Giving The News

Freedom has brought hustle into our history. As events occur faster, the job of recording them is also accelerated. Journalism is called history in a hurry. That applies to radio journalism as well as to other forms of the news business.

P lio would not be radio if it we .. not first with the news. The radio entertains, yes; it educates, yes; but it is also the fastest carrier pigeon man has devised. News is defined as the first report of an event. Inasmuch as it is speedier to convert wews into waves than into metal and 'mat', the radio enjoys an advantage over the newspaper. After an initial period of uneasy rivalry the two have settled down to complementary companionship. The newspaper remains an item of the breakfast; and the final newscast is fast becoming the favourite nightcap.

These aspects of the radio's role as news purveyor were emasized once again during the national elections. The 'election latest' attracted larger kerb crowds keen on catching the smallest syllable from the restaurant receiving set than even cricket commentaries.

Newspapers are now content with coverage in depth, conceding speed, point and brevity

The news room of AIR took on the appearance of field head-quarters, with messages pouring in and teleprinters ticking. The announcers mastered the intricacies of more than twenty thousand names of people and places. Poll facts and voting figures dominated the fifty news fulletins emanating from Delhi very day. In addition, AIR broadcast two special bulletins daily from each of twelve State capitals, taking the tally up to 74 a day.

Comment, prognostication and theorizing were taboo, naturally. AIR concentrated on the three C's of reportage—correctness, clarity and conciseness.

N. P. L. AT WORK

Founded only a few years ago, in January 1950, the National Physical Laboratory has made a rapid progress and contributed greatly to the field of scientific research. It has, now, nine divisions dealing with weights and measures, applied mechanics and materials, heat and power, optics, electricity, electronics, sound, analytical chemistry and industrial physics.

N. P. L. At Work is the title of a new series of talks discussing the working of the National Physical Laboratory. An account of the varied contribution made by the Laboratory in the fields of scientific research will be given in this series in a manner so as to interest the general listeners. Dr. K. S. Krishnan, Director of the National Physical Laboratory, will introduce the series in a talk entitled 'General Survey' to be broadcast at 2115 hours on April 15, from AIR Delhi.

SILBIL PARIVAR

The lovers of Tarang, the Radio Magazine devoted to wit humour, must not have forgotten Master Silbil. With his long beard and lean and thin body, he posed to be a man of adventure and wisdom. But all this was only a show and matters used to be different when Master Silbil had to face Munnoo's mother, just to escape fled to he had Bombay. We hope that our listeners have been eager to know about him ever since. They will now be happy to note that Master Silbil has returned from Bombay, and from April 22 onwards he will regularly appear, once a month, in a serial Silbil Parivar—the Silbil Family. The programme is written and produced by Chiranjit. The first instalment of this serial will be on the air from AIR Delhi at 2130 hours on April 22.

BIRDS IN FOLKLORE

Folk literature preserves rich traditions of all times. Its study unfolds treasured heritage of the country. Rajeshwar Prasad Narayan Sinha will broadcast from Delhi a talk on Bharatiya Lok Sahitya Men Pakshi on April 16, at 2000 hours.

PATNA

CULTURAL WEEK

Bihar has a rich, glorious and inspiring cultural heritage. Not only did the welfare states of ancient India expand as mighty empires from her soil and the most typical ancient republic grew up in this area but she was also a very important centre of civilization and culture in different epochs of history. Some of the doctrines of philosophy were enunciated here by eminent seers under the patronage of the saintly king Janaka. Bihar was the birthplace of the two great Indian reformation movements of the sixth century B. C. which under the leadership of Gautama Buddha and Mahavir respectively preached the gospels of love, toleration, non-violence and cosmopolitanism.

If Athens was the 'School of Hellas', Bihar was the 'School of Asia' for several centuries. Here flourished the famous Universities of Nalanda and Vikramsila as international centres of learning. In Mithila, on the other side of the Ganges, there was a splendid outburst of literary activity in varied branches of law, philosophy literature and grammar. Bihar can boast too of a long and glorious tradition in the history of music.

These various aspects of the cultural history of Bihar will be reflected through special pro-grammes to be broadcast from AIR Patna. This week which is being observed as a Cultural Week will bring on Sunday, April 14, at 2130 hours a documentary feature in Hindi on Vaisali. Since Lord Mahavir was born at Basukund in Vaisali, and Mahavira Jayanti celebrations will be observed there, the documentary feature will be followed by a radio report of the Vaisali Festival on Mahavir Jayanti. The documentary feature will high-light the importance of Vaisalt as the seat of an ancient Republic where flourished the Licchavi dynasty. It was also in Vaisali, that the second Buddhist Synod was held after the death of Lord Buddha.

On April 15 at 1945 hours, Patna will present under the title Kathanikayen radio adaptation of Raja Radhika Raman Prasad's short stories. Jyotisrot Bihar, a programme in verse and music, will bring out the cultural history of Bihar and how it has manifested itself from the ancient times to the modern age. Its script will be by Ram Gopal Sharma Rudra'.

On April 16 at 2130 hours an interesting programme will be on the air under the title Teen Pratibimb-the Three Shadowsbringing dramatised versions of portions from three selected novels portraying the life the people of Bihar.

On April 17, at 2130 hours and earlier at 1915 hours, two two one-hour programmes will devoted to classical and folk respectively. Bihar's glorious tradition of music dates as far back as the Vedic times. .The Ashramas of the well-known Vedic sages like Bhrigu, Gautama and Yagnavalkya—seats of the compositions and recitations of Samagana-were situated in Bihar. It was sage Yagnavalkya, an inhabitant of Mithila and one of the celebrated ancient writers of civil law, of civil law, who pointed out that devotion to music was one of the means of salvation. It is the old tradition again which accounts for the popularity of different 'ragas'—some of which were special contributions of Bihar like Nachari, Lagni, Phag, Chaita and Purbi. Nachari songs owe their origin to the famous poet Vidyapati who flourished in Mithila in the 15th Century A. D. He composed poems in praise of the Lord. They were set to tune and popularised as Nachari songs among the people. So important was this form of music that it obtained a special place in Abdul Fazal's Ain-i-Akbari. Since then they have become popular house-hold songs and are sung on ceremonial occasions. The Lagni songs were also composed by Vidyapati and are still sung on marriage occasions in North Bihar. Moreover who can forget the immortal lyrics of Vidyapati, which have been a source of inspiration to poets thereafter? A special programme presenting popular compositions of Vidyapati will be on the air during the Cultural Week under the title Vidyapati Padavali. This can be heard on April 20 at 1915 hours.

On April 18, the Rural Programme hour between 1815 and 1915 will present Lok Bhasha Kavi Sammelan—poetic recitations in Bhojpuri, Magahi and Maithili, the principal dialects in Bihar. The programme will also include recitations in Adivasi Oraon and Santhali diffects with their renderings in Hindi. Next day, on April 19, at 2130 hours Bihar Ki Sahityopasanaa programme reviewing the progress and development of Hindi literature in Bihar. will be on the air.

On April 20 at 1945 hours, Patna will broadcast a programme presenting verses from the poetic work Mudgar Dootam by the late Ramavatar Sharma.

JAIPUR

SANSKRITIK SAMAROH: (CULTURAL WEEK)

AIR Jaipur is celebrating its Cultural Week from the cultural to 20. Rajasthan's cultural Week from April 14 heritage consists of magnificent forts, palaces and temples on the one hand-as the Rajputs were brave soldiers and lovers of art and architecture-and of immortal devotional Bhajans of Mira and the heroic and romantic poetry of Chandbardai, Bihari and others on the other

The Week will commence on April 14 which be celebrated as the Chandbardai Day. This great poet was the general of Prithviraj Chauhan and also his court-poet. He remained faithful to his master till his end, courted imprisonment and ultimately laid down his life for him. His epic poem, Prithviraj Raso, which describes the exploits of his master, is considered to be the first mahakavya of the Veer Gatha period of Hindi poetry. The celebration of the Chandbardai Day will be marked by a talk on Hindi Sahitya Men Chandbardai Ka Sthan at 1945 hours and a feature programme on the life and work of the great poet entitled Kavi. A Rajasthani Kavi Goshti programme will also be broadcast on the day at 1830 hours.

Monday will be the Maharana Kumbha Day. Maharana Kumbha was a ruler of Mewar. A poet himself, he greatly encouraged literary activity in his kingdom and was of a saintly disposition. He also took great interest in music and introduced a number of new musical instruments in Rajasthan. In the midst of battleridden times it was the Rana's initiative which marked the advent of the cultural renaissance in Rajasthan. A talk Rajasthan Kı Sanskritik Parampara aur

Rana Kumbha by Dr. Sharma will be broadcast on this day at 1945 hours. Also, at 2130 hours, will be broadcast a feature Maharana Kumbha.

The Mira Utsav will be celebrated on Tuesday. This saint-poetess was born in the house of the Rathods at Medta ir Mewar. Wedded into another royal family of Chittorh, she had the misfortune to lose husband Bhojraj soon after marriage. Facing a good deal of opposition from her kith and kin in her devotional pursuit she took refuge at Dwarka where ultimately she gave up her mortal coil. The Mira Day celebrations will be marked by a talk on Bharatiya Bhakti Parampara and Mira at 1945 hours and a musical feature by Lalita Goswami Mai to Girdhar Ke Rang Rati at 2115 hours. The feature will be followed by a programme of devotional music Mira Ke Swar. Mira Bhajans will also be broadcast on the day at 0715 and 1350 hours.

Wednesday will be dedicated to the observance of Lok Sanskriti Utsav. At 1830 hours in the Rajasthali programme on this day will be broadcast a feature programme Jug Jugari Jyot and a talk Lok Kala aur Jeewan by Devi Lal Samar and a folk-tale. The same day at 2115 hours a talk on Rajasthan Ke Lokgeet aur Vaidic Sanskriti will be broadcast by Moti Lal Sharma.

On Thursday will be broadcast the Kala Sanskriti Utsav. The Rajput potentates were also great patrons of art and architecture and even the forts which were primarily meant to serve as ramparts of defence were also constructed with an eye to structural beauty. The K Sanskriti Utsav will consist on two talks and a feature. The first talk will be on Rajasthan Ki, Chitrakala at 1820 hours by Vijayavargiya and Ramgopal the second will be on Bharatiya Sanskriti and Rajasthan at 2115 hours. A feature and programme based on spot-recordings earlier made at some of the famous temples of Rajasthan will also be broadcast at 1945 hours.

Friday, will be the Bihari Day. The special programme on Bihari Utsava will consist of a Kavi Darbar which will be a drange tized programme on the poetry of Bihari followed by Satsai Parampara and Sumananjali in which will be included tributes to the poet by Dr. R. P. Tripathi, Dr. Rama Shankar Shukla Rasal' and others. Finally the Kavisammelan in which the following poets will participate :-- 1 to murder his father but was caught red-handed. Vimbisar was generous and pardoned his son. Yet, Konak again turned into a villain, imprisoned his old father and tortured him to death.

Vimbisar's greatness is aptly depicted in Kedar Nath Mishra Prabhat's verse feature entitled Vimbisar which can be heard from Indore-Bhopal on April 17 at 1930 hours.

DAKHIN PAVAN MAN BOBHA

The mention of the term South evokes imagery of urbanization and scholasticim. Not much is known about the unlettered muse there, which has the same resounding echoes of gaiety and mirth as elsewhere in the country, The feature entitled Dakhin Pavan Man Lobha devised and presented by Shyam Parmar is based on folk songs of

AMARKOSH: TALK IN HINDI

The famous Sanskrit dictionary Amarkosh was written by Amar

Singh, a great scholar and savant in his own days. He was not only a great writer; even as a man; he had many fine gentlemanly qualities about him. In a talk in Hindi to be broadcast from AIR Nagpur at 2115 hours on Sunday V. V. Mirashi will discuss some of the finer points about this great book and its author in the series Krititva ke Prakash men Sanskrit Granthakar.

PHILOSOPHY OF SELF-HELP,

Self-help is the best help, says an old proverb; and at no other time in the history of our country, has this philosophy of self-help meant more to us than the present when the whole country is engaged in the gigantic tasks of progressing towards our cherished goal of a welfare state based on a socialistic pattern of society. Tune into AIR Nagpur. at 2130 hours on Monday when you can listen to a talk in English by Dr. V. G. Vaidya on the role of Community Development Projects in the building up of new India.

PIYO GORI

The manager of a theatrical company is worried, as the curtain is about to go up, about two of his actors, Magan and Chhagan, who are having trouble over a woman. His mind goes back to a time when he had just joined the company as a door-keeper, and he had witnessed the gruesome spectacle of a cup of real poison being offered by an actor to his wife on the stage in a fit of jealousy. This actor had now been in jail for ten years. His apprehensions aroused, he waits tensely for the play to begin. What is his horror when he finds that the actor in the opening scene is none other than the one who had murdered his wife and had just come out of jail? Out of this melodramatic

EXCAVATIONS NEAR DHOLKA

The excavations conducted by the Western Circle of the Central Archaeological Department of Lothal in Dholka Taluka of Ahmedabad District since 1955 have pushed back the history of Gujerat by nearly 2000 years and also brought the famous civilisation of Harappa and Mohen-jo-Daro further south, to the Gulf of Cambay. The excavations have laid bare dwellings, drains and kilns in use as early as 2500 B. C. It is interesting to find that the inhabitants built their houses on huge mud-brick platforms to prevent erosion from floods. They had underground drains for each house. The pictographic writing found on the Indus

Seals recovered in hundreds at Lothal and the artistic representation of the animal figures on them bear testimony to their great skill. The jewellery, copper implements and painted pottery baffle even modern artists and craftsmen. The excavations at Rangpur, another site near Lothal, have revealed that this civilization survived up to 800 B. C. in a degenerate form and transformed into another culture in course of time. These excavations have thrown a flood of light on the Dark Age of Indian

History from 1500 B C. to 600 B. C.

On April 16 at 2145 hours Dr. S R. Rao, Superintendent of Archaeological Department, Baroda, will broadcast a talk in English on Excavations In Dholka from Ahmedabad-Baroda.

GUJARATI PROSODY

Like other Indo-Aryan languages, Gujarati has borrowed many rules of prosody from Sanskrit. Gujarati prosody has, however, by now a fairly long period of independent growth. The pioneering work in this field was done by Kavi Dalpatram. Gujarati prosody took another big stride forward with Ranchhodlal Udayaram's Ran Pingal. It was, however, the late Ramnarayan Pathak who gave final shape to it in his Brihad Pingal.

Nagindas Parikh discusses its m in principles in a talk in Orjarati to be broadcast from Ahmedabad-Baroda on April 17 at 2015 hours.

USHANUN SWAPNA

Okha Haram is a story which you can hear recited in every town and village of Gujarat to this day in the month of Caitra. The story tells of Chitralekha kidnapping Aniruddh, Lord Krishna's grandson in order to marry him to Usha and of the destruction of Banasur, Usha's father, at the hands of Lord Krishna, A musical feature based on this story by Premshankar Bhatt can be heard from Ahmedabad-Baroda on April 19 at 2130 hours. The item is scheduled in the month of Caitra in keeping with the popular tradition.

DHARWAR

MOORU HUNNIVE

Every full moon day in the year is, in Karnataka, a day of particular significance. Each has a name and a social meaning. AIR Dharwar has arranged a series of three talks in Kannada entitled Mooru Hunnive in which three well-known poets who have written poems on three such full moons will describe the thoughts and feelin behind their poems and the significance they desired to convey through them. Dr. R. S. Mugali who inaugurates the series on Saturday, April 20, at 1915 hours. may be heard speaking about his poem Bharata Hunnive.

Baramaso: This is a popular theme of painting in Rajasthan, depicting the story of the 12 months of the year in 12 different pictures. Jaipur station will broadcast special "Lok Sanskriti" programmes on Wednesday at 1830 and 2115 hours.

POONA

SANGEETACHE KAHI MANKARI

In the growth and popularity of the Hindustani classical music particularly from the end of the 18th century certain individuals in Maharashtra played a significant role. In due course this gion came to be considered an aportant seat of the masters who by their exquisite renderings created eager audiences for the critical appreciation of this form of music. Individuality was manifest in the renderings and thus new and original forms grew from tradition and ex-periment. Princely states also played an important role in keeping the art alive and growing.

Eminent artists like Gayanacharya Balkrishnabua Ichalkaranjikar, Khansaheb Alladiya
Khan, Pandit Bhaskarbua
Bakhale, Khansaheb Abdul
Karim Khan, Pandit Vishnu
Digambar Paluskar and Pandit Ramkrishnabua Vaze contributed a great deal to the growth and popularity of the Hindustani music and their contribution had a nation-wide significance.

AIR Poona has arranged a series of talks in Marathi on some of these eminent musicians discussing their life and work. The first talk in the series Sangeetache Kahi Mankari on Balkrishnabua Ichalkaranjikar by K. B. Ingale will be broadcast at 2015 hours on Wednesday.

repute—these were some of the d.: t.nguishing qualities of the personality of Kandukoori Veeresalingam Pantulu. A forerunner of renaissance in Modern Andhra, he sought to break the shackles of a conservative society and thus incurred the displeasure of the orthodox section. He fought against the institution of early marriages and openly advocated widow remarriage. His works are held in high esteem and his autobiography is the first of its kind in Telugu literature. Indeed, his was a life of suffering and sacrifice for the weak and the fallen.

Tune in to Vijayawada on Sunday when Prayag and Party will broadcast a 'burrakatha' (ballad) on the life of the late Kandukoori Veeresalingam Pantulu.

KALOPASI

"Art for art's sake" is the ideal that impels a charming young lady to take to the art of dancing. She soon becomes a reputed dancer but the evil designs of self-centred people make her almost mad and she blames the art itself in sheer disgust and despair. The timely advice of her lover who is himself a poet, makes her realize that after all art is not to be blamed for the vile and sinister motives of unscrupulous elements. That is the story of Kalopasi, a play in Telugu scheduled for broadcast from Vijayawada at 2000 hours on Wednesday.

TRIVANDRUM- KOZHIKODE

SHRI SWATI TIRUNAL

Swati Tirunal, the Royal composer-musician of Kerala, lived in the latter part of the and the earlier part of the 19th Century. A worthy con-temporary of the Musical Trinity, Thyagaraja, Shyama Sastri and Dikshitar, he ranks among the greatest composers of Car-natic Music. While the bulk of his compositions are in Sanskrit and Malayalam, he has also composed songs in Telugu, Kannada, Marathi and Hindustani. Among his monumental contributions to Carnatic Music are his works entitled Utsava Prabhandam, Navarathri Keerthanams, and Kuchelopakhyanam. Swati Tirunal was not only a great composer but also a great scholar and a great patron of art and learning, in whose court flourished many musicians of distinction and repute. To commemorate Swati Tirunal Day, AIR Trivandrum-Kozhikode has arranged a 60-minute special composite programme, which will include rendering of his Padams, Bhajans and Kirtanas, and a talk in Malayalam on his life and work. Tune in at 2130 hours on Mon-

verv heart of West Bengal, Dalhousie Square resounds at daytime with the hurried footsteps of those who have attained success in this life. One might as well hear through this din the 'sad music of humanity', the sighs of 'hopes unrealised' of those nameless, numberless toilers who just form what is called the multitude. A talk in English entitled Dalhousie Square will be broadcast from AIR Calcutta on April 15 in the series Here and There in Calcutta and can be heard at 2115 hours on both 'A' and 'B' Ser-

GOOD FRIDAY

The anniversary of the Crucifixon of Jesus Christ termed Good Friday falls on April 19 this year. To mark the day, AIR Calcutta will broadcast at talk in Bengali entitled Subha Sukrabar explaining the significance of the day, which can be heard at 1445 hours. A message in English can also be heard at 2130 hours followed by excerpts from Handel's 'Messiah' and Wagner's 'Parsifal' called Music for Good Friday.

SHUTANUKA

This is a moving story of the enchanting temple-dancer, Shutanuka, based on the only inscription found on the Ramgarh hills in Chhotanagpur. Shutanuka meets another reputed stage dancer Debadutta at a performance of a dance sequence during the Shivaratri festival celebrations. The performance is loudly applauded by the audience and the festival comes to an end, but the real drama in the lives of the two dancers then begins. Khageswar Mohapatra's play. Shutanuka, will be broadcast from AIR. Cuttack on Monday at 2115 hours and can be heard on 222.2 metres.

VARIETY PROGRAMME

With a view to finding more talent and causing children of all schools to develop their histrionic and musical talent, AIR Gauhati has planned to invite all the primary, middle and high schools, either individually or in groups, to broadcast by turn, composite programmes of music, drama and dance. On April 17 at 1830 hours students of Laban Girls' High School at Shillong will present such a variety programme.

ON THE ROAD TO PROGRESS

When India attained freedom from the foreign yoke in 1947, the tiny state of Assam was faced with many complicated economic problems. The division of the country left the state crippled. A lot has been achieved since. The two Five-Year Plans have given her a stability hitherto unknown. But the progress cannot be really assessed unless we look back also and study the whole problem in proper perspective. Disturbed Economy is the subject of a talk in English to be broadcast on April 20 at 2015 hours in the series On the Road to Progress.

MAGLEANS cleans teeth whiter than ever before!

THE INDIAN THEATRE

THE roots of the Indian Theatre are deeply imbedded in ancient historic times. The Indian Theatre is perhaps older than even the Greek Theatre. The best scholars hold Bhasa to be the oldest known dramatist. He is credited to the period ranging from anywhere between 500 B.C. and 50 B.C.

This theatre was made richer by gifted dramatists, followers of Bhasa, like Kalidasa, Bhavabhooti, Vishakha Datta and others. When exactly this growth halted cannot be pin-pointed but generally it is believed to have received a set-back after the Moghuls came.

It was only after the British set up their regime that this crippled theatre received a new massage treatment and a revival was witnessed, Strangely it was a Russian, one Herashim Lebadeff, who in 1769 translated an English play into Bengali and gave impetus to this movement by staging it. Around the same time, the first faint glimmer, the harbinger of an awakening dawn shimmered on the horizon in Tanjawar.

MODERN REVIVAL

The Maratha ruler of the State had himself written a play and had it staged. Tamil plays were later written and staged under the patronage and active encouragement of this ruler. Kannada theatre may be said to be contemporaneous with this revival. These reinvigorating winds breathed a fresh energy into the Marathi Theatre too and it launched on a new journey in 1843 emulating its Kannada brother.
A decade after, the Gujrati
Theatre and the Urdu Theatre in Bombay were established, Hindi, which was the regional language of Bengal and Bihar, had never had any theatre worth the name and efforts by Bharatendu Harishchandra, a playwright, a century ago, to create a tradition of its own were doomed to failure. He saw them thrown overboard even in his own life-time. The Ahilya of the Hindi theatre has since been waiting for its Rama to lift her from the curse of a dead, stony existence into a life which can reach and dedicate to human responses and urges.

Thus generally it can be said that only Bengal and Maharashtra witnessed a full development of their respective theatres. Gujrat stands third in the line. As for the Urdu Theatre, it was really a child of Maharashtra, for it was born in Bombay. But it was nursed by the Parsis, a community speaking Gujrati, and served as a powerful weapon in was mostly active by dint of the awakening of masses. It translated plays. Lavish sett, was also in Bengal that the first

ings, too archaic and decorative, a characteristic of the Urdu Theatre, later became a hallmark of the Gujarati Theatre too. Also many of the artists on the Urdu and Gujrati stages Maharashtrians. But the Marathi Theatre, all the same, was more advanced than these two theatres,

BENGALI THEATRE

Pioneering progress in direction was made by Bengal. It was Girish Chandra Ghosh, an actor, producer and playwright rolled in one, who created a strong foundation for the Bengali Theatre. Many a Bengali dramatic company was initiated by He wrote 80 plays and made them fit into new forms that gave different wavelengths so to say and a varying range of textures to a whole, single medium like the drama. He wrote prose plays and verse drama as well and as facilely as humorous skits and farces. He exploited the blank verse too and after his own name called it "Gairishi Chhanda" metre. Other dramawere trained Girish Babu's tradition in continued and the same. During the past 15 years a new man, Bhaduri, had taken the field. He had successfully tried to revitalize this tradition and it in tune with the western theatre. I may add however, that though the Bengali Theatre has thus entrenched itself more firmly in the Indian soil than any other regional theatre, it is still not conversant with the one-actone-scene play. The Shakespearean grip is still too strong on it to allow the playwright this mental agility and flexibility.

PROGRESS IN MARATHI

In comparison the Marathi Theatre has made immense strid-It began with unscripted mythological plays and very soon split into two distinct branches of prose and music. The basis of the non-musical prose plays was translations of Shakespeare as it was of Kalidasa in the case of musical plays. But this lendlease only helped make a beginning. This dependence was soon discarded for something really original in Marathi. Translated plays were frowned on. In the agitation to squash the partition of Bengal, the theatre there had played a notable part. It had curb on drama came. The Marathi theatre took the colours from But Bengal itself be-Bengal. came a renegade and soon quit the fighting arena, so that it was left to Maharashtra to exploit drama as a weapon of mass agitation. It has continued to uphold that standard proudly till to-day. The Marathi theatre has always loved experiments and has stepped forward as a result of that. It was the Marathi theatre which was first in the line in India to conduct experiments in the Ibsenian technique. I may state in all humility that the ushering in of this era was bestowed on me. It was until after a decade however. that the experiment achieved some success, when strangely to chagrin of theatre-lovers play houses slipped from the hands of theatre owners and went to the film industry. This, in spite of technical resources on hand to modernize the theatre. aggression of the film industry completely ruined the Urdu theatre and the Marathi and the Gujrati theatres were barely able to survive. It is indeed prising that they have continued to make new experiements at all, in the face of this severe

The last four decades saw a tremendous expansion of the Marathi theatre. There have been some 40 theatrical institutions in the show business and they could sustain year-round interest. But the Marathi theatre was never known as a mere vehicle of entertainment. More than even newspapers it had vigorously and fervently promoted the cause of independence and spread discontent against an alien administration. The chief architects of the theatre were those who stood for the struggle. Consequently Marathi playwrights and theatrical companies suffered atrocities at the hands of the Government. But true to its salt, the Marathi theatre intrepidly stuck to its guns. For it the vow was too sacred to be withdrawn. The Gujrati theatre on the other hand, was subservient to capitalists who were on their guard.

There have been attempts in recent years to make it a weapon in the armoury of public education, but the roots of orthodoxy have gone too deep to change the character of the theatre overnight. It has likewise fallen back technically. No doubt. following in the footsteps of the Marathi theatre, there have been efforts by a group of young, educated people to give it a modern look but they have not come anywhere near public approbation. Also, too much reliance on translations has barred fresh and original talents in the field.

Orissa, due probably to intimate association with Bengal than anything else, is on its way to establishing its own theatre. But it still is in in-The same can be said about Assam. Manipur, however, has a rich theatrical tradition of its own. And though it is far from modern, Manipur being one of the foremost of seats of Indian dancing, its people have a genius for acting. Thus the oldness of technique that would otherwise become a handicap, has not come in the way of effective drama performances.

Coming to the South it the most ancient theatre in India. But it has not made much of a headway. Too much of an indulgence in music has made the Kannada, Telugu, Tamil and Malayali stages victims of their own temperaments. Consequently music has played an unduly dominant role at the cost of acting. The much talked of modern performances have skilfully adopted the film techniques and if anything, are only accelerating the process of disintegration.

NEED FOR A NEW THEATRE

Hindi has become our national language, and only Hindi can restore a sense of unity to us by incorporating in it the literature of the other 13 languages. It cannot be gainsaid that the drama is one of the most effective vehicles of propaganda of literature. All. India Radio has made a good beginning in this direction. Plays from different languages have begun to be broadcast on the national network thus giving a fillip to the interchange of regional theatres and set the ball rolling. This is certainly commendable. But it is not enough. We have to build a new theatre in a new hational language.

The Indian theatre should be founded on the assimilation of all that is best in each language. The task is too profound and sacred to be handled by professionals having an eye on commercial profits. This is a job for the Government of India to The devotees of the theatre are waiting for that day when their wishes will bear fruition.
