee, a chore that propelled the latter into prominence. Rice's fame, however, rests primarily on his newspaper columns and features.

21595 Rich Man's Darling. Kolynos Tooth Paste sponsored the dramatic serial whose theme, Variety said, was that of a "girl's sacrifice on the altar of love for her family." The story focused on Peggy Burchard, played by Louise Blocki, a reporter on the Gotham Press, who worked because her family had lost their fortune. In order for her brother to go to college and make life easier for her widowed mother and her sister, she married a wealthy suitor, even though she didn't love him. Olin Soule played the role of a fellow reporter who secretly loved her. Peggy Wall and Frank Seay were also in the cast (15 min., Monday, 12:15–12:30 P.M., CST, WGIN, Chicago, IL, 1935). The following year the program underwent something of a transformation when it made its network appearance. Peggy, an attractive young woman played by Peggy Allenby, this time was married to a middle-aged business man, Gregory Alden, played by Edwin Jerome. Karl Swenson and Ethel Renney were also in the cast. Art Millett was the announcer (15 min., Monday through Friday, 11:45–12:00 noon, CBS, 1936). The following year still another transformation took place when the program evolved into Our Gal Sunday. See also Our Gal Sunday.

21596 Richard Lawless. A dramatic serial, Richard Lawless featured Kevin McCarthy, Kathleen Cordell, Neil Fitzgerald, Sidney Smith and Peter Boyles in the cast. Music was supplied by John Gart's orchestra. Variety identified the program as radio's ill-advised venture into the swashbuckling period of Charles the Second in 17 century England. The sustaining program was relatively short-lived (30 min., Sunday, 8:00–8:30 P.M., CBS, 1946).

21597 Richard Maxwell. Tenor Maxwell broadcast a weekly program of popular songs (30 min., Monday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1929).

- 21784 Roach, Myrtis. Violinist who had previously been selected "Miss Omaha" in the Atlantic City Miss America contest (WOAW, Omaha, NE, 1925).
- 21785 Road of Life. Ina Phillips wrote the daytime serial that told the story of Dr. Jim Brent from his internship through his successful neuropsychiatric practice. Although there was a medical background, the focus was always on Brent's personal life and his romantic relationships. The program's cast included: Peggy Allenby, John Anthony, Betty Arnold, Barbara Becker, Frank Behrens, Viola Berwick, Jack Bivens, Sidney Breeze, Muriel Bremner, Dale Burch, Roland Butterfield, Ralph Camargo, Angel Carey, Matt Crowley, Frank Dane, Charles Dingle, Jeanette Dowling, Robert Duane, Harry Elders, David Ellis, Ethel Everett, Louise Fitch, Dick Foster, Dorothy Francis, Vivian Fridell, Barbara Fuller, Betty Lou Gerson, Stanley Gordon, Robert Griffin, Ken Griffin, Bill Griffiths, Gladys Heen, Percy Hemus, Arthur Hern, Dick Holland, Carlton KaDell, Arthur Kohl, Donald Kraatz, Eloise Kummer, John Larkin, Joe Latham, Elizabeth Lawrence, Grace Lenard, Abby Lewis, Helen Lewis, Bill Lipton, Janet Logan, Barbara Luddy, Don MacLaughlin, Charlotte Manson, Mary Mareen, Doris Mead, Marvin Miller, Bret Morrison, Angeline Orr, Effie Palmer, Eileen Palmer, Olive Parker, Eva Parnell, Mary Patton, Cornelius Peebles, Dick Post, Terry Rice, Doris Rich, Jack Roseleigh, Dorothy Sands, Nanette Sargent, Marion Shockley, Guy Sorel, Leslie Spears, Julie Stevens, Hugh Studebaker, Ray Suber, Lyle Sudrow, Hope Summers, Reese Taylor, Howard Teichmann, Russell Thorson, Helen Van Tuyl, Evelyn Varden, Beryl Vaughn, Vicki Vola, Sam Wanamaker, Willard Waterman, Sarajane Wells, Lillian White, Ethel Wilson, Joan Winters, Lesley Woods, Lee Young, Lois Zarley and Lawson Zerbe. The show was produced by Walt Ehgott, Fayette Krum, Kay Lane and Carl Wester. Stanley Davis, Gil Gibbons, Walter Gorman, Charles Schenck and Charles Urquhart were the directors. In addition to Ina Phillips the show was written by William Morwood and Howard Teichmann. Charles Paul was the organist. The announcers were George Bryan, Clayton "Bud" Collyer and Ron Rawson. An interesting fact is that the voice of the hospital loud speaker that opened each program by paging Dr. Brent belonged to actress Jeanette Dowling (NBC and CBS, 1937–1959).

21786 Road to Danger. Curley Bradley and Clarence Hartzell starred in the dramatic World War II juvenile adventure series that told the story of two heroic Army truck drivers, Stumpy and Cottonseed (30 min., NBC, 1943–1944).

21787 Road to Fame. Rocket Gasoline sponsored the Pacific Coast radio amateur hour. Frank Gill and Bill Demling co-hosted the show. The David Brockman Orchestra was also a program regular (30 min., Monday, 8:30–9:00 P.M. PST, KHJ, Los Angeles, CA, 1935).

21788 Road to Romany. Gypsy music was played by violinist Maurice Brann and Clarence Fuhrman's orchestra on the popular local music show (15 min., Tuesday, 11:45–12:00 midnight, WIP, Philadelphia, PA, 1937). A program by the same name was broadcast by NBC in 1935.

21789 Roads That Move. The Canadian Radio Commission wrote and produced the program for broadcast in the United States and Canada. They said the program "glorified the rivers of the world." Music by the Montreal Symphony Orchestra, entertaining dramatizations and informative narration made this an interesting show. One of the program's narrators was "Genghis Khan," who told of the historic events that occurred on the river Volga (30 min., Thursday, 10:00–10:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1934).

21790 Roads to Romance. The Associated Motor Company sponsored the dramatic educational series in which Jack and Ethyl Thurston travelled by automobile to various historic sites in the United States. For example, in early 1929 they visited west Seattle to learn the story of Christopher Columbus Simmons, born in that region in 1845 (30 min., Wednesday evenings, 8:00–8:30 P.M., NBC-Pacific Coast Network, 1929).

21791 Roadshow. A first of its kind, Roadshow was designed by NBC to be heard by those riding in cars. MC Bill Cullen played recorded music and introduced live entertainment. Singer Steve Lawrence and the Johnny Guarneiri (instrumental) Trio were program regulars (240 min., Saturday, 2:00–6:00 P.M., NBC, 1954).

21792 Roadways of Romance. Singers Vera Van and Jerry Cooper "traveled" the world on the romantic serial drama. They would stop long enough to sing love songs to each other accompanied by the Freddie Rich band (60 min., Thursday, 3:00–4:00 P.M., CBS, 1935).

21793 Roanoke Fiddle Band. Country-western band (WBAP, San Antonio, TX, 1924).

21806 Robberston, Ruth M. COM-HE (WIPS, Ticonderoga, NY, 1957).

21807 Robert Benchley Show. Humorist and author Benchley had gained national popularity from his appearances in several MGM motion picture short features before he began his radio career. He was the host and resident wit on the variety show that also featured the Artie Shaw band and vocalist Dick Todd (NBC, 1938–1939).

21808 Robert Montgomery Speaking. Motion picture star Montgomery's transcribed commentary was made in London and covered a variety of topics both large and small (15 min., Thursday, 10:10–10:25 P.M., ABC, 1950).

21809 Robert Q. Lewis Show. Over the year, humorist Lewis' show had many names, but essentially all were similar in nature. Frequently broadcast on a sustaining basis, the program was first heard Saturday, 7:30–8:00 P.M. on NBC-Red. The following year Lewis appeared on the Robert Q. Lewis Little Show. Lewis, who formerly had been a DJ on WHN in New York City, was featured on the sustaining show. Variety praised him for his "high IQ humor." Florence Robinson, Jackson Beck and William Keene were also in the cast of the comedy show. Music was supplied by Milton Kaye's Orchestra (30 min., Saturday, 7:30–8:00 P.M., CBS, 1947, 1947). The following year The Robert Q. Lewis Show assumed a different format, day and time, but it still was broadcast on a sustaining basis. On this variety show, Lewis sang in addition to providing comedy bits. He was assisted by calypso singer, the Duke of Iron, the Mullen Sisters singing team and the music of Howard Smith's Orchestra (30 min., Sunday, 5:00–5:30 P.M., CBS, 1948). A different format was used for Robert Q's Waxworks. Here Lewis became a DJ (15 min., Monday through Friday, 7:30–7:45 P.M., CBS, 1951). Not long after, however, even the format of Robert Q's Waxworks was slightly changed. On the show, Lewis in addition to being a DJ also conducted interviews with such guests as Eddie Fisher and Moondog (30 min., Sunday, 10:00–10:30 P.M., CBS, 1953). In 1956, Robert Q. once again acted as host on his Robert Q. Lewis Show. On the program, comedian Lewis hosted a weekday variety show that featured singers Judy Johnson and Richard Hayes singing with Ray Bloch's orchestra. The show was written by Harvey Bullock and Ray Allen. The producer and director was Bruno Zirato, Jr. (30 min., Monday through Friday, 8:00–8:30 P.M., CBS, 1956).

21810 Robert Shaw Chorale. Shaw directed an excellent 32-voice mixed choir on the entertaining music show sponsored by Standard Brands. Kenneth Banghart was the announcer (30 min., Sunday, 8:00–8:30 P.M., NBC, 1948).

21811 Roberts, Albert. Baritone (WSM, Nashville, TN, 1928–1929).

- 21939 (The) Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum. Located at One Key Plaza in Cleveland, Ohio, the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum is dedicated to the preservation of rock music's heritage, to trace its origin and development and honor the men and women who made unique contributions to it. The museum traces rock and roll's birth in the 1950s, its rapid growth in the following decades and its influences on American life and culture. The objective is to be the definitive source for the preservation, interpretation and celebration of the history of rock and roll.
- James Henke, music writer, historian and former music editor of Rolling Stone, is the Deputy Director and Curator of the museum. David G. Hintz is the museum's Radio Coordinator. An example of the museum's exhibit, "Dedicated to the One I Love," presented April, 1998 honored DJs for their contribution to rock and roll. The exhibit illustrated the work of the following 15 DJs who were active in 1960 and prior years:
- Paul Berlin. After being fired for falling asleep on the air, Paul Berlin moved to KNUZ (Houston, TX) in 1950. Always active as a rock and roll DJ, he brought many live shows to Houston, featuring such performers as Jerry Lee Lewis, Chuck Berry and Fats Domino. In 1973, Berlin moved to KQUE (Houston, TX), where he remains on the air.
- Dick "The Screamer" Biondi. Legendary rock and roll DJ Biondi started as a sports-caster in the 1940s. In 1950 when he moved to WCBA (Corning, NY), he lasted only three months as a DJ before being fired. His next job at KSYL (Alexandria, LA) was where he began playing rock and roll records. Biondi also worked at WSBA (York, PA) and WJET (Erie, PA), before beginning a four-year run at WHOT (Youngstown, OH). After moving to WKBW (Buffalo, NY), Biondi was fired for playing an Elvis Presley record. This led him to take a job at WLS (Chicago, IL), where he became a DJ legend.

Jerry "The Greater" Blavat. DJ Blavat began his broadcasting career with a talk show on WCAM (Camden, NJ). Later, in the 1960s when he began playing rock and roll records, he became a great Philadelphia favorite. Blavat is currently on the air on WSSJ (Philadelphia, PA).

Porky "Pork the Turk" Chedwick. Famous as a "white DJ" who played "race records" on his rhythm and blues program on WHOD (Homestead, PA) in 1949. Chedwick, "The Blonde Thunder with the Record Thunder," played "dusky" records for many years on WHOD, which later became WAMO. Chedwick's familiar opening was: "It's the Daddio of the Raddio, your Platter Pushing Papa."

Max Floyd. DJ Max Floyd got his first job in 1957 on KCAR (Clarksville, TX). He worked for several Texas stations until 1961, when he entered military service. He returned to Texas radio in 1965, where he enjoyed great listener popularity.

Jack "The Rapper" Gibson. Distinguished Black DJ Gibson began his broadcasting career as an actor in the "first Black soap opera" on Chicago radio. After beginning work as a DJ at WERD (Atlanta, GA), he worked from 1951 to 1962 at WLOU (Louisville, KY), WMBM (Miami, FL), WCIN (Cincinnati, OH) and WABQ (Cleveland, OH). In 1962, Gibson left radio to enter the record business at Motown, Decca and Stax. See also Gibson, Jack.

Arnie "Woo Woo" Ginsburg. Arnie Ginsburg was a Boston radio fixture for 40 years. Although his DJ work began in 1956 at WBOS (Boston, MA), he is best known for his 1957–1966 programs at WMEX (Boston, MA). He gained his nickname when one of his sponsors offered a two-for-one special for anyone who came into his shop and said, "Woo Woo sent me."

Dan Ingram. Using catch phrases like "Hi Kemosabe" and "Roll Your Bod," Ingram was known as "The Thinking Man's DJ" and the "only jock with a vocabulary." After beginning his radio career at WNRC (New Rochelle, NY), WALK (Patchogue, NY) and WNHC (New Haven, CT), Ingram moved in 1959 to KBOX (Dallas, TX). A short time later he moved to WIL (St. Louis, MO). Ingram gained his greatest fame for his work at WABC (New York, NY).

Hal Jackson. Jackson's long and varied career began when he broadcast Howard University's baseball games. Starting as a sportscaster before becoming a DJ, he worked at WOOK (Washington, DC), WINX (Washington, DC), WSID (Baltimore, MD) and WANN (Annapolis, MD). During the 1950s, Jackson had DJ shows on three different New York area stations broadcasting simultaneously on WMCA (New York, NY), WABC (New York, NY) and WNJR (Newark, NJ). Jackson went on to become a successful broadcast executive and station owner.

Art Laboe. After working in the 1940s at stations in Reno, NV; Pomona, CA; Palm Springs, CA; and San Francisco, CA, Laboe became a prominent rock and roll DJ in 1955 at KXLA (Los Angeles, CA). He is still a successful performer and broadcasting executive.

Hy "Hyski" Lit. Affectionately known as "Hyski," Lit has been a popular DJ on Philadelphia radio for more than 40 years. During the early 1950s, Lit began working at WHAL (Philadelphia, PA), before moving on to WRCV (Philadelphia, PA). When he moved to WIBG (Philadelphia, PA), his career boomed and he emceed shows with Elvis, the Beatles and the Rolling Stones. He opened his programs this way: "Hy ski-o-roomie-mcvouty-o-zoot, the potentate from the keystone, the garden and the diamond state. Going uptown, downtown, round town, crosstown. For all my beats, beards and Buddhist cats... Hyski's on the scene with the record machine."

Bruce "Cousin Brucie" Morrow. A Brooklyn, NY, native, "Cousin Brucie" began his career at WINS (New York, NY) in 1959. After working for a short time in Miami, FL, Morrow returned to New York to work at WABC. He continues as a successful broadcasting executive and performer.

Pat O'Day. From the beginning of his career, O'Day was both a popular DJ and successful broadcasting executive. After first working at KVAS (Astoria, OR) in 1956, he moved on to stations KLOG (Kelso, WA), KLOQ (Yakima, WA) and KAYO (Seattle, WA), before beginning a long career at KJR (Seattle, WA). At KJR, O'Day worked as DJ, Program Director, Music Director and General Manager. He continues today as a station owner and broadcast consultant.

Martha Jean "The Queen" Steinberg. After starting her broadcasting career in 1954 at WDIA (Memphis, TN), Steinberg became a popular DJ and versatile broadcaster. Today, she is VP and Program Director at WQBH (Detroit, MI), whose call letters, Steinberg says, stands for "Bring the Queen Back Home." See also Steinberg, Martha Jean.

Rufus "Bear Cat" Thomas. "Bear Cat" Thomas met his mentor, Nat D. Williams, while in high school in Memphis, TN. Williams eventually hired him to replace DJ B.B. King in 1950 at WDIA (Memphis, TN). Both as performer and DJ, Thomas enjoyed great success. He opened his early show in this way: "I'm young and loose and full of juice. I got the goose, so what's the use?" Thomas' rhythm-and-blues hit records include "Walking the Dog," "The Funky Chicken" and "The Push and the Pull." After more than 40 years, Thomas is still on the air at WDIA. See also Thomas, Rufus, and Williams, Nat D.

21940 Rock Creek Rangers and Sunshine Sue. The CW music group consisted of the Rangers who were John, George and Tom Workman and Sunshine Sue, who was Mrs. John Workman (Rock Creek Rangers and Sun- shine Sue, WLS, Chicago, IL, 1936). The following year the group moved to Shenandoah, IA, where they broadcast as the Rock Creek Wranglers and Sunshine Sue (KMA, Shenandoah, IA, 1937).

21941 Rock-a-bye Dudley. By 1948 the airwaves were filled with the talk and recorded music of many talented DJ's, and popular Dick Dudley was one of the busiest (WNBC, New York, NY, 1948).

21942 (The) Rock-a-Bye Lady. The talented singer, not otherwise identified, broadcast a weekly program of popular songs (30 min., Friday, 7:30–8:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1927).

21953 Rocky Fortune. Variety said that Frank Sinatra played a skinny Sam Spade on the transcribed series that dramatized the adventures of a private eye. Carl Betz, Betty Garde, Hollis Irving, Leon Janney and Charlotte Munson were in the cast of the entertaining mystery show, written by George Lefferts and directed by David Harmon (25 min., Tuesday, 9:35–10:00 P.M., NBC, 1953).

21954 Rocky Jordan. George Raft played the title role of a Cairo cafe owner with his clipped monotone speech on the show sponsored by Del Monte foods. Jordan always seemed to get involved in one nefarious adventure or another each week. Larry Dobkin, Paul Frees, Lou Krugman, Gerald Mohr and Doris Singleton were also in the cast. Adrian Gendet and Larry Roman wrote the program that was produced and directed by Cliff Howells. Richard Aurandt was the music director (30 min., Wednesday, 8:00–8:30 P.M., CBS, 1951). The weekly program was a re-worked version of A Man Called Jordan, a 15-minute daily dramatic serial that had starred Jack Moyles in the title role. When the program went on the weekly national network schedule, motion picture star Raft assumed the title role. The show opened with a voice in-toning: "Time now for Rocky Jordan. Not far from the Mosque Sultan Hussan in Cairo, stands the Cafe Tambourine run by Rocky Jordan. The Cafe Tambourine, crowded with forgotten men, is alive with the babble of many languages. For this is Cairo, where modern adventure and intrigue unfolds. Today's adventure — "The Lady from Tangier" (30 min., CBS, July 4, 1950).

22038 Rogers, Walter B. Rogers was the conductor of the Brunswick Hour program's orchestra (WJZ, New York, NY, 1924).

22039 Rogers, Will. Rogers, the famous American humorist, first broadcast with the Ziegfeld Follies showgirls from the Pittsburgh Post studio of KDKA (Pittsburgh, PA, 1922). When he appeared on KDKA in 1922, Rogers began by saying: “Hello folks. I've looked at you from the movie screen and stage, but I've never had a chance to talk to you at home before.” His warm, down home manner unquestionably was one reason he became one of America's best known and loved personalities and was generally called “America's court jester.” After his first appearance, Rogers remarked that radio was too big a thing not to be into.

On NBC in January, 1928, during the network's inaugural broadcast, Rogers performed a controversial satiric imitation of President Calvin Coolidge, “Fifteen Minutes with a Diplomat.” He began by saying that he had the privilege of introducing the President who would speak from the White House on national affairs. He said: “Now, folks, we've got a real surprise for you tonight. Something that we didn't put on the program because of the nature of it, we couldn't advertise it. And because he thinks that automobiles have contributed to the success and prosperity of the country, we have a real treat in store for you so get ready for a real surprise. A real announcer should announce this, but I have to do it, and it's nobody but Mr. Coolidge. Mr. Calvin Coolidge from Washington, who wants to take this opportunity to deliver a short message to America. All right, Washington, are you ready? A—ah—all right, Mr. Coolidge. Mr. Coolidge.” Rogers then went on to imitate Coolidge's voice: “Ladies and gentlemen, it's the duty of the President to deliver a message to the people on the condition of the country. I am proud to report that the condition of the country as a whole is prosperous. I don't mean that the whole country is prosperous, but as a whole it's—prosperous. That is, it's prosperous for a hole. A hole is not supposed to be prosperous and this country certainly is a whole. There is not a whole lot of doubt about that. Everybody that I come in contact with seems to be doin' well—Hoover, Dawes, Lowden, Curtis, Al Smith, McAdoo—they're all doin' well. Of course, not as they'd like to be doin' by this time next year.”

The “President” then continued: “I sent Dwight Morrow down to Mexico. A smart boy, Dwight. He's one of the two smartest boys, in fact, in our class at Amherst where we were preparing for college. Lindbergh is busy in Central America. We seem to get in wrong faster than that boy can get us out. I wish he was twins. I made a statement last fall in which I said I didn't choose to run. It seems to have been misunderstood, or not understood or somethin', so about a month ago I clarified it by saying, ‘I still don't choose to run.’ If they misunderstood the first ‘choose,’ I certainly can't see how they could misunderstand this ‘un again.’” Rogers [as Coolidge] then went on to discuss farm relief, foreign debts and international problems in the same humorous vein.

Many listeners who thought Coolidge was actually on the program flooded the White House with protests. Rogers was relieved to learn that the President had enjoyed the joke, but it was Mrs. Coolidge who provided an opportunity for him to apply a clever topper for the incident. When she met Rogers sometime later, she told him she could have given a better imitation of the President. “Well, Grace,” Rogers said, “You can imitate Cal's voice better than me, but look what you had to go through to learn it.” One of Rogers' favorite targets were politicians. He said the highest praise a humorist can have is to have his remarks included in the Congressional Record.

22041 Rogers, Wilson. Newscaster (KFIZ, Fond du Lac, WI, 1940).

22042 Rogers of the Gazette. Norman Macdonnell produced and directed the sustaining dramatic series that was written by Walter Newman and E. Jack Newman. Will Rogers, Jr., played the title role of a small town newspaper editor. Georgia Ellis and Parley Baer assisted him. Music was supplied by Wilbur Hatch's orchestra. In the role of an editor with an easy-going, folksy philosophy, Rogers was able to convey a brand of humor reminiscent of his late father. Good writing and acting were the major characteristics of the entertaining series (30 min., Wednesday, 9:30–10:00 P.M., CBS, 1953). See also Rogers, Will.

22043 Rogerson, Gloria. COM-HE (WWVA, Wheeling, WV, 1957).

22072 Romance. Romantic stories such as Kitty Foyle were dramatized and broadcast complete on each half-hour program of the series. The Voice of Romance on the program was Doris Dalton. Roy Rowan was the announcer. Organ interludes were supplied by Eddy Dunstedter (30 min., Saturday, 10:30–11:00 P.M., CBS, 1948). A later version of the program also dramatized romantic stories. This time the cast members included: Ben Wright, Raymond Lawrence, Ellen Morgan, Herb Butterfield, Jack Kruschen, Edgar Barrier, Charles Lung, Paula Winslowe, Anthony Ellis and Betty Harford. Dab Cubberly was the announcer (CBS, 1955).

22073 Romance and Melody. A young boy and girl's light patter and clever chatter led into each of the program's musical selections. Jules Laude and his Singing Violin played romantic tunes with the NBC orchestra (15 min., Weekly, NBC, 1935).

22074 Romance in Rhythm. Les Tremayne played the lead on the variety show broadcast in 1935.

22075 Romance, Inc. Dexdale Hosiery Mills sponsored the weekly dramatic series that starred Alice Reinheart and Buford Hampten as a man and woman, who started a business as marriage brokers (30 min., Weekly, 9:30–10:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1936).

22076 Romance Isle. A weekly half-hour dramatic series (NBC-Blue, 1927).

22077 (The) Romance of Dan and Sylvia. A local daytime serial drama with unidentified actors (15 min., Monday, 2:30–2:45 P.M., KDKA, Pittsburgh, PA, 1935).

22078 (The) Romance of Helen Trent. Frank and Anne Hummert produced the daytime serial, in which Helen, the heroine, constantly attempted to discover whether a woman over 35 could find romance. The daytime dramatic serial was another of the many successful Frank and Anne Hummert productions. 22141 Rose Bowl Palace Hotel Orchestra. Hotel band directed by R. Max Bradfield (KPO, San Francisco, CA, 1925).

22142 Rose Marie (aka Baby Rose Marie). Baby Rose (Marie Curley) began her radio singing career on WPG (Atlantic City, NJ) in the summer of 1928 at the age of three, billed as Baby Rose Marie. A daughter of an Italian teamster and a Polish waitress, she soon began touring on the Keith vaudeville circuit. In 1930 at the age of 5, she was earning $100,000 a year. She appeared on both NBC and CBS stations in 1929. Rose Marie later sang on her own NBC series (15 min., Weekly, NBC-Blue, 1937–1938). She later co-starred on the Dick Van Dyke television series.

22143 Rose of My Dreams. Peggy Blake wrote and Richard Leonard directed the daytime serial drama, another of the many Frank and Anne Hummert productions. Sponsored by the Manhattan Soap Company, the story followed two sisters with very different personalities, who fought each other for the same man's love. The talented cast included Charita Bauer, James Burke, Joseph Curtin, Mary Rolfe and William Smith. Larry Elliot was the announcer (15 min., Monday through Friday, 2:45–3:00 P.M., CBS, 1946).

Rosenthan, David see Ross, David

22165 Rosenwald, Margaret. Soprano (KSTP, St. Paul–Minneapolis, MN, 1929).

22166 Roses and Drums. When the dramatic series first began in 1932, it was planned that the program should dramatize important incidents of American history. When the series reached the Civil War, the writers responded to their listening audience's request that episodes about that bloody conflict continue. From that point on, the program's action was laid between 1861 and 1864. The series included a blend of fictional romantic elements with an accurate historical treatment of events.

During the series third year on the air in 1935, the stories occasionally shifted locale from the South to the North to deal with the North-western Conspiracy of 1864, a Confederate plot to foster a separatist movement in the North. Another story that year dramatized the adventures of John Yates Beall, who was hung as a member of that conspiracy. When the program ended in 1935, the romantic elements of the plot were resolved with the Southern belle heroine rejecting the suit of a Confederate officer to accept the marriage proposal of a Union captain. Perhaps this symbol of the unification of the North and South was intended to sound the need for reconciliation and the healing of wounds.

The cast included Don Ameche, Reed Brown, Jr., Helen Claire, Walter Connolly, Pedro de Cordoba, Johns Griggs, DeWolf Hopper, Helen Kimm, Elizabeth Love, Mrs. Richard Mansfield, Osgood Perkins, Guy Bates Post, Jack Roseleigh and Florence Williams. Professor M.W. Jerne-gan from the University of Chicago served as consultant to ensure the program's historical accuracy. The orchestra was conducted by Wilfred Pelletier. Herschel Williams was the program's director (30 min., Sunday, 4:00–4:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1935).

22171 Ross, Allen. Sports-caster (WHOC, Philadelphia, PA, 1955).

22172 Ross, Anthony. Newscaster (WKBN, Youngstown, OH, 1939–1940).

22177 Ross, Dan. DJ (Coffee Club, WWPE, Palatka, FL, 1947).

22179 Ross, Dorothy. COM-HE (KTNT, Tacoma, WA, 1957).

Sportscaster (Sports Extra, WNIOR, 1947; WPWA, Chester, PA, 1949; WCAN, Milwaukee, WI, 1955).
- 22187 Ross, Lanny. Tenor Ross was born January 19, 1908. After graduating from Yale University, Ross attended Columbia Law School. As a means to finance his legal education, he made his radio debut on the NBC network on several sustaining programs. Although Ross graduated from Columbia Law school, he never practiced law because his long, successful radio career kept him too busy to join the legal profession. A handsome, talented tenor, Ross was featured on The Maxwell House Showboat program in 1929. He also had a fifteen-minute weekly program broadcast Sunday evenings on NBC (New York, NY, 1929–1930). Later Ross performed DJ chores on The Lanny Ross Show (WCBS, New York, NY, 1955–1957). Ross also enjoyed a motion picture and television career. See also The Maxwell House Showboat, The Lanny Ross Showboat Show, The Lanny Ross Showtime, The Lanny Ross State Fair Concert and The Lanny Ross Show.

- 22219 Roth, Sebastian. Announcer (KGY, Lacey, WA, 1926).
- 22220 Rothafel, S.L. "Roxy." Samuel Lionel "Roxy" Rothafel was born in Stillwater, Minnesota, the son of poor immigrant parents. As a young man he moved to New York City and took a job as a stock boy at a 14th street department store. Bored with that job, he then worked as a book agent, Pennsylvania coal miner and Marine Corps enlistee. Eventually he opened his own small nickelodeon in Forest City, Pennsylvania. When he moved back to New York City he accepted a position as a theater manager. Soon he was working at the Capitol Theater, from whose stage he broadcast his popular Capitol Theater Family program (NBC, 1923–1926). Rothafel became extremely active on the New York theater scene. One of his achievements was the help he provided in planning Radio City, before he left RCA after disagreements with upper management.
- Rothafel began his Sunday morning program, Capitol Theater Family, in 1923. Broadcasting from the stage of New York's Capitol Theater, Roxy brought to his radio public such performers as Erno Rapee, James Melton, Wee Willie Robyn, Caroline Andrews and Marie Gambrelli. From 1927 to 1931, he produced and directed Roxy and his Gang (NBC-Blue Network, New York, NY). Roxy broadcast his first program from the AT&T studios on New York's lower Broadway. He concluded that first show with, "Good night, sweet dreams. God bless you." His first program included the following performers: Viola Philo, Bert Shefter, Morton Gould, the Southernaires, Julia Glass, Arturo DeFillipi, Caroline Andrews, Sidor Belarski, Elizabeth Lennox, Kouznetzoff and Nicolina, the Three Graces vocal trio, Anna Robinson, Geoffrey O'Hara, Dorothy Miller, Wladimna Padwa, Jeanne Lang, John Pierce and Evelyn Herbert. Members of his later Roxy and his Gang included Eugene Ormandy, Melaine Dowd, Dr. Billy Artzt, Mme. Elsa Stralia, Louis Scheerer, Frederick Jaegel, Yascha Bunchuk, Bruce Benjamin, Carl Scheutze, Nada Reisenberg, Edna Baldwin, Betsy Ayres, Evelyn Herbert and Edith Fleischer. When Roxy left the Capitol Theatre to establish a theater of his own, the Roxy on Seventh Avenue in New York, Major Bowes took over the Capitol radio program on WEAF-NBC-Red Network. See also Roxy and His Gang.

22273 Roxy and His Gang (aka Roxy and His Original Gang). S.L. "Roxy" Rothafel began to broadcast his popular variety show, The Capitol Theatre Family, from the stage of New York City's Capitol Theatre on February 4, 1923. At that time the Capitol Theatre was New York's largest motion picture palace and routinely produced elaborate stage productions directed by S. L. Rothafel. An off-stage dressing room was used as a radio control room, when WEAJ (New York, NY) broadcast the Capitol Theater Family program. This was a novel arrangement, since theater owners generally considered radio to be competition. Roxy left the Capitol Theater Family program in 1926, when his announcing technique was criticized by his sponsor, and he began the Roxy and his Gang program the following year.

Roxy and His Gang was an extremely popular musical variety show that presented such performers as sopranos Beatrice Belkin, Dorothea Edwards, Jeanne Mignolet, Dorothy Githens, Mary McCoy, Dorothy Miller, Viola Philo, Anna Robinson, Ruth Ann Watmon and Ethel Louise Wright; contraltos Celia Branz and Adelaide DeLoce; tenors Jim Coombs, Adrian DeSilva, David Drollet, Arturo, Fillipi, Agard Lazlo, Geoffrey O'Hare, Arthur Phillips and Harold Van Dusen; baritones Douglas Stanbury and John Gurney; singing teams Lee Reis-Artie Dunn, the Glenn Sisters (Beatrice and Ruth), Ed Smalle-Dick Robertson and the Roxy Male Quartet (Frank Miller, John Young, George Reardon and Frederick Thomas; trumpeter Robert Dent; violinist Joseph Stopak; organist Lew White; harpist Florence Wightman; whistler Mickey McKee; comedienne Nina Gordon; and comedian Frank Mulholland. The program's pianist-arranger was Leo Russoto. Phil Carlin was the announcer (60 min., Monday, 7:30–8:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1927–1931).

Other members of Roxy's Gang were: coloratura soprano Caroline Andrews, soprano Betsy Ayres, baritone Alva "Bonby" Bomberger, dancer Patricia Bowman, cellist Yasha Bunchuk, dancer Marie Gambarelli, pianist Julia Glass, bass Peter Hanover, tenor James Melton, Gilbert and Sullivan specialist and actor Frank Moulan, contralto Florence Mulholland, tenor Jan Peerce, soprano Gladys Rice, tenor William "Wee Willie" Robyn, baritone Douglas Stanbury, tenor Harold Van Duzee and baritone Leonard Warren.

On this program, Roxy was said to have been the first on radio to broadcast a complete symphony, opera and oratorio (Buxton and Owen, 1973, p. 205). One of the most famous "graduates" of the Roxy shows was tenor James Melton.

After graduating from Vanderbilt University, Melton gained a New York reputation through his radio work with the Roxy gang. He soon became a member of the famous Revelers Quartet and, later still, a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company. See also Rothafel, S.L. "Roxy."

22274 Roxy's Guest Stars. The usual assemblage of talented performers were presented on one of Roxy's last radio variety programs. The sponsor was Fletcher's Castoria laxatives (1930s).

22275 Roxy Symphonic Concert (aka Roxy Symphony Concert). Joseph Littau directed the symphonic orchestra on the concert music program. Milton J. Cross was the announcer (60 min., Sunday, 2:00-3:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1923-1929).

22276 Roxy Theatre Symphony Program. Maurice Baron conducted the good music program (30 min., Weekly, 9:00-9:30 P.M., NBC, 1932).

- 22484 Ryan, Quinlan Augustus N. "Quin." Premier announcer Quin Ryan was born November 17, 1898. After working seven years on the Chicago Tribune, he entered broadcasting in 1923, working as program director at WLS (Chicago, IL), WGN (Chicago, IL) and WMAQ (Chicago, IL). In 1924, Ryan began working at WGN and remained there for decades. Ryan helped contribute to one of early radio's most popular features—the bedtime story—when he portrayed WGN's Uncle Walt, first, and then Uncle Quin. Ryan's ingenuity was demonstrated when he "re-created" a heavyweight championship bout that had taken place years before. He researched old newspapers, studied the event carefully and then "broadcast" the James J. Corbett-Bob Fitzsimmons fight "blow-by-blow," as though it was coming to him over the telephone. His most famous broadcasts on WGN probably were the Dayton Scopes' Trial in which Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan argued Darwin's evolution theory in the famous "Monkey Trial"; the ordeal of Floyd Collins trapped in a Kentucky cave; and the Chicago-Illinois football game in which Red Grange scored four touchdowns. Radio Digest (October, 1928, p. 78) said that while working at WGN Ryan was known as one of the most vividly graphic and entertaining of the country's sports announcers. Some early programs conducted by Ryan were Quin Ryan, Reporter (15 min., Saturday 7:45-8:00 P.M., WGN, Chicago, IL, 1935) and ar early local radio amateur show, Quin Ryan's Amateurs (15 min., Monday, 6:45-7:00 P.M., WGN, Chicago, 1935). In the early 1930s, Ryan served as president of WGN. In 1936, he was broadcasting sports news at WGN and as late as 1939 working as a newscaster at the station. See also Quin Ryan's Amateurs.

22560 (The) Saint. The dramatic adventure series based on the novels of Leslie Charteris featured Simon Templar, known as the Saint. Templar was a sophisticated adventurer living the life of a modern Robin Hood. Although Edgar Barrier originated the role, he was soon replaced by Brian Aherne. The program premiered in 1944 and was on the air at various times until 1951. The cast included: Brian Aherne, Louise Arthur, Edgar Barrier, John Brown, Ken Christy, Tom Collins, Larry Dobkin, Joe Forte, Barry Sullivan, Theodor von Elitz and Tom Conway, whose brother, George Sanders, played the Saint in several motion pictures. The producer was Leslie Charteris. Bill Rousseau was the director and Dick Joy the announcer. Vincent Price took over the title role in the return of the The Saint (1949–1951) to the air. The program's opening in 1949 went like this: "The Saint, based on characters created by Leslie Charteris and known to millions from books and magazines and motion pictures. The Robin Hood of Modern Crime now comes to radio starring Hollywood's brilliant and talented actor Vincent Price as the Saint."

Tom Conway took over the role in 1951 and gave a fine portrayal of Simon Templar the Saint. Templar, the "Robin Hood of Crime," was intelligent, but not an intellectual. He was a man of action. Conway's portrayal contained the requisite sophistication and vigor to make the character come alive. The transcribed show's cast included Ted Osborne, Barney Phillips, Harry Brown, Betty Moran, GeGe Pearson, Gale Page, Peggy Weber, Tony Barrett, Bill Conrad, Hy Averback and Larry (Lawrence) Dopkin (30 min., Transcribed, Weekly, 1951).

- 22623 Salzer, Red. Sports-caster (KCKN, Kansas City, MO, 1941).
- 22624 Sam 'n' Henry. Created by Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll, who sang and told jokes in their blackface routines years before (WGN, Chicago, IL, 1925). They had also appeared on WLIB (Chicago, IL, 1925) simultaneously as themselves. Gosden and Correll began Sam 'n' Henry on January 12, 1925 and broadcast it for 586 episodes on WGN, until it ended on December 18, 1927. Written by Gosden and Correll, the program was broadcast six times a week for ten minutes (10 min., Monday through Saturday, 10:00-10:10 P.M., WGN, Chicago, IL, 1925-1927). Variety (August 17, 1927) praised the program, a forerunner of Amos 'n' Andy.
- During the period the program was on the air, Bill Hay was WGN's station manager. Later, Hay became a nationally famous announcer, who was probably best known as the announcer on Gosden and Correll's Amos 'n' Andy program. WMAQ, the Chicago Daily News station persuaded Gosden and Correll to join the station by giving them the concession to the program outside the Chicago area. Since the Sam 'n' Henry name was owned by the Tribune, Gosden and Correll had to choose a new name for their program. They chose Amos 'n' Andy, but their characters remained essentially the same nevertheless. See also Amos 'n' Andy; Gosden, Freeman; Correll, Charles; and Hay, Bill.

22653 (The) San Francisco Sketchbook. Merv Griffin made his first radio appearance on the 30-minute variety show (KFRC, San Francisco, CA, 1944). His romantic crooning was so successful that within two days the program was renamed The Merv Griffin Show (Vanity Fair), June, 1998, p. 209). Griffin, a short, fat, five foot nine inches and 240-pound singer was billed as "America's new romantic star." Griffin says that when young women came to the station looking for the new romantic singer, management forced him to hide (Vanity Fair, June, 1998, p. 209). After a particularly humiliating incident when he was laughed at by a young woman, Griffin dieted down to 160 pounds.

Although his early radio career was a success, it was as a band singer with the Freddy Martin orchestra that he gained national prominence. After this achievement, Griffin became a successful television talk show host with The Merv Griffin Show (NBC, Syndicated, CBS, 1962–1986). On the popular show Griffin was assisted by sidekick Arthur Treacher and the Mort Lindsey orchestra.

Griffin's development and syndication of the Jeopardy and Wheel of Fortune television shows made him a wealthy man. Later, he became even wealthier when his business acumen and enterprise made him a highly successful casino and hotel owner.

- 22735 Sarli, Antonio. Leader (Antonio Sarli Concert Orchestra, KFWB, Hollywood, CA, 1928).
- 22736 Sarnoff, David. A tragedy combined with an act of dedication and endurance by David Sarnoff, a young wireless operator of the American Marconi Company, focused the nation's attention on Sarnoff, as a man of destiny upon whom fortune smiled. Unlike his counterpart, William S. Paley, head of the Columbia Broadcasting System, Sarnoff did not come from a wealthy family. Despite a humble beginning, he rose to head the Radio Corporation of America and the National Broadcasting Company.
- The White Star Line's "unsinkable" ship, Titanic, hit an iceberg Sunday night, April 12, 1912, and sank into the icy waters of the Atlantic. Unknown to the White Star Lines, their Vice-President Philip A.S. Franklin all through Monday continued to insist that the great ship was "absolutely unsinkable." At 7:00 P.M., however, Franklin reported, "We have reason to believe that the Titanic went down at 2:30 o'clock this morning." Sarnoff's role then took on the focal point of interest for an anxious nation awaiting news of survivors.
- Sarnoff's great achievement lay in his perseverance in staying at his post for 72 hours at the Marconi experimental wireless station located in New York's John Wanamaker department store. Sarnoff's dedication supplied a concerned nation with information they anxiously awaited.
- He kept the nation informed of the horrifying details of the Titanic disaster that brought death to half of the 1,517 persons aboard. At the time, it was said that the fact that any persons at all were saved was due to Sarnoff's tireless telegraphic operations. Although some have tended to down play the importance of Sarnoff's contribution (Paper, 1987, p. 17), it remains a considerable feat of dedication and service to humanity.
- In 1916, while manager of the American Marconi Company after a rapid rise in the company, he sent a memorandum to his boss, suggesting that the "radio music box" could and should become a "household utility." Sarnoff's visionary memorandum was ignored, however, allowing Dr. Frank Conrad, a Westinghouse engineer, to persuade his company to launch station KDKA, the first commercial radio station in the United States. KDKA began its broadcast operations in 1920 by reporting the Harding-Cox presidential election returns. Sarnoff was able to convince RCA to broadcast the Dempsey-Carpentier boxing bout from a temporary station located in Hoboken, New Jersey, in 1921 [see Sports on Radio]. Sarnoff's executive skills and awareness of radio's potential made NBC and the Radio Corporation of America broadcasting giants during Radio's Golden Age.
- Although Sarnoff's "radio music box" memorandum was ignored, he was equally prescient in 1964, when he suggested that within 20 years computers would: "respond to handwriting, to images and to spoken commands. They will communicate tirelessly with one another over any distance. They will recognize a voice, a face or a symbol among tens of thousands and will have the power to learn through experience" (Broadcasting, July 20, 1964, p. 65). Sarnoff was as correct about the computer as he had been about the "household music box" almost half a century before.
- 22737 Sartain, Auxford. News analyst (Sartain Observations, WTBZ, Troy, AL, 1947-1948).

23229 Senior Ben. Ben Grauer, a distinguished network announcer, took his turn on the transcribed show as a DJ with a Latin beat (25 min., Thursday, 9:35–10:00 P.M., NBC, 1954).

23230 Sentenced Men. Broadcast from a special "bullpen" at Chicago's Cook County Jail, the 15-minute program consisted of interviews with prisoners conducted by psychologist-writer Lewis C. Barnet. The prisoner interviews were intended to offer lessons to listeners. Barnet also discussed crime conditions with Cook County Sheriff John Tolman on the program (15 min., Monday through Friday, WJJD, Chicago, IL, 1938).

23231 Sentinels Serenade. Hoover Vacuum Company sponsored the Sunday afternoon music program that presented baritone Edward Davies, tenor Charles Sears, soprano Mary Steele and Josef Koestner conducting the orchestra. Irvin S. Cobb provided humorous comments on life. The following year the format changed somewhat with Edward Davies and Madame Schumann-Heink performing with Koestner still conducting the orchestra. A typical program that year included "The Grenadiers March," "The Last Round-Up," "Wiener Blut," "With a Song in My Heart," "Schwanda," "Sweet and Low," and "Old Black Joe" (30 min., Sunday, 4:00–4:30 P.M., NBC, 1934–1935).

23238 (The) Serenaders. The instrumental sextet included Jack Stevens, saxophone; Tom Breen, piano; Alex Spear, banjo; Ronald Stark, violin; Bill Cadugan, drums; and George Garns, trumpet (WEJL, Scranton, PA, 1922).

23239 Sergio, Lisa. News analyst and commentator (Tales of the Great Rivers and Let's Talk It Over, NBC, 1938; WQXR, New York, NY, 1939–1944; NBC-Blue, 1944; One Woman's Opinion, WQXR, 1945; WOV, New York, NY, 1947–1948).

23240 Serling, Ann. COM-HE Serling broadcast fashion and women's news during the 1930s at KGY, Seattle, WA, before moving on to KJR, Seattle, WA.

23241 Sermons in the Movies. Reverend David Carl Golony of the Philadelphia Episcopal Church delivered some unusual religious talks on the five-minute sustaining program. His major premise was that 80 percent of all motion pictures teach a definite moral, either deliberately or by chance. Variety perceptively observed that this was sugar-coated religion, but "good show business" (5 min., Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 6:55–7:00 P.M., WFIL, Philadelphia, PA, 1936).

23242 Serota, Sam. Sportscaster (WHAT, Philadelphia, PA, 1939).

23246 Seth, Bill. Newscaster (WFVA, Fredericksburg, WV, 1941).

23247 Seth Parker. Phillips H. Lord conceived, directed and played the title role on this 30-minute program that combined hymn singing, homey philosophy and cheerfulness. The story followed the doings of Parker and his "Down East" Jonesport neighbors. Mrs. Parker —

Effie Parker, most often called Mother Parker — was played by Lord's wife, Sophia. Other cast members included: James Black, Barbara Bruce, Edwin Dunham, Gertrude Foster, Erva Giles, Joy Hathaway, Raymond Hunter, William Jordan, Bennett Kilpack, John Kulik, Richard Maxwell, Norman Price and Edward Wolters. The accompanist was Polly Robertson (15 min., Sunday, 10:45–11:00 P.M., NBC, 1931–1932). Lord and NBC were astute with their publicity releases as a means to attract listeners. An example of this is the 1931 NBC press release that described a Seth Parker tour.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

"Seth Parker" and the Jonesport neighbors are going "a-visiting".

On Sunday, October 4, Phillips H. Lord and his cast of National Broadcasting Company actors will leave New York to begin a tour that will carry them into twenty-three states, and two provinces of Canada.

Beginning with an appearance at Buffalo on Monday, October 5, the cast will be absent from New York until the last of December. They will be seen and heard from Vancouver to Miami and from Pittsburgh to San Diego.

"Seth Parker" and his players will undertake one of the stiffest road schedules ever attempted by a group of radio entertainers. In the ten weeks the cast will be on the road they will make more than fifty appearances. And, in spite of the length of the tour and the great distances to be covered, they will be heard regularly at 10:45 P.M., E.S.T., each Sunday night over an NBC-WEAF network.

The Sunday night "gathering" will be broadcast from associated National Broadcasting Company stations at Cleveland, Chicago and Los Angeles. The only radio appearances to be omitted during the tour will be while the cast is in Texas.

The complete itinerary is as follows: Oct. 5, Buffalo; Oct. 6, Hamilton, Ont.; Oct. 8, Pittsburgh; Oct. 9, Erie; Oct. 10, (broadcast Cleveland); Oct. 12, Canton; Oct. 13, Dayton; Oct. 14, Cincinnati; Oct. 15, Columbus; Oct. 16, Youngstown; Oct. 17, Sandusky; Oct. 18, Cleveland (broadcast); Oct. 19, Akron; Oct. 20, Toledo; Oct. 21 and 22, Detroit; Oct. 23, Grand Rapids; Oct. 25 (broadcast) and October 26, Chicago; Oct. 27, Minneapolis; Oct. 28, Duluth; Oct. 29, St. Paul; Oct. 30, Milwaukee; Nov. 1, Chicago (broadcast); Nov. 2, Davenport; Nov. 3, Des Moines; Nov. 4 and 5, Kansas City; Nov. 6, Open; Nov. 7, Omaha; Nov. 8, Denver; Nov. 9, Open; Nov. 10, Salt Lake City; Nov. 11, Enroute; Nov. 12, Portland; Nov. 13, New Westminster, B.C.; Nov. 14, Open; Nov. 15, Seattle; Nov. 16 and 17, Open; Nov. 18, Oakland; Nov. 19, San Francisco; Nov. 20 and 21, Open; Nov. 22, Los Angeles (broadcast); Nov. 23, San Diego; Nov. 24 and 25, Open; Nov. 26, Phoenix; Nov. 27, Open; Nov. 28, Houston; Nov. 29, Open; Nov. 30, Houston; Dec. 1, San Antonio; Dec. 2, Oklahoma City; Dec. 3, Tulsa; Dec. 4 and 5, Open; Dec. 6, Chicago (Broadcast); Dec. 7, Open; Dec. 8, Louisville; Dec. 9, Nashville; Dec. 10, Open; Dec. 11, Atlanta; Dec. 12, Open; Dec. 13 and 14, Miami.

All the 1931–1932 programs were similar in construction and content. The announcer would begin the program in this way: "Way up on the coast of Maine is a little old-fashioned white farm house sitting high upon a hill and looking out over the Bay of Fundy. It's the home of Seth and Mother Parker, and here every Sunday evening their good neighbors gather to sing the old-fashioned hymns in the old-fashioned way. Tonight we find them already in the sitting room. A fire blazing on the hearth takes off the chill of the evening air, and everything in the little sitting room spells peace and comfort." Mixed in with hymns such as "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning," "Mother's Prayers Have Followed Me," "We Are Gathering with the Lord Today," "Revive Us Again," "The Old Time Religion," "Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me" and "Lead Kindly Light" were such old-fashioned songs as "Old Folks at Home," "My Old Kentucky Home" and "Home Sweet Home."

The Seth Parker program in 1931 and 1932 was recognized and praised by such distinguished clergymen as Dr. Daniel Poling, Reverend S. Parkes Cadman and Harry Emerson Fosdick. The New York Times said: "Seth represents art. There is a genuine spirit of sympathy and of the sort of humor which surely must be as close to Godliness as Cleanliness." Poling said: "Seth Parker is a national institution. He has demonstrated the reassuring fact that the heart of America in its emotional quality is sound." Cadman added: "There could be no more persuasive evidence of the powerful influence for good, which the 'Seth Parker' broadcasts are exerting than the fact that, while they are religious in character, four million people tune-in regularly to listen to them." Harry Emerson Fosdick was in general agreement with his colleagues: "The phenomenal success of Seth Parker's program over the air is an interesting and encouraging indication of the concern of the American people about religion."

Lord, himself, thought the success of the Seth Parker program was due to two main reasons. The first was that it was based on his boyhood memories of the country people he knew, his grandfather's tales and from life. The second was the program's reflection of the truth and beauty of the old-fashioned life. He said, "We are transported in spirit to a tiny village on the Bay of Fundy. We become its people. We step into their ways. We sing their songs, re-tell their stories of faith. We bow in silent prayer. We live and move and think and expand our hearts in the old-time atmosphere of the neighborhood "gatherin."

As a broadcast first, Phillips H. Lord and his crew planned to sail his four-masted 150 feet schooner, the Seth Parker, to distant parts of the world and broadcast each Tuesday night, by shortwave if necessary. When the cruise began on December 16, 1933, all the local politicians of Portland, Maine, were on hand for the initial broadcast (The Seth Parker Cruise, 30 min., Tuesday, 10:00–10:30 P.M., WEA-FNBC, 1933). Many things would go wrong along the way. When a storm at sea destroyed the ship, all the crew and passengers were rescued, but the program went off the air. It returned for a few more programs in later years. Lord, however, went on to have several other successful programs on network radio.

23249 Setting-Up Exercises. Bernard Drury conducted the morning exercise program (KPO, San Francisco, CA, 1925).

23250 Setting-Up Exercises. An exercise program with Dr. P.M. Seixas, the Setting Up Exercises program attracted a large audience (KNX, Hollywood, CA, 1928).

23251 Setzler, Irene. Pianist (WCAE, Pittsburgh, PA, 1924).

23252 Setzler, Irving. Leader (Irving Selzer and his Cafe Boulevard Orchestra, WJZ, New York, NY, 1923–1924).

23253 Sevareid, Eric. News analyst (CBS-WJSV, Washington, DC, 1941, Eric Sevareid and the News, CBS, 1941–1942; CBS, 1942–1944; WTOP, Washington, DC, 1946; CBS, 1945–1948; WTOP, 1948). One of "Murrow's boys," Sevareid's somber analysis all too often tended to be intelligently boring.

23254 Sevasta, Philip. A "foremost harpist" with a "master's touch," said Variety (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1922).

23255 Sevcik, Hugo A. DJ (The Czech Hour, KULP, El Campo, TX, 1948).

23256 Seven Aces. The eleven-piece orchestra, originally consisting of only seven musicians, was the winner of the Radio Digest Popular Orchestra award in 1929 (WBAP, Ft. Worth, TX, 1927–1928 and KOA, Denver, CO, 1929).

23257 Seven Star Review. The stars on this weekly music program included tenor Nino Martini, comedian Jules Tannen, accordionist Charley Magnante, the Vagabond Glee Club and orchestra conductor Erno Rapee. The announcer-host was Ted Husing (30 min., Sunday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., CBS, 1933).

23258 Seven-Eleven (7-11) Orchestra. The excellent NBC house band derived its name from the network's New York City address, 711 Fifth Avenue. Saxophonist Merle Johnson led the orchestra (WJZ, New York, NY, 1929).

23259 (The) 7-11's. Ray Ellis conducted the orchestra accompanying contralto Mildred Hunt and novelty vocalist Billy Hillpot on the network music show (30 min., Tuesday, 10:30–11:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1930). Most likely the music was provided by the Seven-Eleven (7-11) Orchestra.

23260 Seventeenth U.S. Infantry Band. Military band conducted by Herman Webel (WOAW, Omaha, NE, 1923) and by Francis Resta (WOAW, 1925; WOW, Des Moines, IA, 1928–29).

- 23261 Severance, Percy. Flutist and saxophonist (KFAE (Pullman, WA), 1924–1925).
- 23262 Severi, Gino. Director of the Concert Trio, an instrumental group (KTAB, Oakland, CA, 1929).

- 23266 Sevier, Marian. Whistler (KGER, Long Beach, CA, 1928).
- 23267 Sevillier, Jean. Newscaster (KSI M, Salem, OR, 1941). Sportscaster (KSI.M, 1941).
- 23268 Sevitzky, Fabien. Leader (Fabien Sevitzky Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WNAC, Boston, MA, 1934).
- 23269 Sewald, Les. Newscaster (WRAK, Williamsport, PA, 1945).
- 23270 Sewall, Bud. DJ (Koffee Klotch, KCBQ, San Diego, CA, 1948).
- 23271 Seward, Olaf. Newscaster (KCKN, Kansas City, KS, 1937).
- 23272 Sewell, Norman. DJ (Turntable Time, KTI R, Martin Rolla, MO, 1960).
- 23273 Sex Guidance for Youth. Reg Merri-dew and invited guests provided sex education on the show that was unique for its time (15 min., Sunday, 1:45–2:00 P.M., WGAR, Cleveland, OH, 1949).
- 23274 Sexsmith, (Mrs.) Dorothy. Pianist (WMAK, Buffalo, NY, 1926).
- 23275 Sextette from Hunger. Members of the Sextette included guitarist Eddie Scrivanik's jazz group with George Thow, trumpet; Joe Yukl, trombone; Blake Edwards, clarinet; Charlie LaVere, piano; and bassist Country Washburn (15 min., Transcribed, 1940s).
- 23276 Sexton, Jessie. Newscaster (KALB, Alexandria LA, 1942, 1945).
- 23277 Sexton, Marion. Newscaster (KVAN, Vancouver, WA, 1939–1941).
- 23278 Sexton, Morgan. Sportscaster (KROS, Clinton, IA, 1941–1946).
- 23279 Seyden, Alfred. Violinist (WDAR, Philadelphia, PA, 1924).
- 23280 Seyl, Harriet Hertz. Soprano (WJAZ, Chicago, IL, 1926).
- 23281 Seymour, Freddie. COM-HE (WBET, Brockton, MA, 1956).
- 23282 Seymour, L.J. Announcer (WCCO, Minneapolis–St. Paul, MN, 1928).
- 23283 Seymour, Robin. DJ (WKMH, Dearborn–Detroit, MI, 1957–1960). Seymour was a leading Detroit rock-and-roll DJ.
- 23284 Shack, Bob. News analyst (KFBC, Cheyenne, WY, 1945).
- 23285 Shackelford, Ross. Sportscaster (Sports Parade, WGAI, Athens, GA, 1954).
- 23286 Shackleton, Robert. Sportscaster (WKAR, East Lansing, MI, 1946; High School Sports, WKAR, 1947; WKAR, 1955).
- 23287 Shackley, George. Shackley was the musical director of Moonbeams, one of radio's earliest slumber hour programs (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1929).
- 23288 Shadburn, Bill. DJ (The Ole Night Watchman, WATL, Atlanta, GA, 1952; WJAZ, Albany, GA, 1955).
- 23289 Shadburne, Bette. COM-HE (WCMP, Cumberland, KY, 1957).
- 23290 Shaddin, Gus. Sportscaster (Sports News and Views, WGGA, Gainesville, GA, 1949).
- 23291 Shaddox, Leon. The Sportscaat (KHOZ, Harrison, AR, 1947–1948).
- 23292 Shaddock, Gladys. DJ (Family Music Store, W'NBF, Binghamton, NY, 1950).
- 23293 Shadel, Willard "Bill." Newscaster (CBS, 1944; WTOP, Washington, DC, 1945–1946; CBS, 1947–1948).
- 23294 Shadertown Band. The Arthur Pryor band conducted by that famous bandmaster was called The Shadertown Band on the popular network program (NBC–Red New York, NY, 1929).
- 23295 (The) Shadow. The sinister, mocking laugh of the Shadow sent fear into the hearts of criminals and, incidentally, provided one of radio's most memorable program openings. After the theme the voice of the Shadow asked: "Who knows what evil lurks in the hearts of men? The Shadow knows." His sinister laugh followed. The program's close was equally chilling when he warned, "The weed of crime bears bitter fruit. The Shadow knows." Again the mocking laugh followed.
- The Shadow was first heard on the air in 1930 as only a mysterious figure who introduced the mystery story of the week on the Detective Story Program sponsored by Detective Story magazine. His first appearance as a character in the program's story was in 1933 (30 min., Thursday, 8:00–8:30 P.M., WHAM, Rochester, NY, 1933).
- One of radio's most mysterious figures, the Shadow was the fictional creation of Maxwell Grant (Walter B. Gibson). The mysterious fictional figure first appeared in The Shadow pulp magazine published by Street and Smith. The radio version simplified the story greatly. Few listeners knew that originally the Shadow was not Lamont Cranston, but someone who took over Cranston's identity when he was out of town. According to Grant's pulp stories, the Shadow was Kent Allard, a World War I flying ace, who had disappeared while exploring South America by air. In the magazine stories, the Shadow had a whole group of helpers who assisted him in his battle against criminals. In the magazine, he lacked the supernatural powers the "radio Shadow" possessed.
- The radio Shadow was able to rend himself invisible by his ability to cloud men's minds. Cranston's friend police commissioner Weston was always trying to snare the Shadow for some improbable reason. Cranston was frequently accompanied on his adventures by his companion, the lovely Margo Lane. His transportation was sometimes furnished by another helper, cab driver Moe "Shrevic" Shrevwitz.

Although he was not the first to play the Shadow, Orson Welles is probably the most famous Shadow, since he attracted the largest listening audience the show received. Before Welles, the Shadow was played by Jack LaCurto, George Earle, Robert Hardy Andrews, Jr., and Frank Readick, Jr. Agnes Moorhead played the lovely Margo Lane opposite Welles. The famous laugh at the program's opening was not produced by Orson Welles, but by Frank Readick, Jr., one of the earlier Shadows (Callow, 1995, p. 95). The actors who followed Welles in the role of the Shadow were Bill Johnstone, John Archer, Steve Courtleigh and Bret Morrison.

Other actors who played Margo Lane were Lesley Woods, Grace Matthews, Gertrude Warner and Marjorie Anderson. Cast members over the years included: Teddy Bergman (Alan Reed), Keenan Wynn, Mandel Kramer, Everett Sloane, Bob Maxwell, Dwight Weist, Arthur Vinion, Ted de Corsia, Kenny Delmar and Santos Ortega. The show was written by Peter Barry, Stedman Coles, Alonzo Deen Cole, Max Ehrlich, Joe Bates Smith, Nick Kogan, Bill Sweets and Jerry McGill. The directors were Dana Noyes, John Cole, Chick Vincent, Wilson Tuttle, Bill Sweets and Harry Ingram. The often ominous and mysterious organ music was played by Rosa Rio, Charles Paul and Elsie Thompson. In its final form the program was broadcast in a 30-minute format on Sunday afternoon on CBS or NBC until 1937, when it moved to Mutual. The Shadow was on MBS from 1937 to 1954.

23296 Shadow of Fu Manchu. Since his creation in a short story written by Sax Rohmer in 1912, the sinister Chinese criminal Fu Manchu has led a long fictional life. On radio, Fu first appeared in 1929 in a serialized version of 12 chapters on The Collier Hour, where he was played by Arthur Hughes. CBS carried the program in 1932 and 1933 in a 30-minute format with John C. Daly in the role of Fu Manchu. Novelist Sax Rohmer traveled from London to the United States to appear on the first program of the 1932–1933 series. The last radio version appeared in a syndicated 15-minute version in 1939 with Harold Huber replacing Daly in the title role. Hanley Stafford played the role of Inspector Neyland-Smith with Gale Gordon as his friend, Petrie. The intrepid pair took turns pursuing and, in turn, being pursued by Fu Manchu and his menacing gang members. First popularized on the Collier Hour in radio's early days, Fu Manchu proved to be an excellent villain in an era when many Americans felt themselves threatened by the "Yellow Peril" (15 min., Transcribed on Various Stations, 1939–1940). See also The Collier Hour.

23297 Shadowland Stories. Florence Smith Vincent told stories on the early evening program for children, (30 min., Daily, 7:00–7:30 P.M., WJZ, 1923).

- 23298 Shadows of the Mind. The aim of the show was to educate the general public about the "real problems" of maladjusted people and help them get the assistance they need. The program was said to have been based on the factual case histories and scientific studies. Sherman H. Dryer was the producer (MBS, 1947).
- 23299 Shadwick, E. Joseph. Violinist (WCCO, Minneapolis–St. Paul, MN, 1928).
- 23300 Shafer, John C. Sportscaster (WKY, Oklahoma City, OK, 1938–1939).
- 23301 Shaffer, Bill. Leader (Bill Shaffer and his Country Club Arcadians Orchestra, WAPI, Birmingham, AL, 1929).
- 23302 Shaffer, Frank. Sportscaster (WBLK, Clarksburg, WV, 1941).
- 23303 Shaffer, Fred. Sportscaster (Sports Final, WSBA, York, PA, 1947; Corner on Sports, WSBA, York, PA, 1948).
- 23304 Shaffer, George. Saxophonist (KVOO, Tulsa, OK, 1928).

23427 Shell Chateau. Shell Oil Company sponsored the program that initially presented Al Jolson as the singing host of its entertaining variety show. The show presented comedians, musicians and singers of all types, as well as actors from Hollywood and Broadway in dramatic presentations, but most of all the singing of the great Jolson was showcased. Jolson, who often was characterized as the "Greatest Entertainer of All Time," demonstrated why he deserved the title on the show, although the critics of the time were not always kind to him. After Jolson left the program, during the next two seasons there were several hosts who attempted to replace him. They included Smith Ballew, Wallace Beery, Joe Cook and Edward Everett Horton. Victor Young's Orchestra was a program staple (60 min., Saturday, 9:30–10:30 P.M., NBC-Red, 1935).

23457 Shepherd, Esther. COM-HE (WAAG, Adel, GA, 1956).

23458 Shepherd, Jean. Sportscaster (WTOJ, Toledo, OH, 1946). DJ (Back Bay Horse Opera, WSAI, Cincinnati, OH, 1947–1948; Jean Shepherd, an all-night DJ show with liberal doses of humor, Monday through Friday, KYW, Philadelphia, PA, 1952; The Jean Shepherd Show, 150 min., Saturday, 4:30–6:00 P.M., WOR, New York, NY, 1955). In 1955, Shepherd then an off-beat DJ began to talk much more than play records. Eventually his program moved to a late evening time slot and developed a devoted cult following.

Any list of great American humorists should include the names of Mark Twain, Will Rogers and Fred Allen. Arguably, another name could be added — that of the versatile Jean Shepherd, actor, DJ, comedian, author, radio performer, satirist and motion picture screen writer. Shepherd's long-running evening radio show (The Jean Shepherd Show) was a folksy monolog delivered in an intimate style that made listeners feel Shepherd was talking directly to them. He was interrupted at intervals only by commercials. Shepherd's show produced a small, devoted cult following that never seemed to be able to get enough of "Old Shap."

After a successful radio career as a DJ in the Midwest, Shepherd came to New York in 1955. While conducting an early afternoon and evening show, Shepherd began the evening program at WOR (New York, NY) that his fans remember best. At WOR, he played fewer records and added funny comments about the music and life in general. The records almost disappeared as the talk increased. Shepherd's stories about his Midwestern childhood were much in the tone and spirit of Mark Twain's tales of Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn. At times, Shepherd also related his hilarious Army experiences and his observations on the frequent bizarre side of New York life. All of his tall tales were told with a gentle touch of satire. There were no traces of anger or harsh criticism in his stories, but almost always the tone of an amused spectator.

Some of Shepherd's favorite reminiscences were of his parents; his whining younger brother, Randy; and his pals, Flick and Schwartz. One of his most memorable was his recycled story about the Christmas he — Ralph, in his fiction — wanted a Red Ryder BB carbine that every one told him would "shoot his eye out." The story was told first on radio, then in short story form in Shepherd's book, In God We Trust All Others Pay Cash and, finally, as a 1983 major motion picture, Christmas Story starring Darren McGavin as his father.

Shepherd's homey, chatty style made his listeners feel that he was confiding directly to them, letting them in on the secrets of his life. See also Comedy and Humor, The Jean Shepherd Show and The Jean Shepherd (Evening) Show.

23475 Sherlock, LaMar. DJ (KEZY, Anaheim, CA, 1960).

23476 Sherlock Holmes. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle first introduced Sherlock Holmes, his brilliant fictional detective, in A Study in Scarlet published in 1887. From this modest beginning, Holmes became unquestionably the most famous fictional detective of all time, a stature that presumably he will not relinquish in the foreseeable future. Despite his many eccentricities, or perhaps because of them, Holmes captured the imagination of many generations, who identified him as the first and best consulting detective.

So famous has Holmes deductive powers become and his character so real, that letters are still addressed to him at his famous 221B Baker Street address in London requesting his help. For many persons Holmes represents the ultimate application of reason and intellect in the deductive solving of crimes and the capture of criminals. Holmes and Watson were two of radio's most memorable characters who first appeared on radio in 1930 and lasted until 1955. Over the years many actors played the famous detective, but it was always the character that drove the series.

Although the first series broadcast from 1930 to 1933 featured Richard Gordon and Leigh Lovell as Holmes and Watson, it was not the great pair's first appearance on American radio. Holmes and Watson first were portrayed on a 1930 program dramatizing "The Adventures of the Speckled Band" with William Gillette and Leigh Lovell in the leading roles. Gillette was an actor and playwright who gained fame for his many stage portrayals of Holmes. He was said to have portrayed the great detective more than 300 times in the United States and England.

Sherlock Holmes in its various formats provides an example of the best detective series radio had to offer. Richard Gordon, radio's first Holmes in an American series, appeared on a half-hour show sponsored by George Washington Coffee from 1930 to 1933. Variety praised Gordon's portrayal of the great detective and Leigh Lovell as the first Dr. Watson. Sherlock Holmes (30 min., Wednesday, NBC, 1930–1935). The program like most of the others that followed over the years was written by Edith Meiser.

Together with actors Rathbone and Bruce, Meiser helped mold the listening public's perception of Holmes and Watson. As each program opened, announcer Joseph Bell interviewed Holmes as they enjoyed a cup of George Washington Coffee. In later versions, an announcer would come into Dr. Watson's study to hear the good doctor tell each week's tale. The program appeared in several formats over the years.

When the producers wanted a Holmes with a British accent, they replaced Gordon with Louis Hector. George Washington Coffee still sponsored the show and Leigh Lovell and Joseph Bell remained in their familiar roles (30 min., Sunday, 9:45–10:15 P.M., NBC, 1935). Hector's tenure as Holmes was short. Gordon's popularity caused listeners to send in a flood of letters to the network protesting his replacement by Hector. Gordon returned as Holmes the following season in Sherlock Holmes (30 min., Saturday, MBS, 1936; 30 min., Thursday, NBC-Blue Network, 1936).

The next Sherlock Holmes series introduced Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce in the roles they were already famous for in motion pictures. Since Gillette's time, Holmes has been portrayed by numerous actors on the stage, in motion pictures and on television. Although Gillette contributed much to the public perception of Holmes, one man stands out in both motion pictures and on radio as the quintessential Sherlock Holmes. That man was Basil Rathbone, who was capably assisted by Nigel Bruce in the role he created of Holmes' bumbling, blustering and faithful friend, Dr. John Watson. Both in the movies and on radio, Rathbone and Bruce played Holmes and Watson as though the roles were completely their own. In fact, many people now think of them immediately whenever the great detective and his old friend are mentioned.

The program was sponsored in its premiere by Bromo Quinine. Sherlock Holmes (30 min., Monday, NBC-Blue Network; 30 min., Sunday, 1940, NBC-Blue Network). Petri Wines later sponsored the show, when it was presented, first, on Friday evening, then on Monday evening on the Mutual network. Owen Babb was the program's announcer. Rathbone, radio and motion pictures' best known Sherlock Holmes, left the show in 1946, in an effort to prevent losing his identity to that of the famous detective. Particularly irritating to Rathbone was being asked not for his own autograph but for that of Sherlock Holmes.

Many later versions of Holmes' adventures followed Rathbone's departure. In Sherlock Holmes (30 min., MBS, 1946–1947), Tom Conway played Holmes with Nigel Bruce returning as Dr. Watson on the series sponsored by Trimount Clothes. Later in another series also called Sherlock Holmes (30 min., MBS, 1947–1949), John Stanley played Holmes. Watson at various times was played by Alfred Shirley, Ian Martin and George Stelden. Other members of the cast included: Mary Rimmer, Grace Braham, William Podmore and Maurice Franklin. The announcer was Cy Harrice.

Ben Wright and Eric Snowden replaced Stanley and Shirley in Sherlock Holmes (30 min., ABC, 1949–1950), a version that had a relatively short run. The series was the last American made radio production of Sherlock Holmes. In 1955, a final radio version produced by the BBC, appeared on American radio on a sustaining basis. John Gielgud and Ralph Richardson starred as Holmes and Watson with Orson Welles showing up occasionally as the evil Dr. Moriarity (30 min., NBC, 1955).

Over the years not only the actors changed, but the various program's production personnel as well. Writers on all the different series included Edith Meiser, Anthony Boucher, Max Ehrlich, Dennis Green, Howard Merrill and Bruce Taylor (Leslie Charteris). Edna Best was a producer. The series directors were Basil Loughrane, Tom McKnight and Glenhal Taylor. Supporting actors in the various series included Junius Matthews, Agnes Moorehead, Harry Neville, Bill Shelly and Lucille Wall. Joseph Bell, Knox Manning, Harry Bartell and Owen Babb were the announcers.

23555 Shoestring Castle. Betty Lou Gerson and Harold Peary played the roles of Julie and Jimmie Jackson, a young married couple with a baby, who lived in a small apartment in a large city. Jimmy finally recognized that the thing to do was to build a home in the suburbs with a FHA (Federal Housing Administration) loan. The Chicago Association of Better Housing Committee sponsored the dramatic serial with a New Deal political flavor. This was one of the genre programs during the Depression that attempted to influence attitudes and behavior. Merrill Fugit, Phillips H. Lord and Judith Lowry were also in the cast (30 min., Wednesday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., WENR, Chicago, IL, 1935).

23564 Shopshire, Albert W. Announcer and engineer (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1925).

23565 Shore, Al. DJ (Hillbilly Roundup, KRHD, Duncan, OK, 1952).

23566 Shore, Frances Rose (Dinah Shore). Singer (Frances Rose Shore, vcl. mus. prg., WSM, Nashville, TN, mid-1930s). Dinah Shore came to network television in 1951, after a successful radio and recording career. She had her own radio show at the age of 22. After first appearing on a quarter-hour music show on television (The Dinah Shore Chevy Show) from 1951 to 1957, she hosted an hour long variety show for many years. In 1970, she began a successful half-hour talk show (Dinah's Place, 1970–1974, NBC-TV). When that show left the air, she began a 90-minute syndicated talk show (1974–1980, Syndicated TV).

Dinah Shore was one of the finest female singers of Radio's Golden Age. Her smooth vocalizing first was heard on network radio on Fiddie Cantor's show. She started or co-starred on her own radio shows from 1939 to 1954, with some of the latter ones television simulcasts. Among her own radio shows were the Dinah Shore Show; Songs by Dinah Shore; and In Person, Dinah Shore. For many jazz lovers, her guest appearances on The Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street program were her most memorable. See also The Dinah Shore Show.

23567 Shore, Sandy. DJ (KCRG, Cedar Rapids, IA, 1960).

23568 Shoreham Hotel Orchestra. Famous Washington landmark hotel's band (WRC, Washington, DC, 1925–1926).

23571 Shorr, Mickey. DJ (Mickey's Madhouse, WKMH, Dearborn, MI, 1950; WJBK, Detroit, MI, 1955).

23574 Short, Phil, Jr. Sports caster (WHUN, Huntingdon, PA, 1946).

23575 Short, Robert E. Newscaster (WBLK, Clarksburg, WV, 1939; WHCU, Ithaca, NY, 1945).

23576 Short, Short Stories. Libby, McNeill & Libby sponsored the dramatic series of short stories from Liberty magazines. All types of stories—dramas, adventures, romance, comedy, etc.—were dramatized. Claire Grenville, Jay Jostyn and Charles Seel were frequent cast members (15 min., Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 11:00–11:15 A.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1938).

23577 Shorten, Martha. COM-HE (KGB, San Diego, CA, 1957).

23578 Shorty Bell. CBS pretentiously called Mickey Rooney's first radio series a "continuing novel." Despite the designation, it sounded like most other adventure programs. The writers were Frederick Hazlitt Brennan and Richard Carroll. The producer and director was William N. Robson. Variety said that Rooney in the title role sounded like James Cagney. Other members of the cast were Parley Baer, William Conrad, Florence Halop, Bert Holland, John Hoyt, Lou Krugman, Gill Stratton, Cora Williams and Joe Yule. Music was by Cy Feuer's Orchestra. Don LeMond was the announcer on the sustaining series (30 min., Sunday, 9:30–10:00 P.M., CBS, 1948).

Born in 1921, Mickey Rooney began his show business career at the age of 18 months. He went from stage to screen and eventually to radio and television. His career has included more than 300 movies and 100 television shows, plus numerous vaudeville and theatrical productions.

23579 Shorty's Rubes. CW mus. prg. (WTAS, Pittsburgh, PA, 1935).

23580 Shotwell, Ralph. Sports caster (KPQ, Wentachee, WA, 1946).

23581 Shoukletovich, Milosh. DJ (WJPE, Herrin, IL, 1956).

23582 Show Shopping. Len Hall, dramatic editor of the Washington Daily News, broadcast play reviews (WRC, Washington, DC, 1925).

23583 Show Business. On the local Albany program, Betty Campbell talked about show business and interviewed guests from that profession who happened to be in town (15 min., Weekly, WOKO, Albany, NY, 1947).

23584 Show Folks. The experiences of old-time show business troupers were recounted on the half-hour program. Actress Evelyn DeLatur was among the veteran troupers who appeared, and Georgette Cohan, the daughter of George, told of her father's experiences. Another Show Folks guest was actress-singer Olive Shea, who was awarded the title of "the most beautiful radio artist in America" in 1929 (30 min., Tuesday, 6:00–6:30 A.M., CBS, 1929–1930).

23585 Show Stopper. The Pittsburgh Independent Movie Exhibitors sponsored the program on which an unidentified announcer read movie gossip items (15 min., Wednesday, 5:30–5:45 P.M., WWSW, Pittsburgh, PA, 1936).

Originating from Hollywood in 1936, the cast included Thomas L. Thomas and Nadine Conner as featured singers and Harrie McDaniel as Mammy. Over the years the show was on the air the cast members included: Jules Bledsoe, Carlton Brickert, Nadine Connor, Honey Deane, Ross Graham, Rosaline Greene, Jack Haley, Sam Hearn, Annette Henshaw, Irene Hubbard, Warren Hull, Helen Jepson, Frank McIntire, Pick Malone and Pat Padgett, Edmund "Tiny" Ruffner, Hugh Studebaker, Conrad Thibault, Dick Todd, Virginia Verrill, Frank Willoughby, Charles Winninger and the CW music group of Louise Massey and the Westerners. The writers were Sam Perrin and Arthur B. Phillips. Kenneth W. MacGregor was the directors. Music was produced by the orchestras of Al Godman and Donald Voorhees. The program's last version was broadcast briefly in 1940 with Hugh Studebaker as host.

23587 Showcase. Herbert I. Jacobson directed and hosted the sustaining musical program that was similar to the Chicago Theater of the Air program, presenting as it did various operettas and musical plays. Contralto Joan Wheatley and tenor Davis Cunningham were regulars on the sustaining program (15 min., Thursday, 5:30–5:45 P.M., WNYC, New York, NY, 1940).

23588 Showroom. Meredith Willson was the musical director of the variety program. Singer Ben Gage and pianist Paulena Carter were featured. An interesting aspect of the program was the Talking People segment, in which three men and two women provided the program with a "Greek chorus" element (CBS, 1947).

23589 Shrader, Walt. Sportscaster (WIKB, Iron Mountain, MI, 1947).

23590 Shreffler, Boyd. Leader (Boyd Shreffler and His Merrymakers Orchestra, WIBW, Loganport, IN, 1929).

23591 Shreffler, (Mrs.) Boyd "Maudie." Pianist Shreffler was a popular Chicago radio performer. She was known as "Maudie" (WIBW, Loganport, IN, 1929–1930).

23592 Shreve, George. Newscaster (News at Noon, KRLC, Lewiston, ME, 1947–1948).

23594 Shreve, Theron. DJ (Elmer Boy, WTAC, Flint, MI, 1950; WTAC, 1954).

23595 Shriner, Patti Adams. Pianist (KVOO, Tulsa, OK, 1928).

Music was by Harry Kogen's orchestra (30 min., Monday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., NBC, 1933–1936). In 1933, the program was broadcast from Chicago's Merchandise Mart before an audience of 500. The early show featured McCloud and Soubier, two minstrel show veterans as endmen, Mr. Bones and Mr. Porkchop.

23762 Sing and Swing Unlimited. Caesar Pettrillo conducted the orchestra on the popular music show. He was joined by the Les Paul Trio, the Noteworthy's and singers Vera Lane and Russ Brown. The program's announcer was Cliff Johnson (30 min., Saturday, 9:15–9:45 P.M., WBBM, Chicago, IL, 1942).

23763 Sing for Joy. Black DJ, singer and musician Leroy Johnson sang and played sacred music on the popular show (WAAA, Winston-Salem, NC, 1950).

23764 Sing for Your Supper. Band leader Tommy Tucker hosted the show on which four contestants each week sang a familiar song as they performed a stunt. For example, they might have to sing "Bicycle Built for Two" while riding a bike, or sing "By the Sea" while wading in a tub of water. In the cast with Tucker and his band were singer Nancy Donovan, comedian Tommy Mahoney and the Ray Charles Quartet. Phil Tonken was the announcer (30 min., Thursday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., MBS, 1949).

23765 Sing It Again. An interesting sustaining show, Sing It Again combined music and a quiz. Dan Seymour was the announcer-host. He asked contestants from the audience to identify a voice, as he gave them a few rhyming hints. Music was supplied by Ray Bloch's orchestra, singers Bob Howard, Alan Dale, Patti Clayton and the Riddlers (30 min., Saturday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., CBS, 1948).

23766 Sing, Neighbor, Sing. Chic Martin (Hugh Aspinwall), a veteran announcer-actor-singer, ran through the gamut of his skills. He was well known for his reading of verses (15 min., Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 6:30–6:45 P.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1937).

23767 Singer, Elsa. Singer (WGBS, New York, NY, 1928).

23775 Singing Cinderella. Mary June Walsh was the romantic singer identified as the Singing Cinderella. She sang with Nat Brusiloff's orchestra. Jean Paul King was the announcer (15 min., Friday, 7:00–7:15 P.M., MBS, mid-1930s).

(The Singing Cowboy see White, John 23776 (The Singing Cowboys. CW mus. prg. by otherwise unidentified performers (WCAM, Camden, NJ, 1939).

23777 (The Singing Groundhog. Unfortunately no more information is known about the "performer," other than that he, she or it broadcast over WCAU (Philadelphia, PA, 1926).

23778 "Singing Jay Hawker." Unidentified CW singer (KMOX, St. Louis, MO, 1935).

23779 (The Singing Lady (aka The Singing Story Lady and Stories for Children). Irene Wicker began the program for children in 1932. (15 min., Monday, 4:30–4:45 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1935). Miss Wicker's pleasant manner and good singing voice made this a memorable children's program. She blended her stories and songs to make the program an entertaining experience for the younger set. Although her program left the network in 1941, she appeared on New York radio for the next three decades. Her pianist was Milt Rettenberg and her announcer Bob Brown.

23780 (The Singing Master. Singing lessons were broadcast by Clyde Dengler and demonstrated by tenor Harry Danner, soprano Polly Waters and alto Veronica Sweigert. The announcer was Al Stevens. The program was sponsored by Strawbridge Clothing Department Store (30 min., Monday, 7:00–7:30 P.M., WFIL, Philadelphia, PA, 1942).

Eddie Dunn was the announcer (15 min., Saturday, 9:00-9:15 A.M., CST, WBBM, Chicago, IL, 1942). She also appeared on radio's Breakfast Club and Burr Tillstrom's Kukla, Fran and Ollie on TV.

23811 Sisters of the Skillet. Eddie East and Ralph Dumke, the veteran radio comedy team, starred on the show sponsored by the Kellogg Company. They provided some wild and weird solutions to "solve" household problems sent in by their listeners. East and Dumke read the listeners' letters and then answered them this way: "The way to get a horse's mouth open so you can tell his age is by reading the Congressional Record to him until he yawns." They were somewhat reminiscent of Stoopnagle and Budd (15 min., WABC, New York, NY, 1935; 15 min., Monday, 7:45-8:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1937). Earlier in 1934 the team had been on the NBC Red network. Their 15-minute sketch always burlesqued the self-styled experts who tried to solve all existing household problems.

23812 Sisters of the Uke. The comedy team undoubtedly was influenced by the Sisters of the Skillet (15 min., 8:00-8:15 P.M., WPG, Atlantic City, NJ, 1934).

23813 Sisters Sarrie and Sally. The comedy singing team, Mrs. Edna Wilson and Mrs. Margaret Waters, had their own program (WSM, Nashville, TN, 1925). They were the first female stars of the Grand Ole Opry. They also appeared on the National Barn Dance. See also The National Barn Dance.

23906 Slovic, Pete. Sportscaster (WENT, Gloversville, NY, 1945).

23907 Slumber Hour. The Slumber Hour was a late Monday evening program (60 min., Monday, 10:00-11:00 C.S.T. NBC-Pacific Coast Network, 1929) that featured vocals by soprano Lucile Kirtley, tenor Harold Spaulding and music by the Max Dolin Orchestra. The Slumber Hour in its east coast version featured music conducted, first, by Hugo Mariani and, later, by Ludwig Laurier, Harold Sanford and Cesare Sodero. Milton J. Cross sang the program's theme, "Slumber On" (Monday through Saturday, NBC, 1927).

23908 Slumber Hour Ensemble. The music program featured a male quartet and a concert orchestra playing familiar favorites (30 min., Saturday, 11:00-11:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1930).

23909 Slumber Hour Music. Oswald Maz-zuchi conducted the orchestra on the late evening music show (NBC-Blue, 1929). The program might have been a variation of the Pacific Coast Slumber Hour program. See also The Slumber Hour.

23912 Slusser, Ed. Newscaster (KHUB, Watsonville, CA, 1937).

23913 Slutz, Gene. Sportscaster (WCML, Ashland, KY, 1938).

23914 (The Smack Outs. An early Jim and Marian Jordan (Fibber McGee and Molly) program before they became major stars. Smack Outs was written by Don Quinn and the Jordans. On the program Jim was the owner of a grocery store who told many tall tales and always enjoyed hearing himself talk. It is easy to recognize the genesis of the Fibber McGee character on the show.

Don Quinn, the writer who stayed with the Jordans throughout their radio career, was primarily responsible for the program's scripts. The show got its name from the fact that store owner Jordan was invariably "smack out of things" that his customers wanted to buy. Before they were featured on The Smack Outs, the Jordans had been the major performers on The Smith Family program (15 min., Friday, 9:00-9:15 P.M., NBC, 1931-1935).

23915 Small, Frank. Sportscaster (WARD, Brooklyn, NY, 1938).

23916 Small, Harry. An employee of the San Francisco Chronicle (newspaper), Small conducted a Book Review program (KPO, San Francisco, CA, 1926-1927).

23919 Small, Mary. "Little Mary Small" was a popular radio vocalist from her earliest years (Mary Small, vcl. mus. prg., NBC, 1936). See also Little Miss Bab-o.

23920 Small, Paul. Singer (CBS, 1929).

23921 Small, Steve. DJ (WLBR, Lebanon, PA, 1948; Morning Mirth, WLBR, 1950).

23922 Small, Wilber. Sportscaster (Metropolitan Voice of Sports, KWIK, Burbank, CA, 1948).

23923 Small and Brooks. Tenor Paul Small and baritone Jack Brooks performed with a piano accompanist (15 min., Weekly, WGN, Chicago, IL, 1937).

23924 Smalle, Ed. One half of a comedy singing team with Dick Robertson that appeared on the Roxy and His Gang program (NBC, 1928). Smalle was also a solo vocalist on the Champion Sparklers program (NBC, 1928).

23925 Smallman, John. Baritone (KFI, Los Angeles, CA, 1923).

23926 Smalls, Tommy. DJ (Dr. Jive Show, WWRL, New York, NY, 1954-1957). A pioneering Black DJ, Smalls was a broadcast innovator. Early in his career, Smalls along with Jack Gibson and Ken Knight was a part of the WERD (Atlanta, GA) station's "Original Thirteen" DJs, also known as "The Bad Boys." Arriving in New York from his job at the Georgia station, Smalls achieved immediate popularity. After buying the legendary Harlem night club Smalls' Paradise from its original owner, Edwin Smalls, who was not related, Tommy Smalls conducted his broadcasts from the club, playing records and conducting interviews with his clientele. Smalls characteristically introduced his show this way: "Sit back and relax and enjoy the show, from 3:05 to 5:03. It's the Dr. Jive Show." A high profile DJ, Smalls' career ended in 1960.

Smalls was a successful entrepreneur, who also packaged shows from Harlem's Apollo Theater and the Brooklyn Paramount. Ed Sullivan once asked Smalls to oversee a quarter-hour segment of his popular Talk of the Town television program featuring all Black talent. A New York radio rival of fellow DJ Alan Freed, Smalls more than held his own against the Old Moondog. In addition, he had an important influence on a Brooklyn boy named Robert Smith, who later gained considerable fame as DJ Wolfman Jack. His son, Tommy Smalls, Jr., is currently (1998) the program director of WTHE, a New York City gospel station.

23927 Smallwood, Jim. Sportscaster (Sports Review, WEEK, Peoria, IL, 1948).

23928 Smallwood, Stoney. Sportscaster (WOPI, Bristol, TN, 1945).

23930 Smart, Neff. Sportscaster (KOVO, Provo, UT, 1938).

23931 (The Smile Market. Organist Ralph Emerson and Hal Culver performed on the music program (30 min., 6:30-7:00 A.M. CST, WLS, Chicago, IL, 1937).

23932 (The Smile Time Show. Steve Allen broadcast the quarter-hour of comedy that Variety said was in the style of Henry Morgan. Wendell Niles was the announcer (15 min., Weekly, KHJ, Los Angeles, CA, 1947).

23933 Smile with Sandy. Sandy Taylor was a teenage DJ (120 min., Saturday, 9:00-11:00 A.M., WPTV, Albany, NY, 1950).

23935 Smiley, Bob. DJ (Bob Smiley Show, WGAR, Cleveland, OH, 1948-1952; Journey Into Melody, WGAR, 1954).

23936 Smiley, Robert. Announcer (KFRG, San Francisco, CA, 1928).

23937 Smiley Burnett Show. Smiley "Frog" Burnett, the usual motion picture comedy sidekick of Gene Autry, was on his own on his transcribed CW music show (15 min., Transcribed, Various Stations, late 1940s and early 1950s).

- 23938 Smilin' Ed McConnell. McConnell's early vocal music programs were sponsored by the Acme White Lead and Color Works and the Alladin Kerosene Mantle Lamps (15 min., Sunday, 5:00–5:15 P.M. CST, CBS, 1934–1935).
- 23939 Smiling Bob and Bonnie Blue Eyes. These popular Chicago favorites, not otherwise identified, entertained on the CW music show (WJJD, Chicago, IL, 1938). Smiling Bob might have been CW singer Bob Atcher.
- 23940 Smiling Jack's Missouri Mountaineers. Another of the many "hillbilly" music groups that broadcast CW music during this period (WSM, Nashville, TN, 1936).
- 23941 (The) Smiling Quartet from the Eastern State Penitentiary. Convicts from the Eastern State Penitentiary made up the talented vocal quartet. They were identified only as C-3633, C-4482, C-6389 and C-6390 (15 min., Weekly, WIP-WFAN, Philadelphia, PA, 1932).
- 23942 Smith, (Mrs.) Albert. Soprano (WFAA, Dallas, TX, 1926).

24113 Snodgrass, Harry. Five-foot-four inches tall with black hair, Snodgrass was a popular pianist, who became famous as "The King of the Ivories" while still confined in the Missouri State Penitentiary at Jefferson City, Missouri. He originally gained great popularity with radio listeners in 1924, after he played piano solos with the Missouri State Penitentiary's orchestra on WOS, when the station was located in Jefferson City, Missouri (WOS, Jefferson City, MO, 1924–1925).

Snodgrass appeared frequently on WOS, becoming famous by playing his theme, "Three O'Clock in the Morning." Unknown to many of his listeners, Harry Snodgrass, "The King of the Ivories," was broadcasting "his home" programs from a trustee parlor in the State Penitentiary. Snodgrass was sentenced in 1921 to a three-year prison term for attempted burglary. His radio career began when a representative of station WOS while visiting the penitentiary one day heard Snodgrass play.

J.M. Whitten, chief announcer and station director, then arranged for Snodgrass to broadcast regularly from a trustee's parlor in the penitentiary. Every day, Snodgrass received hundreds of letters from listeners praising his playing. Snodgrass eagerly awaited his release from prison, "I love my work. When I play I'm not in prison. I am surrounded by millions of admirers instead of four gloomy walls. If I get so much pleasure from playing now, can you imagine what will happen when I get out of here" (Radio Age, January 16, 1925, pp. 36, 69).

After leaving prison, he recorded and performed briefly on radio (KFJB, Marshalltown, IA, 1925; KDKA, Pittsburgh, PA, 1926; and WOS, 1927). Unfortunately for Snodgrass, after leaving prison his radio and recording career was brief. Although he was famous in the 1920s, his fame and popularity quickly faded. By the end of the decade and during the 30s, Snodgrass ran a music store in a small Tennessee town.

A good example of a Snodgrass recording is Brunswick 78 rpm record # 252850 that contains an introduction by J.M. Whitten who identifies Snodgrass on the record as "The King of the Ivories." On the recording Snodgrass plays

"Three clock in the Morning" and "The Moonlight, A Waltz and You."

24114 Snoop and Poop. A drama-comedy series. Snoop and Poop told the story of two cub newspaper reporters played by Charles Finan and Paul Winkoop. The program was a burlesque of mystery thrillers with the two reporter-detectives doing their sleuthing in a mocking melodramatic style. Some of the cases they worked on were "Padlock Holmes," "The Shooting of Dan McGoo" and "Phil the Phoney Firebug" (15 min., Wednesday, 8:15–8:30 P.M., NBC-Red, 1931).

24203 Songs of the Season. Songs were performed by Alma Kitchell, the Women's Octet and the orchestra directed by William Perry. Neil Enslin was the announcer (30 min., Tuesday, 8:00–8:30 P.M., NBC-Red, 1929).

24204 Songs Without Words. The Mahlon Merrick Orchestra was featured on the transcribed music show (Transcribed, 1932).

24205 Songs You Love. Smith Brothers Cough Drops sponsored the good variety show. Operatic contralto Rose Bampton sang to the music of Nat Shilkret's orchestra. The Smith Brothers, Trade and Mark, portrayed by Scrappy Lambert and Billy Hillpot, also were cast members (30 min., Saturday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., NBC-Red, 1934). The program was broadcast both in a 30- and 60-minute format. See also The Smith Brothers.

24206 Songwriter's Night. Vaughn de Leath, one of radio's pioneer performers, conducted the program honoring various American songwriters. Early in the series Albert Von Tilzer and Otto Metzger appeared (WJZ, New York, NY, 1922).

24207 Sonis, Berton. Newscaster (WCBS, Charleston, WV, 1945).

24208 Sonn, Albert E. Sonn was the technical editor on the Newark Sunday Call. He broadcast talks on various radio topics such as "Radio for the Layman" (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1923).

24209 Sonner, Fred. Harmonica virtuoso (WFAA, Dallas, TX, 1923).

24210 Sonnier, Alden. Newscaster (WSIG, Crowley, LA, 1947).

24211 Sonora Hour. Sonora Radio Company sponsored the half-hour music program (30 min., Thursday, 9:30–10:00 P.M., CBS, 1928).

24213 Sons of St. George Band. Brass band conducted by Robert Levine (KFWM, Oakland, CA, 1927).

24214 Sons of the Pioneers. Popular CW vocal music group led by Bob Nolan, whose early members in 1935 included Leonard Slyce

(Roy Rogers), Karl Farr, Hugh Farr and Tim Spencer. They appeared on many stations for decades by transcriptions (WRC, Washington, DC, 1936; WDZ, Tuscola, IL, 1937; WBIG, Greensboro, NC, 1939). Before becoming the Sons of the Pioneers, they were known as Farley's Gold Star Rangers. See also Farley's Gold Star Rangers.

24215 Sontag, Jack. Pianist (John Sontag, instr. mus. prg., WGBI, Scranton, PA, 1936).

24216 Sontag, Viola. Pianist (WKAF, Milwaukee, WI, 1926).

24217 Sooy, Byard. Sports caster (Today's Sports, KREL, Baytown, TX, 1949; Sports Round-Up, KREL, 1950).

24218 Soper, Carroll. Leader (Carroll Soper's Dinner Dance Orchestra, KYA, San Francisco, CA, 1928).

24219 Sophie Tucker's Music Hall. Miss Tucker, the talented singer-comedienne, who called herself "The Last of Red Hot Mammias," hosted the variety show. Guests such as Harry Richman assisted her each week on the sustaining program (30 min., Thursday, 7:00–7:30 P.M., WHN, New York, NY, 1935).

24220 Sophie Tucker's Playground. Popular singer Sophie Tucker hosted the midnight program of music and jokes broadcast Thursday evenings (WHN, New York, NY, 1926).

24221 Sophisticated Rangers. CW mus. prg. (WOW, Omaha, NE, 1939).

24222 Sopkin, Viola. Pianist and singer (KYW, Chicago, IL, 1925).

24226 Sorg, Herbert. Pianist (KFI, Los Angeles, CA, 1926).

24228 Sorkin, Dan. DJ (Early Bird Show, WCFL, Chicago, IL, 1960).

24229 Soroca, Jean. Soprano (WHN, New York, NY, 1925).

24231 Sory, Harry. Leader (Harry Sory's Entertainers, WRR, Dallas, TX, 1926).

24232 Sosh, Lon. DJ (Courtin' Capers, WKCT, Bowling Green, KY, 1960).

24233 Sosnik, Harry. Pianist (WEBH, Chicago, IL, 1925). Leader (Harry Sosnik Or- chestra, instr. mus. prg., NBC and WIP, Philadelphia, PA, 1934; CBS, 1936).

24234 Souder, Edmund L. Newscaster (NBC-Blue, 1944).

24235 Souder, Nye. Violinist (KFWM, Oakland, CA, 1926).

24236 Souders, Jackie. Leader (Club Lido Serenaders, KFOA, Seattle, WA, 1926). Playing under the name of the Jackie Souders Orchestra in 1926, the band's personnel included: Souder, ldr.-tb.; Sherman Herrick and Blaine Boynton, t.; George Shelton, Clarence Cumins and Walter Hawkins, clr., as., ts. and bar.; Billy Barrett, v.; Irvin Antes, p.; Forrest Hurt, bj. and g.; Walt Haines, sb.; Walton McKinney, vcls.; and Steve Barrett, d.

24237 Soule, Gordon. Violinist (KGW, Portland, OR, 1923).

24238 Soule, Olan. News analyst-actor (Science in the News, NBC, 1937). Soule was a busy radio actor with many distinguished acting credits.

24239 Sound Effects. Radio has accurately been called the "Theater of the Mind." By means of sound its stage was set, locales established and much of its characters' actions portrayed without speech. For those who heard radio during its first three decades, certain sound effects are still remembered.

In radio's earliest days before sound effects were used, the scene had to be set and action portrayed by speech alone. For example, if a car was approaching and no sound effect available, a character would have to say, "I hear a car coming down the road." This was a poor substitute for the "real" sounds later produced by the sound effects specialist. It was an important day in 1922 on the WGY (Schenectady, NY) dramatic production of Eugene Walter's "The Wolf," when someone, whose name is forgotten, slapped two pieces of wood together to represent the sound of a door slamming. From this primitive beginning, sound effects soon became a sophisticated element that combined both creative artistry and engineering skill.

We may forget Jack Benny's jokes, but we remember the sound of his wheezing, antique Maxwell car produced by the talented Mel Blanc and the chaotic crashing sound that occurred when Fibber McGee's hall closet door was opened. The men and women who produced these sounds were the creative artists, who designed, constructed and painted the auditory scene for listeners. These skilled workers were creative artisans and technicians, without whose vital contributions radio would have been only a pale imitation of what it became.

Two pioneers in the field of sound in the late 1920s were Arthur R. Fasig, NBC Sound Effects Engineer and Harry Swan, Fasig's counterpart at CBS (1929–1930). Also important was the husband and wife team of Arthur and Ora Daigle Nichols, who began to produce sound effects in 1928 for both NBC and CBS on a freelance basis. Arthur Nichols was an extremely creative practitioner, who designed and invented his own sound machine (What's On the Air?,

March, 1930, p. 27). Later, CBS hired both Nichols on a full time basis. They, in turn, hired Henry Gauthiere and George O'Donnell to create the first network sound effects department.

By 1933, other pioneering sound effects men included Walter Pierson and Ray Kelley at CBS and James Lyon at NBC. Significant contributions were also made by Orval White, the first Black sound effects man in radio (Mott, 1993, p. 37). Sallie Belle Cox, Dolores Gillen and Ora Daigle Nichols produced a variety of baby talk, coos and gurgles. An incidental fact, peripherally related, was the work of Phil Cook and Teddy Bergman, later known as Alan Reed, who each produced as many as 22 different dialects on one program.

Sound men and women in radio's early years soon began to devise mechanical devices to produce desired sounds. Some of the tricks and devices they used, and the sound effects they produced, were closing an eye-glass case (gun shot), scattering bird seed on a newspaper (rain), hitting 36 wooden blocks suspended from wires on a frame (machine gun fire), stabbing a knife into a watermelon (stabbing a person), squirting a seltzer bottle (washing dishes), kissing one's hand (a romantic kiss), squeezing water alternately from two rubber bottles (milking a cow), beating short sticks quickly on the leather bottoms of chairs (sound of muskets).

The use of such mechanical devices and tricks produced effective radio, but technical advances like the increased use of recorded sounds soon reduced their use. Studios were soon filled with all types of recorded sound effects — most of them recordings of the real thing. By 1941, NBC had more than 12,000 sound recordings in its library, and it was said that about 75 percent of all radio sound effects at that time were produced by recordings.

An often forgotten aspect of radio's earliest sound effects are those produced by the human voice. Some vocal imitators who deserve special mention are Donald Bain, Bradley Barker and Bob McGimsley. McGimsley was a skillful imitator of birds. Bain claimed that he could imitate 70 different birds along with trains, automobile horns and most music instruments. Bradley Barker was another versatile animal imitator. One of his busiest assignments was to produce all the animal sounds needed on Frank Buck's Bring 'Em Back Alive program in 1934.

Other talented vocal sound imitators were: Mel Blanc, Pinto Colweg, Ray Erlenborn, Sarah Fussell, Gerry Hausner, Earl Keen, Mary Lansing, David Light, Ed Laudes, George O'Donnell and Madeline Pierce. These talented people produced sound effects with their own vocal apparatus. In 1936 these talented vocal imitators were differentiated from the other sound effects personnel by an action of the American Federation of Radio Artists (AFRA), when it decreed that anyone who used the voice to produce sound effects was an actor and deserved a performance fee for doing so. For many imitators the distinction was valid. For example, programs consisting of historical recreations, e.g., The March of Time, featured many actors who imitated the voices of famous people. Some of these actors and the persons they imitated on The March of Time were:

William Adams (Franklin D. Roosevelt)
Ted DiCorsia (Herbert Hoover)
Frank Readick (James J. Walker)
Teddy Bergman [Allen Reed] (Joseph Stalin)
Wilmer Walter (Samuel Seabury)
Pedro de Cordoba (Spain's King Alfonso)
Alfred Shirley (Ramsey McDonald)
Charles Slatter (Alfred E. Smith)

Other performers and a few of the motion picture stars they specialized in imitating were:

Marjorie Anderson (Carole Landis)
Jack Smart (Victor McLaglen and dogs)
Fred Ural (Leslie Howard, Frank Buck, Ronald Coleman, Maurice Chevalier, H.B. Warner and Boris Karloff)
Ray Doyle (Mickey Mouse)
Arlene Francis (Miriam Hopkins, Katharine Hepburn, Marlene Dietrich, Constance Bennett, Irene Dunne, Anna Sten, Talullah Bankhead, Frances Drake, Constance Cummings, Gloria Stuart, Jean Harlow, Evelyn Venable, Peggy Allenby, Claudette Colbert, Alice Brady, Frances Halliday and Mary Boland)
Dwight Weist (Douglas Fairbanks, W.C. Fields, John and Lionel Barrymore, Franchot Tone, Paul Lucas, Charles Ruggles and Nils Aster)
Wilfred Lytell (Clark Gable)
Frank Gould (Jimmy Durante)
Virginia Morgan (Margaret Sullivan)
Mary Newton (Ann Harding)
Iris Brinn (Greta Garbo)
Milton Herman (George Raft and Jack Pearl)
Lester Joy ("young" Ronald Coleman)
Fred Ural ("old" Ronald Coleman and Boris Karloff).

Versatile Fred Ural said the best way for him to study the stars' voices was to go to their movies. When he was researching the voice of Boris Karloff, Ural after a long search found a Karloff film playing in a small Harlem theater. After sitting through the entire picture, Ural said that practically all Karloff said in the entire film was "Ump."

For many years talented sound men and women used their voices, ingenious mechanical devices and, later, recordings as a palette from which they painted the pictures that made the golden days of radio come alive. Without them, the artistry, excitement and thrills radio provided us never would have been possible.

Some of the sound effects specialists who made important contribution to radio were: Ralph Amati, Jack Amrhein, Al April, Ed Bailey, Guy Bayz, Barney Beck, Al Binnie, Ed Blainey, Frank Blatter, Betty Boyle, Maurice Brachhausen, Bill Brinkmeyer, Bill Brown, William Brownell, Harry Bubeck, Tom Buchanan, Joe Cabbibo, Tony Caminito, Clark

Casey, Floyd Caton, Dewey Cole, Fred Cole, Wes Conant, Bob Conlan, George Cooney, Parker Cornell, Lloyd Creekmore, Keen Crockett, Ralph Cummings, John Cuomo, Ralph Curtiss, Jack Dick, Jimmy Dwan, Michael Eisenmenger, Ray Erlenborn, Harry Essman, Ed Fenton, Al Finelli, Roland Fitzgerald, Jimmy Fletcher, Fred Flowerday, James Flynn, Don Foster, Monty Fraser, Fred Fry, Russ Gainor, Henry Gauthier, Mary Ann Gideon, John Glennon, Jim Goode, Bill Gould, Robert J. Graham, Bob Grapperhaus, Elliot Grey, Walt Gustafson, Tom Hanley, Ron Harper, Leona Haus, Bill Hengserbeck, Chet Hill, Bill Hoffman, Al Hogan, Robert Holmes, Tom Horan, Agnew Horine, Dick James, Harold Johnson, Jr., Urban Johnson, Ed Joyce, John Katulik, Jack Keane, Joe Keating, Ray Kemper, Wayne Kenworthy, Ray Kemer, Tiny Lamb, Dorothy Langley, George Lehman, David Light, Vic Livotti, Frank Loughrane, Ed Ludes, James Lynch, Jerry McCarthy, Bill McClintock, John McCloskey, Walt McDonough, Stuart McQuade, Ross Martindale, Bob Mautner, Frank Mellow, Donald Mihan, Curt Mitchel, Sam Monroe, Lloyd Morse, Robert Mott, Paul Mowry, James Murphy, Ross Murray, Harry Nelson, Arthur Nichols, Ora Nichols, Bill Nugent, George O'Donnell, Hamilton O'Hara, Walter Otto, Lavern Owens, Adrian Penner, Walter Pierson, Frank Pittman, Bob Prescott, Romeo Quantro, Charles Range, Virgil Reimer, James Rinaldi, Ken Robertson, Jack Robinson, James Rogan, Terry Ross, Vic Rubei, Harry Saz, Al Schaffer, Manny Segal, Walt Shaver, Al Span, Art Strand, Jerry Sullivan, Berne Surrey, Rod Sutton, Cliff Thorsness, Bud Tollefson, Sarah Jane Troy, Bob Turnbull, Max Uhlig, Al Van Brackels, Ed Vojtal, Davidson Voorhees, Dotty Wauknitz, Orval White, Malachy Wienges, Byron Wingett and Jack Wormser.

Robert Mott (1993), himself a veteran sound effects man from radio's Golden Age, has pointed out how busy and versatile some of the sound men could be by listing the programs on which Keene Crockett worked. These included: Death Valley Days, Modern Romances, Deadline Dramas, Day of Reckoning, Theater Guild of the Air, Bob Hope Show, Rudy Vallee Hour, Land of the Lost, When a Girl Marries, The March of Time, This is War, Dick Tracy, Arch Oboler Presents, Charlie Chan, Topper, Tom Corbett, Space Cadet, True Story Theater, Men at Sea, Superman, Cafe Istanbul, Chandu the Magician and Inner Sanctum.

Other busy sound effects personnel and animal imitators were: Jack Amerine, Jack Anderson, Donald Bain, Brad Barker, Sheila Barrett, Mel Blanc, Arthur Boran, Henry Boyd, Manny Cramer, Jerry De Carlo, Al De Caprio, Florence Desmond, Jack Dick, Zale Dillon, David Dole, Harold Fory, Sarah Fussell, Arthur Fulton, Charles Grenier, Earl Keen, Nancy Kelly, Ray Kelly, Ed Knoepfke, Leone Ledoux, Dave Light, Jerry McGee, Max Miller, Knell Pederson, Madeleine Pierce, Frank Pittman, John Powers, Hal Reid, Wes Ronca, Max Russell, Al Scott, Mario Siletti, Jack Sixsmith, Ted Slade, Walter Snow, Art Sorraine, Clarence Straight, Fritz Street, Harry Swan, Gene Twombly, Bill Verdier, Clem Waters, Louise Wehr and Arthur Zachs.

24240 Sousa, John Philip. Leader of the prestigious Sousa Band that often appeared on radio in the 1920s and 1930s (General Motors Family Party, NBC-Red, New York, NY, 1928-1929). Distinguished bandmaster and composer Sousa was the major force in making the United States Marine Band the outstanding musical organization that it became. After leading the Marine Band from 1880 to 1892, he toured the world with his own band. In addition to writing more than 100 marches including Semper Fidelis, The Washington Post March and The Stars and Stripes Forever, he invented and encouraged the use of the Sousaphone band instrument.

24241 South, Eddy. Leader (Eddy South Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., NBC, 1935). South was a talented musician known as "The Dark Angel of the Violin."

24242 South, Edward. Baritone (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1925).

24243 South, Paul. Singer (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1925).

24245 South Seas Serenaders. Popular orchestra featured on the Cincinnati Times Star Program (WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1926).

24246 Southern, Paul. Newscaster (KRBC, Abilene, TX, 1939).

24247 Southern All-Star Hawaiian Orchestra. Orchestra consisting of three Hawaiian guitarists and two ukulele performers (WFAA, Dallas, TX, 1923).

24248 Southern California Saxophone Band. Reed band directed by Kathryn Thompson (KHJ, Los Angeles, CA, 1923).

24250 Southern Majestic Hotel Orchestra. Hotel dance orchestra (KTHS, Hot Springs National Park, AR, 1926).

24251 Southern Night—A Salute to the South. A "kind of musical variety show" that saluted the South, the special program featured George Rehou reminiscing about that region. Minnie Leah Nobles, Dorothy Waldeman, Edith Miller and Mary Green were featured vocalists accompanied by pianist Marjory Garrius. At times, songs were also performed by Virginia Gilbert, Mary Steele and Lillian Sherman. The Murphy Syncopators band contributed musical selections to this salute to the South (WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1923).

24252 Southern Pacific Lines Band. Railroad sponsored band (KPRC, Houston, TX, 1926).

24253 Southern Pine Melodeers. CW music prg. (WMMN, Fairmont, WV, 1936).

24254 Southern Radio Corporation Program. Southern Radio Corporation was one of station WLBN's (Little Rock, AR) first sponsors. George B. Gray, the sponsoring company's manager, directed the program. "Jack the Sweet Singer of the South," not otherwise identified, was featured along with Vivian and Her Melody Boys (a group of "negro serenaders"). Pianist Doris Hauser accompanied the singers. At other times, the program featured Good Moyer and his New Yorkers Orchestra, pianist (Mr.) J.R. Hagen and vocalist Nieta Davis. (60 min., Monday through Friday, 10:00-11:00 A.M. and Sunday, 2:00-3:00 P.M., WLBN, Little Rock, AR, 1927).

24255 Southern Ramblers Orchestra. Popular Texas band (KFDM, Beaumont, TX, 1926).

24256 Southern Ramblers. William Yeager directed the Nashville orchestra (WLAC, Nashville, TN, 1928).

24257 (The) Southern Singers. A popular Black harmony singing group, the Southern Singers accompanied themselves on jugs, washboards and skillets. The group consisted of Owen, James, Robert, Anne and Laurie Ward (15 min., Monday through Thursday, NBC, 1933).

24258 Southern Strings. A mixed quartet and a washboard band performed "Negro and Southern folk songs" on the sustaining program. The program's talented performers were unidentified (15 min., Thursday, 11:00-11:15 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1933).

24259 Southern Wonders. L.T. Blair, Ernest McKinney, James Darling, Jack Franklin, R.L. Weaver, Artis Yancey and Ford Nelson were members of the talented Black gospel vocal group. The group's program was sponsored by Pet Milk (WDIA, Memphis, TN, 1953).

24260 Southernaires. The Southernaires were the talented black quartet of William Edman, bass-director; Jay Toney, baritone; and tenors Homer Smith and Lowell Peters. They featured Negro spirituals on their long-running network show (The Little Weather Beaten Church of the Air, 30 min., Sunday, 9:00-9:30 A.M., NBC, 1934-1935). Later, the quartet broadcast at a different time (30 min., Sunday, 10:00-10:30 A.M., WLS, Cincinnati, OH, 1938). The Southernaires were still specializing in spirituals and attracting a large following many years later (30 min., Sunday, 2:30-3:00 P.M., ABC, 1951). See also Southland Sketches.

24261 Southey, Jean B. COM-HE (WTSL, Hanover, NH, 1957).

24262 Southland Dance Orchestra. Local New York band (WAHG, Richmond Hill, NY, 1926).

24263 Southland Sketches. Musical selections and dramatic sketches were combined on the entertaining program. The cast included the Southernaires, a talented vocal quartet (30 min., Sunday, 10:00-10:30 A.M., NBC-Blue, 1933). See also The Southernaires.

24264 Southwestern Songsters. Nash Coffee Company sponsored the talented singing team of Annie Schafer and Willie Weller on this local show (15 min., Monday through Friday, 12:30-12:45 P.M. WKY, Oklahoma City, OK, 1949).

24265 Soward, Olaf. News analyst (KCKN, Kansas City, KS, 1938-1941; WIBW, Topeka, KS, 1943-1944; Olaf Soward's Viewpoint, WIBW, 1946-1947).

24266 Space Adventures of Super Noodle. The basis for the program's title can easily be recognized, since the sponsor was the I.J. Gross Noodle Company. Budd Blume and Gene Dailley wrote, Al Bland produced and Gene Eubanks directed the children's science-fiction show that Variety characterized as "mediocre." Super Noodle, the hero, and his friend, Rik, were projected 500 years into the future, where inexplicably they found Gross's noodles. As part of their adventures, they attempted to repel invaders from another planet. Charles Flynn played the title role. His friend and assistant was played by Robert Eglund. Everett Clarke was also in the cast (15 min., Saturday, 9:45-10:00 A.M., CBS, 1952).

24267 Spackman, Ellis. Newscaster (KFXM, San Bernardino, CA, 1939).

24268 Spadaro, Tom. Sports caster (WOV, New York, NY, 1940).

24269 Spade Cooley and His Dance Gang. Cooley's CW music group was probably the most popular "western swing" band of the period. The transcribed show was carried by 460 stations. Cooley's vocalists included Tex Williams and a female singer by the name of Precious Price (15 min., Transcribed on Various Stations, 1946).

24270 Spade Cooley Show. Spade Cooley's fine western swing band was featured on the show along with Ginny Jackson, Phil Gray, Freddie Love, Hank Penny, Wally Ruth and Jimmy Wakely. The program was written by Keith Fowler. Larry Berns was the producer-director. The announcer was Bob LeMond (60 min., Friday, 8:00-9:00 P.M., CBS, 1951).

24271 Spaeth, Karl. Leader (Karl Spaeth Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WXYZ, Detroit, MI, 1935).

24272 Spaeth, Sigmund. Later famous on radio as "The Tune Detective," Spaeth first joined WGBS (New York, NY) as an announcer in 1924, to broadcast the Notre Dame-Stanford Rose Bowl game from Pasadena, California and boxing bouts from New York's Polo Grounds. He also hosted a celebrity show. He gained national fame in 1931 when he conducted his Tune Detective program on the NBC-Blue Network. See also (The) Tune Detective.

24273 Spainhower, Don. DJ (KOVO, Provo, UT, 1956-1957).

24275 Spalding, Neal. Leader (Neal Spalding Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WENR, Chicago, IL, 1938).

24276 Spangler, Bob. DJ (Iowa State Houseparty, KASI, Ames, IA, 1952).

24277 Spangler, Elden. DJ (Wake Up Smiling, WLAN, Lancaster, PA, 1950).

24278 Spanier, Muggsy. Leader (Muggsy Spanier Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WXYZ, Detroit, MI, 1942).

24279 Spaniol, Arnold. Sportscaster (KOOS, Marshfield, OR, 1938-1941).

24280 Spanish Concert. Spanish music played by Julian Oliver and his Los Savillanos Orchestra and sung by Dolores Cassinelli was featured on the weekly program (NBC, New York, NY, 1928).

24281 Spanish Course. Dr. William F. Rice, R.A. Ramirez, F. Piera Gamba, Antonio Herras and Professor Henry C. Niesa taught the radio language course (KPLA, Los Angeles, CA, 1927).

24282 Spanish Dreams. Tenor Julian Oliver and an orchestra directed by Frank Vagnoni provided the music on the show (15 min., Sunday, 1:30-1:45 P.M., NBC-Red, 1930).

24283 Spanish Orchestra. Spanish band directed by Senor Palacios (KEX, Portland, OR, 1929).

24284 Spann, June S. COM-HE (KWAK, Stuttgart, AR, 1957).

24285 Spann, Owen. Sportscaster (Sports Spotlight, WTOB, Winston-Salem, NC, 1951-1952). DJ (WBT, Charlotte, NC, 1956-1957).

24286 Spareribs. Malcolm Claire played a blackface character named Spareribs on the Chicago local and network program. He told stories for youngsters on his popular children's show (15 min., Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, 5:00-5:15 P.M. CST, WMAQ, Chicago, IL, 1935 and 15 min., Monday through Friday, 7:00-7:15 A.M., NBC-Red, 1935). See also Claire, Malcolm.

24287 (The) Spark Plug. Designation for announcer E.A. Bublert (KFJC, Junction City, KS, 1924).

24288 Sparkle Time with Meredith Willson (aka Sparkle Time). Meredith Willson conducted his orchestra and served as host on the music show sponsored by Canada Dry Ginger Ale. Singer Annette Warren and the Vivian Gary Trio also performed. Ben Gage was the announcer (30 min., Friday, 7:30-8:00 P.M., CBS, 1946).

24289 Sparks, Bud. Sportscaster (WCAM, Camden, NJ, 1938).

24290 Sparks, Harold. Newscaster (KFXD, Nampa, ID, 1938).

24292 Sparks, Jim. Sportscaster (KRRV, Sherman, TX, 1944).

24293 Sparks, Lenora. Metropolitan Opera soprano Sparks gave station WOK (Pine Bluff, AR) a boost on February 24, 1922, when, after completing a recital at the Pine Bluff High School auditorium, she broadcast three songs ("Smiling Through," "Morning" and "My Curly Headed Baby").

24294 Sparks, Paul. Baritone (NBC, 1929).

24295 Sparks, Red. Sportscaster (Sports Special, WFOM, Marietta, GA, 1949-1952).

24296 Sparks, Studie. Sportscaster (WVNA, Tusculumbia, AL, 1960).

24297 Sparks, Sparky. Sportscaster (KFDA, Amarillo, TX, 1940).

24298 Sparlin, Evelyn. Violinist (KOIN, Portland, OR, 1928).

24299 Sparnon, [Sparman], Ken. Leader (Ken Sparnon Ensemble, instr. mus. prg., NBC, 1935).

24300 Sparrow, Glenn R. Tenor (WCBI, Zion, IL, 1924).

24301 Spaulding, Jeanne. COM-HE (WUSJ, Lockport, NY, 1957).

24302 Speak Your Mind. Paul Harvey hosted the program that allowed listeners to voice their opinions. Bob Cunningham was the announcer (15 min., Monday through Friday, 8:15-8:30 P.M., WGN, Chicago, IL, 1948).

24303 Speaking of Music. Al Lewis produced and Bernard Buck directed the unique DJ program. For each program, a different musician played his favorite recordings (60 min., Sunday, 3:00-4:00 P.M., WNYC, New York, NY, 1952).

24304 Speaking of Sports. Howard Cosell conducted five-minute weekend sports capsules at various times on Saturday and Sunday. He interviewed many sports celebrities on the show that provided a national exposure for Cosell (ABC, 1956).

24305 Spear, Bea. COM-HE (W'DIX, Dickinson, ND, 1957).

24306 Spears, Charles "Charlie." Newscaster (WPRD, Spartanburg, SC, 1941). DJ (WJAN, Spartanburg, SC, 1954).

24307 Specht, Paul. Conductor (Almanac Hotel Orchestra, WHN, New York, NY, 1923-1924 and WJZ, New York, NY, 1924. Paul Specht Orchestra, WHN, 1924; Specht's Lido Venice String Ensemble, WJZ, 1924; Paul Specht and his Jardin Royal Orchestra, viewed by Variety as "one of the best bands on the air," WOR, Newark, NJ, 1928; Paul Specht Orchestra, WABC-CBS, New York, NY, 1929).

When the excellent band first went on the air in 1924, it consisted of the following personnel: Specht, ldr.-v.; Charlie Spivak and Johnny Egan, t.; Charlie Butterfield, tb.; Henry Wade, clr. and as.; Frank Kildert, clr., as. and bar.; Gilbert

Dutton, clr. and ts.; Roy Smeck, bj.; Arthur Schutt, p.; Ted Noyes, d.; and Billy Wolfe, tba.

Specht participated in several historic broadcasting events. First, he broadcast dance music with the orchestra of station WWJ on September 14, 1920, less than a month after WWJ had gone on the air. On this broadcast the orchestra played Specht's own tune, "Wishingland," written with J. Will Callahan. By November, 1923, Specht began regular broadcast remotes from New York's Almanac Hotel over WJZ. In 1924, Specht's orchestra broadcast to Europe from Pittsburgh Grand Theater on KDKA (Pittsburgh, PA). The following year his band broadcast on a coast-to-coast network from WBZ (Springfield, MA), sponsored by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In 1926, Paul Specht's Canadian Orchestra broadcast to the United States from London's Kit Kat Club and the Piccadilly Hotel. Finally, his orchestra broadcast over a combined network of 109 stations in 1928 from the Inaugural ball of President Herbert Hoover and Vice-President Charles Curtis.

24308 Special Agent. Private eye Alan Drake, played by James Meighan, was a smart insurance investigator. Finis Farr wrote and Herbert C. Rice was the producer-director of the entertaining adventure show that displayed many clever plot twists. Margaret Draper Wendell Holmes, Mort Lawrence, James Monks and Lyle Sudrow were also in the cast. Music was by Chester Kingsbury's Orchestra (30 min, Wednesday, 8:00-8:30 P.M., MBS, 1948).

24309 Special Investigator. Frank Breck narrated the dramatic series about investigators who sought to clean up "con games." The informative program was sponsored by Commercial Credit Corporation. Marian Barney, Ed Begley, Leon Janney, Santos Ortega, Pat Ryan and Sandy Straus were in the cast. The announcer was Jack Barry (15 min., 8:30-8:45 P.M., MBS, 1946).

24310 Speciale, Johnny. Sportscaster (Spotlight on Sports, KSFT, Trinidad, CO, 1949. Spotlight on Sports and sports events play-by-play, KCSJ, Pueblo, CO, 1950; Sports Special, KGBC, Galveston, TX, 1951-1954). DJ (Time Factory, KSFT, 1950).

24311 Speciale, John. DJ (WFMD, Frederick, MD, 1957).

24312 Speciale, Michael "Mike." Leader (Michael Speciale and his Hotel Carlton Terrace Orchestra, WHN, New York, NY, 1924; Michael Speciale Orchestra, WABC, New York, NY, 1928). The early Speciale band included among others; Speciale, ldr.-v.; Jesse Berkman, clr., as. and ss.; Sam Rose, p.; Lou de Fabbis, bj.; Tom Speciale, tba.; and Herman Berkin, d.

24313 Speck, Hugo T. News analyst (Speck Views the News, WFAA, Dallas, TX, 1947-1948).

24314 Spector, Jack. DJ (WPTR, Albany, NY, 1957; WJJD, Chicago, IL, 1960).

24315 Speece, Wynn Hubler. COM-HE (WNAX, Yankton, SD, 1957).

24316 Speech Clinic of the Air. Professor Carl Emil Seashore and Professor Lee Edward Travis of the State University of Iowa, a pioneering institution in the study of speech pathology, therapy and correction, instituted the program on WSUI (Iowa City, IA), the university's radio station on February 6, 1935. The program was produced and broadcast by the university's departments of Psychology and Speech to provide greater knowledge about "speech defective school age children" for persons who want to help them. Some of the topics the program discussed were: "The Place of the Home in a Speech Correction Program," "Speech in the Elementary School," "What the Speech Correction Teacher Should Know about Dentristry" and "How to Examine a Stutterer." Professors Carl Emil Seashore and Lee Edward Travis have generally been credited as creating the discipline of speech pathology devoted to the study and correction of speech disorders and the training of its earliest practitioners.

24317 Speech 40 and Speech 41. These college speech courses were offered on radio by the State College of Washington (KWSC, Pullman, WA, 1929).

24318 Speed, James. Reader Speed told the "Billy and Jane Stories" on his program for children (WHAS, Louisville, KY, 1925).

24319 Speed Gibson of the International Secret Police. Speed battled the villainous Octopus on the syndicated juvenile adventure series. In the 100th episode as Speed battled the Octopus, the villain was seen jumping out of an airplane. But — was this dastardly villain really dead? At any rate, Speed was immediately off to Central Africa to battle the mysterious Atlantean syndicate. The program's cast included John Gibson, Howard McNear, Hanley Stafford, Jack Mather and Elliott Lewis (15 min., Syndicated, late 1930s).

24320 Speed Show. Fast talking host Floyd Gibbons described news events. Music was by the Vincent Lopez Orchestra and additional entertainment provided by weekly guests, such as tap dancer Bill Robinson and French musical comedy star, Irene Bordoni (CBS, 1936). See also Gibbons, Floyd.

24321 Speed-Wagon Serenaders. The REO Motor Car Company sponsored the orchestra's broadcasts (WREO, Lansing, MI, 1926).

24322 Speegle, Dan. DJ (Top o' the Morning, KSEA, Nacogdoches, TX, 1960).

24323 Speegle, Jim. DJ (KBBB, Berger, TX, 1960).

24343 Spicer, Earl. Baritone (NBC-Red, New York, NY, 1929).

24344 Spieler, Hedy. Pianist (WJZ, New York, NY, 1923; WEA, New York, NY, 1924).

24345 Spies, Henry. First horn player with the KGO Little Symphony Orchestra (KGO, Oakland, CA, 1925).

Peggy Mann, Burgess Meredith, Gene Tierney, Jack Carson and Hildergarde. The announcer was Dick Joy (30 min., Weekly, CBS, 1949).

24347 Spiker, Bill. Sports-caster (Sports Whirl, WWSL, Wooster, OH, 1949).

24348 Spikes, Reb. Leader (Reb Spikes and his Majors and Minors Orchestra, KFI, Los Angeles, CA, 1926).

24349 Spilling the Beans. News analyst Joe Dineen broadcast his commentary on the news show (WORL, Boston, MA, 1942).

24350 Spin to Win. Warren Hull hosted the Mark Goodson–Bill Todman production. On the quiz listeners were called and asked to identify a song. Successful contestants later were allowed to compete for a large jackpot prize (30 min., Weekly, 7:00–7:30 P.M., CBS, 1949).

24351 Spinetti, Eugene B. Sports-caster (Roundup, KCID, Caldwell, ID, 1949).

24352 Spinner Sanctum. Clellan Card was a DJ who also engaged in dialect humor (90 min., Monday through Saturday, WCCO, Minneapolis–St. Paul, MN, 1947).

24353 (The) Spinning Wheel. The musical program presented the music of "pioneer days" (15 min., Friday, 1:14–1:30 P.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1937).

24354 Spira, Dorothy Golub. Newscaster (WSNY, Schenectady, NY, 1945).

24355 (The) Spirit of Memphis Gospel Singers. The famous Black gospel group broadcast on several Memphis, Tennessee, stations sponsored by the Littlejohn Taxi Company and Pate's Man Shop in the 1930s. The group consisted of Freddie Johnson, Raymond Sanders, Herman Paul, Lewis White, Robert Reed, Earl Malone and Jethroe Bledsoe. By 1948, the group included Earl Malone, Jethroe Bledsoe, Theo Wade, James Darling, Robert Reed and Reverend Crenshaw. In 1952, the Spirit of Memphis group in 1952 had a daily weekday program (15 min., Weekdays, 10:00–10:15 A.M., WDIA, Memphis, TN, 1952).

24356 (The) Spiritual Four. Huddie Moore founded the Black gospel singing group in the late 1930s. They sang on stations WDIA (Memphis, TN), KWEM (West Memphis, AR) and WLOK (Memphis, TN) in the late 1950s and into the 1960s.

24357 Spiro, Juan. Operatic tenor (WEAF, New York, NY, 1923).

land, OH, 1925; leader of an all male orchestra that played on New York City stations in 1928; Phil Spitalny Hotel Pennsylvania Orchestra, NBC, New York, NY, 1928; conductor of the Freed Orchestradians, NBC-Blue, New York, NY, 1929). In the following decade (Phil Spitalny's Hour from the Hotel Pennsylvania, Spitalny led his band on the broadcast from New York City's Hotel Pennsylvania Grill, 30 min., Tuesday, 11:30–12:00 midnight, NBC-Red, 1930). Spitalny led his first all girl band on a Monday, November 2, 1936, broadcast (Phil Spitalny Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WHAM, Rochester, NY, 1939). The band featured Evelyn and her Magic Violin.

24362 Spivak, Charlie. Talented trumpeter Spivak led a popular "sweet" band (Charlie Spivak, instr. mus. prg., CBS, 1935).

24363 Spivak, Eli. Russian baritone (WBBM, Chicago, IL and CBS, 1929).

24364 Spokane Braves. A series of programs depicting the life and music of the Indians of the American Northwest. Indian melodies were played by the Braves Orchestra; songs performed by tenor Irving Kennedy and soprano Ethel Wakefield; and informative talks delivered by James Duffield (NBC-Pacific Coast Network, 1928).

24365 Spoken Opera. Helen Rose directed the dramatic series that actually was a spoken drama with music (WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1930).

24366 Spokane Order of Coyotes Broadcasting from their Den in the Davenport Hotel. The weekly late night program was a mixture of the music and nonsense that made up so many late night programs of the era (90 min., Weekly, KHQ, Spokane, WA, 1927).

24367 Spoken Word. Arnold Moss introduced and played recordings of British and American literary works performed by various performers on the sustaining program (15 min., Tuesday, 9:00–9:15 P.M., WNEW, New York, NY, 1947).

24368 Spokes, Alfred E. "Al." Sportscaster (WJTN, Jamestown, NY, 1940–1945; Reports on Sports, WJCY, Burlington, VT, 1947–1955).

24372 Sports, Don. Sportscaster (WCI A, Claxton, GA, 1960).

24373 Sports. Radio in its first decade needed special events to attract a larger listening audience, and it found them in the seemingly endless variety and excitement of the world of sports. If sports helped radio attract a larger audience, it was equally true that radio helped stir public interest in the great athletic feats of the Roaring Twenties, the decade also known as the "Golden Age of Sports."

Boxing had the "Manasas Mauler," Jack Dempsey; baseball its "Sultan of Swat," Babe Ruth; and football its "Galloping Ghost," Red Grange. All of them were exciting sports figures, whose spectacular feats overshadowed those of the athletes who had gone before them. Radio brought their deeds into each home with all the thrills and excitement of a front row seat and it was free.

By a happy coincidence when radio needed a touch of drama, excitement, or even romance in its broadcasts, a personality emerged who supplied all of them. The dynamic announcer-host and sportscaster was the versatile Graham McNamee. He was exactly what radio needed at the time. After being employed by WEAJ (New York, NY), McNamee was soon reporting all types of major sporting events. He was also on hand to broadcast with Phil Carlin the dramatic 1924 Democratic National Convention and President Coolidge's greeting of Charles A. Lindbergh upon his return from France, after his historic solo flight across the Atlantic in 1927. With his articulate speech and flare for the dramatic, McNamee was ubiquitous as he described all the important events for NBC.

McNamee's description of sporting events did not always display the greatest accuracy or knowledge. Radio critic of the New York Daily News Ben Gross (1954, p. 89–90) tells how he heard McNamee describe the 1927 Rose Bowl game and how he could not remember the score of the game, but could recall McNamee's description of the Southern California breeze and the fragrance of its roses. Some years later when Gross asked Merlin H. Aylesworth, the first president of NBC, what McNamee really knew about football, the executive answered promptly, "Dammed little, but he certainly puts on a great show (Gross, 1954, p. 90)." Gross described McNamee in this way: "Graham, who loved description more than what he described could not adjust himself to the less colorful but more factual method of reporting." As McNamee's coverage of sporting events gradually diminished over the years, other sportscasters were ready to take his place. Ted Husing was another good one who enjoyed great success. Others who followed were Red Barber, Mel Allen, Russ Hodges and Don Dunphy.

Barber and Allen broadcast both football and baseball games, but it was for the latter they are best remembered. There still are arguments as to which was the "best" baseball play-by-play man. Each had a distinct style and unique talent that made them outstanding broadcasters. Ironically, both Barber and Allen, who were highly successful broadcasting the baseball games of the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees respectively, were southerners who spoke with a broad accent.

Red Barber came to Brooklyn to broadcast the Dodger games from Cincinnati where he had been the Reds' broadcaster. His accuracy and colorful language soon endeared him to Brooklyn Dodger fans. He coined the expression "FOB" (Full of Brooklyns — some cynics said it was Full of Bums). Another was "He's in the catbird seat," meaning the player was in a good position. Barber's quick wit and baseball knowledge made him an excellent play-by-play man.

Mel Allen gained his greatest fame broadcasting Yankee games. His trademark question was, "How about that?" Allen got his big chance when Arch McDonald left his position as Yankee play-by-play man to return to his beloved Washington Senators after broadcasting only one year in New York. Allen, who was McDonald's assistant, was offered the job for the 1940 season, an opportunity that assured his success. Thankfully, neither Allen or Barber ever broke into their description of a game's events by exclaiming "Unbelievable!" or "I don't believe it." Unfortunately, not many current baseball broadcasters are able to resist that temptation.

Other baseball broadcasters also achieved legendary status by reason of their technique, personality and career longevity. A few of them are listed below:

Jack Brickhouse began broadcasting the games of the Chicago Cubs and Chicago White Sox in 1942 for WGN. His long career was marked by a genial manner and comprehensive and accurate treatment of baseball.

Jim Britt described both the Boston Red Sox (1939–1950) and Boston Braves (1939–1953) games for many years.

Harry Caray began as the St. Louis Cardinals play-by-play man teamed with Charles "Gabby" Street in 1947 on KMOX (St. Louis, MO). Before that Caray broadcast the Cardinals game for WTMV (East St. Louis, MO) beginning April 17, 1945. From 1955 to 1969, he was teamed with Jack Buck and Joe Garagiola. After leaving that job, Caray broadcast the games of the Oakland Athletics. He returned to Chicago in 1971 replacing Bob Elson as play-by-play broadcaster of the Chicago White Sox. He remained in that job until 1981, when he became the voice of the Chicago Cubs, a position he held until his death in 1998. Caray claimed he used "Holy Cow!" as an explanation of surprised delight before it was used by Phil "Scooter" Rizzuto on his New York Yankees broadcasts. His distinctive home run call was "It might be! It could be! It is!"

Jim Dudley broadcast Cleveland Indians games from 1948 to 1967.

Curt Gowdy came to Boston from New York in 1951 to broadcast Red Sox games. After becoming a Boston institution, he left in 1966 to broadcast NBC television's Game of the Week.

Ernie Harwell began his long baseball career broadcasting minor league games in the 1940s. He accepted a play-by-play job with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1948. By 1981, Harwell had broadcast games for the New York Giants, Baltimore Orioles and the Detroit Tigers.

Waite Hoyt described the games of the Cincinnati Reds with verve, knowledge and precision for 15 years. Hoyt's knowledge of the game and broadcasting skills made him one of the best baseball broadcasters of his era. He was as skilled a broadcaster as he previously had been as a star pitcher of the New York Yankees.

France Laux left his announcing job at KVOO (Tulsa, OK) to begin a distinguished 18 year career as broadcaster of St. Louis Cardinals games.

Bob "The Gunner" Prince, the long time voice of the Pittsburgh Pirates added some colorful phrases to his description of their games. When base runners of the opposing team needed removal, Prince would say, "Give me the Hoover! Give me the Hoover!" After a Pirate hit a home run, he would bid it "Goodbye" and exclaim, "How sweet it is."

Albert Kennedy "Rosey" Rowswell was the beloved character known as the "Voice of the Pittsburgh Pirates" from 1936 to 1954. When a Pirate home run was leaving the park, Rosey would scream, "Get upstairs, Aunt Minnie, and raise the window. Here she comes." An assistant would then supply a crashing sound to simulate broken window glass.

Byrum Saam, an excellent baseball play-by-play man, broadcast 32 seasons of the mostly losing baseball games played by the Philadelphia Athletics and Philadelphia Phillies.

Bob Wolff, Washington Senators' broadcaster from 1947 to 1960, suffered far too many years from being forced to listen to the quip that "Washington was first in the heart of his country men and last in the American League."

A common practice that began more than 50 years ago was that of star athletes becoming broadcasters. Some of them made good commentators, but others were dismal failures. Recordings still exist of examples from the short-lived play-by-play career of Walter Johnson, the great Washington Senators pitcher. Johnson's colorless description of the games made them seem dull. Not all ex-star broadcasters were lacking in colorful style and language. Waite Hoyt, former New York Yankee pitching great, went on to successfully broadcast the games of the Cincinnati Reds. A particularly interesting Hoyt feature was the fascinating baseball stories with which he filled the periods when ball games were delayed because of weather conditions. He called these entertaining interludes Waite in the Rain. Smith (1987, p. 73) in his comprehensive study of baseball broadcasters and broadcasting suggests that Hoyt may have been the best former athlete ever to broadcast baseball.

One of the most colorful and controversial former baseball stars turned broadcaster was Jay Hanna "Dizzy" Dean. Old Diz, as he often referred to himself, accurately described the baseball games he was working, but always added his own colorful anecdotes, insights and language. Dean's broadcasts were both entertaining and informative, even though they raised the ire of some linguistic purists. Old Diz frequently told how base runners had "slud" into second base. Regardless of his grammar and pronunciation, Dean was one of baseball most interesting and unique broadcasters.

Baseball play-by-play probably was the favorite sports program of listeners from radio's earliest days. From the historic firsts of baseball broadcasts to the ordinary day-to-day accounts of either minor or major league baseball, the listening public loved them. A few of the significant events in baseball broadcasting are given below.

October 5, 1920. WWJ (Detroit, MI) broadcasts scores of World Series games.

August 5, 1921. First on the scene play-by-play account of a major league game between the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Philadelphia Phils is broadcast from Pittsburgh's Forbes Field by Harold Arlin on KDKA (Pittsburgh, PA).

October 5, 1921. Grantland Rice does the first on the scene play-by-play of a World Series game between the New York Yankees and the New York Giants over KDKA (Pittsburgh, PA).

October 5, 1921. A recreation of a World Series game was broadcast by Thomas H. Cowan. Cowan repeated the information given him by telephone in order to recreate the game for WJZ (New York, NY).

1922. Recreation of World Series games from news wires by WJAG (Norfolk, VA)

1924. Baseball scores were broadcast every 15 minutes in the afternoon by WJZ (New York, NY).

June 1, 1924. Every home baseball games of the local team's schedule was broadcast by WMAQ (Chicago, IL) and KHJ (Los Angeles, CA).

From the humble beginnings of these historic events, baseball broadcasting's popularity grew quickly. With the widespread promotion of such sponsors as General Mills' Wheaties and the Atlantic Refining Company, baseball readily lived up to its claim to be America's Favorite Pastime.

During the 1930s and 1940s, probably no company's product was more identified with baseball on radio than was General Mills' Wheaties. In fact, the cereal was so identified with baseball on radio that when a player hit a home run on the radio or on the playground, it was often called a "Wheaties blast" or a "case of Wheaties." In the early 1930s, when the Worch Cigar Company cancelled its sponsorship of the minor league Minneapolis Millers' games, WCCO (Minneapolis, MN) sold the sponsorship to Wheaties. This brought Wheaties into baseball broadcasting. During the next few years Wheaties sponsored baseball play-by-play in 67 different cities. Not as generally recognized, but an almost equally important sponsor of baseball was the Atlantic Refining Company. Some indication of the amount of baseball games broadcast in 1939 can be seen from the following information compiled by the Variety Radio Annual—1939-1940.

The cities and stations where Wheaties sponsored baseball broadcasts in 1939 were: Akron, Ohio—WJW; Albany, NY—WABY; Albany, NY—WOKO; Atlanta, GA—WAGA; Baltimore, MD—WCBM; Beaumont, TX—KFDM; Bellingham, WA—KVOS; Birmingham, AL—WSGN; Boise, ID—KHDO; Bridgeport, CT—

Although not as popular as baseball, football on radio also had its avid listeners. A few of the earliest football broadcasts of significance were:

November 25, 1920. The traditional Thanksgiving Day football game between the University of Texas and Texas A&M was broadcast by an experimental station that later became WTAM (College Station, TX).

1921. The University of Minnesota football games were broadcast by 9XI with student relays carrying the play-by-play information from the football stadium to the studio.

November 4, 1922. WSBT (South Bend, IN) begins its coverage of Notre Dame football games with its broadcast of the Notre Dame-Indiana University game won by Notre Dame by 17-0.

November 25, 1922. Bill McGeehan, Sports Editor of the New York Sun broadcast the traditional Harvard-Yale game on WGY (Schenectady, NY).

November 1, 1924. Broadcasts of the Dartmouth University football games begin on WFBK (Dartmouth, NH).

January 1, 1925. KNX (Los Angeles, CA) and WGBS (New York, NY) broadcast Sigmund Spaeth's play-by-play account of the 1925 Rose Bowl game from Pasadena, California, between Notre Dame and Stanford University.

December 25, 1925. KPO (San Francisco, CA) broadcast the first East-West Shriner football game.

1925. The recreation of football games with cheers, crowd noises, band music, etc., is begun by KQV (Pittsburgh, PA) with Paul Miller at the microphone.

January 1, 1927. Graham McNamee broadcasts the Rose Bowl game between the University of Alabama and Stanford University on a coast-to-coast NBC network.

1931. Professional football in any form apparently was not broadcast in the 1920s. Games of the Chicago Bears professional football team, however, have been on radio since 1931.

Although lists of this kind are never comprehensive, they can provide some understanding of radio's pioneering attempt to broadcast sports events.

How extensively college football was broadcast can be seen by this NBC 1931 Football Broadcast Schedule announcement:

Graham McNamee, ace NBC announcer, and Bill Munday, noted football broadcaster, will play almost equal roles in broadcasting descriptions of the big football games this fall, over networks of the National Broadcasting Company.

Twenty-one games have been scheduled to date on the NBC football program, of which McNamee is now named to describe ten and Munday eight. The announcers have not been named for the remaining three broadcasts, and it is probable that two additional games also will be added to the list.

Notre Dame's aggregation will play in six of the twenty-one scheduled games. Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Army, Navy, Dartmouth and teams of the South, Big Ten Conference, Missouri Valley Conference and the Pacific Coast also are included.

McNamee has manned the microphone at most of the important football games of the last years and Munday has given him a close battle for honors. Munday started broadcasting as an assistant to McNamee and immediately after was assigned to a game. He is best known for his Georgia drawl and Southern colloquialisms.

In addition to the networks, numerous local stations broadcast regional football games of special interest to their listeners. As early as 1922, Chicago's KYW broadcast the first remote broadcast in the city when it carried the Princeton-University of Chicago football game from Stagg Field on October 28, 1922, with Harold "Shorty" Fall describing the game.

Two years later pioneer broadcaster Quin Ryan at WGN interviewed football greats and described many Big Ten games. Red Grange was in his junior year at the University of Illinois and the Four Horsemen were in their last at Notre Dame. Ryan interviewed such stars and coaches as Bronco Nagurski; Fielding Yost of Michigan; Benny Friedman of Michigan; Bob Zupke of Illinois; Amos Alonzo Sragg of Chicago; Albie Booth of Yale; and Krute Rockne of Notre Dame.
