Pantos are great fun, says Freddie

THERE isn't enough room to swing a mouse in Freddie's dressing room at the Chester Royal, what with costumes lining the floor and a television set stacked away in that corner.

But Freddie, who opened there in "Cinderella" on Boxing Day, doesn't care.

"Being in pantomime has given us a terrific lift for the old man," said Freddie, pulling one of his scarlet bantamman's jackets. "You get caught up in the atmosphere and when you're all in one place gives you a chance to settle down and really enjoy yourself."

Suited

Of course the boys love their roles as Freddie and the Court Jesters, and although they are indeed only in them for a few days, Freddie is not altogether convinced that their audiences get as much pleasure watching as they do out of playing.

"Before we did this pantomime people asked us whether we felt that the growth of the box office was being done to encourage a dying audience. All I can say is that it's the sort of people didn't know what they were missing before they came."

"Pantos are great fun, and if we weren't on stage all the time I'd love to sneak out into the audience and watch this one."

Jane Harris

FREDDIE AND THE DREAMERS are officially Court Jesters in "Cinderella" at Chester, where they opened on Boxing Day, but that just means that they have licence to be their usual zany selves—and the audience loved it!

YOU CAN DANCE THE BEATLE!

HOW many people have noticed that Paul and George have a terrific foot movement? It's the "Beatle" step. If this was combined with Ringo's head and shoulder movements, the world would top the dance charts!

That, of course, would add another dimension to the Beatles' cap. So can anyone do The Beatle? — T. HARRISON, 10, Darwen Road, New Islington, Oldham, Lancashire.

Duane goes sickly

I AM an ardent Duane Eddy fan and buy all his records, even though I'm not good. But lately Duane has been bringing out some of the most sickly

PRIZE LETTER

A PARENTLY we are abnormal because although we come from Liverpool, groups such as The Beatles leave us cold.

We are classed as squares because it is Cliff and The Shadows who make us go hysterical, and Beatles fans will not even try to make us point out our sins. But naturally we are proud of the achievements of our Liverpool pop groups, but it is going too far when we are criticised for being Cliff fans! — JOAN AND MARGARET, 155, Hatton Hill Road, Litherland, Liverpool, 21.

records possible, like "Your Baby's Got Rhythm" or some of the present LP's with longer titles.

I think that a lot of women sing along to me—mostly going to make the record-buying public stay away from Duane Eddy.

Now I have to say that I have no more singing, and a lot more

Be glad, Jerry fans

THERE has been some controversy recently over the recent death of Roy Orbison, "Mean Woman," who cannot give any fair comment being a dead man. Roy Orbison and Jerry Lee Lewis fans can't but know it was only meant to be the title of Roy's recent record, "I'm Only Human." Roy Orbison can still be popular today.—R.

Thanks Cliff,

Louise

MY favourite recording artists are Louise Corlett and Cliff Richard. I am 14 years old and New Year would like to thank them and many others for the hours and hours of pleasure and happiness they have given me.

CHRISTINA KING, 29, Hemmings Lane, Cardiff, Glamorgan.

Chris will do a 'Walter Potts'!

WALTER POTTS is to forsake Coronation Street to pursue a professional career as a beat singer. This is a result of the offers that have come his way since his success as a singing waiter, handled by Eddie Tanner's son Dennis.

Festivities? Of course! Despite the fact that millions of television viewers look on Coronation Street as Eddie Sharpen, Minnie Caldwell, Elsie Tanner as real—it is still only a television show.

But the departure of Walter Potts from the programme, means that Eddie Tanner has to find Chris Sandford who is leaving to pursue a professional career as a beat singer! — J.M.

• Parallel

Yes—the success on records of Walter Potts in the TV show has run parallel with his success in the studio. Last DISC chart. Three weeks ago he was at Number 27 with his "Not Too Little Love." Now he is at Number 1 with "Mack." Then he jumped to 19.

As a result, Chris has seemed to have few problems. He will be on January 17 will record his last two appearances which will then see him on January 20 and 22.

"I'm going to take a two-week break after the last show. Then want to do at least three months on the road with package shows. I'm not sure what I'm going to do is to make a film in which I could not sing only and play, but act as well."

This shouldn't be too difficult, as he has a number of things in his favour. He was born in Liverpool ("I'm not really a Liverpudlian though," he says). He is a bit older (he's 21), he is an actor first, has p/a's successfully for art shows in the country, and he can sing. He can play guitar and sing, he can hit made a hit record.

He certainly has a chance.

DUANE EDDY—some of his latest records are "sickly" says a reader.

Adrienne Poster—now that rock hits with the past year—but he now believes that his hit number is still to come. "He's trying something new."

Hit sound? It's played out, says Brian Poole

"YES, you can say our hit sound is played out and we have to try something different," admitted Brian Poole. "What's the use of trying to kid ourselves? Our screaming, screeching trademark was great for our two hit discs, but we have to keep up the ever changing market in mind."

Poole said it's Carl Douglas' "Get Down Tonight" that was too much like "Do You Love Me" to have any impact. He continued, "We thought it stood a good chance, but we were wrong to now have to create something else which gives us an equal chance of getting back into the hit parade."

What kind of sound are Brian Poole and the Tremeloes seeking to get them back favorably? "We have already selected four possible titles for their next single, due for release on January 25."

When asked what title is chosen for the top disc it will be our new sound. A lot of excitement has been created by the new sound anyway—and instead we are reverting to our old sound from about three years ago, and bringing it up to date."

One of them has been written by the group, while another is due to some of the early Poole recordings.

"We know it's there. That's right," Poole said. "They're split into two groups," said Brian. "A couple of titles are better with a fast tempo, and others sound more melodic. The other two are more heavy."

"While we're there, I'd like to try my hand at some shopping," he said. "And we're going to go shopping for heavy sweaters with reindeer embroidered on them and—"

More than anything, Brian Poole and the Tremeloes have a personal ambition to visit Australia.

"Our 'Do You Love Me' jumped straight into the Aussie charts at number one," Poole said proudly. "Because this happened, I'd like to visit the country and find out what kind of music is popular there, and give the honours to a British group!"

"Seriously, though, they say it's a great place to go, but I'd like to see it for myself just to find out."

ON "Saturday Club," producer Stevie Andrews received a request FROM THE BEATLES for "The Beatles' record: 'I've Been Good To You'." A nice gesture by the boys, but it's not surprising. Paul and The Tremeloes recorded their anxiously-awaited new single, "I'm Gonna Find You," and The Searchers star, Tony Jackson, a dithyrambic sufferer at the age of 16, was recently admitted to Children's Hospital, took the group along there to cheer up his bed-ridden friend. And the awaited visit by Phil Spector (reported coming here Saturday) will probably not materialize this week.

Swinging Blue Jeans

'HIPPY HIPPY' IS REALLY THIRD TIME LUCKY

"BE our guests" said the Swinging Blue Jeans to The Beatles and Gerry And The Pacemakers. And, at Liverpool's Cavern Club three years ago, the Beatles and Gerry were pleased to accept.

The group has changed since. Now, the Beatles and Gerry are awaiting for chart glory—and the Pacemakers are coming up fast in the Hit Parade stakes with their latest best-seller, "High Hippy Shake."

In fact, there's a whole lot of shaking going on—with the Blue Jeans' "Hippy Hippy Shake" particularly over Christmas, when they hit the screens in "Z-Cars" and "Thank Your Lucky Stars" on Saturday and aired in the Light's "The Best Show" on Boxing Day.

they also played Hamburg's Star Club, but there The Beatles and Gerry had them to themselves.

But, back at the Cavern that they started that "shakin'" when they played as relief group to all the other bands, they had just enough impact to get the Swinging Blue Jeans a one-night stand, and a record deal with Parlophone. That's when they invited guest outline—Gerry, The Beatles and

The following year, when it missed the charts—was also a steady seller. But there's no doubt about "Hippy Hippy Shake," real "real-life lucky" threat.

May we hope the group can come to record it? "We heard a number a few months ago," he told us. "We liked it as soon as we heard it and wanted it done as a possible release."

"We didn't know what to do with it, so we thought of ways to use it to make it into a good record and it looks as though all the work is paying off because it's selling well," he says. The Blue Jeans are making "Hippy" pay off where the American competitor's "Shake" did not.

DISC kills those impersonation rumours

IT IS HOLLY ON NEW DISC

A great new backing, but the same old Buddy

BUDDY HOLLY is a phenomenon in the world of pop music. He started a style of singing that countless artists copied and after his tragic death he became even more popular than ever. The great thing about all this is that, unlike the adulation that surrounded actor James Dean, people still "pick" about the same reaction to the Holly legend.

His discs have been bought—since his death 12 singles have been issued in the country and six of these have made the charts—so it's possibly every other singer of his time, his work has not dated.

But continuing releases and their revamped bucklings inevitably give cause for rumour and speculation. The latest Holly single release on What To Do has now got in.

DISC reader Paul Mendelsohn, a West Woodford student, listened to it, compared it with the original version, found a whole lot of difference, and gave voice to a reaction which has been expressed elsewhere already.

Cashing in?

IS THERE SOME UNSCRUPULOUS PERSON IMPERSONATING BUDDY ON DISC THESE DAYS TO CASH IN ON HIS NAME AND FAME?

DISC has investigated the possibility thoroughly, and can say categorically that the answer is NO. Let's examine the case of What To Do. It was first issued here on the LP Secret Love Story, Vol. 2*, in November, 1960, 21 months after Buddy's death.

It came out again as a single in early 1961, and again made itsir in the bottom regions of some national charts. But the overall sound was rough and unpolished—a complete contrast to the latest issue of the song.

BUDDY HOLLY—New single is "different," but it is not an impersonation.

Kathy may stick to an oldie for her 'Secret Love' follow-up

JUDGING from the success of her "Dance On" and "Secret Love"—which pulled in a Silver Disc—Kathy Kirby can look forward to an even bigger boom year in 1964.

So far she has had no problem on her mind. But she has—just one. What's a follow-up? That "Secret Love" single, which this week stands at No. 8, Remember—this one positively reared to the top, so Kathy will have to go through her pretty blonde head as she ponders over the options.

It's not just a question of sticking a thumb into the Tin Pan Alley treasure chest and hoping to pull out a winner. And another through her pretty blonde head as she ponders over the options.

But she did add that she already had several titles in mind, and that follow-up disc will not only match the high standards of the two previous hits, but that it will ride all that tough

"Will that new one be an oldie or a newie?" she asked. "I have to leave

"Will that new one be an oldie or a newie?" said Kathy.

"Look at 'Secret Love,'" for instance. And "Dance On" in the general sense of the word—found a new life when I gave it a song setting."

So Kathy could pick an oldie for next year. She doesn't go along with the idea that you have to come up with new songs to prove a hit. And she has the proof record.

But she sums it up when she

But, after careful and repeated listening by the DISC staff, we can say quite definitely that the voice in both cuts belongs to Buddy Holly. The first is a brand new recording, and the second is a take, but otherwise it's the same.

The backing is totally different, however. The first is a simple guitar and bass line, and a chorus in the background. The new version has a Drifts tilt, an instrumental solo absent from the original, and a guitar solo with a definite twang.

Decca called Norman Petty, the recording genius behind the continuing success of Holly, recently to get his thoughts on the latest issue of "What To Do," but so far without response, probably because Norman is a travelling man in his 60s.

Backing changed

But others aren't quite so easily convinced that the voice is Holly's, and only the backing track has been changed.

Southern Music's Robbie Britton, plugging the new version of "It's Buddy's voice without any doubt. Only the backing track has changed, and I think the new instrumental support comes from The Drifts, who have dubbed previously for Buddy Holly releases.

American A and R man Bill Tolson told DISC: "I've heard it and I'm not sure anyone could get away with a deception of this sort." Decca's Randy would like to hear more and more from him. "I don't know how many more releases are possible, but 1964 doesn't seem to be the year when Buddy Holly's voice, memory and selling power will fade from the scene."

"Really, it depends on how a song sounds when you play it twice," says Peter Sullivan. "If it still then, you don't really know."

Peter Sullivan, her recording manager, is a man of many moods and sentiments. He's helping Kathy find a home, and he's helping M.D. Charlie Blackwell, who's got a good chance that another hit will come Holly's way.

Beatles' Christmas Show really earns those non-stop screams!

THE Beatles' Christmas Show hit in his home territory—Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada—on Monday night at the grand Silver Spade Room of the Chevron Hilton Hotel. He was greeted by a standing ovation and a diamond set, who have applauded such American topliners as Nat King Cole and Eddie Fisher.

Frank plays at the Hilton for two weeks, and then travels to New York for a theatre tour. He returns to Africa for a couple of days before leaving for his three-week tour of South Africa with Susan Maughan.

And what's more, the whole thing is produced to a much higher standard than is normal in pop shows, a complete little sketch by The Beatles during the first half.

In the top-of-the-ballroom going, they had the audience screaming, standing on the seats and trying unsuccessfully to reach the stage.

And for once there were lots of baby-sitters. Before they came on, compere Rolf Harris—a real surprise hit with the audience—said that Paul should be thrown because Paul had been hit in the eye with a bottle. Not enough, they did not think.

Rolf's own spot was a real success with "Sun Arise."

Other artists who went down well were, obviously, Bill J. Anderson, The Drifters, Billie Holiday, and the harmonica to contend with during "Scarlet Fever" when you are in for a real Ribbons." The Fourmost, treat.—A.W.

Tommy Quickly and Duke Mantee and The Barracudas, who had been seen spot at the beginning of each night and also acted at the Rockin' Greenhouse. The show could do their latest, "I'm Coming Home."

Billie Black suffered by being the only woman on the bill and was given a standing ovation. The show, was certainly not her best.

you've already seen the show, you'll want to see it again—if you can persuade anyone to go with you. If the pleasure is still to come, then you are in for a real treat.—A.W.

Gerry gives a fairy-tale panto a beat

Panto with a beat ... villainy with a rock-'n'-roll flavour—that's the 1964 version of "Babes In The Wood," which opened at the Gaumont, Hanley, Stoke-on-Trent, on Christmas Eve. The beat and tempo of this contemporary style panto is provided by Gerry Marsden and his liveness Pacemakers, who make their first venture into theatrical fairy-tale land.

The experience of 1964 is hardly suitable entertainment for an audience of toddlers, young people and Mums and Dads. It's a show for the likes of sensible Liverpool lads made on theatre panto thonse in explosive. In the lead role of Robin Hood, Gerry and his versatile trio put a punch and kick into the show.

Lotta Living— "You Make Me Feel So Young" and "You'll Never Walk Alone" give Gerry the opportunity to project his exciting vocal and stage personality to the full.

The musical comedy change is called for as the group rock through the roles of wandering minstrels, schoolboys and castle guards.

JIMMIE McLELLAN is the latest composer to write a musical masterpiece in honour of the late President John Fitzgerald Kennedy. Several recordings are expected on this. Jimmie's first single is due on "In the Summer of His Year". The English singer, who has sold 10 million records, is getting most of the plays.

COMPOSER of the very successful "Never On Sunday," Manos Hadjidakis, has written the score for the next James Bond film, "From Russia With Love". "Russia" will be released in January.

Freddie, for years one of America's top stars, has sold over 14 million records and is to start a tour of the U.S. in January. He's second in popularity of America and Canada during his stay in the States. He'll play the Madison Square Garden, Nashville which will be released by MGM.

Actor-singer Robert Hotchkin who recently got great notices in his first Broadway musical "110 in the Shade", has signed a record deal. Records and will shortly make a album and a single.

FREDDIE WILL BE DOING PANTO FOR MANY YEARS

WE all knew that Freddie and The Dreamers were natural clowns as well as being a top group. What we didn't know was how they would fit into a scripted pantomime—and how the Mums, Dads and kiddies would take to them.

Well—in Cinderella, which opened at the Royal Theatre, Chester, on Boxing Day, the boys might have had in the audience. Even the few who were anti-Cinderella, like the Dandlings, they are a riotous risk. Their pie-throwing, bread-baking, slapping and general fun-making is getting as wild as ever conjured up by pantomime comedians.

They are dressed in traditionally sparkling costumes straight from the 19th century. And strictly to their parts except for their own 15-minute spot when the Jesters once again become Dandlings.

Everyone concerned bared a sigh of relief at the success of the show's first-and-a-half-week run a record for the theatre.

Full marks to theatre manager Dick Clark, who has the whole book to accommodate Freddie and The Dreamers' hits, "Send Me an Angel," "I'm Gonna Make You Love Me," "Send Me Some Loving," "Some Other

SEARCHERS AIM TO SHAKE THE MARKET!

THIS year, more than anything, The Searchers want to shake the British market with a new, way-out sound! Their success last year with numbers like "Sweets For My Sweet," "Sugar And Spice" and "Ain't Gonna Kiss Ya," was notable, but Chris, Tony, Mike and John are still not satisfied.

"Wait 'till you hear our next disc," said Chris, practically foaming at the mouth with excitement. "We're more pleased with it than anything else we've ever done."

"It's titled 'Needles And Pins,' and rhythm and blues fans will know it as a very slow, shakable number."

This record, which is released on January 7, is the first one we've made in America. We're not sure we're really proud of it, and its success will mean so much to us."

"Well, it's different," said Chris. "And I like it." "Well," said Chris, "It's exciting. Not just a good number, but a song which is

"It's way-out rhythm and blues and not just a cover. If it hits, then it means total acceptance of R and B music in this country, and that's what we've been aiming at."

But more than that, Chris says they have a new record by brilliant American composer Jack "Spees" Nitzeck has the kind of ideas which the Searchers would like to maintain on record.

Different

"It's the kind of recording we love to do," said Chris, explaining. "The session was great, and we were able to throw in a few of our own ideas on the arrangement."

First of all, there's only myself and Mike singing. Tony keeps quiet, and John just plays it. It was a member of our own choice.

"All other numbers were chosen by us, and we've got a few originals from our repertoire. But now, with 'Needles And Pins,' we've got a new record which has the kind of material we love doing, and which is more The Searchers' sound."

If you'd like to keep on doing this kind of number, at what we consider to be a high standard, then The Searchers, recording-wise, this year...

Own ideas

One thing's for sure. They already think they've swamped the LP market with their first two albums, and The Searchers At The Star Club," the boys don't intend there was another album in the offing.

"The 'Ain't Gonna Kiss Ya' EP hitting the charts was a fluke."
