

NME

1958-2016

HIS NAME WAS PRINCE AND HE WAS FUNKY

UNBEATABLE

(dandruff protection^{})

UK's #1^{} gives you up to 100% flake free* great hair, it's all anyone will notice

*Visible flakes seen at 2ft with regular use. Based on Nielsen Shampoo value shares, from July 2014 to June 2015.

With regular use vs. non-selenium containing anti-dandruff shampoos, against visible flakes seen at 2ft.

NME

Hello...

THE EDITOR IS AWAY...

A STUNNED SILENCE FELL on the NME office when the news that Prince had died started filtering through. Our first reaction was to stick 'Purple Rain' on the stereo, our second was to report the news, and our third was to dig into the always fascinating NME archives.

We did three big cover interviews with Prince. In June '81 we anointed him the New Soul Monarch, and he told us, "I haven't been to sleep for a couple of nights... Well, I've been to bed, but not for sleeping." In March 1995, shortly after he'd changed his name to a symbol, we collared him at a press conference in London. He had the word 'Slave' written on his cheek and declared, "I want people to think I'm insane."

His final, and best, appearance came in December 1996. Among the many inspiring things he said was this gem: "I had a massive ego. Massive. But that's not such a bad thing. Because at least you're aspiring to be something; you consider yourself great because you want to be great." And he was, in every way.

TOM HOWARD
Deputy Editor
@tomahoward

The soundtrack of Ramsay Bolton's life p48

COVER STORY

16 Prince

He was a titan of modern music. Let's celebrate his mighty legacy

FEATURES

22 Captain America

NME in Berlin on the Captain America: Civil War set. "Nazis are bad," says Chris Evans

24 Political dramas

What have they taught us? About life? About love? About what it means to be human?

SECTIONS

AGENDA

5

RADAR

27 live

40

REGULARS

12 Things We Like 14 What's On Your Headphones?
39 Under The Radar 48 Soundtrack Of My Life

NME

110 SOUTHWARK ST
LONDON
SE1 0SU
TEL 020 3148 + Ext

Time Inc.

EDITORIAL Editor-in-Chief Mike Williams PA To Editor-in-Chief Karen Walter (Ext 6864) Deputy Editor Tom Howard (Ext 6866) Digital Editor Charlotte Gunn (Ext 6108) Commissioning Editor Dan Stubbs (Ext 6858) New Music Editor Matt Wilkinson (Ext 6856) Senior News Reporter David Renshaw (Ext 6877) News Reporters Luke Morgan Britton (Ext 6863), Nick Levine Senior Staff Writer Leonie Cooper Staff Writers Jordan Bassett, Larry Bartleet, Alex Flood Creative Director Simon Freeborough Designer Dani Liqueiri (Ext 6884) Pictures Rachel Billings, Caroline Jeffrey Production Hub Director Sue Smith Sub-Editors Lola Ayanbunmi, Gemma Birss, Melissa Harteam Smith, Lyndsey Heffernan, Holly Stone Online Producer Jo Weakley (Ext 6909) With help from Dave Botham, Colin Houlson, Sally Jones, Sean Lynn, Sam Moore, Tom Smith Illustrations Studio Moross

ADVERTISING Group Advertising Director Romano Sidoli PA To Group Advertising Director Kelly Litten (Ext 2621) Head Of Market, Music Andrew Minnis (Ext 4252) Brand Manager Matthew Chalkley (Ext 6722) Creative Media Manager Benedict Ransley (Ext 6783) Display And Labels Senior Sales Executive Steve Woollett (Ext 2670) Display And Live Senior Sales Executive Freddie Bunn (Ext 2662) Ad Production Manager Barry Skinner (Ext 2538) Head Of Project Management Lizzie Hemphshall (Ext 6726)

PUBLISHING Production Operations Director Richard Hill (Ext 5422) Production Manager Tom Jennings (Ext 5448) International Licensing Manager Bianca Hamilton-Foster (Ext 5490) Senior Marketing Executive Charlotte Treadaway (Ext 6779) Publisher Ellie Miles (Ext 6775) General Manager Jo Smalley Group Managing Director Paul Cheal Time Inc CEO Marcus Rich

EDITORIAL COMPLAINTS We work hard to achieve the highest standards of editorial content, and we are committed to complying with the Editors' Code of Practice (<https://www.ipso.co.uk/ipso/cop.html>) as enforced by IPSO. If you have a complaint about our editorial content, you can email us at complaints@timeinc.com or write to Complaints Manager, Time Inc. (UK) Ltd Legal Department, Blue Fin Building, 110 Southwark Street, London, SE1 0SU. Please provide details of the material you are complaining about and explain your complaint by reference to the Editors' Code. We will endeavour to acknowledge your complaint within 5 working days and we aim to correct substantial errors as soon as possible.

© Time Inc. (UK) Ltd Reproduction of any material without permission is strictly forbidden. LEGAL STUFF: NME is published weekly by Time Inc. (UK) Ltd, 8th Floor, Blue Fin Building, 110 Southwark Street, London SE1 0SU. NOT FOR RESALE. All rights reserved and reproduction without permission strictly forbidden. All contributions to NME must be original and not duplicated to other publications. The editor reserves the right to shorten or modify any letter or material submitted. Time Inc. (UK) Ltd or its associated companies reserves the right to reuse any submission, in any format or medium. Printed by Polestar Sheffield, Origination by Rhapsody, Distributed by IPC Marketforce. © 2016 Time Inc. (UK) Ltd. Subscription rates: one year (49 issues): UK £36; Europe 70 Euros; North America $77; rest of world £50. For subscription enquiries, please call +44 (0) 33 0333 1133 or email help@magazinesdirect.com.

JUNE 2016
FRI 10 - SUN 12 DOWNLAND FESTIVAL
MON 13 BELFAST THE SSE ARENA
TUE 14 DUBLIN 3 ARENA
WED 15 LIVERPOOL ECHO ARENA
THU 16 BOURNEMOUTH BIC
SOLD OUT PLYMOUTH PAVILIONS

PEUGEOT 108 TECH FOR CITY LIVING

ACTIVE
CITY BRAKE

REVERSING
CAMERA

KEYLESS
ENTRY

PEUGEOT RECOMMENDS TOTAL Official Fuel Consumption in MPG (l/100km) and CO₂ emissions (g/km) for the 108 Range are: Urban 52.3 – 56.5 (5.4 – 5.0), Extra Urban 74.3 – 78.5 (3.8 – 3.6), Combined 65.7 – 68.9 (4.3 – 4.1) and CO₂ 99 – 95 (g/km).

MPG figures are achieved under official EU test conditions, intended as a guide for comparative purposes only and may not reflect actual on-the-road driving conditions. Model shown is a 108 TOPI Allure 1.2L PureTech 82 in metallic paint at £13,225 OTR. On The Road price includes delivery to the Dealership, number plates, 12 months' Government Vehicle Excise Duty and £55 Government First Registration Fee. Specification featured in advertisement is model dependent. For full specification and pricing details visit peugeot.co.uk or contact your local Peugeot Dealer. Information correct at time of going to press.

PEUGEOT 108

MOTION & EMOTION

PEUGEOT

AGENDA

WHAT EVERYONE'S TALKING ABOUT THIS WEEK

The beautiful one

On Thursday April 21, Prince died at his Paisley Park estate in Minnesota, aged 57. Ever since, the tributes have been pouring in for the petite genius

BARACK OBAMA

"Few artists have influenced the trajectory of popular music more distinctly, or touched quite so many people with their talent."

MORRISSEY

"He influenced the world more than is suspected, and somehow the life of his music is just beginning. He would be thanked not only by humans, but also animals, for living his lyrical life as he did."

PHARRELL WILLIAMS

"There will be many kings, queens and princesses, but there will never be another Prince."

CHUCK D

"I'm a man of words [but] I'm kinda speechless on losing Prince. It's like the Earth is missing a note."

COURTNEY LOVE

"Numb, full of pain, for his royal badness has been snatched from us today."

JUSTIN TIMBERLAKE

"Prince is somewhere in every song I've written."

LADY GAGA

"Thank you for sharing your life with us. You found God early. He needed you upstairs to innovate in heaven."

NOEL GALLAGHER

"Heartbroken. I loved this guy."

LIANNE LA HAVAS

"I and many others were so lucky to have known you. May your remarkable legacy live on forever."

ZANE LOWE

"Thank you for everything Prince. You will always be The Greatest."

KATE BUSH

"He was the most inventive and extraordinary live act I've seen. The world has lost someone truly magical."

FLYING LOTUS

"The world won't be the same without Prince's crazy ass."

Turn to page 16 for NME's Prince obituary

On June 17 Mumford & Sons release mini-album 'Johannesburg'. Guitarist Winston Marshall discusses the five tracks recorded with Senegalese legend Baaba Maal, Afro-Western fusion group The Very Best and Cape Town indie poppers Beatenberg

"Mumford & Sons and Baaba started collaborating around the same time that we started making [2015 Mumford & Sons album] 'Wilder Mind'. We started it a good year and a half ago, but couldn't all get together until the actual tour itself."

"It was a very intense two days, with a little nap in the middle. The studio had no windows and felt like a prison... it was fking crowded!"

"There was a lot of biltong, and a lot of wine."

"We were all shocked to find out he was 62. His spirit is so youthful – he's a party animal. He's not like a normal 60-year-old; he's more like a teenager."

“When we knew we wanted to tour South Africa, we started listening to loads of music from South Africa and theirs jumped out and got us excited the most. They’re pretty massive in South Africa. Their songwriting’s so unique – it’s like Afrobeat indie rock – it’s wicked.”

“‘There Will Be Time’ and ‘Wona’ we managed to play on the tour, which was great. We actually played ‘Wona’ the day after we wrote it, which is something we haven’t done for quite a while. That was great fun – a bit chaotic. But the others we’re still getting ready to play...”

"That's the hope. We're also going on Later With... Jools Holland this week, so we'll play some of them on there."

"Always! We want to make a new album first. The fourth album's definitely on the horizon."

“Absolutely fking fantastic!”

'Johannesburg' will go a little something like this

- 1 'There Will Be Time' With Baaba Maal
- 2 'Wona' With Baaba Maal, The Very Best & Beatenberg
- 3 'Fool You've Landed' With The Very Best & Beatenberg
- 4 'Ngamila' With Baaba Maal & The Very Best
- 5 'Si Tu Veux' With Baaba Maal & The Very Best

[illegible][illegible]

[REDACTED] 29.04.16 29.04.16
29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16
29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16
[REDACTED] 29.04.16
29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16
29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16
[REDACTED] 29.04.16 29.04.16
29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16
29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16
29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16
29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16
29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16
29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16
29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16
29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16
29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16
29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16
29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16 29.04.16

AGENDA

Mumford & Sons: (l-r)
Ted Dwane, Ben Lovett,
Winston Marshall
Marcus Mumford

[illegible][illegible][illegible][illegible]

NEWS

The 10 best celeb cameos in Lemonade

Beyoncé's new album dropped on April 23 with a lavish HBO film accompaniment. Stream the whole thing online now and look out for these inspiring individuals

1 JAY Z AND BLUE IVY
Who are they? Beyoncé's husband and daughter.
What are they doing? Celebrating Blue Ivy's third birthday last January. Jay Z pops up again getting the same tattoo as Bey (IV – their favourite number and shared birth date). Blue Ivy appears again in 'Formation'.

2 SERENA WILLIAMS
Who's that? Tennis legend.
What's she doing? Teaming up with Beyoncé for the track 'Sorry', which contains lines like: "I don't give a fk / Chucking my deuces up / Suck on my balls, pause, I had enough / I ain't thinking 'bout you".

3 MICHAELA DEPRINCE
Who's that? Sierra Leonean-American ballet dancer, currently with the Dutch National Ballet.
What's she doing? The 21-year-old is providing impossible levels of grace to 'Freedom', Beyoncé's Kendrick Lamar collaboration.

4 LEAH CHASE
Who's that? 93-year-old queen of Creole cuisine, who'll receive this year's James Beard Lifetime Achievement award
What's she doing? Looking wise in the gap between '6 Inch' and 'Daddy Lessons'.

5 ZENDAYA AND AMANDLA STENBERG
Who are they? The former: Disney star; the latter: Hunger Games star (she played Rue).
What are they doing? Hanging out in a tree during 'Freedom'.

6 QUVENZHANÉ WALLIS
Who's that? Aged eight, Wallis was the youngest ever nominee for Best Actress at the 2012 Oscars for Beasts Of The Southern Wild.
What's she doing? Standing proud in a garden, in between 'Sandcastles' and 'Forward'.

7 WINNIE HARLOW
Who's that? Canadian model, with skin condition vitiligo, who came to fame in the 2014 series of America's Next Top Model.
What's she doing? Holding up a photo of her great-grandfather during 'Forward'.

8 IBEY!
Who are they? Twins Naomi and Lisa-Kainde Diaz released their self-titled debut last year.
What are they doing? Sitting on a porch on sort-of album closer 'All Night' before 'Formation' kicks in during the credits.

9 YOUTUBERS CHLOE & HALLE BAILEY
Who's that? Teen YouTube stars, known for their cover of Beyoncé's 'Pretty Hurts'. She's since reportedly signed them on a $1m record deal.
What are they doing? Standing in a crowd shot in the point between 'Sandcastles' and 'Forward' (like Quvenzhané Wallis). They later appear with IBEY! on the porch, just before 'Formation'.

10 MUMS WHOSE SONS WERE UNJUSTLY KILLED
Who's that? Trayvon Martin's mum Sybrina Fulton; Eric Garner's mum Gwen Carr; Michael Brown's mum Lezley McSpadden.
What are they doing? Holding up photos of their late sons, victims of US racial profiling, in the visual accompaniment to 'Forward', a collaboration with James Blake.

Read the NME review of 'Lemonade' on page 28

TAYLOR SWIFT
She lip-synced to Jimmy Eat World's hit 'The Middle' in an Apple ad. Verdict: "awesome".

DRAKE
Artwork for new LP 'View From The 6' depicts him atop Toronto's CN Tower. It has been memed a lot.

JUSTIN BIEBER
He disputed an Instagram post that called Prince "the last of the greatest living performers".

LIAM PAYNE
A demo featuring Wiz Khalifa was falsely reported as the 1D-er's new single. What a Payne.

THE FORMATION WORLD TOUR
BEYONCÉ
2016

TUE 28 JUNE

SUNDERLAND STADIUM OF LIGHT SOLD OUT

TUE 5 JULY

MANCHESTER EMIRATES OLD TRAFFORD SOLD OUT

THU 7 JULY

GLASGOW HAMPDEN PARK SOLD OUT

EXCELLENT NEW SEATS JUST RELEASED

THU 30 JUNE

CARDIFF PRINCIPALITY STADIUM

SAT 2 JULY

LONDON WEMBLEY STADIUM

SUN 3 JULY

LONDON WEMBLEY STADIUM

LIVENATION.CO.UK | TICKETMASTER.CO.UK | BEYONCE.COM

VIP PACKAGES AVAILABLE FROM VIPNATION.EU/BEYONCE

AYGO X-CITE

4.9% APR representative*

£750 towards your deposit

Reversing
camera

Multimedia system with Bluetooth®

DAB radio

TOYOTA

ALWAYS A BETTER WAY

NOW WITH 750 MORE REASONS TO FEEL EXCITED.

2016 AYGO x-cite 5 door 1.0 VVT-i Manual. Official Fuel Consumption Figures in mpg (l/100km): Urban 56.5 (5.0), Extra Urban 78.5 (3.6), Combined 68.9 (4.1). CO₂ Emissions 95g/km. All mpg and CO₂ figures quoted are sourced from official EU regulated laboratory test results. These are provided to allow comparisons between vehicles and may not reflect your actual driving experience. Model shown is AYGO x-cite 5 door 1.0 VVT-i Manual with optional OUTstyle pack at £12,340. Prices correct at time of going to print/press. *4.9% APR Representative and £750 Finance Deposit Allowance only available on new retail orders of AYGO (excluding x grade) between 1st April and 30th June 2016 and registered and financed through Toyota Financial Services by 30th September 2016 on a 3.5 year AccessToyota (PCP) plan with 0%-35% deposit. Vehicles must be registered by 30th September 2016. Toyota Financial Services (UK) PLC; registered office Great Burgh, Burgh Heath, Epsom, Surrey, KT18 5UZ. Authorised and regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority. Indemnities may be required. Finance subject to status to over 18s. Other finance offers are available but cannot be used in conjunction with this offer. Excess miles over contracted charged at 8p per mile. Toyota Centres are independent of Toyota Financial Services. Terms and conditions apply. Affordable finance through AccessToyota. 5 year/100,000 mile manufacturer warranty subject to terms and conditions.

On set at Skepta's new video

Ahead of his 'Konnichiwa' album release, the grime MC took his crew to record the promo for 'Man'. Total chaos...

LAST WEEKEND, SKEPTA plus Lethal Bizzle, Chip and Boy Better Know members DJ Maximum, Shorty, Jammer and Solo 45 played a crazy show for the video for Skepta's track 'Man'. Skepta advertised the event at Visions in Dalston with an Instagram post that morning saying, "Friday. Shutdown. Music. Merch. Ladies. Konnichiwa. Visions. Tonight." Twelve hours later, as the night began, Skepta was soaking the crowd with champagne. An hour of madness followed, during which Skepta ripped through 'Man' and 2014's 'It Ain't Safe', Bizzle jumped on the mic for a few bars – including bits from his 2015 track with Stormzy, 'Dude' – and Jammer hollered at people to get the hell off the stage. No one did. After all that, it's unclear when the video will be released. Should be lively.

Last W33K IN NUMBERS

3:51

Game Of Thrones star Natalie Dormer's London marathon time, 30s slower than her first attempt.

£36,000

Asking price for a copy of Bowie's 'Hunky Dory' with a handwritten track list.

100

Fans turned up to a non-existent Limp Bizkit gig at a petrol station in Ohio. The band warned them it was a hoax.

THINGS WE LIKE

THIS WEEK'S OBJECTS OF DESIRE

A lot of lolly

Handmade Belgian chocolate shaped like classic ice-lollies. What's not to like?

£15 choconchoc.co.uk

Gold standard

Popstar Jess Glynne's range for Bench includes this shiny, reversible bomber jacket.

£70 bench.co.uk

Case in point

These limited edition satchels celebrate the Rolling Stones Exhibitionism exhibition.

£180 cambridgesatchel.com

Kaws and effect

Kanye West collaborator Kaws has teamed with Uniqlo to create a line of tees.

£12.90 uniqlo.com

Head first

Get top sound quality from these Bowers & Wilkins P3 foldable headphones.

£169.99 bowers-wilkins.co.uk

Battle of the bands

Unsigned acts can submit demos for the chance to be pressed onto vinyl.

berwickstreetlondon.co.uk

London live

A history of live music in the capital, London Gig Venues will delight music anoraks.

£16.99 amazon.co.uk

A la Mode

Goths will need this rosy Depeche Mode-quoting patch in their lives.

£3.50 ballandchainco.com

Mug's game

This Dead Weather mug reveals 'Dodge & Burn' album art when filled with hot water.

£14.05 thirdmanstore.com

Coffee break

Tequila + chocolate + chilli = a hot new way to get bladdered.

£32.95 thewhiskyexchange.com

Viva Moz

Morrissey temporary tattoos will have you crowned king or queen of the indie disco.

£5 livinginlalaland.co.uk

Wicked 'wich

Ben & Jerry's ice-cream sandwiched between two cookies? Don't mind if we do.

£2.49 asda.com

Heavy metal

These silver metal Quay Australia sunglasses are a style staple.

£30 asos.com

Glitter ball

A little pot of glitter goes a long way. Use this magic dust wisely.

£6 monki.com

SETH
ROGEN

ZAC
EFRON

ROSE
BYRNE

CHLOË
GRACE MORETZ

THERE'S A NEW WAR NEXT DOOR

The poster features three actors (Seth Rogen, Rose Byrne, and Zac Efron) peeking over a wooden fence. A fourth actor (Chloë Grace Moretz) is shown from the chest up on the right side of the fence. The title 'BAD NEIGHBOURS' is written in large, bold, black letters across the middle of the fence. A large green number '2' is painted on the fence below the title. The background shows a suburban house and a blue sky with clouds.

BAD NEIGHBOURS

IN CINEMAS MAY 6

 BadNeighboursMovieUK #BadNeighbours2 BadNeighbours2.co.uk

YOUR TOWN. YOUR MUSIC. YOUR STYLE

What's ON your Headphones?

THIS WEEK

Durham

"Velvet Elvis Emporium is a great store"

STUEY MCPHAIL >

29, teacher

Listening to:

THE CASTELLS

Shake The Reins

"It starts with a real funky beat and ends with the singer going absolutely berserk."

Wearing: Barbour jacket, Fred Perry T-shirt, ASOS chinos, Nike Air Max trainers.

Best thing about Durham: "Velvet Elvis Emporium is a great vintage store."

NINA MCGUFFOG >

19, student

Listening to:

THE LIBERTINES

What A Waster

"I just bought a ticket to see Pete on his solo tour."

Wearing: Topshop jeans, ASOS shoes, H&M cardigan, Tu coat, Debenhams bag.

Best thing about Durham:

"The Angel is my favourite place to drink in the city."

< MELISSA RAY CHAPLIN

24, PhD researcher

Listening to:

KAFKA TAMURA

No Hope

"They're quite new. Really vocal-driven and a bit like Florence + The Machine."

Wearing: Topshop blouse, American Apparel dress.

Best thing about Durham:

"Flat White Kitchen is the best for food."

ALEX BUTLER >

20, singer-songwriter

Listening to:

BOB DYLAN

Leopard-Skin Pill-Box Hat

"The obscure lyrics always cheer me up."

Wearing: ASOS suit, Atom Retro shirt, vintage coat.

Best thing about Durham:

"I love the history. There's some real gems in the Oriental Museum."

LOSE YOURSELF IN A WORLD OF

VINTAGE

FIND YOURSELF IN OXFAM'S ONLINE SHOP

oxfam.org.uk/shop

OXFAM

PRINCE E

Prince at Wembley Arena, the Parade tour, August 1986

“I’m not a woman.
I’m not a man.
I am something that you’ll never understand”

Prince Rogers Nelson was a giant of modern music, a cultural icon who smashed racial and sexual boundaries and operated beyond the confines of genre. Barry Nicolson assesses his legacy

ON THE SAME DAY the UK got the bunting out to celebrate the Queen’s 90th birthday, 4,000 miles away in a sleepy suburb of Minneapolis, the music world bade farewell to its own royalty.

Prince may have been a famously diminutive physical specimen, but he was a titan of modern music. His list of achievements is staggering; his loss – at the tragically young age of 57 – is almost too much to bear.

Like many of my generation, I first became aware of him during that period in the mid-to-late ’80s when popular culture seemed to turn on the triple-axis of Prince, Michael Jackson and Madonna – three extraordinary, seemingly omnipresent personalities who would forever change the face of pop music.

Even compared to those larger-than-life contemporaries, however, Prince always stood out as something different, something alien – a quality he carefully cultivated and never lost. He was an exotic, androgynous upstart who seemed neither man nor woman, neither black nor white, but something new and mysterious and maddeningly unquantifiable.

Listening to his music, I got the same illicit thrill that came from watching an 18-rated movie, smug in the knowledge that I was consuming something meant for ‘grown-ups’ – even if most of it went way over my head. ●●●

IN A WAY, OF COURSE, PRINCE never stopped going over our collective heads. As an all-conquering megastar, he was fiendishly difficult to pin down, but as an individual he was a total enigma, a figure of myth and rumour as much as flesh and bone.

He didn't do interviews so much as summon journalists to an audience. At his Paisley Park complex, he wrote and recorded compulsively, amassing a vault of unreleased material that – legend has it – is large enough to release new albums until well into the next century.

In 1993, he changed his name to the unpronounceable symbol ♫ as part of an ongoing feud with his label and started appearing in public with the word 'Slave' written on his cheek.

Eight years later, he announced that he'd become a Jehovah's Witness and there were soon tales of him going door-to-door in Minneapolis, trying to convert an incredulous citizenry. Prince moved in ways so mysterious he almost made God look predictable.

As inscrutable as he was, it's hard to imagine much of today's musical landscape existing without him. Beck, Frank Ocean, Justin Timberlake, Rihanna, Miguel, Lady Gaga, The Weeknd, Beyoncé, St. Vincent... you could spend all day compiling a list of artists who owe a debt to Prince and it still wouldn't be exhaustive. The sheer breadth and scope of his music – encompassing pop, rock, funk, soul, jazz, R&B, metal and psychedelia – meant he was an artist of many parts, yet he somehow added up to more than the sum of them.

He looked like Little Richard, played guitar like Hendrix and was possessed of the same funk and revolutionary fire as James Brown and Sly Stone. Even the great Miles Davis once described him as "pointing towards the future".

This was a mantle he fully embraced on

At New York's Ritz Club on the Purple Rain tour, 1985

"A figure of myth and rumour as much as flesh and bone"

1987's 'Sign O' The Times', his most remarkable song, which found him tackling weighty issues such as poverty, the crack cocaine epidemic and the rise of AIDS ("A skinny man died of a big disease with a little name"). Years earlier, on 'Ronnie Talk To Russia', Prince had implored President Reagan to end the Cold War "before it's too late," but 'Sign O' The Times' foresaw another sort of apocalypse – not one of nuclear fire and fallout, but an altogether more insidious scenario of entire communities destroyed by drugs, crime and political indifference. Almost 30 years later, he would touch upon a similar theme with 'Baltimore', a track written in tribute to Freddie Gray, a 25-year-old male killed by the police in April 2015 for the crime of "running while black". The video for the song, which featured stark black-and-white images of Gray's arrest and the Black Lives Matter demonstrations that followed it, ended with a quote from Prince himself: "The system is broken. It's going to take the young people to fix it this time. We need new ideas, new life..."

It was, perhaps, an admission of his own limits as an agent of change. Yet in this regard, Prince achieved more than most. From the earliest days of his career, he challenged perceptions of gender, teasing on 1981's 'Controversy', "Am I black or white, am I straight or gay?" Even as he settled down and found religion, the answer always appeared ambiguous: the

'squiggle' he adopted as a professional name in the mid-'90s was actually an amalgam of the male and female symbols, and no one ever blurred those lines quite like this shy black kid from the wintry midwest, who would perform in high heels, false eyelashes and feather boas, yet seemed to radiate masculinity and femininity in equal measure. He may have once proclaimed, "I'm not a woman, I'm not a man, I am something that you'll never understand", but Prince's otherness – and its acceptance by the audiences who hoovered up 22m copies

Beautiful ones

Four great Prince songs that aren't 'Purple Rain' – as chosen by NME writers

SIGN O' THE TIMES

(1987)

A protest song that pushed musical boundaries, 'Sign O' The Times' pits its stark social messages about AIDS, drugs, gang culture and poverty against minimal electronics. The song's power lies in its directness – no flowery metaphors, just cold lines such as, "In September my cousin tried reefer for the very first time/Now he's doing horse – it's June." A masterpiece.

Dan Stubbs
Commissioning Editor

I WANNA BE YOUR LOVER

(1979)

Prince's first hit came in 1979, a tail-end-of-disco diamond that was as sexy as it was smooth. In a delicious falsetto, the 21-year-old sets out his stall as a raunchy renegade who wasn't going to let a little thing like public decency get in the way of making people dance. It remains dancefloor dynamite.

Leonie Cooper
Senior Staff Writer

MONEY DON'T MATTER 2 NIGHT

(1991)

The vocals are distorted (a happy studio accident that Prince chose to leave uncorrected) but the message is clear: there's more to life than that sweet dollar-dollar. Rather than trying to stack your paper, says Prince, you'd be "better off making sure your soul's alright". It's a simple sentiment, but, damn, it's beautiful.

Jordan Bassett
Staff Writer

LITTLE RED CORVETTE

(1982)

Prince got the idea for this disco-funk anthem after dozing off in band member Lisa Coleman's pink Edsel. It's the perfect example of his startling ability to take inspiration from anything. It was a mammoth hit from fifth album '1999', full of euphoric, pitch-defying vocal ad-libs.

Alex Flood
Staff Writer

Introducing our new app

NME DAILY

Stream video and audio, view photos, buy tickets and more

Personalise your newsfeed, get instant updates from the bands you love

DOWNLOAD NOW

ALL THINGS NME, WHEREVER AND WHENEVER YOU WANT IT

FROM THE MAKERS OF UNCUT

THE ULTIMATE MUSIC GUIDE GUIDE DELUXE EDITIONS

Available to buy now at uncut.co.uk/store or from Amazon

of the 'Purple Rain' soundtrack that lyric came from – was a liberating (and liberalising) force. It gave a generation of outsiders the confidence and freedom to define themselves on their own terms, rather than by societal binaries.

Sex, too, was another taboo Prince was unafraid to address head-on. He toned it down in his later years, but his early records and performances – most infamously his arse-flashing rendition of 'Gett Off' at the 1991 MTV Video Music Awards – were dripping with X-rated lasciviousness.

He was just too much for poor, prudish Tipper Gore, wife of future US Vice President Al Gore. So shocked was she by the references to masturbation in 'Darling Nikki', she founded the Parents Resource Music Centre to protect innocent ears from explicit songs. The PRMC even compiled the 'Filthy Fifteen', a list of the supposedly worst offenders. Prince was the only artist to have two songs on it (Sheena Easton's 'Sugar Walls', which he wrote about the inside of a vagina, was also blacklisted). You can only imagine his satisfaction in getting a censure board of Washington housewives so hot under the collar.

Yet above all, Prince was a polymath – a songwriter, producer and performer of barely believable talent, who lived by the ethos that, "the key to longevity is to learn every aspect of music that you can."

At 20, he self-produced his debut album, 1978's 'For You', and played every instrument on it (on the four albums that followed, he merely played almost every instrument). Later, he would seamlessly blend the disparate styles of Detroit techno, new wave, rock and R&B to create a revolutionary new strain of pop music – the Minneapolis Sound – whose influence is still being felt today.

Strutting his stuff on the Controversy tour, 1981

His commercial star may have waned over the past two decades, but he remained one of the most sought-after live acts in the world, underscored by his now-legendary 21-night stand at London's O2 Arena in 2007. Or the simple fact that, year after year, no matter who was announced to headline Glastonbury, there was always an audible groan of discontent when Prince's name wasn't among them.

Throughout the highs and lows of a 40-year career unlike any other in pop history, Prince stayed true to himself and to his muse, releasing music at an extraordinarily prolific rate (two albums in 2015 alone) and always on his own terms, eschewing both major labels and online streaming services. This was not your

Nothing compares to him

Four times Prince was the ultimate rock star

WHEN HE WAS TOO RUDE

That little black-and-white 'Parental Advisory' sticker? It came into being thanks to Prince's 1984 track 'Darling Nikki'.

WHEN HE DECIDED 'THE BLACK ALBUM' WAS EVIL

In 1987, he recalled half a million copies of 'The Black Album' a week before its release. It later came out in 1994.

WHEN HE BECAME A SYMBOL

Following a dispute with his record label, Prince changed his name to a symbol in 1993. Warner Bros had to send out floppy disks to media across the world just so they could print the thing.

WHEN HE SCHOOLED GUITAR LEGENDS

At 2004's Rock And Roll Hall Of Fame ceremony, he joined Tom Petty, Jeff Lynne and Steve Winwood for a rendition of 'While My Guitar Gently Weeps' and made them look like amateurs.

run-of-the-mill pop star, nor even your common-or-garden genius. In the words of his one-time protégée Cat Glover, this was a "modern-day Mozart".

And now – so soon after the loss of David Bowie, one of the handful of artists whose seismic influence bears any real comparison with that of Prince – we must begin to contemplate a world without him. Prince was a truly universal figure, and while his already-vast body of available work is only the tip of a much larger iceberg – one we may never know the full extent of – it was more than enough to cement a legacy that will not soon be forgotten.

The purple reign may be over, but Prince's name will outlast us all.

NME

Purple wisdom

Nuggets of genius from Prince's NME interviews

ON RACE

"They say even if you've just got one drop of black blood in you it makes you entirely black. But in fact I don't look on myself as a member of the black race – more of a member of the human race." April 1981

ON THE FUTURE OF THE INTERNET

"Once the internet is a reality, the music business is finished. There won't be any need for record companies. If I can send you my music direct, what's the point of having a music business?"

March 1995

ON HIS MODUS OPERANDI

"I'm always happy. I'm never sad. I never slow down. I'm constantly occupied with music."

March 1995

ON THE ROCK AND ROLL LIFESTYLE

"I know those paths of excess – drugs, sex and alcohol – all those experiences can be funky, they can be very funky, but they're just paths, a diversion, not the answer..." December 1996

Prince's progeny

Some of the many artists who owe a debt to Prince

FRANK OCEAN
Odd Future alumnus turned soul star

Why: "He made me feel comfortable with how I identify sexually simply by his display of freedom from, and irreverence for, ideas like gender conformity."

THE WEEKND
Progressive & mysterious singer-songwriter

Why: "Prince was always just pushing the envelope... Prince turned experimental music into pop music."

JANELLE MONÁE
Twisted pop genius

Why: "Prince was a mentor, a friend and a musical hero of mine. I always admired how he handled the business and gave other artists an opportunity to shine – and when he put his stamp on someone it was a special thing."

ROBYN Swedish electro-pop star

Why: "His songs had complex views of sexuality and male and female identity, which is very rare."

TEAM IRON MAN

Robert Downey Jr

Who: To quote alter-ego Tony Stark, "a genius billionaire playboy philanthropist".

CLASH OF THE TITANS

The latest Marvel film sees two of its biggest heroes – Captain America and Iron Man – butting heads. Andy Welch heads to the set in Germany to pick sides

WAR MACHINE

Don Cheadle

Who: Wears a suit almost as good as Iron Man's

BLACK WIDOW

Scarlett Johansson

Who: Russian-born American super-spy

VISION

Paul Bettany

Who: An android created by Ultron and Tony Stark

BLACK PANTHER

Chadwick Boseman

Who: King of Wakanda, chief of the Panther clan with many superhuman abilities

SPIDER-MAN

Tom Holland

Who: Teenage wall-crawler

WE'RE IN BERLIN, Germany, but we're pretending it's Bucharest, Romania. This is the set of Captain America: Civil War, the 13th film in the box-office-busting Marvel Cinematic Universe, and producers have turned the former Olympic Stadium into a village of trucks, marquees and trailers. In one, several stars of the film – Chris Evans (Captain America), Sebastian Stan (Winter Soldier) and Anthony Mackie (Falcon) – entertain themselves by telling jokes and fiddling with their costumes.

"It's like a second skin at this point," says Chris Evans, looking down at the white star emblazoned across his chest. It's the fifth time he's played Steve Rogers, wimp-turned super-soldier, but for the first time he says he's conflicted by what his character is supposed to believe. "I think we can all agree Nazis are bad," he says of his enemy in 2011's The First Avenger. "Those aliens were no good either, nor [secret society] HYDRA. But this time, no one is really right or wrong; it's just difference of opinion."

Based on the 2006 and 2007 comic-book series of the same name, Civil War concerns the Superhero Registration Act; a bill signed by more than 100 nations who've grown tired of super-powered beings smashing their cities to rubble – as happened in the finales of both Avengers movies and 2014's Captain America: The Winter Soldier.

The so-called Sokovia Accords are backed by Tony Stark/Iron Man (Robert Downey Jr) but opposed by his Avengers teammate Captain America. So far, so much politics, but fear not – the civil war of the title heats up when familiar faces from the Marvel Universe line up behind either Stark or Rogers and an almighty scrap breaks out. Add into that minor villain Crossbones (Frank Grillo) and emerging global threat Baron Zemo (Daniel Brühl) and it's an action-packed film – all 147 minutes of it.

The scene being filmed today takes place below street level, amid the vivid orange pillars of the Messedamm underpass, and sees Evans' Captain America, Stan's Winter Soldier and Mackie's Falcon being pursued by about 60 balaclava-wearing soldiers and Black Panther, making his big-screen debut ahead of his standalone 2018 film. A stunt double is manning the jet black 'vibranium weave' suit rather than actor Chadwick Boseman, and while Iron Man's right-hand man War Machine arrives at the end of the scene, it's a stuntman miming the movements Don Cheadle will make after being added in post-production.

Two things are immediately striking from being on set. Firstly, Captain America's iconic shield is more often than not a computer-generated addition. Secondly, this raw footage is almost immediately edited, with rough effects added on the hoof and played back to directing brothers Joe and Anthony Russo. It means that seconds after a take rudimentary explosions and rubble are added into the mix.

FILMING THE CHASE

sequence takes the best part of a morning; in the finished film it will amount to less than 30 seconds of action. Evans, back in his trailer, seems incredibly relaxed throughout, given the pressure the film is under to perform. The Marvel Universe currently boasts three of the 10 highest-grossing films of all time and while no one explicitly states it, there's an expectation that Civil War will break the billion-dollar box-office barrier.

The Boston-born actor says that while he was extremely nervous the first time he played Cap back in 2011, he's since realised how lucky he is. Tainted by his experience in two critically panned Fantastic Four films (2005's Fantastic Four and 2007's Rise Of The Silver Surfer), he initially passed on the role several times before finally saying yes. "I'd be kicking myself if I'd said no a final time," he says. "This is the best decision of my life. I can't imagine having not done it."

Security is understandably tight on set. Cameras and phones are banned and each actor NME speaks to is under the watchful eye of the Marvel Studios publicist, drip-feeding tiny, pre-agreed nuggets of their respective characters' stories. Chadwick Boseman, however, is particularly enlightening when it comes to the subject of diversity, and how Black Panther is the first black character to get his own Marvel film. "We're infatuated with these films because we get lost and we get to live out fantasies for a second while we're watching, but it only ever looks like one thing: always male, always white – and that becomes a problem," he says. "This isn't just about getting to see a superhero that's black or a woman or whatever, but for everyone to see other people doing other things. It frees everyone, in a way. You don't just see yourself staring back, but different people."

The Russo brothers believe Civil War is more complete than their own Winter Soldier, which is perhaps Marvel's best film to date. Given its capes-versus-capes subject matter, you could be forgiven for worrying that Civil War's storyline is, superficially at least, similar to CGI snoozefest Batman Vs Superman: Dawn Of Justice. Encouragingly, Joe says the Godfather trilogy provided something of a template for him and his brother to aim for. "There's an awful lot going on, and then it all comes together in the third act," he says. "It's important to apply a genre to these movies that's beyond 'superhero', because we've all seen those movies and it's just not interesting any more. Our job is to have people leaving the cinema arguing with their friends about who was right and who was wrong, Cap or Iron Man, and to give fans something new, different and exciting. And that's exactly what we've done."

NME

"Our job is to have people arguing about who's right and wrong: Cap or Iron Man" Director
Joe Russo

TEAM CAPTAIN AMERICA

Chris Evans

Who: Super-soldier, war veteran, Avengers leader

SCARLET WITCH

Elizabeth Olsen

Who: In possession of chaos magic, she can fire 'hex bolts' and perform telekinesis

WINTER SOLDIER

Sebastian Stan

Who: Bionic-limbed assassin and Cap's oldest friend

FALCON

Anthony Mackie

Who: Former pararescue serviceman-turned Cap's closest ally

ANT-MAN

Paul Rudd

Who: Reformed jailbird-turned-Earth's tiniest hero

HAWKEYE

Jeremy Renner

Who: Expert marksman, Avenger

KNOWLEDGE IS POWER

Political TV shows do what seems undoable – make suited bureaucrats look exciting. The latest addition to the canon, Marseille, appears on Netflix on May 5 and promises to make experts in French regional politics out of all of us. After all, we've learned loads from these shows, argues Mike Rampton

THE WEST WING

1999-2006

WHAT'S THAT THEN?

Aaron Sorkin's drama set in the White House, starring Martin Sheen as President Jed Bartlet and Rizzo from Grease (Stockard Channing) as the First Lady. A lot of genuine White House veterans worked on the show, giving it a rare authenticity and leading it to be praised as much by former Presidents Gerald Ford and Bill Clinton as by TV critics.

WHAT IT'S MEANT TO TEACH US

That deceiving the public can sometimes be morally justified. That even the most liberal of leaders eventually reaches a point where a line is crossed and conflict is inevitable. And that however flawed a system might be, good people can still make a difference.

WHAT IT REALLY TAUGHT US

That everyone is at their most eloquent and loquacious while perambulating through corridors. That Rob Lowe, who played Deputy Communications Director Sam Seaborn, does not age, and possibly has a really hideous painting in his attic that looks worse by the day. Also, that if Rob Lowe demands too much money, well then, Rob Lowe can go and be on a sitcom (Parks And Recreation) and the show will trot along just fine without him.

Marseille stars Gerard Depardieu as a mayor facing a new rival (Benoit Magimel, left) after 25 years in office. Its creator, Dan Franck, has described it as "House Of Cards in French"

THE THICK OF IT

2005-2012

WHAT'S THAT THEN?

Armando Iannucci's hilarious, profanity-drenched look inside the workings of the government's fictional Department of Social Affairs and Citizenship. A lot of it follows Malcolm Tucker, the Prime Minister's head enforcer, based on New Labour spin doctor Alastair Campbell and played to foul-mouthed perfection by Peter Capaldi.

WHAT IT'S MEANT TO TEACH US

That the major political parties are far more similar than they are different, especially when it comes to the levels of incompetency and ignorance at their heart. That the relationship between Downing Street and Fleet Street is hideously complex and symbiotic, with endless mutual back-scratching and bullstting.

WHAT IT REALLY TAUGHT US

Everyone in the government has the mouth of a particularly Tourette's-y sailor. Take, for example, Tucker's Law ("If some c can f something up, that c will pick the worst fing time to fing f it up, because that c's a c"), the most tea-towel-ready maxim TV has ever produced.

SCANDAL

2012-PRESENT

WHAT'S THAT THEN?

Creator Shonda Rhimes' impossibly glamorous combination of soap opera and conspiracy thriller, like if there was a Hollyoaks spin-off about ethically sketchy political crisis management.

WHAT IT'S MEANT TO TEACH US

That there's a staggering amount of behind-the-scenes machinations going on to control which stories make it out and which don't. There's a whole damage-limitation industry based around keeping certain stories out of the public eye – enough to make one deeply cynical.

WHAT IT REALLY TAUGHT US

Everyone is sleeping with everyone, or was sleeping with everyone, or is trying to sleep with everyone. Like, it seems some fairly influential decisions are made while seven inches deep in a colleague. People at the inner echelons of secret government crisis management organisations – a job that you'd imagine mainly involves sending emails – are surprisingly photogenic.

HOMELAND

2011-PRESENT

WHAT'S THAT THEN?

An American remake of an Israeli series following what happens when a marine who's been a prisoner of al-Qaeda for eight years is released and may or may not have been converted into a terrorist. Both Damian Lewis and Claire Danes won awards by the fistful for their portrayals of troubled turncoat Nicholas Brody and unstable CIA agent Carrie Mathison.

WHAT IT REALLY TAUGHT US

That US TV now frequently consists of three British dudes trying to out-American-accent each other. And that there's no need, just because a character has children, to fill an exciting high-stakes show with crap subplots about their kids struggling to fit in at a new school. Most notably, though, that Mandy Patinkin, who plays Saul Berenson, has a beard that's the living embodiment of the word "luxuriant".

WHAT IT'S MEANT TO TEACH US

Even on home soil we're never truly safe from the global reaches of terrorism. Foreign policy is incredibly complex and laden with grey areas that mean a poor decision now can have repercussions that last decades. Government departments intertwine in frequently counterproductive ways, and you can never be entirely sure that the goodies aren't just as unstable as the baddies.

HOUSE OF CARDS

2013-PRESENT

WHAT'S THAT THEN?

Netflix's American remake of the BBC original, which sees Kevin Spacey's ruthlessly ambitious Democrat stop at nothing to get to the White House.

WHAT IT'S MEANT TO TEACH US

That power is addictive and the thirst for it is compelling. That the cut-throat world of politics can bring out the darkest sides of people, and that ambition often goes hand-in-hand with a conscious lean into immorality. That you don't get into a position of influence without stepping on a few people's faces.

WHAT IT REALLY TAUGHT US

How to, um, kill someone and get away with it. The importance of wearing luxury watches at all times, displayed in lingering, almost pornographic close-ups, and how incredibly versatile the PlayStation Vita is, thanks to judicious product placement. Also, that while it's technically possible to sign up for Netflix for the free, month-long trial and then cancel it, nobody's ever managed to do so.

UNSIGNED ARTISTS - WIN YOUR SINGLE ON VINYL

#BERWICKSTREETCALLING

BERWICK STREET IS GIVING YOU THE CHANCE TO WIN YOUR SINGLE PRESSED ONTO VINYL - RECORD, MASTER & CUT YOUR VERY OWN
TRACK IN A LOCAL SOHO STUDIO WITH A TOP MUSIC PRODUCER

SUBMIT YOUR TRACK AT BERWICKSTREETLONDON.CO.UK

 @BerwickStLondon  @BerwickStLondon  BerwickStreetLondon

NME

The House of St Barnabas
LONDON

Sister
r a y

RADAR

MUSIC, FILM, TV & MORE – THIS WEEK'S ESSENTIAL NEW RELEASES

Best NEW tracks And when to drop them

BEST FOR POWER WORKOUTS

ARISTOPHANES
Untitled (Demo)

"The first time I heard her music I was like, 'I've never heard anything like this.'" So said Grimes about her now-protégé, Taiwanese rapper Aristophanes. 'Untitled' is a fine demo – 100 per cent energetic.

BABY IN VAIN

BEST FOR RAGING

BABY IN VAIN
The Urge

Danish newcomers Baby In Vain sound truly majestic on this new single, like Yeah Yeah Yeahs feasting on Josh Homme's corpse.

BEST FOR STROLLING

CAR SEAT HEADREST
Fill In The Blank

For such a fresh-faced kid, Will Toledo sure is a wonderful songwriter. The US newcomer recalls a young Beck on this sprightly track.

BEST FOR PAYING TRIBUTE

GREYS
Candy Says

The visceral Toronto punk band have turned off the distortion for this beautiful Velvet Underground cover.

BEST FOR DRYING YOUR EYES TO

GERARD WAY
Don't Try

One of two new Record Store Day tracks from the former My Chemical Romance frontman, 'Don't Try' takes inspiration from the more emotional side of Britpop's glory years.

BEST FOR PONDERING LIFE

MICHAEL KIWANUKA
Love & Hate

The soul singer sounds like he's been listening to classic 'Dark Side Of The Moon'-era Pink Floyd on this epic track from his new album of the same name.

MICHAEL KIWANUKA

BEST FOR WEEKEND MADNESS

FORMATION
Pleasure

'Pleasure' might just be the best single yet from emerging London dance duo Formation. Plenty of cowbell.

BEST FOR HITTING THE POLLS

GRUFF RHYS
I Love EU

The title says it all. The Super Furry Animals man has a way with a nifty lyric and it's a fine, fine tune.

BEST FOR WATCHING THE SUNRISE

SNOOP DOGG
Late Nights

It just wouldn't be 4/20 without Snoop dropping a laid-back track that sings weed's praises, would it?

BEST FOR TELLING IT STRAIGHT

STORMZY
Scary

A supremely intense taste of what you can expect from Stormzy's debut album, set to be released this summer. The video is equally dark – and amazing – too.

For more new music,
go to NME.com

Carbonated fury

Beyoncé's rage at Jay Z is one of the many thrills on a fierce album

BEYONCÉ

Lemonade

POP RAGE MERCY

"WHO THE FK DO you think I am?" demands Beyoncé three tracks into her unforeseeably bold sixth album 'Lemonade'. Her voice drips with distortion: "You ain't married to no average bitch, boy."

If these lyrics aren't fiction, the man she's castigating for adultery in the most public forum possible is her husband Jay Z. "If you try this st again," she snarls, "you gon' lose your wife." Moments later (on 'Sorry') she tells Jay Z to "suck on my balls" and the sense of release is palpable.

The album's first four tracks are a thrillingly honest sucker-punch from a famously guarded pop star, who came to fame via Destiny's Child and whose picture-perfect solo career has since helped her amass a fortune exceeding $450m. A woman whose public image is so squeaky clean that First Lady of the United States Michelle Obama has said she wants to be her.

Many expected 'Lemonade' to follow in the markedly political steps of lead single 'Formation', but only 'Freedom' (feat. Kendrick Lamar) addresses the Black Lives Matter movement. Alongside Beyoncé's tour-de-force vocal Kendrick bristles, "Six headlights wavin' in my direction/Five-O asking me what's in my possession."

The significance of the record's title is spelt out for listeners later in the same track with Jay Z's grandmother Hattie White intoning, "I was served lemons but I made lemonade."

As with some of the most anticipated albums of the year so far – Rihanna's 'Anti' and Kanye West's 'The Life Of Pablo' – 'Lemonade' is strikingly varied. Among swathes of collaborators, many surprising indie names crop up, including James Blake, who lends gravitas to the weepy 'Forward', and Vampire Weekend's Ezra Koenig, who helped produce killer sing-song 'Hold Up'. Even Jack White has a turn, sampling Led Zeppelin on the album's most vital track 'Don't Hurt Yourself'.

But even this huge team fails to innovate on the album's drab middle few tracks, which are mainly about acceptance and forgiveness. Among the worst is the horrible hoedown 'Daddy Lessons', which blends whooping with boring rhymes: "Daddy made me fight/It wasn't always right."

However, the final four songs see a return to quality and penultimate track 'All Night' boasts one of Beyoncé's most nuanced vocal performances to date. It feels as appropriate an end as any to 'Lemonade' – sweet but with an edge, as she recalls, "Our love was stronger than your pride." Larry Bartleet

FAMOUS FAN

MICHELLE OBAMA

"What would I do if I could do any other job in the world? I would be Beyoncé. Hands up!"

ALBUM OF THE WEEK(L-r:) Kenneth William, Mish Barber-Way and Anne-Marie Vassiliou

Punk goes pop

LA/Vancouver trio White Lung soften the edges of their hardcore sound on their gripping fourth album

WHITE LUNG Paradise

LOVE INTENSITY THRASH

FROM THE FIRST WAVE fury of the Sex Pistols to the math-metal aggression of Converge and modern malaise of Perfect Pussy, over the past 40 years it's always been assumed that you have to be pissed off to be punk. It's a pigeonhole that trio White Lung comfortably fitted into for their first three albums, climaxing with 2014's searing 'Deep Fantasy', which took on everything from addiction to body dysmorphia with a thunderous, febrile rage.

However, for album four, White Lung have somewhat softened their ragged edges and in doing so have created one of the most compelling albums of the year. After getting hitched in-between the release of their last album and this one, frontwoman Mish Barber-Way is the first to admit that her loved-up, newly rose-tinted outlook has had a significant impact on the group's sound. Discussing 'Kiss Me When I Bleed', she said: "This song is my fairytale. Riches to rags and happily ever after, because nothing else in this world really matters except love."

But if you're expecting mushy melodies and soppy couplets, think again. Despite tackling romance, White Lung are as uncompromising as ever. "I will give birth in a trailer," hollers Barber-Way over Kenneth William's squalling, frenetic, buzzing guitar lines, which sound more like synths than strings.

So the rage that permeated their early work is still bubbling away; it's just been fine-tuned into something more sophisticated – not to mention more pop. 'Hungry' is perhaps the group's most accessible offering yet, touching on the gloss of Hole's 1998 crack at the mainstream 'Celebrity Skin' but retaining a personality all of its own 'Narcoleptic' shimmers with newly found poise, while Barber-Way has referred to 'Below' – with tongue possibly slightly in cheek – as her 'Stevie-Nicks-meets-Céline-Dion' ballad. Although it sounds nothing much like either, it certainly captures the grandiose, epic aspirations of both.

Seamlessly bringing together beauty and brutality, 'Paradise' is an album which proves that after four decades, punk isn't just alive and well, but that it still has the power to take your breath away.

Leonie Cooper

LIKE THIS? TRY THIS!

HOLE

Celebrity Skin

Courtney Love's band morphed from grubby grunge gang into classic rock gods on their immaculate third album.

SAVAGES

Silence Yourself

A brittle, brutal collection of post-punk that fuses searing confidence with bare-bones emotion.

A bit too sweet

An over-sugared combo of Katy and big names in grime, techno, hip-hop and d'n'b

KATY B
HONEY

KATY B

Honey

UNDERGROUND POP PATCHY

THERE'S A GRAND TRADITION of pop stars reinvigorating their careers by working with whoever's Hot Right Now in tough-edged club music. Diana Ross invented this ploy when, looking to reassert her relevance during the '70s disco boom, she roped in Chic to write and produce the immortal 'Upside Down'. Late '80s Madonna 'Vogue'-d into the house era with the help of Shep Pettibone; early '00s Britney caught the urban-music wave with her Neptunes collab 'Slave 4 U'; and, more recently, Biebs staged a spectacular comeback by hooking up with Diplo and Skrillex.

Peckham pop hero Katy B has always had one foot in the underground – previous producers include Benga, Joker and DJ Zinc – but she seemed to be headed in an increasingly mainstream direction, typified by the sweeping drama-pop of 2014's huge 'Crying For No Reason' – a track far more Radio Two than Rinse FM. For her third album, however, Katy's ventured deeper underground than ever before: The collabo list on 'Honey' runs to 21 names and features some of the most buzzworthy names in grime, techno, hip hop and drum'n'bass.

In practice, this marriage between bleeding-edge production and Katy's lightweight-but-likeable vocals works best when her collaborators aren't afraid to stay true to their original sounds. The trippy synths of 'Honey' and 'Heavy' – produced by Kaytranada and Mr Mitch respectively – help to lift otherwise forgettable songwriting, while 'Calm Down', Katy's much discussed team-up with Four Tet and Floating Points, is a brilliant slice of weirdo disco.

FAMOUS FAN

MARK RONSON

"I think Katy B encapsulates young London in a way I never could. She reps London harder than anyone song-wise since Lily Allen."

'Honey' suffers when its producers smooth out their rougher edges to accommodate Katy's chart-star status. Wilkinson fatally neuters drum'n'bass on 'So Far Away'; Jamie Jones and Kate Simko deliver bland, flimsy house on 'Dark Delirium'; while Major Lazer offer none of their usual gritty vividness on 'Who Am I'. You've already heard the best track on 'Honey' – the KDA-produced 'Turn The Music Louder (Rumble)', which reached Number One last October. It's an intoxicating blend of underground rawness and pure pop fizz – shame the rest of the album couldn't quite live up to it.

Joe Madden

new music

brian eno
the ship
out now

album of the month

richard ashcroft
these people
20/05/2016

king gizzard and the lizard wizard nonagon infinity
out now

wire nocturnal koreans
out now

manic street preachers everything must go:
20th anniversary edition
20/05/2016

the duke spirit kin
06/05/2016

julianna barwick will 06/05/2016

marissa nadler strangers
20/05/2016

eagulls ullages
13/05/2016

whyte horses pop or not 06/05/2016

luh spiritual songs for lovers to sing
06/05/2016

doomsquad total time
out now

the fopp list

get the lowdown on the best new music in this month's edition of the fopp list,
free magazine in-store now

while stocks last

the fopp list

fopp stores

bristol college green
cambridge sidney st
edinburgh rose st
glasgow union st & byres rd
london covent garden
manchester brown st
nottingham broadmarsh
shopping centre

foppofficial

#gettofopp

fopp.com

PAY TRIBUTE TO THE PRINCE OF POP

BUY ONE NOW £14.95 • TEESTR.COM

NAS
Illmatic (1994)
The classic 'growing up in the New York City projects' album.

FUTURE
Evol (2016)
Latest salvo from the rapper taking trap to new heights.

Striving for greatness

The A$AP Mob member's second album is personal and poppy, and features a guest spot from his mum

A$AP FERG

Always Strive And Prosper

TRAP SOUL FAMILY

AS ANY MEMBER OF D12 who isn't Eminem will tell you, it can be hard living in the shadow of a hip hop great. A$AP Ferg is not A$AP Rocky, but he's managed to establish himself independently as a purveyor of fun trap earworms such as 'Shabba' and 'Dope Walk'.

Yet Ferg evidently aspires to be taken more seriously. His second album is a much more personal affair, a result of having mined his formative years for inspiration. He's certainly not the first rapper to get all nostalgic about the 'hood, but the picture he paints of life in Harlem's Hamilton Heights

(AKA 'Hungry Ham') is particularly vivid: his street might "smell like st, vomit, urine" with crack dealers on the corner, but it's also populated by memorable characters doing everything they can to survive. Ferg doesn't pretend to have been a gangster; instead he touchingly recalls his frustration at working at Ben & Jerry's, going nowhere and "gettin' a belly". There's even a guest appearance from Mama Ferg.

The problem is that Ferg fails to provide a coherent musical vision to go with these compelling reminiscences. 'Hungry Ham' and 'Strive' are two of the key lyrics, but they're paired with annoying cartoon trap and hip house beats courtesy of Skrillex and DJ Mustard respectively. The only productions that complement the narrative are those helmed by DJ Khalil and Clams Casino, whose innovative cloud rap beats helped propel A$AP Rocky to prominence. 'Psycho' is a potent swirl of Ghostface-style storytelling, while the soulful sweep of 'Beautiful People' (which features a typically wise intro from Chuck D) recalls 'Graduation'-era Kanye West. Ultimately Ferg sounds most at home on the solid trap bangers, yet his rapping isn't particularly distinctive – so while Future collaboration 'New Level' is a highlight, it just sounds like a Future track.

Trap lord, misty-eyed raconteur or pop crossover star? Ferg's hoping to be all these things at once – he just doesn't quite have the charisma to pull it off. Sam Richards

new films

tangerine
out now

sunset song
also available on blu-ray
out now

hitchcock/truffaut
out now

the survivalist
also available on blu-ray
out now

the forbidden room dual-format edition
out now

next to her
out now

star wars:
the force awakens
also available on blu-ray
out now

chronic
out now

trapped: series one also available on blu-ray
out now

estranged
out now

afterdeath
out now

the fopp
list

the fopp list

get the lowdown on the best new films
in this month's edition of the fopp list,
free magazine in-store now

while stocks last

fopp stores

bristol college green
cambridge sidney st
edinburgh rose st
glasgow union st & byres rd
london covent garden
manchester brown st
nottingham broadmarsh
shopping centre

foppofficial

#gettofopp

fopp.com

Good grief

A disappointingly shallow dig into the soul of a man who should be on the edge, but isn't

DEMOLITION

15 Jake Gyllenhaal, Naomi Watts, Chris Cooper

GRIEF PSYCHOBABBLE ICKY

JEAN-MARC VALLÉE, director of Dallas Buyers Club and Wild, adds another existential crisis to his roster. Jake Gyllenhaal plays Davis Mitchell, a man whose wife is killed in a car crash. Davis does not take this well, but not in the way you'd expect. He shows no signs of obvious sadness but becomes obsessed with breaking things – his fridge, his computer, his house – to try to understand how they work. He develops a co-dependent friendship with a customer service rep (Naomi Watts) for a vending machine supplier to which he's complained about a disappointing experience with a packet of M&Ms. He can't catch a break.

There are many beautiful character touches here, both in screenwriter Bryan Sipe's dialogue – each main character gets at least one terrific monologue with profound thoughts whittled down into crisp lines – and Vallée's direction. In a single shot that almost tells the film's entire story, Davis stares into a mirror while hiding in the bathroom at his wife's funeral. His face crumples into sobs, but a moment later snaps back into a stony stare, eyes unmoistened. He's rehearsing grief, trying to show what he can't feel. Yet for every moment of elegant insight there's a stretch of mundane psychobabbling. The metaphor of tearing things apart in the hope of fixing them is not a tricky one to decode, yet Vallée is at pains to keep explaining it. This doesn't make us understand Davis better; it makes us want him to hurry up and realise what he's doing. Davis is stuck in a cycle, but it's not very entertaining to be stuck in it with him.

Gyllenhaal has been on a spectacular run of performances over the last few years – Enemy, Nightcrawler, Southpaw – and if Davis Mitchell is not a role to be remembered with those, it's not because he fails to do everything he can with it. He plays emotional inertia as well as you possibly can, but for most of the film he's not allowed to let us in. There's a late rush to give us some sort of resolution but it's an icky, over-simplistic sop featuring smiling children and a carousel. Vallée's asked us to crawl into the depths of man's soul and then leaves us in the shallows. Olly Richards

FOR FANS OF

A SINGLE MAN

DALLAS BUYERS CLUB

Jake Gyllenhaal plays emotionally blank widower Davis Mitchell

Géza Röhrig as Saul, a Hungarian Jewish prisoner in a Nazi concentration camp

An astonishing debut

A multi-award-winning experience of what it's like to live in constant fear, from rookie Hungarian director László Nemes

SON OF SAUL

15 Géza Röhrig, Levente Molnár, Urs Rechn

WORLD WAR II NAZIS DIGNITY

SON OF SAUL HAS BEEN scooping up prizes for months, from the Grand Prix at last year's Cannes Film Festival to Best Foreign Language film at this year's Golden Globes and Oscars. That makes for a lot of expectation, which it wholly meets.

We're thrown immediately into the horrors of World War II, following Saul (Géza Röhrig), a Hungarian Jewish prisoner in a Nazi concentration camp. He isn't a normal prisoner but part of the Sonderkommandos, a group of men put to work by the soldiers disposing of the gassed dead and looting their pockets for gold. When they've served their purpose, they too will be killed. The first we see of Saul, he's dodging between frightened, naked people as they're ushered into a gas chamber from which they won't return. His face is blank. He doesn't meet any eyes. He betrays nothing. Then, after the screams, among the corpses he finds a boy. This is his son, he tells another prisoner, and he'll bury him – not see him burned. So begins a dangerous quest to give dignity to the dead, while around him the living secretly plan an uprising.

That director László Nemes tells these two stories in tandem, the narratives criss-crossing smoothly, is impressive. That this is his directorial debut is nothing short of astonishing. Nemes' control never falters. He has the camera hug Saul's shoulder almost throughout the film, so the frame is almost entirely filled with his face. Background detail is mostly a blur and the effect is to pull you in conspiratorially, sharing in the prisoners' secrets and Saul's panic, but also to never let us get our bearings.

Saul with rabbi Apikoyres, played by Márton Ágh

We tear through the camp like running round the nine circles of hell, rarely clear exactly what's going on around us unless it's happening immediately next to Saul. It makes for an uncomfortable, dizzying watch, but it should be. If the intention is to give us even a fleeting experience of what it could have been like to live in constant fear, hoping for a breath of humanity in a life shaped by evil, then it has achieved that entirely. Olly Richards

FOR FANS OF

THE COUNTERFEITERS

DAS BOOT

Welcome to Sing Street

A coming-of-age drama and lovestory set in '80s Dublin

WRITTEN AND DIRECTED by John Carney (Once, Begin Again), Sing Street is an uplifting, feelgood film that's been a box office sensation in Ireland. When Conor Lalor (impressive newcomer Ferdia Walsh-Peelo) is transferred from an exclusive fee-paying school to a tougher state school, he becomes a target for both the school bully and the disciplinarian headmaster.

Fortunately, salvation lies in the catchy and angular new wave music Conor is introduced to by troubled older brother Brendan (Transformers: Age Of Extinction's Jack Reynor). After Conor meets the beautiful but mysterious Raphina (rising star Lucy Boynton), he forms a band so she can star in their videos, and reinvents himself as a stylish, self-confident frontman called Cosmo.

Sing Street is equal parts coming-of-age drama and love story, set to a brilliant soundtrack of original songs and classic '80s hits by The Jam, Duran Duran, The Cure, Joe Jackson and The Clash.

The biggest Irish comedy of the year, Sing Street is coming to UK cinemas on May 20 upon a wave of critical acclaim, but NME readers have the chance to see it before anyone else at exclusive screenings up and down the country. See box for details.

See it first

Go to a special NME screening at 6pm, Tuesday May 10, at one of these venues:

VUE Birmingham, Bristol Cribbs, Cheshire Oaks, Croydon Grants, Eastleigh, Edinburgh Omni, Gateshead, Glasgow Fort, Islington, Leeds The Light, Leicester, Manchester Lowry, Norwich, Piccadilly Circus, Portsmouth, Reading, Swansea, Thurrock, Watford and York

Go to showfilmfirst.com and enter code: 424236

Conor (Ferdia Walsh-Peelo) and his band

BFI PRESENTS

SHAKESPEARE ON FILM

APRIL - JULY 2016

A SEASON OF FILM, TV AND SPECIAL EVENTS
IN CINEMAS NATIONWIDE | AT BFI SOUTHBANK | ON DVD | ON BFI PLAYER

BOOK NOW

bfi.org.uk/shakespeare

FOLLOW US

#shakespearelives

In partnership with

SHAKESPEARE
LIVES IN 2016

Supported by
The National Lottery*

Image: William Shakespeare's Romeo + Juliet

Under THE RADAR

YOU HEARD IT HERE FIRST

RADAR

“We found we could do this together”

Fresh starts and zeitgeist-baiting experiments with former Wu Lyf singer Ellery Roberts' new group

IN 2012, ELLERY ROBERTS broke up his former band Wu Lyf via a message under a then-new song he posted on YouTube. It was oddly fitting for a band who rose to prominence via enigmatic tactics; their end was as shrouded in mystery as their start.

With girlfriend Ebony Hoorn, Ellery is now half of LUH (Lost Under Heaven) – a duo with a passion for art, experimentation and, now, life. “When we first met, we were both quite out of love with the worlds we were in,” Ellery says. “A lot of our early relationship was rejecting what was going on. And the realisation being that you’re part of it and through your actions you put out positivity.”

Positivity is key for LUH. After a period of rejecting music, Ellery found his way back to it with a new approach. “It became like self-therapy and documentation. I found that was where my songwriting worked and made me feel something. Suddenly we found that we could do this together and it became a really exciting, inspiring thing.”

It’s hard not to get swept along by the emotion with which the pair talk, and that’s the exact same feeling you get when you listen to debut album ‘Spiritual Songs For Lovers To Sing’, too. The record is gigantic – cinematic, sprawling, sparse and rich all at the same time. From the likes of the grungy ‘Lost Under Heaven’ to the EDM monster that is ‘$ORO’, it’s an album that isn’t afraid to test boundaries. On it, the pair took influence from films like Only Lovers Left Alive.

“It’s a beautiful portrait of these two people,” says Ebony of the film. “These fragile outsiders looking at the world,” finishes Ellery, but they may as well be talking about themselves and their own curious, striking creation.

Rhian Daly

Best track

Someday Come

A slow-building beauty that layers up from glacial guitars to emotional, skyscraping peaks.

FOR FANS OF

WU LYF

NICK LOWE

Details

BASED Amsterdam

SOCIAL @lostunderheaven

BUY IT Debut album ‘Spiritual Songs For Lovers To Sing’ is released on May 6

LIVE

May 5 Deaf Institute, Manchester

May 7 Thekla, Bristol

May 9 XOYO, London

May 10 Bodega, Nottingham

FACT The two met after Ellery had a wine bottle smashed on him in a fight.

For more on LUH, go to NME.com

live

THE MOST IMPORTANT
GIGS THIS WEEK

LETHAL BIZZLE

Fri 29 KOKO, London

Sat 30 Tramshed, Cardiff

Sun 1 O2 Academy, Oxford

Wed 4 Student Union,
Newcastle

Thu 5 The Garage, Glasgow

WHO: 31-year-old MC from Walthamstow who's recently been working with the likes of Wiley and Jme.

WHY: In his own words, he's "a fing rockstar". You might catch him performing his 2015 banger 'Dude' with Stormzy too.

WHO'S SUPPORTING:

No details yet.

TICKETS:

£17 from nme.com/tickets

RAT BOY

Fri 29 Oran Mor, Glasgow

Sun 1 O2 Academy2, Newcastle

Wed 4 Waterfront, Norwich

Thu 5 O2 Institute2, Birmingham

WHO: Essex 20-year-old, AKA Jordan Cardy, who took home Best New Artist at the NME Awards in February.

WHY: He's got the charisma and real-life lyricism of Jamie T.

WHO'S SUPPORTING:

New York rock trio Skaters and London's Cosmo Pyke.

TICKETS:

£11-£15.40 from ents24.com

FESTIVAL

LIVE AT LEEDS

Saturday 30 April

WHERE: 22 stages across the city of Leeds, including Brudenell Social Club, Holy Trinity Church, The Wardrobe and the O2 Academy.

WHY: Now in its 10th year, Live at Leeds offers a range of big British talent at an affordable price, and a lot of it takes place in great little venues you might not have been to before.

FUN FACT: The first Live at Leeds was created to mark the city's 800th birthday in 2007.

TICKETS: £32.50 from liveatleeds.com/tickets

ARTISTS:

See below for highlights

Pigeon Detectives,
Live at Leeds, 2013

CIRCA WAVES

WHO: Liverpool indie four-piece whose debut album 'Young Chasers' came out last year.

WHY: They provide a rare reminder of everything that was great and fun about The Strokes back in the day.

STAGE & TIME: Refectory/Dr Martens Stage at LUU, 21:30

ISAAC GRACIE

WHO: London's own Jeff Buckley, who recently released his first EP 'Songs From My Bedroom'.

WHY: His folk music caused such a stir at the start of the year that label honcho Lucian Grainge flew from LA to London to see him on The Lexington's small stage and subsequently signed him to Virgin EMI.

STAGE & TIME: Holy Trinity Church/Clash Stage, 19:15

JESS GLYNNE

WHO: Huge-voiced singer from London who shot to fame via 2014 Clean Bandit collaboration 'Rather Be'.

WHY: She's one of British music's brightest talents and has just finished a massive arena tour, so she'll be on form.

STAGE & TIME: O2 Academy, 21:00

MYSTERY JETS

WHO: London five-piece who put out their cosmic fifth album 'Curve Of The Earth' last year.

WHY: They've got loads of hits, old and new. There'll be plenty of roaring along.

STAGE & TIME: O2 Academy, 16:00

OTHER ARTISTS TO LOOK OUT FOR

Formation, DMA's, Izzy Bizu, Beach Baby, Catholic Action, Blossoms, Sundara Karma, Slotface, We Are Scientists

live

NOEL GALLAGHER'S HIGH FLYING BIRDS

Fri 29 Genting Arena, Birmingham
Sat 30 The BIC, Bournemouth

WHO: The Gallagher brother from Oasis who formed the High Flying Birds and had a Number One album last year with 'Chasing Yesterday'.

WHY: He recently told NME he was working on new material, so you might hear some of it.

WHO'S SUPPORTING: Welsh lot Super Furry Animals, fronted by Gruff Rhys.

TICKETS: Sold out, but available on secondary ticketing sites from £45

RATKING

Mon 2 Exchange, Bristol
Tue 3 24 Kitchen Street, Liverpool

WHO: New York City rap crew who've worked with London's own royalty King Krulle.

WHY: They bring the grimy underside of New York to life with witty tales.

WHO'S SUPPORTING: No details yet.

TICKETS: £11-£13.20 from ents24.com

For tour news and live reviews go to NME.com

MEILYR JONES

Fri 29 Parr Street Studios, Liverpool
Mon 2 The Cluny, Newcastle
Tue 3 King Tut's, Glasgow

WHO: Wales-born former frontman of alternative group Race Horses.

WHY: He's since been making lush, orchestral chamber pop that's even better live.

WHO'S SUPPORTING: No details yet.

TICKETS: £7-£7.70 from ents24.com

TACOCAT

Mon 2 JT Soar, Nottingham
Tue 3 Electric Circus, Edinburgh
Wed 4 Broadcast, Glasgow
Thu 5 The Moon Club, Cardiff

WHO: Pop-punk four-piece from Seattle who released third album 'Lost Time' in early April.

WHY: They recently recorded a new theme for The Powerpuff Girls, which should give you some idea about their colourful, lethal aesthetic.

WHO'S SUPPORTING: No details yet.

TICKETS: £5-£7 from nme.com/tickets

A$AP NAST

Sun 1 Patterns, Brighton

BAND OF SKULLS

Fri 29 The Sugarmill, Stoke-on-Trent

BEACH BABY

Fri 29 The Joiners, Southampton
Sun 1 Bodega, Nottingham
Mon 2 The Boilerroom, Guildford

BENJAMIN FRANCIS LEFTWICH

Sun 1 Crescent WMC, York
Tue 3 Night & Day Café, Manchester
Wed 4 The Shipping Forecast, Liverpool
Thu 5 The Rainbow Courtyard, Birmingham

CASCADA

Fri 29 Loveshack, Durham

CHRIS CORNELL

Fri 29 Royal Concert Hall, Glasgow
Sat 30 Colston Hall, Bristol
Mon 2 Symphony Hall, Birmingham
Tue 3 Royal Albert Hall, London

CHRISTINE AND THE QUEENS

Tue 3 The Roundhouse, London

DECLAN MCKENNA

Fri 29 Arts Club, Liverpool

DJ EZ

Sat 30 Guildhall, Portsmouth

DMA'S

Fri 29 Thekla, Bristol

HOLY ESQUE

Fri 29 Picture House Social, Sheffield
Sun 1 Think Tank?, Newcastle

JAMIE JONES

Fri 29 Liquid Rooms, Edinburgh
Sat 30 Fabric, London

JESS GLYNNE

Fri 29 Ricoh Arena, Coventry

JOSEPHINE FOSTER

Tue 3 The Glad Café, Glasgow
Wed 4 Merchants Quay, Shipley

JOY ORBISON

Fri 29 The Studio Spaces, London

KATY B

Fri 29 The Assembly, Leamington Spa

KEVIN MORBY

Thu 5 Oslo Hackney, London

THE KILLS

Wed 4 Village Underground, London

KING CREOSOTE

Fri 29 Crinan Hotel, Crinan

LONELY THE BRAVE

Fri 29 Kiln Farm Club, Milton Keynes
Sat 30 O2 Academy, Leicester

MAC MILLER

Fri 29 O2 Ritz, Manchester
Sun 1 O2 Academy, Glasgow

THE MAGIC GANG

Sat 30 Bodega, Nottingham

MAVERICK SABRE

Wed 4 Sin City, Swansea

MILK TEETH

Tue 3 Think Tank?, Newcastle
Wed 4 Sound Control, Manchester
Thu 5 Bodega, Nottingham

MS DYNAMITE

Sun 1 The Clapham Grand, London

MYSTERY JETS

Fri 29 Waterfront, Norwich

NINA NESBITT

Wed 4 O2 Institute3, Birmingham
Thu 5 Scala, London

PELICAN

Sun 1 The Fleece, Bristol
Mon 2 Audio, Glasgow
Tue 3 Gorilla, Manchester

PLASTICIAN

Fri 29 The Deaf Institute, Manchester

READER'S PICK

JOE

20, Lincoln
@joeelinecor

MILBURN

Fri 29, Sat 30 & Sun 1 O2 Academy, Sheffield

"It's the 10th anniversary of the 'Well Well Well' album – in Sheffield, watching a Sheffield band. What more can you ask for?"

RALEIGH RITCHIE

Fri 29 Academy, Manchester

RECREATIONS (FORMERLY GET CAPE. WEAR CAPE. FLY)

Fri 29 The Borderline, London
Sat 30 West End Centre, Aldershot
Mon 2 The Joiners, Southampton
Wed 4 The Hug & Pint, Glasgow
Thu 5 Sunflower Lounge, Birmingham

RYLEY WALKER

Fri 29 McHugh's Bar, Belfast

SLOW CLUB

Mon 2 Surf Café, Newcastle
Wed 4 The Continental, Preston
Thu 5 The Green Room, Stockton on Tees

TORY LANEZ

Tue 3 KOKO, London
Wed 4 Electric Brixton, London

WE ARE SCIENTISTS

Fri 29 O2 Academy, Leicester
Tue 3 Academy2, Manchester
Wed 4 KOKO, London
Thu 5 Concorde 2, Brighton

WRETCH 32

Sat 30 O2 Academy2, Newcastle

CLUB NME

BBC INTRODUCING:
BARNES COURTNEY
Fri 29 KOKO, London

Wednesday 11 May Bristol 02 Academy
Friday 13 May
Glasgow SOLD OUT ~~Barrowland~~
Saturday 14 May
Aberdeen SOLD OUT ~~Barrowland~~
Monday 16 May
Newcastle SOLD OUT ~~Riverside~~
Tuesday 17 May Manchester
Albert Hall
Thu 19 & Fri 20 May
London
Hackney Empire
hackneyempire.co.uk
songkick.com - gigantic.com seetickets.com - gigsinscotland.com

Peter Doherty
Eudaimonia
Tour 2016

A Crosstown Concerts & Metropolis Music presentation by arrangement with Primary Talent International

Academy Events present academyevents presents

SEPTEMBER GIRLS

Telegram

MAY 2016 PLUS SPECIAL GUESTS

15 LIVERPOOL ARTS CLUB LOFT	17 BIRMINGHAM O ₂ ACADEMY3
16 GLASGOW O ₂ ABC2	18 OXFORD O ₂ ACADEMY2

TICKETWEB.CO.UK

academyevents presents

NOVANA

THE ULTIMATE NIRVANA TRIBUTE

CELEBRATING THE 25TH ANNIVERSARY OF "NEVERMIND"

MAY	SAT 07	NEWCASTLE O₂ Academy2
	SAT 21	SHEFFIELD O₂ Academy2
	FRI 27	OXFORD O₂ Academy2
	SAT 28	LIVERPOOL O₂ Academy2
JUNE	SAT 03	BIRMINGHAM O₂ Academy3

TICKETWEB.CO.UK • 0844 477 2000
NOVANA.CO.UK

NME
TICKETS

YOUR ONE STOP SHOP FOR TICKETS

GIGS

FESTIVALS

COMEDY

& MORE

FOLLOW US ON TWITTER FOR NEW TOUR ANNOUNCEMENTS & TICKET OFFERS  @NME

JACK GARRATT

DEBUT ALBUM
'PHASE'
OUT NOW

NOVEMBER 2016

SAT	05	GLASGOW	O ₂ ACADEMY
TUE	08	NEWCASTLE	O ₂ ACADEMY
WED	09	LEEDS	O ₂ ACADEMY
FRI	11	MANCHESTER	O ₂ APOLLO
SUN	13	SHEFFIELD	O ₂ ACADEMY
TUE	15	BIRMINGHAM	O ₂ ACADEMY
WED	16	NOTTINGHAM	ROCK CITY
FRI	18	LINCOLN	ENGINE SHED
SAT	19	CARDIFF	GREAT HALL
WED	23	LONDON	EVENTIM APOLLO
THU	24	LONDON	EVENTIM APOLLO
SAT	26	PLYMOUTH	PAVILIONS
SUN	27	SOUTHAMPTON	O ₂ GUILDHALL
MON	28	BRIGHTON	DOMES

LIVENATION.CO.UK • TICKETMASTER.CO.UK • GIGSANDTOURS.COM
EVENTIMAPOLLO.COM • COMMUNIONMUSIC.CO.UK • JACKGARRATT.COM

A LIVE NATION, COMMUNION, DF CONCERTS & SW1 PRODUCTIONS PRESENTATION IN ASSOCIATION WITH CAA

KATY B

PLUS SPECIAL GUESTS

LADY LESHURR + RAY BLK

SATURDAY 14 MAY
O₂ ACADEMY BRIXTON, LONDON

LIVENATION.CO.UK | TICKETMASTER.CO.UK

A LIVE NATION AND DJM PRESENTATION IN ASSOCIATION WITH ECHO LOGIC

THE NEW ALBUM PROJECT "HONEY" OUT NOW

SUNSET SONS

Very Rarely Say Die

PLUS SPECIAL GUESTS
2016 UK TOUR

DEBUT ALBUM
OUT NOW

OCTOBER
MON 17 ABERDEEN THE LEMON TREE
TUE 18 GLASGOW O, ABC
WED 19 NEWCASTLE WYLLAM BREWERY
THU 20 SHEFFIELD THE LEAD MILL
SAT 22 MANCHESTER ACADEMY
SUN 23 NOTTINGHAM THE RESCUE ROOMS
MON 24 OXFORD O, ACADEMY
WED 26 NORWICH USA
THU 27 LONDON O, SHEPHERD'S BUSH EMPIRE
FRI 28 BIRMINGHAM O, INSTITUTE
SUN 30 BOURNEMOUTH O, ACADEMY

NOVEMBER
TUE 01 CARDIFF TRAM SHED

LIVENATION.CO.UK
TICKETMASTER.CO.UK

GIGSANDTOURS.COM
GIGSANDTOURS.COM

SUNSET SONS

WALKING — ON — CARS

A LIVE NATION AND DJM PRESENTATION
IN ASSOCIATION WITH CODA

2016
MON 06 JUN
BRIGHTON CONCORDE 2

VENUE CHANGED — TICKETS STILL VALID
TUE 07 JUN
LONDON O₂ FORUM

WED 08 JUN
BIRMINGHAM ~~SOLD OUT~~ ACADEMY 2
FRI 10 JUN
MANCHESTER ~~SOLD OUT~~ RUBY LOUNGE

LIVENATION.CO.UK
TICKETMASTER.CO.UK

AURORA

OCTOBER 2016

MON 3 GLASGOW ART SCHOOL
TUE 4 MANCHESTER O₂ RITZ
THU 6 NEWCASTLE UNIVERSITY
FRI 7 BIRMINGHAM O₂ INSTITUTE 2
SAT 8 BRISTOL TRINITY
MON 10 BRIGHTON CONCORDE 2
TUE 11 OXFORD O₂ ACADEMY 2
THU 13 LONDON O₂ SHEPHERD'S BUSH EMPIRE
SAT 15 CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION

LIVENATION.CO.UK
TICKETMASTER.CO.UK

SAUL WILLIAMS

PLUS SPECIAL GUESTS

20 JUNE	LONDON JAZZ CAFE
21 JUNE	MANCHESTER BAND ON THE WALL
22 JUNE	BRIGHTON THE HAUNT
23 JUNE	BRISTOL THEKLA
24 JUNE	BIRMINGHAM O, INSTITUTE 3
25 JUNE	NOTTINGHAM RESCUE ROOMS
27 JUNE	OXFORD O, ACADEMY 2
	+ OODISEE & GOOD COMPANY
01 JULY	LEEDS THE BELORAVE
02 JULY	NEWCASTLE THINK TANK
03 JULY	GLASGOW O, ABC 2

LIVENATION.CO.UK | TICKETMASTER.CO.UK | SAULWILLIAMS.COM
A LIVE NATION & FRIENDS PRESENTATION IN ASSOCIATION WITH DIPLOMATS OF SOUND

LUCKY CHOPS

PLUS SPECIAL GUESTS

Too Many T's

MAY 16 BRISTOL THE FLEECE
MAY 18 LEEDS THE WARDROBE
EXTRA DATE ADDED
MAY 20 LONDON BUSH HALL
MAY 21 MANCHESTER ACADEMY 3
MAY 22 LONDON ~~SOLD OUT~~ OSLO

LIVENATION.CO.UK • TICKETMASTER.CO.UK • LUCKYCHOPS.COM LIVE NATION PRESENTS

CALLING ALL MUSIC FANS

DOWNLOAD THE LIVE NATION APP

Available on the App Store

ANDROID APP ON Google play

VISIT
LIST FOR LIFE.NET

A new site for inspirational stories and career advice to achieve your #goals

♥ WHAT YOU DO

POWDER

Beauty Drawer

A box filled with 12 beauty blockbusters (6 are full size), all matched to your specific needs

Only £35
Worth £120

1

RIGHT FOR YOU

We'll tailor the 12 products in your box to your needs

2

ONE TIME PURCHASE

Subscription lock in?
No thanks.

3

SAVE OVER £85

No-brainer.
It's a steal.

Order yours here
box.thisispowder.co.uk
FREE P&P use discount code NMEPOW

SOUNDTRACK OF MY LIFE

Iwan Rheon

Game Of Thrones' Ramsay Bolton.
What a btard

THE FIRST SONG I FELL IN LOVE WITH

RADIOHEAD

Paranoid Android

"I was probably about nine or 10 – my brother had 'OK Computer' on tape. My music consciousness was starting to grow. I was starting to figure out what I liked and it wasn't just what other people told you to like and what the charts told you to like. 'OK Computer' in general just blew my mind. I thought, 'Wow, this is different!'"

THE FIRST ALBUM I BOUGHT

BLUR

Parklife

"It was on tape, from ASDA. It was definitely money well spent and the beginning of me not listening to crap! A lot of the bands of that era – Blur and Oasis – got me thinking that I wanted to start playing guitar. It's quite difficult to find time to do it, but I'm always writing and stuff. At the moment I'm just waiting until I've got enough songs to warrant sitting down and making a record."

THE SONG I CAN NO LONGER LISTEN TO

DUCK SAUCE

Big Bad Wolf

"You know that horrible 'Big Bad Wolf' song that's in that advert? That song makes me want to fking throw the TV out the window."

THE SONG I DO AT KARAOKE

WILSON PICKETT

Mustang Sally

"It's got to be 'Mustang Sally'. I used to sing in a soul band, so that was one of my favourites. I very rarely indulge in karaoke, but it's normally very, very late in the evening when I've had a few beers and I really I give it my all and think I'm Otis Redding or something."

THE SONG THAT REMINDS ME OF MY DRUM'N'BASS DAYS

RONI SIZE / REPRAZENT

Brown Paper Bag

"I used to be really into drum'n'bass when I was younger. The Roni Size / Reprazent album was amazing. There was a good drum'n'bass night in Clwb Ifor Bach in Cardiff and another bar called Moloko where High Contrast used to play. We used to go there all the time."

THE SONG I ASSOCIATE WITH MY GAME OF THRONES CHARACTER

SEX PISTOLS

Anarchy In The UK

"He's kind of a relentless, horrible psychopath – I think he'd be into the old punk rock scene. I think that's the kind of aggressive music he'd be into. I can't see him sitting listening to Mozart."

THE SONG I WISH I'D WRITTEN

BOB DYLAN

Hurricane

"God, there are so many! 'Hurricane' is an absolutely wonderful song. It just kind of captivates – I remember the first time I heard it. It's just that complete story and amazing lyrics, and just an amazing driving chorus."

Go to NME.com for more Soundtracks

THE SONG I WANT PLAYED AT MY FUNERAL

AC/DC

Highway To Hell

"I've often thought about it. I think maybe it would be 'Highway to Hell'. It would make everyone laugh, wouldn't it?"

Game Of Thrones is on Sky Atlantic now

The wisdom of the NME archives

THIS WEEK

TYLER, THE CREATOR

Odd Future kingpin
April 26, 2011

"There's defiance in doing what we want. I don't like being told what to do."

