CHANGES IN PAUL ADAM BAND

SEVERAL changes have recently taken place in Paul Adam's Mayfair Music at the Milroy niterie. Latest of these affects the plano chair, which is shortly to be occupied by talented young planist-arranger Colin Beaton, who is replacing Phil Moody. Colin recently came into prominence again when he took over the baton at a moment's notice for the show, "Gardenia Lady," and made a smashing success.

the show, "Gardenia Lady," and made a smashing success.

Other recent changes have brought in ex-Vic Lewis, tenor sax and vocal celebrity, Charles Granville, who joined a few weeks back; and alto raxist. Chris Condon, who has just taken his place in the band.

Complete personnel is now Paul Adam (violir, leader); Russ Allen (bass and vocalist) Ray Davis (trumpet); Bill Jackman, Chris Condon, Len Royle, Charles Granville and Gordon Lewin (reeds); Geoff Lofts (drums); and Colin Beaton (piano).

Paul Adam and his band are airing next Monday (15th), when they will be heard opposite the Squadronaires in "Band Parade." Previous to this big date they will be heard to-day (11th) in "Music While You Work," and to-morrow (12th) (130-2 p.m. Home).

Paul himself has recently returned from a holiday at Rapallo, Italy, and during his absence the band has been led and generally

HARRY DAVIS BACK FROM U.S.

DEBONAIR Harry Dayls, replete with new American swing arrangements. Fifth Avenue ties, and brimful of the latest jazz lore, landed from the "Queen Elizabeth" at Southampton on Monday last (8th). During his lightning trip to the States. Harry, apart from the reunion with his famous daugher Beryl—who greeted him with sister Cherry and Mrs. Davis at LaGuardia airport — personally met such world-famous swing celebrities as star re-bop trumpet man Dizzy Gillespie: famous ex-Goodman tenor saxist George Auld: former Glenn Miller drumstar Ray McKinley: America's current singing sensation Mel Torme: and Count Basie.

Pinally, after a whirlwind ten days' tearing routine of disc-jockeys broadcasts, jive sessions, and receptions, Harry at last, expansived but mentally exhibits.

and receptions, Harry at last, exhausted, but mentally exhilarated, staggered aboard the "Queen Elizabeth" with exactly six cents in his pocket, to return, almost from dreamland, to the land of austerity.

The chronicle of Harry's

The chronicle of Harry's breath-taking tour will appear, in his own words, in a special, exclusive article in next week's issue.

TO GERMANY FOR AN EXTENSIVE TOUR UNDER THE AUSPICES OF COMBINED SERVICES ENTERTAINMENTS, WHICH WILL KEEP THEM AWAY FOR TWELVE WEEKS, AND WILL ALSO

TAKE THEM INTO AUSTRIA.

TAKE THEM INTO AUSTRIA.

Pirst under the auspices of ENSA, and later under CSE. Leslie and his outfit have already made a number of highly successful trips abroad entertaining the Forces. These have been not only in Germany and other parts of the Continent; back in the war years, they had to their credit a prolonged and memorable tour of the Far Eastern theatres of activity.

The Douglas boys depart from London on the first stages of their latest trip on October 3. It is almost certain that some part of their time will be spent playing in the American zone. When this takes place, the Americans will be paying the British Army authorities in dollars for Leslie Douglas' services, so that Leslie feels he can safely say his will be the first dance band actually to provide dollars for Britain.

DISAPPOINTED

Leslie Douglas told the Mrlody Maker: "I am extremely pleased to be returning with my band to Germany, as in playing a CSE engagement you can feel that you are doing a really good job. "Just at the moment, however, I am a bitterly disappointed man. To follow my German tour, I had tentatively booked a month of music-hall and dance-hall appearances—with several broadcasts, also—in Holland. As I was to receive £300 per week for these appearances, you can imagine how sorry I am to learn that Holland has just imposed a 70 per cent. tax on the earnings of all ontside entertainers—thus effectively knocking all my plans on the head."

Leslie Douglas should have gone to Holland on December 1. Now that this project has fallen through, he is returning to England following the German tour, to carry out a number of one-night stand dates until Christmas, after which he will again play his "biggest gig of the year"—the Chelsea Arts Ball.

With those great king-pins of the band-show, Leslie himself (conductor and vocalist); Pearl Carr (vocals); and Sammy Herman (comedian), the rest of the line-un comprises Paul Bennett. TITO BURNS RETURNING TO SOUTHSEA

A LTHOUGH he finished his successful summer season there as recently as August 30, Tito Burns is making a triumphant return, with his Accordion Club Sextet, to the Savoy Ballroom at Southsea next Monday (September 15), where he will be playing opposite Ronnie Pleydell and his Orchestra.

It should be made clear that Tito is returning with his Sextet—the group of specialists with whom he is heard each Thursday

SANTIAGO'S HIPPODROME BREAK

SANTIAGO LOPEZ and his famous Latin-American outfit, from the Milroy Club, get the biggest break of their career with the news that they are to be one of the big stage features of the new London Hippodrome show, for which a 25-piece orchestra under the egis of George Melachrino has already been engaged. Highly successful, both from his long run at the Milroy and on radio, television, and films. Santiago has the type of colourful outfit ideally suited to the stage.

ful outfit ideally suited to the stage.

When the Hippodrome show starts, in late October, he will play his own show on the stage at each performance and also, of course, continue with his Milroy appearances, his broadcasts, and his many other commitments and private dates.

Several personnel changes have taken place recently in Sante's outfit. With Santiago himself leading, playing maraccas and singing, line-up now includes Billy Wastell (piano), who replaces Bobby Leach, Sam Molyneaux (bass), *Laurie Deniz (guitar), Don Amelio (accordion), who replaces Frank Cava, Lou Stevenson (bongoes and rhythm), and Billy Stevens (trumpet).

Latest reports are that Bill—who has actually been slightly unwell for several months—is very much better, and it is likely that by the time these words are being read he will have resumed his old place in front of the band, which this week is at the Grand. Derby.

During Bill's enforced absence. the Band has been ably fronted on its music-hall appearances by guitarist Laurie Johnson. For its recent "Band Parade" broadcast—when Bill Cotton was present, but didn't conduct—and its other broadcasts, the band's famous planist and arranger. Clem Bernard, has been in charge.

BAND WANTED FOR SINGAPORE

THE MELODY MAKER is able to announce an opening for young, keen, single musicians who would like a trip to Singa-pore, with a twelve months' contract and passage paid both ways.

The job is at one of the finest hotels in the East, and accommodation is assured. Saxes doubling violins (one able to lead), trumpet, piano, bass and drums are required.

A complete band on these lines, able to play a little light music, would be considered, as would individual musicians.

Do not write to the Melody Maker, but apply, by letter only, to the Melachrino Organisation, 23, Albemarle Street, London, W.I.

Monday Night

Band Switch

A FURTHER switch in the late might dance music on Monday evenings brings back to the fair Eddie Carroll's Quaglino's Sextet, who—from Monday last—share this spot with Chappie D'Amaro's group from Hatchett's Restaurant.

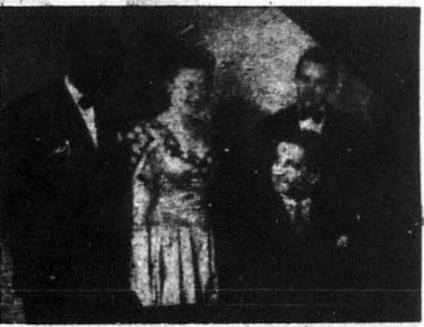

These two bands thus take over from Harold Geller (Fischer's Restaurant) and Frank Weir (Lansdowne Restaurant) for this Monday night airing.

Vocalists with Eddie Carroll' last Monday were Peggy Reid and Pat O'Regan.

Tito is returning with his Sextet —the group of specialists with the such whom he is heard each Thursday on the "Accordion Club" broadcasts with the augmented band, with saxes and trumpet, with which he previously appeared at Southsea.

There will, however, be one important change. Vocalist-drummort thange. Vocalist-drummort in the stylish Tony Crombie, who is already incard with Tito on all the Thursday broadcasts; and aspeciality vocalist Tito has engreed the voting, coloured bombshell Cab Kaye.

Ray Ellington will continue to sing on the Thursday "Accordion Club" broadcasts on which, incidentally, owing to Roy Plomley's illm-commitments, Gene Crowley will be compering for the next lew weeks.

GERALDO — FOUR ALBERT HALL DATES IN 8 DAYS!

COOD news for Geraldo's legion of fans is that his "Tip Top Tunes" programme, which is currently heard in the Light Programme each Saturday from 1.30 to 2 p.m., is shortly to be transferred to the peak listening spot of 7.15 p.m., and will last for three-quarters of an hour instead of the usual half-hour.

This is perhaps the greatest compliment that can be paid to both the band and the programme, which will continue to be heard each Saturday.

Another feather in the Geraldo cap is the fact that the band will shortly appear four times in eight days at big Albert Hall dances.

These are the "Daily Express" dances.

These are the "Daily Express"
Film Ball on September 29; the "Daily Mail" Fashlons Ball
(October 1); the Radio Industries Ball, held in conjunction with Radiolympia (October 3); and Selfridge's Staff Carnival on October 6.
At this last function, the Geraldo boys will share the musical honours with Billy Ternent and his Orchestra.

CAROLE CARR ENGAGED

THIS week the engagement is announced of Geraldo vocal star, glamorous 19-years-old Carole Carr to R.A.P. Squadron-Leader Peter Leuw.

The announcement of the engagement was delayed to coincide with the return to this country of Carole's mother and father, who have been across to the U.S. to see their new grand-daughter, Mary Fremont Hull—born recently to Carole's sister, famous ex-Geraldo vocaliste, Dorothy Carless.

It is two years since the couple met, during which time Peter Leuw has been serving overseas. The wedding is not likely to take place until early next year.

In fact, although I am the leader, I make a point of playing the accordion to prove how this instrument can fit into a modern sextet, rather than to a modern sextet, rather than to star it to the exclusion of my other instrumentalists.

That "Accordion Lover" should regard the Sextet as " no different from any other band " and at the same time be a reader of the MELODY MAKER, seems a little odd to me. I had always assumed that readers were discriminating enough to be able to distinguish. enough to be able to distinguish between, say, the music of Ted Heath and Billy Cotton, and even between the playing of such stars as Pete Chilver, Bernie Fenton and Tony Crombie (who are members of the Sextet), and that of other exponents of these instruments.

PRAISE FOR FOX

MAY I applaud Roy Fox on his sweet music venture? The state of Eritish dance bands is deplorable. The corn and re-bop and chi-baba tripe they dish up to music lovers is nothing else than fripe. And vocalists—have we any? The best I have heard in this country in 15 years is Val Merrall, who, I hope, will stick strictly to sweet numbers.

PURISTS' JAZZ

NOWADAYS. "jam" is used to cover a wide scope, and we, the Purists, let it slide, because we in our hearts know which is the "real jazz." But surely "Jam Matinee" should be devoted to jazz, and not, as Les Evans suggests, to big bands. True, we hear too little of these, but at present we hear no jazz outside an occasional "Pamily Pavourites." Instead of the small pseudo-jazz groups we get at the moment, couldn't we hear from the Webb Dixielanders, Preddy Randall, or Johnny Haims? There is a great public for these, and they do play jazz, and how!

Hawkins is one of those oldtimers who, unlike so many of the early jazz "greats," not only has a terrific sense of harmony, but also in accordance with the modern trend, exploits it to the

Moreover, in doing so he loses none of that tone, technique, style or creativeness which not only make him, but keep him, one of the most brilliant tenor men of the age.

In fact, the worst that can be said of his seductive slow rhapsodic performance of this lovely Victor Herbert tune is that perhaps it has to take second place to Hawkins's famous 1939 solo record of "Body and Soul," issued here in 1943, and still available on H.M.V. B$3228.

The Paramount records were made after the others, vide matrix numbers and catalogue numbers compared with other Paramount data. Date of these is about December, 1923, or January, 1924. The bass instrument audible thereon is a bassoon, unquestionably, though I can effer no suggestion as to who played it. The fact of the bassoon was checked by an eminent musical authority who was requested to listen closely to the break at the beginning of "Southern Stomps," Dodds is quite definitely the clarinettist. It never occurred to me that it was anyone else, even without hearing "Southern Stomps."

RIVERBOAT REVIVAL—Part 4 By Thurman and Mary Grove END OF THE RIDE

THIS riverboat ride has convinced us more than ever of the soundness of our long-heid belief that when real jazz is promoted and becomes a paying concern, long-lost musicians will flock to play it, deserting 52nd Street with its modern idioms. Men like Easter Balley or Charlie Holmes, playing now for John Kirby's Band and such outfits, could return to jazz and produce thrilling music. Most skilled musicians can play well any style they care to providing the money is on the line. They could switch from big-band work to dixieland jazz and make it sound convincing too, but railary is their guide standard.

Blesh presents this band as a New and make it sound convincing too, but salary is their guide standard.

Blesh presents this band as a New Orleans jazz band. We feel, however, that the music produced is actually a blend of the better aspects of music of that city mixed with the finer elements of white lazz or so-called Chicago style. The band members play ensemble on the opening and closing choruses with strings of 10'0s sandwiched in between. New Orleans lazz, we were told, is ensemble music. Wild Bill and Brunis (during his sojourn of 17 weeks on the air show; gave the proceedings a disteland flavour. Danny Barker, playing over the rhythm section, strikes many shuffle Condon's book. We've been happy to see what we consider a happy blending of the best accumings of both New Orleans and Chicago styles.

By now the boat had reached the city of Yonkers In the midst of a blinding storm the music continued unabated while the passengers huddled choser under cover Jimmy Johnson explained to us that opening night of the cruise the rain was equally drenching, so the boat tied at several apots along New York's waterfront and played jazz concert style. The storm slackened a bit, so they ducked across the river to the Jerser side, docking there for those who would brave the clements to hear the misse.

Our boat turns back, passes the George Washington Bridge and the blinking lights of the Palisades Park, passes the original embarking wharf. Our pilot fulfils Blesh's claim that the trips are improvised as well as the music. Down towards the Battery, dipping around the Statue of Liberty, and finally up-stream. The boat docks and Blesh announces the band will play on shipboard about 20 more minutes for those who care to stay. This band of the North Haven is the hardest-working band we have ever seen, with the exception of the Bunk Johnson group, but their four hours of almost continuous playing left the audience just a bit jazz weary. Most stood about 5 or 19 minutes, took a final glance at the bandstand and then singerly walked down the gangplank. On down the levee back towards the towering skyline of New York City hinged with leaden akles. Back to reality. Cabs bid eagerly for faret, and as they drove away the North Haven jazz band of seven musicians continued to play the blues into the rainy night air.

The sessions referred to as the "July, 1923, OKehs." actually took place on June 22 and 23, 1923, and, try as I might, I cannot hear any bass instrument of any kind other than Dutrey's trombone. I cannot answer for all Oliver's OKehs, but I have originals of the June sessions, which, as I say, reveal no bass instrument. Nor is there any bass on the Columbias either.

I think we can dismiss as fatuous the suggestion that Evans, or Bailey, played on the last Gennett records. I possess the original of "Alligator Hop" (Ge. 5274), and I am of the opinion—in view of the rejection of Picou—that the clarinettist is some little-known or unknown man. I am sorry I can give no names, but I feel such a course had best be left to those who compile discographics without the sid of records apparatus for

How to become a Drummer!

STATISTICS show that a baby

a prospective drummer. I have theory about drummers: I their little limbs which gets tronger as they grow up, and is inally unleashed on the long-suffering public via a drum kit, somewhere around the age of suffering public via a drum kit, somewhere around the age of sixteen.

I'll prove it!

When Jack Parnell was a baby, did he chew his dummy like normal kids do? No; he wouldn't be pacified till his parents bought him a bass-drum pedal (small lize) to suck.

Did Norman Burns just idly shake his rattle without rhyme or reason? No; he sent out for another rattle, and within half-an-hour yelled: "Look, Mum! I'm playing the maraccas!"

And do you for one moment think that the first word little Ray Ellington uttered was the corny and very commercial "Mamma" or "Dadds"? Not a bit of it. Seizing the sides of his crib and raising himself to his full height of two feet six inches, he screamed, "Hey baba rebop!"

Oh, I could go on for ever giving you examples, but what; the use? Someone or other would come out with that well worn crack, "Gee, I didn't think drummers ever had a mother!"

But now, to come back to the point of this article (which, in case you didn't notice, was "How To Become a Drummer"), I'm soing to help all the poor frustrated kids who weren't really born drummers to achieve their ambition.

Kir.—You can obtain a kit at any reliable music-dealer's, and, although some drummers prefer a large and varied kit, I suggest you start off in a small way and just use what is essential. For the beginner the minimum will do; say, four bass drums, six snare drums, eight hi-hats, forty-five cymbals, fourteen bass-drum pedals, eighteen cymbal holders reight swan's neck, seven duck's neck and three giraffe-neck), two gross drumsticks, three gross wire brushes, four vibraphones, two xylophones, three marimbas, a bird warbler, kazoo, jew's harp, maraccas, claves, ass's jawbone, temple blocks, cowbell, trap-tray, tea-tray and ssh-tray.

At present-day prices, I should think that this lot would cost about a fiver.

STANCE.—This is very important, because, as Shakespeare once said—quote—It don't matter how good you plays, kid. so long as you looks good behind your kit—unquote. There are various stances, but three are most popular. They are:—

(1) The Solid Sender.—Crouch over your side drum with the head (your own, mate) well down. Rock to and fro. It always looks more natural if you've had a few pints first. Shake the hair over the eyes, and at intervals of two minutes scream "Yeah man!" or "Oh, boy!" This is very effective on Sunday concerts.

boy!" This is very effective on Sunday concerts.

(ii) The Jollyboy.—Adopt a perpetual grin. and sit rather upright with the toes pointing outwards. Keep muttering and nattering to yourself about nothing in particular, and, if you can spare the points, chew some gum. Never suck cough lozenges while playing, as they are liable to make you choke and throw you off the beat.

(iii) The West-Ender or Smartle—For this it is necessary to

by Norrie Paramor

GEOFF LOVE

AFTER more than a year of broadcasts, dances, con-certs, one-night stands, dashing all over the country and back to Town, we both felt that a holiday was indicated. We decided on a nice quiet time at some lonely resort where the only music is the lapping of the waves—and the sound of ourselves lapping the odd pint.

However, our respective better-halves got their heads together and decided on a Continental holiday. But we took a firm stand against this—and that's how we went to Belgium.

Eleven Whole Days!

After a broadcast finishing at 9.30 am. came a mad dash to Dover to catch the 12.10 boat, with wives and children forming an advance party. . . When we arrived breathless but triumphant, they gave us looks as if we had just been round the corner for a quick one and taken a rather inordinate time about it. But there we were, at last . . . eleven whole days' holiday from jazzi eleven whole days' holiday from jazz!

So after seeing our cars and aforementioned wives and off-spring aboard safely (in that order), we settled down to some serious eating and drinking. With waistcoats buiging, we arrived at Knocke with a terrific thirst for knowledge and an eagle eye for the nearest Belgian estaminet.

Now, all the cafés in Belgium have music of some kind or another—bands, orchestras, cabarets, risqué singers (in French, of course—now will you practise?), or what have you. The promenade consists of a long row of these cafés, so you can imagine the sound that struck our ears.

From all directions as we walked along we could hear what seemed like the whole of the Belgian equivalent of Arche: Street doing its darnedest to put the "din" in dinner. Then, right in front of us, slap on the promenade, an open-air dance was in progress. in dinner. Then, right in front of us, slap on the promenade, an open-air dance was in progress, with a very original seven-plece combination providing the where-withal. And when we say original—if you can imagine seven musicians (sic) playing seven different tunes in seven different keys at the same time... well, maybe that's not something!

range, you can imagine our amazement when, all of a sudden, but very softly at first, we heard the strains of "Seven Come Eleven." Doing a most life-like "Bisto Kids," we found ourselves in the Café Frégate, a place just a bit smaller than the smallest club in Town. Here the Beigian "rug-cutter," in the local equivalent of the zoot-suit or "spiv's special," was doing its "cutting." But with true austerity the dance floor was a strip of coconut matting just about big enough to make a couple of front-step foot-wipers.

We sat around soaking in the We sat around soaking in the atmosphere (and a very good brand, too) while the band treated us to some good jazz from "Straiten Up and Fiy Rite" through "Skyliner" to an impression of the Inkspots. These boys work seven nights a week from 8.30 to 2 a.m., with no interval and practically non-stop. They drink and smoke on the stand, and obviously love every minute of it.

No Dots

In the picture, as you can see, they are apparently studying some manuscript. As we never saw a sign of any dots on the bandstand at any time, we presume it's a piece of MS. they found around, and were looking for something to wrap in it! All this and "Jazz Me Blues" from a combination of piano, electric guitar and bass.

We had several enjoyable chats with the boys, all of whom speak excellent English and were most interested in British bands. They are Dutch, have been together for four years, and frequently broadcast from Radio Hilversum. As a rule they winter in Brussels and summer in la Zoute. They say that good musicians in Belgium

Now, after eleven days of glorious sunshine by day and swell jazz by night, we said a sad farewell to the happy shores of Belgium. And as the sun sinks in the west, it's home again, borrowing the remaining quild from our wives and the innocent iook on our children's faces for the benefit of the Customs.

Take it from us, if any musician wants a grand holiday, although prices are pretty steep, we can recommend a visit to Beigium. And if anybody knows of a lonely resort where the only music is the sound of the lapping waves, etc. . . we'll settle for Knocke-la-Zoute and the boys at the Café Frégate.

The Ramblers Rumba!

Hearing that the famous Dutch outfit, the "Ramblers," were at the Casino for a couple of nights, we dropped in. Four ices set us back 25s., and the Ramblers were playing a Latin-American session—not a very good start! Eventually, with four brass, four saxes and four rhythm, we came to the main event, which turned out to be for the most part printed commercials.

The band appeared fairly well rehearsed, but seemed to lack the kick and originality of the days when it accompanied Hawkins on those memorable discs. What with the prices and lack of interesting jazz, we decided to get a drop of the real stuff (both kinds). So back we went to the Cafe Frégate to make a night of

This excites as much mathetic admiration in me as does his cultured beard, not to mention his latest title, worthy of the great Damon Runyon. He now bills himself as the Happy Monster.

Three thousand miles away in Archer Street many monsters are happy to sprout beards and flash an extra C string from their pockets at every opportunity in an attempt to create a similar sensation.

I have a great admiration for the genuine musician who feels himself restricted by orthodoxy and therefore sees fit to experiment with new instruments, but most of the Archer Street copycats reach the same level of achievement as the guys who wear rimless spectacles and kid themselves that they play like Tommy Dorsey or Benny Goodman.

Of course, Dizzy Gillespie has created a situation where the anti-rebop musician hesitates to wear sun-glasses in case he should be identified with Archer Street's Dizzy disciples.

I often wonder what would happen if some of Archer Street's idols were to do something drastically foolish like vanishing completely.

Perhaps Archer Street would cease to look like a poor man's Chelsea Arts Ball. But that is wishful thinking! Or is it?

MU Protest

WE do not usually concern ourselves with straight music. We are a dance music paper, and the straight side of the business has its own journals. But something has happened in the more serious realm of music which, in principle, is of vital importance to the dance music profession—particularly so since the Musicians' Union has had to take up the cudgels on behalf of its members.

What has happened is this—the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra was given permission by the Ministry of Labour to play at the Edinburgh Music Pestival. The Musicians' Union was not consulted but, since that is a special appearance, the M.U., in the cause of international culture, did not raise any objection. But then the M.U. learned that the Covent Garden Opera House Trust had engaged the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra to appear in the pit at Covent Garden for a season. On August 25, the M.U. protested, only to be informed that the Ministry of Labour had granted the requisite permits for the engagement.

The reactions of the M.U. are contained in the following statement which it issued this week on the subject:—

"The National Executive Committee of the Musicians' Union, representing some 22,000 members, expresses the greatest alarm and indignation on the issue of Labour Permits to the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra as an accompanying medium at Covent Garden Opera House on the occasion of the visit of the Vienna State Opera Company.

Company.

"We intend to use our fullest powers to prevent this dilution of the British musicians' supreme interest, viz.: 'that all performances in British orchestra pits shall continue to be the sole and inviolable right of British musicians.' We are adamant in our decision to accept no compromise to this vital principle."

Now how does this news and this protest affect our side of the business? Well, as all readers of the Mricopy Maker will know, the Musicians' Union since the war has been conducting a long and arduous fight for the international exchange of bands and music. It has maintained a policy that, until reciprocal arrangements are in force, no foreign bands can work here, and that explains why we cannot have the much-desired visits of Benny Goodman, Duke Ellington, and others.

It will be at once realised that the Ministry of Labour has driven a wedge into the Musicians' Union negotiations by its precipitate action, and has opened the way to an influx of foreign bands by failing to consult, or be advised by, the governing body of musicians in this country.

We are in the middle of a crisis. Placards everywhere tell us that we "Work or Want." But what about the British musicians who want to work, and find their jobs taken away from them by an orchestra from Vienna?

We believe, and always have believed, that a free exchange of orchestras of every kind is the finest approach to ultimate international unity. But, until all the barriers come down all over the world, it is up to Britain to fight for the livelihood of its own musicians.

And it is up to the Ministry of Labour to support the Musicians' Union in that laudable object.

Swing Influence

ONE fact emerges from the apparently conflicting expert views expressed on this page regarding the relative popularity to-day of swing and sweet music.

It is this: that although sweet music continues to enjoy the majority appeal, there is an evergrowing following for swing, which, more than ever before, is exercising an increasing influence on the trends of contemporary dance music.

This is, perhaps, best summed up in the words of John Abbott, Managing Director of Francis, Day and Hunter, when he says: "(Song publishers) appreciate that the advances made by writers and arrangers of swing music have their effect on popular songs as a whole, and the presentation of these songs benefits from the new ideas introduced to dance music by swing bands and their

SWEET OR SWING: WHAT DOES THE PUBLIC WANT?

Last week's announcement by Roy Fax that he is dishanding his present orchestra to concentrate on "sweet" music has revised conjecture as to whether "swing" has lost its appeal. Tracing a popular number through its various stages from publisher to discjockey, the "M.M." publishes the following epinious from well-known figures in the dance-music profession.

Publisher

(of Francis, Day and Heater, Ltd.) -who chooses numbers most likely to succeed.

THE current trend in popuback to sweet melodies. On course, as publi hers we preter sweet numbers to swing, and the reason is because no swing or "hot" number—call it what you will—ever had the sales of a good melody number. There's your Right through from when I started in this puriness it's been the same. And I say that tastes are basically the same to-day, although the younger folk naturally like their simple melody dressed up in a 1947 arrang-ment. But by that I don't mean a swing ovchestration. What they still want to hear are the words and the tune. Take a setty tune allied to good lyrics and you have the ingredients of a

As iar as sheet music is con-cerned, the biggest section of buyers is that composed or giris. They buy, as they've always bought, the simple, melodicus number—the kind they themselves can play and maybe sing at home. They choose on the basis of what tune appeals to them most, that, and the sentiments expressed in the lyrics, are the deciding factors.

U.S. PARALLEL

There are youngsters who want something different, of course, for everyone doesn't like the same thing, but I've noticed that a great many people grow out of their early craze for swing.

I recently returned from a visit to the States and there I noticed that the situation was very different from what it had been on my previous visit in 1940.
At that time American youth appeared to me to be indulging in what I termed "the Big Apple Craze"—It was all Jitterbugging and swing music. But that had died down completely when I went over this year.

As I see it. people appreciate a change in music as they do in food. They'll always return to the simple musical fare of melodious songs.

Before closing, I'd like to point out that song publishers don't want to go back to the elementary harmonies of, say, 40 years ago. They appreciate that the ago. They appreciate that the advances made by writers and arrangers of swing music have their effect on popular songs as a whole, and the presentation of these songs benefits from the new swing bands and their arrangers.

All we say is that the big public wants its music sweet. as opposed to "hot," and our proof lies in the relative sales value of the two kinds of number. I imagine too that the tremendous popularity of the Ink Spots whose repertoire consists mainly of simple melody numbers—is a convincing indication of the general public's current taste, both here and in America.

who arranges numbers to suit the needs of modern orchestras.

THE future of dance music in this country must be swing: but just as definitely as it must be swing, it must not be "panic" or "blare" music. Contrary to common conception, these are not prerequisites of swing.

Only type thut as losing ground in dated, small hand page. From the record-selling angle, swing can be divided into two categories: that played by large swing.

The current phase for even bigger and louder bands is not the way forward. What is wanted is an intelligent fusion of the sweet and hot extremes. Certainly must have a result. tainly music must have a real beat, but this need not consist only of riffs, or be obtained at the expense of the melody.

ART OR CASH?

I agree with Roy Fox's recent statement that the public wants to hear melodies, but up to now there haven't been many examples of bands treating melodies with a beat and without mutilating the theme.

Roy Fox is right in saying that there is a tendency for present-day bands to blow people out of a theatre, but this need not be. When it does happen it is usually due to short-sightedness on the part of the arranger, the handleader, or both, in not employing the musicians in the most intelli-gent manner. And even if eight brass are used, they need not play treble forte all the time.

Personally, I do not think Roy Fox is doing the profession any good by going over to sweet music. Naturally, he will make cally, then he must not expect to be a money-spinner at the same time. The two have seldern gone topether yet.

There comes a time when one must create, or find an outlet for artistic expression. For example, many actors would rather work with the non-gould making Old Vic Theatre Co. and enjoy the resultant pressige than be top of the bill at the London Polliadium. Maybe this is footlish, but I understand and admire their attitude.

Perhaps I may be forgiven for citing my own example. I did not make money with my bund—actually I worked at a loss. But both I and the boys with me feit the creative urge: and if it came to doing the same thing again I know I wouldn't hestiate.

—who has to garge public reaction to the mu-ic played. THESE distinct types of music really perform two totally different functions.

Generally speaking, sweet music is more suited to listening, while swing is better for dinning. I would, therefore, say that, from the view point of our clientele, swing music, or music with a distinctive "beat," is the more recentler.

SWING DRAWS

As I see it, the main objection to sweet music is that it does not to sweet music is that it does not imbue young people with sufficient urge to dearce. For this reason alone, swing is more appealing to the teen-agers who nightly flock to the Hammer-smith Palais. But I can well believe that, if you took a consensus of opinion from older people, they would express a preference for the time of music that ference for the type of music that

Roy Fox intends to play.

Personally, I find it somewhat anomalous that many people find swing noisy, or otherwise un-pleasant to the ear. In my opinion, swing is only objection-able if it is badly played.

A good swing band comprising star instrumentalists and featuring modern arrungements is a big draw so far as we are concerned; cause it is a municianly unit, can also vary its performance with a modicum of sweet music which. ammonomiately planed can

"swing" are not conflicting trends. I can only judge their relative appeal from record sales; and both, if they are good of their kind, sell equally well. Certainly swing records sales are definitely on the up grade. The swing can be divided into two categories: that played by large orchestras featuring strings and modern arrangements (Artic Shaw, Harry James, etc.), and smaller, arranged jazz groups (Lionel Hampton, Eenny Goodman, etc.).

SWING SELLS

These are the types of swing that are to-day in tremendous demand: therefore P cannot agree with May Fox that swing music is finished. Our sales' figures do not substantiate his opinious. But I suppose that, as Mr. For was never a swing man. he is probably doing a wise thing in re-forming a band more in accordance with his own ideas.

As in the case of swing, we can divide sweet music into two dis-tinct types. There is music for dancing, and orchestral music of the concert variety, as exempli-fied by Peter Torke. Certainly this is the style of sweet music that is to-day in greatest demand. But I would emphasise that, although this is sweet music. It is sweet music with a "best."

Record sales are a reliable guide to the musical tastes of the nation as a whole. Therefore, the music. Naturally, he will make fact that the coeffestras of Harry money—but this isn't everything. Re that knows what it wants.

ROY FOX is right. If a pandleader wants to appeal to the general public today, he must play on the sweeter side. My experience as discipackey on "Housewives' Choice "proves this beyond all doubt. Every week, "Housewives' Choice "spins out some 120 requested discs—a very small fraction of the number of requests received during the same period. Every day, my task is to arrange these 55-minute sessions to obtain the greatest variety of music. Postcards are sorted into five piles: classical music, light music, straight singers, popular music singers and—dance music.

MILLER TOPS

My daily headache is to find sufficient dance music to ensure the variety that I seek to put into these programmes. And, of the requested dance music that I do find, the demand is for the sweet, melodic style.

Glenn Miller is the man they ask for, whether or not they know that he has recorded the number of their choice. And where he has not. I seek out a recording of it by a British band playing in a comparable style.

The vocalists they ask for are easily topped by Crosby, Sinatra, Como, Vera Lynn and Gracie Pields, side by side with Gigli, Crooks and Dawson on the straighter records.

Nevertheless, the proportion remains at about one in six thousand for dance music. But though there is only this minority appeal for dance music, let me say at once that the taste with which it is asked for has immeasurably risen of recent years. They very much like Kostelanetz, such numbers by Harry James as "Concerto for Trumpet," and Artie Shaw's new (and incidentally, sweet) Orchestra. Their repeated choice of "Bless You," by the Ink Spots made this number. The Meiachrino Strings are among their most popular choice of this country's outfit. During my last two-verk season, I managed to play one Woody Herman.

Yes, Fox is right. And unless let me say at once that the taste

MONSHIN AIRS AGAIN.—The currincreasing number of fans of latin American music will be pleased in note that Bernard Monshin and his Rio Tango Orchestra, who make a speciality of this popular style, will be on the air in the Light programme at 4 p.m. on September 16.

GEE FOR GEE.—A big break has come the way of publicity hound John Gee—one-time with the Alan Flexibler bureau and later with R.D.S. Francuctions, Ltd. John has been appointed English representative of Davis-Weiss of California, who are experimental dusiness representatives for Burk Haymes, Helen Fornest, Margaret Whiting, The Pied Pipers, etc.

SONGS OF CORN.—Noted music publishers, Bosworth and Co. have recently acquired the sole rights for this country of Tune Town Tunes. the American publishing house which handles 90 per cent, of the numbers played and recorded by Spike Jones and his City Slickers. Lead sheets and song copies are available to any interested leaders.

FEATHER FOR PETMERS .- After & recent visit to the Hippogroups where from the compered by Singleton School, a warm compliment to the fine said orchestra, conducted by "Bill Pethers, and said that it was the best he had ever worked with. OFF TO C.I

THERE promises to be a busy time shead for planist Billy Penrose and his Quartet, who embark on an extensive tour of the C.M.F. on October 20. Having been signed for three months, with the option of a further three months at the end of that period, Billy has a schedule which includes as points of call Port Said. Patestine, Iraq. Sudan, Cyprus, Tripolitania and Malta. Quite unperturbed by this formidable list, the indefatigable Billy, who is well known for

Leader of the Band

JOE KIRKHAM

Commencing his career as a bras-band trombonist, Joe Kirkham played at Crystal Palace and Belle Vue before he was sixteen. His first pro-fessional job was at the Ardwick Empire, Manchester. In 1835 went to Scotland with his own band, and then to the Palace Baliroom, Douglas, 1.0.M. Is now leading the band at the Tower Baliroom, Blackpool. Was-on the air yesterday (Wednesday) in "Northern Palais."

GOSSIP

IN Newcastle-on-Tyne, last week.

In dropped across tenorist Bernard Keily, who was around the Manchester district in pre-war days. Now in business on two counts, apart from playing saxophone. Bernard sends regards to all his old pals. New lenor-player with Claude Cavalotti at the Spa. Scarborough, is Ernie Jones. who was previously with Dick Denny at Butlin's Camp at Piley. Stan Smith has appointed his father. Frank E. Smith, as manager of Stan's band at the likley Moor Hotel.

Lancashire song-writer George Kenneth "pleased as punch" with his comedy song, "Putting Peas In Podsies," which was sung by Gracie Fields in her recent broadcast from Swansea George's waltz, "One Love I Know," has recently been published in Acatralia and New Zcaland. Setenteen-trears-old planist requires acaside job for health reasons. Can anvone help? Demobilised last December, Glyn Davis has built up quite a good connection for himself in Bournemouth, with hotel work a speciality. On the air again on September 15, Bernard Taylor's Band from Sheffield now includes Ron Habershon on baritone. Ron has only recently been demobilised from the Force. Sheffield's only girl trombonist. Sheila Rushforth, will be heard in Gracie Fields' Working Prett broadcast, September 17, 18 and 21
