

18 August 1979

US $1.50c (by air)/Canada 80c 20p

NEW MUSICAL M EXPRESS

Rats, Siouxsie, Ramones, Police,
Nils, Buzzcocks

TOURIST INFORMATION P.3

PEEL'S PERFUMED AIRWAVES

CHARTS

Week ending August 18, 1979

UK Singles

| This Last Week |                                                             | Weeks in chart | Highest position |
|----------------|-------------------------------------------------------------|----------------|------------------|
| 1 (1)          | I Don't Like MondaysBoomtown Rats (Ensign)              | 4              | 1                |
| 2 (7)          | We Don't Talk AnymoreCliff Richard (EMI)                | 4              | 2                |
| 3 (21)         | Reasons To Be CheerfulIan Dury & The Blockheads (Stiff) | 2              | 3                |
| 4 (2)          | Can't Stand Losing YouPolice (A&M)                      | 5              | 2                |
| 5 (13)         | The Diary Of Horace WimpElectric Light Orchestra (Jet)  | 3              | 5                |
| 6 (5)          | Angel Eyes/Voulez VousAbba (Epic)                       | 5              | 5                |
| 7 (17)         | Hersham BoysSham 69 (Polydor)                           | 2              | 7                |
| 8 (15)         | After The Love Has GoneEarth Wind & Fire (CBS)          | 3              | 8                |
| 9 (4)          | WantedDooleys (GTO)                                     | 6              | 4                |
| 10 (8)         | Beat The ClockSparks (Virgin)                           | 3              | 6                |
| 11 (18)        | Duke Of EarlDoris (Magnet)                              | 4              | 11               |
| 12 (19)        | Morning DanceSpyro Gyra (Infinity)                      | 3              | 12               |
| 13 (23)        | Stay With Me Till DawnJudy Tzuke (Rocket)               | 3              | 13               |
| 14 (3)         | Girls TalkDave Edmunds (Swan Song)                      | 6              | 2                |
| 15 (—)         | GangstersSpecials (2 Tone)                              | 1              | 15               |
| 16 (18)        | Good TimesChic (Atlantic)                               | 6              | 5                |
| 17 (—)         | Ooh What A LifeGibson Bros (Island)                     | 1              | 16               |
| 18 (—)         | Beng BangB.A. Robertson (Asylum)                        | 1              | 18               |
| 19 (8)         | My SharoneKnack (Capitol)                               | 7              | 7                |
| 20 (12)        | Born To Be AlivePatrick Hernandez (Gem/Aquarius)        | 6              | 11               |
| 21 (—)         | Angel EyesRoxy Music (Polydor)                          | 1              | 21               |
| 22 (11)        | Hi-Hoed YouKorgis (Riahto)                              | 6              | 11               |
| 23 (18)        | Breakfast In AmericaSupertramp (A&M)                    | 6              | 8                |
| 24 (—)         | Gotta Go Home Boney M(Atlantic/Hansa)                   | 1              | 24               |
| 25 (—)         | Is She Really Going Out With HimJoe Jackson (A&M)       | 1              | 25               |
| 26 (28)        | Just When I Needed You MostRandy Vanwarmer (Island)     | 2              | 26               |
| 27 (—)         | Girls Girls GirlsKandida (RAK)                          | 1              | 27               |
| 28 (20)        | Bad GirlsDonna Summer (Casablanca)                      | 6              | 14               |
| 29 (—)         | Teenage WarningAngelic Upstarts (Warner Bros)           | 1              | 29               |
| 30 (24)        | Sweet Little Rock N RollerShowaddywaddy (Arista)        | 2              | 24               |

UP AND COMING: Rock Lobster — B-52s (Island); Lost In Music — Sister Sledge (Atlantic); Money — Flying Lizards (Virgin); Rock Around The Clock — Telex (Sire); Gone Gone Gone — Johnny Mathis (CBS); Conscious Man — Jolly Brothers (United Artists).

years 5 ago

Week ending August 13, 1974

- When Will I See You Again — Three Degrees (Philadelphia)
- Rock Your Baby — George McCree (Jay Boy)
- You Make Me Feel Brand New — Stylistics (Aveo)
- Summerlove Sensation — Bay City Rollers (Bell)
- Rockin' — Mud (Rak)
- Rock The Boat — Huey Corporation (RCA)
- Band On The Run — Wings (Apple)
- What Becomes Of The Broken Hearted — Jimmy Ruffin (Tamla Motown)
- Amateur Hour — Sparks (Island)
- Born With A Smile On My Face — Stephanie De Sykes/Rain (Bradleys)

10

Week ending August 13, 1969

- Honky Tonk Women — Rolling Stones (Decca)
- Saved By The Bell — Robin Gibb (Polydor)
- My Charlie Amour — Stevie Wonder (Tamla Motown)
- Give Peace A Chance — Plastic Ono Band (Apple)
- Make Me An Island — Joe Dolan (Pye)
- Goodnight Midnight — Clodagh Rodgers (RCA)
- In The Ghetto — Elvis Presley (Elvis Presley)
- Conversations — Cilla Black (Parlophone)
- Early In The Morning — Vanity Fare (Page One)
- I Can Sing A Rainbow/Love Is Blue — Dells (Chess)

15

Week ending August 13, 1964

- Do Wah Diddy Diddy — Manfred Mann (HMV)
- A Hard Day's Night — Beatles (Parlophone)
- It's All Over Now — Rolling Stones (Decca)
- Call Up The Groups — Barron Knights (Columbia)
- I Just Don't Know What To Do With Myself — Dusty Springfield (Philips)
- Tobacco Road — Nashville Teens (Decca)
- Have I The Right — Honeycombs (Pye)
- On The Beach — Cliff Richard (Columbia)
- I Won't Forget You — Jim Reeves (RCA)
- I Got Around — Beach Boys (Capitol)

UK Albums

| This Last Week |                                                     | Weeks in chart | Highest position |
|----------------|-----------------------------------------------------|----------------|------------------|
| 1 (1)          | Best Disco Album In The WorldVarious (WEA)      | 6              | 1                |
| 2 (3)          | DiscoveryElectric Light Orchestra (Jet)         | 11             | 1                |
| 3 (2)          | ReplicasTubeway Army (Beggars Banquet)          | 9              | 1                |
| 4 (4)          | I AmEarth Wind & Fire (CBS)                     | 10             | 2                |
| 4 (5)          | Breakfast In AmericaSupertramp (A & M)          | 21             | 2                |
| 6 (6)          | Voulez VousAbba (Epic)                          | 15             | 1                |
| 7 (11)         | Outlandos D'AmourPolice (A & M)                 | 14             | 7                |
| 8 (20)         | Some ProductSex Pistols (Virgin)                | 3              | 8                |
| 9 (10)         | The Best Of The Dooleys(GTO)                    | 5              | 9                |
| 10 (8)         | Parallel LinesBlondie (Chrysalis)               | 44             | 1                |
| 11 (9)         | CommuniqueDire Straits (Vertigo)                | 10             | 3                |
| 12 (7)         | BridgesJohn Williams (Lotus)                    | 7              | 4                |
| 13 (16)        | Street LifeCrusaders (MCA)                      | 4              | 13               |
| 14 (17)        | Night OwlGerry Rafferty (United Artists)        | 10             | 10               |
| 15 (13)        | Manilow MagicBarry Manilow (Arista)             | 22             | 2                |
| 16 (18)        | Morning DanceSpyro Gyra (Infinity)              | 5              | 16               |
| 17 (19)        | Rust Never SleepsNeil Young (Reprise)           | 5              | 14               |
| 18 (14)        | Live KillersQueen (EMI)                         | 6              | 6                |
| 19 (—)         | ExposedMike Oldfield (Virgin)                   | 1              | 19               |
| 20 (27)        | Do It YourselfIan Dury & The Blockheads (Stiff) | 13             | 2                |
| 21 (12)        | LodgerDavid Bowie (RCA)                         | 10             | 6                |
| 22 (28)        | Go WestVillage People (Mercury)                 | 7              | 21               |
| 23 (22)        | 20 Golden GreatsBeach Boys (Capitol)            | 3              | 22               |
| 24 (30)        | ManifestoRoxy Music (Polydor)                   | 21             | 4                |
| 25 (—)         | Out Of The BlueElectric Light Orchestra (Jet)   | 4              | 3                |
| 26 (23)        | The Very Best Of Leo Sayer(Chrysalis)           | 19             | 1                |
| 27 (—)         | Welcome To The CruiseJudy Tzuke (Rocket)        | 1              | 27               |
| 28 (—)         | Dire StraitsDire Straits (Vertigo)              | 20             | 4                |
| 29 (—)         | B52'sB52's (Island)                             | 1              | 29               |
| 30 (15)        | Back To The EggWings (Parlophone)               | 8              | 4                |

UP AND COMING: Teenage Warning — Angelic Upstarts (Warners); Risque — Chic (Atlantic); Highway To Hell — AC/DC (Atlantic); Bop Till You Drop — Ry Cooder; The Singles Album — Eddie Cochran (United Artists); Midnight Magic — Commodores (Motown).

Gangsters on the nation's airwaves in '79. Specials' Roddy Radiation (demonstrating trilly chic) snarls in two tone one time to prove it.

US Singles

| This Last Week |                                                        | Weeks in chart | Highest position |
|----------------|--------------------------------------------------------|----------------|------------------|
| 1 (3)          | My SharoneThe Knack                                | 3              | 1                |
| 2 (1)          | Good TimesChic                                     | 6              | 1                |
| 3 (2)          | Bad GirlsDonna Summer                              | 11             | 1                |
| 4 (7)          | The Main Event/FightBarbra Streisand               | 7              | 1                |
| 5 (5)          | When You're In Love With A Beautiful WomanDr Hook  | 9              | 1                |
| 6 (4)          | Ring My BellAnita Ward                             | 10             | 1                |
| 7 (12)         | The Devil Went Down To GeorgiaCharlie Daniels Band | 10             | 2                |
| 8 (8)          | GoldJohn Stewart                                   | 11             | 2                |
| 9 (13)         | After The Love Is GoneEarth Wind & Fire            | 11             | 2                |
| 10 (11)        | Mama Can't Buy You LoveElton John                  | 11             | 2                |
| 11 (15)        | Lead Me OnMaxine Nightingale                       | 12             | 10               |
| 12 (10)        | You Can't Change ThatRaydio                        | 13             | 8                |
| 13 (8)         | I Was Made For Lovin' YouKiss                      | 14             | 8                |
| 14 (18)        | Sad EyesRobert John                                | 15             | 28               |
| 15 (28)        | Don't Bring Me DownElectric Light Orchestra        | 16             | 9                |
| 16 (9)         | I Want You To Want MeCheap Trick                   | 17             | 20               |
| 17 (20)        | Let's GoThe Cars                                   | 18             | 27               |
| 18 (27)        | Lonesome LoserLittle River Band                    | 19             | 26               |
| 19 (26)        | I'll Never Love This Way AgainDionne Warwick       | 20             | 23               |
| 20 (23)        | Goodbye StrangerSupertramp                         | 21             | 22               |
| 21 (22)        | Is She Really Going Out With HimJoe Jackson        | 22             | 24               |
| 22 (14)        | SuspiciousEddie Rabbit                             | 23             | 14               |
| 23 (14)        | Makin' ItDavid Naughton                            | 24             | 18               |
| 24 (18)        | Aln't No Stoppin' Us NowMcFadden & Whitehead       | 25             | 17               |
| 25 (17)        | Boogie WonderlandEarth Wind & Fire                 | 26             | 21               |
| 26 (21)        | Chuck E's In LoveRickie Lee Jones                  | 27             | 29               |
| 27 (29)        | Morning DanceSpyro Gyra                            | 28             | 25               |
| 28 (25)        | Do It Or DieAtlanta Rhythm Section                 | 29             | —                |
| 29 (—)         | Heaven Must Have Sent YouBonnie Pointer            | 30             | —                |
| 30 (—)         | Bad Case Of Loving YouRobert Palmer                |                |                  |

Courtesy "CASH BOX"

US Albums

| This Last Week |                                                   | Weeks in chart | Highest position |
|----------------|---------------------------------------------------|----------------|------------------|
| 1 (1)          | Get The KnackThe Knack                        | 3              | 1                |
| 2 (2)          | Bad GirlsDonna Summer                         | 11             | 1                |
| 3 (3)          | Bad GirlsThe Cars                             | 11             | 1                |
| 4 (4)          | Breakfast In AmericaSupertramp                | 21             | 2                |
| 5 (6)          | I AmEarth Wind & Fire                         | 10             | 2                |
| 6 (8)          | DiscoveryElectric Light Orchestra             | 11             | 2                |
| 7 (7)          | TeddyTeddy Pendergrass                        | 9              | 5                |
| 8 (5)          | Cheap Trick At The BudokanCheap Trick         | 10             | 10               |
| 9 (11)         | Million Miles ReflectionsCharlie Daniels Band | 10             | 10               |
| 10 (10)        | The Kids Are AlrightThe Who                   | 11             | 16               |
| 11 (16)        | Rust Never SleepsNeil Young                   | 12             | 19               |
| 12 (9)         | Back To The EggWings                          | 13             | 13               |
| 13 (13)        | Live KillersQueen                             | 14             | 12               |
| 14 (12)        | Rickie Lee JonesRickie Lee Jones              | 15             | 20               |
| 15 (20)        | Reality — What A ConceptRobin Williams        | 16             | 14               |
| 16 (14)        | DynastyKiss                                   | 17             | 17               |
| 17 (17)        | Bombs Away Dream BabiesJohn Stewart           | 18             | 18               |
| 18 (18)        | The GamblerKenny Rogers                       | 19             | 19               |
| 19 (19)        | MingusJoni Mitchell                           | 20             | 15               |
| 20 (15)        | CommuniqueDire Straits                        | 21             | 21               |
| 21 (21)        | Desolation AngelsBad Company                  | 22             | 24               |
| 22 (24)        | The Main EventOriginal Soundtrack             | 23             | 25               |
| 23 (25)        | The BossDiana Ross                            | 24             | 22               |
| 24 (22)        | Van Halen IIVan Halen                         | 25             | 26               |
| 25 (26)        | StreetsCrusaders                              | 26             | 30               |
| 26 (30)        | Low BudgetThe Kinks                           | 27             | 23               |
| 27 (23)        | MonolithBoyz II Men                           | 28             | 29               |
| 28 (29)        | Voulez VousAbba                               | 29             | —                |
| 29 (—)         | SecretsRobert Palmer                          | 30             | —                |
| 30 (—)         | First Under The WireLittle River Band         |                |                  |

Courtesy "CASH BOX"

disco

- Ooh! What A Life — Gibson Brothers (Island)
- Morning Dance — Spyro Gyra (Infinity)
- Bad Girls — Donna Summer (Casablanca)
- I'm A Sucker For Your Love — Teena Marie (Motown)
- The Boss — Diana Ross (Motown)
- Silly Games — Janet Key (Scope)
- After The Love Has Gone — Earth Wind & Fire (CBS)
- Groovin' You — Harvey Mason (Arista)
- Get Another Love — Chantal Curtis (Pye)
- Space Bass — The Kinks (Arista)
- First Time Around — Sly & The Family Stone (Salsoul)
- Dance With You — Carrie Lucas (Solar)
- Let's Dance — Bombers (Flamingo)
- Midnight Groovin' — Light of the World (Ensign)

Chart supplied by Powerhouse Disco, Tel. 01-368 9852

reggae

- Nice Up The Dance — Papa Michigan and General Smilie (Studio 1)
- Tune In — Gregory Isaacs (African Museum)
- In The Right Way — Rod Taylor (Freedom)
- Hypocrite — Bob Marley (Tough Gong)
- Wood For My Fire — Black Uhuru (DEB)
- Hog and Goat — Trinity (Balmont)
- Homeward Bound — Freddie McGregor (Studio 1)
- Pass The Chalice — Ranking Trevor (Wild Flower)
- Sugar and Spice — Carlton and the Shoes (DEB)
- Ambush — Bob Marley (Tough Gong)

Chart supplied by: Greenleaves Record Shop — 44 Uxbridge Road, Shepherds Bush, London W12.

NEWS

Edited by FRED DELLAR

Bob Rat and Pets Of The Month.

Rats snub Swanage!

WITH 'I DON'T Like Mondays' still heading the NME charts for the third successive week, The Boomtown Rats have announced a massive British tour, including three dates at London's Hammersmith Odeon.

Currently in Hilversum, Holland, where they are recording a new album with Mutt Lange, the Rats fly back during September to appear at the following venues: Liverpool Empire (September 27 and 28), Manchester Apollo (29 and 30), Newcastle City Hall (October 2 and 3), Edinburgh Odeon (5), Dundee Caird Hall (6), Aberdeen Capitol (8 and 9), Glasgow Apollo (10 and 11), Preston Guildhall (14), Stoke Trentham Gardens (15), Leicester Granby Hall (16), Sheffield City Hall (17), Birmingham Odeon (19 and 20), Oxford New Theatre (23), London Hammersmith Odeon (25, 26 and 27), Brighton Conference Centre (28), Cardiff Sofia Gardens (30 and 31), plus an unconfirmed date at Bristol Colston Hall.

Tickets for all venues are priced at £3.00, £2.50 and £2.00 except for Stoke, Leicester and Cardiff, where admission will be one price only — £3.00. Bookings can be made at the Manchester, Liverpool, Oxford, Cardiff, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Stoke and Hammersmith box-offices from August 18 onwards. Tickets will be available at Dundee on August 25, while all other venues will accept bookings from September 3. Postal applications are available everywhere.

The Rats' follow-up to 'I Don't Like Mondays' will be released by Phonogram in late September.

Buzzcocks nix Hyde Park but set UK tour

DESPITE LAST minute attempts to salvage the gig, Buzzcocks' projected Hyde Park concert has been called off.

Most of the blame is laid at the feet of the record companies who failed to offer any support. The Buzzcocks management, facing an estimated bill of £20,000 for setting up the concert, had hoped that several record companies would guarantee the bulk of these costs, taking advantage of the promotional value of the gig which could have provided their acts with a huge audience. But in face of The Who's Wembley concert, all these companies pulled out, leaving Buzzcocks, Asgard Agency (the show's licence holders) and UA Records with the problem of coming up with the £20,000 or cancelling the show.

With this debacle out of the way, Buzzcocks are now set to embark on an autumn tour to promote their latest album, 'A Different Kind Of Tension', which is to be released by Liberty-United on September 14. Dates are: Liverpool Mountford Hall (October 2), Leeds University (3), Newcastle City Hall (4), Glasgow Apollo (5), Edinburgh Odeon (6), Aberdeen Capitol (7), Dundee Caird Hall (8), Belfast Ulster Hall (10), Portrush Kelly's (11), Cork City Hall (13), Sheffield Top Rank (21), Derby Assembly Rooms (22), Blackburn St George's Hall (23), Birmingham Odeon (24), Bradford King George's Hall (25), Manchester Apollo (27 and 28), Leicester De Montfort Hall (29), Oxford New Theatre (30), Guildford Civic Hall (November 1), Bournemouth Winter Gardens (2), Cardiff Sofia Gardens (3), Bristol Colston Hall (4), Hemel Hempstead Pavilion (5), West Runton Pavilion (7) and London Rainbow (9 and 10). Tickets for all venues go on sale this Friday (17).

TOUR MADNESS!

Rats, Siouxsie, Ramones, Buzzcocks, Nils, Police

"Lizzy may not play Reading"

NME 4/8/79

Now they pull out — officially

AS EXCLUSIVELY predicted two weeks ago in NME, Thin Lizzy have been forced to pull out of the Reading Festival.

Though denials followed NME's story, last Friday both the Festival organisers and Lizzy's management issued statements. The latter's read:

"Thin Lizzy feel that they cannot give a 100% performance unless they are playing at full strength. Midge Ure stood in as a temporary guitarist at the end of Lizzy's U.S. tour and during this period the band were only playing a 45-minute set. They have not found a permanent replacement and in the time available it is not possible to rehearse a full Thin Lizzy performance. Rather than give a sub-standard performance that may disappoint Lizzy fans, the group have decided to wait until they are at full strength."

The band apologised for the decision but asked fans to bear with them in "these difficult circumstances".

Phil Lynott added: "We will make it up to you with a killer of a tour next year, when we will really deliver the show in the way we want it to be seen."

Back in the hot seat, with no major band needed to fill the headline spot on their Saturday night bill, the Reading Festival organisers announced: "At this late stage, it will be difficult to find a band of equal stature to Thin Lizzy that has no commitment on that date. However, we are making all necessary enquiries around agents and managers and are more than hopeful that we will be able to put something together that is in the best value-for-money tradition of the Reading Festival."

Meanwhile, a more minor problem was occurring as After The Fire decided to vacate their Reading spot in order to fit in a studio date with Muff Winwood. "One track on the band's forthcoming album needed some overdubs," stated CBS, ATF's record company, "and it was the only day that both they and Muff Winwood could get together. It's extremely important to get the album out on time."

Siouxsie sez yes to Britain.

Siouxsie: Q here

SIOUXSIE AND The Banshees are set to tour, with warm-up dates at Bournemouth Stateside Theatre on August 29 and Aylesbury Friars on August 30.

Their official itinerary gets underway at Belfast Ulster Hall on September 5, followed by Aberdeen Capitol Theatre (7), Glasgow Apollo (8), Dunfermline Kinema (9), Bradford St. George's Hall (12), Oxford New Theatre (14), Leicester De Montfort Hall (18), Birmingham Odeon (19), Manchester Apollo (21), Malvern Winter Garden (22), Bristol Hippodrome (23), Cardiff

Sophia Gardens (25), Taunton Odeon (27), Southampton Gaumont (28), Hemel Hempstead Pavilion (29), Nottingham University (October 1), Newcastle Polytechnic (3), Hull City Hall (8), Ipswich Gaumont (9), Brighton Conference Centre (10), Chelmsford Odeon (11), Lewisham Odeon (13) and London Hammersmith Odeon (15).

Support band throughout will be The Cure, though a second guest will be added at some venues. The tour is the first of four major jaunts planned for Siouxsie, with dates in America, Japan and Australia now being organised.

Police whistle stop

THE POLICE have insisted that ticket prices should be pegged at £2.00 in advance (£2.50 on the door) for their September tour, which is confirmed to play Derby Assembly Rooms (10), Blackburn King George's Hall (11), Birmingham Odeon (13), Southampton Gaumont (14), Oxford New Theatre (15), Leicester De Montfort Hall (16), Swansea Top Rank (18) and Cardiff Top Rank (19) with other dates to be added. The only exception to the one price rule is at Birminghams Odeon, where seats range from £2.60 to £1.00. Supporting on all dates are Waxmonax.

The Police headline the first night of the Reading Festival on August 24, and after completing their British tour, head for the U.S. where they are booked for an eight-week long tally of gigs. A new single 'Message In A Bottle' will be out in mid-September, while the band's next album has reached mixing stage.

Bruders Dee Dee and Johnny

Ramonerama starts here

THE RAMONES, already due to play at the Reading Festival on August 26, have confirmed a full British tour that concludes with a London Rainbow concert on September 19.

Tour dates are as follows: Portsmouth Guildhall (August 25), Reading Festival (26), Poole Arts Centre (28), Carlisle Music Hall (September 1), Belfast Ulster Hall (3), Dublin Olympic Ballroom (4), Aylesbury Friars (8), Bristol Locarno (9), Leicester De Montfort Hall (10), Blackburn St. George's Hall (12), Glasgow Apollo (13), Manchester Apollo (14), Liverpool Empire (15), Sheffield Top Rank (17), Birmingham Odeon (18) and London Rainbow (19). Tickets for the London date are priced at £3.50, £3.00 and £2.50.

Sire Records this week release a three-track Ramones single, 'Rock And Roll High School' / 'Rockaway Beach' / 'Sheena Is A Punk Rocker', and plans are underway for U.K. screenings of the Rock And Roll High School movie, in which The Ramones appear.

Nils on wheels

NILS LOFGREN, who kicks off the Who Wembley gig this Saturday, returns to Britain in September for a 15-venue tour.

The tour commences at Portsmouth Guildhall on September 3 and then moves on to: Leicester De Montfort Hall (4), Wolverhampton Civic Hall (5), Oxford New Theatre (6), Sheffield City Hall (7), Manchester Apollo (10), Edinburgh Usher Hall (11), Glasgow Apollo (12), Liverpool Empire (13), London Rainbow (14), Bristol Colston Hall (16), Brighton Dome (17), Ipswich Gaumont (18), Newcastle City Hall (19) and Birmingham Odeon (20).

The Lofgren tour band is formed by Nils Lofgren (guitar, vocals), Tom Lofgren (guitar), Wornell Jones (bass), Michael Zach (drums) and Tommy Thomas (keyboards), while the support band throughout will be Live Wire, an A&M signing who have a Glyn Johns-produced album out shortly.

STUDENTS

SEE PAGES

49, 50 & 51

for details of Higher Education Courses.

MORE TRACKS THAN BRITISH RAIL

6 Tracks 20 Minutes Max Price £1.50

First Release:

TOYAH

'Sheep Farming in Barnet'

ALTERNATIVE PLAY

SAP1

SAFARI

STRAIGHT MUSIC PRESENTS

Reesh

NEW BINGLEY HALL
WESTON RD, STAFFORD

FRI/SAT — 21/22 SEPTEMBER AT 7.30

Tickets £4.50 (inc. VAT). Available from the following outlets:
London: Premier Box Office, London Theatre Bookings, Edwards & Edwards
Birmingham: Cycles Sounds, Wolverhampton: Sundown Records, Hanley
Tunstall: Newcastle Lym, Mace Lloyd Record Shops, Stafford: Lotus Records
Manchester: Piccadilly Records, or The New Bingley Hall
By post from: Straight Music Ltd, 1 Manor Terrace, London SW10 0DD.
©/Wessex and/or S.A.E. or available on night

WEMBLEY — THE WHO, WHAT, WHEN, WHERE AND THE STRANGLERS

PROMOTER HARVEY Goldsmith, revealing final details of The Who's Wembley Stadium concert which takes place this Saturday (18), claimed that he had come up with a special beat-the-touts plan.

Approximately 1,000 tickets for the show will be offered for sale on the day, from 10 a.m. onwards. These will be priced at £8.50 and anyone wishing to purchase them should head for turnstile F.

Doors open at 2 p.m. and opener Nils Lofgren appears onstage at 3.30, to be followed, in running order, by AC/DC, The Stranglers and The Who. Goldsmith claims there will be no lengthy delays and that The Who will appear onstage promptly at 8 p.m., thus enabling everyone to hear their two-hour set without worrying about the last bus or train home.

For those travelling by car, there will be ample parking facilities opposite the ground, while those coming by train can reach the Stadium by Underground (to Wembley Park or Wembley Central) or by British Rail from Euston (to Wembley Central) or Marylebone (to Wembley Complex). Bus routes 83, 92 and 182 go directly to Wembley Stadium, while routes 18, 279 and 245 pass nearby. Extra buses and trains will be laid on to coincide the end of the concert at 10 p.m.

The Who: Entwistle, Jones, Daltrey, Townshend.

YES KEYBOARDSMAN Rick Wakeman plays his first solo concerts in this country for nearly three years when he appears at the London Venue on August 20, 21 and 22.

Wakeman will be leading a five-piece unit comprising Frank Gibson (drums), Bruce Lynch (bass), Reg Brooks (sax and horn), Dave Caswell (trumpet) plus Ashley Holt (vocals), and plays one show on August 20, followed by two shows (8.30 and 11.15 pm) on the other dates.

TOUR INFORMATION

Rick Wakeman, Elkie Brooks, Nina Hagen on green light

NINA HAGEN, described in NME as "a cross between Johnny Rotten, Maria Callas and Bette Midler", flies to Britain for a one-off date at the London Lyceum on Sunday, September 9. Tickets for the show are now on sale, price £3.00.

Nina Hagen

Talking about his decision to tackle solo gigs once more, Wakeman said: "We played a concert in Montreux on July 19, which went down so well that it gave us all the feeling we wanted to do it again, just for the sheer joy of playing. We also felt that these small contact gigs would be the best way of expressing our enthusiasm." Tickets for all shows are priced at £4.50.

ELKIE BROOKS returns from the States this month after recording an album with producers Leiber and Stoller, and commences her first British tour in over a year.

Claiming that this time "the music will be much rockier", Elkie gives her first concert at Hull New Theatre on August 30 and then appears at Southampton Gaumont (September 1), Birmingham Odeon (4), Manchester Apollo (5), Coventry Theatre (6), London Dominion (8, 9, 10 and 11), Leicester De Montfort Hall (14), Eastbourne Congreave (15), Bournemouth Winter Gardens (17), Wolverhampton Civic (18), Southport New Theatre (19), Glasgow Apollo (21), Edinburgh Usher Hall (22), Newcastle City Hall (23), Sheffield City Hall (25), Bradford St George's (26), Ipswich Gaumont (27), Oxford New (28) and Bristol Colston (29).

Tickets for the London show are set at £6.50, £5.50 and £4.50 and go on sale August 25, although postal applications are already being accepted. Cheques and postal orders should be made payable to Rank Leisure and accompanied by a S.A.E.

The new album, as yet untitled, plus a new single, will be released by A&M during the latter half of September.

*'Nothing but the blues and nothing but the best ...
... Absolutely the boss' NME*

B.B. KING

TAKE IT HOME

B.B.KING

THE NEW ALBUM

'TAKE IT HOME'

MCF 3010

players include

Dean Parks, Paul M. Jackson Jr,
Wilton Felder, Joe Sample, & "Stix" Hooper

Including the new single

'Better Not Look Down'

MCA 515

Shake make the break

SHAKE, the band formed by ex-Rezillos Jo Callis, Simon Templar and Angel Patterson, play the Derry Festival on August 24 and then commence a series of club dates which include London Nashville Rooms (August 27), Shrewsbury Cascade (29), Sheffield Limir (30), East Retford Porterhouse (31), Middlesbrough Rock Garden (September 1), London Marquee (4), Newport Stowaway (5), Leeds Fan Club (6), Manchester Factory (7), Liverpool Eric's (8), London Nashville (10), London Marquee (17), Dunoon Queens Hall (20), and Stirling University (24). A four-track 10" EP by Shake has just been issued on Sire.

● TOYAH, who's appeared on-screen in Quadrophania and Jubilee, plays a series of dates this month in support of her 'Sheep Farming in Barne' single. The tour kicks off at Newport Village on August 10, further dates being: Birmingham Barbarella's (11), London Marquee (12), Sheffield Limit (16), London Music Machine (17), Liverpool Eric's (23), London Nashville (25), Manchester Factory (September 6), Burton-on-Trent 76 Club (7), Nottingham Sandpiper (8), and Jacks-date Gray Topper (9). Further dates are to be added.

Phil Rambow makes another comeback

Rambow returns

ONE-TIME Winkies leader Philip Rambow is set to play his 'Out Of The Dumper' tour at 12 British clubs and pubs during September. His date sheet commences at Norwich Boogie House on September 11, after which he plays High Wycombe Nag's Head (12), Leeds F Club (13), Dudley JB's (14), Birmingham Barbarella's (15), London Jope and Anchor (17 and 18), Chesterfield Fusion Club (20), Nottingham Sandpiper (21), London Nashville (24 and 25), London Marquee (26), Liverpool Eric's (27) and Sheffield Limit Club (28). Canuck singer-songwriter Rambow recently had a single 'Fallen' released on EMI.

NEWS BRIEFS

BUGDIE called NME in high dudgeon (near High Wycombe — Ed.) following a report in a rival paper that the heavy-metal trio had disbanded. In fact they have just returned from Texas, where they've been working for several months, and are currently lining up a deal with a major record company. The band — now comprised of Burke Shelley (bass and vocals), Rob Kendrick (guitar and vocals) and Steve Williams (drums), appear at London's Music Machine tonight (16) and Birmingham's Barbarella's tomorrow (17), followed by these dates in September — Newcastle Mayfair (7), Retford Porterhouse (8), West Runt Pavilion (14), Northampton Cricket Club (15), St Albans Civic Hall (22) and Slough College (29).

AL GREEN is to play an extra show at the London Venue on Sunday, August 18, the performance commencing at 6 p.m.

THE ONLY ONES headline at London's Lyceum on September 2 before commencing a five week U.S. tour. Support bands have yet to be named.

CLASSIX NOUVEAUX, the band formed from the remnants of X-Ray Spex, play their first gig on Thursday August 23 when they headline at the Music Machine.

THE UNTOUCHABLES, a band of unimpeachable pedigree, are currently lining up dates for September. The band features Skid Marx (ex-Blast Furnace — vocals, harmonica and sax), Lucas Fox (formerly drummer with Motorhead), Stevie Lewins (once bassist with Solid Senders) and Andy Eastwood (guitarist and another BF hero).

GENERATION X who are currently recording their third album, play a one-off gig at the Palace Lido, Douglas, Isle of Man, on August 19. Tickets are £2.50 and any info regarding ferries from Liverpool to the I.O.M. can be obtained from the I.O.M. Steamship Packet Company (051-236 3214).

BLOCKHEAD BUSTER CHAZ!!

IN AN exclusive NME interview Chaz Jankel, keyboardist/guitarist and musical director with Ian Dury's Blockheads, this week revealed that he was to quit the band at the end of the month.

Claiming that the band's music wasn't stimulating enough and was stifling his creativity, Jankel added that he wouldn't be joining any new band or taking on any commitments as a producer for some time to come. His intention is to head for South America and then travel up through North America.

He also stated that his songwriting partnership with Ian Dury was through and all he wanted at present was a "breathing space".

Jankel, who first met Dury after a

Kilburn and the High Roads gig at London's Nashville Rooms, has worked with The Blockheads for three years and was the musician mainly responsible for providing Dury's lyrics with their musical settings. However, he claims his departure "doesn't mean a lot" — a sentiment echoed by Blockheads publicist Kosmo Vinyl, who explained: "Though Chaz has always been on Ian's recordings we've played more live gigs without him than with him. He left the band for a whole year once and missed several tours, including the American one. We didn't replace him and just went on as a six-piece, which we could do in the future."

"Chaz doesn't like touring. He even turned down a tour with Van Morrison once and got a job in John Lewis's selling shirts instead."

"Really it's no shock horror thing."

Chaz Jankel

David Psychokiller

Rat Somebody

Heads for Edinburgh, Damned for Derry Fest

TALKING HEADS, Squeeze, and Steel Pulse have been added to the bill at Edinburgh's 'Big Day Out' on September 1. The concert, which takes place at the city's Royal Showground, already features Van Morrison, The Undertones, and The Chieftains, and the promoters state that one more major act is yet to be announced.

Talking Heads, whose leader David Byrne was born in Scotland — one reason he was keen to play the gig — may be playing a full British tour later this year. However, at this point in time the Edinburgh concert marks the only definite UK appearance during '79. To coincide with the visit, WEA are to release Talking Heads' 'Fear Of Music' LP, which is released on Sire on August 24. The album, mainly cut at the band's own studios in Long Island City, was produced by Brian Eno and Talking Heads and includes such guests as Robert Fripp and Blazing Saddles star Gene Wilder.

Van Morrison commenced his nine-date European tour in Cap d'Agde, France, last Tuesday, having spent a few days rehearsing with a band formed by Herbie Armstrong (guitar), David Hayes (bass), Pete Wingfield (piano), John Altman (woodwinds), Pete Van Nook (drums), Toni Marcus (violin/viola) and Katy Kissoon (back-up vocals). His latest album 'Into The Music' is being rush-released by Phonogram on August 24. A 10-track LP, it was produced by Morrison and Mick Glossop.

THE DAMNED are now confirmed to appear at the Derry Free Fest, appearing on the bill headed by The Clash and The Undertones.

"We have agreed to play," they stated, "because certain other established bands have not fulfilled their commitments to the punk movement." They also play a one-off date at Manchester's The Factory (also known as The Russell Club) on August 28, when they will be supported by Nightmares in Wax.

The Boys have pulled out of the Derry Fest but Shake and The Moon Dogs are confirmed to play, while other names are yet to be announced.

RECORD NEWS

● Chuck Berry, now signed to Atlantic, has a single, 'Oh What A Thrill/California' coming out on Friday (17). Both tracks will be included on an album titled 'Rockit', now being scheduled by WEA. Back-up musicians on the disc are Johnny Johnson (piano), Jim Marshall and Bob Wray (bass) and Kenny Burrell (drums).

● Mings Dynasty, the band formed by Charlie Mings' widow to perpetuate her husband's unique style of music, has been signed to WEA. A septet, the band comprises former Mings sidemen Don Pullen, Jimmy Owens, Jimmy Knepper, Danny Richmond, Joe Farrell and John Handy, plus bassist Charlie Haden.

● Pressure Shocks are spending the next month in Nottingham's Sin City Music Studios, where they're recording their first album for October release. All gigs have been cancelled in order to spend as much time in the studio as possible but a tour is being planned for November.

Rock Dreams

In a caption to a photograph in our June 2 issue Dave Cowdrey was described as "Rock Dreams proprietor". Dave Cowdrey has never been a proprietor of Rock Dreams, but he used a part of Rock Dream's shop in Kings Road, Chelsea, for his business Toothwell And Stone. We regret the error.

● Ry Cooder's 'Little Sister' is being rush-released as a single following strong reaction to the album track by DJs. The song was originally a hit for Elvis Presley in 1961. The B-side will be a version of Arthur Alexander's 'Go Home Girl'. Discussions are currently underway to bring Cooder and his band to Britain for a full tour later this year.

● Essential Logic have just returned from Wales, where they have been putting together their first LP, which is to be released jointly by Rough Trade and the band's own Logic label. The album, produced by Logic and Hugh Jones, contains 'Albert', 'Aikeline Loaf In The Area', 'The Order Form' and five other tracks, all of which were featured at the band's recent 'YMCA' gig. The line-up on the album is David Wright (tenor sax), Rich Tes (drums), Mark Turner (bass), Ashley Buff (guitar) and Logic (sax and vocals). The band are hoping to set up a number of live dates to coincide with the release of the album and can be contacted through Rough Trade. Meanwhile, Logic continues her gigs as a member of Red Crayola.

● Jo Jo Zep And The Falcons, the Aussie band that toured with Elvis Costello and Graham Parker on gigs down-under, are to have their records issued here on the Rock-bug label. A best of album and a single, 'So Young' will appear on September 14.

● Inspired by the success of the LSO's 'Classic Rock' LP, the Portsmouth Sinfonia — the world's worst orchestra — has come out of retirement to provide '20 Classic Rock Classics', released by Phonogram on September 1. Among the tracks utterly ruined are 'Pinball Wizard', 'Bridge Over Troubled Water', 'A Day In The Life' and 'Leader Of The Pack'. A single and a London Rainbow Theatre concert are also being threatened.

● Russ Ballard number, 'Since You've Been Gone', will be the A-side of Rainbow's new single, released August 31. The disc will be available in a 12" limited edition version and features 'Down To Earth' as a B-side, a song that has never appeared on any Rainbow album.

● Though he's still signed to Phonogram, David Essex's next single, 'World/Who Am I?', produced by Cat Stevens and David Gordon, is being rush-released by Liberty-United. The songs come from Alpha — Mega, a forthcoming stage show.

● 'Wreck My Bed', a single by Croydon country-punk duo The Sunsets, is now available from D Rippington, 15 Endsleigh Close, Seltsdon, Croydon, price 75p.

● Brown Sugar's 'Our Reggae Music', previously a big seller in the specialist shops on the Studio 16 label, is now being given a general release on Decca.

Monsters of the mini kind

THREE ACTS — Straight Eight, The Dazzlers, and The Roy Sundholm Band — are involved in the Baby Monster Tour, which opens at Birmingham's Barbarella's on August 18 and subsequently visits Scarborough Penthouse (August 24), Manchester Factory (25), West Runton Pavilion (27), London Music Machine (29), Dudley JB's (31) and East Retford Porterhouse (September 1). Straight Eight will headline at Barbarella's and then alternate with Roy Sundholm as top of the bill for the remaining gigs.

Sundholm's first LP, 'The Chinese Method', is released by Ensign next month, while Straight Eight, who are featured on BBC-TV's In Concert on August 22, recently issued the album 'No Noise From Here' on Pete Townshend's Eel Pie label. The Dazzlers' latest single 'Feeling Free' produced by Phil Ramone emerges from Charisma on August 24.

Blues cruise

THE AMERICAN Blues Legends '79 tour begins at Warwick University on October 3. This year's model features only Chicago bluesmen and includes Eddie C Campbell, Billy 'The Kid' Emerson, Good Rockin' Charles, Lester Davenport, Chico Chism and Little Smokey Smothers, all of whom are recording for a forthcoming album by Bear Big Records. The tour includes two London dates — The Venue on October 4 and Camden Festival on October 27. An album, 'The Blues — Vol. 3' featuring Mickey Baker, Eddie Burns, Homesick James, Dr. Ross, Boogie Woogie Red and other bluesmen who have appeared on previous Blues Legend tours, is being released by Big Bear.

BP takeover

BILLY PRESTON and Billy Paul appear in concert at Hammersmith Odeon on Friday September 7. This will be the only British concert this year for both artists, each of whom will be bringing over his full American show. Preston, who is the official bill-topper despite the fact that Paul has logged more hit records in this country, has a new album 'Late At Night' released by Motown on September 7, preceded by a single 'With You I'm Born Again', culled from the soundtrack of the film Fastbreak.

Anti-nuke Harper

ROY HARPER and Boys Of The Lough appear at a ceilidh that forms part of an anti-nuclear rally in Edinburgh on September 15. The event organised by SCRAM (the Scottish Campaign to Resist the Atomic Menace) starts at 11 am with a march along Princes Street. Main aim of the demonstration will be to focus attention on the proposed nuclear reactor at Torness, the threat of waste dumping in Scotland, and uranium mining in the Orkneys.

Marshall Arts & Straight Music present with their New American Show

COMMODORES

The Emotions
at WEMBLEY ARENA
Empire Way Wembley, box office 01 902 1234 sat 25 & sun 26 Aug at 7:30pm
tickets £6.00 & £4.50 (inc vat)
Premier Box Office - 240 2245 London Theatre Bookings - 432 3371
Virgin Megastore 631 1234 Edwards Edwards 734 9761
APOLLO, GLASGOW
THUR 23 AUG at 7:30, £4.50 £3.50 £2.50 (tel 041 332 9221)
BINGLEY HALL, STAFFORD
WED 29 AUG at 7:30 (£4.50) tel 0785 4701

STUDENTS

SEE PAGES

49, 50 & 51

for details of Higher Education Courses.

LONGER THAN CROSSROADS

6 Tracks 20 Minutes Max Price £1.50
First Release:
TOYAH
'Sheep Farming in Barnet'
ALTERNATIVE PLAY SAPI SAFARI

MUSIC BY POST

Comprehensive Catalogue free on receipt of 2p/3p stamp

This week's best selling SONGBOOKS

|                                     |       |                               |       |                           |       |                            |       |                     |       |                           |  |                   |       |                               |  |                                     |       |             |     |                          |       |             |     |                    |       |              |     |                    |       |          |       |                                   |       |  |  |
|-------------------------------------|-------|-------------------------------|-------|---------------------------|-------|----------------------------|-------|---------------------|-------|---------------------------|--|-------------------|-------|-------------------------------|--|-------------------------------------|-------|-------------|-----|--------------------------|-------|-------------|-----|--------------------|-------|--------------|-----|--------------------|-------|----------|-------|-----------------------------------|-------|--|--|
| BLONDE Picture This                 | £1.95 | SEX PISTOLS File              | £2.50 |                           |       |                            |       |                     |       |                           |  |                   |       |                               |  |                                     |       |             |     |                          |       |             |     |                    |       |              |     |                    |       |          |       |                                   |       |  |  |
| JAM All Mod Cons                    | £2.50 | Behind The Beatles' Songs     | £2.95 |                           |       |                            |       |                     |       |                           |  |                   |       |                               |  |                                     |       |             |     |                          |       |             |     |                    |       |              |     |                    |       |          |       |                                   |       |  |  |
| SHAM 66 Songbook                    | £2.50 | BOWIE The Lives & Times Of    | £5.95 |                           |       |                            |       |                     |       |                           |  |                   |       |                               |  |                                     |       |             |     |                          |       |             |     |                    |       |              |     |                    |       |          |       |                                   |       |  |  |
| THIN LIZZY Black Rose               | £2.75 | BLONDE                        | £1.75 |                           |       |                            |       |                     |       |                           |  |                   |       |                               |  |                                     |       |             |     |                          |       |             |     |                    |       |              |     |                    |       |          |       |                                   |       |  |  |
| 10cc Bloody Tourists                | £4.25 | Bert Weedon — 'Play in a Day' | £1.50 |                           |       |                            |       |                     |       |                           |  |                   |       |                               |  |                                     |       |             |     |                          |       |             |     |                    |       |              |     |                    |       |          |       |                                   |       |  |  |
| MOTORHEAD Overkill                  | £2.75 | 500 Chord Shapes              | 70p   |                           |       |                            |       |                     |       |                           |  |                   |       |                               |  |                                     |       |             |     |                          |       |             |     |                    |       |              |     |                    |       |          |       |                                   |       |  |  |
| BLONDE Songbook                     | £1.00 | Bass Guitar tutor + record    | £3.95 |                           |       |                            |       |                     |       |                           |  |                   |       |                               |  |                                     |       |             |     |                          |       |             |     |                    |       |              |     |                    |       |          |       |                                   |       |  |  |
| THE CLASH Songbook                  | £3.50 | Rhythm Guitar tutor + record  | £3.95 | KATE BUSH The Kick Inside | £1.00 | Lead Guitar Tutor + record | £3.95 | KATE BUSH Lionheart | £3.50 | POSTAGE & PACKING CHARGES |  | IAN DURY Songbook | £3.50 | ORDER GB & N IRELAND OVERSEAS |  | SEX PISTOLS Never Mind The Bollocks | £2.50 | £2 or under | 30p | DEEP PURPLE Machine Head | £1.75 | £4 or under | 40p | THIN LIZZY Best of | £3.25 | £10 or under | 50p | BUZZCOCKS Songbook | £2.50 | Over £10 | £1.00 | ROD STEWART Blondes Have More Fun | £2.95 |  |  |
| KATE BUSH The Kick Inside           | £1.00 | Lead Guitar Tutor + record    | £3.95 |                           |       |                            |       |                     |       |                           |  |                   |       |                               |  |                                     |       |             |     |                          |       |             |     |                    |       |              |     |                    |       |          |       |                                   |       |  |  |
| KATE BUSH Lionheart                 | £3.50 | POSTAGE & PACKING CHARGES     |       |                           |       |                            |       |                     |       |                           |  |                   |       |                               |  |                                     |       |             |     |                          |       |             |     |                    |       |              |     |                    |       |          |       |                                   |       |  |  |
| IAN DURY Songbook                   | £3.50 | ORDER GB & N IRELAND OVERSEAS |       |                           |       |                            |       |                     |       |                           |  |                   |       |                               |  |                                     |       |             |     |                          |       |             |     |                    |       |              |     |                    |       |          |       |                                   |       |  |  |
| SEX PISTOLS Never Mind The Bollocks | £2.50 | £2 or under                   | 30p   |                           |       |                            |       |                     |       |                           |  |                   |       |                               |  |                                     |       |             |     |                          |       |             |     |                    |       |              |     |                    |       |          |       |                                   |       |  |  |
| DEEP PURPLE Machine Head            | £1.75 | £4 or under                   | 40p   |                           |       |                            |       |                     |       |                           |  |                   |       |                               |  |                                     |       |             |     |                          |       |             |     |                    |       |              |     |                    |       |          |       |                                   |       |  |  |
| THIN LIZZY Best of                  | £3.25 | £10 or under                  | 50p   |                           |       |                            |       |                     |       |                           |  |                   |       |                               |  |                                     |       |             |     |                          |       |             |     |                    |       |              |     |                    |       |          |       |                                   |       |  |  |
| BUZZCOCKS Songbook                  | £2.50 | Over £10                      | £1.00 |                           |       |                            |       |                     |       |                           |  |                   |       |                               |  |                                     |       |             |     |                          |       |             |     |                    |       |              |     |                    |       |          |       |                                   |       |  |  |
| ROD STEWART Blondes Have More Fun   | £2.95 |                               |       |                           |       |                            |       |                     |       |                           |  |                   |       |                               |  |                                     |       |             |     |                          |       |             |     |                    |       |              |     |                    |       |          |       |                                   |       |  |  |

PASH MUSIC STORES, 5 ELGIN CRESCENT, LONDON W11

OUR PRICE

TOP 60

DOWN TO EARTH RAINBOW

LIMITED EDITION IN CLEAR VINYL

LONDON'S ORIGINAL ALBUM CHART

| THIS WEEK | LAST WEEK | TITLE                                         | R.B.P. | OUR PRICE | THIS WEEK | LAST WEEK | TITLE                                   | R.B.P. | OUR PRICE |
|-----------|-----------|-----------------------------------------------|--------|-----------|-----------|-----------|-----------------------------------------|--------|-----------|
| 1         | 2         | SUPERHAMP — BREAKFAST IN AMERICA              | 4.78   | 3.53      | 31        | 15        | DAVE EDWARDS — REPEAT WHEN              | 5.00   | 3.75      |
| 2         | 10        | SPYB-GYRA — MORNING BANCE                     | 4.69   | 3.44      | 32        | 22        | SAY — WINGS — BACK TO THE               | 5.25   | 4.00      |
| 3         | 3         | THE BEST ROCK ALBUM IN THE WORLD              | 5.00   | 4.20      | 33        | 23        | WINGS — BACK TO THE                     | 5.49   | 4.24      |
| 4         | 1         | TURKEY ARMY — REPUBLIC                        | 5.00   | 3.75      | 34        | 28        | GARY BROOKER — NO MORE FEAR OF FLYING   | 4.46   | 3.21      |
| 5         | 6         | NEIL YOUNG — RUST NEVER SLEEPS                | 5.00   | 3.75      | 35        | 34        | BOB DYLAN — AT BUDOKAN                  | 7.99   | 5.99      |
| 6         | 8         | E.L.O. — DISCOVERY                            | 5.49   | 4.24      | 36        | 35        | DAVID BOWIE — LODGER                    | 5.49   | 4.24      |
| 7         | 9         | CHUBBERS — STREET LIFE                        | 4.69   | 3.44      | 37        | 33        | ROBERT PALMER — SECRETS                 | 5.00   | 3.75      |
| 8         | 21        | A.L.D.E. — HIGHWAY TO HEAL                    | 5.00   | 3.75      | 38        | 36        | OVER — LIVE ONLERS                      | 8.45   | 6.45      |
| 9         | 4         | POLO — OUTLANDS OF AMERICA                    | 4.78   | 3.53      | 39        | 39        | ROCK MUSIC — MANHATTAN                  | 5.31   | 4.06      |
| 10        | 7         | EARTH, WIND AND FIRE — EARTH                  | 5.29   | 4.04      | 40        | 40        | GEORGE BENSON — LIVING INSIDE YOUR LOVE | 7.50   | 5.75      |
| 11        | 26        | RAINBOW — DOWN TO EARTH                       | 5.06   | 3.81      | 41        | 38        | SQUEEZE — COOL FOR CATS                 | 4.78   | 3.53      |
| 12        | 11        | ONE SYRATS — COMMUNIQUE                       | 5.30   | 4.05      | 42        | 41        | PAT TRAVERS BAND — LIVE!                | 4.63   | 3.38      |
| 13        | 16        | BLONDE — PARALLEL                             | 4.78   | 3.53      | 43        | 41        | CHARLIE — FIGHT DIRT                    | 5.06   | 3.81      |
| 14        | 17        | RY COODER — BOP TIL YOU DROP                  | 5.00   | 3.75      | 44        | 44        | NLS LOFGREN — NLS                       | 4.78   | 3.53      |
| 15        | 14        | CONNA SUMMER — BAD GIRLS                      | 6.50   | 4.75      | 45        | 43        | STEEL PULSE — TRIBUTE TO THE MENTYS     | 5.00   | 3.75      |
| 16        | 5         | BEY —                                         | 5.00   | 3.75      | 46        | 45        | ANGELIC UPSTARTS — TEENAGE WARRIORS     | 5.00   | 3.75      |
| 17        | 17        | JOE JACKSON — LOOK NO FURTHER                 | 4.78   | 3.53      | 47        | 45        | EDDIE COCHRANE — SINGLES ALBUM          | 5.39   | 4.14      |
| 18        | 12        | RICKI LEE JONES —                             | 5.00   | 3.75      | 48        | 37        | CATY RAMPHEN — EUPHORIA                 | 4.78   | 3.53      |
| 19        | 18        | W.B. KING — TAKE IT HOME                      | 4.69   | 3.44      | 49        | 42        | THE BRACK — GET THE MESSAGE             | 5.29   | 4.04      |
| 20        | 24        | CHIC — DISCO                                  | 5.00   | 3.75      | 50        | 48        | THE BRACK — THE STORY'S BEEN TOLD       | 5.00   | 3.75      |
| 21        | 25        | WHO — THE KIDS ARE ALRIGHT                    | 9.04   | 6.54      | 51        | 49        | JOHN MATT — SLUG LANE                   | 4.69   | 3.44      |
| 22        | 29        | CRIMINAL MINDS — MIDNIGHT MAGIC               | 5.69   | 4.44      | 52        | 49        | NICK LOVIE — LABOUR OF LUST             | 5.00   | 3.75      |
| 23        | 30        | HERMAN BOND — Doc. live at live live live     | 4.80   | 3.55      | 53        | 52        | AMERICA —                               | 5.29   | 4.04      |
| 24        | 20        | J.J. GALT — I (including from live live live) | 5.00   | 3.75      | 54        | 57        | C.C.R. — 20 GREATEST HITS               | 5.29   | 4.04      |
| 25        | 19        | DANA ROSS — THE BOSS                          | 5.29   | 4.04      | 55        | 46        | SINGERS — THE SOUNDS OF SUMMERTIME      | 4.99   | 3.74      |
| 26        | 32        | ARBA — VOULEZ-VOUS                            | 5.29   | 4.04      | 56        | 50        | CHAS AND DAVE — DON'T GIVE A MONKEY     | 5.29   | 4.04      |
| 27        | 31        | BLUE OYSTER CULT —                            | 5.29   | 4.04      | 57        | 55        | BUDDY HOLLY — 20 GOLDEN GREATS          | 5.29   | 4.04      |
| 28        | 27        | JURRY TULZ — WELCOME TO THE CRUISE            | 4.65   | 3.40      | 58        | 60        | LION OF THE MOUNTAINS — O.S.T.          | 6.99   | 5.24      |
| 29        | 29        | TURKEY ARMY — THE FIRST ALBUM                 | 5.00   | 3.75      | 59        | 58        | HOT CHOCOLATE — BOYING THROUGH          | 5.29   | 4.04      |
| 30        | 13        | JOHN TENCH — MONSIEUR                         | 5.00   | 3.75      | 60        | 53        | CARS — CANDY O                          | 5.00   | 3.75      |

Forthcoming Attractions
Johnnie Rocco Sharpe, Alan Parsons, Ricki Lee Jones, M. Y. Led Zeppelin, Eagles, Rose Royce, Talking Heads, Gary Numan, Martin Parker, Randy Newman, Sad Cafe, Bob Dylan, U.K., Cheap Trick, Sheryl Crow, Joan Armatrading, Who, The Police, The Jam, The Smiths, The Cure, The Pretenders, The Stranglers, The Verve, The Associates, The Chameleons, The Jesus and Mary Chain, The Wedding Present, The Lightning Seeds, The Jesus and Mary Chain, The Wedding Present, The Lightning Seeds, The Jesus and Mary Chain, The Wedding Present, The Lightning Seeds.

£1.25 to £2.50 OFF TOP 60

EXCEPT SOME TV ADVERTISED ALBUMS

137 CHARING CROSS ROAD WC2

TEL: 01-437 1713.

70 NORTH END CROYDON

TEL: 01-681 7107.

151 EDGWARE ROAD W2

TEL: 01-723 1883.

95 CLARENCE STREET KINGSTON

TEL: 01-546 6353.

100 KENSINGTON HIGH STREET W8

TEL: 01-937 0257.

219A FINCHLEY ROAD NW3

TEL: 01-624 2217.

12 TOTTENHAM COURT ROAD W1

TEL: 01-636 4631.

14 CHASE SIDE SOUTHGATE N14

TEL: 01-882 5566.

16 GOLDERS GREEN ROAD NW11

TEL: 01-455 1078.

1 CRANBOURN ST LEICESTER SQ WC2

TEL: 01-734 7660.

29 RIVERDALE SHOPPING CENTRE,

LEWISHAM SE14 TEL: 01-318 2297

36 KINGS ROAD CHELSEA SW3

TEL: 01-581 0877

L.A. PUNK

— FORWARD INTO '76

S DO YOU THOUGHT the West Coast of America was real laid-back, huh? California girls and surfin' USA?

You were right. But there are some who have thrown down their surfboards and suntan lotion and picked up guitars and KY gel instead. At last it seems the kids are uniting, fighting against the '60's previously undisputed musical dominance, and doing it 'their way'.

Or are they? . . .

A familiar figure winds herself, snakelike, around the mike stand, and gazes malevolently out of charcoal smouldering eyes, the cold white pallor of her face framed by tufty jet black hair, a brooding shadow shrieking and wailing at her audience — a distinctive Banshee wail.

This is Exene, and X — but you could be forgiven for mistaking them for Siouxsie and The Banshees at first glance.

The music is racing, thumping, dynamic punk, dominated by heavy bass and drums, to which the torn, pinned and zipped masses pogo aimlessly and vacantly. This is the modern world, this is the new sound, this is Los Angeles (1979) and there isn't a beachboy in sight.

So come take a walk with me down memory lane — or round Chinatown, downtown L.A. to be more exact — to the most popular and fiercely competitive punk clubs, Madame Wong's and the newer Hong Kong Cafe, situated directly opposite one another.

A bitter battle is being fought with legendary Chinese vengeance. Madame Wong can be seen peering from her club's colourful, decorative facade, counting her lost customers as they queue patiently outside the equally colourful and decorative, taunting spirals of the Cafe.

Just before the main band comes on she picks up the 'phone and calls the police. The next night the queue outside the Cafe is even longer, and the kids are being counted — fire regulations — and they have to produce ID if they want to drink, and when a minor scuffle breaks out the police are there all too quickly.

But the punters do not cross over to 'the other side'. Madame Wong has effectively cut off her proverbial nose to spite her face, by banning all bands that play the Cafe from her establishment.

The Chinese dragons outside Madam Wong's doors spit maliciously, while the Hong Kong Cafe's tankful of live lobsters in the foyer wave their claws in merry defiance, almost laughing at her stupidity.

Once inside the scene is the same as that of London in '76/'77, a collection of loud, exciting 'garage bands' many of whose members had never picked up an instrument before these new sounds called punk hit and inspired them to produce their own brand of non-commercial, unmanipulated musical ideals, ranging from appalling to proficient, interesting and exciting.

But it is not a new movement here. It is a shallow imitation of the British punk movement three years ago, which effectively destroys the whole concept of something new and different. These were the factors that gave the original British punks the chance to succeed, whatever they may have done with that chance afterwards.

West Coast USA has no chance. They have created a cheap fake, shiny on the outside, empty inside.

The punk contingent dress correctly. Their garb ranges from expensive Seditionaries style trash to uniforms of their own design. With a little thought they find they can construct their own ripped T-shirts, bondage trousers and polythene skirts to comply with the decreed decadent fashion.

A knot of matted, cropped or grease-spiked hair-dos in vivid technicolour clash with garishly painted blank faces as the punters assemble themselves in front of the stage for their ritualistic pogo.

THE BAGS are on stage, fronted by Alice on keyboards and vocals and bassist/vocalist Pat, a striking figure in leopard print with a hip-length jet black mane of hair.

The largest and most popular of the local fanzines, Slash, has described them as "a punk purist's dream come true", and the punters respond accordingly, leaping wildly into the air and crashing into one another.

■ Continues over

The Mau Maus

Exene of X

Fear

The Alleycats

Los Angeles ain't all coke spoons, Disneyland and digital recordings. Down in Chinatown a few dedicated ethnomusicologists are determinedly re-enacting the glories of a bygone music. DEANNE PEARSON swapped her pint of lager down the Hope & Anchor for a five-week reservation at a stage-front table in the Hong Kong Cafe. This is her tribute to The Great Los Angeles Punk Anomaly.

L.A. PUNK

Forward into page 8

But one young extremist goes too far, climbing onto a table in a moment of blind frenzy. The band stop playing, the club manager asks for more restraint, and the punk climbs off the table obediently and uncomplainingly. There is no glass or can throwing, no spitting, and when it becomes unbearably hot and sweaty the dance floor thins out as the punters take to the two drinks minimum tables. Underneath they're a fairly passive lot, but then there isn't much to inspire them.

The bands here, almost without exception, bear a striking resemblance to one or other of the British punk or new wave bands. And it is often not so much mere influence as pure imitation.

Their lack of imagination has only resulted in apathy amongst their followers. Terminal boredom. A sad fact.

Take X, obviously inspired by The Banshees although they emphatically deny this. Exene looks rather silly actually; she is too small and clumsy to take off Siouxsie, and the depth and range of her warblings are too weak to give her or her heroine any credit. The band are good, practised, noisy and energetic, but their material is unimaginative and predictable, which unfortunately limits the obviously professional guitar-playing of ex-Rockabilly and former Eddie Cochran associate Billy Zoom, the only experienced musician in the band when they formed in 1977.

The Controllers are another dynamic nostalgia band, reminiscent of early Clash and Damned — even down to the ritualistic drumkit-wrecking finale. Other interesting facts are that they are considered the first, original, LA punk band, and held strongly racist views until they recently acquired a new, black, drummer (female if that has anything to do with it) called Karla Mad Dog. Seen everywhere, in leather and chains, they are one of the mainstays of LA punk.

So, it would seem, are The Plugs, if their opening statement is anything to go by: "Remember, if you want to tear up anything go ahead!" Even so, they are less aggressive than The Controllers, and their music is more in the 999 style — direct, addictive drive and simple hooks which are fun for a while but soon get stale. They throw in a few '60s R&B favourites, still an obvious and common influence even in the new wave bands, and also attempt a reggae version of Mud's 'Dynamite', which fails dismally.

The Gears' crazed sounds and antics suggest The Damned too, even to the deliberate feedback caused by guitars stacked against amps at the end, but the opening chords from 'Career Opportunities' in one of their numbers and the Pete Shelley voice confuse me.

They have few ideas of their own, but a great sense of humour, laughing unashamedly with their audience at their mistakes. Band mixes with audience and audience mixes with band freely on and offstage during the set, and the band members swap instruments twice for the encores, creating wild confusion but great entertainment.

Another band in this category are Fear, another of LA's original punk bands who, according to Slash once again, "can spit burning charcoals and piss beer to put them out faster than you can say 1234". When I saw them they failed to demonstrate this.

To their credit they have no one obvious British punk influence. Their music has power, impetus and compulsion of its own, although the overall sound once again is familiar: speedy rock music with tinges of not overbearing HM, which at least gives the music an individual flavour.

BUT BACK to The Damned — they have a definite cult status here — and The Brainiacs, out of tune, out of time, careless, apathetic, and unfortunately lacking that empathy with the audience which The Gears have. Fairly monotonous throughout, brightened only by the guitarist's obvious Elvis Costello impersonation.

Joint first prize in the Costello clone stakes must go to The Spoilers' two guitarists' dual act though. They have those characteristic jerks and whines off to a T, even in such diverse numbers as 'Like A Rolling Stone' and 'Twist And Shout', both rearranged to give that 'new wave feel'.

It is ironic that this sort of thing is acceptable — or at least accepted — by the bands and their audience. Evidently LA is little more than a breeding ground for boredom.

Two bands far more akin to what is happening in Britain now are The Extremes and Overmann, both running along Human League lines.

The Extremes in particular create new, vibrant, thoughtful music using a combination of cello, saxophone, synthesizer, violin, guitar, bass and drums to produce a distinctly different, thoughtful sound that throbs with frustration and cries out for encouragement.

The Extremes' lead singer Michael. Pic: Melanie Nissen

The Alleycats. Pic: Melanie Nissen

They are considered "too image-conscious", "a pseudo art-rock band", by many in LA, but all it boils down to is that they have a little more imagination and awareness than the majority of bands here.

The B People are meeting with the same blank reaction: this is not punk treat with caution.

The B People produce an experimental, synthesized futuristic sound incorporating sax, which is still under the process of being channelled and arranged as they have only been in existence since April this year. A good band in the making, if they don't let their audience's general wariness deter them — as they well might unfortunately.

Other popular local bands to look out for, some recommended by Slash, are: The Flyboys; The Gears; the all-girl Go-Gos; Human Hands; The Mau Maus ("our best defence against the health fanaticism sweeping the land"); Nervous Gender; The Rotters ("naughty single"); The Screamers ("the darlings of every tabloid or daily that routinely decides to take a poke at the punk phenomenon"); U.X.A.; The Weiridos ("real veterans of the scene"); and best of all a KNOWN ACROSS THE ATLANTIC band, The Dickies.

FINALLY, there is one band who could successfully walk away from the West Coast and not bear its trademark of mundanity and staleness. The Alleycats successfully mix slow and fast numbers, all of which bounce out with insistence, incorporating clear, authoritative vocals from Randy Stodola (guitar) and Diane Chai (bass) — Randy's mellow tones taking the lead although Diane has the stronger, more distinctive voice, sharp, clear and unyielding. It doesn't make sense at first to have her in the background, but on reflection it gives the music more substance.

The Alleycats do have the sound and the aggressive stance to forge ahead, but no-one around here — bands, punters or record labels — seems to have any hope or ambition for the punk scene in general, thereby all contributing to its stagnation.

Billy Zoom of X makes a half-hearted effort to defend this attitude.

He says that of course the bands want to sign to a major record label, to tour and make a name and money, and he thinks many of them, X included of course, are good and original enough to do this, but they are just being realistic accepting external limitations.

"We're aware that we're at least a year behind England, as far as the music fashion is concerned, but here it is something new — yet we're still limited by other factors you may not have thought of."

"You need vast amounts of money to promote and tour in America because it's such a huge country — and major record labels, who are needed to provide that capital, just aren't prepared to take the financial risk. It's possible to tour England on a much smaller budget, and there is the added advantage of nationwide radio and press coverage for publicity and promotional purposes."

I point out that the John Peel Show is the only radio show that gives new, unsigned bands fair airplay, for just two hours, four evenings a week.

"Yes," Billy says, "but in LA, out of the hundreds of radio stations here, we only have one, KRQQ, who do the same — and they only broadcast in this area, so other towns and states never get to hear of us."

England also has three major national rock weeklies — which we can get, at maybe five or six times the price three or four weeks late — and here all we have nationally is Rolling Stone, a fortnightly that doesn't really cover new music and new bands anyway.

LA does have Slash magazine of course, which gives local bands constant, lavish publicity. It has been known to carry three separate reviews plus an interview with editor Claude Bessy's favourite band X in one issue. It also gives readers the latest gossip, record and gig news, as well as advising how to act and dress. I quote from the second issue, June 1977:

"Stand and face yourself in the mirror... look vicious, mean, uncaring... remember, it's your STANCE that's all important... dig up some pegged pants and some cruel looking shoes (kats, pointy toes — kittens, spike heels) then rape the shit out of the ugliest shirt you've got (tape it, tear it, adorn it with anything that's offensive). Don't forget your hair (see Screamers interview for tips). Myself, I prefer a nice white cotton shirt with a narrow tie (I know it sounds like the '50s, but what's a poor boy to do?). If you've a little money to spend, move quickly to Grannys on Sunset — they've got all the stuff from Matcom's shop Seditionaries in London... insane clothing..."

Worst of all, Slash perpetuates that myth anarchy. Claude's total belief, enthusiasm and involvement in what they are doing is genuine though. He himself frequently makes the latest news.

Any wild parties, brawls or police raids and he is in the thick of it, a distinctive personage, at a guess in his mid-30s, with two locks of red dye in his hair and an unmistakable Inspector Clouseau accent.

He was a dishwasher before punk came along and "totally immersed me in the most exciting sounds I'd ever heard," he says. He has taken to it like a duck to water. At a party for The Damned on their recent American tour, Rat Scabies, for reasons unexplained (does he need a reason?) dumped Claude in a handy swimming pool, successfully ruining an expensive watch and a new leather jacket. All part of the fun though, eh Claude?

THERE ARE a number of small record labels handling new wave bands in LA, but they too are under considerable financial pressure, and face much the same problems as the bands. Dangerhouse, who have brought out records by The Bags, X, and The Alleycats, and Bomp Records, are probably the largest and better known.

Greg Shaw, from Bomp, is totally disillusioned with the West Coast punk scene. Associated with such names as The Flamin' Groovies, Devo and Iggy Pop in their early days, Bomp now deals mainly with "new wave rock bands" — commercial bands such as The Screamers, The Zippers and 20/20.

"Punk was a totally English phenomenon," he says, "and the kids here are just kidding themselves that they're a part of it, while all the time they're falling further and further behind. A year ago they were a year behind England, now they're two years behind."

"The whole thing started off as pure imitation — that goes for the bands and the punters alike — and at first there was a lot of enthusiasm, but it reached a peak in '77 and stagnated into pure boredom. The kids on the whole are too lazy and unimaginative to take it any further, and consequently no pressure is created because there are no stars, no big success stories, nothing to compete with."

Yet another vicious circle. It's difficult to decide whether to admire the kids out here for trying to drag themselves out of their sun-kissed, sleepy existence, donning leather like mad dogs and Englishmen in the heat of the midday sun and sweating it out, or to criticise them for not thinking of more suitable attire and their own methods of attack — or just to feel sorry for them for imagining that they could fight and conquer that heat in the first place.

THE SECRET'S OUT

Would you wear another drummer's Y-fronts?

It depends how well you know her. Because they're personal: Like your Premier outfit, that you build up from the world's greatest range of options To suit just you. Perfect support. It's what your Premier outfit gives to your talent.

With Premier, your outfit is your outfit.

The Premier Drum Co Ltd Blou Road Wotton Leicester LE8 2DF England

KEVIN COYNE AND DAGMAR KRAUSE = BABBLE
(songs for lonely lovers)

AT THE OVAL HOUSE
KENNINGTON OVAL LONDON SE11
NIGHTLY AT 7.30 PM 22 TO 25 AUGUST

TICKETS: £2.00 from the BOX OFFICE 01 735 2786

Peter Tosh

His new single

BUK-IN-HAMM PALACE

RSR 104

From the album

MUSIC MAN

CUN 39110

Peter Tosh
MUSIC MAN

Remix version available on 12 inch
12Y RSR 104

Both available
in picture bags

NEW ALBUM OUT NOW

Ghostown

THE
RADIATORS

ON CHISWICK RECORDS

Chiswick

Marketed by EMI Records (UK) Limited Repertoire Division

THRILLS

TAKES A HOLIDAY

Shields and clubs and rock and roll

WITH PUNK and its descendants now more or less absorbed into the UK mainstream, a dispatch from the Brussels branch of Rock Against Racism comes as a rude reminder of the antics of police and councillors during the Pistols' 'Anarchy' tour. In fact, if half of John Opposition's surprisingly temperate account is true, recent events across the Channel threaten to reduce that notorious fiasco to storm-in-a-teaspoon status.

Following much dope-smoking during two June free concerts at Brussels' open-air Theatre de Verdule — asking for it with a name like that, surely? — Mayor Van Halteren slapped an indefinite ban on all outdoor rock gigs, and many others besides. Opposition, English bassist with Belgian nouvelle vague-ers Contingent, reckons this was merely a convenient excuse.

Police harassment of the few 'rock cafes' where bands can play has, he claims, long been the norm. Also, with a high proportion of the Brussels population apparently middle-aged or older, the ban was a likely vote-catcher for Van Halteren's (conservative) party.

"We would have no more. For Friday 3rd August we organised a free, totally illegal open air gig in one of the main squares in Brussels, and for Saturday 4th August RAR Brussels organised a festival with two Harlow bands, Newtown Neurotics and Urban Decay, plus Contingent, Spermicide and Phallus Band (an offshoot of Big Balls?) from Brussels."

On the Friday, some local rock fans got up on the podium at the Place de la Monnaie and began bashing away, using grotty old equipment plugged into the socket of an electric clock removed the night before. The low quality gear was used in anticipation of Townshendian auto-destruction by the gendarmes. Though this failed to occur, the presence of the latter, totting shields and clubs, eventually sparked off a riot.

According to Opposition: "A lot of the serious violence was the work of politically motivated people — whether they like RAR I don't know, but we were there to play and protest and they turned up to smash us..."

An hour after the doors opened for Saturday's (legal) concert, approximately 150 riot police surrounded the Vieille Halle de Bies, blocked the main doors and nailed up the emergency (and sole other) exit. Pro-RAR journalist Daniel de Brucker, from Brussels' French-speaking evening paper, tried to reason with them and was promptly arrested — by the Intelligence Service, not the regulars.

With half the sound system and several musicians behind police lines, the two remaining Neurotics drummer and began playing "In an atmosphere I have never experienced before and I hope never will again."

Then Opposition's girlfriend penetrated the lines, to be told by police that they were there to arrest those responsible for Friday's riot, by means of identity checks when people left. Meanwhile, having discovered de Brucker's status, the boys at the station panicked and allowed him to telephone the press and radio.

"Even they had to agree it was all rather rough and soon after a leading member of Brussels' ruling elite contacted the Chief of Police and told him to release all those arrested for no reason and take the riot police away. The gig carried on: people turned up in droves, overcoming their fear and supporting our endeavours."

The deputy mayor, M. Brouhon, put Friday's events down to "professional agitators", while a police spokesman blamed "des jeunes punks anglais". Total English turn-out? Eight musicians and three friends.

"They let us play our gig, but rock bands are harassed (Contingent's lead singer was called to the police station today just for being in an aware rock band) and if you look different — identity card out, down the nick. Please tell the English public that the right they take for granted to enjoy their music is under serious threat here, indeed is being destroyed."

If rock music thrives on repression, I think we can look forward to some great Belgian bands.

HARRY GEORGE

THRILLS

"No chance, Philippe — the guest list's this long." Frog cops get tenked up.

Chrissie who?

TESTY, petulant rock starlette Chrissie Hynde was to be found a little out of order at Todd Rundgren's post-Knebworth bash.

With tequila flowing like water and Todd in exceptionally jovial spirits, the ultra-chic dancefloor activities were suspended for a spell of light entertainment. This featured a portly, frilly-shirted wideboy magician, who set about returning the discrete stashes of wristwatches and wallets that he'd previously filched from various unsuspecting liggers.

Gasps of astonishment and much mirth ensued — from all except Hynde, who wasn't slow in voicing her opinion that she found dancing infinitely preferable to cheap displays of comic relief.

A sharply-dressed person never within earshot was just as quick to liken Ms Hynde to certain female quadrupeds of the canine variety.

In a flash the air was thick with vile and scabrous oaths, followed swiftly by quantities of expensive booze. A Hynde-assisted glassful showered the ungracious commentator, a whisky sour answered back with deadly accuracy. Fists were bared — to the sound of massed nervous shrieks — The Magician took a lightning break, and a brace of swarthy, bearded bouncers leapt in to separate the rival parties.

Chrissie Hynde: "Who, me?" Pic: Pennie Smith

Much conjecture followed as to which offender ought to vacate the premises. "Do frowder first glaze?" enquired the musclemen. "Whose cleaning bills were the most expensive?" queried the sodden Hynde with gusto.

It was publicly voiced that the Hynde contingent should wave the club farewell, whereupon Chrissie slumped into a tearful heap in the corner and stoutly refused to shift.

Later she was clocked scouring the area for her Travolta-suited assailant in a stupefied attempt to even the score.

"One chart single and she reckons she rules the roost," was the verdict much favoured by the shaken throng.

Laugh? I almost shat.

DAVID NIXON

THRILLS

Debbie who?

"AND THEY'RE off. It's Debbie Harry on the inside for the lead, Chris Stein behind by three inches, and Frank the Freak third.

Coming round the turn it's Destri trailing by a half, Chris and Debby are neck and neck...

It was a day at the races with Blondie. The Coca Cola company has gone into the business of bottling pop music, sponsoring a series of Sunday concerts at New York's Belmont Racetrack.

They're held on a field adjacent to the track, and fans pay the track admission price of $2.00, a bargain for a concert by a major group. Shows begin after the last race.

The track is enormous, and lies in the northern-most reaches of the borough of Queens. Today some 52,000 people have filed through the turnstiles and it's still far from full.

Inside the grandstand mobs of middle-aged men with cigars and score-cards wander around checking the boards for the latest odds.

Outside on the field it's a different world. Racing officials see the concerts as a way of introducing the "sport of kings" to a new generation. But in practice racing and rock fans form separate camps and do their best to ignore each other.

Most of the 16,000 who turned up to see Blondie plunked themselves in front of the stage in mid-afternoon, and never even saw a horse.

"Who, me?" No, not you — Debbie bloody Harry.

Instead they lounged in fold-up chairs, played frisbee, drank sodas and beers and passed pipes.

The Blondie show was the only even slightly New Waveish offering in a series concentrating on such mainstream stalwarts as The Beach Boys and Helen Reddy, but the fans seemed little different from those who would attend any of the other shows.

Many said they came every week, regardless of who was playing. But there was a radical fringe decked in suburban haute-punk gear.

Later, when we've wormed our way up in front of the stage, the two punkettes are up there as well.

Support band Rockpile

come on promptly at six pm leading off with 'The Race Is On'. "I won 140 dollars today," Nick Lowe tells the audience, straight-faced. "It just goes to show that the rich get richer and the poor get poorer." Jake Riviera could be observed cracking up in the wings.

Back at the grandstand many racing regulars seemed disgruntled at the rock invasion.

"Damn kids just clog up the works," growled one older gent, waiting in a hopelessly long queue for a beer.

Don't know how Blondie did. But in the ninth race, a horse named Debutante came in third and paid $4.40 to show.

RICHARD GRABEL

THRILLS

PENETRATION

COME INTO THE OPEN

COME INTO THE OPEN · New Single · OUT NOW ON Virgin VS 268

Meanwhile — back in the bedroom

LIVERPOOL — that place again?

"The press thought it was just a load of bands with wacky titles."

Thus spoke Michael Finkler, guitarist with The Teardrop Explodes, expounding on the recent wave-making Mersey-side.

Too true it is a load of bands with wacky handles — a few of them shakey, some of them courageous, all of them intriguing and most of them interconnected.

Why it almost sounds incestuous.

Singer Julian Cope: "It's incestuous in that everyone knows everyone else. There's like two different things; there's the Wirral clique across the water — which is where Orchestral Manoeuvres and Dalek I come from — and our side is us, the Bunnymen and The Glass Torpedos. There's also Pink Military, but no-one takes them seriously."

These worthies, keyboardman Dave Ballie explains, are just the 'gigging' bands. Prior to them you get the 'garage' bands, and prior to them the 'bedroom' bands. It seems that between bedrooms, gigs and garages, almost all Scouse musicians have at some time joined forces. The exchange rate of ideas and band members has never been less than rapid.

Dave again: "There wasn't a lot of influence in the music, but a lot of influence on a business level. People were saying 'this is how you go about getting into a record company, this is how you go about recording, this is how you go about making a single or getting gigs in London' or whatever. And that's how a lot of people came together, but nobody said 'I like their style of music so we'll start going in that direction.'"

It wasn't, as widely believed, the arrival of the local Zoo label that proved a catalyst on the Liverpool front. There have been various small-scale outlets, and now that the major labels are starting to wave sizeable advances on the skyline, bands like Dalek I have been signed to hefty contracts along with the (almost) inevitable manipulations involved.

For someone who's 'officially' left the band, Dave is strangely confident about their views on compromise.

"I don't think we're as able to be manipulated as Dalek I. The point is you don't do anything positive against manipulation, you just do negative things. Instead of saying 'we're going to get manipulated so we'll go out and do it ourselves', you say 'We're going to get manipulated, so we don't do anything'. I mean everything this group have ever done, they've been forced to do — and that's a fact."

The Teardrop came into being in June last year. A Bunnymen was in the vocal spotlight, and their particular wacky title was derived from a D.C. comic.

Explains Julian: "All our favourite bands seemed to be named after something literary — The Fall, Pere Ubu, Steely Dan, Soft Machine — it was always

Teardrops explode all over the park. Pic: Chris Horler

Burroughs or something. It's a pretty colourful name, but we hate it now!"

By November they'd progressed to the 'gigging' status with a line-up comprising Julian, Dave, Michael and Gary Dwyer (the only true native Liverpoolian) on drums. Despite a shrill keyboards sound, a Talking Heads-style mixed-high bass, and a leaning towards early Doors slow-rolling rhythms, it's still no surprise that The Teardrop consider themselves a soul-based band.

Michael explains: "My influences lean more towards a pop approach, and Julian's more into an experimental approach, but they meet in certain places and that's where the music gets written. We both love stuff like Beelheart and '60s music. I must admit I like a lot of funk, soul/disco and Motown, and I love early psychedelic stuff like Soft Machine, Doors and Love."

They started rehearsing beneath the office of one Bill Drummond (ex-Big In Japan and a co-founder of the Zoo label) and so impressed was Drummond by the stirrings in his basement that he recorded and released The Teardrop's first single 'Sleeping Gas'.

It was received as part of the very movement it had set out to oppose — Cold Wave.

"When we started," says Julian, "there were all these 'bleep bleep' bands going around and we were a reaction to them. There were bands that I didn't like, like Throbbing Gristle, who did at least believe in what they were doing. But all the papers were going on about 'the new musik' with a 'k' and I hated all this I-have-no-heart, and 'metal', and all this crap that people like Siouxsie were coming out with. I mean who's interested in metal, it's just not on, is it?"

"You don't write songs about no emotions or anything, because they're the most important things."

Michael continues: "I know it's a bit of a crass thing to say but — basically — rock music, or whatever, shouldn't be cold. It should be warm."

Evidently the warmth of their lyrics was none too immediate, mainly as they tend to be totally incomprehensible. Not that their author is overly concerned, he can't explain some of them himself.

As Julian puts it: "A lot of the time we act in a stupidly obscure way, that's the way we act as people in any case."

"Parts of 'Sleeping Gas' are for other people to interpret. It's about a relationship that's got to a certain point, and it's just like a habit. The chorus line goes 'You can watch Rafferty turn into a serial', as Rafferty went out first as a pilot T.V. show, to see if people would like it — and then it became a serial. So it's just about allowing things to go on without you doing anything about them."

"Basically, people can make whatever they want of our songs." "That is," adds Michael, "if they've got to make anything of them."

MARK ELLEN

THRILLS

NUTTY NEW SINGLE FROM

MADNESS

'THE PRINCE'

CHS
TT3

OUT NOW ON

2
TONE
RECORDS

MARKETED BY CHRYSLIS RECORDS

"WHY ISN'T NICK GILDER BIG IN BRITAIN YET?"

SANDY ROBERTSON
SOUNDS

He's what Twilley and Petty outa be.
'Electric Love' is the alternative version of 'Metro Jets' another hit awaiting release.
It's akin to lush, more romantic, aching Cheap Trick"
Sandy Robertson, Sounds.

"Frequency is the album Nick Gilder has been working towards for the past two years. The seeds were planted on his debut LP, 'You Know Who You Are', and blossomed encouragingly on 'City Nights' the follow-up which spawned the classic single
'Hot Child In The City'.
Gilder has yet to make an impact in Britain. We even ignored 'Hot Child In The City'. I don't think we can afford to let this one slip past."

Harry Doherty, Melody Maker.

TUNE IN TO NICK GILDERS' FREQUENCY.

NICK GILDER, 'FREQUENCY', CHR 1219. Chrysalis INCLUDES THE SINGLE (YOU REALLY) ROCK ME

ARCHIVE FUN

COO-WEE, 'scuse me, ahem. Oll YOU! Yeah, you with the rat on a lead. Don't look away mate, you're not bloody famous yet. This is the Swingin' Sixties innit? Right, I suppose that explains those flairs and the buckled slip-ons. Eye-tie are they? Thought as much.

Dunno bout that mutt though. Bit affected that. Pedigree eh? Oh fab gear baby. let's all walk around the backside of Soho sportin' the latest hand made in Chelsea jackets with the button down Ben lookin' like an extra in 'The Servant' or one of the boys in Lord Kitchener's Valet and hope some la-di-da woofers with a Nikon and an account at Mr Fish will spot us. Ho yus, wiv any luck I daresay we'll get our picture in a book like Young London — Permissive Paradise. Look out, there's David 'Old' Bailey, Lord Snowden and Frank Habicht. Wot a bleedin' coincidence.

Haw haw, cough, splutter. Still can't get over that conk or that dog though, filthy things shitting all over the public highways and never mind 'I'm Backin' Britain' either sunshine. First chance you get it's off to the States innit. Stuck up git. Call yourself Honest etc.

Mods fight

Benn's vote plans

So who says Mods aren't reactionary? Spotted in The Sun by Jon Smele of Bristol.

10. The manager of a record department decided to promote the sale of three L.P. records by the groups the 'Airs', the 'Beats' and the 'Chords'. He stocked his department with 400 'Airs' records, 900 'Beats' records and 600 'Chords' records. He bought the 'Airs' records at £1.68 each and sold them at a profit of 25% on the cost price. He bought the 'Beats' records at £1.50 each and sold them at a profit of 32% on the cost price. Unfortunately the 'Chords' records proved to be unpopular and he had to sell them at £2.92 each, losing 1/5% on the cost price. Eventually he sold all the records. Calculate:
(a) the cost price of a 'Chords' record,
(b) the total gain he made on the sale of all the records,
(c) the percentage profit on the whole sale, giving your answer correct to two places of decimals. (15 marks)

The London Board of G.C.E. examiners obviously getting 'hip to the trip.' Sent in by Mod Lang reader, Andy.

EVERYTHING THE GOONS THINK ABOUT BARCLAYS IS NOW ON RECORD.

We know how much you've enjoyed 'The Goons' radio commercials for Barclays Bank.

We also know how little you've been able to hear each of them. So we've brought out a special record featuring all eleven. It's yours for the price of an envelope and stamp.† Which is a very silly price for a very silly record. † While stocks last.

BARCLAYS

Please send me my free copy of your radio commercials disc featuring 'The Goons'.
I am leaving school and planning to start work/college.
I am already at work/college.
Delete as applicable and as well as the record, we'll send you a useful booklet about banking with Barclays.
NAME Mr/Ms/Miss _____
ADDRESS _____
Post to John Lawson, Barclays Bank Ltd.,
Juxon House, 94 St Paul's Churchyard,
London EC4A 6th Floor.
Please allow 21 days for delivery.

Mythic Legend Breaks Cover

Jim and Patti test the air in their mutual abyss.

Pic: Chester Simpson.

MOVE OVER Lou. You to Patti. And if all that stuff about communicating with god is true, you can tell Jim Morrison the news. There's a new kid in town. Goes by the name of Jim Carroll. And he's already pushing the role of poet as rock and roller in another direction.

They used to introduce Carroll as "America's best young poet." And for good reason. Carroll had barely turned 22 when his third book of poetry, "Living at the Movies," was nominated for a Pulitzer. Prize Best writer Jack Kerouac wrote of him, "At 13 years of age, Carroll writes better prose than 89 per cent of the novelists working today." Commented William Burroughs, "He must be a born writer."

Now, Carroll, 28, leads a killer rock and roll band. Already, those who have heard him perform at a handful of rare performances at the Mabuhay Gardens, the C.B.G.'s of San Francisco, are throwing around terms like "legendary" and "mythic."

The ex-New Yorker is sitting in a dark booth within a slick San Francisco cafe, Enrico's. Wearing black jeans, sneakers and a grey V-neck sweater, Carroll looks more like a poet, a beat poet, than the future of rock and roll. Of course Jim Carroll makes no such claims. That's left to the press and his rabid Bay Area following.

Carroll is lighting one cigarette after another. His light brown hair is cut fairly short. His face is gaunt and pale.

"What a poet is about is changing the fucking world!" he says intently. His long, bony fingers pick at a package of smokes. "Or at least going for it, taking a risk. But the poetry scene has come to the point where all the poets just write to impress other poets. I realised that's not what a poet is about."

Carroll thinks rock and roll is a better medium for reaching a larger and younger audience. Other people agree with him. Rolling Stones Records has signed Carroll to a five-year contract. Keith Richards will probably produce. But Lou Reed, Bryan Ferry and even Jon Landau are interested. "These things all sound mind boggling," admits Carroll.

In performance, Carroll paces the stage as if it were the rear of some Bohemian coffee house. While his band creates a tense groove, Carroll punches at you with his verse, like a boxer who knows that sooner or later, if he can just keep up the onslaught, he'll score a knockout. You have to listen to Jim Carroll. He gives you no choice.

Carroll talks/sings like a melodic Lou Reed. Sometimes his phrasing recalls Mick Jagger. More often, it brings to mind the late Jim Morrison. Carroll and his band — Terrel Win and Brian Linsley on dual lead/rhythm guitars, bassist Stevie Linsley and drummer Wayne Woods — come out of the pre-punk tradition of serious, skilled players who've got the chops and the manic energy.

Carroll spits out his tough, but literary songs like "Wicked Gravity," "Tension" and "The Rain," over an amphetamine rush of blazing electric guitars. It's dark, moody rock and roll at times reminiscent of the early Rolling Stones and the Velvet Underground.

Carroll's songs are explorations of the spiritual, the sexual and the deadly. In "Tension," Carroll comments on idolatry. "They mail down the golden calf/they play the gold on my phonograph." In "Catholic Boy," he sings, "I was a catholic boy: I was redeemed through pain and not through joy."

Born in New York City, Jim Carroll comes out of a lower class, Irish-Catholic background. He spent much of his youth hanging out on the street. Carroll had sampled heroin by the time he was 13. As he wrote in his book, "The Basketball Diaries," an autobiographical novel that documents his early teens, "The funny part is that I thought heroin was NON-addictive and marijuana was addictive."

Actually, it wasn't funny. At 16, Carroll was a junky. Carroll finally kicked his drug habit in 1973 and moved to California. "I was sick of waiting for the man at all times of the night," he says bitterly. "Always running on their time. I had to break that jugular contact, get away from that environment."

"You know there's nothing hip about falling that low," continues Carroll. "It's only heroic if you take into account a resurrection from sinking into that pit. Because then you have a chance to take life again."

And what does Jim Carroll hope to accomplish in rock and roll? "I want to get rid of that punk negativity. I'm sick of the background music for the apocalypse. It's time for a sense of rage, time to crawl back up."

"I mean you're born into a fucking abyss and you're going to pass into it and while you're breathing the air, you might as well try to go for it. Make something happen."

MICHAEL GOLDBERG

THIRDS

They're one of the most technically proficient bands in the world. They give the audience hard sums to do in between songs.

EDINBURGH ROCK FESTIVAL

SAT. SEPT. 1st

VAN MORRISON

+

THE TALKING HEADS

AND FROM THE U.S.A. - THE ONLY BRITISH GIG BY...

THE UNDERTONES

PLUS

SQUEET

STEEL PULSE

THE CHIEFTAINS

WITH GUESTS FROM IRELAND - MUSIC TO CRAWL

+ THE REST OF THE FEST

August 17th — THE RUTS £2.00
+ LINTON KWESI JOHNSON
CLOUDS

August 20th — JOE JACKSON £2.00
TIFFANYS

August 27th — MOD BALL £1.60
TIFFANYS

September 3rd — REVILLOS £2.00
TIFFANYS

September 7th — SKIDS
ODEON

(3 00 2 60 2 00)

THE BIG DAY OUT

THE ROYAL HIGHLAND

SHOWGROUND, INGLISTON

is situated 1 mile from Edinburgh, 35 miles from Glasgow on the M8, adjacent to Edinburgh Airport. Special bus services from Edinburgh, St. Andrews bus station. N.C.P. parking. Restaurants, bars and all facilities in the park. Many extra attractions. Open 12 noon, finish 11 pm approx.

TICKETS now on sale £6 (inc VAT) in advance. £8.75 on the day, a small surcharge may be added at some outlets, children under 10 accompanied by adults, FREE.

BY MAIL, from The Edinburgh Rock Festival, Box Office, Box 103, Head Post Office, Edinburgh 1 (s.e. and postal orders only, crossed and payable to 'Regular Music Festivals') or from 'The Edinburgh Festival Fringe Box Office, 170 High St. Edinburgh, (SAE and cheques or postal orders, crossed and payable to 'The Festival Fringe Society').

AT BOX-OFFICES

EDINBURGH: Fringe Box Office, High Street, and Bruce's LONDON: Ticket Machine, Virgin Megastore, Oxford Street; London Theatre Bookings GLASGOW: The Apollo Centre, BELFAST: Harrison's DUBLIN: Pat Egans CORK: Pat Egans NEWCASTLE: Virgin Superstore, CARLISLE: Pink Panther ABERDEEN: Other Record Shop INVERNESS: Other Record Shop and all branches of Bruce's Records in EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, DUNDEE, KIRKCALDY, FALKIRK.

Festival information 031-226 3645

Spider and Mr Bentley (?!); Be Warned!

Hey you! Don't watch that. Watch this! This is the heavy heavy monster sound! The nuttiest sound around! So if you come in off the street, and you're beginning to feel the heat, you better start to move your feet to the rockiest rock steady beat! This is the nutty sound!!!!

THESE words are not mine. They belong to Chaz Smash, the unofficial seventh member of the North London band Madness.

Those of you lucky enough to have taken a trip to see Madness will recognise Chaz as the pork-pie hatted one who introduces the group and spends a large portion of their set dancing in a most berserk fashion by the side of the stage. He doesn't sing or play an instrument; he simply contributes to the general air of dizzy lunacy at Madness gigs and, basically, sums the whole thing up.

For, as a pure fun band, Madness take some beating, something that is largely down to what saxophonist Lee Thompson has christened 'the nutty sound'.

As Lee himself explains: "It's a sort of happy fairground sound with jokey lyrics. Almost like Steptoe and Son music! It's something that we haven't really got as yet."

"The only thing that's really nutty about us is our act and Chaz Smash."

"But the sound is not quite there yet. We ain't quite sure of ourselves at the moment. When we've done a few more gigs we'll be a bit closer."

Madness — vocalist Suggs, rhythm guitarist Chris Forman, bassist Mark Bedford, drummer Woods, organist Mike Berson plus Lee on sax — began life two years ago with a slightly different line-up and a different name — the Invaders.

From playing cover versions of whatever records happened to be brought along to rehearsals that week, they developed a full and distinctive sound, rooted in ska and R and B but with plenty of unhinged edges such as Lee's yakety sax fanaticism and Suggs' wide-boy charm.

"I'd like to think that we're influenced by other people," elaborates Chris. "We're influenced by ska, we like a lot of Motown stuff and Kilburn and the High Roads."

"But I'd rather have our own sound than something that someone else has already got. One critic called us a rude boy ska band, but we don't really want to be categorised like that."

Madness, to their credit, are all too aware of the dangers that the current resurgence of interest in bluebeat and ska could be seen as no more than a passing fad.

"That's the one thing that worries us," grins Suggs. "We could get labelled as just another ska revival band and get our own ten minutes of fame like that."

"At the moment, it doesn't matter what sort of music you play. You're in vogue for ten minutes and then that's it."

"In the last month or so we've got as much publicity as some bands who have been slogging around for years. It makes you wonder if you'll be back down there again next week."

"That's one of the reasons," chips in Woods, "that we don't want to be labelled as a rude boy ska band. We want to get across to as many people as possible so that they can all come along and have a good time."

Madness, l-r: Woods, Chris Forman, Lee Thompson, Mark Bedford, Suggs, Mike Berson.

Pic: Kerston Rodgers.

This Is The Nutty Sound!

One of the reasons for the sudden interest in the band has been the 2-Tone connection. Madness readily acknowledge that they have received invaluable assistance from their kindred spirits The Specials; a few prestigious gigs with the band who are possibly the hottest live act in the country right now as well as a single on the Specials' own 2-Tone label.

But now, they will go their own way. With two major record labels already showing a keen interest, they want the chance to stand on their own twelve feet.

They want to work their way closer to the perfection of their sound and bring in a few more of their stage gimmicks, without getting too theatrical. Raffles, indoor smoke bombs — if Lee can get hold of any these days — and chipmunks dangling on elastic from the ceiling are all possibilities, but don't dismiss this group as one big joke.

As Mike concludes: "When you mess around, you've got to do it seriously or it's not worth it. Like when Chaz is dancing, he's being funny, but he's really serious about what he's doing."

"He's not laughing about it. And we're all playing our instruments properly all the time. We still rehearse three nights a week!"

Lee asked me to finish the interview with the following, somewhat obscure, warning.

"Spider and Mr Bentley told me five years ago that they were going to get things organised and get back to the old sound. But since then, all they've put out has been a disco album and two singles."

"If they don't buck up, me and the boys are going to take over." This band has a bee in its bonnet. And when their day comes, you can bet it is going to last longer than ten minutes.

ADRIAN THRILLS
THRILLS

Our Cult figures: £4.44*

That's the price at which Boots are selling Blue Oyster Cult's brand new album, Mirrors. 85p less than the rec. retail price of £5.29. And we've also cut 35p off the price of the tape — rec. retail price £5.49. Boots offer price £5.14*.

So if you're into American rock, and Blue Oyster Cult in particular, now's your chance to buy them at an attractive price — at Boots.

We welcome Access, Barclaycard and Trustcard.

*Offers available until at least September 22nd From Boots Record Departments, subject to stock availability.

Make the most of your Boots.

ARE YOU READY FOR THE BOUFFANT BOP?

THOSE OF you who are not completely out to lunch will be well aware by now that B-52s ain't a flight of strategic heavy bombers, nor a course of multi-vitamin shots, or even a realm of social security forms.

It's a term for a particular grosso-bizarro American hairdo and, more recently, the name adopted by that nation's latest Titans of Teenoid Trash.

So! In the wake of The B-52's visit to promote both themselves, their highly praised debut Island Records album and the re-make of their celebrated 'Rock Lobster' song, we here at New Musical Express invite you to contribute to the aesthetics of beauty parlour chic by studying our pictorial parade of bouffant boppers, lacquered ladies, pompadoured princesses, coiffured cuties and backcombed boilers, and picking out Kate and Cindy — the two female members of The B-52s.

And what's in it for you? Well... the first all-correct entry will receive a life-size replica of a rock lobster (do with it what you will 'cept cook it), a copy of The B-52s' debut Island album (complete with limited edition copy of the original 'Rock Lobster' single), a monogrammed B-52s' slim-jim tie plus a B-52s' button.

The next four runners-up each receive a copy of The B-52s' album (including limited edition single), a monogrammed tie plus button.

The next 20 runners-up will cop the album (with limited edition single) plus the snappy B-52s' logo button. So get to it! All you gotta do is choose which dames you reckon are B-52s and match the letter with the name in the box on the right.

May the best bouffant-spotter win!

This competition is open to all readers resident in the UK, Eire, Isle Of Man and the Channel Islands, except employees (and their families) of IPC Magazines Ltd., the printers of New Musical Express and the staff of Island Records. The Editor's decision is final and the results will be published in a future issue of NME.

Incidentally, if any smartass reckons he or she can name six or more of the ten girls pictured, send in your list SEPARATELY to Bouffant! The Boro, NME, 5-7 Carnaby Street, London W1. Most right answer cops a can of hair lacquer and some vintage vinyl from the Bouffant Queen Brenda Lee.

THRILLS

NME BEAUTY'S ONLY SKIN DEEP COMPETITION

55 Ewer Street, London SE99 6YP.

KATE . . . . CINDY . . . .

My lifelong ambition has been to wear my hair like The B52s because . . . . .

Name . . . . .

Address . . . . .

Closing date: September 1, 1979

The Lone Groover

Benyon

"If you can sit still when this album hits your turntable you'd better check to see you're still alive"

AL GREEN
'THE BELLE ALBUM'
HLP 6004

After six previous U.K. hit singles including: "Tired Of Being Alone" & "Let's Stay Together" this album celebrates a new Al Green, now writing, producing and playing lead guitar to enhance that distinctive and spectacular voice.

APPEARING AT

THE
Venue

14th-19th AUGUST

buzzcocks

vocals
HOWARD DEVOTO

spiral scratch

OUT NOW

NEW HORMONES product

ORG-1

MENTAL

It was raining when we arrived, and a good deal colder than London.

"This is great for Aberdeen," said the typically taciturn cab driver. He smiles when Kozmo Vinyl tipped him. Which is more than poor Koz could manage. He had a rotten abscess in his mouth which made him look and sound like a young Don Corleone with only half the required wedge of cotton wool in his gob.

Koz says it feels like Motorhead are playing in his mouth. Quite appropriate, really, for the Granite City. Aberdeen is well north, but no passports are exchanged. It has two pubs to every church and a couple of Chinese carry-outs. The large, solid grey-stone buildings lend it an austere beauty and there are intriguing steps, alleyways and side streets all over the shop. One of them is called Diamond Place. Ian Dury and The Blockheads should feel at home. Though — because of the myriad dialects and local press misprints they've encountered in Europe and Britain during their three month tour — they've now dubbed themselves Iron Brewery and The Bollockheads.

Just as well. On this Saturday afternoon in Aberdeen, police cars are cruising the busy shopping precincts, checking on chucking-out time (not all of the pubs stay open from eleven to eleven). Most of the shop window displays feature wallpaper or saucy lingerie. All kinds of do-it-yourself. Scotland, I decide, is great. We shouldn't annex it just yet. And never mind the pubs, the water is so soft it seems to possess a tactile smoothness, like touching silk. It's safe to drink, too.

This evening, The Bollockheads are playing the Capitol Theatre. Past attractions this year have been Marty Robbins, Larry Grayson, The Three Degrees and Frankie Vaughan. Coming are his entire midriff (obviously an Elvis reject circa Las Vegas), resembling a faggoty beetle's armour. A truly horrible pair of black plastic wraparound spex adds to the illusion.

There's something diffident and aloof about his stage presence — even when he's imperiously shaking marmalades during 'Mischief'. And especially during 'Billericaik Dickie' and 'Sweet Gene', in which there are no sax parts. He stands absolutely still, his hands held behind his back, staring at the boards. He eerily resembles a Vulcan relative of Mr Spock's and it's particularly disturbing an image considering the maelstrom on stage behind him and the audience freneticism in front.

"That was Ian's idea," he says, a talkative and approachable man off stage. "I sat down during those numbers in Amsterdam and almost fell asleep. Ian said 'You might as well just stand there — it'll be really heavy'."

"And I enjoy that. I try and get into the songs' characters. Sometimes my mind wanders but other times I look at my feet and think of myself as Gene Vincent or imagine myself to be Billericaik Dickie. But if I'm tired, I just take it easy."

Davey's a self-taught musician who's done it the wrong way round. He's roamed around Europe playing free-form jazz (in The People Band, with Terry Day and Charlie Hart) before finding out what a 12-bar was. He likes Bartok and Webern, and Junior Walker's tone. He still listens to Roland Kirk.

When he first met Ian (during the Kilburn And The High Roads days), Dury thought he was a junkie. "I thought he was a nutcase," says Davey, and they got together. "We all pissed off after 'Handsome' because we weren't earning enough to pay the rent."

He kept his oar in by playing with Ronnie Lane's Slim Chance and The Fabulous Poodles. Ian asked him to play on 'New Boots' and then Wreckless Eric wanted him on his debut album. "I liked Eric, he was really mad. But he changed. He became nasty."

He laughs, and so do the others. Those Melody Maker insinuations — made at the time of the 'Do It Yourself' sessions — that The Bollockheads were about to split asunder seem to have been well wide of the mark.

"You get seven or eight geezers together doing anything — never mind in a studio making an album — and you'll get arguments," says Mickey. "It was nothing."

"Yeah," says Norman. "People hanging around would've picked up things and blown them out of proportion. After a couple of discussions Ian didn't come into the studio for a few days, because he was still working on the lyrics. So people see that and say Ian's quit. In fact, when he did come back we fired him."

We all laugh. Even so. Chaz Jankel is going to quit the band. But what of the other Charley?

CHARLEY Charles is 34. He was born in Georgetown, Guyana and has played drums since he was a boy. He used to watch his dad's 16-piece orchestra play Latin, jazz and early R&B.

"Drummers are like goalkeepers," Mickey has said earlier. "A breed apart."

He's right. Charley's an inventor, a hobbyist, a multidimensionalist, a philosopher. In short, an erudite nutter. Even dressed in his white singlet over a black tracksuit, he has the air of a diplomat. He speaks imposingly, with an actor's clarity, as if emulating Dick Bogarde's diction (© Benny Hill).

Charley came over here when he was 15 and went to Wandsworth Tech for a couple of years.

"And then I had this silly notion that I wanted to earn some money. You couldn't go into a shop and say 'May I have that'. You have to have regular coinage and notes."

So he worked for F. W. Woolworth as a store detective in the

All those who want to stay with The Blockheads one step forward . . . Where are you going Jankel???

MONTY SMITH goes on the road with Mr Dury's orchestra to discover if there's life beyond Blockism and north of Tyneside . . .

All pix: PENNIE SMITH

Don Williams and The Deer Hunter.

"Where's yer pass?" demands a bespectacled old jobsworth when Ian Dury presents himself at the stage door.

"We're working here tonight," says Ian, managing to conceal his exasperation. Someone has to be fetched from the soundcheck.

Inside, the Capitol has a Rank grandeur circa Edgar Lustgarten. The reception is tumultuous, before a note's been played. Dury still makes vaguely obscene gestures with the mike stand but he's considerably more mobile than I remembered, and a lot less fragile.

"His stick is a prop," says Koz (Dury's co-operative — co-manager, co-handler you name it). "He doesn't need callipers either, it's just that if he falls over he can't get up. Callipers keep his leg straight — if it bends, it hurts him." There's no getting away from it — Dury is quite a handsome chap. The camera lies. And only a warped bigot would equate physical disability with ugliness.

The other most noticeable change is the drastic shift in the overall sound and stage attitude of The Bollockheads themselves. They're less loose, less jokey and good-timey, more . . . er, musically direct. Full as a bull's bum, in fact. Which is all to the good in a two hour set. This has much to do with the presence, on guitar and keyboards, of music director Chaz Jankel.

What do they play? It's easier to say what they don't. They don't do the B-sides ('Rattle In My Pocket', 'You're More Than Fair', 'Clever Bastards' and 'Common As Muck') and they've dropped 'My Old Man', 'If I Was With A Woman' and 'Abacadabre' from the 'New Boots' set.

They play everything else, till it hurts. The percussive bludgeoning of 'Reasons To Be Cheerful' is an inevitable high spot and that intro to 'Sweet Gene Vincent' still sends shivers down my sweating neck, especially when 1800 people are singing along.

During 'Clever Trevor' a clockwork bird is sent forth across the auditorium. "Worth a bank of laser beams, that is," says Koz. "Only costs 30 bob."

'Sex And Drugs' is now 15 minutes of orgasmic splendour, each Bollockhead stretching out on introductory solos. Jankel and John Turnbull, for instance, trade guitar licks, restrainedly picking like there's a bogie on every string. The next night they'll opt for pyrotechnic power chords of chopper ferocity. Dick Wingate, the man spying for Epic Records from the U.S. of A., is suitably impressed. You'd have to be dead not to be.

But who are these Bollockheads, and from whence do they come?

DAVEY Payne is 35. He is the saxophone man and he comes from London. He's married with a ten month old daughter.

When he's playing he resembles a praying mantis, leaning forward slightly, the sax a part of him. The entomological analogy is enhanced by his stage gear, a garish gold glitter jacket and tacky plastic belt encrusted with blobs and baubles covering

Davey resented the way in which Eric treated his 17-year old bassist Barry Payne (relation). "He was really nasty to my young brother. But I think he's pulled out of it now."

Davey's been with the Dury set-up since the Dirty Dozen tour two years ago. He's got the blisters on his lips to prove it (they only bleed when he's blowing really hot). He hasn't smoked, imbibed or even eaten eggs since 1970 (he gave up meat and fish in the '60s). He looks ill. But he's got a lot of lungs.

NORMAN Watt-Roy is 28. He plays bass and was born in Bombay, India. Mickey Gallagher is 34. He plays keyboards. John Turnbull is 29. He plays guitar and, like Mickey, was born in Newcastle. They were all together in Ronan O'Reilly's loony Radio Caroline project Loving Awareness (with Charley Charles) and have various other connections through bands like Bell & Arc and Glencoe.

"Mickey's probably had more bands than I've had bunk-ups," as Kozmo so succinctly puts it. For full details wait for Pete Frame's Family Tree book. But don't hold your breath.

They are all practised musicians and are surprised how The Bollockheads have grown. "Some sort of ideology keeps you going," says Mickey, who still receives royalty payments for his part in a Peter Frampton hit. "I don't know what it is." When pressed, he puts it down to a mixture of naivie, optimism and excitement.

"The buzz comes when you're writing," says John. "We'd stay up 24 hours writing because, although it was work, we enjoyed it. I suppose it's like if you're a cobbler, you take pride in making a good pair of shoes. OK, it's work — but you get off on it."

On stage, John is loose and lissom, going in for buckets of brilliantine, fetching canary yellow twin-sets with green guitar strap and matching wrist bands, and a Tony Curtis smile.

Mickey opts for blue-black hair and anything else that will clash, preferably pink. Norman settles for comparatively quiet black tack, even going so far as to dutifully change out of a pair of big black DMs before the show and into a different pair of the same model.

"Dakt, innit?" he says. Norman's got a fine sense of humour. He'd have to really. His parents brought him over here when he was four and took a taxi from Liverpool to Highbury, North London. It cost all the money they'd got. He still likes Indian music and curry. He keeps a reference library of girlie mags in his loo. "I know when people have been in there for a while because they're all in a different order." He's been playing since he was eleven.

Did you take up the bass because you couldn't handle lead guitar, Norman?

"Nah, I was good on guitar you cheeky sod. I only used to play rhythm. You couldn't find many bass players at that time, and I used to love the bass on Motown records."

"Also, I had this bass player's manual and on the first page it said 'Don't let the rest of the band but you're the most important member.' So I shut it quick — that was all I needed to know."

Whitechapel area. He couldn't stomach it. "Some of those people had fucking nothing, and I knew that. So I let them go."

He then signed up in the Army. "A sheer experience number. I wanted to see the world. But what I saw upset me so much I wanted to buy myself out. You just cannot run a planet on military tactics."

All the while he was playing R&B and 'James Brown rip-offs' at weekends, as far afield as Germany and Singapore (where he finally bought himself out, after four and a half years, for £300). He's since played with a lot of people, including Link Wray and the Arthurs Brown and Conley. And, of course, Mickey, Norman and John in Loving Awareness.

"We got together on a consciousness level," he says. "The mortal love dream."

But the music helped?

"Of course it did. But that's just motivation. Right now there's a love factor. I couldn't sit down and dialogue with you if I didn't feel in any way attached to your presence. Do you know what I mean?"

Luckily, I was Scotch mist otherwise I'd have blushed.

He listens to everything he can get his hands and ears on. He enjoys most sitting at home writing his own music.

"I wouldn't criticise any music. Because everyone hears natural frequencies as well as rhythms and trying to get that out — what's within you — is no easy task. The thing is allowing it."

"I'm a multi-dimensional person. To play drums you've got to allow your left leg to act differently from the right, and there's the hands. All those computations — the splitting of the atoms, my boy."

Charley's into casual calisthenics before each show. Are those exercises physical or cerebral?

"Yeah, its concentration. The physical will take care of itself. You've got divisions in the head and you automatically allow the physical to take over."

He's certainly a well hefty drummer, an unsinkable titan. Is he aware of time passing on stage? "I'm aware that it's over an hour."

It's two.

"Really? Great. More power to the energy. I could play for four or six. It means everything we've learned we're spacing out. We can chat for another four days, right? If we weren't interrupted we'd find things to talk about. It's endless."

The tape ran out there.

CHAZ Jankel is 27. Born of humble Jewish parentage in Stanwell, Middlesex, he has written the music for most of Mr Dury's best-known songs and has arranged all of it. He says it all started with Sly And The Family Stone. He likes Earth Wind And Fire and Weather Report. His favourite pianists are Joe Zawinul and Arthur Rubinstein.

◆ Continues over page

BLOCKS

BLOCKS

MENTAL

MO' BLOX

From previous page

Chaz plays guitars and keyboards. He's quitting The Bollockheads for good. He's leaving at the end of August. The final sojourn. The first lapsed Bollockhead.

On stage he strikes me as being a bit uncomfortable, the guitar-thrashing in 'Plastow Patricia' seeming forced, for instance. Sort of boyishly uneasy, a bit incongruous. Off stage, I'd assumed him to be a cautious man, the sort who'd turn around in a public latrine before farting. I was right on the first score, dead wrong on the second.

"No, I'm not completely comfortable on stage," he says, punctuating his conversation with mildly Pinteresque pauses. "I feel in some ways, the music isn't stimulating enough to demand that I should be out of town touring every night with the same set of songs. Because you're limited, I find that a crush to my creative powers."

"I'd say about 60% of the time I'm enjoying myself but there is that other 40% that just isn't there. And I think it's something to do with the Blockhead philosophy, which I'm not really party to."

"I like the idea that we can associate with the audience and there's no superstar trip but at the same time I find the music... I mean, I have channelled Ian and the other guys into producing this music but I've got a feeling they'd feel more comfortable going in a more rocky direction — a Chuck Berry type direction."

"And I should be going my own way, which is a much broader spectrum. It doesn't need to be vocal, it doesn't need to be focused through a front man, it doesn't need to be channelled through a three minute single. I've done those things because I can do it. I wear different hats for different occasions."

"And I've helped Ian for three years. I thought it would be unfair of me to ditch him before now because he's always had me there as MD. But it would be a killer for me if I were to stay any longer."

Jankel's not accepting any commitments after August. He wants to disappear to South America for a while and then travel up through North America. He doesn't plan to write with Ian again.

"Certainly not for a very long time. Because once you write, you've got the promotion etc. That's where I got involved on this tour."

"Basically I need a breathing space. A lot of this tour is alien to me — the backstage parties, the quick chatter, rap-rap. On stage I can perform loud chords and act quite brash but afterwards I need the opposite."

"The dressing room is a prime example. After the show, very little regard is given to the musician. After two hours you come into the dressing room absolutely soaked and shattered. There's Kozmo shouting the odds and Fred (Spider Rowe), much as I love him, also shouting the odds. It's not on. It's really painful to experience all that."

"So rather than me complain about it, I'm getting out." Does he really feel totally separate from the others?

"There is an empathy between us all. My greatest talent, I think, is as a catalyst. I think Ian Dury And The Blockheads are a good group but I don't think we're the best group in the world. Consequently, I feel that if I were to stay I would not be true to myself. I need to expand and develop and if I stayed with Ian I would not do that."

How does Ian feel about it?

"He's never questioned it because I didn't ask him, I told him. I told him last Christmas."

So who's Ian going to write with?

"I'd like him to write with Mickey and the rest of the band. What I hope will happen is that the ranks will tighten up, with the guys in the band becoming even stronger."

"See, a lot of Ian's words are in the form of rhyming couplets and sometimes you can't actually put a melody to it. You can put a very basic melody to it, as in the case of 'Plastow Patricia' — which I refused to write the music for as I didn't really get off on the words. I thought any song that starts off 'Arseholes, bastards, fucking cunts and pricks' is not exactly going to be a major No. 1 world hit."

"But that's beside the point — the point being that because Bollockheads: Norman, John, Davey, Chaz and Charley. Micky is climbing up the stairs. This is what we find.

there was only one way of singing the words — blaahh! blaahh! blaahh! — you could only put the simplest music behind it."

"So you've got that side to Ian's music. The other side is the side I try to carve out for him, like 'Inbetweens', which is a much more moderate, less extreme approach to music. I was trying to stretch him as a singer, as well, because he needs to be stretched."

"He's always relied on the fact that he's an excellent entertainer but he hasn't developed himself to the same extent as a singer and I think he needs to do that next." Some of Ian's singing has struck me as being a bit lazy. Are his vocals on 'Common As Muck', for instance, deliberately sloppy?

"Er, yeah. I'll tell you something. No, they're not, unfortunately. It's not intended at all. Ian showed me the lyric of 'Common As Muck' the same time we wrote 'Hit Me', last September. I sat down at the piano, reading the lyrics, and I just found a blues for it — it was obvious."

"He goes, 'great, great, yeah.' So he, having got that one sorted out, mentally switched off. In fact, that was premature. Because he never asked me to home in the melody for him. He never practised the melody. He thought he knew the melody. But he didn't."

"Come the session, about nine months later in Rome, when he was on the spot, he just couldn't handle it. He was nervous, unconfident. He had the words, but he didn't have the vocal. And that's one of the reasons I think he should practice his singing."

"I've tried to tell him about singing but because he's not a musician he finds it very difficult. The funny thing is, wandering down the street after a gig, you can hear him sing a standard as well as you or I could."

"But put him on the spot and he will sing... not very well, most of the time. I think it's to do with nerves. As a result, when he's singing loud, which is his tendency, he'll sing sharp. I've told him that but he still insists on singing sharp."

"When he's singing a more simple melody, like 'Blockheads', that's where he scores. And I think he'll go on scoring in that direction. But I don't think he'll score in a more musical direction because he hasn't got that ability. And that's the area I'm more interested in."

Davey Payne, I tell him, also expressed a desire to stretch himself musically. There's a longer pause than usual. "Davey, I think, could put a lot more into it. He spends a lot of time in front of the mirror, concerned about his image. All that these people need to do is stretch themselves and then maybe something will happen."

"I could carry on working with Ian for three years, but by leaving him that's the greatest statement I could make. Because it's a non-aggressive statement and it's also very positive." Was there much heart-searching before he came to this decision?

"Heart-searching? Yeah. Because I felt I was obliged. God, if you only knew how I'd thought about it, reconsidered it. But you can't keep thinking 'Shall I, shall I?'"

"I know what I'm like — I'm a great dawdler. So I think it's right. Ian'll carry on working. He needs to carry on performing if he wants to stay in the public eye. At the same time he'll do very well if he was to sit down and write, because that's where his greatest talent lies. Writing is really as important as performing."

"I prefer Ian, personally, off stage. I've seen the way he winds up an audience. And it's bullshit. It's becoming much too farcical for me. I must admit, I do take life a bit more seriously than some of the people I'm surrounded by."

"Which is why I'm leaving this Blockhead type of existence. And I won't be missed in terms of commercialism. My leaving doesn't mean a lot."

IN Edinburgh (correct pronunciation: Em'bra), Kozmo finds a dentist who whips out his abcessed tooth for a tenner on a Sunday afternoon. He'd told the reluctant dentist that he was a guitarist in a band playing that night. "So I've left a bit of me in Em'bra," he beamed, chomping down on a clump of blood-soaked lint.

"Chaz Jankel," he tells me later, "is a brave boy who's gonna come a cropper. Know what I mean?"

Kozmo Vinyl is 22.

Get a Sound Bargain at Cavendish Summer Sale

Ten best-value Home Entertainment lines at tremendous savings — just compare these prices. We have over 1,000 items on display — come and test them on our comparators or phone Hot line 01-247 1154 for details.

Our Price £68.95
TRIO KA 3200
 Beautiful 25w per channel stereo amplifier giving us more than 0.1% total harmonic distortion, loudness switch, input selector for phono, tuner or aux. — really tremendous cost/performance value.

Our Price £89.95
Sharp RC 1157
 Superior front loading Dolby Cassettes Deck with Auto Programme Search System, full auto stop, bias & equalisation selectors & peak level indicator. W & F only £89.95.

Our Price £134.95
Sharp RC 1000
 Magnificent battery (remote) stereo cassette tape recorder fitted with Auto Programme Search System (APSS), MW/LW/SW/PM stereo radios, twin VU meters, normalised 102Hz filter, tape facility plus many other features.

Our Price £47.95
Wharfedale Denton XP2
 Fabulous loudspeaker system giving 300w power output, finished in teak with leather trim & heavy grill.

Our Price £96.95
JVC RC 45
 Fine stereo radio recorder with LW/MW/SW/PM, max output of 5W (2.7w per channel), one touch recording (auto) time tuning, auto stop, 3 way power supply (clutter), VCR car battery.

Our Price £52.95
Power PL 512
 New model 2 speed belt drive manual turntable with W & F at only 0.05%, state balance S-shaped turnarm.

Our Price £45.95
Analog EX 202
 High Fidelity Executive FM/MW/LW Stereo Tuner with AFC, signal meter, multiplex Phase locked loop stereo decoder, suitable for use with most stereo cassette decks. Superb value for money.

Our Price £145.95
Vox model 1000
 New model 1000 Stereo Cassette deck with included control panel for easy use, has fine control and independent 3 way bass/equaliser for aux, tape performance, centre tone, full auto stop, all duplicated.

Our Price £109.95
Murphy 1115
 Receiver giving 25W per channel, low filter, FM tuning, stereo, 2 sets of speakers, facilities, tape recorder.

Our Price £65.95
Sansui RD 1028
 Beautifully designed "nedge" shape Dolby Stereo Cassette deck featuring record level controls with index markers, £102.95 at normal tape facility, base/level switches, tape counter and auto stop. Marvellous value.

Our Price £109.95
Arvin & Barbyland
 accepted with pleasure.

Cavendish Sales
 CASSETTE CENTRE

30 WHITE CHAPEL RD, LONDON E1
 Tel: 01-247 1154
 279 283 WHITE CHAPEL RD, LONDON E1
 Tel: 01-247 1154

How to order

By post or by phone. Please allow 14 days for delivery. All orders are subject to credit check. Cash orders are payable on delivery. Delivery is free within the London area. Delivery outside the London area is at an extra cost. Delivery is not guaranteed.

SAVE!

ALL AMERICA'S LEADING BRANDS OF NEW AND USED CLOTHING FROM THE 40's, 50's & 60's!

CASUAL CLOTHING

- Original 50's beach wear jackets £11.95
- Original 50's plaid trousers £9.95
- Original 50's shirts £11.95
- Original 50's button-down shirts £3.95
- Original 50's Western shirts £13.95
- Original 50's Leather and Suede Bomber and Flying jackets, used from only £29.95
- Original 50's U.S. made PEDELER LEVITS jeans £11.95
- Original 50's U.S. Air Force Flying suits £11.95

SURVIVAL GEAR

- Original 50's 1/2 Flying jackets £32.50
- Original 50's U.S. Army Field jackets £11.95
- Original 50's U.S. Army flight suits £11.95
- Original 50's U.S. Army flight suits £11.95
- Original 50's U.S. Army flight suits £11.95

CRUISIN' CLOTHING

- Coloured jumpers £11.95
- Black jumpsuits £11.95
- Original 50's U.S. made jumpsuits £11.95
- Original 50's U.S. made jumpsuits £11.95
- Original 50's U.S. made jumpsuits £11.95

SPORTSWEAR

- Original 50's U.S. made jumpsuits £11.95
- Original 50's U.S. made jumpsuits £11.95
- Original 50's U.S. made jumpsuits £11.95
- Original 50's U.S. made jumpsuits £11.95
- Original 50's U.S. made jumpsuits £11.95

NEW IMPORTS

- Washington D.C. DEE-CEE jeans in many colours £14.95 and painter's jeans £11.95
- Cherokee Top-Point trousers £9.95
- Cherokee jumpsuits £11.95
- Cherokee jumpsuits £11.95
- Cherokee jumpsuits £11.95

STYLE! QUALITY! DISCOUNT PRICES!

FLIP

ORIGINAL AMERICAN CLOTHING

191 Kings Road, Chelsea.

London SW3 01 352-4332

★ALL MAJOR CREDIT CARDS ACCEPTED

★ALSO EXPORT & WHOLESALE ★OPEN 9:30 AM-6:30 PM MON-SAT

SINGLES

Joint Single Of The Week
Disco Spectacular:
Aquarius/Let The Sun Shine In (RCA). From the grisly commercialised radicalism of Hair to this week's happiest and most invincible single: a song from the world's worst musical rises from the ashes like a mad phoenix.

A cast of thousands, but mostly Evelyn 'Champagne' King, give you automatic sunshine and a rhythm guaranteed to alter the beat of your heart. Everything that goes toward making great disco is declared in abundance, including the presence of the world's best anonymous bass player who must be a very busy man these days. A hit.

buzzcocks

spiral scratch

Champagne 'n' valium

Down drinking in the singles bar with JOHN HAMBLETT

The Fall

ROWCHE RUMBLE

WIMVAREA

Joint Single Of The Week
The Fall: Rowche Rumble (Step Forward). Through yet another major line-up change The Fall emerge re-charged, rejuvenated, and as excellent as ever.

Mark Smith spitefully intones the song's title over playful drums until the band are suddenly called to heel and produce a quick, brittle ball of sound that barely supports the bored and accusing vocals. Occasionally a simple and deceptively soft organ figure rises to the surface before hurriedly ducking out of sight. A song about valium and speed — tongue-in-cheek, presumably — this is The Fall at their petulant, impudent best.

The Buzzcocks: Spiral Scratch (New Hormones). At last New Hormones have re-released the most influential EP of the last five years. 'Breakdown', 'Times Up', 'Boredom' and 'Friends Of Mine', four sharp, incisive, abrasive, observant and articulate songs that are as innovative and appealing today as in 1976, four songs that prove Shelley and Devoto are the two most important composers to the new wave brought to light. Simply four of the finest pop songs ever.

The Jam: When You're Young (Polydor). Paul Weller continues to recreate the perfect heritage, utilizing an almost military, stuttering beat to prove he's the undisputed boss of all this quasi-mod stuff. The quirky use of dub to break down the riff mid-stream is amusing, and serves to tone the listener's reflexes for the steady, one-step-at-a-time guitar solo that sneaks in the back and ricochets neatly off the tail of the bass and drums. Classic Jam, what more can I say?

Esther Phillips: Our Day Will Come (Mercury). Esther Phillips' supple, strong, and supremely warm voice folds around an uptempo, swaying rhythm. Without even smiling to herself she flicks at the percussion and bounces over the moon, leaving a happily swinging horn section until the great lady returns to earth for the grande finale. Wow!

Penetration: Come Into The Open (Virgin). Pauline is much prettier than Robert Plant and has a much better voice, so I don't understand why Penetration should want to be Led Zeppelin. Why these pompous, heavy-handed riffs? I'm surprised, this really is awful.

The Scientists: Frantic Romantic (DNA). The Scientists make a pleasing noise: mid-paced, naive guitars clangingly strummed, dumb and dull drums, shy bass, and clinging, hopeful vocals.

Thin Lizzy: Things Ain't Working Out Down At The Farm (Decca). An appallingly ill-defined slab of noise from the outrageously over-rated Thin Lizzy, even though this is several years old. Lots of guitars hanging around with too much time on their hands, thud-thud rhythms, and vocals rife with misplaced arrogance. What is it this band possess that's supposed to set them apart from every other thunderously dull hard rock band?

Secret Affair: Time For Action (Arista). A 'new wave', a 'new' anthem; something else for people too cynical to be impressed by youthful exuberance to be bored with, or mystified by. Its appeal is obvious; it's fast, young, smart and anthemic, the fact that the jumping instrumentation and hook carry not one iota of originality or genuine wit matters very little. Don'ticker about it, either buy or ignore it.

Viola Wills: Gonna Get Alone Without You Now (Ariola Nansa). During which the lady in question applies her ceilingless vocal expertise to an updated calypso-disco version of a song made famous by somebody else. Another hit, one hopes.

Scorpions: All Night Long / Fly To The Rainbow / Speedy's Coming / In Trance (RCA). A million ratatata guitars spew sludge over the drummer's best satin trousers, the bass player loses a false eyelash in the thick hair of his manly torso, as the well-endowed vocalist gives himself a double hernia reaching for the high notes.

Reizillos: Can't Stand My Baby (Sensible). Second re-release of the week, and rightly so as this is the band's finest moment, two years old and still fresh as milk, although I suspect somebody has done something naughty with the mix. However, who could quibble at the wiggly eccentricities of the barely house-trained guitars, and Fay's anxious uncertainty? Not I.

Billy Connolly: In The Brownies (Polydor). Billy Splices together 'Y.M.C.A.' and 'In The Navy' to praise this country's finest institution for young ladies favourably disposed toward bondage and pyromania.

Lori and The Chameleons: Touch (Zoo). Lori and friends construct an affectionately bizarre context for a silly love song. Brisk synthesised rhythms dance as bristly and appetisingly as candy floss while Lori tells of her love for a pretty Japanese boy in a voice sure to seduce boys and girls of all ages all over the world. For the shell-like oriental guitar solo alone this would have made Record Of The Week most weeks but this.

Gene Chandler: When You're Number One (Chi Sounds). Gene sings persuasively and knowledgeably about the dangers of being an ace face over a contagious and functional dance rhythm. A young nightlife song packed with dripping neon, polished leather, 1 1/2 p.t.u.s, Coca Cola, tinted glass, altered pulse beats, and repentant dawns. Love it, real mod music.

Mira Waters: You Have Inspired Me (Tamla Motown). Not even the elegantly inventive production can hide that Ms Waters' aching jazz vocal is wasted on a watery, ungroomed melody. Tough break, Mira.

Speedometers: Tonight Tonight (Acrobat). Another hopeful young combo make a conscious effort to produce modern pop, only to end up sounding like The Eagles recorded in an industrial refrigerator.

Lindisfarne: Easy and Free (Mercury). And talking about 'The Eagles', this is what they'd sound like if they came from Newcastle and had been raised on brown ale and chips instead of California sunshine and requile sunrise.

John Potter's Clay: Sensible Sally (Niphthawk). Young (ish) men with traditional values and strong morals play R&B. Is 'workmanlike' the adjective I'm looking for Charles?

Toyah: Sheep Farming In Barnet (Safari). Six ordinary tunes of little consequence pompously synthesised, ponderously played, and bleakly produced so that Toyah Wilcox may have a moderne clothes horse over which to drape her comically melodramatic lyrics. Pass.

Twist: This Is Your Life (Polydor). An almost entirely creditable first effort from new Polydor signing Twist. 1-2-3-4-hop-skip-jump music expertly played around a clever and observant lyric sung with conviction.

Sally Oldfield: You Set My Gypsy Blood Free (Bronze). A delicate plinky-plonk tune that sounds uncannily similar to one of those records Mary Hopkins always seemed to be singing while your mother cooked Sunday lunch.

After The Fire: Laser Love (CBS). Four men with expensive toys make a flabby, symphonic, and utterly horrible single wasting valuable resources in the process. Bring back capital punishment cry the hungry millions.

Kim Davies: Long Time (CBS). Big budget panavision disco that bumps and grinds, sung by a young lady who almost certainly hails from the Welsh hills, which is where she will probably return in three months clutching tearfully at her first silver disc. This is it.

Alicia Bridges: Nightlife (Polydor). The lady's aquatic vocals ebb and slither through a spongy and transparent uptempo tumble. Toward the final curtain the sax man makes an unexpected splash into the clear blue water leaving the rest of the band playing football with a marshmallow in the sand. Great, just great.

Cut Outs: D.I.Y. (EMI) Rampant trickery and flippant skullduggery added in equally large measures to a yammering vocal line make for an unbearably twee single. Avoid at all costs.

Digby Richards: Time To Go To Bed (RCA). Musical red velvet drapes close around a male and female voice as they quietly inform each other that it is time for bed. A song about screwing in suburbia, where, evidently, they do it without bodily contact.

Teenbeats: I Can't Control Myself (Safari). Five young chaps with a lot of front and nothing better to do take on the might of the great Reg Presley. It would be nice to be able to report that they came out on top, but they didn't. Troggs win by an illegal knockout.

Sunset Boys: Wreck My Bed (Gimp Records). Two friends, one of whom looks exactly like Tom Jones right down to the nose, stash a jumble of recording equipment in a dustbin outside their garage, and stage a re-make of 'Riders On The Storm' only twice as fast and with lyrics I can hardly bear to look at. Tell me it's a joke.

Bandwag: Roller Disco (RCA). Never having been to a roller disco I must presume that dancing at such establishments is limited to precarious burps and squeaks executed only by the brave and the religious. If this be the case then this record should fit the bill perfectly. It's junk like this that gives mod music a bad name.

ROCKERS TIME

BACK in 1967, when Bob Marley was a well-dressed young rebel in a mohair suit and patent leather shoes, The Wailers had a label called 'Wail N' Soul', and were cutting classic music like 'Hypocrites' (record of the week thanks to its reissue on Tuff Gong). It's one of the Wailers', and Jamaica's, best ever records, perfect rock steady with a lovely horn arrangement, and Marley clearly enjoying his own singing; fists and cheeks clenched, he sets about exposing those who betray the cause: 'Dip for diplomatic, hip for Hippocratic... see de hypocrites!' — an amazing record but, as on the original issue, it's only the b-side to the more familiar, not quite so interesting, 'Nice Time'.

Just to show he hasn't lost his touch, Marley's newest, 'Ambush' (also Tuff Gong) is his best for ages; it tells of the shooting incident which forced him into exile, although he's back home now, and keen to re-assert himself. He confidently states that while 'all guns aiming at me', he is 'protected by His Majesty'; personally, I'd rather put my trust in a bulletproof vest, but each to his own. I could do without the I Threes, whose girlish harmonies give me earache, but otherwise it's excellent modern music, and well worth a place in the collection.

The ever-ludicrous Glen Brown produced Sy Nord Walker's 'Clenysness (sic) Is Godliness (also sic)' (South East Music), is generally a waste of a good rhythm. You can't blame Syllford for not getting too worked up about the lyric:

There is bits of papers littering around, band down

hardly a work to inspire the youths of today to greater endeavours, although there's a nice sax break towards the end. Highlight of the whole affair is on the dubside, called 'Assack Lawn No. 1 Dub', where Glen indulges in the old trick of tape rewinding: after the garbled sound of Syllford being pulled backwards through the machine at high speed, Glen forgets to start the tape again, and we're blessed with ten seconds of golden silence. For Glen Brown, clumsiness is next to godliness, and that's why he's one of the greats.

Another one of the greats, Coxson Dodd, is enjoying an unexpected surge of popularity at the moment, with his effervescent dj duo, Ranking Michigan and General Smile, meshing up all the opposition with 'Nice Up The Dance' (Studio One), and a number of his other records in the Ja charts.

Best news of all is that he's given more studio time to the Ugliest Man in Showbusiness, dj King Stitt, who hasn't made a record for years. Stitt may be somewhat geriatric now, but he displays all his old enthusiasm on 'Live Jah Up' (Studio One 12), a toasting cut to Sugar Minott's 'Give Me Jah Jah', actually the A-side. Stitt drifts in and out in his usual agitated fashion on his side of the record, while after Sugar's contribution (well up to his usual standard), we get a sax version of the rhythm (Alton Ellis's 'Breaking Up', originally) from Tommy McCook, whose braying horn duets nicely with Jackie Mittoo on strings synthesiser. An all-star lineup, and an effective use of the scope afforded by the 12", although the splice between the singing SUGAR MINOTT considers adding guitar hero to his credentials.

Pic: Jean-Bernard Sohicz

cut and the version isn't too well managed.

On 7", Dodd also gives us Freddie Macgregor's 'Homeward Bound' (Studio One), apparently Freddie's farewell to Brentford Road like this do not a millenium make, but surprisingly Freddie comes out on top, thanks to a strong rhythm and his own commitment.

Dennis Brown's a busy lad these days, and no wonder he Dennis also weighs in 'Sugar And Spice' from Carlton And The Shoes (an entertaining amendment of their 'Love Me Forever', with a nicely echoed version), and Black Uhuru's 'Wood For My Fire' (all DEB

Reggae Roundup by NICK KIMBERLEY

after years of good service — I wonder if they presented him with a red, green and gold watch? He struggles against all the bad habits of recent reggae — strings synthesiser, syndrums, flute, and the usual limp lyric: 'We're going home... no chains around our legs... what a glorious day this is going to be'. Songs works up a huge appetite; but 'A Cup Of Tea' ('... a fish for you, a fish for me, break some bread and have a cup of tea') and 'Three Meals A Day' seems to be verging on gluttony; still, they're good, dependable records, even if it looks as though Dennis' flirtation with 'TOTP' has finished. As a producer, Music). Black Uhuru are riding high at the moment, and this is about the best of their recent efforts, thanks largely to the almost dubstyle mix from Dennis, which allows drum and bass to drag the rest along. The b-side is a melodica version from an anonymous youth who hasn't yet received his Augustus Pablo Seal Of Proficiency, but who manages to make quite a good job of things.

Talking of seals and Augustus, Pablo's own latest is 'Golden Seal' (Message Message), on which he amuses the crowds with his multi-instrumental prowess: he tinkers with melodica, vibes, strings synthesiser (again!) and organ, besides producing the whole affair. Not a bad effort, but I prefer the sparser dub, where the vibes come through more, and the cymbals have an unusually forward part to play.

Pablo also produced The Heptones' 'Love Won't Come Easy' (Greensleeves 12), a late '70s reissue discomix style, of the record they cut in the early '70s which in turn was a re-cut of the late sixties Studio One original (even I'm confused now). It's an unembroidered and very effective version, with Leroy Sibbles on good singing form, and Pablo filling in here and there on piano and melodica. Again I prefer the dub, with its cavernous echo, and the bass pushing things along at a hectic pace. On the other side you get Jacob Miller's 'Keep On Knocking', one of his better records; for this discomix, Pablo has dubbed on a spoken intro, presumably aimed at Joe Gibbs, who recently cut Jacob on a new and inferior version: 'Alright now ladies and gentlemen, this is the Rockers, original Rockers!' — yes please, mister, can we have some more?

THE BABY MONSTER TOUR

STRAIGHT EIGHT
FIRST ALBUM
NO NOISE FROM HERE
OUT NOW ON
EEL PIE RECORDS

ROY SUNDHOLM
FIRST ALBUM
THE CHINESE METHOD
RELEASED 10th SEPTEMBER ON ENSIGN RECORDS

THE DAZZLERS
NEW SINGLE FEELING FREE
PRODUCED BY TOMMY RAMONE
RELEASED AUGUST 24th ON CHARISMA RECORDS

AUGUST

18th Barbarellas Birmingham
24th Scarborough Penthouse 25th Manchester Factory

27th West Runton Pavilion
29th Music Machine London
31st JBS Dudley

SEPTEMBER

1st Porterhouse East Retford

The Jam - When You're Young c/w Smithers-Jones

New Single Available Now

POSP 69

NOW HERMAN BROOD'S IN A GOOD MOOD

...At last his new album has arrived.
And its at all HMV Shops, now.

We've taken

£1 off the list price of the new Herman Brood album and we're giving away a limited number of his live album with the first few sold. So get to the HMV Shops for two albums for less than the price of one!!!

'Saturday Night' taken from the album is available as a special 7" picture bag or 12" with a 9" label.

And at the HMV Shop every week:
The HMV Shop Top Albums up to £1.50 off list price.
The HMV Shop Top Cassettes at 70p off list price.
Valid until September 1st. Subject to availability

the HMV shop

363 Oxford Street,
London W.1.
(next to Bond Street tube)

Bedford
Birmingham
Bradford
Brighton
Bristol

Coventry
Derby
Edinburgh
Enfield
Exeter

Glasgow
Gloucester
Gravesend
Holloway
Hull

Kingston
Leeds
Leicester
Lewisham
Liverpool

Luton
Manchester
Newcastle
Nottingham
Notting Hill Gate

Plymouth
Portsmouth
Southampton
Stockton
Stratford

Sunderland
Sutton
Swansea
Wolverhampton

Top Singles at 80p until August 25th Top Singles at 80p until August 25th Top Singles at 80p until August 25th Top Singles at 80p until August 25th Top Singles at 80p until August 25th Top Singles at 80p until August 25th Top Singles at 80p until August 25th

STOP PRESS: SPECIAL ZEPPELIN OFFERS AT ALL HMV SHOPS NOW!

Left to right: June (drums), Ramona (vocals), Jane (bass), Kate (guitar). Pic: David Corio.

MET THEM ON A Monday, the Coca Cola spilt over the tape machine, and my MRX2 Oxide 45 mins each side @ 1½ i.p.s. stood still... da doo ron ron ron, da doo ron ron.

I walked up to them and I asked if they'd tell me all about themselves. I looked awful nice so they said that they might take a chance. Somebody told me that their names were Jane (bass), June (drums), Kate (guitar), and Ramona (vocals). It was probably Sean, their manager.

Sean used to be The Clash's 'Number One Fan', used to be a punk, and now wears a trilby; he isn't a Mod but he is mod.

Mod is a ghost, mod is an adjective signifying that which is up-to-date. Mode is a noun, a method of acting or doing, style, convention, fashion, and even custom. The Mo-dettes are 'four young ladies who play Flap music', and Flap music is 'Fast Loud And Pretty!'

The Mo-dettes were born in a shoebox room upstairs at the Chippenhams pub, Shirland Road, Westbourne Grove. They were originally The Bomberettes, an arm of the Tesco Bombers, an arm twice amputated from The Vincent Units.

The Vincent Units' guitarist/etc., Neal Brown, was initially responsible for opening up the Chippenhams — earlier this year — for night time beat music noises. The Vincent Units acted as a nucleus for able musicians, determined friends, and arbitrary public members.

Gigs in and around the Chippenhams, and the nearby Acklam Hall hopped around from group to group, Raincoats, Bank of Dresden, others.

The atmosphere was full of speech bubbles, tasteless neckwear, unsteady experiments, vodka & headgear, flirting, chewing gum. The distance between audience and music-making was measured, and altered. Opportunities in the production of rock'n'roll were various; individual practices were variously tolerable.

The gigs were enjoyable as gigs. Their meaning was social rather than something formal enough to square off within a 'live' review.

A lot of the music was unadventurous, its function defined by a complex of friendship, need, and boredom.

Historically, the details shift and atch plentifully, crying out to be recorded; for some reason.

Maybe it's reasonable to attempt, to determine how and why the forces and relations in the particular mode(tte) of production worked like they did.

RATHER INEVITABLY I point backwards: your history? Jane?

"A year ago I picked up a bass and taught myself to play. I remember Christmas was coming up, and I hadn't played for two weeks, when Richard Dudanski burst into Neal's room when I was there and said 'I hear you play around with the bass?' I said yes but I haven't got one — but he had, and it was the start of a wonderful... of my musical apprenticeship.

"Bank Of Dresden were really bloody serious though, too serious for me. I got suspended for a week after getting paralytic at an Africa Centre gig so I thought, right, I'll have my own band. It turned out we were so good we decided to make it a full time thing and I knocked Bank Of Dresden on the head."

Exit Jane to Bomberettes, and Richard Dudanski to Public Image. I know nothing of the other two Dresdens.

Meanwhile Kate had met June on the set of The Great Rock 'n' Roll Swindle — secretary and production assistant respectively — and they started playing together, selling up duff bass players. Jane knew Kate from punky

Mod: (adj) that which is up to date.

Mode: (noun) method of acting or doing.

Mo-dettes: fast, loud, pretty

Ian Penman: writer, clever dick times, June met Jane and said "that's the bassist for me."

Ramona is from Switzerland, and angrily counters a recent T-Zers claim about between-songs chat in, quote, 'O' Lave! French. She does in fact speak perfect French, and 'O' Level English.)

All this origin talk soon gets tied up in questions of how deliberate the feminine line-up is, or was.

Sean bursts in opportunely over another drink.

"You once said to me that you deliberately set out to look like girls onstage."

Jane: "We are girls. We don't do it intentionally. We just are."

June: "We look that way, anyway."

Jane: "We just go out as ourselves, we're all pretty, vain girls."

Kate: "There's a bit of a reaction against girls like The Raincoats, who try to cover it up... even though that's part of their lifestyle and they don't really go out of their way to dress like that, it's just a way of saying: just because I'm a girl, don't expect me to do anything."

Jane: "We do like to dress up a bit like girls..."

Doesn't going out of your way to look like girls presuppose a notion of what a girl should look like?

Jane: "Women or girls are individual; they can wear what they like."

Kate: "Sometimes we wear jeans and braces..."

Ramona: can this be the girl the Banana used to sing about? Pic: Alain de la Mata.

OF COURSE, asking the girls a question like that comes as a bit of slight hypocrisy from someone who daily goes out of his way to look like a boy.

Sexuality in rock 'n' roll is one more area found to be weighed down heavily by its history and language. Whilst no one could or should deny the aspects of sexual interest and thrill inherent in live music, the performance space is problematically male-dominated.

The male monopoly makes for an audience divided between the tacit acceptance of passivity, and mass laddishness.

Rock's sexual language is also polarised, with little between Ideal Romance (no mess) and hard, fast, aggressive male self-projection (only on rhythm). What can a poor girl (or boy) do?

The Mo-dettes onstage image has already been criticised — harshly, as being too stereotypically female, and lightly along the condescending lines of this is what an all-girl band 'should' look like, whereas they really don't exploit their sexuality in the manner suggested by either or both of those viewpoints.

The next snip is probably for them to be assimilated into the rock press's hackneyed structure of relativism: A good time band, anyway.

Rock language still doesn't know anything better than its inherited clichés and constructions; there are so few attempts to sort out the reasons behind attitudes, statements, tolerances and popularity.

Language is used with a resolute lack of imagination, the same old pictures and labels passed around.

I shudder to hear some of the riskiest, most passionate, accessible and demanding beat music shrugged off weekly in textural treatment older than a body cares to remember; a caricature world of good rock 'n' roll, bad rock 'n' roll, boozey lads, a little bit of 'avant-garde' here, a little fun over there.

The conversation finally reduces to a lot of little rock 'n' roll is all about's — pure Wonderland logic — which refuse to acknowledge life beyond their own particular sets of backward binoculars.

A world of shadowy faces and motive-free entertainment? That's a privileged music, not a popular music (Da doo ron ron ron, da doo ron ron).

June: "We're waiting for people to come along and offer us money and attention."

A record company? Any record company?

June: "No. Just a big one."

Kate: "The ones with lots of money."

Jane: "Yeah. About £20,000... I want a home. I haven't got a home."

Sean: "They're going to sign to a multi-national steel corporation, or something."

Do you think that this is the man who'll get you a million dollar deal?

Kate: "We don't want a Malcom McLaren, a Svengali..."

Sean: "Who's he? Do I know him?" Swedish athlete, I think.

THE POSSIBILITIES that allow the existence of small, mobile, mod groups like The Mo-dettes are not to be taken for granted and should be treated as something more than a set of nice new lines leading to historically inevitable conclusions.

The Mo-dettes are currently broke, fast, getting faster, loud, and pretty. Sean is buying another drink.

They're getting on for two months — about 16 gigs — old, and notoriously thus far comes from a Clash support slot and their chromosome balance. They need more space, and appropriately judged criticism.

The Mo-dettes have lost two jobs, and their music-making world — regardless of whether you find it nice, or not, or whatever — can't be that far from where you're sitting for the ideas, traps, style, and mode of production not to look clearer than a good deal of 'popular' music.

(Little and beautiful are better than big lies. (Relatively true.)

O LUCKY MAN!

MY ILLUSION of Broadcasting House — the home of BBC Radio — being a dignified mansion of imposing, unaccountable mystery, of confusing corridors and sparse secrecy, set with illustrious grandeur some miles out from the centre of the city of London, is soon crushed.

Broadcasting House is a moderately pretty building that squats a little stupidly a quarter of a mile from the ugly Oxford Circus. Inside, past genial security men and the BBC bookshop, the corridors that link rooms, offices and studios are anonymous, anything but alienating. A vague sense that I had of the intangible immensity of the BBC — the complicated processes of consistently broadcasting sensible and balanced overviews to the nation has always somehow suggested to me mighty organisation and control — quickly disappears.

John Peel greets me in the reception area as if we've known each other for years — and in some ways we have — and will, after a drink and a talk, lead me up one small tatty flight of stairs, round a corner or two, walk a few steps, wander through a large opening that's as cluttered and seemingly neglected as a mail order warehouse, point to a busyish man sitting in front of switches, microphones and sheets of paper behind a glass screen, and remark indifferently, "That's Radio Three."

A few more steps and another couple of corners and we walk into a square room as big as an average kitchen that is dominated by a clumsy system of turntable, speakers, microphones and monitors; this turns out to be a considerable portion of Radio One.

John Peel shares this home from home with such household names as Paul Burnett and Kid Jensen. With the latter it's room that is used to mould much of the surface shape of pop music in this country. Seeing the cramped circumstances of the studio, and understanding how easy it must be for the disc jockeys to feel they are talking to themselves, it's unsurprising that many of these agonising modern day personalities come across as being recklessly mad.

John Peel himself — also mad, you could say, in a less frivolous manner — uses this room, alone and as accurately as possible, to indicate the staggering phenomenon of late '70s rock 'n' roll.

IN AN identical room directly adjacent to Peel's hutch, as Peel efficiently rummages through final preparations for his Thursday 10-12 programme, Mike Read can be spotted in the murky hyperactively skipping through the last half hour of his show. Everything is endearingly and unexpectedly amateurish. As Peel steps into his room, Read immediately spots him, switches on an intercom and greets him with a lighthearted insult. Peel jovially responds. Seconds later Read is chatting to the nation with chilling professionalism.

As Peel's turn to become Radio One approaches he admits to being nervous, but appears to be comfortable. At one point he rushes into the dark of Read's hutch and naughtily, quickly downs down Read's microphone about the delights of his imminent programme. He tiptoes back to his own territory, a mischievous grin on his face.

"It's good having Mike Read on before me," Peel comments, referring to the time not long past when there was an incongruous Radio Two smoothie gap that separated the early evening shift from his own late night spot. "It used to be like coming on after a void, really cold."

The Mike Read programme that now links the enterprising and entertaining Kid Jensen mixture of considered information, chat and a simple balance of chart and non-chart new music with the Peel celebration, is despite Read's cloying presentation a good and open-minded two hours, a logical extension of what Jensen does, and a discriminating prelude to Peel. Read was to temporarily replace the less judicious — but promisingly tolerant — Andy Peebles, who was for seven weeks to relieve Dave Lee Travis of his morning show. Now that Peebles is to replace the exiled Tony Blackburn on the afternoon show, Read is presumably to be the permanent link. That can only be encouraging.

It will mean that for seven and a half hours — 4.30 pm-12.00 — Radio One will offer a systematic, perceptive and constantly changing survey of the current massive excitement. It will be these hours that will go some way to compensate for the daytime insistence on nostalgia and imbecility. Radio One does have, in fact, a strength of unprecedented and unequalled consistency. The importance of John Peel in this, and his influence in enlightening many of his comrades, cannot be underestimated.

PEEL himself, a notorious and penetrating critic of the puerile embarrassments of Radio One over the years, is not slow to acknowledge this recent, still developing, trend. He is actually unexpectedly defensive of the Radio One machinery.

"Well there's obviously one or two things that I'd like to see changed, but I think — and I'm glad to see that the press have begun to acknowledge this a bit too — that Radio One is better now than it's ever been; it almost had to be.

"It certainly is quite listenable in the main. I remember years ago, whenever it was that Spare Rib started, I was talking to somebody involved with them at some ghastly Radio One party and she said 'Who do you talk to about records?' I said 'Well, to be honest with you, nobody'. There was nobody who was interested really, which is an extraordinary situation. Now you can go and talk to Andy Peebles, Mike Read, Kid Jensen, Peter Powell — and I know everybody hates him, but he's actually a really nice bloke who does take a lot of notice of what's going on.

"So you can go and talk to these people and talk about records. I know that I can suggest to Andy Peebles that he listens to a record, and if he likes it he'll try and get it on his programme. That can only be healthy. And from my point of view I genuinely believe that I would not be able to do a programme such as I do for any other Radio Station on earth. Once the BBC accept that you know what you're doing and that there is a section of the community that likes it, they just leave you to get on with it. They never interfere at all — or very rarely. That situation was true ten years ago and it's true now.

"I feel vulnerable really just because I'm getting old, not because of the BBC. That seems unfortunate. It's like in your Mr Parsons' book, the criticism he had for me was that I was old! People are appalled when other people are discriminated on grounds of sex or race or religion, but it seems perfectly alright to discriminate against them on grounds of age. I say this as someone who is old. I feel that if I do get the elbow from Radio One, which I must ultimately do, it will be on the grounds of my age rather than I'm not doing my job well.

"But things are moving in the right direction, so that if I do become redundant — not now, Derek — that if I did drop dead a certain amount of the slack would be taken up by some of the others. Two or three years ago that wouldn't have been true."

Peel will not, though, disguise the fact that when Radio One is bad it is appalling, and that damaging attitudes exist amongst its influential seniority. Right now, when we're in the middle of a rock 'n' roll golden age — and if you find this an extreme thing to say then you're not even a part-time Peel listener — Radio One, primarily in the day, when it concentrates on oldies, wouldn't let you know. A lot of this, Peel concedes, is down to commercial considerations, which Peel can fortunately escape. A lot of it is down to foolish narrow mindedness and fear.

"If people were prepared to kill me for not playing Judas Priest records then things have got a bit out of hand."

"As I say, some of the DJ's now understand what is happening and are aware of it, but the people who are responsible for overall planning, the senior producers and things, they genuinely don't understand what's going on. I mean, when you hear record pluggers tell you stories about when they're trying to get producers interested in records... there's one producer who says it's in a picture sleeve then it's punk and he doesn't listen to punk, so the pluggers have to put the records in white sleeves and then hope he'll listen to it. And then another producer, someone went in with Generation X, something as innocuous as that, and this producer did a sort of 'No mate, sniff, it's punk innit — I've got kids'.

"How can you compete with that? And then you try and talk to them about the sociological, let alone the political, aspects of what's going on, and you can't even get to first base. If you can't kiss them, you can't expect to spend the night with them. It's an impossible task, really.

"Well, really I don't blame people for thinking that I swing with the times. I did think with the punk thing — obviously I was taken aback by it as everybody else was... there were a few weeks of adjustment, but I genuinely thought that the majority of people who listened to the programme would feel like I felt — that you didn't realise you were being bored until you stopped being bored.

"I also thought that all the people who had been listening to old Grateful Dead albums when they heard the Pistols and The Ramones and The Damned, their attitude would've been the same as mine — sort of, thank God for that, here's something that's actually lively. My attitude to it is the same as when I first heard rock 'n' roll in the '50s. Prior to that I'd been buying records by Johnny Ray, Frankie Laine, and even Doris Day I'm ashamed to say, and Ruby Murray, who was featured in that Whatever Happened To... programme, so when I first heard Little Richard it was thank God for that. It was the same with the Damned.

"I was taken aback by it, though, and previously we had been playing these twelve-minute tracks and suddenly you had this LP with nothing but 1'45" tracks on it, and it seemed to be a denial of everything I was doing... the orientation had always been very much towards albums and that suddenly shifted. Singles became important and interesting and exciting, and in my own defence I'd always said that an enormous amount of albums that I used to play around that time had enough good stuff on them to make a pretty good single.

"Well, I think what I like is primitives, I suppose you could categorise them as that... people that are doing stuff that is very basic and direct and as soon as they — it's like with Presley — as soon as they get the backing singers in and few more musicians, it always seems to go wrong. So it's like the first careless rapture that really takes me, the first flush of excitement. Obviously I get accused of abandoning people when they become famous, but it seems that when they become famous they also become extremely dull in a lot of cases.

"I realise that there's a disenfranchised number of people — not a majority but it's a large minority, but the thing is they've got the records. They don't have to listen to the radio."

After we arrive back at Peel's now darkened for action hutch, it still seems half an hour before the easy theme music comes out "Hello and welcome..." introduces Peel, in the Deep, Droll Voice which is most definitely not contrived.

EARLIER in the evening Peel had gone some way to indicating the remarkable and unique extent of his current significance, and his position of distinguished catalyst for the new age, when he mentioned that he has spent a lot of his time recently listening to demo tapes!

"My big problem at the moment, well, the last couple of years, is demo tapes. They keep coming in at about the rate of eight a day, and a backlog had built up. I sorted them all out and they came to 491. I sat down the week before last and listened to about 135. What used to happen about five or six years ago is that you'd get maybe one demo tape a week, not even that many, and there'd always be a couple that had the most amusing letters, from the type of people who send requests to the Anne Nightingale show, as I discovered the other day, and they would sort of sit all the people that they'd been influenced by, and the letters would be funny.

"But the tapes would be absolutely hideous, it was like how could you listen to all those people — usually Loudon Wainwright, Little Feat, Neil Young and Bob Dylan — and then their music would be nightmarish. Just hopeless, whereas now what you tend to get is a really scruffy tape wrapped up in bog paper with a kind of 'Here's our tape, if you don't fucking like it, stuff it!'

"And then you'll put them on and I suppose out of every ten, there are four or five that are really rather good, usually one that's excellent. But there's no point in me giving them to anybody else at the BBC 'cos that's not their job and I found that out of these 135 I had to send back about 125 of them, and a lot of them were fairly old. So I wrote an inadequate little letter saying thanks a lot, sorry that I've had to hang on to it for so long, and by the end of the week I felt such a bastard. Because there's probably all these people waiting to get their tapes back and expecting something positive and helpful and all they get is a badly written note. And that was really depressing, and I've still got something like 350 to go."

"This, though, is how Peel's role had developed. As his show shifted from album to single orientation, it then followed naturally into featuring those new groups whom even the multitude of new independent labels couldn't accommodate. There is a whole sub-stratum of groups — obscure and not so obscure — whose main hope of coverage is through Peel airplay. Peel's limited but extensive as possible concentration on these new groups is a lone, loose indication of the present magnitude of rock 'n' roll.

"In a way it's a role that lots of people would relish. Just at a time when everything was getting very boring and I was getting very bored, it's like given me literally a new lease of life in a sense. I suddenly find myself doing this at an immense age, like old enough to be the dad of most of the people who listen to the show and who are in the bands that play — which obviously I thoroughly enjoy. But it does mean that for an awful lot of the bands and records the only chance they've got of being heard is through the programme, and it sounds like I'm over-estimating my own importance in a way — that's the reality of the situation, and it's a situation which I really hate actually. Because some people might find it wonderful being in a position of power, in a sense, but as I say it gets very depressing.

"I keep making up lists of bands I want to get onto the programme and there's no way that we can get them all in. There's like a hundred bands at least that I'd really like to book for the programme. You can't get them in. There isn't enough space. So I have to go through the business of sorting them out and saying 'Well that record isn't quite good enough'. But then you can very easily get bands on to do sessions, and then another band will send in a tape and I'll send it back saying it's not quite there, and then they'll say 'Well, we're as good as that band who were on last week'.

"And you have to say, 'Well, yes, you are actually'. So it's almost got to a point where some of the bands we book are representing a whole group of bands who don't get in. That aspect I find depressing. Obviously, the compensations are considerable, just the pleasure of listening to so many good records really. And then when you get one coming along, like today I got this record from The Quads and I put it on, and it's got this great over-the-top guitar opening and it's one of those where you can feel the hair on the back of the neck going... Ho! Ho! Oh yeah!"

THURSDAY night's programme is a typical John Peel selection in its unpredictability, diversity and fascination, it's a jumble of new, old, sloppy, wacky, oblique, vague and gorgeous. It featured an amount of music that a few years ago would have lasted all week. Now such an amount is a small sample of the music that Peel could play every night and that still wouldn't cover everything.

In two hours it squashed in Swell Maps, The Quads, The 45's, Penetration, The Stranglers, Jam, Peter Hammill, Philip Goodhand-Tait, XTC, a smattering of reggae, a Cravats session, all shuffled with minimal informal interference from Peel. But Peel's character is crucial; the programme rides on his enthusiasm.

"It was an unusual show tonight in that I didn't change anything about. It went just as it was planned. Usually things are shoved in at the last moment, things that come in — and that's incredibly exciting."

So what guidelines are there for a Peel programme?

"There's a certain amount of consumer guide to it, and funnily enough I talk a lot less than I used to. I talk less and less all the time, and I try not to express an opinion too much, I try and let people make up their own minds."

Is it difficult not to express an opinion?

"It depends on what sort of mood you're in. Sometimes you don't feel like saying anything at all, and there are times when I go in and I think I'd much rather be at home watching telly — it doesn't often happen. Then there are other nights when you can feel really great — tonight I am going to feel great, 'cos I can't wait to get that Quads record onto the radio, 'cos I'm so looking forward to hearing it again! My role is that of a superfan in a sense, but it's a superfan who has got to be a bit responsible to the audience."

"I listen to all the records and I produce an obsessively typed list with title, artist, label and timing, which I give to Walters, and it usually has 150 tracks on it, always a lot of reggae, we don't play as much reggae as I would like. And then Walters builds the programme from that list — it works quite well as a system because he curbs my worst excesses."

"He stops me from playing just the stuff I want to hear. If it was left just up to me something like The Undertones LP would get played in its entirety every night. Because what I feel about The Undertones LP, it's that kind of irrational — it's love really. It is. It's the same as I feel about Liverpool. It transcends reason, and it's just a passion. I know The Undertones, and people will think this is the most earnest bullshit, but I can go and see them at The Marquee and I want to see them in the dressing room, and you won't believe this, but I was really knocked out! I was thinking this is me and I can just walk in and talk to The Undertones."

Have you always been like this?

"I've always been fairly stupid. But in the last three years funnily enough even more so than ever. I really was frightened of meeting Siouxie. In a way I think these things help. I wouldn't want to get too involved in the business — the only one of the Pistols that I've ever met wanted to pick a fight with me, and I never met any of The Clash or The Stranglers. I don't really know people in rock bands. None of me mates have anything to do with the music business. I used to know someone in Pink Floyd but I haven't seen him for a while. I think knowing amazingly few people in bands helps me keep my perspective. But when I get to see The Undertones, all reason deserts me."

"I wanted to be a disc jockey ever since I was a kid really," Peel will reflect, ever since I was about 11 or 12. I used to listen to AFN and Radio Luxembourg and I thought, rather naively at the time, that the DJs played just the music that they themselves wanted to hear, and I thought that there was a job that I wanted to do. But there didn't seem to be much possibility of me doing it at the time. My father told me that I couldn't get a job on the BBC unless I was Catholic or homosexual or both. He had a rather distorted view of life, I think. Nice chap but funny views. I'd written to Pete Murray funnily enough to ask how to become a DJ, but he didn't answer. He said that he would have answered if he had got the letter."

JOHAN PEEL was born John Ravenscroft on 30th August 1939, four days before the start of World War Two. He has floated through one of those lives that, when he is laconically charting its course with the selective detail of a true raconteur, will often cause him to break off and taunt "You're not believing any of this, are you?"

Of secure middle class family, at seven he was sent to a North Wales public school, and this led to Shrewsbury at 13, where he stayed four years. "I used to come bottom of the school, which seemed to me quite a good place to be. Only one person can come bottom, the same as only one person can come top. My father was livid. It took a long time to recover from the experiences. Certain aspects have been helpful. It contributed to keeping me exceedingly naive."

After working in the cotton industry in Liverpool and Rochdale and stomping through two years' undistinguished National Service, he called his father's bluff and sailed to America. He ended up in Dallas, Texas. Whilst there — "one of those things which no one ever believes" — he met Presidents Nixon, Johnson and Kennedy within the space of 26 hours, during the 1960 Presidential Parades. "I shook hands with all of them!"

With uncharacteristic slickness he also managed to sneak into the midnight press conference on the day JFK Kennedy was shot, claiming he represented the Liverpool Echo. Lee Harvey Oswald was bought in and it was announced that he was going to be charged with the murder of Kennedy — "And he was no farther away than a couple of yards and I'd swear that he was either a great actor or he didn't have the slightest idea what was going on."

In 1961 Peel entered radio for the first time, on the strength of having some rhythm and blues LPs that nobody else had. He worked part-time for Station WRR in Dallas, a vague early underground radio, until he asked them to pay him. "They told me to sod off. But, having been bitten by the bug..."

There was no stopping him. The opportunity for him to become a full time DJ came during the Beatles explosion. "I became a Beatles expert, but of course I hadn't been in Liverpool for years and didn't know anything about them. In those days, though, America was full of DJs who were all called James Bond who pretended to be English and were really Canadian and who were all Ringo's cousins. I don't know why they chose Ringo. So, in the sense that I wasn't called James Bond and I really did come from

"My father told me that I couldn't get a job on the BBC unless I was Catholic or homosexual."

England, I was almost unique. As a sort of surrogate Beatle I used to get mobbed by little girls around Dallas, and little girls were constantly offering me their bodies, which I thought was great! It did get a bit hair-raising, though."

Forced by the pressure of irate parents, he gratefully fled to Oklahoma City and another fulltime radio job. Whilst in Oklahoma, he married an American girl whom he assumed was 17, but was actually only 15. "It wasn't a very successful arrangement. I stayed with her a bit, not very long. She used to beat me up, put me in hospital a couple of times. She used to wait 'til I was asleep then hit me in the balls with her fist."

His show on Oklahoma Radio was not successful, so he sent a couple of demo tapes to radio stations in California — the mecca of pop radio. He took the unexpected offer of a job in San Bernardino, and on the strength of being English became top DJ.

"Being top man I started to play records that I wanted to play. Previously it had been all chart stuff. But I had to do six hours over the weekend and I thought, if I was going to do six hours, then I'm going to play what I want to play. I started to play blues things, Doors, Love, Butterfield Blues Band and Jefferson Airplane. I worked there for 18 months and then ran foul of the law and thought I'd better leave."

He moved home to England. He had been in America for seven years, half of that as a fulltime disc jockey. Almost immediately on his return he landed a job with then dying Radio London.

"The last man on had to do two shifts. You did the daytime shift which was all Top 40, and then you did the nighttime 12.00 'til 2.00 shift, which was also supposed to be a Top 40 programme as well. But I quickly realised that nobody in the Radio London office was actually listening and none of the people on the boat were, so I started doing away with the format and playing the sort of stuff that I'd been doing in California, which again was the first flower power stuff. Gradually I did away with the weather, never read the news, or played the ads, just played the music. But the time they'd found out about it, it was already too late. It was a successful programme all over Europe."

So when Radio One started, obviously they had to take people from the pirates, but they were reluctant to take me but because I'd been very successful in a short time, they had to. They thought they'd better give me a chance. Fortunately the then producer Bernie Andrews wanted me to do it. We did a Sunday show for a couple of years and again it became popular because we were playing what people wanted to hear, the same as now. After a couple of years Bernie went and Walters came in and we've been doing it ever since. The programme's just gone on from all this really. It's changed, obviously, but the philosophies are much the same."

Peel also reveals that meeting Walters, in 1969, was one of three major impacts on his attitude that affected major change. The second was meeting The Faces — "I realised that they were cheerfully boozing away and messing about and having a great time, and I was keeping myself to myself and having a miserable time."

The third was meeting The Pigback in 1968 — she's now his wife. She resembles a pig a whole lot less than Peel resembles a cuddly hamster. "If it hadn't been for her I would probably be dead by now," he admits, shocked a little at the thought, "mainly because of all the unhealthy substances I was taking back then when I was the King Of The Hippies. If I'd have carried on like that I would never have seen Liverpool in the European Cup Final, never seen Kenny Dalglish! I've got a lot to thank her for!" Liverpool Football Club, says Peel, is definitely his substitute for religion.

PEEL amiably potters away as the minutes languidly tick away on the two clocks that grin down from the walls. Time slows, it seems as, when the programme starts, it will rapidly quicken. The night's engineer arrives: some engineers, Peel says, just sit in their little room next to Peel's reading a copy of Motor Cycle News, but this one, he decides, is alright. Producer, and crucial part of the Peel programme, John Walters, is not present. Behind us, Mike Read is speeding his programme to a close.

Peel suddenly picks up a phone. He calls the wonderful Scottish teenage punk rock group The Prats, who appeared on the first Fast Eddies, to arrange a session. "I can hear them babbling 'it's John Peel, it's John Peel,'" he tuts good-naturedly. He rambles semi-coherently for a while, to no apparent end, and then he hangs up, shakes his head. "They thought I was raving bonkers."

At times, Peel reminded me of an archetype BBC wise and able eccentric, a rock n' roll Henry Longhurst, an enthusiast in the clothes of expert. His manner is, sometimes that of lofty, astute statesman, sometimes that of senile nitwit, sometimes that of infantile idiot, sometimes that of prudent observer.

We talk, as the ten minute Newsbeat break approaches, about the significant change in listener that has affected the Peel programme over the last three years. Peel survived, thrived on, the punk revolution, but his immediate enthusiastic greeting confused and upset his old listeners who were as suspicious of the new music as Peel was thankful.

"The audience for the programme has gone up four or five-fold over the last couple of years, and the apparent ages seem to have dropped from 25/26 to 17/18 and it's no longer sort of students, it's just kids... and that's OK, kids don't have a lot going for them these days, so they've got a radio programme they can quite enjoy and it's rather nice to be able to do it for them."

"But like at Reading, when they chant 'John Peel's an arsehole' whenever anything goes wrong, last year they really meant it. And it wasn't the punks or the skinheads, but the Judas Priest fans who thought I'd sold them down the road. And the cans were coming, and the occasional one I was sort of nodding away — you have to make these gestures — and the blood was trickling down my face, and then they started throwing rocks. Rocks the size of your fist were coming at me at quite a pace and it's not being dramatic to say that they can kill you if they hit you in the wrong place, or turn you into a vegetable. And I thought that if people were prepared to kill me for not playing Judas Priest records then things have got a bit out of hand. This year I'm going to take a crash helmet with me."

A lot of people accused Peel of crudely swinging with the times when the music featured on his show went through a fairly dramatic shift.

PEEL lives with his family in a small market town in East Anglia. "There are actually two bands in the village where I live and one of them is really rather good," he announces with amazement, "and apparently there's a very good reggae band in Ipswich."

On the day after I sit in on his show we meet for more drink and chat, and he's with The Pig and one of his children. "This is a calculated manoeuvre to impress upon you the image of family man," he explains, only half-kidding.

He's a passionate believer in people, personality and common

Continues page 53

IMAGINE being paid to play your favourite records on the radio for hours each week . . .
IMAGINE being able to walk into The Undertones' dressing room without even knocking . . .
IMAGINE still being hip at 40 . . .
IMAGINE being interviewed by PAUL MORLEY and photographed by PENNIE SMITH
JOHN PEEL, this is your life.

LED ZEPPELIN IN THROUGH THE OUT DOOR

AVAILABLE ON SWANSONG RECORDS AND TAPES SSK 59410 DISTRIBUTED BY WEA

ALBUM AVAILABLE FROM AUGUST 20th

SILVER SCREEN

Roddam's mod(ern) vision

Quadrophenia

Directed by Franc Roddam
Starring Phil Daniels, Phil Davis, Leslie Ash and Sting.
(Brent Walker)

Like a mod on speed, let's not hang about:

Quadrophenia is not simply the best British film of '79 but probably the best British rock film ever.

It's a film that will help establish reputations, fashions, attitudes, and much more. It is, simply, brilliant.

It's a 'rock' film not because it's about rock (it isn't), not even because it uses a rock album for its soundtrack — the music is, ironically, one of the film's weakest points — but because it charts the rock and roll teenage wasteland with a compassion, honesty and gritty realism that shrivels the pretensions of all but a tiny handful of so-called 'youth culture' movies, British or American.

Rock and roll-related culture are, after all, beasts fuelled for great parts on myths — no bad thing in itself, in fact an essential part of their success and value — but how many 'rock' movies have done anything more than sell us back the myths we created ourselves with the pitiful and mundane aspects of our lives glamorised or ignored? In this country perhaps only Performance and Bronco Bullfrog measure up, with honourable mentions to That'll Be The Day and Stardust. America, of course, is a different story, from The Wild One onwards, down through Don't Look Back, Gimme Shelter, and even hoary old stompers like American Graffiti and Easy Rider.

Not that purely mythical rock movies like A Hard Day's Night or King Creole can't be fun, or even that Saturday Night Fever is without its merits — just that the briefest comparison between Fever and Quadrophenia shows up the former for what it truly is: the saccharine excess of a diabetic culture.

Nor is it to say that Quadrophenia doesn't peddle myths of its own — it does, at times a little too clumsily and fiercely for comfort — but Quadrophenia also features very large chunks of very grim and very joyful reality: the kids in it swear, shout, eat unspeakable cafe food, fart, piss, have pointless arguments and fights, send each other up, have sordid sexual gropings, indulge in petty crime and take drugs, lots and lots of them as it happens — I've never seen a movie with so much blue language and so many blue bombers. All these things are bound to bring the film under attack from the forces of suppression, and bound to attract young cinema-goers in large numbers.

The story is simple: a week or so in the life of archetypal dumb/smart mod kid Jimmy and his mates round Shepherd's Bush, centring on a bank holiday excursion to Brighton for the already traditional block-up, bunk-up and punch-up.

From the moment when Townshend's guitar slices off the opening riff of 'The Real Me' and a phalanx of Lambretta and Vespa engines and headlights burst into life we're speeding through a dazzling sequence of scenarios that introduce us to the film's characters and brilliantly evoke the mod lifestyle and the changing social fabric of a Britain learning to live with, and sometimes love, the 1960s.

There are omissions, mistakes and falsifications sure (and later for them), but basically all the myths of mod-dom and many of its realities are present and correct, down to the last desert boot and chrome GS side panel, all displayed with a panache and speed worthy of the mod ideal. The film is in fact cut almost fanatically fast, in sympathy with the fact that most of its characters are out their trees on blues for much of the time. At two hours long, that makes for a numbing amount of action.

Ah yes, the action... but who needs a catalogue of that to spoil your first-time viewing thrills, especially when you've already seen the pics in NME...

In any case what really happens is that the bank holiday outing crystallises a growing crisis in Jimmy's life; with huge quantities of the demon Speed ravaging his system and reducing him to psychological tatters, Jimmy finds all his fundamental life support systems suddenly eroded — his home, his friends, his girl, his job, his scooter, finally even his identity as a mod. All that's left is a suit, a bagful of blues and the restless eternity of the sea along Beachy Head.

It's a crisis — and this is where Townshend's original rock opus comes in — borne out of the conflicts between the need to live up to the myths of mod-dom, the mundane demands of everyday reality, and the recurring problem of just what life is all about.

Because a metaphysical tank hangs in the atmosphere of Quadrophenia like salt in sea air. And to understand that you have to forget all about '79's mod revival and even the mod consciousness of '64, and home in on Pete Townshend/Moher Baba love and peace consciousness circa the early '70s, when

"Ere — John Entwistle never looked as cool as us lot in his whole bleedin' life!"

QUADROPHENIA

A WAY OF LIFE

THE WHO FILMS Present A CURBISLEY BAIRD PRODUCTION

Musical Directors: ROGER DALTRY • JOHN ENTWISTLE • PETE TOWNSHEND

Screenplay by DAVE HUMPHRIES • MARTIN STELLMAN • FRANC RODDAM • Produced by ROY BARD & BILL CURBISLEY • Directed by FRANC RODDAM • A POLYTEL FILM • RELEASED BY BRENT WALKER FILM DISTRIBUTION LTD. •

NOW
SHOWING

PLAZA
LOWER REGENT ST TEL 437 1234

classic
OXFORD STREET

OPPOSITE TOTENHAM
COURT ROAD TUBE
Tel: 636 0310

ABC
EDGWARE RD
723 5901

ABC
FULHAM RD
370 2636

'Quadrophenia' was conceived. And, as has been widely twiggled, while 'Quadrophenia' celebrated the long lost daze of the '60s (at a time when mods were profoundly 'unhip'), it also expressed a fulsome disillusionment with the mod ethic, cos when you come right down to it and take away all the trappings, said Pete, you're just a lonely little geezer on a rock in the sea wondering what the fuck it's all about. And my answer is Oneness.

With aspirations like that hanging around, Quadrophenia could have been a small disaster area in the hands of another director in another time. What's saved it is its canny timing — coming in on the crest of an unforeseen mod revival — and the convincing social and psychological realism created by Franc Roddam and a very talented young cast.

With experience working in TV drama, including the award winning Dummy, Roddam has an acute understanding of grassroots British society and the techniques to convey its flavour. Much of Quadrophenia's success lies not so much in the staged mod reconstructions on beachfront and in disco but in the seedy realism of the interior shots; the most realistic teenage party sequence yet, the crumminess of Jimmy's home and the increasingly horrific encounters with his parents, Jimmy wanking himself to sleep in the vexation of a come-down, feeling like death in the washroom of the ad agency where he works and outdresses his bosses.

It's the landscape of alienation; no accident that the most common phrase in the film is 'Fuck Off! Just F*CK OFF!', the exchange to which all social relationships seem to lead.

Phil Daniel's performance as Jimmy is little short of staggering, but all the cast are good with special mentions to Michael Elphick as Jimmy's dad and Sting as the Ace Face (the only one to have the walk right).

Roddam's unfailing common touch and the warmth and naturalness of the actors disarm most of the petty criticisms, but can I just say the bank holiday riot was too violent for '64, when street violence hadn't reached its present level of sophistication, that The Who hadn't released either of the records in the film in '64, that track shoes didn't exist then, that the word 'aggro' hadn't yet come into being, that there wasn't enough dancing, that some of the mods looked a little old (compare with the linen-jacketed shoulder-twitching Townshend in The Kids Are Alright)...

And that most of all, who ever heard of a mod film without a Tamla Motown record in the soundtrack?

Brighton rock '64 (above): The massed mods interfere with the No 38 bus route. Brighton rock '79 (below): The massed mods interfere with the sun-bathing habits of a few rockers. This is the real world.

While music is, rightly I think, given second place here there's still an alarming shortage of real mod music in the movie. We're given pop hits of '64, Who hits of '65, sparing fragments of 'Quadrophenia', but not a single helping of the Tamla/R&B music of the sort that The Who were copying rather badly at the time. But the important thing is that Quadrophenia works. It's entertainment plus. It's alright because the kids were and are alright and in this case grew up and wrote and financed and directed their version of events. Thank God they didn't give it to Ken Russell.

Neil Spencer

Elvis
THE MOVIE

A John Carpenter Film

Starring
KURT RUSSELL
as Elvis Presley

SHEELLY WINTERS as Gladys Presley
SEASON HUBLEY as Priscilla Presley
PAUL HINGLE as Colonel Tom Parker
Lawrence Myers Presents
A Dick Clark Production

GTO FILMS

NOW
Bayswater ABC 229 6620
Edgware Road ABC 723 5901
Fulham Road ABC 370 2110
Haymarket CLASSIC 839 1527
Leicester Sq SCENE 439 4470
Oxford St STUDIO 437 3300

FROM SUNDAY
Bexley Heath ABC
Croydon ABC
Ealing ABC
Enfield ABC
Golders Green ABC
Guildford STUDIO
Hampstead CLASSIC
Romford ABC
Streatham ABC

SEE PRESS FOR DETAILS

TIME FOR ACTION

SECRET AFFAIR
THE SINGLE
TIME FOR ACTION
-IN A BROWN PAPER BAG- ON

I-SPY RECORDS

GETTING YOUR "A" LEVEL RESULTS NEXT WEEK?

NOT SURE WHAT TO DO OR WHERE TO GO?

NME WILL HAVE DETAILS OF HIGHER EDUCATION COURSES WHICH ARE AVAILABLE.

MAKE SURE YOU GET NEXT WEEK'S ISSUE!

CHEAPER THAN CHELSEA

6 Tracks 20 Minutes Max Price £1.50

First Release:
TOYAH

'Sheep Farming in Barnet'

ALTERNATIVE PLAY SAP1 SAFARI

It's the robbery everybody said nobody could do ... and a nobody did!

THE BRINK'S JOB

stars PETER FALK and PETER BOYLE
ALLEN GOORWITZ · WARREN OATES
GENA ROWLANDS · PAUL SORVINO

Directed by WILLIAM FRIEDKIN · Screenplay by WILLIAM GREEN · Based on 'Big Stick Up at Brink's' by DALE BENT
Produced by RALPH SORPE · Music by ROBERT ROBERTS
Copyright © 1978 EMI · All Rights Reserved
Now a Paperback from CROWN Books · Released by COLUMBIA-EMI WARNER Distributors Limited

THE LAND THAT TIME FORGOT

PLUS FROM THE AUTHOR OF TARZAN

DOUG M. CLURE
JOHN McENERY · SUSAN PENHALIGON

Produced by JOHN DILL · Screenplay by JIM LINDSEY · Released by COLUMBIA-EMI WARNER Distributors Limited

FROM THURSDAY AUGUST 16th
classic VICTORIA | ABC BAYSWATER
AND AT SELECTED OTHER LEADING CINEMAS

FROM SUN AUGUST 19th

|                  |                   |                |
|------------------|-------------------|----------------|
| BECKENHAM ABC    | PURLEY Astoria    | WATFORD Empire |
| BEXLEY HEATH ABC | PUTNEY ABC        | WOODFORD ABC   |
| EALING ABC       | ROMFORD ABC       |                |
| EDGWARE ABC      | SIOUP ABC         |                |
| ENFIELD ABC      | STAINES ABC       |                |
| HAMMERSMITH ABC  | STREATHAM ABC     |                |
| ILFORD ABC       | TOTTENHAM Studio  |                |
| KILBURN Broadway | TURNPIKE LANE ABC |                |
| MILE END ABC     | WALTHAM CROSS ABC |                |

FROM SUNDAY AUGUST 26th
SEVENOAKS Focus

Your own design printed on our quality shirts-up to 6 colours (not transfers) whether you need 10, 100, or 100,000 all orders large or small treated with equal care, fast service sensible prices

free art service
CONTACT-BEES (PRINT UNIT) LTD
DEPT NME
HARTOPP WORKS, HARTOPP ROAD
EXMOUTH, DEVON, TEL (0392) 1907

Club & Promotional Shirts

"THE EXCITEMENT THAT THE MOVIE GENERATES IS PERHAPS THE NEAREST THING TO BEING AT ONE OF THEIR CONCERTS."

SUNDAY TELEGRAPH

The Kids Are Alright

AA

MUSIC FROM THE SOUNDTRACK
AVAILABLE ON Dolby RECORDS AND TAPES.

THE WHO

If you can't be at Wembley with the Band, join together with the film.

ROCK FILMS LIMITED PRESENTS A JEFF STEIN FILM

starring THE WHO/ROGER DALTREY/PETE TOWNSHEND/JOHN ENTWISTLE/KEITH MOON in THE KIDS ARE ALRIGHT/Edited by Ed Rothkowitz/Producers: Tony Klinger/Bill Curbishley Executive Producer Sydney Rose/Conceived and Directed by Jeff Stein

RELEASED BY BRENT WALKER FILM DISTRIBUTORS LTD

8th GREAT WEEK AT THE RIALTO TELEPHONE 437 3488
LEICESTER SQUARE W.1

A BRENT WALKER THEATRE

ALSO THIS WEEK

ACCRINGTON Classic · CHELTENHAM Odeon · HOLLOWAY Odeon
IPSWICH Odeon · MIDDLETON Cine · SHEFFIELD Studio · WOOD GREEN Odeon

FROM AUGUST 19

BIRMINGHAM Cinecenta · BOLTON Odeon · BRIXTON Ritzy · CHORLEY Studio · COVENTRY Cine
DERBY ABC · EAST FINCHLEY Phoenix · HANLEY ABC · KILMARNOCK ABC · LEICESTER Cinecenta
NEWARK Studio · NOTTINGHAM Classic · OLDHAM Odeon · PETERBOROUGH Odeon
PRESTON Odeon · READING (Friar St.) ABC · SCUNTHORPE Studio · WOLVERHAMPTON ABC

FROM AUGUST 23

BRIGHTON ABC · BRISTOL Studio · TORRINGTON Plough

FROM AUGUST 26

BRADFORD Cinecenta · BURNLEY Studio · CHESTER Odeon · FOLKESTONE Curzon
RAWTENSTALL Unit · SALTCOATS Scala

Details correct at time of going to press.

ALBUMS

TALKING HEADS

Fear Of Music (Sire)

"Any work of art that can be understood is the product of a journalist." — Tristan Tzara (the Dada manifesto).

"So what? You dismal little Rumanian!" — Tom Wolfe (The Painted Word).

Tom Wolfe once wrote a book called The Painted Word, a thin volume of accomplished iconoclasm. In it he traces the rise and rise of Theory in Art. It may not have escaped your attention that theory, thinly disguised as pop criticism, has been raising its ugly head again.

Fine art was Wolfe's concern, though, and this is what he said, that it is no longer enough to simply paint, because painting is now abstract, and something that's abstract just begs for someone to come along with an explanation. The explanation is what counts! the words are all.

Along comes a band... say, Talking Heads. The music they make is rather unusual. Any band, approaching their music in an unusual way, is obliged to find a rationale for doing so. Some sort of explanation. Because although it's still enough to simply play rock 'n' roll, what constitutes rock is getting more and more abstract — and what does the abstract beg for? Right. And if the artist doesn't give it then the critic will. But so what? (You wretched little killjoy).

It must all stem from some kind of fear of music. A great title for an album; along with the blank, ugly, tactile feel of the cover, it's probably meant to suggest something about the contents. But what does it mean? Well, it actually describes a rare phobia condition involving a physically negative reaction to the sound of music.

That's literal interpretation, but Talking Heads aren't easy to take at their word. Rather, their words invite interpretation; they ask to be read. It was Wolfe's contention that Art woke up one day and found that it could be read, and thenceforth the word was the back seat driver. Music's too popular to be steered by an elite readership — as the art world is — but it has nonetheless come far enough to be read.

And Talking Heads are a very literary band. Look at all the literary devices they employ: narrative, description, point-of-view, colloquialisms. Look at how they lay themselves open to the charge of pretension with one word titles and songs like stray thoughts jotted down in brisk shorthand. David Byrne is eminently readable.

That's nothing to be afraid of. You pay for what you please and get what you pay for. A caution though — what you get here is not what you'd expect.

This is Talking Heads' third album in as many years. Since "... Buildings And Food" they've re-negotiated their record deal with Sire (who woke up one day and found that Talking Heads outsell The Ramones) and they've relentlessly toured the rock markets whilst solidly ignoring the country that gave them their first taste of genuine and not just critical acceptance.

It would serve them right if England said "Talking what?". As well it might, because "Fear Of Music" has none of their last record's sheen and not much of its finesse either. It finds the Heads' necks stuck out just when sound commercial sense says they really shouldn't be. Bullly for them.

The crux of this lies in the recording. The basic tracks

David Byrne smiles enigmatically. Pic: Pennie Smith

This Is The Modern Art (In Theory And Practice)

were cut in the loft apartment of the rhythm section in a dilapidated Brooklyn suburb downstairs from Don Cherry's place in just two days. The rest was done piecemeal at four different studios. It was made on the wing and it shows.

It isn't careless or sloppy, just loose (the sound of a tight band limbered up, live (like their last album was supposed to be), and unpolished (not geared for radio consumption, though Talking Heads have their foot in that door already so the risk is not so great).

In common with Bowie's "Low" it doesn't sound like an album at all: just songs caught in full flight and grouped together in a pleasant combination. If you're looking for something to fill those spaces Bowie left behind, then this is probably it.

Eno makes this Bowie connection inescapable, I'm afraid, and Byrne's elusive character, always flitting about behind the phrasing and the phraseology, compounds it. But whereas Eno stood out on "... Buildings And Food", he's now, for better or worse, seamlessly integrated into the Heads sound (and he knows all about Art and Theory too. Just ask. He'll take your question at face value...)

The prime result of the recording conditions is that David Byrne's voice has all its live mania and what used to sound tentative now sounds deliberately sly. If in the past you've found him hideously wet and fey, then take another listen. Byrne isn't such a twittering compulsive these days. He isn't lovestruck anymore either. There are no songs about girls and boys, nor about buildings, and food.

The lyrics are the usual blunt observations of other people's problems: blunt as in sympathetic, but not very compassionate. And not very paranoid anymore. His confidence in his writing and singing is starting to match his boldness. But he still thinks too much — he's worrying me to death.

He thinks of people as they worry about their problems of identity (on "Paper", "Air" and "Memories Can Wait") their problems of boredom ("Mind", "Heaven", "Cities") and some more specific troubles too.

He thinks Marshall McLuhan's technologically sophisticated cavemen will be more of a technologically imprisoned pauper, and envisages what we may have to deal with on "Life During Wartime". He also reckons animals aren't so dumb:

"Animals think. They're pretty smart. Shit on the ground. See in the dark." (Animals).

"Animals", playing against an ambient percussive jungle sound that crops up over and over on "Fear Of Music", is a song that nags at the mind like the best of Talking Heads. Like the song "Mind" in fact, which just yearns for something to erase the terrible ennui that Byrne seems to feel about himself on certain tracks on this record. And like "Electric Guitar", which states, with matter-of-fact insistence, that "Someone controls electric guitar". He's right; someone does.

But take this how you want: There's no "Found A Job" on this album, nothing so witty and trenchant, and there's no "Thank You For Spending Me An Angel" either, nothing so charming, stupid, and inconsequential.

The emphasis on Byrne's part in "Fear Of Music" is deliberate. Talking Heads don't sound like a band on this record, they sound like a band playing Byrne's songs. Jerry Harrison's touch is mercurial, though crucial and Chris Frantz and Tina Weymouth's presence is merely supportive, though finally just as crucial. Weymouth is to "Duck" Dunn what Bernard Edwards is to James Jamerson and Frantz is as solid as steel, but the tension isn't there this time, except in Byrne's voice. He's getting cleverer, make no mistake.

"Fear Of Music" is unlikely to find such wide favour as "... Buildings And Food". But it will have its partisans. And they will have the usual amount of cerebral fun with Byrne's cock-eyed, alienated view of people's confusion.

Almost as much fun as David Byrne sounds like he's having with translating what he sees into Talking Heads' strange sense of what does and what doesn't constitute rock. Because to paraphrase someone or other, aesthetics are no longer to these artists what ornithology is to the birds.

Now, riddle me this: why did the critic cross the road? Simple. To get to the bottom of it.

Paul Rambali

CHUCK MANGIONE An Evening Of Magic: Live At The Hollywood Bowl (A&M)

As the industry casts desperately around for the next big money-spinner, there's already some wild talk about a jazz revival. The idea is that punks and disco dancers alike are liable to become bored by the monotony of their chosen styles and seek out more melodic music.

Well, maybe. Chuck Mangione is well placed if it happens. In the States, he's well placed anyway, as a multi-platinum star. Oddly enough, Mangione is a flugelhorn player. Not many flugelhorn players shift the product like Chuck.

If you wanted to be nasty (and why not?), you might accuse Mangione of diluting his jazz into musak for self-elected sophisticates. Really, though, that would be untrue. Mangione sounds to me like a pretty inventive player. It just happens that he writes good tunes and then proceeds to play them convincingly. Whether it be epic movie soundtracks like "Children Of Sanchez" high-grade schmaltz like "Do It Every With You" or nimble fusioning like "Feels So Good", Mangione never throws a cheap shot.

This double album gives a useful overview of his work. Where other fusion music consists of convoluted sequences and jagged phrases honed to slide-rule perfection, Mangione offers you melodies and emotions. It's just a pity he looks like a middle-aged hippie.

Bob Edmonds

Albert King smiles.

Pic: George Bodnar.

seminal as B.B.'s.

The style is familiar. Chicago through Memphis blues, husky grained vocals, sinuous guitar figures, fat rhythms and a gamut of emotionally definitive journeys through old and new times. The balance is featherlight, "Born Under A Bad Sign" tipped against "Get Out Of My Life Woman" and "Flat Tire".

The sound? Well, the Toussaint stamp is unmistakable — if you check the man at all then investigation is mandatory — and Sansu Productions never let you down. This New Orleans Heat is aptly named, a fruitful, smokey, hot summer night partnership that unites some of America's most fascinating soul men in an appropriate setting.

Max Bell

MICK TAYLOR
Mick Taylor (CBS)

And the same reclusive figure who, aged 16, crept on stage to join Mayall's Bluesbreakers, was later to be found — in that fading footage of the Stones' '72 American Tour — denim-clad, angelic and wistfully strumming a large acoustic whilst his fellows disported themselves with distinctly jaded abandon.

As one of rock's least controversial figures (reason enough to quit the Stones, I guess), Taylor's reputation seems surprisingly as great as his influence on rock has been undeniably meagre. So do we expect the tidal wave of the last few years to have influenced him? We don't, and it hasn't.

Rarely have I heard such fine music shuffled in with such total dross. Worst first: twice on this album he shows signs of following Clapton's more slushy and sentimental footsteps — the inane 'Baby I Want You', with its strolling acoustic guitar, slide and 'plaintive' vocal, and 'SW 5', a neatly constructed, very Claptonish ballad that he wrecks by focussing all attention on the instrumental detail (all, except drums, he plays himself) rather than the song's overall dynamic. Despite some occasionally spacious vocal treatment, Taylor never once sings with conviction, and he's little helped by the staggering crassness of his lyrics.

Flip the disc and find the man's gone jazz/rock. 'Spanish' abounds with soporific cord washes over which his guitar slides with Allan Holdsworth-styled creamy sustain, and 'A Minor' breaks with twittering birds and lapping surf and an 'uneasy' progression where synthesizers score across its surface with irritating results.

The rest of the album covers assured, familiar ground, and does so with satisfying vigour. Lowell George's distinctive slide dominates the soft-centred Southern boogie 'Giddy Up' before Taylor steers it into more jazz-bound tedium. The blues-based 'Alabama' is a road-weary acoustic retread, effectively backed with just cluttered bottleneck and a bass drum, and for the supremely nostalgic 'Slow Blues' he sets his 'primitive' 'Bare Wires' tone against a polished jilling backbeat, as it to show he can still reel off spine-tingling pure blues with both hands tied together.

And lastly, there's the forceful 'Broken Hands' — virtually a pastiche of the dirty, raw, two-chord drive that recalls 'Black And Blue' — which proves that a lengthy sojourn in the Stones' camp tends to leave permanent scars.

A safe and uneventful return.

Mark Ellen

Rodeney narrowly misses out on the 'poet gazing reflectively at ocean' pose.

Pic: Adrian Boot.

Nothing Like The Best

BURNING SPEAR Harder Than The Best (Island)

On reflection, I don't really believe in the concept of a 'Best Of Burning Spear'.

Spear music is so consistently immaculate and pure, each stage of its manifestation so crucial, that to wrench tracks from the context of their particular album and period and then jam them side by side seems inappropriate and misleading. Great artists don't lend themselves to encapsulation; they demand full-scale commitment.

That's why albums like this or those 'Best Of Bob Dylan' affairs can be little more than sampler albums; the problem is particularly great with Spear since unlike most of his ranking Jamaican contemporaries he rarely even has hit singles as such; he's simply there, primal, inviolable, magnificent.

During his association with Island, Winston Rodeney, the man called Burning Spear, delivered the company four studio albums and a live set; the period saw his rightful elevation from a humble Studio One artist (and his Studio One albums are as indispensable in their way as his Island outings, containing as they do much material he later reworked in a more 'sophisticated' context) to the heights of international stature (if not stardom). His lack of greater recognition can only be ascribed to the uncompromising nature and stance of his music, also his infrequent live performances.

'Harder Than The Best' (that Cultured title, tell me where you get it) is an uneven selection from the four Island studio LPs. You get four cuts from the angry innovative, 'Marcus Garvey'; only one from the rural exuberance of 'Man In The Hills'; three from the marking-time 'Dry And Heavy'; and two from the dazzling, revolutionary 'Marcus Children' (retitled 'Social Living' by Island). There's also a cut from Jack Ruby's unforgivably lame 'Garvey's Ghost' dub of 'Marcus Garvey', and the dub cut of 'Civilized Reggae' (already on 12" disc) alongside 'Social Living' incidentally, and too bad the complete and absolutely astonishing dub set of

'Marcus Children' has never seen the light of day).

It's an unadventurous selection that never gets into an album in its own right, despite the universal brilliance of the music. Better could and should have come — and why only one cut from 'Man In The Hills'? For anyone already owning a Spear Island album other than 'Live' this is a pointless purchase — spend your money on a Spear album proper instead and collect the set.

For the punter wishing to own a solitary Spear LP, 'Harder Than The Best' makes more sense, but still not as much as buying 'Marcus Garvey', 'Man In The Hills' or 'Social Living'.

Neil Spencer

SUPERCHARGE Body Rhythm (Virgin)

For 'Supercharge', read 'Robert John "Mutt" Lange'. Lange is the band's long-time producer and co-mentor. He not only arranges and produces this album, he's also its sole composer.

'Body Rhythm' is slick, facetious, adulterated disco — not so much a suspect departure from the band's bulky and booze-addled cabaret creed, but more a logical progression from the kind of boogie/funk pastiches that Lange was writing for their '76 album 'Local Lads Make Good'. His motives remain a mystery — either Lange has aspirations to churn out faceless disco movie scores, or else wants an excuse to play around with expensive machinery. More than likely, it's just a monumental spoof.

Whatever, the results make an exquisitely classy album, clean-sweeping every available Euro/Anglo/Stateside disco track into slabs of functional dance music. Some tracks reveal their prototypes more deliberately than others. 'We Both Believe In Love' weighs heavy on The Village People's patriotic pulse, 'Show Me How Real Your Love Is' is pure, sugared Newton-John-Travolta, and 'I Think I'm Gonna Fall (In Love)' (notice this 'love' theme?) nods affectionately towards Jeff Wayne's 'War Of The Worlds'.

The album celebrates — in typically vacuous style — the joys of the dance-floor when feet are running riot. Every track is luxuriously produced (vocoders, phasers — Lange's got the lot) and played with uncanny precision. A cautious Virgin Records informs that besides the regular band there's "a few session men involved". I suspect it's the latter who dominate, though I sense the dulcet falsetto of saxist Porky Parker lurking in the backline.

It's highly dubious whether 'Body Rhythm' heralds a change in the band's direction. Supercharge going straight? Slim chance.

Mark Ellen

IMPORTS

When Wynonie Harris died 10 years ago you might have caught the report of his death down in the lower-page smallprint. Short change really for an R&B giant. And in recent times there's been little redress, none of the belated recognition afforded such as Louis Jordan and some of the others who became submerged beneath the great white wipe-out, when Haley and the nip-off regime moved in and the real founders of rock'n'roll got lost in the wash.

'Mr Blues Is Coming To Town', a Harris album which has recently emerged on the Swedish Route 66 label, goes somewhat towards setting the record straight, the sleeve notes recalling that Harris recorded 'Around The Clock Blues' (a predecessor to 'Rock Around The Clock') way back in 1945.

A 16-tracker, 'Mr Blues' omits most of Wynonie's biggest hits, such as 'Drinking Wine Spo-Dee-O-Dee', 'Bloodshot Eyes' and 'All She Wants To Do Is Rock', some of which, or so I believe, are available on Gusto's series of King reissues. Nevertheless, it's a fine compilation that demonstrates how the Nebraskan Blues-shouter touted his wares through the period 1946-54, first achieving some empathy with the bop set and then heading up-hill towards rock. Eric Burdon once said that it was records like Harris' 'Bloodshot Eyes' that first made him aware of black music. And certainly when Wynonie called the shots, assisted by such hard-blowing saxmen as Ted Buckner, Hal Singer and Tab Smith, he was a hard man to ignore.

I think Harris would have approved of Bobby Rush, Otis' younger brother, who has in 'Rush Hour' the unluckiest album ever to emerge on Gamble and Huff's Philadelphia International label. Danny Baker, quite rightly, waxed enthusiastically about Rush's ace 'I Wanna Do The Do' single a few weeks ago and there's little I wish to add on that subject except to mention that 'I Wanna' acts as the opening cut on what is a very fine album. An amalgam of disco and gutsy, harpshot, get-it-on R&B, 'Rush Hour' hopefully contains a way out of the whoop-whoop morass in which black music's become embroiled. Sure everybody wants to dance — ain't nothing wrong with that. But real music should reach the head and heart as well as the feet. Which is where Rush's music comes in. Hey Western Union Man, send a letter to my baby — Gamble and Huff have found me a brand new hero!

Euphoria over, it's back to a stint at the cans and a playthrough for 'Kilo' an album by a five piece black vocal and instrumental group of that quantitative title. On Stax, recorded in Memphis and bearing the reassuring name of David Porter among the credits, 'Kilo' ought to be no bad thing — and to a considerable degree this is true. For the group have a versatile lead singer in Jabo Phillips, while their vocal harmonies have a beneficial effect on one's auditory apparatus. But their material — all their own — lacks something in the way of substance, even though 'Satisfy Your Love', the lead track on side two, features an intriguing arrangement, Phillips and his fellow Kilomen indulging in a swoop and loop vocal dogfight while the back-up instrumental squad slots an array of pushy brass sounds into any gaps in the proceedings. A so-so rather than a no-no then. One to keep your eye on, as Nelson once said.

Fred Dollar

CAROL GRIMES
Carol Grimes (Charly)
ESTHER PHILLIPS
Confessin' The Blues
(Atlantic)

'Carol Grimes' is a reissue with the same hideous cover of the 1975 album that resulted from the singer's visit to Memphis. It features an excellent group of session musicians including Duck Dunn on bass and The Memphis Horns in sparkling form.

Carol Grimes proves again she's one of the country's most underrated singers. On both the fiery ballad 'No More Tears' and the superb, driving 'Up Hill Peace Of Mind' with its lovely sax/vocal interplay she delivers magnificently. On many of the remaining tracks, she sounds as embarrassed to be singing the amazingly trite lyrics as I was to hear them although there is a spirited version of William Bell's 'Private Number'. All in all, a fine slice of punchy pop-soul; but it's better if you don't listen too closely.

Esther Phillips' 'Confessin' The Blues', one of Atlantic's That's Jazz reissues, reveals two aspects of an astonishingly versatile performer. Side one has her in the context of big band jazz, dealing with standards like 'Romance In The Dark' — and more successfully — with blues such as Joe Turner's 'Cherry Red'. Side two is live with a small backing group, and again the outstanding track delves back to the blues. It's a lengthy medley of 'Blow Top Blues', 'Jelly Jelly Blues' and the sublimely ambiguous 'Long John Blues' about a

A chance to look down on XTC.

Pic: Jill Furmanovsky.

Something Like The Best

XTC
Drums And Wires (Virgin)
Ooh! and aah! and XTC have made a long player that undulates and illuminates with an ingenious vitality that makes much of their previous, frantically frivolous spark-music sound very trivial indeed.

In fact XTC, at the third album moment in time and stuck with at best a cutlisch following and it seemed a limited packet of tricks, have cunningly twisted. They're making multi-layered music of wit and elegance that will make them successful and loved — music that demands new adjectives.

They've escaped! XTC always were a wonderful subject for smothering with harsh adjectives. Now, in suggesting the tone, shapes and judgement of XTC a whole new bundle of equally delicious descriptive words can be spread, and with these new adjectives it will soon become apparent how much the XTC have altered.

For the better! XTC's effervescent extroversion, dazzling propulsion and strident angles were the clever-clever idiomatic modern distinctions that seemed to inspire much new pop music to jump about and stop and start and play silly. The formula, though, was limited. XTC have realised this. The vision and versatility of the new XTC proves that the group are way above being the minor merry misfits they once were.

A lot of the change must be down to the loss of original keyboardist Barry Andrews whose gyrations were, in retrospect, an unnecessary discipline that cramped and committed the group. As a predominantly two guitar group, the XTC have considerably updated, rearranged and extended what they once were. They are a different group.

Bright-eyed and cool! The XTC of old can be noticed occasionally — mostly on the songs of Andy Partridge — lurking and warbling. But that XTC is merely a small part of a panoramic, unpredictable whole that, quite outrageously and out of nowhere, puts them on the edge of a greatness.

Ooh and aah! I always used to think of the White album and 'Go 2' as The End. Clever stuff, well wrought, but it could go no further. XTC had had their, ooh, 18 minutes and it was good fun. Obviously it was just the beginning of their evolving.

XTC are much more than a momentarily thrill. They've moved into a sphere where they're creating and developing a melodic, measured, cool, cryptic (new adjectives!) stimulating noise that blends so many disparate influences — Beatles, Can, Ayers, Help Yourself, Song End, Barrett — adds that tangy, terrific XTC line and ends up with the loveliest and liveliest sort of new pop.

XTC are doing all sorts of things they've never done before and never hinted that they would. They're expanding the fluid and syncopated notions of Can, playing around delicately and drastically with melody and chorus, and flirting with the possibilities of new balances in rock in a less severe and ravishing, but equally encouraging, way than Public Image. They're pushing forward and sideways with enough subtlety and imagination to connect with any listener whose demands are for the unusual, accessible and enlivening. They have moved many steps closer to making a rock classic.

Who'd have thought! The brilliant bonus is that, apart from the new balances and embroideries of XTC, they have two inventive and distinctive songwriters who have done enough with the songs here to be proud enough to smile for ever.

There are five Colin Moulding compositions and seven from Andy Partridge. Both wander down separate but compatible avenues of oddity and bizarreness. Mouldings' approach, and his careful vocals emphasise this, is less demented and more cultured than Partridge's, his lyrics less punny and more considered. But there is nothing disruptive in a jump from a Partridge cartoon to a Moulding impression; the connection is always the elastic and devastating structure and sculpture of the music. Within a piece of Moulding music XTC sneak through numerous moods, so a switch to the more clipped, crazy unnatural Partridge style is not harmful.

It's extra-appetizing! The Moulding pieces are truly tempting, and often stunning. Genuine growers. The magnificent 'Making Plans For Nigel' is the new single and if people are patient it will be a fair hit. His other contributions 'Day In Day Out', 'Ten Feet Tall', 'That Is The Way' and 'Complicated Game' are in their own astute ways equally delectable.

Partridge's puzzles are cute and crafty. You can tell by their titles we're in different areas to young Moulding's. 'Helicopter', 'When You're Near Me I have Difficulty', 'Roads Girdle The Globe', 'Real By Real', 'Millions', 'Outside World', and 'Scissor Man'. All of these songs tickle me and prompt me and nudge me and have far more substance and dimension than early Partridge ditties.

I like this LP! What more can I say? XTC went thataway when no one was looking. Catch them if you can.

Paul Morley

dentist prepared to 'fill any cavity', a song perfectly suited to Phillip's caustic, almost nasal intonation. She sings it with fine feeling and immaculate timing.

The only drawback is that the rest of the album seems ordinary by comparison.

Graham Lock

FOODBAND
Foodband (Electric)
LAKE

Paradise Island (CBS)

It's amazing how many German bands wish they'd been born American. Nina Hagen is not among them, but Lake and Foodband are.

Foodband picture themselves as renegade Stateside free-wheelin' hipsters, and write songs about cruisin', hustlin', life losing 'its groove', and not a lot besides. Maybe they're the worse for translation. Judging by the cover shot, they dream of being Kerouac, derelect in some trash-strawed Boston back-alley. Judging by the music, they yearn to be The Atlanta Rhythm Section, only slicker, less raunchy and more innocuous.

The album makes a clean sweep through tamely funk-ed up, FM-gearred attempts at big-sound boogie music, low-calorie rock and thinly disguised Southern country. Quantities of keyboards vie with crisp, textbook guitars over loose-limbed percussion, and now and again a moog makes the odd daring excursion. It's a safe, wholesome, pre-digested package, and leaves you feeling empty inside.

Lake's offering is an album of such unmitigated garbage that it's actually painful to have to think about it. This band — the blancmange on the Blackbushe bill — know nothing of rock music and, quite conceivably, care even less. They hammer the final nail into the coffin-lid of their irredeemably dreary, soft-centred, glitzy dollops of Supertamp-styled mass-media bilge by including a word-sheet. Without it, the true depths of their staggering triteness wouldn't be half so transparent.

It seems that love for Lake is a myriad of flimsy nymphettes surrounded by carousels, rainbows and dragons, or else suppressed fantasies from a second-floor window. Emotions for Lake are just facile excuses for self-pity. Their 'world view' is breezily poetic, its strength being second-hand idealism, its weakness irony.

This is a truly appalling LP. Buy it and extend your vocabulary.

Mark Ellen

JOHN COUGAR
NEW ALBUM
AVAILABLE NOW
RVLP9

Machines 10 Men 0

Mr. Moroder is in a mood

GIORGIO MORODER
E=MC<sup>2</sup> (Oasis)
THE COMMODORES
Midnight Magic (Motown)
A bunch of 30 or so immaculately programmed and computerised synthesisers completely annihilate a six-piece human funk band in style, melody, dance and funk categories. Heavy and significant? Not at all. All it means is that you could waste your money aspiring to be noble and support homo sapiens whilst you miss a whole bunch of dynamite — not to mention the point — with some crazy machines.

The Moroder album is a stunning return to form after his recent watery wanderings with Donna Summer, and, surprisingly less so, Sparks. (A theatre critic once summed up some dreadful play by concluding that, although the scenery was perfection, the actors would insist on walking in front of it. That's basically how I feel about the Moroder / Sparks affair).

'E=MC<sup>2</sup>' is monumentally enjoyable, direct and alive, soaked in ideas and punch. Too much electronic music becomes static and barren after a few minutes, winding up as no more than disco Status Quo. But Moroder keeps everything light and flowing.

The six tracks all contain just enough of a vocal to warrant being called tunes, and Moroder never allows the patterns and incessant, spiralling beat of his programming to become overweight.

Side two lacks one's attack, but anything other than a major recommendation for 'E=MC<sup>2</sup>' would demand a thorough drumming out of town for the reviewer concerned.

Meanwhile The Commodores continue off down their dead end. 'Midnight Magic' is as dull, flat and uninspired as its packaging. The band just hoof it through their paces for their market. After Moroder's clever fun this sounds like real factory music, just turning it out.

I don't particularly dislike the group, but their winners lie behind them now, even though the hits will probably keep falling into place. The difference, though, between these two records has nothing to do with panelled circuits and 1984 — no, all we have here is a good album and a lousy album. And if folk still feel the threat of machines taking over, well ... you watch. Your little sister knows a sight more than big brother.

Danny Baker

SOUTHSIDE JOHNNY AND THE ASBURY JUKES The Jukes (Phonogram)

With Miami Steve Van Zandt busily ensconced in the studio with his full-time employer Bruce Springsteen, the main problem facing Southside Johnny and his cronies was the choice of a new producer, one who would provide that little extra something that would ensure commercial success.

As a possible solution to this problem The Jukes decided to draft in Barry Beckett — partly on the strength of his work with Dylan and Dire Straits.

The outcome of this coalition is 'The Jukes', an album sadly more remarkable for its infuriating contradictions and conflicts than the quality of its material.

On the more up tempo numbers — never Southside's strongest suit as a vocalist — the main impression is hard and purposeful, but the slower, more seductively paced songs are subjected to the same, precisely defined studio technique and sadly lack the smoke-filled, walk-down ambience of their emotive forerunners.

Unfortunate also is the overall standard of the songs. Previous records have been graced by excellent and forceful contributions from Miami Steve (and the occasional broadside from the East Street Evangelist himself) but here we're presented with just the band's own work — or, more precisely mostly guitarist Billy Rush's own work. Rush's songs are by no means displeasing but nothing he has written here could challenge any of the finer moments from, say, the superb 'Heart Of Stone' for a place in your heart.

In their attempt to deliver an album with a harder, more up-front commercial appeal, The Jukes have been forced to sacrifice far too much of that heart-warming soul that has been their calling card.

John Hamblett

WHO GIVES STUDENTS A CHEQUE CARD WHEN THEY OPEN A BANK ACCOUNT?

Most banks expect you to do a probation period of six months before they let you loose with a £50 cheque card.

(In the meantime they might give you some sort of free gift or maybe even a student card, which is a kind of junior cheque card).

But we at the Midland believe that if you are responsible enough to gain a Local Education Authority Grant then you should have a proper £50 cheque card right from the start. All you have to do is ask for one.

This is obviously a great advantage, because most shops want to see that you have a cheque card before they will accept a cheque from you.

Free Student Discount Card

Another bonus that you can get from the Midland is a National Student Discount Scheme Card, which enables you to buy all kinds of products and services at reduced prices.

Normally you have to apply to the National Students' Scheme to get one of these valuable cards, and you have to pay for it. But to help you on your way, we'll give you one free when you open your current account, with a handbook that tells you which companies and shops accept it.

Free Current Account Banking, too!

If you do open an account with us, we also give you free current account banking for as long as you're a student. Which means that you get free cheques, statements and so on.

We'll do this even if you overdraw a little, as long as you make an arrangement with us first.

If you call in at any Midland branch you can pick up a booklet called 'How to use a bank account' which explains everything that the Bank can do for you.

Why not do it today so that your account is ready and waiting when your grant comes through? It's better than having a last-minute rush during your first few days at college.

And tell your friends about Midland's offer. We're the bank that gives you a cheque card immediately. And a Student Discount Card, as well as free banking.

Students and Midland Bank.
Together, we make a great team.

Midland Bank Limited

Soundstar
from ....

Beyer Dynamic

The Beyer Dynamic
soundstar M 400 N (C)

is a unidirectional moving coil microphone specially designed to meet the demand of musicians, singers and entertainers for an elegant and superb microphone.

A highly effective built-in burst filter controls explosive breath and "pop" sounding noises.

Send now for brochure
To BEYER DYNAMIC (GB) LTD,
1 CLAIR ROAD,
HAYWARDS HEATH, SUSSEX.

NAT G WILE GIG GUIDE

Wembley: Who/Stranglers/Lofgren

As a venue for open-air extravaganzas Wembley Stadium is not as bad as most. This Saturday's show kicks off at 2pm with Nils Lofgren, followed by AC/DC, The Stranglers and finally The Who. One word of warning: don't bring bottles or cans with you as you won't get them into the ground — unless you're pretty smart.

Thursday

Barnet Duke of Lancaster: One on One.
Birmingham: Barbara's: Secret Affair.
Birmingham: Market Cross: The Clinic.
Birmingham: Pop Club: Paul Maine / The Recover.
Birmingham Railway Hotel: Orphan.
Blackpool: Norbreck Castle: Merton Parkas.
Bradford: Princeville: Dirty May.
Brighton: Marine Parade: Buccaneer: Airport.
Bristol Crockers: Thieves Like Us.
Buckley: Tivoli Ballroom: T.C.O.J.
Burnwood: Troubadour: The Amazing Dark Horse.
Chesterfield Fusion: Invaders.
Colne Union Hotel: Ritch.
Glenrothes: Rother Arms: Snapshots.
Gravesend: Red Lion: Hollywood Wires.
Great Sutton: Bull Head: Marital Aids.
Leeds: Fan Club: Starjets.
London: Acton White Hart: The Name.
London: Camden Dingwells: Root Boy.
Slin: / The Sex Change.
London: Camden Music Machine: Budgie / Bombshell.
London: Clapham 101 Club: Trimmer & Jenkin.
London: Covent Garden Rock Garden: Straight 8.
London: Deptford Albany Empire: Agsin Again / Mr. Zero / The Box / The Targets.
London: Fulham Golden Lion: Charlie Ainley & The Misdemeanours.
London: Hammermith: The Swan: Anniversary.
London: Islington Hope & Anchor: Cygnus.
London: Kensington: The Cucksters: Lacey's Alkstars.
London: Kensington De Villiers Bar: Gold Dust Twins.
London: Kensington: Nashville Rooms: Spitz Energi / Last Words.
London: Knightsbridge Pizzeria on the Park: Martin Taylor & The Isaacs.
London: Tooting The Castle: V.I.P.s.
London: W.C.1: New Merlin's Cave: The O.K. Band.
London: E.C.4 W.H. Smith Headquarters (lunchtime): Trinidad Steel Band.
London: Southgate: Royal Ballroom: The Shades.
London: Victoria The Venue: Al Green.
London: Wandsworth Street: Pizza Express.
London: Wandsworth: Royal Victoria: Freddy's Feetwarmers.
London: Waterloo: Wellington: The Nobodys / The Idiot Dancers.
Malden: Tiffany's: Ocean Boulevard.
Manchester: The Factory: Private Sector.
Norwich: Boogie House: Squire.
Norwich: Cromwell's: Chairman Of The Board.
Nottingham: nearly 2000: The Hormones.
Nottingham: Imperial Hotel: Galla.
Penallt: The Boat: The Zoobes.
Penzance: Damsels: Lip Service.
Port Talbot: Troubadour: Writz.
Poynton: Folk Centre: Tim Laycock.
Southport: Scarborough Hotel: The Accelerators.
Stratford: The Flamingo: Chee & Dave.
St. Austell: New Cornish Riviera: Radio Luxembourg Summer Roadshow.
St. Helens: Glassbridge Hotel: Lies All Lies.
Sunderland: Fulson: Black Gorilla.
Waford: Town Hall: Elvis Presley Memorial Show.
Worcester: Hideaway Club: Wayne Fontana & The Mindbenders (for 3 days).

Friday

Barnstaple: Chequers: Writz.
Bath: Brilling: Kevin Brown & his band.
Cann: Brothers.
Birmingham: Barrel Organ: Bright Eyes.
Birmingham: Elizabethan Days: The Trotters.
Birmingham: Market Cross: The Quads.
Bishops: Stamford: Triad Leisure Centre: Misdemeanor.
Blackburn: Regent Hotel: Mistress (3 days).
Blackpool: Norbreck Castle: Invaders.
Brighton: Albion: Nicky & The Dots: 'Dirty Weekend'.
Brighton: Hanbury Arms: Hollywood Wires.

Bristol Crockers: Thieves Like Us.
Chelmsford: Football Ground City Tavern: Essential Logic.
Coventry: Ryton Bridge: Streetlife.
Dartford: Village Hall: The Pulsaters, Zener.
Dudley: J.B.'s Club: The Merton Parkas.
Edinburgh: Clouds: The Rute/Linton.
Kwesi Johnson.
Glenrothes: Rother Arms: The Venigmes.
Kettering: Windmill Club: The Bearsheik Band.
Leeds: Viva Wine Bar: The City Limits.
Leicester: TUL Club: Matchbox.
London: Acton Kings Head: Pax.
London: Camden Music Machine: The Teenbeats, Tour De Force.
London: Camden: Southampton Arms.
Leeds: Fan Club: Starjets.
London: Clapham 101 Club: The Extras.
London: Covent Garden Rock Garden: One On One.
London: Deptford Albany Empire: Misty / Top Hat.
London: Deptford Royal Albert: Rubber Johnny.
London: NI Duke of Wellington: Squire.
London: Islington Hope and Anchor: The Blues Band.
London: Kensington: The Nashville: Black Slate.
London: Putney Star & Garter: Graig and Nigel's Folk and Blues Night.
London: Wandsworth St. Pizza Express: Fred Hunt Trio.
London: Waterloo: Wellington: Teenbeats/Squire.
London: Wembley Stadium: Nils Lofgren/The Stranglers/The Who/AC/DC.
Malden: Jubilee Hall: The Shades.
Manchester: The Factory: The Selector.
Manchester: Funhouse: The Distractions/Armed Forces/The Hamsters.
Manchester: Leigh Rugby Club: Sister Ray.
Mansfield: Masons Arms: Flax.
Melton: Mowbray Painted Lady: Johnny Carroll.
Monmouth: The Britannia: The Zoobes.
Nottingham: Sandpiper: Art Failure.
Oxford: Caribbean Club: China Street.
Penzance: Ponsandane Site: Phantom Orchestra, Footabam, Friends Roadshow.
Reford: Portershouse: Starjets.
Rotherham: E Harringthorpe Sports Club: Strange Days.
Runcorn: Old Town: The Shattered Dolls.
Scarborough: Penthouse: Shake Appeal.
Stornaway: Folk Club: Saffron Summer-Field.
Southend: Minerva: Johnny Jay.
Stroud: Subscriptions Rooms: Cygnus.
Traleah: The Crown: The Zoobes.
Triad Leisure Centre: Vambo.
Truro: William IV: Scissor Fts.
Uxbridge: Unit One: The Operatives.
Walsall: Town Hall: T.C.O.J.
Wigan: Mr. M's: Anniversary.

Saturday

Alfreton: Leisure Centre: Strange Days/The Flashcats/Nightmare.
Bath: Brilling: Kevin Brown & his band.
Cann: Brothers.
Birmingham: Barrel Organ: Reno.
Birmingham: Hopwood Caravan Club: Gentleman Jim.
Birmingham: Market Cross: Strider.
Birmingham: Railway Hotel: School Sports.
Birmingham: Toby Jug: The Quads.
Bishops: Stamford: Triad Leisure Centre: The Chevrone.
Bodmin: Jai: Lip Service.
Brighton: Resources Centre: Polson.
Giffa/Ajax: All stars/Rubelle Ballet.
Bristol: Crown Cellar Bar: Sneak Preview.
Bristol: Granary: Spiffie.
Bude: Headland Club: Radio Luxembourg Summer Roadshow.
Cannock: The Troubadour: The Kiddie Band.
Carlisle: Wigton Market Hall: Invaders.
Cardiff: St. Helier Arms: The Jets.
Cheltenham: Whiccombe Lodge: The Purple Hearters/Secret Affair.
Cinderford: Rugby Club: Black Gorilla.
Coventry: Number One: Paul Marling/The Recover.
Crawley: Leisure Centre: Arena: Rock In The Arena/Wilko Johnson's Solid Sanders.
Doncaster: Granby Road Club: The Diks.
Dudley: J.B.'s Club: Lew Lewis Reformer.

Halifax: Good Mood Club: Starjets.
High Wycombe: Town Hall: The Buzzards.
Ipswich: Runnin' Beer: T.C.O.J.
Liverpool: Enics: The Adverts/Local Operator.
London: Camden Music Machine: Carol Grimes & Sweet FA.
London: Clapham 101 Club: The Extras.
London: Covent Garden Rock Garden: Sex.
London: Harrow Road Windsor Castle: Rift Riff.
London: Isle of Sheppy: New Island Hotel & Nightclub: The All Night Band.
London: Islington Hope & Anchor: The Cleaners.
London: Kensington: The Nashville: Yachts.
London: Peckham: Newlands Tavern: Billy Karloff Band.
London: Stoke Newington: Pegasus: The O.K. Band.
London: Victoria The Venue: Al Green.
London: Wandsworth St. Pizza Express: Fred Hunt Trio.
London: Waterloo: Wellington: Teenbeats/Squire.
London: Wembley Stadium: Nils Lofgren/The Stranglers/The Who/AC/DC.
Malden: Jubilee Hall: The Shades.
Manchester: The Factory: The Selector.
Manchester: Funhouse: The Distractions/Armed Forces/The Hamsters.
Manchester: Leigh Rugby Club: Sister Ray.
Mansfield: Masons Arms: Flax.
Melton: Mowbray Painted Lady: Johnny Carroll.
Monmouth: The Britannia: The Zoobes.
Nottingham: Sandpiper: Art Failure.
Oxford: Caribbean Club: China Street.
Penzance: Ponsandane Site: Phantom Orchestra, Footabam, Friends Roadshow.
Reford: Portershouse: Starjets.
Rotherham: E Harringthorpe Sports Club: Strange Days.
Runcorn: Old Town: The Shattered Dolls.
Scarborough: Penthouse: Shake Appeal.
Stornaway: Folk Club: Saffron Summer-Field.
Southend: Minerva: Johnny Jay.
Stroud: Subscriptions Rooms: Cygnus.
Traleah: The Crown: The Zoobes.
Triad Leisure Centre: Vambo.
Truro: William IV: Scissor Fts.
Uxbridge: Unit One: The Operatives.
Walsall: Town Hall: T.C.O.J.
Wigan: Mr. M's: Anniversary.

Sunday

Beafield: Gloucester Park: Free Festival—Grinder/Ste-Preest/Gilmartin/Celveria.
Blackpool: North Pier: The Doobies.
Birmingham: Elizabeth Days: Atlas.
Birmingham: Railway Hotel: Prime Donne.
Birmingham: Shirley: Red Lion: The Crack.
Birmingham: The Haven: The Quads.
Bishops: Stamford: Triad Leisure Centre: Exit (lunchtime)/Aldi Queen and Newtown: Neutronics (evening).
Brampton: Con House: Snapshots.
Brighton: Buccaneer: Merton Parkas.
Bromley: The Northover (lunchtime): Bill Scott and Ian Ellis.
Cambridge: The Alma: Scissor Fts.
London: Charing Cross: Duke of Buckingham: (for four days). The Invincibles.
London: Clapham 101 Club: Squire.
London: Clapham 200: The Cannibals.
London: Covent Garden Rock Garden: Tennis Shoes.
London: Horticultural Hall: The Wimps.
London: Islington Hope and Anchor: Red Beans and Rice.
London: Kensington: The Nashville: Yachts.
London: Peckham: Montpelier (lunchtime): Blue Moon.
London: W.1 Portman Hotel (lunchtime): Terry Lightfoot.
London: Victoria The Venue: Al Green.
Malden: Branchley Gardens: The Pulsaters (afternoon).
Malden: Royal Albion: The Pulsaters (lunchtime).
Newcastle: Red House: Hot Snax.
Newquay: Central Hotel: The Winners.
Nottingham: Hearty Goodfellow: Berlin.
Penzance: Ponsandane Site: Busby Ber-kelys, Nigel Mazin-Jones.
Plymouth: Breakwater Inn: Lip Service.
Poynton: Folk Centre: Bill Caddick.
Presthaven: Sands Holiday Camp: Dave Berry and The Outcasts.
Redhill: Lovers Hotel: Thieves Like Us.
Sheffield: Top Rank: The Adverts/The Diks/Artery/Negatives.
Triad Leisure Centre: Add Queen, Newtown: Neutronics, Zipp Futz.
Walsall: Dry Duck (lunchtime): The Amazing Dark Horse.
Wormelow: The Jump: The Zoobes.

Monday

Birmingham: Barrel Organ: Freebird.
Barnby: Bridge Pear: Ties: Mistress.
Birmingham: Railway Hotel: The Out.
Doncaster: Romeo & Juliet: The Diks, The Kickstarts.
Edinburgh: Tiffany's: Joe Jackson.
Ipswich: Caulflower Hotel: Original East Side Stompers.
Ifrecombe: Croyle Bay Holiday Park: Radio Luxembourg Summer Roadshow.

Nils.
Pic: Chris
Walter

Jean-Jacques. Pic: Nando Valverde.

Leeds: Wigs Wine Bar: This Is It, The Mess.
Flamboyant Zips.
Leicester: Phoenix: White Island.
Liverpool: The Crown: The Clerks.
London: Acton White Hart: The V.I.P.s.
London: Bermondsey: Apples & Pears: Stan's Blues Band.
London: Camden: Dublin Castle: Hollywood Wires.
London: Clapham 101 Club: Viva.
London: Covent Garden Bunter's (for three days): Sad Among Strangers.
London: Covent Garden Rock Garden: The Party.
London: Fulham: Greyhound: Jakko.
London: Islington Hope & Anchor: Country Rite: White Island.
London: Jermyn St: Maunberys: Zehn Archer.
London: Kensington: Nashville: Local Operator/Cowboys International.
London: Knightsbridge Pizzeria on the Park: The Party.
London: Putney Half Moon: The Boyle Family.
London: Putney Star & Garter: Penny Royal.
London: Ronnie Scott's Club (for two weeks): Milt Jackson Quartet.
London: N.4 The Stapleton: The O.K. Band.
Manchester: Fagin's: Dave Berry & The Cruisers.
Milton: Keynes: Crauford Arms: The Invaders.
Newcastle: Gosworth Hotel: Noise.
Toys/Arthur 2 Stroke.
Norwich: Eagles Club: Paul Maine/The Recover.
Nottingham: Hearty Good Fellow: The Party.
Nottingham: Imperial Hotel: Gwaiho.
Paisley: Bungalow Bar: Snapshots.
Rayleigh: Cross: Matchbox.
Southend: Zero 6: Musicians Workshop.
Swansea: Circle: Secret Affair.

Tuesday

Aberdeen: Ruffles: The Venigmes.
Birmingham: Fighting Cocks: Briyo.
Birmingham: Market Cross: Killer.
Birmingham: Railway Hotel: Speed Limit.
Bishops: Stamford: Triad Leisure Centre: Travla.
Bristol: Romeo & Juliet: Radio Luxembourg Summer Roadshow.
Cannock: Star and Garter: Reziters.
Chilton: The Doorstep: Paul Marine/The Recover.
Corby: Nags Head: T.C.O.J.
Glasgow: Countdown: Friction.
Glasgow: Dial Inn: Snapshots.
Keighley: Kings Head: Lies All Lies.
London: Clapham 101 Club: Bowles Brothers Band.
London: Covent Garden Rock Garden: Rubber Johnny.
London: Islington Hope & Anchor: Madness.
London: Jermyn St: Maunberys: 3 days: Johnny Franks.
London: Kensington: Nashville: Local Operator/Cowboys International.
London: Old Kent Rd: Thomas A'Beckett.
Stan's Blues Band.

London: Soho Pizzeria Express: Stan Barker.
London: West Hampstead: Moonlight Club: The Invaders.
London: W.11: Acklam Hall: Dangerous Girls, The Androids of Mo, The O12, The Mob, The Astronauts, Vince Pie & The Crumbs.
Peterborough: Gladstone Arms: Hollywood Wires.
Plymouth: Clonas: Secret Affair.
Salford: The Champion: Sister Ray.
Sheffield: Limits: Merton Parkas.
Sheffield: Margals Hotel: Flax.
Swindon: Brunel Rooms: Terra Nova.
Triad Leisure Centre: Travla.
Walsall: Dirty Duck: The Amazing Dark Horse.
Woolacombe: Harry's Garden: Phantom Orchestra, Incubus, Forkbaiter Fantasy.

Wednesday

Birmingham: Barrel Organ: Brujo.
Birmingham: (Yardley) Bulls Head: Roses.
Birmingham: Railway Hotel: Rainmaker.
Bournemouth: Maison Royale: Radio Luxembourg Summer Roadshow.
Bristol: Crown Cellar Bar: Groove.
Cardiff: St. Helier Arms: Flying Saucers.
Cheltenham: Plough Inn: Roadsters.
Derby: Old Ball Hotel: The Bears.
Eastbourne: Kings Country Club: Gerry & The Poetsmakers.
Hull: Romeo & Juliet: Liquid Gold.
Leicester: Scamp: White Island.
Liverpool: Pied Bull: The Fixations.
London: Camden Music Machine: The Trendies.
London: Canning Town: Bridgehouse: Zaine Griff.
London: Covent Garden Rock Garden: The Decorators.
London: Fulham: Cock Tavern: Trimmer & Jenkins.
London: Hammersmith: Swan: Thieves Like Us.
London: Islington Hope & Anchor: The Extras.
London: Knightsbridge: The Grove: Free Beer.
London: Knightsbridge: Montpelier: Blue Moon.
London: Putney Star & Garter: Dana Simmonds & Graig's Folk and Blues Showcase.
London: Soho Pizzeria Express: Pepper Adams Quartet.
London: Victoria The Venue: Bram Tchakowsky, Interview & Sussex.
London: W.11: Acklam Hall: Hara & Now.
The Good Missionaries.
Newport: Stowaway: Secret Affair.
Nottingham: Hearty Good Fellow: Gwaiho.
Nottingham: Imperial Hotel: Same Chicken.
Oxford: Cape of Good Hope: Hollywood Wires.
Scarborough: Penthouse: Merton Parkas.
Solihull: Golden Lion: The Clinic.
South: Woodford: Railway Bell: Original East Side Stompers.
Woolacombe: Little Roadway Farm: The Lemmings, NoMoFo, Footabam, Available Jelly.
York: Pop Club: Invaders.

NEW YORK GIG GUIDE

MONDAY (20): Palladium — Rockpile, David Johansen, John Cooper Clark; Central Park — Taj Mahal, Richie Havens, Max's Kansas City — Real Americans, Sick Dick & The Volkswagens.
TUESDAY (21): Hurrah — Gang Of Four (2 days); Max's Kansas City — John King & The Cats, Mande Dahl, The Arnts; Village Gate — Roy Ayers (6 days); My Fathers Place — Edgar Winter; Tanglewood — Joni Mitchell; Jolelei — Merla Travis (2 days); Central Park — Southside Johnny; Village Vanguard — Abbey Lincoln (one week).
WEDNESDAY (22): Max's Kansas City — Voodoo Shoes, Chl Pig; Central Park — Dr. Hook; My Fathers Place — Louisiana La Roux; Lone Star — Carl Perkins (2 days); Calderone Hall — Peter Tosh.

THURSDAY (23): Radio City — Red Skelton; Bottom Line — Alan Price (3 days); Kurrah — ZNF (2 days); Nassau Coliseum — Double Brothers.
FRIDAY (24): Central Park — Cars; Triad — Koko Taylor (2 days).
SATURDAY (25): Hurrah — Sylvain Sylvain & Teenage News, Basics; Forest Hill Stadium — Joni Mitchell, The Persuasions; Boardwalk, Asbury Park — Talking Heads; Central Park — Greg Kihn Band, Goffin; My Fathers Place — Arctic Two Step, Buzzy Linhart; Pratt Institute — Peter Tosh.
SUNDAY (26): Neqd — New York Reggae Festival & Sound Finals; Tramps — Blind John Davies (2 days); My Fathers Place — Good Rats.

L V P G R N B I N O 2 1 3
I E A E I G R A B 1 6 6 5

marquee

90 Wardour St., W.1 01-437 6603

OPEN EVERY NIGHT FROM 7.00 pm to 11.00 pm
REDUCED ADMISSION FOR STUDENTS AND MEMBERS

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Wed 15, Thurs 16, Fri 17 Aug (Adm £2.00) WILKO JOHNSON'S SOLID SENDERSplus Friends + Ian Fleming Sat 18 Aug (Adm £1.00) THE JAGSplus support + Ian Fleming Sun 19 Aug (Adm £1.25) THE CHORDSVapours + Jerry Floyd | Mon 20 Aug (Adm £1.25) TERRA NOVAplus Support + Jerry Floyd Tues 21 Aug (Adm £1.50) THE BUZZARDSplus Support + Joe Lung Wed 22 Aug (Adm £1.25) THE DRONESplus Friends + Jerry Floyd Thurs 23 Aug (Adm £1.50) PUNISHMENT OF LUXURYplus Guests + Ian Fleming |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|

HAMBURGERS AND OTHER HOT AND COLD SNACKS AVAILABLE

READING FESTIVAL

AUGUST BANK HOLIDAY WEEKEND

THE NASH VILLE ROOM

FULLERS TRADITIONAL ALES

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                          |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Thursday August 16th SPIZZ ENERGI+ Support Friday August 17th BLACK SLATE+ Support Saturday August 18th &amp; Sunday August 19th THE YACHTS | Monday August 20th VIRGIN XMAS PARTYSee press for details Tuesday August 21st VIRGIN XMAS PARTYSee press for details |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|

CORNER CROMWELL ROAD/NORTH END ROW W14
Adjacent West Kensington Tube Tel: 01-603 6071

GLOBAL VILLAGE

Villiers Street, Charing Cross

Terry Draper for Engin — Ear Productions Ltd.
Presents An

ALL NIGHTER

The Night Before The Who At Wembley — Spend The Night with us

FRIDAY AUGUST 17th £2

TERRY NOVA
(Featuring Ex Manfred Mann)
+ THE BUSINESS
+ BOMBSHELL

+ 2 D.J.s, Jugglers, Fire Eaters & lots more surprises

Doors open 9 pm thru to 6 am. Licensed bar till 3 am Hot food & soft drinks throughout.

VESPAS SPECIAL

|                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                     |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Saturday August 18thAfter Wembley ... Doors Open 10 pmLicensed bar till 3 am | £2 THE TEENBEATSTHE LITTLE ROOSTERSSTA-PREST + D.J. Jerry Floyd |
| Monday August 20th Doors Open 8.30 pmFirst Band On Stage 9 pmOpen Till 3 am  | £1 THE TEENBEATSBEGGARROMATIX + D.J. Jerry Floyd                |

UK SUBS

THE PACK

THE LAST WORDS

ELECTRIC BALLROOM
194 CANNON ROAD ST. W.1 (NEAREST TUBE CANNON TOWN)

SATURDAY 18th AUGUST at 7-30

THOMAS 52 50 JMC VAPOR JAZZMAN ELECTRIC BALLROOM WINDOZZER TEL 435 5800
LONDON THEATRE BOOKINGS 0446 463000 TEL 020 221 1011 NEW BOX OFFICE TEL 149 2245
ON BOARD ON RECORD 3 DENTISH FRANKS N.B. TEL 495 5880

MUSIC MACHINE

Playing times 10.30 pm and midnight

CANNON HIGH SE OFF WINDOZZER PRESIDENT TUBE N.W.1

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Wednesday August 15th STARJETS+ Looney Q Thursday August 16th BUDGIE+ Bombshell Friday August 17th TOYAH+ Agony Column Saturday August 18th CAROL GRIMES+ Skin Deep | Monday August 20th SAXON+ Iron Maldon+ Witchfinde Tuesday August 21st IMMIGRANT+ Scrambled Ego Wednesday August 22nd YOUNG ONES+ Zorro |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|

Thursday August 16th

BUDGIE
+ Bombshell

Advance tickets £2 from Box Office

LICENSED BARS — LIVE MUSIC — DANCING
3PM — 2 AM MONDAY TO SATURDAY
OVER 18s ONLY

WINDSOR CASTLE

309 HARROW ROAD, W9

|                                                                                            |                                                                                |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Thurs 16th THE VANDELLS+ Support 50p Adm Open till 12.00  | Sun 19th EXCELFree Close 10.30pm                     |
| Fri 17th THE CLEANERS+ Support 50p Adm Open till 12.00    | Mon 20th HEDGEHOGFree Close 11.00pm                  |
| Sat 18th SNEEKEY FEELINS+ Support 50p Adm Open till 12.00 | Tues 21st BEVERLY DRIVEFree Close 11.00pm            |
|                                                                                            | Wed 22nd ROBERT &amp; THE REMOULDSFree Close 11.00pm |

WESTBOURNE PARK TUBE 01-296 8403

PANIC PROMOTIONS PRESENTS

BANK HOLIDAY MONDAY

MOD SPECTACULAR!!

WITH

SECRET AFFAIR

THE PURPLE HEARTS

BACK TO ZERO

MOD DJ

MONDAY 27th AUGUST SCOOTER PARK — BAR — RAFFLE AT
THE PADDOCKS
LONG ROAD, CANVEY ISLAND, ESSEX
(8 miles from Southend) 7pm

Trains: Fenchurch Street to Benfleet. Buses: From Southend and Station 3, 3A, 5, 27 and from Basildon 151. Cars: A13
Advance tickets on sale at Rhodes Music Company, 22 Denmark Street, WC1

Postal applications: Cheques and P/O to Panic Promotions, 125 Aldersgate Street, London EC1. Enc! SAE ONLY £1.75

HOPE & ANCHOR

UPPER STREET

ISLINGTON, N.1

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Thursday August 16th CYGNUS Friday August 17th THE BLUES BANDfeaturing Paul Jones,Tom McGuinness &amp; Hughie Flint Saturday August 18th THE CLEANERS Sunday August 19th RED BEANS &amp; RICE | Monday August 20th MADNESS Tuesday August 21st MADNESS Wednesday August 22nd THE EXTRAS Thursday August 23rd RICKY COOL &amp; THE ICEBERGS |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|

dog watch

Friday August 17th

FULHAM

Grayhound

Saturday August 18th

BASILDON

Double Six

PTARMIGAN

spend a dirty weekend at

THE ALHAMBRA BRIGHTON

Saturday August 18th

(Band enquiries Emsworth 3537)

Brian B
01-261 6153

THE Venue

100 VICTORIA ST. SW1
(Opp Victoria Tube station)
01-434 5580

Tickets from The Venue Box Office and the Ticket Machine in the Virgin Megastore, 14 Oxford Street, W.1.
Postal Applications (P.O.s only) from The Venue.

Food, Drink, Live Bands, Dancing
7pm-2am

Wednesday August 15th through Sunday August 19th

AL GREEN

One show Wednesday/Thursday at 10pm. Two shows Friday/Saturday at 8.30pm and 11.15pm. Two shows Sunday 6pm and 9pm.
£4.50 each night

Tuesday August 21st

BRIAN CROOK

Monday August 20th through Wednesday August 22nd

RICK WAKEMAN

One show Monday. Two shows Tuesday and Wednesday.
£4.50 each night

Thursday August 23rd

WORLD FAMOUS TRAMPOLINE ARTISTE

To be announced

Friday August 24th

CHAS 'N' DAVE

£3.25

Thursday August 30th

SAD CAFE

£3

Wednesday September 5th through Sunday September 9th
By arrangement with Bryan Miller

JAMES BROWN REVUE

Two shows each night at 9pm and 11.30pm, except Sunday 6pm and 9pm
£5.50

TOWN HALL, High Wycombe, Bucks.
Saturday 18th August, 7.30 p.m.

LEYTON BUZZARDS

+ The Booz + T.V. Surf Boys + Atomic Rockers

Advance tickets £1.50, £1.80 at door

Don't you get in a tight spot. Phone the SPACE ACE BRIAN B on 01 261 6153 to advertise

your gigs

the LIVE PAGE to advertise phone brian b live page- 01-261 6153

TRISPEN FAYRE

Ennis Farm, St Erme, Nr Truro, Cornwall.

Saturday August 25th

CAROL GRIMES BAND
THE BUZZARDS
THE YOUNG ONES ANACONDA
MICKEY FINN BAND
BRANIAC FIVE LIP SERVICE
PARKING LOT THE FANS

Tickets £2.50 in advance from 3 Chapel Terrace, Illogan Highway, Pool, Redruth, Cornwall, or £3 on the day.

STRAIGHT MUSIC PRESENTS

BANK HOLIDAY WEEKEND
SECRET AFFAIR
MADNESS
PURPLE HEARTS
THE SELECTOR
BACK TO ZERO

LYCEUM
STRAND IN E.2

SUNDAY 26th AUGUST at 6.30

TICKETS £2.50 (INC. VAT) ADVANCE LYCEUM BOX OFFICE, TEL. 636 3715.
LONDON THEATRE BOOKINGS, SHAFTESBURY AVE., TEL. 439 3371; PREMIER BOX OFFICE, TEL. 240 2245.
OR ROCK ON RECORDS, 3 KENTISH TOWN RD., NW1, TEL. 485 5888

THE BRIDGE HOUSE

23 BARKING ROAD, CANNING TOWN, E16

|                                                                                      |                                                                                    |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Thursday August 16thTHE BUSINESSare back!+ Ricky and the Prefects | Monday August 20thSMALL HOURS+ The Face                             |
| Friday August 17thCAROL GRIMESSWEET F.A.                       | Tuesday August 21stSTEVE LEIGH BAND(He is not Marc Bolan's brother) |
| Saturday August 18thTHE BLUES BANDPaul Jones, McGuinness & Flint      | Wednesday August 22ndWaboma Band                                               |
| Sunday August 19thR.D.B.+ Nightbird                                   | Thursday August 23rdTOUR DE FORCE+ The Monkeys                      |

THE PORTERHOUSE

20 Carolgate, Retford, Notts.
Tel. 0777 704881.

Friday August 17th

STARJETS + Support

Saturday August 18th

WRITZ

BILLY KARLOFF AND THE SUPREMES

are appearing at
NEWLANDS TAVERN,
Stuart Road, Peckham, S.E.15.
EVERY SATURDAY
Yeah Yeah Yeah Yeah NAKED

DUKE OF LANCASTER

Approach Road, NEW BARNET
(beside 26 New Barnet)

Thursday August 16th
SNAPSHOTS

Friday August 17th
TOTAL STRANGERS

Saturday August 18th
JERRY THE FERRET

Sunday August 19th
BACKLASH

Tuesday August 21st
VIVA

TO ADVERTISE

RING

BRIAN B

01-261 6153.

WHITE HOT PRESENTS

MCKITTY

LIVE ON STAGE
with special guests
THE STATES

Ritzy Cinema
Brixton
Wed. Aug. 15
Wed. Aug. 22

Show starts at 7.30pm
Tickets £1.30 available from the box office now
Ritzy Cinema Brixton, Brixton Oval
(50yds left of Brixton Tube) Phone: 737 2121

MARCH OF THE MODS 1979

Purple Hearts SECRET AFFAIR BACK TO ZERO

SECRET AFFAIR/PURPLE HEARTS/BACK TO ZERO

August 10 Scarborough — Penthouse
August 14 Plymouth — Clones
August 15 Torquay — Town Hall
August 16 Birmingham — Barbarella's
August 17 Manchester — Factory
August 18 Cheltenham — Whitcombe Lodge
August 20 Swansea — Circles Club
August 22 Newport — Stowaway
August 23 Bristol — Trinity Leisure Centre

August 24 W. Runton — Pavilion
August 26 London — Lyceum
August 27 Canvey Paddocks
August 28 Sheffield — Limit
August 29 Barnsley — Civic August 30 Leeds — Fford Green
August 31 Newcastle — Mayfair
September 1 Liverpool — Eric's

Tour Arranged by Cowbell

TO ADVERTISE
PHONE 01 261 6153 Brian B

CAROLINE

Roadshow

Thursday August 16th
PIER BALLROOM
HASTINGS,
SUSSEX

Saturday August 18th
DREAMLAND, SEAFRONT,
MARGATE, KENT.

Friday August 17th
THE GREYHOUND, PARK LANE, CROYDON.
(Admission to this gig by ticket only, £1.50 from Virgin, Bonaparte, Diamond, Our Price, Disca, Cassette, Beans, Goodness, & Clocks of Croydon & Streatham Record Shops)

Saturday September 1st
RHODES HALL, BISHOPS
STORTFORD, HERTS.

Monday September 3rd
GRAND HOTEL,
FELIXSTOWE,
SUFFOLK.

For bookings phone 0621 783229

BRITAIN'S TOP HEAVY ROCK MUSIC SHOW!
Doors open 8pm. Bar. Admission £1.50.
D.J.'s Rob Eden! Robbie Day! Harvey The Rabbit!

WESTWAY MUSIC

Present

AT THE MOONLIGHT CLUB

100 West End Lane NW 8

Fri 17

THE THRILLERS

Sat 18

SPECIAL TREATMENT + ROMANTIX

Mon 20

RUBBER JOHNNY plus TOP HAT

Tues 21

VAPOURS

Wed 22

GINO + THE SHARKS plus Private Vices

Thurs 23

Disco

We are a young successful name record company, and we want to record the sound of today and get it out next week.

If you think your band's got that sound, ring
499-2139
now and if we agree, we'll record your best number entirely at our expense and make you part of the album that really captures the sound of 1979.

STRAIGHT MUSIC PRESENTS THE ONLY ONES PSYCHEDELIC FURS

LYCEUM
STRAND W.C.2

SUNDAY 2nd SEPTEMBER at 7.30

TICKETS £2.50 (inc. VAT) available Lyceum Box Office. Tel: 0363775. London
Theatre Bookings, Shaftsbury Avenue. Tel: 438 3371. Premier Box Office. Tel:
240 2245. or Rock On Records, 3 Kentish Town Rd. NW1. Tel: 485 5088.

(DO IT) FOR THE
REST OF YOUR LIFE
Single c/w Touch Your Love and Murder in New York

THIEVES LIKE US

Winchester 62581

Tour Dates

|              |                       |
|--------------|-----------------------|
| August 16/17 | Crookers, Bristol     |
| August 18th  | Salisbury Town Hall   |
| August 19th  | Lakers Hotel, Redhill |
| August 22nd  | Swan, Hammersmith     |
| August 23rd  | Old Mill, Holbury     |
| August 24th  | Magnums, Basingstoke  |

MADCAP presents
The Angelic Upstarts
plus Special Guests
THE LOW NUMBERS
plus ROBERT & THE REMOULDS at the
Electric Ballroom
184 Camden High Street
Fri. 17 Aug. at 8pm
Admission: £2 on door

SPLIT RIVITT at the JOHN BULL, CHISWICK

Friday, August 17th

TWIST & SHOUT presents

SQUIRE

Fri 17th Sugawon Club/
Duke of Wellington,
Bells Pond Road, N.1.
Sat 18th Wellington, Waterloo
Sun 19th, 101 Club Clapham Junction
Wed 22nd, Nags Head, High Wycombe

V.I.P.s

Thurs 16th Castle, Tooting Broadway
Fri 17th, White Lion, Putney.
Mon 20th, White Hart, Acton (Provisional)
Wed 22nd, Rock Garden, Covent Garden
(early)

Enquiries: 01-223 6481

The No. 1

The Pied Bull, 1 Liverpool Road, N.1.

Tuesday, August 21st

THE PHOTOS

+ The Dark (over 18s only)

London's Newest Rock Venue!

The Adam & Eve

830 Uxbridge Road, Hayes
Middlesex. Tel: 01-573 1045

Exciting Opening Night

Thursday August 23rd, at 7.30 pm

Neo-Gothic New Wave & Psychedelic Men In Shorts

SCISSOR FITS + THE DIALS

Tapes C/O Arthur's Negus

Late Bar

Admission £1, or 75p with this ad before 9 pm

DINGWALLS RHYTHM 'N' BOOZE

THUR 16 FROM U.S.A.
ROOT BOY SLIM & THE SEX CHANGE BAND
FRI 17/SAT 18
FROM FLORIDA U.S.A.
SALT WATER BAND SUPPORTED BY
HARRY & THE ATOMS
TUES 21
ROY SUNDHOLM
WED 22 FROM JAMAICA
CLINT EASTWOOD
THUR 23
ZAINIE GRIFF

Open Monday-Saturday 8pm-2am & Sunday 7pm-11.30pm
CAMDEN LOCK, CHALK FARM ROAD, LONDON NW1 01-267 4967 end your week with...

YACHTS

at The NASHVILLE

• SAT 18 & SUN 19 AUG •

Last London appearance before U.S. tour

Tickets £1.50 dj - Mandy Hermitage

BOX202 new single out now on Radar ADA92

SUBSCRIBE!

NME BY POST

NAME.....

ADDRESS .....

Rates: UK Addresses — year £15.50; six months £7.75.
USA & Canada — year $52.00; six months $26.00.
Other countries — year £16.50; six months £8.25.
Cheques payable to IPC Magazines.

NME By Post
Jim Watts, Room 2613, Kings Reach Tower,
Stamford St., London SE1 9LS.

Virgin's 20th-21st Aug.
XMAS PARTY
at the NASHVILLE
with FINGERPRINTZ
LOCAL OPERATOR
CowBoys International FREE
singles
For All who come

LIVE!

Patti Smith

San Francisco

There was more 'poetry' scrawled across the bathroom walls of the Boarding House than Patti Smith delivered during a two hour show there. Still, the evening at the nightclub was advertised as a "Poetry Reading". But the self-absorbed New York rock star gave an extended exercise in acute boredom.

Scrappy Ms Smith didn't read a single poem. And anyone looking for some rock and roll could forget it.

San Francisco had been the first city (outside of New York, of course) that had responded to Smith's 'arty' blend of earthy verse and rock music. Four years back when there was only the 'Hey Joe'/'Piss Factory' single, Smith had performed in the loft of a Berkeley record store to a small, but appreciative cult.

So, although the big star with the hit single and the gold album would play to 6,000 in San Francisco the following night, tonight she would give the 300 lucky ones who scored a ticket to this event a rare chance to see her up close. A chance, it was hoped, to experience some of that manic, "Rockin' Rimbaud" that Patti Smith presented here for a few nights in early '75.

But, as one member of the audience so succinctly put it, the show was "poodleshit".

Dressed in tight black jeans, a man's white dress shirt, wrinkled black sportcoat that looked picked up off the street, white socks and black bedroom slippers, Smith strolled out onto the stage and sat at a small table in front of a white movie screen. She looked like a rumpled Johnny Carson for the hip set.

"I'd first like to take this opportunity to..." she hesitated, "take a nap!" Though the crowd laughed, it was a telling omen of what was to come.

"The first poem on our program tonight will be a long, involved piece on Pasolini from my book, Babel. I tell you this because some of you will feel like you're in church by the time I'm done reading." But she never got the book open.

A girl in the audience screamed out, "Tell him not to hurt me, Patti!"

"Honey," snapped the ever-ready scarecrow, "if you're being hurt in a nice place like this, you must deserve it."

The serious expression on Smith's face suddenly dissolved into a childlike smile. "I had a real nice day today," she said slowly.

"What did you do today?" chimed a chorus of young girls.

"I had fun," Smith responded, like a three-year-old just back from a trip to the zoo. "It was sort of silly."

Suddenly, she collapsed on the table. After a few moments, she sat up and giggled. "Sometimes people think I don't do my work because I'm too stoned and fucked up. That's the danger of having fun while you're working. Sometimes nothing gets done."

"Why don't you do something?" yelled an irate man.

"You don't think you're getting your money's

The cuddly cosy comfort of a tame and trusted teddy

Ian Dury And The Blockheads

Hammersmith Odeon

"Good evening! I'm from Essex..."

Hammersmith Odeon is soft and warm, awash with beer and love. The ianduryandtheblockheads Experience is well under way: funk, farts and folk wisdom. Across the stage, the ensemble are strung out in a wavy line playing elasticated pinball music, rocking and bouncing like champs.

Davey Payne looks like a punk Dr Who and sounds like a flock of enraged geese: Mickey Gallagher sits inside his suit and goes wheeoooo; Chaz Jankel keeps his hat on his head and his cards close to his chest; Charley Charles puts the fear of God into his drums and makes sure that whatever it was they did to offend him, they certainly won't do it again; Norman Watt-Roy resembles Mick Jones with jaundice and makes his bass go boing; and John Turnbull looks normal and demonstrates without the faintest shadow of a doubt his unalienable right to own so many guitars.

Add up the figures in the left-hand column and the digital readout says that our ribbing The Blockheads' music is "compulsively danceable" would be only slightly less meaningful, complaining about the shortage of good pubs in the North Desert.

In other words a wonderful band (in case you couldn't tell).

From the one-two Sucker-punch curtain-raiser of 'Wake Up' and 'Clever Trevor' through to 'Lullaby For Frances' and the band walking off a houseful stage while Andy Dunkley spins a biscuit and gives the congregation their marching orders, the ianduryandtheblockheads show was as cuddly and heartwarming an experience as any reasonable person could demand for their ackers.

And that was the bloody trouble!

Since 'New Boots And Panties' became 'the working man's Tubular Bells', Ian Dury has been adopted as some sort of mascot: as treasured and beloved an emblem as a battered teddy bear with a ripped ear and worn-out marks on the fur, a mascot for which Ian Dury is better all along strike-a-pot at the end of a long observation, a demonstration of the common sense of a twofold, of course, that is open to all the balls, old girl about who's - more - working - class - then - who - then, his deft wit and sleight-of-word, his beery anthems, his winning streak of danceable-fluff singles, his warmth, his compassion... his excellent band!

So his shows are comfy and furry, all hands - knees - and - whoops - daisy and jolly good fun, and it's a telling demonstration of the way audiences take what they want from bands and leave the rest at the side of the plate. In a way, it parallels the way that the harsh urgency exhibited by The Boomtown Rats when they were dodging hails of sputum in crappy clubs gradually got eroded as the records sold and they became stars. On Dury's first major outing in his current incarnation back in Live Stiffs days, his show was riveting because it balanced the cheerful and the macabre, the sweet and the scary, the darkness and the light. Dury was a gloriously powerful, in a sense, a victim taking his revenge, a vision of terror as sheer emotional power and impact, he took on Elvis and the Attractions and beat them hands down.

The success he received was nothing less than his due. For his courage and his humour and his wit and his acuity, he was duly rewarded and recognised. No problem!

But now Ian Dury is a family entertainer beyond a shadow of a doubt (I ain't knockin', y'understand), but a family entertainer nonetheless, putting on a show where everything is flattened down to one dimension: that of bawdy warmth and cosy sentimentality.

The balancing factor of darkness and terror is all but gone as even songs like 'Pleistow Patricia' and 'Blockheads' itself (key example, that) have become cuddlycosynics by dint of sheer familiarity and repetition. As has most of Dury's amateur.

Keen amateur environmental semanticists will have clocked the 'most'. Apart from the evergreen and utterly wonderful 'Sweet Gene Vincent', the most authentically affecting moments in the show were the darkest.

First there was 'Waiting For Your Taxi', and insidiously chilling exercise in mounting menace wherein Dury is 'impaled like a broken moth at the centre of rapids of light beamed from all corners of the stage, a morbid allusion to the Union Jack in which Burke and due to the lighting effect. Why won't the taxicab come? What are the consequences of its absence? It is a question, a taxicab comes over page.

worth?" snarled Smith, outrage replacing the apparent bliss of a moment before.

"Yes we are!" responded the girl chorus.

"No, not you suckers," said Smith. She looked at the guy. "What's Your definition of 'something'? I really want to know." She stared down at the floor for several minutes in silence.

"Alright, I'm going to read you the entire US constitution," she said finally. "It'll take three hours. We'll have nine foot tall security guards to make sure you don't make any noise."

For a full hour, Smith and the audience exchanged such banalities. The only break came when she sat at a grand piano and played a short, simplistic, droning instrumental. And there was the screening of a brief excerpt from an indulgent, artsy film called Still Moving about Patti that her former lover, gay photographer Robert Mapplethorpe is directing.

The second half of the 'show' fared only slightly better.

As Patti Smith Group keyboardist Richard Sohl took a seat at the black grand piano, Patti returned to the stage clutching a clarinet. She had traded in her dress shirt for a bestialish red and black striped sweater.

With eyes closed, she stood at the microphone and began a striking reading of 'Break It Up' off 'Horses'. As Sohl provided the sparsest of accompaniment, Smith's raw, tortured vocal provided some hint of the turmoil within her soul. During the instrumental break, she offered some surprisingly melodic riffs on the clarinet, an instrument she apparently approaches with more discipline than the electric guitar.

There was a so-so version of the 1963 Phil Spector classic, '(Today I Met) The Boy I'm Going to Marry' and Smith's 'You Light Up My Life' for '79, a melodramatic piece of trash from the Broadway musical, Annie.

And when Jay Dee Daughterty staggered out drunk and joined Sohl on the piano bench, while Lenny Kaye, wearing a Jimi Hendrix T-shirt, plugged a red Strat into a Marshall, sheer hell broke loose. They launched into a chaotic, 'free' jazz embarrasement called 'Variations On A Theme Of The Spider And The Fly' that was pure nonsense. Patti squawked away on clarinet while Lenny chanted 'Spider, creeping/A fly is in the web/Help me/Help me...' ed infinitum.

The band split and once again seated at the table, Smith read much of the 23rd Psalm. The audience was understandably restless. "I don't know how you expect me to read my poems if I can't even get through the 23rd Psalm," whined Smith.

Strapping on Kaye's guitar, she attempted to imitate Jimi Hendrix, producing feedback for 10 minutes. "Awful Patti, just awful!" yelled a member of the audience.

"So what?" she retorted. "Do it again!" shouted another in the crowd. "Maybe we'll have an earthquake." "We've got to go," said Smith shortly after midnight. No one in the audience argued.

Michael Goldberg

More reasons to be critical . . .

at all? Why are you staring at me like that?

And the real tour de force comes with 'Dance Of The Screemers,' far and away the most magnificent Dury opus thus far.

Here his compassion blends with anger rather than sentimentality, and rather than congratulating his audience, he reminds them that just because they've taken one victim to their hearts doesn't mean they're entitled to pat themselves on the back for the rest of their lives, because this society is full of people going under for lack of love and support.

Here, for once, Dury doesn't just twang your heartstrings with a chuckle and a grimace, he hangs a 16-ton weight off 'em and then fires it out of a cannon.

However, the echoes of this harrowing moment are swiftly dissipated by a return to jollity and the de rigueur valley of Oy-Oyl cell-and-response routines.

There is a massive audience for the type of stylised music-hall funk he can churn out with seeming effortlessness and he can stick with that for as long as he wants and people will sentimentalise him and love him and all will be tickety-boo. Alternatively, he can take a step back and delve into the darkness which is the true source of his power and bring sweetness and light back from that.

Both aesthetically and commercially, the latter option is the tough one. Songs as heavy as 'Dance Of The Screemers' are hellishly hard to write (involving as they do no little psychic strain) and equally hard to take if you're just out for beery bawdry, but they're the ones that count.

I think it's time Ian Dury started shaking up his audiences again.

Charles Shear Murray

New band, old barbarities. Pic Chris Horler.

Stately Home For The Aged Revisited

New Barbarians

Knebworth

Well, that's over. No more Led Zeppelin front-covers for a good while; no more wondering whether Mick would appear with The New Barbarians; no more cosy little outings to watch 'superstars' slag the press to the total apathy of both the victims and the mass of horizontal punters in the sunny pastures of Knebworth.

Knebworth (part two) came and went last Saturday and although there were mild 'memorable moments', one doubts whether the 150,000 to 300,000 people will cherish the event for eternity.

I missed everyone before Southside Johnny And The Asbury Dukes, and although the New Jersey middle-weights vigorously pumped out their wares, the elements facing them — excessive heat and mass apathy — created the sad vision of a good band in the wrong environment vainly struggling against an inert mass.

The first artiste to cause more than a ripple of approval from the hordes was Todd Rundgren wearing an orange-red top, purplish pink strides and maroon-dyed hair. Even so, the navigator/mainman felt the need to be pseudo-democratic and once again drag in Utopia — the unit that has caused him to turn out the worst cosmic waffle throughout his career.

For every gem like 'Love Of The Common Man' and 'The Last Ride', one had to put up with drivel like 'Initiation', 'The Seven Rays' and a plethora of new, unreleased Utopia material which sounded just as bombastic. Such sudden leaps from the sublime to the flatulent weren't half as annoying as Rundgren's splanetic between-song snipes at that good old target, The Press.

The first shot was at least funny. "This song was performed to bolster the premise that the entire staff of Sounds suffer from exceptionally small penises."

But it got worse. Another two songs passed and Rundgren pointed at the press enclosure and whined

SOUL IN THE BOWL.

An open air concert. Saturday 8th September. Starts 12 Noon.

HI-TENSION

Chairman of the Board · Desmond Dekker & The Aces

Geno Washington & The Ram Jam Band · Jimmy James & The Vagabonds · Legs & Co

Admission by advance ticket only at the special price of only £1.00 each. Postal applications with coupon or advance tickets available from: Kylesbury: Record House, Bedford: HMV, Birmingham: Cyclops Sounds, Coventry: H Payne, Dunstable: F L Moore, High Wycombe: International Travel, Hitchin: F L Moore, London: London Theatre Bookings, Leighton Buzzard: D J Holland, Letchworth: Star Tune, Luton: Harlequin and F L Moore, Marlow: Chiltern Sound, Milton Keynes: Information Centre, Central Milton Keynes, Stantonbury Leisure Centre, Bletchley: F L Moore, The Leisure Centre, Peaches Discotheque, Northampton: Spin-a-Disc, Oxford: Russell Acott, Reading: Pickfords, Stevenage: Record Centre, St Albans: Record Room, Wadford: Past & Present, Wellingborough: Revolver Records.

MILTON KEYNES BOWL

2 miles North of Bletchley on the A1. Free Car Parking Ticket Enquiries to (0905) 807728

P.O. Box No. 185,
Soul on the Bowl Concert,
Milton Keynes MK9 3HO

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

NO. OF TICKETS _____

CHEQUE/P.O. NO. _____

TOTAL: £ _____

For office use only:

Stamped addressed envelope must be enclosed
Also allow 12 days for cheques to be cleared before tickets are sent.
£1 inc. VAT. Please make cheques payable to Soul
on the Bowl Concert. NME

"Oh look there's the man from NME getting butt-fucked by a security guard." (Hey Todd, that doesn't necessarily mean that I'm a bad person). And then, the floodgates opened and the full force of Rundgren's contempt/hatred for the rock press poured out.

Yet the crowd assembled weren't cheering. As far as the majority were concerned, Rundgren's tirade was futile self-indulgence.

The set's three-pronged climax — the sublime pop of 'Couldn't I Just Tell You', a great storming version of 'Anyway, Anyhow, Anywhere' and the ever-enthralling 'Just One Victory' — vindicated much of the stupidity, and Rundgren left the stage in glory.

But having continually found Rundgren as annoyingly misguided as he can be supremely talented, to me it was very much a Pyrrhic victory.

The time between the Asbury Jukes leaving the stage and Rundgren's arrival was a neatly paced 15 to 20 minutes, but between Rundgren and follow up act, The New Barbarians, it was at least two hours.

This was particularly vexing to those in the audience not completely floored by the heat (or a combination of booze and drugs) and the masses of celebrities and liggers who were morosely pacing around backstage.

There was Mick Jones, Topper Headon, Steve Jones, Paul Cook, Steve 'Attraction' Thomas and most of The Pretenders.

And they were all there for Keef. None of these new wave hot shots was there for Zeppelin, the name just caused them to smirk contemptuously.

The two hour delay was disturbing.

Stanley Clarke, the bassist for the Barbs during their US tour, was ill and Willy Weeks was advertised as his official replacement. For unknown reasons, Weeks had missed the gig, leaving them bass-less until at the eleventh hour Phil Chen (Rod Stewart's bass player) was located, ready and willing. So perhaps this wretched delay was because Wood and Richards were quickly teaching Chen the songs.

With the sun setting, the congregate ambled on to much cheering. Wood was prancing around the stage like a Dick Whittington in a village panto, with Richards in black velvet jacket and blood-red stripes loping over to the amps, hardly Action Man but clearly ready for what was to come.

Bobby Keyes looked like a rich man's Dennis Roussos in hideous kaftan and beer gut, Chen wore a Hawaiian shirt, McLagan was as dapper as ever, with drummer Zig Modeliste hidden behind his kit.

They thumped into a gritty 'Sweet Little Rock'n'Roller'. Wood's voice sounded the typical 60-Woodbines-a-day croak, but he still managed to keep in tune. Nothing startling as Chen searched for the groove — a state of affairs that 'F.U.C. Here' (a Wood original from his 'Neck' album) built around a similar Barry slant, didn't help. It was messy and one shuddered at the debate that might follow.

Fortunately, the music improved dramatically with an inspired version of 'Breathe On Me', a little-known but underrated original on Wood's second album, 'Now Look'.

Suddenly everything gelled. Keyes abetted by Sugar Blue on harmonica, comprised a Rundgren blows it again. Pic Pennie Smith.

fully and lusty horn section. Richards found his bearing, and he and Wood played off each other superbly, while the rhythm section of Chen and Modeliste laid down splendid formations.

Another underrated Wood chestnut 'I Can Feel The Fire' was dusted off next and again the band were on four-wheel drive. Wood and Richards were cooking on the riff whilst all other members busily locked into over-drive, both guitars and Sugar Blue's superb harp sparking on all cylinders.

It was what this ragged ensemble did best — using a hard-nosed and flexible rhythm section and building on the foundations with McLagan adding keyboard textures, Keyes and Sugar Blue a potent horn section, and Wood and Richards firing off on guitars.

It's undoubtedly rock at its most reactionary but when it hits the note, there's a spirit to it — a gut-level kick that won't quit.

Richards fronted the Barbarians several times; firstly on a gnarled but well-constructed 'Worried Life Blues', a similarly feisty 'Rock Me Baby' and, best of all, a rendition of the obscure late '50s doo wop affair, 'Let's Go Steady' featuring Wood duelling with Keyes. Richards' vocals always started off as if his larynx was about to crack completely but somehow he fell into sync with the melody.

Wood, after all the real frontman for the Barbs, has certainly learned a lot since his two solo gigs (also featuring Richards and McLagan) back in '74. His voice was much stronger and even when he dared to perform such sacred items as 'Honky Tonk Women' and 'Jumpin' Jack Flash', it was intriguing more than heretical because the incorrigible Honest Ron sounds like a '65-'66 'Pledging My Time' Dylan, making the Barbs come over like a mating of the Zim and the Stones.

One minor but nonetheless unsettling point was Keith Richards' 'Before They Make Me Run' coming straight after a superb 'Seven Days', which seemed too close to a rock'n'roll facsimile of Frank Sinatra's 'My Way'.

When it first appeared on 'Some Girls' with Richards' Toronto bust and his freedom in jeopardy, it meant something real. At Knebworth it was an empty gesture because everybody knew that no-one was going to make Richards run after that farce of a trial.

The 'Jumpin' Jack Flash' encore though had most of the audience on their feet clapping along for the first time during the event.

The Barbs had done their best but when Zeppelin went onstage an hour later, the difference between the two units was as clear as chalk and cheese.

Whereas The New Barbarians were endearingly sloppy, going from the near-disastrous to the sublime, Zeppelin from their opener 'The Song Remains The Same' were perfection in sound, dynamics and note-for-note fastidious playing.

For the first half hour one couldn't help but be impressed by Zep's powerdrive; at times they were breath taking. But the mixture of Robert Plant's frequent snipes at their less-than-totally-adulatory press coverage and the elongated virtuosity of the likes of 'No Quarter' and 'Dazed And Confused' ultimately left me cold and bored.

For all their sloppiness, The New Barbarians did put over something real, even if it was just good old rock'n'roll dance music. Zeppelin, for all their virtuosity, had very little to say beyond the bombastic power. More pertinent is that Graham Parker, Costello, Dury and The Clash have the drop on both units because they are saying something new and relevant; their music is constructed on a truly realistic sense of passion.

The Barbs are only rock'n'roll (and, yes, I liked it). Zep are like a behemoth, impressive but something from the past — almost a museum piece.

Trouble is, real inspired rock'n'roll is never only anything and Knebworth 2 proved that with a vengeance.

Nick Kent

EPISODE ONE. THE FRANTIC CAT DISCOVERS THE FRANTIC CATALOGUE OF THE FRANTIC CATALOGUE...

... HE PLUNGES IN AND IS AMAZED BY OVER 1,000 ALBUMS AND CASSETTES AT REDUCED PRICES! ...

... NOT TO MENTION A WHOLE GALLERY OF PICTURE DISCS AND SUPERB ALBUM MIRRORS ...

... F.C. IS BREATHLESS WHEN HE TRIES OUT THE RANGE OF HI-FI ACCESSORIES ...

... AND KERUNCHH! ... THE SELECTION OF MUSIC BOOKS ...

... TERRIFIC SPECIAL OFFERS ... ANY AVAILABLE U.K. ALBUM FROM OUR SPECIAL DEPARTMENT AT DISCOUNT PRICES...

FRANTIC

WE'RE AS KEEN AS OUR PRICES!!!

MAIL
ORDER
MUSIC

MAIL ORDER
MUSIC

MAIL ORDER
MUSIC

MAIL ORDER
MUSIC

Please rush me the new FRANTIC CATALOGUE. . .
FRANTIC MAIL ORDER COMPANY, WARLEY,
WEST MIDLANDS, B66 4BB.

Name _____
Address _____
_____

NME1

Cheap Perfume

New York

"Don't bother with the local girls," Graham Parker sings. But the local girls keep vying for attention and they're hard to ignore.

This bunch aren't above using a bit of the old sex appeal to catch your eye. Nothing crass like Wendy of the Plasmatics with her breasts hanging out doing a strip-tease. Just restrained titillation (sic) and cute poses — bikini top and hot pants, tarty pouts and teasing leers at the audience.

Is this trashy? "It's just the smell of cheap perfume," they sing in one song; meaning a passing fancy, to be thought about later on, but really not too important. The line defines them.

So Cheap Perfume are eminently disposable. A few good songs, pretty faces, visual flair, contrasting and colourful personalities — it adds up to a bit of fun and not a bad sound to accompany a summer night's beer down at the club.

A cheap sell. Pic: Joe Stevens

"Gimme Those Pretty Boys"

Lynn O'Dell (vocals) wriggles around the stage, teasing shamelessly. She's not the world's greatest rock and roll singer, but she has got spirit. Allison, the pretty blonde guitarist, is deliciously cute and looks just smashing with her guitar strapped on. She'll strike a macho guitar-hero pose, then counter it with a winking, 'come hither' glance at the front rows. She handles rhythm playing fine, gets off a few good, tuneful solos and a few predictable, boring ones.

Drummer Brenda Martinez is a Puerto Rican Big Mama who could be Buddy Miles' sister. She slams through the songs on pure muscle power. Nancy Street (guitar) and Susan Palermo (bass) play less descript but generally competent supporting roles.

"Gimme gimme those pretty boys... that's why I'm here," they sing in 'Pretty Boys'; what could be more direct and honest? Martinez adds big-voiced and soulful harmonies on the choruses. She should do more singing.

'Cheap Perfume' has yet more references to boys — young boys, and details of sexual merry-go-round of memories and lost love.

The set loses momentum in the middle. 'You Stepped In It Now' is a sluggish put down, 'Positively 4th Street' laced with doggy-do.

But they go out strong: 'Too Bad' is breezy and romantic and anchored with a solid hook. 'He's so sexy... it's too bad, he doesn't know what he never had.' O'Dell sings with a bittersweet tinge. This one I'd love to hear on the radio.

Cheap Perfume are just nickel-and-dime stuff. But there's nothing but summer re-runs on TV, so what the heck?

Richard Grabel

The Undertones Marquee

If ever there was a group to make you want to throw away your Ramones albums, then this is it. That's the ultimate compliment I can think of for the ultimate pop 'n' rock 'n' roll band, The Undertones.

If there ever was a group all about passion, excitement, sadness, joy and spontaneity, it's this lot. Everyone loves The Undertones!

What more is there left to say? I mean, I don't want to go over the top. They're here and they're great. They packed out the Marquee four nights running, but could have played for a month and I'd still probably have gone at least twice a week.

It's not only Fergal Sharkey's voice, though that magnificent chilling quavery whine does comprise a good part of their appeal. It's the corporate wit and pure pop

Stiff Little Fingers

Hammersmith Palais

Sunday night beneath the dandruff-enhancing white-blue light of the Hammersmith Palais: Stiff Little Fingers are playing a blinder. There's no better place to be.

It's a gig of tensions, both of the fruitful and of the destructive kinds, of elation that alternates with anger and, by the end of the night, with sheer bitter frustration.

To take it in sequel: the half records to the strains of 'Land Of Hope And Glory', sharply and dramatically interrupted as SLF smash into their frenzied mini-classics 'Suspect Device' and 'Alternative Ulster' — just two of the songs born of their disgust at what became of life in their native Belfast.

The third number 'Closed Groove' sees the attempted intervention of a couple of skinheads; one makes his bid for the microphone, gets unceremoniously dragged off, tries a forlorn Tufty Club salute to re-assess what's left of his crenel-credibility.

Jake Burns is clearly bitter — guessing that we're playing host to some of the heroes of Sham's Last Stand he calls "Well you needn't think your gonna ruin this one!" to a vast cheer of approval.

And so they forge on — with a new song and likely single, 'Strong Boys', followed by 'Breakout' where Burns returns to his constant theme, namely relating all the violence and bigotry of his Ulster songs to the varieties of violence and bigotry found elsewhere, even in the Hammersmith Palais. "But we got out of it and you can get out of it too."

'Wait And See' is another new number, a sort of autobiography of Stiff Little Fingers, leading into the one I like the best, 'Barbed Wire Love', with its bizarre but beautifully effective doo-wop middle section.

'State Of Emergency' again is "about Northern Ireland, about what's been going on for the past 11 years and looks like going on for the next 11 years..." And here, as throughout, the performance of the Rigid Digits is magnificent.

Jake Burns' voice is a hoarse and desperate rasp, propelled at breakneck speed by his own guitar and that of Henry Cluney, while the bass of Ali McMordie and Jimmy Reilly's explosive drumming combine to form a rhythm section of reckless power.

'Gotta Getaway' is extended as an invitation to the still-troublesome elements in

Where to tune your car.

Aberdeen — Union Street
Ayr — High Street
Barnsley — Town Square
Barnsley — Chapside
Bedford — Harpur Centre
Birmingham — New Street
Blackburn — Golden Court
Blackpool — Bank Hey Street
Bognor Regis — London Road
Bournemouth — Old Christchurch Rd.
Bradford — Kirkgate Centre
Brent Cross — Brent Cross Centre
Bridport — East Street
Brighton — Commercial Road
Bristol — Broadmead
Burnley — St. James Street
Bury St. Edmunds — Cornhill
Cambridge — Petty Cury
Cardiff — Queen Street
Carnforth — Rushby Green
Cheltenham — High Chelmer
Cheltenham — High Street
Colchester — High Street
Coventry — Corporation Street
Darlington — Northgate
Derby — Devonshire Walk
Dorset — Bognor Street
Dundee — High Street
East Kilbride — The Plaza
Eastbourne — Terminus Road
Edmonton — North Square
Exeter — High Street
Falkirk — High Street
Falkirk — Sandgate Road
Glasgow — Sauchiehall Street
Glasgow — Union Street
Guildford — High Street
Hemel Hempstead — Marlows
St. Helens — Church Street
High Wycombe — The Arcade
Horsham — Swan Walk
Hounslow — High Street
Huddersfield — King Street
Hull — Prospect Centre
Inverness — High Street
Ipswich — High Road
Kingston on Thames — Clarence St
Kirkcaldy — High Street
Leeds — Bond Street Centre
Leamington Spa — The Parade
Leicester — Gallowtree Gate
Lincoln — High Street
Liverpool — Church Street
London — Jewsham High Street
London — Regent Street
London — High Road — Wood Green
Luton — Andale Centre
Macclesfield — Grosvenor Centre
Maidstone — Week Street
Manchester — Royal Exchange
Middlesbrough — Cleveland Centre
Newcastle — Eldon Centre
Newport — Commercial Street
Northampton — Grosvenor Centre
Norwich — St. Stephen Street
Nottingham — Victoria Centre
Nottingham — Broad Marsh Centre
Oxford — Commercial Street
Perth — High Street
Reading — Broad Street
Rimford — The Liberty
Sheffield — High Street
Shrewsbury — Ludlow
Slough — High Street
Southampton — Above Bar Street
Southend-on-Sea — High Street
Southport — Chapel Street
Stirling — Thistle Centre
Stockport — Market Square
Stoke on Trent — Market Square
Sunderland — Market Square
Sutton — High Street
Swindon — Brunel Plaza
Swansea — Oxford Street
Walsall — Townsend Square
Welford — High Street
Weston super Mare — High Street
Woking — Commercial Way
Wolverhampton — Queen Street
York — Market Street

SAVE £4.00

Sharp AR947 LW/MW Car Radio, supplied with pod loudspeakers. Normal price £39.75 Special Offer Price £35.75***

SAVE £3.00

Boots VR40 LW/MW Manual Car Radio, supplied with pod loudspeaker. Normal price £21.95 Special Offer Price £18.95***

SAVE £4.00

Philips AC060 Car Stereo Cassette Player, supplied without loudspeakers. Normal price £43.95 Special Offer Price £39.95***

SAVE £3.00

Boots VR50 LW/MW Push-Button Car Radio, supplied with pod loudspeaker. Normal price £30.65 Special Offer Price £27.65***

SAVE £3.00

Philips AN361 LW/MW Push-Button Car Radio, supplied with pod loudspeaker. Normal price £37.95 Special Offer Price £34.95***

SAVE £5.30

Boots VRC120 Car Combination Unit. LW/MW Radio with stereo cassette playback, supplied without loudspeakers. Normal price £65.25 Special Offer Price £59.95***

Tuning your car costs less at Boots.

Your car will make all the right noises if you tune it up with an in-car entertainment unit from Boots. And you'll be saving precious petrol money too. Because right now we're offering a range of radios, cassette players and combination units at special offer prices.

You'll also find Boots Super Car Cassette Case which holds up to 13 cassettes safe and sound. Normal price £2.95 Special Offer Price £2.45***

And Boots Car Cassette Cleaning Kit with its specially designed cleaning rod and an invaluable pen torch. Normal price £4.99. Special Offer Price £4.49***

We welcome Access, Barclaycard and Trustcard.
*At these Special Offer Prices until Sept. 1st, subject to stock availability.
From Boots Audio Departments

Make the most of your Boots.

class of the whole band that so endears them to me; the flair of the Billy Doherty and Mickey Bradley rhythm section and the zap of the O'Neill brothers on the twin guitars.

The lack of what some doctors might term 'stagecraft' only adds to the immediacy of their set.

Speaking of which, there are already enough fine new songs ( juxtaposed with the stuff from the singles and album) to ensure that they safely bridge that old problem of the second album syndrome.

The likes of 'Whizz Kids', 'Nine Times Out Of Ten', 'My Perfect Cousin', 'Wrong Way' and 'You Got My Number' are at least the equal of the songs already committed to vinyl.

But there's one song, 'The Way Girls Talk' that is something else altogether. A slow, emotive ballad, almost painfully delivered by Sharkey, it is far and

"I Never Kissed A Girl Before"

away the best song the Tones have ever written. "I never kissed a girl before/Too shy to go outside the door/Who cares what's right/I wanna know what we're doing tonight/Can't you listen to the way girls talk..."

Puts tears in my eyes and shivers all down my spine, and with a bit of luck it should be their next single.

In fact, the one criticism of their set is that a couple more slow songs would not go amiss. Sharkey's wailing, quivering voice is ideally suited.

After the group had been summoned back for encores of The Boys' 'TCP' (from that particular band's criminally ignored second NEMS album) and 'Emergency Cases' from the 'Teenage Kicks' EP, the squinting, sweat-drenched Sharkey turns and faces the crowd for the last time.

"Did ya enjoy that song?"

But no one needed to answer him.

Adrian Thrills

the crowd, whilst the angry 'Law And Order' is dedicated to the police and to the RUC in particular.

Bob Marley's 'Johnny Was' comes next ("like Strummer said — this song was written by a black man. And if you don't like black men you know where the door is"), though its beat is more paramilitary than reggae, succeeded by 'Wasted Life', maybe the starkest statement of simple, decent outrage that SLF have produced.

So it's a good indication of the essentially positive mood of their set that they were able to anchor so naturally with Mud's 'Tiger Feet' — in itself, of course, a ridiculous little song but, in this context, a celebration of the natural right to enjoy yourself in defiance of every force that's tried to stop you.

Alas, it was not to end that perfectly.

Seeing more stupidity on the dance-floor, Burns curtailed the song abruptly, called for the house-lights to reveal the faces of those responsible.

Stopping only for Burns to spit the word 'Bastard!' out, the band stalked off demolishing their equipment as they went.

A slightly theatrical over-reaction? Possibly: some of the audience seemed to believe so, though they'd been near-unanimous in endorsement of Burns' stance throughout the night.

It was a disturbingly bleak and sudden ending all the same.

Paul Du Noyer

Kevin Coyne

Queen Elizabeth Hall

You'd only wish Kevin Coyne's Babble traumas on your worst enemy, but I can't help thinking that his distressingly simple-minded world-view leaves him more open to misunderstanding than most.

His songs avoid irony and detachment like twin diseases: anyone feeling that these qualities are part of a complete response to experience can safely give Coyne a miss. Conversely, those who regard them as luxuries in these Dark Days — the 'How-can-you-smile-when-boat-people-are-drowning?' lobby — will find big-hearted Kevin a home from home.

This was a regular gig, with plenty of babble but little Babble, and showed little change from a Nashville evening 18 months ago. As then, Zoot Money kicked off, looking faintly ridiculous in a long smock and proving once more that he is, needless to say, the best Joe Cocker currently available. The piano swings and 'Sentimental Journey' works well, but his own stuff is too long and shapeless to do his talents justice.

And, talking of shapelessness, here's your favourite anti-star, rumpled and dumpy in dungarees and black T-shirt, bellowing 'I'm still here' over a backing tape.

The famed compassion melts into a sludge of reassurance — "This one's for all the people who..." was a recurring dedication — and I've not heard so many platitudes so eagerly devoured since my last Tom Bate (sorry, Joan Robinson) concert.

Coyne's chat shows him to be capable of humour and self-knowledge: introducing 'Amsterdam' he concedes that the city partly lived up to its picture-postcard image, but, "being Kevin Coyne, I had to find the pain." Little of this spills into the songs.

'Lunatic' trots out R. D. Laing for beginners (maybe it's they who are sane, etc.) and 'The Bourgeois Dance' does ditto for D. H. Lawrence, castigating emotional dwarfs incapable of honest relationships. 'Dance' is graced by a bite-filled rap from Ayatollah Kevin, laying into discos, ELO, people with sound systems and Abba records.

Laugh? I thought they'd never stop.

Revealing that he listened to a lot of Hendrix during his recent troubles, he includes a ponderous 'If Six Was Nine', substituting po-faced recital for Jimi's jive-talk. 'White collar conservative flashin' down the street/Pointin' their plastic fingers at me' is taken so straight it's ludicrous.

There's so much to get up your nose you forget there's a fine voice trying to get in your ears.

A brief, closing interlude with full band redresses the balance, though Vic Sweeney's drums get stuck in a ramshackle 'Rainy Day Women' groove. 'Dreaming' and 'Strange Locomotion', both with Money, are alright too.

Kevin Coyne is unquestionably Righteous to the soles of his plimmes, but while this commendable quality finds such indiscriminating, muddle-headed expression, less wholesale alternatives will continue to seem more palatable. If concentrating on life's unfortunate guaranteed realism, 'Streets Of London' would be top of the agitpops.

The Graham Nash of the Left, anyone?

Harry George

If you want to get in and out of town a bit sharpish, here's the code: GT250X7.

Of course there are other 250's. But there's only one GT250X7 — and Suzuki make it.

Suzuki make it go so quickly that top speed nudges 100 mph.

Suzuki make it stop swiftly because it boasts beefy 10" discs up front and weighs a lean yet muscular 272 lbs.

Suzuki make it so well balanced that it takes the curves like a midget high speed train.

Suzuki make it with an unburstable "Power-Recd" engine. Pointless ignition. 6-speed gearbox. Alloy wheels. Climb aboard. For £799 you can shrink the big city.

GT250X7 £799

HERON SUZUKI

the getaway bike

Nene College Northampton

Tel: 0604 715000

BA/BSc(HONS) COMBINED STUDIES

(3 years)

Students study a main subject together with three or four other subjects from:

American Studies; Applied Statistics; Art; Biology of Man; Computing; Development Studies; Drama; Earth Sciences; Economics; Education; English; Environmental Biology; Fundamentals of Business Practice; Family and Community Studies; Fossils and Evolution; French; Geography; History; Matter, Energy and Chemical Change; Music; Physical Education;
Psychology; Psychology of Interpersonal Behaviour; Pure Mathematics; Social Studies; Sociology; Study of Religion
(*subject to validation)

BEC HIGHER DIPOLMA

(2 years)

Subjects:
Economics, Accountancy, Personnel Administration, Law, Data Processing, Sales of the Personal Assistant.

ACCOUNTANCY FOUNDATION COURSE

(1 year)

In preparation for Association of Certified Accountants' Foundation (fully accredited) and leading to Institute of Cost and Management Accountants Foundation examination.

Please send me a copy of NENE COLLEGE prospectus

Name _____
Address _____

Return to: The Academic Registrar (NME/18/8/79), NENE COLLEGE, Moulton
Park, Northampton NN2 7AL

Strathclyde Regional Council: Department of Education

WHY NOT STUDY AT BELL COLLEGE OF TECHNOLOGY?

Bell College of Technology is an advanced Higher Further Education College. It is situated in Hamilton, adjacent to the M74 and local bus and rail routes. The college is about one mile from the new Strathclyde Park which incorporates the most modern water sports venue in the Region.
Within the college and the local area there are many societies and clubs covering a wide range of interests and activities.

Higher National Diploma Courses are available in the following areas: —

|                              |                             |
|------------------------------|-----------------------------|
| Accounting                   | Engineering                 |
| Biology                      | Engineering/Technical Educ. |
| Business Studies             | Mathematics                 |
| Chemistry                    | Modern Languages            |
| Communications               | Physics                     |
| Data Processing              | Secretarial                 |
| Electrical & Electronic Eng. | Travel & Tourism            |

Limited residential accommodation adjacent to the college may be available.

For details of the above and other courses, contact the Principal, Bell College of Technology, Almada Street, Hamilton. Telephone: HAMILTON 283100.
PLEASE QUOTE THIS NEWSPAPER WHEN REPLYING.

E. MILLER Director of Education.

NME

EDUCATIONAL

OPPORTUNITIES

This three page feature is the beginning of a series of Higher Educational Course advertising which will be running with us over the next three weeks.

We suggest that you apply for courses that interest you as they appear because many become over-subscribed.

Make sure that you get the NME for the next three weeks for the complete range of courses.

Good Luck!

School-leavers

WILL YOUR JOB PROSPECTS BE BETTER IN 1981?

They could be! If you're interested in a business career, it makes sense to consider an HND (Business Studies).
Two-years, full-time. Next course at Luton College starts in September. You'll be well trained. Choose from options in marketing, advertising, accountancy, secretarial studies, production management. Over 18? With an A-level? Send for "Let's Talk Business" package. It could help you plan your future. Contact Shirley Sear, Luton College of Higher Education, Park Square, Luton. LU1 3JU. (0582) 34111 ext 234.

B.Ed. Honours Degree B.A., B.Sc. Ordinary & Honours

Collegiate Combined Studies Degrees of the University of Leeds

Write to the Registrar, The College,
Lord Mayor's Walk, YORK YO1 7EX. Phone (0904) 56771

CONCERNED ABOUT THE ENVIRONMENT?

THEN STUDY FOR A 3 YEAR BSc. (Hons) Town Planning Studies

followed by 1 year to

Diploma in Town Planning

The full 4 year course will enable you to become a qualified town planner. You can finish after 3 years with the B.Sc. (Hons) which provides an excellent basis for many other careers. L.A. Grants are available for all four years.

WANT TO KNOW MORE?

Just give our Secretary Gill McGrath a ring on 021-356 6911, Extension 332, or write to Admissions (PL), Faculty of the Built Environment,
City of Birmingham Polytechnic, Perry Barr,
Birmingham, B42 2SU.

CITY OF BIRMINGHAM POLYTECHNIC
FACULTY OF THE BUILT ENVIRONMENT
DEPARTMENT OF PLANNING & LANDSCAPE

APPLY FOR COURSES AS SOON AS POSSIBLE TO AVOID DISSAPPOINTMENT

LOOKING TO LONDON FOR YOUR BA DEGREE? LOOK HERE...

For over 25 years Ealing has been involved in undergraduate education, building up its own unique tradition of commitment to student needs and academic excellence. 7 Degree courses have grown out of this tradition, each designed to serve the needs of a particular group of students.

The College is ideally located - set in a relaxed residential environment, it is nevertheless only 20 minutes from central London.

• B.A. (Hons) Applied Language Studies
2 or 3 languages (1 from scratch) from:
ENGLISH AS A FOREIGN LANGUAGE,
FRENCH, GERMAN, RUSSIAN and SPANISH, studied in their contemporary context.

• B.A. (Hons) Law
Recognised by the profession for exemption purposes.

• B.A. Librarianship
Courses in BIBLIOGRAPHY,
INFORMATION RETRIEVAL, LIBRARY ORGANIZATION, LIBRARIANSHIP IN SOCIETY, including COMPUTING, STATISTICS and student selected-PROJECT.

• B.A. (Hons) Modern European Studies
Social Science studies in ECONOMICS,
GEOGRAPHY, HISTORY, POLITICAL SCIENCE, and a LANGUAGE. 2 study periods abroad financed by the College.

• B.A. (Hons) Business Studies
4 year "thin" sandwich course, 4 industrial periods in your sponsoring firm.
Specialisms in FINANCE, MARKETING,
MANPOWER or QUANTITATIVE BUSINESS ANALYSIS.

• B.A. (Hons) Humanities
Over 100 options from ENGLISH,
FRENCH, GEOGRAPHY, GERMAN,
HISTORY, HISTORY OF ART, MUSIC,
PSYCHOLOGY, RUSSIAN and SPANISH.

• B.A. (Hons) Economics
In the context of wider social issues, options in INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT, PUBLIC SECTOR, THE FIRM & ITS ENVIRONMENT, as well as ECONOMICS

For full details of any of these courses either telephone 01-579 4111 ext. 2000 or write to The Admissions Unit (Room 193), Ealing College of Higher Education,
FREEPOST, London W5 5BR.

Ealing College of Higher Education

UCB TWO YEAR DEGREE COURSES

The University College at Buckingham offers two year degree courses, beginning each January, in:

ECONOMICS
HISTORY, POLITICS, AND ENGLISH
LITERATURE

POLITICS, ECONOMICS, AND LAW
LAW (also a July entry)

ACCOUNTING AND FINANCIAL
MANAGEMENT

BIOLOGY AND SOCIETY

and a three year course, with one year spent in a French or German University (Aix-Marseille, Nancy, Tübingen) in:

EUROPEAN STUDIES with several options in Economics, Law, French, English, German and European Institutions

The Dean of Admissions, (Ref NME 479),
University College at Buckingham,
Buckingham, MK18 1EG.
Tel: Buckingham (02982) 4161.

The Buckingham Licence has been recognised as having the standing of an Honours Degree by other universities and many professional organisations. Great importance is attached to tutorial teaching. Able students may sit for scholarships or apply for bursaries. A number of Local Authorities award discretionary grants. Full details are given in the UCB prospectus which, together with an application form, can be obtained from the address below.

University College at Buckingham
Supported by the Independent University Trust

EDUCATIONAL

Crewe+Alsager College

THE NAME FOR YOUR FUTURE

Our first rate academic record, great educational and social amenities and beautiful location make us the name for your future in Higher Education. We're large, and up to date.

Accommodation is readily available and living in the beautiful countryside of South Cheshire is a tonic in itself. Why not take a look at the wide range of courses open to you?

DEGREE COURSES

BA or BA with Honours (Combined Studies)
Creative Arts (3 yrs) Choose two from Dance, Music, Drama, Visual Arts, Creative Writing

BA or BA with Honours (Combined Studies)
Humanities (3 yrs) Choose two from English,
History, American Studies, French Studies,
Modern Studies, Geography, Philosophy,
Religious Studies

OTHER COURSES

HND Business Studies (3 yrs)
Post Graduate Certificate in Education
Diploma in Higher Education (2 yrs)
Diploma in Youth & Community Work (2 yrs)

HOW TO FIND US

Conveniently situated on two sites, both are easily accessible from Crewe main-line station or M56 Motorway (Junction 15).
For our prospectus and other

BA Combined Studies (Sports Studies)
(3 yrs) A range of sports plus one from Biology, Physical Science and Psychology

BA (Combined Studies)
Environmental Studies (3 years)
Environmental Studies with either Ecology or Physical Science

B Ed or B Ed with Honours (3 & 4 yrs)
B Ed Youth & Community Studies (3 yrs)

In-Service Courses for Serving Teachers
Design, Craft & Technology Courses
Special courses for Engineers and Craftsmen/women

information on all our CMAA validated courses write to the Academic Office
(Admissions), Crewe+Alsager
College of Higher Education, Crewe,
Cheshire CW1 1DU.

Crewe+Alsager College of Higher Education

S. Martin's College 1979
Lancaster entry

BA (Hons) SOCIAL ETHICS with Education,
Geography or Religious Studies.

BA (Hons) English Literature with French, History or Religious Studies.

BEd (Hons and Ord).

PGCE

MA Religious Education (now recruiting for 1980)

Details of places available and course requirements: The Registrar (Dept N),
S Martin's College, Lancaster LA 1 3JD
(0524) 63446

1980 Prospectus now available with details of new BA (Ord) degrees in English, Geography, History, Social Ethics.

MORE COURSES IN NEXT WEEKS
ISSUE

DEGREE COURSES IN CAMBRIDGE

We are currently offering places in

BA HONOURS GEOGRAPHY — with one ancillary subject chosen from Economics,
Geology, History, Plant Biology, Sociology.

BA HONOURS HUMANITIES/SOCIAL STUDIES — two subjects chosen from Economics, English, European Thought and Literature, Geography, History, Sociology and Study of Art

BA HONOURS MODERN LANGUAGES — two choices from French, German, Italian or Spanish, with related historical studies.

BSc HONOURS SCIENCE — a modular course offering units in Biology, Chemistry, Geography, Geology and Mathematical Science.

BA HONOURS MODERN HISTORY — themes in modern social history

BA HONOURS ENGLISH LITERATURE — medieval to modern periods.

Other advanced courses include:

PART-TIME BSc IN ELECTRONIC ENGINEERING

HND ELECTRICAL AND ELECTRONIC
ENGINEERING

HND BUSINESS STUDIES

GRADUATE DIPLOMA IN MUSIC

LINGUIST SECRETARIAL COURSE

PERSONAL ASSISTANTS' COURSE

For further details and application forms, please contact the Information Officer, Room F152, Cambridgeshire College of Arts and Technology,
Cambridge CB1 2AJ. Telephone (0223) 63271
Ext 46.

NELP the Polytechnic

Choose the Polytechnic with a background of eighty years of degree teaching. There are still places available on the following established courses:

Degree Courses

(2 A-level entry)

BA French Social and Economic Studies
BSc Electrical and Electronic
Engineering
BSc Civil Engineering
BSc Chemical Engineering
BSc Architecture
BSc Land Administration
BSc Surveying and Mapping Sciences
BSc Applied Economics
BA Finance with Accounting
BA Business Studies
BA Law
BSc Psychology
BA Sociology with Professional
Studies
BSc Applied Biology
BSc Biophysical Science
BSc Science (a flexible modular course permitting a choice of 9 modules from the areas of psychology, biology, physiology, biochemistry, chemistry, geology,
physics, mathematics, statistics, and computing).

Diploma Courses

(1 A-level entry)

TEC Higher Diploma in Estate
Management
TEC Higher Diploma in Land Surveying
TEC Higher Diploma in Civil Engineering
HND Applied Biology
HND Chemistry
HND Business Studies
HND Computer Studies
HND Mechanical Engineering
HND Production Engineering
HND Electrical and Electronic
Engineering

Professional Courses

Association of Certified Accountants (parts 1, 2 & 3)
Fundamentals of Accountancy (internally examined foundation course)
Royal Institute of British Architects
(part 2)
Council of Engineering Institutions
(part 2)
Postgraduate Certificate in Education

Also DipHE by Independent Study

For further details, a copy of NELP's prospectus may be obtained from:
Admissions Enquiry Unit, North East London Polytechnic,
FREEPOST 71, London E17 4BR. Tel. 01-527 0933 (24 hour answering service)

Essex Institute of Higher Education

'A' Levels . . . and then . . . ?

The Institute is based on two sites, at Chelmsford and at Brentwood, which both offer easy access to London and East Anglia. Extensive central resources — Library, computer unit, student services, educational technology — support the wide range of higher and further education courses available.

Places are still available on the following full-time courses leading to degree and professional qualifications.

2 'A' Level entry:

|                                                          |              |
|----------------------------------------------------------|--------------|
| BA (Hons) Combined Studies                               | 3 years      |
| BA (Hons) Law                                            | 3 years      |
| B Ed (Hons or Ord)                                       | 4 or 3 years |
| B Hum (Hons) Combined Studies                            | 3 years      |
| BSc Environmental Planning                               | 4 years      |
| Foundations of Accounts                                  | 1 year       |
| Institute of Chartered Secretaries andAdministrators | 3 years      |

1 'A' Level entry:

|                                                 |                |
|-------------------------------------------------|----------------|
| Diploma in European Languages                   | 2 years        |
| Foundations of Administration                   | 1 year         |
| HND in Building (sandwich course)leading to | 2½ years       |
| Advanced Diploma in Building Management         | 1 further year |
| HND in Business Studies                         | 2 years        |

For details of these and other Courses, contact the Information Office, courses G310, Chelmer Institute of Higher Education, Victoria Road South, Chelmsford. (Tel. (0245) 354491.

OPPORTUNITIES

The Polytechnic of North London

National College of Rubber Technology

NCRT now offers a completely modernised course (full-time or sandwich) leading to a

BSc HONOURS DEGREE

in Polymer Science and Technology with specialisation in the Chemical Technology of Rubbers or Polymer Properties or Polymer Flow Technology. A limited number of industrial awards are available for the course, commencing in September.

FURTHER DETAILS from: Dr J Glazer, NCRT, Polytechnic of North London, Holloway Road, London N7. Telephone: 01 607 2789 ext. 2248. Telex: 25228.

LIVERPOOL INSTITUTE OF HIGHER EDUCATION

This ecumenical Institute of Higher Education offers courses validated by the University of Liverpool leading to the following degrees:

B.A. (General and in certain instances Honours)
B.A. in Theological Studies
B.Ed (General and Honours) and to the

Post-Graduate Certificate in Education

A very wide range of subjects is available for study (2 subjects in B.Ed. and 3 or 4 subjects in B.A.) including:

American Studies
Art
Art of Movement-Dance
Biological Sciences
Divinity
Divinity and Literature
Drama

English Literature
Environmental Studies
Foundation Mathematics
Foundation Science
French
Geography
History

Mathematics
Music
Physical Education
Psychology
Science in its Social Context
Sociology
Victorian Studies

Chemistry and Physics are available to B.Ed. students

Good residential accommodation in halls of residence is available to all students. For further information please apply to the Registrar at one of the colleges:

Christ's College
of Education
Woolton Road,
Liverpool L14 8ND
051-722 7331

S. Katharine's College
of Education
Sand Park Road
Liverpool L16 9JD
051-722 2341

Notre Dame College
of Education
Mount Pleasant
Liverpool L3 5SP
051-709 7454

EDGE HILL COLLEGE OF HIGHER EDUCATION

- A long established college with a proven academic record in both B.Ed and BA courses.
- A 45 acre parkland site with purpose built teaching and residential accommodation.
- A rural environment yet close to Southport and the motorway network.
- Ample facilities for sport and recreation including a heated swimming pool.
- A very wide range of subjects from which to select a degree programme.
- Courses leading to degrees of the University of Lancaster.

APPLICATIONS ARE INVITED FOR THE FOLLOWING COURSES:

BA (HONOURS) AND BA majoring in Applied Social Sciences
Combined Social Studies (Courses in Human Geography and the Social Sciences with a focus on Community Relations)
English
Geography
History
B.Ed HONOURS and ORDINARY
Subject Specialist
Primary Specialist
The Teaching of Mentally Handicapped Children

- A common first year allows for a delay of final choice between BA and B.Ed programmes.

For further information please contact:—
Miss M Dodds, Admission Officer (NME), Edge Hill College of Higher Education, Ormskirk, Lancs L39 4QP
Telephone: Ormskirk (0895) 75171, ext. 269.

PLYMOUTH POLYTECHNIC

If you are considering Higher Education, why not plan to choose the established opportunities at Plymouth Polytechnic?

Whether you are considering science, technology, social science, management or arts, you can benefit from the lively academic environment. The courses available this Autumn, are:

Degrees

Agriculture
Architecture
Biological Sciences
Business Studies
Civil Engineering
Combined Studies in
- Science
- Social Science
- Science & Social Science Communication
Engineering
Environmental Sciences
Fishery Science
Geography
Humanities
Mechanical Engineering
Nautical Studies
Psychology

Scientific and Technical Graphics
Social Policy and Administration

Diploma in Higher Education

Higher National Diplomas
Applied Biology
Business Studies
Computer Studies
Electrical Engineering
Mechanical Engineering
Nautical Science

Apply now to
Peter Jenkin (N1),
Registrar,
Plymouth Polytechnic. or Tel: Plymouth
(0752) 264674

Drake Circus, Plymouth, Devon. PL4 8AA

For students who have completed an 'A' level or OND course, there are vacancies on several of our honours degree and diploma courses commencing in September 1979.

Degree Courses

(two 'A' levels or good OND/ONC)

|                                   |                        |
|-----------------------------------|------------------------|
| Accounting                        | Law                    |
| Applied Social Studies            | Mechanical Engineering |
| Business Studies                  | Psychology             |
| Electrical/Electronic Engineering | Sciences **            |
| Humanities *                      |                        |

* options in Economics, English, French, Geography, History, Linguistics, Politics.

** options in Astronomy, Biology, Chemistry, Mathematics, Physics, Psychology.

Higher National Diploma Courses

(one 'A' level or OND/ONC)

|                  |                                   |
|------------------|-----------------------------------|
| Biology          | Electrical/Electronic Engineering |
| Building         | Mechanical Engineering            |
| Business Studies | Physics                           |
| Chemistry        | Production Engineering            |

Prompt personal attention will be given to all your enquiries

Contact
G. A. Redhead
Dept. 276
Preston Polytechnic,
Preston PR1 2TQ.
Tel. Preston 59491

PRESTON POLY
TECHNIC

Marketing Engineering THE KEY TO A SUCCESSFUL CAREER

This unique four year sandwich course provides an integrated study of Marketing and Engineering, and thus enables graduates to understand and communicate with qualified engineers. Career opportunities for graduates on this course are many and varied, such jobs as product management, sales, advertising, market research and international marketing. There are vacancies available for this course commencing in September for people with 'O' Level Maths and at least 2 'A' Levels, or a good ONC/OND, probably in Business Studies of Technology.

If you require further details please write to: The Information Officer, The Polytechnic, Queensgate, Huddersfield HD1 3DH. Tel: 0484 22280, Ext 2225

GRIMSBY COLLEGE OF TECHNOLOGY

Business Studies

Marketing/Advertising
Data Processing
Accountancy Administration

H
·
N
·
D

Food

Applied Chemistry Biochemistry
Microbiology
Food Analysis

Technology

Quality Control
Fruit & Vegetable Technology
Wool, Fish, Poultry Technology

Engineering Refrigeration & Air Conditioning

Further details from:
The Principal, College of Technology, Nuns Corner, Grimsby, South Humberside DN34 5BQ.

RECORDS FOR SALE

10p per word

AAAARH! SPUT SINGLE UK
DECAY PNEUMANIA
 ALBUM HIRE — s.a.e. details —
 Dianna, Taw Records, Calver, via Steel field.

ALL CARS Pic. Disc. 0279 705950
 ALLWAYS Over 10,000 singles in stock. Brand new 45s from past 25 years plus. Recent ex-juke box hits at bargain prices. Always loads of special offers.
 Send 12p stamps for list. Gemini
 Records, 12 George St, Manchester,
 Lincolnshire.

BEATLES XMAS album Offers 05
 845 9603 after 6pm.
BLAZE BEAT original 45 rpm's for sale.
 All in mint condition. £1.00 each. Also other originals from 1960's mod era.
 Wants lists welcome. SAE please or call at Jive Drive, Odeon Shop, Hampton Road, Hampton Hill, 285 Bus from Hatton Cross Tube to Hampton Hill. Closed
 Mon/Tue open Wed-Sat. 01-977 6715.

DELETED LPs singles our specialty. see for details. ETC, PO Box 4, Birkenhead, Merseyside.

ELVIS PRESLEY imports, rarities worldwide from my personal collection for sale. SAE list 1 James, 23 St Johns Road, Halesworth, Suffolk.

FANTASTIC REDUCTIONS: on Rock/Rockabilly. Blues/Jazz/New Wave/Punk/Reggae/Imports
 (Over 1000s) Thousands of records! Send now for your catalogue SAE. Freekings,
 22 Tavistock Street, London WC2 1 836
 7606

FREE SINGLE with list of records.
 send 15p p.p., Mission Records (NME),
 120 Church Lane, Birmingham, B20 2RL.

GENESIS RARITIES. SAE, Tony Beebe, 30 Elm Craft, Oldbury, Warrley,
 West Midlands.

JOHN LENNON — Two Virgins. Live with the Lions. Wedding Album (complete box set) GEORGE HARRISON — Electronic Sounds. Wonderland Music.
 Offers Box 3801.

LAUGHTER THROUGH TEARS is JOHN WRIGHT's debut album. John describes his songs as 'Carnage of Glasnow life', and that is what they are.
 These songs are about the humour and hardship of growing up in a tough town. Done in a contemporary style with some very amusing lyrics, it provides interesting and easy listening. BUY
ONE. HEAR FOR YOURSELF.

MANY RARITIES. Private record collection 1965-70. Over 700 singles. LPs.
 Send SAE for list. John, 95
 Lansdowne Road, London, W11.

OLDIES IMPORTS. re-releases, rareties. SAE, Diskery, 88/87 Western Road, Hove, Sussex.

OLDIES 66-76. large s.e. + 200 bumper size hits. LPs, 45s, cassettes, all guaranteed. J & J Records, 24
 Glenelgh Park, Bournemouth, Dorset.

OVER SIXTY (all sorts) for sale on 60s. Offers? M Allan, 24 Milton View, Gatnhead, N. Kilmarnock, Scotland.

PASTILASTERS THOUSANDS
 available. SAE, 16 SAE, 24 Southwell,
 Middleton, Sussex.

PERSONAL SAEs collection for sale. Large SAE 16 Elgin House, Cameron Close, Bournemouth, Essex.

PNEUMANIA PNEUMANIA — UK
MANIA UK MANIA.

READING RECORD FAIR Sunday
 August 19th. St Laurence Church (Kings Road), Abbey Square, 11.30-4.30.

RECORDS AND CASSETTES FOR
£1.50. For a free list of our bargain current and deleted (not second hand) records and tapes, write to: Coleman Ltd., 24 Kingswood Road, London SE20.

STANDLES, TOWER 75049 'Hot
 Ones' Offers. Tel. 22 Canton Gardens,
 Guildford, Surrey.

THE HOURS/CLASS ALBUM 1958
 featuring Greg & Doreen Allman. Offers? Box 3812.

THREE HMV label 78rpm. Elms records. Offers. Phone 061 652 6267.

TWENTY YEARS of oldies. Original labels. 95p SAE. List Number 6, 180
 Poles Road, Canvey Island, Essex.

VINTAGE RECORD Centre well comes all its new customers via the new Oldies Club of Great Britain. All England's foremost oldies store. We stock 1,000s upon 1,000s of singles from the 50s, 60s and 70s! So the chances are very good that we can supply your wants from stock. No waiting for weeks! I.e. we CARRY 257 of the Gotto-be Oldies Club top 200! Plus most of Capital Records' all time top 500, plus most other classic oldies and many not so classic and obscure discs from the 50s, 60s and 70s! So if you collect Mercury, 40s pop, R&B, Doo-wop, Heavy rock, Spectator, ex-charts, etc. etc. start off on the right foot — visit us today now!
 Vintage Record Centre Ltd., 01 Roman
 Way, London N7 6UN (Tube) — Piccadilly
 Line — Colindale Station. Closed Mon-
 /Tues. Tel. 011 607 8588.

60s COLLECTORS — (Blues/Blues-ogy — Rod Decca / Columbia, Bowie,
 John Anderson (1962), Who E.P. Move
 E.P. — Wood, Sheridan, Uppies, Pringles,
 Family, Beatles, Polydor, Dylan, Zepp,
 Seaford, Spectors (Quel), Mercury
 Groups, RCA/Merck, Planet, Immediate — Wants lists + Bids + MC SAE to 14
 Franksby Avenue, Walsley.

FAN CLUBS 10p per word

BLONDE OFFICIAL Fan Club. Send SAE to P.O. Box 63, London W23 8Z.

*****
ELVIS PRESLEY SPECTACULAR
JAMMOORE AND CONVENTION.
CENTRAL HALL, WESTMINSTER.
DETAILS, SEND
TO SIP, 24 WOODSTOCK ROAD, LON- DON N4 3EX.
 *****

GENESIS OFFICIAL fan club. Send as for details to Genesis (Information), PO
 Box 107, London N8 9RU.

OFFICIAL PHANAS fan club. SAE
 Sae, Harris, 24 Dyer Road, Brighton,
 Sussex.

OFFICIAL UK Sub Fan Club. Send SAE to P.O. Box 12, Guildford, Surrey.

STATUS QUO Official Supporters
 Club, send SAE to P.O. Box 63, London
 W2

THE WHO official club. Send SAE for details to The Who Club, PO Box 107A, London N8 9RU.

TONY HANCOCK INTERNA-TIONAL: Calling Hancock Collectors!
 (THIN). 2 Newbuildings, Milverton, Somerset.

RECORDS WANTED

10p per word

ALBUMS, CASSETTES, wanted in mint condition. Top prices paid for quality send list plus s.a.e. to Catapult, 37
 North Street, Epsom.

ALBUMS, SINGLES. Cassettes
 wanted. £2 paid for Beatles, Stones, Punk, Motown, Bowie, etc. Less for other but none refused. Send direct or s.a.e. for prices. Russell Records, Westwood College, High St, Lamberly, Oxford.

ALL RECORDS. tapes bought/collected. Bring any quantity to: Record &
 Tape Exchange, 38 North Hill, Colchester, Essex. Tel. 0206 235391. Cassettes may be sent with SAE for cash.

DEL SHANNON album 1661 second with Del Shannon. Must be good condition. Telephone David Bassett, 800,
 North 319444.

D.J.S. COLLECTORS and everybody else. Stakes to early sevenies. Soul records bought. Any quantity LPs 45s EPs, Classics, obscure. Tel. 04873 271 repeat 04873 271 and ask for Jim. For cash offers.

FUNHOUSE RECORDS WILL PAY
OUTRAGEOUS PRICES FOR YOUR
RARITIES. £12 EACH PAID FOR:
 Curved Air Multi-coloured album, Serunaha multi album, Nick Lowe Boxed 12 single, Kinks — Kelvin Hall UK Eye album. £20 EACH PAID FOR: Sorcerer
 — T.A. Heart album, David Bowie —
 1st Dargam album, David Bowie —
 Sooze Oddity Philips album. £30 EACH
PAID FOR: Boutiques — Sade & Ching album — David Bowie — NWSTV Drag cover album and Garman round cover album. £200 PAID FOR AN ORIGINAL copy of T.A. Seru naha ASB single. All records must be in very good nick — please send with confidence — cash by return as always. 136 High Street, Margate, Kent.

MENDAX BOOTLEGES also photos cuttings etc. Photocopies OK. Alan, 20
 Broom Grove, Knebworth, Herts.

WANTED 10p per word

ABBA TICKETS. 2 tickets wanted for Wembley 9th or 10th November. 061 761
 3460 after 7.30 pm.

ANYONE GOING TO Fantasy Horror
 film convention on 18/17 September.
 Contact Rick Leicester 415037 who seeks company.

BEATLES MEMORABILIA books, magazines, etc. Offers. Alan, 23
 M.M.S. 24 North John Street (Brismingham), Liverpool, Merseyside.

BE BOF DELUXE bootlegs, rarities wanted. SAE, Alan, 23 M.M.S. 24
 Wainhouse, County's Africa Stand
 Above Alan 0642 22887 after 6 pm.

CRASS LIVE tapes wanted. Brett, 1
 Housley Place, Llanfair, Merioneth.

DR. PHILIP STIMPSON or FRANK X L S.
 Trungherds, U.F.O., Sep 1989. Captain Scarlet, Barman, anything wanted from the 80s or 70s, toys, books, badges, cards, games and especially cassettes — singles. State prices. Mitch, 28 Branden, Leicestershire, Durham, DH7 0QD.

GRATEFUL DEAD with Helles
 available. SAE, 16 SAE, 24 Southwell,
 Middleton, Sussex.

LAHTI, 15141. NIN. FINLAND

PETE TOWNSHEND at the Rainbow tape. Roger, 88 Castle Grove, Kendal, Cumbria.

READING LIST All three days. Lowest area. Share costs. Phone Ian 0502 4512.

LONG LYRICS wanted, exciting proposition. Details. Alan — Robert Noakes, 30 Sneyd Hall Road, Brixworth, Northamptonshire.

NO OF POP. Nos 41, 45, 46, 50
 01 685 2328 after 9 pm or 01 685 4951.

TWO TUBEWAY tickets — London.
 262 Kettering Road, Northampton.

UNDERGROUND COMICS. Good price paid for pre-74. O.F. Press, 15
 Cosmic Comics etc. Phone North 630586.

ZEPPLEIN AUGUST 4th Knebworth
 tickets. Complete. Contact. Alison, 46
 Monmouth Rd, Minister in Thaxton, Kent.

MUSICIANS WANTED 10p per word

ACE OUTRIST seeks energetic new wave bassist and drummer. Tel.
 Joanne (Manager) 01 455 4251 (10-6pm).

DEDICATED VOCALIST wanted for interesting group. Ring Mac. Guildford
 68m or Guildford 684.

DRUMMER NEEDED. Overall sound.
 Paul. Camberwell 703 9158.

JOY DIVISION type guitarist wanted.
 Tel. 061 934 8586.

FEMALE VOCALIST wanted to join band. Squire — Pauline. Dave 01 947 7994.

LYRICIST/VOCALIST required complete new wave/rock band. Black, 5 Sunnyside Ave, Littleover Derby. 0332 25064.

NOO MUSICIANS wanted to form band. Chris 01 345 5193.

SOUTH MANCHESTER band — trying to work collectively — required keyboards, preferably female, to play challenging new music. Phone Peter 081 445 3432 for chat.

THE RUSSIANS want singer with varied tastes. Phone Nick 01 221 6177.

THREE CHORD wonder into Pirates.
 Featgoodie. Bishop. New Wave, wants to form band. Enthusiasm over talent.
 Gav. Chord (Lancal) 74712.

URGENT BASS and lead guitarist wanted for punk band (into crass/Paterson). Phone Mags Edinburgh 064 0692.

INSTRUMENTS WANTED 10p per word

PURCHASED FOR CASH: good
 Guitars, Amplifiers, Hammond Organs
 Top prices — 01-636 7911.

ARTISTS WANTED 10p per word

WORK ABROAD. Are you distinguished by the English showbiz scene?
 Would you prefer to work worldwide? If you are prepared to do something possible about it contact me now! — Robert Kallenbach, 6 Le Chasse Court, St.
 Helier, Jersey, C.I.

SITUATIONS WANTED 10p per word

CALIFORNIA BEAN 20, seeds, music-related job. Fourteen years in music business in States Ex-D. Concert promoter, band manager, musician, record shop owner. Prefer Record company job, but any job considered. — Frederick Joyce, 40 Observatory Gardens, Kensington, London W8 01-937 6674.

JOHN PEEL

From page 27

sense. It is both his naivety and wisdom that has seen him play positive parts in the activity of both the late '60s and the late '70s.

"I think in a lot of ways the punk revolution, if you can categorise it as such, has actually put into practice a lot of the original hippy ideas and ideals."

Peel is currently hoping to set up his own label based in and for East Anglia. This suggests he sees something similar in the spirit of the two decades. A major difference is that it's now far more practical and effective to set up independently. Peel himself was one of the pioneers of the small label, attempting with typical purity and singlemindedness to set up something genuinely alternative in the late '60s with Dandelion records.

"Dandelion was named after a hamster, which just goes to show you how things were back then, and there was no way that you could expect to have records distributed independently then.
 We had to link with major labels, first of all CBS then Warners, then Polydor and as soon as any of them realised we weren't making chart albums, that we weren't concerned with making chart albums, they lost interest. Despite that, within three or four years, with never more than £5,000 in the bank at any one point, we managed to put out 27 albums in that time, and they are still albums that I'm quite proud of and that have rather irritatingly — because no-one at the time could give a bugger — become collectors' items. Things like Kevin Coyne, Medicine Head, Stackwaddy, Mike Hart, Tractor..."

Young William Peel begins to crawl all over his daddy. "I'm terribly soft with these," chuckles Peel, "I must admit, they're very good kids. I used to hate them and I don't like other people's at all — but I can't keep my hands off mine. Terrible really. Sentimental old twat! William's actually made his radio debut, I'm ashamed to say I detest people who drag the little kids onto the radio — but he screams 'Kenny Dalglish is magic'. The other day I was putting him to bed and he said 'Daddy, why is Kenny Dalglish magic?'. I said just 'cos he's the best footballer that your daddy's ever seen."

IT'S THIS kind of awe and enthusiasm that also maintains his stamina.

"I think so, yeah. It is naivety in a way, it has to be. I mean, a 40-year-old bloke shouldn't feel this way about anything. But I do and it's not something that you can contrive."

In many ways Peel remains unsure of himself and his motives.
 At one point he even moped that he wasn't sure what he was going to do with himself "once he got the album." "I've only got four 'O' levels," he fretted.

What it comes down to though is Peel's unshakeable belief in the benefit of rock 'n' roll. "Rock is so beneficial — that makes it sound like a medicine — but one of the reasons it was so beneficial to me, and why I was so sympathetic to punk, was that when I was a kid rock 'n' roll was the first thing which had ever happened, the first taste that I'd ever had that was wholly my own, something which I had discovered, which I knew about, my parents disapproved of, that represented everything that I wanted. In the process of growing up, all your tastes and appetites have been put in there previously by teachers or parents and family, so when you first find something that is your own, it's like a liberating experience."

When punk first came along, where previously you felt that kids were like they are in America — I mean, how can a kid of 17 in the States sit down and listen to a Foreigner album, or Linda Ronstadt? And yet, if what you read is true and the charts are accurate, they do. It's almost got to the point where they're not listening to their older brothers' records; they're listening to their mums' and dads' records — and that is desperately, deeply unhealthy. They're just absorbing their parental influence and adding nothing of their own."

You're saying that one side of rock 'n' roll is that enhancing and nourishing of growing up and discovering. "It's character-forming that sounds like something out of a Duke of Edinburgh award scheme, but it's true. And whereas you felt four or five years ago kids were listening to their older brothers' records, like Floyd, Roxy or Zep, then something suddenly came along which was theirs, which their older brothers didn't like.
 C'mon, you don't want to listen to that awful Pistols music, come and listen to Quicksilver Messenger Service."

It does seem strange that the people who listen to the progressive music of the early '70s have seemed to become so reactionary in their attitude. "As people become older they seem to become incredibly intolerant. That seems to be a period that I haven't reached yet, which is another reason that I say I'm a late developer, where you just shut up shop. Where everything that happens afterwards becomes alien and unpleasant and as you become older you become opposed to it, as opposed to not just liking it. It tends to represent a threat, becomes the enemy, and you start to oppose it quite violently. It's bound to happen to me eventually, but it hasn't happened yet."

That could be because you celebrate the processes of growing old, exploit them almost, instead of letting the stages smother and depress you. "It's like there is no point in pretending that I'm not 40. There's no point in me trying to dress like you, because you're a lot thinner than I am and have got more hair, and if you have kids it seems silly to pretend that you haven't got them or you don't like them. I count myself — obviously there are times when I get pissed off, particularly when I get tired, and I get tired a lot these days because I work funny hours — but I count myself a uniquely lucky man, really in that I am doing exactly what I want
 ... if I was to sit down and define the kind of life that I'd wanted, it's the kind of life that I've got."

There are very few people who can say that. I'm doing a job that gives me endless pleasure, that's still full of surprises and little excitments."

A lot of that's to do with the fact that we are right in the middle of some very exciting times. "It's like I meet kids of 15 who say
 'I'm 17, that was the year, it's all gone off the boil'. That's bullshit!
 I'm speaking as a very old man and 1979 has been the best year for music ever. It really has. And previously 1978 was the best year, and before that 1977. It's terrific, it couldn't be better."

And it's this that is reflected in your programme. "Yes, I think that's it. Obviously I get carried away..." good sign. If you want to know where rock 'n' roll is — and where it's been and possible places it's going to go — and you fail to regularly listen to the John Peel programme, then you are missing out. And, quite simply, you are missing out on something special.

N M EXPRESS WORD

ACROSS

- Bubbling under with 'Conscious Man' (5,8)
- The original was a 1962 U.S. No 1 for Gene Chandler (4,2,4)
- See 20
- 'Electric' band? (7,4)
- The end of Margaret Thatcher!
- NME Crossword celebrates the 10th anniversary of Woodstock Nation: remember the star of 'Alice's Restaurant'?
- Rude Boys with boomer in mind.
- The majority go back for mohair suits!
- New wave distribution operation (5,5)
- Queensway, London... strange place to find a Nashville cat!
- 9 For which Diane Keaton got her Oscar
- Cryptic City (Silly Season Special): Decapitated Dyan is taken on a British Rail boat trip! (5,5)
- Long, hollow cylinders according to the O.E.D.
- Neil Diamond's first UK hit (ask your mum) (8,5)
- 'Life Begins At The Hop' poppers
- No relation to 3 down

DOWN

- She rhymes with fluke! (4,5)
- JA's master producer (3,5)
- Seminal West Coast combo which first teamed Stills and Young (7,11)

ACROSS: 3 'Go West'; 6

'Money'; 8 Ray Davies; 10 Strangers; 11 New (Wave); 12 Joan (Jett or Baez); 14 Jethro Tull; 16 Ramones; 17 Janet Kay; 18 The Crusaders; 20 (Grace) Slick; 21 (Elvis) Costello; 22 'Hot Rats'; 23 South.

DOWN: 1 'Good Times'; 2

'Repeat When Necessary'; 4 (New) Wave; 5 Steve Hackett; 7 Carly (Simon); Darryl Way; 12 Joe Strummer; 15 John Reid; 16 Radar; 17 John McVie; 19 Skids; 20 South.

BARRY DICKINS & ROD MACSWEN FOR IT B PRESENTS

RAINBOW THEATRE, LONDON

Oct. 13/14, 15, 8.00pm.

Tickets £4.50, £4.00, £3.50, £3.00

available from Rainbow B/O Tel. 263-3148

and usual agencies

Enclose SAE with personal application

BINGLEY HALL STAFFORD

SUNDAY OCT. 21st 7.30pm.

Tickets £4.50, available from

Mike Lloyd Music, Stoke-on-Trent

Lotus Records, Stafford

Cyclops Records, Birmingham

Sundown Records, Wolverhampton

Piccadilly Records, Manchester or by postal application from

M.C.P. Cooper House,

Brookthorpe Crescent, Walsall

enclose SAE

RECORDING

10p per word

J.J. STUDIO. — 4 Track £4 per hour
 S. London. 01-473 5055.

DISCOTHEQUES

10p per word

DAVE JANSSEN 01-699 4010

GASBAG

Post your most to
Gasbag, NME, 5-7
Carnaby Street,
London W1.

Once upon a time NME had an arrogance that justified its existence, not through its attitude to specific areas of music, but in individual approach. Now the quantity of reasonable product is diminishing as formulated diatribe and plain weak journalism hide alongside acres of advertisement. (So NME may read like Exchange and Mart, but you're rivaling E&M in the editorial/classified stakes). I doubt I am alone in thinking I read NME increasingly only because the alternative papers are even worse.

Undoubtedly there exist quality journalists on your staff, but that which once made NME what it was is riding rapidly into the sunset. I'm not arguing against progression, but there should be a maintenance of previous standards.

Now, I don't like to listen to Heavy Metal, and that's not what this letter is about, but that's no reason why I don't want to read constructive articles about its re-emergence — hell, I read about other forms of music I don't particularly admire. But I don't need cheap, clichéd invective: as things get stale the same old party tricks are trotted out.

Where's the inventive slag-off gone? Stuff that made the Sunday Times (who?) refer to your great contribution to the English Language as Destruction (about 5 years ago). The same way as Thriller, I suppose, and the album reviews, which are put well to shame when someone like CSM/Bell/Morley produce a three or four page class feature.

Shit, I'd hate to lose you, you complacent sods. What happened to Hungry Journalism? George Leroy Tirebiter, Sector "R". You have cut us to the bone. Hungry Journalism is out to lunch. — All Elephant and Castle.

I stopped reading NME quite a long time ago 'cause I thought it was bad then, but after reading those two pages of absolute drivel on the subject of Led Zep at Knebworth I'm quite convinced we have quite parted ways and I'll never read it again. Jesus Christ, you could've got anybody to write up the Zep and Knebworth thing (even Nick Kent who did the album review and is passably sane) but this guy Paul Morley just does not know how to string words together. He repeated himself about a hundred times, he didn't know what he was trying to say at all — he was useless, actually. Maybe it was a bit of a tricky review to do later all, he might get thrown out of the Jimmy Pursey fan club if he was honest about Page's guitar playing or anything as concrete as that, but if this is the case NME should've got somebody who wasn't in the Jimmy Pursey fan club to do it. Someone who might have given us a straightforward view of what Zep were doing, instead of all this pseudo-reflective complacent shit.

Ellie Ling, Hastings. Y'mean someone t'show a bit of respect instead of how he felt, like? Don't worry, lady, I'll put the record straight.

Jimmy Page really plays a guitar well. There you go now — like at Knebworth, you've just paid to hear

"Alright? Bermondsey Bill Bermondsey's the name an' I live dahn the Blue, SE16. Yus, wall arv bin gettin fed up o'dese tuppenny 'apenny Bags ya keep gettin dished up, an I fort ard step in wiv a

Real Solid Workin' Clarss Bag

No ruff stuff — ladies mite be readin it see — but some real berks. Way ye go.

something you had already convinced y'self of. Good game, annit? — Tragic Lou New Cross Gate.

This is it! The final straw has finally ruptured the vertebrae of the proverbial ruminant! I refer to the outrage of the picture-disc. The filthy deed was perpetrated at my record store (well, not mine per se — rather that which I frequent). I walked into the joint and asked for the latest Tourists single — a perfectly reasonable request don't you think? Well, we all know what the Budget has done to the price of these things but I still didn't expect to have to pay more than one greenback for the disc. "That'll be £1.49 please..." came the dulcet tones from beyond the counter.

Why the price increase? Well, the record was a picture disc.

"Can I have it on ordinary vinyl please?"

"Cor blimey mate, where've you been? They all want the pic-disc 'cos it's limited edition innit?"

Well I didn't want the pic-disc at 50p more than the usual (already exorbitant) cost. I hereby institute the arch-enemy of the gimmick — Rock Against Picture-discs (Incorporating Rock Against Coloured Vinyl). If it needs gimmicks to sell it ain't worth listening to.

A Blank Student, Preston. I tell ya, people like you make me laff. You don't wanna argue with these jumped up wallies behind shop counters — just 't' em. That'll get a fair price in the end. Otherwise — offer 'em 'all a quid and say you won't need a receipt. Knowotarmean? — Honest Bill Bermondsey.

Whilst Max Bell's review of the Cambridge Folk Festival did draw attention to the farcical police presence unfortunately he made no mention of the fact that over 200 people were busted for smoking or possessing cannabis at the festival. That's right, one in fifty of the fun-loving tokers had their weekend — maybe their lives — ruined by the fervent Cambridge D.S. That's another 200 names to add to the current annual total of 10,000 passing through out courts for cannabis offences!

Imagine getting dragged out of your tent at 3 am for cracking open a can of Newcastle Brown Ale or being busted for having a tanger stain in your pocket? This is a force that's been going on for too long and one which seems to be getting worse, so get your proverbial shit together and stop this reffer madness.

Andy Cornwall, Legalise Cannabis Campaign, 2 Blenheim Crescent, London W11.

P.S. The lethal dose of Cannabis is 4 kilograms... when it hits you on the head. Note to readers: This letter may be carefully cut out and ignited. On inhaling the smoke you may start claiming you are able to see Paris. — Intruding Vaughan Chelsea.

I have no criticism to make of NME these days. That's because I can't read it. Its pages are obscured by large blotches of dark blue and grey ink, no doubt intended as a mass Rorschach test for your 202,030 viewers. If your designers are looking for diversion, why don't they try embroidering the works of Maurice Merleau-Ponty in cross-stitch? This would afford them hours of blameless pleasure and enable me to scrutinise your columns without the aid of a 200-watt bulb and a pair of 3-D glasses.

Kate Copping, Battersea. Triffic letta! Wor, wot a letta. Good letta gi. What? I should say so. — Articulate Jim Deptford.

Having just got back from four weeks in Greece, I picked up a copy of NME and read Julie Burchill's singles reviews. Just one point. How comes she thinks the name 'Marlon' has homosexual connotations? OK, so it's a bit prissy, but no-one has ever suggested that I am gay because it's my name. How about an apology — not only to us 'Marlons' but to the many 'Jims' and 'Johnnies' too!

Marlon Seton. Four weeks in Greece? I mean don't get me wrong an' all nat, John, but let's face it, I mean, all nem old Sostophones geezers weren't exactly Oliver Reeds, right? I mean, y'gotta 'ave priorities entcho? Knowotarmean? — Regular Chris Catford.

Public Idiots Ltd are up a blind alley. The Slits are waiting for the next new wave. Steel Pulse are historians. Generation X are embarrassing and Sex Pistols Mark 3 is just insulting.

Sham 69 conveniently forgot the promises and spent the money from five hit singles on new suits for Juke Box Jury. Stiff Little Fingers are following The Clash and The Clash are rich. (If they are really in debt why don't they try working? All six tracks they have released this year have been cover jobs, re-releases or left-overs from heavy metal albums that they had to go to Jamaica to write and America to record — "street band" huh? Ain't noticed many tours this side of the Atlantic lately either...)

'Are Friends Electric' is a recording of a faulty vacuum cleaner. The Police have taken the fire out of reggae (like sing-a-long-a-Bob Marley) and The Adverts sank in the Red Sea 18 months ago.

The Heartbreakers are old men releasing most of their album again, played badly, to sustain their unhealthy habits

Edited by Bermondsey Bill Bermondsey.

Arfur Mullard played by Danny Baker, 5-7 Carnaby St., London W1.

and I can smell the rest of America from here (including Debbie Harry who is a podgy little middle-aged lady, desperately saving up for her retirement which will be as soon as the Press find another lady to throw at us, for example Niagara or Chrissie Hynde).

Talking of the Press, ain't it the hippie revival after the Mods? And can't people see that Sounds praises everything (including Heavy Metal — arrigger). Melody Maker is for people two steps behind and Fleet Street is run by sadists.

The National Front make me feel sick and I think RAR is the best thing to happen in Britain since I was born.

Trendiness is for people who are scared to say what they think (if they get as far as thinking for themselves), fashion is for people who aren't capable of being original and smoking is for people who enjoy paying to die quicker.

Linton Johnson, Julie Burchill and Tony Parsons are people telling the truth. The Undertones make me smile and Culture make me dance.

I don't care if you put some crappy little witticism under this letter 'cos it's me.

J. Venes, West Midlands. Witty reply: A fella walks into Trafalgar Square with a bucketful of shit and throws it all over the pigeons, saying, "Now how'd'you fekin like it?" — Truculent Tom Wapping.

You may think you are on Easy Street with your pulp pulp punk paper — after all you haven't any competition, but just wait until a decent music paper gets published. Then you will join the realms of the Dodo and Status Quo. Unless, of course, I decide to lock on phasers and vaporise you before all this happens.

Captain Buddy. I don't like your tone, my man. — Killer Ken Kennington.

Whatever happened to "Dear Ed" at the front of your letters?

Worried, Amphill. Well, Ed left like, and Frank took over and somehow that doesn't have the same air of dignity. Knowotarmean? — Stavedore Steve Lambeth.

All you NME chaps seem to hate Led Zep nowadays, so why do you always splash their name across the front of your paper every time you have an article about them? Has it got anything to do with you being a bunch of money grabbing turds who'll do anything to increase the sales of your poxy rag? Conk, Orpington.

Don't point that moot at me, Moriarty. — Worried Max Bell. [I don't get that one — Frank.]

I'm 15, taking eight 'O' levels and CSE maths. My dad says I can't go to a gig till I'm 21. He says I can't even talk to boys until I'm 18! He thinks that if I don't go to university I'll have a worthless life and also that all NME readers are pot smoking layabouts.

A warped, depressed Sally in Richmond.

Dr Bermondsey writes: You are suffering from a case of what we experts have termed 'myoldmans millionlafts'. A simple cure is to obtain one of the old type 'ld' penny pieces. Then, once your pater is engaged in watching Spooner's Patch, creep up behind him and with all possible force bring the outer rim of the coin down onto his bald skull. After this you are on your own.

I would like to point out to 'Real Working Class Youth' of Newcastle that being receptive to and enjoying contemporary music is not the prerogative of 'working class dopes'.

A middle class fart. "Dopes? Scuse me paf, I just wantcha to look at something outside fer a minit. . . . — Exceptional Keith Camberwell.

Lord Chalfont St Giles keeps an eye on BB to ensure there's no class discrimination.

T-ZERS

ON THE BEACH

Yes, it's Art from the lens of Pennie Smith again; and to accompany our shot of Marine erotica, what better thought for a steamy, languid summer's day than that of the right Rev Roy Harper from his 'Come Out Fighting Ghengis Smith' Long Player. To wit: "Nobody's got any money in the summer/Oh dear me what a terrible drag/And half the bleeding students are stuck in Yugoslavia/With hardly a Dina/And getting no cleaner/then a Chinese wrestler's jockstrap fried in chip fat on a greasy day..." Anyone for a swim.

WELL that's that then. You can fold away the plastic sheets, stash the ruck sack, and put the bongos back by the fireplace.

With any luck we're rid of them for another three years. And with inflation currently running at over 15 per cent, who knows what it'll cost to see them next time, eh? I mean you can't call Peter Grant a fool, can you? He knew. He had it worked out all along that taking those long years off the British stage would allow Zep fans just about the right amount of time to earn enough money to be able to afford a ticket to Knebworth and maybe a can of warm flat soda to keep the spirits up and (Get on with it — Ed.) But we can't. We're still waiting for this week's Knebworth T-Zer! (Never mind that. Just Go! — Ed.) Oh. Right...

Punk rocker Hugh Cornwell, 29 (ahem) has been having a spot of bother with his amours of late. But if he will write songs like 'Duchess' what does he expect? 'Duchess' is allegedly about a former 'special friend' of The Stranglers' guitarist; not a duchess exactly, but some titled broad or other said to be in her late '20s and known to reside in a London borough alarmingly close to the one Hugh himself lives in. Cornwell claims he met the muse in the bar of the Covent Garden Opera House, but don't despair; he was working as a barmen at the time...

Meanwhile back at the Squeeze Lyceum gig last weekend our 'Huge' was seen consoling himself to the fact that the romance is probably over twixt himself, 52, and his 16-year-old Japanese fiancée, Shoko. He had flown out to Japan two weeks ago to wed this little nymph, but a marriage licence was refused because Shoko wouldn't divulge the necessary details. "Shoko kept our romance a secret from her parents," said the toothy old rake to a dot busy trying to mop the tears out its lager...

Fact: Mr Cornwell has been known to be less than truthful about his age!

Fact: China has a population of over 900 million people, half of whom are under 21!

Fact: Blondie's next album will be called 'Eat To The Beat' and Pere Ubu's next will be 'New Picnic Time'...

Fact: The Knebworth T-Zer still hasn't arrived...

Dolly Parton has been threatened with a spell in the slammer unless she provides the answers to 21 questions relating to her business affairs with former singer partner Porter Wagoner. Porter stands to collect the tone on a million dollar plus law suit if Dolly gets the wrong answers...

Supertramp, who in the time it takes to read this page will have earned more money than you see in a week, cancelled five dates in Canada after being on the receiving end of a series of threatening phone calls. "The only true artist is a dead one," said the anonymous caller. The fact that old pomp rock hags are still alive must prove something...

Patti Smith recently told High Times, the US doper's gazette, that, "My Favourite High is to stand in the middle of a stage and have my electric guitar strapped on to me and struggle and struggle and (steady now Patti) struggle with it until I hit with the perfect moment and fall on my knees and really feel it!" Too many 'ands' in that sentence for T-Zers' liking, but we'll let it pass because elsewhere in the same magazine we find that for relaxation noted bohemian Tom Waits enjoys "marinated herring in wine sauce injected directly into the jugular vein..."

Simply doodles of pop stars were seen complementing the furniture backstage at Ian Dury's week-long Hammersmith bash. Why, on Thursday alone there was Phil Rambow, Vermilion, Siouxsie, Fingerprintz's Jimmie O'Neill, Wee Willie Harris and, er, Phil Rambow and... (is that the best you can do?) — Ed/Look, a dot saw Elvis Costello and Nicky Tasseo in the stalls on Friday. Will that do? (No — Ed.) How about: the big 'E' looked fit and trim and with his wife in tow and left during 'Rhythm Stick' to catch the eastbound Piccadilly line? (You're getting there — Ed.) Alright, the last word on the matter: Ian Dury his tour finished, sent the hard working Blockhead road crew for a six week 'holiday' in Barbados. The holiday will include 'all the trimmings': maids, chauffeurs, butlers, native carriers, a free manicure, the lot. I.D. & the Bs meanwhile are said to be on 'holiday' in the far flung regions of the Thames delta

What were Phil Collins and John Martyn doing together in a Holborn pub last Friday night? Answer: Drinking...

Noted surrealist Ralph Steadman, who has been sending his cartoon contributions to the New Statesman long distance from America recently, has had his work stopped and refused entry by H.M. Customs because they were "pornographic". Pornographic? Dirty maybe, rude probably, but pornographic, never. Why not waste a bit of your time today by writing in complaint to the British Responsible Society at 1-28 Portland Place, London W1, whose aim is to encourage "a responsible and balanced attitude towards sexual behaviour and the treatment of sex in culture", and who have already called for a government enquiry into the latest Sax Pistol interview album type thing on the grounds that it is 'sick' (but that's exactly it, Virginia)...

Still finding no trouble pulling then Pete? Mr Townshend takes a stroll with Angie, whose debut single 'Peppermint Lump' he has produced and arranged for Stiff Records. Mr. T. also plays guitars and keyboards on the waxing...

that Lowe was sober as a newt at the time...

Lowe later told the Soho Weekly News that talking to Dave Edmunds was like "talking to a brick wall. I mean, he's not a bad bloke, but he's so thick. I think it's because he's Welsh..."

It was with deepest regret that T-Zers learned last week that the Venue, London's over-priced music biz watering hole, was severely flooded. The tragedy meant the cancellation of No Dice gigs. Apparently, the accident was caused when distraught customers received their bills

Cheap Trick's long-awaited 'Dream Police' album, originally due for release in March, but shelved when 'Live At The Budokan' turned into a blockbuster, is now due out in September.

Randy Newman's new 'Born Again' has a sticker on the cover reading: "This album contains material likely to offend young children". One of our more mature reviewers gives it the big shakedown next week...

Noted dead rock 'n' roll star Eddie Cochran is to be the subject of yet another rock biopic. But in a moment of pure inspiration the makers of the film have decided that the big Ed won't die in that car crash after all...

The latest addition to the gallery of stars who boast specially refurbished noses is ex-Rolling Stones guitarist Mick Taylor. He says he acquired a taste for the ancient Inca stimulant whilst working with the Stones, but frankly we find this hard to believe...

When he jets in to play the Edinburgh rock festival next month, noted Irishman in exile Van Morrison will enjoy the austere comfort of the Royal Suite of rooms normally used to house the Queen and her siblings when they drop by to appraise the livestock at the Royal Highland show. The Suite has four, yes four lavatories...

Such shocking revelations about the lifestyles of people more famous than you as those above must pale into insignificance when you realise that two 'railers' were found only inches away from the two firing keys in a super secret bunker somewhere in America that houses a Titan II nuclear missile pointed at Russia with a warhead capable of destroying an entire city. All personnel at the site were immediately suspended, so that the Pentagon can try to trace the culprit. T-Zers would like to announce that it has solved the crime. They were obviously Led Zeppelin fans leaving in a hurry to get to Knebworth...

Which can only mean: No babies were born this week, but the tot who arrived last weekend is said to be 'very ill'. (So would you be if the first sound to ever greet your ears was John Bonham's drum solo...)

Apart from that, a veritable parade of new wave stars showed up backstage to fraternise with their formerly despised peer groups. Mick Jones, Topper Headon, Tony James, Pete Thomas, Gary Tibbs and Steve James and Paul Cook all came along and swanned around and went home. Most everybody else who had no reason to be backstage but was there anyway spent their time trying to get mistaken for Keith Richards or his girlfriend, or both. The Barbarians, with Phil Chen from Rod Stewart's band stepping in for Stanley Clarke, gave a performance that verged on the gariatric.

"They must all be on downers," quipped The Members J.C.

Then he, too, went home...

NME

EDITORIAL
3rd Floor
5-7 Carnaby Street
London W1V 1PG
Phone: 01-439 8761

EDITOR
Neil Spencer

Deputy Editor
Phil McNeill
News Editor
Derek Johnson
Production Editor
Stuart Johnson
Associate Editors
Charles Shear Murray
Monly Smith
Special Projects Editor
Roy Carr

Staff
Tony Stewart
(Live) Editor
Angus MacKinnon
Paul Rambali
Max Bell
Danny Baker
Paul Morley

Photography
Pennie Smith

Contributors
Nick Kent
Fred Dellar
Steve Clarke
Tony Parsons
Julie Burchill
Chris Salewicz
Bob Edmunds
Lester Bangs
John May
Penny Reel
Adrian Thrills
Ian Penman
Andy Gill

Cartoons
Tony Benyon
Ray Lowry

Research
Fiona Foulgar

New York
Joe Stevens
(212) 674 5024
Mick Farren

ADVERTISEMENT DEPT.
Room 2529
Kings Reach Tower
Stamford Street
London SE1 9LS

Ad Director
Percy Dickens
(01) 261 6080
Ad Manager
Peter Rhodes
(01) 261 6251
Classified Ads
(01) 261 6122
Live Ads
(01) 261 6153
Ad Production
Brian Gorman
Pete Christopher
Barry Cooper
(01) 261 6207

Publisher: Eric Jackson
Editorial Consultant: Andy Gray
IPC Magazines Ltd
Production of any material without permission is strictly forbidden

BETTER BADGES

MAIL ORDER TOP TEN

The Best Music
1 (1) Rock Against Racism 25p
2 (2) Specials & M.A. 30p
3 (3) Secret Affair 20p
4 (4) Tubeway Army 20p
5 (5) The Chords 20p
6 (6) The Run 20p
7 (7) Clean Police 20p
8 (8) B-S's 20p
9 (9) Swirl Maps 20p
10 (10) Jam All Mod Cons 20p

New Releases: 20p Rude Boys, Rude Girls, Ten in One, Sweet Magic, Mo'Nasty, Shout for Industry, Sp-11 Energy, Strange, Mod Squad, Zip Nolen, Secret Affair, 20p Suburban Objects, B-S's, Tubeway Army

Add 10p P&P Free 11st
286 PORTOBELLO RD
LONDON W10 0K

XTC ON SEPTEMBER TOUR

- 11th MANCHESTER Apollo
- 12th SHEFFIELD Top Rank
- 13th WOLVERHAMPTON Civic Hall
- 14th PETERBOROUGH Wreina Club
- 16th GUILDFORD Civic Hall
- 17th LONDON Rainbow
- 18th BRISTOL Colston Hall
- 20th EDINBURGH Odeon
- 21st NEWCASTLE Mayfair

Drums and Wires

Virgin

NEW ALBUM VIRGIN CASSETTE TCN2129
EXCLUDES FREE SINGLE IN LIMITED EDITION