FRANCIS IN THE CONE COME

A DATE with Elvis Presley, Elvis Aron has to be careful about them. Too many girls are very friendly towards him. It's because they think the publicity resulting from the movie can be good for them, but on the whole Elvis doesn't complain.

Certainly there's no lack of girl friends in his life and one or other is usually proclaimed by Elvis as "My No. 1 Girl".

She sets up a chain reaction with the gossip writers, speculating who might possibly be Mrs. Elvis Aron (Note: Usually they are wrong, very wide of the mark).

They were wrong about a showgirl, straight from the chorus line in a Las Vegas nightclub, called Doty Harmony (although not at her christening). She used to date Elvis when he first started making his name and wore pink satin slacks, pop-topped trousers and shoes with orange leather insets.

Doty was blonde, pneumatic and wore skin-tight sweaters. At this time, when he first arrived in Hollywood, this was his kind of girl.

Now times and tastes have changed. Anita Wood was also blond and from Elvis' home territory, Memphis. That she was also a singer and doty jockey was also a point in her favour. Soon Elvis said she was his "No. 1 Girl".

And according to the Elvis Presley Fan Club her name is a household word with Presley fans.

Says the club's newsletter: "Long linked with Elvis, she lives on long after the procession of false rumours of various Elvis romances have faded and it still very much surrounds him continually."

Anita made several records for the Memphis Commercial Records, and one of these will be issued by London on August 24. Title is "I'll Yank Forever" and Anita is quoted as saying: "That's the story of my life."

It was Anita who went out with Elvis when he was in the States and was drafted into the US Army for two years.

Stardust figured prominently in the romantic date sheet for Elvis Presley during those early years. Venetta Stevenson was one. She obviously found pop singers to her liking because earlier this year she married Don Davery, of Brothers band.

Natalie Wood, the star, nominated for an award for her part in the film "West Side Story" was another date for Elvis that set the gossip columns clicking and predicting. If you think now, of course.

Tuesday Weld, who appeared in "Wild in the Country" knew Elvis long before they fitted together. But her span of togetherness with the King of Rock was played more for publicity than anything else. Miss Weld, as all Hollywood will tell you, is a very publicly conscious girl.

And then came Juliette Furber. Working with Elvis in "GI Blues", both found the romantic cliché scenes very interesting and carried on off set and out of camera. Much, it was reported at the time, to the chagrin of a Mr. Sinatra, at that time very interested in Miss Furber.

As EVERYBODY knows, Sinatra was engaged to Juliette. And disengaged.

COMPLAINT

Television starlet Sherry Jackson carried plenty of headlines when she went out with Elvis Presley. She earned them AFTER Elvis had taken her out by complaining loudly that she would never date him again. Her reason? Elvis expected her to drive herself over to his luxury home for a party.

Sherry considered it only right and proper to set out and out of camera. Elvis always arranged for one of his "assistants"—by hoodlum Memphis friends of Elvis—himself and his wife in karate, wrestling, touch football and other Presley hobbies— to pick Sherry up. But at this time no was available. He also always arranged for one of his friends to take his date home in any of his cars, but preferably his black and beige Rolls-Royce.

A LOOK AT THE DATING HABITS OF AMERICA'S MOST SUCCESSFUL SINGER

New York model Sandy Nelson found dating Elvis slightly hectic. They went on the town in Las Vegas, Nevada's gambling city.

They met about eight in the evening, went to a nightclub, then another, where Elvis met Johnnie Ray (they were impressed with each other, then on to another hotel for more music).

Finally at 2.30 in the morning it was back to the first nightclub to see Louis Prima and Keely Smith. Sandy and Elvis left this spot at 5 a.m. and drove around the streets in Elvis' Cadillac for two hours.

Then seeing a motorcycle solo rider, Elvis called a machine, donned black leather jacket and went out for a drive.

Sandy's date for the evening finished at . . .

SPANISH

Rita Moreno, a big hit in "West Side Story", met Elvis early on when she was making "Loving You". They both loved Spanish music and made a night of it. . . Spanish style. It ended Italian style though, with a big crowd of friends returning to the car.

306 P

ing to Elvis' suite for a pizza picnic on the carpet.

Elvis is normal about dating. He wants to be boss and doesn't like girl diggers trailing on his name. It's reported that a ring-a-ding-a-ling ring—he gave to Anita is about the most expensive present Elvis has given any girl, apart from his late mother.

He likes to take his girl friends home to Memphis to meet his family for a few days.

Perhaps his most unusual date was Nancy Sharp, blonde, college graduate, daughter of a St. Louis dentist who came with a date and "Elvis" miss on the film "Flamingo".

Nancy wouldn't go to Elvis' Memphis home, but she did think his home met HER parents in St. Louis. Close friends said it was a very serious romance for Elvis at the time.

ANGIER COMO FAN ONSLAUGHT

HERE it comes again! Another never-dying onslaught from the Perry Como Fans of Great Britain. The 1077. Though it is stated by Joe THORPE, of the Great West Road, Southern Branch, Exeter Road (President, Foreway, Branch) and Valerie Rodger (Vice-President Branch).

Much to be pined. A demand, in fact, Muz-TV series on BBC-TV.

Say the three ladies: "Once again we are appealing to you to help us in our campaign to get the BBC to return the series to our screens. Please believe me, we have no intention of giving them up. Stuart Hood wishes to inform us that he has no intention, or sees no reason, to change his mind concerning the Como series."

PROMISE

"We were promised by the BBC that the Como series would be returned to us. They told us they had had no more requests for the return of the show that they were considering matters . . . but to date they still say they have no plans for the return of the series."

by PETER JONES

"What on earth can they want to make them change their minds. We still have no really decent variety and light shows such as those put on by Perry. But the BBC are not allowing copying to the Como shows (for the most they do not use the studio for example. No one ever had a permit to sit on such Perry used one on his effort but none of their shows can compare to any they are afraid of the competition."

RAW DEAL

"Always we fans reckon we have had a very raw deal from the BBC. Television programmes are supposed to be shown mainly by request from the public, but it seems that this no longer applies. The Pilkington Report showed this quite clearly—and we don't think it good enough."

"Folks pay their licence money and they are entitled to have what they require. Believe us, requests for the return of the show have gone forward continuously since the show was cut and will continue to do so in spite of the BBC's mean action."

"Will you help us? And will you enable us to show all the other Como fans that we are doing our best to get the series back?"

"Remember my little bit of help, me lady, please."

I give once again: The Como show has been accepted by the ratings, the viewing figure. And British producers, in their off-guard moments, admitted that it taught them a lesson in television production. They are now keen to see some American stars who would otherwise be merely . . . BY NAMES.

AND COME

It was only last week that Connie Francis was asked why she hadn't ever done any concert tours in Great Britain.

She was in London to record the number for her film, "Follow the Boys".

Connie replied: "What's the use of it here?"

A remark that underlines the dilemma that Connie Francis finds herself in with regard to her disc and Great Britain. Once she was the most constant, and for some the most polished and professional of American girl singers.

Then suddenly everything stopped. Her discs—generally average, according to sales figures—100,000 and 180,000 per issue—suddenly tailed off.

However, Connie's record was soon granted because her latest disc "Vacation" kept into the Top Fifty at No. 46. This week it's at No. 24 and set to go higher. So maybe Connie has resolved her hit-disc problem of long list.

Now why has "Vacation" become a judged by the highest standards of Connie's early and big hit discs it falls a wee bit short. But judged against the last half dozen or so Francis records released then it well up to standard.

It also has one particular point of distinction.

"Vacation", with its high-school, type sounds, a saxophone solo in the middle, a happy tune with beat and a

Connie hasn't recorded many of these of late.

Consider "Breaking In A Brand New Heart", very slow and sentimental in a country and western vein. Consider "My Break The Heart That Loves You"; hardly the happiest of songs ever to mine the charts. Consider "My Heart Has A Mind Of Its Own"; another sentimental disc that sold a story smelted out by Connie.

Consider "I'm In This" this got into the NRM Top Ten in September last year (it topped it at 11 and lasted for five weeks) but again it was not the Connie's big, big hits.

Not even Connie flunking over to London for the top spot at Night At The London Palladium could push it higher or extend its stay in the charts further.

Consider "Baby's First Christmas". Not even the most fervent Francophile could say that this was typical Connie. It made basic camp at No. 17 on the lower reaches of the charts, just before the Festive Season—and lasted one week, disappearing in the face of post-NM depression.

So after singing several songs of sadness, up pops a bright, happy disc.

And it makes the charts.

Where else does Connie work about not getting into the best sellers. He does it all within hours of release, all over the world.

CONNIE FRANCIS: in and out of Great Britain just recently to record and re-record songs from her new film "Follow The Boys"—sequel to "Where The Boys Are".

But why can't she fit in a concert tour of Britain, her British fans are asking. Last week Connie said that before she did so she needed a hit record.

Now that "Vacation" has jumped right up the charts from No. 46 to 24, this problem has resolved itself. So how about it, Connie? (NRM Picture).

HIS KEY OF THE DOOR* HAS A DECIDEDLY GOLDEN TOUCH

WHEN Paul Anka celebrated his 21st birthday last week, they don't just give him the Key of the Door—they're thinking about giving him the key to For Knox!

For example: There is his annual income of $260,000. Profits from a worldwide disc sale of over 30,000,000 records—of which his first hit "Diana" accounts for some 9,000,000. Incidentally, there are 310 DIFFERENT "VERSIONS" of his 21 DIFFERENT COUNTRIES of the same—11 in 21 years. It makes the No. 1 record in 30 different countries.

Profits from his 1,000,000-dollar contract with RCA-VICTOR Records, which he signed this year, which allows him to distribute itself from his own company, Camry Productions. First of the No. 1 in Deane Eddy.

Profits from his multi-publishing company, Spanish and French—who publish all his own records, which at the last count numbered 225.

Profits from personal tours, which have taken him to all parts of the world, except for Russia. And even there they smuggle in his records, play 'em and sell 'em.

Profits from his ten-per-cent and ten-words interest in a lot of artists and groups he puts out on his own label.

PROFIT

Profits from a healthy partnership in a $100,000-dollar hotel construction.

From which you must debit the laundage charges for his 40,000 shirts. What is Paul Anka?

He's one of the about millionaires teenage businessmen we've met. Come to think of it he's the only one.

PAUL ANKA—an exte-nor-mal, now just a millionaire (NORMAN pictures).

He speaks confidently but he has to push him along to "get anything." He insists on calling everybody "Dad," even when he would be overawed. He's tall. He's almost athletic. He's not. He's almost athletic.

But when it comes to business, he's a giant. Darryl F. Zanuck, now boss of 20th Century Fox, and producer of epic war film "The Longest Day," which has a cast of over 300 big names including Paul, has a reputation for being a hard-bossed, budget-proof business man.

Paul had a theme song for the picture. Mr. Zanuck stated categorically that he didn't want a theme song. Guess who won? Well, just listen to that theme song when the picture opens in Britain in September . . .

RULES

The question of Paul as song-writer is one that puzzles many other song-writers. Paul himself is quite frank about his own film "The Longest Day," which has a cast of over 300 big names including Paul, has a reputation for being a hard-bossed, budget-proof business man.

This includes teenagers as far apart as the Japanese and Puerto Rican "Lovers," we are told, "make the world go round" but as far as Paul Anka is concerned it keeps a balance in rock with what he has a set of rules about something that say:

It must be a love song: It must be simple: And you should always, within reason, say what you feel.

He said: "If I were to write a song about a new craze, say like the Twist, then I would write a love song first and write the Twist into it—the other way round. Boy Meets Girl . . . they merely HAPPEN to be lovers."

WORRY

However, of late, he seems to be worrying about the teenage scene. He has been three times to the Copacabana, a big New York nightclub which doesn't accept the teenagers. Neither does the Sands Hotel, Las Vegas.

He also went to the Olympia Music-hall, in Paris, where he took more money than "Mama Doolittle And Maurice Chevalier, come to that."

When Paul whistled through London earlier this year on an RCA promotion tour, he passed in the handshaking routine to admit he DID worry about not being too consistent in the British market. But it figure it this way: four charts, that is the longest in the world. You're not dominated by the American scene for the simple reason that you've got a lot of great artists produced there.

"Most other places in the world, there aren't any local artists so . . . Paul has been afraid to let his own work neglect his British fans."

It's been a long, long time since, we were here for concert appearances. True, he has slipped in and out on promotional television appearances but the fans like to get to grips with their idols in a theatre atmosphere. I don't think Paul is deliberately neglected. He has a high respect for his British fans and would like to do all he can for them.

Trouble is that when you're one of the youngest millionaires in the world you can hardly call your time your own.

ENGLISH ARE THE BEST "MISTER" writes JOHNNY KIDD

FOR the past three weeks myself and the PIRATES have been playing a season at the STAR CLUB, HAMBURG. Before leaving we thought that this would be our last engagement that we would be glad to see come to an end.

For sometimes the lack of proper attention both in the club you are playing and the hotel where you are staying can make such trips one of the biggest bring downs imaginable.

So far, though, the whole season has been nothing but one great big ball. The main reason for this is the audience. I don't think that I have ever known a more enthusiastic or appreciative audience anywhere!

For well over a year now, I have felt a song in my act that has been a personal favorite, "If You Were The Only Girl In The World." Regrettably, it has often been the weakest point, ap-tau-tau-wine, in the whole act. However, since I have been booked out with the cheering 1 in record for this every act.

STANDARD

But generally speaking the standard of appreciation is so high that you would be amazed if it were played to an audience of fellow singers.

Twisting cases of strength here as in England, although everywhere seems to look on it as the normal standard dance, whereas in England it is still, and I think always will be, regarded as something of a specialty. Their style is the same but the standard is a little higher. I think I can definitely the best twisters (so offered).

By the time you read this we will be finishing our season here and returning to England. Meanwhile, we're all finishing the back street shops looking for souvenirs.

This souvenir hunting all started about three months ago when we were in Wales. There Welsh fans, authentically get as excited about the twister as we get as well but something that will be used regularly.

One other thing that has struck me about Hamburg. That is that the twister must be terribly awarded. They all Floently, yet.

THE RISE AND DECLINE AND FALL OF THE INSTRUMENTAL

IT all started around March 1958. A few young U.S. team of college kids went into a recording studio in New York and cut a disc.

They left their master tapes leaning up against the kerb outside, and rode away after cutting a couple of disks. Thinking that that was the end of that.

Because of course they had cut a disc that was totally different from others which had been invading the U.S. charts.

The difference was that it had no singing on it. The title was "Tequila"—meaning a Mexican drink, very popular. But not as potent as the dice. Within weeks it had topped the charts. State-attention over here. Enough interest in fact to have had eight cover versions of the disc issued here competing with the Champs version. Far that was the name of the first real successful rock instrumental combo. A name that fans of this sort of music still haven't forgotten.

They reached No. 6 in our charts with it—but the follow-ups didn't make the grade. They had titles like "El Rancho Rock" and "Subway" and did manage to make the American charts.

CHAMPS

Of course there had been plenty of instrumental hits before the Champs, but they were by people like Ted Heath, and Duke Ellington.

Not really teenage meat, as some would put it. The Champs changed all that. "Tom Hark" was the next best for should we say softest number to date, and that reached No. 2. The record was actually Gambino's music of the Sinatra erbs and it had the genuine clicking of dice on it. So we were told.

By NORMAN JOPLING

Then came the most consistent instrumental hit-maker. His name was Duane Eddy, and his first disc was a number called "Rebel Rouser," which reached No. 1 in the States and 14 over here. He followed it up with "Cannonball," in late '58 and his follow-up, "Honey XY" had scored heavily with "Honey XY" which topped the poll, and followed it with "Woe Tum." And incidentally there were never seen again.

At the beginning of 1959 there were three instrumental success stories. Including place discs from Russ Conway who was to have such great success later on, "Manhattan Spirit" entered in Rock and just reached No. 17, while Duane Eddy topped again with "The Lonely One" and "Ride Gump" by Russ Conway topped the lists with his "Side Saddle" and "Roulette" and scored later with his "Farty Pop" series.

Another consistent team, Johnny and The Hurricanes came in with "Red River Rock" and reached No. 2, while Santa & Johnny climbed high with their "Steppin' Out." "Teen Beat" by Sandy Nelson made the top ten, while a jazz instrumental record No. 5 in the shape of "Johnny Stracato" by Elmer Bernheim.

At the beginning of 1960 there were no fewer than eight instrumental hits on the top twenty.

They were "Slow Choo Choo," No. 6 by Russ Conway, "Some Kinda Earthy Party Pop," "Staccato Tempo," "Red River Rock," "Teen Beat," "Reveille Rock," "Flam Farty."

That incidentally was the largest number of instrumentals ever to get into the top twenty.

More from Duane Eddy in 1960 with "Bonnie Camo Bunk," "Shazam" and "Because They're Young," while Johnny and The Hurricanes scored with "Reveille Rock," "Horse Vender" and "Rockin' Goose."

GUITAR

New Rock discs included "Apache" the sensational No. 1, and two versions of "Walk Don't Run," by The Ventures and Johnny B.

Bert Weedon scored with his "Mary Robbins" in 1960, while the Pildown Men made the twenty with their "Mushrooms Crawl," "Wildfire Riders Again!" and "Goodnight Bird's Flight."

The success of the Shadows, proved they were guitar instrumentalists of this sort, and his in this included "If Sailing Battle" by Pete Chester, and "Teen Scene" by the Hooters.

SAYS RAY CONNIFF:

People Need Background Music

BEARING IN MIND THE SOUND ON RAY CONNIFF records, it comes as a surprise to meet him on his own. One somehow had the impression that he moved nowhere without his wash-washing choir, his orchestra and his heavy-handed rhythmic section.

But he was on his Todd all right. And expostulating that his disc sound was not merely a gimmick—said "Conniff has all the gimmicks—and all fasten!"

Ray said he didn't like the word "gimmicks"; "It implies something that dies out overnight. No sir, it is not a gimmick".

In fact, the Conniff sound is surely one of the most pleasant ever to emerge in pop music. His albums have a guaranteed quarter-of-a-million sale — and there seems positively no end to his run of success.

All through the "simple" idea of having a choir sing out words but "wash-wash-wash" enthusiastically. And it solves my language problem so that Conniff sales are high throughout the world.

It was back in 1956 that "Wonderful" hit the album charts. Then came "Marvelous", "Contentual" and "Impetuous" which have topped up five million sales.

People HAVE tried to copy the Conniff touch but in this case there is literally nothing like the original. That choir sounds like a very big group but the actual line-up is four girls and four men.

Does this sound like an overnight success-story? Well, it isn't. Years of work went into building towards that "Wonderful" album.

Ray, born 46 years ago, had musical parents, dad leading and tromboning for a local group and mum a talented pianist. Ray himself took up trombone pretty early.

Then he took a mild order course in chords and he studied music and he practised arranging. "I remember my first arrangement," he told me. "I did 'Sweet Georgia Brew' and 'Georgia' for our high school band."

In 1934, he graduated, went to Boston and held down his professional music job in "The Musical Skipper". He played, arranged . . . and rode the band track.

On to New York—and the great Benny Bergin. Then Bob Crosby hired him for the Bob-Cats. Then Artie Shaw tempted him across to launch Shaw hits such as "Prelude in C-Sharp Minor", "Wonderful" and "Jump On The Merry-Go-Round".

By now people were talking about (a) his exciting trombone solos and (b) his exciting arrangements.

Then Ray went to Glen Gray's Casa Loma Orchestra. For two years, he was arranging for groups of the Armed Forces Radio Services.

Out of uniform again, he joined Harry James, supplying the sweet-toned trumpeter with more hits.

Says Ray: "All the time I knew wanted to do something really different. I meant to say what it was—but I felt there was something deep down inside me trying to get out."

He had a wife and three children by the late 40's and turned free-lance. His studies went on and he tried to find that elusive "different" bit.

In 1953, he was introduced to Columbia's Mitch Miller.

with a Don Cherry record, as arranger—and "Band of Gold" was a huge hit.

Then followed such big hits as Johnny Ray's "Walking In The Rain"; Frankie Lane's "Moonlight Gambler"; Merry Robbins' "Little Sweet Treat"; Gay Mitchell's "Single The Blues"; and the great Johnny Mathis hit "Chances Are"; "Wonderful, Wonderful"; and "It's Not For Me To Say".

Col.Saba executive dug Andy. In 1955, they handled over the band to Ray and said: "Do precisely what you like with whatever group you like".

And "Wonderful" came up. Ray Conniff, after years of searching had found that "something different".

Ray accepts that people don't actually listen to his music. That's all right by him, as long as they go on buying the albums.

He says: "People need music as a background. They do their housework, clean their cars—or just sit and chatter over the music. I thought this pretty hard on the musicians at first but then I realised that just listening kind to disc makes a person pretty nervous.

"My own albums sell best to students and to young couples, say between 19 and 25."

Some critics say Mr. Conniff should lay off the classics. He says he doesn't. "Musicians often don't listen to classical music. But if they listen to me and I give them tastefully developed versions of music—well, then they are hearing worthwhile melodies."

Mr. Conniff proved to sign some more atmospheric-style messages on some more photographs, back-loaded a few more well-wishers. And went off to bed.

He'd been up all seven that morning, playing poker with a group of friends. With some VERY faintly suggestive photographs.

Lonnie Donegan Pick A Bale Of Cotton (Mercury 7N 15455)

We know what this was going to be like before we heard it. The title tells us. And nobody could have sung this leadily number better than Lonnie—except maybe the original. Now starts the extremely skilful number which generates more and more excitement as it progresses. Very repetitive and catchy, it will appeal to just about every type of record buyer. The group behind Mr. D. The Kestrels, gave him the full authentic treatment making this as good as Lonnie's best efforts in his own realm. And we believe that he does this one before.

"Steal Away" on the flip is much slower and is a kind of Gospel song arranged by Lonnie. Interesting backing on this one, with lots of fine tight instrumental parts.

FOUR TOP 20 TIP

Duane Eddy Ballad Of Padishah The Wild Westerner (RCA 1300)

MR. EDDY gives us the lot on this one. He makes use of twang, clattery rhythm section, guitar strings, a short burst from Fred Horn's horn section, the usual rasping saxophone. In short, the same old-time approach to a tune taken from the television series, "Paladin".

Rebels and all the hooding 'n' whoosin' seem to be missing on this one. There's a certain amount of interest for the charts despite that.

The flip is "The Wild Westerner" and starts off with some good drum work which carries on the whole interesting credit under the title (Harwood-Eddy). We thought Duane had separated from his manager. Seems not though. Typical recording errors from Mr. J. with some good axe booting in. Another one for the rock fave.

FOUR TOP 20 TIP

Jet Harris Main Title Theme Men With The Golden Arm; Some People (Decca F 1148)

SOME deep bluesy sounds from Jet O Harris in his second attempt at the top all alone.

The tune is given a powerful stirring treatment by Jet and Charles Blackwell's orchestra. Grim and overpowering it now seems little too soft for many of today's record buyers. There's a feel of the Johnny Shannon theme about this one, which is played, as may be guessed, on bagpipes.

That makes two bag guitar acts issued in one week—Jet Harris and Duane Eddy.

"Some People" is a vocal effort from Jet, who has a nice vocal without much originality. The usual anti-teen-fave are sung about, but somehow though we like it.

Perhaps teenagers are delinquents after all.

THREE TOP 20 TIP

The Polka Dots Yesterday The Moment I Saw You (Phillips 32635)

COME quiet-but swinging from the Polka Dots, perhaps the most modern group on the British scene.

Gents, with some soft-toned background noises on this completely uncommittal number. Not too much in the way of a tune, but plenty of R&B. Gents included here, there and everywhere.

No appeal for teenagers, but the record should slip up in '63. Its good. Flip is called "The Moment I Saw You" and has more of a pop feel than the general public that the top side, but it's a fine bridge, raising ideas accordingly.

THREE TOP 20 TIP

ONE ON SKIFFLE

BRYAN BLACKBURN & PETER BREWIS We'll Not Twist Again Parts 1 and 2 (Phillips 26245)

VERY nice the tune of "Let's Twist Again" to the two boys this week about everything in its own time. First they carry the twist on the grounds of artists untried while dancing it. Various artists will give a little plus on both sides, with various voice impressions by the boys. Twistin' round the world is presented as side two.

We don't really think that this will sell extremely well out of a comedy flip. It would have gone down better. But it's well performed and there's a few lumps that will make you grin.

THREE TOP 20 TIP

BURR IVES Call Me Mr. In-Be-trance (When You Gonna Do, Leroy) (Brunswick 05872)

ANOTHER country styled number for the big Dadsy who comes up with a number called "Mr. In-Be-trance".

Not quite with the commercial appeal of his last two hits but pleasant all the same. There's the same feminine chorus taking a large share of the disc up before the main song. This is quite nice in the States, but we don't think it'll do well over here. Pleasant and unusual nevertheless.

Probably the better side is the rock contrabass "When You Gonna Do Leroy". Jack Scott had a number called "Good some time ago" this hit is the same character.

Good snare work from the backing, with some commercial appeal.

THREE TOP 20 TIP

Ivor Raymond My Last Love, Forever (Decca F 1149)

HARMONICA led tune for Ivor Raymond, following to his "Willow Weep" success.

Very sweet tune, with quite a bit of emotional feel. If this gets the plays it will sell well.

British chimes join in half-way to chant the lyrics before we get back to the harmonica.

Genre and soothing, it should go down better with the older.

A slightly faster tempo on this one. And instead of the harmonica, there's a lead piano instead. Again pleasant and very easy on the ear, but not too commercial.

Also with more of a tinge of the old-fashioned about it.

THREE TOP 20 TIP

FLOYD CRAMER Hot Pepper; For Those That Cry (RCA 13061)

MR. Cramer's piano playing from MORE rhythm piano playing from Floyd Cramer, who scored last year with his "On the Rebound".

Not too much of a tune, but with plenty of the necessary "hot" touch. Mr. Floyd's playing, who scored last year with his "On the Rebound".

Could make the charts if given enough exposure.

Sawyer stuff on the flip, reminiscent of "Last Day" and some of the Presley efforts that Floyd handles so successfully.

Strikes case the piano along giving the whole thing a sweet spry flavour. But not unpleasant.

This side lacks the commercial appeal of the top though.

THREE TOP 20 TIP

BUDD JOHNSON QUINTET Let's Swing

Several Blue B's Only Here For You @ Downtown Manhattan @ Seasons To Watch The Stars @ The Blue Bird @ The Blue Bird @ Upbeat Manhattan.

I don't say it's really the most remarkable one of durability in a jazz-joke in the States. His history ranges from the banjo-and-tuba days of the 1920s right up to tomorrow morning. I don't know how he is a player of swing and culture, who has a richer melodic pit, than many players who are probably no more than his age.

As he has apparently undergone many style rose shifts, the one, however, sounds like one of the modern players up to tomorrow morning. I don't know how he is a player of swing and culture, who has a richer melodic pit, than many players who are probably no more than his age.

Johnson produces sentiment unshamed at times, particularly in the slow blues, "Blues By Budd", and at the other extreme can get through some pretty contemporary changes in "I'm In Love with Love", an old Rogers-and-Hart standard which has been neglected as a possible jazz theme for too long.

NRM POP DISCOVERY

THE FOUR SHADOWS

THE FOUR SHADOWS have done it again with a touch of the twang. "Guitar Tango", which has shot up the charts in two short weeks. And on this disc they have forsaken possibly their only claim to a trademark, electric guitar, in favour of accented Spanish jobs.

It shows that it's a long way from plain old rock and roll that the Shadows have travelled.

What's new for the Shadows' fans? They can expect some delights when the film starts. Jess Conrad, "The Boys" is screened shortly. The Shadows do not appear in the film, which also stars Richard Todd, but have written three tunes for the soundtrack.

They are "The Boys", "The Girls" and "There From The Boys". Ret of the soundtrack has been composed by pianist Bill McGuffee.

EMI claims that the three tunes from the film—Jess Conrad has a straight dramatic non-swing part—will be issued on an LP around October time.

Fourth tune of the disc will be by McGuffee.

Plans have also been announced for The Shadows to travel in Paris and appear for two weeks at the Olympia top music hall in the French capital.

The Shadows have been there before—but mainly as visitors. Earlier this year they made a special trip to watch Ray Charles in action. Earlier still they met the Fitzgeralds when the followed them into the Olympia as top of the bill.

There's more travelling in store for the four-one in September—this time to New York. They travel there for film starting Cliff Richard and The Shadows. "The Young Ones", Manager Peter Gormley spent one or half days in New York last week confirming arrangements.

Nearly everyone noted and rates the Shadows as their favourite group, but just who do The Shadows themselves favour as performers?

Naturally, Cliff Richard is named by all four as one of their favourite singers. And this isn't just a business gesture.

Next is Ray Charles, a choice currently shared by most of the pop fans in this country. But the Shadows or at least Hank Marvin, Bruce Welch and Brian Bennett, have been long time readers over Ray. They list him mainly as their favourite band, although Brian considers him among his favourite singers.

Hand's other favourite singers besides Cliff are Bobby Darin and Buddy Holly. Holly turns up in Bruce Welch's favourite singers along with Jerry Lee Lewis and the Everly Brothers. Bruce also lists Holly as his favourite composer with Norman Petty second, whereas Hank rates Rodgers and Hammerstein as his favourite composers.

Hand's other favourite composers are Chad Adkin, Barney Kessel, and Duane Eddy. Hank B. Marvin.

Brian Bennett apparently digs what are called "quality" performers. Favourite singers, apart from Richard and Charles are Sinatra and Ella Fitzgerald.

His favourite band is Count Basie's and he lists George Gershwin and Ravel as his favourite composers.

Nicely often are Brian Geoffrey Lewis's choices. Rock, Beatnik, Buddy Greco and Sonny Davis. He lists his favourite singers, along the Basic band goes down as favourite band.

Headed Ray Brown and pianist Ediger are his favourite instrumentalists with Cole Porter as favourite composer.

ROBB DARI
THINGS LONDON ATLANTIC

THE DECCA RECORD COMPANY LIMITED Decca House, Abchurch Lane, London E.C. 4

SHAPRO, CONRAD, PRESLEY, SINATRA, RICHARD, ARE ALL 'WORRIED' ... ABOUT JIMMY SAVILE!!

DISC-JOCKEY JIMMY SAVILE HAS PLAYED MANY THOUSANDS OF RECORDS DURING HIS CAREER. NOW HE HAS MADE HIS OWN DISC DEBUT—"AHAB THE ARAB" FOR DECCA.

WE ASKED MR. SAVILE FOR HIS CONSIDERED VIEWS ON THE IMPLICATIONS OF HIS BURSTING UPON THE RECORD SCENE.

HE ANSWERED OUR QUESTIONS FRANKLY, FERCELY AND ENTHUSIASTICALLY.

TEEN IDOL

What does it feel like to be a teenage disc idol?

I think it's wonderful. Hang on a minute while I have a word with Cliff Richard.

Have you sufficient room in your home to store Gold Discs and other records?

I have, this morning, contacted a furniture depository and reserved their top floor.

SUGGESTION

Who suggested that you make "Ahab the Arab"?

No one suggested it, because it was so obvious to the entertainment industry as a whole.

How did you feel when you first went into the recording studio?

My first reaction was that I would miss my place. My second reaction, some hours later, was that I was glad I had not bought the place.

MONOLULLU

Who has been the biggest influence on you in your recording career?

Prince Maoullulu. And the reason is his conservative taste in dress.

Has singing always been a secret ambition of yours?

I have waited a long time to be discovered and it was a question of who was first—a recording company or Scotland Yard.

WAGES

Now that you have heard yourself on disc, what do you think of the result?

Personally, I think they have not the tapes mixed up and it is somebody else. But the wages are nice.

Will your fellow disc-jockeys play your record or will they be spiteful, mean, jealous, etc?

My fellow disc-jockeys have waited for a long time to be able to say what they actually think about me.

SHY

Will you play the disc in your own programmes, thereby proving yourself to be fair, honest, generous, etc?

I am naturally a shy, retiring person so I will only play it five times in each of my programmes. Of course, that means BOTH sides of the record.

Have you any plans for a follow-up?

Yes. At the moment, I am busy studying the least-known works of Bach and Beethoven as I am sure they'd like to be discovered, too.

Would you like to "Ahab"—the disc biographical?

"Ahab" is a pictorial record of my career's incarnation.

STARS

Have the other major singing stars spoken to you about your record?

Certainly. HELEN SHAPRO says will I please try and sound a little less like her on my next record.

ELVIS PRESLEY has cabled asking that my release date be kept well away from his area, so as he says things are tough enough these days as they are.

JESS CONRAD said: "At last, I have some company in the business."

CLIFF RICHARD was unavailable at the time for comment—so he was out getting another time-table for getting back to Greece.

FRANK SINATRA was heard to say: "Could this be the beginning of the end?"

And a final quote from disc-jockey Jimmy: "Being leashed already, I have decided to give all the money from royalties to charity—old folk's charities." That is serious. The money goes to the Little Sisters of the Poor, a non-denominational group who run homes throughout Britain for old people.

Disc jockey Jimmy Savile with two pop recording stars who obviously have no fears about him or his new record — the EVERLY BROTHERS.

Jimmy met them on a recent trip to America. He also met Elvis Presley at the same time.

STILL TRIPVERSUS DOT..!

HERE'S a plea on behalf of the five very talented, very lively DALLAS BOYS whom I saw when I popped over to Rhyl. They go like the proverbial bomb at every show, night after night.

But they're not recording these days. It seems such a shame . . . and such a waste, if they could find the right material to suit their robust attitude to vocal work. I'm sure they could be right up there in the best-of-the-best, if there any enterprising a r man listening?

Since we have been here, CLINTON FORD has written two songs and finds the blackpool air suits him fine as composer and performer. He has his own publishing company now — and, of course, he still gets dozens and dozens of copies of really old songs sent him every week. I shouldn't be surprised if they call him "Irving" Ford before long.

PARADISE

Last week, I talked about the Battle of Blackpool—between Trad and Pop. It goes on. We've had Terry Lightfoot here and, all this week, the Ode Valley Stompers. The pop army was represented best Sunday by Eden Kane, at the Queens, and Tommy Steele, at the Opera House. Both did capacity business. Tommy may not get out and about as much as he did—but he does marvellous shows.

Trumpet fans are finding Blackpool a paradise. There's our top trad-man, KENNIE BALL (who has just finished his show across town) and our top pop-man, EDDIE CALVERT, sweetening his audience night after night on top jazz-man, KENNY BAKER, enough to satiate any brass addict.

Mark Wyper, whom I met, tells me that he is playing "Burton" at St. Wanching this Christmas and then they'll go to Australia for another season there. A big hit "show under" is Mark . . . and I'm not surprised.

MRS. MILLS, whom Billy Cotton calls "The French of the lounge" is loving her new-found show-business station. She's taking driving lessons these days and hopes to pass her test in October.

A word of praise right here for PAUL BURNETT who leads the orchestra on the North Pier, where I am appearing.

OTHER STARS SONGS, THAT'S MY LIFE, SAYS RUSS

RUSS SAUNTY is one of that select band of singers who appear on these programmes listened to by millions, known on these programmes by the self same millions, and unknown regarding the charts.

"There comes a time," says Russ, "when you get tired of singing other people's songs. But why should I complain. I get the charts."

However, Russ has tried to get out of the lucrative pop. It's called "Keep Your Love Locked Up" in "Your Heart", his first attempt at a record for a long time, on the HMV label.

"Mind you, things have improved" he adds. "since then," admits Russ. "I was a rather large managing, booking and extracting a percentage of . . . himself. It works out well," he says. (NRM Pic.)

He is his own manager and senior partner in a song publishing firm—his own.

FAN CLUB

Headquarters are in the Saintry bedroom, back home in London's East End, with typewriter, telephone, headed notepaper, filing system and a few weeks ago—about 15, 9d. in the bank.

"I'm glad you have improved" since then," admits Russ. "I was a rather large

BERT WEEDON WRITES FROM BLACKPOOL

He's a fine arranger and did a 'swingin' version of "Sains" for me which I'd be able to hear on BBC TV on Saturday evening. Thanks again, Paul!

Comedian KEN PLATT who lives near Blackpool and is pretty well as much a fixture here as the Tower, is generating the laughs with JOE BENDERSON—and he's just one of the mass of show folk who spend much of their spare time on the golf-links.

GERMANY

Just had a surprise call from my recording company . . . Seems that "Some Other Love" may not be sold sufficiently enough to get in the charts. But they've had a request from Germany for it to be released there—as I've been in the Top Ten there several weeks.

Remember how I told you about the two girls in our show who believed they had a photo in their hat? Well, they've had a lot of offers from amateur show-buffers to go along and help them get rid of the noisy visitor. Seems a lot of professional musicians fancy 'em but they're very attractive girls!

"Trouble is that it seems the good finds time to read the New Record Mirror. At any rate, he has got speed. And the notes and doo-banging have suddenly stopped.

That's the lot for this week. See you around these columns next week.

NEW RECORD MIRROR: CHART SURVEY

AMERICAN SCENE

PAST rising U.S. hits include—"I Love The Way You Are"—Bobby Vinton; "Free-Ace Idol"—Rick Nelson; "Too Bad"—Ben E. King; "Green Onions"—Booker T. and the

M.G.'s; "You Beat Me To The Punch"—Mary Wells; "Your Nose Is Gonna Grow"—Johnny Crawford; "Send Me The Pillow You Dream On"—Johnny Tillotson; "Plant Of No Return"—Gene McDaniels; "Wonderful Dream"—Meters.

NEW U.S. releases include—"If I Didn't Have A Dime"—Gene Pitney; "With The Touch Of Your Hand"—Brook Benton; "Can You Waddle"—Spartans; "Send For Me"—Barbara George.

"Cover Charge"—Rondels; "It Might As Well Rain Until September"—Carole King; and "Manfred Potatoes U.S.A."—James Brown.

So far no mention of new Buddy Holly disc "Reminiscing," due for August 7 release, with King Curtis on sax. Curtis, real name Curtis King, is an R & B sax player, with many U.S. hits to his credit including "Soul Twist" and "Beach Party." He played on "Mystery Train" by the Coasters in '58.

New U.S. dance crazes which seem to be catching on are the Waddle, The Loco-Motion, the Baseball, and the Stupid.

"Breaking Up Is Hard To Do" is Neil Sedaka's first chart-topper either in the U.S. or here. Very reminiscent of the Tokens' "Tonight I Fell In Love."

MARTY WILDE SWITCHES TO ABEL

BROOK BROS. FOR AMERICA

FINAL details for the Brook Brothers first visit to America are being arranged this week—it is definite that they will be there for two weeks starting the end of September.

Their trip is mainly promotional and will include many radio and television dates for interviews and appearance. Meanwhile, they are still with radio work and one-nighters in Britain.

WYNTER SERIES

HIS first radio series of his own—that is what Mark Wynter has lined up for the fall end of this year. Mark has been signed for a series of 15 minute programmes for 12 weeks, tentatively titled "The Warmth of Wynter" for Radio Luxembourg.

MIKE RETURNS

H.M.V. recording artist Mike Sagar who had a successful operation on his vocal chords in July, is currently taking singing lessons to prevent any further throat trouble. Mike will return from his group the Crosses, which features pianist Brian Harvey, at the beginning of September when they will be giving one night stands throughout Yorkshire, plus a tour of the South Coast.

MARTY WILDE (above) switches record labels from November 1—this was the shock news revealed to him by his manager, Larry Parces.

After five years with the Philips label (during which time he has had many hits, Marty switches to the EMI organisation on the Columbia label).

He will be under the direct control of recording manager Norman Newell. It is understood that his musical director on the new label will be John Brierley.

Said Larry Parces this week: "This is surely my decision. I felt that Marty, at this stage of his career, had got to have major exploitation."

"In point of fact, I don't seem very interested in him, but as I have other artists on my label I felt this move would be best in Marty's interests."

HAPPY ADAM

FILE: "His Me A Person"—which opens in London this week—offers Adam Faith his biggest chance yet... purely as an actor. And this is only natural seeing that Adam plays the part of a youth in the condemned cell, sentenced to hang for a crime he didn't commit.

Adam plays a garage haid who finds time to play his guitar in the evenings at the local coffee bar (see above).

Driving alone one evening his car bursts a tyre and he is helped by a passing policeman. However the policeman observes a lorry approaching—it is full of stolen goods—and flags it down.

The lorry men panic and shoot the policeman.

Result is that Adam is left alone, standing in the middle of the road, with a dead policeman at his feet. And when the police flying squad arrive he is holding the revolver...

He stands still and is sentenced. Anne Baxter plays a psychiatrist working for a last minute reprieve for Adam and he works out his last hours in the condemned cell...

This is no light frothy piece of celluloid built around a pop singer. Like I said, Adam's biggest chance yet.

I think he succeeds in taking it. I.D.

MACBETH GOES BACK

DAVID MACBETH has been invited to go back to the Continent for television appearances in September. The offers were made during his appearance with the British team in the Knoxville, Scot. Contest recently.

David—currently fighting for chart hit "Knees Are Red"—plans to make his trip towards the end of September. He would star in three shows—two from Austria and one from Munich.

B. BUMBLE (centre) and his three Singers.

B. BUMBLE — TOUR CHANGE

ORIGINAL plans for the first British tour of B. Bumble and the Singers, mainly on dance hall bookings, recently have been scrapped—and a completely new itinerary has been scheduled, this time by the George Cooper Organisation.

DANCE HALL

The new tour starts October 19, is for four weeks and is concentrated mainly on dance hall bookings.

But apart from this B. Bumble and his group will be featured on several big package shows.

George Cooper Organisation contacted by Morris & Hiley Ltd., 111A, Victoria Road, London, E.C.1.

live Harry Dawson, told the NRM: "We feel that despite what many people say, artists from America with only one hit record here can give a tremendous draw if handled correctly."

"We have learned that it is no use trying to put out a huge concert tour and rely on those names to pull in the crowds by themselves."

"Dance halls however, are an entirely different proposition, being the reverse effect. You must remember that B. Bumble and the Singers are the first rock group to tour this country since the Beatles and the Comets. From a dance hall promoter's point of view this is ideal.

"Since confirming the deal with Booking Corporation's representative here, we have had an enormous number of inquiries from promoters, and I expect to have the complete tour filled within a few days."

FOLLOW UP

Dance hall dates: October 19, 20, Clarendon Club, Liverpool; 21, Oasis Club, Manchester; 23, Town Hall, High Wycombe; 25, Baffo Hall, Sunningboro; 26, Plaza Ballroom, Oldhill and Plaza Handsworth; 27, Wyckham Hall, Rom-ford; 28, Community Centre, Southall; 30, Imperial Ballroom, Waltham Cross; November 2, Eboracian Hall, Eborac; 3, Wilton Hall, Bletchley; 9, Birmingham Town Hall (big night); 10, King's Hall, Stoke; 12, Atlas Ballroom, Southsea; 17, California Ballroom, Dunstable.

From November 4 to 8, the group is featured on one night concerts and these dates will be confirmed next week.

B. Bumble's follow up disc to "Not Rocker" will be released on EMI's Stateside label on August 24. Top side is "Apple Knocker" which is loosely based on the "William Tell Overture". Flip is "The Moon and the Sea".

COMEDY FILM?

CAPTAIN Captain Howard of the Yentengese Force, bought a camera and lined up all the best British comedy film final renderer of his 24 comedies—four he gets married at Kensington Register Office on August 20.

Trombonist John R. T. Davis' part was to run across a field, and lean nonchalantly on a farm tractor. He leaned... and broke his ankle.

And he appeared with the group at the Grand, Blackpool, on Sunday, with his left foot stuck rigidly in front of him, encased in plaster of Paris. But he won't miss any of the Seven's dates.

VARIETY

The Temps has just signed for their first variety tour, taking in Moss Empire, dates. So far fixed: Hippodrome, Bristol, 10 September; 10 Empire, Liverpool, 10 September; 24 Empire, Newcastle; October 8; Hippodrome, Brighton, November 5; Theatre Royal, Nottingham, November 19.

Older weeks have been left clear so the group can continue their tour of one-nighters. Fixed before they start a three-week holiday on August 21 at the Arlington, 10, Wigan; 11, Redr. August 22; 13, Chester; 16, Redr. August 17; 19, Kingo; 19, Southend; 19, Margate.
