

Human Rights Tour

London - Bruce Spring- | For Human Rights Founda steen, Peter Gabriel, Sting, Tracy Chapman and Youssou N'Dour are joining forces for six weeks of concerts throughout the world to spread the message for human rights. The concerts are timed to coincide with the 40th anniversary of the Universal Declaration Of Human Rights.

Concerts will be staged in around 20 countries, including the Third World. National stars will join the concert in every country. The organisers (Concerts tion, a non-profit organisation based in New York) expect to lose up to £ 500.000 for each concert performed in a Third World country. Confirmed European dates so far include London

(September 2), Paris (September 4) and Turin (September 8). The final concert in Buenos Aires on October 15 will be televised and available for worldwide distribution. It is not yet known who will handle the filming of the show.

Hurd Warns Pirates Needletime Confrontation

by Cathy Inglis

London - The UK government is to crack down on pirate radios and is seriously considering disqualifying offending stations from being granted a broadcasting licence when these are issued by the new Radio Authority.

Speaking to over 300 delegates at this year's Radio Academy Festival, Home Secretary Douglas Hurd also announced that the Bill to legalise community radios is likely to be postponed until 1990.

The growth in pirate stations has been increasing due to frustration at this delay in introducing community radios. Last year the Department Of Trade & Industry made 195 raids on pirates, 161 of them in London. One station was recently fined £ 14,000. An extra £ 400.000 has now been invested in surveillance equipment.

Hurd also confirmed that a broadcasting bill on radio would later this month. A meeting between the two bodies could determine whether there is any possible basis for negotiation between commercial radio and the record industry before the outcome of the Monopolies & Merger Commission investigation into PPL needletime arrangements.

"What we are seeking is a removal of the ability to restrict needletime and an improvement in the ability to negotiate the rights paid," said Jimmy Gordon, Chairman of the AIRC Copyright

Speaking at the Radio Festival, Gordon agreed with PPL Chairman and Chief Executive John Brooks, who said the two sides could work together in the future. Gordon went further, by saying that he could see a time in which the radio companies and the record industry could be

Talent Needs Direction

London - With an average investment of £ 250,000 for each new signing, major labels need to look for acts that know exactly which direction they are going in, according to CBS A&R supremo Muff Winwood, speaking at the first More News A&R Conference held here recently.

The all-day seminar, chaired by Tim Blackmore, attracted some 70 delegates to hear leading A&R executives, producers and publishers discuss their roles in talent acquisition and development. Topics discussed ranged from recording budgets and the importance of communication between A&R men, artists and producers. The re-emergence of songwriters was also stressed.

the CNCL The CNCL, a government agency, has been plagued by scandals in the past year and Tasca says the role of the newly appointed panel is "to restore the credibility of the audiovisual regulatory body."

The panel will spend the summer studying ways to improve upon the CNCL's charter with a organisation called the Audiovisual High Council (CSA). Its recommendations are expected in the autumn. Until then, the CNCL continues.

The 'seven experts', as they are called, come from the fields of communications and law. Among them are a former State Secretary Of Culture, a retired head of TV station Antenne 2, and a lawyer on the Council For Human Rights.

PREVIEWS

SINGLE OF THE WEEK Public Enemy

Don't Believe The Hype - Def Jam The hardest and most politically motivated of the modern rappers. Quite brilliant entertainment that successfully combines a politically charged lyric with one of the cleverest musical backings we have heard on a rap record. Their radical stance can leave a nasty taste in the mouth in an interview situation but left to do what they do best (making music) they are one of rap's brightest hopes. They will be around for a long time.

Steven Dante

I'm Too Scared - Cooltempo Although his work with Jellybean seemed to suggest something more substantial this is fairly or dinary disco material.

The Adventures

Drowning In The Sea Of Love - Elektra The combination of excellent singing and strong melodic sensibility makes this band one of the best newcomers to mainstream pop this year. This is a strong if slightly old-fashioned number.

Moody Blues

I Know You're Out There Somewhere - Polydor An easy-going and highly melodic song with a pleasant atmosphere and a strong, insistent chorus.

Tanita Tikaram Good Tradition - WEA

An up-tempo country-tinged number by this 'exciting newcomer. Her voice is strong, full of personality and has the same sort of deadpan quality as Chrissie Hvnde.

Debbie Gibson

Foolish Beat - Atlantic

A moody mid-tempo song, selfwritten and self-produced in a classy, sophisticated style. After a few hearings it certainly sticks in your head.

Small World - Chrysalis Exciting and good-time music in the best R&R tradition. Lewis and his band are definitely in control and often there is a strong 70s feel to the songs somehow reminiscent of The Band. Try Old Antone's, Small World (Part 1) and Perfect World.

The Rave-Ups

Luis Angel

A glowing set of mainstream songs, all written or co-written by Angel, whose true power lies in his convincing, often pianoswer to Madness. Funny stuff, oriented, ballads and smoochers. but far less commanding than the Best: Tu Me Quemas and La Dama De Rojo.

ALBUM OF THE WEEK Ioan lett & The Blackhearts Up Your Alley - Polydor

An LP that radiates fun, full of lively and hard-hitting rhythmic rock, delivered with a carefree attitude. Plenty of pleasant tunes that are sung with obvious excitement (and isn't that after all the thing that counts in R&R?). The guitar-playing and overall sense of humour are always the most remarkable things on a record that manages to be both raunchy and supple. Try I Hate Myself For Loving You, Little Liar and I Wanna Be Your Doll.

Dogs In Space (OST)

Various Artists - Mercury The film is more or less about the punk rock movement in Melbourne, Australia, in the late 70s. Michael Hutchence of INXS plays a leading part. The remaining 10 tracks are by Iggy Pop, Ollie Olsen, Brian Eno and Boys Next Door among others. There are actually only four new tracks. two of which really matter: Win/Lose and Room For The

Fat Boys

Coming Back Hard Again -Polydor

Despite their jokey image these boys do not fool around when it comes to making music. Their songs are strong, varied and wellconstructed. They rarely, if ever, run into the problems that rap has of becoming monotonous, mainly because the whole record has a great sense of fun that keeps it moving along nicely. Polar Celebrates 10 Years Of Success

by Stuart Ward

It was perhaps appropriate that the day I visited the Polar Studios in Stockholm, Johan Ekelund (of the popular Swedish band Ratata) was one of the people working there. Ekelund was at Polar to do a remix of Agnetha Faltskog's Let It Shine ...

was Faltskog, along with the rest of ABBA, who started height of their success, ABBA were looking for their own, centrally situated studio and found a cinema which was suitable for conversion. And they asked Tom Hidley, one of the world's most famous studio designers, to design the rooms.

They started with one studio and a 24-channel tape recorder. The first Abba production from this studio was the album Voulez-Vous in 1979.

As time went on, demand for the studio increased so much that in 1982 3M digital recorders were > SSL 4000 computer and the very latest G-series filters, microphone amplifiers etc. The SSL mixing console has, however, been specially adapted to Polar's own requirements. The 48 SSL channels have been supplemented by eight old Neve channels built into the mixer.

About a year ago, Bernard Lohr joined Studio A as Chief Engineer: his first tasks were to change the earthing in the installed. At the same time, an- Studio, synchronise the 32-track Studio Manager Olle Ramm says that they use the SSL equipment, particularly the new G-series because as well as the fact that users are familiar with it, it is more efficient because processing is faster and more functions can be performed at the same time.

But while there is no doubt that SSL is in the forefront of new electronic development, Studio B is also equipped with up-todate technology; its Calrec mixer 8000 is in fact the first ever to be built and was developed in consultation with the Polar Studios. In the near future, Studio B will be rebuilt to accomodate videosync to cope with the increasing demand from TV

by Marie Ledin, daughter of former ABBA Manager Stig Andersson, and her husband Tomas who is an artist in his own right. At the same time they set up their very successful Record Station label which includes Ratata, Eva Dahlgren and Mats Ronander on its artists roster.

Other artists that have worked at Polar include: Genesis, Ramones, Big Country, Orup, Magnus Uggla, Benny Andersson (ABBA), Gemini, Tommy Korberg, Jean Beauvoir, and Frida (ABBA) with Phil Collins as

According to Olle Ramm, 15 of Polar's 18 productions last year reached the charts and about 95 % of their customers are Swedish. This is a deliberate policy. "It is very difficult to keep up with international competition. Why should foreign artists come to Stockholm to record?" says Ramm.

"Foreign productions are also much more demanding requiring literally a 24-hour service. And foreign managements always want to wheel and deal over the price, so it is much better to concentrate on the market you know and can control."

Polar is highly-automated each production needs just one engineer and, generally, no tape operators. The difficulties posed by the rapid and continual development of equipment make attempts to update studios difficult. "There is no point in re-building studios purely because new studios are coming along on the international market," says Ramm.

He also stresses that anybody can rebuild a studio, putting in the very best of equipment, but if the user does not, or cannot, use it in the right way then whatever equipment you have, your product will not sound any better. "A good studio stands or falls on the competence of its staff."

This is presumably why Polar, in its efforts to provide a comprehensive service, took on Peter Dahl, Scandinavia's leading name in mastering with about 90% of all Swedish hit productions behind him. "We see a large part of our future development in the field of mastering," says Ramm.

Among the equipment being used at the moment is a handmade Sontec compressor, built by Burgis McNeil in the US and very hard to obtain in Europe. Peter Dahl also uses API filters with three stereo units with six channels.

"A good studio stands or falls on the competence of its staff."

disc audio-file to be transferred direct to a CD master.

All of this is not without its problems, however. Whole recordings have been known to disappear from the audio-file! Interference from the digital clocks can be experienced in recordings. There is a tendency to accentuate the 'treble' element in recordings. This is more dangerous in digital recording because you cannot adjust things as you can when a recording has been done mechanically," explains Ramm.

Service and maintenance also takes longer. The development of digital equipment is even more rapid than in other areas, creating a great uncertainty regarding some equipment. Ramm feels that British and American equipment has more 'personality' than. say, Japanese. He also thinks that brand names will become more and more important in the future.

Producer talks about Polar

Hasse Olsson is a very well-respected Swedish musician and producer who has worked at the Polar Studios since they were built, first in his capacity as a musician and, in the last two to three years, as a producer.

B ut his experience does not stop with Polar - he has also worked in Russ Ballard's studio. Nick Lowe's Amro studio and Rak Studios, all in London, as well as Denmark's Puk Studios and Val Garay's Record One Studio in LA.

Olsson's productions at Polar have been for Swedish female singer Tove Naess' Shine On LP three songs which were recorded at LA's Record One Studio). He has also worked on singles by Swedish band Big Deal and Ola Magnell's LP Bla Neon. He is currently remixing Let's Apologize from Tove Naess' The Album which Virgin UK plans to release as a single for the British market. Olsson feels that the general standard of studios in Sweden is very high but that Polar is the best he has ever worked in; the only other that can compare is Puk.

He says the main advantages of Polar are that one can go from digital to analog without any noticeable loss of sound quality, access to a 32-track digital tape recorder, good chemistry with engineer Bernard Lohr and mastering facilities in the same building. Olsson says the latter is very important as it is an excellent service and allows one to check a tain about something. Other important aspects for him at Polar are the fact that the Solid State mixer facilitates easy > computer memory and the 'punchin, punch-out' function make recording much more efficient too. "This all improves the your work," says Olsson. "If you are dissatisfied with something it is easy to go back, check, and if necessary, make changes. Things

Anna Book

Namn & Nummer (Lynx) Sweden. Info Maria Ullvin on 21-351035: tlx 40855

A light-hearted, up-tempo rock song with a sing-along chorus and some great guitar moves. If it were sung in English it would have a good chance of crossing over.

El Ultimo De La Fila

Como La Cabeza Al Sombrero,(LP) (PDI) Spain. Info Gerhard Haltermann on 1-2758501: tlx 27051

An amazing record that combines the directness of rock with the flair and energy of traditional Spanish music. The songs vary from the pacey and exiting Como La Cabeza Al Sombrero to the more gentle, acoustic Sara. This LP is already riding high in the Spanish charts but it deserves to do much, much more.

Crowded House - Working On A Temple

Crowded House's concert at the Montreux Jazz Festival this month coincides with the release of their second Capitol/EMI album 'Temple Of Low Men' and a number one single back home in Australia. North America is crying out for them, but the trio decided to accept the Montreux invitation and add a handful of European concerts for good measure.

The band's attitude to rock & roll is down to earth with a sense of humour to match. According to singer/songwriter and native New Zealander, Neil Finn, this sense of humour is useful in promoting their records: "When the three of us are together, we can't help being frivolous about things. It comes naturally to us and I and later, a top 30 hit in the UK." still keep up the humour. A sense think our willingness to be spontaneous has made people rememthe studio in January this year ber us to some extent."

For most people, the band's Nick Seymour explains, their two ability to write a memorable song months of recording marked the is equally important. Crowded end of a long period of redevelop-House's first success came in ment. "We released the first alwith the single (Hey Now Hey bum two years ago and it has Now) Don't Dream It's Over from taken us two and a half years to their self-titled debut album record another one. We have lost which was released in July 1986. a lot of songs on the way." Which Hester: "We released that first seems a pity considering the varisingle but we did not have a hit for nine months and we were actually ready to go back into the studio when suddenly the skies opened up and there we were - a no. 2 single in the Billboard Hot 100 ety and maturity of songs on the new LP, Temple Of Low Men. One of the reasons Crowded House are so popular with the media is because they can talk seriously about their music and

and, as third member, bassist

of humour was, admits Seymour, a major consideration when they chose to work with producer Mitchell Froom once again on the new album. "He becomes part of the band when we do a record, says Hester, "He plays keyboards and we rehearse with him. He is fantastic, like a surrogate father in a way. We have worked with him now for three years and it just gets better.'

Along with Neil Finn, Paul Hester was a member of the much lamented Split Enz - many think that Crowded House represent what Split Enz might have become. There are certainly elements of that on Temple Of Low Men, especially when Finn is joined by his brother and former Enz frontman, Tim Finn, Tim sings harmonies on Love This Life. When You Come and the current single, Better Be Home

So does this partial reunion make them nostalgic for the old days? Hester: "They were good and I cherish them, but these days are really good. Crowded House is much more fun. There are three of us so we can all fit into

to be based in the Amsterdam editorial office.

WRTH is Billboard's annual directory of the world's radio & TV stations, and the editorial operation is currently being computerised. The person appointed will play a major role in the development and expansion of the WRTH. Applicants must have a good background knowledge of broadcasting, and proficiency in English. A second major language would be an advantage. Travel within Europe and to North America is involved. A knowledge of book production is desirable, but not essential as training can be given.

> Salary negotiable according to age, background and experience. Where appropriate, relocation expenses will be paid.

Applications in writing must be received by July 25th 1988. Shortlisted candidates will be interviewed.

Write to: Andy Sennitt, Editor WRTH, P.O.Box 50558, 1007 DB Amsterdam. The Netherlands.

Kevin Rowland Goes Solo

by Marjolein Rotsteeg

It was Kevin Rowland who was pulling the strings with Dexy's Midnight Runners and when Rowland decided to go solo in November 1986, the band ceased to exist. Phonogram's release of his first solo album, 'The Wanderer' on June 25 marks a new beginning for Rowland.

Kevin Rowland

'What happened was that I found myself writing songs that were very much one singer songs, solo songs. There was really no place for a band. And that was it." According to Rowland his debut solo LP, The Wanderer, is aptly titled: "It refers to a track on the album called I Am A Wanderer which I wrote at about the time I decided to go solo. And that's what I am, a wanderer, a loner."

Although based in the UK, Rowland teamed up with producer Deodato in New York for the album. The Wanderer contains nine new Rowland compositions and one cover: Heartaches By The Number, originally recorded by Guy Mitchell and a big hit in 1960.

"I always liked that song as a kid. And I thought it would fit in with what I was doing." It is indeed striking how naturally the track fits in with Rowland's the soul music of the 50s and 60s? | tional solo singer."

Rowland: "I don't see it that way. I see it as a traditional approach that could be 70s, 80s, 40s, 50s. anything." Timeless, maybe? "I would like to think so. That's what I do, write classic pop songs with a traditional approach and a contemporary feel.

The LP's first single is Walk Away. "The record company in the UK (Phonogram International) think six or seven singles will do well internationally. I hope it does work out. I'd like to have hit singles - that's how you sell an album. I put a lot of work into this album, many years of writing and three months of recording."

Now Rowland is looking ahead: "I hope the next album will be an improvement, a development, but not a drastic change from this one. I think this is a new beginning for me. I want Is The Wanderer a return to to establish myself as an internaSFB - Berlin

Halfway through the year, the ton-selling singles artist in the UK so far is Kylie Minogue. followed by Tiffany with Bros in third place. Albums-wise, the honours go to Terence Trent D'Arby, Fleetwood Mac are runners-up and Wet Wet Wet come third. The HMV Records retail chain has just launched a limited edition run of 10,000 deluxe boxed sets featuring all 15 Beatles CDs. It sells for £ 215 and features a 4" square hologram of the Fab Four's drum skin logo on the front of the box. Inside is a poster of the same logo, plus a booklet featuring all the notes from HMV's previous Beatles issues, a long foreword by Derek Taylor and 40 photographs. Meanwhile, EMI are planning an official Beatles box set for an October release.

Other Beatles news: Ringo Starr appears in a new film 'Walking After Midnight' just completed by Canadian director Jonathan Kave. He stars alongside Martin Sheen, James Coburn, Willie Nelson and Donovan. George Harrison meanwhile is reported to be contributing to the film's soundtrack There is an all-star line-up on Sister, a track from the forthcoming album by Midge Ure. Backing Ure and Kate Bush on vocals are Mark King of Level 42, Robin and Ali Campbell of UB40 and Mark Brzezicki of Big Country. The LP is called Answers To Nothing and is due out in September. You thought you had heard them all...but this month brings you Fife Aid, a two-day event being held near St Andrews in Scotland. More famous for its golf than its rock & roll, St Andrews will welcome Marillion, Jack Bruce, Go West, Rick Wakeman, Phil Manzanera, The Sugarcubes, Rose Royce and members of Love & Money. The Festival is part of Live Earth Day with profits going to famine relief, conservation projects and Scottish charities. READ ALL ABOUT IT

Where have all the marketing men gone? That's what CBS wants to know. The company has still not found a replacement for Pierre Sissman in France and it now appears that Holland and the UK are also looking for marketing staff.

Proof at last that however powerful Michael Jackson is. he can't command the heavens. His recent Pensisponsored concert in Paris' Parc De Princes was "overshadowed" by an airship promoting Coca-Cola floating above the 65,000 fans! * * *

We all know how clever Paul McCartney is, so it comes as no surprise to learn that he has been awarded an honourary degree at Sussex University. * * *

The MCPS (Mechanical Copyright Protection Society) in the UK is predicting a record payout of royalties for the year ending June 30. Company Secretary Keith Lowde expects to exceed £20 million for the first time. * *

The results of the longawaited radio audience survey in Italy were to be announced on July 20 according to schedule despite a break-in at the researchers' office. Datamedia's Luigi Crespi says someone tampered with the computer in which the survey data was stored. "Maybe our research scared someone," he said. But Datamedia had a copy of all the info collected from some 30,000 phone calls and planned to publish the survey on time. The survey, called Radar, will be the first major independent audience ratings since 1984 and involves some 530 private stations.

Private TV in the German state of North Rhine-Westphalia has just been given the go-ahead and is expected to start early next year. The first, and most powerful, channel will be shared by RTL Plus (from 06.00 to 01.00 hours) and Tele 5 for the night-time hours.
