IT'S like a military operation. Give the Elvis Presley fans a chance to vote in anything-at-all for their idol and they'll vote. Top world male vocalist—which is THE big prize in pop-dom. The shattering thing is that Elvis has been winning these awards for ten, long, glorious years. Not only that—the top-voted disc of the year is his latest, "Crying In The Chapel". E's new dim, "Tickle Me", is currently doing the rounds . . . and doing nicely. The multi-millionaire of pop simply goes on and on. Not only did he start the whole scene off as we know it today—he's still there at the summit. Congratulations, Elvis.

DJ J. PROBY arrived in a whole heap of controversy. After four hit records, numerous "bannings", fantastically successful personal appearances, and a whole heap of parties, he remains one of the most colourful characters on the scene. "Let The Water Run Down" looks like becoming as big a smash as P.F.'s previous discs and is bound to lead to another series of pro and anti Proby discussions.

THE PRETTY THINGS

WHY THE THINGS LIKE THEIR HAIR . . .

by DAVID GRIFFITHS

PRETTY Thing Dick Taylor was getting out of the window of his flat in Kensington, London, recently when a group of girls happened to look up at him. They held a quick conference, then asked: "Are you Dick Taylor?"

Not wishing to have his daydreaming interrupted, Dick replied: "Who's Dick Taylor?" At which, one of the girls said: "See, I told you it wasn't!" And they departed peacefully.

"It was an unusual thing to happen in London," Dick told me. "There are so many people walking around with long hair and strange clothes that an entrance isn't likely to attract much attention. But when you're out of town it all begins to happen."

PROBLEM

For the bearded Dick consciousness is not much of a problem. But for the most arresting Pretty Thing, Phil May, it is hard for him to find a single moment away from home when he is not the object of curious stares.

For Phil has probably got quite the longest hair of any "name" performer—more than five feet. "I've had it cut off twice," he says. "I've had it cut off twice," he says. "I've had it cut off twice," he says.

young people to start living a freer, swinging life much earlier than ever before, and they can carry on doing it much longer as well. It used to be that youngsters only had a very short time between leaving school and settling down, all married and looking after home and babies.

So I don't think there's such a drive to settle down and look respectable as there was.

"No, I'm not just talking about people in show business. I went into it because I didn't want a kind of half-way job that would bring me just modest rewards. I wanted a lot of success, or to be an obscure failure."

"On the whole, The Pretty Things try to lead their own lives away from the job and I try not to worry about how well our records are doing."

Phil did admit, however, that the fate of their latest disc, Cry To Me, does mean a lot to them because he and Dick, in particular, are trying to expand their business interests. They've bought up North and Phil is hoping to buy a bar in Tangier, preferably in partnership with one of his colleagues.

The way he's going, it sounds as though he'll end up a millionaire himself. "Well," chuckled Phil, "that would cause a lot of care and responsibilities—but it's a problem I'm prepared to face up to."
