WGN (Chicago, IL) at that time was the only station to broadcast from every Big Ten football stadium. Sometimes it even broadcast two Saturday games. Quin Ryan on one of his earliest broadcast assignments described the Illinois-Michigan game. It was one of Red Grange's greatest. When Speager of Michigan kicked off to Illinois, Grange returned it 92 yards for a touchdown. In an amazing performance, Grange scored three more touchdowns with 70, 57 and 43 yard runs, all within the first 12 minutes of the game. Grange left the game in the third quarter after he had scored his fifth touchdown of the game with a 64-yard run and thrown a pass for a sixth.

Radio in the 1920s also brought other sports to its listeners. Some of the most dramatic events radio presented were the decade's boxing bouts. The earliest fight broadcast from ringside on record is that of the Johnny Ray and Johnny Dundee bout from New York's Madison Square Garden on April 11, 1922. The fight was broadcast by KDKA (Pittsburgh, PA). Perhaps even more historic, however, was the July 2, 1921, Dempsey-Carpentier heavyweight championship bout at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City, New Jersey. Handsome Georges Carpentier was a glamorous French fighter, who was little more than a light heavyweight. Although a skilled boxer, only a strong publicity campaign made Carpentier seem to be a suitable challenger for a devastating puncher like Dempsey. Nevertheless, the well planned hype and ballyhoo was so effective that the fight was a commercial success, although Dempsey demolished the little Frenchman in four rounds. Radio's broadcasting of the bout deserves praise for the ingenuity displayed in overcoming what appeared to be insurmountable obstacles. With David Sarnoff along side, Major J. Andrew White telephoned the action from ringside to a Lackawanna railroad hut, where J.O. Smith actually broadcast the action as best he could. Only Smith's voice, of course, was heard delivering White's description of the Dempsey victory on WJY (Hoboken, NJ).

Although other sports were covered by early radio, none of them ever gained the popularity of baseball or football. Their diversity, however, is noteworthy. Some early examples were: the KDKA (Pittsburgh, PA) broadcasts of the Davis Cup tennis matches August 4-6, 1921; the great match horse race between Zev and Epinard from Belmont Park, New York, broadcast by WJZ, September 1, 1924; Quin Ryan's description of the 1925 running of the Kentucky Derby from Louisville, Kentucky, on WGN (Chicago, IL); the Boston Bruins hockey games broadcast in 1926 by WEEI (Boston, MA); the high school basketball game between Whitefish and Kalispell broadcast by KGEZ (Kalispell, MT) on February 24, 1927; and professional wrestling matches before they were considered to be only exhibitions broadcast by WNAC (Boston, MA) in 1927 and KGHI (Little Rock, AR) in 1928.

Radio always sought new ways to inform and entertain its listeners. One unusual sports program was a WCCO (Minneapolis, MN) feature broadcast by the station in 1960 called "fish spotting." The spotting programs were broadcast from Minnetonka Lake, Fruit Lake and White Bear Lake in Minnesota. Dick Chapman in association with some fish biologists determined that it was possible to enhance fishermen's chances for success by studying where fish were found the day before the fishing season began. In addition, they studied water temperature, weather conditions and the eating patterns of the fish. The day before the season opened WCCO's "fish finders" were on Minnesota's lakes and sent divers down in them to find fish. Incidentally, the program's forecasts were said generally to be accurate.

24375 Sports for Boys from Six to Sixty. Author John R. Tunis broadcast the sports program for boys of all ages (NBC, 1935).

24377 Sports News. Thornton Fisher was the commentator on the sports show (WAHG, New York, NY, 1925).

24378 Sports Review. James J. Long presented sports news and reviews (KDKA, Pittsburgh, PA, 1924).

24379 Sports Shorts. Sports news program conducted by Eddie Simmons (WAAF, Chicago, IL, 1935).

24380 Sports Slants. Ben Epstein, editor of the Arkansas Gazette, was assisted by Louis Cohen on the program of sports news and views presented by KLRA (Little Rock, AR, 1932). A regular Thursday feature during baseball season were the interviews they conducted with members of the (minor league) Little Rock Travelers baseball players.

24381 Sports Up to the Minute. Fred J. Bendel, Sports Editor of the Newark Morning Ledger, conducted the program of sports news and opinion, (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1923).

24382 Sports with Jolly Bill Steinke. Jolly Bill reported the sports news (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1924). Steinke was perhaps better known for his Jolly Bill and Jane Program. See also Jolly Bill and Jane.

24385 Spotlight Bands (aka Victory Parade of Spotlight Bands). The Coca-Cola Company sponsored the program that presented the best American bands. Begun in 1941, the show continued after the end of World War II. During the war years, many of the programs originated from Army camps or Navy bases, where they provided entertainment for servicemen. By 1942, the show was broadcast on 134 stations. Requests from war workers and service personnel were honored by the participating bands. When the program began, it was broadcast six times weekly - Monday through Saturday. Among the various bands that appeared on the show were: Mitchell Ayres, Les Brown, Bob Chester, Tommy Dorsey, Sonny Dunham, Jan Garber, Mal Hallett, Ray Herbeck, Ina Ray Hutton, Hal McIntyre, Harry James, Eddie LeBaron, George Olsen, Will Osborne, Teddy Powell, Alvino Rey, Johnny Richards, Bobby Sherwood, Jack Teagarden, Tommy Tucker and Ted Weems. Spotlight Bands was probably the best known and longest running of all the big band remote program series. Patriotic emphasis with the constant praising of service men, savings bonds drives and war workers were always parts of each show during the World War II era. See also Wartime Radio.

24386 Spotlight on Music. The Wilbur Hatch Orchestra provided the music on the weekly show (15 min., CBS, 1944).

24387 Spotlight Review. Ted Maxwell was the MC of this popular two-hour variety show (120 min., Saturday, 10:00-12:00 midnight, NBC-Pacific Coast Network, 1930). Two years later, The Spotlight Review featured comedian Irving Kennedy playing Lord Bilgewater (30 min., Saturday, 9:30-10:00 P.M., KGO, San Francisco, CA, 1932).

24389 Spragg, Graydon. News analyst (Around the Country, WHI, Greenfield, MI, 1947).

24391 Sprague, Edgar A. "Red" or "Ed." Newscaster (WWVA, Wheeling, WV, 1938-1941). Sportscaster (WOSU, Columbus, OH, 1942; WCOL, Columbus, OH, 1948; KTMS, Santa Barbara, CA, 1951-1953; Warm-Up Time, KTMS, 1954).

24402 Spry, Gene. Sportscaster (Sports Roundup, WKAI, Macomb, IL, 1951).

24403 Square Dancers Callers' Contest. Listeners from ten states responded to the callers' contest (WLS, Chicago, IL, 1926). The winners' names were not reported in contemporary newspaper accounts of the contest.

24404 (The Squared Circle). Florsheim Shoes sponsored the unique program that recreated some of the greatest championship boxing bouts in history: Corbett versus Ruby Bob Fitzsimmons; Jim Jeffries versus Bob Fitzsimmons; Jim Jeffries versus Sailor Tom Sharkey; and James J. Corbett versus Jim Jeffries, etc.

This was the first in a series of broadcast recreations of historic sports events conceived, produced and conducted by Quin Ryan, who was assisted by Frank Dahm and Tom Foy. Gino Connor and Don Portia produced the important sound effects of crowd noise. The first bout Ryan described was that of John L. Sullivan and Jake Kilrain, who fought for 75 rounds with bare knuckles at Richburg, Kentucky. Ryan described the fight in an excited manner that made it sound that he was at ringside. Recorded crowd noise made the scene sound realistic (WGN, 1930s). Ryan told of the trick some husbands played on the wives by betting with them on the outcome of the recreated fights as though they actually were taking place at the time of the broadcast.

24405 Squier, Lloyd. Newscaster (WDEY, Waterbury, CT, 1937–1941).

24406 Squires, Alonzo G. DJ (Breakfast with Squires, WAYS, Charlotte, NC, 1947; WNAO, Raleigh, NC, 1955).

24517 Statham, Bob. DJ (Carolina in the Morning, WHFI, New Bern, NC, 1960).

24518 Stations—Growth and Development. A cursory examination of radio stations, their programs and performers in the early years of American broadcasting illustrates the diversity of the country and its culture. The gulf may appear wide between the early programming of a small town station such as KMA of Shenandoah, Iowa, and that of metropolitan Chicago's WGN in 1927, but what clearly emerges is an understanding of these pioneering radio stations' early contributions to the rapid growth and development of American radio that culminated in the hundreds of stations that provided information, education and entertainment for all the people of the nation. Whether emanating from a coast-to-coast network or a 500 watt local station, clearly radio's dramatic growth and popularity provides an excellent example of the democratization of a medium available to all. From the poorest members of the population to the wealthiest and from farmers in rural areas to citizens living in large metropolitan areas, the cornucopia of radio was available to all free of charge.

For decades there has been considerable controversy surrounding the question as to exactly which was the first radio station. The claim of WWJ (Detroit, MI) to precede KDKA as the first American radio station is based on the Detroit News maintenance of experimental station 8MK, prior to the establishment in 1921 of WLB—the paper's station. Extensive research by Dean Gleason Archer failed to establish his satisfaction any basis for the WWJ claim. Archer, instead, cites the first official mention of WLB as November, 1921 and that its call letters were changed to WWJ in March, 1922. Lacking any evidence of an earlier tie to the experimental station (8MK), radio historian Archer discounted the claim of WWJ (Archer, 1938, p. 208).

The claim by KDKA (Pittsburgh, PA) as the first American radio station was based on the work of Dr. Frank Conrad, an engineer assigned by the Westinghouse Company to conduct research in wireless telephony during World War I. Conrad established two experimental stations, one at Westinghouse's Pittsburgh factory and the other in his garage. After the war was over, Conrad re-licensed his 8XK station in April, 1920 and began "broadcasting." When he learned that his broadcasts were being heard in his neighborhood, he began to play phonograph records for his listeners.

Conrad was somewhat surprised by the response of his listeners. He soon received numerous letters and telegraphs requesting that he broadcast at certain hours. Conrad responded by announcing he would broadcast for two hours each Wednesday and Saturday evenings beginning at 7:30 P.M. Noting listener reaction, a local phonograph shop began supplying Conrad with records that he could play on his broadcasts. This, in effect, was the beginning of an early, informal means of radio advertising, since the dealer immediately noticed an increase in the sales of records played by Conrad (Archer, 1938, p. 199).

When Conrad found that his record broadcasts were taking up too much of his time, his sons, Francis and Crawford Conrad, took over his record playing chores. The boys became enthusiastic announcers and the number of their listeners greatly increased. Before long, a local Pittsburgh department store began to advertise radios for those who wanted to hear the Conrad broadcasts. The Westinghouse Company noted an increased demand for parts needed to build radio receiving sets, no doubt inspiring and hastening that company's decision to establish a station.

Westinghouse's Pittsburgh station KDKA was licensed November 2, 1920. The station rushed to get on the air in order to broadcast the results of that day's presidential election. Doubting the reliability of KDKA's transmitter, Conrad rushed to his home on election night to stand by his 8XK station, in order to take over if there were any broadcasting problems (Archer, 1938, p. 204). Nothing went wrong with KDKA's transmitter. Election results were received at the Pittsburgh Post's newsroom and relayed by telephone to KDKA for broadcast. It was estimated that only 500 to 1,000 persons heard that historic broadcast announcing Harding had defeated Cox in the presidential election.

KDKA, the first licensed station, was reported in the Radio Service Bulletin of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce as receiving its license in January, 1920. The following year eight more stations were licensed. According to the Radio Service Bulletin, these stations, their locations and ownerships were:

WRR (Dallas, TX, City of Dallas)
WBZ (Boston, MA, Westinghouse Electric and Mfg. Company)
WDY (Roselle Park, NJ, Radio Corporation of America)
WCJ (New Haven, CT, A.C. Gilbert Company)
WJX (New York, NY, DeForest Radio and Telegraph Company)
KQV (Pittsburgh, PA, Doubleday-Hill Electric Company)
KQL (Los Angeles, CA, Arno A. Kluge)
KYW (Chicago, IL, Westinghouse Electric and Mfg. Company).

It is interesting to note that the Detroit News' station WLB is not listed by the Chamber of Commerce publication.

During the first five months of 1922, there were 254 additional station licenses issued. Radio rapidly spread across the continent. Most Americans wanted to listen to radio and there were many others who wanted to broadcast to them. Station owners were a diverse group that included: newspapers, fraternal organizations, colleges, theological seminaries, churches, seed companies, automobile dealerships, radio set manufacturers and private individuals using radio as a business.

Most owners saw their station as a means to gain prestige and publicize themselves or their company. Some, however, merely wanted to promote the product they manufactured or retailed, although it was some time before the listening public and the government accepted formal commercials.

Many radio stations used on the air slogans to reflect the significant messages they wanted to convey. Some examples from 1928 illustrate how slogans were sometimes used with obvious commercial purposes, i.e., either to promote a product, company or the station itself:

Station WGST (Atlanta, GA) was owned by the Georgia School of Technology — "The southern technical school with a national reputation."

Station WHAZ (Troy, NY) was owned by Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute — "The transcontinental and international broadcasting station located at the oldest college of science and engineering in America." WHAZ, incidentally, operated with only 500 watts power.

Station WJJD (Chicago, IL with a transmitter at Mooseheart, IL) was owned and operated by the Loyal Order of Moose lodge—"The call of the moose."

Station WPSW (Philadelphia, PA) was owned and operated by the Philadelphia School of Wireless Telegraphy—"First wireless school in America."

Station WTAM (Cleveland, OH) was owned and operated by the Willard Storage Battery Company—"The voice from the storage battery."

Station WBBW (Norfolk, VA) was owned and operated by Ruffner Junior High—"The school you'd like to go to."

Station WCAL (Northfield, MN) was owned and operated by St. Olaf's College—"The college on the hill."

Station WBET (Medford, MA) was owned and operated by the Boston Evening Transcript—"New England's leading family daily."

Station WHEC (Rochester, NY)—"The all day broadcasting station." WHEC's broadcast day extended from 6:00 A.M. to 6:00 P.M. in 1928.

Station WHB (Kansas City, MO) was owned by Emory J. Sweeney, the owner of an automobile and tractor repair school. After announcing its call letters, the station's announcer would say, "WHB, Kansas City, Missouri. This is the Sweeney Automobile School." As an enticement to get students, Sweeney gave a free radio course to students enrolled in his school.

WMBI (Chicago, IL) began operations in 1926. Licensed to the Moody Bible Institute, it began operations when the former WWJ (Detroit, MI) 500-watt transmitter was installed in the Moody Men's Building, 153 Institute Place, Chicago, Illinois. The next day the station went on the air identifying itself as, "The West Point of Christianity." The station is still broadcasting today. Other station's slogans sometimes were used to boost the geographical attraction or the commercial importance of the region in which the station was located:

Station KGY (Lacey, WA) "Out where the Cedars meet the sea."

Station KIAF (Sihtipoc, MN) "Far from the maddening crowd."

Station KLX (Oakland, CA) "Where rail and water meet."

Station KOCW (Chickasha, OK) "The friendly station in a friendly town."

Station KPO (San Francisco, CA) "The voice of San Francisco—the City by the Golden Gate."

Station KRLD (Dallas, TX) "Where the bluebonnets grow."

Station WCBS (Springfield, IL) "Home of Abraham Lincoln."

Station WCSH (Portland, ME) "Sunrise gateway to the West."

Station WDBO (Orlando, FL) "Down where the oranges grow."

Station WFCL (Pawtucket, RI) "The city of diversified industries."

Station WGWV (Milwaukee, WI) "Make Milwaukee mightier."

Station WICC (Easton, CT) "The industrial capitol of Connecticut."

Station WISN (Milwaukee, WI) "In the land of the sky blue waters."

Station WMCA (New York, NY) "Where the searchlight flashes and the White Way begins."

Station WNBO (Washington, PA) "Where the hills of Pennsylvania greet The western sea."

Station WOC (Davenport, IA) "Where the West begins and in the state where the tall corn grows."

Station WODA (Paterson, NJ) "A voice from the Silk City."

Station WRR (Dallas, TX) "The city of achievements."

Station WRVA (Richmond, VA) "Where the South begins."

Station WSB (Atlanta, GA) "Covers the South like the dew."

Station WSMK (Dayton, OH) "The home of aviation."

Still other slogans conveyed a religious, educational or philosophical message or a piece of advice:

Station KGBZ (York, NE) "Keep your hogs and poultry healthy."

Station KTNT (Muscatine, IA) "Dedicated to the voice of the farmer."

Station KTAB (Oakland, CA) "Knowledge, Truth and Beauty."

Station KTW (Seattle, WA) "Hear Ye, Hear Ye the gospel."

Station WABZ (New Orleans, LA) was owned and operated by a New Orleans' Baptist Church; "The station with a message."

Station WCBF (Zion, IL) "Where God rules, Man prospers."

Station WLCI (Ithaca, NY), owned and operated by the Lutheran Association of Ithaca, was located near Cornell University; "The church at the gate of the campus."

Station WMAY (St. Louis, MO) was owned and operated by the Kings Highway Presbyterian Church; "May every By-Way hear Kings Highway."

Station WORD (Batavia, NY) was owned and operated by the Peoples Pulpit Association "The Watchtower Station—WORD."

Station WMBI (Chicago, IL) was owned and operated by the Moody Bible Institute; "The West Point of Christian service."

Station WQAO (Palisade, NJ) was owned and operated by the Calvary Baptist Church; "The first church owned and operated broadcasting station in the world."

Even the call letters of some stations served as the basis for a message of special significance. Some examples from 1928 are:

Station KFCB (Phoenix, AZ) "Kind Friends Come Back."

Station KFDM (Beaumont, TX) "Kall For Dependable Magnolene." The station was owned by the Magnolia Petroleum Company.

Station KFEL (Denver, CO) "Kan't Find Enough Licker."

Station KFWO (Avalon, CA) "Katalina for Wonderful Outings."

Station KGFA (Glendale, CA) "Keeping Glendale Folks Healthy."

Station KGfJ (Los Angeles, CA) "Keeping Good Folks Healthy."

Station KHJ (Los Angeles, CA) "Kindness, Happiness, Joy."

Station KPRC (Houston, TX) "Kotton Point Rail Center."

Station KSO (Clarinda, IA) "Keep Serving Others."

Station KTAP (San Antonio, TX) "Kum to America's Playground."

Station KTHS (Hot Springs National Park) "Kum to Hot Springs."

Station WAAW (Omaha, NE) "Where Agriculture Accumulates Wealth."

Station WBIG (Greensboro, NC) "Where Business Is Good."

Station WBBM (Chicago, IL) "World's Best Broadcast Medium."

Station WCLS (Joliet, IL) "Will County's Largest Store."

Station WCOA (Pensacola, FL) "Wonderful City of Advantages."

Station WEAN (Providence, RI) "We Entertain a Nation."

Station WEAO (Columbus, OH) "Where Education Advances Ohio."

Station WEBR (Buffalo, NY) "We Extend Buffalo's Regards."

Station WFAA (Dallas, TX) "Working for All Alike."

Station WGN (Chicago, IL) "World's Greatest Newspaper."

Station WHBF (Rock Island, IL) "Where Historic Blackhawk Fought."

Station WHT (Chicago, IL) "Write Home Tonight."

Station WIOD (Miami Beach, FL) "Wonderful Isle of Dreams."

Station WIP (Philadelphia, PA) "Watch Its Progress."

Station WKBT (New Orleans, LA) "We Kast Bible Truth." The station was owned by the First Baptist Church of New Orleans.

Station WLBF (Kansas City, MO) "Where Listeners Become Friends."

Station WLBI (Stevens Point, WI) "Wisconsin, Land of Beautiful Lakes."

Station WLS (Chicago, IL) "World's Largest Store."

Station WOS (Jefferson City, MO) "Watch Our State."

Station WPG (Atlantic City, NJ) "World's Play Ground."

After KDKA's historic first broadcast, the quality and quantity of programming began to expand rapidly. New York stations WVEF and WJZ added additional impetus to radio's growth and popularity by presenting star performers and novel features, which culminated in the operation of a station chain (network) in 1926. Hundreds of radio stations were broadcasting by this time. They appeared, disappeared, changed locations and even cities. Some stations began operations, stopped broadcasting and disappeared even before they were listed once in the Radio Service Bulletin of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. At least one station was licensed, began operations and disappeared in less than three months. An indication of the rapid growth in the number of stations and their volatility can be seen in the following tables.

Although the Eastern stations such as KDKA, WVEF and WJZ have received well deserved recognition for their significant contributions to American radio's growth and development, the significant contributions made by Midwestern stations are rarely appreciated. There were many contributions made during the early years and development by KYW (Chicago, IL), WGN (Chicago, IL), WJR (Detroit, MI), KFNF (Shenandoah, IA), WMT (Cedar Rapids, IA), WOC (Davenport, IA) and KMA (Shenandoah, IA).

The story of WGN illustrates how a Midwestern metropolitan station in Chicago developed into a great national station. Beginning with its licensing in 1924, the station continued to grow and develop due to the talent and intelligence of its performers, technicians and executives. Two who immediately come to mind are Quin Ryan, a creative pioneer broadcaster, announcer and executive in WGN's early days, and Ward Quaal, a dynamic executive in the 1940s and 1950s. See also Ryan, Quin, and Quaal, Ward.

The Chicago Tribune, owned by Colonel Robert R. McCormick, negotiated rights to take over station WJAZ and use its own slogan, "World's Greatest Newspaper," as the basis for its new call letters — WGN. The transformation of WJAZ to WGN was only the beginning of building this great station. One month later, WGN took over station WDAP. Two Chicago stations had disappeared, but what was to become one of the nation's greatest stations emerged.

After WGN took over WDAP, it retained the services of veteran announcer Sen Kaney, the Drake Concert Ensemble, the Blackstone Quintet, singer Jack Nelson the "Man in the Moon," and the Chapman Orchestra. Popular Chicago announcer Sen Kaney described the 1924 Memorial Day automobile race on station WGN's inaugural broadcast. A significant addition to the new WGN staff occurred August 11, 1924, when a Northwestern University student, who had already been an actor, reporter, part-time announcer and Tribune employee by the name of Quin Ryan came on staff at WGN. As previously stated, Ryan became one of the most important figures in the station's early years. Only Ward Quaal later in the station's history contributed as much. (See also Ryan, Quin, and Quaal, Ward). Soon Ryan became "Uncle Walter," who read the Tribune's comics on Sundays for children. He also joined Vernon Rickard on another popular children's program, Skeezix Time.

Ryan also began to broadcast many dramatic radio firsts such as Judge John Caverly's sentencing of Leopold and Loeb for their killing of Bobby Franks. Even more dramatic was Ryan's 1926 broadcasts from the Dayton, Tennessee, courtroom at the Scopes-Monkey Trial, in which Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan debated the values of science versus those of fundamental Christianity. Coverage of the trial cost WGN more than $1,000 a day in telephone line costs. The year before Ryan had broadcast from the Kentucky town, where Floyd Collins perished when he could not be freed from the mountain cave in which he was trapped. These are only two of the many examples of the extensive and expensive remote special events WGN offered its listeners. Other Chicago stations were forced to expand their own programming in order to compete.

Conducting such historic broadcasts was not Ryan's only contribution to WGN. He was also a skilled interviewer who brought movie and stage stars before the WGN microphone. A good case could also be made that Ryan was probably early radio's best known sportscaster. Among the many historic sporting events he broadcast were the famous four touchdowns scored by the Galloping Ghost, Red Grange, in the first 12 minutes of the Illinois-Michigan football game, a feat that has never been equaled. Ryan also described the famous 1927 Dempsey-Tunney "Long Count" heavyweight championship fight.

An example of Ryan's many innovations was his idea to dramatize historic and current news events. These historic recreation programs were the unique forerunners of such famous later programs as You Are There and The March of Time. In 1926, Ryan found a Victor phonograph catalog that listed recordings of American presidents—living and dead. The recordings suggested to him that the reproduction of historic events could be broadcast as though they were actually taking place.

Ryan broadcast a recreation of the Lincoln-Douglas debates with Bill Hay portraying Stephen A. Douglas and with his own pastor, a Presbyterian minister, as Abraham Lincoln. For many years, Ryan wrote and produced this forerunner of You Are There and The March of Time. Since WGN had no equipment to broadcast records on the program, Ryan placed a microphone on a chair about two feet in front of the phonograph. Many records were broadcast on later programs about such performers as Enrico Caruso and Harry Lauder. After recreating many historic events, Ryan began to recreate sports events as well. For example, he recreated more than 100 famous prize fights, including a succession of heavyweight championship bouts.

First in the series of boxing recreations was the 75-round championship fight between John L. Sullivan and Jake Kilrain, fought with bare knuckles in Richburg, Mississippi. Whether it was recreated boxing bouts, football games, baseball games or the Kentucky Derby, Ryan reported the event in an excited manner, as though it was actually taking place with appropriate background crowd noises, some of whom were produced by Gosden and Correll before they became nationally famous as Amos 'n' Andy. When the sports' recreations began, crowd noise was produced by studio visitors. Later real actors and recorded sound effects were used. Ryan was the creative spirit and announcer of the program through the years, assisted by Frank Dahm and Tom Foy. Sound effects were later produced by Gino Connor and Don Pontia.

Ryan often told an interesting story about the recreation of sports events and the trick husbands used to play on their wives by betting with them on the outcome of the fight or football game being dramatized. It was the historic recreations that earned Ryan most critical praise. When the New Yorker initiated a radio criticism section, it praised "Mr. Ryan's description of the Chicago Fire of 1871" and suggested other events that could be recreated on later broadcasts.

Almost from the beginning WGN planned to develop programs based on comic strips. These "strip" shows, they thought, would tell a continuing story and be broadcast several times a week. It was also thought that comic strip characters would make interesting radio characters. Starting with Sam 'n' Henry, the station began to develop a series of strip shows. After Gosden and Correll left the station and achieved tremendous network success, the station doubled its efforts. Station manager Henry Selinger hired two associates of Gosden and Correll—Hank Moeller and Hal Gilles—to launch Herr Louie and the Weasel in 1928. This comedy serial show told the story of a little German band led by Herr Louie, who was constantly frustrated by the Weasel's antics. Selinger later brought in the team of Lion 'n' Abner, who went on to achieve network fame with their strip show. Two other important strip shows were Little Orphan Annie, a popular children's serial drama written by Frank Dahm and the successful Gasoline Alley daytime serial.

WGN's development of radio daytime serials (soap operas) were a direct outgrowth of the Sam 'n' Henry strip show. Some suggest that the first "real" daytime serial was Painted Dreams, a daytime program designed for women listeners. After its success with Painted Dreams, the station went on to produce The Romance of Helen Trent and Just Plain Bill. The success of these daytime serials led the station at one time to offer 30 "soaps" on their schedule, most of whom were the product of the Blackett, Sample and Hummert Advertising Agency.

The station made still other memorable contributions. Before the city of Chicago purchased and installed its own radio system, WGN in 1929 equipped all Chicago police squad cars with receivers and interrupted its regular programs by a bell to broadcast police calls whenever necessary. Popular daytime serials (soap operas) and great music programs such as the Chicago Theater of the Air were broadcast regularly. Beginning in 1933, the station also broadcast the Saturday evening concerts of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra that continued well into the 1960s.

In 1931, when Quin Ryan became station manager for the second time, he continued to use his creative, performing and executive skills to lead the station through another period of broadcasting innovation. When he initiated Uncle Quin's Scallywags program, he hired James Mitchell, the first African-American employed as a program regular. Ryan's tenure as station manager brought both great creative achievement and commercial success.

In his reminiscences recorded for the Broadcast Pioneers History Project, Quin Ryan paid special tribute to two of his broadcasting friends, J. Howard Wood, publisher of the Tribune, and Ward Quaal, later President and Station Manager of WGN. Both of them, Ryan said, were responsible for making WGN a great national station [See also Ryan, Quin, and Quaal, Ward].

Ward Quaal joined WGN in 1941, the day after he graduated from the University of Michigan. While still an undergraduate, Quaal worked as an announcer on station WDMJ in Marquette, Michigan. After serving in the Navy during World War II, he returned to WGN; became director of the Clear Channel Broadcasting Service in Washington, DC in 1949; Vice-President and assistant general manager of the Crosley Corporation, Cincinnati, OH; and on June 8, 1956, the Executive Vice-President and general manager of WGN. His management skills and executive leadership made WGN-AM and TV a great national station and developed the concept of an expanded role for a broadcasting station in an urban area.

Another urban station, KYW, owned by Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Company, was Chicago's first. It began to broadcast in 1921. It is estimated that there were 20,000 radio sets in the Chicago area at the time. Thanks to the KYW's schedule of operas broadcast from the stage of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, the station attracted a large listening audience.

Station KYW made radio history during its first year of operation in 1921 and 1922 by only broadcasting opera. Opera was presented six days a week — morning, noon and night (Douglas, 1987, p. 50). Opera star Mary Garden was featured on the station's first broadcast of November 11, 1921. The popularity of the station's programming, no doubt, was in no small part responsible for the fact that by the end of 1921 there were plans for a dozen more new stations in and around Chicago. Opera had proved popular in Chicago. When KYW expanded its format to include other types of musical entertainment, Al Jolson, Phil Baker, Madame Schumann-Heink and Irene Bordoni appeared before the KYW microphones.

In 1934, when KYW, in an unusual switch moved to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, it was allowed to keep its K call letter designation, despite its new location east of the Mississippi. Chicago recognized what the pioneer station had meant to the city. The Chicago Herald and Examiner (December 1, 1934) saluted the station in this way:

KYW has lived a colorful life...I dare say the most colorful in its field...In addition to being a genuine pioneer, it has contributed many brilliant stars to the radio galaxy...Danny Russo and his Orioles [orchestra] spent their fledgling days in its old Congress Hotel studios...So did "Uncle Bob" Wilson, who gave up song-plugging to become radio's most loved $500-per-week bedtime story teller...and a little girl named Ruth Erting, who thought radio might offer her more than cabaret singing. Ken Ronayne ... "Shorty" Foll ... Eddie Borroff ... "Town Crier" ... Lee Sims ... Wendell Hall ... Harvey ("Dream Daddy") Davis ... Maurice Wetzel ... Morgan L. Eastman ... Art Linnick ... Sen Kaney ... Husk O'Hare.

One could go on for hours reciting names that have been introduced through KGY's historic old mikes...and a singular fact is that most of these stars still glitter in a constellation that is not famed for the longevity of its "names."

Sunday night, December 2, 1934, at 11:30 P.M., NBC gave KYW a grand sendoff with a program carried by both KYW and WMAQ (Chicago, IL). When the broadcast was finished at midnight, KYW closed its Chicago microphones for the last time and moved to Philadelphia. On December 3, 1934, KYW's move to Philadelphia was completed and the station had once more made radio history. [See also Opera on Radio and Willis, Polly Archer (Peggy Willis).]

After the success of KYW in 1921 and 1922, many other Chicago stations began operations. These included WGU (which later became WMAQ), WAAF, WEBH and WDAP. Ralph "The Sheik" Shugart deserves special mention as one of Chicago radio's pioneers during this era. Versatile Shugart, WDAP's sole employee, worked as studio engineer, transmission engineer, program director, telephone operator, publicity and public relations man and announcer. Busy as he was, Shugart also found time to arrange the appearances on WDAP of Irving Margraff's Blackstone Hotel Quartet and Henry Selinger's Drake Hotel Concert Ensemble.

Radio also played an extremely important role in rural areas where farmers and their families were isolated and entertainment in short supply. Although thousands of farm families bought goods from their Sears-Roebuck catalog, they journeyed to town to go to the movies for entertainment on Saturday night and to meet old friends. The main streets of their American small towns on Saturday night were packed from one end to the other with farmers, their wives and children, waiting for their friends to walk by.

Radio brought these farmers and their families news, recipes, jokes and music, along with farm and homemaking information and hints. Is it any wonder that radio quickly became so important to rural Americans? The story of how two broadcast pioneers brought radio to one rural Iowa area can be told by illustrating the rivalry of the owners of two seed and nursery companies in Shenandoah, a small town in the southwestern corner of Iowa. The two pioneers were Henry Field and Earl May. Business rivals Fields and May established radio stations in the same town to compete in broadcasting as well as their seed and nursery businesses.

Henry Field was the owner of a prosperous company that had been established in 1902. During the 1920s, the Field Seed and Nursery Company also became a profitable mail order company with customers in all states of the union. Earl May, on the other hand, had been in the seed and nursery business for only a few years. Both men had one other thing in common. Both were dynamic and spectacular salesmen. It was often said of Field that when you heard him on the radio, he could sell you anything. May was equally skillful. As someone once remarked, with Field and May it was like having two P.T. Barnum's in the same small town.

Radio came to Shenandoah indirectly by way of Omaha's station WOAW, whose call letters later became WOW, a station owned and operated by the Woodmen of the World, a lodge and insurance company. As early as 1923, Henry Field joined a group of Shenandoah citizens to broadcast a two-hour WOAW program of old time fiddle music, brass band selections and hymns. Other amateur performers and church groups from Shenandoah also traveled to Omaha to appear before the WOAW microphone. Recognizing the value of Field's contribution to the Woodman of the World station, he was asked to provide a weekly two-hour program for the station. Each week, Field took a group of old time fiddlers and hymn singers to Omaha and continued to deliver talks on the station.

Many of the persons who traveled to Omaha with Field were his own employees at the seed and nursery company, such as the Cornfield Canaries and another singing group known as the Seed House girls. When Field saw the enthusiastic response his radio appearances received, he was convinced that radio could help him to further increase the profitability of his already prosperous business. He began operating station KFNF in Shenandoah on February 22, 1924.

Earl May had noticed radio's rapidly increasing popularity, generally, and that of Henry Field's program specifically. Not to be outdone by his business rival, May, enjoying special status as a member of the Woodmen of the World, also began to provide entertainers for station WOAW. May and his wife, Gertrude, broadcast a special Radio Camp of the Woodmen of the World, a broadcast of a lodge meeting augmented with additional vocal selections by his wife, Jennie Gottsch, Mrs. George Baker, Ruth Farnham, Harry Day and the Masonic Quartet. May, himself, delivered a short speech. In addition, the lodge meeting's program included a ukulele solo and the installation of May as the Consul Commander of the W.O.W. World Radio Camp.

In the spring of 1924, May's listeners sent 66,000 letter to WOAW praising his programs. Later in the fall of that year, the May Seed and Nursery Company built a studio in its Shenandoah office building, from which Earle produced a monthly radio program for WOAW. His first broadcast from the seed house featured announcer "GR." (Grady Fort, a high school principal), who introduced May's talk and the various singers and musicians appearing on the program. The following month his two-hour program included Henry Fields' sister, Helen Field Fisher and June Case. Lina Ferguson talked about flowers, May and E.S. Welch broadcast information about seeds and nursery products. E.A. Leacox discussed poultry.

May's programs were enthusiastically received by listeners. When he offered to send free iris bulbs to his first 10,000 listeners who requested them, he received 17,800 requests. At that time before there were program ratings, mail received was the only measure of a program or performer's popularity with listeners. Henry Ford and Theodore Roosevelt were among May's listeners who wrote him to praise his programs. This reception persuaded May to begin operation of his own station — KMA — from his seed house studio. Within a few months Field and KFNF was joined on the air by his business rival, Earl May, with his operation of KMA. Never before had two radio stations brought a small town so much attention and changed the lives of its citizens so much.

May, as Field had before him, saw radio as a means to increase his seed and nursery business sales. Henry Field had already recognized the power of radio to increase his sales. The year before KFNF went on the air, Field had yearly sales of $900,000. By 1927, his sales had reached two and a half million dollars, and he had expanded his business to include chickens, vegetables, fruits, clothing and even the canaries that sang on his Canaries Choir program. May followed Field's pattern and advertised his own products on KMA broadcasts by giving performers such names as the May Tire Orchestra, Mayfair Theater Orchestra, May Way Chicks and May's Mandolin Orchestra. Both Field and May were super salesmen, whose honesty, sincerity and integrity were irresistible. Their listeners bought almost everything they offered.

Both men had begun their stations during the "gold rush days of radio," but these showmen added an atmosphere of rural romance and glamor that ensured the survival of their stations. KMA's first broadcast during the week of September 1, 1925, presented 175 performers, including May's Mandolin Orchestra, Floyd and Jessie Young, the Shenandoah Municipal Band and dentist Dr. J.D. Bellamy with high school principal Grady Fort performing as the comedy team known as the "How-Do-You-Do Boys." One of KMA's most popular shows was the Country School program of music and comedy. Another, later in the 1950s, was the Everly Family program, from whom emerged the popular Everly Brothers singing act.

Both KMA and KFNF became popular national stations that could be heard in most states, for this was a time when the air was relatively uncluttered. In 1925, KFNF took second place in the Radio Digest poll as the most popular station. The following year, in an act of generosity, Field withdrew his station from competition and suggested his listeners should instead vote for KMA. This act helped May's station win the gold cup as the most popular American station in the 1926 Radio Digest contest by receiving 450,000 votes.

Both May and Field were successful merchants and broadcasters, but above all both were showmen. As promotion for his listeners, Henry Field began a huge celebration that he called a Jubilee in Shenandoah during February, 1926. Field's promise of free hot dogs and 36 straight hours of broadcast entertainment brought 10,000 out of town guests to Shenandoah to attend his gala party. Not to be outdone, May celebrated KMA's winning of the gold cup as the most popular station in the country by holding his own party in May, 1926.

As part of May's celebration, KMA was on the air continuously from Monday through Wednesday, November 1-3, 1926. For his 6,000 visiting guests, he served 53,000 flapjacks. Both Field and May had begun a practice that would attract visitors to Shenandoah yearly to eat hot dogs and flapjacks and be entertained. They soon pooled their efforts to organize and run these yearly Jubilees. KMA introduced such contests as nail driving, milking, pancake eating and egg throwing. KFNF sponsored contests for the best fiddler, harmonica player and accordionist. Like a state fair, the Jubilees also held competitions for the best fruits, vegetables, cakes and jam. Entertainers from both stations mingled with the Jubilee's crowd to talk with them.

Earl May and Henry Field were not the only colorful pioneer broadcasters in rural America. Down in Shreveport, Louisiana, W.K. "Old Man" Henderson, sometimes known as "Hello World" Henderson for the usual greeting he gave his listeners, owned and operated station KWKH. Henderson was an outspoken critic of Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover and the Federal Radio Commission's attempt to maintain order and avoid chaos in the 1927 radio scene [See also Henderson, W.K. "Old Man"].

When asked to share a frequency with KMA and KOIL (Cedar Rapids, IA), "Old Man" Henderson began blasting Herbert Hoover, the Radio Commission, KMA, KFNF and KOIL on his daily broadcasts. About the commissioners and the stations Henderson (Birkby, 1985, p. 40) said: "They don't know as much about radio as a pig does about Sunday! I'll wager that not over one or two of them ever operated a receiving set before they got to be members of the Commission so what can you expect from them?" Henderson then added: "Let those two seed houses up in Shenandoah divide time with each other. KMKH doesn't want to be on the air with either one of them. Our business is to give the public good, wholesome entertainment and not to sell horse collars, seeds and prunes. And everytime I think of KOIL, I get a pain in the neck." Neither Field, May nor Herbert Hoover, however, were much concerned about Henderson's tirades.

Since many KMA and KFNF listeners wanted to see radio performers at times other than at the Jubilees, Henry Field built a Spanish Mission design building with a large auditorium fitted with church pews for the audience at a cost of just under $40,000. May, of course, followed suit, but his plans were more grandiose. He had Omaha architects design his $100,000 theater with a Moorish design exterior that seated 900 people on the ground floor and 100 more in the balcony. Furthermore, May's theater contained a three ton glass sheet 24' in length that could be slid in place to create an acoustically sound-sealed radio studio.

Calling it the Mayfair Theater, May hired many professional entertainers, including exotic dancers, Gypsy musicians and various lecturers and entertainers from the Chautauqua circuit to appear there and broadcast on KMA. Both theaters were filled daily to see their station's broadcasts, bringing 100,000 people annually to Shenandoah. KMA and KFNF both prospered and their listeners enthusiastically purchased the products advertised by Field and May. Once when May was caught with a carload of prunes, his KMA "housekeeping broadcaster" Bernice Currier gave her listeners dozens and dozens of prune receipts so effectively, that her listeners bought the entire carload of prunes and asked for more. One of May's salesgirls, it is reported, sold one and a half tons of prunes, a few pounds at a time.

The Twenties also brought prosperity to rural and small town Iowa, but serious trouble was approaching. The Great Depression brought economic hardship to Shenandoah and its environs. Its people continued to listen, but there was little money available for them to buy many things. Once during a national bank holiday [closing] when his listeners were unable to withdraw their money, Earl May extended credit to farmers who desperately needed it to purchase seeds for seasonal planting. May told them he would send their seed to them immediately, if they would simply send in their checks. He said that he would hold them until the banks opened again. May later reported that 98 percent of the checks sent him were good.

Both KMA and KFNF survived the depression, providing live entertainment, news and valuable farm and homemaking information for their listeners during those dark economic years. Inspired and managed by the character and personality of Field and May, the respective stations continued to be characterized by their honesty, firmness, friendliness, sincerity, integrity and other rock solid values of small town life. Both stations continued broadcasting until 1977 when the KFNF call letters disappeared. In 1939, May sold 25percent of KMA to the Central Broadcasting Company, a subsidiary of the Palmer Broadcasting Company of Davenport, Iowa. KMA remains on the air today as an entertaining and informative survivor from American radio's earliest days.

There were many other pioneer broadcasting stations in Iowa. The 1925 Chamber of Commerce Radio Service Bulletin listed 15 licensed Iowa stations. By 1926 there were 20 licensed Iowa stations listed by the Radio Service Bulletin:

Broadcast historian Rick Plummer has compiled some comprehensive research data concerning Iowa's pioneer radio stations. His as yet unpublished research provided a basis for the brief account of stations WMT and WOC that follows.

Although there were 24 Iowa stations listed in 1928, there were only 16 by 1931. One of the pioneer survivors was WMT (Cedar Rapids, IA), a station that began as WJAM before becoming WMT in 1928. On the station's (WJAM) inaugural broadcast of July 30, 1922, the Manhattan Dance Orchestra played such musical selections as "Don't Bring Me Posies" and "Kitten on the Keys."

The Weatherwax Quartet was featured on the second day of operation and became one of the station's frequent performers. The Sunshine Six (orchestra) and the Montgomery Family Orchestra also appeared frequently. WJAM's first broadcasts consisted of amateur performers, many of whom were local music teachers and their students. By 1924, the station had two regularly scheduled programs. One was the Story Hour for children, broadcast Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday from 6:00-6:30 P.M. Every evening from 7:00 to 8:00 P.M. a musical program was presented. When WJAM was purchased in 1928 by the Waterloo (Iowa) Morning Tribune, the station became WMT. After several years of operation, WMT became part of a unique business transaction in 1944, when it was swapped even up for Washington, D.C., station WOI with no cash involved in the transaction.

One of WMT's most memorable features was its annual National Corn Picking Contest that began in 1949 under the direction of Chuck Worster, the station's director of Public Affairs and News. The first corn picking contest held in Marion, Iowa, drew an audience of 15,000. Its popularity was so great that entrants from eight different states participated.

Another pioneering Iowa station was WOC, Davenport, Iowa. WOC developed from the early experimental code transmissions of Robert Karlowa, owner of a music company in Rock Island, Illinois, in 1907. He had obtained a license for voice transmission in 1922 for WOC with a Rock Island, Illinois, location. A few months after the station had been licensed and operation begun, it was purchased by Dr. B.J. Palmer, President and owner of the Palmer School of Chiropractic, who moved it to Davenport, Iowa. Stanley Bartlett, who was to become WOC's first announcer, was instrumental in interesting Palmer in radio. In 1929, President B.J. Palmer, the Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Central Broadcasting Company took charge of both WOC and WHO when the company purchased the stations.

Station WOC began its inaugural broadcast week of October 8-14, 1922, with the stated objective that Davenport should have a station equal to that of any on the continent. Operating on 50 and 100 watts power, Palmer encouraged experimentation and innovation, and his WOC employees responded with some significant technical improvements. Since early microphones lacked sensitivity and were nondirectional, the WOC staff took an ordinary concave chopping bowl and positioned it so that it faced directly into the microphone. This had the effect of making the microphone more directional and at the same time capable of picking up low intensity sounds more efficiently. The second important WOC innovation was a mixing board that allowed two microphones to be used for a broadcast and mixed for desired transmission. The mixing board and the chopping bowl microphone techniques were adopted and used by many other broadcasters.

The programs and performers at WOC were usually interesting. Stanley W. Barnett was the station's chief announcer. Grace Huber was the first singer to appear on WOC, broadcasting from Dr. Palmer's residence located next door to the studio. She returned for many appearances. Famous stars of the period such as Rudy Vallee, Ruth St. Dennis and Little Jack Little also appeared without pay on the station early in its existence. A story is told about one Little Jack Little appearance that lasted from 8:00 P.M. to 6:00 A.M. the following morning, as he played and sang requests that were phoned or telegraphed to the station. Three Western Union telegraph operators stood by in the studios to take the 8,000 telegraphs his broadcast elicited.

Palmer had bought WOC from Robert Karlowa for $1,500 in 1922, but it was a long time before it returned him a profit. In 1953, Palmer said that he had spent $440,000 before he began to see a return on his investment. Advertising rates on the station in its early days were $150 an hour, while those of WEAJ (New York, NY) were $500; WEEI (Boston, MA), $250; and WCAE (Pittsburgh, PA), $200.

As early as 1922, WOC featured a well established broadcast schedule that included market and weather reports crucial for farmers, general news and entertainment. There was a regular children's program, the Sandman's Visit, from 6:40-7:00 P.M. At 7:00 P.M. there was a one or two hour music program. One interesting innovation was its early morning exercise program conducted by Pat Flanagan. An amusing story told by B.J. Palmer was that Flanagan often conducted his program sitting in a chair as he exclaimed, "One — two — three" for his exercising listeners. Another popular station announcer was Peter MacArthur, who initiated the WOC Barn Dance program. He stayed at WOC for 20 years, before moving on to WHO (Des Moines, IA) to initiate a similar program.

Station WOC used several different slogans. Beginning in 1922, it was "Out Where the West Begins." In an accompanying statement, the station identified itself as "A community minded station owned by the community for community service." Much later it identified itself as located "In the state where the tall corn grows." The latter may have been inspired by the station's annual tall corn contest. The station paid $1,000 yearly for the tallest stalk of corn exhibited at the Iowa State Fair. One year it awarded the prize for a corn stalk that was 37' 7 1/8".

The stations discussed briefly — WGN, WJR, KMA, WMT and WOC — have several things in common. All of them were Midwestern pioneer stations that survived the years and are still broadcasting today (1997). Moreover, each was dynamic and innovative both technically, programmatically and administratively. Most important of all, however, all were continuously responsive to their community's interests and needs. Each established and maintained high standards in all aspects of broadcasting. Finally, each station consistently demonstrated the best traditional values, and each is still going strong.

Few of the smaller pioneering stations survived the changes that faced them over the years. KGCX (Vida, MT) is a case in point. When the station first went on the air in 1926, Vida, Montana, had a population of only 60 persons. It was the smallest town in the country to have a licensed commercial station. KGCX was licensed to the First State Bank of Vida and ran on only 7.5 watts power. E.F. Krebsbach, the town banker, operated the station. The station broadcast until August, 1993 when it fell silent. In its final format it broadcast country-western music with 5,000 watts power.

24525 Steamboat Jamboree. "Captain" Lanny Ross hosted the transcribed variety show with an emphasis on good music. Tenor Ross was assisted by the Razz-Ma-Tazz Boys, who played lively Dixieland music; "Miss Mimi," who sang selections from Fleidermus; and "Hector," who performed virtuoso banjo solos. Also on hand were the River Boys vocal group, the "Homer and Bones" comedy team and the excellent Arthur Rand Concert Orchestra (30 min., Transcribed, 1940s). The music on the show was excellent, but, unfortunately, other than Ross few of the performers were identified by their own names.

24581 Stell, Bill, DJ (Mailbag, WSVS, Crewe, VA, 1947-1952; The Original Mailbag, WSVS, 1954; WJWS, South Hill, VA, 1955-1957).

Stella's major problems arose because of her class status that was lower than that of her son-in-law. In addition, there were many other obstacles that she faced in the many years the program was on the air. The program's opening clearly summarized the general plot line: "We give you now ... Stella Dallas ... a continuation on the air of the true-to-life story of mother love and sacrifice, in which Stella Dallas saw her own beloved daughter marry into wealth and society and, realizing the differences in their tastes and worlds, went out of Laurel's life."

The cast included: Albert Aley, Barbara Barton, Ed Begley, Julie Benell, Spencer Bentley, Raymond Branley, John Brewster, Warren Bryan, Helen Carew, Macdonald Carey, Helen Claire, Kenneth Daigneau, Peter Donald, Anne Elstner, Ethel Everett, Michael Fitzmaurice, Ara Gerald, Richard Gordon, Joy Hathaway, Mary Jane Higby, Jane Houston, Raymond Edward Johnson, Elaine Kent, Walter Kinsella, Mandel Kramer, George Lambert, Joan Lorring, Frank Lovejoy, Elizabeth Morgan, Henry M. Neeley, Paul Potter, William Quinn, Dorothy Sands, Nancy Sheridan, Bill Smith, Vivian Smolen, Hal Studer, Frederick Tozere, Tom Tully, Grace Valentine, Luis Van Rooten, Harold Vermilyea and Arthur Vinton. The show's producers were Frank and Anne Hummert. Richard Leibert was the organist. The program was directed by Richard Leonard, Ernest Ricca and Norman Sweetser. Frank and Anne Hummert and Helen Walpole were the writers. The announcers were Ford Bond, Howard Claney, Jack Costello, Frank Gallop, Roger Krupp and Jimmy Wallington (NBC, 1938-1955).

24583 Stelle, Rea. Contralto (WJZ, New York, NY, 1923).

24584 Stelling, Jack. Newscaster (WKZO, Kalamazoo, MI, 1946).

24585 Stelzer, LaMot. Baritone (KFSG, Los Angeles, CA, 1925).

24586 Stemmi, Ernie. Leader (Ernie Stemmi Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., NBC, 1936; WHAM, Rochester, NY, 1938; WBRE, Wilkes-Barre, PA, 1942).

24589 Stenstrom [Strenstrom], Julian. Sports caster (Sports Parade, WTRR, Sanford, FL, 1948–1949).

24590 Step on the Stairs. An unusual mystery serial, perhaps the first to be broadcast on radio. Another unique aspect of the program was that it was broadcast by many stations at different times with different casts. For example, one station might be broadcasting Chapter 5, while another was beginning with Chapter 1.

Radio Digest Illustrated (March 20, 1926, p. 3) listed the stations that were carrying the program:

WOC (Davenport, IA)
 WOAW (Omaha, NE)
 KGO (Oakland, CA)
 KOA (Denver, CO)
 WCCO (Minneapolis–St. Paul, MN)
 WGY (Schenectady, NY)
 WMAQ (Chicago, IL)
 WNAC (Boston, MA)
 WEAN (Providence, RI)
 WHO (Des Moines, IA)
 WRC (Washington, DC)
 WLW (Cincinnati, OH)
 WSB (Atlanta, GA)
 WOR (Newark, NJ)
 KGW (Portland, OR)
 KTHS (Hot Springs, AR)
 WBAP (Fort Worth, TX)

A Step on the Stairs was written by Robert J. Caser and conceived and written for radio by Fred Smith of WGY (Schenectady, NY). Different actors were in the cast at different stations. The WRC players, for example, were Maurice Joyce, John Davenport Long, Joan Farnam Peterson, William C. Sweets, Edward B. Husing and Martin Scranage. On WGY the cast included: Dorothy Vrooman, Marietta E. LaForte, Witter Cook, Frank Oliver and George Markham. The cast at WMAQ included: William Ziegler Nourse, Robert Graceland, David A. Watts, Viola Roth, Ben Adams, Florence Bayer, Gloria Chandler and William C. Boyden, Jr. The WHO cast included: Surenda Mitgra, Katherine Atkins, Myron Thompson, Wallace Van Oosten, Arliss J. McKim and Margaret Orbaugh. WOR in its cast presented Evelyn Lewis, Gertrude Kearney, Vinton Haworth and Mace Blynn.

One of the directors of this mystery serial was Helen Rose of WLW (Cincinnati, OH), who some claimed was the first woman to direct a radio play. Madge Tucker performed the function at WRC (Washington, DC). Other directors of the serial at their respective stations were Charles H. Walsh at WOC (Davenport, IA) and Bruce Conning at WOR (Newark, NJ). Others involved at other stations were Jean Sargent (WNAC, Boston, MA) and Bernice Berwin (KGO, Oakland, CA). The program's sponsor in 1926 was Radio Digest Illustrated.

NBC, 1944-1949; WNBC, New York, NY, 1946; Bill Stern's Sports News, WNBC, 1949; Spotlight on Sports, WNBC, 1950; college football play-by-play, ABC, 1955). Stern did not hesitate to embroider his stories of athletes and famous persons somehow related to sports. This was particularly true on his weekly Colgate Sports Newsreel of the Air program. He also frequently over-dramatized the sporting events he was broadcasting. David Brinkley (1995, p. 118) tells the story of Grantland Rice sitting in the press box watching a baseball game and listening to Bill Stern, who was sitting nearby broadcasting the game. Although the game was very exciting, Stern's broadcast of it was "frenzied with excitement." Rice said: "There were two entirely different games played here today — one on the field and another on NBC radio."

24625 Stern, David Pierce. Newscaster (WLB), Bowling Green, KY, 1941).

24626 Stern, Dick. Sports caster (WFOR), Hattiesburg, MS, 1942).

24627 Stern, Harold. Leader (Belleair Towers Orchestra, WJZ, New York, NY, 1924-1926; Stern's Broadway Strand Orchestra, WEA, New York, NY, 1927; Harold Stern Orchestra, broadcasting from the Hotel Almanac, WOR, Newark, NJ, 1927; WABC, New York, NY, 1929). Stern was equally busy in the following decade (Harold Stern Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., NBC, 1935; WOR, Newark, NJ, 1936; NBC, 1937).

24629 Stern, Minnie. Classical pianist (WGBS, New York, NY, 1925).

24634 Steve Allen Show. Allen hosted the variety show, a summer replacement for the Our Miss Brooks program. On the show sponsored by Colgate toothpaste, singer Ilene Woods and announcer Johnny Jacobs were cast regulars (30 min., Sunday, 6:30-7:00 P.M., CBS, 1950). Later, Allen hosted a transcribed sustaining show that featured singer Teresa Brewer and the Bobby Sherwood Trio. Weekly guests such as Renzo Cesana the Continental also appeared (The Steve Allen Show, 30 min., Monday through Friday, 9:30-10:00 P.M., CBS, 1952). In what was almost a prelude of his Tonight NBC television show, Allen still later conducted an hour-long variety show with new guests each week. One of his particularly entertaining shows included such guests as Louis Armstrong and Velma Middleton, Johnny Johnston, Johnny Mercer, Kay Armen and the Jerry Shard Trio. The announcer of the interesting sustaining show was Hal Simms (The Steve Allen Show, 60 min., Saturday, 9:30-10:30 P.M., CBS, 1952).

24637 Stevens, Bill. Sportscaster (WBBZ, Ponca City, OK, 1941).

24638 Stevens, Bob. DJ (Pushin' Sands, WVCG, Coral Gables, FL, 1952).

- 24743 Stokes, Richard. Newscaster (WGTC, Greenville, NC, 1943).
- 24744 Stokowski, Leopold (Antoni Stanislaw Boleslawowicz). Distinguished symphonic conductor Stokowski was a classical DJ on his Leopold Stokowski Show (30 min., Tuesday, 7:30-8:00 P.M., NBC, 1950). His announcer was Jack Costello. Stokowski came to the United States at the age of 23, after studying music in Berlin, London and Paris. Four years later he became conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra. After a three year tenure with that orchestra, he left to become conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony, frequently appearing on radio with that distinguished organization. Stokowski was the "matinee idol" of orchestral conductors, appearing in several popular motion pictures such as Fantasia and A Hundred Men and a Girl.
- 24745 Stolar, Philip. Sportscaster (WLAC, Nashville, TN, 1944).

- 24768 Stone, Virgil E. Sportscaster (KOCA, Kilgore, TX, 1944; KGKB, Tyler, TX, 1947-1948; KDMS, El Dorado, AR, 1955). Newscaster (KOCA, 1945).
- 24769 Stoner, Bob. Newscaster (WKOK, Sunbury, PA, 1938).
- 24770 Stookey, Charles. Stookey began his announcing career as a reporter of farm news on Chicago's WLS in 1926. Later that year, he moved to KMOX (St. Louis, MO), where he worked as both announcer and newscaster (KMOK, St. Louis, MO, late 1920s-1944).
- 24771 Stoopnagle and Budd. Colonel Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle (Frederick Chase Taylor) and his sidekick Budd (Wilbur "Budd" Hulick) were a popular comedy team during the 1930s. They teamed together from 1931 to 1937. Taylor did all the writing for the team, and it was his humor with its odd twists that listeners found hilarious. Taylor previously had performed on the Nip and Tuck radio comedy show on Buffalo's WMAK before teaming with Hulick, who was an announcer at that station. Fred Allen called Colonel Stoopnagle (Taylor) "the titan of trivia." Some examples of the Colonel's zany inventions were his upside down lighthouse for submarines and red, white and blue starch for people who want their flags stiff. In addition he said:
- A sponsor is a man without whom you aren't on the air.
- An announcer is a fellow with a nice voice who talks about stuff he hopes you will buy some of.
- A stooge is a man or woman who is given things to say and then thinks he or she is a comedian.
- Funny papers will be wired for sound so they can read themselves.
- The Capitol will be moved from Washington to Loggerheads because that's where the Senate and Congress usually are.
- After appearing on the Gloom Chasers show in 1931, the team appeared on their own Stoopnagle and Budd show the following year (CBS, 1932). They were also guests on many shows in the 1930s, until they dissolved the act and went their separate ways.
- 24772 Stop Me If You've Heard This One. The first show with this name was a panel show hosted by Milton Berle (30 min., Weekly, NBC, 1939-1940). The most famous version was the program broadcast by MBS in 1947. Host Roger Bower read jokes submitted by listeners. If any of the panel members — Morey Amsterdam, Harry Hershfield or Lew Lehr — knew the joke, they stopped Bower and finished the joke themselves. Any listener that stumped the panel won an extra cash prize, in addition to the five dollars they received for the use of their joke. The program was written by Ray Harvey and directed by Mitch Benson (30 min., MBS, 1947-1948). The program also enjoyed a brief run on television.
- 24773 Stop the Music. Bert Parks hosted the unique quiz program. As Harry Salter's Orchestra played a song a phone call would be placed to some unsuspecting American. If the call was answered, Parks would yell, "Stop the music." The person on the phone was asked the name of the song being played. If the person answered correctly, he or she was given the opportunity to compete for a large prize.

Kay Armen and Dick Brown sometimes sang the songs. Dick Hancock and Hal Simms were the announcers. Howard Connell was the writer and Mark Goodson the producer. The program was on the air from 1948 to 1952 (60 min., Weekly, ABC, 1948). The quiz was scheduled opposite the Fred Allen Show. The program so incensed Allen that he offered a prize to compensate any of his listeners who received a call from Stop the Music [See also Comedy and Humor].

Stop the Music returned to the air in 1954, when it was simulcast with a CBS-TV broadcast. The format was essentially the same as before, but this time the cast included Bill Cullen as host and singers Jack Haskell and Jill Corey. Ray Bloch's orchestra supplied the music. Whitehall Pharmaceutical Company sponsored the program. Hal Simms once again was the announcer (60 min., Tuesday, 8:30-9:30 P.M., CBS, 1954).

24775 Storck, Shelby. Newscaster (WDAF, Kansas City, MO, 1940-1941).

24776 Storemel, Ginny. COM-HIE (WMTT, Manistee, MI, 1957).

24777 Storey, Robert. DJ (Storey and Song, WKAL, Rome-Utica, NY, 1950).

24779 Stories for Children. Blanche Elizabeth Wade told children's stories (WFAF, New York, NY, 1924).

24781 Storm, Joe. Newscaster (NBC, 1944).

24782 Storm, Marjorie. COM-HIE (WPCF, Putnam, CT, 1957).

24783 Story, Dolores. DJ (1120 Club, KCLE, Cleburne, TX, 1952).

24784 Story, Ralph. DJ (KNX, Los Angeles, CA, 1954-1955).

24785 Story Behind the Claim. The unusual program sponsored by Provident Mutual Life Insurance Company dramatized the need for insurance policies (15 min., Tuesday, 9:30-9:45 P.M., NBC, 1934).

24786 Story Dramas by Olmstead (aka Stories by Olmstead). Nelson Olmstead's excellent vocal equipment and dramatic presentation made this a fine show. He read such interesting selections as Ambrose Bierce's "The Men and the Snake" and Nathaniel Hawthorne's "Rappaccini's Daughter" and portrayed all the characters as well (15 min., Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, 9:00-9:15 P.M. CST, WENR, Chicago, IL, 1940).

24787 Story Lady. Georgine Faulkner was the "Story Lady," who told stories on the early evening children's program (WMAQ, Chicago, IL, 1923).

24788 Story Man for Children. Paul Wing was the man who entertained the children on this program with his story about two youngsters who took an enchanted trip with him. After being transformed into a cat, Wing and the children took a sea voyage with Captain Better to the United States of Merriment, where one of the children became the king of Merry-Goland. This was a 26-program series (15 min., Monday, 5:45-6:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1933).

24789 Story of a Song. The music program purported to tell the story behind a song before it was performed by soprano Carolyn Urbanek and baritone Conrad Mayo (CBS, 1936).

24791 Story of Business. The Chicago Association of Commerce in cooperation with NBC produced the weekly round table discussion of business and economic affairs (30 min., Friday, 9:30-10:00 P.M., WENR, Chicago, IL, 1937).

24792 Story of James J. Braddock. When Braddock surprisingly became heavyweight boxing champion of the world by defeating Max Baer, the dramatized story of his life by Jack Kofoed and Stella Unger was broadcast. Braddock appeared in person on the show to talk about his fights. Tasty Yeast Candy sponsored the show. Unfortunately for Braddock, his championship was short-lived and, therefore, so was his program (15 min., Tuesday, 7:15-7:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1938).

24793 (The) Story of Ruby Valentine. The unusual daytime serial grew out of a program that had grown out of another show and featured an all Black cast. Ruby Valentine grew out of We Love and Learn which had grown out of As the Twig is Bent. Singer Juanita Hall starred in the program, playing the role of a woman with two careers. Previously, Hall had been a great singer. On the program she was the wealthy middle-aged owner of a Harlem beauty shop. The entertaining show directed by Kent Gehrlock, happily allowed Ms. Hall an opportunity to sing occasionally. Pet Milk and Philip Morris cigarettes were alternating sponsors of the program (15 min., Monday through Friday, CBS, 1955-1956).

The Story of Ruby Valentine was one of three programs that were part of the National Negro Network inaugurated on January 18, 1954 (New York Post, December 30, 1953). The other two programs were a daytime serial starring Hilda Sims and a weekly half-hour crime drama, It's a Mystery, Man hosted by Cab Calloway. Station WOV (New York, NY) was the New York City outlet. The network was a positive step in the development and advancement of Black Radio. See also Black Radio and We Love and Learn.

24794 (The) Story of Women's Names. Charles B. Driscoll conducted the informative program that also included music. On each program Driscoll gave the derivation of four or five women's names. Frigidaire was the program's sponsor (WENR, Chicago, IL, 1932).

24795 Story Teller. Godfrey Schmidt told classic stories for children, such as Oscar Wilde's "The Happy Prince" against an organ background on the sustaining program (15 min., Thursday, 6:30-6:45 P.M., WNBC, New York, NY, 1947).

24797 Story Time. Reader Norm Mitchie conducted the interesting program (WHA, Madison, WI, 1950s).

24798 Story to Order. Story to Order was an unusual sustaining children's program that asked listeners to send letters that included three unrelated subjects. Lydia Perera would then weave these three seemingly unrelated subjects into a interesting story and narrate them (15 min., Sunday, 9:15-9:30 A.M., 1949).

24799 Stout, Allen. Sportscaster (WKRC, Cincinnati, OH, 1938; WROL, Knoxville, TN, 1947-1950; Sports Parade, WROL, 1951; WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1955). Newscaster (WROL, 1945).

24800 Stout, Gene. Newscaster (WIBC, Glenside, PA, 1938).

24801 Stout, Jessie. Organist (Jessie Stout, instr. mus. prg., WCAU, Philadelphia, PA, 1934).

24802 Stout, Lillian. Soprano (WCDA, New York, NY, 1929).

24803 Stover, Jim. Sportscaster (WCVA, Culpepper, VA, 1960).

24804 Stover, Smokey. DJ (Sagebrush Roundup, KCHD, Caldwell, ID, 1954; KMOP, Tucson, AZ, 1960).

- 24806 Strack, Bob. DJ (Red River Roundup, KWKH, Shreveport, LA, 1954).
- 24807 Stradling, Mabel [Mabel Maxon]. Organist (WRVA, Richmond, VA, 1926).
- 24808 Stradtman, William. An instructor at the Cincinnati YMCA, Stradtman conducted a radio exercise program (WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1925–1926).
- 24809 Strafford, Jesse. Leader (Jesse Stafford's Jungle Symphony, popular five-piece novelty band, KPO, San Francisco, CA, 1929).
- 24810 Straight, Charles. Leader (Charles Straight Orchestra, WDAF, Kansas City, MO and the Charles Straight Rendezvous Cafe Orchestra, WLIB, Chicago, IL, 1926). The band included, among others: Straight, ldr.-p.; Gene Caffarelli, clr.; Randall Miller, th.; Bob Strong, m., clr., as., v., and o.; Frank Stoddard, clr.; and as.; Dale Skinner, clr. and ts.; Frank Sylvano, bj. and vcls.; Joe Gist, tha.; Don Morgan, d.; and occasionally vcls. by Hannah and Dorothea Williams.
- 24811 Straight Arrow. An unique western serial program (30 min., Don Lee Network, 1948–1949; Weekly, MBS, nationally, 1949; Twice Weekly, MBS, 1950–1951). Straight Arrow was unusual in that it portrayed an American Indian riding his golden palomino colt—Fury—out of the night to fight injustice and lawbreakers in the old West. The entertaining adventure program told the story of Straight Arrow, a Comanche super hero played by Howard Culver.
- Jack French, a scholar of old time radio and editor of Radio Recall, the publication of the Metro Washington Old Time Radio Club, has pointed out a major misconception perpetuated by some writers on the subject. French emphasizes that the program's hero was a Comanche Indian orphan raised by whites—not a white man. Hero Steve Adams only disguised himself as a white man. Adams owned the Broken Bow ranch, where he was assisted by his friend Packy McCloud, played by Fred Howard. Adams' ranch housekeeper was played by Gwen Delano (MBS, 1948–1950).
- An ingenious program tie-in was the series of cards on Indian lore, titled the Straight Arrow "Injun-Uity" Manual. The first series contained 36 illustrated and captioned cardboard inserts published in 1949 that were included in boxes of the sponsor's [Nabisco Shredded Wheat] cereal. Some topics covered were: making an Indian oven, camp fire, grill, papoose carriage, Indian foot bridge and bow and arrow. Other cards provided information on poisonous snake recognition, danger and help signals, tracking meat eating game, etc. The well done series of cards provided interesting information for the youngsters who collected them.

The Superman character came to radio in 1943 as a daytime juvenile serial. The mild-mannered Clark Kent, who was really Superman, was originally played by Clayton "Bud" Collyer, and it is his voice in that role that many faithful listeners best remember. Clark's co-worker, "girl reporter" Lois Lane was played by Joan Alexander during the program's run. The familiar program opening began with the announcer proclaiming:

ANNOUNCER: Kellogg's Pep, the super delicious cereal, presents The Adventures of Superman. Faster than a speeding bullet!

Sound of a bullet ricochet

ANNOUNCER: More powerful than a locomotive!

Sound of a speeding train

ANNOUNCER: Able to leap tall buildings at a single bound!

Sound of a gust of wind

ANNOUNCER: Look! Up in the sky!

MALE VOICE: It's a bird!

FEMALE VOICE: It's a plane!

LOUD MALE VOICE: It's Superman!

Few young listeners could listen to this opening without an anticipation of the thrills that were to come.

The program's cast included: Joan Alexander, Jackson Beck, Clayton "Bud" Collyer, Matt Crowley, Robert Dryden, Michael Fitzmaurice, Stacy Harris, Jackie Kelk, Frank Knight, Mandel Kramer, Ronald Liss, George Lowther, Gary Merrill, Julian Noa and George Petrie. - 25086 Sweeney, Warren. Announcer-newscaster (CBS, 1942–1944).
- 25087 Sweeney, William R. "Bill." Sportscaster (Bill Sweeney Sports, WNEB, Worcester, MA, 1948; WAAB, Worcester, MA, 1950; WARE, Ware, MA, 1954).
- 25088 Sweeney and March. Bob Sweeney and Hal March starred on the situation comedy about two small town characters who wanted to be radio comedians. Music was by the Lud Gluskin and the Wilbur Hatch orchestras. Bob Lemond was the announcer (30 min., Saturday, 10:30–11:00 P.M., CBS, 1947). The following year the Sweeney and March show had an expanded cast and a new announcer. Jane Morgan, Sammy Hill, Tommy Bernard and Howard McNear appeared in the cast, and Hy Averback was the announcer. The sponsor was General Foods (30 min., Friday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., CBS, 1948). Although the Sweeney and March team was funny, at times the yelling and screaming of the former became irritating.
- 25089 Sweeney Radio Orchestra. A commercial band, named for R.J. Sweeney, the owner and founder of station WHB, directed by Gilbert Jaffey (Kansas City, MO, 1925). The band was also sometimes known as Gilbert Jaffey's Music Masters (WHB, 1925).

25090 Sweet, Al. Leader (Al Sweet Orchestra, WLS, Chicago, IL, 1927).

25114 Swindle, J.L. Newscaster (KWOC, Poplar Bluff, MO, 1941–1942; KPON, Pampa, TX, 1945).

25116 Swineford, Jack. Newscaster (KOMA, Oklahoma City, OK, 1939).

25117 Swing, Raymond Gram. News analyst (World Events, MBS, 1937–1940; Herald-Tribune Forum and The Town Meeting of the Air, NBC, 1937; WOR, New York, NY, 1941; NBC-Blue Network, 1942–1944; WMAL, Washington, DC and ABC, 1945–1947). Swing had a long career as a newspaper man, serving as a foreign correspondent for the Chicago Daily News in Paris, Berlin and Munich. Early in his career, Swing became a friend of H.V. Kaltenborn. After he had done a few broadcasts for the BBC in 1932, Swing returned to the United States without a job. On the staff of The Nation magazine, he wrote articles warning Americans of the dangers of fascism and the menace of Huey Long, Father Coughlin, Senator Theodore Bilbo, Dr. Francis Townsend and William Randolph Hearst. Inexplicably, Swing was also convinced that much of the New Deal was fascist. He began his radio commentaries (15 min., Monday through Thursday, MBS, 1936) on Mutual in 1936 sponsored by the General Cigar Company, makers of White Owl cigars. In 1942 he moved to NBC.

In 1949, Swing gave up his weekly news show due to failing health. He returned to WOR and the Liberty (New England) Network during the Korean War (1950–1951) for a short period, before leaving to work at the Voice of America for two years. He left the Voice of America to work as a writer on Edward R. Murrow's personal staff.

25118 Swing to Chiclets. Baritone Bob Carroll, the Adrian Rollini Trio and a singer identified only as Miss Chiclets entertained on the pleasant music show. It's not surprising, therefore, that it was sponsored by Chiclets Chewing Gum (30 min., Thursday, 7:30–8:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1939).

25119 Swingle, Cy. Sportscaster (Football Final, KENT, Shreveport, LA, 1949; Sports Roundup, WPWA, Chester, PA, 1950).

25128 Sybert, Dick. DJ (KONP, Port Angeles, WA, 1956).

25129 Sycamore and Cypress. Bill Vickland played a plantation owner (Colonel Jim), whose "colored folks" came to sit on his front porch on Sunday to sing "spirituals and other Negro songs" and to "talk over things" (Stand By, June 19, 1935, p. 11). The Eureka Jubilee Singers led by Esther Gaskin performed the songs beautifully on the program. The singers of this group included soprano Ruth Powell; contralto Inez Edmundson; tenors Harrison Jones and Theodore Tate; baritone Oliver Childs; bass Nathaniel Hagan. Cast members who participated in the dramatic portions of the program were Theodore Tate, Esther Gaskin, Harrison Jones, Lillian Fowler, E. Ruth Powell, Inez Edmundson, Nathaniel Hagan and Oliver Childs (30 min., Sunday, 8:00–8:30 A.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1935). Vickland also appeared on station WLS's Little Bits from Life and a morning children's program, The Junior Broadcasting Club in 1936.

25130 Syers, Ed. Newscaster (KTBC, Austin, TX, 1945).

25192 Take It or Leave It. The long-running quiz show was most famous for its introduction of the $64 question, the top prize a contestant could reach by answering progressively more difficult questions. At any point on the way toward the top prize, the contestant could take his winnings and leave or stay to gamble on the next question. The writer of the show was Edith Oliver. The directors were Betty Mandeville and Harry Spears. The program was sponsored by Eversharp pens. The quizmaster during the years the show was on the air (1940-1952) changed several times. They included Bob Hawk, Phil Baker, Garry Moore, Jack Paar and Eddie Cantor (30 min., Sunday, 10:00-10:30, NBC, 1952). The announcers were Ken Roberts, Jay Stewart, Ken Nibs and David Ross. In 1950, the program's name was changed to The Sixty-Four Dollar Question, as though there was an awareness of the longevity that term would have. Incidentally, the phrases "Take it or leave it" and "The Sixty-Four Dollar question" both became part of the language. The program ran from 1940 to 1952 on CBS. See also Baker, Phil.

25238 Tangoland Serenaders Orchestra. Club band (WHN, New York, NY, 1923).

25240 Tankersley, Bill. Sportscaster (KWJB, Globe, AZ, 1944).

25242 Tannen, Ernest. News analyst (WSAP, Portsmouth, VA, 1945; Community Reporter, WGIAY, Silver Spring, MD, 1948).

25243 Tanner, Earle. Tenor-announcer Tanner was born August 4, 1900. He first sang on KYW (Chicago, IL, 1921). From 1928 to 1934, he was staff announcer and tenor for the station.

25244 Tanner, George. DJ (The Juke Box, WSWN, Belle Glade, FL, 1949; Daddy Good Time, KANB, Shreveport, LA, 1960).

25245 Tanner, James Gideon "Gid." Tanner headed one of the most popular CW string bands of the early 1920s. Gid Tanner, as he was known, was a chicken farmer and old-time fiddler from Dracula, Georgia. Along with George Riley Puckett, a blind guitarist and singer from Alpharetta, Georgia, Tanner became a popular radio performer (WSB, Atlanta, GA, 1923). During a recording session for Columbia Records in 1926, they were joined by two other popular performers from WSB—fiddler Clayton McMichen and banjoist Fate Norris. The new group called themselves Gid Tanner and Skillet Lickers and enjoyed almost immediate success on records and radio. They played and recorded old-fashioned CW music and contemporary tunes along with their comedy routines. Their success continued well into the mid-1930s. In place of and sometimes in addition to the original group, other famous country-western performers such as Hugh Cross, Lowe Stokes, K.D. Malone, Tom Dorsey, Dan Hornsby and Bert Layne sometimes performed with the Skillet Lickers group. All these performers, incidentally, came from North Georgia. One example of the comedy the group performed was their famous "Corn Licker Still in Georgia," a series of records that sold 113,000 singles.

There are some interesting facts about the group: Bert Layne, who was McMichen's brother-in-law, often played a comedy role as an old fogey. It was also said that sometimes record company employees would take part in the comedy skits that were being recorded by the Skillet Lickers. The Skillet Lickers appeared on many stations other than those in the south (KGY, Lacey, WA, 1928). Clayton McMichen eventually left Tanner to form his own groups. One of them was a sweet band—McMichen's Melody Men and another a lively band known as the Georgia Wildcats group.

25246 Tanner, Joe. Sports caster (Speaking of Sports, WLCR, Torrington, CT, 1954).

25247 Tanner, Ken. Sports caster (Sportslight, WHYE, Roanoke, VA, 1960).

25248 Tanner, Luke. Sports caster (KUOA, Siloam Springs, AR, 1940). Newscaster (KUOA, 1939–1941).

25249 Tap Dancing Instruction. The instruction program was said to be an aid to health and appearance: "Tap dancing provides the greatest of all means to reduce. It brings into play nearly all of our 600 body muscles." Sylvano Dale supplied the instruction by talking into the microphone as tap dancer Wilda Kimble demonstrated the steps (KGO, Oakland, CA, 1930).

25250 Taplan, Preston "Tap." Newscaster (WHCU, Ithaca, NY, 1946). DJ (Time for Taplin, WELM, Elmira, NY, 1950; T N T Show, WEBR, Buffalo, NY, 1952–1955).

25251 Tapler, Vince. DJ (Rhythm Matinee, WTJS, Jackson, TN, 1952). Sports caster (Sportscope, WTPR, Paris, TN, 1948; Sports Spotlight, WTJS, Jackson, TN, 1950–1954).

25252 Tapley, Donalene. COM-HE (WGUY, Bangor, ME, 1956).

25253 Tappan, Virginia. COM-HE "Miss Tappan" talked on various domestic science topics while sponsored by the Tappan Shoe Company (KPO, San Francisco, CA, 1925).

25254 Tarachnick, George. Newscaster (WXXW, Albany, NY, 1948).

25255 Tarasi, Fred. DJ (Sunset Serenade, WACB, Kittanning, PA, 1952).

25256 Tarelton, Sam. Sports caster (The World of Sports, KPLC, Lake Charles, LA, 1954).

25257 Tarkinson, Charles. Newscaster (WHDH, Boston, MA, 1944).

25258 Tarzan. The earliest radio appearance of Tarzan took place in 1932 on WOR (Newark, NJ). The syndicated series was inspired by Edgar Rice Burroughs' famous fictional creation. The first cast included James "Big Jim" Pierce in the title role with his wife, Joan Burroughs, the daughter of Edgar Rice Burroughs, as Jane. Pierce previously played Tarzan in the silent motion picture—Tarzan and the Golden Lion. Other cast members included Jeanette Nolan, Hanley Stafford and Cy Kendall. The first Tarzan show set a precedent in American radio, because it was the first series pre-recorded and distributed to stations across the country and abroad.

The first shows were produced and recorded by American Radio Features and sponsored by the Signal Oil Company among others (McWhorter, 1996). The opening included Tarzan's famous jungle call, followed by the announcer's words: "From the heart of the jungle comes a savage call of victory. This is Tarzan... the lord of the jungle." The show's second year had no "Jane," when Joan Burroughs Pierce left to have a baby. In 1934, Carlton KaDell played Tarzan. During the years that KaDell was in the title role, the two 39 episode stories that were broadcast were: Tarzan and the Diamond of Asher and The Fires of Tohr.

The 1933 statistics suggest the powerful appeal Tarzan had for listeners. Nine stations carrying the program that year received 310,748 requests for Tarzan premiums, enclosing 932,244 labels from the sponsor's product. From September 1932, to March 1933, Chicago station WBBM alone got 75,000 requests. Three weeks after Signal Oil announced the formation of a Tarzan club, they received applications from more than 12,000 boys just from California alone. By December 15, 1933, the club reached a membership of 125,000.

In 1951, a later Tarzan series produced by Commodore Productions and sponsored by General Foods was broadcast on CBS. Bud Lesser wrote and Walter White, Jr., produced and directed the entertaining adventure show. Charles Arlington was the narrator and Albert Glasser the musical director. Variety (March 26, 1952, p. 26) said that although attempts were made to keep Tarzan's identity a secret to spur interest, their efforts were ineffectual, for we now know that Lamont Johnson played the title role (30 min., Saturday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., CBS, 1952–1953). The latter series ran on most CBS stations from March, 1952, to June, 1953.

25260 Tasnadey [Tasnady], John. Sports caster (Sports Hilites and Pigskin Pinel, KERG, Eugene, OR, 1950–1951; Sports Final, KOOS, Coos Bay, OR, 1952–1954).

25261 Tastyeast Amateurs. Horace Fox directed the amateur show sponsored by the Tastyeast Candy Company. Between 16 and 20 amateur performers appeared on each program. Every amateur was paid a small sum. Little else is known about the program except that it replaced Gigantic Pictures, Inc., a show that featured Sam Hearn (30 min., Sunday, 12:00–12:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1935).

25262 Tastyeast Jesters. Pep (Dwight Latham), Vim (Wamp Carleson) and Vigor (Guy Bohman) were the Tastyeast Jesters, because the candy was said to give you "Pep, vim and vigor when eaten." The comedy singing group were great favorites of listeners for many years. Even after their Tastyeast Jesters program went off the air, the Jesters enjoyed a long and successful recording and radio career (15 min., Monday through Saturday, 6:30–7:00 P.M., NBC, 1931–1933).

25264 Tate, Art. Sports caster (WBSR, Pensacola, FL, 1948).

- 25323 Taylor, Marion Sayle. Inspirational speaker and psychologist Taylor was born August 16, 1889. Best known as "The Voice of Experience," Taylor made his radio debut in Seattle in 1924 discussing the psychological problems of children. Variety suggests he had one of the first audience participation question-and-answer programs in 1924, a format he later used successfully in the 1930s on his Voice of Experience program. In 1926, he began a rewarding enterprise by entering a time-purchasing agreement with a local radio station and talking about various problems of human relations. On the program he would advertise a local meeting that he would hold and then charge his audiences when they attended to hear his lectures on human relations. Taylor was well known for the "frankness" of his radio talks at a time when it existed on no other program. See also Voice of Experience.
- 25324 Taylor, Mary Lee. COM-HE (Mary Lee Taylor, a popular home economics talk program, 15 min., Thursday, 10:30–10:45 A.M., CBS, 1935–1936).

25352 Tea Leaves and Jade. Tea Leaves and Jade was a weekly dramatic show (15 min., Monday, 11:00–11:15 P.M., WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1935).

25353 Tea Time at Morrell's. John Morrell Meat Products Company sponsored the variety program hosted by Don McNeill. Singers Gale Page and Charles Sears performed regularly with the Joseph Gallicchio Orchestra (30 min., Thursday, 3:00–3:30 P.M., NBC, 1936).

25354 Tea Time Melodies. On the early DJ show, a young woman introduced and played tunes from "old" record albums (15 min., Wednesday, 4:30–4:45 P.M., WHB, Kansas City, MO, 1936).

25355 Tea Time Three. Organist Theodore Strong, pianist Marjorie Colletti and soprano Lucille Atherton Harger were members of the trio (KFRG, San Francisco, CA, 1928).

25356 Teabury [Teaberry] Male Quartet. The Teabury Quarter mixed a little classical music and popular songs of the day with comedy routines. Jim Hughes was the director and announcer on this music program that also featured a 12-piece symphonic orchestra (Weekly, KDKA, Pittsburgh, PA, 1926–1927).

25358 Teague, Bill. Sportscaster (Sports Highlights, KWKC, Abilene, TX, 1951).

25359 Teague, W.C. Newscaster (WMC, Memphis, TN, 1938–1943; 1945–1946).

25360 Tear, Sid. Sportscaster (WLOG, Logan, WV, 1940–1941). Newscaster (WBRW, Welch, WV, 1942).

25363 Teas, Frank. DJ (WKNE, Keene, NH, 1955).

25364 Teas, Walt. DJ (WFBR, Baltimore, MD, 1957).

25365 Teasley, Jesse E. Newscaster (WGPC, Albany, GA, 1941). Sportscaster (WGPC, 1941).

25366 Tebben, Dorothy. COM-HE (WHKP, Hendersonville, NC, 1956).

25367 Ted Drake, Guardian of the Big Top. On the sustaining summer replacement for Superman, the hero was a circus detective who found many adventures both on and off the midway. Vince Harding played the title role. Fred Rains was also in the cast. The announcer was Bob Lawrence (30 min., Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 5:00–5:30 P.M., MBS, 1949).

25368 Ted Mack's Family Hour. Mack, Major Bowes' successor, selected the best amateurs from his TV show that he thought would have radio appeal. He then put them on his sustaining radio broadcast. The resulting program was similar to the Major Bowes Capital Family and the Roxy's Gang programs of radio's earlier days (30 min., Sunday, 7:30–8:00 P.M., ABC, 1951).

25369 Ted Malone from England. (15 min., Monday, 10:15–10:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1945). Malone presented his usual up-beat commentary with an inspirational emphasis on World War II and post-war concerns.

25370 Ted Steele. Bathasweet sponsored Ted Steele, who supplied good music by playing "Nellie the Novacord," as he kept up an entertaining stream of chatter (15 min., Tuesday, 6:15–6:30 P.M., WFIL, Philadelphia, PA, 1940).

25371 Teddlie, Pete. Uke and piano soloist (KFYO, Breckenridge, TX, 1929).

25373 Teel, Icey. Dramatic reader (WOC, Davenport, IA, 1928).

25374 Teen Town. Dick York hosted the sustaining variety show targeted toward the lucrative teen market. Mary Hartline, who was later to become famous as the attractive, blonde drum majorette on early television's Super Circus program, led the studio band. Tony Forantina and Jackie Dvorak handled the vocals (ABC, 1946).

25375 Teena and Tim. Written by Peggy Beckmark, who with a male actor began the local show on WCCO, the program attracted the largest audience of any the station broadcast. Although only Beckmark played Teena, there were several Tim's. The program's plot involved a Mrs. Hutchinson, played by Florence Murphy, and the troubles she experienced with her Swedish maid (Teena) and her Irish handyman (Tim), who were always plotting some mischief (WCCO, Minneapolis, MN, late 1920s). See also Teena and Tim.

25376 Teentimers Club. Baritone Gordon MacRae hosted the variety program for young listeners. Music was by Johnny Long's orchestra. Tom Hudson was the announcer (30 min., Saturday, 11:00–11:30 A.M., NBC, 1947). At other times the program was hosted by singer Johnny Desmond.

At the end of its first season on radio, the show became a NBC television program (15 min., Monday through Friday, 7:00-7:15 P.M., CBS, 1954).

25411 Tennessee Jamboree. Originating from Nashville, the transcribed CW music show featured the country comedy of Lonzo and Oscar, the music of Stringbean, guitarist-singer Tommy Warren and guitar virtuoso Chet Atkins. One of the features of the show was Atkins' playing of "Dixie" and "Yankee Doodle" simultaneously on his guitar. The program's host was Ralph Christian (15 min., Transcribed, Various Stations, late 1940s and early 1950s).

25412 Tennessee Jed. A daytime juvenile adventure serial, Tennessee Jed told the story of sharpshooter Jed Sloan, deadly accurate with both rifle and pistol. The title role was first played by Johnny Thomas and, later, by Don MacLaughlin. Although Tennessee Jed Sloan began as a frontiersman following the Civil War, he eventually became a government agent who fought crime and lawlessness. The cast also included: Jim Boles, Humphrey Davis, Juano

Hernandez, Raymond Edward Johnson, John McGovern and George Petrie. The show's theme song was sung by Elton Britt. Paul deFur was the producer and Bill Hamilton the director. The program was written by Ashley Buck, Howard Carraway and Tom Taggart. Court Benson was the announcer-narrator (15 min., Monday through Friday, ABC, 1945-1947).

25413 Tennessee Ramblers. The group included Jack Pierce and the Grant Brothers, Claude and Jack, and great country singer Jimmie Rodgers (WWNC, Asheville, NC, 1926-1927). They later changed their name to the Jimmie Rodgers' Entertainers. Without the great country singer, the group continued to broadcast as the Tennessee Ramblers (CW mus. prg., WBT, Charlotte, NC, 1936). See also Rodgers, Jimmie.

25445 Terry, Roy. Pianist (WFAA, Dallas, TX, 1927).

25446 Terry and the Pirates. Milton Caniff's comic strip was the basis for the exciting juvenile adventure series. Young Terry Lee was assisted by his adult friend, Pat Ryan, to combat the often villainous Dragon Lady and other assorted criminal characters. Although they battled against Chinese pirates when the program began, they fought against the Axis forces in World War II and international criminals when the war ended. The cast included: Larry Alexander, Warner Anderson, Cameron Andrews, Charles Cantor, Cliff Carpenter, Frances Chaney, Clayton "Bud" Collyer, Ted de Corsia, Peter Donald, John Gibson, Bob Griffin, Owen Jordan, Jackie Kelk, Adelaide Klein, Mandel Kramer, John Moore, Agnes Moorehead, Cliff Norton, William Podmore, Gerta Rozan and Marion Sweet. Wylie Adams, Marty Andrews, Cyril Armbrister and Al Barker were the writers. The announcer was Charles Browning (NBC & ABC, 1937–1948).

25447 Terry Regan, Attorney-at-Law (aka Attorney at Law). Johnson's Wax sponsored the serial drama (15 min., Monday through Friday, 8:30–8:45 A.M., NBC-Blue, 1938). The story followed a young attorney and his secretary, played by Fran Carlon. The title role was originally played by Jim Ameche and, later, by Henry Hunter.

25448 Terwey, Tys. Newscaster (WNOX, Knoxville, TN, 1938–1943, 1945; WBIR, Knoxville, TN, 1946). Sportscaster (WNOX, 1938–1941; Sports Highlights, WBIR, 1948).

25450 Teutonico, Nicholas. Baritone (WAHG, New York, NY, 1926).

25451 Tex and Jinx. Tex McCrary and his wife, Jinx Falkenburg, conducted a morning husband-and-wife talk show heard only on New York radio for most of its existence. Their conversation was generally lively and informative. They also interviewed big name guests who happened to be in the New York area. The show appeared on NBC during 1947 and 1948. In a different format of Tex and Jinx, they also hosted an evening network variety show that was a summer replacement for Duffy's Tavern. They were assisted by Johnny Guarneri's orchestra and weekly guests such as Mary Martin and Billy Rose. The announcer was Danny Seymour. The show was sponsored by Bristol-Myers. (30 min., Wednesday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., NBC, 1947). See also The Tex and Jinx Show.

25452 (The) Tex and Jinx Show. Tex Antoine and Jinx Falkenburg talked about a variety of topics and interviewed famous guest stars. The program was written by Alan Stang and produced by Barry Farber (45 min., Monday through Friday, 2:15–3:00 P.M., WOR, New York, NY, 1958).

25453 Tex Fletcher's Barn Doin's. CW mus. prg. (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1936).

25454 Tex Ferguson and the Drifting Pioneers. The CW music group featured cowboy songs exclusively (WOKO, Albany, NY, 1952).

25455 Texaco Reporters. When Ed Wynn went to Hollywood to make a motion picture, this program replaced his. Tenor John Hale and the Don Voorhees Orchestra supplied the music. Ed East and Ralph Dumke (the Sisters of the Skillet) also were on hand. The announcer was Louis A. Witten. The program was sponsored by the Texas Company, makers of Texaco gasoline (30 min., Tuesday, 9:30–10:00 P.M., 1933).

25456 Texaco Rounders. The Arion Trio accompanied and assisted this harmony vocal team that was not otherwise identified (NBC-Pacific Network, 1928). See also the Arion Trio.

25457 Texaco Show (aka Texaco Star Theater). This early Texaco sponsored show starred Ed Wynn as "The Fire Chief," using funny costumes and sight gags in addition to his verbal jests. Wynn was joined on the show by Graham McNamee, who combined the roles of announcer, stooge and associate. Music was supplied by the Donald Voorhees orchestra. Louis A. Witten was the announcer (30 min., Tuesday P.M., NBC-Red Network, 1932).

25458 Texaco Star Theater. The program changed its format and stars several times over the years. In an early version the program featured: John Barrymore, Una Merkel, Kenny Baker, Jane Froman, Charlie Ruggles, Ned Sparks and announcer Jimmy Wallington. Guests who appeared in dramatic sketches were: Herbert Marshall, Andrea Leeds, Olivia de Havilland, Adolphe Menjou and Frances Dec (60 min., CBS, 1938). When the format changed the next year, the cast regulars included: Ken Murray, Frances Langford, Kenny Baker and Irene Ryan. The dramatic sketches included such guest performers as: Lillian Gish, Frederic March, John Boles, John Beale, Burgess Meredith, Charles Laughton, John Garfield, Gladys George, Margo and Chester Morris (60 min., CBS, 1939). The last version was intended solely to get laughs and it succeeded. Nat Hiken wrote and directed that show featuring Milton Berle, Arnold Stang, Pert Kelton, Johnny Gibson, Kay Armen, Al Kelly and Al Roth's Orchestra. Frank Gallop was the announcer (30 min., Wednesday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., ABC, 1948).

25459 Texaco Town. Eddie Cantor was the Mayor of Texaco Town. The show premiered September 20, 1936, and proved to be a good showcase for Cantor's comedic and singing skills. He was joined by fellow comic Parkyarkarkus (Harry Einstein), juvenile singers Bobby Breen and Deanna Durbin and the Jacques Renard Orchestra. Cantor's introduction of young talent, such as Breen and Durbin, was repeated on his later programs when he introduced Dinah Shore to a national audience (30 min., PM, CBS, 1936).

25460 Texas Bar Ranch Boys. CW mus. prg. (KARK, Little Rock, AR, 1939).

25461 (The) Texas Blackbird. CW singer, not otherwise identified (WRR, Dallas, TX, 1926).

25467 Texas Jack and His Lone Star Cowboys. CW mus. prg. (KUAO, Fayetteville, AR, 1933–1934).

25468 Texas Jim Robertson. A CW singing star, Robertson with his appealing baritone voice was a network favorite for many years on both NBC and ABC network programs (30 min., 12:00–12:30 P.M., ABC, 1949).

25469 Texas Lewis. CW vcl. mus. prg. (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1939).

25470 Texas Mary. CW vcl. mus. prg. (KFAB, Lincoln, NE, 1939).

25471 Texas Rangers. CW mus. prg. (CBS, 1939; WENR, Chicago, IL, 1942).

25472 Texas Tommy. CW singer not otherwise identified (WRR, Dallas, TX, 1926).

25473 Texas Troubadours. CW mus. prg. (WDBJ, Roanoke, VA, 1939).

25475 Thabes, Nordica. COM-HE (KLIZ, Brainerd, MN, 1956–1957).

25476 Thacker, Jim. Sports caster (WSON, Henderson, KY, 1948; Sports Tipoff, WSON, 1949–1950; WPLH, Huntington, WV, 1952–1955). DJ (Topical Tune Time, WSON, 1949).

25477 Thacker, R.W. Announcer (KFLU, San Benito, TX, 1926).

25478 Thackey, Jim Sports caster (Sports Summary, WSAZ, Huntington, WV, 1960).

25479 Thaden, Zona Gale. Staff pianist (WFLA, Clearwater, FL, 1928).

25480 Thain, Jim. DJ (Hall Radio Roundup, KWNW, Wenatchee, WA, 1949).

25481 Thall, Bernhard. Leader (Bernhardt Thall Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WCAO, Baltimore, MD, 1936).

25483 Thames, Baxley. Sports caster (Sports Roundup, KAPK, Minden, LA, 1954).

25484 Thames, Dorothy H. COM-HE (WHAN, Charleston, SC, 1956).

25485 Thanks for Tomorrow. Roy Bailey wrote the story of a young, blind girl, who wanted to become a concert pianist. She fell in love with a World War II veteran who hid from the world because his face was scarred. Mary Jane Higbe and Peter Capell played the leads in the daytime dramatic serial sponsored by Procter & Gamble. Other members of the cast were: Vera Allen, Peter Capell, Edwin Jerome, Edgar Sehli and Charles Webster. Paul Taubman was the pianist who was heard when the young girl supposedly played. Variety, with tongue firmly inserted in cheek, noted that the show introduced a revolutionary change in soap operas: the familiar organ was replaced by a piano. Paul Roberts was the director and Ed Herlihy the announcer (15 min., Monday through Friday, 10:45–11:00 A.M., NBC, 1949).

25487 Tharp, Bob. Sports caster (Sports Parade, KVIC, Victoria, TX, 1948).

25488 That Brewster Boy. Quaker Oats sponsored the situation comedy that was first broadcast on September 13, 1941. The writers were Pauline Hopkins and Louis Scofield and the director was Owen Vinson. Eddie Firestone, Jr., originated the title role. He was followed by Arnold Stang and Dick York. The usual adolescent problems of Joey Brewster made the program somewhat reminiscent of the earlier Henry Aldrich show. Other cast members at various times included: Hugh Studebaker, Connie Crowder, Louise Fitch, Patricia Dunlap and Bob Bailey. The announcer was Marvin Miller (30 min., Monday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., NBC, 1941).

25489 That Hammer Guy. Larry Haines originated the role of Mike Hammer. Later Ted de Corsia played the popular fictional creation of Mickey Spillane. Rough and tough Hammer always provided listeners with exciting adventures. Ed Adamson wrote and Richard Lewis produced and directed the show sponsored by Chesterfield Cigarettes (30 min., 8:00–8:30 P.M., MBS, 1953).

25490 That Was the Year. The 15-minute transcribed program presented events that occurred in a certain year. Some obscure and tragic events were mixed with historically significant ones. The events dramatized were always presented with exceptionally good production values. For the year 1914, for example, the events dramatized were those of a notorious murder by the wife of a French cabinet minister; the exploits of Mexican rebel Pancho Villa; the assassination of Arch Duke Franz Ferdinand that led to World War I; and the writing of The Only Girl operetta by Victor Herbert. The program's cast, singers and orchestra were unidentified (15 min., Weekly, Transcribed, Various Stations, mid-1930s).

25491 Thatcher, (Mrs.) Daniel. Singer (KFXX, Colorado Springs, CO, 1926).

25492 Thatcher, Tommy. Leader (Tommy Thatcher's Drake Hotel Orchestra, WLIB, Chicago, IL, 1926).

25493 Thatcher Colt Mysteries. Hanley Stafford, later famous as Daddy who suffered at the hands of Fanny Brice's Baby Snooks character, played the title role on the adventure show. First broadcast in 1936, the adventures of the show's fictional police commissioner also appeared in short stories, syndicated newspapers serials, novels and movies (30 min., Sunday, 1:30–2:00 P.M. CST, NBC-Red, 1936).

25494 That's Rich. Stan Freeberg played an innocent who overstayed his welcome while visiting some of his cousins on the situation comedy. Although he worked at a paper products company, his major life interest was bird-watching. There was some wacky humor on the transcribed show supplied by Freeberg. In addition to Freeberg, the cast included: Patee Chapman, Les Tremayne, Patricia Dunlap, Bridget McColland, Bob Jellison, Tony Kay, Will Wright, Martha Wentworth, Peter Leeds and Daws Butler. The program was written by Frank and Doris Hursley. The producer and director was Homer Canfield. The announcer was Roy Rowan (30 min., Friday, 9:30–10:00 P.M., CBS, 1954).

25495 Thavis, Edward. Newscaster (WGHI, Newport News, VA, 1947).

25497 Thayer, Mark. Sports caster (Sports Roundup, KLOK, San Jose, CA, 1960).

25498 Thea, Freddy. Eleven-year-old violinist (KFSG, Los Angeles, CA, 1926).

25499 Theater Column. Harriet Menken, a newspaper woman from the Newark Evening World, broadcast the weekly program of theater news and gossip (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1931).

25500 Theater Magazine. The program presented various stars of vaudeville and radio including singers Vivienne Segal, Sophie Tucker and Jules Bledsoe; harmonica virtuoso Borrah Minevitch; and actress Mary Boland. Gene Buck was the producer (WGBS, Astoria, Long Island, NY, 1928).

25501 Theater of Famous Radio Players. Ralph Rose and John Rich wrote the transcribed dramatic program that presented a complete story each week. Les Mitchell was the show's director, producer and narrator. Regular cast members were: Lurene Tuttle, Lou Merrill, Bruce Elliott and Cathy and Forrest Lewis. Del Castillo was the program's musical director and Harry Ward the announcer (30 min., Transcribed, Various Stations, 1940–1950).

25502 Theatre Arts Club Players. Dramatic presentations were broadcast by the group directed by Talma Zetta Wilbur (KFRC, San Francisco, CA, 1925).

25503 Theaux, Ray. COM-HE (KVOL, Lafayette, LA, 1956).

25505 Thedford, Wayne. Newscaster (KTOK, Oklahoma City, OK, 1941).

25508 Then and Now. Sears, Roebuck Company sponsored the show that dramatized famous fictional works. The premiere show was September 17, 1936, when Robert Montgomery, Constance Bennett, Fred W. Stone, Paula Stone and Walter Hamden were presented in a radio dramatization of Gone with the Wind (30 min., Network, 1936).

25509 Theremin Ether Wave Music. The weekly program of theremin music attracted an small audience (15 min., Saturday, 7:00–7:15 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1929). Invented by Leo Theremin, the theremin was an electronic instrument whose pitch and volume were "space controlled" by the movement of its players' hands between the instrument's oscillators.

25510 There's Music in the Air. In October, 1952, the sustaining program began as Autumn in New York. It became There's Music in the Air on January, 1953. Fine musical performances were provided by Donald Richards, Frances Greer, Clark Dennis and Nancy Evans accompanied by Alfredo Antonini's orchestra (60 min., Friday, 9:00–10:00 P.M., CBS, 1953). See also Autumn in New York.

25517 Thifle, Duke. DJ (Duke Till Dawn, WNOE, New Orleans, LA, 1952).

25518 Thilenius, Ed. Sportscaster (WREB, Athens, GA, 1952–1953; Sportscap, WREB, 1954–1960).

25519 Things to Tell the Housewife About Cooking Meat. An unidentified performer told women the information they needed when preparing meat (WJZ, New York, NY, 1923).

25520 Third Infantry Band. Military band conducted by Carl Dillon (WCCO, Minneapolis–St. Paul, MN, 1928). The following year the band was directed by Captain F.M. Dyer (KSTP, St. Paul–Minneapolis, MN, 1929).

25521 Third Matinee Musical. The quality music program sometimes featured special broadcasts such as an all Beethoven program (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1925).

25522 Thirteenth Coast Artillery Band. Military band (WCOA, Pensacola, FL, 1926).

25523 30th U.S. Infantry Band. Military band directed by Warrant Officer Meyer M. Cohen (KPO, San Francisco, CA, 1925). Later, the band was directed by Ray E. Campbell (KYA, San Francisco, CA, 1927).

25524 Thirty Minutes Behind the Walls. Begun March 23, 1938 and broadcast from the Texas State Penitentiary, the program presented singing and music produced by both male and female prison inmates. On the first broadcast, Harold V. Hough ("The Hired Hand"), WBAP's general manager said the program's concept was originated by George Cranston. The entire cost of the program during its time on the air was underwritten by Amon G. Carter, publisher of the Fort Worth Star Telegram and president of WBAP. Carter always was interested in the rehabilitation of the "Boys and Girls in white," as he called the prison's inmates. A popular program with listeners, Thirty Minutes Behind the Walls continued into the 1940s (30 min., Weekly, WBAP, Fort Worth, TX).

The first broadcast began this way: "We take you 194 miles to the grounds of the Texas State Prison at Huntsville." After the "Twilight and You" theme was played, the announcer continued, "Good evening, ladies and gentlemen. We're speaking to you from the auditorium within the walls of the Texas State Prison's main unit at Huntsville." The first broadcast included a Negro choir, a harmonica player and a guitar duo. Later, the program presented a new prisoner describing his impressions of prison life; a talk by a member of a notorious gang; and a Death Row resident spoke of his feelings.

Many performers used their own names on the program. These included tenor Paul "Red" Ward; 18-year-old tenor Oscar Watts; baritone Harry Price; and members of the Prison Quartet (R.M. Roberts, W.H. Perkins, Paul Ward, and L.C. Conn). The quartet was accompanied by Ben Miller. One singer who did not use his own name was the talented "Mysterious Baritone."

Among the musical groups who appeared were: the Blue Ridge Mexican Swingsters, a group that specialized in Mexican and Cuban tango and rumba numbers, but also performed hillbilly and popular tunes; the Serenaders Dance Band that included drummer Jack Byrns and pianist Danny Allen; and the Rhythmic Stringsters who played everything from "hoe down numbers to semi-classics." The Rhythmic Swingsters, led by guitarist Herman Brown, included bassist Jimmie Rush, violinist David Stone, guitarist Bobby Hyde, violinist Dee Puckett, and guitarist-vocalist Ray Wallace. The program also featured a "military" brass band led by Jack Purvis.

S.E. Barnett, the head of the prison's printing department — not a prisoner — was in charge of the program. J.W. Rowell, the editor of the prison's monthly publication, wrote the program. After being broadcast for a year, the program's length was extended to 60 minutes. A.M. Woodward was the program's production manager and engineer with Nelson Olmstead the announcer in its new format (30 min., Wednesday, WBAP, Fort Worth, TX, 1939).

25525 Thirty Minutes in Hollywood. George Jessel, Norma Talmadge and Tommy Tucker's orchestra were featured on the variety show (30 min., Sunday, 6:00–6:30 P.M., MBS, 1938).

25526 Thirty Minutes of Sunshine. Charles W. Hamp commuted weekly by plane from San Francisco to Los Angeles to conduct the variety program of songs and comedy (KNX, Los Angeles, CA, 1928).

25527 This Friendly Earth. Philosopher-conversationalist Professor T.V. Smith of the University of Chicago conducted the informative and inspirational weekly program (15 min., Sunday, 7:30–7:45 p.m. CST, WLS, Chicago, IL, 1935).

25528 This Day Is Ours. The cast of the daytime serial included: Joan Banks, Leslie Bingham, Alan Devitt, Patricia Dunlap, Templeton Fox, House Jameson, Jay Jostyn, Frank Lovejoy, Agnes Moorehead, Julian Noa and Effie Palmer. Chick Vincent was the director, Don Becker and Carl Bixby the writers and Me! Allen the announcer. The story featured Eleanor MacDonald, who along with her missionary friends, worked to help unfortunate people in China during World War II. This was another of the many daytime serials produced by Frank and Anne Hummert. (NBC-Blue Network and CBS, 1938–1940).

25529 This Is Arthur. Formerly known as For Women Only, the program was conducted by the station's Women's Editor, Arthur Murrell Wright took over the women's program when the name changed. Wright formerly had been a DJ at the station (WHAM, Rochester, NY, 1947).

25530 This Is Bing Crosby. Bing combined DJ chores, often interviewed guests and engaged in pleasant talk with announcer Ken Carpenter on the interesting transcribed program sponsored by Minute Maid Orange Juice (15 min., CBS, 1948). See also Bing Crosby.

25532 This Is Jazz. Begun as a one-shot jazz show, the program attracted so much listener interest and mail, it became a series in 1947. Jazz authority Rudi Blesch appeared on the show, as did such good jazz musicians as Muggsy Spanier, Alfred "Baby" Dodds, George Brunies, Danny Barker, Lucky Roberts and Cyrus St. Clair. The performers on the sustaining music show were virtually a who's who of jazz history (30 min., Saturday, 1:30-3:00 P.M., WOR, New York, NY, 1947).

25533 This Is London. A series of news reports by Edward R. Murrow and other CBS news "stars" such as Robert Trout, Eric Sevareid, Howard K. Smith, Larry Lesueur, Elmer Davis, Edwin C. Hill, Knox Manning and Charles Collingwood broadcast early in the World War II era. This, in effect, was the beginning of Murrow's building of what was to become the great CBS News organization that lasted well into the television years.

25534 This Is My Best. Such stories as The Heart of Darkness and Snow White were presented on the series of radio dramatizations. Orson Welles appeared in many of these productions. Other guest appearances were made by John McIntire, Jane Powell, Bill Day, Joe Kearns, Jeanette Nolan, Sheila Ryan, Ray Collins, Hans Conreid, Joan Lorrington, Ann Sothorn and Frances X. Bushman (30 min., P.M., 1945).

25535 This Is Nora Drake. Julian Funt and Milton Lewis wrote and Charles Irving produced the daytime serial that told the story of Nora Drake, a nurse in a large metropolitan hospital. Nora was jilted by a weak, young doctor, who then planned to marry the daughter of a wealthy hospital trustee. Many other complicated plot twists provided numerous problems and caused many tears for Nora. The cast included: Joan Alexander, Ralph Bell, Lester Damon, Roger DeKoven, Elspeth Eric, Alan Hewitt, Mary Jane Higby, Charlotte Holland, Irene Hubbard, Leon Janney, Joan Lorrington, Charlotte Manson, Mercedes McCambridge, Doug Parkhirst, Robert Readick, Grant Richards, Arnold Robertson, Everett Sloane, Joan Tompkins and Lesley Woods. Dee Engelbach, Arthur Hanna and Charles Irving were the directors. The program was written by Milton Lewis. Bill Cullen and Ken Roberts were the announcers. Organ interludes were performed by Charles Paul. The program was sponsored by Toni Home Permanent Hair Wave (15 min., Monday through Friday, 11:00-11:15 A.M., NBC, 1947).

25536 This Is Paris. Recorded in Paris, the entertaining transcribed program at one time or another featured all the great French show business stars. Maurice Chevalier was one of the first performers presented (30 min., Thursday, 10:00-10:30 P.M., WOR, New York, 1949).

25537 This Is the Story. Ed Prentiss narrated warm, human interest stories on the transcribed show. Prentiss was assisted by Ray Suber. Organ interludes were supplied by Evelyn Owen (15 min., Transcribed, Various stations, 1947).

25538 This Is the Story. Popular romantic novels were read on the daily program. Each novel was begun and completed in one week (15 min., Monday through Friday, 11:00-11:15 A.M., MBS, 1954).

25539 This Is Your Life. When the program began in 1948, ordinary people were its subjects. Ralph Edwards honored them by bringing in the important people in their life to appear on the program. Later, the focus was placed on prominent personages from all walks of life. After two years, the program moved to television, where it enjoyed great popularity. The show was written by Jerry Devine and directed by Axel Gruenberg (30 min., NBC, 1948-1950).

25540 This Is Your World. This transcribed series of sustaining programs consisted of travel recordings made by Mr. and Mrs. William Winter on their world tour (15 min., Monday through Friday, 4:30-4:45 P.M., WMCA, New York, NY, 1947).

25580 Thomas, Johnny. DJ (Platter Party, WMFD, Wilmington, NC, 1952).

25581 Thomas, Lowell. A distinguished radio newscaster, Thomas made his first radio appearance on KDKA (Pittsburgh, PA, March 21, 1925), when he discussed "Man's First Flight Around the World." Thomas had flown the last leg of the flight from the East to West coast with the Army flyers who had performed this pioneering feat. He spoke informatively for an hour about the flight.

Not long afterward, he began his long career as a newscaster that continued uninterrupted for many years on radio (Lowell Thomas Program aka The Day's News, NBC, 1935–1948; CBS 1948–1976). Thomas' historic last broadcast on May 14, 1976, marked the end of his long and distinguished radio career. He had been on the air regularly since his first appearance as a replacement for Floyd Gibbons.

Thomas was known for his precise articulation and warm resonant voice. He was an objective narrator of the news, rather than a commentator. Thomas wrote his newscasts with the assistance of Prosper Buranelli and Louis Sherwin. Later, he was assisted by Abe Schecter.

A versatile professional, Thomas had previously worked as a miner, cook, janitor, explorer, cowboy, professor and editor. He narrated Fox Movietone newsreels for 17 years, providing a voice for some 80 million theater-goers weekly. He continued working in radio until 1976, when he retired at the age of 84. He is best remembered for the characteristic openings ("Good evening, everybody") and closings of his broadcasts ("So long until tomorrow").

25582 Thomas, Lloyd C. Newscaster (KGFV, Kearney, NE, 1941, 1945). DJ (Yawn Patrol, KHAS, Hastings, NE, 1950; Morning Melodies, WHAN, Charleston, SC, 1954).

25620 Thompson, Chuck. Thompson began his broadcasting career while in high school at WRAW (Reading, PA), broadcasting college games of Albright College and Carnegie Tech. In 1941, he became staff announcer at WIBG (Philadelphia, PA), where he broadcast Temple University football and many other sports events.

After Army service in World War II, Thompson began broadcasting the major league baseball games of the Philadelphia Phillies and Athletics with Byron Saam and Claude Hering (WBIG, Philadelphia, PA, 1940s). Sportscaster Thompson did the hockey play-by-play for the Philadelphia Rockets and the professional basketball games of the Philadelphia Warriors and in addition his own sports' show (Chuck Thompson, Sports, 10 min., Daily, 5:30–5:40 P.M. and Monday and Friday, 10:05–10:15 P.M., WIBG, Philadelphia, PA, 1949).

It was later in his career in Baltimore that he achieved his greatest prominence broadcasting play-by-play of both the baseball Orioles and the professional football Colts (WITB, Baltimore, MD, 1951). For many years on both radio and TV, Thompson was the voice of Baltimore's beloved professional baseball and football teams. Late in his career, Thompson worked as a DJ (The Chuck Thompson Show, WITB, Baltimore, MD, 1952; NBC, 1960).

25621 Thompson, Clay. Newscaster (KFYO, Lubbock, TX, 1946). Sportscaster (Sports of the Day, KSWA, Graham, TX, 1950).

Thompson's radio career began in 1936 on NBC, the same year she gained national prominence as a columnist. This was immediately after she was expelled from Nazi Germany because of her news dispatches.

She began her radio show on NBC, first, under the sponsorship of Pall Mall cigarettes and, later, by General Electric. Her later programs were carried by MBS. Thompson always held strong anti-Nazi feelings and her 1939 broadcasts were often controversial because of them. In 1942, she broadcast in German a Dear Hans program beamed to Germany by short-wave, on which she told of Nazi atrocities and how Allied victory was inevitable. Her broadcast career ended early in 1945.

25627 Thompson, Doug. Sportscaster (Sports Scope, WADE, Wadesboro, NC, 1960).

25789 Today at the Duncans. California Fruit Growers Exchange sponsored the short-lived comedy drama about a screwball family. The nutty bunch included a newspaper reporter, his adoring wife and their ten-year-old son, Dinky. None of the performers were identified (15 min., Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 6:15–6:30 P.M., CBS, 1942).

25790 Today's Best Story. Jointly sponsored by Station WJR and the Detroit Times, each week a reporter would interview someone involved in an important news story (WJR, Detroit, MI, 1929).

25791 Today's Business. Henry Gladstone broadcast business news (15 min., Monday through Friday, WOR, New York, NY, 1952).

25792 Today's Children. Irna Phillips and Walter Wicker wrote the daytime serial drama. It was an outgrowth of Miss Phillips' serial drama, Painted Dreams, which she had written for WGN (Chicago, IL). When she had a disagreement with that station's management, she moved on to NBC and created Today's Children, whose story was similar to the one she had written for WGN. The main character of Today's Children when it began was Mother Moran, a character said to have been modeled by Irna Phillips on her own mother. Mother Moran and the program was described in this way:

The widowed mother of Terry, Frances and Eileen — a typical American family of today. So big is her heart that its loving kindness has taken in all the others — the people she calls her "family of Today's Children." Her quiet old-fashioned philosophy has brought peace and understanding to all the members of her family in times of trouble, for hers is a philosophy as sound and as enduring as the eternal hills — love of family, love of home and love of fellow man.

The program's events took place in Mother Moran's boarding house where the major characters of the program resided. Mother Moran had a married son and two daughters facing life in a large city. Her advice to them was: "When you are painting your dreams, be careful of the colors you're going to be using, because sometimes you make a mistake and the colors that you think are going to look good, don't look so good in the finished picture. There are only three colors that have stood the test of all the men and women in the world — the colors of love, family and home." Mother Moran also frequently repeated her receipt for happiness: "A cake to bake and a floor to sweep and a tired babe to sing to sleep. What does a woman want but these — a home, a child and a man to please." The program's announcer, Louis Roen, typically concluded the program by stating:

Today's Children is brought to you every morning except Saturday and Sunday through the courtesy of the Pillsbury Flour Mills Company and is made possible by the loyal patronage of millions of American housewives. Whenever the name "Pillsbury's" is used, it stands for the very highest quality in food products. Each of the members of Pillsbury's family of foods has the same outstanding quality which has made Pillsbury's Best — the balanced flour — the leading family flour of America for more than sixty years.

Pillsbury's Sno-Sheen Cake Flour makes lighter, fluffier, more delicate cakes at less cost. Pillsbury's Pancake Flour makes tempting, luscious, golden brown pancakes by merely adding milk or water. Pillsbury's Wheat Bran — the 100percent natural bran — is perfect for baking and makes unusually delicious muffins. Pillsbury's Farina — rich, creamy white hearts of the choicest wheat — is an ideal breakfast cereal. To bring you the best in food products — as well as the best in radio programs — will always be our aim.

When Ms. Phillips' mother died in 1938, the program went off the air. When it returned in 1943, the story line had changed.

The program's new plot centered on the story of Mama and Papa Schultz, played by Virginia Payne and Murray Forbes. Over the years it was on the air the cast included: Edith Adams, Bob Bailey, Jeanne Bates, Herb Butterfield, Harriet Cain, Fran Carlon, Marjorie Davies, Patricia Dunlap, Jack Edwards, Jr., Willard Farnum, Laurette Fillbrandt, Murray Forbes, Joe Forte, Margaret Fuller, Betty Lou Gerson, Jo Gilbert, Lucy Gilman, Robert Griffin, Clarence Hartzell, Wilms Herbert, Milton Herman, Raymond Edward Johnson, Bess Johnson, Helen Kane, Lois Kennison, Rupert LaBelle, Forrest Lewis, Sunda Love, Judith Lowry, Jean McGregor, Marvin Miller, Betty Moran, Gene Morgan, Robert O'Malley, Ethel Owen, Frank Pacelli, Gale Page, Virginia Page, Irna Phillips, Ed Prentiss, Edwin Rand, Michael Romano, Nanette Sargent, Olan Soule, Fred Von Ammon, Willard Waterman, Donald Weeks, Walter Wicker, Irene Wicker, Parker Wilson and Seymour Young. 25809 Tom and His Mule Hercules. Tom Breneman was the host and star performer on the program of comedy skits. Breneman later became famous for his Breakfast in Hollywood program (KFWB, Los Angeles, 1929-1930). See also Breakfast in Hollywood and Tom and Wash.

25810 Tom and Jerry. Singing team of Bob Lee and Ethel Warner (WHB, Chicago, IL, 1928).

25811 Tom and Joe's Minstrel Show. Comedy and music in a "minstrel show" format was the pattern of the program. Tom Mooney (Tom) told jokes and employed fast patter and Joe Combs, an old-time minstrel show tenor, supplied the music on the Saturday night program (WSM, Nashville, TN, 1930).

25812 Tom and Wash. Another early Tom Breneman blackface dialect radio program by the man who later developed the Breakfast in Hollywood program. The noonday sketch told the story of a matrimonial agency the boys ran where they sold insurance, arranged for divorces and did janitorial work. Tom Breneman played both the Tom and Wash characters. He moved the show from KFBD (Culver City, CA, 1930), where he originated it to KFWB (15 min, KFWB, Los Angeles, CA, 1931). See also Tom and His Mule Hercules and Breakfast in Hollywood.

25813 (The) Tom Cat. DJ not otherwise identified (KITI, Chehalis-Centralia, WA, 1960).

25814 (The) Tom Cat Meeting. The zany combination of music and comedy was broadcast Wednesday evenings from 8:30 to 10:00 P.M. The "Tom Cat," not otherwise identified conducted the program (KFWL, San Francisco, CA, 1926).

25815 Tom, Dick and Harry. The popular vocal trio consisted of Marlin Hurt singing with Bud and Gordon Vandover (15 min., Monday, 9:00-9:30 P.M., NBC, 1930-1931). The trio was supported by the duo piano team of Retting and Platt and a studio orchestra. The veteran singing group also had several other network programs (MBS, 1936).

25816 Tom, Joe and Jack. The comedy singing trio was billed variously as the "Minstrel Men" and "The WSM Minstrels" (WSM, Nashville, TN, 1928). The trio consisted of Jack Keefe, Joe Combs and Tom Mooney.

25817 Tom Mix. The Tom Mix juvenile adventure show was a highly fictionalized account of the adventures of the popular cowboy motion picture star. It was a popular daytime serial in its various formats. The title role over the years was played by Artells Dickson, Russell Thorson, Jack Holden and Curley Bradley. Among those performers, Jack Holden's voice best represented the bold, masculine character he was playing. Also in the cast were: Curley Bradley, Shorty Carson, Leo Curley, Artells Dickson, Andy Donnelly, Patricia Dunlap, Sidney Ellstrom, George Gobel, Percy Hemus, Jack Holden, Bob Jellison, Carl Kroenke, Forrest Lewis, Phil Lord, DeWitt McBride, Vance McCune, Hal Peary, Cornelius Peeples, Arthur Peterson, Jack Ross, Hugh Rowlands, Russell Thorson, Winifred Toomey, Willard Waterman, Jane Webb and Bruno Wick. Al Chance was the producer. Charles Claggett and Clarence L. Menser were the directors. The announcers were Franklyn Ferguson, Don Gordon and Les Griffith. The program was written by Larry Holcomb, George Lowther, Roland Martini and Charles Tazewell. The theme song in the earliest format was sung by the Three Ranch Boys (NBC and MBS, 1933-1950).

25818 Tom Noonan—The Bishop of Chinatown. Noonan, who was known as "The Bishop of Chinatown" for his tireless missionary service among the poor and unfortunates of New York City, conducted mission services from an old Chinese theater in that city's Bowery section. Guest singers, ministers and rabbis often appeared with him on the sustaining program. The theme of Noonan's program was "There's a Rainbow Shining Somewhere" (90 min., Sunday, 5:00-6:30 P.M., WBNX, New York, NY, 1933).

On the program, Tomlinson interviewed distinguished personalities from Latin American countries, broadcast performances by various South American artists and played classical and popular music from various Latin American countries (15 min., Friday, 9:30-9:45 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1935). Tomlinson later worked as a network news analyst specializing in Latin American affairs (NBC-Blue, 1942-1944; NBC, 1946-1948).

25825 Tommy and His Pals. A barn dance CW music group (WLS, Chicago, IL, 1927).

25827 Tommy Talks. Tommy, a gossiping "office boy" at station KMOX, talked about various radio personalities at the station (15 min., Three Times Weekly, KMOX, St. Louis, MO, 1931).

25828 Tommy Tanner and the Hoosier Sodbusters. The popular CW music show was a favorite of Chicago listeners (15 min., Thursday, 7:45-8:00 A.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1936).

25829 Tommy's Soirees. Tommy Coates conducted the WGN feature program about music and musicians (WGN, Chicago, IL, 1928).

25830 Tommy's Texans. CW music group (WBAP, Fort Worth, TX, 1923).

25831 Tomorrow's Babies. Mary Harris conducted the informative program for mothers that was broadcast four times weekly (CBS, New York, NY, 1928).

25832 Tomorrow's Headlines. Sponsored by the American Astrology magazine, the program offered forecasts of coming news events in an effort to promote the idea that astrology could accurately predict the future. The "prophetic" astrologers on the show were not identified (15 min., Thursday, 11:00–11:15 P.M., WMCA, New York, NY, 1935).

25833 Tompkins, Betty. DJ (KCLE, Cleburne, TX, 1949).

25834 Tompkins, Tommy. Leader (Tommy Tompkins Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WIW, Cincinnati, OH, 1936).

25835 Tompkins, William H. "Bill." Newscaster (WABY, Albany, NY, 1940–1942; WROW, Albany, NY, 1947).

25837 Toomey, (Miss) Mary C. Miss Toomey told bedtime stories and fairy tales for children (WFAA, Dallas, TX, 1923).

25838 Tonamura, E.Y. Mr. Tonamura delivered lectures in Japanese (KFWM, Oakland, CA, 1928).

25839 Tone Pictures. Calm, soothing music was supplied by organist Ralph Waldo Emerson on this Sunday morning program (13 min., Sunday, 10:45–10:58 A.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1936). In another format the following year pianist Ruth Pepple and a mixed quartet were featured (Sunday, 8:30–9:00 A.M., Network, 1937).

25841 Tonight's Dinner. A program for women that was designed to help them plan and prepare evening meals for their families (15 min., Thursday, 10:15–10:30 A.M., WWJ, Detroit, MI, 1934).

25843 Tony and Gus. George Frame Brown wrote the dramatic series and played the role of Gus with a thick Swedish accent. Mario Chamlee, a Metropolitan Opera tenor, played the role of his friend, Tony. The interesting story of two immigrants who sought fame and fortune in America was sponsored by General Foods. Gus, a Swede, wanted to become the heavyweight boxing champion, while his friend, Tony, wanted to become a professional singer. Elsie May Gordon and Adelina Tomilsen were also in the cast. Every two weeks or so, Brown would devote a program entirely to a concert by Chamlee. In the story these programs represented concert engagements by Tony, an example of Brown's creativity. The program's announcer was Tiny Ruffner (15 min., Monday through Friday, 7:15–7:30 P.M., NBC-Red, 1935).

25844 Tony Cabooch (aka The One-Man Radio Show). Tony, played by C.J. Gruber, was a philosophical Italian in the comedy sketches of the sustaining show. He also played the role of a friendly Irish cop on his block. Gruber was assisted by his daughter, who played a song or two on the piano on each program (15 min., 9:45–10:00 P.M., WMCA-ABS, 1934). When Tony Cabooch first went on the air during the 1930–1931 season, his program was known as The One-Man Radio Show.

25845 Tony Cabooch. Chester Gruber in the role of Tony Cabooch provided dialect comedy each weekday night on the popular local program. Gruber's daughter, Donna Drew, played a straight role on the program (15 min., Monday through Friday, WBAL, Baltimore, MD, 1936).

25848 Tony Wons Scrapbook. Wons combined poetry submitted by his listeners with those of his own selection and little bits of philosophy on his inspirational program. Violinist Audrey Call appeared on the program, as did the piano team of Peggy Keenan and Sandra Phillips. Andre Baruch was the announcer and Ulderico Marcella the program's musical director. Wons would frequently stop in the middle of his philosophical musings to inquire, "Say, you're listening to me, aren't you?" (15 min., Sunday, 10:45–11:00 A.M. and Monday and Thursday, 11:30–11:45 A.M., CBS, 1933–1934). Wons appeared on NBC the following year in his familiar format (15 min., Monday through Friday, 9:15–9:30 A.M., NBC, 1935).

25849 Tony Wons Show. Wons once more used his "Are you listening?" trademark as he read his familiar prose and poetry selections. Organist Larry Larsen and singer Vera Lane also performed on the Hallmark Cards sponsored program (15 min., Sunday, 4:15–4:30 P.M., NBC, 1941).

25850 Too Many Cooks. According to Variety, the program was a weak summer replacement for the Lux Radio Theatre. It was patterned after Ozzie and Harriet. In the story there were ten cooks in the family and the comedy arose from their tumultuous interaction. The cast included Hal March, Mary Jane Croft, Willard Waterman, George Fennemen and Jerry Hausner. Music was provided by Marlin Skiles' orchestra (30 min., Monday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., NBC, 1950).

25851 Toole, Raymond. Baritone (KFI, Los Angeles, CA, 1927).

cast*, KWED, 1952–1955).

25921 Traffic Tower. Sponsored by a local automobile body company, Traffic Tower reported local traffic accidents that had occurred during the past 24 hours, and told various human interest stories. The sponsor made an interesting offer to accident participants. If they could prove their accident was unavoidable, the sponsor would repair all their accident damage free of charge (KTRH, Houston, TX, 1931).

(WOR, Newark, NJ, 1937; MBS, 1938).

25923 Training for Radio Announcers.
Professor H. Clay Harshberger of the State University of Iowa's Speech Department inaugurated the radio college course that contained information on the proper speech for radio, continuity writing, program arrangement and production problems (WSUI, Iowa City, IA, 1930).

Rhythm*, WAGF, Dothan, AL, 1950).

25925 Transatlantic Call. The program was the product of the cooperation between CBS and the British Broadcasting Corporation
(BBC) at the initiation of Norman Corwin.
Begun in 1943, the program began with citizens of the United States and Great Britain exchanging information about the emergencies of wartime life. Soon, however, the content of the exchanges were expanded to include the habits and traditions of the two countries and the differences in their food and clothing. A particularly interesting topic was the citizens' discussion of the difference between American and British humor. The program's narrator was Milton Bacon. The writer was John Bechy (CBS, 1945). See also America Calling.

25926 Transatlantic Quiz—London/New York. The program, broadcast by CBS in cooperation with the BBC, included panels of distinguished American and British citizens who answered questions sent in by listeners. Alistair Cooke was the host in the United States, while Lionel Hale and Ronny Waldman co-hosted from London. The American panel members were Buck Crouse and Christopher Morley.
Dennis Brazan and David Niven were the British panel members (15 min., Saturday, 11:15– 11:30 A.M., NBC-Blue, 1945).

25927 Transcriptions. During the early years of radio, many small stations could not afford station bands, large orchestras or dramatic groups for their programming, so for many years the stations used phonograph records. When a ruling of the Federal Radio Commission required that such programs be announced as recorded, in order to avoid stating, "This is a phonograph record," stations began saying,
"This program is presented by electrical recording." Eventually, this became, "This program is presented by electrical transcription."

Before the program went on the NBC network, Amos 'n' Andy was transcribed for broadcast by stations outside the Chicago area during 1928 and 1929. Even earlier Sam 'n' Henry had been recorded by Gosden and Correll and the transcriptions used by some 30 stations. At about the same time in 1928, the National Chicago Radio Advertising Company began syndicating recorded programs with commercials included. During the next few years companies such as Associated, Langworth (Lang-Worth), Macgregor, Muzak, Sesac, Standard, Thesaurus and World met the needs of stations by supplying music for their programs from transcriptions for a small fee.

Some of this recorded material on 16" transcription discs still exists. Electrical transcriptions proved to be a saving grace for many small stations who were not affiliated with a network and financially unable to hire performers for "live" broadcasts. Lacking performers of "star quality" and professionally produced programs, many unaffiliated stations became dependent on recorded programming. This development saw the rise of the DJ, who played records and sometimes provided humor, increasing the use of electrical transcriptions. In 1936, at least 350 stations made contracts with one or more electrical transcription services. An increased use of recorded syndicated programs also was evident.

In 1931, networks had bitterly opposed the use of electrical transcriptions, believing that listeners would find them artificial and lacking in realism because they were "canned" programs.
The market for electrical transcriptions was large, because among the approximately 600 stations in the country less than 200 of them had a network affiliation. By 1931, the use of transcriptions was well established and widely used.

The early Chandu the Magician program, for example, was entirely transcribed. Originating on the Pacific Coast, its popularity did much to increase the use of electrical transcriptions. In 1931, the Beechnut Company was in New York

looking for new programming. Chandu's producer packed 52 electrical transcriptions, came to New York and played them for Beechnut executives. Within six days, Chandu the Magician was being broadcast by six eastern stations.
Eventually, that number increased to 62 stations.
Other popular electrically transcribed programs of the period were Wendell Hall and the Eno Crime Club. The World Broadcasting Company had their transcribed Chevrolet Chronicles program broadcast by 300 stations in 1931, more than three times the number of stations of either CBS or the combined NBC Red and Blue networks (Biel, 1997, p.3).

The transcribed Tarzan programs in 1933 demonstrated the large audience such programs could draw for a variety of sponsors. Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc., reported the results of a campaign for Foulds Milling Company, one of the program's sponsors:

Nine stations up to March 22, 1933, pulled 310,748 requests for Tarzan premiums, or a total of 932,244 labels, each representing a package of Foulds Macaroni, Spaghetti, Egg
Noodles, or a key from a can of Toddy.

Radio Station WBBM [Chicago, Ill.] from September, 1932, to March, 1933 alone pulled more than 75,000 requests.

On WBBM Buffalo, the program broadcast for Toddy, Inc. (subsidiary of Grocery Store Products, Inc.) pulled 32,500 requests from April 1st to May 1st, each containing proof of the purchase of a can of Toddy.

The company also reported the exceptional success of the Signal Oil Company's campaign on the transcribed Tarzan program:

Three weeks after Signal Oil started announcements about the Tarzan Club they had applications from more than 12,000 boys in the State of California alone who wished to become members of the "Tarzan" club. To become eligible for membership, applicants had to obtain a new customer for the Signal Oil Company.

On December 15, 1933, the Tarzan Club had grown to 125,000 members, with every member a potential salesman for the Signal Oil Company. Signal Oil Company made an announcement over the air during the last week of the first series that ended March 10, 1933. In this announcement they advised listeners that this was the completion of the first series and that they would welcome expression from their listeners as to how they liked the Tarzan series and whether or not they wanted it to continue.
More than 20,000 letters were received not only praising Tarzan, but asking the Signal Oil Company to continue the series.

During this time the transcribed Tarzan series was broadcast on many stations with a variety of sponsors. As reported by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc., its record was impressive:

Stations large and small supplied transcribed programs to advertisers. Station WOW (Omaha, Nebraska) advertised their service as follows:

The NBC Thesaurus library is available to all advertisers on WOW. Any number of shows can be built from these recordings. Fine artists and comedians give local advertisers the same prestige as the finest live talent of NBC shows at an extremely low cost. Call or write the program manager of radio station WOW for full information on this fine transcribed library service and how you can use it to advantage in your advertising promotion (Vox WOW, June 16, 1936, p. 1).

Prospective sponsors had a wide variety of choices they could make from the Thesaurus catalog. A representative sample, for example, included the following: Ferde Grofe & Orchestra/Xavier Cugat, Fields & Hall Mountaineers, Betsy White, Ranch Boys/Fields & Hall Mountaineers, Ranch Boys/Richard Leibert, Betsy White/Richard, Blue Barron Orchestra, Al Donahue Orchestra/Ted Steele (Novachord), Military Band/Harry Horlick Orchestra, Vincent Lopez Orchestra/John Seagle, Military Band/Concert Orchestra, Gilbert & Sullivan Selections, Red River Dave/Vincent Lopez Jetry Sears Orchestra, Waltz Orchestra/Symphony Orchestra, Military Band/String Ensemble, Salon Orchestra, Jimmy Wakely Trio, Military Band, Carson Robison & His Buckaroos/Allen Roth Orchestra, Carson Robison & His Buckaroos/Carson Robinson (Solos), Sammy Kaye Orchestra/Lukewela's Royal Hawaiians, Sammy Kaye Orchestra/Allen Roth Orchestra, Vincent Lopez Orchestra/Richard Liebert (organ), Denver Darling & His Texas Cowhands/Ted Steele's Novatones, Lawrence Welk Orchestra/Shep Fields Orchestra, Allen Roth/Thomas L. Thesaurus transcriptions also included such musical groups as those of Les Brown, Charlie Barnet, Artie Shaw, Bunny Berrigan, Tex Beneke, Reggie Child, Ferde Grofe, Wayne King, Claude Thornhill, Ralph Flanagan, Ray McKinley and Will Osborne.

Other network transcription offerings included the RCA Orthacoustic transcribed programs:

Program 145: Modern Romances

Programs 27-28: Three Suns and a Starlet

Program 65: Time to Sing with Lanny and Ginger Grey

Columbia Transcriptions included such good music programs as The Masterpieces of Music with Lotte Lehmann.

Transcription services sometimes offered added inducements to persuade stations to use their recording programming. In 1939, Langworth (Lang-Worth) offered stations 100 hours of "free music" that could be broadcast for ten dollars (Broadcasting, March 1, 1939, p. 21). Live studio musicians could hardly compete against bargains of this nature. In some respects, this beginning of the substitution of recorded music for live eventually led to the virtual disappearance of live music.

In the 1950s, transcription company activities declined with the rapid expansion of commercial recording companies, and the increased amount of recorded music of all types they produced. Although the transcription companies' activity extended well into the 1960s, the quantity of music they provided never again reached the quantity of the transcribed programming they had previously supplied.

Although the programs provided on transcriptions sometimes were dull, at other times they were musically brilliant. Instrumental and vocal selections sometimes were flawed by mistakes or inept introductions by local announcers. Musicians and vocalists often recorded all day long on transcription recording sessions for little pay. Bands sometimes recorded their entire repertoire during these long sessions, so it is understandable why the musical quality of transcriptions could be uneven technically and musically.

Bands, singers and vocal groups often did not use their own names on transcriptions, because of previous contractual restrictions. Some vocalists who made transcriptions and the names they used to make them were: Buddy Clark (Bob Clifford/Bobby Clayton), Bob Crosby (Bob Thompson), Barry McKinley (Bruce McKay), Jan Peerce (Randolph Joyce), Kenny Sargent (Kerry Scott), Virginia Verrill (Vivian Vail/Valerie Vaughn), Bea Wain (Betty Wynne/Babs Warner), and Muriel Wilson (Muriel Taft).

Vocal groups that recorded under pseudonyms were: Charioteers (Dixie Songsters), Hall Johnson Choir (Hunter James Choir), Norsemen (Hollywood Male Quartet), and Carson Robison's Boys (Bud Birmingham).

Orchestras who recorded under other names were: Leon Belasco (Leon Bolero), Al Bowly (Art Brady), Larry Clinton (Lennie Carlson/Lee Collins), Emil Coleman (Edmund Clair), Bob Crosby (Brad Collins/Bob Thompson), D'Artega (De Casta), Emery Deutsch (Casanova), Clyde Doerr (Carl Darnley), Al Donahue (Arthur Deane), Jimmy Dorsey (James Dalton), Tommy Dorsey (Harvey Tweed), Ernie Fiorito (Bob Windson), Lud Gluskin (Lon Gladstone), Len Gray (George Gregory/Gene Grenville), Johnny Green (Jimmy Garfield), Green Brothers (Gray Brothers), Joe Haymes (Joe Heins), Richard Himber (Ross Haywood), Claude Hopkins (Claude Harris), Pee Wee Hunt (Shorty Harris), Henry King (Harvey Kent), Sam Lanin (Alexander Karlin), Clyde Lucas (Craig Lennox/Chester Lincoln), Enrie Madriguera (Ramon Lorenzo), Clyde McCoy (Cliff Miles), Dick Messner (Tom Moran), Russ Morgan (Rex Melbourne), Lynn Murray (Larry Moore), National Fascist Military Band (Pan American Brass Band), and Victor Young (Val Yorke).

companied by an orchestra directed by Joe Rines. John S. Young was the announcer (30 min., Friday, 8:00–8:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1929).

25995 Trial of Vivienne Ware. The innovative series of six local programs was directed by former KLRA announcer, George Ellis. The programs, written by George's brother, Kenneth Ellis, were sponsored by the Arkansas Gazette newspaper and station KLRA (Little Rock, AR, 1931–1932). Local actors played all the roles in the dramatization of the fictional trial of Vivienne Ware. A distinguished state judge, Richard M. Mann played the Judge of the trial. Others in the cast were: R.E. Wiley, W. Henry Donham, Martin Fulk, Kathleen Stocklein, Charles M. Simon, Mrs. R.B. Williams, Sheldon Vinsonhaler, Dr. Samuel Boyce, W.E. Dungan, Thomas Southerland, Bill Allsop, George Ellis, George Vinsonhaler, Mrs. R.C. Johnson and Mrs. Jenny Garrett. The listeners of the popular program served as the jury and decided that Ware was not guilty.

The program was so popular that individual NBC stations all over the country broadcast the serialized mock trial of Vivienne Ware with different casts in different cities. Once more, real lawyers and judges participated using legally correct procedures. Some of the cast members in different cities included Barbara Weeks and Judge George Fawcett in Los Angeles, Lawyer Thomas D. Nash in Chicago, Bobbe Dean in San Francisco.

In New York City, Senator Robert Wagner, lawyer George Gordon Battle, Blythe Daley, Joseph Ganby, T. Daniel Frawley and Rosamond Pinchot were in the cast. The New York production was staged by John Golden and directed by William S. Rainey.

The first series of programs were so popular that a second series was begun a week after the first dramatized trial was completed. In the second, Dolores Devine was tried for the same murder for which Vivienne Ware had been found not guilty. Once more on KLRA, a real judge (Marvin Harris) played the role of the judge on the broadcast. Other local Little Rock performers who appeared were: M. Drew Bowers, Edward B. Dillon, Sam Robinson, Kathleen Stocklein, Charles Simon, Jr., Hal Moore, Clarence Young, Mary Alice Duncan, L.E. Fabian, Mrs. R.B. Williams, Sheldon Vinsonhaler and Louis Cohen. Once more the listeners voted "Not guilty." Some years later the first series (The Trial of Vivienne Ware) was sold to the Fox Motion Picture Company. When the picture was made Joan Bennett played the title role.

True, WWJ, 1945–1947). Sports caster (WXYZ, 1940).

26059 True Animal Stories. Don Laing told human interest stories about animals on the program (30 min., Monday, 5:15–5:45 P.M., WABC, 1933).

26060 True Detective Mysteries. Dick Keith as John Shuttleworth, the editor of True Detective Magazine, narrated dramatizations of famous crimes on the weekly program. O'Henry Candy sponsored the show. Other cast members were: John Griggs, Mandel Kramer and Johnny Thomas. Music was provided by organist Paul Taubman and the Chet Kingsbury Orchestra. Hugh James and Frank Dunne were the announcers (30 min., Thursday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., CBS, 1929–1930). The program with different cast members ran intermittently until 1959 on MBS.

26061 True Ghost Stories. The Van Heusen Corporation sponsored these tales of the supernatural. Louis K. Anspacher wrote and told stories of ghostly locales and deeds. The piano duo of Vera Brodsky and Harold Triggs also performed (15 min., Sunday, 10:15–10:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1935).

26062 True or False. Two teams, one male and the other female, drawn from the studio audience competed on the quiz program hosted by Bill Slater (30 min., Saturday, 5:30–6:00 P.M., MBS, 1947). Other hosts, at one time or another, were Eddie Dunn and Harry Hagen. The program was first broadcast on MBS before switching to NBC.

26063 True Romances. As its title suggests, the weekly dramatic program focused on romance (30 min., Tuesday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., CBS, 1927).

26064 True Story Hour (aka True Story Magazine Program). An hour-long program, the True Story Hour dramatized stories taken from True Story magazine. Some consider the program, begun in 1928, to have been the first hour-long dramatic series on radio. Whether this is true or not, it was an exceptionally popular program. It told the story of love gone wrong from the woman's point of view. During the early years it was on the air the cast included: Cecil Secrest, Nora Stirling, Elsie Hitz, Helene Dumas, Ned Wever, Allyn Joslyn, William Sims and Judson Strong.

William Sweets dramatized a "true story" weekly. Using a play within a play technique, Sweets let the two continuing characters, Mary and Bob, provide narration by means of their conversation. Over the years, the stories from True Story magazine tended to be tear-jerkers that always told of the suffering experienced by women (60 min., Friday, 9:00–10:00 p.m., CBS, 1927–1932).

26065 Trueheart, George. DJ (KDBS, Alexandria, LA, 1955).

26066 Truere, Bob. Newscaster (WGNC, Elizabeth City, NC, 1941; WCSC, Charleston, SC, 1946–1947).

- 26076 Truth or Consequences. Ralph Edwards created and hosted the pseudo-quiz program. The contestants were asked questions that practically were unanswerable. After announcing the silly consequences the contestant had to accept, Edwards would ask the audience, "Aren't we devils?" The audience found the stilly stunts the contestants had to perform hilarious. Edwards was the program's host during the entire run. Ed Bailey, John Guedel and Al Paschall were the directors. Mel Allen, Clayton "Bud" Collyer, Milton Cross, Ed Herlihy, Harlow Wilcox and Jay Stewart were the announcers over the years the program was on the air (CBS, NBC, 1940–1957).
- 26077 Trwin [Trin], Bob. Sportscaster (Sports Mike, WBCM, Bay City, MI, 1960).
- 26078 Try to Stump Me. Veteran radio performer Pete Bontsema claimed to have a music library of 20,000 songs on the show. Pete challenged his listeners to request songs that he could not play. He played piano and sang on the interesting quarter-hour show. Bill Hemsworth was the announcer and stooge for Bontsema's gags (15 min., Monday through Saturday, KMOX, St. Louis, MO, 1936).
- 26079 Tryon, Al. DJ (No. 1450 Club, WFUN, Huntsville, AL, 1947).

The program consisted of major events—past and present—described in the form of news bulletins (15 min., Wednesday, 7:15–7:30 P.M., WFIL, Philadelphia, PA, 1936).
- 26208 Twenty Crowded Years. Using the techniques of both The March of Time and Legends of America, the program dramatized the historical highlights of the twenty years just passed (1914–1934), beginning just prior to the outbreak of World War I. Events were dramatized such as the sinking of the Lusitania, the San Francisco bombing incident, and Pershing's pursuit of Pancho Villa in Mexico (60 min., Thursday, 8:30–9:30 P.M., CBS, 1934).
- 26209 Twenty Fingers of Sweetness. Twin pianists Betty McKee and Dot Harding provided the sweet music on the local program (KDKA, Pittsburgh, PA, 1931).
- 26210 Twenty Flying Fingers. The program featured the piano team of Ramona Gerhard and Bea Bailey. They were popular local favorites in the late 1930s and early 1940s. Ramona, who also played the organ, frequently appeared with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra (WCCO, Minneapolis, MN).
- 26211 Twenty Gypsies from the Great Russian Steppes. A Russian chorus accompanied by a Balalaika Band that, according to Variety, produced "weird and dreamy melodies and wild and passionate songs" (WJZ, New York, NY, 1923).
- 26212 Twenty Minutes of Good Reading. Father Claude J. Pernin, S.J. provided the good reading (KYW, Chicago, IL, 1928).
- 26213 Twenty Questions. A panel was allowed twenty questions in which to identify a person, place or thing. Since the format was highly structured, the entertainment value of the program depended upon the performance of its panel. The cast included: Bill Slater and Jay Jackson (as hosts), Herb Polesie, Florence Rincard (Mrs. Fred Van Deventer), Bobby McGuire and Fred Van Deventer. Mr. and Mrs. Van Deventer were said to have originated the program's concept. Del Crosby and Gary Stevens were the directors. The Ronson Girl was Charlotte Manson. The mysterious voice was provided by either Bruce Elliott, Jack Irish or Frank Waldecker. The announcer was Frank Waldecker (MBS, 1946–1954).
- 26214 Twenty Years Ago and Today. Sam Shayon was the news commentator who conducted the program (15 min., Weekly, WHN, New York, NY, 1938).
- 26215 Twenty-First Precinct. The Patrolman's Benevolent Association of the New York Police Department cooperated with CBS in the production of the exciting dramatic show that took the form of a documentary to provide "a factual account of the way the police work in the world's largest city." The talented cast of the sustaining show included Everett Sloane, Barbara Weeks, Robert Readick, George Petrie, Ken Lynch, Linda Watkins, Harold Stone and Elaine Rust. The program supervisor was Norman Frank; the producer, John Ives; and the director, Stanley Niss (30 min., Tuesday, 9:30–10:00 P.M., CBS, 1953).
- 26216 22nd Regiment Band. Military band directed by George F. Briegel broadcasting from the Central Park Mall, New York City (WNYC, New York, NY, 1924).
- 26217 22nd U.S. Infantry Orchestra. Military orchestra (WSB, Atlanta, GA, 1923).
- 26218 20,000 Years in Sing Sing. Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing Prison, the author of a book by the same name, hosted the show that dramatized the story of prison life, its inmates and why they were there. Warden Lawes' commentary added a sense of authenticity to the program sponsored by the W.L. Warner Company. Later, the role of Lawes was played by Guy Sorel. Joseph Bell also appeared on the program. Bill and Arnold Michaelis directed. The announcer was Kelvin Keech (30 min., Sunday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1933).
- 26219 Twerrell, Bruce E. Sportscaster (KOIM, Havre, MT, 1952; Mountain Sports, KMON, Great Falls, MT, 1954; KWIK, Pocatello, ID, 1955).
- 26220 Twiford, Archie. Twiford was a popular radio tenor and church soloist (WTAR, Norfolk, VA). Twiford later joined the staff of KLRA as singer and announcer (KLRA, Little Rock, AR, 1928).

- 26222 Twiggs, Branch. Sportscaster (WBUY, Lexington, NC, 1954).
- 26223 Twilight Concert. On a 1922 concert program, station WGI (Medford Hillside, MA) broadcast an advance presentation of The Gingerbread Man, a musical comedy directed by George V.C. Lord. The program featured sopranos Eva Whittaker, Mrs. Chester Ludwig, Lillian Evans and Lillian Leighton; baritone's Chester Ludwig and Arthur Burnett; tenor Scott Burgess; contralto Mrs. Eugene Carman, the Apollo Quartet; and a 15 voice ensemble (150 min., 4:00–6:30 P.M., WGI, Medford Hillside, MA, 1922).
- 26224 Twilight Melodies. The Los Angeles [instrumental] Trio, the Tom, Dick and Harry vocal trio and a 22-piece orchestra directed by Adolphe Dumont provided soothing music on the early evening program. Ted Pearson was the program's announcer (30 min., 7:00–7:30 P.M., NBC-Blue Network, 1929).

26225 Twin City Lines Trainsmen's Band. Commercially sponsored railroad band (WLAG, Minneapolis, MN, 1924).

26226 Twin Oaks Orchestra. Club band (WHN, New York, NY and WMCA, New York, NY, 1926).

26227 Twin Pairs of Harmony. The unique program presented two twin piano teams — the Lester Place–Robert Pascoelle team and that of Taylor Buckley–Carlton Boxill. The program was broadcast by NBC (1928).

26228 Twin Stars. Two different stars appeared weekly on the novel program. They might be musicians, singers, actors or comedians. One program, for example, featured a coloratura soprano and dramatic actress Helen Claire (30 min., Friday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., CST, NBC-Blue Network, 1936).

26229 Twin Views of the News. Danton Walker and Ily Gardner, both Broadway columnists on rival New York newspapers, broadcast theatrical gossip and news on the sustaining show (15 min., 11:30–11:45 P.M., WOR, New York, NY, 1947).

26230 Twinplex Twins. The singing team, "Shave" and "Smile," were not identified further, but clearly they were sponsored by shaving cream, razors, or razor blades. They performed both popular and comedy songs (15 min., 7:30–7:45 P.M., CBS, 1930).

26231 Twiss, Buddy. Newscaster (NBC-Blue, 1944).

26233 Twistol, Dick. DJ (KXRA, Alexandria, MN, 1960).

26234 Two at Midnight. A late night female DJ, Jane Marvin, identified only as "Janie," provided a touch of romance to the records she played (60 min., Monday through Friday, 12:00–1:00 A.M., WPTX, Albany, NY, 1952).

Two Black Crows see Moran and Mack

26235 Two Boys and a Girl. Fred Woodruff and Thompson B. Kerr alternated as the pianist that accompanied three unidentified members of a mixed vocal trio (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1929).

26236 Two Daffodils. Duke Atterbury and Ken Gillon were the singing comedy team presented on the transcribed program sponsored by the Continental Broadcasting Corporation. It originated from Hollywood, California (15 min., Transcribed, Various Stations, early 1930s).

26237 Two Guys and a Girl. Guitarist Joe Bednarek, pianist Vince Carraza and vocalist Freida Josephs performed on the sustaining music show. They were never identified by name (15 min., Saturday, 11:45–12:00 noon, WBRE, Wilkes-Barre, PA, 1941).

26238 Two Keys—Black and White. Violinist George Hall and pianist Hortense Rice were the "keys" of the instrumental program (WLV, Cincinnati, OH, 1929).

26239 (The) Two Professors. Van (Van Alstyne) and Don (Donald Thomas McNeill) were featured on the entertaining music show. Van played the guitar and sang, while Don sang and announced the program. After working in the east, the team came to San Francisco radio in 1932.

26240 Two Seats in the Balcony. Henry M. Neely, as the "Old Stager," was host of the program that presented the "light opera hits of yesteryear." Music was provided by the Harold Sanford Orchestra (30 min., Saturday, 11:00–11:30 A.M., NBC-Red, 1932).

26241 Two Troupers. The two women troupers on the show struggled to succeed in show business as a singing team. The women experienced many adventures and frequent ups and downs. Despite their shrinking funds and Atlantic City hotel bills, Marcella (Shields) and Helene (Handin) continued to sing. The music on the program was supplied by Merle Johnson's orchestra (WJZ-NBC-Blue, New York, NY, 1929).

26242 Two Yovinians. Colonel Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle and Louis Dean teamed on the comedy show that was broadcast on Buffalo radio, probably on station WBEN, before the Colonel gained fame by teaming with Budd Hulick. See also Stoopnagle and Budd.

26243 Two-Thirty Visit. Dick Fansler was a popular Indianapolis singer who starred on the local show (15 min., Monday through Friday, WISH, Indianapolis, IN, 1947).

26244 Two-Ton Baker. The large one sang, played piano and engaged in light banter on his weekday show (15 min., Monday through Friday, 4:45–5:00 P.M., MBS, 1949).

26290 Umbach, Bob. DJ (Atomic Boogie, WJLD, Besemer, AL, 1949–1950–1951; Atomic Boogie Hour, WJLD, 1952). Sports caster (Sports Review, WJLD, 1948; WMBM, Miami Beach, FL, 1954).

26291 Umbey, Clyde. Baritone (KFSG, Los Angeles, CA, 1925).

26292 Umscheid, (Dr.) Arthur G. News analyst (KOWH, Omaha, NE, 1946; KOAD, Omaha, NE, 1947).

26293 (The) UN Is My Beat. Clark M. Eichelberger commented on the activities of the United Nations on the transcribed program (15 min., Transcribed, WNBC, New York, NY, 1949).

26294 Uncle Abe and David. An early situation comedy, Uncle Abe and Dave starred Arthur Allen and Parker Fennelly playing the roles of two retired merchants from Skowhegan, Maine. These two “Down East” types, who were retired owners of Everybody’s Equiperties, traveled from their Maine village to a large metropolitan area. The fun resulted from the two old fellows’ adventures in the big city. Frequently, both men used old New England sayings in their conversation. Phillips H. Lord created and developed the interesting program. (15 min., Monday through Saturday, 6:45–7:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1930).

26295 Uncle Ben and the Funnies. An unidentified “Uncle” read the comics for children (KXA, Seattle, WA, 1940s).

26296 Uncle Ben in Bedtime Stories. Another unidentified “Uncle” told bedtime stories (KSL, Salt Lake, UT, 1926).

26297 Uncle Ben’s Get Together. An unusual serial drama with 10 of its characters played by Lawson Ming. The story focused on Uncle Ben, the owner of an old-fashioned country store. He and several old friends gathered in the store to discuss general topics and listen to transcribed country music (WPIC, Sharon, PA, 1939).

26298 Uncle Bill. An unidentified performer who conducted a children’s program, The Kiddie Hour Hour (WBAP, San Antonio, TX, 1925).

26299 Uncle Billy. Uncle Billy asked questions of Peggy Cooper as a weekly portion of the Book-of-Knowledge feature. Miss Cooper either provided the answer or information as to how and where to find it in the Book of Knowledge (WFAA, Dallas, TX, 1927).

26300 Uncle Billy. Announcer-salesman Bill Foss became “Uncle Billy” on the Kids’ Klub program in the late 1920s (WCSH, Portland, ME). He was aided by “Uncle Jimmy” who eventually took over the program. See also Kids’ Klub.

26301 Uncle Billy’s Fiddle Band. CW music group from England, Arkansas (KTHS, Hot Springs National Park, AR, 1928; KGH1, Little Rock, AR, 1929).

26302 Uncle Bob (Claire Robert “Bob” Emery). Uncle Bob conducted a children’s program (WEEL, Boston, MA, 1925). See also Emery, Claire Robert “Bob.”

26303 Uncle Bob (Walter Wilson). When he first broadcast for children (KYW, Chicago, IL, 1923–1929), Wilson had an evening story session on which he told interesting tales of Indians, bears, wolves, prairie schooners, hunting and fishing trips. The show was one of the most popular KYW features. Wilson later became “Dream Daddy” and conducted his The Curb is the Limit Club program, a safety club for children (KYW, 1928). After a year of initiating his safety club in 1928, it was reported that he had 300,000 young members.

26304 Uncle Bruce’s Nursery. The unusual program resulted from the cooperation of Cleveland’s station WJW with local merchants. The station opened its studios on Saturday mornings to mothers who had no place to leave their children while shopping. Although the program on which Uncle Bruce McDonald interviewed mothers and got the children to sing lasted only one hour, the station’s baby-sitting service started at 8:45 A.M. and lasted until noon for 50 children between the ages of four to seven. Mothers had to make reservations for their children by phone a week in advance. Toys, children’s furniture, milk and graham crackers were supplied by local merchants for the kids. A registered nurse was on duty, along with six Girl Scouts and a Red Cross first aid unit. Variety said that the concept was a good one and so was the program (60 min., Saturday, 9:00–10:00 A.M. WJW, Cleveland, OH, 1949).

26305 Uncle Buster and His Big Yank Boys. Big Yank overalls sponsored Uncle Buster (Dan Hosmer) and the Hoosier Sod Busters, a CW group, on this popular early morning show of music and comedy (30 min., Saturday, 7:30–8:00 A.M. CST, WLS, Chicago, IL, 1937).

26306 Uncle Charlie’s Tent Show. Hollywood actor Charles Winninger, as Uncle Charlie, hosted the variety show. Jack and Loretta Clemens, soprano Lois Bennett and baritone Conrad Thibault performed with the Don Voorhees Orchestra (30 min., Sunday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., NBC, 1935).

26308 Uncle Dave’s Gang. Uncle Dave (Dave Healey), formerly a member of Roxy’s Gang, hosted the sustaining show on which he presented only his own vocal students (30 min., Saturday, 1:15–1:45 P.M., WELI, New Haven, CT, 1939).

Uncle Don see Carney, Don, Howard Rice, and Uncle Don's Record Party

26309 Uncle Don's Record Party. Uncle Don Carney (Howard Rice) was the writer, producer and host of the sustaining children's program on which he was a DJ for kids (30 min., Saturday, 9:30–10:00 A.M., WOR, New York, NY, 1947).

26310 Uncle Doody and the Hilltoppers. Uncle Doody, not otherwise identified, and the Hilltoppers CW group, starred on the Chicago local show (15 min., 6:15–6:30 P.M., WLS, Chicago, IL, 1936).

26311 Uncle Ezra's Radio Station E-Z-R-A (aka Uncle Ezra). Uncle Ezra, played by Pat Barrett, ran his radio station, "the little five watter down in Rosedale, U.S.A." In his guise of getting performers for his station, Uncle Ezra, over the years, presented such performers on his program as tenor Henry Burr, the Vass Family vocal group, the Hoosier Hot Shots, Florence Folsom, Cliff Soubier, Clarence Hartzell, Uncle Jim Harkins, bass fiddler Frank Hettering, Sid Ellstrom, Carleton Six, Lucille Long, Carleton Guy and Nora Gunneen (Mrs. Pat Barrett). These performers were either talented vocalists, musicians or actors who also appeared in comedy sketches about the doings at Ezra's happy little five-watter.

The various characters who appeared on the show were Roscoe Six, Si Skinner, Mayor Bogs, Mrs. Peppington Smith and Q. Jasper Ducky. Uncle Ezra read real and imaginary commercials, played music and delivered news of the happy little town of Rosedale, where his little station was located. Many of the program's performers came from the National Barn Dance, where Barrett, himself, appeared frequently as Uncle Ezra. Ed Simmons directed the show, and Jack Holden was the announcer. Over the years the program appeared in various formats (15 min., Monday-Wednesday-Friday, 6:15–6:30 P.M., 6:45–7:00 P.M., or 7:30–7:45 P.M., NBC-Red, 1934–1936). A 30-minute Sunday version was also broadcast (30 min., Sunday, 4:00–4:30 P.M., CST, NBC, 1938). Later in 1944, Uncle Ezra conducted a five-minute transcribed daily program.

26312 Uncle Geebee. Another "uncle" who conducted a children's program and whose identity has been lost (WGBS, New York, NY, 1925).

26314 Uncle George of the Newark Ledger. Uncle George broadcast "goodnight stories for children" (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1922).

26315 Uncle Harry Davis and Aunt Ruthy. A team that told bedtime stories for children (KYW, Chicago, IL, 1925).

26316 Uncle Henry. Penick and Ford Company were the sponsors. Henry Porter told Jewish legends and discussed folklore on the popular Philadelphia program (15 min., Wednesday, 7:45–8:00 P.M., WPEN, Philadelphia, PA, 1937).

26317 Uncle Ira's Get Together. CW mus. prg. (KLZ, Denver, CO, 1939).

26319 Uncle Jim and His Pumpkin Dusters. CW mus. prg. (WIND, Chicago, IL, 1935).

26321 Uncle Jimmy. Jimmy Nicholson became "Uncle Jimmy" on the Kids' Club program broadcast by WCSH in the late 1920s. He assisted "Uncle Billy" Foss. When Foss left the program Nicholson took over (WCSH, Portland, ME). See also Kids' Club.

26322 Uncle John. Unidentified performer who conducted a children's program of music and songs known as Uncle John's Bedtime Stories (KHJ, Los Angeles, CA, 1923). Later, it was known as Uncle John and the Children (KHJ, 1926).

26323 Uncle John (Daggett). Another "Uncle," Daggett conducted the Payne's Children's Program, a bedtime children's show (KHJ, Chicago, IL, 1924). Daggett earlier had conducted The Children's Hour on KHJ that contained a quiz feature, one of radio's earliest. He featured such guest stars on his program as Polywinkle, a talking cockatoo and, occasionally, Baby Napoleon (also known as Babe), a movie chimpanzee that "talked."

Uncle John's Bedtime Stories see Uncle John (Daggett)

Uncle Mac (Reverend James MacKrell) see Uncle Mac's Booster's Club and Uncle Mac Reads the Arkansas Gazette Comics

26324 Uncle Mac Reads the Arkansas Gazette Comics. Every Sunday morning, at 8:30 A.M., Uncle Mac (Reverend James MacKrell), who was also the station's sales representative, read the comics (KLRA, Little Rock, AR, 1934). See also Uncle Mac's Booster Club.

26325 Uncle Mac's Booster Club. Every weekday evening at 6:30 P.M., Uncle Mac (Reverend James MacKrell) broadcast his program for children to teach them good behavior in general and safety in particular. Colleen Cart began as the program's vocalist, but later she became an assistant host. In 1935, "Brother Bill" Goodrich took over the Booster Club program when "Uncle Mac" moved to another Arkansas station. The program originated from KLRA (Little Rock, AR, 1934).

26326 Uncle Neal. Popular announcer Cornelius D. Tomy conducted an early evening children's program (WCX, Detroit, MI, 1923). See also Tomy, Cornelius D.

26327 Uncle Neal Reads the Funnies. Uncle Neal (Cornelius D. Tomy) entertained children by reading the Sunday comics (30 min., Sunday, 9:00–9:30 A.M., WJR, Detroit, MI, 1935). See also Tomy, Cornelius D.

26328 Uncle Ned's Squadron. Norb Locke, the Director of the Iowa Aeronautic Association, portrayed Uncle Ned on the weekly program. Assisted by his co-pilot, Uncle Ned conducted the sustaining children's program about planes and flying (30 min., Saturday, 10:00–10:30 A.M., WMAQ, Chicago, IL, 1951).

26329 Uncle Ned's Variety Show. Eddie Urquhart (Uncle Ned) conducted the sustaining variety show that featured juvenile performers (30 min., Wednesday, 1:15–1:45 P.M., WORL, Boston, MA, 1938).

26330 Uncle Ollie and His Kre-Mel Gang. Uncle Ollie used a Swedish accent for humor and a "hillbilly" band to supply the music on the program, whose acts featured youngsters (15 min., Monday and Friday, 5:30–5:45 P.M., CBS, 1932).

26446 Valentino: Prisoner of Romance. Romantic ballad singer Barry Valentino was ABC's answer to The Continental. Romance was both in the air and on the air when the program was broadcast. Arlene Woods wrote the program; Vincent Lopez was the producer; and Robert Greiner the director (25 min., Monday through Friday, 2:35–3:00 P.M., ABC, 1952).

26447 Valiant Lady. The Valiant Lady (CBS, NBC ABC, 1938–1952) daytime serial told the story of Joan Blake, the wife of Dr. Truman Scott. Joan needed all the bravery she could muster to face the vicissitudes caused her by her jealous husband. Joan Blaine originated the title role, followed in turn by Joan Banks and Florence Freeman.

Located in the small town of Pine River, Valiant Lady contained the usual disasters and disorders inflicted upon daytime serial heroines. Over the years the cast included: Charme Allen, Joan Banks, Alan Reed (Teddy Bergman), Joan Blaine, Martin Blaine, John Brewster, Linda Carlon, Charles Carroll, Kingsley Colton, Cathleen Cordell, Eric Dressler, Jean Ellyn, Elspeth Eric, Parker Fennelly, Florence Freeman, Charlotte Garrity, Elsie Mae Gordon, Richard Gordon, Jackie Grimes, Elsa Grsi, Albert Hayes, Milton Herman, Ethel Intropidi, Raymond Edward Johnson, Bill Johnstone, A.T. Kaye, Jackie Kelk, Elaine Kent, Adelaide Klein, Joan Lazer, Bernard Lenrow, Gene Leonard, Frank Lovejoy, Judith Lowry, Jerry Macy, Kate McComb, Craig McDonnell, Jeannette McGrady, Shirling Oliver, Ethel Owen, Bartlett Robinson, William Shelley, Everett Sloane, Sidney Slon, Clifford Stork, Maurice Tarplin, James Trantor, Luis Van Rooten, Charles Webster, Dwight Weist, Ned Wever, Irene Winston and Lawson Zerbe. Rikel Kent, Roy Lockwood and Ernest Ricca were the directors. The writers were Lawrence Klee, Addy Richton, Lynn Stone and Howard Teichmann. The theme was played by Jesse Crawford — “The Poet of the Organ.”

26450 Vallee, Rudy (Hubert Prior Vallee). The popular crooner and leader of the Rudy Vallee Connecticut Yankees Orchestra made his first appearance on the air on WABC (New York, NY, February, 1928) from New York's Heigh Ho Club. Within a few months, Vallee's band also appeared on WOR (Newark, NJ, 1928) and WMCA (New York, NY). Among the musicians that performed with his popular band during this period were: Vallee,ldr., clr., as. and vcls.; Don Moore, t.; Hal Matthews, tb.; Joe Miller, ts.; Manny Lowy and Jules DeVorzon, v.; Cliff Burwell, p.; Charles Peterson, bj.; Harry Patent, tba.; and Ray Toland, d. Other vocals were provided by George Morrow and Sleepy Ward.

Vallee gained his greatest popularity while playing at the Heigh Ho Club, East 53rd Street, New York City and broadcasting a program with that name (Heigh Ho Club, WABC, New York, NY, 1928). Lacking money for an announcer on the program, Vallee was forced to announce his own show with his customary opening, “Heigh ho, everybody” and introduce all his musical numbers himself. Since Vallee was broadcasting from New York's Heigh Ho Club, the origin of his familiar opening, “Heigh-Ho, Everybody” can be easily understood. Vallee's announcing chores enhanced his popularity and quickly elevated him to the status of romantic singing star. By 1928, the band, now known as Rudy Vallee and His Connecticut Yankees, opened at Keita's 81st Street Theater to large crowds. That year he also signed with NBC to star on the Fleischmann Hour.

One of Vallee's contributions to American radio was his introduction with the Fleischmann Hour of the variety show format that featured many stars. (The Fleischmann Hour was sometimes known as the Rudy Vallee Hour.) The sponsor was Standard Brands to promote their Fleischmann's Yeast for Health product (NBC-Red, 1929–1936). The band also had other programs as well (Rudy Vallee Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., NBC-Blue, 1934–1936). Vallee on March 20, 1940 began his Scaltest Show that featured such guests as Lionel Barrymore, Orson Welles, Billie Burke, Charles Laughton, John Barrymore was a regular cast member on the show that was produced by Ed Gardner. In later years Vallee, like so many others, became a DJ (Rudy Vallee, 30 min., Monday through Friday, 11:15–11:45 A.M., WOR, New York, NY, 1950). See also The Fleischmann Hour.

26684 Vic and Sade. No family on any of radio's many daytime serials was more beloved than the Gooks, "Radio's home folks," who "lived halfway up the next block" on Virginia Avenue in Crooper, Illinois, the fictional creation of author Paul Rhymer. The Gook Family consisted of Vic, his wife Sade and their adopted son Rush. Victor Rodney Gook was the chief accountant of the bookkeeping department of the Consolidated Kitchenware Company, Plant Number 14. By 1935, Vic had held the job for about ten years. His salary was $39 a week. At age 37, he was reconciled to his situation in "the little rivulet of life that flowed along Virginia Avenue."

Sade was a good cook, a little whiney and a gossip. She was inspired by Rhymer's mother, Son Rush, on the other hand, was inspired by the author's son. Rush was an adopted son, for Rhymer originally had only Vic and Sade on the program when the series first began in 1932. Realizing that he needed another character to provide greater flexibility in the program, Rhymer had the couple adopt Rush. Rhymer's whimsically warm-hearted look at the Gook family, their friends and acquaintances and the slightly off-center world they inhabited was a genuine contribution to American humor. The author's keen insight into human nature and his warm good humor made Vic and Sade one of radio's finest programs.

Rhymer also filled the Gooks' world with interesting characters, but few of them ever appeared on the show. Rush, for example, had such buddies as Smelly Clark, Bluetooth Johnson, Freeman Scudder and Orville Wheanie. His dog's name was Mr. Albert Johnson. Sade and her friend, Sadie, frequently attended the Wash Rag Sale at Yamleton's Department Store. Although they never appeared on the program, other characters that were frequently discussed were the garbage man, Mr. Gumpox; Ishigan Fishigan of Sishigan, Michigan; Vic's secretary Lolita Sterienzi; Cora Bucksaddle, the pretty divorcee and Gus Plink the town drunk. An important character that did appear on the show was Uncle Fletcher, who spent much of his time at the Bright Kentucky Hotel and most of his time talking even when he was supposed to be listening. The roles of Vic and Sade were played by Art Van Harvey and Bernardine Flynn. Rush was originally played by Billy Idelson and Uncle Fletcher by Clarence Hartzell.

Although Rhymer is rarely given the credit his work warranted, he is one of America's finest humorists. He seldom is accorded that honor, because much of his work was either never recorded, lost or destroyed. Vic and Sade was first broadcast in 1932 as a 15-minute weekday daytime serial on NBC with each program's story complete in itself. During part of the 1930s, it was broadcast simultaneously on both NBC and CBS. The program went off the air in 1944, although a short-lived attempt to revive it as a 30-minute evening program was made in 1946 on MBS.

Crisco shortening was the sponsor. The opening included the announcer saying: "And now, folks, get ready to smile again with radio's home folks, Vic and Sade, written by Paul Rhymer."

The program's announcers were Bob Brown, Ralph Edwards, Jack Fuller, Ed Herlihy, Roger Krupp, Charlie Lyon and Glenn Riggs. The directors were Clarence Menser, Earl Ebi, Charles Rinehart and Roy Winsor, and the producer was Clint Stanley. When Edelson went into service, the role of Rush was played by Johnny Coons and Sid Koss. Carl Kroemke, Ruth Perrot and David Whitehouse also appeared on the program (NBC-Blue, CBS, MBS, 1932–1944, 1946).

26685 Vic Damone and Hollace (Vivien) Shaw. These two talented singers were featured on the music show (30 min., Saturday, 7:30–8:00 P.M., NBC, 1949).

26686 Vick, Richard V. "Dick." Sportscaster (KGEZ, Kalispell, MT, 1951–1956).

26702 Victor Salon Orchestra. Nathaniel (Nat) Shilkret directed the Victor recording orchestra (WEAF, New York, NY, 1925).

26703 Victory Parade of Spotlight Bands (aka Spotlight Bands). The series of big band broadcasts presented the greatest American swing bands of the World War II period. Some of these included the bands of: Johnny Richards, George Olsen, Del Courtney, Charlie Spivak, Louis Prima, Jimmy Joy, Tomny Tucker, Jan Garber, Clyde Lucas, Will Osborne, Bob Strong, Denny Beckner, Lawrence Welk and Jan Savitt. This was only a sample of the many bands that appeared on the program. One of the outstanding programs in the series presented the Esquire All-Stars playing from the Metropolitan Opera House with such outstanding jazz musicians as Art Tatum, Coleman Hawkins, Louis Armstrong, Jack Teagarden, Benny Goodman, Roy Eldridge, Barney Bigard and singer Mildred Bailey. 26717 Villa Tango Orchestra. Instr. mus. prg. (WFIL, Philadelphia, PA, 1936).

26718 (The) Village Grove Nut Club. The wacky program, originating from the Village Grove night club on Sheridan Square in New York's Greenwich Village, contained a mix of music and raucous humor. Some of the good music was played by saxophonist Danny Baker and jazz pianist Benny Monk. Although it started in the late 1920s, the program was still going strong in 1931. It has best been described as "spontaneous, inane and funny." The program was an example of the zaniness displayed by many of the late night radio shows broadcast during the Roaring Twenties. Listeners to the popular program carried by New York stations WHN, WAAI and WMCA could hear the sound of the club's merry-makers, some of the oddest group of entertainers and some of the strangest antics that ever appeared on radio. The comedians and various sharp-witted hosts included Buddy Walker, Lou Dolgoff, "Nutsy" Fagan and "King Solomon the Wise Guy" (Cliff Clifton). Also on hand were LehighVallee, "a distant cousin of Rudy" and a waiter who went by the name of Albert the Pancake Juggler, who was undoubtedly one of the grandest nuts on the program. La Belle Rose, a Scots female impersonator, was particularly engaging when snapping his upper dental plate while singing in an off-key soprano voice.

All the hosts and comedians kept up an almost constant string of abuse and insults aimed at the club's patrons, when they were not spouting wise cracks or participating in wild comedy sketches. The program was a forerunner of the highly popular late night radio programs (180 min., Monday and Thursday, 11:00–2:00 A.M., WAAI, New York, NY; WHN, New York, NY and WMCA, New York, NY, middle and late 1920s and early 1930s). Meyer Horowitz, owner of the Village Grove, also directed the show. He later opened another popular night club in Greenwich Village, the Village Barn, where many other popular radio shows originated.

26719 Village Grovers. The popular New York band led by Larry Funk was also known as the Band of a 1,000 Melodies (WMCA, New York, NY and WPCII, New York, NY, 1928). See also Band of a 1,000 Melodies.

26775 (The) Voice of Columbia. A masked announcer, not identified, was heard regularly over CBS (1928).

26776 (The) Voice of Columbia. A special music program, the Voice of Columbia featured both dance and symphony orchestras, their instrumental soloists and vocalists (30 min., Thursday, 10:00–10:30 P.M., CBS, 1930). A later format featured George Jessel as host and such weekly guest stars as Gertrude Niesen, Mary Eastman and Nick Lucas. The Freddie Rich band supplied the music (60 min., Sunday, 8:00–9:00 P.M., CBS, 1934).

26777 (The) Voice of Experience. Marion Sayle Taylor, who was the Voice of Experience, was innovative in that he frequently discussed topics that previously had been either avoided or restricted. Perhaps Taylor could do so, because of the careful manner in which he treated them. Listeners wrote him asking his advice. They inquired about problems of all types. Frigidity and the "other woman" were some examples. Previously it had been rare that sex was discussed on radio in any manner.

In addition to his radio broadcasts, he provided a series of pamphlets with additional information that he sent listeners who sent him a three-cent stamp. The topics of these pamphlets ranged from "Stuttering and Stammering" to "Gossip." Titles of the some of the many pamphlets he offered his listeners were: "Ten Rules for a Happy Marriage," "From Boyhood to Manhood," "From Girlhood to Womanhood," "Why Take Your Own Life?," "The Do's and Don'ts of Courtship," "Insomnia," "The Art of Growing Old Gracefully," "Alcoholism," "The Nervous Child," and "The Child Who Lies or Steals."

Taylor was a self-educated sociologist with a medical background. He distributed thousands of dollars to the needy, much of which had been contributed by his many generous listeners. Taylor exemplified the best possible do-gooder, who really did something to help people. He did not only talk about it.

The Voice of Experience was a forerunner of the very best advice programs that were to come later on radio. Taylor did more than merely discuss a problem. He also dispensed valuable advice based on his own life experience. He began his CBS run in 1933 (15 min., Monday through Saturday, CBS, 1933–1936; NBC, 1936; MBS, 1937–1940). (15 min., Monday through Friday, 9:45–10:00 A.M., NBC, 1930s). He was said to receive some 5,000 messages daily during the period of his greatest popularity. See also Taylor, Marion Sayle.

26778 (The) Voice of Firestone (aka Firestone Concert in its early days). The long-running program was first broadcast December 24, 1928. Although it eventually contained classical and semi-classical selections, it began as a popular music program, as can be seen by its first featured singers and orchestra conductor. Vaughn DeLeath and Franklin Baur were the first vocal stars with Hugo Mariani conducting the orchestra. Mariani conducted the orchestra on the program from 1928 to 1930, a total of 77 programs. Sponsored by the Firestone Tire Company, the program's first themes of "Memory Lane" and "In My Garden," were both written by Mrs. Harvey Firestone. They were replaced in 1941 by "If I Could Tell You," also written by Mrs. Firestone.

Vaughn DeLeath, the first female singer featured on the program, was a genuine radio pioneer. Lee De Forest called her "the first person to sing for people and continents invisible" (Archer, 1928, p. 133). In addition to her crooning, DeLeath also was a composer, who had several of her compositions performed during the first years the program was on the air. While appearing on The Voice of Firestone (1928–1930), she was also singing on a program sponsored by Forhan's tooth paste. Tenor Franklin Baur came to the program with considerable musical comedy stage experience. He already had appeared in the Ziegfeld Follies, been a busy Victor recording artist and a sometime vocalist with the Paul Whiteman band.

Veteran radio tenor Oliver Smith occasionally substituted for Baur on some programs. Graham McNamee was the program's first announcer in 1928. He was replaced by Edmund "Tiny" Ruffner, who was the program's announcer from 1928 to 1930. During the first three years of The Voice of Firestone, NBC duplicated the weekly program's selections for the Pacific Coast Network with singers Easton Kent and Jerry Germaine. After 1930, one cast did both broadcasts. Some of the later artists to appear on the program were Richard Crooks, Margaret Speaks, Christopher Lynch and Eleanor Steber. The later musical conductors on the program included Howard Barlow, William Daley and Alfred Wallenstein. Hugh James was the announcer. The writer and director was Edwin L. Dunham. The program continued with some changes in artists and musicians until its final radio broadcast on June 10, 1957 (60 min., Weekly, NBC, 1928–1954; ABC, 1954–1957).

26779 (The) Voice of Pan. Flutist Anthony Linden starred on the instrumental music show (15 min., Saturday, 7:00–7:15 P.M., NBC–Pacific Coast Network, 1930).

26780 (The) Voice of Prophecy. H.M.S. Richards' Voice of Prophecy program began in 1942. It brought national recognition to the Seventh Day Adventists religious group. The program continued to disseminate their message on radio and television until the 1980s.

26781 (The) Voice of Romance. On the interesting music program, an unidentified "mystery singer" performed to the accompaniment of romantic string music (15 min., Wednesday, 11:00–11:15 P.M., ABS, 1934). Maurice Abrams became the Voice of Romance the following year (NBC, 1935).

26782 (The) Voice of the Air. Designation for popular Chicago announcer Philip Friedlander. (WBBM, Chicago, IL, 1926).

26783 (The) Voice of the Army. The program was designed to provide citizens with information about their nation's army. Cpl. Jacques Finke and Sgt. Louis Peletier were the writers. Transcribed the program was broadcast on a sustaining basis by 880 local and network stations. Some of the guests who appeared on the program were: Jackie Cooper, Bobby Breen, John Carradine, Johnny Guarnerieri, Abe Burrows, Walter Abel, Edward R. Murrow and Myron McCormick. Begun during the World War II era, the program continued into the following decades.

26784 (The) Voice of the Community. Community Opticians, Inc. sponsored the interview program. Jim Donovan conducted theater lobby interviews to obtain opinions on various questions of community interest (15 min., Tuesday, 12:30–12:45 P.M., WELI, New Haven, CT, 1938).

26785 Voice of the Dairy Farmer. The program for dairy farmers provided both information and entertainment (15 min., Sunday, 1:00–1:15 P.M., NBC-Red, 1945).

26786 Voice of the Farmer. Farm information was broadcast on the program sponsored by the American Farm Bureau Federation (KYW, Chicago, IL, 1923).

26788 Voice of the News at KGY. Newsman Sam Crawford began broadcasting the news on KGY in 1932 and continued to do so for some 16 years (KGY, Seattle, WA, 1932-1948).

26789 Voice of the People (aka Vox Pop). Jerry Belcher and Parks Johnson originated and developed the program in Houston. It came to NBC in 1935 sponsored by Standard Brands (30 min., Sunday, 7:30-8:00 P.M., NBC, 1935). After the program's beginning as a summer replacement for the Joe Penner Show, it began a regular run on the network. Originally the program was called Sidewalk Interviews, before becoming the Voice of the People or Vox Pop. Belcher eventually was replaced by Wally Butterworth, who, in turn, was replaced, first, by Neil O'Malley and, later, by Warren Hull. The various announcers that appeared on the show over the years were Roger Krupp, Dick Joy and Roger Brackett.

When Johnson and Butterworth became a team, they wrote some of their questions out in advance and knew exactly the kind of persons they wanted to interview. Some of the questions they asked included "Of the 130,000,000 people in the U.S., how many would you say are in jail?" (At the time, the answer was only 200,000.) "By whom was the expression, 'Knock, knock, who's there?' first used?" (Shakespeare in Macbeth, Act 2, Scene 3.) "In a train of 51 cars going up a steep hill with an engine both in front and behind is the 26th (middle) car pushed or pulled?" (Competent railroaders said it was pulled.) Johnson and Butterworth gave the persons they interviewed no rewards other than a tube of shaving cream. At one time they gave a five dollar bill to the person to whom they were talking when an alarm clock went off. This was stopped when complaints were made that this was a lottery and therefore illegal. After Butterworth left the show, Johnson continued to operate in the same manner. Belcher, who had left Johnson in 1937, created and hosted his own Interesting People Show that was similar in format to Vox Pop.

26790 Voice of the Terkel. Studs Terkel, who later became justifiably popular as a stimulating radio talk show host, was a DJ on this particular show (30 min., Sunday, 12:00-12:30 P.M., WENR, Chicago, IL, 1951).

26791 Voices Down the Wind. Baritone William Wright, coloratura soprano Frances Keelan and an all-string instrumental group conducted by Edward A. Rice appeared on the sustaining music show (30 min., Sunday, 10:30-11:00 A.M., NBC, 1948).

26792 Voices from Filmland. Broadcast from Hollywood the variety show featured famous motion picture stars. Singer Anita Page accompanied by the Bilmore Trio provided the music (30 min., Monday, 7:30-8:00 P.M., CBS, 1929-1930).

26793 Voices of Yesterday. Robert Vincent's collection of historical recordings were used on the interesting sustaining program. Voices of such historical personages as Theodore Roosevelt, William Jennings Bryan and P.T. Barnum were broadcast (15 min., Thursday, 8:45-9:00 P.M., WHN, New York, NY, 1938).

26794 Voigt, Don. DJ (WLTC, Gastonia, NC, 1955).

- 26949 Walker, Ed. DJ, comedian and humorist (Joy Boys, WRC, Washington, DC, 1958-1972; WWDC, Washington, DC, 1972-1974). Talented DJ and humorist Ed Walker never allowed his blindness to stop him from pursuing his busy broadcasting career. Walker says his friendship with Willard Scott, an associate on The Joy Boys, was an important influence on his career. In 1952, Scott and Walker literally met on the air at the American University's campus station, WAMU, while both were undergraduates working on the Going AWOL show (Weekdays, 11:00-11:30 P.M., 1952). The show was later extended to Saturday and Sunday as well (Walker, 1997). From 1954 to 1954, Walker also did the campus radio's early morning show, before he moved on to WPGC (Morning Side, MD, 1954-1956) to do their morning show. Walker and Scott once again teamed together on the Tuo at One show on WRC (1955-1956). When Scott joined the Navy, Walker took over his Twilight Tunes DJ program on WRC (Washington, DC). After Scott returned from the Navy in 1958, he joined Walker to begin their Joy Boys show on WRC (1958). When the station changed its format in 1972, the show moved to WWDC (Washington, DC), where it remained on the air until 1974.
- During all the years the Joy Boys was on the air, Walker also worked as a DJ. When the show finally left the air in 1974, he continued his DJ chores on various programs and also worked on WMAL-TV and various cable television stations. Although he suffered a stroke in 1990 and experienced other health problems, Walker was still on the air in 1997. See also The Joy Boys.

27054 Walter, Rod. DJ (Hillbilly Heaven, KSRV, Ontario, OR, 1954; Party Line, KBBR, North Bend, OR, 1960).

27055 Walter White Show. Walter White, the Executive Secretary of the N.A.A.C.P., spoke and interviewed guests including Eleanor Roosevelt on the local program (15 min., Monday, 7:00-7:15 P.M., WLIB, New York, NY, 1952).

27056 Walter Winchell (aka The Jergens' Journal). Winchell was billed as "Radio's Little Boy Peep" on his early programs, which were called variously News of Broadway, the Gerardine Program or simply Broadway. These were the broadcasts where newspaperman Winchell's nurtured his radio style (15 min., Tuesday, 8:45-9:00 P.M., CBS, 1931).

During the 1930s and 1940s, at the height of Winchell's greatest popularity he possessed enormous power that he often used ruthlessly, both on radio and in his newspaper column. After FDR became president, Winchell became his booster. He gained Roosevelt's favor before the United States entered World War II, by his strong pro-Allied praise and anti-Axis blasts. After Roosevelt's death, Winchell attacked President Truman, supported Joseph McCarthy and became increasingly right-wing politically. These actions were directly in opposition to the liberal philosophical positions he had advanced earlier in his columns and on radio.

Winchell developed a strong friendship with J. Edgar Hoover and glorified the G-Men whenever he could. In 1955, he left ABC in a huff and moved to Mutual. When he tried television he was unsuccessful, his style out-of-date and old-fashioned. But it was this very style that he used to great effect with his narration on the popular Untouchables TV program. By the late 1960s, he had lost his column and was suffering poor broadcast ratings at Mutual. When he finally quit the show at age 70, he had lost his liberal friends and most of his other old allies had died. The once influential Winchell was essentially isolated and powerless. It was a sad fate for someone who had enjoyed such great radio success as early as 1933.

From the beginning of his career, Winchell created new words and catch phrases that became part of the language. At first, he greeted his listeners with, "Hello, Mr. and Mrs. America." In the 1940s, he expanded the greeting to, "Hello, Mr. and Mrs. America and all the ships at sea. Let's go to press." By this time his opening was always preceded by the meaningless signaling of a telegraph key.

He popularized such words as "whoopee" and "blessed event." He also introduced "bundle from heaven" and "storked." When a marriage was in trouble, Winchell said it was "soured" or "wilted." He spoke of mistresses as "keptives;" gangsters as "chicagorillas;" Nazis as "swasticoaties;" Communists as "pinko stinkos;" and chorus girls as "terpsichorines" and "hatchicks." A movie was a "flicker" and liquor was "giggle water." If someone got a divorce, Winchell said they were "renovated."

On his Jergens' Journal program Winchell used such catch phrases as "Behind the diplomatic headlines," "Around the world in a minute," "I'll be back in a flash with a tip for the press." Announcer Ben Grauer typically opened Winchell's program this way, "The Jergens' Journal featuring Walter Winchell." After the staccato bursts of meaningless telegraphic signals, Winchell would then begin. Typically, he delivered his comments on political and show business news with a harsh, rapid-fire delivery. When closing the show, Winchell would say, "And with lotions of love, this is your favorite newsboy, Walter, telling you to take care of yourself, because if you don't, there's nobody else who will. Good-night now." At other times, he would close with a patriotic injunction such as:

And that ladies and gentlemen, winds up another Jergens Journal until next Sunday night at the very same time. Until then and with lotions of love, I remain your New York correspondent, Walter Winchell, who says, "History books say that Christopher Columbus discovered America. But all of us fortunate enough to live in it knows that he really discovered heaven."

Today, looking back at the period of Winchell's greatest popularity in the 1930s and 1940s, it is hard to imagine the power he possessed and the ruthlessness with which he used it. See also New York by a Representative New Yorker.

- 27109 Want Ad Column of the Air. Billy Kendall conducted the unique morning want ad show (KELW, Burbank, CA, 1932).
- 27110 Want to Write a Song? Veteran radio performer Vaughn DeLeath hosted the program for would-be songwriters. She said: "I myself am a member of the American Society of Composers, and in spite of the fact that one would expect me to have unusual success with my songs due to my ability to popularize them over the air, nine-tenths of my material remains unpublished. It is one thing to have a song accepted and then put away on the shelf and forgotten. It is another thing to have a campaign back of it — whereby a publisher's complete facilities reaching from coast-to-coast and all departments from radio, records, dance hall, hotels, amusement parks and theaters are working at full capacity to put it over as a smash hit." Admirably, the program did not offer unrealistic up-beat advice to would-be songwriters. Instead, realism was stressed (NBC, 1935). See also DeLeath, Vaughn.
- 27111 Wanzer, Hal. DJ (Request Club, KCOG, Centerville, IA, 1952). Sportscaster (WLSI, Pikeville, KY, 1953; KCOG, 1955; WLSI, 1956).

27218 Warrington, John. Saxophonist (WPG, Atlantic City, NJ, 1928).

27219 Wartime Radio. World War II radio can best be characterized as positive, up-beat patriotic. It contained equal parts of information and entertainment. During the first dark year of the war (1942) when the Allied cause had few victories to celebrate, music and comedy were important elements of the morale building performed by radio.

Popular music was supplied six times per week by the Victory Parade of Spotlight Bands—sometimes known merely as Spotlight Bands. The music originated from various military bases, defense plants or popular programs transcribed from network broadcasts that were carried by the Armed Forces Radio Service. Virtually all of the nation's most popular bands performed on the musical shows at one time or another [See also The Victory Parade of Spotlight Bands]. Another constant radio visitor to service installations was Bob Hope and his broadcast troupe. Although these programs made valuable contributions with their morale efforts, hundreds of other unheralded shows did likewise. Many of them, unfortunately, have been forgotten.

Among the many wartime programs devoted to civilian morale were public service broadcasts that stressed the need to buy war bonds, contribute to blood drives, conserve gasoline, etc. Information about the rationing of various foods and commodities, as well as the possibility of air raids were also broadcast. Radio often carried such messages as: "Plant your Victory Gardens now." "Bring your used kitchen fats to your grocer." "Back the attack. Buy more War Bonds."

Radio performers, programs and stations all contributed to the war effort. Kate Smith sold three million dollars worth of War Bonds when she appeared one day on WABC (New York, NY). Starting at 6:00 A.M., Smith was on the air for five minutes urging her listeners to telephone or telegraph their War Bond orders. During the remainder of the day and night until 2:00 A.M. the next day, she was on the air at 30 different times. Her manager, Ted Collins, alternated with her to make 22 additional appeals. Three weeks later, Smith sold $2,013,500 War Bonds when she conducted a similar appeal on WJSV (later WTOP) in Washington, DC.

The Wrigley Chewing Gum Company sponsored several programs devoted to contributions to the war effort made by the Navy, Air Force and defense plant workers: The First Line of Defense (U.S. Navy); America in the Air (Air Force); and Service to the Front (defense workers). Other CBS network wartime offerings were the Man Behind the Gun and Fashions in Rations. The sacrifices and tragedies of war were dramatized on daytime serial programs like Ma Perkins, when her son, John, was killed in battle and buried in an unmarked grave in Germany.

Individual stations also contributed to the war effort. WBBM (Chicago, IL) originated such programs for morale purposes as: War Jobs for Women: That Men May Live; The Midwest Mobilizes and similar dramatic programming infused with patriotic fervor. Some musical-variety shows from WBBM (Chicago, IL) also boosted morale:

The Chicago Hour was a musical program that featured songs of the United Nations.

The Victory Matinee was a weekday program that presented famous entertainers visiting Chicago and members of the Armed Forces away from home.

The Salute to Victory and the Navy Community Sing were lively quarter-hour patriotic music programs.

There were many other local and network programs broadcast across the nation that also made significant contributions to the war effort. Some of these were as follows:

America in the Air. The World War II program, broadcast on various Pacific Coast stations, dramatized various air corps adventures. The director was Les Weinrott. Cesare Petrillo's orchestra supplied the music. Buddy Clark and Mike Wallace appeared on the show at various times.

Cadets in Formation. Lt. Marshall B. Shantz, an instructor at the Advanced Twin Engine School of the U.S. Army, Lubbock, Texas, was host of the quiz. Two teams of aviation cadets competed on each show (KFYO, Lubbock, TX, 1942).

Call to the Colors. The names of the local men who had enlisted in the various armed services the previous day were read on this daily feature. Patriotic march music was played as the roll call was read (15 min., Daily, KLZ, Denver, CO, 1942).

Camp Cross Roads. The program directed by Marcus Bartlett consisted of six four-minute interviews conducted at the Service Men's Center of the Atlanta War Recreation Committee. The station would notify their parents in advance when interviews of their offspring would be broadcast (WSB, Atlanta, GA, 1942).

Civilian Defense. Under the auspices of the Los Angeles City Defense Council, the weekly 15-minute program was presented as a public service for civilian air raid wardens, auxiliary police and fire watchers (KFI, Los Angeles, CA, 1942).

Doctors at War. A series of medical dramas was presented by NBC under the auspices of the American Medical Association. The first program broadcast stressed the importance of blood donations with its theme, "Give your blood to a soldier." The narrator was Dr. W.W. Bauer, the AMA's director of health education (NBC, Transcribed, 1942-1943).

Food Goes to War. Food authority Ethel Morrison Marsden suggested how to prepare and serve meats, vegetables, canned foods and various substitutes for war rationed items (WTMJ, Milwaukee, WI, 1942).

Fort Bragg Cavalcade. Each week servicemen were interviewed at Fort Bragg by Corporal Peter Witt who also produced the weekly 30-minute show (WPTE, Raleigh, NC, 1942).

Ft. Leavenworth Salutes. The weekly show about the post's activities and history was intended for the parents and relatives of servicemen. It was presented by service men, most of whom had been professionals in civilian life. Major James A. Elliott and WREN's John Bondeson produced and directed the show (WREN, Lawrence, KS, 1942).

Giants of Freedom. Freedom House and the Treasury Department presented the program on which war aims were discussed by prominent persons from the point of view of famous Americans such as George Washington and Daniel Webster. Some of the prominent Americans who appeared on the series were Wendell Wilkie, Carl Van Doren and Fannie Hurst (15 min., Monday, 4:30-4:45 P.M., CBS, World War II era).

Hale America. Physical culturist Harry Grabner conducted the physical fitness program sponsored jointly by four of Fort Wayne's major war industries. Exercise charts were distributed both to listeners and employees of the sponsors (WGIL, Fort Wayne, IN, 1942).

(The) Home Front. Dr. Preston Bradley, known for his inspirational messages hosted The Home Front program, an effort to maintain civilian morale and also to let the men in service know that the people back home were working for them. Guests were interviewed each week about the contributions they were making to the war effort. For example, a housewife was interviewed who cooked six meals a day for her family of split shift war workers and still found time to operate a filling station (WLS, Chicago, IL, 1942).

Lumberjacks. The Meek Lumber Company sponsored the salute to its employees in the armed services. Brief biographies of each serviceman was broadcast, along with a discussion of the part they are playing in the war effort. The company also used the program to emphasize that their jobs would be waiting for them when the war was over. After each salute was completed, the former employee's favorite song was played (15 min., Three times weekly, KWTO-KGBX, Springfield, MO, 1942).

Meet Joe Doakes. A series broadcast in cooperation with the Ohio State Council of Defense, Meet Joe Doakes was designed to promote civilian morale and local community pride. The program presented dramatic episodes, informative defense announcements, music and salutes to various Ohio communities (WBNS, Columbus, OH, 1942-1943).

Melody Mainliner. Melody Mainliner was a weekly variety show broadcast from Turner Field, Georgia. Private Matthew Huttner hosted the program featuring the talent of servicemen (30 min., Weekly, WALB, Albany, NY, 1942).

Molasses 'n' January—Advisors to the Home Front. Pick Malone and Pat Padgett presented their brand of comedy built around such topics as "Cooking Advice for Husbands of Defense Workers" (5 min., Five Times Weekly, NBC-Blue, 1942).

Mothers of America. Home economist Lee Spencer conducted interviews with mothers of servicemen at the USO studios in Portsmouth, New Hampshire (WHEP, Portsmouth, OH, 1942).

Music to Work By. The National Association of Manufacturers arranged to have the program played for workers in 700 plants every day (30 min., Three times weekly, 4:00-4:30 A.M., WOR, New York, NY, 1942). Broadcasting (July 27, 1942, p. 16) said: "The music, which is gay and rhythmical, has an important psychological effect and is designed to reduce the workers' 'lag' period, thereby actually increasing their work."

Navy of the Sky. Navy Air Cadet recruiting in Chicago was the objective of the 15-minute program broadcast twice weekly. It presented interviews of applicants, officers and cadets. The cadets explained what they did during their examination and induction (15 min., Twice Weekly, WBBM, Chicago, IL, 1943).

On the Home Front. News about men in service was interspersed with martial music and jokes. Government announcements about salvage, price controls and rationing were also presented (KGFV, Kearney, NE, 1942).

Red Barber. On Wednesday, August 5, 1942, Barber was broadcasting a Brooklyn Dodgers-New York Giants twilight baseball game over WHN (New York, NY). For the two hours and five minutes of the broadcast, Barber told his listeners to phone in their pledges to buy War Bonds and send their checks to WHN. By the end of the broadcast, the station's switchboard was jammed. They received pledges totaling $58,000.

Salute to Victory. The two-hour Saturday night music program was sponsored by the Ball Crank Company for the "MacArthur Shift War Workers." Its theme was "Arms for the Love of America" (120 min., Monday through Friday, 12:00-2:00 A.M., WSAI, Cincinnati, OH, 1943).

(The) Spirit of 1942. The Spirit of 1942 was a patriotic series featured various military bands and documentary broadcasts from various military bases (CBS, 1942). The following year the program's title became The Spirit of 1943.

Sports Quiz. Jack Starr, sports editor of station KXOK, conducted the sports quiz for soldiers in nearby army camps surrounding St. Louis, Missouri. Griesedieck Brothers Brewery sponsored the program (KXOK, St. Louis, MO, 1942).

Stump the Cadets. A quiz program that presented Air Force cadets as contestants, Stump the Cadets was intended to promote interest in the Army Air Force (30 min., Weekly, WLAC, Nashville, TN, 1942).

This Is Fort Dix. Servicemen entertainers and interviewees from the New Jersey army camp were presented (WOR, New York, NY, 1942).

(A) Toast to Your Health. Health in wartime was the focus of the public service feature that was presented under the auspices of the Worcester Health Department. Dr. Vlado A. Getting, city health commissioner, hosted the series. Information about food, sanitation and dental hygiene was presented (15 min., Weekly, WTAG, Worcester, MA, 1942).

Victory First. Each night the names of local War Bond purchasers were broadcast on the program (Daily, KOY, Phoenix, AZ, 1942).

Victory Volunteers. The NBC series was presented in cooperation with the OWI (Office of War Information) to promote various forms of volunteer service on the home front. CBS also cooperated with OWI to present a version of it in their Victory Front Program. Many famous actors from radio's daytime shows volunteered their services and appeared on these programs (1942).

War Bonds Brigade. The First National Bank of Louisville sponsored the program designed to promote the sale of War Bonds. Each program began with a chorus singing "We're All Americans," followed by military band music. Announcements were then made to explain the different types of bonds available and to urge listeners to "shoulder arms to wipe the Axis from the face of the earth" (10 min., Monday through Friday, 5:45-5:55 P.M., WAVE, Louisville, KY, 1942).

War Workers Streamliner. A program that presented streamlined sports, news and music designed for war workers, each one took place on an imaginary train. The train's "conductor" was Mary Conn (WGL, Fort Wayne, IN, 1942).

What's Your War Job? NBC-Blue inaugurated the weekly series in cooperation with the U.S. Employment Service and the War Manpower Commission to demonstrate the importance of wartime jobs to the nation's war effort. Milo Boulton hosted the program of real life dramatizations and light orchestral music. The dramatic episodes showed how many persons successfully adapted to wartime jobs. Questions about available war work were also answered for listeners (NBC-Blue, 1942).

Words in the News. Words appearing in newspapers and magazines and heard on radio were submitted by listeners of the program. These words were then presented to a studio audience, who were given the opportunity to win prizes for correct definitions (KOMA, Oklahoma City, OK, 1942).

Radio's daytime serials also made distinct contributions to the nation's war effort in World War II. The Army found daytime serials useful for civilian morale purposes, because so many women had seen husbands, brothers and other male relatives and friends go off to war. Many women were left with little or no information about how their men were clothed and fed, or how they coped with the everyday routine activities in service. In order to remedy this lack of information, the War Department appointed daytime serial experts Frank and Anne Hummert to act as consultants, who would share their expertise with the government's Radio Branch.

First, the Hummerts had informative morale messages inserted in many regular daytime serials in the speeches of the program's main characters. Second, they assisted in the development of new daytime serials with the express purpose of maintaining and improving civilian morale. One of the most successful daytime serials developed was Chaplain Jim, USA. This program in dramatic form answered letters from relatives seeking servicemen with whom they had lost contact. At other times the listeners' letters asked moral questions.

Unknown to many civilians during World War II, the Armed Forces Radio Service (AFRS) was created to provide radio broadcasts for servicemen, both in the United States and throughout the world. Armed Forces Radio Service had its origin in the early part of the war (1942), when the War Department formed a Morale Branch, that later became Special Services. One function of the Morale Branch was to produce transcribed material to be circulated and broadcast for servicemen's entertainment. World Records produced transcriptions of regular network broadcasts for them at first. It is interesting to note that the first transcriptions made were of the Coca-Cola Spotlight Bands series, which later was known as the Victory Parade of Spotlight Bands. Later, special programs such as Command Performance, GI Journal, Mail Call, Jubilee and GI Jill's Jive (sometimes called Jill's Juke Box) were specially produced, recorded and broadcast on Armed Forces Radio.

The first transcribed programs were identified as a production of the Special Services Division of the War Department of the United States. In November, 1943, they began to be identified simply as produced by the Armed Forces Radio Service. From the day of its inception until after the Korean War, many talented broadcasters were affiliated with Armed Forces Radio. Some of them were: Hy Averback, Andre Baruch, William Conrad, Hans Conreid, Richard Crenna, Dennis Day, Howard Duff, Jamie Farr, George Kennedy, Elliot Lawrence and Meredith Willson.

The first AFRS station, AFN London, began operation July 4, 1943. As American troops advanced across France toward Germany, the stations followed them. Stations also operated in the Pacific War theater and moved to wherever American servicemen were found. Many of the station's offerings included regular network broadcasts, such as the Jack Benny Show, Your Hit Parade and the Bob Hope Show without commercial messages. In addition to these regular programs, others were developed for broadcast only by AFRS that were not heard on American commercial radio. Probably the best known of these special programs were Command Performance, Mail Call, Melody Roundup, Personal Album, Yarns for the Yanks, Frontline Theater, Song Sheet (with Bing Crosby and Johnny Mercer); We Who Fight, Music for Sunday and Jubilee.

Jubilee was an AFRS show designed for Black GIs, whose performers in the beginning were all Blacks. This policy changed in later years as other musicians and comedians appeared on the show. One of the best remembered hosts of the show was Ernie Whitman. Some of the performers who appeared on the program were: Eddie "Rochester" Anderson, Louis Armstrong, George Auld, Bill Barnett, Joan Barton, John Beal, Barney Bigard, Mel Blanc, Bob Cats, Mervyn Bogue (Ish Kabibble), Dan Burley, Ben Carter, Charioteers, Nat Cole Trio, Bing Crosby, Beryl Davis, Freddie Davis, Delta Rhythm Boys, Johnny Desmond, Billy Eckstine, Duke Ellington, Ernie Felice Quartet, Ella Fitzgerald, Fort Huachuca Band, Four Blazes, Slim Gaillard, Ed Gardner, Erroll Gardner Trio, Vivian Garry Trio, Harry "The Hipster" Gibson, Golden Gate Quartet, Dan Grissom, Lionel Hampton, Tonie Roquelle Harper, Earl Hines, Lena Horne, Helen Humes, Ginny Jackson, Ida James, JAIP All Stars, Herb Jeffries, Mae Johnson, Louie Jordan, Barney Kessel, Kay Kyser, Laine Sisters, Peggy Lee, Jean Louise, Hattie McDaniel, Sam Deacon McDaniels, Butterfly McQueen, Mel-lolarks, the Mills Brothers, Marion Morgan, Ella Mae Morse, Kid Ory Creole Jazz Band, Penny Piper, Joey Preston, Lorry Raine, Sugar Chile Robinson, Jane Russell, Santa Ana Swing Wing, Linda Stevens, Maxine Sullivan, Joe Sullivan, Art Tatum, Jean Taylor, Sister Rosetta Tharpe, Martha Tilton, Velvetones, Fats Waller, Annette Warren, Ethel Waters, Frances Wayne, Josh White, Mary Lou Williams and the Williams Brothers.

There were some memorable moments on programs developed for AFRS, but three are best remembered. One was the time on Command Performance when Ann Sheridan fried a steak to fulfill a request made by a GI. Another unique request fulfilled was the soldier's request to hear the sounds of his home town. Another was Bob Hope's suggestion, "If you want Ginny Sims to sing a song, just tear off the top of a Zero [Japanese fighter plane] and write your request on the back of it." Even though this was sometimes attributed to Edward Arnold, the result was that for months thereafter various pieces of enemy war planes were sent to the program with requests.

Command Performance, probably the best of all AFRS programs, was first broadcast March 8, 1942, from 11 shortwave stations. That number eventually reached 40 stations broadcasting all over the world by short wave. There were some 422 Command Performance programs broadcast before its last one on February 21, 1950. Almost all the stars of motion pictures, radio and theater appeared on it at one time or another. The stars who appeared most frequently were Dinah Shore, 35 times, followed closely by Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Jimmy Durante. Some of the others who appeared were: Abbott and Costello, Larry Adler, Fred Allen, Eddie "Rochester" Anderson, Kenny Baker, Count Basie, Robert Benchley, Jack Benny, Edgar Bergen and friends, Janet Blair, Mel Blanc, Victor Borge, Mervyn Bogue ("Ish Kabibble"), Connie (Connec) Boswell, Bob Burns, Charlie Cantor ("Clifton Finnegan"), Eddie Cantor, Jack Carson, Charioteers, Jerry Colonna, Cass Daley, Linda Darnell, Joan Davis, Dennis Day, Gloria DeHaven, Tommy Dorsey, Anita Ellis, June Foray, Helen Forrest, Judy Garland, Paulette Goddard, Bert Gordon ("The Mad Russian"), Betty Grable, Connie Haines, June Haver, Dick Haymes, Hoosier Hot Shots, Betty Hutton, Harry James, Spike Jones, Kay Kyser, Frances Langford, Lum 'n' Abner, Josef and Miranda Marais, Marilyn Maxwell, Marie McDonald, Johnny Mercer, Garry Moore, Ella Mae Morse, Virginia O'Brien, Donald O'Connor, Les Paul, Pied Pipers, Lina Romay, Shirley Ross, Frank Sinatra, Red Skelton, Bob Sweeney, Martha Tilton, Esther Williams and Meredith Willson.

Many different announcers appeared on Command Performance, but Ken Carpenter appeared many more times than any other with 145 appearances. Other announcers who appeared were: Sgt. Mel Allen, Hy Averback, Gene Baker, Andre Baruch, Frank Bingham, Tom Breneman, Hugh Brundage, Lou Crosby, Jack Daily, Paul Douglas, Jim Doyle, George Dvorak, Ben Gage, Bill Goodwin, Ted Husing, Jack McCoy, Marvin Miller, Bob Moon, Ken Niles, Wendell Niles, Rod O'Connor, Terry O'Sullivan, Howard Petrie, Hal Sawyer, Bob Shannon, Del Sharbutt, Bill Stewart, Ronnie Thomas, Larry Thor, Buddy Twiss, Dave Vaile, Harry Von Zell, Jimmy Wallington, Bob Widom and Don Willson.

Mail Call, although not as well known as Command Performance, presented the same performers. The program was designed to be a letter from the folks at home to servicemen wherever they might be. In order that Navy personnel not entirely be left out, at times the MC was called "The Skipper," and the show referred to as the Good Ship Mail Call. Among the frequent performers on Mail Call were: the AFRS Orchestra, Gracie Allen, Don Ameche, Gene Autry, Kenny Baker, Lionel Barrymore, Jack Benny, Edgar Bergen, Janet Blair, Bob Burns, George Burns, Charlie Cantor ("Clifton Finnegan"), Jack Carson, Jerry Colonna, Perry Como, Bing Crosby, Cass Daley, Dennis Day, Delta Rhythm Boys, Jimmy Durante, Nelson Eddy, Anita Ellis, Helen Forrest, Georgia Gibbs, Harry "the Hipster" Gibson, Paulette Goddard, Betty Grable, Kathryn Grayson, Connie Haines, Jack Haley, Dick Haymes, Harriet Hilliard, Lou Holtz, Bob Hope, Harry James, Allan Jones, Danny Kaye, King Sisters, Dorothy Lamour, Frances Langford, Peggy Lee, Fred MacMurray, Tony Martin, Groucho Marx, Marilyn Maxwell, Meltones, Johnny Mercer, Merry Macs, Carmen Miranda, Garry Moore, Ella Mae Morse, Music Maids, Virginia O'Brien, Les Paul, Pied Pipers, Roy Rogers, Lina Romay, Andy Russell, Dinah Shore, Frank Sinatra, Red Skelton, Sons of the Pioneers, Martha Tilton, Mel Torme and Chili Williams.

The announcers on Mail Call were: Ben Alexander, Sgt. Mel Allen, Hy Averbach, Ken Carpenter, John Conte, Bernard Dudley, Bill Goodwin, Tom Hanlon, Chet Huntley, Carlton Kaddell, Frank Nelson, Ken Niles, Howard Petrie, Del Sharbutt, Harry Von Zell, Harlow Wilcox and Don Wilson. Wilson was most often heard on the program, appearing more than twice as often as the runner-up, Harry von Zell.

About a year after Command Performance and Mail Call premiered, GI Journal was introduced by AFRS. Designed to be a servicemen's newspaper of the air, it contained news of various service personnel's activities and a liberal mix of music and comedy. Most of its performers also appeared on Command Performance and Mail Call. Harry Mitchell usually was the program's announcer, but Ken Niles and Verne Smith occasionally assumed the duty.

Another aspect of the entertainment provided for servicemen were the trips many entertainers made overseas to perform. Some of these traveling entertainers were: Franklin P. Adams, Larry Adler, Brian Aherne, Louise Albritton, Amos 'n' Andy, Morey Amsterdam, Judith Anderson, Andrews Sisters, Annabella, Fred Astaire, Gene Autry, Don Barclay, Joan Barton, Isobel Barttram, Jack Benny, Edgar Bergen, Ingrid Bergman, Joan Blondell, Ben Blue, Humphrey Bogart, Ray Bolger, Eddie Bracken, Mary Brian, Phyllis Brooks, Joe E. Brown, Charles Butterworth, James Cagney, Joseph Calleia, Ruth Carroll, Jack Carson, June Clyde, Jerry Colonna, Gary Cooper, Katherine Cornell, Bing Crosby, Linda Darnell, Pat Deering, Olivia DeLavilland, Andy Devine, Marlene Dietrich, Constance Dowling, Morton Downey, Paul Draper, James Dunn, Leo Durocher, Nelson Eddy, Clifton Fadiman, Jinx Falkenburg, Errol Flynn, Lynn Fontanne, Eddie Foy, Jr., Kay Francis, Jane Froman, Reginald Gardiner, John Garfield, William Gargan, Billy Gilbert, Paulette Goddard, Edwin Franco Goldman, Dan Goldenpaul, Jack Haley, Neil Hamilton, Oliver Hardy, Arlene Harris, Moss Hart, Lansing Hatfield, Jascha Heifetz, Sonja Heinie, Irene Harvey, Celeste Holm, Bob Hope, the Hoosier Hot Shots, Marsha Hunt, Betty Hutton, Allen Jenkins, Al Jolson, Allan Jones, Spike Jones, Boris Karloff, Danny Kaye, John Kieran, Clyde King, Andre Kostelanetz, Kay Kyser, Carole Landis, Frances Langford, Stan Laurel, Gertrude Lawrence, Anna Lee, Sam Levene, Joe E. Lewis, Beatrice Lillie, Ella Logan, Carole Lombard, Paul Lukas, Alfred Lunt, Edwin MacArthur, Irene Manning, Fredric March, Gypsy Markoff, Nino Martini, Chico Marx, Ilona Massey, Raymond Massey, Mitzi Mayfair, Adolphe Menjou, Yehudi Menuhin, Una Merkel, Mayo Methot, Ray Milland, Garry Moore, Grace Moore, Patricia Morrison, Guthrie McClintock, Joel McCrea, Dorothea McGuire, Frank McHugh, Ella McKenzie, Fay McKenzie, Florence McKinney, Mildred Natwick, Merle Oberon, Pat O'Brien, Martha O'Driscoll, Grand Ole Opry Units, Theodore Paxon, Al Pearce, Jane Pickens, Lily Pons, George Raft, Louise Rainer, Martha Raye, Ritz Brothers, Paul Robeson, Tony Romano, Charles Ruggles, Peggy Ryan, Al Schacht, Randolph Scott, Ann Sheridan, Robert Sherwood, Dinah Shore, Phil Silvers, Frank Sinatra, Red Skelton, Alex Templeton, Conrad Thibault, Danny Thomas, Martha Tilton, Spencer Tracy, Arthur Treacher, Leonard Warren, John Wayne, Bert Wheeler, Anna May Wong, Keenan Wynn, Vera Vague and Mary Van Kirk.

AFRS programs were transmitted on six different frequencies to London, New Zealand, Australia, the Solomons, New Guinea, Hawaii, Midway, Alaska and China to stations at these locations. The programs were then recorded and the recordings sent by Ferry Command and Air Express to various AFRS stations for broadcast to the troops. Some of the other programs broadcast on AFRS included:

Jill and Her GI Jive. The most popular Armed Forces Radio Service DJ was a beautiful blonde featured on the Jill and Her GI Jive show. GI Jill (Martha Wilkerson) had started a radio show of recorded music and talk with her husband at the beginning of World War II on San Francisco radio. When her husband went into the Army, she continued the show alone. For some time the program was short waded to the Pacific war zone. On it she read letters to GIs from their wives and announced the births of their children in her "baby department." During the Guadalcanal campaign in the Pacific, AFRS brought her to Los Angeles to produce her Jill and Her GI Jive show seven days a week. Throughout the rest of the war, GI Jill continued to provide a warm, friendly feminine voice from home who played happy music.

One Night Stand. One of the most popular AFRS music programs was the long-running band program, featuring most of America's popular bands. All types of bands appeared on the show: swing, Latin, novelty and Hawaiian. There were large and small bands on the show both Black and white. In short, the show presented the best American popular music from home for GIs.

One Night Stand was a transcribed series that consisted of a number of regularly scheduled, live network remote broadcasts transcribed by the AFRS for its own transmission at a later time. This was the same practice that was followed, of course, for many popular network shows of all types, but One Night Stand was the most extensive omnibus series, running as it did to more than a thousand shows and extending from the World War II years through the Korean War and beyond. Beginning September 29, 1943, it was first broadcast seven days a week until July 12, 1947, when it was reduced to six times weekly. Somewhat later the number of weekly shows were further reduced to five until the show finally ended December, 1965.

One of the program's formats began with the announcement, "For the American Armed Forces and their Allies, it's One Night Stand." After a theme medley consisting of "East Side, West Side," "Deep in the Heart of Texas," "Chicago" and "Hooray for Hollywood" was played, the announcer continued: "From Main Street to Broadway, from entertainment places all over the country comes the nation's favorite dance music, rebroadcast especially for you soldiers, sailors, Marines and Coast Guardsmen, a One Night Stand with America's leading dance bands presented by remote control and with the cooperation of the nation's networks. And now One Night Stand takes you to the bandstand of tonight's orchestra."

A later, simplified format presented a brief musical passage followed by an announcer saying, "One Night Stand—United States' leading dance orchestras passing in review and especially for the American Armed Forces and their Allies. On the bandstand and ready to go is [name of band]." Among the bands that appeared on this Armed Forces Radio Service series were those of: Hal Aloma, Louis Armstrong, Gus Arnheim, Mitchell Ayres, Mildred Bailey, Bill Baro, Count Basie, Heinie Beau, Denny Beckner, Billy Bishop, Tiny Bradshaw, Nat Brandywynne, Randy Brooks, Les Brown, Henry Busse, Cab Calloway, Frankie Carle, Tommy Carlyn, Lee Castle, Opie Cates, Carmen Cavallero, Bob Chester, Gay Claridge, Emil Coleman, Lenny Conn, Harry Cool, Del Courtney, Bob Crosby, Xavier Cugat, Al Donahue, Jimmy Dorsey, Sonny Dunham, Les Elgart, Duke Ellington, Skinnay Ennis, Herbie Fields, Shep Fields, Ted Fio Rito, Eddie Fitzpatrick, Chuck Foster, Dick Foy, Buddy Franklin, Jan Garber, Benny Goodman, Glen Gray, Jimmie Grier, George Hamilton, Phil Harris, Lionel Hampton, Carlton Hauck, Erskine Hawkins, Ray Heatherton, Horace Heidt, Fletcher Henderson, Woody Herman, Everett Hoaglund, Sid Hoff, Eddy Howard, Dean Hudson, Harry James, Buddy Johnson, Dick Jurgens, Don Kaye, Sammy Kaye, Stan Kenton, Henry King, John Kirby, Gene Krupa, Dick LaSalle, Elliot Lawrence, Ted Lewis, Enoch Light, Guy Lombardo, Johnny Long, Vincent Lopez, Clyde Lucas, Jimmie Lunceford, Bill McCune, Hal McIntyre, Lani McIntyre, Ray McKinlay, Enric Madriguera, Matty Mason, Freddy Martin, Paul Martin, Frankie Masters, Eddie Miller, Lucky Millinder, Carlos Molina, Vaughn Monroe, Art Mooney, Jose Morand, Russ Morgan, Buddy Morrow, Red Nichols, Leighton Noble, Eddie Oliver, George Olser, Harry Owens, Jimmy Palmer, Pancho, Tony Pastor, George Paxton, Tommy Peluso, Ron Perry, Emile Petti, Teddy Powell, Louis Prima, Boyd Raeburn, Carl Ravazza, Bob Reese, Joe Reichman, Leo Reisman, Buddy Rich, Johnny Richards, Billie Rogers, Eddy Rogers, Luis Russell, Jan Savitt, Shorty Sherock, Bobby Sherwood, Freddy Slack, Charlie Spivak, Harold Stern, George Stetney, Chet Stewart, Eddie Stone, Ted Stracker, Bob Strong, Jack Teagarden, Al Trace, Tommy Tucker, Emil Vanda, Joe Venuti, Jerry Wald, Ted Weems, Lawrence Welk and Cootie Williams. A few of the bands made only one appearance on One Night Stand, but most appeared many times. For example, Freddy Martin's band appeared 40 times; Les Brown, 33; and Harry James 31.

Relatively little radio propaganda was beamed to our World War II Axis enemies. America's radio propaganda transmissions for German listeners had few of the abusive elements often used by the German North American Service propaganda broadcasts. The German language broadcasts of Major Glenn Miller and his American Band of the Allied Expeditionary Force included popular standards such as "In the Mood," "Stardust," "Tuxedo Junction," "Long Ago and Far Away," "Poinciana" and "A String of Pearls," with Johnny Desmond ("the GI Sinatra") singing their lyrics in German. Miller even spoke in halting German with Ilse Weinberger, the program's hostess.

A typical program of the Miller band series opened this way:

ILSE WEINBERGER: German soldiers, this is Ilse speaking. For the next half-hour I have arranged something special for you, a rendezvous with the bandleader of one of the best known orchestras. Today he is the leader of the American Band of the Allied Expeditionary Forces, Major Glenn Miller. Major Miller greets you first with the theme song—"Moonlight Serenade."

The only propaganda on the program was voiced by Ilse: "Oh, Major Miller, it is really wonderful that for an American musician there are no restrictions and no barriers. He plays the music his audiences like, whether the music is American, Russian, Chinese or Jewish." Despite the effectiveness of these subtle propaganda broadcasts to Germany, most emphasis of American radio during this period was on providing entertainment and information for its native listening public.

The extent of radio's coverage of World War II news can best be appreciated by considering the number of war correspondents that stations and networks sent around the world: John B. Adams, CBS; Leslie B. Bain, WIOD (Miami, FL); Dave Baylor, WGAR (Cleveland, OH); Don Bell, MBS; Bjorn Bjornson, NBC; William Brooks, NBC; John B. Bryson, ABC; Winston M. Burdette, CBS; Edgar M. Calmer, CBS; James F. Cassidy, WLW (Cincinnati, OH); Milton Chase, WLW (Cincinnati, OH); W.W. Chaplin, NBC; Donald Coe, ABC; Charles Collingwood, CBS; George H. Combs, WHN (New York, NY); Catherine Cravens, MBS; Lyn Cross, MBS; Frank Cuhel, MBS; John C. Daly, CBS; Gene Dennis, KMBC (Kansas City, MO); Rene A. Desponey, NBC; William R. Downs, CBS; David E. Driscoll, WOR (New York, NY); William J. Dunn, CBS; James E. Edmonds, WLW (Cincinnati, OH); John Elliott, ABC; Webley Edwards, CBS; H.R. Ekins, WSYR (Syracuse, NY); Arthur S. Feldman, ABC; Pat Flaherty, NBC-KPRC (Houston, TX); George T. Folster, NBC; Wilson K. Foster, NBC; Farnsworth Fowle, CBS; John Gordon Fraser, ABC; Fred Frutich, NBC; Carl George, WGAR (Cleveland, OH); Thomas B. Grandin, ABC; Edwin Haaker, NBC; Joseph C. Harsch, CBS; George Hicks, ABC; Max Hill, NBC; John Hinde, ABC; Don Hollenbeck, NBC; John A. Hooley, ABC; Richard Hottelet, CBS; Ralph Howard, NBC; Quincy Howe, CBS; Guthrie A. Janssen, NBC; Max Jordan, NBC; Fleetwood Lawton, NBC; Anton Leader, ABC; Frank Legg, NBC; Dudley Leggett, ABC; Wallace W. Lennard, ABC; Larry Lesieur, CBS; Erwin Lewis, WLS (Chicago, IL); Francis C. McCall, NBC; John MacVane, NBC; Jack Mahon, MBS; Arthur Mann, NBC; Foster May, WOW (Omaha, NE); G. Lawrence Meier, MBS; George L. Moorad, CBS; Chester Morrison, NBC; John W. Morrissey, NBC; Merrill Mueller, NBC; Edward R. Morrow, CBS; Leslie A. Nichols, MBS; Jack D. Parker, WJIM (Lansing, MI); William G. Parr, NBC; Raymond A. Paull, ABC; Harold A. Peters, ABC; Herbert H. Plambeck, WOW (Omaha, NE); Roy Porter, NBC; John Pyle, KTAR (Phoenix, AZ); John H. Pyle, NBC; Richard Redmond, WHP (Harrisburg, PA); Stanley Richardson, NBC; Eugene Rider, CBS; William Robson, CBS; Cletus (Haase) Roberts, ABC; Alden Russell (Ted Malone), ABC; Eric Sevarcid, CBS; Charles Shaw, CBS; Jack Shaw, MBS; Robert L. Shayon, CBS; John D. Shelley, WHO (Des Moines, IA); Bert Siler, MBS; William Slocum, CBS; Merwin Slosberg, NBC; Howard K. Smith, CBS; Edmund L. Souder, ABC; Johannes Steel, WHN (New York, NY); Leland Stowe, ABC; Lowell Thomas, NBC; R.R. Vadeboncoeur, WSYR (Syracuse, NY); John W. Vandercok, NBC; Ed R. Wallace, NBC; Irving Waugh, WSM (Nashville, TN); George Wheeler, NBC; Oswald M. Williams, ABC; and Murray Young, MBS.

While most radio war correspondents returned home safely, unfortunately, some did not. Three who were killed in war zones were: Raymond Clapper (correspondent and commentator) for MBS; Frank J. Cuhel (correspondent) for MBS; and Tom Treanor (correspondent) for NBC. One—Wright Bryan (correspondent), WSB-NBC (Atlanta, GA)—was a prisoner of war.

Armed Forces Radio Service continued operations after the end of World War II and once again performed valuable service during the Korean War. Once more the commercial networks and stations made patriotic contributions by their public service programming. During the Korean conflict there were many more programs designed to promote enlistment and war bond sales, but none equaled either the quality or quantity of the programs broadcast during World War II. Even radio's effort to report the Korean War news declined in quantity if not in quality. TV had arrived by this time and the Korean conflict became a television war. See also News.

27220 Washburn, Bruce. Sportscaster (KHOU, Harrison, AR, 1949).

27221 Washburn, Terry. DJ (The Morning Show, WKBW, Buffalo, NY, 1947; The Terry Washburn Show, WKMH, Dearborn, MI, 1949).

- 27308 Wayne King Show. The orchestra of Wayne King "the Waltz King" was the star of his pleasant music show (30 min., Weekly, NBC, 1946).

27310 (The) Wayside Inn. A popular regional variety program (NBC–Pacific Coast Network, 1929).

27311 (The) Wayside Theatre. Unpaid actors performed on these weekly radio dramas. In the cast were Rosalind Kharfen, Paul Shannon and John Davis, who also directed the sustaining program (30 min., Monday, 6:45–7:15 P.M., WWSW, Pittsburgh, PA, 1938).

27312 Wayt, Dottie. COM-HE (KVFC, Cortez, CO, 1956–1957).

27314 WBAL Dance Orchestra. Studio dance band (WBAL, Baltimore, MD, 1926).

27315 WBAL Mixed Quartet. Station's vocal group included soprano Louise Cline; contralto Maud Albert; tenor John Wilbourn; and bass Walter N. Linthicum (WBAL, Baltimore, 1926).

27316 WBAL Radio Cooking Lessons. Anna Trencham conducted the program for women (WBAL, Baltimore, MD, 1930).

27317 WBAL String Quartet. Violinist Arthur Morgan was featured in the instrumental quartet (WBAL, Baltimore, MD, 1928).

27318 (The) WBAP Barn Dance. This may have been the first CW barn dance program broadcast. In January 1923 the program presented Captain M.J. Banner who played his fiddle for some 90 minutes (WBAP, Ft. Worth, TX, 1923). See also Country-Western (CW) Music on Radio.

27319 WBAV Orchestra. Station orchestra directed by Frances Handelbean (WBAV, Columbus, OH, 1925).

27320 WBBM Concert Ensemble. Concert group directed by Beulah Rosine (WBBM, Chicago, IL, 1929).

27321 WBBM Nutty Club. One of radio's first celebrity night club programs was conducted by Charlie Garland and Bobby Brown from Chicago's Grenada Club. The program began at midnight and ended sometime Sunday morning. Its informal broadcast style contained few polished production values but many entertaining ones (WBBM, Chicago, IL, 1935).

27322 WDAP Concert Ensemble. Concert group conducted by Harry Sellinger playing from Chicago's Drake Hotel (WDAP, Chicago, IL, 1923).

27323 We Americans. Author Walter Pitkin interviewed "ordinary" American citizens on the talk-interview program (CBS, 1935).

27324 We Are Four. Bess Flynn wrote the daytime serial drama, whose basic ingredient was family friction. The program originally was broadcast locally by WGN (Chicago, IL). The cast included: Carl Boyer, Charles Flynn, Marjorie Hannan, Eleanor Harriot, Alice Hill, Reuben Lawson, Cornelia Osgood, Sally Smith, Olan Soule, Pat Murphy, Irene Wicker and Walter Wicker. The sustaining program was directed by Ed Smith, who also was the announcer (15 min., Monday through Friday, 12:45–1:00 P.M., MBS, 1935–1938).

27325 We Deliver the Goods. Broadcast from the Catalina Island Maritime Service Training Base, California, the program told the story of the contributions of the Maritime Service to winning World War II. Boatswain Mate Sam Brandt was the announcer (CBS, 1945). See also Wartime Radio.

27326 We Love and Learn. Manhattan Soap Company sponsored the show, originally titled As the Twig Is Bent. Truly a soap opera, sponsored as it was by the Manhattan Soap Company, it was a new show with an old title. This version told the story of a foreign born New York City milliner and the emotional stresses she experienced with her staff and patron (CBS, NBC, 1942–1944, 1949–1951). In 1955, there was a change of format and locale with the setting changed from a dress shop to a Harlem beauty parlor and an all-Black cast. The cast of We Love and Learn included: Charne Allen, Joan Banks, Horace Braham, Sarah Burton, Betty Caine, Cliff Carpenter, George Coulouris, Lilli Darvas, Carlo De Angelo, Robert Dryden, Ethel Everett, Jose Ferrar, Joe Helgeson, Mitzi Gould, Juano Hernandez, Grace Keddy, Frank Lovejoy, Don MacLaughlin, Bill Podmore, Sue Read, Norman Rose, Eleanor Sherman, Ann Thomas, Sybil Trent, Arthur Vinton, Charles Webster, Barbara Weeks, Lesley Woods, and Betty Worth. Don Becker was the program's producer-writer. John Clark also served as producer-writer during the program's run. Oliver Barbour, Carl Eastman and Chet Gierlach were the program directors. Martin Stern and Iillian Spinner also were contributing writers. Herschel Leucke was the organist. Dick Dunham, Fielden Farrington and Adele Ronson were announcers. See also (The) Story of Ruby Valentine.

27327 We Take Your Word. Variety said the sustaining show was an entertaining, erudite panel quiz. The show's participants gave the meaning, origin, history and usage of various words that were presented to them by host Don Hollenbeck. Abe Burrows and Abe Lyman and a weekly guest panelist usually provided the answers. The program's first guest panelist was Faye Emerson (30 min., Sunday, 10:30–11:00 P.M., CBS, 1950).

27328 We the Abbotts. John McIntire played the role of teacher John Abbott in the daytime serial that followed the story of an "average American family." The cast included: Kay Brinker, Cliff Carpenter, Audrey Egan, Ethel Everett, Betty Garde, Adelaide Klein, John McIntire, Betty Philson, Esther Ralson, Betty Jane Tyler. The writer was Bess Flynn (CBS, NBC, 1940–1942).

27329 We the People. Phillips H. Lord created, produced and directed the program of special feature items that ranged from the human interest to the bizarre. There was the whimsy of a blacksmith who proclaimed that men should pick their wives by feeling their feet, the way horses were picked. Then, too, there was the pathos of an orphan boy put up for adoption on the program. The sponsor, General Foods, makers of Calumet Baking Powder, paid expenses for those who had an unusual story to tell on the program. Gabriel Heatter was probably the program's best known announcer-host, but Milo Boulton, Eddie Dowling, Burgess Meredith, Danny Seymour and Dwight Weist also played that role during the program's run. The orchestra was conducted by Oscar Bradley. The writers were Paul Adams, Ted Adams, Ruth Barth, Richard Dana, Paul Gardner, Laurence Hammond and Arthur Henley. Phillips H. Lord was the producer (NBC, CBS, 1938–1951).

27330 We Three. Singer Fran Allison, organist Herb Foote and announcer Bob Mckee were the three that appeared on the sustaining music show (15 min., Thursday, 5:15–5:30 P.M., WBBM, Chicago, IL, 1942).

27331 WEAF Grand Opera Company. Station WEAF's operatic company featured lyric soprano Frances Sebel and broadcast such operas as La Traviata, Fidelio and Romeo and Juliet (WEAF, New York, NY, 1925–1927).

27332 WEAO Players. A student dramatic group, later known as the Alpha Epsilon Rho Players, was formed by the Ohio State University radio station to broadcast dramatic programs (WEAO, Columbus, OH, 1927).

27333 Weapons for Victory. The World War II information program was designed to boost civilian morale. The producer and director was Private Arnold Perl, who previously had been radio officer of the United Nations Information Office (15 min., Thursday, 5:00–5:15 P.M., CBS, 1945). See also Wartime Radio.

27334 Wear, Bob. Newscaster (KGKO, Fort Worth, TX, 1941).

27336 Weatherall, Bob. DJ (KXIC, Iowa City, IA, 1955).

27337 Weatherly, Robert L. "Bob." Sportscaster (Sports Parade, WTAN, Clearwater, FL, 1950; Sports Roundup, WTAN, 1952–1954). DJ (WTAN, 1952–1954; Sports Headlines, WTAN, 1955–1956).

27338 Weathers, Jim. Newscaster (WNEX, Macon, GA, 1946).

27339 Weatherwax, Ben K. Newscaster (KXRO, Aberdeen, WA, 1937). Sportscaster (KGY, Olympia, WA, 1951).

27549 Wendy Warren and the News. An interesting combination of actual news reporting and daytime serial drama, the program began with a show within a show that presented newscaster Douglas Edwards giving a three-minute newscast and concluded with Wendy Warren, played by Florence Freeman, broadcasting a few news items of particular interest to women. After their "program" segment concluded, the serial drama portion began. On one show (June 13, 1947), Wendy walked out of the studio at the conclusion of their broadcast into the arms of a forgotten fiancé, a U.S. flyer that she thought had been killed five years before in China. At the time when he returned, Wendy was engaged to her publisher boss. This particular program ended with Hugh James intoning: "Wendy Warren faces the hardest decision of a woman's life. What will she do?"

The program's cast included: Vera Allen, Horace Braham, Anne Burr, Peter Capell, Douglas Edwards, Florence Freeman, Rod Hendrickson, Lamont Johnson, Jane Lauren, John Raby, Tess Sheehan, Guy Spaul, Lotte Stavisky, Les Tremayne and Meg Wylie. Hugh James as Bill Flood the announcer on the show was a regular cast member. The music director was Clarke Morgan. John Picard and Frank Provo were the writers. Hoyt Allen, Allan Fristoe, Tom McDermott and Don Wallace were the directors. Hamilton O'Hara provided sound effects (15 min., Monday through Friday, CBS, 1947–1958).

27676 Wharton, Ann. COM-HE (WJNO, West Palm Beach, FL, 1956).

27677 What Makes You Tick? Edward Ettinger wrote the program that Variety called a "pop psychology" show. John K.M. McCaffery was the host. Two members of the audience answered a series of ten questions after which two psychologists analyzed their answers. Addison Smith was the program's producer, director and writer. Other directors over the years were Dick Charles, Henry Dick and Art Henley (15 min., Monday through Friday, 2:45–3:00 P.M., CBS, 1949). When it was later broadcast over NBC, the format changes included its expansion to a 30-minute weekly program and the introduction of Gypsy Rose Lee as the host.

27679 What the Veteran Wants to Know. The weekly sustaining program provided information for veterans of World War II. It was conducted by several unidentified announcers (15 min., Sunday, 2:45–3:00 P.M., MBS, 1947).

27680 What's Happening in the World? News commentator John D. Berry discussed such topics as "Manchuria as a World Center," "Can the Kellogg Pact Be Made Effective?" and "Russia's Economical Program" (30 min., NBC-Pacific Coast Network, 1929).

27681 What's My Line? Not a television soundtrack, this was a Mark Goodson-Bill Todman radio program sponsored by Phillip Morris Cigarettes. The show was coordinated by Bill Bach. A panel of personalities was presented with guest "contestants" with odd occupations. The panelists then attempted by asking them questions to identify their guests' occupations. Regular panelists included: Dorothy Kilgallen, Bennett Cerf and Arlene Francis. Guest panelists included: Carl Sandburg, Fred Allen, Nick Adams and Betty White. John Daley was the moderator and Don Briggs the program's announcer. The producers were Mark Goodson and Bill Todman. The show had an interesting transition from a successful television show to radio. Although interesting radio fare, its cloying cuteness sometimes got in the way of entertainment (30 min., Tuesday, 10:00–10:30 P.M., NBC, 1952).

27682 What's My Name? The program was one of two half-hour quiz shows that served as a summer replacement for Fred Allen. The sponsored was Bristol-Myers Company, makers of Ipana for the "Smile of beauty" and Sal Hepatica for the "Smile of Health."

The quiz program was based on a parlor game that was popular around the year 1876. Contestants sought to win cash prizes by identifying some famous person by hearing his voice and asking him questions. On this early version Fred Uttal quizzed the female contestants and Arlene Francis the men. Various other co-hosts who later appeared with Miss Francis were Carl Frank, Ward Wilson and Budd Hulick. Some of the famous guests who appeared to be identified were Milton Berle and Jack Benny. The show was produced by Edward Byron and directed by Ben Larsen (30 min., Wednesday, 9:00-9:30 P.M., NBC-Red, 1939). Peter Van Steeden and Harry Salter's orchestra appeared through out the years the show was on the air. Variety hailed the "comeback of the old quiz" in 1948, sponsored this time by General Electric. Ward Wilson was the co-host on this version with Miss Francis (30 min., Saturday, 9:30-10:00 P.M., ABC, 1948).

27683 What's New? The Bank of America sponsored the entertaining show that combined information and good music. Hal Burdick commented on various odd facts he presented between musical selections performed by guest soloists such as tenor Charles Bulotti. Meredith Willson was the program's musical director (30 min., Sunday, 3:00-3:30 P.M. PST, NBC, 1935).

27684 Whatley, Tish. COM-HE (KIHN, Hugo, OK, 1957).

27685 WIB Concert Orchestra. Studio orchestra directed by S.F. Rendina (WIB, Kansas City, MO, 1928).

27686 WIB Orchestra. Station WIB, owned and operated by the Sweeney Automotive and Electrical School, claimed to have been the first broadcaster west of the Mississippi to employ a regular orchestra. Pianist George C. Parrish was the leader (WIB, Kansas City, MO, 1922).

27687 Wheatenaville (aka Wheatenaville Sketches or Billy Bachelor). Raymond Knight wrote the program and played the role of Uncle Hannibal. Wellington Watts and Billy Bachelor on the dramatic serial sponsored by Wheatena Cereal. He was supported by Alice Davenport, Vivian Block, and two juveniles, Vivian Vass and Bobby Jordan, who were only 11 years old. The program's hero, Billy Bachelor, owned a small business in receivership and was being pressured by his creditors. Uncle Hannibal, his "Negro servant" stalls them off successfully. Billy, however, receives a telegram telling him that his uncle has died and left him his estate and two adopted children. Billy Bachelor, however, knew that his uncle owned a small town newspaper, The Wheatenaville News, and that its assets were in a doubtful state (15 min., 7:15-7:30 P.M., NBC-Red, 1932-1933).

27688 Wheatley, John. DJ (Music 'Til Dawn, WDXN, Clarksville, TN, 1960).

27718 When a Girl Marries. A popular daytime serial, When a Girl Marries told the story of Joan Field, who came from a wealthy family, to marry Harry Davis, a young attorney from a family that was socially and financially inferior to her own. The program's early plot frequently revolved around her husband's inferiority feelings. The program described itself as: "The tender, human story of young married life, dedicated to everyone who has ever been in love."

The role of Joan was played by Noel Mills and Mary Jane Higby. Her husband, Harry, by Whitfield Connor, Robert Haag, John Raby and Lyle Sudrow. The cast over the years included: Jane Allison, Jack Arthur, Marion Barney, Georgia Burke, King Calder, Peter Capell, Whitfield Connor, Staats Cotsworth, Toni Darnay, Jeanette Dowling, Helene Dumas, Audrey Egan, Michael Fitzmaurice, Anne Francis, Wynne Gibson, Delores Gillen, Robert Haag, Mary Jane Higby, Eunice Hill, Ed Jerome, John Kane, Richard Kollmar, Joe Latham, Paul McGrath, Noel Mills, John Milton, Ethel Owen, Madeleine Pierce, William Quinn, John Raby, Kay Renwick, Rosemary Rice, Edgar Stehli, Lyle Sudrow, Maurice Tarplin, Joan Tetzell, Gladys Thornton, Gertrude Warner, Karl Weber, Ethel Wilson, Irene Winston, Frances Woodbury and Eustace Wyatt. Oliver Barbour, Tom Baxter, Olga Druce, Scott Farnsworth, Charles Fisher, Maurice Lowell, Kenneth W. MacGregor, Art Richards, Warren Somerville and Theodora Yates were the program's directors. The program's writers were LeRoy Bailey and Elaine Sterne Carrington. Richard Leibert, Rosa Rio and John Winters were its organists. The announcers were George Ansbro, Frank Gallop, Don Gardiner, Hugh James, Dennis King, Wendell Niles, Charles Stark and Dick Stark (15 min., Monday through Friday, CBS, 1939-1941; NBC, 1941-1951; ABC, 1951-1959).

27719 Where Are You From? Originally broadcast from New York City station WQXR, the interesting program featured Professor Henry Lee Smith of Columbia University. It was an authentic demonstration of the Professor's ability to gain information from a person's speech pattern. Variety noted that although Professor Smith on some shows was consistently wrong, the program was entertaining radio (30 min., Wednesday, 8:30-9:00 P.M., MBS, 1940).

27720 Where Heroes Meet. A Boy Scouts of America sponsored drama portraying various heroic deeds (15 min., Tuesday, 4:45-5:00 P.M., CBS, 1935).

27722 Wherley, Richard. DJ (WATW, Ashland, WI, 1954).

27724 Whiddit, William Wall. Organist (WGR, Buffalo, NY, 1924).

27725 Whikhart, Eddie. Newscaster (WBTH, Williamson, WV, 1941; WHLN, Harlen, KY, 1942). Sportscaster (WBTH, 1941; WHLN, 1942; WHLN, 1944; Sports Final, WHAH, Weston, WV, 1950).

27726 Whilt, Jim. Whilt was billed as "The Poet of the Rockies" (KMA, Shenandoah, IA, 1928).

27728 Whipkey, Bob. Newscaster (KBSI, Big Spring, AR, 1937).

27729 Whipple, Doc. Pianist (Doc Whipple, instr. mus. prg., KSD, St. Louis, MO, 1936).

27730 Whisenant, A.D. Newscaster (KBWI, Brownwood, TX, 1941). Sportscaster (KBWI, 1938–1941).

27731 (The) Whisperer. On the mystery drama series, Carleton Young played the main character, who had experienced an unexplained throat disorder that allowed him only to whisper. Although in the past he had headed a criminal syndicate, when the program began he had undergone a successful surgical procedure that allowed him to talk once more and move to the side of the law. Despite his ability to speak normally, when he contacted the mob in order to frustrate their activities, he still used a whispered voice. Variety called the program's plots far-fetched. The cast members included: Betty Moran, Bill Conrad, Earl Lee, Torry Bennett, Janet Scott, Betty Lou Gerson and Paul Freese. The announcer was Donald Rickles (25 min., Sunday, 5:00–5:25 P.M., NBC, 1951).

27732 Whispering Jack Smith. Veteran radio crooner Smith broadcast in various formats during the early years of broadcasting (Whispering Jack Smith, vcl. mus. prg., 15 min., Tuesday, 7:30–7:45 P.M., CBS, 1934).

27733 Whispering Streets. General Mills and Toni Home Permanents sponsored the daytime serial program that was billed as "a drama of life." The show used the fictional device of a female correspondent-author as a permanent narrator. Gertrude Warner was the first narrator, followed, in turn, by Bette Davis, Anne Seymour and Cathy Lewis. Janet Waldo, Sam Edwards and Barbara Fuller were in the drama's cast. Margaret Sangster wrote the program. The directors were Joe Graham, William Marshall and Gordon Hughes. Ted Lloyd was the producer. George Walsh and Dan Cumberly were the announcers (15 min., Monday through Friday, 10:30–10:45 A.M., NBC, 1951). When it changed to a 25-minute format, the program told a complete story each day (25 min., Monday through Friday, CBS, 1958).

27734 (The) Whispering Tenor. Romantic songs were sung by Guy Savage on the KTRH Mothers' Program (KTRH, Houston, TX, 1930).

27735 (The) Whistler. Although only appearing on a national network for one summer as a replacement and one season as a regular program, The Whistler was a great favorite on the CBS-Western Network for many years. The Whistler character appeared usually as an all-seeing, all-knowing narrator. Only at the very beginning of the run did he talk to any of the characters in the stories dramatized. The program told a complete mystery story with a sardonic twist each week. The show was introduced in this way:

I am the Whistler and I know many things, for I walk by night. I know many strange tales, many secrets hidden in the hearts of men and women who have stepped into the shadows. Yes, I know the nameless terror of which they dare not speak.

In the beginning, J. Donald Wilson wrote and produced the program. Later, the producer-director was George Allen, and the directors Sherman Marks and Sterling Tracy. The whistling that played an important part of the program's production format was first performed by Dorothy Roberts and later by Owen James. Other sound effects were produced by Berno Surrey and Gene Twombly. The stories were adapted to fit the program's format by Harold Swanton and Joel Malone. Wilbur Hatch composed and conducted the program's music. Among those who played the title role were Bill Forman, Everett Clark, Joseph Kearns and Marvin Miller (30 min., 1942–1947, CBS-Western Network; 1947–1948 CBS; 1948–1955, CBS-Western Network).

27736 Whitaker, Bob. DJ (Evening Classics, KTAR, Phoenix, AZ, 1954).

27738 Whitaker, Jack. DJ (WAEB, Allentown, PA, 1949; Jack the Bachelor, KOVO, Provo, UT, 1952; KALL, Salt Lake City, UT, 1955) Sportscaster (Sports Shots, WCAU Philadelphia, PA, 1951).

27740 Whitaker, Tom. Sportscaster (The Sportscope, WKNX, Saginaw, MI, 1951).

27741 Whitcomb, Robert "Bob." DJ (Polka Time, WGRD), Grand Rapids, MI, 1952–1955).

27743 White and MacDonough. Instrumental banjo team (WCCO, Minneapolis–St. Paul, MN, 1928).

27744 White, A.C. Pianist (KGHI, Little Rock, AR, 1928).

27745 White, Alan. DJ (Music in the Night, KTTB, Tyler, TX, 1954).

27746 White, (Major) Andrew. Widely known as "a craftsman of words," the monocled, aristocratic-appearing White became one of the best known early sports broadcasters. The publisher of Wireless Age and acting president of the National Amateur Wireless Association, White was given the responsibility of organizing and broadcasting the 1921 "Battle of the Century" between the "Manasas Mauler" Jack Dempsey and France's "Orchid Man," Georges Carpentier (WJZ, Newark, NJ, 1921). At ring side, White described the fight by telephone. Back at the station, J.O. Smith repeated his words for the listening audience. It was estimated at the time that three hundred thousand persons listened as Dempsey knocked out the French champion. White went on from there to broadcast many other sporting events. Although he never considered himself an announcer, his voice and delivery brought him a greatly deserved popularity. As manager at WIDY (New York, NY, 1921–1922), White persuaded stars from New York to appear on the station in exchange for a dinner. White later became a co-owner and executive of the Columbia Phonograph Broadcasting Company, a forerunner of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

- 27771 White, Jack L. DJ (Club 1570, KRWC, Forest Grove, OR, 1954).
- 27772 White, Jerry. DJ (WLOF, Orlando, FL, 1949).
- 27773 White, Jimmie, and Howard Fordham. Vocal team known as the Singing Serenaders (KFH, Wichita, KS, 1928).
- 27774 White, Joe. DJ (American Masterpieces, KPOL, Los Angeles, CA, 1954).
- 27775 White, Joe. DJ (KGE, Hollywood, CA, 1954; KPOL, Los Angeles, CA, 1955).
- 27776 White, John. CW singer White was known as "The Lonesome Cowboy" and "The Singing Cowboy" (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1928; NBC, New York, NY, 1927–1931). White introduced cowboy songs to network radio listeners. On his programs he described the history of the songs he sang and their origins.
- 27777 White, Joseph "Joe" (aka "The Silver Masked Tenor"). Tenor (WEAF, New York, NY, 1924–1930; WJZ, New York, NY, 1928–1929). Joe White broadcast as the Silver Masked Tenor over WEAF from 1925 to 1930 with the Silvertown Orchestra on Thursday evenings. As the masked singer, he wore a sterling silver mask that he also used whenever he appeared in public or went on tour. After his career as the Silver Masked Tenor was over, White continued to sing on the radio until 1940: (Joe White, voc. mus. prg., 30 min., Monday, 6:30–7:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1930; Joe White, voc. mus. prg., NBC, 1936).
- 27778 White, Josephine Storey. Contralto (KVOO, Tulsa, OK, 1928).

Whiteman, often known as "The King of Jazz," probably inappropriately, nevertheless was a great showman and a good musician. His bands produced some fine music on radio and recordings. Whiteman's was truly a big band. The members, at one time or another, included Bing Crosby, Harry Burris, Jack Fulton, Charles Gaylord, Austin Young, Bix Biederbecke and many other popular musicians and singers. In the following decades, Whiteman remained active (Paul Whiteman Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., CBS, 1939). Whiteman also was a DJ on ABC and WJZ in 1947. His Paul Whiteman Record Revue was broadcast until 1950. See also The Whiteman Varieties.

27862 WHN Amateur Hour. Morcy Amsterdam hosted the conventional New York City radio amateur hour. Joel Herron's orchestra supplied the music. The announcer was Phil Goulding (30 min., 7:30–8:00 P.M., WHN, New York, NY, 1948).

27864 WHN Barn Dance. Hal O'Halloran, late of the WLS Barn Dance, hosted the sustaining country-western program featuring Patsy Montana "the Yodeling Cowgirl," the Forman Sisters and Tom Kennedy (60 min., Thursday, 10:00–11:00 P.M., WHN, New York, NY, 1935).

27865 WHN Bookshop. Sophie Cleugh and Mitchell Benson engaged in interesting chats about books that were both informative and entertaining (15 min., Thursday, 9:30–9:45 P.M., WHN, New York, NY, 1936).

27867 Who Said That? Host Robert Trout asked panel members H.V. Kaltenborn, John Cameron Swayze and a weekly guest questions about current news events. Peter Roberts was the announcer (30 min., Weekly, NBC, 1948–1950). The program made a brief transition to television.

27902 (The) Wife Saver. Alan Prescott presented household hints on the show that mixed information with fun and music (15 min., Monday through Saturday, WINS, New York, NY, 1932). Prescott's opening went like this: "Hello, girls. Well here we are at the end of the week, which is just fine as far as I'm concerned. What better time to talk about little Rollo and his sister. I start this thing in the solemn hope that you're still feeding the children, there being no point in having children unless you feed them. A hungry child can never be trusted."

Three years later, Prescott's program contained a two-minute segment devoted to "Didja Know?" items such as: "Oh, didja know, girls, that tea keeps better in a glass jar with a stopper than in a tin can? Well it does, and for all we know so would you and I." And: "Didja know, girls, that you should wet the blade in cold water before cutting a meringue pie? In this way you prevent the meringue from sticking or peeling off" (15 min., Tuesday, 9:45-10:00 A.M., NBC, 1935). After a long career, Prescott's format was changed and his program presented in a 30-minute format by the name of Prescott Presents. The music on that show was performed by singers Joan Brooks, Diane Courtney and the Hi, Lo, Jack and the Dame vocal group (30 min., CBS, 1941).

27903 Wiggam, Albert. Wiggam conducted a weekly Your Mind program on which Wiggam discussed human personality, mind and behavior (WEAF, New York, NY, 1928).

27937 Wilder, Rex. DJ (Night Train, KRGI, Grand Island, NE, 1960).

27938 Wilderness Road. Wilderness Road told the story of the Weston family, who lived near Pickensville, Virginia, in the period after the American Revolutionary War. The family included Mr. and Mrs. Weston and their four children: John, age 17; David, 15; Anne, 12; and Peter, 9. Their ages apparently were selected for the widest audience appeal. First broadcast in 1936 and targeted for children and adolescents, the program's audience included 40 percent adult listeners.

Daniel Boone was a central figure on the program, as he led the family on the Wilderness Road to their new home in Kentucky. The program attempted to be an authentic historical account of pioneer life, with a secondary emphasis on zoology, geography and natural history. The Women's Radio Conference gave the program an award for its authenticity and educational value.

Historical figures played a prominent role on the program. For example, Boone not only led the family to their new home in Kentucky, but also took the two older boys down the river by raft and flatboat to New Orleans. He also taught them wood lore, woodcraft and trail making. George Rogers Clark also appeared on the show to teach self-reliance, unselfishness and the proper respect for law and order.

Some of the program's spirit can be sensed by one of its opening:

Wilderness Road. Reliving adventurous days on the pioneer trail to Kentucky with the Weston family and Daniel Boone. Friday afternoon — when we left our wilderness friends they had nearly completed their perilous journey through the Cumberland Gap on foot, with their precious supplies loaded on the back of their horses. They were trudging the weary miles to Snyder's Station, twelve miles distant. Boone has decided to camp for the night by Yellow Creek. Behind them they could see the signal smoke of the Indians form white columns rising high in the air. Boone believes that the savages mean to seek reinforcements from other tribes before attacking the Weston party again. As we join them today the sun is sinking. Our band of adventurers, which now consists of the Westons, Boone, Obediah Snoot, Silas Breen, Bunch and the two backwoodsmen from Snyder's station, come to a halt on the banks of Yellow Creek.

The program's suspenseful closing was this:

Well — if Peter catches up with Anne that young lady undoubtedly will have the cleanest face in Kentucky territory. The Westons are happy and seemingly carefree as we leave them — but what will the morrow bring? There are many dangers in the air and peril lurks in every thicker. We leave them with their campfire burning bright. Until tomorrow afternoon — when — at the same time we meet again to journey down Wilderness Road.

The 15-minute program was broadcast five times weekly for 267 straight performances, beginning in 1936. After its first five weeks, the program gained momentum and attracted a large listening audience. Although it had a relatively short first run, it was a much admired daytime serial. The cast included: Vivian Block, Lon Clark, Ray Collins, Jimmy Donnelly, Anne Elstner, Parker Fennelly, William Johnstone, James McCallion, John Mitchell and Chester Stratton. The program was written by William K. Clarke, Ronald Dawson and Richard Stevenson. The director was Richard Sanville (15 min., Monday through Friday, CBS, 1936–1937; 1944–1945).

28064 Williams, Nat D. (Nathaniel David Williams). Black DJ (The Nat D. Williams Show; Tan Town Coffee Club; Tan Town Jamboree, WDIA, Memphis, TN, 1948–1950s). Station WDIA put Williams, the city's first Black DJ, on the air October 25, 1948. His great success caused the station to switch from a country music format to an all-Black format. WDIA at that point became the first station in the country to aim its entire programming toward a Black audience.

Before becoming a DJ, Williams had been a high school teacher, newspaper columnist and a talent show host. He had earned a Master's degree and done graduate work at the University of Chicago. The Nat D. Williams' early morning show was a mixture of jokes, wise cracks and rhythm and blues music. Williams' Tan Town Jamboree show ran through the 1950s. He remained on the air until 1973 when he suffered a stroke.

It was said that when Williams taught high school history and social studies, he would leave at the end of his school day to conduct his daily radio show (WDIA, 60 min., Daily, 4:00–5:00 P.M.). At the same time he was writing a newspaper column, leading a Boy Scout troop, teaching Sunday school and singing in a church choir.

Other popular Black DJs who broadcast on WDIA with Williams were Bob "Honeymoon" Garner, Willa Monroe, Rufus "Bugnuts" Thomas, "Hot Rod" Hulbert, Theo Wade, Ford Nelson and Mother Jean "the Queen" Steinberg. Both Wade and Steinberg were active well into the 1950s.

28094 Willie Piper. Samuel Taylor wrote and Frank Brown produced and directed the well-written, human interest story about a grocery clerk named Willie, who is about to be married. Variety commented that although this was a good sustaining program, it failed to find an audience and soon went off the air. The cast included Dick Nelson, Jean Gillespie, Charles Irving, Stewart Macintosh, Barbara Townsend, Eleanor Audley, Danny Ocko and John Gibson. The music was by Ralph Norman. The announcer was Jack McCarthy (30 min., Sunday, 6:30-7:00 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1946).

28095 Williford, Tig. DJ (Downbeat, KLUE, Longview, TX, 1960).

28096 Willis, Cliff, DJ (WIMA, Lima, OH, 1954-1957).

28097 Willis, Dan, DJ (KRIC, Beaumont, TX, 1954).

28098 Willis, Ed. Sportscaster (WLAP, Lexington, KY, 1938).

28099 Willis, Edna Mae. COM-HE (KVOM, Morrilton, AR, 1957).

28100 Willis, Jeannie. COM-HE (KSYD, Wichita Falls, TX, 1957).

28101 Willis, John. Violinist who played with fellow violinist, Edward Meisenbach (KWK, St. Louis, MO, 1928).

28102 Willis, Lyn. Newscaster (WIP, Philadelphia, PA, 1932).

28103 Willis, Polly (Polly Willifong or Polly Willis Archer). Staff vocalist-pianist (KYW, Chicago, IL, 1923-1924). Polly Willifong was born November 8, 1905, in Alta, Iowa. Station KYW changed her name to Polly Willis, when she began singing and playing on the station. After performing several times at KYW while still in high school, she was employed at age 17 as staff pianist and singer. She continued working on Chicago radio until she graduated from college. Her work at KYW extended from 6:00 P.M. until midnight five days a week. She accompanied the performers who came in to broadcast and also sang three or four times each evening. Because of her age the station sent her home every evening at midnight by taxi. She was always amazed at the power of the many crystal sets then in use, because she received such a large amount of fan mail from Texas and other distant states.

Some of the regular KYW performers that Willis remembers were popular organist Sally Menkes, talented jazz pianist Herbie Mintz and German dialect comic "Mr. Schlaghauer." She recalls that many performers from both vaudeville and the musical theater stage who happened to be in Chicago appeared before the KYW microphones without pay. Among the many show business stars who appeared on the station during its early years were Eddie Cantor and Sophie Tucker. Willis remembers that some entertainers froze with fright when they first appeared before the microphone.

When Willis was 19, she refused an offer to go on the vaudeville circuit, because her family did not consider the stage a suitable profession for a young woman. Upon her graduation from college she took a teaching job in Minnesota. After enduring two years of Minnesota's freezing winters, she returned to Chicago and resumed her radio appearances on KYW, WLS and WGN. Willis married John Clark, an announcer at KYW, who went on to become a successful broadcasting executive at WBZ-WBZA (Boston, MA), WCAU (Philadelphia, PA) and KMOX (St. Louis, MO). While in Boston, Clark persuaded lawyer Gleason Archer to come to WBZ-WBZA to broadcast talks on legal topics. Clark later arranged for Archer to travel to New York to broadcast weekly network talks about the law and its applications in everyday life.

Willis also traveled from Boston to New York to perform on NBC network programs. After Willis was widowed, she married Gleason Archer. She enjoyed her successful broadcasting career and lifelong association with other distinguished broadcasters. At 93, Willis still retains a clear memory of radio's beginnings in Chicago and its golden years. See also Archer, Gleason, and Opera on Radio and Stations — Growth and Development.

28104 Willis, (Captain) Walter. Sportscaster (WHN, New York, NY, 1938).

28107 Wills, Bob. Leader (Bob Wills' Playboys, CW mus. prg. that featured the legendary western swing band led by Wills, KVOO, Tulsa, OK, 1934-1942). The Wills' band appeared on many transcriptions that were broadcast by stations all over the country for decades. Wills had previously played with politician W. Lee O'Daniels' Light Crust Doughboys CW band. After a dispute with Daniels, Wills left the band taking many musicians with him to form Bob Wills and the Texas Playboys, a group that became one of the best and most famous western swing bands.

28108 Wills, Paul. Sportscaster (WTMV, East St. Louis, MO, 1938).

28111 Willson, R. Meredith. Flute and piccolo soloist in the CBS Symphony Orchestra (CBS, 1928). Leader (Meredith Willson Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., NBC, 1935). Willson probably was most famous for composing the score of The Music Man musical. Like so many other show business personalities, Willson became a DJ on his Meredith Willson's Music Room (30 min., Wednesday, 10:30-11:00 P.M., NBC, 1951). Jimmy Wallington was his announcer on the program sponsored by RCA Victor.

28112 Wilma Lee and Stoney Cooper. The husband-and-wife CW music team featured the singing of Wilma Lee and the guitar playing of Stoney Cooper. They made their radio appearances on several North Carolina stations before getting their own program on WWVA (Wheeling, WV, 1947). They went on to appear on the Grand Ole Opry.

- 28176 Wings For America. The sustaining spy drama consisted of a series of ten programs illustrating how a Fifth Column might operate in the United States. The story followed news commentator Riley Davis and his assistant, Lorna Carroll, played by Phillips Holmes and Elissa Landi respectively. The program's threatening theme was frequently voiced by the narrator: "Pray God that this fantasy may never happen to us" (30 min., Friday, 7:00–7:30 P.M., CST, MBS, 1940).
- 28177 Wings of Destiny. Mel Williams directed the dramatic series about Steve Benton and Peg Banning, two aviation enthusiasts. Carlton Kaldell and Betty Arnold played the leading roles, before John Hodiak replaced the former. Henry Hunter (Arthur Jacobson) was also in the cast. A villain by the name of Slade menaced the hero and heroine each week. Although the characters continued through the series, each week's story was complete in itself. Prizes offered in the show's contests were Piper Cub planes. Durward Kirby and Marvin Miller were the announcers. Mel Williamson was the program's director. (30 min., Friday, 9:00–9:30 P.M. CST, NBC, 1940). The sponsor was Brown and Williamson's king-size Wings cigarettes.
- 28178 Wings of Romance. John A. Willarde was the leading actor in the romantic drama said to "capture the dreams of all listeners." The writer was Phil Thorne (30 min., Thursday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., WOR, Newark, NJ, 1932).

28315 Wolff, Bob. Sportscaster (WINX, Washington, DC, 1945-1946; Bob Wolff Sports, WWDC, Washington, DC, 1950; The Bob Wolff Show, WWDC, 1952-1955; MBS, 1956; NBC and WWDC, 1960).

28316 Wolff, Linn. DJ (Farm and Home Hour, WPAD, Paducah, KY, 1950).

28319 Wolpers, Alan. Newscaster (KWOC, Popular Bluff, MO, 1940, 1944, 1948).

28321 Womack, George. Newscaster (KEBE, Jacksonville, TX, 1948).

28322 Womack, Leon. Sportscaster (KICA, Clovis, NM, 1937).

28323 (The Woman from Nowhere. Louis M. Schofield wrote the romantic drama series sponsored by Welch Grapefruit. Irene Rich and Bill Johnstone starred. Miss Rich played the role of Eve Hathaway, the glamorous editor of a woman's magazine, who had become amnesic and worried about her past. For example, she is unable to marry the man she loves because of what her past might hold. Gerald Mohr was also in the cast (15 min., Sunday, 5:45-6:00 P.M., CBS, 1943).

28324 (The Woman in My House. Carleton E. Morse wrote and produced his show that was sponsored by the Manhattan Soap Company. George L. Fogle directed the story of the Carter family that consisted of a mother, father and five children, whose ages ranged from 5 to 14 years of age. Forrest Lewis, Janet Scott, Peggy Webber, Les Tremayne, Anne Whitfield, Shirley Mitchell, Alice Reinheart, Jeff Silver and Billy Idelson were in the cast. The announcer was Charles Lyon (15 min., Monday through Friday, NBC, 1951).

28325 (The Woman in White. Irna Phillips wrote the story of a heroic nurse and her romantic and professional problems. Karen Adams was the major character in the daytime serial. Nurse Adams was in love with Dr. Kirk Harding, played by Karl Weber and Arthur Jacobson. Over the years, Nurse Adams was played by Luise Barclay, Betty Lou Gerson, Betty Ruth Smith and Peggy Knudsen (NBC, 1938-1940). After an hiatus of two years, the program returned with two new leading characters — Nurse Holmes and Dr. Burton — played by Sarajane Wells and Ken Griffin (15 min., Monday through Friday, CBS, 1942-1947).

The cast included: Louise Arthur, Ruth Bailey, Luise Barclay, Frank Behrens, Bill Bouche, Muriel Bremner, Cheer Brentson, Finney Briggs, Herb Butterfield, Kathryn Card, Macdonald Carey, Maurice Copeland, Connie Crowder, Les Damon, Bob Drydenforth, Alma Dubus, Harry Elders, Sidney Ellstrom, Eddie Firestone, Jr., Louise Fitch, Betty Lou Gerson, Genelle Gibbs, Toni Gilman, David Gothard, Robert Griffin, Kenneth Griffin, Gail Henshaw, Jeanne Juvelier, Ian Keith, Peggy Knudsen, Robert Latting, Phil Lord, Barbara Luddy, Marvin Miller, Bret Morrison, C. Henry Nathan, Edith Perry, Beverly Ruby, Betty Ruth Smith, Hugh Studebaker, Jack Swingford, Beverly Taylor, Henrietta Tedro, Les Tremayne, Karl Weber, Sarajane Wells, Irene Winston, Lesley Woods and Lois Zarley. The producer was Carl Wester. Irna Phillips, Herbert Futran and Robert Futran were the writers. The program was directed by Robin Black, Al Ulrich, Owen Vinson and Howard Keegan.

28326 Woman of America. Inspired no doubt by the perceived morale needs of women during World War II, the Woman of America program presented a saga in a daytime serial format. Anne Seymour narrated and acted the leading roles of both Margaret Dane and her great grandmother, Prudence Dane, a pioneer woman who had journeyed west by wagon train on the Oregon Trail in 1860. The program told of the many hardships and dangers that perilous trip entailed.

When the wagon train reached the end of its long journey, the program's story changed to tell the story of great granddaughter Prudence. The program's cast also included: Jackson Beck, Fran Carlton, Nancy Douglass, Helene Dumas, Irene Hubbard, Ed Jerome, Louise Larabee, Richard Leone, Kenneth Lynch, Coletta McMahon, Ogden Miles, James Monks, Larry Robinson and Bartlett Robinson. Don Cope was the producer. The program was written by Della West Decker and Doria Follott (15 min., Monday-through-Friday, NBC, 1943–1946).

28327 (A) Woman of Courage. Octagon and Crystal Soap sponsored the daytime serial that was written by Carl Buss. Selena Royle originated the role of The Woman of Courage, Martha Jackson. The program told the "moving story of a wife and mother who is unafraid, because she knows that if you believe you can win, nothing in life can defeat you, and that what is right will be." This positive attitude was reiterated along with the continuous reminder that "if ye have faith, nothing shall be impossible."

Woman of Courage was another daytime serial with a small town setting. It told the story of Martha Jackson and her burden of a crippled husband whose judgement often failed them both. The program's cast included: Joan Alexander, Horace Braham, John Brewster, Carl Eastman, Alice Frost, Albert Hecht, Claire Howard, Enid Markey, Dora Merande, Esther Ralston, Larry Robinson, Selena Royle, Tess Sheehan and Joan Tetzl (15 min., Monday through Friday, CBS, 1939–1942).

28328 (The) Woman Speaks. Scott Furrers sponsored the Vox Pop type show. Eddie Kasper interviewed six women each show (15 min., Friday, 11:00–11:15 A.M., WEEI, Boston, MA, 1938).

28329 Woman's Club. Isabel Leighton conducted the show for women (15 min., Monday through Friday, 5:15–5:30 P.M., CBS, 1947).

28330 Woman's Exchange. Florence Ravenel (Florence Ray) conducted the woman's show (15 min., Monday through Friday, WJJD, Chicago, IL, 1936).

28331 Woman's Magazine of the Air. Bennie Walker hosted the show featuring Ann Holden, a domestic science expert who provided information for women that included recipes, household hints and Christmas ideas (KGO, San Francisco, CA, NBC Pacific Coast Network, 1928). Mammy Speery gave homey chats in a regular comedy segment she shared with her funny hubby Henry. Musical selections were also provided on the hour-long program. In a later version of the Woman's Magazine of the Air, Bennie Walker still hosted the show, but in this format cooking expert Ann Holden and home economist Helen Webster were featured (KGO-NBC Pacific Coast Network, 1930).

Air. Drennan previously had conducted the Little Rock Boys' Club Story Club program on KLRA and broadcast book reviews on the University of Oklahoma's station, where she was known as "Miss Bookworm."

28333 Woman's Page of the Air. Judith Waller conducted the home economic program (WMAQ, Chicago, IL, 1935).

28334 Woman's Radio Revue. The Woman's Radio Revue was a program that presented information of special significance for women. Music was provided by vocalist Claudine MacDonald and the Joseph Littaur orchestra (30 min., 3:30–4:00 P.M., CBS, 1933).

28335 Woman's View of What's New. Dorothy Day discussed fashion, budget matters, cooking, menus, home decorating and music. In addition, she conducted interviews with such notables as Mrs. Bernard Gimbel, Jerry Colonna, William Eythe, Jean Sablon, Helen Jepson, etc. (30 min., Monday through Friday 10:00–10:30 A.M., WINS, New York, NY, 1945–1947).

28336 Woman's World. The local Washington, D.C., program of talk for and by women was skillfully conducted by Clover Holly and Vera Hansen (30 min., Monday through Friday, 4:30–5:00 P.M., WTOP, Washington, DC, 1947).

28337 Woman's World. Ethel Green conducted the homemaking show (WSBA, York PA, 1957).

28338 Women in Sports. Dorothy Evans captain of the University of Pennsylvania swimming team, talked about women's sports (WPEN, Philadelphia, PA, 1940).

28339 Women's Exchange of Ideas. Martha Linn conducted the program that included such diverse features as child study, parent education, travel talk, beauty culture and popular psychology topics (WHIT, Chicago, IL, 1928).

28340 Women's Hour. Aletha Hutchings, who was also the station's program director and studio hostess, conducted the program for women (KSO, Clarinda, IA, 1928).

28341 Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. Edward Thorgersen was the announcer on the well-intentioned program that presented several speakers weekly (30 min., Saturday, 6:30–7:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1930).

28342 Women's Page. Suzanne Martin, a columnist of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, conducted the informative show and frequently interviewed guests (15 min., Thursday, 10:00–10:15 A.M., KING, Seattle, WA, 1949).

28343 Women's Symphony Orchestra of Philadelphia. J.W.F. Leman directed the symphonic group (WFI, Philadelphia, PA, 1925).

28345 Wommack, Jeane. COM-HE (KAIT, Atlanta, TX, 1956).

28346 Wommack, Lucille. Singer (KVOO, Tulsa, OK, 1928).

28347 (The) Wonder Hour. Soprano Ruth Lyon was featured on the music program (Sunday afternoon, NBC-Red, 1932).

28348 (The) Wonder Program. Comedian Jack Haley and other stars such as Lucille Ball, Virginia Varo and Artie Auerbach appeared on the variety show. Music was supplied by the Ted FioRito Orchestra (30 min., Weekly, CBS, 1938).

28349 Wonders of the Sky. Astronomer Henry M. Hyde supplied astronomical information for listeners on the informative show that appeared on San Francisco radio in 1932.

28350 Wondries, Elizabeth. Contralto (KFI, Los Angeles, CA, 1925).

28351 Wons, Tony. Wons (Anthony Snow) was the director of dramatic programs at WLS (Chicago, IL, 1928). At that time he also was a popular reader who presented Shakespeare at the station. He also conducted a radio Scrapbook of verse, wit and philosophy on Tony's Scrapbook and was the lay pastor on the station's Little Brown Church in the Vale program. In addition, he directed the WLS Cross Roads Sunday School and played the Pied Piper and Lucky Sambo on the WLS Chums Club for children (WLS, Chicago, IL, 1928). He began his own program of poetry and prose in 1930. Wons was most famous for his Tony Wons' Scrapbook, broadcast until 1942 by several networks, on which he read scraps of poetry and inspirational prose. His customary catch phrase, "Are you listening, huh?" did not ingratiate him with highbrows, but it was right for the time and his many devoted listeners.

Wons was also a prolific editor who published a series of successful Tony Wons Scrapbooks that contained essentially the same poetry and prose that he read on his program. Wons said that a bit of his own poetry best described him:

All men rate the same with me,
The wise, the fool, the slave, the free;
For no man on earth does know
What made him thus, another so.

28352 WOO Orchestra. Robert E. Golden directed the station orchestra (WOO, Philadelphia, PA, 1923).

28353 Wood, A.L.S. Wood broadcast theatrical reviews on his At the Theatre program (WBZ, Springfield, MA, 1924).

28436 Woolcott, Alex. Critic Woolcott broadcast theatrical talk and critical reviews on his influential The Town Crier program (WOR, Newark, NJ, 1929). Woolcott, an influential literary and drama critic, was noted for his "colorful personality" and unpredictable behavior. As a sign of individuality, he and a fellow critic, Heywood Brown, once adopted some unusual garb while performing their critical duties. For example, Woolcott once wore his usually sloppy attire and a pair of unbuckled, over-sized gaiters, in which he persisted in sloshing up and down theater aisles. Woolcott was the subject of a major legal case in 1916, when as drama critic for the New York Times he was banned admission by the Schuberts from the several Broadway theaters they owned. The New York State Court of Appeals upheld the theater owners' rights to ban him.

He was a member of the Algonquin Round Table, a group of witty, influential intellectuals of the 1920s and 1930s that included Robert Benchley, Heywood Brown, Dorothy Parker and George S. Kaufman. Woolcott collaborated with Kaufman on several satirical looks at American life in motion pictures and plays. He was an influential critic of American taste, particularly through his various radio programs (1929-1940). One of his influential programs was The Early Bookworm broadcast by WABC (New York, NY, 1932) and a 33-station network. See also The Town Crier.

28440 Wooley, George. Saxophonist (WAHG, Richmond Hill, NY, 1925).

28441 Wooley, Neal. DJ (The Boogie Joint, KJEF, Jennings, LA, 1954).

28442 Woolf, Carl. DJ (Bing Crosby Sings, WMVG, Milledgeville, GA, 1949).

28444 Woolf, Vivianne Adams. Vocalist (KFQW, Seattle, WA, 1928).

28446 Woolridge, Billy. Newscaster (WTAW, College Station, TX, 1943).

28447 Woolworth, Julian. Leader (Julian Woolworth Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., CBS, 1935).

28448 Woolsley, Edward. Sports caster (The Sports Show, WMTL, Leitchfield, KY, 1960).

28450 Wooten, John. DJ (Western Roundup, WIRK, West Palm Beach, FL, 1949).

28452 Wootte, Bill. DJ (Nightcap, WSIC, Statesville, NC, 1950).

28453 (The) Word Game. Author Max Eastman conducted the audience participation quiz show. Segments were devoted to questions about spelling, definitions and grammar. The first prize winner received an unabridged Webster's New International Dictionary. The second place prize winner received a leather bound Webster's Collegiate Dictionary (CBS, 1938).

28454 (The) Word of Life. Jack Wyrzten founded the Word of Life program as a means to lead young people to Christian living. The program began in 1940 and flourished for some 40 plus years on various stations.

28455 Worden, Ralph. Newscaster (WGAR, Cleveland, OH, 1940-1942, 1944).

28456 Words and Music. Poetry was read by narrator Harvey Hays and songs were sung by soprano Ruth Lyon, tenor Charles Sears and baritone Edward Davies on the sustaining show. Organist Larry Larsen was both soloist and accompanist. Hays sought to popularize modern poets by reading their works. For example, he often featured the poetry of Harriet Monroe (15 min., Thursday, 1:30-1:45 P.M., NBC-Rd, 1937).

28457 Words at War. Produced by NBC in cooperation with the Council on Books in War Time, the program attempted to review and dramatize the "most representative" books to come out of the war. Although the program tended toward heavy-handed propaganda, it provides an interesting insight into the social history of the World War II period. One book dramatized was The Cross and the Arrow by Arnold Moss, adapted for radio by Ben Kagan. Members of the cast were Louis Van Rooten, Ed Begley, Dorothy Francis and Reese Taylor. Music was arranged and played by organist William Meeder. Ganna Garrison was the producer and Jack Costello the announcer (30 min., Weekly, NBC, 1944). See also Wartime Radio.

28458 Words in the News. After listeners submitted various words from daily magazines and newspapers, members of the studio audience were given an opportunity to win prizes if they correctly defined them. Prizes were awarded both to the person submitting the word and the successful contestant (15 min., Weekly, KOMA, Oklahoma City, OK, 1942).

28459 Workhoven, Merrill. News analyst (KELO-KSOO, Sioux Falls, SD, 1943; WOW, Omaha, NE, 1945; Highlights and Sidelights of the News, WOW, Omaha, NE, 1948).

28460 (The) World Is Our Beat. A group of correspondents from all over the world joined in a party line conference to discuss world affairs on the sustaining news show. The newsmen who participated were Bill Downs, Eric Sevareid, Howard K. Smith, David Schoenbrun, Edward R. Murrow, Richard C. Hottelet and Larry Lesueur (30 min., Wednesday, 11:00-11:30 A.M., CBS, 1949).

28462 (The) World Now. The news was broadcast by Peter Grant, Spencer Daines and Jim Fidler (WLW, Cincinnati, OH, 1955).

28463 (The) World of Nordine. Ken Nordine read poetry with a soft music background on his popular network show (15 min., Monday through Friday, 4:00-4:15 min., NBC, 1955).

28464 (The) World Today. James G. McDonald broadcast the news (15 min., Monday, 7:15-7:30 P.M., NBC-Rd, 1930).

28465 World Wanderings. The Christian Science Monitor (May 9, 1930, p. 4) reported that Bathie Stuart broadcast travels "bedecked in the native costume" of the area of the world being described (NBC, 1930-1931).

28466 World Wide News Review. Benson & Hedges Company, manufacturers of Virginia Slims cigarettes, sponsored the news program. It was written by the WQXR news staff in collaboration with Frank Norris, the managing editor of The March of Time and his staff (15 min., Monday through Friday, 9:00-9:15 P.M., WQXR, New York, NY, 1942).

28467 World's Business. Dr. Julius Klein conducted the quarter-hour business program (NBC-Pacific Coast Network, 1928). The program was carried by the full NBC network in 1930 when Klein broadcast the program from Washington, D.C.

28567 Wynken, Blynken and Nod. The harmony singing vocal trio that specialized in singing the blues consisted of Mr. Jean Napier and the Mathews Sisters, Gay and Lou (WGN, Chicago, IL, 1928).

28568 Wynn, Bob. Sportscaster (WAVX, Waycross, GA, 1953).

28569 Wynn, Ed (Isaiah Edwin Leopold). Comedian Wynn after high school immediately went into acting for $12 a week. He starred in the 1914 Follies, followed by The Passing Show, The Perfect Fool, Carnival, The Grab Bag and The Laugh Parade. Wynn's Broadway hit, The Perfect Fool, was broadcast (WJZ, New York, NY, February 19, 1922), the first stage show ever broadcast. Wynn, a popular Broadway and vaudeville comic, frequently appeared on The Eveready Hour, an early network show (WEAF, New York, NY). He also appeared April 12, 1923 on the inaugural program of station WLS (Chicago, IL, 1923).

Ed Wynn's appearance as the Fire Chief marked his debut on his own program. Veteran announcer Graham McNamee became his stooge on the show. Music was supplied by the Fire Chief Quartet. Wynn returned to radio in 1944 with his Happy Island Show, sponsored by Borden Milk, on ABC. He returned for another brief stint in 1946 on the Texaco Star Theatre.

28570 Wynn, Eunice. Soprano (KFWB, Hollywood, CA, 1926).

28571 Wynn, Larry. DJ (WSBC, Chicago, IL, 1956–1957).

28572 Wynn, Nan. Singer (Nan Wynn, vcl. mus. prg., 15 min., Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 3:45–4:00 P.M., CBS, 1940s). Miss Wynn's program began with its theme followed by an announcer saying, "She sings sweet." After more of the theme, he said, "She sings hot." After another portion of the theme was repeated, the announcer said, "It's Nan Wynn, Columbia's sweet swinger of songs, come to call with tunes in a style all her own. Nan starts things right in rhythm with a specialty that couples a little old English sentiment with some modern American swing—"John Peel."

28573 Wynn, Paul. DJ (Saturday Night Dancing Party, WWGS, Tifton, GA, 1950; WLBG, Laurens, SC, 1955).

28574 Wynn, Paul. DJ (Afternoon Bandstand, WEWO, Laurinburg, NC, 1950).

28584 Wysong, Bernice. Pianist (WNAD, Norman, OK, 1926).

28585 X Minus One (aka Dimension X). Years before American astronauts walked on the moon, interplanetary travel and extra-terrestrials were frequent elements in dramas presented on X Minus One, an excellent science fiction anthology series. X Minus One, begun as Dimension X, was probably the finest science fiction series of Radio's Golden Age. An early showcase for Ray Bradbury's fiction, the program presented many classic science fiction stories for the first time.

The program brought the work of Ray (Raymond Douglas) Bradbury to a wide audience. Bradbury was the author of The Martian Chronicles (1950), Fahrenheit 451 (1953) and many volumes of science fiction short stories. Bradbury is often credited as a major influence in making science fiction respectable. Other authors whose work was dramatized included: Poul Anderson, Isaac Asimov, Robert Bloch, Earle Hammer, Jr., Robert Silverberg and Theodore Sturgeon. Ernest Kinoy wrote the scripts.

Some of the actors who appeared on the anthology series were: Joan Alexander, Jackson Beck, Ralph Bell, Ralph Camargo, Art Carney, Joe DiSantis, Staats Cotsworth, Joyce Gordon, Jack Grimes, Larry Haines, Wendell Holmes, Leon Janney, Raymond Edward Johnson, Joe Julian, Mandel Kramer, John Larkin, Joan Lazer, Peter Lazer, Jack Lemmon, Bill Lipton, Ronald Liss, Jan Miner, Claudia Morgan, Santos Ortega, Byrna Raeburn, Guy Repp, Luis Van Rooten, Norman Rose, Everett Sloane and Reese Taylor. Ed King, Danny Sutter and Fred Weihe were the directors. The announcers were Fred Collins and Bob Warren. Agnew Horine and Sam Monroe produced the sound effects (30 min., Weekly, NBC, 1950-1951, 1955-58).

28586 Xanten, (Mrs.) Jeanette Boyer. Soprano (KOAC, Corvallis, OR, 1926).

28587 (The) Xavier Cugat Show. Instr. mus. prg. (30 min., Wednesday, 8:30-9:00 P.M., MBS, 1943-1944). Dubonnet was the sponsor of the program of Latin music played by the Cugat band. Xavier Cugat was born in Spain in 1900 and raised in Cuba. Violinist-band leader Cugat popularized the tango in the United States in the 1920s. The next decade he popularized other forms of Latin music, with an emphasis on the rumba. More than any other band leader, Cugat was responsible for popularizing Latin music by his numerous broadcasts and many appearances in motion picture musicals.

Cugat had his own radio programs as early as 1933. Before the Xavier Cugat Show, he and his band appeared on many remote broadcasts, the network Camel Caravan Show and his own Romance and Rhumbas (1941) and The Rumba Review (1941-1942). Abbe Lane, Lina Romay and Charro gained a large following while singing with the Cugat band.

28588 Xylophone Harmony Kings Orchestra. Novelty band (WTAY, Oak Park, IL, 1925).

28590 Band of Malden. Club band (WNAC, Boston, MA, 1923).

28652 Yorkman, Milton. Tenor (WHN, New York, NY, 1925).

28653 Yottes, John. Sportscaster (Today in Sports, WFAS, White Plains, NY, 1960).

28654 You. Distinguished author, critic and newspaper columnist Gilbert Seldes conducted the sustaining educational program, devoted to the discussion of various social, political and economic events as they affected individual Americans. His objective was "to drive home the new" with a direct effect on "your life." Variety noted that although the program was both informative and stimulating, unfortunately, it never attracted a large audience (30 min., Sunday, 3:00–3:30 P.M., NBC-Blue, 1936).

28655 You and Your Government. The series of summer broadcasts presented discussions on such topics as "Taxation for Prosperity—Pro and Con," "Paying for Social Security," "Tariff and Business Recovery," "How Much Should the Drinker Pay?," "Does Real Estate Pay Too Much?," "Tax Dodging by Constitutional Amendment," "Single Tax or Triple Tax," "The Sales Tax—Pro and Con" and "Federal Taxation and Business Recovery" (15 min., Tuesday, 5:45–6:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1935).

28656 You Bet Your Life. Elgin Watches sponsored the entertaining quiz show made famous by the antics of Groucho Marx interviewing and quizzing contestants. Each program used a "secret word" that won a prize for any contestant who used it during the interview or quiz portion of the show. Billy May's Orchestra supplied the music. The writers were Bernie Smith and Hy Freedman, the producer Hatfield Weeden and the director Bob Dwan. During the years it was on the air, John Guedel also served as producer-director. Although Jack Slattery was the first announcer, George Fennemen finally took over as announcer on both the radio and television versions of the program (30 min., Monday, 8:00–8:30 P.M., ABC, 1947). The show made its successful transition to television in 1950, where Groucho's double entendre comedy made it a long-running favorite.

28657 You Can't Do Business with Hitler. The propaganda series produced for civilian consumption during World War II presented programs on such topics as "Mass Murder," "The Thousand Year Reich," "The Anti-Christ" and "The Pagan Gods" (Network, 1942).

28658 You Can't Take It with You. Walter Brennan was featured on the 1951 comedy drama that was a summer replacement show.

- 28708 Young America Sings. Jerry Reed, the brother of folk singer Susan Reed, sang folk ballads on the weekly music show (15 min., Weekly, New York local radio, 1947).
- 28709 Young Aviators of the Air. Colonel Reinier conducted the program for young people interested in aviation (15 min., 10:00-10:15 A.M., WOR, Newark, NJ, 1932).
- 28710 Young Dr. Malone. The popular daytime serial told the story of young Jerry Malone, who began as a staff physician and, later, became medical director of the Three Oaks Medical Center. The title role was originally played by Alan Bunce. The cast over the years the show was on the air included: Joan Alexander, Vera Allen, Jone Allison, Ray Appleby, Frank Ayres, Joan Banks, Tony Barrett, Richard Barrows, Frank Bealin, Sandy Becker, Martin Blaine, Alan Bunce, Naomi Campbell, Pattee Chapman, Jean Colbert, Nancy Coleman, Richard Coogan, Les Damon, Helene Dumas, Isabel Elson, Elspeth Eric, Ethel Everett, Carl Frank, Robert Haag, Larry Haines, Fran Hale, Ray Hedge, Tommy Hughes, Charles Irving, Donna Keath, Arnold Korff, Barry Kroeger, Joan Lazer, Bill Lipton, Jack Manning, Ian Martin, M. McAllister, Paul McGrath, Janet McGrew, Sellwin Meyers, Ethel Morrison, Herbert Nelson, Eleanor Phelps, William Podmore, Betty Pratt, Katherine Raht, Amanda Randolph, Bill Redfield, Elizabeth Reller, Rosemary Rice, Bartlett Robinson, Tess Sheehan, Joy Terry, Barry Thomson, James Van Dyk, Evelyn Varden, Gertrude Warner, Barbara Warner, Ethel Wilson and Bernard Zansville. Charles Paul was the organist and Ira Ashley, Miverva Ellis, Dave Lesan and Basil Loughrane the producers. Ira Ashley, Stanley Davis, Walter Gorman, Fred Weibe and Theodora Yates were the directors. The writers were David Driscoll, Julian Funt and Charles Gussman. Ron Rawson was the announcer (NBC-Blue, CBS, 1939-1960).
- 28711 Young Peoples' Hour. The Young Peoples' Hour program began April 15, 1925. It consisted of informative and inspirational speeches by A.A. Grossman and Reverend Paul G. Prokopy (KFUC, St. Louis, MO, 1925).
- 28712 Young Widder Brown. Another Frank and Anne Hummert daytime serial, Young Widder Brown was sponsored by Bayer Aspirin. Originally the program was titled Young Widder Jones and broadcast on Mutual in 1938. Soon, however, it was switched to NBC, where it ran continuously to June 12, 1956, when it left the air.
- Ellen Brown was played by Florence Freeman until 1954, when she was replaced by Wendy Drew. Ellen was an attractive woman widowed in her early thirties, who faced such travails as murder trials, amnesia, automobile accidents and various physical ills in her struggle to achieve economic security and find romance. The plot can best be described by the program announcer's daily introduction of "...attractive Ellen Brown with two fatherless children to support [with] the age-old conflict between a mother's duty and a heart."
- Ellen Brown opened a tea shop in the small Midwestern town of Simpsonville to support herself and her children, Mark and Jane Brown, who sometimes proved to be major obstacles in Ellen's quest for romance. Ellen's romantic interests seemed to focus on physicians. First, it was Dr. Peter Turner, played by Clayton "Bud" Collyer, who eventually married Ellen's best friend. Soon, however, the young widow's interest focused on patient and long-suffering Dr. Anthony Loring. Happily, after many years of waiting, on the program's last broadcast, Ellen finally agreed to marry him, rewarding him for the many years he had spent waiting for her.
- The program's cast included: Charita Bauer, Arline Blackburn, Alan Bunce, Clayton "Bud" Collyer, Warren Colston, Tommy Donnelly, Eric Dressler, Marilyn Erskine, Florence Freeman, Toni Gilman, Robert Haag, Louis Hall, Joy Hathaway, Tom Hoier, Irene Hubbard, Tommy Hughes, Ethel Intropidi, House Jameson, Riza Joyce, Bennett Kilpack, Ray Largay, Athena Lorde, Frank Lovejoy, John MacBryde, Florence Malone, Jimmy McCallion, Bess McCammon, Eva Parnell, Ethel Reney, Virginia Routh, Lorene Scott, Alexander Scourby, James Sherman, Helen Shields, Muriel Starr, Kay Strozzi, Joan Tompkins, Lili Valenti, Dick Van Patten, Ned Wever, Agnes Young and Alice Yourman. John Winter was the organist. The program, a Frank and Anne Hummert production, was written by Elizabeth Todd. The announcer was George Ansbro. Martha Atwell, Richard Leonard and Ed Slattery were the directors (15 min., Monday through Friday, MBS, 1938, NBC, 1938-1956).
- 28713 Youngblood, Jim. DJ (Farm and Home Hour, WPAD, Paducah, KY, 1954).
- 28714 Youngblood, Wesley "Wes." Newscaster (KFYO, Lubbock, TX, 1940-1943, 1948; KDAV, Lubbock, TX, 1956). Sports caster (KFYO, 1940-1942; Sports Parade, KSEL, Lubbock, TX, 1950; Sports Page, KSEL, 1951-1954).
- 28715 Younge, Ruth. "Novelty pianist" (WHB, Kansas City, MO, 1928).
- 28716 Younger, Mildred. COM-HE (KABC, Hollywood, CA, 1956).
- 28717 Youngman, Jim. DJ (Polka Party, WESA, Charleroi, PA, 1950).
- 28718 Youngworth, Frank, Jr. Sports-caster (WMPO, Middleport-Pomeroy, OH, 1960).
- 28719 Younin, Wolf. News commentary (American Yiddish Varieties, WARD, Brooklyn, NY, 1940).
- 28720 Yount, Chuck. DJ (1490 Club, WKBV, Richmond, IN, 1949-1960).
- 28721 Your Adventure. Colgate-Palmolive Company sponsored this novel dramatic series. Listeners wrote in their own personal adventures and certain ones were selected and dramatized. Fast-talking Floyd Gibbons was the program's narrator (30 min., Thursday, 10:00–10:30 P.M., CBS, 1937).

28722 Your Child. WRC-NBC, Washington, DC, originated the program providing information about child care and children's health problems. Grace Abbott, Chief of the Children's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, directed the program in 1929. When the program was broadcast into the mid-1930s, Katherine Lenroot and Ella Oppenheimer replaced Miss Abbott.

28723 Your Child. Child authority Angelo Patri conducted the informative program for parents (15 min., Sunday, 11:15–11:30 P.M., CBS, 1933).

28724 Your Dream Has Come True. Five persons with deserving wishes wrote them down and dropped them into the program's "Wishing Well." They were then interviewed and their experiences dramatized. A Board of Well Wishers, headed by Dr. Samuel Stevens, the President of Grinnell College, selected the persons whose wishes would be granted. Quaker Oats Company sponsored the program (30 min., Sunday, 4:40–5:00 P.M. CST, NBC, 1940).

28725 Your Family and Mine. The daytime serial was the story of an unsuccessful inventor. Without his faithful wife's emotional and financial support, their family would not have survived. The program suspiciously sounded like an imitation of the early Lorenzo Jones program. The cast included: Bill Adams, Morris Carnovsky, George Coulouris, Peter Donald, Parker Fennelly, Carl Frank, Raymond Edward Johnson, Francesca Lenni, Bill Lipton, Frank Lovejoy, Arthur Maitland, William Quinn, Terry Joy, Joan Tompkins, Lucille Wall and Maurice Wells. Henry Souvaine was the producer and Larry Hammond and Harold McGee the directors. The writers were Lillian Lauferty and Clyde North. Ford Bond was the announcer (NBC, CBS, 1938–1940).

28726 Your Good Fairy. Ellen Fay sang songs, told stories and provided pleasant talk for young children on the sustaining local children's program (30 min., Saturday, 9:00–9:30 A.M., WROW, Albany, NY, 1949).

28727 Your Gospel Singer. Singer Edward McHugh sang sacred songs of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths on the series of 420 transcribed programs that were broadcast by 56 stations. William Meeder played the organ and John Gordon Fraser read appropriate poetic selections (15 min., Transcribed on Various Stations, 1946).

28728 Your Handwriting. Graphologist Jane Redington analyzed handwriting and its implications (15 min., Wednesday and Friday, 10:15–10:30 A.M., WINS, New York, NY, 1932).

28729 Your Health and You. Health information was broadcast weekly by Dean Harold Burns (15 min., Sunday, 7:45–8:00 P.M., WIND, Chicago, IL, 1949).

28730 Your Hit Parade. One of radio's most popular music show, Your Hit Parade claimed to broadcast the most popular song hits of the week. Young people found it fascinating listening each Saturday night to discover what the program proclaimed was the "taste in American music" for the week just past. Each week the announcer explained it this way by saying:

The number one song as determined by Your Hit Parade survey, which checks the best sellers in sheet music and phonograph records, the songs most heard on the air and most played in automatic coin machines—an accurate, authentic tabulation of America's taste in popular music.

The program's format changed little over the years. Among the many performers who appeared on the program were: Bonnie Baker, Jess Clark, Buddy Clark, Doris Day, Joan Edwards, Georgia Gibbs (Freda Gibson), Bill Harrington, Johnny Hauser, Kay Lorraine, Margaret McCrea, Lanny Ross, Andy Russell, Dinah Shore, Frank Sinatra, Kay Thompson, Lawrence Tibbett, Bea Wain, Eileen Wilson and Barry Wood. Andre Baruch, Martin Block, Kenny Delmar, Basil Ruysdael and Del Sharbutt were the announcers. Ethel Smith was the organist and Lucile Lawrence and Verlye Mills the harpists. The Ken Lane Chorus and the Lyra Murray Singers also performed. The program was written by Bunny Coughlin, Richard Dana, John Henderson, Gail Ingram and Tom Langan. The orchestras that performed on the show at various times were those of Al Goodmar, Johnny Green, Richard Himber, Carl Hoff, Lennie Hayton, Leo Reisman, Freddie Rich, Raymond Scott, Ray Sinatra, Harry Sosnik, Axel Stordahl, Orrin Tucker and Mark Warnow. The program began on April 20, 1935 with "Lovely to Look At" as the Number One Song.

28731 Your Hit Parade on Parade. Lucky Strike Cigarettes also sponsored this nostalgic version of the Your Hit Parade program, a summer replacement for Jack Benny. The top ten tunes of the past 14 years were played. Music was performed by singers Stuart Foster and Marjorie Hughes accompanied by Russ Case's orchestra (30 min., Sunday, 7:00–7:30 P.M., CBS, 1949).

28732 Your Hollywood Informer. Movie star Lyle Talbot broadcast movie news and gossip on the show sponsored by the National Shoe Stores of New York (15 min., Thursday, 7:00–7:15 P.M., WJIN, New York, NY, 1946).

28733 Your Hollywood News. Lydia Pinkham Medicine Company sponsored Stella Unger's broadcast of Hollywood gossip (15 min., Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 1:45–2:00 P.M., MBS, 1938).

28734 Your Hollywood News Girl. Stella Unger was the Hollywood news commentator (Five Times Weekly, NBC-Blue Network, 1942).

28735 Your Hollywood Parade. Motion picture star Rosemary Lane discussed news of movies and their stars (1938).

28736 Your Home Front Reporter. The World War II news show also featured the singing team of Phil Hanna and Diana Gayle (CBS, 1943).

28737 Your Love Man. Jerry Lawrence and Bob Lee produced, directed and wrote the story of college love and marriage. Two young people, played by Jimmy Lydon and Janet Waldo, married despite their college's regulations against it. The program's plot complications arose from their rejection of the college's rules. John Heistand was also in the cast of the sustaining comedy drama (30 min., Monday, 8:30–9:00 P.M., CBS, 1949).

28738 Your Lover. Frank Luther, "your lover" on this program, sang love songs in his good tenor voice and delivered appropriately romantic speeches. He made amorous speeches to listeners, although he frequently mentioned that he "had never seen you." The program was sponsored by Hinds' Ambrosia (15 min., Thursday, 11:00–11:15 P.M., NBC-Red, 1934).

28739 Your Lover. A year later a similar show was broadcast featuring tenor Mischa Rose, who was not identified by name on the program. The show's theme was "Here is My Heart." After it was played, the voice of announcer Ray Duffy proclaimed, "My ladies, your lover is here." Tenor Rose then delivered romantic lines to his audience and sang romantic songs to the accompaniment of accordionist Louis Ukeeno and vibraharpist Tommy Smith (15 min., Monday, 9:45–10:00 P.M., WPEN, Philadelphia, PA, 1936).

28740 Your Personal Advisor. The World's Dispensary Medical Association sponsored this program that was similar to The Voice of Experience. It was conducted by Mrs. Julia Rose, who answered questions from listeners about modern etiquette, family budgets, home decoration and marital problems. Announcer Sigmund Smith tried to persuade listeners to use the sponsor's products (15 min., Monday, 2:05–2:20 P.M., WGR, Buffalo, NY, 1939).

28741 Your Rhythm Revue. A public service program, Your Rhythm Revue presented such guest stars as Jimmy Durante, Dinah Shore, Jo Stafford, Rosemary Clooney, Joni James, Burl Ives, Spike Jones and the City Slickers, the Four Aces, Sarah Vaughan, Gordon MacRae and Evelyn Knight (15 min., 1950s).

28742 Your Song and Mine. Borden Company sponsored the good music program that featured distinguished singers Thomas L. Thomas and Rose Bampton. Accordionist Charlie Magnante and a pianist named Wahl also performed. The orchestra was conducted by Larry Slattery. Larry Elliott and Andre Baruch were the announcers (30 min., Wednesday, 9:00–9:30 P.M., CBS, 1948).

28743 Your Story for Today. Nelson Olmstead told fascinating yarns (15 min., Monday through Friday, 4:45–5:00 P.M., ABC, 1948).

28744 Your Theatre and Mine. Newspaper columnist Karl Krug of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph broadcast informative talks on various theatrical topics on the program sponsored by his newspaper (15 min., Saturday, 11:30-11:45 P.M., WCAE, Pittsburgh, PA, 1936).

28745 Your Tropical Trip. Desi Arnaz sang and conducted his orchestra on the sustaining network music show. The announcer was John Jacobs (30 min., Sunday, 3:30-4:00 P.M., CBS, 1951). Arnaz and wife Lucille Ball later became popular stars on television's I Love Lucy show.

28746 Your Unseen Friend. M.H.H. Joachim, who was the "unseen friend," also directed the program that dramatized the stories of persons with various human problems. Joachim explained and analyzed the problems that were dramatized at the conclusion of each program. Joachim was identified on his handouts with Oxford University, Calcutta and lecture platform mastery (30 min., Sunday, 4:00-4:30 P.M., CBS, 1936). Joachim previously had appeared in the title role on Omar the Mystic program.

28747 Your Wandering Minstrel. Tenor Gerald Bereir was the "wandering one," who sang romantic songs. He was accompanied by organist Dick Hartigan (WROW, Albany, NY, 1950).

28748 Your Witness. Ashmead Scott wrote the sustaining murder mystery series. Each week at one point in the program, the story would stop and the announcer would take a microphone into the studio audience to ask its members to identify the murderer. After a brief intermission, the story continued and the hero immediately trapped the killer (45 min., Wednesday, 10:15-11:00 P.M., CBS, 1938).

28749 Youse, Robert. Newscaster (WDBJ, Roanoke, VA, 1937). DJ (13-0 Club, WBRK, Pittsfield, MA, 1950-1954). Sportscaster (WDBJ, 1938-1941).

28750 Youth Vs. Age. Cal Tinney was the combination host and quizmaster on the show with the clever concept of pitting one generation against another. On an early show, for example, a team of two daughters and two sons competed against two of their fathers and two of their mothers. The announcer was Hugh McDerevy (30 min., Tuesday, 7:30-8:00 P.M., NBC-Red, 1939).

28751 Zabel, Jim. Newscaster (WHO, Des Moines, IA, 1946). Sportscaster (Sportsmen's Corner, WHO, 1951-1954).

28752 Zabitka, Matt. Sportscaster (WDRE, Chester, PA, 1956).

28753 Zablocki, Chet. DJ (WTOD, Toledo, OH, 1955).

28754 Zacharias, (Admiral) Ellis E. News analyst (WMCA, New York, NY, 1948).

28756 Zack, Al. DJ (Music 'Til Midnight, KOOS, Coos Bay, OR, 1954).

28757 Zack, Ed. DJ (WOC, Davenport, IA, 1954). Sportscaster (WOC, Davenport, IA, 1960).

28758 Zack, Sam. Sportscaster (Sports Journal, WHOO, Orlando, FL, 1955). DJ (WTAI, Tallahassee, FL, 1956).

28759 Zager, Clara. Fourteen-year-old violinist (WDAR, Philadelphia, PA, 1925).

28760 Zaiman, Jack. Sportscaster (WDRC, Hartford, CT, 1940-1941).

28761 Zaines, Charles. News analyst (Charles Zaines Reporting, WALL, Middletown, NY, 1948).

28762 Zam, Paul. Conductor (The Nomads—a Russian orchestra, NBC, New York, NY, 1928).

28763 Zandra the Man Who Sees All. Zandra told fortunes and prophesied the future (KYA, San Francisco, CA, 1929).

28764 Zane, John. DJ (Timekeeper, WMMW, Meriden, CO, 1949).

28765 Zane Grey Show (aka The Zane Gray Theater). Tex Thorne, a drifting cowboy, was the hero on the sustaining western dramatic series that was loosely based on Zane Grey's stories. Thorne was first played by Vic Perrin and, later, by Don MacLaughlin. Alvina Temple and Earle Ross were also in the cast. Bill Farman was the program's narrator. Music was supplied by Harry Zimmerman's Orchestra (30 min., Tuesday, 9:30-10:00 P.M., MBS, 1947).

28766 Zaner, Raymond D. Conductor (Raymond Zaner and his Melody Boys, WGBF, Evansville, IN, 1926).

28767 Zank, Ken. Sportscaster (KFUO, Clayton, MO, 1940).

28768 (The) Zany Family. Dramatic sketches, music and comedy routines comprised the appropriately named show. Papa Zany, played by Bob Martin, was the show's maestro. Comedian Charlie Cantor played Tosca Zany. Baritone Barry Wood was Romeo Zany. Soprano Ruth Carhart was Tetra Zany. The sustaining show was thoroughly entertaining, filled as it was with many ancient gags (30 min., Wednesday, 4:15-4:45 P.M., CBS, 1949).

28769 Zaputit, Bill. DJ (To Each His Own, WRFC, Reidsville, NC, 1950; KGHL, Billings, MT, 1955-1957).

28770 Zaremba, Jack. Newscaster (Noon-day News, WLAV, Grand Rapids, MI, 1948).

28771 Zarley, Lois. COM-HE (WJOL, Joliet, IL, 1956).

28772 Zarnow, Ralph. DJ (The Ralph Zarnow Show, KIOA, Des Moines, IA, 1949).

28773 Zaro, Rio. Sportscaster (Sports Forecast, KYCA, Prescott, AZ, 1952).

28774 Zarova, Ralina. Russian soprano (KMTR, Hollywood, CA, 1926).

28775 Zaruba, Arnie. DJ (KDEC, Decatur, IA, 1955).

28776 Zastrow, Don. Sportscaster (Sports Capsule, KTKM, Hartford, WI, 1952). DJ (Alarm Clock Parade, KULP, El Campo, TX, 1954).

28777 Zeanah, Charles. Newscaster (WSFA, Montgomery, AL, 1944). Sportscaster

(WJRI, Tuscaloosa, AL, 1945; Sports Forum and The Sports Page of the Air, WSFA, 1950).

28778 Zeb Carver and His Country Cousins. Carver's country music gang included Chuck Roe, Eddie Smith and Clovis Rogers on the sustaining network CW music show (15 min., Weekly, MBS, 1938). After leaving the network, the group returned as Zeb Carver and his Country Cousins on a sustaining New York local CW music show (27 min., Monday, 8:03-8:30 P.M., WMCA, New York, NY, 1938).

28779 Zee, Don. DJ (WPON, Pontiac, MI, 1956).

28781 Zehnder, Charles L. Tenor (WSM, Nashville, TN, 1928).

28782 Zehnder, Fred. DJ (KHUM, Eureka, CA, 1954-1955).

28783 Zeideveld, Jack. Sportscaster (WKBZ, Muskegon, MI, 1942).

28784 Zeidman, Al. DJ (WKWK, Wheeling, WV, 1956).

28785 Zeidman, Irving "Irv." Sportscaster (Sports Whirl, KNOE, Monroe, LA, 1952; Sports Beat, KENT, Shreveport, LA, 1953-1956).

28786 Zeigin, Jack. Newscaster (WING, Dayton, OH, 1944-1947).

28787 Zeiler, Louis. Tenor (WEAF, New York, NY, 1925-1926).

28788 Zeilmann, Jack. Sportscaster (Sports Spotlight, WCAW, Charleston, WV, 1954).

28789 Zeke Manners and His Gang. Clemans Clothes sponsored the popular "hillbilly music" show that was an outgrowth of the locally broadcast Pappy, Zeke, Ezra and Elton Show. Only Pappy departed. Accordionist Zeke Manners, who was certainly a "sophisticated hillbilly," became the group's leader and Elton Britt still supplied the yodels. Manners originally headed the popular CW group known as the Beverly Hillbillies, a great Pacific Coast favorite, on early radio.

Variety reviewed the program by saying there was a lot of nasal singing, funny jokes and, generally, solid entertainment on the mostly ad lib show. Other gang members included Ace Giddens, Hank Culpepper and crooner Gabe Drake (30 min., Sunday, 10:45-11:15 P.M., WMCA, New York, NY, 1936). They made many appearances on various stations the following decade (Zeke Manners and his Gang, Transcribed, 1937-1938; Zeke Manners' Hillbilly Gang, 15 min., WNEW, New York, NY, 1942). The Zeke Manners gang went on to appear frequently as guests on many network shows and several other transcribed programs.

28790 Zelant, Alfred. Violinist (KFUS, Oakland, CA, 1925).

- 28792 Zeller, Mary. Leader (Mary Zeller String Quartet, KMIC, Inglewood, CA, 1928).
- 28793 Zellinskie, Paul. DJ (The Jukebox Show, WISL, Shamokin, PA, 1960).
- 28794 Zellner, Bob. Sportscaster (WGBB, Freeport, NY, 1941–1942).
- 28795 Zelner, Otto. Bass (WCCO, Minneapolis–St. Paul, MN, 1928).
- 28796 Zenith Symphony Orchestra. Radio orchestra sponsored by the Radio Equipment Company of Texas (WFAA, Dallas, TX, 1927).
- 28797 Zent, M.D. DJ (The Record Shop, KSWs, Roswell, NM, 1949).
- 28798 Zero, Lou. DJ (Top of the Morning, WINK, Erie, PA, 1954; WEKK, Erie, PA, 1956).
- 28799 Ziebarth, (Dr.) E.W. News analyst (WLB, Minneapolis, MN, 1942, 1944; WCCO, Minneapolis–St. Paul, MN, 1941–1948).
- 28800 Ziegfeld Follies of the Air. Colgate-Palmolive Company sponsored this attempt to bring the flavor of the great Ziegfeld's productions to radio. Ruth Etting, Benny Fields, Billie Burke, Lupe Valez, Patti Chapin, James Melton, Will Rogers and many other stars performed on the show. Perhaps it was most notable in that it was on this program that Fanny Brice first introduced her Baby Snooks character (60 min., Saturday, 8:00–9:00 P.M., CBS, 1936). In the midst of the grim depression years, the Ziegfeld Follies of the Air seemed to make things a little happier with its good music and clever comedy routines.
- 28801 Zielinska, Genia. Coloratura soprano (NBC, New York, NY, 1926–1928).
- 28802 Ziemer, Gregor. Newscaster (WISW-SAI, Cincinnati, OH, 1941; WLW, 1942).
- 28803 Zier, Celia. Violinist (WGCP, Newark, NJ, 1925).
- 28804 Ziff, Sid. Sportscaster (KNX, Los Angeles, CA, 1925; KFWB, Los Angeles, CA, 1940).
- 28805 Zikmund, Isabel P. COM-HE (WJDA, Quincy, MA, 1956).
- 28806 Zimbalist, Efrem. Distinguished violinist Zimbalist appeared on the Atwater Kent Hour and many other network programs (NBC and CBS, 1928).
- 28807 Zimbalist, Samuel. Viola virtuoso — Efrem's brother — who appeared on The Slumber Hour (NBC, New York, NY, 1928).
- 28808 Zimmer, Graeme. DJ (WCSI, Columbus, IN, 1947).
- 28809 Zimmer, Lee. DJ (Flair, KABC, Los Angeles, CA, 1960).
- 28810 Zimmerman, Carl. DJ (Concert Hall, WFOX, Milwaukee, WI, 1950).
- 28811 Zimmerman, Harry. Organist (Harry Zimmerman, instr. mus. prg., WJJD, Chicago, IL, 1936).
- 28812 Zimmerman, Harry. DJ (Record Rodeo, KEYD, Minneapolis, MN, 1949).
- 28813 Zimmerman, Joe. Pianist (WAHG, Richmond Hill, NY, 1925). Leader (Joe Zimmerman's Orchestra, WAHG, 1926).
- 28814 Zimmerman, L.W. Popular Cleveland announcer (WTAM, Cleveland, OH, 1924).
- 28815 Zimmerman, Merle. COM-HE (KWRE, Warrenton, MO, 1956).
- 28816 Zimmerman, Miriam. Pianist (KWSG, Pullman, WA, 1925).
- 28817 Zimmerman, Paul. Sportscaster (Sports Parade, WMVA, Martinsville, WV, 1950–1954).
- 28818 Zimmerman, Robert "Bob." DJ (Music Mongers, WTNS, Coshocton, OH, 1950). Sportscaster (The Buckeye Sportslight, WTNS, 1950; KSIL Sportslight, KSIL, Silver City, NM, 1951; In the World of Sports, KOEL, Oelwein, IA, 1952–1954).
- 28819 Zinger, Albert. Violinist (WEAF, New York, NY, 1923).
- 28820 Zink, Albert "Al" Guild. Sportscaster (W'MBC, Auburn, NY and WIBX, Utica, NY, 1937; WGY, Schenectady, NY, 1940–1942).
- 28821 Zink, Chuck. DJ (WCMB, Harrisburg, PA, 1955).
- 28822 Zink, Doug. DJ (WIRE, Indianapolis, IN, 1960).
- 28823 Zinkand, Phil. DJ (1500 Club, WWSW, Pittsburg, PA, 1950).
- 28824 Zipp, Mr. An otherwise unidentified member of the WGN music staff, Mr. Zipp played xylophone, marimba, drums, Chinese blocks and the bells (WGN, Chicago, 1928–1930).
- 28825 Zippay, Al. DJ (Best by Request, KVOW, Littlefield, TX, 1949).
- 28826 Zito, Horacio. Leader (Horacio Zito Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., NBC, 1934; WRC, Washington, DC, 1935).
- 28827 Zodar, Mary Lance. Contralto (1928).
- 28828 Zoeller, Carl. Leader (Carl Zoeller's Melodists Orchestra, WHAS, Louisville, KY, 1926).
- 28829 Zoffer, Billy. Leader (Billy Zoffe's Music Box Orchestra, WCAE, Pittsburgh, PA, 1924).
- 28830 Zogg, Hal. Sportscaster (Roundtable of Sports, KUTA, Salt Lake City, UT, 1952).
- 28831 Zoller, John W. Minister Zoller began his long-running Christ for Everyone program on WWJ (Detroit, MI) in 1922.
- 28832 Zoller, Mary. Miss Zollner was billed as the "Girl xylophonist" (WGBS, New York, NY, 1927; WGN, Chicago, IL, 1928).
- 28833 Zollmer, Mary. Singer (KGFJ, Los Angeles, CA, 1928).
- 28834 Zollo, Leo. Leader (Leo Zollo Orchestra, instr. mus. prg., WFIL, Philadelphia, PA, 1935).
- 28835 Zuber, Ed. Sportscaster (WYVE, Whytheville, VA, 1960).
- 28836 Zuccaro, Bernard. DJ (The Record Room, WIBR, Baton Rouge, LA, 1949–1957).
- 28837 Zuchelli, Ed J. Sportscaster (KCOY, Santa Maria, CA, 1953; KXOB, Stockton, CA, 1954).
- 28838 Zufall, John A. DJ (WJAX, Jacksonville, FL, 1956). See also Happy Johnny.
- 28839 Zugadi, Ignacio. Newscaster (WHOM, Jersey City, NJ, 1941).
- 28840 Zukowski, Eugene. Newscaster (WHOM, Jersey City, NJ, 1941).
- 28841 Zundel, Olga. Fifteen-year-old cellist (WGBS, New York, NY, 1929).
- 28842 Zunino, John. Accordionist (KTAB, Oakland, CA, 1925).
- 28843 Zurich, Sam. Sportscaster (Spotlighting Sports, WIS, Columbia, SC, 1950).

- 28845 Zurlo, Rudy. DJ (WCKB, Dunn, NC, 1957).
- 28846 Zurn, Byron. Sportscaster (KDMA, Montevideo, MN, 1956; Sports Today, KDMA, 1960).
- 28847 Zwick, John. Concert pianist (WQJ, Chicago, IL, 1926).
- 28848 Zyberg, Ed. Newscaster (KROX, Sacramento, CA, 1943).

Appendix: Chronology of American Radio Growth and Development, 1906–1960

Radio "firsts" and "significant events" inevitably are a source of controversy. Nevertheless, a chronology of such occurrences judiciously used provides a useful perspective for viewing American radio's development. With full awareness of the possibility and most likely probability of some error, this chronology of radio's first decades is provided.

1906: The "audion," a three-element vacuum tube with a filament, plate and grid was invented by Dr. Lee De Forest. The tube strengthened the detection and amplification of radio signals.

December 24, 1906: Reginald Aubrey Fessenden probably was the first to broadcast music from his laboratory at Brant Rock, Massachusetts, when he had a female singer perform Christmas carols. Fessenden, himself, played a violin solo of "O, Holy Night."

1908: During the summer of 1908, Lee De Forest broadcast from the Eiffel Tower in Paris and was heard in Marseilles, 500 miles away.

1909: Lee De Forest began broadcasting from his laboratory located on the top floor of the Park Building located at Fourth Avenue and 19th Street, New York City. On one of these broadcasts, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Harriet Blatch, spoke in favor of women's suffrage.

January 12, 1910: De Forest broadcast Enrico Caruso singing the role of Turiddu in "Cavalleria Rusticana" from the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House.

1916: Assistant traffic manager of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company David Sarnoff proposed the development of a "radio music box" for the home.

Summer, 1916: Dr. Frank Conrad, an assistant engineer at the Westinghouse Company, located in East Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, received a license for experimental station 8XK and began broadcasting in November, 1919. A station was able to pick whatever call letters it wished before 1908. The letters "W" and "K" were assigned to the United States by a radio conference of the International Telecommunications Union. In the beginning call letters were assigned randomly, but in the 1920s stations were able to request specific ones. In 1934, the Federal Communications Commission decided that stations' call letters east of the Mississippi River would have call letters beginning with "W." West of the Mississippi, they decided, stations' call letters would begin with "K."

November, 1916: Vaughn de Leath (Leonaire Vonderleigh) sang a capella from a small room in his experimental radiophone laboratory for Lee De Forest, thereby earning herself the designation of the "Original Radio Girl." It is a point of contention as to whether de Leath broadcast for De Forest from the Bronx or his Manhattan laboratory.

November, 1916: Charles V. Longwood and George C. Cannon broadcast music daily except Sunday from 9:00 until 10:00 P.M. on experimental station 2 ZK, New Rochelle, New York.

December 4, 1916: Experimental station 9XM of the University of Wisconsin transmitted regularly scheduled telegraphic weather information. The year before Professor Bennett, a member of the University of Wisconsin's Physics department, had transferred his experimental license 9XM to Professor Earl Terry, another member of the university's Physics department.

Professor Terry and his students strung a transmitter antenna from the roof of the university's Science Hall to the smokestack of the building that later became Radio Hall. Throughout 1915 and 1916, Professor Terry conducted telegraphic experiments. In December 1915, Terry's license was transferred to the Regents of the University of Wisconsin. On January 3, 1921, the University of Wisconsin's WHA, formerly 9XM, began operating with a high power transmitter designed for voice and music transmission. Jack Mitchell, Director of Wisconsin Public Radio (1995), has observed that although the case is not perfect the University of Wisconsin's 9XM/WHA was "the oldest station in the nation," that it was unquestionably the "boldest station in the nation for our persistence in making these claims." See also 1917 and January 3, 1921.

1917: Telegraphic crop and weather reports and experimental music segments were broadcast by 9XM at the University of Wisconsin in Madison, Wisconsin. This station later became WHA. See also January 3, 1921.

February 10, 1920: R.O.T.C. Captains James A. Code, Jr., and H.W. Webbe, Jr., began broadcasting from Ohio State University with a program of music and a talk by university president, W.O. Thompson.

July 17, 1920: Daily broadcasting began on July 17, 1920, from experimental station 8MK, Detroit, Michigan, a station that became, first, WBL and, later, WWJ. This is the basis for its claim to have initiated the first regularly scheduled broadcasts. WWJ also claimed to have broadcast Michigan congressional and county primary election results on August 31, 1920, predating KDKA's broadcast of the Harding-Cox presidential election returns the following month. See also August 31, 1920.

August 31, 1920: The first radio broadcasts of local and state newscasts, congressional election returns and general news bulletins were made by Detroit's WWJ. The following day, September 1, 1920, the Detroit News carried an account of the event:

The sending of the election returns by The Detroit News radiophone Tuesday night was fraught with romance and must go down in the history of man's conquest of the elements as a gigantic step in his progress. In the four hours that the apparatus, set up in an out of the way corner of The News building, was hissing and whirling its message into space, few realized that a dream and a prediction had come true. The news of the world was being given forth through this invisible trumpet to the waiting crowds in the unseen market place.

Newspapers played a significant role in the development of early radio stations. Some argue that the involvement of newspaper publishers in radio was motivated both by a drive for prestige and their desire to control an instrument they recognized as a potentially powerful competitor.

September 1, 1920: WWJ (Detroit, MI) broadcasts the first sportscast of baseball news.

September 4, 1920: The first dancing party exclusively with radio music was held at the home of Mrs. Charles F. Hammond, 180 Parker Place, Detroit, Michigan. Broadcast music was supplied by Detroit's WWJ.

September 23, 1920: Mabel Norton Ayres sang with phonograph accompaniment over WWJ, Detroit, Michigan.

November 2, 1920: KDKA, East Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, began regularly scheduled radio programming with its broadcast of the Harding-Cox presidential election returns and by playing phonograph records.

After its initial broadcast of the Harding-Cox election returns, KDKA began broadcasting each evening until 9:30 P.M. with programming almost nearly identical with the phonograph records that had been played by the Conrad brothers over their father's experimental station 8XK. At the suggestion of Westinghouse Company's Vice-President, H.P. Davis, live performers were brought before the station's microphone. At his insistence concerts by the Westinghouse Company band were broadcast. In December, 1920, Westinghouse Vice-President Davis and KDKA's station manager, J.C. McQuisten decided to broadcast a church service of the Pittsburgh Calvary Episcopal Church. The pioneering religious broadcast occurred on January 2, 1921. Other stations soon followed KDKA's example and began regular broadcasting of religious programs.

Station KDKA was also instrumental in bringing prominent public figures before its microphones. For example, on January 15, 1921, Herbert Hoover, who at the time was leading a campaign to raise money for European relief, was invited to deliver an after dinner speech at Pittsburgh's Duquesne Club. It was proudly broadcast by KDKA. The station also carried speeches in that year by Congress woman Alice M. Robertson, the first woman elected to Congress; Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Jr.; three members of President Harding's cabinet — Mellon, Davis and Weeks — and the great orator, William Jennings Bryan.

1921: At a time when radio sets sold for $130 and higher, Powel Crosley, Jr., built one for $35. He then began to manufacture moderately priced receivers on a mass production basis.

1921: Distinguished operatic singer Johanna Gadski sang on WJZ, New York, New York.

1921: News by radio was broadcast from the newsroom of the Pittsburgh Post by KDKA, Pittsburgh, PA.

1921: Chicago's KYW began its early programming schedule with many remote broadcasts of the Chicago Civic Opera during its 1921-1922 season. See also Opera on Radio.

January 1, 1921: The first of many weekly radio papers, Radio Broadcasting News appeared. It was edited by G. Dare Fleck and published by Pittsburgh station KDKA.

January 2, 1921: Station KDKA broadcast its first religious broadcast with the Vesper Services from Pittsburgh's Calvary Episcopal Church conducted by Reverend Lewis Whitmore.

January 3, 1921: The University of Wisconsin's WHA (formerly 9XM) began operating with a high power transmitter designed for voice and music and a newly hired program director. In addition, local newspapers began carrying its programming schedules. See also December 14, 1916.

January 15, 1921: Pittsburgh's KDKA broadcasts a talk by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, later President of the United States, from the city's Duquesne Club.

September, 1921: Station 7YS began broadcasting its first programs in September, 1921. Five months later its listeners heard its regular programming on Sunday, Tuesday and Friday evenings from 8:30 until 9:30 P.M. Its first performers were Ralph Kater from the Olympia Fire Department, a native Hawaiian performer, a college saxophonist and a Tacoma, Washington, harpist. The station's official license was issued on April 4, 1922, with the KGY call letters. The station had its beginning with the work of Father Sebastian Ruth, a Benedictine monk, a genuine Renaissance man who taught at St. Martin's College in the Puget Sound area of Washington state. Father Ruth established radio in the Puget Sound area. He received his first license in 1914 and two years later received a "Y" license and the 7YS call letters. From 1916 to 1921, 7YS broadcast as a telegraph station on five-watts power. He began experiments with voice transmission in 1921. His experimental broadcasts were heard in the United States, Canada and Hawaii. Father Sebastian ran KGY alone until 1931, when he was joined by Mr. and Mrs. Phil Fryer. Both live and recorded music was featured on KGY until May 1, 1932, when the station made its last broadcast from the St. Martin's campus. When the station was purchased in 1932 by Archie Tait, it was moved to Olympia, Washington.

November 27, 1921: The first continuing religious programming broadcast in New York City was initiated with the Radio Church of America program.

December 14, 1921: WDY, Roselle Park, New Jersey, broadcast its inaugural program featuring Broadway star, Eddie Cantor; pianist Louis Bream; popular singer Harry Howard; vaudevillian Jack Cook and comedian Nat Saunders. During 1921 and 1922, the station broadcast its popular Friday night Radio Party program. Major Andrew White used his most persuasive manner to coax entertainers to come to the station and broadcast in exchange for dinner.

December 15, 1921: Vaudeville comedian-monologist Frank Tinney made his radio debut on WWJ (Detroit, MI).

December 19, 1921: Van and Schenk, the famous vaudeville comedy singing team, made their radio debut on WWJ (Detroit, MI).

December 21, 1921: Vaudeville and Follies star Fannie Brice made her radio debut on WWJ (Detroit, MI).

December 22, 1921: The first licensed religious broadcasting station began operation under the auspices of the Church of the Covenant (now the National Presbyterian Church). The station — WDM — was located at Eighteenth and W Streets in Washington, DC. It operated with 100-watt power.

December 24, 1921: One of the earliest religious broadcasts was the Christmas message delivered by Reverend George P. Dougherty of the Christ Episcopal Church, Glen Ridge, New Jersey, over WJZ, New York, New York. The next month (January, 1922), Reverend Dougherty initiated a regular Sunday service over the same station and invited other clergymen to participate.

1922: Station WSB (Atlanta, GA) claimed it was the first station to use a musical identification at the conclusion of its programs with its use of the first three notes of George M. Cohan's "Over There." These notes when rearranged later became the famous NBC chimes. Nell and Kate Pendley — two sisters — had mentioned to station manager Lambdin Kay that chimes could be used to provide a musical identification for WSB.

1922: Lambdin Kay, announcer and manager of WSB, Atlanta, Georgia, formed the first radio fan club — the WSB Radiowls. Kay and Ernest Rogers were the popular team that conducted the program on which the club was formed. They talked, sang and joked on the program that began at 10:45 P.M. and continuing late into the morning hours, until both they and their material were exhausted. WSB contended that this was the first "late evening" variety program of its type. Another station "first" was its presentation of the first "hillbilly" performer in the person of Fiddlin' John Carson.

1922: Station WSB (Atlanta, GA) claimed to be the first station to present such distinguished musical performers as Alma Gluck, Efrem Zimbalist and Rosa Ponselle in live broadcasts.

1922: Station WIP (Philadelphia, Pennsylvania) broadcast the dance music of the Charlie

Kerr Orchestra with a remote pick-up from the Cafe L'Aiglon.

1922: Bertha Brainard began her series of theater talks on WJZ, New York, New York. Later, she was employed by the station to secure talent for its programs. Brainard eventually became an executive at the National Broadcasting Company. See also Brainard, Bertha.

May, 1922. Station WBAP, Fort Worth, Texas, began to use a cow bell as identification. The station also began to broadcast "remote" weekly church services.

1922: The typical daily broadcast schedule of WWJ, Detroit, Michigan was as follows in 1922:

9:30-9:40 A.M.	Hints to housewives.
9:40-10:15 A.M.	Music "reproduced."
10:15-10:30 A.M.	Weather report.
11:52-12:00 noon	U.S. Naval Observatory Time Signals
12:15-12:45 P.M.	Music "reproduced."
3:30-3:40 P.M.	Weather report.
3:40-4:15 P.M.	Market quotations.
5:00-6:00 P.M.	Baseball scores, market news and special features.
7:00-8:30 P.M.	Entertainment and "edification" by musicians and speakers.

January 1, 1922: The Jersey Journal paper purchased one hour from midnight to 1:00 A.M. on WAAM (Newark, NJ) to broadcast New Year's Greetings.

January 7, 1922: Judge Ben Lindsay, a national authority on the problems of youth, delivered a radio talk to boys on WWJ (Detroit, MI).

February 6, 1922: Distinguished actor Walter Hampden made his radio debut on WWJ (Detroit, MI).

February 10, 1922: The Detroit Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Ossip Gabrilowitsch, broadcast the first complete symphony on radio over WWJ (Detroit, MI). Following this concert, all the other concerts in the series were sponsored by the Detroit News.

March 1, 1922: A series of Lenten sermons began on WWJ (Detroit, MI) conducted by participating clergymen that included the Rt. Rev. Michael J. Gallagher, Catholic Bishop of the Diocese of Detroit; the Rt. Rev. Charles D. Williams, Episcopal Bishop; and Bishop Theodore S. Henderson.

March 7, 1922: Station WJZ (New York, NY) broadcast an all-request vocal program.

March 13, 1922: One of the first "movie motions" was presented on radio when Dorothy and Lillian Gish along with director D.W. Griffith were interviewed on WWJ (Detroit, MI) in connection with the release of their motion picture, Orphans of the Storm.

March 15, 1922: Humorist Will Rogers made his radio debut on WWJ (Detroit, MI).

March 15, 1922: WWJ (Detroit, MI) broadcast the first "missing person" report about William Dora, who had been missing for ten days. There was a happy ending when the boy was soon found in Ohio.

March 31, 1922: The first radio college courses were broadcast by WWJ (Detroit, MI), when the University of Michigan broadcast courses in public health, public education, chemistry and astronomy.

April 4, 1922: Station KGY, Olympia, Washington, began broadcasting from a log cabin with a "completely equipped broadcast studio." Its slogan was "Out Where the Cedars Meet the Sea."

April 11, 1922: WWL (New Orleans, LA) offers a cash give-away in order to check its listener strength.

April 13, 1922: KHJ, Los Angeles, California, began its programming with informative talks, comedy and music.

May 11, 1922. At 10:57 A.M., station manager M. Mulrony spoke a few words of greeting into a microphone and station KGU, Honolulu, Hawaii, became the first official station to broadcast in the Territory of Hawaii.

May 28, 1922: The Detroit News Orchestra, conducted by Otto E. Krueger, was organized by WWJ (Detroit, MI). It was the first orchestra organized specifically for radio broadcasting.

June 14, 1922: President Warren G. Harding dedicated the Francis Scott Key monument at Fort McHenry, Baltimore, Maryland. His speech was broadcast by WEAR (later WFBR), Baltimore, Maryland.

June 18, 1922: The first church wedding was broadcast by WWJ (Detroit, MI) from Detroit's St. Paul's Cathedral. Wendell Hall, "the Red-Headed Music Maker" was the bridegroom.

August 3, 1922. The Wolf—a full length melodrama of 2½ hours by Eugene Walter—was broadcast from the WGY (Schenectady, NY) studio under the direction of Edward H. Snuth.

August 22, 1922: Radio's effect on family life was suggested by an advertisement in the Louisville Courier when it observed that it could prove a panacea for problems of family relationships: "Radio will keep him home every night. Yes, this fascinating new science is doing more than anything else today [to remedy this problem]." Another unusual advertisement carried by the July 23, 1922, issue of the Louisville Courier praised the joys of radio listening while eating: "Jefferson Cafeteria invites Louisvillians to listen in on radio gossip. Radio from the air served with every meal." Even radio and religion were related by a church sign reported in the Courier August 10, 1922: "God is always broadcasting."

August 28, 1922: A real estate organization, the Queensborough Corporation, presented a commercially sponsored program over WEAF (New York, NY).

October 4, 1922: The first report of a World Series baseball game was broadcast by WWJ (Detroit, MI). The station set up loud speakers in Grand Circus Park for the thousands of persons who congregated there to listen to the report.

Fall, 1922: Station WOAI (San Antonio, TX) began to pay its broadcast talent.

Fall, 1922: By the end of 1922, there were hundreds of stations operating on one frequency (360 meters or 833 kilocycles), before two additional frequencies were added the following year.

1923: From the million sets in use at the beginning of 1923, the number doubled by September of that year. Three years later the number had increased to 5,500,000 sets. Radio's popularity and ubiquitous nature increased over the following decades until it was estimated that there were 258,000,000 radios in operation in 1968. The increase in the number of stations during that time was equally impressive.

No more than 18 stations were broadcasting in 1921. According to data supplied by the Radio Service Bulletin published by the government's Department of Commerce, the number of radio stations increased rapidly until by 1923 approximately 500 stations were on the air [see pages 539, 542 and 551 for a listing of stations, their locations and owners in the years 1922, 1926 and 1929, respectively.] Some 850 stations were operating in 1941. In 1952, there were 2,400 stations and their number continued to grow to some 2,000 commercial FM and more than 4,800 AM stations by 1968.

1923: One of the earliest women's programs was initiated by WIP (Philadelphia, PA) with its WIP Homemakers Club.

1923: Station KYW, Chicago, Illinois, changed its frequency to 560 kilocycles and began calling itself "The Twenty-four Hour Station." News was broadcast by the "World Crier" every half hour day and night. KYW thereby became one of the first stations to carry regularly scheduled news broadcasts.

1923: Stanley E. Hubbard forms station WAMI (Minneapolis, MN). It is thought to have been the first American station that relied solely on the sale of advertising.

February 26, 1923: Chicago radio stations initiate "silent nights," in order that DX (distance radio listeners) could hear distant stations from Omaha, Kansas City or New York. Broadcast pioneer Credo Fitch Harris called "silent nights" one of the "queerest innovations radio ever tried" (Harris, 1937, p.152-153). The United States Department of Commerce in 1922 suggested that silent nights be initiated on which certain stations in specific areas would stay off the air once every week to allow listeners in that location to hear distant stations [see also Stations—Growth and Development]. This practice was generally discontinued by 1928.

An indication of how popular DX-ing had become was suggested by the Radio Digest (December, 1928, p. 31) comment:

Do you ever try for distance? Of course you do. Suppose you live in Hannibal, Mo., or say, Kanakee, Ill., and someone should ask you

"Well what did you get last night?" At some time or another you would have thrown out your chest and gurgled, "Oh, I got KFI for one, and she came in great like a local. Boy, I sure got that station fine." When the "Welcome Voice" of Harry Hall or one of the others came breezing through the set, "This is KFI, Los Angeles," everybody in the house had to keep quiet and listen.

April 11, 1923: The musical production The Wildflower was broadcast from the stage of New York's Casino Theater by station WEAJ (New York, NY).

April 25, 1923: Browning King Company sponsors Anna Byrne's orchestra for its studio programs on WEAJ (New York, NY).

July 1, 1923: Chain (network) broadcasting begins when WMAF, Round Hills, Massachusetts, began regular broadcasting of WEAJ, New York, New York, programming.

July 4, 1923: Station KIDL, Salt Lake City, Utah, schedules a period from 6:00 until 7:00 P.M. that included phonograph records, songs, instrumental selections and short talks.

October 14, 1923: Station WEAJ, New York, New York, transmits a program on long distance wires to station WJAR, Providence, Rhode Island.

November, 1923: Regularly scheduled remote programs of dance music by Paul Specht's orchestra from New York City's Alamar Hotel were begun by WJZ, New York, New York.

1924: Station KHJ (Los Angeles, CA) provides time between 8:00 P.M. and 10:00 P.M. each evening to any Los Angeles Times advertiser, who will donate $150 to the station to pay for its broadcast talent.

1924: Station KQV, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, exercises its right to discriminate among station advertisers by canceling the account of the Pittsburgh Theronoid Company.

1924: Station WGN, Chicago, Illinois, begins a program on which the Tribune's newspaper comics were read by Quin Ryan. See also Ryan, Quin.

1924: Listeners using crystal radio receivers mounted on their heads danced in the open air under the antenna of station WTAM, Cleveland, Ohio, to the music of the Ev Jones orchestra.

1924: News reports from the Associated Press were broadcast by Karl Stefan on WJAG, Norfolk, Nebraska.

February 6, 1924: Sister Aimee Semple McPherson began operation of her station KFSH, Los Angeles, California, located in her International Church of the Four Square Gospel. See also McPherson, Aimee Semple.

Fall, 1924: New York City's public broadcasting station, WNYC, opened in the fall of 1924. The principle of using public money for this purpose was sharply criticized by Radio Broadcasting magazine.

October, 1924: The Maryland National Guard took over station WFBR, Baltimore, Maryland, and located it in Baltimore's Fifth Regiment Armory to become the "World's First Broadcasting Regiment—WFBR." When the armory's rifle shots disrupted programs, its studios were moved to another Baltimore location.

October 14, 1924: WEAJ, New York, New York, initiates a commercial network—a forerunner of the Red Network—by joining five other stations: WCAE (Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania); WJAR (Providence, Rhode Island); WCAP (Washington, D.C.); WEEI (Boston, Massachusetts); and WGR (Buffalo, New York).

October 25, 1924: WWJ (Detroit, MI) broadcast the first on the scene play-by-play football game between the University of Michigan and the University of Wisconsin from Ferry Field, Ann Arbor, MI. The game was described by E.L. "Ty" Tyson.

1925: Quin Ryan of WGN, Chicago, Illinois, broadcasts "live" the "Monkey-Evolution" trial from the Dayton, Tennessee, courtroom, featuring defense attorney Clarence Darrow and famous prosecution witness, William Jennings Bryan. This was the first broadcast of a major trial's proceedings. See also Ryan, Quin.

1925: Station WAMD (Minneapolis, MN) establishes the first Radio News department in the United States to broadcast local and national news. It also originated the first hockey play-by-play broadcast.

January 1, 1925: Radio music history was made January 1, 1925, when shortly after 9:00 P.M. station WEAJ, New York, New York, broadcast the Victor Presentation Program that presented the great tenor John McCormack and Metropolitan Opera star Lucrezia Bori accompanied by the Victor Salon Orchestra directed by Nathaniel Shilkret. McCormack opened the program by singing "Out of the Dusk" and "Chanson Bohemienne," followed by Bori performing "La Paloma," "When Love Is Kind" and "Addio Del Pasato" from La Traviata. The program also included orchestral selections and a McCormack-Bori duet, "Parigi O Cara" from La Traviata. McCormack concluded the program by singing "Marcheta" followed by "Mother Machree."

January 22, 1925: The Atwater Kent Radio Hour, one of radio's finest regularly scheduled music programs began Thursday evening, January 22, 1925. The first artists presented were: Reginald Werrenrath, Toscha Seidel and Madame Louise Homer.

January 24, 1925: Station WCCO, Minneapolis, Minnesota, presented the first broadcast of a total eclipse from a World War I airplane. The persons responsible were Lt. G.M. Palmer, Sgt. Foote, Howard Kelly and WCCO's chief engineer, Hugh McCartney.

March 31, 1925: WEAJ (New York, New York) began a series of sustaining grand opera programs with a five station network of WEAJ; WWJ (Detroit, Michigan); WGR (Buffalo, New York); WFI (Philadelphia, Pennsylvania); and WCAE (Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania). The following Tuesday, Faust was presented by the American Opera Ensemble. These programs were so popular that they eventually became the WEAF

Grand Opera Company series with an orchestra conducted by Cesare Sodaro.

November 24, 1925: Radio listening as entertainment and frustration was noted and described by Earle Emnis in Radiocasting Weekly (November 28, 1925, p. 7):

In this [situation], radio may said to rank the corkscrew as a means of entertainment, especially if one is fortunate enough to own a set with a whim. A regular set that works all the time is not the least bit interesting. But when it has a number of whims such as burning out tubes unexpectedly, or catching fire, or letting out human groans, or falling apart when company comes, then it means something to the family with which it lives.

Radio's influence on behavior had its funny side, as Radio Age Weekly (November 28, 1925, p. 25) noted:

I used to sit with Mary
When the family went to bed,
But now she has a radio
And all her love is "dead."
The family simply "sticks" around
Till one o'clock or two.
I cannot spoon with Mary now
Pray tell me what to do.

October 11, 1925: The Steinway Piano Company announced a series of five concerts featuring the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and pianist Josef Hoffmann over WEAJ (New York, New York). Dr. Walter Damrosch later appeared on the program as a pianist-conductor.

November 16, 1925: Some idea of the role of women in early American radio can be seen from the editorial broadcast by station WOAW, Omaha, Nebraska: "Considerable comment has resulted from the recent announcement that a certain Chicago radio station has barred all soprano soloists. The press and radio periodicals featured this action. In the opinion of Station WOAW, this action is nothing more than a publicity stunt and it has very little merit. Soprano soloists generally register very favorably over the radio." For some time it was thought that female voices did not broadcast very well because of their high frequency components. This caused many women to have a difficult time landing jobs as commentators or announcers during radio's early years.

November 22, 1925: The Western New York Network began broadcasting with the linking of stations WGY (Schenectady, New York); WHAM (Rochester, New York); WFBL (Syracuse, New York); and WMAK (Buffalo, New York).

1926: Mrs. Aubrey Waller Cook began a series of piano recitals on KMBC (Kansas City, Missouri) that were regularly broadcast for more than 25 years.

Fall, 1926: In the fall of 1926, directors of the St. Louis Safety Council tried an experiment, in which the secretary-manager of the local Safety Council talked a few minutes on station KMOX (St. Louis, Missouri) on child safety. The station also decided to initiate a safety club for children—The Careful Children's Club. On this program such characters as Safety Sam and the Safety Twins and Handy Andy and Ready Eddie appeared. They broadcast on KMOX six times a week at 6:00 P.M. to promote safety.

May, 1926: WCAU, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania began broadcasting an "amateur" program.

October 11, 1926: The Winslow B. Felix Chevrolet Agency sponsored a quiz show on KMTR (Hollywood, CA).

November, 1926: WEAJ and WJZ of New York City became the key stations in the newly organized National Broadcasting Company.

January 1, 1927: The National Broadcasting Company's Blue Network begins operation.

March 26, 1927: Early radio stations had frequent periods of silence, because there was a lack of talent. Records, which stations called "reproduced" music, were used infrequently because station operators believed that listeners wanted only "live" entertainment. Then, too, many theater operators would not allow their talent to broadcast fearing box office losses. KFRC, San Francisco, CA, met the situation by establishing a two hour program on Saturday, March 26, 1927, from noon to 2:00 P.M., on which they broadcast try-outs for "popular singers and instrumentalists."

April 19, 1927: E.L. "Ty" Tyson broadcast the first on the scene play-by-play of a major league baseball game. WWJ (Detroit, MI) broadcast the game between the Detroit Tigers and the Cleveland Indians from Navin Field, Detroit.

June, 1927: When Charles E. Lindbergh returned home from Paris after his historic Atlantic solo flight, NBC linked 50 stations together for the largest station network created up to that time.

September 18, 1927: The Columbia Broadcasting System began operation with a network of 16 stations.

1928: Donald Gray Barnhouse, pastor of Philadelphia's Tenth Presbyterian Church, purchased network time for a religious program.

1928: NBC banned the sale of broadcast time for religious purposes, saying that it should be donated by the network instead.

1928: Station KTAB, Oakland, California, began broadcasting a period of "miscellaneous" phonograph records from 12:00 midnight to 1:00 A.M.

1928: The first use of commercial transcriptions was introduced by Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll. They recorded their brief Sam 'n' Henry routines for use by 30 stations. See also Sam 'n' Henry and Amos 'n' Andy.

March 1, 1928: Station KGE, Los Angeles, California, began a 24-hour operation with its slogan, "The Twenty-Four Hour Station."

April 14, 1928: WWJ, Detroit, Michigan, became the first station to broadcast a program relayed from an airplane.

December 23, 1928: The National Broadcasting Company establishes a permanent coast-to-coast network.

1929: "News every hour on the hour" was the slogan and practice of station KOMT, Manitowoc, Wisconsin, when they signed with a press association to provide them with its service.

May 31, 1930: The Christian Science Monitor (May 31, 1930, p. 2) looked to the future of radio under the headline of WARNERS SEEN AS POTENTIAL RIVAL TO BIG RADIO GROUP, when they identified the motion picture company as a "giant factor in radio and allied industries." They told of the company's under "$200 plans for a radio receiver, phonograph, facsimile television reproducer and talking motion picture projector."

Fall, 1931: U.S. and Canadian stations complain of interference from high-power Mexican border stations.

October 15, 1931: The first issue of Broadcasting magazine appears.

December 1, 1931: The U.S. Census Bureau reports that two of every five American households owned radios on April 1, 1931. They stated that 12,078,345 families owned radios out of the total 29,980,146 U.S. families.

March 15, 1932: NBC, CBS and New York area stations — including WOR — begin around-the-clock news operations covering the Lindbergh baby kidnapping.

July 15, 1932: CBS canceled more than 12 commercials and NBC more than 56 in order to broadcast 58 hours of the two national political conventions.

October 15, 1932: The Mexican government authorizes station XER, across from Del Rio, Texas, to broadcast at 50 kw. power, and the National Association of Broadcasters files a protest by American broadcasters with the U.S. State Department for protection against interference.

March 15, 1933: Radio broadcasters volunteer their full facilities to the Roosevelt administration during the banking crisis. When President Roosevelt broadcast on CBS and NBC his message to reopen the banks, he reached the largest listening audience in history.

October 1, 1933: Ed Wynn's Amalgamated Broadcasting System begins with 100 stations as a third national network. By November 15, 1933, ABS was bankrupt. See also the Amalgamated Broadcasting System (ABS).

December 1, 1933: Washington, DC, newspapers agree to publish radio logs only as paid advertising.

January 15, 1934: Cincinnati's station WLW begins testing a new 500 kw transmitter, the most powerful one in the world.

February, 1936: The FCC liberalizes its rules for the announcement of the use of recordings and transcribed material. It reduced its requirements to only one announcement each 15 minutes.

March, 1936: Editorials and congressmen criticize CBS for broadcasting a speech by Communist Party leader, Earl Browder. Some network affiliates refused to carry the speech.

January, 1937: Radio stations begin round-the-clock operation to provide communication for the flood-stricken Mississippi and Ohio valleys and aid relief work.

May, 1937: Chicago station WLS's reporter Herb Morrison and engineer Charles Nehlsen record an eye-witness account of the explosion of the German dirigible Hindenburg at Lakehurst, New Jersey. NBC breaks the rule against broadcasting recordings to broadcast Morrison's account of the disaster.

December, 1939: NBC scores the biggest news beat of the year with its eye-witness account of the scuttling of the German warship Admiral Graf Spee in Montevideo harbor, Uruguay.

June 1, 1940: The Henry V. Grady School of Journalism, University of Georgia, instituted the George W. Peabody Awards for Radio with the first prizes to be awarded in 1941 for the best broadcasts of 1940.

December, 1941: NBC separates the Red and Blue networks by establishing the Blue Network Company. Mark Woods was named its president.

March, 1942: The U.S. Office of Censorship forbids any mention of weather on baseball broadcasts in order to prevent vital information from reaching the enemy. The Committee on War Information promises that the public will get bad news as well as good, providing it provides no aid to the enemy.

October, 1942: Elmer Davis, the newly appointed head of the Office of War Information (OWI), says that radio time contributed for government use would cost 64 million dollars annually.

October, 1943: CBS president William S. Paley accepts an overseas psychological warfare assignment from the Office of War Information (OWI).

March, 1944: MBS restricts commercial religious programs to before 1:00 P.M., Sundays, limits them to half an hour and bans fund appeals.

June, 1944: Radio broadcasts news of the invasion of Europe by the Allies.

January, 1945: Cecil B. DeMille is suspended by the union and is no longer able to host the Lux Radio Theater programs, after refusing to pay an American Federation of Radio Artists' assessment to fight "right to work" ballot proposition.

1945: The networks broadcast the VE Day and the Japanese Surrender news to end World War II.

February 4, 1946: General Mills allocates five million dollars for radio advertising in 1946. This represents half of the company's total annual advertising budget.

April 28, 1947: Broadcasting magazine reports that Fred Allen used a joke about network vice-presidents, a practice NBC had strictly forbidden, and was cut off the air while he told it, producing 35 seconds of dead air.

June, 1948: The Gulf Oil Company begins sponsorship on both CBS-Radio and CBS-Television of the We the People program, the first regularly scheduled simulcast series.

October, 1948: CBS purchases Amos 'n' Andy and makes an effort to get the Bergen and McCarthy show from NBC as well.

November, 1948: CBS purchases the Jack Benny Show and attempts to obtain others from NBC.

January 10, 1949: CBS with the Amos 'n' Andy and Jack Benny shows on its schedule beats NBC in the Sunday 7:00–8:00 P.M. time slot.

January 24, 1949: CBS gets Bing Crosby for both radio and television shows.

January 31, 1949: CBS signs the Bergen-McCarthy and Red Skelton programs and reports it is working to get others from the NBC schedule.

May, 1951: NBC announces a 10percent to 15percent reduction in radio advertising rates, comparable to those of CBS. ABC and MBS plan similar rate reductions.

August, 1951: Robert Saudek, who played a role in early radio history in his younger days, resigned as vice-president of ABC to become the director of the Ford Foundation's Television-Radio Workshop.

September, 1951: Senator William Benton (D-CT) proposed that a limited amount of radio and television time be provided free to responsible federal office candidates as a means of reducing campaign costs.

September, 1952: The Standard Radio Transcription Service announced that it would discontinue monthly transcription library releases to stations and, instead, sell it in whole or in part on an outright basis to them.

January, 1955: Radio time sales in 1954 totaled $453,385,000. This was a 5percent decline from the previous year, the first dip in radio time sales since 1938.

September, 1955: NBC Radio proposes to extend its Monitor programming to weekdays from its previous weekend only operation.

February, 1958: Gracie Allen of the Burns and Allen Show retires and the television series comes to an end. A pioneering comic radio team is silenced after a long, successful career.

1959: CBS Radio cuts back its network programming from 63 to 30 hours a week, including cancellation of such popular daytime serials as This Is Nora Drake, The Road of Life, Backstage Wife and Our Gal Sunday.

August, 1960: CBS Radio plans to cut its entertainment programming and increase its news operations.

November 25, 1960: The 7,065th and last program of the Ma Perkins daytime serial was broadcast. During Thanksgiving week the last programs of such long-running daytime serials as The Road to Happiness, The Second Mrs. Burton and Young Dr. Malone were also broadcast, bringing to an end the era of American radio's Golden Age.
