

7 December 1979

US $1.50 (by air)

20p

NEW NME EXPRESS

Neil Young talks!
Randy Newman mutters!
The Clash tour UK!
You vote in the NME Poll!

WIN
NICK LOWE
FOR THE WEEKEND

WOULD YOU LET BRITAIN'S BEST LOVED PRODUCER MIX YOUR MASTERPIECE?
YOU WOULD?

Turn to NME's exclusive competition on page 26 for your chance to win 2 days in the studio with Nick Lowe at the controls.

Your career starts HERE!

NME CHARTS

Week ending December 8, 1979

UK SINGLES

This Last Week			Weeks in chart	Highest position
1 (23)	Walking On The Moon	Police (A & M)	2	1
2 (2)	No More Tears	D. Summer/B. Streisand (Casablanca/CBS)	3	1
3 (1)	When You're In Love	Dr Hook (Capitol)	8	1
4 (11)	Confusion	Electric Light Orchestra (Jet)	3	4
5 (8)	Complex	Gary Numan (Beggars Banquet)	2	5
6 (5)	Crazy Little Thing Called Love	Queen (EMI)	7	4
7 (4)	Still	Commodores (Motown)	5	3
8 (9)	One Step Beyond	Madness (Stiff)	4	8
9 (15)	Que Sera Mi Vida	Gibson Brothers (Island)	3	9
10 (3)	Eton Rifles	Jam (Polydor)	5	2
11 (—)	Another Brick In The Wall	Pink Floyd (Harvest)	1	11
12 (6)	Ladies Night	Kool & The Gang (Mercury)	6	6
13 (18)	It's A Disco Night	Isley Brothers (Epic)	4	13
14 (18)	Diamond Smiles	Boomtown Rats (Ensign)	3	14
15 (—)	Rappers Delight	Sugar Hill Gang (Sugar Hill)	1	15
16 (22)	Off The Wall	Michael Jackson (Epic)	2	16
17 (13)	Union City Blue	Blondie (Chrysalis)	2	17
18 (17)	Knocked It Off	B.A. Robertson (Asylum)	4	7
19 (30)	I Only Want To Be With You	Tourists (Logo)	2	19
20 (21)	Rockabilly Rebel	Matchbox (Magnet)	3	20
21 (14)	Gimme Gimme Gimme	Abba (Epic)	7	2
22 (13)	The Sparrow	Rambiers (Decca)	6	12
23 (12)	Rise	Herb Alpert (A&M)	7	12
24 (28)	Is It Love You're After	Rose Royce (Whitfield)	2	24
25 (15)	Monkey Chop	Dan I (Island)	3	25
26 (10)	One Day At A Time	Lena Martell (Pye)	9	1
27 (—)	My Simple Heart	Three Degrees (Ariola)	1	27
28 (—)	Don't Bring Harry	The Strangers (JUA)	1	28
29 (—)	Knights In White Satin	Moody Blues (Deram)	1	29
30 (17)	Message To You Rudy	Specials (Two Tone)	6	7

UP AND COMING:

It's My House — Diana Ross (Motown);
 Living On An Island — Status Quo (Vertigo);
 The Long Run — Eagles (Elektra);
 She's Not There — U.K. Subs (RCA);
 Rest Petite — Darts (Magnet);
 Tears Of A Clown — The Beat (Two Tone).

5 YEARS AGO

Week ending December 3, 1974

- 1 You're The First, The Last, My Everything
Barry White (20th Century)
- 2 You Ain't Seen Nothing Yet
Bachman-Turner Overdrive (Mercury)
- 3 Gonna Make You A Star
David Essex (CBS)
- 4 Juke Box Jive
The Rubettes (Polydor)
- 5 Tell Him
Helle (Bell)
- 6 Oh Yes! You're Beautiful
Gary Glitter (Bell)
- 7 My Boy
Elvis Presley (RCA)
- 8 Lonely This Christmas
Mud (Rak)
- 9 Get Dancing
DiscoTex & The Sex-O-Lines (Chelsea)
- 10 Lucy In The Sky With Diamonds
Eton John (DJM)

10 YEARS AGO

Week ending December 10, 1969

- 1 Ruby Don't Take Your Love To Town
Kenny Rogers & The First Edition (Reprise)
- 2 Yesterday, My Yesterday
Stevie Wonder (Tamla Motown)
- 3 Sugar Sugar
Archies (RCA)
- 4 Two Little Boys
Ron Harris (Columbia)
- 5 Melting Pot
Bluu Mink (Philips)
- 6 Call Me (Number One)
Tremeloes (CBS)
- 7 Suspicious Minds
Elvis Presley
- 8 Winter World Of Love
Engelbert Humperdinck (Decca)
- 9 Something
Beebles (Apple)
- 10 The Onion Song
Marvin Gaye & Tammi Terrell (Tamla Motown)

15 YEARS AGO

Week ending December 11, 1964

- 1 I Feel Fine
Beatles (Parlophone)
- 2 Little Red Rooster
Rolling Stones (Decca)
- 3 I'm Gonna Be Strong
Gene Pitney (Stateside)
- 4 Downtown
Petula Clark (Pye)
- 5 Walk Tall
Vel Deoncan (Decca)
- 6 Pretty Paper
Roy Orbison (London)
- 7 All Day And All Night
Kinks (Pye)
- 8 Baby Love
Supremes (Stateside)
- 9 I Understand
Freddie and The Dreamers (Columbia)
- 10 I Could Easily Fall
CRH Richard (Columbia)

UK ALBUMS

This Last Week			Weeks in chart	Highest position
1 (1)	Abba's Greatest Hits Vol 2	Abba (Epic)	5	1
2 (3)	Greatest Hits	Rod Stewart (Riva)	4	1
3 (2)	20 Golden Greats	Diane Ross (Motown)	3	2
4 (11)	Love Songs	Elvis Presley (K-Tel)	2	4
5 (4)	Regatta De Blanc	Police (A&M)	9	1
6 (9)	Setting Sons	Jam (Polydor)	3	6
7 (5)	Rock 'n' Roller Disco	Various (Ronco)	5	4
8 (10)	Lena's Music Album	Lena Martell (Pye)	8	4
9 (6)	20 Golden Greats	Mantovani (Warwick)	4	6
10 (25)	Night Moves	Various (K-Tel)	2	10
11 (—)	ELO's Greatest Hits	Electric Light Orchestra	1	11
12 (8)	Off The Wall	Michael Jackson (Epic)	11	3
13 (14)	Greatest Hits	10cc (Mercury)	9	5
14 (19)	Sometimes You Win	Dr Hook (Capitol)	3	14
15 (7)	Tusk	Fleetwood Mac (Warner Bros)	7	2
16 (13)	The Specials	Specials (Two Tone)	6	8
17 (11)	Out Of This World	Moody Blues (K-Tel)	4	11
18 (17)	Est To The Best	Blondie (Chrysalis)	10	2
19 (24)	String Of Hits	Shadows (EMI)	13	4
20 (16)	One Step Beyond	Madness (Stiff)	5	16
21 (27)	On The Radio Greatest Hits	Donna Summer (Casablanca)	4	20
22 (—)	Echoes Of Gold	Adrian Brett (Casablanca)	1	22
23 (20)	Wet	Barbra Streisand (CBS)	3	20
24 (—)	New Horizons	Don Williams (K-Tel)	1	24
25 (23)	The Long Run	Eagles (Asylum)	10	2
26 (15)	Discovery	Electric Light Orchestra (Jet)	25	1
27 (22)	Bee Gees' Greatest Hits	(RSO)	4	16
28 (—)	The Wall	Pink Floyd (Harvest)	1	28
29 (—)	Glory Boys	Secret Affair (I Spy)	1	29
30 (29)	Outlandos D'amour	Police (A&M)	28	7

UP AND COMING:

Down On The Farm — Little Feat (Warner Bros);
 Crepes And Drapes — Showaddywaddy (Arista);
 Machine Gun Etiquette — Damned (Chiswick);
 Dawn Of The Dickies — The Dickies (A&M);
 Jack Rabbit Slim — Steve Forbert (Epic);
 Live Rust — Neil Young (Reprise).

Not a trace of sexism as heart-throb to thousands (Mr & Mrs Rick and Elsie Thousands of Cheats) Sting poses proudly on the set of his latest film, 'Emmanuelle In Deep Throat'. The plot concerns a trio of rock'n'rollers who can't get a hit until their vocalists find out that he has a cassette of Jon Anderson's inflections built, by a freak of nature, into his throat. After that he just can't get enough of the stuff into the charts. His downfall, however, comes when the major rock paper of the day digs up one of his old photos and nationally disgraces him (see Thrills). Pic: Adrian Boot.

US SINGLES

This Last Week			Weeks in chart	Highest position
1 (1)	Babe	Styx	1	1
2 (2)	No More Tears	Barbra Streisand & Donna Summer	2	2
3 (6)	Please Don't Go	KC & The Sunshine Band	3	6
4 (8)	Escape	Rupert Holmes	4	8
5 (3)	Still	Commodores	5	3
6 (10)	Ladies' Night	Kool & The Gang	6	10
7 (10)	Send One Your Love	Stevie Wonder	7	10
8 (5)	You're Only Lonely	J. D. Souther	8	5
9 (4)	Heartsche Tonight	Eagles	9	4
10 (7)	Dim All The Lights	Donna Summer	10	7
11 (15)	Jane	Jefferson Starship	11	15
12 (16)	We Don't Talk Anymore	Cliff Richard	12	16
13 (11)	Ships	Berry Manilow	13	11
14 (12)	Pop Music	M	14	12
15 (26)	Rock With You	Michael Jackson	15	26
16 (18)	Take The Long Way Home	Supertramp	16	18
17 (14)	Rise	Herb Alpert	17	14
18 (23)	Do That To Me One More Time	The Captain & Tennille	18	23
19 (21)	Half The Way	Crystal Gayle	19	21
20 (20)	Dreaming	Blondie	20	20
21 (24)	Cruisin'	Smokey Robinson	21	24
22 (25)	Cool Change	Little River Band	22	25
23 (17)	Tusk	Fleetwood Mac	23	17
24 (28)	I Want You Tonight	Pablo Cruise	24	28
25 (30)	Head Games	Foreigner	25	30
26 (—)	Coward Of The County	Kenny Rogers	26	—
27 (—)	This Is It	Kenny Loggins	27	—
28 (—)	Better Love Next Time	Dr Hook	28	—
29 (13)	You Decorated My Life	Kenny Rogers	29	13
30 (—)	Don't Do Me Like That	Tom Petty And The Heartbreakers	30	—

Courtesy "CASH BOX"

US ALBUMS

This Last Week			Weeks in chart	Highest position
1 (1)	The Long Run	Eagles	1	1
2 (4)	On The Radio Greatest Hits	Donna Summer	2	4
3 (3)	Cornerstone	Styx	3	3
4 (2)	Tusk	Fleetwood Mac	4	2
5 (7)	Wet	Barbra Streisand	5	7
6 (6)	The Secret Life Of Plants	Stevie Wonder	6	6
7 (5)	In Through The Out Door	Led Zeppelin	7	5
8 (8)	Midnight Magic	Commodores	8	8
9 (9)	Off The Wall	Michael Jackson	9	9
10 (11)	Bee Gees' Greatest Hits	Bee Gees	10	11
11 (10)	One Voice	Berry Manilow	11	10
12 (12)	Rise	Herb Alpert	12	12
13 (13)	Kenny	Kenny Rogers	13	13
14 (17)	Damn The Torpedoes	Tom Petty & The Heartbreakers	14	17
15 (15)	Head Games	Foreigner	15	15
16 (14)	Ladies' Night	Kool & The Gang	16	14
17 (20)	Masterjam	Rufus & Chaka	17	20
18 (18)	Keep The Fire	Kenny Loggins	18	18
19 (16)	Est To The Best	Blondie	19	16
20 (18)	Dream Police	Cheap Trick	20	18
21 (—)	Freedom At Point Zero	Jefferson Starship	21	—
22 (22)	Breakfast In America	Supertramp	22	22
23 (—)	Greatest Hits	Rod Stewart	23	—
24 (24)	Flirtin' With Disaster	Molly Hatchet	24	24
25 (26)	I'm The Man	Joe Jackson	25	26
26 (29)	Regatta De Blanc	The Police	26	29
27 (—)	Injoy	The Bar-Kays	27	—
28 (21)	Get The Knack	The Knack	28	21
29 (30)	Identity Yourself	The O'Jays	29	30
30 (27)	Evolution	Journey	30	27

Courtesy "CASH BOX"

REGGAE

- (1) Power Struggle — Bunny Wailer (Sotomonic)
- (2) Love Child — Kiddus I (Shepherd)
- (3) Political Confusion — Big Youth (Cash & Carry)
- (4) Your Man — Dennis Brown (WEA)
- (5) Darkness — Jah Shams & Dennis Brown (WEA)
- (6) To Be With You — P. Muller Morrison (Happy Village)
- (7) Natty Dread She Want — George Fullwood (Gorgon)
- (8) Medical History — Prince Far I (Cry Tuff)
- (9) Can't Tell What Happen A West — Big Youth (Negusa Negast)
- (10) Joy And Happiness — Version Earl Moodie (Dion)

Chart supplied by Maroons Tunes, 19 Greek Street, London W1

DISCO

*denotes import All 12"

- (1) Mellow Mellow — Lowrell (Pye)
- (2) Rappers Delight — Sugar Hill Gang (Pye)
- (3) Is It Love You're After — Rose Royce (WEA)
- (4) River Drive — Jupiter Beyond (Pye)
- (5) We've Got The Funk — Positive Force (Turbo)
- (6) Que Sera Mi Vida — Gibson Brothers (Island)
- (7) One Step Beyond — Madness (Stiff)
- (8) Dancin' In Outer Space — Atmosfear (MCA)
- (9) Do You Love What You Feel — Rufus (MCA)
- (10) Second Time Around — Shalamar (RCA)

Chart supplied by HMV Records, Oxford Street, London W1

INDIES

- (1) I Just Can't Be Happy Today — Damned (Chiswick)
- (2) Message To You Rudy — Specials (Two Tone)
- (3) On My Radio — Selecter (Two Tone)
- (4) Say Hello To Sue — Teeth (Soho)
- (5) The Walk — Inmates (Radart)
- (6) Complex — Gary Numan (Beggars Banquet)
- (7) Rockabilly Rebel — Matchbox (Magnet)
- (8) Gabrielle — Nips (Chiswick)
- (9) Brass In Pocket — Pretenders (Real)
- (10) Tears Of A Clown — The Beat (Two Tone)

Chart supplied by Rock On, 5 Kenish Town Road, London NW1

NEWS

Blondie DEBBIE AND MADAME X IN WRANGLE

The story so far...

Rodney Bingenheimer (now there's a name to conjure with), an old friend of Blondie's, asked if Debbie Harry and the band would play and sing backing vocals on a record he was making. And because he had helped them in the past, they agreed — with the blessing of their record company, Chrysalis.

At the session, Debbie suggested she should do a guide vocal for Rodney to sing along to, and to enable him to get the hang of the song. She was suffering from a heavy cold at the time, but this didn't deter her, because the guide vocal was intended to be erased once it had served its purpose.

Some weeks later, a single is released by London/Decca Records under the name of The New York Blondes — with Debbie's guide vocal as the lead voice.

This sequence of events has stung Chrysalis into action — they claim the record and its promotion give the impression of being genuine Blondie product. Decca have now agreed, through solicitors, to drop their campaign associating the record with Blondie — though Chrysalis are still considering whether to sue for damages. And they've already started proceedings against the makers of the record for breach of agreement.

A statement issued by Decca at the weekend confirms that they have now withdrawn the single, which was issued here on the London/Bomp label under the title of 'Little GTO' by New York Blondes featuring Madame X. They say they had originally received warranties from Bomp that Chrysalis had agreed to its release, and they did so as part of their licensing agreement with the American company.

Blondie themselves say they're in full agreement with the action taken by Chrysalis — and what's more, they're about to start their own litigation. They claim that the B-side of the controversial single is a piece penned by guitarist Chris Stein, for which he is receiving no credit or royalties.

POLYDOR NIX FITZGERALD

PATRIK FITZGERALD is alive and well — and full of ideas for 1980. He phoned NME at the weekend with the reassuring news, in case his many supporters were wondering if he had emigrated, died or sunk without trace. His lack of activity stems from the fact that Polydor Records have not renewed his contract, and consequently he's had no new product out for some time.

But Fitzgerald is now planning to record independently. He told NME: "I've managed to get my demos back from Polydor, and I'll be recording again soon — perhaps even starting my own label, if I can find a distributor." He added that he'll be going back on the road again after Christmas — gigs are already being lined up — as well as writing a new poetry book.

Major tour for a new decade

THE CLASH launch into the new decade in style, by way of a major British tour starting early next month and taking in over 30 dates. They'll be supported throughout by top Jamaican act Toots & The Maytals, and there will also be an additional opening act. The first 25 dates were confirmed this week by promoters Straight Music, and they are:

Aylesbury Friars (January 5), Brighton Top Rank (8 and 9), Bath Pavilion (11), Taunton Odeon (12), Leicester De Montfort Hall (16), Dundee Caird Hall (18), Edinburgh Odeon (20 and 21), Blackburn King George's Hall (25), Chester Deeside Leisure Centre (26), Sheffield Top Rank (27), Bridlington Spa

Royal Hall (30), Bradford St George's Hall (31), Hanley Victoria Hall (February 1), Manchester Apollo (3 and 4), Birmingham Top Rank (5 and 6), Poole Wessex Hall (10), Cardiff Sophia Gardens (11), Southampton Top Rank (13), London Camden Electric Ballroom (15 and 16) and London Lewisham Odeon (18).

Remainder of the dates are currently being finalised, and will be announced next week — they're expected to include gigs in Blackpool, Bristol, Coventry, Glasgow, Leeds, Portsmouth, Purley and Newcastle. Admission prices will be £3, £2.50 and £2 at all seated venues, and £3 only at unseated venues — tickets will be on sale very shortly, and readers are advised to contact individual box-offices for further details.

● The Clash say they had hoped to play some dates before Christmas, but it couldn't find suitable venues at such short notice — but they hope their supporters will be recompensed by this lengthy New Year schedule, which goes out under the banner of 'The 16 Tons Tour'. The opening acts are likely to be drawn from local bands in the areas being visited by the tour.

London superstar rock benefits

THE WHO are the first major act to confirm officially that they'll be one of the headline attractions in a series of superstar charity concerts, currently being finalised for London's Hammersmith

Odeon right after Christmas. And it's believed that Wings and Queen are among the big names lined up for the other shows, all of which are to raise funds for the present Cambodian relief campaign.

Promoter Harvey Goldsmith admitted this week that he is organising the concerts, which could run for up to a week if sufficient top attractions agree to participate — but he refused to give any further details until all arrangements are completed, probably in a week's time. Despite this, The Who's spokesman confirmed that they would be playing the December 28 show at Hammersmith — though obviously tickets are not available until Goldsmith announces the official details.

Paul McCartney has already said that Wings will be doing one of the other shows, though he wasn't sure of the precise date. Queen have also been mooted, and their spokesman agreed that this was on the cards.

But speculation that Cliff Richard and The Shadows may appear was unfounded at press-time. And it's understood that tentative plans for Elton John to headline on New Year's Eve were dropped, due to his fatigue after his heavy touring schedule.

It had been hoped that Blondie might join the line-up, but the only available dates in their UK tour schedule are December 29 and January 3 — which are supposed to be "rest days" while they're in Scotland and the North of England — and a London concert would cause innumerable travel problems.

Nevertheless, Goldsmith is confident of presenting best part of a week of star name attractions, and promises to reveal all next week. The series would raise thousands of pounds for Cambodia — which could be swelled still further if producer Michael Appleton decides to screen BBC 2's live New Year's Eve Old Grey Whistle Test from Hammersmith, instead of covering the Blondie concert at Glasgow Apollo.

Squeeze opening Feb. 10

SQUEEZE have now confirmed that their extensive UK tour in the New Year, plans for which were revealed by NME last week, will run from February 10 to March 8 inclusive — dates are currently being lined up and will be announced shortly. But they have postponed their visit to the U.S. and Canada, scheduled for this month — it seems they want to put some last-minute vocal touches to their new album, to ensure that it's ready for release to coincide with their UK dates. They now tour Australia for a month from January 3, and begin their delayed U.S. tour — now extended to six weeks — in mid-March.

THE BOOMTOWN RATS feature in a two-hour Radio 1 special on Boxing Day (8-9 pm), which will include some of their rare early recordings, never before broadcast. In the show, titled 'The Year Of The Rats', Paul Gambaccini discusses the band's rise to stardom with Bob Geldof.

SECRET AFFAIR have added another date to their current tour — which, in fact, is the first of a monthly series of 'Meds Only' nights to be held at Hastings Pier Pavilion. Squire, who've been supporting throughout the tour, are also on the bill — plus two other bands, Seventeen and The Same. It's on Saturday, December 15, and admission is £2.50 (advance) and £3 (doors).

LINTON KWESI JOHNSON is back from his trip to the States, and has been booked at short notice to headline at London Victoria The Venue this Sunday (9). Admission is £3.

HUMAN LEAGUE GO DISCO

THE HUMAN LEAGUE — whose new "remotely controlled entertainment" was dropped from the current Talking Heads tour, as reported last week, because the promoters preferred a live support act — are pressing ahead with their experimental new concept, and have ambitious plans to expand it.

Manager Bob Lamb told NME: "It's cost a lot of money to set up, and now we have audio-visuals, tape memory banks — in fact, the whole gist of the show — just sitting in boxes and waiting to go. We plan to take it on the road in its own right, but we may have to wait until the New Year because the ideal venues — the colleges — are about to close down for the holidays."

Lamb revealed that, although the show "was designed to fit into the rock context", the League are now extending its potential. One idea already in hand is a disco version which, he says, has already attracted the attention of leading discos in New York and Paris. He added: "There are various other avenues to be explored. For example, I think it would be the ideal support for Alien, or a film of that nature."

Who 'shattered'

THE CINCINNATI tragedy on Monday night — when 11 people died in the stampede to gain access to The Who's concert at the Riverfront Coliseum — left the band shattered and distraught. Their London spokesman said at a press-time that they were in a state of "emotional turmoil", even though the disaster could in no way be attributed to them.

He added: "Of course, they can't be blamed for what took place outside the stadium — but even so, they're terribly upset. At the moment, it's touch and go whether they continue with their U.S. tour. I should think that, once the dust has settled, they'll go ahead with the Hammersmith show (see story above) — but right now, they're totally bemused."

The Who weren't told about the tragedy until after the show — the police decided it should go on, fearing a riot if it were cancelled. And the chaos evidently stemmed from the stadium's booking arrangements — most of the 16,000 seats were reserved in advance, but a limited number were retained for sale on a first-come first-served basis, and an estimated 6,000 people had been waiting for up to three hours in the hope of securing these tickets. Eventually just two of the venue's 50 doors were opened, the crowd charged, and the 11 victims were either trampled or smothered to death. Twenty more were treated in hospital, but later released.

STRAIGHT MUSIC PRESENTS

DR. FEELGOOD

WITH GUESTS

★ PHILIP RAMBOW ★ RED BEANS & RICE ★

★ HAMMERSMITH ODEON

QUEEN CAROLINE ST. W6

WEDNESDAY 19th DECEMBER at 8-00

TICKETS £3.50, £3.00, £2.50, £2.00 (INC. VAT) ADVANCE THEATRE BOX OFFICE, TEL. 748 0081, LONDON THEATRE BOOKINGS, SHAFTESBURY AVE., TEL. 439 3371, PREMIER BOX OFFICE, TEL. 248 2265, USUAL AGENTS, OR ON NIGHT.

STRAIGHT MUSIC PRESENTS

TALKING HEADS

WITH GUESTS

ORCHESTRAL MANOEUVRES IN THE DARK

ELECTRIC BALLROOM

(184 CANNON ROAD W1, NEAREST LONDON TOWER)

FRI/SAT-7/8th DECEMBER at 7-30

TICKETS £3.00 (incl. VAT) IN ADVANCE ELECTRIC BALLROOM BOX OFFICE, TEL. 483 9086, LONDON THEATRE BOOKINGS, SHAFTESBURY AVE., TEL. 439 3371, PREMIER BOX OFFICE, TEL. 248 2265, OR ON RECORD, 1 CANTERBURY TOWER RD., WATFORD, TEL. 885 3504, OR £3.00 ON NIGHT.

HUDSON HERE ON ONE-WAY TICKET

AL HUDSON, who recently reached No. 13 in the NME Chart with his MCA single 'You Can Do It', arrives in Britain this week for an 11-date tour with his band The Soul Partners. He's promoting his new album 'Al Hudson's One Way' (issued this weekend) and current single 'Music.' The gigs are Hastings Pier Pavilion (this Saturday), Ilford Tiffany's (Sunday), Stoke Kings Hall (December 10), Whitehaven White House Hotel (11), Leeds Warehouse (12), London Hounslow Red Lion (13), London Southgate Royale (14), Isle of Sheppey Island Hotel (15), Blackpool Tiffany's (16), Maidstone Greenways (17) and Southend Talk Of The South (18).

Christmas Day special

A SPECIAL charity show on behalf of London's orphans is to be staged in the West End on Christmas Day itself. It's being lined up by Jack McDonald, who promoted last year's Christmas Day concert at the Rainbow with Public Image Ltd. This year's show takes place at Studio 21 (21 Oxford Street, opposite Virgin's Megastore) starting at 4 pm. Tickets cost £20 each, they go on sale at noon on December 21 at the studio, and are limited to 200.

The event will largely take the form of a jam session, and McDonald says that those confirmed already are Steve Jones and Paul Cook (of The Pistols), Phil Lynott and Scott Gorham (of Thin Lizzy), Billy Idol and Tony James (of Generation X), Ricky Jobson (of The Skids), Steve Severin (of The Banshees) and members of The Psychedelic Furs. Others, including Mick Jones of The Clash, are still subject to confirmation. Support bands are The Killing Joke and Jimmy Lydon's group "including members of the Lydon household".

MANFRED'S MAN NOW WITH HEEP

URIAH HEEP announced this week that their new drummer is Chris Slade, a founder member of Manfred Mann's Earth Band, whom he left only recently. He comes in to replace long-serving Lee Kerslake, who, as already reported, left the outfit last month after "a blazing row". Uriah have known Slade for some time — when he was with Manfred, they recorded for the same label, shared the same manager and toured America together — so they were well aware of his talents, and chose him immediately from over 30 applicants. The band, complete with Slade and new vocalist John Sloman, are currently recording a new album in London — and, we're assured, it will show "a significant change" from their recent LPs. It's due for release by Bronze in February to tie in with their extensive UK concert tour, listed two weeks ago. So the new look Uriah Heep now consists of (from left to right in the picture above) Ken Hensley, Chris Slade, Trevor Bolder, Mick Box and John Sloman.

RECORD NEWS

Prayer from Dread

A SINGLE called 'A Child's Prayer' by Jamie Kent was released three years ago by Sonet Records, but failed to make any impact. But now, after a couple of unexpected airings by local radio stations, there's been a sudden demand for it — and Sonet have rushed it out again this week, believing that it could become a Christmas hit. The intriguing fact is that the name Jamie Kent hides the identity of none other than Judge Dread, who deliberately changed his name for this record, as it's so contrasting from his usual style.

Release of the new single by The Distractions, titled 'Doesn't Bother Me', has been held over by Island until January 15. It was originally due out now, and was reviewed by NME last week.

'Freedom At Point Zero' is the new Jefferson Starship album, issued by RCA this weekend. It's their first without both Grace Slick and Marty Balin, and marks the debut of Mickey Thomas as lead vocalist, and the introduction of drummer Aynsley Dunbar.

Ian North, ex-leader of one of New York's first new-wave bands Milk'n Cookies, has his first solo album 'Neo' released by Aura Records this weekend. It was produced by Trevor Horn, and he'll be returning here in the New Year for a major tour.

North-East heavy metal band Tigers Of Pan Tang release a three-track single comprising 'Don't Touch Me There', 'Burning Up' and 'Bad Times'. It's on the independent New Records label, available in most shops in that area. If in difficulty, phone Newcastle 624999.

Edinburgh band Another Pretty Face — whose first single 'All The Boys Love Carrie' was on the independent New Pleasures label — have signed with Virgin. Their double A-side 'Whatever Happened To The West'/'Goodbye 1970s' is due out in January.

Dangerous Girls' live four-track EP 'Tease' is now on release at £1 — available only at their gigs and through Rough Trade.

The Buzzcocks' compilation album 'Singles Going Steady', already out in America, will be issued here by Liberty-United in January. As the title implies, it's a montage of previous singles releases, both A-sides and B-sides.

Nervous Records have signed Legendary Lonnie, whose only previous release was on the Charly label. His new single out this weekend is called 'Constipation Shake', and we have it on the highest authority that it was recorded in his back garden toilet.

The new Child single, issued this week by Anika-Hansa, is a revival of the old Jonny Restivo hit 'The Shape I'm In'. At the same time, the label releases a seasonal offering by Angelo Branduardi titled 'Merry We Will Be', penned by Pete Sinfield.

Riello Records this week issue two debut albums — 'Goonhilly Down' by The Planets which sells initially at the budget price of £3.45, and 'Ravenna' by Kim Bescon who sang vocals on Tony Banks' recent solo set.

A tribute to European soccer champions Nottingham Forest has been recorded by The Fans, titled 'Come On The Forest'. It's on Soccer Records — who are based in Grimsby! On sale in shops in the Nottingham area (where else?) or from the record company at 2 Garner Street, Grimsby.

Cardiac Arrest are a four-piece band from Manchester who've put out their first single on their own Another Record Label titled 'Runnin' In The Street'/'T.V. Friends', and distribution is being handled by Virgin and Rough Trade.

Strike Records of 1 Long Acre, London WC2, are doing a special promotion on their new single 'Big Expense, Small Income' by The Tigers. Mail orders (£1) until December 31 will not only secure the single, but also a copy of the title track from the band's upcoming album 'Savage Music', plus stickers and badges.

Phonogram have signed Deptford band Japanese Toy, already familiar to gig-goers on the London circuit. Their debut single 'Confusion' is out this week on the company's new Coma label.

Cleese, Connolly, Cook have ball

FRIDAY, December 14, sees the release by Island of the album The Secret Policeman's Ball, which was recorded at this year's Amnesty International charity concert in London at the end of June. It features John Cleese, Peter Cook, Billy Connolly, Michael Palin, Terry Jones, Eleanor Bron, John Fortune and Rowan Atkinson — with cameo guest appearances from the likes of Anna Ford and Clive Jenkins. It costs £5.29 and runs 65 minutes. The film of the show has already been premiered at the London Film Festival, and is due to be screened by BBC-TV over the Christmas holidays.

Matyas Clifford, who has previously had product out on both RCA and Virgin, is the latest signing to the Do It label. His single 'Living Wild' initially available only as a 12-inch, is out this week with distribution by Spartan.

Canned Rock release their third self-financed album, produced by income gained from the sales of their second LP Kinetic Energy. This new set is called 'Live', it sells at £3.99, and a nationwide distribution has been picked up by Pinnacle Records.

A three-track single by rockabilly artist Mac Curdie, on which the main title is 'Hot Rock Boogie', is out this week on the new Hot Rock label. Distribution is through most One-Stop wholesalers.

York new-wave trio Sema 4 release their second EP 'Up, Down, Around' this week on their own Polaris Records label, distributed nationally by Red Rhino. Also available by post (£1.25 including p&p) from Dave Marston, 8 Oak Grove, Huxley, York.

Morris & The Minors, described as "a three-piece folk-rock orchestra", release their first EP 'State The Obvious' this week — comprising four tracks, poster and plastic cover for 99p. Distribution is by Rough Trade, Small Wonder and other indies, or direct from Round Records, 164 Greenby Road, Charlton, London SE7.

British reggae band Gambia featuring Gus Anyle have their single 'Babylon' issued by Radic (distributed by EMI) this weekend. It forms the theme music for a new six-part London Weekend TV series of the same title.

The Philip Flambow Band, currently supporting Dr Feelgood on a major UK tour, have a new single issued by EMI on December 14. Titled 'Rebel Kind (Wild In The Streets)', it's taken from their debut album 'Shooting Gallery'.

Step Forward Records this week issue an 18-minute EP by Reading band Leman Ktama. It's called 'Spooked And Writting'.

East London band The Playboys have their first single issued this week on their own Smash Hit label — available by mail order (price £1 including p&p) from Smash Hit Records, 2 Lancaster Road, Finsbury Park, London. It's a double A-side comprising 'Night Bus' and 'I'm In A Movie'.

Liverpool band The Accelerators have a six-track 12-inch EP out this week, the first release on the new Spiv Records label and available through local indies. The company is also interested in recording other local bands — write to them at 11 Boswell Street, Liverpool 8.

Currently available through Rough Trade is the debut single by four-piece outfit The First Steps, titled 'The Beat Is Back'. It's on their own English Rose label.

MARLEY IN JUNE

BOB MARLEY and The Wailers will be headlining a full British tour next spring. NME learned from Jamaica this week. After playing isolated one-off dates here over the last two or three years, they feel the time has come to tour the UK extensively — and their visit will include dates in Scotland, where they have never previously played. The exact timing of the tour has yet to be decided, but it's understood that June is the most likely month — though it could be earlier, if they come to Britain as the first leg of what's planned as a two-month European tour.

Empty promise. Worth £5

At Maxell, we keep our promises. Like this one; buy our special pack of three 7- or 10½-inch open reel tapes* and we'll give you a matching precision metal take-up reel — worth around £5 — absolutely free.

We keep our promises. You keep the reel.

maxell®

*Offer applicable to: 1 LDXL 35-90R, 1 DDXL 35-180B and 1 D 35-90. Offer subject to availability.

Jerry Lee tours UK in February

JERRY LEE LEWIS plays seven British dates in February, including a major London concert, as part of an extensive European tour. Jeffrey Kruger of Ember Concerts is bringing him over, and this week confirmed appearances at Sheffield Fiesta (February 9), Manchester Apollo (10), Newcastle Mayfair (13), Slough Fulcrum Theatre (14), Derby Talk Of The Midlands (15), Chester Deeside Leisure Centre (16) and London Rainbow (17) — with the possibility of at least one more gig being slotted in.

Although details are still being finalised, Kruger said he's hopeful that J. D. Sumner & The Stamps — for some time Elvis Presley's backing unit — will accompany Lewis on the tour. After his UK dates, he travels on to the Continent for concerts in Denmark, Holland, Belgium, France and Switzerland.

As a result of his British tour taking place earlier than expected, Jerry Lee has been withdrawn from the Country Music Festival at Wembley during Easter. As reported last week, he was scheduled to play there on Easter Monday (April 7), and presumably promoter Mervyn Conn will now be seeking a suitable replacement.

XTC, JUPP, PUNILUX, TOURISTS, MEMBERS

Stars line up for Nashville event

XTC, THE TOURISTS, 999, Punilux and The Members are among acts now confirmed for the special pre-Christmas 'More Front Row Festivities' festival at London Kensington Nashville, plans for which were revealed by NME five weeks ago. As reported at that time, it follows the pattern of last year's event by featuring artists who played the venue in their early days, and have since developed into big names.

The festival starts officially next Monday (December 10), with Joe Jackson headlining, followed by Rico (11). Other bookings are Mickey Jupp Band (13), The Members (14), 999 (15), Punishment Of Luxury (16), Doll By Doll (17), Yachts (19), The Inmates (20), XTC (21) and The Tourists (22).

December 18 is not yet finalised, but it's understood that The Revillos are being negotiated.

Tickets are available now from the Nashville box-office, priced £2 each night — and they must be purchased in advance, as there will be no tickets sold on the doors. The Tourists' gig marks the end of the festival, but the next day (23) sees the Nashville debut of new Charly Records signings The Sex Beatles, about whom we wrote last week.

The star attraction at the Nashville on New Year's Eve will be Rocky Sharpe & The Replays, featuring The

MICKEY JUPP

Topliners (advance tickets on sale now, priced £2.50).

● Mickey Jupp will also be promoting his newly released Chrysalis album 'Long Distance Romantic' at Sheffield Limit Club (tomorrow, Friday). Dudley J.B.'s (Saturday) and Southend Shrimpers (Sunday). His current band features Pat Donaldson (bass), Dave Matthews (drums), Ian Duck (guitar) and Frank Mead (tenor sax).

● The Enid are, for the third year running, the Christmas Eve attraction at London Marquee.

● Adam & The Ants top a New Year's Eve concert at London Camden Electric Ballroom.

THE REST OF THE NEWS

CARAVAN, who recently completed a short British tour, will be undertaking a more extensive outing in the early spring — playing both the theatre and college circuits. It will follow the release of the band's new album and the first solo LP by their lead singer and writer Pete Hastings. The UK dates come at the end of a seven-week winter tour of Europe.

ALEX HARVEY has called off plans for a Christmas tour with his new band, culminating in his native Glasgow. This is mainly due to the unavailability of suitable venues, which are all heavily booked for the holiday season. Instead, a tour is now being set up to start in early January, and details are expected in a week or two.

THE DICKIES have added another date to their current British tour — at Southport Floral Hall next Wednesday, December 12. And there's been a late venue switch for their gig tonight (Thursday) — they now play Aberdeen Ruffles instead of Carlisle Market Hall.

ANNETTE PEACOCK, of whom much was written in last week's NME, is the first 1980 attraction confirmed for London Victoria. The Venue. She appears there on Wednesday and Thursday, January 9 and 10, backed by the same musicians who play on her new Aura Records album 'The Perfect Release'.

LINDISFARNE are to play yet another Christmas show at Newcastle City Hall, making eight concerts in all. This extra gig is a special free matinee for handicapped and underprivileged children on Saturday, December 22 at 3 pm. Free tickets are being offered to relevant organisations in the North-East, who should write to Lindisfarne Show, P.O. Box 117, Newcastle-upon-Tyne NE99 1LT. Tickets are not available to the general public for this performance.

RADIO 1 on New Year's Eve will devote 13 hours (6 am - 7 pm) to playing the 100 best-selling singles, plus tracks from the 100 top albums, of the past decade — these will be introduced by the regular weekday team of Dave Lee Travis, Simon Bates, Paul Burnett, Andy Peebles and Kid Jensen. At 7 pm, B. A. Robertson takes over with a three-hour show, and the disc-jockey setting in the New Year (10 pm - 2 am) is Adrian Juste. On Sunday, December 30, you can hear the Top 40 singles of 1979 (5-7 pm).

JEFF LYNN, leader of the Electric Light Orchestra, is writing the musical score for Olivia Newton-John's new film Xanadu — which also marks the movie comeback of veteran dancer Gene Kelly. The picture is described as "a typical glossy musical fantasy of the kind in which Hollywood used to specialise".

BIGGEST RECORD SALE IN THE WORLD takes place at London's Alexandra Palace on Saturday, December 15 — when over 150,000 records collected by Radio 1 over the past six months will be on sale, at 50p and 100p for singles and 25p for albums. It's in aid of The Year Of The Child, and there'll also be a special auction of rare discs, including Gold Records and collectors' items. Most of the Radio 1 disc-jockeys will be in attendance — doors open at 9 am.

CLIMAX BLUES BAND also have a couple of shows this weekend — they're at Leicester Polytechnic (tomorrow, Friday) and St. Austell New Cornish Riviera (Saturday).

MARK ANDREWS & The Gents, already building quite a reputation on the gig circuit, have more London dates at the College of Printing (tonight, Thursday), Mile End Queen Mary College (Friday), Victoria The Venue with The Shirts (December 10) and West Hampstead Moonlight Club (16) — plus Kingston Polytechnic this Saturday, 1980 promises to be their breakthrough year, because they've just signed a long-term deal with A&M Records, and their first album is planned for February release.

THE JAGS are playing two dates this weekend, their last before Christmas. And their show on Saturday (8) at Loughborough University, where they're supported by The Dead Aids, is to be broadcast live in Radio 1's In Concert. The Jags' other gig is at London Regents Park Bedford College tomorrow (Friday).

BLAST FURNACE returns to action this month with a new band called Blast Furnace's Revenge, though the line-up retains John Mackie (drums) and B. Bop (bass) from his previous outfit The Heatwaves — and they are now joined by guitarist Billy O'Neill, formerly with The Dark. Initial gigs are at London Camden Dingwalls (December 11) and London Islington Hope & Anchor (19) with more to follow.

DOLLY MIXTURE have dates at Huddersfield Coach House (this Sunday) and London Islington Hope & Anchor (December 11). They then support The Purple Hearts at Manchester Poly (13), Scarborough Penthouse (14) and Midleborough Rock Garden (15).

TRADITION, the British reggae band whose latest album and single will be issued by RCA in the New Year, play London Hackney College (tomorrow, Friday), Aberdeen University (December 14), York House Hotel (15), Redcar Coalham Bowl (16), Derby College (20) and London Mount Royal Hotel (22).

URCHIN, now back to a four-piece having dispensed with keyboards, have gigs at London East Ham Ruston Arms (tonight, Thursday), London Camden Brecknock (tomorrow, December 10 and 23), Oxford College of Further Education (Saturday), Halesowen Tiffany's (December 13), Abertillery Ayl Club (15), Norwich Cromwells (18), Bicester Red Lion (21) and Oxford Corn Dolly (22 and 31). Also this month, they're recording an album and playing a series of Christmas shows in Holland.

War tour with Blood Sweat & Tears

ONE OF THE biggest double-header tours of 1980 is in the process of being lined up for the early spring. It will co-star two long-standing American favourites, War and Blood, Sweat & Tears — and because of their mutual stature, it's expected that they will alternate first-half and closing-act spots throughout the tour.

They're being brought over by Ember Concert Division, and will be based in this country from March 25 to April 27 inclusive, though that period will include various incursions into Europe. They will, however, be playing a string of major dates in this country.

Ember also announce that they've signed Barry White for UK concert appearances next year. The exact period of his visit has still to be determined, but it will be late summer or early autumn, and he'll be supported by a 50-piece orchestra — comprising his own Love Unlimited Orchestra augmented by British musicians. Ember are also handling the Marvin Gaye tour next month, reported by NME two weeks ago.

the Piranhas
NEW SINGLE
space invaders
6 DEC Crown Inn EASTLEIGH SOUTHAMPTON
8 DEC LSE STRAND LONDON
11 DEC University EAST ANGLIA
12 DEC WEYMOUTH Polytechnic
VS314

RECORD COMPANIES — PRODUCERS!

A chance for the Scandinavian market

Friday, December 14th
Saturday, December 15th
Between 12.00—17.00 hours you can meet our producer, Mr. Boris Forberg from the Swedish Record Company, TYFON GRAMMOFON AB, at Hotel Britannia in London. Phone: 01-423 9400.

Make a phone-call for a meeting and we will listen to your tapes and records. In case you cannot see us, sure, you can send your specimens (tapes or records) to —

TYFON GRAMMOFON AB

S-182 06 VALLINGBY Sweden

Phone: 08-7331488

Harrah
THE ROCK VENUE
MUSIC
FOR THE 80's
36 West 42 Street
New York NY 10023 212-541-4909

THE BIGGEST RECORD SALE IN THE WORLD

100,000 old records must be sold
All LP's at 25p. Singles at 5p and 10p

Plus an section of famous clips with live Rock and Roll music and the Radio 1 Road Show.

On Saturday 15th December 8 am-7 pm at Alexandra Palace (Wood Green tube). Tickets: £1 (50p for OAP and under 14's) at Gate or for auction catalogue call: 01-387 2638.

Play lead Guitar within hours
The 1979 easy way to learn modern music, a specially recorded lessons that will save you years of frustrated struggling at your own pace.
• You learn quickly and easily in your own home at your own speed.
• No need to read music. You can have the lesson again and again.
• Hundreds of satisfied students.

Lead Guitar Course Modern Drumming
Solo and modern lead guitar are played for you on 60 minute cassette with back up teaching books. The guitar course is personally prepared by Jack Wilcock who has 18 years experience of teaching and playing for BBC and EMI record sessions, TV and films.

LISTEN & PLAY Teaching Tapes
No obligation. POST NOW TO: JACK WILCOCK TEACHING TAPES, 4 St. Marys Drive, Pangton, Devon, TQ4 7HS.

MUSIC BY POST
Comprehensive Catalogue free on receipt of 8p/10p stamp

This week's best selling SONGBOOKS
BLONDIE Picture This £3.95
JAM All Mod Cons £2.50
SHAM 10 Songbook £3.50
THIN LIZZY Black Rose £2.75
BLONDIE Parallel Lines £4.50
MOTORHEAD Overkill £2.75
BOB DYLAN Slow Train Coming £3.50
VINCE BACK TO THE TOP £3.95
KATE BUSH The Kick £1.15
KATE BUSH Lionheart £3.50
IAN DURY Songbook £3.50
SEX PISTOLS Never Mind The Bollocks £3.50
DEEP PURPLE Machine Head £1.75
THIN LIZZY Best of £3.25
BUZZCOCKS Songbook £2.50
BOOMTOWN RATS Songbook £3.95

SEX PISTOLS New £2.50
THE WHO File £3.95
BOWIE The Lives & Times Of £1.25
BLONDIE £1.25

TUTORS
Bert Weedon — 'Play in a Day' £1.50
500 Chord Shapes 79p
Bass Guitar tutor + record £3.95
Rhythm Guitar tutor £3.95
Lead Guitar Tutor + record £3.95

POSTAGE & PACKING CHARGES
ORDER GB & N IRELAND OVERSEAS
£2 or under 30p 40p
£4 or under 50p 70p
£10 or under 90p £1.00
Over £10 £1.00 £1.50

PASH MUSIC STORES, 56 ELGIN CRESCENT, LONDON W11

STANDING UP FOR THE SMALL MAN

THERE ARE hotels and there are hotels. And then there are hotels like Claridge's, an elegant art deco reminder of the pre-war age of luxury travel, where money doesn't scream, it whispers, and you can smell the polish on the desk clerk's shoes almost, but not quite, before he can smell the shit on your shoes.

Randy Newman seems to enjoy lowering the tone of a place like this. He strolls indifferently into the lobby wearing casual clothes — not the casual chic now all the rage of Marlboro Country — but really casual: check shirt, faded with square pockets and scuffed brown shoes, nearer Woolworths than Fifth Avenue. Flat feet, rectangular glasses and curly, unkempt hair add to the overall look of a scatterbrained college professor.

He explains that we won't be able to sit and talk in the lobby proper as neither of us are wearing ties, so we retire to a corner of the reception area where, obviously peeved at the petty mores of this upper-class bastion, he relates an episode from the first time he stayed here — a few months back when he came to England on vacation with his son.

In each of the rooms is an ink well — a real ink well, naturally, the kind that might tip over and spill its contents all over the splendidly polished desk. And that's exactly what happened, of course — all over the desk, and then, as Newman and his son tried to stem the indelible black tide, all over the deep pile carpet, and all over their hands, and from there to the walls, the bathroom towels, and then finally all over the telephone, which they used to call the maid.

"Jeez what a mess! The stuff was everywhere. The maid came and they were very polite about it, but my poor kid, he was so embarrassed. . . . Anyway I think they're trying to get their own back on me. I sent them a letter with a few ink smudges on it to remind them, and they've put me in a room right next to the kitchen and it's so noisy I can't sleep at night."

As you might surmise from this silent comedy of manners going on between them — a Yankee at the court of the upper-crust — the decade's most accomplished song-writer has only recently become accustomed to being a habitué of such expensive hotels.

"I thought it was time," he says sardonically, "to reflect my improved status in the pop world."

NEWMAN is kidding, of course. Especially since his improved status in the pop world seems to have been short-lived. It lasted about as long as it took "Short People", a freak hit of '77, to chart, taking the "Little Criminals" album equally high in its sudden meteoric slipstream. It was the proverbial cult artist breakout and in the long run, though it hasn't done him any harm, it hasn't done him that much good either.

"Short People" is so innocuous and harmless compared to other stuff I've written, but it sold two million records. That's ridiculous! This is the only English-speaking country in the whole world where it wasn't a hit. . . . I'm proud of England for that, because in a lot of ways it hurt. That and "Germany Before The War" were my favourites on that album — and it's somewhat typical of me. . . .

But it wasn't a hit because it was Randy Newman, it was hit because of its novelty and because it was a pretty song.

"Yeah! Yeah! It did nothing for me. . . . Newman laughs at the irony of what he's just said, and I tell him its success probably had more to do with The Eagles' harmony vocals, just to cheer him up. He never knew The Eagles, incidentally, until they approached his producer Lenny Waronker and asked if they could contribute to the album he was making at the time, "Good Old Boys".

"Singing with them I felt like. . . . D'ye ever see on vacation a fat kid that's all sunburnt trying to swim around a pool?"

He puffs his cheek out like a bloated fish and starts splashing at imaginary water.

"That's how I felt trying to sing with them."

Randy Newman isn't fat, nor is he short, nor painfully shy, nor old and feeble, nor a backwoods Okie citizen, nor indeed much like any of the rich repertoire of characters drawn so sharply in his songs: small, everyday people making whatever best small, everyday sense they can of the great big world.

A conversation with Randy Newman

Any one of his seven albums could introduce you personally to the dreams, fears, prejudices and foibles — in short the grey human reality — of small-minded Smalltown USA. All perfectly enunciated in a dry, cracked, nasal voice to the accompaniment of tunes picked out at the piano from the strains of Stephen Foster. Newman sketches an awesomely original American vista: poignant, bitter-sweet, funny and tragic. Only Ray Davies once came close to doing a similar thing for England, then he started feeling too sorry for himself. And for England too.

But Newman has never slipped to the maudlin or mourning or glibly sentimental. Unlike other songwriters enraptured with Americana, he isn't afraid to explore the ugly side of it, the peeling paintwork of the Dream.

But that isn't why he's just released a vicious satirical attack on some of the newer manifestations of the American psyche, observing and capturing once again that same old small-mindedness which I might add is by no means the exclusive property of Americans. No sir! Newman made "Born Again" because he enjoyed it.

It's the first album he's made that he's been able to listen to comfortably afterwards, though it isn't exactly what you'd call comfortable listening. His confidence bolstered by the success of "Short People", Newman had done with recording the small dreams of the dust bowl, eulogising fading American townships and lifting up oppressed minorities. He didn't want to write another "Yellow Man" or "Salt Away" or even play devil's advocate for the redneck South as he had done on "Good Old Boys", an album based on T. Harry Williams' biography of Depression-era Louisiana governor Huey P. Long that has been justly praised for many things, but never for Newman's incredibly subtle use of synthesizers to create the perfect period Riverboat mood. (Which he will tackle again soon incidentally for the sound track of a film of E. L. Doctorow's novel Regiment.)

SO INSTEAD of doing any of these things, he made "Born Again". Its cover showed Newman in hideous Kiss make-up, though dressed as a corporate executive, with dollar signs for eyes, and a photo of his family — "not my real family, they're even squarer" — with junior growing up to look just like his pa. Newman's presence on his record sleeves had hitherto always been self-effacing, and he would often disappear entirely in the songs, inventing a character and becoming the character's voice. He had taken the step of inventing a character for the sleeve too, and this character sang:

"Used to worry about the poor/But I don't worry anymore. Used to worry about the black man/But now I don't worry about no black man. It's money that I love."

"I think that money is tremendously important in the world," says Newman. His speech is the dry colloquial drawl of his records; he seems to think aloud most of the time. "And more so than ever, money is making people mean. That's what I was writing about. I wasn't writing about myself per se. But I have played a few dates just for money, and they always turned out badly for some reason. But I am not, ash, indifferent to its charms, though I don't think it's of over-riding importance to me. A lot of people say that you don't know whether to believe them or not, and I don't know whether to believe myself!"

He explains that he was sending up himself as much as Kiss on the cover.

"Maybe I'd had some success and I'd been born again as this horrible money-grubbing kind monsterous rock'n'roll person. The song 'Money' and the song 'Pants' were about the same kind of thing. 'Pants' is about these big heavy pretentious rock'n'roll acts like Kansas or Styx. I saw some big rock shows, in a baseball arena, which I'd never seen before, and I couldn't believe what a impersonal thing it was. The artist is way up here and the crowd, they're like sheep with arms!" He raises his arms, opens his mouth, and fawns blankly at the ceiling. Heads turn in the lobby.

"It was nothing". This kind of false sexual innuendo, you know, "I'm gonna take off my pantal — the whole thing was a drag, and really demeaning to the audience. Who wants to put these. . . these. . . anybody on a pedestal like that?"

He's been touring for the first time with a band, who play during the second half of the show, and though he isn't sure if he likes it, because he can't talk to the audience while they're on, he thinks he can see the attraction.

"There's somethin' to it," he admits. "You take a lot of dope or drink a lot and go and if it's The Beach Boys playing their greatest hits or Earth, Wind and Fire I like it myself, if I know all the songs, but Jeez, otherwise. . . I couldn't believe how bad it was. But I'm not an expert; I haven't been to that many of them, I never saw the Stones or Mandrix or anybody whom I might be able to empathise with. . . . Supertramp! I'd like to see them. I kinda like some of their music."

You do? Your reporter is incredulous. He knows that Randy Newman has written a very little song about ELO called "Story Of A Rock'n'Roll Band", and he gets a big kick out of it, knowing how sardonic Newman can be. But he has heard some disquieting rumours about the song, and he can't stop himself blurting out the question: Do you like ELO too?

"Yeah," Newman answers, but warily, as though there were a bucket poised to fall on him if he answers incorrectly. "Aww, that song. . . what I like about it is that I got everything so wrong: mispronounced the name of the town, made up their names. . . . And they do have these idiosyncrasies about their music that are funny. It's maybe a kind of a joke, but I wouldn't have done it if I really hated them like I hate some people. No matter how successful they've been, it's too easy to take a shot at someone, and it's not a shot. I'd tell ya if it were."

The Beach Boys, Supertramp, ELO. . . what next?

"I like Devooh!" he exclaims. "Yeah, very much. And I like Ian Dury. I heard six things by him and I liked five of them. Amazing. I didn't like the last thing I heard by him 'Reasons To Be Cheerful' but some of the songs, whew! 'Wake Up And Make Love To Me', and some really foul stuff. I really liked it."

Was that the reason you liked it? "No. There's some humanity to it, you know? There's something human about it. It doesn't take much. I mean, there isn't a hell of a lot that's human about The Eagles. Face it, I'm facing it. And Devo, you know 'Mongoloid', wearing the hat and bringing home the bacon. . . .

"Boon!" he exclaims again, slapping his thighs. "There's something to it. Devo and Ian Dury both have a sense of humour about themselves, and about people."

That's an unlikely parallel to draw. Devo seem to be much more concerned with mocking the plight of humanity.

"Yeah. You see, there is a bit of humanity in the world now, and in music, Jeez, there's never before been so much. But anyway, I think that 'Mongoloid' is very human, a little nasty maybe. . . .

"Elvis Costello I understand is real nasty, too, but I can't make it out. I can't understand a word. I've sat in front of the speakers. They say this guy's a great lyric writer. . . . well let me hear him, right? Put 'em down. I know they're not poetry. But not a word. 'Green Shirt' I understand, and it's very good. . . about a girl polishing up the buttons. I like that, because I can see it, I listen to what he does. I listen to him, I listen to Bob Seger, Dylan. . . .

Which prompts me to ask whether the title of 'Born Again' was a reference to the religious and quasi-religious revival going on in America at present.

"Yeah, sure. Kind of a nasty one. You know who Tex Watson is? He was one of the Manson killers. Well he's a born-again guy too. . . .

"I don't think much of it. People are entitled to their transformation or their transubstantiation, but I don't know. . . . It's not for me. I was just foolin'. I thought I'd get into trouble with that, but America's so apathetic, it's just the greatest! You can do anything. . . . and they say so what?"

What does the boom market in Salvation tell you about the good of US of A?

"Well, first of all, I don't know how big a thing it is," he muses. "It tells me that people are looking for some kind of values. People are a little messed up. I've come over here before and heard Northern Europeans complaining about the state of the world and about America and that things were really going to pot, and I never believed it. But now things are getting a little tight. It's tough for me to go to Hamburg and see that they're richer than any town in the US. It's hard for Americans to get used to not being first.

Interview by Paul Rambali

"That's probably for the worst. People don't have those kind of dreams they used to have about... He chews over his words a moment before continuing. "Yeah, I don't think any good's going to come of this. Some moral strength? I doubt it. People get married and they can't even dream of buying a house anymore. They don't even have the dream. It's gone. Things aren't getting better and better, they're getting so much worse."

If that's the case, isn't it a more realistic approach, a better way to deal with it?

"Yeah," he grudgingly agrees, "but we don't want to be realistic. We're having to be, but we don't have to like it."

"I sympathise with our plight absolutely. Sure I do. We behaved badly in that part of the world for many years, but we don't deserve this. You behaved badly too. All the imperialist nations are getting shafted now... Like there was a God, like there actually was one, and we're getting paid for our sins. No, sure I sympathise. I'm mad at the old Ayatollah — and I was so attracted to him at first. Sexually attracted!"

Randy Newman doesn't follow politics, but he watches it on TV, and he thinks Carter will be re-elected.

"He's good at running for president. He's not good at being one maybe but... And Kennedy will have to appear and say what he thinks about things... Chappaquiddick. Baaaad you know. Unforgivable maybe."

BORN AGAIN has proved the most provocative album Newman has yet made, but then he has never been one to mince his finely-judged words of angry cynicism, closing in on his themes for an often bitter kill. However, some pundits have found his ire unusually misplaced on one song in particular 'Mr Sheep', seemingly a scathing put-down of Mr Average Dumb Working Guy. Newman is ready to field this criticism.

"It's fine with me. I think it's almost the best thing on there, and it's a very tough thing to do. A lot of people find it really cruel, but the person I'm mocking is the narrator, with that horrible false rock'n'roll voice. It doesn't cohere with the standard liberal view that this person who goes to work every day, can't dance, carries a briefcase... isn't very hip after all, so that's the person you go after. But that's my kind of guy: Mr Sheep. Not that big bully rock'n'roll voice that sings the song."

"But I may not have got it exactly right because people are thinking I'm taking a cheap shot."

It's interesting that Newman's style of assuming a character for a song should have suddenly passed even his admirers by on 'Mr Sheep' — and in a way it's a tribute to his powers of characterisation that people were willing to believe in this smug, condescending bully despite the massive evidence of compassion in Newman's songs. It's also interesting that few people took issue with 'Pretty Boy', where he used exactly the same technique to point up the small-minded prejudices of an uneducated working stiff offended by the sight of someone who "looks just like that dancing wop in those movies that we've seen."

Perhaps 'Mr Sheep' was a bit too close to home. Newman says that though he doesn't usually play it live, because the chords are boring and "I can't work up that much hate onstage", audiences in Europe had been requesting it everywhere. Except here. Nobody requested it on his London dates.

Whatever, it's not exactly a comfortable song. Really good comedy never is. And though it's a plain injustice to think of Newman as a mere comedian, his humorous insights are ground to the sharpest of edges.

"It's hard for me to write a song like 'Pants' and not be embarrassed by it over the six months that it takes me to make a record. It's alright just to think of it and laugh then, but to work on comedy — whew! — it is tough. And I'm still not sure that it's not a joke that just blows right away."

Newman tells me that some of the songs he's written for 'Born Again' have made him afraid to tour in America, in case his intent was, as has happened before, misunderstood. And though a song such as 'Half A Man' is probably asking for it, he hasn't run into any trouble yet.

"I thought I would. I think they're not paying attention. It was a really funny song, but it scared me, you know? Propounding the theory that homosexuality is contagious."

"It was inspired by a story my father told me

Photographs by Pennie Smith

when I was about twelve. He's a doctor, and he had this patient. He told me that this guy had never had a trace of homosexuality, nothin', and all of a sudden he was taking a shower at the YMCA... Boom! He went down on this other guy, and the guy beat the shit out of him."

"He tells this to a twelve-year-old! Isn't that something for a father to tell his kid? Holy Christ! I was just starting junior high school, having to take communal showers... And I remembered that story for 20 years."

Newman's father didn't have a father himself, so when it came to child psychology he was obviously ploughing new ground.

UNLIKE HEMINGWAY, Randy Newman doesn't feel the compulsion to go out and fight a bull to write about it.

"But if I get it wrong, I know I got it wrong. I've written songs where I know I just didn't have the people right. 'Ghosts' was the last one. It's about an old man who fought in World War Two and now has nothing and is a bit bitter, not absolutely likeable. He talks about coloured kids, which in the States — I hear it here — but in the States you don't call black people coloured."

If there's a recurring figure in his songs — rather than a recurring type — it's the Old Man, made lonely by the passage of time. He

■ Continues continuously

RANDY'S RETURN

Select the caption of your choice:
 (a) The artist at work: "... And the main attraction anywhere would be Simon Smith and his amazing... dancing goosel... Nah that still ain't what I'm after here..."
 (b) "Dear Gasbag, I keep suffering from a paranoia that my privacy is being invaded by Pennie Smith..."
 (c) "Let's see here... Crystal Palace v Notts Forest. Home win."

■ From previous page
 uses the ingrained sensibility of the Old Man as a vantage point from which to observe and comment indirectly on the shifting moods of the present.

But there is also a recurrent type in his songs. The fog-baiting trucker in 'Half A Man' is the same Smalltown reactionary of earlier songs, like the Old Man confused and frightened by an age he doesn't understand, afraid to let go of his values because no matter how repulsive they might be to others they're the source of his pride. There's a lot of these people about, and again, they're not exclusively American either.

Newman's other, more occasional, concern is with the seamy side of sex, something which came to a head on '12 Songs': one of the dirtiest records ever made, leaning heavily on the vulgar blues poetry of carnal desire.

Most of the women in songs like 'Kathleen', 'Suzanne', 'You Can Leave Your Hat On', 'Rosemary' and 'If You Need Oil' seem to prey on their men, reaching into the nasty depraved corners of the men's sexual psyche. The men in these songs don't mind this a bit. In fact, they seem to really go for it.

The latest in this line of abject debauches, though, is slightly out of character (this could get confusing). The protagonist of 'The Girls In My Life' actually seems not to be a slave to his desires, though like the others he enjoys these desires nonetheless.

The source of this imaginary cast is hard to pin down. There are some Newman can picture more clearly than others — Davy The Fat Boy, Old Man, the infinitely mocking God in 'God's Song', the murderer in 'Germany Before The War', both the characters in 'Mr Sheep' — but where they come from is a mystery. Newman does like to talk to people though.

"I will do that. In some ways I'm not shy. But for a couple of years I wasn't listening so well. I wouldn't let people say what they wanted to say. But, boy, if you listen, if you let people talk, they'll really talk. I've heard some amazing things. And I like people too! Don't put that in your paper because it seems ridiculous, but I really do."

Listen to his songs. He understands the people he writes about too well to be a genuine misanthrope.

THERE AREN'T that many songwriters doing what Randy Newman does. You could count them on the toes of your hand. It's phenomenally rare and Newman doesn't know why.

"Maybe because it isn't basic," he muses. "It may really be that I'm in the wrong medium. I find that songs I like, I don't know what the words are. I notice when I go to people's houses that music's in the background. I'm listening like this (he cocks his head to one side) and they're talking away and eating potato-chips."

He can't, however, see an alternative outlet. He doesn't feel that he has enough experiences to sustain a book, though he's an avid reader, and I for one would like to see him try. He doesn't like many plays or films either. So what's he doing in music anyway?

"I was pushed. I think I was, though my father would deny it. When I was five years old they moved a piano into my room, in case I was Mozart. I couldn't play it or anything but there it was in my room — what the hell was I supposed to think?"

Over the years he found that he could play it, and without much effort at that. When he should have been practising he was more often than not out getting drunk and getting into car accidents in Los Angeles, or else playing baseball or watching Phil Silvers or Jackie Gleason on TV, or even joking around with his boyhood pal Lenny Waronker, whose father was the founder of Liberty Records and a friend of the Newman clan.

It was Waronker who first suggested that Randy should write songs, and got him a job at the age of 16 for $150 a month with Liberty's publishing house, Metric Music, when the first song he gave them, called 'They Tell Me It's Summer', was placed on the B-side of The Fleetwoods' 'Lovers By Day, Strangers By Night'. His ambitions then were limited: "I wanted to write follow-ups for Bobby Vee, but Carole King always got 'em."

Lenny Waronker has all along been instrumental to Newman's progress. When Waronker became a producer for Warner Brothers, he persuaded him to sign as a solo artist in '68 and make 'Something New Under The Sun' — which is still in print in the US, though Newman himself had forgotten the title — co-produced by Van Dyke Parks and reputedly one of Warners' worst ever selling records. All of his albums have since been produced by Waronker, and it was he who once described his protégé's records as having "a really pretty sound, with a really nasty intent."

Mention of Van Dyke Parks, though, seems to trigger something in Newman's mind. He suddenly looks sad and weary.

It's tough. Things didn't turn out the way me'n Lenny thought they would. We thought, in those days, waiting for the new Beach Boys single — we thought people would see it like they do paperback books, you know, go back and look at Faulkner or whatever. We thought it was a real serious kinda, well, art form in a way. But it's really a commercially-orientated mass-market thing."

Paperbacks are the same. There's everything from Jackie Collins to Jean-Paul Sartre.

"I know, but people don't go back like they would with say a 1954 paperback. It isn't the same kind of thing, somehow. Maybe it's because I'm older but there isn't the same kind of anticipation. I look forward to seeing what The Eagles will do, or Fleetwood Mac. I like to see what Steve Miller's going to do, even Supertramp next time when the pressure's on. But there isn't the same... It's like how much things are going to sell in a way. Not for me but."

"Maybe it's always was and I just didn't notice, because I had no hope of selling. There's all these goddamn magazines that I didn't even know existed, that the guys in the band read. All that crap; this record's doing this and that one's doing a regional breakout. It's run by those guys. Guys who don't know a B-list from their asshole. I don't think the book business is that way. How's journalism? Are there all these people riding along in it that don't know how to put words together?"

Yes.
 "Well it's kind of disillusioning. I mean Warners have never done anything bad to me, in fact they've been great, but my instinct is to dislike them, just for being real big, and being into selling records, even though I'm grateful for it. It's a strange dichotomy."

So how do you deal with it, and maintain your original enthusiasm and reasons for what you do?

"I have to try real hard all the time. I was thinking... I don't think it affected my writing in the slightest, but I thought maybe I'd sell a lot of records this time. It was on my mind. I'd like to be able to play any place in America and fill 8,000 seats."

"I still think 'Born Again' is the best record I've ever made, though I feel defensive about it in some ways because people think I got mean. They want me to be an acoustic fellow and do 'Sail Away' for ever and ever."

'Sail Away', written in 1972, mourns the failure of the Dream to materialise. It's very sentimental and therefore very comforting. Perhaps if he did keep writing 'Sail Away' then all those tears would wash the ugly truth away. But that's rubbish. And I'd rather have Newman cast his wicked eye over the present than depict forever a nostalgic past. His perceptions are no less acute, and he can touch the same depth.

But the image of the craftsman sculpting detailed vignettes of Early American emotional scenery is the one most people cling to. It's partly true, but it over-does the finesse involved. Newman has a sense of humour, a sense of the ironic, a sense of the burlesque, a sensibility, in fact. And he can improvise. That's one of the reasons why he's such a great performer, and an all-round complete original.

He may even be a nice guy too.

RANDOM HOLD

'AVALANCHE' RECOMMENDED RETAIL PRICE £1.49

5 TRACK 12" E.P. LIMITED EDITION

AND NO MORE

PINK FLOYD THE WALL

THEIR NEW DOUBLE ALBUM
ALSO AVAILABLE ON TAPE

Gerald Scarfe

THE
BEST OFAVERAGE
WHITE
BANDOUR
PRICE
RECORDS

£1.25 OFF

REC. PRICE
£5.49
OUR PRICE
£4.24OUR PRICE
TOP 60

LONDON'S ORIGINAL ALBUM CHART

THIS WEEK	LAST WEEK	TITLE	R.R.P.	OUR PRICE	YOU SAVE	THIS WEEK	LAST WEEK	TITLE	R.R.P.	OUR PRICE	YOU SAVE
1	1	PINK FLOYD — THE WALL	8.45	6.45	£2 OFF	31	29	THE BEX SEXES — GREATEST	7.99	5.99	2.00 OFF
2	2	MICHAEL JACKSON — OFF THE WALL	4.99	3.74	1.25 OFF	32	37	E.L.O. — DISCOVERY	5.49	4.24	1.25 OFF
3	4	THE POLICE — RUGATTA DE BLANC	4.99	3.74	1.25 OFF	33	23	MONTE PYTHON'S LIFE OF BRIAN — G.S.T.	5.00	3.75	1.25 OFF
4	1	THE JAM — SETTING SUNS	5.06	3.81	1.25 OFF	34	24	MANHATTAN TRANSFER — EXTENSIONS	5.00	3.75	1.25 OFF
5	7	BOB STEWART — GREATEST HITS	4.99	4.19	0.80 OFF	35	35	AVERAGE WHITE BAND — BEST OF	5.49	4.24	1.25 OFF
6	5	ABBA — GREATEST HITS VOL. 2	5.29	4.59	70p OFF	36	35	STEVE FORBES — JACKSONS' SLIM	4.99	3.74	1.25 OFF
7	3	E.L.O. — GREATEST HITS	5.29	3.99	1.30 OFF	37	31	THE STEVE NICHOLSON ALBUM	5.00	3.75	1.25 OFF
8	6	FLEETWOOD MAC — TUSK	8.00	5.99	2.01 OFF	38	42	GARY NUNN — THE PULSING PRINCIPLE	5.00	3.75	1.25 OFF
9	9	DIANA ROSS — 20 GOLDEN GREATS	5.29	4.49	80p OFF	39	22	EMERSON, LAKE & PALMER — IN CONCERT	5.00	3.75	1.25 OFF
10	8	THE SPECIALS	4.99	3.74	1.25 OFF	40	36	BOB DYLAN — SLOW TRAIN COMING	5.29	4.04	1.25 OFF
11	11	HERB ALPERT — RISE	4.99	3.74	1.25 OFF	41	40	BY CHOCOLATE — SOD TIL YOU DROP	5.00	3.75	1.25 OFF
12	14	THE POLICE — OUTLANDOS D'AMOUR	4.99	3.74	1.25 OFF	42	34	THE DAMNED — MACHINE GUN STENOGRAPHY	5.29	4.04	1.25 OFF
13	32	LITTLE RYAN — DOWN ON THE FARM	5.00	3.75	1.25 OFF	43	34	E.L.O. — OUT OF THE BLUE	7.99	5.99	2.00 OFF
14	13	STEVE WINNER — SECRET LIFE OF PLANTS	8.50	6.50	2.00 OFF	44	52	BARCLAY JAMES HARVEST — EYES OF THE UNIVERSE	5.06	3.81	1.25 OFF
15	27	NEIL YOUNG & CRAZY HORSE — LIVE RUST	7.50	5.75	1.75 OFF	45	39	HUGH CORNWELL — WISPERATI	4.99	3.74	1.25 OFF
16	10	THE EAGLES — THE LONG RUN	5.00	3.75	1.25 OFF	46	35	EMERSON, LAKE & PALMER — REAL TO REAL CACOPHONY	5.00	3.75	1.25 OFF
17	16	SUPERTRAMP — BREAKFAST IN AMERICA	4.99	3.74	1.25 OFF	47	35	E.L.O. — THREE LIGHT YEARS (BONUS SET)	9.99	7.50	2.49 OFF
18	25	BARBARA STREISAND — WET	5.29	4.04	1.25 OFF	48	38	JOY JACKSON — I'M THE MAN	4.99	3.74	1.25 OFF
19	15	BLONDIE — SAT YR THE BEAT	4.99	3.74	1.25 OFF	49	35	ELTON JOHN — VICTIM OF LOVE	5.65	4.40	1.25 OFF
20	17	SINCLAIR SIMMONS — GREATEST HITS ON THE RADIO	6.50	4.75	1.75 OFF	50	43	THE HEADBOYS	4.63	3.38	1.25 OFF
21	12	THE POLICE — GREATEST HITS	5.35	4.55	80p OFF	51	41	DR. FEELGOOD — LET IT ROLL	4.99	3.74	1.25 OFF
22	21	ELTON JOHN & FIVE — I AM	5.29	4.04	1.25 OFF	52	46	THE THOMAS — REALITY EFFECT	4.99	3.74	1.25 OFF
23	30	THE COMMODORES — NIGHTMARE MAGIC	5.69	4.44	1.25 OFF	53	35	E.L.O. — A NEW WORLD RECORD	4.99	3.74	1.25 OFF
24	18	THE BOONDOOM RATS — FINE ART OF SURFACING	5.65	4.40	1.25 OFF	54	47	BOB MARLEY — SURVIVAL	5.29	4.04	1.25 OFF
25	28	MARGARET TAVEL — BROKEN ENGAGEMENT	5.00	3.50	1.50 OFF	55	50	LEONARD COHEN — RECENT SONGS	5.29	4.04	1.25 OFF
26	20	DR. NOON — SOMETIMES YOU WIN	5.29	4.04	1.25 OFF	56	51	HALL & OATES — 3-2-1	4.99	3.74	1.25 OFF
27	33	BLONDIE — PARALLEL LINES	4.99	3.74	1.25 OFF	57	55	QUADROPHENIA — G.S.T.	7.50	5.75	1.75 OFF
28	19	THE PETTY — DAMN THE TORPEDOS	4.69	3.44	1.25 OFF	58	58	THE GIBSON BROS. — COBA	5.29	4.04	1.25 OFF
29	26	JANIS IAN — NIGHT RANGERS	4.99	3.74	1.25 OFF	59	60	ALEX HARVEY — THE MARIA STOL MY GUITAR	4.99	3.74	1.25 OFF
30	30	THE POLICE — GREATEST HITS	5.00	3.75	1.25 OFF	60	58	BOB DYLAN — AT BUDOKAN	7.99	5.49	2.50 OFF

FORTHCOMING ATTRACTIONS

Hot Chocolate, Marvin Gaye, Stargard, Secret Policeman's Ball, The Pentateuch, Jefferson Starship, Robin Trower, Clash, Frank Zappa.

E.S.E.

Prices Subject to Manufacturers' Increases

NEW OUR PRICE BRANCHES AT
BAMBERS 134 HIGH ST. WATFORD
& KINGFISHER CENTRE, REDDITCHPLUS £2 OFF STAR
'TOP 60' BARGAINS
AT THESE 3 STORES
CHARING X RD., TOTTENHAM CT. RD.
& HIGH ST. KENSINGTONWIN THIS LAMBRETTADETAILS
NEXT WEEK

OUR PRICE RECORD STORES

137 CHARING CROSS ROAD WC2
TEL: 01-437 171395 CLARENCE STREET KINGSTON
TEL: 01-546 6353

70 NORTH END CROYDON

100 KENSINGTON HIGH STREET W8

TEL: 01-681 7107

TEL: 01-937 0257

151 EDGWARE ROAD W2
TEL: 01-723 1883219A FINCHLEY ROAD NW3
TEL: 01-624 221712 TOTTENHAM COURT ROAD W1
TEL: 01-636 46311 CRANBOURN ST LEICESTER SQ WC2
TEL: 01-734 766014 CHASE SIDE SOUTHGATE N14
TEL: 01-882 556629 RIVERDALE SHOPPING CENTRE,
LEWISHAM SE14 TEL: 01-318 229716 GOLDERS GREEN ROAD NW11
TEL: 01-455 107836 KINGS ROAD CHELSEA SW3
TEL: 01-581 0877

THRILLS

Strummer Attempts World Domination!

JOE STRUMMER and his vivid imagination have been at it again. And the Clashman's latest pipedream is the television pop show of the 1980's!

Never mind the new double album The Clash have only recently completed, here's the video treat that will, in the words of its creator, "make Top Of The Pops obsolete in three-and-a-half seconds."

But, to make his vision of tele-Utopia a reality, Joe needs some help. "What I need is a maverick, left-field, off-the-wall, renegade, rebel TV producer," he explains. "The aim, hopefully, is to get past the blinkered, half-dead nitwits who control the media."

Strummer claims to have already once taken the blueprint for the programme along to the Thames television network in London only to meet with a rebuff. "When I got to the bloke who was in control, I outlined the whole thing to him and he said 'Great ideas, Joe, great ideas', but there was no action."

Now Joe hopes to approach the men in charge once more, this time with more concrete plans for the show.

Basically, the show would go out live, either primetime Wednesday night or in direct competition with TOTP on a Thursday. There would be no compe, no miming and admission would be free on a first-come first-served basis. The cameramen would be strategically placed ten feet above the punters on hydraulic lifts.

"I know what people want to see and I know that Top Of The Pops is an insult to the human race. Now, those might be strong words for half-an-hour of pop on a Thursday night, but how everybody just sits there and laps it up is beyond me."

Remembering the fact that The Clash are practically alone in steadfastly refusing to appear on TOTP on principle, Strummer's words ring true.

"We need a slice of reality," he goes on. "Groups have got to go out and play, so why can't they play live for us at home on a Wednesday night? I've got every trick in the book on a 24-track mixing board just waiting for you groups to plug into and I'll beam it straight to the speaker in your TV set in Dumfries. The technology is here, so why are we ignoring it? Who's covering up what?"

Strummer's ambitious bid for world domination by 1981 goes beyond control of the media to that sacred cow of live music too. Along with a handful of their contemporaries, The Clash, sometime next year, hope to open The Lucky Seven, a venue completely owned and run by the musicians themselves. And it's more than just another whacky scheme to save Joe the bother of having to phone up to get on the guest list for his live bands.

Although nothing is yet signed and sealed, Strummer is optimistic about their chances of acquiring a disused West London theatre which will become The Lucky Seven. The Clash are even planning to slip in a couple of impromptu gigs to raise the dough to buy the place.

"The promoters no longer know what the audience want, but the musicians have an inbuilt respect for the people who come to see them. It's little things that matter, like having no seats and being able to move around wherever you want with a drink."

"Give a bloke a drink, a good group and he's happy. Now that, plus no seats is not asking much, but you can't get it in London."

As to the other bands involved in the co-operative, Strummer remains schtum, but if they manage to get hold of the venue they want, it will also, naturally enough, be used for the filming of the live television pop show. But first, Strummer needs to find that producer.

ADRIAN THRILLS
THRILLS

Boy, what versatility! Entrepreneur, Messiah, bass player... Pic: Pennie Smith

Records' 'Amiable Split' Bore

"How long you reckon this guy will last?" Pic: George Bodnar

THE RECORDS have parted company with their lead guitarist Hugh Gower only weeks before the band were scheduled to record album number two with producer Craig Leon.

Virgin Records, the band's label, issued an official statement on the schism late last week which explained the estrangement in the following bleak tones: "Although Hugh Gower's talents as a guitarist are beyond question his company as a band member became unbearable."

Pretty heavy, huh? So what's wrong with this Gower bloke? Does he smell?

No, of course not. Hugh Gower is a perfectly normal, nice sort of person and a jolly good guitarist to boot. A meeting with Record's mentor, drummer and songwriter Will Birch could uncover nothing in the way of gruesome scam and vile gossip other than the customary assurance that Hugh and the band had parted company "owing to personal and musical differences."

Actually, Birch is a trifle annoyed at the tone of Virgin's official release. "I think that maybe Hugh found it frustrating because he's not a prolific songwriter. John Wicks and myself had formed the band on the understanding that we were the chief writers and perhaps Hugh found it difficult to offer anything. I don't blame him, I wouldn't want to be in a band where I wasn't in control. The group wasn't big enough for Hugh's personality."

"The thing that annoys me about the press release is that it leaves no scope for argument. We wanted this to drag on for weeks in the papers, like that Thin Lizzy bust-up."

The split does gain an added frisson at a time when The Records, are riding as high or a great deal higher than most of their new wave British compadres in the American charts. Their debut album notched a top fifty position in Billboard.

But where does this leave Gower? When Thrills spoke to the guitarist last week he admitted to being a trifle surprised by the sacking.

"Maybe I was fired for talking out of class," he offered amiably. "If you hear of anyone who's looking for a guitar player let me know."

MAX BELL

THRILLS
Lowry

Vicious Symbols

PURCHASERS of 'Sid Sings', Virgin Records' heartfelt tribute to the man they are said to have plans to turn into the biggest posthumous star since James Dean, will already have had an opportunity to check out the wacky, finger-on-the-pulse satire of the artwork prominently displayed on the label.

Other readers will no doubt be delighted to learn the label boasts that oh-so-meaningful of twentieth century symbols, a swastika, wittily created by Pistols' situationist art-form chappie Jamie Reid from the necks of four Fender Stratocasters.

This motif has already been used elsewhere: on a poster currently being distributed by Fast Product for the Dead Kennedys' 'California Uber Alles'.

The poster also displays marijuana plant-decorated swastikas, which, says Reid, is intended to symbolise how hippies sold out. (Ah-hum).

The Stratocaster motif was originally designed for another album that the fabulous House of Virgin were projecting for Christmas release titled 'Flogging A Dead Horse', apparently a Sex Pistols' Greatest Hits LP — and you thought that was what 'Never Mind The Bollocks' was! 'Dead Horse' is now being held apparently until The Great Rock 'n' Roll Swindle is finally released.

Accordingly, Jamie Reid utilised the distasteful motif in question in The Dead Kennedys' artwork.

When Thrills pointed out to our Jamie that all this flaunting of swastikas was getting a bit tedious he replied that he wouldn't expect "radical chic journalists" to understand how it was in actuality a stunning condemnation of the repressive nature of the music business. Hence, his imaginative usage of Stratocaster necks to form the swastika.

"I find the whole hysteria that surrounds the swastika quite amusing — it's just a bunch of old Leftists getting tied up with dialectics rather than facing up to the real issues," he added.

Unfortunately the relatives — those who survived, anyway — of six million or so people killed in the Nazi death camps do not laugh so easily at the notion of the swastika.

"An amusing statement about the music."

As muddled as Reid's thinking may be however, he does take some sort of philosophical stance, no matter how garbled or specious it may be.

Virgin Records Marketing Man Charlie Dimont, however, appears only able to think in terms of profit margins, no matter how evil the methods of hauling in the money: "The record's just meant to be something of a retrospective album. For people who want to collect all the Pistols' stuff. The swastika's just meant to be an amusing statement about the music."

Ha Ha.

Nuke News

A SOLUTION to the problem of cleaning up after nuclear incidents like Three Mile Island has been suggested by biochemist Dr Arthur Cherkin, an aging specialist at the Veterans Administration Centre in Sepulveda, California.

He thinks that special emergency teams of old people should be sent in to cope with disasters, whether of a nuclear or chemical nature.

His reasoning is that older workers are less likely to have kids which, in turn, means less chance of genetic mutations. Secondly, older people exposed to cancer-inducing radiation are not likely to live long enough to develop the disease. Thirdly, it would provide a great opportunity for old people to work after retirement.

DICK TRACY

THRILLS

Reasons to be Cheerful [part 4]

If you want to buy Hi-Fi that really does justice to your record collection there have probably been a couple of things holding you back.

You don't have thousands of pounds to spend, and the money you can afford will only buy a pretty mediocre system.

That was last year.

Now Sansui have developed a new range of receivers, amplifiers, tuners, cassette decks and turntables that makes a complete nonsense of the you-only-get-what-you-pay-for syndrome.

LEDs, VU meters, high/low filters, Dolby — all the features you'd expect from the very best Hi-Fi at a price you certainly wouldn't.

You can buy a complete 45W per channel system (including speakers) from only £360.

If that doesn't cheer you up, nothing will.

Just send off the coupon for more information and full specifications.

Only Hi-Fi, everything Hi-Fi.

Please send brochures and specifications for the new Sansui range of budget Hi-Fi.

Name _____

Address _____

To: Sansui Audio (UK) Ltd., Unit 10A, Lyon Industrial Estate, Greenford, Middlesex, UB6 0AA.

Ex-Banshees

John and Kenny's Letter

Of the unwritten rules and principles which bound Siouxsie and the Banshees together and gave it that "unity of intent, purpose and vision" as Nick Kent put it recently, perhaps the most important was, that not withstanding the material and financial considerations, if any one member felt that the trust and communication fundamental to a performance was missing, then that person should not go on stage or persist in upholding any such false situation. This basic honesty was and is vital, and it is a testament to just how much is remembered of those early ideals, that no one even hinted at that as a possible reason for our departure. The incident in the record shop just served as a catalyst and tipped the already finely balanced scales towards the spur of the moment decision.

Another of these unwritten principles was that we would use commercialism to our advantage, without poisoning and misdirecting any of the original energy and ideals into the financial treadmill of album, tour, single and all its inherent limitations. Siouxsie and Steve believed in the direction that the management was steering us, whilst we felt that we were getting dangerously close to the brand of commercialism which we had all held out for two years to avoid.

Over the period of time which elapsed between 'The Scream' and 'Join Hands', the emphasis shifted from what we as a unit wanted, to what we as a unit ought to do to retain our tenuous grip on commercial success. A case in point was 'The Staircase' cover. Rather than continue to build on what the Banshees had achieved Nils wanted to cash in on our commercial success. What followed need not be gone into, all that we say is that it was not "unity of intent" etc. Similar behaviour patterns were followed by Nils as to the recordings and almost everything else that differed from his idea of what our success should be.

By now we had unity of 3 against 2.

The Banshees had always wanted and repeatedly asked for somewhere we could leave equipment and go whenever we liked individually or as a group, to expand upon the directions musical or otherwise taken by the Banshees, and explore new ones whilst under no pressure whatsoever to create a "product." (Something the Pistols and Clash had from the early days). No such facility was provided, the spirit of the Banshees rapidly disappeared.

The degrees of compromise and attitudes surrounding us made it impossible for the Banshees to continue.

I am writing this footnote in the hope that the guitar given away by Nils in Aberdeen which was my personal possession and of great sentimental value, can be recovered. I would be glad if the person who has it could write to the following address and something can be arranged.

c/o Alexis Grower, 14 Tooka Court, Cursitor Street, London, EC4.

John McKay, Kenny Morris

John

Strange bedfellows: John, Siouxsie, Kenny, Steve. Pic: Stevenson.

Break Silence

AFTER TWO months chosen silence the exiled Banshees — John McKay and Kenny Morris — have finally spoken out.

Thrills received the letter below and several judicious phone calls later it became apparent that this McKay and Morris missive was the first time their erstwhile manager, Nils Stevenson, has heard from the wayward boys since that fateful autumnal evening when the guitarist and drummer escaped the Siouxsie roost never to be seen again.

It should be noted that the Polydor press office, on hearing of the letter, found it "fair," while Nils' chose to reply to the points raised directly. There seems no reason to intercede but John McKay's footnote does need some elucidation. On the night in question, after John and Kenny had failed to appear for the gig, Nils (having run out of the mimeographed autographed pix to give to the faithful) picked up McKay's guitar and gave it to a fan saying, "We won't be needing this anymore."

No doubt McKay might take action against Stevenson for this generous outburst but the manager reckons "it's nothing to what I'm going to sue them for."

MAX BELL

THRILLS

Benyon

...Nils' Reply

1) They've got to be joking. "unwritten rules", and "principles", bullshit. Tell the people in Aberdeen, Taunton, Glasgow and all the other cancelled gigs then your road crew band and management John & Kenny. This is the best you can do after 2 1/2 months of deliberation. Why should anyone "hint" at these reasons for your departure, you didn't. Their ideas on "trust and communication" are absurdly naive, it would be impossible to plan for any group of individuals with character as misunderstandings and personality clashes are part of being human. A group could never see eye to eye 100% on everything.

2) Kenny and John weren't there — then the original ideas were formulated. Blaming management is a cliché. Why didn't they make their feelings about touring etc. known before the tour which we spent 3 months arranging and they had full knowledge of "The commercialism which we had all held out for two years to avoid". John joined the group less than a year before we signed to Polydor.

3) Join Hands is hardly commercial, likewise the singles after Hong Kong Garden. It is however true to say Hong Kong was a bid for mass recognition therefore they should have left in 1978. It really gets petty now. Siouxsie chose the Staircase bag which was also far from commercial. Had my only concern been financial gain through commercialism I would have had Siouxsie on the bag dressed in a St Trinians outfit.

4) 3 against 2 if they say so.

5) As they know we simply couldn't afford a rehearsal room. The Pistols got their studio early before the group and property boom's, likewise the Clash, who incidentally no longer have their own studio. I kept them well informed, much of my time spent reasoning and discussing projects but their inbred negativity proved too strong for me. Siouxsie and The Banshees will continue, piggies.

The Lone Groover

3 GREAT WAYS TO SPEND

£2.79
AT W H SMITH

Nils Lofgren at the beginning. Recorded with his band Grin, tracks include 'Moon Tears', 'Like Rain', and the classic 'Soft Fun'.

All at W. H. Smith now for only £2.79 per album or cassette

WHSMITH

Access and Barclaycard welcome

Merchandise subject to availability where you see this sign.

DR. HOOK
And The Medicine Show
Sylvia's Mother

The love songs and ballads of Dr Hook including 'Sylvia's Mother', 'Carry Me, Carrie' and 'I Can't Touch The Sun'.

Re-released by popular demand. An album of inspired lunacy from the man who wrote Dr Hook's early hits.

Huhl Awareness, Schmalwareness

John And Yoko: Give Police A Chance

JOHN AND Yoko Lennon are catching heat from an outfit here in NYC called Rock and Roll Awareness (RARA) who claim the couple were duped by the NYC Police into contributing a thousand dollars towards the purchase of bullet proof vests for the boys in blue.

RARA says the coppers could get funding for the lead-stopping garments from city and state government budgets. They feel that during a time last year when the cops were getting hauled over the coals for unleashing their heaters on un-armed citizens, the scam was created by the Police Dept. public relations unit, to deflect attention and instill sympathy.

So, a Policeman's Vests Fund was started by "private parties concerned" with various stage and screen stars doing benefits for the fund. The Remones, they say, were also hoodwinked into doing a fundraiser at CBGB's where several thousand dollars were generated.

RARA want to set up a fund for the purchasing of the same garments for the Third World oppressed masses, who, they say, get shot regularly by crazed police.

A check would suffice from John and Yoko, says RARA. As for people like The Remones and others... Well, when the revolution comes, they will have to answer for their collective stupidity and for swining with the pigs.

Posters have been put up by the RARA people, with a drawing of John and Yoko and a black who is heavily bloodied and carrying visible slugs. Around the art work the names and ages are listed of kids who have been sent to their maker by dangerous police tactics.

Vests For The Oppressed, reads the headline, under it, Not For Cops.

This weekend the New York Times drove home just how controversial the Lennons' action had been: In the previous decade to Gary Gilmore's being shot in 1977, 6,000 American citizens had been shot to death by US cops. In 1976 alone 590 Yanks were shot dead. The paper estimates fifty per cent of these shootings to have been totally unjustified.

JOE STEVENS

THRILLS

Very Blue Hawaii?

Elvis Porn Movie Shock

"WE HAVE no approval on the scripts," cagey Colonel Tom Parker once replied when tackled about the abysmal predictability of Elvis Presley's B-quality movies, "all we have approval on is the money."

The Colonel then quickly knocked the embarrassing subject on the head by insisting that all any Elvis movie required was a vague story, a few songs and some beautiful people to decorate the set. In fact, having failed to get Elvis' fee doubled for taking two roles in Kissin' Cousins, The Colonel allegedly returned the script unread. Attached to it was a memo clearly stating that if his evaluation was required, it would cost the film company an additional $25,000.

The Memphis Flash, of course, was never allowed to exercise his true natural prowess as a thespian in the movies he made for public consumption. His stereotype movie performances would have elevated any 'Crossroads' star to 'Best Actor' Oscar nomination status.

With the introduction, towards the tail-end of the '60s, of video-tape recorders, Elvis purchased a sophisticated set-up (complete with cameras) and installed it in his boudoir. Its purpose wasn't to tape TV movies or to act as security surveillance but to capture every dynamic detail of Elvis' frequent bouts of bed-athletics.

Seems that the randy rocker kept an inventory of eager female co-stars and he would think nothing of flying them in from the remotest corners of the globe to participate in one of his private cinema verite productions.

Apparently, one of his most gifted proteges was such a skilled and dedicated actress that afterwards the benevolent bopper gifted his leading lady with the video tape of their close encounter. However, he didn't realise (or if he did, tough titty) that the tape also included a previous enactment with an aspiring starlet who eventually went on to become one of America's most popular TV stars!

Down on her luck, the recipient of the video tape, rumour has it, sold her cherished memento of The King to a syndicate who bankroll and distribute hard-core porn movies.

It's believed that these un-named patrons of the arts are looking into the possibilities of transforming this tender moment into an action-packed X-rated Elvis movie.

Obviously a must for the Elvis fan who has everything!

MARY POPPINS

THRILLS

"Ready or not, honey, here I come!"

DISCO-FEVER IS RARELY FATAL. BUT IT CAN STUNT YOUR GROWTH.

TOO HOT TA TROT
The Motown greats.
From Diana Ross, to
The Commodores.

£1.85

MOVE YOUR BODY
The Eurodisco Collection.
Silver Convention, J.A.L.N. and a lot of other very hot sounds.

£1.85

Music for Pleasure

Cassettes available at £2.25 at your record store.

HEALTH WARNING:

THESE RECORDS GET TO YOUR IMPORTANT LITTLE PARTS. EVEN THE PRICES ARE SMALL.

The Clash new double album

- *Double album — single sleeve *18 tracks
- *A fiver for two — album and cassette only £5.00 i.r.p. each
- *Double 'A' side single 'London Calling' and 'Armageddon Time' released this week in picture bag

ALBUM RELEASED
NEXT WEEK

Lowry

"I appreciate your concern, gentlemen, but can you really blame ME for the handful of psychopaths we occasionally attract or because the security gets a little over-zealous now and again?"

NEW MEMOREX HIGH BIAS. THE TAPE THAT WINS WITH MAHLER'S FOURTH SYMPHONY.

Original manuscript for the first movement of Gustav Mahler's Fourth Symphony

Choose eight measures of Mahler's Fourth that are especially rich in the high frequencies. The type of passage that MEMOREX HIGH BIAS tapes are designed for.

Record it on your favourite high bias cassette, using the Chrome/CrO₂ setting. Then again on new MEMOREX HIGH BIAS.

Now play back the tapes.

We are convinced you will have a new favourite.

New MEMOREX HIGH BIAS is made with an exclusive ferrite crystal oxide formulation.

No high bias tape delivers greater high frequency fidelity with less noise, plus truer response across the entire frequency range.

The result. An excellent high bias cassette that gives you truer reproduction.

MEMOREX

Is it live. Or is it Memorex?

Quick! Before

WHEN IT comes to the charts, the rock press — which is a top out for saying NME — is firmly in the dark, forever hopelessly stinking matches and weakly calling, "Er Clash... Joy Division somebody? Undertones anyone? ... predicting hits for the most unlikely crews. Rock folk have a curious notion of what a hit actually is, thinking that credibility and being on speaking terms have something to do with it and generally ignoring the weekly lists that purport to show in which direction the national ackers are flowing.

Rightly or wrongly, these records do chart and we all live with them, probably whacking the odd favourite on in a pub or possibly allowing it a few lines in a conversation. But for whatever reason they're never allowed the full honour of becoming part of rock 'n' roll except occasionally when years after the event someone'll turn round to you and say, "D'you remember this one? Don'tcha? Ah it was a great record... they never made anything else like it... shall have I get myself a copy..."

It seems the only people who buy them at the time are casual music fans who buy records like newspapers and later sell them in lots to junk shops — usually originally scratched and with 'Sharon Taylor', 'ST' and '17' indelibly felt-tipped over the label. Anyway this column is being revived to prove that there are people up here who know charts are something other than what doctors carry and that the tuner isn't just something you settle for when they're all out of salmon.

In the entire top 75 there are barely five 45's that need buying above all else. Certainly one such screamer is the struggling 'Spacer' by Sheila B. Devotion. The label says it's Sheila but we all know it's Chic — all except SuperPop's reviewer that is — and 'Spacer' may well be their finest disc to date.

Quite why the Chicchip decided on SBD is a mystery to rank with the Marie Celeste, Anastasia's escape and what happens to my wages between gross and net, but anyway this record is essential — an overworked word that was never so apt. (Let's face it we've all got to do our part to stop 'Another Brick In The Wall' allowing a half million traitors to smile smugly.)

With the uncertainty raging through disco Chic are the oasis everyone is either making for or clinging to. This is underlined by the topical dancefloor doyen of the day, 'Rappers Delight', from the left field Sugarhill Gang. This 45 will be at practically every Xmas party you attend — all the good ones anyway — and is the first major success any music outside of reggae has had with DJ talkover. The tongues prattle and stagger all across the rhythm which is a secondhand version of Edwards' and Rodgers' 'Good Times' though there is no mention of this on the label, the track being credited to four unknowns, probably three of whom are the MC's on this caper to the chart year.

Straight in at fifteen and on the curious Sugarhill Label, the overwhelming success of 'Rappers Delight' — and it will take a miracle to stop it going top three — will no doubt swamp us with an unending stream of DJs getting 'baadbaads' 'schmadaads' over the next six months. In Oxford Street there are dirty great bins full of the 12" and surely this is the only form in which it can exist seeing as how it weighs in at a deserved fifteen minutes. The fledgling art on this outing owes a deal to the crazed tales of Joe Tex — particularly a stream about going to a friend's parents for dinner — and if there's a reason existing as to why you shouldn't, excuse me, checkidout! certainly aint heard it. The style as you'd imagine is breathless and relentless as an outboard motor.

It may only be a final kick from disco but this breed sounds far more alive than a covered wagonload of Streisand / Summer transactions. You should be able to get a copy for about two quid.

It could be suggested that such an obvious monster as 'Rappers Delight' is just another cynical step at consumerising the charts still further, but there are those few 45's hanging around the no man's land of the thirty and lower twenties that though being exquisite pop songs have got the old cold shoulder from Sharon and her ilk.

So truly, quick before they vanish to something like Dan-I's 'Monkey Chop'. This contagious slice of divine banality is entrenched in the mud of the 25 slot despite being, long with 'Spacer', the pearl of the top hundred. Dan-I is a curious black chap with dreadlocks who can't dance — as he went out of his way on TOTP to demonstrate, and the only thing that stands in the way of his record being 100% is the ominous label lettering: 'A Buggles Mix' which I suppose ties him in with that gruesome twosome who had number one recently with the foul 'Video Killed The Radio Star' — anyway they share the same label.

DANNY BAKER the singles

Recently I got a phone call from somebody called Jimmy Haynes, another West Indian if my ears are still M.O.T.'d, who claimed that Monkey Chop was his song and that Dan-I had apparently dealt him a hand like a foot over the whole. Haynes alleges that Dan had taken the song in order to get some kind of release, saying that he would immediately inform Haynes and split any fame. It won't take Jimmy Hazell's cousin Tet to let you know why Mr Haynes' solicitors are currently dusting off the old powdered wigs.

Also if you will, James Haynes ('... as in An'ur') insists he played everything on the opus 'cepting the drumkit. If this even has a thread of truth, currently the charts are Haynes domain. Incidentally, all four cuts on the Dan-I EP are credited to S. E. Lewinson but 'Monkey Chop' aside they're rubbish, and Mr Haynes does show up as 'co-arranger' of the title cut. Our man in court one with the astrican coat and no leg room will keep you posted.

Now, before you become numb to the previous bouquets let's crawl down into the chart sewers awhile and wade in the waste. I'm disgusted to see how warmly the Summers / Streisand dreck has been embraced, it being a two minute 'tune' coupled with the tatty tenth son of 'I Will Survive' lyrics. The Commodores' sickly 'Still' is at least understandable in its wallow appeal though I suspect Motown are a little peeved at it not imitating 'Three Times A Lady' and harbouring in the prime port for eons.

Not half so disagreeable was the recently toppled 'When You're In Love' by Dr Hook. It has to be said that this record grabbed full power at a time when the only other climber of note was the wretched 'Sparrow Song' sung by a clique of schoolchildren which, along with Lena Martell's 'One Day At A Time', represent the nadir of the listings this year. Hook's lit wasn't offensive, really just wimpy, and far too timid to stand the glare of number one.

They Vanish!

A couple of very ordinary ratings jumped the queue, the most leery being The Gibson Brothers' 'Que Sera', as tepid a trot as you could wish to hear. The Gibsons' last two singles were breathtaking pieces of work but this latest — the third from the 'Cuba' LP — has nothing going for it, in fact loses fifty points because of the boys' insistence on dressing up like deranged satin dolls.

Elsewhere, Kool & The Gang exploited the lull in releases with 'Ladies Night'. A former number one on import 'LN' brings the band back after a five years break since they could do no wrong ('Funky Stuff', 'Higher Plane', 'Spirit Of The Boogie'). Their return marks the re-emergence of a harder funk sound to the smooth swing of mainstream light right now. 'Complex' has sold on his name and fame but has lost steam because it only takes two hearings to render it redundant. In that vein we arrive at Queen who just had a hit with the only record I've ever liked of theirs, 'Crazy Little Thing Called Love'. This moderate magic was laid off though because of a tasteless bit of celluloid that they felt fit to lumber the disc with. Shame.

Dying The Death we have Lene Lovich's 'Birdsong', despite or because of TOTP film. Pretenders 'Brass In Pocket', likewise with the gogglebox. Janis Ian / Giorgio Moroder's 'Fly Too High', though we may be early in writing that one off seeing how it's getting loyal airplay. Janet Kay, Showaddywaddy, and, most surprising of all, Cliff Richard's 'Hotshot', which is willing without so much as a tickle at the top thirty. 'Hot shot' was co-written by B. A. Robertson who is very much the man in form with punters.

Hiccups just outside the ten are The Isley Brothers and their swishy 'Disco Night' (worth it if you're flush at the moment), Blondie have got their come-uppance this time with the awful 'Union City Blue', a whine nearly as loathsome as the messy 'Dreamin'', and a shock with the laboured (geddit) progress of The Boomtown Rats and 'Diamond Smile' which goes to prove that video still can't guarantee a smasho no matter how magnificent an effort.

Here and there, Michael Jackson is worrying little with 'Off The Wall', the infectious title track re-mix that sounds too much like Heatwave's 'Boogie Nights'. Hey, Michael, don't screw with Heatwave — ask Blast Furnace.

The Tourists bow in for a debut on 'Only Want To Be With You', a plodding, unimaginative reading of Hawker / Raymonde's oft repeated genius, and then there's Matchbox and some proof that the rockabilly revival is a serious thing not to mention the mighty shadow of a double bass that hangs over the chart.

And so to the nearest thing we have to a mania right now — The Police. No bother in top spot and no real hardship to us human beings out here. The Police have a certain hot class and are healthy winners for the rock'n'roll stables.

Sting had best look over his guitar strap for The Sugarhill Gang though. And you can consider yourself on your toes, Q&TV has warned ya! Don't begrudge — and don't be late.

TAKE A deep breath. Hold it for a second and then let it burst out with gusto laughing all the while and pointing firmly at the photo above. The year is 1977 and take a look at that man's trouserline! Why I should think you could sail a ship on less slack than that mister.

The place is the Palais des Glaces, which sounds like a Police album title, and so it should because the jokers you see are, in fact, the tantalizing trio themselves and as was.

Nice expression there, Sting! They're probably involved in some sixty minute version of 'O Mug Up D' Faure' or perhaps the later to be modified — as was Sting — 'My Hair Is In A Bottle'. Nice to know that some folks are just born cool.

Police Please Police!

However, Thrills is not without a heart and we do hope that the embarrassing revelation that preceded will not spoil the Police's chances of landing the plum gig as offered by Mr Eldon Griffiths MP. What an excellent chance for rock'n'roll to finally make it! We here at Thrills sincerely hope that our chart-toppers will accept the invitation and repay the boys in blue for some of the tremendous work they do for us.

checks out charts.

disco. The current fancy is to tart up the rawness with studio cosmetics and minimise the grunts and groans in favour of harmonies. Typical of the old style disco school is Dynasty's 'I Don't Wanna Be A Freak' on Solar. A mini-hit hindered by a tuppenny ha'penny promo film, 'IDWBAF', sound like everything you ever heard on a hi-hat and is average in the extreme.

While touching on the videos that wrap around these packages we may as well ponder on the continuing presence of ELO. Their 'Confusion' waxing was aired with a film that literally used every computer TV angle in the punch card. The screen never stayed stationary for a second, creating a constant, and, it has to be said, interesting, distraction away from the mild offering this time up. ELO will continue to butt in forever because of such stunts as their videos and because they have the money / manpower to cocoon the most basic tune into a Jackanory version of 'Finlandia'.

Plus their habit of allowing every crystal clear note flow into its natural hair makes perfect medication for office and factory use alike. Most people like to hum while they work.

Which may be why Gary Numan's newie is at a red

Benyon

Don't start saying "There must be more to life than dancing and mohair suits." Next you'll be smokin' dope, saying 'I can see the meanin' of life in a hellobean, an' we'll be back at square one!

Bloody Mary loses her innocence.

Cossack Vodka is an exciting drink with mixers, but don't overdo it.

"My old lady's getting me these Heavy Metal Wing Mirrors from Unipart for Christmas, so I can drive to the next Motorbottom gig in real gonzo style. What? Sorry, I'm deaf in that ear."

"I've been a mod for 4 days now and I'd like my bird to give me these ace Unipart fog Lamps for Christmas. They might not fit my scooter but then it doesn't go anyway."

"These are favourite punkette's gonna get me these fur fabric Unipart seat covers for Christmas. Sid Petulant used it on them and next time I go to see Takeaway Arms I can put them over my head."

IMPROVE YOUR DRIVING-ALONG-THE STREET CREDIBILITY.

"Won't some nice gentle lady put out the bread for this far-out macrobiotic Unipart Roof Rack for Christmas? Or my 40th birthday."

"This funky Rally Jacket from Unipart will help me get my act together when I get down and strut my stuff to the new Donna Kebab 12" import single. Haven't you heard it? I've got a copy in Jurex vinyl, mind you I don't like to play it, cos it cost £10, and anyway I'm still saving for a record Player and"

"I and I want a Unipart footpump for the Babylon festivities, man, cos it's uptown top rankin' natty dread. No, I and I have always talked this way. Why do you ask?"

The best part of Christmas is getting Unipart.

Thousands of parts for millions of cars.

UNIPART

Silver Screen

Un petit peu naff, non?

A Little Romance
Directed by George Roy Hill
Starring Laurence Olivier

(Warner Bros)
DANIEL is 13, French, curly-haired, with a penchant for Robert Redford. He is a whizz kid. Lauren is 12, Sally Kellerman's daughter, lanky-haired and also a whizz kid. This is their story.

Fresh-faced misfits, they fall in love on a Paris film set when he plays Bogie to her Lauren Bacall and she looks at him blankly. He teaches her about movies, she rebels against her glossy, privileged background, and together they run away to Venice to board a gondola at sunset. Being geniuses, they enlist the aid of Laurence Olivier who, we are told, has 'eyes that trail off into the distance like half-finished sentences'. Fortunately Olivier has a neat line in pathos and is a gentleman crook to boot, so we are on his side when he comes out with this dotty legend about a kiss under the Bridge of Sighs and gets bashed about by the Italian police.

What is more difficult to accept is director George Roy Hill's 'O' level love affair with Europe. Like all Americans who first discover Europe's cinematic possibilities, Hill pecks A Little Romance with shots of trains zooming over Swiss vineyards, happy sun-dappled vineyards, and genuine replicas of statues from the Louvre in Paris, France. When the couple decide to earn their get-away money by using an ITT computer to handicap the races at Longchamps, we get a Pernod commercial with a cast of thousands.

"Take that outta 'net, McShane!" T. Bernard goes for glory.

Although Diane Lane and Thelma Houston are the young lovers are engaging enough, George Roy Hill is much more proficient at advertising himself. When Daniel and Lauren are pursued by police they hide out in a cinema showing The Sting. Daniel's favourite movie is Butch Cassidy And The Sundance Kid, and we first see him watching Butch urge Sundance to jump into the rapids. Sundance replies that he doesn't know how to swim — but all in dubbed French. Very funny, very clever, and the fact that Hill directed both films shows an arrogance that is commendable.

As for A Little Romance — well, Brodick Crawford plays Brod, a tough American movie star who's only in the business to get laid. It's not his story. Pity.

Martha Ellen Zinfel

On The Box

Friday December 7
THE PRESIDENT'S ANALYST: An inconsistent but basically engaging '67 satire written and directed by the wayward Theodore J. Flicker, starring smooth James Coburn as the paranoid headthumper to the Prez. Even the FBI is lampooned and — horror of horrors — that most sacred of cows, Ma Bell. Godfrey Cambridge and the greasy William Daniels are good, too. (BBC 1)

Sunday December 9
THE ITALIAN JOB: Affable Michael Caine is the mastermind behind a complex gold heist in Peter Collinson's slam-bang 1969 comedy-thriller notable for being an enviable ad for the Mini (car, not skirt) and for instigating one of the British screen's most cherished pairings in teaming Noel Coward and Benny Hill. (ITV London)

HOMBRE: Martin Ritt's thoughtful 1960 Western, distinguished by an intelligent script and strong central performances by Paul Newman (as the white man reared by the Apache), Richard Boone (granite-faced and grizzle-voiced as ever) and Fredric March (all sweaty fear and hypocrisy). (ITV Midlands)

GETTING STRAIGHT: A real mess of a movie, made in 1970 when Hollywood thought hippie students were fascinating creatures. Elliott Gould copes as best he can with the academic gobbledygook. Candice Bergen looks pretty, but it's all inoffensively daff and director Richard Rush must've wished he was back making exploiters like Psych-Out and Hell's Angels On Wheels. (BBC 2)

Monday December 10
THE OUTFIT: Excellent downbeat thriller written and directed by John Flynn in 1973. It's a powerful stuff — an ex-con takes on a Mafia-type organisation — with a very strong cast: Robert Duvall, Robert Ryan, Joe Don Baker, Richard Jaeckel, Elisha Cook Jr and, picking up the pieces, Karen Black, Marie Windsor and Jane Greer. (BBC 1)

Tuesday December 11
FANTASTIC VOYAGE: Fantastically silly sci-fi notion (circa 1966) in which a team of scientists are miniaturised bacteria-size and injected into the bloodstream of some poor stiff to operate on his brain from within. Hugely enjoyable tack from director Richard Fleischer and Raquel Welch keeps all her clothes on. (BBC 1)

Thursday December 13
COOL HAND LUKE: Paul Newman again ('67 was a good year for him) in Stuart Rosenberg's best film to date, a tough, funny and sad study of Southern repression and violence on a chain-gang. Fine support from George Kennedy and Strother Martin. (ITV Midlands) Monty Smith

It's a man's life in footer: "Get yer 'aircut!" Take a shave!"

J. Collins Nil, Desperandum Won

Yesterday's Hero

Directed by Neil Leifer

Starring Ian McShane and Suzanne Somers

(EMI)

ONE of the funniest films of the year, Yesterday's Hero is, amazingly enough, supposed to be serious drama. As the first ever feature about a football star it is an unmitigated disaster and about as authentic as Roy Of The Rovers, but the laughs keep coming.

The hero, Rod Turner (Ian McShane), is a mythical mixture of Jimmy Greaves, George Best and Dean Martin — a womanising lush who was once nifty on his feet. Plucked from the obscurity of the Third Division (Do you mind? — A Gillingham Fan) to make a big-time comeback in an FA Cup semi-final, Rod scores a goal then rushes off at half-time to guzzle his whiskey bottle. Not the sort of behaviour Brian Clough would encourage and Jake Marsh (Adam Faith as a sort of Thunderbirds puppet with five o'clock shadow) doesn't go a bundle on it either. Even so, The Saints (they're just called The Saints) make it to Wembley, where they meet Leicester Forest (and, ha ha, they're called that because the footage used is of the Forest v Southampton League Cup Final; clever, huh? — well, cheap, anyone). Blended in with all the 'tension' and training are some lame Bugatti and Musker ditties performed by Cloudy Martin and Clint Simon (Suzanne Somers and Paul Nicholas in a bit of a Kiki Dee/Elton John situation, Nicholas being the superstar chairman of The Saints).

The author of this drivel, Jackie Collins, retains her infallible ear for cliché — and even with the assistance of a technical advisor, well-known Islington publican Frank McLintock (ex-Birmingham Rovers) — proves that she knows less about football than Mr Justice Cantley. And a tout flogging tickets at two for a tinner outside Wembley would be killed in the rush, dahling.

Man of the Match: John Motson, who makes an unforgettable debut in the unlikely role of sports commentator.

Monty Smith

(our man in the dressing room drinking the horse linament)

All night sessions. A Bishop confesses.

Johnny Guitar, whose face and namesake you see over there to the right, is the guy on lead with the Bishops.

Behind him, if you look closely, you'll see the three friendly, familiar letters that spell out Vox.

(Vox, having paid for this advertisement, quite like to see their name mentioned. This is perfectly understandable. If you were Vox and you were paying, you would, too.)

Anyway, the Bishops are just back from seven weeks in sun-soaked Australia so we kicked off by asking about that and then drifted around to various other topics.

(Like Vox amps.) We're the italics by the way.

... Australia was great... there's a whole scene going on down there that nobody knows about... most people think Australia is just AC/DC and leave it at that... we had a great time... it got a bit dodgy towards the end... the crew quit on us and we got this other guy in who managed to blow up half our equipment... compared with Britain it's all very different...

How did you find recording when you were starting?

... a studio, any studio is fine as long as you have an engineer who's got a bit of sympathy... you want an engineer who listens... there's a guy called Alan Winstanley down at TW who's really good for that... you all feel as tho' you're working towards the same end... I hate being rushed in a studio... you know, all that looking at the door and thinking we've gotta be out of here in another three hours and we haven't even got the rhythm track down right.

Do you use many toys?

... you mean foot pedals and such?... no, that stuff isn't really part of our sound... I think the most important thing is to get the sound you're after and just play... I always record with an AC30... I've got an old white one that's really settled down now... a new AC30 needs a couple of months to break in and after that it's fine... I suppose in all I've had about six or seven Vox's — one got nicked in Spain... the others have all gone to good homes.

What was the worst experience you ever had in a recording studio?

... ah, a few years ago we had a bash at this direct to disc bit... the theory of it's fine... you know, no tape stage so you can get all the transients and a really open sound... didn't work out like that tho'... the sound they were getting in the cutting room was totally different to the sound coming off the monitors... and the cutting room was four floors up and there wasn't an intercom... nightmares, nightmares... the best way to record tho' is when you're not rushed... it's funny but if you're not panicking you get everything down really fast... all you need to get a decent track together is enough time and an engineer who's interested enough to do it into the small hours... once you got those you're flying...

Vox Limited, 32-34 Gordon House Road, London NW5 1NE Tel. 01-485 4553.

Dear Vox, my name is...

and I live at...

NEW 1984

and I'd like a bit more info please

For the vinyl results of the Bishops' all nighters give the following Chiswick albums a spin: The Count Bishops, The Bishops Live and Crossroads

VOX

SID VICIOUS SINGS

NEW ALBUM AND CASSETTE

ARTIST: SID VICIOUS TITLE: SID SINGS CAT. NO. Y2144

Virgin

SINGLES

LONDON

Another first for NME! The photo on the right is fully operative and Mr Strummer has just snapped all your mugs to be included on a poster in the next Clash album 'Grimsby Trawling'. Left: Although they have no single for review The Residents drop in just for Andy Gill, disguised as the uniforms The Clash slip out of when they get home from a hard day at the battle front. Evidence: Pennie Smith.

CALLING

● PARTY LINE OF THE WEEK

THE CLASH: London Calling (CBS). Hello? Hello? Operator, I think I've got a crossed line — there's someone ploughing a pre-apocalyptic furrow on my phone. Apparently the Ice Age is coming and there's been a nuclear error, but this chap seems quite happy because he lives by the river. What does it all mean?

What it means, sir, is that The Clash have released a new slice of pop-demagoguery, one which displays a greater musical maturity than before without relinquishing the essential Clash spirit, their earlier abandonment replaced this time round by a tense restraint, as if The Police were pretending to be The Angelic Upstarts.

Ah! So it's a cold-blooded attempt at a chart hit? Well, I don't know about that, sir, though it would be nice to see them on Christmas Top Of The Pops, wouldn't it? 'London Calling' is actually quite a spiffy little entree to the album of the same name, a plea for youthful solidarity set to a strident marching rhythm.

Does this mean The Clash are the Glenn Millers of the '80s?

We'll just have to wait and see whether they cross the channel by DC10, sir. Until then, it's chest out, stomach in, toe the line and thank God and Guy Stevens for the powerful cleanliness of the production.

Does this mean that Hapshash & The Coloured Coat are hip again? No, sir.

● ALTERNATIVE LINES OF THE WEEK

1) SECOND LAYER: Flesh As Property EP (Fresh). Easily the best of the current batch of home-grown electronic garage-band product, especially on 'Courts Or Wers', a two-chord drum-machine driven thrash which fairly tools along to its climactic guitar-break.

2) DELTA 5: Mind Your Own Business (Rough Trade). A three girl/two boy outfit from Leeds similar in both attitude and musical approach to The Mekons and Gang Of Four.

Delta 5 lay a smart sparse-funk backdrop behind staggered feminist-vocal interplay, cut it up a couple of times with some clipped guitar abstractions in the style of that gezer in the Gang Of Four whose name escapes me for the moment, and come up with the best Rough Trade single since 'Nag Nag Nag' — insistent, catchy, and engagingly simple. Buy it.

3) ART BEARS: Rats & Monkeys (Ralph). Jesus Christ, is this at the wrong speed? No, it's just the most energetic single of the week, which must come as quite a shock for all those who remember Henry Cow as tiresome noodlers, Art Bears being former Cowpersons Fred Frith, Dagmar Krause and Chris Cutler. 'Rats & Monkeys' is a mad, hypertense concoction of drums, piano and violin whose lyric — 'Rats and monkeys guard the city as it crumbles into ruins/Walls are loosening but the gates are locked' — doubtless deals allegorically with the Decline Of Western Civilisation As We Know It. Just the thing for Granny's Christmas stocking.

disco-funk of any worth this week, but what a corker! Uncertain synth, sprightly bass and the best handclaps I've heard in ages explode into a monstrously insistent piece of foot-fodder unfortunately not matched by the B-side's boring ballad. So what else is new?

6) PULP: Low-Flying Aircraft (7). 'Low-Flying Aircraft' is what happens when avant-garde meets punk on neutral ground, a wonderfully delicious disaster-area. I love it, but then I've always been a bit funny that way. Pulp are Paul Burwell and Anne Bean, improvisers from the MUSICS

Sheffield calling . . .
And the singles look very different today-hey.
(Well, to Andy Gill anyway)

4) THE UNITS: The Units EP (7). Yet another high-energy electronic punk outfit, this time from San Francisco, which seems to be getting hipper than New York nowadays. The Units are two synthesisers and one drum-kit, and the best tracks on this EP, 'Work', 'Cannibals' and 'High Pressure Days', speak loudly of the benefits of sprinkling your silicon chips with a pinch of amphetamine sulphate. Mmm, tasty! 5) 90 DEGREES: No Doctor (Virgin 12"). The only crowd-slumping on the side, and 'Low-Flying Aircraft' is an hilarious, intense mix of Burwell's manic precision percussion and Bean's vocal yelps, grunts and screams, leavened with distortion and feedback, and sure to go down a treat with those who got off on Red Balune's 'Capitalist Kid'. Paul says: 'I'm not sure, but I don't think that Pulp is the name of the band. I personally incline toward the view that it's a description/comment on the music'. Paul, you could be right.

● BIG BOYS, CRUDE PLOYS

DAVID BOWIE: John I'm Only

Dancing (Again) (RCA).

PINK FLOYD: Another Brick In

The Wall, Pt. II (Harvest). I get the strangest feeling that I should be kissing someone's ring for these two singles, or making similar fawning motions of gratitude. Bowie's is the culmination of a four-year plan, whereby the existence of an out-take from the 'Young Americans' session is carefully and quietly made known to the general public shortly after the album's release, thus creating a demand for a patently substandard product which can be capitalised upon whenever a need for a new product coincides with a shortage of same. Like at Christmas.

For the Floyd, Christmas product comes in larger diameters, this year two of

'em: the prime function of

'Another Brick, Pt. II' is as a taster for the bigger stuff. And as such, it's fairly cunningly conceived, complete with easily-memorabile

moron-chor parts, simple enough for the thickest of terrace terrorists. Expect to hear it accompanying the sound of bladders (human or swine) being kicked around on Saturday afternoons

STEVE HILLAGE: Don't Dither

Do It (Virgin). Right, man.

Yeah. 'At's the spirit — get down to it; hit it, crack it! Wiv yer all the way, mate. Only one fing, though. What is it we're doing?

THE PARANOIDS: Stupid Guy

(Hurricane). The Paranoids

lifted their name from Thomas Pynchon's Crying Of Lot 49, which is a good sign. 'Stupid Guy' is throwback wall-of-sound Spectroisms, which isn't. Keep awaiting silent Trystero's emergence, lads.

THOSE HELICOPTERS: South Coast Towns (Bonaparte). I once saw Those Helicopters somewhere in Kent, and they were great — like a cross between Gong and The Mekons, if you can imagine that. Totally mad, totally fun, and with some good ideas bubbling through the anarchy. 'South Coast Towns', unfortunately, doesn't show them at their best. It's badly produced, the vocal rap's almost inaudible, and the music's loose and lumpy. Nice tune, mind.

● THE BEAT GOES OFF
INTERIOR: Bizarre Disco (Plurex).
THE LEATHER NUN: Slow Death EP (Industrial).
FRAGMENTS: Nutbush City Limits (Shattered).
METROPHASE: In Black EP (Fresh).
ADA WILSON: In The Quiet Of My Room (Ellie Jay).
MODERN ENGLISH: Drowning Man (Limp).
TAKE IT: Man-Made World (Fresh Hold). More young man with serious expressions, synthesisers and a lack of sensayuma. Except for Dutch loonies Interior, that is. 'Bizarre Disco' is an hilarious deadpan one-note samba, and lovable as such. Fragments try to do a stripdown job on an oldie, in the manner of Telex and The Silicon Teens, but it's all wearing rather thin nowadays.

■ Continues over

SINGLES

From previous page

The Leather Nun, Swedish mates of Throbbing Gristle with a similar sweetness-and-light outlook on the world, offer three tracks and one intro of varying degrees of morbidity. 'Slow Death' is just that, whilst 'No Rule' is like Skrewdriver with ten-league boots (all the better to kick you with). 'Funny, but I'm beginning to enjoy it. Must find a shrink soon.

Metaphase is one Steev Burgess, who, with the help of Swell Maps Epic and Nikki, has managed to produce a record whose metabolism is so low my record player fell asleep. I tried running my finger round the groove, but I fell asleep too. Modern English only exacerbated the problem, and Ada Wilson's twee little ballad nearly finished us both off.

Take It's offering was better, lumpy lop-sided constructions with abstract organ scribbles and a reasonably high integrity quotient, but where all these fall down at the side of The Units and Second Layer EPs is in their lack of spirit, their assumption that possession of a synthesiser (or in Take It's case, an organ) invests them with a stiff-upper-lip seriousness.

LA SALLE'S: Razzle Dazzle (De 1000 Idiots)

THE DANCING DID: The Dancing Did (Fruit & Veg). Attention collectors of gimmickry and associated ephemera! Both these discs are vital additions to your collections! La Salle's greasy kidstuff rock'n'roll comes complete with a stick of customised chewing-gum, whilst The Dancing Did's real-ale-and-clogs style punky Steeleye Span stuff offers you a smudge of genuine soil from the Vale Of Evesham. Be the envy of your friends! Play the records, chew the gum, and rub your nose in the dirt!

THE PIRANHAS: Space Invaders (Virgin). Mildly-amusing piece of pub-rock (yes!) about addiction to this season's pinball-surrogate. Apparently, it's reaching epidemic proportions in Japan, where a dangerous cash-flow problem has resulted from millions of coins being taken out of circulation to lie dormant in the bellies of Space Invaders machines. Ah, the glories of the silicon chip! Serves 'em right, I reckon.

RANDOM HOLD: Random Hold 12" EP (Polydor). Indescribably tedious and interminably long. Must be 'real' musicians.

EUROPEANS: Europeans (Heartbeat).

NEW MUSIC: Living By Numbers (GTO).

M: Moonlight And Muzak (MCA).

STRANGER THAN FICTION: Into The Void (Ellie Jay). More of that "new pop" stuff we keep hearing about. Best of this lot is 'Europeans', a neat little serving of xenophobia which might make playlists were it not so politically "delicate". It's probably tongue-in-cheek, mind, but I doubt whether you'll be given the chance to decide for yourself.

'Moonlight And Muzak' sees Robin Scott riding roughshod over musical considerations for the sake of conceptual accuracy: that it captures the essence of "the international motel fantasy" is beyond doubt (very Sacha Distel, very Sanderson); what is also beyond doubt is that the international motel fantasy is spectacularly undesirable. Like this record.

Stranger Than Fiction's sleeve shows leader Steve Kennet in staple Bowie/Numan pose — arms folded, faraway look on his po-face, black clothes, the lot. This is the most original thing about the package.

New Musik's 'Living By Numbers' is exactly what you'd expect from a band with a name like that playing a song with a title like that and releasing it on a label like that. Appalling.

THE BLITZ BROTHERS: Gloria (Vertigo). Yet another revamped (or, in this case, devamped) chestnut, one which removes any spark of excitement left in the song after Patti Smith dragged it through a hedge backwards. Unless I'm very much mistaken, The Blitz Brothers are Dalek I and friends in disguise, and they're capable of much, much more than this.

BARRY FORD NEW BREED: Maggie's Farm (Sunstar 127). THE CIMARONS: Love Has Got The Need (Cimarok 12). A couple of mercilessly soporific examples of British reggae, one of which milks an old Dylan song for its current newsworthiness, but offers no new perspectives, just wholesale adaptation, and the other of which even manages to devise a predictable dub for the B-side. Which is quite an achievement, you'll agree. A negative one, but nonetheless an achievement.

THE SECRET: Another Heartline (A&M). More modern power-pop, distinguished by the clumsiest synthesiser-swoops this side of Kansas and a chorus which reminds me of 'Bali Hai' from South Pacific, only not quite as sensitive. Maybe Rodgers and Hammerstein'll sue?

ANY TROUBLE: Yesterdays Love (Pennine). What Jesse Winchester might sound like if he couldn't write a good song. Whaddaya mean, he can't?

MOTORHEAD: Bomber (Bronze). Now this is more like it! I've had a perverse liking for Motorhead ever since they appeared on Top Of The Pops, a liking which doesn't stretch to actually listening to them, you understand, just to watching bemused shop assistants and office-girls wondering how on earth they're supposed to look as though they're enjoying this godawful row. Performance Art on prime time TV! Whatever next? What's really lovable about them, of course, is their success: more than any other band I can think of, Motorhead know their audience, their limitations, and their audience's limitations. Truly, a people's band!

JACK & THE RIPPERS: No Desire (Another Swiss Label). How I love those continentals. Anyone acquainted with the first album by a German band called Big Balls And The Great White Idiot (I kid you not), and specifically a track called 'I'm Singing To You With My Finger Up Your Ass' (really!) will know just what I mean. When these boys grasp the wrong end of a stick, by God, they don't let go. Jack & The Rippers haven't so much grasped the wrong end as the wrong stick; to be precise, a dead one. They zip through 'No Desire' with all the verve and élan of a Morris Oxford, and half the horsepower. The B-side is called, somewhat cryptically, 'I Feel Like A Tram'. Must be the altitude that does it.

THE BRIANS: My Brother's Famous (Dindisc). Most comedy records aren't funny after the first time round. This one goes one better than that. It's not funny at all.

LIP MOVES: Guest (Ticonderoga).

THE ADICTS: The Adicts EP (Dining Out).

THE SPITFIRE BOYS: Funtime (Impeccable). More third division buzzsaw punk. Lip Moves view things slightly askance, perhaps paradoxically — "I am a guest on the DHSS" — but even so, they're hopelessly after the fact: The Spitfire Boys disavow their name with grey churning and lugubriously monotonous vocals. The Adicts scrape through with a soupcon or two of invention — like the scraped harmonics on 'Easy Way Out' — and an overall texture not unlike early Wire. Whether they can flesh it out in the future is another matter entirely.

SEX BEATLES: Well You Never... (Cherry). The main problem with half-inching your name from a couple of bands who had a revolutionary effect on both the music and the consciousness of their respective generations is that you're almost certain to end up looking like a bunch of talentless, posturing, parasitical prats. Right?

TERRI HOOLEY: Laugh At Me (Fresh). Well, if you're twisting my arm...

NME READERS' POLL 1979

Post this page to: NME Readers' Poll, 5-7 Carnaby Street, London W1V 1PG.

Most Wonderful Human Being

.....
Votes for 'me' will not be counted.

Face Of The Decade

.....

Farce Of The Decade

.....

Best Group

.....

Best New Act

.....

Female Singer

.....

Male Singer

.....

Songwriter

.....

Guitarist

.....

Bass

.....

Drums

.....

Keyboards

.....

Single

.....

Album

.....

Best Dressed Sleeve

.....

Disc Jockey

.....

Image Of The Year

.....

Creep Of The Year

.....

Radio Show

.....

TV Show

.....

Film

.....

Name

Address

Age

Coupons must be received by December 31, 1979

The MEKONS

from under your beds into your hearts

the quality of mercy is not strnen
new album V2143

Virgin

Inmates go stir crazy (L-R): Bill Hurley, Tony Oliver, Ben Donnelly, Peter Gunn, Jim Russell.

BEHIND 12 BARS WITH THE INMATES

IF YOU GET a band like Showaddywaddy who dress up a bit like Teds and re-hash old numbers badly, then you'd be justified in saying that they are just a revival band. But if you have a band that resurrects a feeling, and does it their own way, then you can't accuse them of being revivalists — or if they are then it's not a bad thing to be.

Well I'll drink to that, Peter Gunn, lead guitarist and songwriter of hot combo rhythm-and-blues supremacists The Inmates. Or rather I won't — because, y'see, aside from cheap 'revivalist' jibes, the old beer breath and Woodbine rhythm'n'boogie schtick is another topic on which he and his fellows hold pronounced and forthright views.

"Every time you read something about the Feelgoods, for instance, there's always beer mentioned, and it's so bloody stupid. Everything you read about it is 'you've got to have 15 pints to enjoy this' — and we're coming in for it as well — and that's a drag. I don't see that at all.

"It's just one of those clichés you get. You're lumped as an R&B band who likes a drink and a boozy night out with the boys and that's the limitations of it. Everybody likes to drop you in a bag and keep you there, as small as possible. And that's a shame."

It certainly is. So I'll tactfully neglect to mention that our particular tates-a-tete took place in a Camden Town public house — wreathed in cigarette smoke, lagers all round and Junior Walker on the jukebox — lest any of you get the wrong impression.

But I will say that if there's one group capable of leading contemporary R&B clear of the fog of misconceptions, prejudices and pig-ignorance which generally surround it, then these boys are your men. Ladies and gentlemen, The Inmates.

FIRST TO blow the gaff on the band as they emerged on London's pub'n'club circuit was NME's Max Bell, in a piece written earlier this year chronicling the labyrinthine origins of its personnel and serving notice of their impending advance and irresistible rise — commended now by the release of their debut album 'First Offence'. At the core there were four of them: burly Bill Hurley on vocals, shady Ben Donnelly on bass, and the indomitable duo of Pete Gunn and Tony Oliver on guitars, lead and rhythm respectively.

Their drummer at the time of making the album, Eddie from The Vibrators, departed in prospect of a Vibrators reunion, to be replaced by one Jim Russell, his previous employers being such diverse firms as Curved Air, Wild Angels and Ian Matthews.

Which makes five. And with two indisputably killer-diller 45s to their credit, in 'Dirty Water' and now 'The Walk' (both of them NME singles of the Week in their time), The Inmates find themselves in the enviable position of proving a hard team to beat whether live or on record — a transition which a lot of acts fail to make successfully.

Produced, like the album, by Vic Maile — a man with a pretty fair track record in matters R&B — the 'Dirty Water' debut first saw the light of day on the Soho label, being taken over by Radar when the band signed up for that ill-fated company. Following Radar's collapse they were picked up by its umbrella organisation WEA and will come out in future under the Warner logo.

Having completed a succession of British dates, their immediate task is a trek around the States, whose vast appetite for promotional nonsense Bill Hurley has already encountered: to secure the requisite airplay for 'Dirty Water' he's re-recorded his vocals for each of the target radio stations substituting "down by the River Thames" and "London you're my home" for the relevant local data, from San Francisco to Cincinnati (not so much of a sacrifice, of course, when you remember that in its Standells original the song actually deals with Boston Massachusetts).

SNAPPILY—DRESSED, in a quiet kind of way, Bill's a bigish bloke, something which he offsets by a polite, unassuming manner that's somewhat drastically at odds with the raw, clenched-fist and rasping attack of his singing and stage performance. Like the other Inmates', his conversation is peppered with evidence of an encyclopaedic knowledge of his chosen genre (Bill's own leanings being particularly towards the Atlantic/Stax stuff) that leaves me feeling just a little bit ashamed.

"A lot of people," suggests Hurley in softened Cockney tones, "think R&B is just to be playing 12-bar blues all night long, and they say 'How can you take that on to a bigger level?' But we've always been pretty diverse in the tastes that come under rhythm'n'blues. Like, there's the soul side of it, Stax, there's the rock'n'roll side, there's the bluesy side of it, and the more Chuck Berryish sort of feel."

"I mean, a good example of a band that really built up a big following at the time and played big venues, and who really came under the term R&B, was Fleetwood Mac when they first came out. I remember seeing them then and the places were packed, and their stuff was really derived from Chicago stuff like Elmore James. Obviously they've changed quite a bit, but it proved that it's a basic feel, a basic rawness. And it gets through to a lot of people, at different age groups."

WHEN Ben Donnelly comes out from behind the ever-present shades, he talks in a stolid, family-butcher sort of voice, very north-of-Watford, and without a hint of rock'n'roll affectation. He'll talk R&B with the measured thoughtfulness and affection of a miner discussing his whippets.

"When you look through, there's good things in every stage: it's a progression. The knack is to pick out the things which you think are good for you at each particular stage. You don't do them note-for-note and have the same guitar and amplifier as the geezer who did it originally, that's pointless. You do the songs and cater them to your own needs."

"It's very hard to get people who play R&B, a lot of people dismiss it. If you ask guitar players in general to play R&B they'll say, 'Yeah, I can do that', and most of 'em can't, they haven't got a clue. In our last band Pete and I auditioned about 100 guitarists before we got somebody who was anywhere near, who could play it properly. They'd invariably do 'Route 66' and 'Johnny B. Goode' because that was R&B to most people. It was just absurd."

"I don't want to give you the impression that we're purists or anything like that. It's just that if you're going to play simple music very directly, and keep it powerful, then you have to have some sort of feel for it. We try to duplicate the feel of the originals, not the sound."

Pete Gunn, who writes a good half of The Inmates' present material himself, is a quietly-spoken man who used to work as a science teacher until he settled down and got himself a proper job. He comes across as something of a strategist, with a shrewd eye to the group's progression and development, combining a regard for the past with a healthy concern for the future. He explains the making of 'First Offence':

"What we did on the album was make it punchy. That's what people have been saying about it and that's what we set out to do. We didn't exactly hang a microphone in the middle of a room and record it on four-track, but that's what we naively went in thinking we could try. But the bloke we used, Vic Maile, he knew what we were on about and he captured it pretty well on 24-track, so it can be done."

Ben: "You've just got to discipline yourself when you use the studio, and not think 'We've got all these tracks so let's fill 'em up'. You've got to say, well, does it really need another bit there, or will that lose the directness of the song?"

HAPPILY for The Inmates — and very probably to a large extent because of The Inmates — R&B appears to be going through one of its periodic upsurges.

"The funny thing about it," says Donnelly, "is that at any time over the last 20 years there have been major R&B bands playing. We're not dressed up as mods, we might not have any fashionable appeal, but it's continuous. Generally speaking, there's R&B all of the time, it's just a question of if an R&B band emerges now and grass-skirts are in, and they happen to be wearing one, then they're part of the new thing."

(A mental picture of The Inmates in grass-skirts flashes across my mind. I try and change the subject rapidly.) So what's the appeal of the music? (Poor question, but I was thinking fast.)

"If people are going to go out and have a drink, they want to enjoy themselves. You can go and see some band where you've really got to sit down and listen to the funny noises they make — if you're into it then that's great, but it's not something you go out and have a good time to. I don't think there's very much around since the punk thing went, that's why a lot of people are into mod stuff now. Really, that draws directly on R&B."

"It's the dancing as well," adds Bill. "They're probably getting fed up with going to discotheques, where the funk sound is very computerised, so they want something different and raw. From the first we've encouraged audiences to dance, even in places where the staff's come up to me afterwards and said, 'You shouldn't have done that, we haven't got a licence!'"

But doesn't that reinforce one popular suspicion, namely that your music won't come across outside of the small clubs?

Ben: "No. If you're prepared to put in the work and project the music it works just as well in a 10,000 seater hall. People have this idea about R&B and try to pigeon-hole it and say, 'If there's more than 150 in the crowd it's not going to be much fun'. It's not true."

FOR THE future, Gunn echoes some sentiments expressed in these pages recently about the essential need for some original and relevant contemporary R&B songwriting. "That, and the need to get it out of the locker-room, away from the beary night out with the boys. ... Any band needs to progress, not necessarily in leaps and bounds, but it has to be a step in front of its audience, do things which are demanding, to stop the audience being complacent and expecting the same thing night after night. It's very important not to tread water."

"They way I look at it is, the bands that started off playing R&B in the '60s all went on to create some really classic stuff — The Yardbirds, Small Faces, Who, Kinks, Animals. ..."

"So to sum up," Donnelly concludes, "there isn't any problem about our future. If you look at the people who were doing R&B ten years ago, and look at them now, we might be a few years behind them, but if they've had no trouble, why should we? It's as simple as that."

Suddenly, 'Roadrunner' hits the jukebox and Ben, the enthusiast, is away: "Can you hear that bass? Carol Kay, a white American housewife, about 40, she did all these! There's hope for me yet, if girls can do it. Just a bit more practice. ..."

Let's WALK!!

The Inmates demonstrate Plan B — how to escape the R&B prison. Paul Du Noyer passes on the sentences. Mike Laye gets the mugshots.

A NEW HIGH IN LOWE FI

Pure competition for competitive people
Here's how to compete . . .

FANCY something money can't buy? Like spending two days in a recording studio with Nick Lowe producing your single? Well, he's yours and it won't cost yer!

We didn't believe it either when Nick Lowe first made the suggestion, but Nick insists it's a genuine offer.

Recognised internationally as both a successful soloist and as co-leader of Rockpile, Basher Lowe is also widely acknowledged as one of Britain's foremost record producers.

In this capacity, Lowe has contributed greatly to the recording careers of such luminaries as Elvis Costello And The Attractions, Graham Parker And The Rumour, Dr Feelgood, The Damned, Wreckless Eric, Carlene Carter (the missus) and The Pretenders, to name but half the population of Greater London. And you!

Yes, you read it correctly the first time. We've secured Nick Lowe (body and soul) to produce a single by the outright winner of a competition to be run over the next three weeks by New Musical Express.

Two days in a professional recording studio with Nick Lowe is the one and only prize. A unique once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for NME readers to realise an ambition; to bypass the frustration of not only trying to get their music down on tape in a top-notch studio, but having someone with Basher's proven creative know-how to enable them to achieve this little coup.

Who knows what sweet music they may make together?

SOWHY should a grand fromage like the Jesus Of Cool choose to produce someone who as yet he doesn't know exists?

"Why not?" says Lowe. "It'll be much more enjoyable than, say, producing something like Blue Oyster Cult's next album."

It's evident that Nick finds the idea of producing a complete unknown extremely appealing. But first he wants to establish a few flexible ground rules.

"The thought of discovering someone with a good song and having some fun in the studio turning it into a finished job could prove quite stimulating."

As it transpires, Nick Lowe has no preconceptions about what he's looking for, other than a pleasant surprise. However, he duly warned, he knows what he isn't looking for.

"None of your artsy-fartsy types . . . and none of those groups still furiously thrashing away trying to sound like The Sex Pistols three years too late or else modding it up by re-doing The Who's first album yet again."

He also insists that anyone who imagines he's a soft touch and can be easily influenced by anything dripping with cutesy double-entendres that could pass for a Costello, Parker or Rockpile cover job, is more than likely destined for the shredding machine: "We've already had The Jags' 'Back Of My Hand,'" he succinctly states.

So, you may ask, what's left?

"Basically," says Lowe, "I'm looking for someone who sounds like they've got an atom of wit and a new slant on things. As long as they can sing they've got my attention. I'm sick to death of singers who can't sing."

"If they've got a good song and are capable of singing it well, there's no real problem. I mean, I produced The Pretenders' first single in a day."

NICK INSISTS that he's not expecting professional quality tapes to impress him, and goes to extreme lengths to emphasise that would-be contestants shouldn't feel at all embarrassed or at a disadvantage by submitting less-than-pristine home-made demos:

"I want to make it quite clear that everyone is in with a chance."

In fact, he openly encourages the old cricker-bat bedroom recordings.

"At this stage the actual quality of any recording submitted doesn't matter. You can get the drift from just a vocal and a guitar."

"A good song should work no matter what the accompaniment is. If a song is duff to begin with, then no amount of over-arranged multi-dubbing is going to disguise the fact that it's duff. I'm looking for the song, not how well someone has dressed it up."

"The secret is that you should be able to play back a tape quietly and it still sounds interesting."

"All I'm asking is that contestants just present the basic idea and I'll take care of the rest."

So it goes!

WHAT WE'RE offering the winner of this contest," interjects Lowe's manager, Jake Riviera, "is that all-important first leg up the ladder. Anyone who has a Nick Lowe-produced tape has definitely got to be in there with a good chance. For a change, record companies will have to sit up and pay attention."

"The bottom line," says Lowe scornfully, "is that despite what most recording companies claim, very few A&R men really listen to most of the unsolicited home-made tapes people send in. They either give them to someone else to make an assessment, or are doing something else, like answering the phone at the same time."

He goes on to point out that as so many major labels initially passed on Elvis Costello, Graham Parker, Ian Dury — the list is endless — then it's quite conceivable that most A&R men would also have passed on something as off-the-wall as The Flying Lizards' "Money".

"But it was the primitive quality and the unusual treatment of that particular record that made it so attractive, and a hit."

Once the winner has been selected and the session is in the can, the tape will become the exclusive property of the winner. However, both Nick Lowe and Jake Riviera are prepared to offer their expert advice on the best approach concerning a commercial release.

"The winner," says Riviera, "may wish to release it on their own label. That's entirely up to them. But you can be sure that many established labels will be very interested to hear the results."

Hand-to-hand combat has, however, taught Riviera that it's better to approach people who genuinely believe in an artist than sign with a label that can only offer a cash advance and absolutely no professional guidance. Riviera cites the way that Chris Briggs has persistently championed Philip Rambow's talent and, similarly, Al Clark's unyielding faith in XTC.

"Having someone like that interested in your career is just as crucial as making a good record — and much more to one's advantage than being with a label that just has money and absolutely no idea how to spend it."

Nick Lowe has the final word on the subject. "Not only am I not over-concerned about the quality of the tapes submitted, I really don't care if it's a touch of the Kraftworks, one of those good old Great Britain Novelty Songs, an instrumental — let's have a few of those, a rocker or a ballad."

"Truthfully, I'd rather hear a Des O'Connor with half an original idea so long as it's performed with a bit of genuine passion than another flamin' Pistols thrash."

"Just remember this," concludes the Career Opportunities Officer, "I just might find some flair of originality in something that another producer wouldn't probably recognise."

ROY CARR

Everything you need to know to get produced by and legless with, the world's most revered and mocked producer, as told to Roy Carr by Basher himself

NOW READ THIS VERY CAREFULLY:

YOU NOW have three weeks to record your entry and send it to an address that will be published at a later date.

However, don't send in any tapes until you've collected all three special competition vouchers that will appear weekly in NME, together with the official entry form which will appear in three weeks' time.

Attempt to jump the gun and ignore the rules and your tape goes straight down the dumper without a listen.

Though all the rules will be printed in full in three weeks' time, here are a few dos and don'ts to be going on with. So check 'em thoroughly before you grab your axe and hit the record button.

- (1) As already stipulated, contestants must collect all three special competition vouchers that appear — commencing this week — in NME.
- (2) When, in three weeks' time, the official entry form appears, cut it out and complete it clearly and correctly.
- (3) Both the vouchers and the official entry form will have to be accompanied by a cassette tape containing one (and only one) original song and a typewritten lyric sheet. If there is more than one song on the tape or if it isn't accompanied by both vouchers and entry form, the entry will immediately be rendered void.
- (4) All contestants will be requested to sign a clause stating:
 - (a) that the entry submitted is of their own work and performed by them.
 - (b) that they have no existing recording or publishing contracts or any currently pending with any record label or music publishing house.
 - (c) they should own the exclusive copyright of both the song and the recording submitted.

(d) that previous to entering this competition, they haven't held a professional recording contract with either a label or a production company. An ex-member of a recording group who is no longer a professional is still eligible.)

Any artist who has privately financed, recorded, pressed and distributed their own record can enter, but only if that record was not financed (wholly or partly) by a known recording company or distributor. If you have made a record on your own label, neither that song or the recording will be accepted as an entry.

No real-to-real tapes, acetate demos, privately made records, sheet music, videos or in-person auditions will be accepted as an entry.

No tapes will be returned. And positively no dialogue, written or verbal, will be entered into with either contestants, anyone acting on their behalf, managers, publicists or protective mothers.

Should any of these rules be violated then the offenders will automatically be disqualified.

ONCE THE winner has been chosen, a recording session will be arranged at a mutually agreeable time with Nick Lowe producing. Once completed, the two-inch master tape together with the quarter-inch mixed copy tape will become the exclusive property of that act officially judged the winner by Nick Lowe and Jake Riviera in collaboration with NME's Neil Spencer and Roy Carr.

As already stated, the winner is free to dispose of the tape in whatever manner they wish. However, to assure fair play, both Nick Lowe and Jake Riviera (Riviera-Globe) will only be too pleased to offer any free advice about securing a label deal and how to avoid getting ripped-off in the process. "But," says Riviera, "no wet-nursing will be considered."

HERE'S YOUR FIRST COMPETITION VOUCHER

D A V I D B O W I E

JOHN, I'M ONLY DANCING (AGAIN) (1975)
FROM THE 'YOUNG AMERICANS' SESSIONS (SIGMA SOUND)

JOHN, I'M ONLY DANCING (1972)
FROM THE 'ZIGGY STARDUST' SESSIONS
PREVIOUSLY UNAVAILABLE VERSIONS
ALSO AVAILABLE AS LIMITED EDITION 12" SINGLE

RCA

WHAT
DO SKOLARS
ENJOY DOING AT CHRISTMAS?

HOMework!

When you know lager
you're a Skolar.

DON'T CALL ME SKA FACE

"It's just The Beat having a Punky Reggae party," says Deanne Pearson of the latest 2-Tone tornadoes. 'Check' them out . . .

I WAS ON A long coach trip with The Specials that I first heard The Beat. It was a tape they had sent The Specials, and out of a clutch of strong numbers the one that was indelibly printed on my mind during the ensuing five-hour journey was a reggae version of Smokey Robinson's classic 'Tears Of A Clown'. It came over so naturally, was remarkably smooth and uncluttered, even original-sounding with its fast reggae beat.

Of course I'd heard of them before that. Apparently they'd done a John Peel session, although I missed that, and then the buzz had started to go round. Oh, and I'd been warned not to confuse them with the American The Beat . . .

Because this lot are from Birmingham. And it came as no surprise, after listening to that tape, that The Specials had decided to draw them into the 2-Tone fold and release The Beat's first single — 'Tears Of A Clown'.

They formed in February this year, started gigging around Birmingham at the end of March, met up with, and subsequently went on tour with, fellow Brums and 2-Tonians The Selecter — this is getting almost incestuous — and through them met Specials control Jerry Dammers, who said they had "the 2-Tone sound" — which is not to say they are a ska band. The Beat point out, although people will undoubtedly label them as such. "But most people don't know what ska is, that's the funny thing," says bassist David Steele (no relation, and while we're on the subject the rest of The Beat are: David Watling, guitar and lead vocals; Andy Cot, lead guitar and vocals; Everett Morton, drums; Ranking Roger, vocals and toasting; and Saxa, saxophone).

DS Continues: "They think everything on 2-Tone is ska but, like, Madness only have about six ska songs, and they call them a ska band, and we've only got about two ska songs, and they call us ska band."

It all stems from when DW started thinking about the type of music he wanted to play. Although he liked both rock and reggae, he was dissatisfied with the way bands were segregating them.

"I liked music that was exciting, but for dancing, like punk — but punk was starting to disappear and something was going very wrong with pop. There was just nothing happening, and I wanted to create a totally distinct type of music."

"I was listening to two very distinct types of music, rock and reggae, and watching at parties. They used to work really well together. Rock'd get people up and dancing, reggae'd keep them moving, so I brought my two favourite kinds of music — a lot of people's favourite music — together."

"We started off doing strictly reggae numbers and strictly our own numbers, which were close to punk, and the idea was to move them towards each other and see what we could find in the middle. We got things like 'Mirror In The Bathroom' and 'Big Shot': 'It was a blend. It's the same thing as The Specials were trying to do really, only we're going about it in a different way.'

"In what way you mean that?"

Roger asks, apparently confused.

"Well, they're trying to stand up and do punk and reggae as well: they just call it ska."

Roger doesn't agree: The Specials are much nearer to ska while The Beat, as DW has been trying to explain are, "just punky reggae".

"But we can't play punk any more very well," DS chips in. "We've got some really early tapes, and we can't play punk songs like that any more, we just can't do it."

DW nods. "We've always tried to do reggae, but we've never been able to do that."

Before they write themselves off totally I ask them some more about their up-and-coming single, a blend of rock, reggae — and soul? Because everything happened so quickly therefore, the already popular 'Tears Of A Clown' seemed the safest bet.

"It was only like a few weeks ago that The Specials said we could do a single before Christmas," says DS reverently, as if he still can't quite believe it. "We didn't think it was gonna happen that quickly. When we realised that it was, we knew we wouldn't have much time to get people to listen to the song, so we'd have to do one that they already knew, and 'Tears Of A Clown' had already been going down well live. People, like, were going crazy at gigs."

"If we'd done a song like 'Mirror In The Bathroom', which we'd always thought would be our single, well, that's got quite depressing lyrics, hard lyrics, and it would have taken a few weeks for people to get into it, and right before Christmas it would probably have just lost it."

Andy: "Someone else could do it as well" (bring it out as a single). "I mean The Merton Parkas have got a really terrible version and it could also be re-released, so if we don't do it now we may lose our chance."

And after the single, which is only a one-off with 2-Tone? Apparently there have been a number of major labels sniffing around, Arista being the most inquisitive. The band seem unsure of what they want to do. Swept along in the flood of happening, I don't think their feet have quite touched the ground yet.

They are toying with the idea of starting their own label, as The Specials did, possibly signing other bands themselves in the future, but at the moment they are rather daunted by all it may involve. One thing they do know is, like Madness, they do not want to stay under the 2-Tone wing — no ill feeling or disrespect intended. They appreciate all the help 2-Tone have given them.

DS recalls the sudden change in audience reaction, from when they first played as an unknown band with The Selecter, and only had a very few people clapping and dancing, and then, a few months later, after they'd become associated with 2-Tone, the ecstatic welcome they got when they played London's Electric Ballroom.

"Everyone went mad, right from the start — yet we were exactly the same group playing exactly the same stuff."

"It's good when we play to black audiences too," DS prompts DW. "Yeah, one time we played was really amazing. We didn't realise it was gonna be a black audience, and we didn't know how they'd take to us doing covers of reggae songs an' all that. But as it was they loved it, they came up to us afterwards and said 'Oh it was great to hear them songs again'."

"And we once played a gig with an all-black reggae band," DS adds, "and we were actually much better than them!" From shy, unsure beginnings, The Beat are becoming more confident and optimistic by the minute.

They have recently acquired a saxophone player, who was ill at the time of the interview and whom no one knew much about.

"It was something we'd thought about for ages," DW explains. "cos we'd seen Saxa playing in these clubs ages ago, and we said then 'Oh if we ever get good enough it'd be amazing to have him in the band'."

Estimates on his age vary between 45 and 60, with DW concluding that he was definitely the wrong side of 50. The Beat's Saxa to The Specials' Rico?

They eagerly outline further plans for the future. DS: "Eventually we hope to get much weirder. I think there are three things you should have in a band: you should be sort of poppy, weird, and you should be able to dance to it." But he, and the rest of the band, is vague about what sort of weird effects.

DW: "Dunno, we're just sort of hanging in."

DS: "Dunno, the dubs, the dubs haven't got a lot weirder, but we just haven't got the equipment."

Everyone laughs at the musings and indecisiveness. "If we ever try and really talk about our music," DW explains, "it's like the same as us trying to tell you what our music's about: we just end up arguing. We have totally different ideas. But that was the idea of it all really, trying to get together totally different ideas and ending up with one sound, y'know . . ."

Roger attempts, and I think does, put The Beat's ideas in a nutshell: "Now, I mean, well I reckon, well I would anyway, personally, right, and I think the rest of the band, 'know ???' and he breaks off to search for a cigarette, leaving everyone as they should be: up in the air, expectant. Waiting for The Beat.

Roger & Dave Watling. Pic: John Reardon

Saxa. Pic: Justin Thomas.

don't be a bunch of professor blunts cop the new single from

4" Be 2"

"one of the lads"

PRODUCED BY J. LYDON.
7" WIP 6530 12" 12WIP 6530

YOUNG NEVER SPEAKS

Sometime in the last five months, Elliot Rubins, a little-known entrepreneur in the Los Angeles music business, chaperoned his close friend, erstwhile protege and budding film-maker Bernard Shakey to a radio station for an interview with local DJ and radio personality Mary Turner.

Shakey, a lanky, unkempt figure of Canadian origin, has so far directed two films, the first of which — a clumsy, pretentious odyssey with obvious debts to Fellini-style surrealism, entitled Journey Through The Past — was declared a total aesthetic and commercial disaster when it appeared briefly in 1973. However his second work, Rust Never Sleeps, has been granted grander critical accolades, and has been reaping its due harvest at the American box-office.

The one factor common to Mr Shakey's two films has been the presence of rock artist and part-time iconoclast Neil Young. This is hardly surprising because Bernard Shakey is nothing but a thinly-disguised alter-ego for Young himself, assumed whenever the Canuck expatriate chooses to work within the celluloid medium.

Mary Turner's interview — which took place about three months ago, after Young heard her programme on LA's Radio KMET and spontaneously decided to meet her — is the only official chat with the media that Young has consented to in many years, apart from a lengthy personal profile that appeared this spring in Rolling Stone. It comes as part of a prolific year for Young, who released his film side-by-side with his most widely-acclaimed album in recent times, Rust Never Sleeps. Young has just released the film's soundtrack — initially called Rust Never Sleeps as well, but now less confusingly titled Live Rust.

This year has also been deemed Young's most successful, in terms of shifting vinyl, since the MOR era of 'Harvest' back in 1972. 'Rust' hung in the US top ten for over two months, apparently out-selling 'Time Fades Away', 'On The Beach', 'Tonight's The Night' and 'Zuma' put together, proving finally that Young didn't need to get mellow and calculatingly dilute the true sting of his music in order to gain mass acceptance.

Rust Never Sleeps, the movie, has yet to find a distributor, independent or otherwise, willing to bring it to the British screens, although negotiations have been going on for several months. The movie, whose title was dreamt up by Devo, is essentially a concert film based on Young's last American tour. Scenes from the gigs, which took place earlier this year, featuring amongst other bizarre stage props a battery of gigantic fake amplifiers and a road crew dressed as Jedi Knights, form the basis of the narrative. There is also a sequence featuring the spud kings of middle America.

Since his interview with Mary Turner, the ever-reclusive Young has been seen by virtually nobody, and is believed to be at this moment adrift on a yacht somewhere in the Pacific.

The tape of the interview was recorded for Warner Bros and has been pressed in a 'Promotion Only' format for distribution to radio stations in the US. Lasting approximately an hour and interrupted by short snatches of Young's music, old and new, it captures the old rascal's sense of humour well, and provides a rare and intriguing insight into the man they left out of the Woodstock movie.

Doubtless the record will be bootlegged and flogged at the usual absurd prices; meantime we thought you might like to clock the contents for yourself:

LET'S talk primarily about the movie. It seriously is the best rock and roll movie I've ever seen. I'd be interested to know, when you set up the tour, and that stage set, was it set up with the movie in mind or did the idea of the movie come after that? I think it all started when I looked at the pile of amplifiers I had when I was rehearsing. It was just such a gross pile of junk, I thought that onstage it would just look like we had this huge pile of stuff, so I thought maybe we could cover it with something... and then I thought: we could make a model of a little tiny Fender amp, but that's huge... and then, when I thought of that, I wanted to cover everything with all different kinds of amps. It just started and it didn't stop until it got to be what it is. There was no concept, it all just fell together. That's why it was so easy — and when something's really easy I think that's when it's the best, you know. It all fell together.

...BUT JUST THIS ONCE ROCK'S TIGHTEST LIP UNBUTTONED ITSELF TO LOS ANGELES RADIO PERSONALITY MARY TURNER IN AN EXTENSIVE INTERVIEW.

How about the roadies?
How about those guys? They've been with me for a long time — I've just never made them visible to anyone else. I saw them in Buffalo Springfield — they were there. They've been in my mind for a long time, but I've never shown them to the people.

I get the impression from watching you in the film and from the music of this album, it seems like you're having a lot better time than...
Than before?

Yeah.
Yeah, well that's true. I think I don't take it so seriously as before. When you look back at the old bands they're just not that funny; people want to be funny now, people want to have a good time. That's why the punk thing is so good and healthy, because the people aren't taking themselves seriously. They're saying you take yourself too seriously — the whole rock establishment — they're so carried away with themselves, and now they're there and everything, it doesn't really mean anything anymore. People make fun of the established rock scene, like Devo and the newer groups that are out now and several other groups like The Ramones and everything — they are much more vital to my ears than what's been happening in the last four or five years. I like Donna Summer though, I think she's pretty good.

Toot.
Beep beep. Hey mister! I like that kind of thing. But mostly the old rock and roll groups are just taking themselves too seriously, you know. It's like they know they're human and they're going to die pretty soon and they're all falling apart. It's not funny.

So people don't want to be bothered by that. They already saw those groups in their prime. That's why I think, do not take yourself too seriously and try to have a good time and not try to hold up what you've done as being right and try to stand behind it, I don't think that's the right thing to do. So this film is just... I guess it shows that I don't want to take it too seriously. Roadies and cones and all this.

At first people told me I was baffling my music by having all these props and everything around. Actually one reviewer did use the term belittle, because everything was so big, I don't know if he knew that was a play on words or not. I like it like this, to be able to do it and not be too serious about it, you know. This is better than the concert, especially for all my friends who could never handle a concert scene anyway, and I know that most of the people who listen to my music don't want to go to the forum. Some of them will — the forum's great, we had a good show and everything — but they don't want to go through all that. In a film you can see it up close if you want to see it; if you're into my music you'll enjoy it probably.

I don't know how it's going to make out with the regular movie-going audience who go to see James Caan and Lee Marvin and all those people, I really don't have any idea how it's going to make out in the big world, but it doesn't matter, it's finished now as far as I'm concerned. It's over except for the curtain.

That's a really interesting thing, you saying it doesn't matter. It really doesn't matter to you, does it?

How could it? It really doesn't affect anything, it's just the last thing I did. I don't know what I'm going to do next. I know I'm not just going to go out and make another album, because I'm supposed to, I have to wait until something happens to make me want to do it.

All the work you do you do for yourself?

I think so, yeah. I like it when people enjoy what I'm doing but if they don't I also like it. I sometimes really like aggravating people with what I do, I think it's good for them. It may sound pretentious to say something like that but I like to read somebody who saw 'Tonight's The Night' or heard 'Tonight's The Night' who's just so mad that I would put out a distorted record and have no respect for the craft I'm in. They don't know what they're talking about — as far as I'm concerned they don't, cos if I put out the same thing over and over again and made a perfect kind of record as I could make, like a 'Harvest' or 'There Comes A Time', well, two's enough. Maybe in five years I'll try another one like that, just to convince myself that I can do it.

Is that what you're saying, in fact, that yesterday's heroes are today's boring old farts? But you said it in your own way: it's better to burn out than to rust. I think so. I mean people want a star to be flashy and they want something that they don't have to relate to as being human. Things that are human, you have your moment then you go away, but stars are supposed to represent something else I guess; a super quality of, it's great — and once it isn't great people don't want to hear about it because that doesn't satisfy their illusion. They want something to be bigger than life or whatever, so I think that's where that came from: it's better to burn out than to fade away or rust. Cos it makes a bigger flash in the sky.

Where did the title 'Rust Never Sleeps' come from?

Actually I didn't think of the title myself. Some friends of mine from Akron Ohio used to be in an advertising company, and they had a client who was a rust inhibitor and they came up with this slogan RUST NEVER SLEEPS. They're musicians, and we were playing and I had this song and I sang 'rust never sleeps' during 'Out Of The Blue' or 'Hey Hey My My' or whatever you want to call it. We sang that and then I said, 'Don't worry about the lyrics: if you can't remember the words I wrote, just make up your own lyrics, it doesn't matter.' So the first thing he said instead of 'it's better to burn out than it is to rust', he said: 'It's better to burn out cos rust never sleeps.' And I caught my ear. I said, 'Wow. Right off they were better lyrics than I did; it makes more sense to me.'

I can relate to 'Rust Never Sleeps'. It relates to my career, you know: the longer I keep on going, the more I have to fight this corrosion. And now that's gotten to be like the World Series for me. The competition's there, whether I will corrode and eventually not be able to move anymore and just repeat myself until further notice or whether I will be able to expand and keep the corrosion down a little. So that's it.

Another lyric that they changed was, it goes, 'The king is gone but he's not forgotten' this is the story of Johnny Rotten" and then they changed it to 'The king is gone but he's not a dud' this is the story of Johnny Spud". That's “Stealing a pick-up truck with Jimi Hendrix was one of the highest points of my life.”

Devo.

So it was Devo and there was a Devo in the film. Yeah, there was a Devo-type character descending down on our stage from very high above, sort of like a sign of things to come. I suppose out with the old and in with the new.

You've been in a couple of other movies before and you seem to have a great interest in film. If you had to pick, career-wise, would you be able to choose film or music? I wouldn't be able to make the choice. I'd like to do more films and I probably will. I'm set up to do it: I have a studio for editing films and doing soundtracks. It's something I planned on for a long time, and I knew I was going to get into. But this is my second film — probably the first film most people would notice — and in the future I'd like to do more. I don't know what kind, or in what capacity or whatever. I really don't have any plans right now at all.

Have you thought about script-writing?

No, I could never write something down. I can never write more than half a page at a time. I guess I've read 50 to 100 scripts — but not really, cos I only read the first couple of pages and then I just put it down cos I just can't relate to it. Some people write great scripts and they sit on executive desks and they decide that it's fantastic and they spend millions of dollars on it, and I read the same script and say it's a piece of crap — and then you'll see the movie and it'll be great, but the script... I don't know, at school I tried to make it up and keep it spontaneous as you go along. You might want a list — you know, a one-page list might be good, with improvising characters. That's the way I would do it.

So many of your songs would be a perfect treatment right there. You tell stories in your songs.

Well, that's the movie right there. Everybody has their own little movie for the song, but you try to say what the picture is and you're on a very dangerous path. If you try to make a picture of what the song is you ruin it for everyone. It's like a woman taking off her clothes too soon or something. You just got to leave it up to the imagination.

JUST how lonely is it at the top, Neil? When I get there I'll drop you a line.

Who is that guy Bernard Sheskey?

Oh, just another guy. He's a film director, editor, does a great job with my stuff. I have total confidence in him.

You have a new technological innovation in your film called Rust Division — since this is radio and people can't see the rust falling off your guitar.

You can see the rust falling off the hamburger right now! It's a very high tech thing. Few people understand it actually, but you put on these glasses and at certain points, especially in the older songs, you can see it and you can tell where the band starts to falter. First of all it starts under your fingernails, you know, sort of like dirt, but with the glasses on if you're tuned in you can see it falling all over the floor of the stage, running down the chord of my guitar and everything. If the folks come and see the movie I'm sure they won't be disappointed. They'll see as much rust as they ever thought they'd see.

For a long time you were apart from Crazy Horse and now you're back together, playing better than ever. How did that reunion come about?

Well, we went through a lot of changes. One of the original members died, so that had a profound effect on our... you know, we just couldn't play anymore. So we had to wait and see what happened and eventually it came back together again.

Also I just went off a different way, so I didn't just repeat myself over and over again. I just stepped out in a different direction and took a different tack.

Crazy Horse is a very soulful feeling for me. They give me a support that no-one else can give me, they afford me the possibilities of doing more with my guitar and my voice and feeling than anybody else. So that's why we still play together.

Sure looks like you're having a good time together.

I know my musician friends, a lot of people, think we play simple, and the bass is so simple there is no finesse and everything. But we're not trying to impress anybody, we just want to play with the feeling. None of us can play that fast, we can play it very slow, very slow, we can play extremely slow, but not fast, we just can't do it. Maybe it's rust, I don't know.

'Like A Hurricane' gets cooking, it's pretty good.

Yeah, but if you listen to that I never play anything very fast. And all it is is four notes on the bass, just keeps going down. Billy plays a few extra notes now and then, and the drum beats the same all through. It's like a trance we get into. Sometimes it does sound as if we're really playing fast, but we're not. Everything starts swimming around in circles, and everything starts elevating and it transcends the point of playing fast or slow or anything like that — lucky for us, cos we can't play fast.

"OK gang, the gig's over, the first round is on Stephen Stills."

'American Star And Bars' is a story about that... oh, tell me how you came up with it, that title.

Well originally the concept was to have two sides on the album: one was American and one was stars and bars. One was going to be American history and the other was going to be American social comment, the bar culture kind of thing where I was at the time — you know, drunk on my ass in bars. So I couldn't remember the American history part so we left that out — so that's where that one came from.

You had a hand I think in not discovering but bringing to public attention a lady in the last couple of years named Nicolette Larson. Can you tell me how that happened?

Ah, Linda Ronstadt introduced me to her. I called Linda up one day as I was doing 'Stars And Bars' and I said, 'Do you know any girls who can sing really good? I want them to come down to my ranch and sing a couple of tunes, it won't take very long. So she said, 'Yeah, I know — there's Nicolette, and I'll come too. And I didn't expect her to come and I really felt great that she came. So they came up for a couple of days and we ran through the tunes and I was recording in the other room and once I got a good recording I just sent them back and that was it. They thought we were rehearsing and going in the studio but we were finished before that.

They thought you were just rehearsing and you were recording?

Yeah. They're nice girls. We were calling them The Saddle Bags during Crazy Horse And The Saddle Bags.

Nicolette had a good hit with one of your songs too, huh?

Yeah, sort of a disco version of 'Lotta Love' there. Beep beep toot toot, hey mister!

You're into disco. I can tell. (No kidding — Ed.) I'm into good disco. Donna Summer — that's good stuff. 'Hot stuff' — that's good music. Some of that other crap is just post-hippie elevator music though, I hate that stuff.

YOU have some great lines on the new album. One in particular is "I'd give a thousand pelts to sleep with Pocahontas".

If I was a trapper. Yeah, sounds like a good deal to me.

Do you think about being Canadian at all?

A world citizen I suppose is what I am. I went to ten different schools before I quit. I didn't grow up anywhere in particular. Not yet anyway. No I never did: I was in Winnipeg for a while and Toronto and all over Canada really. Different places. Even when we lived in the city we never lived on the same street for too long, y'know.

Well how'd you end up in L.A.?

Well I knew if I came down here I'd have a shot at getting something going musically. In Canada if I'd taken a shot at it I probably would have done real well but still nobody would have known — there are just not enough people up there. If you're going to take a shot at it you've got to take a shot from a place where you can see what you're shooting at. In Canada there's too many bushes in the way.

But you knew from an early age that music was what you wanted to make your life. Yeah, I'd say from age nine. I started writing songs when I was about 12.

So from that time round your dream was to head south.

Yeah. There's a song 'Don't Cry No Tears' I wrote before I was 15. Some different lyrics, but only a few.

Did you come to L.A. cold or did you know people here?

I didn't know anybody down here. I was lucky to run into Steve Stills, who I'd met in Canada. He was a touring folk musician. Touring is a little loose expression for what he was doing, but we met up in Canada and when I met him down here he was like the only guy I knew, so we started that group.

It must have really been fun in those days.

Something new was starting in L.A. It was good. Today's just as much fun though. It really is — maybe even more. It was good, but we didn't know what we were doing so we didn't know how much fun we were having until it was over. Everybody thought, 'Wow that must have been a lot of fun. We were just there.'

How many years was Buffalo Springfield? 18 months.

Wow, I thought it was longer than that. The time between my last record and this one was the total amount of time Buffalo Springfield had.

That's amazing to me.

Yeah, it blows my mind every once in a while when I think about it too.

So what was the very next step after that?

Well, I sorta dropped out of the group. I couldn't handle it, I don't know why, but something inside of me felt like I wasn't quite on track. I think it was when we booked The Johnny Carson Show. Right around the time of Monterey Pop Festival. I don't know, I had a really negative attitude about all of those things, about the pop festivals and Woodstock. I thought it was going to be a joke and I went there but I wasn't really into it. It was so big and everything — I didn't know what we were doing, and I saw all these people... It wasn't like it seems now. It was great for the people and for a lot of the musicians I guess, but for me I didn't even know what I was doing there. I still don't know. I know that I couldn't hardly hear myself when we were playing and I didn't know if the people could hear us. I saw the movie and I wasn't in it, so maybe I wasn't too good there. I don't know. Seeing Jimi Hendrix in a pickup truck in an airport about ten miles from the site when he came in and we came in on these chartered planes and we were riding in this stolen pickup truck with Hendrix and all these people — I remember that more than the show.

I think stealing a pickup truck with Hendrix is one of the high points in my life.

Is he one of your particular heroes?

Absolutely the best electric guitar player that ever lived.

In the movie you have a Jimi Hendrix button on your guitar strap.

Yeah, right. Somebody gave it to me just before I went out there and I said alright. It was in black and white, it wasn't a colour button.

Is it still on your guitar strap?

Yeah, it is. It's starting to corrode very badly now though — I think I might take it off. You gotta preserve Jimi and don't let him rust any more now.

So then after Buffalo Springfield you took a hiatus?

What's a hiatus? That reminds me of a place where the Kennedys go for a summer vacation. Hiatus alright. What's a hiatus, a vacation?

Yes, some time off to get... for yourself. What did you do?

After Springfield? Started working on my own record, right away. Couldn't get off Atlantic fast enough. I mean only because I wanted to be separated from the Springfield. I didn't want to be a member of the Springfield, competing with other members of the Springfield on the same label.

Was there any kind of bitterness between you guys?

Oh yeah, sure, but it wore off. You know, I mean we were young. We were all emotionally involved to the point where, you know, we were still growing up. We didn't know what was happening to us.

So then you started your own project and got involved in someone else's too at the same time. That must have been incredibly gruelling. What?

The Crosby Stills and Nash...

Oh, well that was nice cos when Stephen came up to the house and asked me if I'd play with them and everything, I knew they must have needed me for something. I guess it was a live part where they didn't have enough electric guitars or something and rock and roll to maintain over the folk harmony thing. When I first joined the group they didn't want to use my name, they just wanted it to be Crosby Stills and Nash. I thought, well what's in it for me? I could still play guitar, but eventually they saw the point, that it should be 'And Young' on the end.

In that group I was always like an add-on. Even when we played live I didn't come out at first, I came out later on. Which in some ways was good for me, it separated me. I really didn't want to be just grouped in with a bunch of other people, even if I thought they were great. I wanted to be by myself cos I thought it was easier to get around, you know.

Do you suppose in your wildest imagination there will ever be a concert with Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young, maybe, perhaps? ... Maybe in my wildest imagination there might be. It's possible. Who cares?

At sixty miles an hour the loudest noise in this Rolls Royce was the rattle of Southern Comfort.

1920 brought a particularly sad time for nearly everyone who was old enough to drink alcohol.

Prohibition.

And sadly enough it came at a time when Southern Comfort was becoming more popular than ever.

Maybe this is why many people easy drinking clubs, others could drink in style.

In the Rolls, you could sit back in comfort and safety and appreciate the genius of a certain New Orleans man who, some fifty years earlier, had invented Southern Comfort.

He created a unique drink the recipe of which eventually ran to over 100 pages.

It was smoothness itself.

It had a rich amber glow, and a flavour of quite indescribable subtlety.

Yet, even when blended with ice and soda it had a warmth that could take the chill out of the seemingly never-ending years of Prohibition.

And whenever you wanted to check your supply, you didn't have to open the secret cocktail cabinet.

If there wasn't rattling under the floorboards, you were out of Southern Comfort.

1220 North Rice Road, St. Louis, Missouri.

1920 ROLLS ROYCE PHANTOM I. BODYWORK IN THE STYLE "WARREN" BY THE BREMPSTER BODY COMPANY OF NEW YORK went to such extraordinary lengths to obtain and conceal just a few bottles of this precious amber liquid.

It was during this period that a special Rolls Royce was ordered and built to some unusual specifications.

It was to carry one chauffeur, up to eight passengers and several bottles of illicit liquor under the floor in a concealed cocktail cabinet.

And while most people were chancing a few drinks in secret 'speak-

You want a great party?

A thought for food.

Don't slave away in the kitchen while your guests enjoy themselves! Have bowls of nuts, crisps and savouries around for the early arrivers and nibblers. Make the main food something that can be arranged in the kitchen and covered until it's needed.

A variety of cheeses cut into help-yourself cubes, arranged in dishes with sprigs of watercress, looks attractive and can be made well in advance. Pâté spread on biscuits and decorated with tomato and cucumber slices goes down well. Sausages hot from the oven are delicious, and French bread tastes extra good put in the oven for ten minutes to warm through.

For food that's simple and easy to eat, paper plates are perfect. But to get the most enjoyment from Babycham, and your other party drinks, ask at your local off-licence if you can hire glasses. It's not expensive, and it makes all the difference... Because Baby, you're a Babycham girl and that means you've got style.

A flash on fashion.

This is your party and you're going to look great. Organise yourself so you have enough time to get ready. Have your clothes and make-up sorted out well in advance so everything is ready.

Babycham girls never panic! Sparkling make-up goes with your style and it's right in fashion. Look for glittering eye shadows and translucent powder with shimmering highlights. Then wear something as sparkling as you. Wear jet black teamed with bright colours: pink, turquoise or purple. You've got the style that brings it all together - and when you've got it together sip a cool, sparkling glass of Babycham and you're ready for the action to begin!

Babycham girls are right in step.

Learn a simple routine like the one shown here and you'll look as good as any disco dancer. Now practise dancing and holding a glass of Babycham! Sounds tricky? Give it a try. It'll not only give you more poise as you move, but a glass of Babycham is your ideal partner, as sparkling and as full of life as you!

What's the drink that's got your style?

Baby you've got it! Buy Babycham and Babycham Dry, cool them in the fridge, and your party's already off to a great start. You want all the style and confidence you can get? Baby you've got it in the Babycham Party Planner. This twelve page booklet's got it all - from invitations to great party recipes. And it's FREE with four foil tops from Babycham or Babycham Dry. If you're 18 years of age or over, just send your name and address and foil tops to:

Babycham Party Planner, Showerings Limited, Kilver Street, Shepton Mallet, Somerset.

Please allow up to 28 days from posting your application for delivery.

Babycham Peachtree: Half fill a large glass with ice. Then pour in equal quantities of peach juice (bought from any big supermarket) and Babycham or Babycham Dry.

Babycham Pimms: Blend a bottle of Babycham and a measure of Pimms. Top up with lemonade.

Babycham Black Mist: Pour Babycham into a glass and top up with half a pint of Guinness.

Babycham Florida: A bottle of Babycham topped up with a bottle of Britvic orange juice.

These are all long cool drinks that take almost no time to make.

Well, you don't want your favourite man tied to the bar all night, do you?

BABYCHAM

ALBUMS

There's money to be made here...

Branson

Pic: Joe Stevens

Vicious

Over my dead body!

SID VICIOUS Sings (Virgin)

IF rock 'n' roll had any backbone it would close Virgin Records down. It would turn on the dumb, useless, blind twisters who scrape together muck like this album, proudly sporting its swastika logo: it would choke them on their own prissy art campaigns, rub their faces in the consequences of their stupid doodling.

The bright young things at Virgin have seen fit once more to break down our repression and 'amusing' hysteria about swastikas, or some such dozy drivel. I wonder where these geezers live? I wonder how often they stroll down Club Row in East London on Sundays and see the growing cliques of Nazis clustering around the German memorabilia stalls? I don't mean NF or British Movement — though those organisations are their only voice just now — I mean real SWASTIKA-wearing Nazis with more violence in their eyes than Virgin Records could ever set themselves up to 'liberate' us with or from.

Whatever candyfloss notions may absorb the minds of the people behind Virgin's Sid campaign, let me put it in capitals: what actually is outside the fabulous world of Kings Road thinking. THE SWASTIKA MEANS DEATH. THE SWASTIKA IS A SYMBOL OF GRIEF, HORROR AND UNBEARABLE SUFFERING FOR MILLIONS. THE SWASTIKA IS A SIGN OF SUCH LIVING DANGER THAT NO STUPID LITTLE ADMEN SHOULD EVER DARE TO SEE FIT TO RE-INTERPRET IT VIA SOMETHING AS TRIVIAL AND

IDIOTIC AS ROCK 'N' ROLL

So now they'll whine about "hysterical radical chic journalists" and giggle throughout reviews like this, perhaps even putting it on their wall or even turning it into an ad.

Oh yeah, and the swastika is a sign of peace that just got mis-used, you'll tell me. That holds true if you're a history don or else living in the middle ages — but we all know what a swastika is and what it fuels... even artists and admen. Especially to the purchasers of something like this barely intelligible heap of pub rock from Vicious.

Sorry boys, the old hip school sneer only works amongst your own little coffee set and in the minds of under-educated headcases out to prove they ain't losers. But then again, John Tyndall, Martin Webster and apparently Richard Branson don't care what type of person joins their club so long as the fee is paid. Swastikas in exchange for waterbeds and country homes. One day you're gonna eat your bull-chic.

Repressed? Not me son, I'm wide awake and on the street. And there's a growing thug undercurrent out here that's frightening.

You're just a little part of it, Danny Baker

Virgin on the pathetic

MOTORHEAD On Parole (UA)

MOTORHEAD's Lemmy wants it both ways. On the one hand, he says this album (recorded but not released four years ago) "doesn't sound very good at all". On the other, he's angry because UA didn't put it out at the time. But if it "doesn't sound very good at all", maybe UA were right?

In fact, they were wrong. It's a good deal better than you'd expect, even if it lacks the manic bluster of their last two Bronze albums. One reason for this, no doubt, is that it was recorded before punk rock (you remember punk rock?) made a more energetic approach obligatory.

Another reason is Larry Wallis's guitar-playing: more intelligent, more decorative, more sophisticated than laterday Motorhead, and totally wrong for their low-brow belligerence.

Wallis's songs are equally bright. "Vibrator" has some nice jokey (and audible) lyrics that suggest Larry's Feelgoods song "As Long As The Price Is Right" was no fluke.

On balance though, if you like Motorhead for their sleazy grandeur, then this album is not for you. Only three songs — "Motorhead", "On Parole" and "Leaving Here" — come close to their present high level of regression. This album is insufficiently dumb, noisy, and reckless, but good in parts for the wrong reasons.

Bob Edmunds

VARIOUS

Tooth and Nail (Upsetter)

GERMS

Germs (Slash Records)

TOOTH and Nail contains tracks by six Los Angeles punk bands — The Controllers, Flesh Eaters (whose singer / songwriter Chris Desjardins also produced this album), U.X.A., Negative Trend, Middle Class and Germs — but if it weren't for the variable pitches of vocal abrasion you could be forgiven for believing it was just one band, running as fast as they can before somebody shoots them.

The instrumentation sounds like somebody hoovering in the background, while the vocalists scream and shout to be heard over the din, although what they are saying, on the whole, is indecipherable (you do get the words on the inner sleeve — it's just that they forgot to give them to the vocalist).

Kid Spike, a.k.a. Chris D of Flesh Eaters, omits crude, animalistic garglings from the back of his throat which, when I think about it, may bear reference to the band's name and the first track "The Word Goes Fresh". Real decadent, huh?

Oh, and while we're on the subject of vocals you may remember (if you read the piece I wrote a while back after a visit to L.A.) my references to various L.A.-style Siouxsie, Polystyrene, Elvis Costello et al impersonators. Well here's another one, De Detroit of U.X.A., viz a viz Pauline Penetration. U.X.A., by the way, stands for "United EXperiments of America" the title of their second track contribution and theme tune. Nest, huh?

The Germs provide the last three tracks, all of which can be found on their independent Germs' album, produced by Joan Jett no less (yeah, honest). Someone's still hoovering in the background — must have used the same recording studios I guess.

The music hurtles through 10 tracks on one side, six on the other, with the velocity of a bullet which never connects and eventually, thankfully, falls to the ground, spent and harmless.

I'll go along with the L.A. Weekly's review of "Tooth and Nail" and broaden it to encompass Germs. I think they dub the former "adequate", which according to the Oxford English, means: "Sufficient; such as meets need".

Deanna Pearson

GODLEY & CREME

Freeze Frame (Polydor)

OLD enough, bored enough, cynical and uninspired enough to let their obsessive hailstorm of academic imagery completely cloud the remaining rags of their vision, Godley & Creme at last make a music to match.

It sounds something like this: endless stacks of freezer-fare noises, dehydrated, crunchy, flat and soulless; vocals force-fed through pitch modulators, strangled like rusting I-Speak-Your-Weight machines, or fuzz-boxed to extinction; over-treated hunks of 'Original Soundtrack'-type operetta, musicals, rambling acoustic guitar and anaemic rock'n'roll. It's an odious racket, an expensive waste of time.

GC 'lateral think' so much their brains seem to slide away like a couple of crabs, snapping ineffectually at the vast, part-amusing, part-frightening world that surrounds them. An Englishman In New York' is a stupefying spaghetti of literary cross-reference to splice up an archetypal 'junk food' so horrible, and the sidewalkers are crawling with alligators' type Anglophile viewpoint. 'I Pity Inanimate Objects' comes over like Magritte reading Supernature, and the title track finds them bubble-bathing in a mass of their self-important, inane phobias.

GC have nothing new to say, and say it with too much style. They have nothing new to play, and play it to death.

Mark Ellen

WRECKLESS ERIC The Whole Wide World (Stiff Import)

THIS one's a totally tasteful compilation from the life's works of Wreckless Eric Goulden. He's the chaotic but talented trooper who's survived two Stiff tours only to wave off his partners in crime to the sunnier climes of (varying) chart success. It's issued by Stiff (N.Y.) as his American debut, and it's available in the UK on import at £4.78. A bargain.

So far, those Americans who encountered the Wreck's plaintive tones have done so via his two UK releases, 'Wreckless Eric' and 'The Wonderful World Of The Same Person'. Wisely shelving both the non-origins and the more commercially left-field of his own numbers, Stiff have shuffled together the four best off the former, six best off the latter, one single — "Hit & Miss Judy", and a couple of B-sides, to make a neatly-tailored, instantly explosive package. If you're a believer that two slightly sketchy albums can one mean mother make, then here's the living proof. £4.78 buys you the Wreck in his Sunday best: gritty, goofy, large as life and twice as legless.

As regards the States, whether they'll take kindly to a touted missing link between John Otway and Ray Davies who's turned the fag-end of a pub-rock 'n' roll '80s beat-boogie hangover into something of an art-form, your guess is as good as mine. Whatever, Stiff couldn't have dreamed up a worthier calling card for love nor money.

As they say, Stateside: take it easy, but take it.

Mark Ellen

Are you ready for the definitive Wreck?

Wreckless poses for the world's tallest photographer, David Corio.

CHARLES MINGUS Tijuana Moods (RCA) Live (Affinity)

MINGUS, doing in Mexico, the passing away of a jazz genius, was one of the year's great sorrows. These two reissues, located at opposite ends of the spectrum of his various talents as composer, performer and arranger, indicate the extent of our loss.

'Tijuana Moods' is a classic of Mingus composition — his Mexican equivalent of Miles' 'Sketches Of Spain'. He leads a strong nine-piece band through beautifully modulated trips and textures an earthy, flamboyant 'Ysabel's Table Dance'; the weaving reflections of 'Tijuana Gift Shop'; the tender, almost regretful, crying of 'Flamingo', which also has marvelously poignant trumpet from Clarence Shaw.

'Live', by contrast, is raw and wild, with the horns chasing each other in skittering, quivering delight while Mingus and drummer Dannie Richmond slap down a pulsating rhythm. A finely paced 'Pork Forms No. 2' closes, but not before a superb Dolphy solo and dense, swinging interplay from all the group.

Mingus once said that the only thing we owe each other is the truth of our journey. These two albums are an integral part of his.

Graham Lock

WOOLWORTH TAKE OFF INTO THE 80's.

Commodores 'Midnight Magic' 80p OFF Man. Rec. Price £4.89
Woolworth Price

Gary Numan 'The Pleasure Principle' £5.00
Woolworth Price

Rod Stewart 'Greatest Hits' £4.99
Woolworth Price

The Police 'Regatta de Blanc' £3.99
£1 OFF Man. Rec. Price Woolworth Price

Assorted Artists 'Rock 'n' Roller Disco' £4.99
Woolworth Price

The Police 'Outlandos d'amour' £3.99
£1 OFF Man. Rec. Price Woolworth Price

ELO 'Discovery' £4.49
£1 OFF Man. Rec. Price Woolworth Price

Assorted Artists 'Night Moves' £5.25
Woolworth Price

Mantovani 'The Mantovani Golden Collection' £4.99
Woolworth Price

ELO 'Greatest Hits' £4.09
£1.20 OFF Man. Rec. Price Woolworth Price

Stevie Wonder (Double LP) 'The Secret Life of Plants' £6.50
£2 OFF Man. Rec. Price Woolworth Price

Adrian Brett 'Echoes of Gold' £4.99
Woolworth Price

TAKE OFF INTO THE 80's

Just look for these super albums in the Woolworth Record Department! And, if you spend £3 or more you can enter the great 'Picture a Superstar' Competition (closes Jan. 31st 1980). First prize is a superstar holiday for two in the USA! Don't hang about—beat a path to your Woolworth Record Department. Now! Fly PAN AM

These albums are also available on cassette.

THROBBING GRISTLE
20 Jazz Funk Greats
(Industrial)
ADAM AND THE ANTS
Dirk Wears White Socks
(Do It)

Adam And The Ants and Throbbing Gristle are shadowy extremes, lurking in dark corners, lethargically scratching through their overscrubbed private parts, grinning sweetly at anyone who glances their way. Come here little girl! It's a dreary indulgence.

The Ants are at the extreme of the Banshees-Joy Division line, Gristle of the Cabaret Voltaire-Normal, but neither really 'belong' or burst with the same naivety and spontaneity, the compelling intimacy. Adam and the Gristle academics are very sharp, but far too tame. They lack the intuition and idiosyncrasy that makes for great art, resounding rock 'n' roll. They are playful analysts, but there is no passion in their work, no depth; actually, no shock, no risk and nothing really but a dubious battle with their own cunning.

TG have compiled a follow-up to their previous, equally glossy Christmas present, 'D.O.A. ...'. This new bag of scraps has lyrics neatly printed on the back sleeve, surrounding a photograph of a reclining Range Rover. Words to 'Still Walking', 'Convincing People', 'Hot On The Heels Of Love', 'Persuasion', 'What A Day' and 'Six Six Sixties' are inscrutable and spare, lists rather than images, intoned with preoccupied mock-litany — on the brink of coy. Words that indifferently trace neutral desires.

The atmosphere of 'Jazz Funk Greats' is deliberately listless and loveless. Their pieces are winsome and sombre, electronic models lacking the humour and arrogance of Fripp-Eno's similar sounding treatments, the morose hilarity of The Human League, or even the persuasive pop detail of Gary Numan (in some ways Gristle's 'Greats' is the supercilious opposite to Numan's seductive blend of bewildered values and frozen noise).

It's an unstimulating, inconclusive sound, full of grubby textures and scattered effects, and will satisfy only the most self-conscious. Maybe that is some sort of success. But there is nothing to suggest that TG are cryptic critics or symbolic satirists, nothing that confirms their mystique. You can read much into the minimalist lines and landscapes to observe that TG have their eyes directed straight at this or that or a hell, but mostly I think they're just licking the toly of conscious triviality, nonchalantly laying traps for the gullible.

One day TG will deliver the punch line and we'll all have a good giggle. Until then ...

Adam of the Ants is a creature of style. This impertinent outsider takes his sneer/philosophy a lot more seriously than the Throb four. His mock-heroic escape into an improbable and meticulously immoral Ant-mythology is to some extent justified. Previous critics' casual dismissal of Adam, based on his superficial sensationalism of the Ants' choked erotica and falsely assumed fascists fascination, ignored the

New-look Adam vies for vacant vocalist spot in Pop Group. Pic: Philip Gray.

Like owner, like dog. Hound craps on zebra. Genesis P's on jazz-funk lovers. Pic: Sheila Rock.

Berks that lurk in the corners of your psyche versatility of Adam's art.

His work merits dismissal because it fails to live up to his ambition, but his cleverness, his expert usage of words, his ability to hold distorted mirrors up to nagging conventions, deserves more serious attention than has so far gone his way. Abrupt dismissal adds weighty credence to his own considered defence of his work, which is gradually bringing him misguided respect and a growing following. The implication of this following (somewhere near Cross territory) is potentially more damaging than his sly, slick inventiveness could ever be.

Adam imagines himself to be a flawless marriage of Lenny Bruce, Lou Reed and Jean Genet; ridiculing and hopefully ridding through exaggeration and absurd examination all manner of dark secrets and burdensome taboos. How he does this will undoubtedly offend Daily Express readers, ELO listeners and those who find baggy leather trousers and eye make-up on males strange.

On the other hand, faced with Adam's diligently organised decadence, the rest of us can feel little threat in Adam's vividly structured attacks on and denials of conventional codes and rituals. Adam may toss off expertly, may have useful targets, but his work has the deadened air of contrivance rather than the sensual and scouring (re)defining and defiling of his mentors. He uses old techniques without any new urgency.

Monroe, Cleopatra, God, John F Kennedy, Buddy Holly, the Pope, all float helplessly at the foreground of his fantasies; spunk, brains on Jackie Onassis' knee, piss are greedily mixed away in the background. Love is placed inside inverted commas, a 'digital tenderness'. Religion is one hell of a let down, people are not to be trusted. Unless, of course, they share his posturing. Somewhere, sometime, Adam sees a saviour; it's probably himself, but that's nothing to be condemned.

But Adam is limited by his own self-indulgence, and his songs, though certainly ingenious, are ultimately pale and heartless. His Kennedy flashback 'Catholic Day' is more kitsch than horror. His vision of God as a big boy with a big cock and streaks in his hair is mildly amusing but reveals more Adam's insecurity and careful unpleasantness than any infallibility in religion or disturbing immorality. Though a potent actor, Adam is just ineffective as critic, philosopher, satirist or pioneer; no amount of exhibitionism or imagination can make up for that.

And the music? Imagine the Banshees without the exquisite insistence and hostility, or Joy Division if they'd plummeted downwards after 'Ideal For Living' instead of shooting skywards.

Adam is ambitiously curious, but that's not enough. You can admire the skill of it all, but he creates no tension, no disorder; he does not innovate, so he continually fails to incite or inspire.

No amount of enigmatic isolation, dour defensiveness or articulate explanation can cover up the fact that these records just aren't very good. In this case 'good' is easily defined: the distinction between tedium and passion.

Of course, Gristle and Adam are as much comic as anything else, but their work, with its oblique wise-cracking, semi-surreal absurdity and tactical masquerading, takes pains to point out that life is tragic, trivial, tentative and doesn't succeed. It consistently avoids the complexity and fumbling of life; it's always over-confident, and it seems cowardly. It can be easily flicked away, like a scab, or swept away like the dust it is — not because of any 'horror' or nastiness, but because it is patronising, deceitful, and simply too conservative for a place in rock or art or my heart.

Paul Morley

THE GLADIATORS Sweet So Till (Virgin Front Line)

'SWEET SO TILL' is the fourth release in recent years from Albert Griffiths, Clinton Fearon and Gallimore Sutherland, known collectively as The Gladiators. In virtually all respects this latest offering matches its predecessors, although it doesn't quite attain the immediacy of 'Trenchtown Mix-Up'.

This time round, the production is in their own hands. Furthermore, the new LP features the contributions of what looks like the cream of the Carib studio session fraternity. The credits read like a Hall of Fame, and an arbitrary selection throws up such notables as Pablo Black (courtesy The Rascals) on keyboards, Earl Bagga on bass, Leroy Horsemouth Wallace on drums, Bongo Herman on you-guessed-it, and the most understatedly superlative lead guitarist this side of the Bermuda Triangle, Ernest Ranglin, a jazz supremo in his own right.

Needless to say, the scope of the arrangements dazzles, relying not so much on extravagant dub mutation (there is virtually none), but maximising the potential of a more conventional(!) reggae instrumentation. Depth, subtlety, variety: these are a few of the words that gush to mind, though the instrumental melange is as idiosyncratic as ever.

Even so, the backing musicians complement, rather than compete with the vocals, which are, as ever, melodies and inflections that defy the Law of Gravity. The songs, judging by their titles ('Let Jah Be Praised', 'Backyard Meditation', 'Red Green And Gold' etc.) appear to be esoteric parables of the Rastafarian outlook, while the title track sees the Glads wooing the sweet nymph Mary Jane with the most epicurean figures of speech.

To conclude, 'Sweet So Till' is excellence squared, then cubed. Cognoscenti of the Gladiatorial output to date should find it a welcome addition to their collection, while those unweaned on reggae 'armonies will now have four of the very best to choose from.

Rick Joseph

Ben Sherman

SHIRTS IN THE SHOPS NOW!

original mod

51 Maddox st, London, W.1. 499 8544

Gladys Knight and the Pips

GLADYS KNIGHT AND THE PIPS

20 Golden Greats (Motown)

JACKSON 5

20 Golden Greats (Motown)

THE past is a foreign country: you can get there on a cheap package holiday courtesy of EMI, a label whose past is somewhat more glittering than their present. Curiously, this has always been the case.

AAAAAanyway — EMI have chosen to lead off their Gladys Knight repackage job with a version of Pissed Offerson's 'Help Me Through The Night' that is positively noxious in its sentimentality.

Gladys Knight is one of the many thousand black Americans who sing astonishingly well. Motown wheeled her from style to style at the drop of a fad, which resulted in records as ghastly as the aforementioned 'Help Me Make It Through The Night' and the 'Hey these hippies are a whole new market Luigi' wince-in of 'Freedom Train.' But when it was good... oh, mama! There was 'I Heard It Through The Grapevine', 'The Nitty Gritty', 'It Should Have Been Me', 'Take Me In Your Arms An' Love Me' and the uproarious 'Daddy Could Swear, I Declare' and all the others, plus the odd slice of garb here and there. A not inglorious career by any means.

The Knight compendium is accompanied by a similar marketing exercise involving the Jackson 5, whose best records I 'Want You Back', 'The Love You Save', 'Never Can Say Goodbye', 'ABC', 'Ain't No Sunshine' and 'Forever Came Today' sound even better than they used to and whose worst ('Ben', 'Rockin' Robin', 'Get It Together') sound even worse. Michael Jackson has the makings of a soul singer supreme, but since the field of music in which he currently operates is not in the habit of making emotional demands on vocalists, much of his potential still remains resolutely unexplored.

Plus they wore dreadful trousers in those days.

Charles Shear Murray

ELVIS PRESLEY
Elvis, Scotty & Bill — The First Year

(Very Wonderful Golden Editions/Virgin)

THOUGH basically a spoken-word album, 'The First Year' also contains five illuminating live tracks recorded one Thursday night in March '55 at The Eagle's Hall, Houston, Texas and faithfully captures the genesis of Presley's early career.

Still a Sun recording artist, he was just a couple of weeks away from releasing his fourth single, 'Baby, Let's Play House', which is included here with both sides of his debut single, 'That's All Right (Mama)'/'Blue Moon Of Kentucky', his follow-up, 'Good Rockin' Tonight', plus a cover of a then current R&B hit, 'I Got A Woman', a song Ray Charles had released just two months earlier.

Since he began recording for Sun in July '54, the impetuous Elvis had strewn a whole plethora of half-realised vocal styles over a number of diverse recordings. 'Baby, Let's Play House', was the first occasion he reassembled all those components into one torrent of sensuality. The importance of this song is that it stands undisputed, the embodiment of the rock 'n' roll genre. Elvis rampages through a catalogue of every familiar mannerism he pioneered: from the delirious over-exaggeration of both vocal and rhythmic nuances and the stuttered

Scotty, Elvis & Bill's famous impersonation of Crosby, Stills & Nash

"bub-bub-bub-bub, baby, baby, baby" mumbblings right through to the sheer, good-humoured arrogance with which he gleefully celebrated hedonism.

That all this was achieved with just two guitars and a slap-bass has prompted purists to argue that, with his subsequent move to RCA and the addition of drums, Elvis lost forever the basic elements that made him, at this time, the greatest of all popular music's natural talents.

Though Elvis, Scotty Moore and Bill Black may, as these five tracks affirm, have mastered the particular rhythmic style they had conceived under Sam Phillips' guidance, the joy of these recordings is that they're still unaware of the full potency of their direction which, within a year of this gig, would revolutionise popular music.

Roy Carr

VARIOUS ARTISTS

Blue Monday (Stax Blues Masters Vol. 2) (Stax)

Stax records is — justifiably — legendary for its driving brass-driven soul sound: Sam & Dave, Otis Redding and Booker T were the mainmen, though Wilson Pickett's most famous records utilised that Memphis sound and countless others were influenced by it. In later years, Isaac Hayes chewed the sound into mush — an excellent songwriter, producer and session pianist was lost to the world when Hayes became Black Moses and drowned soul in the Red Sea — but until EMI issued the first volume of the Stax Blues Masters series I 'Walking The Back Streets And Crying', released last year, the only members of Stax's blues contingent to be widely known were Little Milton (a late defector from Chess Records, where he cut his best-known sides) and, most prominent of all, the majestic Albert King.

Inside the stylish sleeve of 'Blue Monday' — the design will awaken instant pangs of nostalgia in anyone who collected blues albums in the early '60s — is a hodge-podge of recordings by four bluesmen: the much-feted King and Milton and the somewhat more obscure Freddie Robinson and Little Sonny. Robinson is a definite find: his sharply-written and lazily-sung 'Drive-In' was a highlight of the previous collection and his 'The Creeper' is a wonderfully self-deprecating piece of mock-braggadocio.

Little Sonny is one of many second-string bluesmen whose performances are impressive but unmemorable. He does Little Walter's 'Blues With A Feeling' with commendable verve, but fails to bring anything to Eddie 'Guitar Slim' Jones' sorely overexposed 'Things I Used To Do' that is either new or stimulating. His best shot comes with 'They Want Money' with its sardonic lyrics and a use of the venerable 'Hoochie Coochie' riff that perfectly combines menace with bump 'n' grind.

The Albert King tracks are rather too obviously outtakes. Stax has issued at least one full album by King since he left the company as well as the material on the previous compilation, and here he is done something of a disservice with tracks that show the master well below his usual form. To add insult to injury, the sleeve note proudly promises us 'Albert King's fascinating re-working of his own standard 'Born Under A Bad Sign' when all we're getting is a cursory remix of the original 1966 version. A slight improvement in the quality of the stereo separation and drum sound does not constitute a "fascinating re-working". Any King fans who purchased the album specifically to hear the kind of '70s double-take performed by King on recent albums on his other '60s classics like 'Crosscut Saw' or 'Oh Pretty Woman' would have a valid cause for complaint.

Which leaves Little Milton to score with the title track, plus 'Married Woman' and the scarily 'Eight Men, Four Women' (please note, prudent ones, the song is about a jury, not a Wild Party). If the quality of the Milton contributions to the Stax Blues Masters albums is anything to go by, EMI should be encouraged to chance their arm on an entire album of late '70s Milton material.

'Blue Monday' is certainly no album for curious neophytes seeking a blues initiation, but devotees of Stax's sweet-and-sour soul-blues experiments are in for a minor treat. Still, the question remains: where in the name of Hubert Sumlin is 'Albert King's fascinating reworking of his own standard 'Born Under A Bad Sign'?"

Charles Shear Murray

THE VISUALS
THE SOUND!

DAVE GOODMAN

CASH PUSSIES
DEFRACTS LIGHT
GLORS IN THE DARK
TRIPLES MAN
UNRELEASED TRACKS
TRANSLUCENT
PERFECT SOUND QUALITY

WORLD FIRST
The compilation of the Century!

THAT DOESN'T GO
E HISSSS PHWOP
TIME YOU PLAY
COST AN ARM &
LEG.

THE LABEL SOFA
TLR LP 002S £5.99
TLR LP 002 £4.49

MARKETED BY THE LABEL

YOU'VE HEARD THE VISUALS
NOW — SEE THE SOUND!

DAVE GOODMAN

CASH PUSSIES
DEFRACTS LIGHT
GLORS IN THE DARK
TRIPLES MAN
UNRELEASED TRACKS
TRANSLUCENT
PERFECT SOUND QUALITY

WORLD FIRST
The compilation of the Century!

A PICTURE DISC THAT DOESN'T GO
CRACKLE CRACKLE HISSSS PHWOP
AFTER THE THIRD TIME YOU PLAY
IT, AND DOESN'T COST AN ARM &
A LEG.

THE LABEL SOFA
HAN-O-DISC TLR LP 002S £5.99
BLACK VINYL TLR LP 002 £4.49

MARKETED BY THE LABEL

YOU'VE HEARD THE VISUALS
NOW — SEE THE SOUND!

DAVE GOODMAN

CASH PUSSIES
DEFRACTS LIGHT
GLORS IN THE DARK
TRIPLES MAN
UNRELEASED TRACKS
TRANSLUCENT
PERFECT SOUND QUALITY

WORLD FIRST
The compilation of the Century!

A PICTURE DISC THAT DOESN'T GO
CRACKLE CRACKLE HISSSS PHWOP
AFTER THE THIRD TIME YOU PLAY
IT, AND DOESN'T COST AN ARM &
A LEG.

THE LABEL SOFA
HAN-O-DISC TLR LP 002S £5.99
BLACK VINYL TLR LP 002 £4.49

MARKETED BY THE LABEL

RECENT SONGS FROM LEONARD COHEN

£1.50

OFF LIST PRICE
LIMITED OFFER

'Recent Songs', the latest album from Leonard Cohen

IT'S AT

Virgin
RECORDS
& TAPES

THE VIRGIN MEGASTORE, 14 OXFORD ST. W1
(Nr Tottenham Court Road)

London 9 Marble Arch W1 Tel: 01-262 6985	Brighton 3 Queens Road Tel: 0273-28167	Edinburgh 18a Frederick Street Tel: 031-226 4042	Newcastle 10-12 High Friars Tel: 0632-65095	Sheffield 127 The Moor Tel: 0742-20929
Oxford Walk Tel: 01-580 7066	Bristol 12 Merchant Street Tel: 0272-290499	Leeds 145 The Briggate Tel: 0532-449793	Tottenham 21 Clumber Street Tel: 0602 40096	Southampton 16 Bargate Street Tel: 0703-29861
150-154 Oxford Street W1 Tel: 00-621 6177	Cardiff 67 Duke Street Tel: 0222 390 418	Liverpool 189 Market Way Tel: 051-208 0366	Plymouth 105 Arcadia Way Tel: 0752-60435	Swansea 34 Union Street Tel: 0792-51499
Gate W11 Tel: 00-621 6177	Coventry 11 City Arcade Tel: 0203-27579	Manchester Arndale Centre Market Street Tel: 061-834 2204
Brent Cross NW4 Tel: 01-202 7318	Croydon 12a Suffolk House George Street Tel: 01-686 3566
Birmingham 74 Bull Street Tel: 021-236 9432

NEW VIRGIN STORE AT:
62-64 KENSINGTON HIGH ST.

AC/DC

burning a Highway to Hell.

'Highway to Hell' is their latest album

The AC/DC December Tour

17th HAMMERSMITH
18th SOUTHAMPTON

Odeon — Sold Out
Gaumont — Sold Out

20th BIRMINGHAM
21st BIRMINGHAM

Odeon — Sold Out
Odeon — Sold Out

19th BRIGHTON Centre
(Box Office Brighton 202881)

Produced by Robert John Lange

THE HEADBOYS The Headboys (RSD)

IF you liked The Headboys' recent chart single 'The Shape of Things to Come' even just a little bit you'll probably like the album a lot more, because its sound, while retaining the same basic keyboard emphasis, offers so many variations of style that your attention is caught throughout.

It ranges from straight rock played with a Who-like grandeur, commitment and overall sound, with almost anthemic numbers such as 'Shape', 'Changing With The Times', and 'Stepping Stones', to keyboard-heavy songs touching on Genesis pitch and concentration, as well as a number with a classical touch and fiddle ending ('Silver Lining') and a saxophone addition in 'Take It All Down'.

It's as if these boys couldn't quite decide in which direction to head, so they included all collective considerations and produced an album covering a wide cross-section of ideas, full of imagination.

Different facets are discovered at each play; it's a young album, bursting with enthusiasm. And evidently equal time has been spent cleaning and polishing every track, instead of, as is often the case, concentrating on the stronger numbers and merely filling in with the weaker ones.

Their subject matter has a go at everything too: love songs — corny lyrics but sensitive playing; serious songs, comedy songs of 21-year-old schoolgirls and biology lessons, and a 'me and the boys' number.

The only 'experiment' which doesn't work is their attempt at today's all-too-common tomorrow's sound, the futuristic regulated bleep of 'Experiments', with its monotonous vocals and transcendental playing. 'Why don't we try experiments?' they ask. Because they're boringly predictable and predictably boring, they almost answer themselves.

Incidentally, for it is, the cover put me off this album in the beginning: a picture of Headboys Lou Lewis (guitar and vocals), George Boyer (bass and vocals), Davy Ross (drums and vocals), and Calum Malcolm (keyboards and vocals) stretched out in face formation — eyes, nose and mouth — dressed in red and blue jumpsuits and looking like carshowroom dummies. But that's just another guise, another way of looking at things, they'd probably tell you. Take a look.

Deanna Pearson

SNAKEFINGER

Chewing Hides The Sound (Ralph/Virgin)

I LIKE The Residents in small sachets, as I like puns with punchlines or drum machines for supper. Let's eat real soon!

The Residents, le Premier Groupe de Vulgarisation Scientifique, they're almost as quantifiable an organizational proposition as Chic. Tres.

Snakefinger? I don't get the 'pun' exactly. In the past, he has contributed smeared peanut butter cosmic guitar to Resident picnics. An English hippy like Chris Cutler to whom those Residents also allowed access once. Droll them bones, man.

'Chewing Hides The Sound'? To do with bos constrictors on a peanut butter diet maybe. Or another bit of Residenty detour farce? I think I'm going off them. I can't stomach 'Chewing Hides The Sound' at all. Snakefinger has bitten off more than he can sing, eschew, pontificate or abstract. Of course The Residents help him; they're his friends.

'Chewing Hides The Sound' is 12 bits of sillybugger ambiguity, without the harmful charm of The Dead Batflies and with Snakefinger's appalling voice. Very fang in cheek, very tedious. Who is the Walrus?

It's long (two sides); goes nowhere slowly; isn't funny; does nothing new; you can't dance to it, snoot to it, booz to it, or write reviews to it; which one of those was mine?

Sounds often not unlike Richard Harris on 'MacArthur Park'. The twelve tracks are: 'Who Is The Culprit And Who Is The Victim' 12. There is a version of Kraftwerk's 'The Model' which is less deconstructed than sung Happy Birthday to. Which comes as a great disappointment, considering how good The Residents are at singing it.

It's an 'in' joke that's worn out.

(How many puns can you get out of 'Alice' starting from: a lass I love?)

Ian Penman

VARIOUS

499 2139 (Rocket)

SAD to say, there is nothing new, nothing inspiring, nothing remotely innovative — not even reasonable playing or production on this album. A dismal failure from the results of a country-wide search by the Rocket Record Company to find the bands and the sounds of today through two advertisements in the music press: 'Ring 499 2139' (how did you guess?) 'If you think you've got that sound of today' — to boldly go where no record company has gone before, and search out undiscovered talent, fresh-faced and clean, untainted by the grime and smog of London Town.

And what did they come back with? Nothing.

Absolutely zilch. It's a sad state of affairs if this is all the new young bands of today — and supposedly tomorrow — have got to offer.

Most are directly imitative of past persons — Costello, Debbie Harry, Ian Page. The Jags — none are as good, or even come close. They all have that tinny in-mode (mod) guitar playing, flimsy backline and sparse overall sound. Rocket must have really dug deep to come up with such crude, primitive performers.

Most, I suspect, are supposed to be in the current mod vein, a low, slow-moving easy vehicle to jump on. All they do is weigh it down a little more, forcing it a little further into the mire.

Some tracks encompass a return to psychedelia, with Reafar's 'Green Grass Green', a Strangled bass line rocky number, with the Wolfboys' 'Feelin' Hard', and the fairy stories of Sinister's 'Alice In Wonderland'. The Vye's 'King's New Clothes' and The Brick Wall Band's 'Distant Drums'. How did they grab you?

If this is Rocket's idea of the new sounds, promising commercial bands with the hit songs of tomorrow, I don't need a crystal ball to predict their future. But if this really is a true cross-section of up-and-coming bands in our midst at the moment — well, I'm speechless. I won't need a crystal ball to predict my future.

Deanna Pearson

IMPORTS

The Autodiffers And The Relaxed Mechanics Meet The Fabulous Nudes And The Pelaco Brothers (Missing Link) is evidence that the current Melbourne rock scene was built on a solid rockability foundation. The Pelacos, represented on the album by such titles as 'Rockabilly Heaven' and 'Truckdrivin' Queen', were the original mainmen, vocalist Steve Cummings and guitarist Ed Bates splitting to form The Sports, while saxophonist Joe Camilleri moved on to head Jo Jo Zep And The Falcons, both bands that have made some impact in recent months.

As for the rest — vocalist Peter Lillie became part of both Relaxed Mechanics and The Autodiffers, and the rhythm section opted to join The Fabulous Nudes before rejoining Lillie in The Autodiffers. Having done the whole Pete Frame bit, it's a bit of a come-down to report that nothing happens on the disc that you'd be ashamed to miss. Everybody bope happily in Foster-flavoured fun fashion and The Autodiffers donate 'Santa's Joined A Disco Band', a real howl of a seasonal item — 'Santa's joined a disco band, half like Roxy Music, half like Jimmy Shand', etc. — but really the better Missing Link sampler is 'Inner Sanctum', which includes an early Sports track in 'Twist Senorita', plus 'Summer '78' by Dave Warner's From The Suburbs, another seminal Oz-rock outfit.

Further items by The Pelacos and The Relaxed Mechanics are aboard, plus 'Hit Single' by the excellent but short-lived Bleeding Hearts (a song penned by Sports stalwart Martin Arminger incidentally), though the cut that's reduced me to tears all week has been 'They're Closing Down The Import Shops', an anthem dreamt up by The Record Bandits when Auslander faced a similar situation to that now beginning to hit British record retailers. 'It's sad to say, but it seems to me, that down here in the land of the free, we can't even buy an import LP... whatever happened to democracy?' they warble, affecting me like a late-night run-through of Camille

In the meantime, while imports are still with us, London buyers can grab Missing Link items from HMV's Oxford Street store, while those who wish to contact the label direct, are advised to drop a line c/o P.O. Box 5153AA, GPO Melbourne, Australia.

Keeping things pure Oz this week, comes a mention of 'The Marcus Hook Roll Band', which Stage One are currently shipping in. Originally released in Australia in 1974, this Vanda and Young goody has just re-emerged on U.S. Capitol, complete with a set of superbly enthusiastic liner notes by Ken Barnes. Packed with great power-pop cuts and, like Messers V and Y's recent 'Flash And The Pan' jaunt, comprised pretty much from singles fare, 'The Marcus Hook Roll Band' is a headbanging delight. And, once more, the mystery of why Vanda and Young have never really made it looms as large as that of the Bermuda Triangle. My guess is that neither will ever be fully explained.

Fred Dollar

What makes Blondie sound so good?

A lot of talent, which is faithfully captured in the studio on Ampex tape. Blondie and most of today's top artistes record on mastering tape made by Ampex. Ampex now has a great range of blank cassettes for every recording need. Whatever tape you're using it's time to move up to the tape of the stars — Ampex.

Grand Master. One of the finest cassettes on the market today. You'll never hear what you're missing until you try Grand Master. In normal and high bias.

Plus Series. A pure ferric high saturation oxide that will outperform many cassettes costing a great deal more.

20/20+ High Bias. Designed to bring out the very best in popular Japanese Hi-Fi systems. Also available in normal bias.

Super Cassette and Free Blondie Poster Offer. You can try a Grand Master Cassette for only £1.50 and receive FREE a fabulous Blondie poster. Send a cheque or P.O. for £1.50+25p p&p, indicating Normal or High bias, to:—P.M.D. Ltd (Poster Offer), 91 St. Mary's Road, Stratford-on-Avon, Warwickshire.

AMPEX

...probably better than the cassette you're using

THE GREEDIES.

Scott Gorham
(Thin Lizzy)

Paul Cook
(Sex Pistols)

Steve Jones
(Sex Pistols)

Phil Lynott
(Thin Lizzy)

Brian Downey
(Thin Lizzy)

"A MERRY JINGLE"

Special bag (at least 50,000)

It's wot I call taste mate!

Deadline is next Wednesday: post now FINAL CALL FOR CHRISTMAS GIGS

AS USUAL, a special double issue of NME will be published in the week before Christmas — and there'll be no issue at all during Christmas week itself. This means that the Gig Guide printed in the NME dated December 22 will list two weeks of dates. What's more, in view of the holiday rush, we need them extra early to ensure their inclusion. So if you have any gigs you wish to be included in the NME Christmas issue, please remember that the period involved is.

DECEMBER to JANUARY 2

To avoid a last-minute panic, please let's have your gigs as quickly as possible. But in any case, bear in mind that the very latest we can accept them is first post next Wednesday, December 12. So come on, get cracking — and pop 'em in the post right away to Gig Guide, New Musical Express, 5-7 Carnaby Street, London W1V 1PG. And remember that the absolute

DEADLINE IS DECEMBER 12

Because of holiday printing arrangements, we shall also need to receive gigs for the first week of the New Year prior to Christmas. We'll spell this out loud and clear next week, but here's just an initial reminder that dates for the Gig Guide covering the week January 3-9 must arrive by not later than Wednesday, December 19.

Thursday

Aberdeen Ruffles: The Dickies
Accrington Conservative Club: Don Walker Spring Quartet
Birkenhead: Hamilton Club: The Accelerators/The Spivs
Birmingham Mercat Cross: The Clinic
Birmingham Railway Hotel: Orphan
Birmingham Underworld: The Original Mirrors
Birmingham University: Refridgerators
Blackpool (Marton) Welcome Inn: Wayne Fontana & The Mindbenders
Blackpool Norbreck Castle: The Stiletos
Blackpool Tiffany's: John Otway
Borehamwood Civic Hall: Richard O'Quinn
Bradford Palm Cove Club: The Salford Jets
Brampton Weavers Club: Modern English
Brighton Concordia Club: Second Nature
Brighton Dome: The Spinners
Bristol Crookers: The Interceptors
Burnhamwood Troubadour: The Amazing Dark Horse
Bury St. Edmunds RAF Honington: High Flames/The Valvevolts
Buxton Gashgill Club: Dave Berry & The Cruisers
Camberley Civic Hall: Vin Garbutt/Annie Chester
Cardiff Great Western Hotel: Screen Games
Chatham White Lion: Prodigal Son
Colchester Essex University: Secret Affair/Squire
Derby Kings Hall: The Damned/The Mirrors
Dundee Caird Hall: Lindisferne/Chas & Dave
Edinburgh University: Another Pretty Face
Farnham Collingwood Club: Black Gorilla
Glasgow County Down: The Vipers
Hastings RNAS Cuddehoe: J.A.L.N. Band
Hull University: Art Failure
Hull Wellington Club: The Revillos
Keefe University: Blank Space/Beast
Leeds Fan Club: The Photos
Leeds Royal Park Hotel: Agency Column
Liverpool B.I.C.C. Club: Any Trouble/The Cheaters
Liverpool Empire Theatre: Queen
Liverpool Moonstone: Asylum
London Camden Dingwells: Prince Hammer
London Camden Music Machine: The Cure/The Passions/The Associates
London Canning Town Bridge House: Little Roasters
London Clapham 101 Club: Holly & The Italians
London College of Printing: Eddie & The Hot Rods
London Covent Garden Rock Garden: Back To Zero/Dougie Wilson
London Ealing College of Higher Education: Airmail
London East Ham Ruskin Arms: Urchin
London Enfield Middlesex Polytechnic: Little Bo Bitch
London Fulham Golden Lion: Kicks
London Fulham Greyhound: The EF Band
London Hammersmith Odeon: Leonard Cohen
London Hounslow Red Lion: The Virgin Generation
London Islington Hope & Anchor: Electrotunes
London Kennington The Cricketers: Lacey's Allstars
London Kensington De Villiers Bar: Gold Dust Twins
London Kensington The Nashville: Pinpoint/The News
London Leicester Square Notre Dame Hall: The Small Hours
London Marquee Club: Wize
London Middlesex Polytechnic: Spizz Energy
London New Barnet Duke of Lancaster: Sons Of Cain
London Old Kent Rd. Thomas A'Becken: The Flatbackers
London Oxford St. 100 Club: Revelation
London Putney Hall Moon: Bob Kerr's Whoopie Band
London Shepherds Bush Trelfagar: Speedball
London Soho Pizza Express: Barney Kessel Trio
London Southall Hamboro: Tavern: The Attendants/Mru
London Southgate Royalty Ballroom
Marvin Rainwater
London Stoke Newington Pegasus: The O.K. Band
London Victoria The Venue: Carolyn Mas

London Waterloo Royal Victoria: Freddy's Feetwarmers
London West Hampstead Moonlight Club: London Zoo
London Woodstock Tramshed: Joe Brown & The Bruvvers
London W1 Maunberry's: Plan B
London W.C.1 New Merlin's Cave: Big Chief
Manchester Apollo Theatre: Cliff Richard
Manchester Band on the Wall: Elton Dean's Soft Heap
Manchester Osborne Club: Killermeters / Seventeen
Manchester Polytechnic: John Cooper-Clarke/Chris Sievey & The Freshies / The Out Manchester West Indian Centre: Katarah/The Hukinuation Co.
Mansfield Oval Inn: Strange Days
Middlesbrough Town Hall: Mike Harding
Newcastle City Hall: The Jam/The Vapors
Norwich Cromwells: Jigsaw
Nottingham Hearty Good Fellow: The Drug Squad
Nottingham Imperial Hotel: Goffa
Nottingham Notts: The Act
Plymouth HMS Drake: Guy's 'n' Dolls
Poole Chequers: Eye Sight
Ponemouth Locomo: The Talking Heads
Port Talbot Troubadour: Wilko Johnson
Port Talbot Sandman: Slaughter & The Dogs
Poynton Folk Centre: Bracken/Dave Hughes
Preston Guildhall: Hawkwind/Doll By Doll
Reading Target Club: Bantu
Sheffield Limit Club: Simple Minds
Sheffield University: Dave Cousins
Shrewsbury Music Hall: Ginger Baker's Energy
Southampton (Eastleigh) Crown Inn: The Southsiders/Goinski Brothers
Southend Scamps: The Leapers
South Shield Horsley Hill Community Centre: Fauves
Southport Scarisbrick Hotel: Zanathus
Swansea University: Samson
Trentbridge School: Chris Barber Band
Wellingborough British Rail Club: Flying Saucers

Friday

Barnsley The Londoners: The Tansbeats
Birmingham Aston University: Renaldas
Birmingham Barriol Organ: Bright Eyes
Birmingham Elizabethan Days: The Traitors
Birmingham Golden Eagle: The Mods
Birmingham Polytechnic: John Cooper-Clarke / Chris Sievey & The Freshies / The Out
Bishops Stortford Tread Leisure Centre: The Gnomers
Bournemouth Town Hall: Black Slate
Bradford Alhambra Theatre: Mike Harding
Brentwood Hermit Club: Dogwatch / Les Elite
Brighton Lawes Rd. Inn: Flying Saucers
Brighton Sherry's: Black Gorilla
Bristol Colston Hall: The Spinners
Bristol University: Samson
Canterbury Odeon: Secret Affair / Squire
Chiddingfold Six Bells: The Littletons
Chislehurst Caves: Scissor Fits
Coventry Ryton Bridge: Streetlites
Coventry Theatre: The Damned / The Mirrors
Creswell Miners Club: Strange Days
Derford (Horns Cross) The Bull: Prodigal Son
Dawlish Langstone Cliff Hotel: Chris Barber Band
Edinburgh Napier College: Another Pretty Face
Glasgow Art School: The Monties
Glasgow Technical College (afternoon): The Kettles Gloucesters Rother Arms: Everest
Hard Way
Gloucester Alternative Venue: Slaughter & The Dogs
Goolia Station Hotel: Proposition 31
Halifax Good Mood Club: Deadliner
Harrow College of Further Education: Little Bo Bitch
Hull University: The Mo-Dettes / The Killermeters
Keele University: The Stiletos
Knarborough Folk Club: Johnny Coppen
Lampeter St. David's University: Warhead
Leeds Fan Club: The EF Band
Leeds University Union: Agency Column / Stiletos
Leeds Wiggie Wine Bar: Spyder Blues Band
Leicester Polytechnic: Climas Blues Band

NATIONWIDE GIG GUIDE

Police men's ball: tour opens

THE POLICE, fresh from their triumphs in the States, will be entertaining the populace — and helping you capture that festive spirit — by way of a major pre-Christmas tour. The band's opening shows are at Leeds (Monday), Deeside near Chester (Tuesday) and Glasgow (Wednesday). They've got a lot to celebrate, so they should be in fine form. One thing's for sure — their gigs won't lack sting.

Leicester Phoenix Theatre: Sedstone / Houn
Liverpool Empire Theatre: Queen
Liverpool Eric's: The Mo-Dettes / Wah Heat
London Acton King's Head: Paz
London Camden Brecknock: Urchin
London Camden Dingwells: Terminus
Snack Blues Band / Fallout
London Camden Electric Ballroom: The Talking Heads / Orchestral Manoeuvres In The Dark
London Camden Southampton Arms: Jellyroll Blues Band
London Canning Town Bridge House: The Roll-Ups
London City Polytechnic: Wize
London Clapham 101 Club: Bauhaus / The Luge
London Covent Garden Rock Garden: The Bogey Boys / Second Nature
London E.C.1 Palace Hotel: The Act
London E.C.1 Northampton Hall of Residence: George Malley & The Feetwarmers
London Fulham Golden Lion: Limited Company
London Hampstead Westfield College: Pasadena Rock Orchestra
London Harrow Rd. Windsor Castle: Tania Shoes / The Holidays
London Holborn Princess Louise: The Scoop
London Islington Hope & Anchor: The Eye
London Kennington The Cricketers: Manyase
London Kensington Queen Elizabeth College: Neil Innes
London Kennington The Nashville: Roy Sundholm / Jack Pack
London Marquee Club: The Marton Peaches
London Mile End Queen Mary College: Eddie & The Hot Rods
London New Cross The Royal Albert Rubber Johnny
London North-East Polytechnic: Iron Maiden
London Putney Half Moon: Steve Ashley & Guests
London Putney Star & Garter: Greig & Nigel's Folk and Blues Night
London Putney White Lion: Red Beans & Rice
London Soho Pizza Express: Barney Kessel Trio
London Strand King's College: Alex Welsh Band
London Trent Park Middlesex Polytechnic: Sons Of Cain
London University College Union: The Eye
London Upstairs at Ronnie Scott's: Toucha
London Victoria The Venue: Roger Chapman & The Shortlist / Trimmer & Jenkins
London West Ham North-East Polytechnic: Your de Force
London W.9 The Chippendale: Sanity Clause
London W.C.1 New Merlin's Cave: Edmund Selwyn's Jazz Fabrique
Manchester Apollo Theatre: Cliff Richard
Manchester The Furhouse: Blank Space / Beast
Milton Mowbray Painted Lady: Tommy Hunt
Middlesbrough Rock Garden: Money
New Brighton Empress Club: Witchfynde
Newcastle City Hall: The Jam / The Vapors
Newcastle Polytechnic: Hi-Tension
Norwich East Anglia University: Dr. Footgood / Philip Rainbow

Nottingham Lincoln College: The Small Hours
Odhams Albatross Club: Wayne Fontana & The Mindbenders
Oldham The Lancashire Insider
Oxford Oranges & Lemons: Disco Students
Oxford Polytechnic: J.A.L.N. Band / Gina 'n' The Rocking' Rebels
Paisfield Royal Oak: Sly Scandal
Penzance Gulval Meadhouse: The Mechanics
Preston Guildhall: Showaddywaddy
Ramsgate Van Gogh: Mick Muff & The Divers
Reading Target Club: The Moonwalkers
Redhill The Centre: Matchbox
Retford Porterhouse: The Scene / Direct Hits
Rugby Emmeline's: Gonzalez
Seahouses Viking Ballroom: Souled Out
Sheffield Crazy Daisy Club: Beggar
Southampton University: Wilko Johnson / Lip Moves
Southend Top Alex: Bastille
Stafford North Staffs. Polytechnic: Simple Minds
Stoke Crewe & Alsager College: The Revillos
Sunderland Boilemakers Club: Tygers Of Pan Tang
Uxbridge Brunel University: Hawkwind / Doll By Doll
Weymouth College: Adam West & His Gotham City Rockers
Winchester School of Art: Brimstone
Worcester College: The Stereotypes

Saturday

Birmingham Bogarts: Wicked Sister
Birmingham Mercat Cross: Strider
Birmingham Odeon: Leonard Cohen
Birmingham Railway Hotel: School Sports
Birmingham University: Dangerous Girls/The Quads
Bishops Stortford Tread Leisure Centre: Snigger
Bournemouth Village Bow: The Tramps
Bournemouth Winter Gardens: The Spinners
Bradford Alhambra Theatre: Mike Harding
Brighton Alhambra: Wrist Action/Polsa
Brighton Polytechnic: Little Bo Bitch
Brighton Sherry's: Black Gorilla
Brighton Sussex University: Roaring Jelly
Bristol Granary: Iron Maiden
Bristol Turntable Club: Keny
Cardiff Grassroots: Warhead
Cardiff St. Helier Arms: Gina 'n' The Rockin' Rebels
Castelford Labour And Trades Club: Agency Column
Chatham Tam O'Shanter: Prodigal Son
Chesterfield Brimington Tavern: Witchfynde
Christchurch Jumpers Tavern: Eye Sight
Coventry Dog And Trumpet Orphan
Crewe (Madeley) North Staffs Polytechnic: J.A.L.N. Band
Cromer West Runton Pavilion: The Purple Hearts
Cuckfield Kings Head: The Exclusives
Derby Assembly Rooms: Showaddywaddy
Dunstable Civic Hall: Renaissance
Edinburgh George Square Theatre: Another Pretty Face
Folkestone Leas Cliff Hall: Samson
Glasgow Apollo Centre: The Jam/The Vapors

Glasgow Strathclyde University: John Otway/The V.I.P.'s
Gosport John Peel: Key Rustie
Hastings Pier Pavilion: Al Hudson
Hickin College: The Mekons
Hornchurch The Bull: The Next Band
Huddersfield Polytechnic: Wize
Hungerford Pluma Hotel: Scissor Fits
Kingston Polytechnic: Eddie And The Hot Rods
Lancaster University: The Dickies
Leeds Haddon Hall: The Vye
Leeds University: Lindisferne/Chas And Dave
Leicester Polytechnic: Hi-Tension
Leigh Library, Derby Room: Elton Dean's Soft Heap
Lincoln Wragley Rd. Club: Strange Days
Little Sutton Bulls Head: Seventeen
Liverpool Eric's: Joy Division/Section 25
London Camden Dingwells: Jackie Lyn-ton's H-D Band
London Camden Electric Ballroom: The Talking Heads/Orchestral Manoeuvres In The Dark
London Camden Music Machine: The Stiletos
London Chelsea College: Ginger Baker's Energy
London Clapham 101 Club: The Small Hours
London Covent Garden Rock Garden: The Donkeys/The Trend
London Fulham Golden Lion: Red Beans And Rice
London Hammersmith Lyric Theatre (lunchtime, free): Bob Kerr's Jazz Friends
London Isle Of Dogs Waterman's Arms: Shodor
London Islington Hope And Anchor: Limousine
London Marquee Club: The Merton Parkies
London New Barnet Duke of Lancaster: Spring Offensive
London N.4 The Stapleton: Sons Of Cain
London N.19 Caxton House: The Billy
London Peckham Newlands Tavern: Billy Karloff Band
London Putney Hall Moon: Noel Murphy/Cannock
London Rainbow Theatre: Secret Affair/Squire/Dolly Mixture
London Regents Park Cecil Sharp House: Alistair Anderson
London Roehampton doubling Froebel Institute and Digby Stuart College: The Act
London School of Economics: The Pwinhas
London Soho Pizza Express: Meek White Quartet
London Stoke Newington Pegasus Big Chief
London Twickenham Winning Post: The Virgin Generation
London University Union: Demolition Decorators
London Upstairs at Ronnie Scott's: Toucha
London Victoria The Venue: No Dice/The Valentines
London West Hampstead Moonlight Club: Tour de Force/The Flatbackers
London Woodchurch Thames Polytechnic: Peter And The Test Tube Babies
Long Crendon Church House: Bob Adams/Hemelock
Maldon Jubilee Hall: Matchbox
Manchester Apollo Theatre: Cliff Richard
Manchester Midland Hotel: Flying Saucers
Manchester Polytechnic: The Photos

CONTINUES OVER...

Second bit of the GIG GUIDE

Manchester Russell Club: Revelation
 Manchester The Funhouse: Slaughter
 And The Dogs
 Melton Mowbray Painted Lady: Tommy Hunt
 Middlesbrough Rock Garden: The Scene/Direct Hits
 Newcastle Caballero Club: Fauves
 Nottingham Boat Club: White Spirit
 Nottingham Outlaw Bar: The Mortals
 Nottingham Sandpiper: Simple Minds
 Nottingham University: Dr Feelgood/
 Philp Rambow
 Oldham Tower Club: Del Leppard
 Oxford College of Further Education: Urchin
 Oxford Pembroke College: Random Hold
 Penryn School: Chris Barber Band
 Peterborough Technical College: The Rac-ants/The Crowd/Harlequin
 Preston Guildhall: Fivepenny Piece
 Reading Bulmershe College: Black Slate
 Reading Technical College: Between Pictures/Romantic
 Sheffield Crazy Daisy Club: Beggar
 Southampton University: Blank
 Space/Beast
 Southend Spanish Armada: Yakety Yak
 St Albans City Hall: Hawkwind/Doll By Doll
 St Austell New Cornish Rivers: Climax
 Blues Band
 St Austell Polgott Inn: The Fans
 Sturteley The Studios: Gordon Gifford
 Stockport Travellers Club: Zanathus
 Stockton The Teesider: Carl Green And
 The Scene
 Stroud Subscription Rooms: Capital Letters/Exhibition
 Tonypandy Naval Club: The EF Band
 Walsall Pals Community Centre: Noel
 Murphy/Steve Wronski/Chris Rust
 Whitehill Royal Oak Club: Chintown Wishaw Crown Hotel (lunchtime): The Paste
 Woking Centre Halls: Scotch
 Wolverhampton: Poltechnics: John
 Cooper/Chris Sievey And The Freshies/The Out
 Wombwell Reform Club: The Diks
 York College of Ripon and St John: Lew Lewis Reformer

Sunday

Bakewell Monsal Head: Wutchyone
 Birmingham Railway Hotel: Prims Donne
 Birmingham Shirley Red Lion: The Crack
 Birmingham (Yardley) The Swan: Video
 Bishops Stortford Tread Leisure Centre:
 Exit
 Blackburn King George's Hall: The Dickies
 Bournehead Pines Hotel: Scissor Fits
 Bournehead Village Bar: Rhino
 Bristol Colston Hall: Showaddywaddy
 Bristol Hippodrome: Queen
 Bristol Loder's: Secret Affair/Squire
 Bristol St Mathias College: The X-
 Cents/The Review
 Bromley The Northover (lunchtime): Bill
 Scott & Ian Ellis
 Cardiff New Theatre: The Spinners
 Cardiff Sophia Gardens: Hawkwind/Doll
 By Doll
 Chelmsford City F.C.: Rockhouse
 Croydon Greyhound: Matchbox
 Derby Assembly Rooms: Fivepenny Piece
 Derby Playhouse Theatre: Gordon Gifford
 Doncaster Granby Club: Zorro
 Dundee Caird Hall: The Jam/The Vapors
 Dundee Royal Centre Hotel: Elton Dean's
 Soft Heap
 Godalming Scratchers: Key Russia
 Grayswood Prince of Wales Memorial Son
 Halifax City Theatre: Mike Harding
 Huddersfield The Coach House: Dolly
 Mixture
 Hull Humberside Theatre: Deadringer
 Iford Tiffany's: Al Hudson
 Leeds Fan Club: The Purple Hearts
 Leeds Royal Park Hotel: Windows
 Leeds Warehouse (lunchtime): Best Friends
 Leicester Bailey's: The Trampers
 London Battersea Nags Head: Jugular
 Vain
 London Camden Dingwalls: Lew Lewis
 Reformer
 London Canning Town Bridge House: The Misdeameans
 London Charing Cross Duke of Buckingham: The Invisibles (for four days)
 London Clapham 101 Club: Warm Jets
 London Covent Garden Rock Garden:
 White Rabbit
 London Finchley Torrington: The Blues
 Band
 London Fulham Golden Lion: Super-charge London Hammersmith Lyric Theatre (lunchtime, free): Hammerfolk
 London Islington Hope & Anchor: Killing
 Joke
 London Kensington The Cricketers: The
 D.K. Band
 London Leicester Square Empire Balloom: Joe Jackson
 London Marquee Club: Iron Maiden
 London Peckham Montpelier (lunchtime):
 Blue Moon
 London Soho Piza Express: Lennie Felix
 London Strand Lyceum Ballroom: The Selector/The Beat/UB 40
 London Woolwich Treadless: Acker Bilk
 Band
 Manchester Apollo Theatre: Leonard
 Cohen
 Manchester Royal Exchange Theatre:
 Midnights Fallies/Orchestra/Sweet Substitute
 Newbridge Memorial Hall: The EF Band
 Newbury Old Waggon & Horses: Andy
 Caven
 Newquay Central Hotel: The Winners
 Nottingham Boulevard Hotel: Rearing
 Joke
 Nottingham Hearty Good Fellow: The Mortals
 Oxford New Theatre: Lindisfarne/Chas &
 Dave
 Paisley Bungalow Bar: The Montels
 Peole Arts Centre: Renaissance
 Poynton Folk Centre: Branda Wootton/
 Crannog
 Redcar Coatham Bowl: Dr. Feelgood/
 Philp Rambow

Pictured immediately above are MADNESS, whose December tour will be talking them to a dozen madhouses around the country, starting in Brighton on Wednesday. ... Top left is our old friend Barrie Masters, who's back in action again with EDDIE & THE HOT RODS when they open a short pre-Christmas mini-tour at two London venues (Thursday and Friday) Kingston (Saturday) and Norwich (Wednesday). ... And top right brings Annie Haslam of RENAISSANCE into focus, coinciding with their UK tour which this week takes in Birmingham (Friday), Dunstable (Saturday), Poole (Sunday), Exeter (Monday) and Swansea (Wednesday).

Rochdale R.A.O.B. Club: Beans & The Toasties
 Swindon Wyvern Theatre: The Wurzels
 Walsall Dirty Duck (lunchtime): The Amazing Dark Horse
 Winchester Art College: Black
 Space/Beast
 Wollaston Nags Head: The Russians
 Wolverhampton Civic Hall: The Damned/The Misfits
 Worthing Norfolk Hotel: Second Nature

Monday

Birkenhead Hamilton Club: The Purple Hearts
 Birmingham Barrel Organ: Freebird
 Birmingham Bournebrook Hotel:
 Matchbox
 Birmingham Golden Eagle: Nutz
 Blackburn King George's Hall: The Mar-vellettes
 Blackpool Jenkinson's: The Passage
 Blackburn Romeo & Juliet's: The
 Trampers
 Boston Folk Club: Jack Hudson
 Bournehead Village Bowl: Secret Affair/
 Squire
 Bournehead Winter Gardens: Showaddywaddy
 Brighton The Centre: Queen
 Brighton Sussex University: Blank Space/
 Beast
 Edinburgh Odette: The Jam / The Vapors
 Edinburgh Tiffany's: John Cooper-
 Clarke/Chris Sievey & The Freshies/The
 Out
 Exeter Routes: Iron Maiden
 Exeter University: Renaissance / Writz
 Frome Merlin Theatre: Chris Barber Band
 Glasgow Apollo Centre: Leonard Cohen
 Glasgow Dourne Castle: Positive Noise
 Iford Cauliflower Hotel: Original East Side Stompers
 Lancaster University: Dr Feelgood / Philp
 Rambow
 Leeds Leeds Green Hotel: Flying Saucers
 Leeds (Gorforth) Mercury Motor Inn
 Wayne Fontana & The Mindbenders
 Leeds Mexboro Arms: Best Friends
 Leeds Queen's Hall: The Police
 Leeds Royal Park Hotel: Years
 Leicester De Montfort Hall: Lindisfarne/
 Chas & Dave
 London Bermondsey Apples & Pears:
 Stan's Blues Band
 London Camden Music Machine: Del
 Leppard
 London Clapham 101 Club: The Chevrans
 / The Deaf Aids
 London Covent Garden Rock Garden:
 APB's
 London E 8 Rio Cinema: The Carpettes
 / The Statisticians
 London Fulham Golden Lion: Bob Ken's
 Whoopie Band
 London Fulham Greyhound: The Jump
 London Islington Hope & Anchor: Rubber
 Johnny

London Knightsbridge Piza On The Park:
 Ian Henry Duo
 London Marquee Club: Wilko Johnson
 London N.4 The Stapleton: The O.K. Band
 London Putney Blue Moon: All-Star Gala Night
 London Putney Star & Garter: Penny
 Royal
 London Royal Festival Hall: The Spinners
 London Shepherds Bush The Trafalgar:
 The Act
 London Victoria The Venue: The Shirts
 London Wembley Arena: Wings
 London W.1 Maunkberry's: Spiral
 Manchester Apollo Theatre: The Damned
 / The Misfits
 Manchester Band on the Wall: The
 Chesters
 Morecambe Palace Theatre: Jasper
 Carrott
 Norwich St Andrew's Hall: Spiz Energi /
 Essential Logic / Modern English
 Nottingham Hearty Good Fellow: The Party
 Nottingham Imperial Hotel: Gwaihir
 Reading Cherry's Wine Bar: Chintown
 Redcar Old Kent Road Club: Carl Green &
 Lyle
 Southampton Zero 6: Musicians Workshop
 Southport Floral Hall: The Dickies
 Stoke Kings Hall: Al Hudson
 Swansea Brangwyn Hall: Hawkwind /
 Doll By Doll
 Uckfield The Centre: The Stilletoes
 Winsey Duckington Bell Inn: Herlock
 York Theatre Royal: Mike Harding

Tuesday

Aberdeen Ruffles: John Cooper-
 Clarke/Chris Sievey & The Freshies/The
 Out
 Birmingham Fighting Cocks: Brujo
 Birmingham Mercat Cross: Killer
 Birmingham Railway Hotel: Speed Limit
 Bishops Stortford Tread Leisure Centre:
 Years
 Blackpool Dixieland Showbar: The Mods
 Greenwood Hermit Club: Dave Cousins &
 Brian Willoughby/Hot Stuff
 Brighton The Centre: Queen
 Brighton Dome: Showaddywaddy
 Cardiff Sophia Gardens: Motorhead
 Bristol Colston Hall: Hawkwind /
 The Misfits
 Chalfont St Giles Bucks College: Elec-tronutes
 Deeside Leisure Centre: The Police
 Derby Assembly Rooms: Lindisfar-
 ne/Chas & Dave
 Derby Romeo & Juliet: The Trampers
 Dublin Stadium: Dire Straits
 Edinburgh Odette: Leonard Cohen
 Glasgow Community Centre: Eton
 Dean's Soft Heap
 Leeds Queen's Exhibition Hall: The
 Jam/The Vapors
 Leicester De Montfort Hall: Pasadena
 Roof Orchestra
 Liverpool The Masonic: Asylum
 London Barking North-East Polytechnic
 J.A.L.N. Band/The Stilletoes

London Camden Brecknock: Sad Among Strangers
 London Camden Dingwalls: Blast Fur-nace's Revenge
 London Camden Music Machine: Landscape
 London Canning Town Bridge House: U2
 London Clapham 101 Club: Car Crash/
 Fur & The Adverbs
 London Covent Garden Rock Garden:
 Viva / Holly & The Italians
 London Fulham Golden Lion: The Limnos
 London Fulham Greyhound: The Flatbackers / London Zoo
 London Islington Hope & Anchor: Dolly
 Mixture
 London Kensington Imperial College:
 Blank Space/Beast
 London Marquee Club: The Mekons
 London Old Kent Rd. Thomas A'Beckett:
 Star's Blues Band
 London Soho Piza Express: Wild Bill
 Davidson/Fred Hunt Allstars
 London University College: The Act
 London Victoria The Venue: Gallagher &
 Lyle
 London W.1 Maunkberry's: Angst (for three days)
 Manchester Ashton Birch Hotel: Years
 Morecambe Palace Theatre: Jasper
 Carrott
 Norwich Cromwells: Jackie Lynton's H.O.
 Band/Fast First
 Norwich East Anglia University: The Phanhas
 Nuneaton 77 Townhouse: Slaughter &
 The Dogs
 Oxford New Theatre: Joe Jackson
 Peterborough Gladstone Arms: Pent
 Peterborough The Cresset: The Name
 Plymouth Polytechnic: John Otway/The
 V.I.P.s
 Portsmouth Polytechnic: Iron Maiden
 Reading University: Dr. Feelgood/Philp
 Rambow
 Sheffield Limit Club: The Purple Hearts
 Walsall Dirty Duck: The Amazing Dark Horse
 Whitehaven White House Hotel: Al
 Hudson
 Worcester Tramps Club: Matchbox
 York Theatre Royal: Mike Harding

Wednesday

Belfast Ulster Hall: UFO
 Birmingham Barrel Organ: Brujo
 Birmingham Bogarts: Jameson Reid
 Birmingham Odette: Wings
 Birmingham Railway Hotel: Rainmaker
 Birmingham Romeo & Juliet: The
 Trampers
 Birmingham (Yardley) Bulls Head: Roses
 Blackburn King George's Hall: The
 Jam/The Vapors
 Bournehead Winter Gardens: Richard
 Dignace
 Bradford College Vaults Bar: Omen
 Blackburn Clifton Arms: Proposition 31
 Brighton Top Rank: Madness
 Bristol Granary: The Stilletoes

Bury St. Edmunds Theatre Royal: Chris
 Barber Band
 Cambridge ASC Club: Zorro
 Canterbury Art College: Blank
 Space/Beast
 Cheltenham North Glos. Technical College: John Otway/Merger
 Cheltenham Plough Inn: Roadsters
 Colchester Essex University: Dr. Feel-good/Philp Rambow
 Dublin Stadium: Dire Straits
 Edinburgh Caltan Studios: Eton Dean's
 Soft Heap
 Epsom School of Art: The Mo-Dettes
 Fleet Fox & Hounds: Tim Pinton's All Stars
 Glasgow Apollo Centre: The Police
 Glasgow Technical College: John Cooper-
 Clarke/Chris Sievey & The Freshies/The
 Out
 Hereford Rotters Club: Warchild
 Hull Romeo & Juliet: Souled Out
 Keele University: Simple Minds/Hawkwind
 Leeds University: Butterflies/69 Tears
 Leeds Warehouse: Al Hudson
 Leicester Scamps: The Syndicate
 Leicester University: The Dickies
 Liverpool Empire Theatre: Lindisfar-
 ne/Chas & Dave
 Loftus West Road Club: The Accelerators
 London Camden Dingwalls: Gim
 Sherman
 London Clapham Two Brewers: Sed
 Among Strangers
 London Clapham 101 Club: The Act/Billy
 Karloff Band
 London Covent Garden Rock Garden:
 Lonesome No More/The Chevrans
 London E 8 Rio Cinema: Carol Grimes &
 Sweet F.A./Soulard
 London Fulham Golden Lion: The Valentines
 London Fulham Greyhound: Spider
 London Highgate Jackson's Lane Community Centre: Jill Darby London Holborn Princess Louise: The Flatbackers
 London Islington Hope & Anchor: Holly &
 The Italians
 London Knightsbridge The Grove Free
 Beer
 London Marquee Club: Girl
 London Mile End Queen Mary College
 Paul Goodman
 London Peckham Montpelier: Blue Moon
 London Putney Star & Garter: Dana Simmonds & Greig's Folk and Blues
 Showcase
 London Soho Piza Express: Wild Bill
 Davidson/Fred Hunt Allstars
 London Victoria The Venue: Gallagher &
 Lyle
 London Wimbledon Nelson's Club:
 Matchbox
 London Woolwich Tramshed:
 Sploogensabounds/The Plus
 Manchester Odbury College: The Chesters
 Norwich East Anglia University: Eddie &
 The Hot Rods
 Nottingham Hearty Good Fellow: Gwaihir
 Nottingham Imperial Hotel: Some Chicken
 Nottingham Lincoln Hall: Lew Lewis
 Reformer
 Oxford Corn Dolly: Spring Offensive
 Oxford New Theatre: Motorhead
 Parth The Yorkhouse: The Montels
 Portsmouth Polytechnic: Sly Scandal
 Reading Hexagon Theatre: The Spinners
 Reading Target Club: Toulouse
 Sheffield Dial House: The Dickies
 Sheffield Polytechnic: Wilko Johnson
 Shrewsbury Music Hall: Secret Affair/
 Squire
 Solihull Golden Lion: The Clinic
 South Woodford Railway Ball: Original
 East Side Stompers
 Swansea University: Renaissance
 Swinton Duke of Wellington: The Trend
 Weymouth Polytechnic: The Piranhas
 Weymouth South Dorset College: The Crooks
 Whitley Bay Mingles Club: Tygers Of Pan
 Targ
 York Oval Ball: The Purple Hearts
 York Theatre Royal: Jasper Carrott

NEW YORK GIG GUIDE

MONDAY (10): Spectrum — The Who
 (two days); Hurrah — Iggy Pop; Max's
 Kansas City — The Minx/The Rams;
 Bottom Line — Hall & Oates (two days);
 St Charles Auditorium — Johnny Grit-tin; Black Beans Club — Hotmossphere
 (two days); Gulliver's — Flip Peters;
 Sweet Basil — Rens McLean; Loeb
 Centre — New High Flyers.
 TUESDAY (11): Max's Kansas City —
 Power Tools/The Octocorons; High Roller Disco — Ethel Smith; Majestic — Bette Midler (six days); Village Vanguard — Sunny Fortune (seven days);
 Stars — Jorge Santanna; My Father's Place — The Best; Rens Sweeney's —
 Cybil Shepherd (six days); Fat Tuesday's — Ron Carter (five days); Sweet
 Basil — Bridgewater Bros (five days);
 Trax — Neon; Westbank Cafe — John Petta.
 WEDNESDAY (12): Hurrah — The Speedies/Ronnie And The Jitters;
 Max's Kansas City — Neon Leon/The Boyfriends; Other End — Stan Getz
 (four days); Havana — Shamus
 Thrust; Lone Star Cafe — Flying Burrito
 Bros (two days); My Father's Place —
 Midnight Traveller; Cafe Cappuccino —
 Reo Clements; Gulliver's — Sudan
 Baronian.
 THURSDAY (13): Palladium — The Sin-ceros/The Best/Bruce Woolley; Max's
 Kansas City — The Mumps/Justin Trouble; Hurrah — The Zantees/Shamus
 Thrust; Syncope — Chico Hamilton
 (four days); Rock Pile — Rocky Horror
 Tribute; Freddy's — Charles LaMonte.
 FRIDAY (14): Max's Kansas City — Buzz
 And The Flyers/Sanders; Symphony
 Place — Marian McPartland; Bottom Line — Lennie Liston Smith (two days);
 Hurrah — Bruce Woolley.
 SATURDAY (15): Hurrah — Bloodless
 Pharaohs/Neighbours And Friends;
 Newhaven Coliseum — The Who;
 McMillan Theatre — Max Roach And
 Cecil Taylor; Seton Hall — The Act.

TO ADVERTISE
PHONE 01 261 6153

marquee

90 Wardour St., W.1 01-437 6603

OPEN EVERY NIGHT FROM 7.00 pm to 11.00 pm
REDUCED ADMISSION FOR STUDENTS AND WORKERS

Thursday 8th December £1.00
WRITZ
plus Support & Ian Fleming

Friday 7th December, Saturday 8th December £1.75 MERTON PARKAS
plus Guests & Jerry Floyd

Sunday 9th December £1.25
IRON MAIDEN
Praying Mantle & DJ Neal Ray

Monday 10th December £2
WILKO JOHNSON'S SOLID SENDERS
plus Friends & Jerry Floyd

Wednesday 12th December £1.00
GIRL
plus Support & Jerry Floyd

Thursday 13th, December Friday 14th December £1.00 SIMPLE MINDS
plus Friends & Ian Fleming

HAMBURGERS AND OTHER HOT AND COLD SNACKS AVAILABLE

THE NASH VILLE ROOM

FULLERS TRADITIONAL ALES

Thursday December 6th £1
PINPOINT + The News

Friday December 7th £1
ROY SUNDHOLM + Jack Pack

Saturday December 8th £1
MO-DETTES + Support

Sunday December 9th £1
TEENBEATS + Missing Persons

Monday December 10th £2
JOS. S. O. JASON

Tuesday December 11th £2
RICO

Thursday December 13th £2
MICKEY JUPP

NO ADMISSION FOR UNDER 20's

CORNER CROMWELL ROAD/NORTH END ROW W14
Adjacent West Kensington Tube Tel. 01-603 6071

HOPE & ANCHOR UPPER STREET ISLINGTON, N.1

Thursday December 6th 75p
THE ELECTROTUNES

Friday December 7th £1
PINPOINT

Saturday December 8th £1
LIMOUSINE

Sunday December 9th 75p
KILLING JOKE

Monday December 10th 75p
RUBBER JOHNNY

Tuesday December 11th 75p
DOLLY MIXTURE

Wednesday December 12th 75p
HOLLY AND THE ITALIANS

Thursday December 13th 75p
TENPOLE TUDOR

THE DAMNED

Joe Stanley presents

plus The Victims and The Odds

Hull City Hall — Box Office (0482) 26525

Saturday December 15th at 7.30.

THE NIPS

NEW SINGLE OUT NOW

Gabrielle

LICENSED TO COOL

chiswick
CHIS 119

STRAIGHT MUSIC PRESENTS

THE SELECTER

THE BEAT

U.B.40

LYCEUM
HALL W.1

SUNDAY 9th DECEMBER at 7.30

HEATERS £2.50, CASH ADVANCE, UCEM, BDL OFFICE, TEL. 01-434 3713
LONDON THEATRE BOOKING, 100 FLEET STREET, TEL. 01-434 3713, 100 FLEET STREET, LONDON EC4A 3DF, TEL. 01-434 3713
OR ROCK ON RECORDS, 100 FLEET STREET, LONDON EC4A 3DF, TEL. 01-434 3713

MUSIC MACHINE

CAMDEN HIGH ST. Opp MORNINGTON CRESCENT TUBE
TEL 01-357 0428-9

Thursday December 6th
The Future Paytimes Tour
featuring
THE CURE
+ The Associates
+ The Passions
Advance Tickets £2. on the door £2.50

Friday December 7th
Reggae Night
featuring
COOLNOTES
+ Body Snatchers

Saturday December 8th
STILLETOES
+ Andrew Phillips Band

Monday December 10th
KILLING JOKES
+ Hardware
+ Support

Tuesday December 11th
LANDSCAPE
+ Trimmer & Jenkins

Wednesday December 12th
From France
THOSE FOUR
+ One Hand Clapping

Thursday December 13th
SLADE
Pay At Door £2.50

Thursday December 20th
XTC
+ Random Hold
Advance Tickets £2.50

LICENSED BARS - LIVE MUSIC - DANCING
8pm - 2am MONDAY TO SATURDAY
OVER 18s ONLY

WMM presents

THE JOE JACKSON BAND

plus 2 supports
Sunday 9th December

EMPIRE BALLROOM, LEICESTER SQUARE

Doors open at 8pm. 1st support 8.30pm.
2nd support 9.15 Joe Jackson on stage 11pm

Limited Amount of £2.75 Tickets
Available On The Door

BOMBER TOUR BACK AGAIN

bad totem

PLUS
SAXON

ODEON THEATRE HAMMERSMITH
Sunday December 16th 8.00pm Tickets £7.50 £5.25 £2.75 £2.25
Admission from 10.00 pm by 10.30 pm
London theatre bookings, Shaftesbury Avenue, 01-434 3713, 01-434 3713, 01-434 3713, 01-434 3713

A SPECIAL NIGHT with BERND WEBER AND THE LAST RESORT
+ Bar + Buffet + Disco, at the C.R.C.'s WINTER DANCE, at the Social Club, St Augustine, 31 Fulham Palace Rd W.8
Wed 12th Dec. 7 pm-11.30 pm. Adm £1.00

SECRET AFFAIR
plus SQUIRE

RAINBOW THEATRE LONDON
Saturday 8th December 8.00 pm

Tickets £2.00, £2.40, £2.00

THE BRIDGE HOUSE

23 BARKING ROAD, CANNING TOWN, E16

Thursday December 6th 50p
LITTLE ROOSTERS
+ The Carnival

Friday December 7th 60p
★ ROLL-UPS ★
ex Zebra Grill, ex Grand Hotel, ex Elkie
Brooks Band, ex Len Hart, ex Giggles

Saturday December 8th 60p
WARM JETS
+ The Agents

Sunday December 9th 50p
MISDEMEANORS
+ One On One

Monday December 10th 50p
THE FACE
+ The Girls

Tuesday December 11th 50p
U2s
+ Ideal Dancers

Wednesday December 12th 50p
WASTED YOUTH
+ In Carina

Thursday December 13th 50p
PROTEX
+ 45's

Joe Stanley presents

HAWKWIND

plus Dalt by Dalt

Cardin Sophie Gardens (0222) 27657
Sunday 9th December at 7.30 pm £2.50

DINGWALLS

RHYTHM 'N' BOOZE

THURSDAY 8th DECEMBER
PRINCE HAMMER
SUN & REG NIGHT 7.11.30pm
LEW LEWIS REFORMER
TUES IS THE RETURN OF
BLAST FURNACES REVENGE
WED 12 DIRECT FROM KINGSTON JAMAICA
ONLY U.K. SHOW
BIM SHERMAN
THUR 13
THE PIRATES

Open Monday-Saturday 8pm-2am & Sunday 7pm-11.30pm
Live Music, Licensed Bar, Disco, Restaurant, Fun.
CAMDEN LOCK, CHALK FARM ROAD, LONDON NW1 01 267 4867

THE GREYHOUND

Fulham Palace Road

Thursday December 6th 50p
E. F. BAND (From Scandinavia)
+ O1 Band

Friday December 7th 50p
THE CROOKS
+ The Directions

Saturday December 8th 60p
ON THE AIR
+ Energy Park

Sunday December 9th £1
NUTZ
+ Loony Q

Monday December 10th 60p
THE DIRECTIONS
+ The Jump

Tuesday December 11th 60p
LONDON ZOO
+ Flatbackers

Wednesday December 12th 60p
DOTTY CROTCHET
+ Spider

CAROLINE Roadshow

XMAS TOUR

Friday 7th December
PRINCESS THEATRE,
TOWN HALL,
STATION ROAD,
CLACTON ON SEA

Saturday 8th December
KING GEORGES HALL,
MOAT ROAD,
EAST GRINSTEAD,
E. SUSSEX

Friday 14th December
THE INSTITUTE,
BRAINTREE, ESSEX

Saturday 15th December
CITY HALL, ST ALBANS, HERTFORDSHIRE

Thursday 20th December
CORN EXCHANGE,
EARL STREET,
MAIDSTONE, KENT

Friday 21st December
CIVIC HALL,
CROFTON ROAD,
ORPINGTON, KENT

Doors Open 8 pm. DJ's include Rob Eden, Brian Martin, Robbie Day. Admission to all Caroline Roadshows is a mere £2.00
Bookings 0621 783 227

Once Again, From The Depths Of Darkest Sussex
And Hampshire

PTARMIGAN

Those Timeless Fighters Of "BAD VIBES" Wend Their Way Remorselessly Up The A3 To UPSTAIRS AT RONNIE SCOTTS
On
WEDNESDAY DECEMBER 12th
(Free Tickets Available - Enquiries Ensworth 3837)

HAWKWIND

plus Duff by Den
Swansea Brangwyn Hall (0792) 50821
Monday 10th December at 7.30 am 12.50

"LET IT ROLL" THE NEW ALBUM FROM DR. FEELGOOD

ALBUM UAG 30269 CASSETTE TCH 30269
INCLUDES NEW SINGLE "PUT HIM OUT OF YOUR MIND" ON "BEND YOUR EAR" BP306
LIMITED QUANTITY ON SPECIAL PICTURE BAG

U.K. TOUR DATES 1979 SPECIAL GUEST PHIL RAMBOW

DECEMBER
5	UNIVERSITY	BRADFORD
6	UNIVERSITY	SOUTHAMPTON
7	UNIVERSITY OF EAST ANGLIA	NORWICH
8	UNIVERSITY	NOTTINGHAM
9	CORNHAM BOWL	REDCAR
10	UNIVERSITY	LANCASTER
12	UNIVERSITY OF ESSEX	CHESTER
15	PRALION	WEST RUNTON
16	CIVIC HALL	OLNEY
19	HARWORTH ODEON	LONDON
20	PADDocks	CANVEY ISLAND
21	CORN EXCHANGE	CAMBRIDGE
22	WINTER GARDENS	MALVERN

STRAIGHT MUSIC PRESENTS THE HEAVIEST NIGHT OF THE YEAR

BUDGIE GIRLSCHOOL PREYING MANTIS ANDREW WATSON

LYCEUM
SUNDAY 23rd DECEMBER at 7.30

TICKETS £1.00 (INC. V&A) ADVANCE (LYCEUM BOX OFFICE, TEL. 814 3715)
LONDON: THE FINE BOOKS, SHAFESBURY AVE. TEL. 439 3071, PREMIER BOX OFFICE, TEL. 246 7245
ON BOX OFFICE RECORDS, 3 NEWTON TOWN RD., NW11 6DS 1908

MUSIC MACHINE

CAMDEN HIGH ST. Opp. MORNINGTON CRESCENT TUBE
MONDAY 17th TUES 18th DEC
SPECIAL XMAS PARTY NIGHTS

STEVE HILLAGE

+ GUESTS
ADVANCE TICKET AT BOX OFFICE + USUAL AGENTS
£2.75 - £3.00 AT THE DOOR

WORDS CONCERT PROMOTIONS (Barry Clarke)
QUEENSWAY (Civic) HALL DUNSTABLE
SATURDAY, DECEMBER 8th, 8 pm

RENAISSANCE

+ DAVE MATTHEWS

Advance tickets £2.75 from Queensway Box Office, Tel. 403325 F. L.
Moore, Dunstable and Luton; Old Town Records, Hemel Hampstead; Record Room, St. Albans or on night

Please phone before setting out E check

WHAT'S ON AT THE ROCK GARDEN

BACK TO ZERO

BOGEY BOYS

THE DONKEYS

WHITE RABBIT

THE APPLES

YVONNE RYAN

LOVE ME MORE

MODETTES

TICKETS TICKETS TICKETS

AVAILABLE FOR ALL LONDON CONCERTS OF THE FOLLOWING

- DECEMBER
6 L. Cohen
6 The Cure
7/8 Talking Heads
8 Secret Affair
9 Joe Jackson
9 Selector
13/14/15 Cliff Richard
16 Ralph McTell
16 Motorhead
17/18 Steve Hillage
17 AC/DC
19 Dr. Feelgood
20 X.T.C.
20/24 Leo Sayer
21 Teardrop Explodes
22 The Damned
22 John Otway
23 Budgie
28 Purple Hearts
30 Madness

- JANUARY
23/24 Barclay James
Harvest
25/26 Marvin Gaye

- FEBRUARY
1 Wishbone Ash
3/4 U.F.O.
8 Robin Trower
14 Uriah Heep
17 Jerry Lee Lewis

- MARCH
14/15 Judas Priest

For more information send SAE to LONDON THEATRE BOOKINGS
30 SHAFTESBURY AVENUE, W1
General enquiries Tel 01-439 3071
Instant credit card bookings Tel 01-439 8881

Crystal Groove Sound System HOME SERVICE ORIOR

Conway Hall,
Red Lion Square,
Holborn W.C.1
8pm Saturday 8th December — 50p

THE Venue

168 VICTORIA ST. SW1
(Opp Victoria Tube station)
01-434 5280

Tickets from The Venue Box Office and the Ticket Machine in the Virgin
Megastore, 14 Oxford Street, W.1.
Postal Applications (P.O.'s only) from
The Venue

Food, Drink, Live Bands, Dancing
7pm-3am

Wednesday 5th, Thursday 6th Dec. £3.00
CAROLYN MAS

Friday 7th Dec. £3.50
ROGER CHAPMAN

Saturday 8th Dec. £2.00
NO DICE

Sunday 9th Dec. £2.00
LINTON KWESI JOHNSON
+ The Electrotones

Monday 10th Dec. £3.00
THE SHIRTS
+ Mark Andrews & The Goats

Tuesday 11th, Wednesday 12th Dec. £2.75
GALLAGHER & LYLE

Saturday 15th Dec. £3.50
IAN STEWART

Sunday 16th Dec. £2.00
SPONOOCH

Wednesday 19th Dec. £3.00
MERGER

Thursday 20th, Friday 21st Dec. £2.75
TAJ MAHAL

DISCO

THE BIGGEST DISCO IN THE WORLD!!!

APPEARING LIVE ON STAGE...

MARVIN GAYE

KC AND THE SUNSHINE BAND

AND SPECIAL GUEST STARS

EDWIN STARR

MICK FADDEN & WHITEHEAD

GEORGE MCCRAE

SHOWADDYWADDY

THE MARVELLETTES

KID JENSEN

DAVID HAMILTON

MARK WESLEY

NICKY STEELE

Trade Stand & Amusements in Hall 3

SATURDAY JAN 19 1980
3pm - Midnight

NATIONAL EXHIBITION CENTRE BIRMINGHAM

ADVANCE TICKETS ONLY
£9.50
£7.50

BOOKINGS: 01-439 3071
01-439 8881

IN NEW YORK CITY
C.B.G.B.
AND
O.M.F.U.G.

Friday, Saturday, Sunday, December 7th, 8th, 9th
 Electro/Ayahu Recording Artists

RICHARD LLOYD QUINTET
 Fri 7th Dec only
 Sat 8th Dec only
 Sun 9th Dec only

Monday & Tuesday Dec 10th & 11th
 Auction Showcase 5 new bands each night
 Wednesday December 12th
 The Bullets + Joe Bidwell Group + Dream
 Thursday, Friday, Saturday December 13th, 14th, 15th

THE RUDIES
 Also: Thurs 13th Dec only
 Fri 14th Dec only
 Sat 15th Dec only

The Blades + Fast Food
 The Innocents (from UK) + City Stream
 The Wives + City + The Business

Band enquiries 212 982 4052

WSP presents

AC/DC with special guests
the PIRATES

BRIGHTON CENTRE
 WED. 19th DEC. 8.00pm. Tickets £3.50 from b/o 0273 202881

BRUNEL UNIVERSITY
 Kingston Lane, Uxbridge, Middlesex
 Tel. Uxbridge (89)39125

Friday December 7th

HAWKWIND
 + DOLL BY DOLL
 Tickets £2.20 in advance
 £2.40 on the door

Wednesday December 12th

THE PHOTO's
 + U2s
 Tickets £1 in advance
 £1 on door

Tickets available from S.U. Hardpress Records, Uxbridge, or by post from Social Secretary, Students Union. Nearest tube Uxbridge. Motorway 2 miles.

Bracknell Sports Centre

MADNESS
 + SUPPORT
SATURDAY 15th DECEMBER 8pm
 TICKETS £2.00 in advance, £2.50 on door

FROM SPORTS CENTRE, RUMBLELONS BRACKNELL
 QUICKSILVER READING, HARLEQUIN SLOUGH & HAYDONHEAD
 TOWER RECORDS CAMBERLEY, KENS RECORDS ALDERSHOT

MALICIOUS DAMAGE present KILLING JOKE
 music machine
 december 10th
 with HARDWARE & SPECIAL GUESTS

THE TALLY HO
 FORTRESS ROAD
 KENTISH TOWN NW5

RE-OPENS WITH A BIG JAZZ NIGHT
 on Thursday 6th Dec. at 8pm

* KENNIE BAKER
 With Julian Stringles Young Jazz

* THE HOWDEN HOT SHOTS and other guests

HALF PRICE LONDON BOTTLES & BLENDED WINE EXPORT BROUGHT
 From 8pm (while stocks last)

THE SELECTER
THE BEAT

AT THE LYCEUM SUNDAY 9th DECEMBER
 AT 7.30
 TICKETS £2.50 BOX OFFICE 836 3715

Polytechnic Of North London S.U.
 Xmas Ball

IRON MAIDEN
 + SPLIT RIVITT + THE CITIZENS
 Friday 7th December at 8pm
 Holloway Road Theatre
 £1.25 in advance, £1.50 on door
 Holloway Road Tube

Beetle Pub A DEVIL OF A DISCO

Climax Blues Band
 Saturday 8th December

IN THE 2,000 CAPACITY BIG HALL 8pm
Tickets £2.00 In Advance

ADVANCE TICKETS FROM
 SAFFRON RECORDS, TRINITY STREET, ST AUSTELL
 AND FROM VIRGIN RECORDS

NEW CORNISH RIVIERA LIDO
 CARLYON BAY 2 MILES EAST OF ST AUSTELL OFF THE A390
 TELEPHONE: PAR (072-681) 4261

Beetle Pub A DEVIL OF A DISCO

Light Of The World
 SATURDAY 15th DECEMBER
 IN THE 2,000 CAPACITY BIG HALL 8pm

Tickets £2.00 In Advance
TICKETS ARE AVAILABLE FROM
 SAFFRON RECORDS, TRINITY STREET, ST AUSTELL
 AND FROM VIRGIN RECORDS PLYMOUTH

NEW CORNISH RIVIERA LIDO
 CARLYON BAY 2 MILES EAST OF ST AUSTELL OFF THE A390
 TELEPHONE: PAR (072-681) 4261

ESSEX S.U. ENTS PRESENT

Thursday December 6th
SECRET AFFAIR
 + Squire
 Tickets £1.50, 8.30 pm

Saturday December 8th
 Grand XMAS BALL with the Legendary
GARY GLITTER
 + Support
 Tickets £2, 8.30 pm

S.U. Dance Hall
 Tickets from S.U. + Parrot Records
 Enquiries Colchester 86 3211
 Next Week Dec 12th Dr Feelgood

WOOLWICH COLLEGE
 VILLAS ROAD
 PLUMPSTEAD

THE VIP's
 + Support
 + Disco

Tickets 75p in advance
 75p NUS, others £1
MONDAY, 10th DECEMBER
 at 8.30 pm

LYRIC STUDIO
 King Street Hamersmith W6 01-741 2311

11th-22nd December
 (80000 MCGOUGH)

Summer with Monika
 a fully dramatised version of Roger McGough's epic love poem with the author as narrator, actor and musician with Roger McGough, Gregory Floy, Alyson Spira, Andy Roberts directed by Mel Smith, designed by Peter Bides, music by Andy Roberts

Monday - Friday, Sunday 8pm
 Saturday 8.30pm
 Wednesday 12th 7pm

Two weeks only - BOOK NOW!

TENPOLE TUDOR

Are Playing the HOPE'N'ANCHOR

Thursday
 13th December

To Advertise
Ring
01 261 6153

BEAT CRAZY
 THE
V.I.P.'s
 —ON TOUR WITH
JOHN OTWAY

Thursday December 6th
BLACKPOOL, TIFFANY'S
 Friday December 7th
SHEFFIELD, EARNHAM HALL
 Saturday December 8th
STRATHCLYDE, UNIVERSITY
 Monday December 10th
WOOLWICH COLLEGE
 Tuesday December 11th
PLYMOUTH POLY
 Wednesday December 13th
NORTH STAFFORDSHIRE POLY
 Management 01-855 9832/5
 Agency Nimmo 01-581 0938

DUKE OF LANCASTER
 Approach Road, NEW BARNET
 (beside BN New Barnet)

Thursday 6th December
SONS OF KAIN
 Friday 7th December
CLIENTELLE
 Saturday 8th December
SPRING OFFENSIVE
 Sunday 9th December
SKINFLOCKS
 Tuesday 11th December
THE FALL

POLYTECHNIC OF CENTRAL LONDON
 115 Cavendish Street W1

FRIDAY DECEMBER 7th 7.30 pm to 12 pm

Benefit For Rock Against Racism/National Abortion Campaign

GIRLSCHOOL
PATRIK FITZGERALD
AU PAIRS
THE MISSTAKES

Admission: £1.50 NUS/Unwaged £2 Others
 Nearest Tube Goodge Street, Oxford Circus

BLAST FURNACE'S REVENGE
 IS SWEET... LOOK OUT!

DINGWALLS
 ENDS 01 586 5407

TUE
 11⁰⁰

style: the one a historically illuminating effort to nostalgia with the songwriter as storyteller for a fascinating past, the other a mildly amusing parody of bigotry, an insubstantial piece in his pattern book of similar songs. Schumacher would have approved.

Being no expert on Randy Newman, I'm not sure whether his newer material really is as duff as some folks make out. I do know that his understanding of America's social problems and diseases (viz 'Rednecks') are far more powerful than the tepid parodies of the '70s traits he seeks to lampoon.

'The Story Of A Rock And Roll Band' is a fine spoof and 'It's A Money That I Love' comes straight from the wallet ('They say that money can't buy love in this world/But it'll get you a half-pound of cocaine and a 16 year old girl') but 'Pants' just isn't funny in the same way that Frank Zappa is a monumental pain in the arse.

But when the band treat a song like limp heavy metal you wonder where parody ends and reality begins.

It was nice to welcome some metaphysical relief in the encores when Newman returned alone. Then you could hear the ghosts of some New York vaudeville stage and watch the curtain rise on the early part of the century, which is Newman's most suitable case for treatment.

There was melodrama in 'Lonely At The Top' and music hall sentiment for 'Davey The Fat Boy'. Newman put his big money on the last number 'I Think It's Going To Rain Today', but by then it was too late.

A curiously unsatisfactory evening of entertainment —

Eugene Debs wouldn't have stuck around for the electrical storm — it really never broke.
Max Bell

have pretty, fresh, small-featured faces that dissolve into anonymity somewhere past the twelfth row and they don't move much, although Tina crouches and shudders slowly as she's playing bass.

But watching David Byrne you feel at times crassly voyeuristic: the perfect obsessive is pinned up, squirming in front of you and you can't tear away your guilty, avid eyes. He flails stiffly; there's a terrifying, underlying rigidity in his charged, damaged movements; his voice has that perpetual tipped-over edge to it and the sudden naked screams and shouts, the quiet gibberings suggest that he's speaking in the tongues of all his hidden tormentors.

It's the unsensual baring of a modern man's mind that is incessantly exploring the cramped confines of its own neuroses: alienated, enquiring and purely paranoiac.

That's one side of Talking Heads — the aura, the intelligence, the sound of the subconscious speaking. There is another.

But this is the first night of the tour and to start with it shows. The sound lacks the immediate spontaneous combustion of a good live set. 'Cities', 'Paper' and 'Mind' are played early; 'Electric Guitar' has that parody of the same which crawls off derisively at the end of each cadence; Tina Weymouth nervously sings backing vocals on 'Air'; for 'Heaven' the sound is hotter and smoother, less pristine. Byrnes' voice lost blissfully in a brief respite from his own anxiety.

But they've only managed an adequate run-through of each number and the audience is still passively scrutinising the stage.

Then a taut, stretched shout of unbearable tension, the guttural grunts of bass and the hoarse, gruff gasping vocals start 'Animals', spreading the first stirrings through the hall as the audience starts to lumber into uneasy motion.

By 'Love Goes To Building On Fire' the constraints on the group have gone: their tight, fenced-in faces have relaxed; they look like they're enjoying themselves and Byrnes is lurching around the stage as if heavily drugged, a solitary lock of hair waving weakly over his forehead.

Chris Frantz' percussion slashes through the speakers and starts an altered, extended 'Psycho Killer' which wells up and spills out with a force and fluidity that I would have thought impossible at the beginning of the set. And as they encore with 'Life During Wartime' and 'Take Me To The River', it's the whole sound that hits you.

All the rhythmic strands have run together; the hall is seething and sweating. The lyrics are still skating on the thin ice of sanity but they're now subliminal, they trickle in at the ears while your feet are moving to the warm stimulation of the beat.

Talking Heads have effected the transformation without exhibitionism and achieved a strength of sound that the fragile sensitivity of their presence initially belied.

They make music for the body as well as the brain.

Lynn Hanna

In Another The Criminal

Byrning up

Wings

Liverpool

ONCE upon a very long time ago... forget it. Nothing.

Only one stone's throw away from the '80s and we're still asking a man to walk in the shadow of what he was, or was imagined to be, in what's nearly the decade before last. For ten years McCartney's seen his new work held up to an artificial light, viewed and valued, low or high, on every kind of terms except its own.

Sometimes it seems as if he's being dismissed entirely for the trivial sin of proving less than entirely perfect, perfect in the way that fond myth and memory want to hold him in perpetuity. Just as it sometimes seems as though there are those who'll elevate the man's plainest lapses no matter what, as if by sheer force of habit.

Between blinkered criticism and blind-eyed worship there's an underpopulated territory without much in the way of signposts. No wonder McCartney, the most response-conscious of artists, zig-zags so erratically, displays inconsistency and confused identity. As much as he's drawn towards the open arms, he's still distracted by those turned backs.

He wants to please everyone some of the time, but some people demand to be pleased all the time.

A hard pancake, as Flann O'Brien would say.

If any phase or permutation of Wings ever promised to break the pattern, to place the past in its overdue perspective, un-self-consciously to impose itself inside the present, then I'd take the band that's now taking shape to be the one. And it's good to watch it happen.

To the old group's nucleus — Paul, Linda, Denny Laine — have been added two young English musicians, drummer Steve Holly and guitarist Laurence Juber, with extensive use of a fourman horn section — Howie Casey, Tony Dorsey, Steve Howard and Thaddeus Richard.

Tonight's showing, amongst the new line-up's very first, wasn't altogether assured or smooth or super-competent; it was something better than that, a basic rock'n'roll band coming together.

At first it was hard not to feel as though something wasn't right. From a slightly wooden opening of 'Got To Get You Into My Life', through 'Getting Closer' and 'Every Night', it just didn't sound like megastar super-stadium stuff somehow. But by 'Again And Again And Again', then 'I've Had Enough' and 'No Words', it became obvious that it wasn't supposed to.

Wings aren't about complacency, or about taking anything for granted or milking the easy applause. Instead they project as a solid, grass-roots English band of the old school, playing for fun — who just happen to be blessed with one of the better voices and a lot of the better songs which money could buy.

Continues over 9

Talking Heads ptx: Al Johnson
McCartney ptx: Kevin Cummins
Randy Newman ptx: Chris Horler

Gimme the low-life Gimme the smut

John Cooper Clarke
Sheffield

JOHN Cooper Clarke, you realise, is probably the most popular poet in Britain today — certainly, one of the very few to actually make a living from poetry, and the only one to pack halfs night after night for readings.

The reasons are obvious: he's as accessibly populist as Betjeman, and he's funny. Whilst Betjeman extols the delights of bourgeois gentility for a social stratum which has all but ceased to exist, Cooper Clarke wallows in wry low-life observation, declaiming his scribbles with a bluff bonhomie reminiscent of the mid-'60s Liverpool poets, but without their reliance on sickly sentiment.

Another time, another sensibility, and Cooper-Clarke's anything but maudlin. Salt of the earth, and all that.

Fine. For a while. The thing that was painfully clear by the end of this performance was that, despite his talents as a wordsmith, he's not so much a poet as a comedian — a state of affairs he's well aware of — and, as such, is in the wrong medium.

TV is plainly the place for one as unnaturally photogenic as Cooper Clarke (as evidenced by his appearance on the abysmal Something Else!, preferably a regular spot on a chat show like Friday Night, Saturday Morning). But, in a medium which delights in near-the-knuckle smutty innuendo, would his, ah, forthrightness (halfway up the arm, so to speak) be permissible? I wonder.

And the unfortunate truth is that, whether he likes it or not, his popularity rests largely on his blueness: the laughs accrued by lines like "It's bad enough with anuvver race, but look me, a monster from outer space!" are undoubtedly due, in large part, to the neatly-accented swearword; the fact that it's a satire on xenophobic attitudes slips by largely unnoticed. Or am I being too pessimistic? I think not.

Like all comedy, his verse wears thin quickly. Who laughs at the same joke twice, and who played 'Disguise In Love' more than half-a-dozen times? Despite the musical settings, once you knew the punch lines the record was superfluous, like chewing-gum with the taste chewed out.

Without the music, as at this performance, it's all chuckles-in-advance and "Ha ha, this one's a good 'unt'" from those who've heard them before and want to appear knowledgeable to their mates (who then feel obliged to laugh rather than being inspired to).

To be fair, not all the stuff was old. The well-known pieces were punctuated periodically with extracts from the forthcoming 'Seven Years In An Open-Neck Shirt' — a ludicrous chunk of freewheeling prose masquerading as an absurdist autobiography, all bizarre associative tangents and twists for the sheer hell of it, rattled off like a teleprinter by a thin string of unleashed energy who, if he's not got veins of white powder, has surely got a serious nervous disorder.

Cooper Clarke: Mr TV Personality? Pic Zbysiu Radak.

Cooper Clarke was preceded by Chris Sievey And The Freshies, bland exponents of the kind of "new pop" that went down the drain along with The Vels, Zones, etc, whose one stab at individuality was in the leaden ensemble of their final number, which reminded me of Fruupp. (Remember Fruupp? No? Lucky you.)

Wrapping things up were a bunch of old geezers who seemed to want to be Trapeze. (Remember Trapeze? No? Even luckier you.) They were called The Out, which I and a large contingent of the audience took to be a prompt after their first few songs.

Andy Gill

Robert Palmer

Hammersmith Odeon
THAT the Odeon was full for two nights running leads me to think that Robert Palmer's followers form some kind of secret society. I don't know anyone who could reliably name half a dozen tracks that the mellow fellow has recorded in the last few years; his albums come out, disappear and then turn up in the bargain shops.

Yet there he was playing to standing room only, being bathed in applause at the opening of each song as if he was Barry Manilow. The crowd was either uniformly American (the man is a mini-star over there), or else they were all owners of bargain stores out to discover who this guy is who ticks over a neat trade for them. In any case, Bob did little to drag his rather flat personality off the vinyl and in to his live show.

There were a few problems with the bottom sound during the opener 'Best Of Both Worlds' — one of the songs I do know — but the pattern was set immediately. The evening became a series of gutless get downs. Clavinets and rhythm guitar traded across hi-hat and popgun snare, every now and then the songs would break down to just one instrument for a few seconds until — with a run around the drum kit — back would burst the riff with renewed power.

Palmer, still chasing Cliff's timeless teen title, was the only one of the six on stage actually to move though this consisted of just taking a couple of steps from the mike and jumping on the spot with his legs bowed.

This lack of animation was the killing point for me: I mean, if your funk lacks spunk the least you can do is try to bluff some grit into it. But a band with a bass player who didn't so much as wag the old arse, whose rhythm guitarist didn't so much as keep time with his boot and whose frontmen wore what appeared to be a woollen scarf isn't particularly inviting the thrashing of Mr Rank's fixtures and fittings.

I wouldn't write off Robert Palmer. I quite enjoy the odd slice in his voice, though a tad pale, does bend agreeably — even if his attempts at scat that night were a bit like a man with a heavy stammer ordering an Italian meat.

I figure that Palmer's people have decided a live album is due and, what the hell, in order for that you've gotta do a couple of shows. So whack, whack, have you got that one down, John? Otherwise it was a case of his society gathering for two nights, playing some of their founder's recordings and the chap himself putting in a personal appearance.

If only they could have got the three things together we could have let some sweat.

Danny Baker

From previous page

It would be nice to think they could preserve that feel when they do reach the stadiums, outside of little venues like this, the Royal Court Theatre, where McCartney can feed off the immediacy of the crowd and match every home-town heckler's wisecrack quip for quip. It would be nicer if they never played anywhere bigger than this, and played more often and gave some substance to his romantic notions of playing simple gigs that are no big deal. He's got the band for it, and he thrives on the contact.

All decked out in a bizarre mis-match of T-shirt n'tails (so like Paul's grafting of rock culture on to the longer-standing traditions of old-time entertainment), they went on through Linda's 'Cook Of The House', echoey and effectively primitive, and 'Old Siam Sir' to a sort of classics interlude — the bassman moving to piano — of 'Maybe I'm Amazed', 'Fool On The Hill' and 'Let It Be', then continuing with the instrumental 'Hot As Sun', 'Spin It On' and Eddie Cochran's '20 Flight Rock'.

Denny Laine did his bit on 'Go Now', 'Arrow Through Me' plugged the current album for the last time, and the seasonal 'Wonderful Christmastime' was terrible. But McCartney's audience is a wide one; you've got to be prepared to share him a bit.

'Coming Up' was a new one; 'Goodnight Tonight' was the last one, except for the encores: Paul on solo acoustic singing 'Yesterday' and then with a real live piper for 'Mull Of Kintyre', all swaying Kop scarves and singalong style, and finally a very good 'Band On The Run'.

It might be impossible to like everything Wings do, and maybe at somewhere like Wembley I'd have liked a lot less. But tonight was warm and informal — no BIG deal, just a little bit magic.

Paul Du Moyer

LIFE IN THE CITY

AFTER THE FIRE

A special remix of the Laser Love album track. In a colour picture bag. Backed by the previously unavailable 'Listen To Me'.

THE NEWS SINGLE Produced by Tony Mansfield.

Life In The City
CBS 6057

£2.00 OFF BOXED SETS NOW ONLY £8.99

(3 Album sets)

Barbra Streisand
Earth, Wind and Fire
Art Garfunkel
Billy Joel
Bruce Springsteen
War of the Worlds

£2.00 OFF ALBUM £1.00 OFF CASSETTE

Pink Floyd:
The Wall £6.45 £6.45

£1.50 OFF ALBUMS £1.00 OFF CASSETTES

Donna Summer:
On the Radio £5.00 £5.50
Fleetwood Mac:
Tusk £6.50 £7.00
Stevie Wonder:
A Journey Through the Secret Life of Plants £7.00 £6.50

£1.00 OFF ALBUMS £1.00 OFF CASSETTES

Blondie:
Eat to the Beat £3.99 £3.99
Bee Gees:
Greatest Hits £6.99 £6.99

£1.00 OFF ALBUMS 50p OFF CASSETTES

Herb Alpert: Rise
Police:
Regatta de Blanc £3.99 £4.49
Joe Jackson:
I'm the Man £3.99 £4.49
Police:
Outlandos d'Amour £3.99 £4.49
Elkie Brooks:
Live and Learn £3.99 £4.49
Supertramp:
Breakfast in America £3.99 £4.49
Gary Numan:
The Pleasure of Principle £4.00 £4.50
The Damned:
Machine Gun £4.29 £4.79
Etiquette
The Unrecorded
Jasper Carrott
Boomtown Rats:
The Fine Art of Surfacing £4.65 £5.30

	Album Price Now	Cassette Price Now
Dr. Hook: Sometimes You Win	£4.29	£4.79
ELO: Greatest Hits	£4.29	£4.29
Manhattan Transfer: Extensions	£4.00	£4.50
The Best of Chic Eagles:	£4.00	£4.50
The Long Run Tom Petty:	£4.00	£4.50
Damn the Torpedoes M. New York,	£3.69	£4.39
London, Paris, Munich	£3.69	£4.39
Lena Martell: Lena's Music Album	£3.75	£4.25
The Jam: Setting Sons	£4.06	£4.77
Fawlty Towers Barry Manilow:	£3.75	£4.30
One Voice	£4.00	£4.28
Smokie: The Other Side of the Road	£4.29	£4.79
Michael Jackson: Off the Wall	£3.99	£4.69
Santana: Marathon	£4.29	£4.99
Johnny Mathis: Mathis Magic	£4.29	£4.99
Barbara Streisand: Wet	£4.29	£4.99
Status Quo: Whatever You Want	£4.65	£5.30

W.H. SMITH PRICES WILL BRING OUT THE SANTA CLAWS IN YOU!

UNTIL 24th DECEMBER NO SINGLE L.P.
WILL COST MORE THAN £4.99

Classics, rock, pop, soul, country and TV. advertised albums, you'll find them all at WH Smith.

But as well as this great offer, you'll find massive savings on selected boxed sets, albums and cassettes like the ones above. So now you'll be able to afford music 24 hours a day!

WHSMITH

Offers close 24th December 1979. Prices correct at time of going to press.

SURPRISE! SURPRISE!

Subject to availability where you see this sign. All reductions off Makers List Price.

E.L.O.W.

'E.L.O.'s Greatest Hits'— a brand new album containing eleven superb tracks including
'Mr. Blue Sky,' 'Telephone Line' and 'Sweet Talking Woman' is

£1.50 off

list price
at all HMV Shops, now.

And at the HMV Shop every week:
The HMV Shop Top Albums up to £2 off list price.
The HMV Shop Top Cassettes at 70p off list price.
The HMV Shop Top Singles only 90p.

the HMV shop

363 Oxford Street, London W.1. (next to Bond Street tube)

Bedford · Birmingham · Bradford · Brighton · Bristol · Coventry · Derby · Edinburgh · Enfield · Exeter · Glasgow · Gloucester · Gravesend · Holloway · Hull
Kingston · Leeds · Leicester · Lewisham · Liverpool · Luton · Manchester · Newcastle · Norwich · Nottingham · Notting Hill Gate · Plymouth · Portsmouth
Southampton · Stockton · Stratford · Sunderland · Sutton · Swansea · Wolverhampton

All offers relate to list price. Valid until 15th December. Subject to availability.

Matumbi Janet Kay I Roy

Music Machine

I DUNNO what it is about the reggae gigs at the Music Machine, but nearly all of them seemed to be marred by their shambolic organisation, and this gig was no exception.

A "soul" band called Tasty were still rampaging through some funky stuff at 10pm, and the hour gap before I Roy's backing band arrived was strictly a downer. The crowd was below capacity and the atmosphere was cold and miserable.

Masagan's opening shots did little to lift them out of the backing band category and it was clear that everyone was awaiting the man himself — I Roy. Six feet tall and resplendent in white suit and black stetson, he strode onstage and wasted no time in dropping his DJ jive talk on the crowd before going into 'African Continent'.

It was in '73 when I first became familiar with I Roy as a toaster and a lot of LPs have been released since the brilliant 'Presenting I Roy' album; in comparison, his current material is laid back, but he's still unsurpassable as a talker with a real gift of the gab.

As he worked his way through a selection from his current album 'The General', his delivery was word for word although he couldn't resist a little improvisation by throwing in a few lines from Errol Scorch's 'Roach In The Corner'.

"This ya rockers mak yuh walk an talk" was a line I couldn't have agreed with more, and in sharp contrast to the freneticism of the new generation of DJs like Eastwood and Trinity, he just stood erect and delivered the goods, each number linked by his characteristic patter.

I Roy's short and sharp appearance was well received, but time was passing and it was clear that the show had been badly mis-timed.

Janet Kay's set was a model of reggae cooperation with Tony, Donald and Angus from Aswad uniting with Blackbeard Matumbi and two girls from Brown Sugar.

This was only Janet's second appearance on stage, but she showed no signs of nervousness. Her voice was compelling and held its own against the tight compulsive rhythms which embodied some sharp changes, delicate keyboards and some bold bass lines from Blackbeard who sat grinning on a stool, framed by a huge gong.

She covered both sides of her current Disco 45 and went straight from 'Closer To You' into 'Silly Games'. When she hit those high notes she smiled as if she had cleared the final hurdle of a race. There was little doubt that she is talented and original and just beginning to really develop.

At last Matumbi arrived onstage and after a short instrumental which seemed like a chance to sound check, on came Bagga and Glaister. Dressed in a red jacket, red plastic-rimmed shades and stinging brim hat, Bagga looked well rude.

I've never seen Matumbi do a bad show and their pragmatic approach — which is clearly an attempt to come to terms with the diverse expectations of their audience — is one which fascinates me. "Come with I man, seen," says Bagga as they move into 'Come With Me'. Judy McQueen follows and, as Bagga says, it's strictly music from one point of view. It really bubbles on 'Good Book', but unfortunately the vocalists are not happy with the sound and the clouds of

I Roy and Bagga Fagan. Pic J. B. Sohier.

Bagga Bagga Hey

dry-ice and the bubble machine don't help, coming across as cheap gimmicks.

"Them men deh jus' grieve me..." they announce and proceed to lay down one wicked piece of intra-dub with ska styled horn riffs, a crucial side of Matumbi we rarely hear on record. Last up is a lively version of 'Point Of View' which climaxes with I Roy toasting, up to his neck in dry-ice.

By now it's gone 2am and even if the management had allowed the show to continue, there is no way Matumbi would come back onstage.

Considering it was their first major London show for some time, it was sadly a disaster and the odds were definitely stacked against them.

I'm just looking forward to their next London show which will most likely be when they return from Africa.

The Lurkers

Marquee

I NEVER did find the ritual of anointing musicians with green gilberts, dislocating the nose of some innocent bystander while attempting to levitate and, due to poor marksmanship, transforming the toilets into a paddy field, particularly conducive to having a good time.

Regrettably, there are those for whom time has stood still, who still derive spiritual fulfilment from actively participating in such dubious social activities. And it seems this uncontrollable desire to re-enact such redundant tribal rights is now the prerogative of those who were too young to show their colours during the original "anarchical" punk skirmish.

Contrary to what they are led to believe, these shock-troops are not the spearhead of any wild youth movement, but plain old fashioned reactionaries involved in the very worst characteristics of revivalism: a rag-trade punk parody for which bands like The Lurkers, whether they approve or not, are employed to supply the required ramshackled soundtrack of feed-back buzzsaw guitars, biscuit-tin drumming and ranting incomprehensible vocals.

Following a rather heavy sputum shower, sporadic punch-ups and an off-target pint of beer, the lead Lurker may have half-heartedly threatened, "We ain't playing anything for you spitting bastards," but like those who he harangued, still continued to go through the motions of a performance.

What was enacted both on stage and amongst the spectators had nothing remotely connected with rock and roll — past, present or future.

Perhaps, at this late stage in the game, both The Lurkers and their followers are trapped into a time warp from which there is no escape but self-destruction. It seems that there are no options open to them other than finally becoming as dehumanised as those people responsible for keeping them employed.

At one time, rock and roll was a way of climbing out the social sewer; for The Lurkers it would appear to be a round ticket.

Roy Carr

GERRY RAFFERTY

THE "NIGHT OWL" ALBUM

INCLUDES
THE HIT SINGLES
"NIGHT OWL"
AND
"GET IT RIGHT NEXT TIME"

ALBUM UAK 30238
CASSETTE TCK 30238

Gary Sandford out-hips the boss. Pick Al Johnson.

Joe Jackson

Birmingham

JOE Jackson's band look sharper than he does: Graham Maby and Gary Sandford wear black and white clothes and have short black and blond hair respectively. Between them stands a tall man with a gaunt, gangly frame, a pinstripe suit and a big, rubbery, youthful, unformed face framed in hair that's prematurely receding.

But then Joe Jackson isn't hip, he isn't cool, he doesn't wear the right clothes or sing about the "right" things, and provided he's got a decent audience I doubt if he gives a damn whether he's in or out of vogue.

He's in the tough tradition of the troupers: standing at the front of the stage he has an easy, uncondescending rapport with the crowd and he seems to treat his talent as a trade. He doesn't sell himself short but he shrugs off the implications that his music sheds on the rest of his personality (he scoffs at the notion of being a bit of a star before singing 'Sunday Papers'), and his performance is the result of an old equation that relies on a simple idea of pleasure: he has a skill and

Doing the wrong things right

he's using it to entertain others.

Where his music differs from most of the puerile nonsense that covers the same topics in the same sort of way is that in his case integrity is necessarily and involuntarily involved.

There's a gleam in his eye that suggests he gets feverishly excited about being on stage and he's like an awkward adolescent clowning about and hurting from one intense, engrossing emotion to another. He jitters about as if he's longing to dance but doesn't quite know how: he starts, stops, spins, slams his fist into his palm or rushes over to briefly play the piano.

One minute he's reading out of one of those salacious stories from the Sun and holding aloft Page 3 with derisive glee; the next he has turned to face them transformed into the wry romantic who's been betrayed so often that disappointment isn't a surprise. He becomes the touchy, pushy opportunist with the tender, hopeful heart.

And some of his songs have a persuasive emotional purity that makes the bilious billing and cooing that gets labelled as love songs look pretty sick.

The sound of his band is bass-heavy, Graham Maby often taking the tune; it's strong enough to be entirely effective but it retains a sort of rough-edged spontaneity.

They start with 'Look Sharp', the twisted tale of 'Geraldine And John' incorporates that extraordinary instrument the melodica; 'Pretty Boy' is a lightly bouncing new number that seems to jealously lampoon its subject; during 'Friday' he runs round pretending to interview the rest of the band; 'One More Time' and 'Is She Really Going Out With Him' are the outpourings of the unlikely lover who's trying to retain some sort of dignity while reconciling himself to the crushing realities of a situation in which he still can't quite bring himself to believe.

He creeps up to the microphone, hands clasped, to sing 'It's Different For Girls'; it's fragile, breathy, rap and — even better — it neatly reverses the normal redundant roles.

A frantic, self-assertive 'I'm The Man' finishes the set and he encores with something that's announced as a "standard", and a fast, forceful 'Got The Time'. Then he goes over the top, chucks a stool at the drunk, douses the audience with the remains of the bottle of beer that he's been swigging all evening and finally trudges off sweating and drained.

He's edgy, relaxed, pleased, pained, sheepish, brash, gauche and self-assured.

It might be simpler if you saw him for yourself.

Lynn Hanna

Who sin't cool?

Metro

Dingwalls

IT'S nice here in Dingwalls. Food's fab, loads of booze and the serving wenches are a real bunch of crackers! The owner, Lord Ligg, has just put up closed-circuit video screens all over the place, so on Friday night we watched this band called Metro without taking our noses out of the chili bowls. The girl from EMI says they're real stars in Germany, so after pudding, I rolled up me trousers and battled my way to the stage through a sea of dolly-birds.

They're that kind of band because they've got this devilishly handsome singer called Peter Godwin, whose voice comes straight out of the ice-box. He prances around like Pinocchio on 'he's a right ol' Prince Charming to boot.

Great songs too — well-scrubbed, chunky lovers-rock with some rilly impressive layered guitar sounds from Sean and Colin, both rigged up to a flanger and guitar-synth aplode. A bloke from the NME said they reminded him of Talking Heads, but I think that's a bit far-fetched, even though some of their material sounds similar.

I like this band. They're very melodic, you can eat to their beat and still have change for the charabanc home.

Rick Joseph

Meet The Music Makers

MICKIE MOST

Top record producer for The Animals, Jeff Beck and Donovan through to Hot Chocolate, Mud and Racey, Mickie Most talks about his life, his music and his work.

NEXT WEEK
MONDAY TO FRIDAY at 9-30pm

Over the next two months, hear 10cc, Police, Ian Dury and Bryan Ferry.

CAPITAL RADIO 194

Broadcasting to over 5 million Londoners 24 hours a day on 194m Medium Wave (1548 kHz) and 96.8MHz VHF Stereo

All the hits and more

M.I.A. Flying Jockeys

As illustrated, in sage green
nylon, with
Orange
Quilted Lining.

State size
P. & P. £1 50 £32.50

Coats, blouses or frock duster, trousers with collar. Satisfaction or money refund.
Accessories and Remittance acceptable.
Prove authentic and quality made.

Nashville Tennessee

Dept NME

27 Cockburn Street, Edinburgh

Code No.	Size	Quantity	Price per Item (in p.p.)	Total Price

£ _____

Please send cheque/P.O. for the full amount (inc. p&p) made payable to YO-YO LTD., 47 British Grove, Hammersmith, London W4.
 Offers apply U.K. only.

PLATTERSTALL

MISSED THAT HIT SOUND WHILE IT WAS AROUND?

GET IT FROM THE DEALER WITH ALL THE CLASSICS
All the singles listed below are but a small selection from over 2,000 singles and 1,000 LP's to be found on our incredible prices.

SEND S.A.E. FOR LIST

ALL THE RECORDS LISTED BELOW ARE BY SACK 3 for £1.00 or 10 for £10.00 POSTAGE & PACKING MANY OTHERS ON LIST

20	ALLES	Oh Lari
54	BABY	Isn't it time
127	BIMBO JET	(S) Simba
224	DAVID BOWIE	Be my wife
526	TABLES	Life in the fast lane
3074	ELECTRIC LIGHT ORCHESTRA	Shine a little love
681	FOREIGNER	Cold as ice
722	GENESIS	Squid the pigskin
826	GUNNY JONES	Stuff like that
862	EVILYN "CHAMPAGNE" KING	Shine
1071	MANHATTAN TRANSFER	Work in love
1128	VAN MORLEY	The studio
1215	WALTER MURPHY	A SNA of Southtown
1268	MIKE OLDFIELD	Pennsylvania
1275	ORLANDO	Dance with me
2631	KADIA KRISTINA TEMPLE	Marine Kristina
1446	RENAISSANCE	Northern lights
1547	ROSE ROYCE	Love don't live here any more
1617	SHOWBADDY	Transcend
2080	DAVID SOUL	Let's have a quiet night in
2860	ROD STEWART	Get back/The first cut is the deepest
1212	BILLY SWAN	Get back
1862	TIMMY THOMAS	Why can't we live together
2025	WINGS	I've had enough
2068	YELLOW DOG	Just one more night

ALSO A GREAT BARGAIN

100 HIT SINGLES £15 (22 overseas)
100 SOUL SINGLES £15 (22 overseas)
100 REGGAE SINGLES £15 (22 overseas)

Oldies unlimited, Department N TELFORD, SHROPSHIRE TF2 9NO

PENNY FARTHING

PINK FLOYD — THE WALL (DOUBLE LP) £25.00 or 3 for £75.00

SECRET AFFAIR — GLOVE BOYS £2.75 SPECIAL PRICE WHITE STOCKS LAST

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

£1.95 Each or 3 for £5.95

GLOSTER DISCO CENTRE

3 MARKET PARADE, GLOUCESTER

Tel. 0452 33884 & 419587

12" SINGLES

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

Black Report — ... £2.50

THE LARGEST RECORD SHOP IN EXETER

FULL OF CHRISTMAS SPARKLERS

2 FLOORS OF RECORDS, OVER 15,000 DIFFERENT TITLES

CHRISTMAS CLASSICS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1000 ARTISTS

1000 RECORDS BY 1

[illegible][illegible]

HOT NEW US IMPORTS
Price		MSRP
1997
1998
1999
2000
2001
2002
2003
2004
2005
2006
2007
2008
2009
2010
2011
2012
2013
2014
2015
2016
2017
2018
2019 2020
2021
2022
2023
2024
2025
2026
2027
2028
2029
2030
2031
2032
2033
2034
2035
2036
2037
2038
2039
2040 2041
2042
2043
2044
2045
2046
2047
2048
2049
2050
2051
2052
2053
2054
2055
2056
2057
2058
2059
2060
2061
2062
2063
2064
2065
2066
2067
2068
2069
2070
2071
2072
2073
2074
2075
2076
2077
2078
2079
2080 2081
2082
2083
2084
2085
2086
2087
2088
2089
2090
2091
2092
2093
2094
2095
2096
2097
2098
2099
2100
2101
2102
2103
2104
2105
2106
2107
2108
2109
2110
2111
2112
2113
2114
2115
2116
2117
2118
2119
2120
2121
2122
2123
2124
2125
2126
2127
2128
2129
2130
2131
2132
2133
2134
2135
2136
2137
2138
2139
2140
2141
2142
2143
2144
2145

[illegible][illegible][illegible][illegible][illegible][illegible][illegible][illegible][illegible]

RECORD AND LPs and cassettes

Records & tapes of EVERY kind cash (10p - £2.50 exchange).
tion — absolutely

Bring any quantity
38 NOTTING HILL G
28 PEMBRIDGE ROAD, N
90 GOLDMAW ROAD,
(LPs and cassette music)
38 Notting Hill G

All shops open daily 10 thousands of used records
many below £1.20

Rare deletions are bought, sold
38 Notting Hill G
All inquiries

The AMERICAN COLLECTION
IMPORT MAIL ORDER
CHRISTMAS BONANZA

CHEAPIES	£
David Bowie: 13 Tapes	3.50
Lou Reed: Transformer	3.50
UK Subs: Another Kind of State	3.50
Tomita: Pictures at an Exhibition	3.50
Faenza: Bermuda Triangle	3.50
Tomita: Snowflakes	3.50
Tomita: Cosmos	3.50
Abba: Greatest Hits II	3.95
Red Star: Greatest Hits	3.95
Gary Numan: Pleasure Principles	3.95

Tubeway Army: Replicas	3.99
Flowerdew Mr. Tusk	3.99
Blondie: Earth to the Band	3.79
Three Johns: Flame	3.79
Bob Marley: Survivor	3.99
Lead Zepplin II: Mr. HV, HV, HV	3.99
Mothers of Invention: Overnight Sensation	3.99
Angel: Chorus Hit	2.99
Angel: On Earth as It Is	2.99
Graham Porter: Suck to Me	2.99
Television: Both LPs	2.50
Jim Hendrix: Experienced	4.99
Hot Tuna: Burgers	4.99
Jerry Garcia: Rides Again	4.99
Jefferson Airplane: Surfradio	4.99
low	4.99
Kansas: Mane	4.99
Kinks: Kashmere	4.99
Kinks: Somewhere in Time	4.99
Christina McVie: Legendary	4.99
Procul Harum: Salty Dog	4.99
Rolling Stones: Hot Rocks / & More	4.99
Bob Seger: Sinister Op's	each $3.99
Bob Seger: Silver	3.99
Police: Greatest (Double 10")	5.25
Joe Jackson: 10" Men (LP on 5 singles)	5.25
Squeeze: 6 Track 10"	3.50
Jim Hendrix: High, Live & Dirty (vinyl)	4.99
Jim Hendrix: Axis Beld to Love	4.99
AC/DC: TNT (Unreleased material)	4.99
AC/DC: Dirty Deeds (Different)	4.99
AC/DC: High Voltage (Different Sleeve)	4.99
Nektar: Live at the Roundhouse	4.99
Van der Graaf: Aerialist Grey	4.99
Paul Hennessy: Focus Mate	4.99
Mountain: Back	4.99
Mountain: Two Peaks (Double)	6.99
Frank Zappa: 200 Motels (Double)	6.99
Zappa: Beethoven	4.99
Zappa: Beethoven, Bonus For	4.99
Zappa: Orchestral Favorites	4.99
Zappa: Live Band / My Generation	5.99
Bob Weir: Fire	4.99
Bob Weir: Band	4.99
Grateful Dead: Fire	4.99
Chase & Chong: AK-S-11	4.99
Styx: LP	4.99
Styx: LP	4.99
Styx: Man of Miracles	4.99
Styx: Serpent in Slough	4.99

Hainwood Mac. Live in Chicago	6.99
31.0. Longbeach (Live)	6.25
Deep Purple. Purple Passages (Dub)	6.99
Check Trick. First	4.99
Jeff Beck. Thrift / Beck Gie	4.99
Alice Cooper. Muscle of Love	4.99
Alice Cooper. Pretzels for You	4.99
Alice Cooper. Easy Action	4.99
Alice Cooper. Welcome to my Nightmare	4.99
Lon Reddins. Champagne Charlie	4.99
Tammi. Planets	4.99
ZZ Top. All kinds	4.99
Lon Gillis. Live at Budokan (Double)	7.25
Please send 50¢ + S.A.E. for more details lists. Postage charge 85¢ per lb. 30¢ each 1 lb after 25.5¢ max.
Charge Overseas please send extra 75¢
All enquiries to:
The American Collection,
60 Olinda Street,
Kingston,
Portsmouth,

TAPE EXCHANGE
Cassettes wanted bought for 10p - £2.20 each

C.L. accepted — in any condi-
NONE refused!!

one of our shops at
TE. LONDON W.11
TTING MILL GATE, W.11
MEPHERDS BUSH W.12
ent with a.s.p. for cash to re, London W.11)

am—8 pm. There are is and tapes on sale —
Singles from 10p.

d and exchanged upstairs at Gate, W.11.
01-727 3539

G.I. RECORDS

Omigwa National Youth Orchestra	27-29
Appaloosa Melodians	25-26
American Philharmonic	21-22
American Studies	21-22
John Armstrong/Recording "Sings" Ann	29-30
John Armstrong/Recording "How about	23-24
AMM Good Evening	21-22
JANE Warner Caravan/Caravan	29-30
AMM Popcorn to Popcorn (Loudness)	22-23
Henry Adams Soundtrack/Pinkie	41-42
Goldfinger Ann	41-42
Goldfinger The Man	41-42
Goldfinger Music Christmas Music	41-42
Goldfinger Mary Mary to Country	41-42
Goldfinger Mary Mary to Country	41-42

[illegible][illegible][illegible][illegible]

RECORD CORNER

BY GEORGE NICH, BRADDOCK 1971

Just in case you're not sure, here's the straight OZ on the past week. Ounceans $1.95 per unit.

TOP SELLING RECORDS IN PICTURE SLEEVES

Peak Position Weeks on Chart Label

Number One — Barbra Streisand (5)
The Way We Were (Atlantic) (1970)
The 4th to 20th City of the Lady La, Antonio

Two — Blondie (2)
Blondie Under the Gun (Mercury)

Three — Patricia LaRue (3)
Patricia, Waiting On The Reason (Mercury)

Four — U2 (4)
U2 Rattle and Hum (Mercury) (1971) (1970)
U2 Rattle and Hum (Mercury) (1971) (1970)

Five — John Denver (5)
John Denver, Rocky Top (Mercury)

Six — Cher's Norman (6)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Seven — Cher's Norman (7)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Eight — Cher's Norman (8)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Nine — Cher's Norman (9)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Ten — Cher's Norman (10)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Eleven — Cher's Norman (11)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Twelve — Cher's Norman (12)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Thirteen — Cher's Norman (13)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Fourteen — Cher's Norman (14)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Fifteen — Cher's Norman (15)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Sixteen — Cher's Norman (16)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Seventeen — Cher's Norman (17)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Eighteen — Cher's Norman (18)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Nineteen — Cher's Norman (19)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Twenty — Cher's Norman (20)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Twenty One — Cher's Norman (21)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Twenty Two — Cher's Norman (22)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Twenty Three — Cher's Norman (23)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Twenty Four — Cher's Norman (24)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Twenty Five — Cher's Norman (25)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Twenty Six — Cher's Norman (26)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Twenty Seven — Cher's Norman (27)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Twenty Eight — Cher's Norman (28)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Twenty Nine — Cher's Norman (29)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Thirty — Cher's Norman (30)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Thirty One — Cher's Norman (31)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Thirty Two — Cher's Norman (32)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Thirty Three — Cher's Norman (33)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Thirty Four — Cher's Norman (34)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Thirty Five — Cher's Norman (35)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Thirty Six — Cher's Norman (36)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Thirty Seven — Cher's Norman (37)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Thirty Eight — Cher's Norman (38)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Thirty Nine — Cher's Norman (39)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Forty — Cher's Norman (40)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Forty One — Cher's Norman (41)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Forty Two — Cher's Norman (42)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Forty Three — Cher's Norman (43)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Forty Four — Cher's Norman (44)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Forty Five — Cher's Norman (45)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Forty Six — Cher's Norman (46)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Forty Seven — Cher's Norman (47)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Forty Eight — Cher's Norman (48)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Forty Nine — Cher's Norman (49)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Fifty — Cher's Norman (50)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Fifty One — Cher's Norman (51)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Fifty Two — Cher's Norman (52)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Fifty Three — Cher's Norman (53)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Fifty Four — Cher's Norman (54)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Fifty Five — Cher's Norman (55)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Fifty Six — Cher's Norman (56)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Fifty Seven — Cher's Norman (57)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Fifty Eight — Cher's Norman (58)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Fifty Nine — Cher's Norman (59)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Sixty — Cher's Norman (60)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Sixty One — Cher's Norman (61)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Sixty Two — Cher's Norman (62)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Sixty Three — Cher's Norman (63)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Sixty Four — Cher's Norman (64)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Sixty Five — Cher's Norman (65)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Sixty Six — Cher's Norman (66)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Sixty Seven — Cher's Norman (67)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Sixty Eight — Cher's Norman (68)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Sixty Nine — Cher's Norman (69)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Seventy — Cher's Norman (70)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Seventy One — Cher's Norman (71)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Seventy Two — Cher's Norman (72)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Seventy Three — Cher's Norman (73)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Seventy Four — Cher's Norman (74)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Seventy Five — Cher's Norman (75)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Seventy Six — Cher's Norman (76)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Seventy Seven — Cher's Norman (77)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Seventy Eight — Cher's Norman (78)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Seventy Nine — Cher's Norman (79)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Eighty — Cher's Norman (80)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Eighty One — Cher's Norman (81)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Eighty Two — Cher's Norman (82)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Eighty Three — Cher's Norman (83)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Eighty Four — Cher's Norman (84)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Eighty Five — Cher's Norman (85)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Eighty Six — Cher's Norman (86)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Eighty Seven — Cher's Norman (87)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Eighty Eight — Cher's Norman (88)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Eighty Nine — Cher's Norman (89)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Ninety — Cher's Norman (90)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Ninety One — Cher's Norman (91)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Ninety Two — Cher's Norman (92)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Ninety Three — Cher's Norman (93)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Ninety Four — Cher's Norman (94)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Ninety Five — Cher's Norman (95)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Ninety Six — Cher's Norman (96)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Ninety Seven — Cher's Norman (97)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Ninety Eight — Cher's Norman (98)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Ninety Nine — Cher's Norman (99)
Cher's Norman, Complete (Mercury)

Hundred — Cher's Norman (100)

[illegible]

DUNN BOOKS
DUNN BOOKS INC.
10000 W. 11th Ave., Suite 200
Denver, CO 80233
Phone: (303) 751-1234
Fax: (303) 751-1235
E-mail: info@dunnbooks.com
Web: www.dunnbooks.com

Thousands Of Oldies In Stock
Please send zip for Lists

If you collect records, make sure you try us!
Our prices are hard to beat by return.

We don't make you wait records!

FastPacking 16 Singles - 14 Day Ship - 3 Zip
LPs and 12" 5 - 3 Zip, One 12" from Overseas
(singles) 15 - Zip each, over 5 - Zip each LPs 15 - 22 each, over 2 - 3 Zip each

Backgrounds - Better Than 16 (P) 200
GLASS LEADER - Tenor Sax 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 1964-1966 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 1967-1968 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 1969-1970 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 1971-1972 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 1973-1974 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 1975-1976 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 1977-1978 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 1979-1980 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 1981-1982 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 1983-1984 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 1985-1986 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 1987-1988 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 1989-1990 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 1991-1992 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 1993-1994 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 1995-1996 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 1997-1998 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 1999-2000 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2001-2002 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2003-2004 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2005-2006 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2007-2008 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2009-2010 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2011-2012 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2013-2014 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2015-2016 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2017-2018 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2019-2020 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2021-2022 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2023-2024 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2025-2026 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2027-2028 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2029-2030 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2031-2032 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2033-2034 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2035-2036 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2037-2038 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2039-2040 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2041-2042 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2043-2044 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2045-2046 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2047-2048 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2049-2050 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2051-2052 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2053-2054 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2055-2056 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2057-2058 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2059-2060 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2061-2062 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2063-2064 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2065-2066 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2067-2068 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2069-2070 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2071-2072 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2073-2074 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2075-2076 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2077-2078 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2079-2080 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2081-2082 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2083-2084 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2085-2086 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2087-2088 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2089-2090 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2091-2092 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2093-2094 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2095-2096 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2097-2098 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2099-2100 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2101-2102 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2103-2104 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2105-2106 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2107-2108 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2109-2110 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2111-2112 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2113-2114 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2115-2116 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2117-2118 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2119-2120 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2121-2122 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2123-2124 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2125-2126 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2127-2128 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2129-2130 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2131-2132 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2133-2134 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2135-2136 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2137-2138 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2139-2140 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2141-2142 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2143-2144 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2145-2146 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2147-2148 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2149-2150 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2151-2152 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2153-2154 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2155-2156 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2157-2158 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2159-2160 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2161-2162 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2163-2164 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2165-2166 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2167-2168 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2169-2170 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2171-2172 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2173-2174 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2175-2176 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2177-2178 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2179-2180 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2181-2182 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2183-2184 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2185-2186 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2187-2188 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2189-2190 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2191-2192 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2193-2194 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2195-2196 16 (P) 200
THE BEATLES - 2197-2198 16 (P) 20

[illegible][illegible][illegible][illegible]

PERSONAL

30p
per word

AA FOLK penfriends, personal friends, marriage partners. One year's membership £5. Free details from Atlantic Agency, 34 Beaconfield Ave, Colchester, Essex CO3 3QJ. Telephone 0206 44884.

AMIL: Be my friend, I'll be yours forever. Shelly.

DATeline's PSYCHOLOGICAL accurate introductions lead to pleasant friendships, spontaneous affairs, and firm and lasting relationships including marriage. All ages, all areas. Free details. Dateline Computer Dating, Dept (NEX), 23 Abington Road, London, W5. Tel 01-837 6503.

FAMILY ATTRACTIVE lady required to accompany serious guy to Blonde concert in Birmingham 18-22 years. South Midlands preferred. Transport and ticket waiting. Must meet beforehand. Box No. 3069.

GERMAN BOY 18 seeks English girl for correspondence. Norbert Wyss, Vöhringer Strasse 9, 3550 Bremen.

HYPONOTIST/BEHAVIOUR PSYCHOLOGIST, hypnotism, summering, nail biting, emotional or personality problems — Ring 01 546 5720 for quick and effective help.

JANE SCOTT for genuine friends. Introductions opposite sex with sincerity and thoughtfulness. Details free. Stamp to Jane Scott, 3/4M North St. Quadrant, Brighton, Sussex BN1 3GJ.

JAPANESE PENFRIENDS: Send age, hobbies, for free details. Utopia, Onizawa Bldg. 2-3-3, Shibuya, Shibuya-Ku, Tokyo, Japan.

LESLEY COME BACK

MAKE FRIENDS all over the World. Write to Isabel Lusa's Letterbox, 22 Montpelier Rd, London W5.

PENFRIENDS GALORE: All ages. Free brochures from Leisure Times (A25), Chelvey, Lancs.

PENFRIENDS — USA: Make lasting friendships through correspondence. Send age, interests for free reply. Marilyn, Box UK, Brooklyn, NY 11223.

WORLDWIDE PENFRIENDS: Write for free details. Pen Friend Service, Pt 27 SF-20801, Turks 80, Finland.

YOUNG MAN into Synthesizer T.R.B. seek someone similar. Box No. 3070.

SITUATIONS VACANT 18p
per word

DON'T ESCAPE! Work with record companies, radio stations, music magazines etc. Full time part time. Experience unnecessary. Music Industry Employment Guide (1. Radio Employment Guide (1. British Music Index (including 800+ vint addresses); (1. All three £7.80. Mammion House Productions, Stevenage, Devon.

PART-TIME WORK: 11 a.m. — 3 p.m. Approx. £8 per hour. Ideal for anyone between jobs if you are extrovert and like dealing with people that will suit you. Call Roger on 01 404 4482. Immediate start possible.

SITUATIONS WANTED 18p
per word

I'M MALE, 27 have had some experience writing and editing for Free Radio Magazines. Have been into F.R. for long time. Want job in rock journalism (I.R. for similar) etc. Anything considered. Box No. 3071.

FAN CLUBS

18p
per word

BLOWN OFFICIAL Fan Club, send age to P.O. Box 83, London, W2.

GRASSIES OFFICIAL fan-club. Send age for details to Grassie Information, P.O. Box 107, London W6 8RU.

OFFICIAL PHANHANS Fan Club, send age to P.O. Box 12, Guildford, Surrey.

OFFICIAL 100% Fan Club, send age for details to Alan Davies, P.O. Box 50, London, E18 1AX.

ROCK STEADY Heavy Metal Magazine No. 1. Send 50p in cheque/P.O. payable to Shooting Star, Marlborough Road, P.O. Box 50, London E18 1AX.

RUSSIAN INFORMATION: 38 Dulverton Road, Faversham, Northampton.

STATUS DUO Official Supporters Club, send SAE to P.O. Box 83, London W2.

THE WHO Official club, send age for details to The Who Club, P.O. Box 107a, London, W6 8RU.

MUSICAL SERVICES 18p
per word

ABOUT 100 bands, groups, discographies, latest press. London's leading entertainment agency. Clemons' 01-263 5111.

ABSOLUTELY FREE 'Tenny's Songwriting Questions answered' is a book explaining copyright, promotion, publishing, recording, contracts, royalties, song contests, setting lyrics to music without playing etc. Free from International Songwriters' Association (INSA), Limerick City, Ireland.

AMPLIFIERS, MIXERS etc. Nook 01 444 0702.

DEMOS, TAPES for quick service. Phone Tibby 78430 or write to JH Tape Duplicating Service, 92 Colne, East Tibby, Essex RM18 8RF.

EARN MONEY songwriting. Answering letters, book tells how — £5.50 10 17 (K) Jorden Chambers, 119 Oxford Street, London W1. Tel. 01-404 5011.

INSYNC VIDEO Productions for independent, professionally made, colour video of your band. 01-404 5011.

LYRICS WANTED: No publication fee. 11 St Albans Avenue, London W4.

WRITERS TURN lyrics into songs, songs into cash. Details BCM, Leebor Music, London. WCTV 6XX.

DISCOTHEQUES 18p
per word

BROADCASTING OPPORTUNITIES: Industrial radio wishes to meet men and women wanting to become freelance presenters with a view to working on station. Training if not experience. Ring Ransford 481123 between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

DAVE JENSEN — 01-495 4010.

DISCOS, KIMAS, New Year Functions. 01-328 6424.

DISCO MIX 700W Roadshow 01 838 7039.

DISCOTHEQUES 01-986 2901/2928.

STEVE DAY 01-524 4976.

STEVE LEES — Sounds from the Street Downtown K7977.

MUSICIANS WANTED

18p
per word

FEMINIST PUNK/N Wave band wants women bass player. Start 01 703 4969.

GUN WISHES to form/Join Renaissance/Steelyke type band. Must have another part singer. Nottingham area. Box No. 3073.

GOOD BASS: Vocals, keyboards 18-19 North London. Dave, 01 485 8107. Skidoo 8 Today of any tomorrow.

HOLLOW MAN required, must play drums. 0786 70823.

ORGANIST for multi-racial reggae band. Reading or Slough area. Band transport. Gigs waiting. Phone Wokingham 781516 or Farnham Common (028 14) 4063.

PNEUMANIA REQUIRE thinking drummer, own kit and transport. Ring Pete, Luton 016645 after 5pm.

ST. IVES Cornwall drummer and singer for New Wave Group. St. Ives 5260.

THE VIOLATORS 1977 punk band urgently need a singer and drummer for 1977 reworked. Box No. 3072.

VOCALIST/FEMALE wanted for multi-racial reggae band. Reading or Slough area. Band transport. Gigs waiting. Phone Wokingham 781516 or Farnham Common (028 14) 4063.

WANTED GUITARIST and bassist for Rosy/Human League/Clash style band. Must possess image and ideas 01 544 5013.

WANTED NOW Guitars, drums for new wave RnB band. Phone Hot Rocks Records, Tredger.

EMPLOYMENT AGENCY LICENCE 18p
per word

EMPLOYMENT AGENCIES Act 1973. Notice of application for a licence. We, Robert Clive Phillips, and Anne Rosemary Phillips of 21 Down View, Chalfont Hill, Stratford, Gloucestershire hereby give notice in pursuance of section 2 (1) (a) of the above act that we intend to apply to the Secretary of State for employment for a licence to carry on an employment agency for performers, producers, directors etc. in the entertainment industry at the premises 21 Down View, Chalfont Hill, Stratford, Gloucestershire, such agency to be known as AB Entertainment Services. Any person desiring to make representations as to the grant of the licence should do so in writing to the Department of Employment Regional Office, ROAC, The Priory, Bristol, BS1 2NQ within fourteen days of the date of this notice. Date 8th December 1979. R. C. Phillips, A. R. Phillips.

RECORD COMPANY SECURITIES: Are you on our books? MEMO Emp Agcy 01-734 6774/5.

SPECIAL NOTICES 30p
per word

CRAZY COLOURS Punk! Vermillion red, Peacocks Blue, Cycloclaven, Pine Green, Pinkissimo, Lime Green, Violette, Tangerine, Capri Blue, Canary Yellow, Sunshine Gold, Aubergine, Lilac, Leven der, Fire, Sky Blue. Play a part to Domack who specialises in applying 'crazy colours' in any shape, style and design. Monday: Saturday 9-7. Friday 9-8. Telephone 01-637 2876 and 01-937 8432. Free advice given. Domack and Tony, Universe Salon, 69 Marlow Road, London, W8.

Richard and Linda Thompson

Venue
THE Thompsons are notoriously erratic performers so I guess it's a good luck that on the three times I've seen them during the past 12 months they've never been less than solidly enjoyable.

This gig didn't have the special edge that inspired their splendid Drury Lane gig last November, but then the Venue isn't conducive to their kind of finely-wrought intensity, and a good-humoured, relaxed stroll through their extensive catalogue seemed quite appropriate in the circumstances.

Only twice did they rise above this general level of coyness: first, on 'Pavanne', a silly song about terrorism, but here transformed by Linda's impassioned vocals and Richard's sensitive acoustic support into a tense, dream-like narrative that had the audience hooked and hushed; then on the reworked 'Night Comes In', a shimmering, sliding foray into Richard's impressionistic guitar technique.

His love of jazz was evident as he explored ideas and sounds, employed surprising changes, advanced and retreated with an uncanny ear for dynamics and finally slowed the song into a beautiful spacey and quiet resolution.

For the rest, it was all pleasantness and pleasantness — a new, less anguished version of 'For Shame Of Doing Wrong', a poignant 'Strange Affair', a blistering disco bustle through 'Don't Let A Thief Steal Into Your Heart'. Alas, there were also five songs from the new album which, apart from the brilliantly sardonic tango of the title track, are best forgotten.

The band, though, were in fine fettle — Simon Nicol encouraging and supportive on second guitar, the warmly resonant bass of Pat

Donaldson and Michael Spencer's robust drumming. There's a spectacular light-show — strobes even on 'Civilisation', a drily humorous touch — and, as usual, the set's spiced with a judicious selection of non-originals: tonight a Sandy Denny ballad, a jugband number, a delightful encore of 'The Springfielders' 'Island Of Dreams' and finally Ricard rocking out with sly affection on 'No Particular Place To Go'.

Given the Thompsons' bitterly pessimistic prognosis of modern society, you could say it was an evening of doom. The one sad omission was any sign of a halt to Richard's decline as a songwriter, most obvious in the glib condemnations and lonely-heart clichés of the 'Sunny Vista' album.

It's a minor consolation that live the Thompsons still retain a few of the qualities that have disappeared entirely from their records.

Graham Lock

Maria Muldaur

Venue

'Falling In Love Again', that's what my new album's called and I'd just like you all to know about it, 'cos life's just great when you're in love. Course I've had my hard times, a lovin' an' a losin', a little bit of whorin' an' a whole lotta heartbreak, an' I'm jus' gonna tell youse all about it, so jus' settle back in yo' seats and get yourself in the mood with all that fine food and wine — 'cos it's time for those old, old stories from the woman who has lived 'em all.

PERSONAL experience, that's what puts the conviction, the feeling, the life into music isn't it? Confessions from the soul that stir anyone's emotions, and make you feel a part of that song — hey, that's me she's singing about.

So goes the story. But either Maria Muldaur has steeped her memories to excess in wine and whisky, sleazy clubs and dirty old men, or she's a tellin' lies. Because there ain't no life in her songs tonight, no conviction in her words and no feeling in the telling.

It's a practise perfect show, not told from the heart but off-by-heart, with token pelvic gyrations and full frontal thrusts in tight-trousered, clinging skimpy-topped predictability. Old men surround her on and off stage and none of them rises until the chart single 'Midnight At The Oasis' is played near the end of the set.

Oh, Maria can sing alright. She's got 'a good voice', but so have a million other people, and she falls short of the top-grade jazz and blues singer she fancies herself as. After all, it takes more than an adequate rendition of Billy Holiday's 'Lover Man Where Can You Be' to be that.

To give the audience that really low-down bluesy feel, the lady recounts more of that authentic life history of broken marriages, torrid affairs, shrinks, Gurus and Cosmopolitan magazine; her paranoia reflected in her song titles — 'Where Can You Be', 'When Are You Going', 'When Are You Coming Back', culminating in 'That's The Way Love Is' and 'One And One Only'. There are nods to Dan Hicks, Bonnie Raitt, even Dolly Parton. Being American do they have these problems too?

The musicians are professional technicians, possessing all the components to make up a spectacular sound show — tenor, alto and soprano saxophones, clarinet, flute, fiddle and harmonica, besides the basic guitar, bass, drums line-up. But the sound is nothing more than proficient, practised and acceptable, although Maria proudly tells us that her sax player Jim Rotherman can do almost anything with his mouth.

What we have is not only jaded taste and jaded content, but jaded humour too.

Deanne Pearson

NME X-PRESSWORD

ACROSS

- 1 Singer/actress who plays Monkey in 'Quadrophenia' (5, 6)
- 5 Recent reggae chartmaker (6, 7)
- 8 Virginia's relative in Pink Floyd? (5, 6)
- 10 '60s R&B combo whose hits included 'Gloria' and 'Here Comes The Night'
- 11 See 7
- 13 & 25 Costello 45 of recent memory
- 14 Top chaps institution subjected to Weller wit
- 15 Has-beens reshuffle to support punk's Ice Lady!
- 17 I and I transforms a marble yob, Haile Anagrammatically! (3, 6)
- 18 First name of 'Ring My Bell' female
- 20 Mop Tops second movie
- 21 An old fart? Well, almost ...
- 22 See 19
- 24 Dapper Stone
- 26 Revived by the Flying Lizards
- 27 Roxy clones, hit the top in 1975 with 'Glass Of Champagne'

DOWN

- 1 This may not be uptown Jamaica but the

INSTRUMENTS FOR SALE 18p
per word

DRUMS 5 drums, 5 accessories. £250. 01-870 1524.

PRACTICE KITS: 5 drums, 5 accessories. A must for drummers in flats and houses who can't practice. Increase your drumming ability with more practice! £80. Send stamp only for brochure to Bill Sanders, 64 Cornhill Avenue, Scutcliffe, Nidda. Delivery anywhere UK Tel: 01 578 7908 evenings.

STRAT COPY as new (80 ono. Phone 01-830 9169 after 3 pm.

- 2 beat it is a treat! (3, 6)
- 3 Mad John's other half on 'Really Free' (4, 5, 7)
- 4 Arthur of 'Sweet Soul Music', your Mod starter for tan!
- 5 You wanna Tube? It'll cost ya ...
- 6 American blue-eyed soul team, their classic was 'You've Lost The Lovin' Feelin' (9, 8)
- 7 & 11 Dingbat US singer/songwriter
- 9 Stoned viewer (anag. 2 words)

- 12 Ronettes lead singer, slept with her producer (6, 7)
- 16 Hand in your parkas, if you can't get this one: they cut the original 'Guns Of Navarone'
- 19 & 22 US blues band who made the top ten in 1968 with 'On The Road Again'
- 23 Ms Stewart of 'Knock On Wood'
- 25 See 13

ANSWERS TO LAST WEEK'S CROSSWORD

ACROSS: 1 'Setting Sons'; 71 Spy; 9 Meat Loaf; 10 Foghat; 11 Tom Robinson; 13 'Brass In Pocket'; 17 Neilson; 18 Utopia; 19 Ronnie Wood; 21 Dennis (Roussos); 22 (Denny) Laine; 24 (Don) Everly; 25 Jetty; 27 (Tony) Iommi; 28 Allan Clarke; 30 'Que Sera Mi Vida'.

DOWN: 2 The Tourists; 3 Stiff; 4 'Say When'; 5 Let Your Heart Dance; 6 Don Everly; 8 'Hot Shot'; 12 Brian Wilson; 14 Paul Waller; 15 'Crocodile Rock'; 16 Eric Idle; 20 'No More Tears'; 23 'My Girl'; 26 Cilla (Black); 29 Lou (Reed).

YOUR PASSPORT TO AN EXCITING FUTURE!

A TWO YEAR
DIPLOMA COURSE FOR FOREIGN CORRESPONDENTS
& TRANSLATORS

Build upon your competence in European languages & prepare to enter the world of international trade and business as a tri-lingual secretary or technical translator.

If you have, or hope to get 2 'A' level passes (one must be in a foreign language) write now for details.

To: The Admissions Officer, Bradford College, Gt. Horton Rd., Bradford BD7 1AY or telephone 0274 33844. Please send me details of your 2 year Diploma Course in Foreign Correspondents & Translators.

Name _____ Address _____ Post Code _____

GASBAG

Mail your rail to:
Gasbag, NME,
5-7 Cernaby St.,
London W.1.

There's war among the rebels MADNESS, MADNESS, War

ALL students are smart-arsed posers. Bob Dylan is absolute shite, and I think the NME is superb. There are three good reasons as to why this letter should be printed (or at least three things you like to see in your letters to this hallowed and feared Gasbag of yours). So print the bugger (please?) James T. Krik (A Revillos Fan), Clifton, Nottingham. Damn good letter, this. Unfortunately, it's downhill all the way from here on in. — CSM

I wish you would stop constantly printing your views on the NF and BM and other Nazi orientated organisations. I am what could loosely be classified as a Nazi but do not believe in genocide or the such like. I thought punk had something to do with freedom to do as you want, so why can't we do this without music papers constantly trying to indoctrinate us with their views. I personally think the ANL and RAR and all these are just as bad as it's usually them who starts the fights. Please print this as I'm sure it must mirror other people's views. Dean, Fife, Scotland. That it does. Dean — completely backward. It's dreadfully humanitarian of you not to "believe in genocide or the such like," but even if punk has "something to do with freedom to do as you want," Nazism certainly doesn't. Those who cannot understand history are condemned to repeat it. Don't watch that! — CSM.

Every time new talent emerges the left is quick to pounce on it and threaten it into slugging the National Front. Now, not even non-political bands like Madness are spared. Madness, who have never made a political comment and probably never will, are being victimised by lefty journalists and Rock Against Racism because they happen to have a large NF following. At least Madness respect their fans and don't slag them off like Sham and the Upstarts have done. Violence at gigs is very rarely due to politics (ah no? — CSM) but left-wing rags like Sounds and NME are always eager to blame the NF even when there have been no NF members present. The best example of this was when Wolverhampton YNF were blamed for smashing up an Angelic Upstarts gig when they weren't even there. Don't do that.

JOHN WOOD. Wolverhampton YNF. It ain't the NME who made Madness' politics — or lack of same — into an issue. It's the vicious, bully-boy behaviour of fascist creeps like you and your mates who made it an issue, and for the benefit of Madness fans who aren't racists, we considered it necessary to find out what the band's attitude is. Or do you and yours consider Madness to be your exclusive property? — CSM.

Why is it all these fascist morons follow bands who play black music? ABEL MUZOREWA, Sheerness-on-Sea. From racists you expect logic, awreddy? — CSM

In a recent Madness article you classified National Front Representatives as the Tufty Club Brigade. This witty piece of writing may have jeopardised the rest of my life. I have been proudly wearing a 'Tufty Club' badge on my duffle coat, far before the National Front were even conceived, and I am as passive as a lollipop lady. JULIE Harrow, P.S. Most of the time your paper's okay. Switch to a Hulk badge and the Harrow greens dem a rally roun'. — CSM

Please don't print this letter or you will blow my cover. Brian the Mole, Westminster. We fort you was the son of God! — CSM

Dylan will not forgive you. His fans will not forgive you. But God will. Brother Gregory, Palestine. Phew! — CSM

Dear NME, please forward this letter to: Max Bell, Angel Court, Trinity College, University of Life, Thanx. ANON, Cambridge. O weep ye groves of academe! — CSM (9 months doing journalism at Harlow Tech).

I've read some real bull in your rag (less than in others I admit), but Nick Kent's review of Scritti Politti at London University left me dumbfounded. I don't think I've ever seen such a series of incorrect statements (except perhaps those "Join the Professionals" commercials) anywhere. I obviously can't explain his not enjoying their music because that's a matter of taste, but to say they were "condescending, lethargic, untidy" and "contradictory" is simply wrong. They played some of the tightest improvised music I've heard since 'Starless And Bible Black' — and it was improvised the guitarist later told us that he had to make it seem more so just to convince cynics like Kent).

Perhaps if Kent had looked slightly further than the end of his nose (ie the screaming and leaping of The Pop Group — who were brilliant) he might have noticed the slightly subtler but awesome power that emits from this band. But even these blunders are microscopic compared to his calling them "contradictory to their socialist ideals," and certainly more "condescending" had they refused point-blank to play requests made by the audience. Scritti Politti are also the only band to my knowledge who have successfully managed to undermine the mega-platinum rat race music business and get their own record out on their own label

(and there's a new one out now, folks). I don't know who your "idealistic young scribe" is, but he's got it well sussed if he recognises that bands like Scritti are the centre of the whole 'new wave' thing, and not hypocritical bands like The Clash who charge over to America to sing about how bored they are there. DAN WILLIAMS, Bristol. Don't understate your case. Dan, Scritti are the centre of the entire universe, and even that's damning them with faint praise. — CSM.

You sit there strumming guitars and making music which is all very well, and you think you are big deals and you seek fame. But there are men who build electric power systems, and they fall from pylons and they die and they become paralyzed and they lose arms and legs. They do this to bring electricity to you. And the people they die for don't even know their names. They are my heroes, not you. The kind of people they are:

you come first, they come last. I just thought I'd show you what our fathers are like. Heavy, huh? How can we ever hope to reach them. I don't believe people work for money. People don't work for money. They work for love or lust. There are certain types of knaves who think they can twist what I've said into a trap. Personally I don't think I'm a fool. MARIO STOLPH, Nigel, South Africa. Fancy there being a South African town called Nigel, Mario. Does Nevil Shute know about this? Anyway, let's also hear it for nurses, firemen and everybody else who no-one ever thinks about unless they go on strike. — CSM.

Travelling in Europe has its good and bad bits. The fact that you can buy two bottles of wine for the price of one NME just about sums it up. When I'm bored of getting pissed I occasionally fork out the equivalent of 55 to 70p in france/marks/drachmas for a two week old NME. It's not this that I want to complain about but an unprecedented provocation to the West by the East German authorities. On a recent visit to Berlin I decided to visit the eastern sector for a day just to see what life 'over the wall' was like. In the morning I coughed up 2.80 dm for an NME and, on the tube to the border station, read about last month's releases, the gigs I was missing etc. Going through the customs I was asked to empty out the plastic bag I was carrying. While not caring about my decadent western sandwiches or even my camera, they took exception to my NME. After flicking through it, a guard told me that I must either go back with it to West Berlin or have it confiscated. I pointed out that the only colour of the paper was red and that it was even more scathing in its attacks on Maggie T than Pravda, but in the end I had to let them take it away and incinerate it. Thoroughly pissed off, I did not enjoy my day wandering round East Berlin, watching people in out-dated clothes drive their '50s style box shaped cars round the grey concrete streets. Anyhow to get back to the point of the confiscation of my NME — this gross deprivation of human rights should be seriously considered by NATO as an affront to the freedom of Europe. An immediate general mobilisation should be called to avenge this inhumane act and free the eastern European countries so that they too can laugh at Paul Morley's reviews. PADDY O'POGO, Punk on the move — Paris / Hamburg / Berlin / Athens / Dublin.

Now I'm really confused. In Wolverhampton they think we're commies, in East Berlin we're imperialists. In actual fact, we're bourgeoisie libertarian hedonists, except for those of us who aren't, which brings us to ... — CSM.

Behold, the ultimate Orchestral Manoeuvres In The Dark Anagram: Vimmy, you silly little turd, you have spilt the fucking gripe water. Good 'un eh? No, it's OK. Don't thank me, I'm Welsh. BORRIS THE MORRIS, West Bridgford, Nottingham. Er ... aren't you stretching the rules a little? — CSM.

So, theory has it that if you put a monkey in front of a typewriter and give it an infinite amount of time, it'll eventually type out the complete works of Shakespeare. Well, the NME do one better. Every morning they get a monkey and put it in front of a typewriter; in the evening they take the jumble of letters it's produced, writes 'Ian Penman' at the end, and call it an album review. CHARLIE CHAINSAW, London W14. This letter is a thinly disguised plug for the new Mekons album. — CSM

I am at the point of terminal frustrations (arghgh!) I feel like stabbing myself with a bread knife. Why? I'll tell you why. I am a Pink Floyd fan (among other things) and have waited 2½ years for a new record ... and what happens — NME give it the ultimate accolade — a review by Ian Penman. What is so note worthy about this? I can't understand a bloody word of it. Well not literally, it's the way he puts the words together into what are usually called sentences — but in this case I can't bring myself to call them as such because they mean nothing.

To quote the Encyclopaedia Britannica on Wittgenstein "... he was led to the conclusion that the logical structure which language shares with reality can't itself be stated but must show itself through the limits of discourse. When an attempt is made to transgress these limits, the result is nonsense, a breakdown of language. Much traditional philosophy is the attempt to say the unsayable."

So Penman, why don't you stop meandering through your metaphysical absurdities and come down to earth. And as Wittgenstein says "... where of one cannot speak, there of one must be silent." AN ORFLY CLEVERER JACOB, Nurdsville City, Arizona (West of Swansea), P.S. On the other hand he might have accidentally slipped into the fourth dimension and is under the impression he is writing scripts for Playschool. Lissen, pal. If Penman wanted people to understand what he wrote, he'd write differently. He ain't thick, y'know. — CSM

As linguists, you are totally incompetent. About six months ago, I had to write in, correcting the title of a Jam article which grammatically was obscene. Concerning the Dr. Feelgood article last week, I see a sad attempt at forming German compound nouns — I refer to 'Schelzestrasse' and wonder whether you have misspelt "Schelze" for "Schelisse" — the latter meaning "shit". If so, the translated title would read "Up shit-street" — that just about sums up your situation. Oh NME, shame on you. PAUL DOUGHTY, address suppressed. Merel Blau, senior. In days to come better we shall do, nicht wahr? — CSM (E in A-level French, 1968)

May I just say how great Shoestring is before the backlash starts? Shoestring is gr... shit, too late, it's started. Typical. COUNT DRACULA, Aurlinton. Shoestring was crap even before you wrote, Count. Sor-reseal — CSM

I'd like to wish the NME and friends all over the country a very Happy Briantmas. DAVID TWITCHELL, Brintree, Essex. Shouldn't that be "Briantree"? — CSM

Charles Shaar Murray does the decent thing

T-ZERS

BIDS FAREWELL TO THE SIXTIES

A S ONE of the world's foremost rock-producing nations T-Zers feels it's high time we followed the lead of that other supplier of essential commodities and plunged headlong into the Middle Ages. From now on only the most morally backwards of rock artists will be allowed to appear in public without their veils, and that's not all. We have The Dickies tour dates in our possession. Unless America comes to its musical senses and sends all of its AOR (Adult Oriented Rock) artists into deep space, we will kidnap The Dickies, make them stand trial for being moles, and then put them on the first plane back!

While the State Department's chewing that over let's return once more to the antics of those concerned, intelligent, liberal retards The Damned, sorry, Dimmed, sorry, Dumped, sorry, Damned. Yes that's it, The Damned. It seems The Damned ran predictably amuck at London's Rainbow last Friday. Captain Sensible took off his clothes at the climax of the evening's festivities, and Rat Scabies joined in with his world-famous impersonation of the late Keith Moon. The audience greeted this display of genuine bona-fide rock emotion by ripping out a few seats and sending them hurtling stage-ward, though inevitably some fell short of their targets and landed on various unlucky bastards' heads. Sensible reciprocated by firing his equipment — amplifiers and such — back at them. This is the sort of cheap sensationalist escapade the rock world thrives on, and after all, what's a few cracked skulls to a group like The Damned? They had enough on their mind as it was, for the previous week at Leicester's De Montfort Hall some wag decided to mis-appropriate a brown suitcase containing a reel tape of their last two or three months worth of demos! The tape is obviously quite useless to anyone but The Damned themselves, and if the wag involved would like to return it to Chiswick records he will be let off lightly. Chiswick would be extremely grateful, as they estimate it will take the Dimmed, sorry, Du — (Get on with it — Ed.) Damned at least six months to catch up again...

The Specials and The Selecter rounded off their 2-Tone tour with a jam-packed bumper fun event at London's Lycium followed by a swinging party nearby. The lads were not exactly over-joyed, however, by the restrictions put on them by bill-flooting Chrysalis Records as to the number of excitable chums they could invite to balance out the staid, drunken and often immobile media-type persons. Among the thronging luminaries were John Cooper Clarke (shaking a very rubber leg or two), Bob Geldof (there to celebrate the fact that The Specials album is out, stripping the Rats charts-wise and more than mildly vexed at the "continual insults" hurled his sensitive way by churlish pressfolk), Phil Rambo, Phil Daniels, Chrisie Hynde, Joe Strummer and Nick Logan (Who? — Ed.)...

At New York's Trax club to see James White and The Blacks the other night was a bearded Mick Jagger, who might have gone unnoticed were it not for a clean-shaven Jerry Hall on his arm...

And staying with the Beautiful People, it appears

'THE MILLER'S TAIL' or 'HEY NUDE'... Read this caption in a smug US accent: Rock'n'roller Rat Scabies imagines how life was during the '60s. This candid shot taken on his last visit sometime in New York City shows Rat and partner OK Yoni as two virgins obsessed with walls, and bridges the gap between old and new wave. Oh no; such desperate caption writing has stumped T-Zers because someone has just remembered Shaved Fish — an impossible pun. Well, we'll be damned if that don't beat all... And now back to the studio. Pic: Paul Cox that glamorous free-floating girlfriend-to-the-stars Bebe Buell has bet that The Boomtown Rats 'I Don't Like Mondays' will be a hit in the US, and she's putting her assets where her mouth is too, promising to walk naked along Fifth Avenue if it flops...

Exegesis groupie Mike Oldfield will certainly need all the strength that his bold new personality can muster. He's broke. "Almost a pauper," was the unusually succinct summary from Virgin pressmeister Alistair Clark. Extroversion doesn't come cheap, and last Spring's giant tour of Europe with a million-piece orchestra has almost emptied the Oldfield coffers. What's needed is a platinum album or three. Pity Mike's new album, ironically titled Platinum, won't be a contender...

Wayne County claims to have had 'it' cut off, and now has 'it' picked in a jar. She's played CBGB's last weekend under the new name of 'Jayne' County...

Hold the presses: The Lovin' Spoonful reformed for a one-off gig specially for the benefit of the makers of Paul Simon's first movie, concerning a 35-year-old who refuses to hang up his rock'n'roll shoes — obviously an autobiographical role for Mr Simon. Tim Tim and Sam and Dave feature in support roles. (Who said a man his height needs all the support he can get?) But The Lovin' Spoonful! At this rate we'll soon see Humble Pie back in action. What? They're reforming, and they're bringing a new album out next year. After the ill-timed Small Faces come-back it had to happen...

China Wing Kantner, 3, cruelly-named offspring of Grace Slick and Paul Kantner is going the way of former Jeffersonians Jack Cassidy and Jorma Kaukonen and playing bass and singing in a 'Frisco punk band called Taeth. She's also co-written a song with her dad called 'Things To Come' for the latest Starship platter...

Meanwhile back at the vinyl emporium of hippie mogul Richard Branson plans are afoot to release a Sex Pistols greatest hits collection entitled, appropriately enough, 'Flogging A Dead Horse'. T-Zers was under the impression that 'Never Mind The Bollocks' was the Pistols' greatest hits, but Virgin probably couldn't resist the opportunity to make an obscure pun on an old slang word for heroin ('horse'). As a result of their humorous use of a famous credit card to promote the last piece of Pistols product, 'Rock Around The Clock', American Express have now cancelled Virgin's account with them, forcing senior staff to resort to less glamorous Luncheon Vouchers...

And still on the subject of flogging dead horses, a six minute film called He May Be Dead But He's Elvis is a big smash on the US late-night circuit. The plot goes thus: The big cheeseburger's rotting corpse is exhumed for a final tour and single, playing voodoo-style to houses of screaming necrophiliacs. At the end of the tour the corpse is diced up and sold to fans as souvenirs. The whole thing is tastefully filmed in black and white...

Newsflash: It's official! This week comes confirmation that self-styled most handsome man in South East London Danny Baker is to marry Ms Kelly Pike of Record Mirror. They met at a prison disco (where else?) and Kelly is believed to have already been informed of the impending betrothal. What is the old queen Baker trying to prove?

T-Zers is happy to report that Jello Biafra, lead singer with San Francisco's Dead Kennedys, came fourth in a field of ten when he ran for mayor of that fair city, prompting E-Street Band saxophonist Clarence Clemons to announce that he intends to campaign for the position of mayor of Seabright, New Jersey in 1984. Other Stateside electoral bids involve world's ugliest guitarist Joe Walsh, currently making campaign speeches during The Eagles US tour on behalf of his 'Have A Party' party, and Bob Seger, who joins in the running for vice-pres. In the real world, however, Linda Ronstadt recently threw a benefit party for California Governor and presidential hopeful Jerry Brown with tickets to see the songbird cooing for her 'special friend' costing a mere £500 a time. Tickets to see Ted Kennedy at the same sort of function but minus Ms Ronstadt cost a mere £100. Linda Ronstadt has announced that she doesn't intend to run for president this year...

Hot on the heels of Harrogate council in Yorkshire, a Southend council watch-dog committee has also decided to shield their God-fearing citizens' eyes from the vile, blasphemous and rather amusing Life Of Brian movie. You may be wondering how they come to be called a watch-dog committee when they haven't actually seen the film. Suggestions on a postcard to etc etc...

Numan the Human, already hard at work on his new album 'Telekon', is looking for a director to make a film based on his 'Replicas' album that will tell of the beneficial effects of letting machines into your life (This must be some sort of a joke — Ed.). The far-reaching implications of Numan's popularity are beginning to be felt. On his European tour Robert Palmer has reportedly abandoned his disco clone mode in favour of a more scientific image, performing 'Me, I Disconnect With You', and 'Cars' as well as 'Kid', which is in fact by The Pretenders...

Still no word from the Pentagon, so T-Zers signs off instead by sending its best wishes plus a shower of gob to noted homosexualist Kris 'What's that supposed to mean' Needs, whose dreadful magazine Zig-Zag has been given a cash injection by some foolhardy philanthropist or the other and may even be back on the news-stands even as you read this...

NME

EDITORIAL

3rd Floor
5-7 Carnaby Street
London W1V 1PG
Phone: 01-439 8761

EDITOR

Neil Spencer

Deputy Editor

Phil McNeill

News Editor

Derek Johnson

Production Editor

Stuart Johnston

Associate Editors

Charles Sharr Murray

Special Projects Editor

Roy Carr

Staff

Tony Stewart

(Live! Editor)

Angus MacKinnon

Paul Rambali

Max Bell

Danny Baker

Paul Morley

Photography

Pennie Smith

Contributors

Nick Kent

Fred Dellar

Steve Clarke

Tony Parsons

Julie Burchill

Chris Salewicz

Bob Edwards

Lester Bangs

John May

Penny Reel

Adrian Thrills

Ian Penman

Andy Gill

Mark Ellen

Paul Du Noyer

Deanne Pearson

Cartoons

Tony Bonyon

Ray Lowry

Research

Fiona Foulgar

New York

Joe Stevens

(212) 674 5024

Mick Farren

ADVERTISEMENT DEPT.

Room 2529

Kings Reach Tower

Stamford Street

London SE1 9LS

Ad Director

Percy Dickens

(01) 261 6080

Ad Manager

Peter Rhodes

(01) 261 6251

Classified Ads

(01) 261 8122

Live Ads

(01) 261 6153

Ad Production

Brian Gorman

Pete Christopher

Barry Cooper

(01) 261 6207

Publisher: Eric Jackson

Editorial Consultant: Andy Gray

© NME Magazine Ltd

Production of any material without permission is strictly forbidden

BETTER BADGES

MAIL ORDER XDP TEN

1 (1) Madness 'Two Tems' 25p

2 (2) Police 'A.M.' 25p

3 (3) Selecter 25p

4 (4) Specials 'AKA' 25p

5 (5) Norman (Blond) 25p

6 (6) Joe 'Telekon' 25p

7 (7) Jam 'All Mod Cons' 25p

8 (8) Numan (Colour) 25p

9 (9) Television 'Stripa' 25p

10 (10) Target 25p

New Releases: All the new discs, books, tapes, films, etc. from the major labels, including the new releases from the major labels, including the new releases from the major labels...

Add 10p P&P Free 1st

286 PCRTOBELLO RD

LONDON W10 0K

HI-FI FOR SERIOUS BEGINNERS.

The Pioneer equipment shown here has no gimmicks, no gadgets, no frills.

There are enough specialists in that area without us joining in.

More to the point, our aim is to give you the truest possible hi-fi sound for your money.

Without stinging you in the process.

And that takes us to Part 1, the Pioneer SA-408.

At around £80, it has more going for it than any other amplifier in its price-range.

(Not to mention some well outside it)

Short of actually hearing it, this is the closest we can get to describing its performance.

PART ONE AND TWO.

What applies to our amplifiers applies to our tuners as well.

Part 2 is the Pioneer TX-408L, designed in every way to be fully compatible with the SA-408.

And just as sensible in its pricing at around £80.

You'll find Parts 1 and 2 at any Pioneer dealer.

Part 3 can't be described. It's the experience of hearing them.

SA-408 SPECIFICATIONS

POWER AMPLIFIER SECTION

Continuous Power Output (both channels driven)
30Hz to 20,000Hz
1,000Hz
Total Harmonic Distortion
(30 to 20,000Hz, from AUX)
Intermodulation Distortion
(50Hz, 7,000Hz = 4:1, from AUX)
Output
Speaker
Headphones
Damping Factor
PREAMPLIFIER SECTION
Input sensitivity/Impedance
PHONO
TUNER
AUX
TAPE PLAY
TAPE PLAY (DIN connector)
PHONO Overload Level (7.1kΩ, 0.1%, 1k2Hz)
PHONO
Output Level/Impedance
TAPE REC.
TAPE REC. (DIN connector)
Signal-to-Noise Ratio
PHONO (RCA Equalization)
TUNER, AUX, TAPE PLAY
Tone Control
BASS
TREBLE
Load/Head Contour
(Volume control set at -40dB position)
Hum and Noise (short-circuited, A network)
PHONO
TUNER, AUX, TAPE PLAY
Hum and Noise (DIN continuous rated power output/50mV)
PHONO
TUNER, AUX, TAPE PLAY
SEMI-CONDUCTORS
MISCELLANEOUS
Power Requirements
Dimensions
Weight

20W + 20W (THD 0.1%, 8 ohms)
21W + 21W (THD 0.1%, 8 ohms)
No more than 0.1%
continuous rated power output, 8 ohms)
No more than 0.05%
(10 watts per channel power output, 8 ohms)
No more than 0.05%
(1 watt per channel power output, 8 ohms)
No more than 0.2%
continuous rated power output, 8 ohms)
No more than 0.05%
(10 watts per channel power output, 8 ohms)
No more than 0.02%
(1 watt per channel power output, 8 ohms)

Low Impedance
30 (20 to 20,000Hz, 8 ohms)

2.5mV/50K ohms
150mV/50K ohms
150mV/50K ohms
150mV/50K ohms
150mV/50K ohms
150mV

150mV/50K ohms
30mV/50K ohms
30 to 15,000Hz ±0.5dB
20 to 40,000Hz ±2.0dB

±0.5dB (100Hz)
±0.5dB (100Hz)
+8dB (100Hz) +0dB (10,000Hz)

72dB
72dB
67dB/61dB
67dB/61dB
83dB/63dB
IC 1, Transistors 15, Diodes 10

220/240V 50Hz
190W (MAX), 60W (UL)
Without package:
420(W) x 96(H) x 265(D) mm
18" x 7" x 3" (10 x 10" x 10" inches)
Without package: 5kg/11 lb

TX-408L SPECIFICATIONS

FM SECTION

Usable Sensitivity
50dB Quieting Sensitivity
Sensitivity (DIN)
Signal-to-Noise Ratio (at 85dB)
Distortion (at 65dB)
Capture Ratio
Alternate Channel Selectivity
Spurious Response Ratio
Image Response Ratio
IF Response Ratio
AM Suppression Ratio
Muting Threshold
Stereo Separation
Aerial Input
AM SECTION
MW (Medium Wave) Section
Sensitivity
Selectivity
Signal-to-Noise Ratio
Image Response Ratio
IF Response Ratio
LW (Long Wave) Section
Frequency Range
Sensitivity
Selectivity
Signal-to-Noise Ratio
Image Response Ratio
IF Response Ratio
SEMI-CONDUCTORS
FET
ICs
Transistors
Diodes
MISCELLANEOUS
Power Requirements
Power Consumption
Dimensions
Weight

Mono 11.2dB (2.0uV)
Mono 18dB (4.4uV)
Stereo 39.2dB (50uV)
Mono 15uV/Stereo 50uV
Mono 77dB, Stereo 72dB
Mono 71dB, Stereo 60dB

Mono 0.1%, Stereo 0.2%
Mono 0.1%, Stereo 0.2%
Mono 0.15%, Stereo 0.3%
30 to 15,000Hz ±0.5dB, -1.0dB
1.0dB
60dB
70dB
55dB
75dB
55dB
40dB (1kHz), 30dB (30Hz - 10,000Hz)
300 ohms balanced
75 ohms unbalanced

300uV/m (IHF, ferrite aerial)
30uV (IHF, external aerial)
25dB
50dB
40dB
70dB

150kHz to 350kHz
450uV/m (S/N 20dB) (IHF, ferrite aerial)
45uV (S/N 20dB) (IHF, ext. aerial)
25dB
50dB
40dB
70dB

1
3
6
5

220/240V (unswitchable) 50-60Hz
8 watts (UL)
Without package:
420(W) x 96(H) x 254(D) mm
18" x 7" x 3" (10 x 10" x 10" inches)
Without package: 3.1kg/6.8 lb 13 oz

PIONEER
EVERYTHING YOU HEAR IS TRUE.

To Pioneer High Fidelity (GB) Ltd, PO Box 108, Iwer, Bucks, SL0 9JL. Please send me full details of the TX-408L and SA-408, and other Pioneer components to complete the system.

Tick this box ☐ for details of Pioneer's Privilege Purchase Plan, a very low-interest credit scheme.

Name

Address