"HIS MASTER'S VOICE"

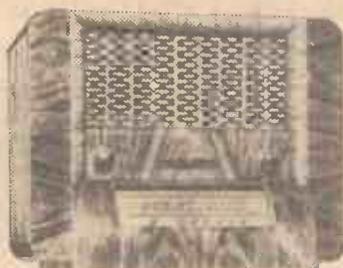

You can get the best out of SHORT WAVES with a "HIS MASTER'S VOICE" ALL-WAVE RECEIVER

"His Master's Voice" engineers at the "H.M.V." Research Laboratories at Hayes, Middlesex, the largest of their kind in the Empire, have devoted many years to the design of all-wave receivers and radiograms. Many owners of amateur transmitters use "His Master's Voice" all-wave receivers, because of their efficiency on short waves, for two way working with other amateurs in all parts of the world.

The circuit design of "His Master's Voice" all-wave instruments enables them to receive quite low-powered transmitters in U.S.A., Australia and other distant countries with good regularity and the best possible reproduction. Before you buy an all-wave or short-wave receiver you are advised to compare its performance with an "H.M.V."

149. All-Wave Battery Receiver, 3 valves. 18-50, 195-560, 785-2000 metres. 9½ GNS.

486AC/DC. All-Wave Superhet. 4 valves (plus detector) with AVC. 16-50, 198-580, 750-2000 metres. 13½ GNS.

491AC. All-Wave Superhet. 5 valves (plus detector) with AVC. 16.5-52, 195-575, 725-2000 metres. 13½ GNS.

482AC. All-Wave Superhet. 6 valves (plus detector) with AVC. 16.5-51.5, 200-580, 725-2000 metres. 16 GNS.

481AC. All-Wave superhet. 6 valves with AVC. 7-16 (covers Television Sound Transmission), 16.7-53 46-140, 185-560, 750-2200 metres. 18½ GNS.

480AC. All-Wave Superhet. 6 valves with AVC. 16.7-53, 46-140, 185-560, 750-2200 metres. 17½ GNS.

488AC. All-Wave Superhet Radiogram. 6 valves with AVC. 7-16 (covers Television Sound Transmission), 16.7-53, 46-140, 185-560, 750-2200 metres. 28 GNS.

485AC. All-Wave Superhet Auto-radiogram. 6 valves with AVC. 7-16 (covers Television Sound Transmission), 16.7-53, 46-140, 185-560, 750-2200 metres. 36 GNS.

Among the refinements incorporated in "His Master's Voice" All-Wave receivers and radiograms are two-speed tuning knobs, vernier scales, enabling the precise position for the reception of each station to be noted, and cathode ray fluid light tuning indicators. Some "H.M.V." models have a short wave range commencing at 7 metres, enabling the television sound transmissions and amateur broadcasts on 10 metres to be heard, under favourable conditions.

All Saints' and All Souls' Days

MANY Continental stations are announcing broadcasts of a solemn nature for Sunday and Monday next, All Saints' and All Souls' Day respectively. I observe that on Sunday Verdi's Requiem will be heard from Budapest as well as from Prague, and that Mozart's Requiem is to be transmitted from Vienna on Monday. One of the most interesting broadcasts in this connexion is that announced from Radio-Paris for 8.45 p.m. on Sunday—a French version of Jerome K. Jerome's The Passing of the Third Floor Back. Several studio opera performances announced in the Sunday programmes will, I have no doubt, attract many listeners. Gounod's Faust, Mozart's Don Giovanni, and Zandonai's Conchita will be heard from Sottens, Stuttgart, and Rome respectively. The last, by the way, will be conducted by the composer. I should like to draw listeners' attention to one other series of broadcasts emanating from Vienna. On Monday, Wednesday, and Friday that station is to broadcast recitals of recently-discovered Hugo Wolf songs. Finally, the genial German composer of light music, Paul Lincke, celebrates his seventieth birthday on Saturday next. In honour of the occasion a programme of his music will be transmitted at 7.10 p.m. from the Deutschlandsender studio.

How Many Sets Has Russia?

Russia, I hear, wants to know the exact number of her broadcasting listeners. Proceedings to that end are being taken by the authorities, who are numbering the receiving sets actually in use all over the territory. The census was started in Moscow recently, and is being continued from province to province. It is hoped that the numerous clandestine receivers known to be scattered all over the country will at last be rounded up.

"Proceedings . . . by the authorities"

U.S.A. Presidential Election

Listeners in this country should have an excellent opportunity of comparing short-wave with medium-wave reception of America on the night of Tuesday, November 3. The greater part of the American nation—and most of the world besides—will be listening to the Presidential Election broadcasts. The major networks will muster their entire facilities to give the public the news—both on the medium and short waves—as fast as the news agencies can gather the returns. The three big Press associations joined forces, a few years ago, to form the "Press-Radio Bureau," which pools their reports, correlates and edits them, and concentrates them into a report specially for microphone use. Broadcasting finances the Bureau, and receives periodic news summaries as well as immediate reports of news of outstanding importance. This year the Bureau will "feed" the election returns by means of special wires direct to the headquarters of both the major broadcasting networks.

WORLD-RADIO

VOL. XXIII NO. 588

OCTOBER 30, 1936

An All-Night Hearing?

Each of the broadcasting organisations is making elaborate arrangements for covering the election with commentaries and announcements. The NBC tentative plans include a transmission at 8 a.m. on Election Day direct from the village of New Ashford, Mass.—traditionally the first town to complete its count of votes. Messrs. Graham McNamee and John B. Kennedy will be the announcers. Throughout the evening there will be entertainment programmes, which will be interrupted as election results and news come in. The CBS has a rather similar scheme, with Messrs. Robert Trout, Westbrook van Voorjies (known to American listeners as "the Voice of Time"), and H. V. Kaltenborn at the microphones. Both organisations, I am informed, will have microphones and announcers at the national headquarters of the Republican and the Democratic parties in Chicago and New York, as well as at the homes of the candidates in Hyde Park and Topeka. They hope to get the party chairman and other political notabilities—and possibly even the presidential candidates themselves—to speak to the vast audience. Both networks will have outside-broadcast vans. It appears more than likely that the important networks will be "on the air" long after the usual midnight or 1 a.m. closing-down time (6 a.m. G.M.T. Wednesday) in order to be able to give listeners definite news of the winning candidate.

King Christian's Silver Jubilee

It looks as if the middle of May next year will see some really festal broadcasts. In addition to the special events and public rejoicing in connexion with the Coronation, which will undoubtedly be reflected in our own home and Empire services, and the foreign repercussions of them which will, we trust, follow, Denmark is to have a special celebration. King Christian acceded to the throne of Denmark on May 14, 1912, and will, therefore, celebrate his Silver Jubilee in May next year. Arrangements are, I understand, already being made for a world-wide broadcast in connexion with that happy event.

Kaiserslautern's New Wavelength

The former Bavarian relay station, Kaiserslautern, which was synchronised with Frankfurt after the new régime had taken over in Germany, has, I am told, altered its wavelength from the present 251 m. to 209.9 m., and will in future relay the Saarbrücken programme. The wavelength alteration took place in the night of October 25-26. Kaiserslautern's new wavelength is an international common wave.

Big Distances on Ultra-Short Waves

A French amateur, I read, succeeded recently in accomplishing a remarkable performance in the short-wave line. With his ultra-short-wave transmitter, operating on a wavelength of 5 metres, he managed to get into touch with a friend in Corsica, thus establishing a radio-link at a distance of about 140 miles. This performance, remarkable as it is, has, however, been put completely in the shade by the experience of a Johannesburg amateur who, according to the Morning Post, has been regularly picking up the ultra-short-wave television sound transmissions from the Alexandra Palace, as well as the vision sounds. The latter would seem to imply a reception of the pictures if he had had a television receiver. Freak reception, no doubt—but very interesting.

Australian Programme Controller

Dr. Keith Barry, whose appointment to the position of Federal Programme Controller was recently announced by the Australian Broadcasting Commission, contributed articles to WORLD-RADIO on music, both while he was in this country two years ago and after his return to Australia. He was formerly Musical Editor of the Australian Wireless Weekly. For some months he has acted in an advisory capacity to the Commission in relation to programmes. His new office will entail responsibility for the general co-ordination of all programmes and programme departments, both Federal and State.

The Cow and the Loudspeaker

It is a very old legend that broadcast music increases cows' milk yield; yet I see that it has been revived—with appropriate trimmings. A Moravian newspaper—which, significantly enough, has since failed—recently printed an article by an agriculturist who maintains that cows are particularly sensitive to music and that the strains of the heavenly muse have a distinct influence on the bovine milk glands, which might be stimulated to the extent of 25 per cent. above the normal, according to the degree of "brightness" of music tuned in. Not only that: the quality of the fluid is affected by the type of music. Thus, if dance tunes were replaced by symphony concerts, the quality of milk might reach almost Grade A standard, I gather. But surely jazz music would be more likely to produce butter.

ETHERVIATOR

The French Postmaster-General's Plans

(From our Paris Correspondent)

ON Tuesday, October 20, M. Robert Jardillier, Minister of P.T.T., invited representatives of the Paris Press to a meeting and gave them a full account of his broadcasting plans. The following are some of the points dealt with by him.

Short Waves

The Noyant site for the new Colonial short-wave station has been definitely abandoned. The station to replace Vincennes will be situated near Paris on the site of the present Radio-Paris transmitter at Essarts-le-Roi and will possess two 100-kW transmitters. This decision will result in an economy of Frs.10,000,000; and its nearness to Paris, the chief supplier of programmes, will facilitate programme compilation. It is hoped to inaugurate this station towards the end of 1937.

Television

In order to discover and adopt the best system of television several constructors will be given the opportunity of making use of their systems at the Eiffel Tower in conjunction with an ultra-short-wave transmitter. This arrangement should be in full force in time for the 1937 Paris Exhibition, where television demonstrations will be a feature.

Public Loudspeakers

One hundred public loudspeakers have already been installed in forty different towns in France to broadcast programme items of national interest and artistic programmes of special merit. The number of these public loudspeakers will be greatly increased.

Paris International Exhibition, 1937

As it was considered to be too late to construct a "Broadcasting House" in the grounds of the Paris 1937 Exhibition, and since also a suitable site could not be found there, this plan has been abandoned. The P.T.T. services will therefore build a "Radio Palace" for the Exhibition, from which transmissions will be made. It will include a large studio of 7,000 cubic metres, one of 2,000 cubic metres, and three or four smaller studios for spoken broadcasts. The permanent "Broadcasting House" will in the meantime be the subject of study both in France and abroad, and engineers will go to America for that purpose. The beginning of 1938 should see the broadcasting house completed. Similar broadcasting centres on a smaller scale will be built in some provincial towns.

Specialisation of Stations

The State stations will be divided into five groups, each group giving an entirely distinctive programme, and the stations will be arranged in such a way that any listener in France will be able to hear clearly from at least one station from each group. There will no longer be programmes broadcast by all stations simultaneously, and alternative programmes will thus become an actual fact. Up-to-date transmitting vans will be provided for Paris and provincial stations with short-wave and ultra-short-wave liaison with the transmitting station, and disc recording machines.

Courses for Schools

Three groups of programmes for scholars—primary, secondary, and advanced—will be begun in December and January next. The third will consist of the broadcasting from the Collège de France and similar institutions of lectures suitable for university undergraduates or students for the professions.

Winter Series of Programmes

The Minister intends to develop international exchange of programmes and to use the microphone still more for the propaganda of French culture abroad. An agreement has been reached with six Parisian symphonic associations, and arrangements are being made with provincial associations also. There will be one broadcast a week from the Opéra, from the Comédie Française, and from the Odéon, with two from the Opéra-Comique. Negotiations are also taking place with private theatres. Advantage is being taken of the opportunity afforded by the repairs now being effected at the Opéra House, on account of the recent fire, to instal twelve microphones at the most suitable points.

Progress of New Stations

The new Poste National will be completed towards the end of 1937 and should be heard clearly all over Europe. Building will be begun on the site between Bourges and Vierzon in a few weeks' time, and the directional aerials will be erected early in the new year. Grenoble will be given a power of 100 kW with possibilities of extension to 200 kW if needed. Relay stations will be provided in regions that do not appear to be sufficiently well served, and the first ones will be erected at Perpignan, Rouen, Brest, and Dijon.

M. Jardillier

Studios

Improvements are being made in the studio accommodation at all stations. New studios have been completed at Nice; those of Marseilles and Dijon are nearly ready. But whenever possible, a broadcasting house is to be erected. Those of Bordeaux and Lyons are completed; Toulouse has bought a building and a site; and the Lille "house" has been in use for some months.

General

Improvements are being made to the official checking stations. The listening control will be completed by a station for tracing private unauthorised transmissions and by a centre of control of transmissions (similar to that at Brussels).

Old cables will be replaced by new ones, and other improvements will be made to all services.

Listeners at the end of September had passed the three million mark by some thirty thousand.

with electrical energy. In the larger towns, such as Singapore, Penang, Kuala Lumpur, and Ipoh, a choice can be had between either type of supply.

In the tin mines and rubber plantations of the country, where large numbers of Europeans are employed, the sets used are of necessity battery-operated types.

A Soap-Box Derby in U.S.A.

(From our New York Correspondent)

WITH its entrants hurtling down a 10-degree straight-away hillside, a soap-box Derby, in which boys from all over the country drove their home-made vehicles, recently provided American listeners with a series of interesting broadcasts.

Begun several seasons ago, the event has gradually assumed, in the American fashion, large proportions: grandstands are provided for the multitudes which gather to watch the final race. This year parking space was provided near the Akron, Ohio, airport (the scene of the event) for 50,000 motor-cars.

Half-a-dozen substantial prizes, put up by an automobile company and by 116 newspapers which sponsor the preliminaries in various cities, stimulate the young contestants to heroic efforts. Like the professional drivers whom they emulate they take risks. Nor can a soap-box race meeting be run without risk to the thousands who like to get as close as possible. In last year's race Mr. Graham McNamee, NBC sports announcer, was among several "innocent bystanders" carried away to hospital when a vicious four-wheeled entry ran amuck. One cause of mishaps—in addition to the call for speed—is the flimsy construction of some of the vehicles. Lack of funds means improvisations, and even the relatively wealthy entrants are limited by the regulations to a construction cost of ten dollars.

Two special broadcasts were conducted at Akron, by the NBC, on a coast-to-coast hook-up, while in the earlier contest, in San Francisco, an NBC announcer followed the field in an "official car" of soap-box proportions, and sent out, by means of a short-wave pack transmitter hung about his neck, a close-up description of the dust-raising midgets.

Broadcasting in F.M.S.

THE question of providing a Government broadcasting service for the inhabitants of the Federated Malay States and the Straits Settlements was recently raised in the meetings of the F.M.S. Legislature, when the Government replied that it was awaiting the report of a committee set up by the Secretary of State for Colonies to go into the question of broadcasting in the British Empire before deciding its policy on broadcasting matters.

At a Council meeting held in August at Kuala Lumpur, the capital city of the Federated Malay States, the Malayan Government decided to abolish entirely the import duty on British-made wireless receiving sets and components and to reduce that on foreign makes from 20 per cent. to 10 per cent. ad valorem.

There is a boom in the trade of wireless goods in Malaya at the present time and the number of broadcast receiving licences throughout the country is increasing at a rapid rate. From a couple of hundred set-owners of a few years ago the figure has now exceeded the 4,000 mark and is still rising. It is anticipated that the 5,000 mark will be reached before the end of the year.

The number of wireless dealers has also increased to a great extent, from a handful three or four years ago to over two hundred and fifty at the present moment.

Quite a large number of British products are now coming into the country, but there is heavy competition by foreign goods, which are mostly of American manufacture.

Mains-driven sets are now becoming popular among dwellers in towns, and A.C. supply has now almost standardised in areas provided

The Other Man's Point of View

News Bulletins on Short and Other Waves

NEWS BULLETINS during the past year or so have become one of the most important features of the programmes transmitted by the world's broadcasting studios. From the reading of a few paragraphs relating to the day's outstanding home and foreign topics the "radio journal" has developed so greatly that, undoubtedly, it may now be considered the main item of the transmissions and the one to which the majority of listeners look forward at the beginning of the broadcasts. In this respect the owner of an average wireless set, capable of receiving signals on the medium and long waves, not only turns to the home stations for his daily news bulletins transmitted through the entire BBC network, but if fairly proficient in foreign languages is given many opportunities of supplementing the service by hearing varying accounts and, in some instances where foreign events are concerned, eye-witness descriptions of the same incidents.

Just as a reader may gather the expressed opinions of newspapers of different political character on events of national or international importance, so the listener, by tuning in the various foreign broadcasts at his disposal, may gather the other man's point of view. With a few exceptions, however, the majority of foreign studios using medium and long wave channels confine the broadcast of news bulletins to a version in their native language. On the other hand, the development of programmes on what are commonly, and erroneously, termed short and ultra-short waves has impelled most countries to give their "radio journal" in languages other than their own, in order that their views and opinions may be heard by the world beyond their frontiers. It is this daily increasing service which offers to the possessor of an "all-wave," or, more truthfully, three or four band, receiver a radio news bulletin of which editions are issued almost hourly throughout the day and night. By this means not only is the lucky listener able to keep himself currently informed of all the world's news, but, in addition, possesses the manifest advantage of being at liberty to listen in his own time; he is not tied to certain fixed hours.

Primarily for my own personal use, I compiled the list now published, as from it I can see at a glance the different news bulletins available from the transmitters indicated at any given hour of the day or night. In this instance, for the sake of clarity the time-tables have been made out separately for each country, but from the data supplied it is an easy matter to establish an hour-by-hour schedule which shows the station and its frequency to be tuned in at any specified time. It has been found exceedingly useful where, as a diversion from foreign or other musical programmes, a "spot of news" is desired.

In addition, when the listener resorts to a late sitting news bulletins from overseas after midnight often contain items only available to him in the usual course through the medium of the next morning's papers at the breakfast table, and on most occasions when such bulletins have been heard at a late hour some items of news of vital interest have been captured.

Over and above the more or less official sources of information such as EAQ, Madrid (from which, by the way, I understand America's star radio reporter, Floyd Gibbons, is broadcasting a nightly review of Spanish happenings for the benefit of his audience in the United States), it is possible to pick up transmissions on other channels. As an example, it may be pointed out that during the present Spanish conflict the warring parties are using a number of frequencies in and around the amateur band for the purpose of inter-communication between cities and districts and for the transmission of news bulletins in the Spanish, French, Italian, and English languages. Daily at G.M.T. 19.30 you may tune to EA1AZ, Corunna, now working on about 42.20 m. (7,111 kc/s) which seems to be relayed simultaneously by two other smaller and weaker stations on approximately 42 m. (7,142 kc/s) and 42.80 m. (7,010 kc/s) and of which I have not yet succeeded in securing the call-sign. Try also for EDR3, El Tablero (Canary Isles), a 5-kilowatt working on 28.93 m. (10,370 kc/s), which, according to an announcement, takes its News Bulletin from the Radio Club of Tenerife. At present, the time-table is as follows: G.M.T. 19.30, war news in Italian, 20.00, in German, 20.20, in Spanish and English; and at 20.30 in French. On 43.04 m. (6,970 kc/s) for some time daily at G.M.T. 21.15 I have heard broadcasts from Radio Tetuan (Spanish Morocco), presumably EA9AH, which has also given the insurgents' version of the hostilities. In addition to these transmissions, a search of the 40 metre amateur band has revealed a number of broadcasts, mostly in Spanish, dealing with the Civil war. Here are a few of the smaller stations which have been identified: EA4JR and EA4CN Madrid; EA2BK, Vittoria; EA3DV, Sabadell (Barcelona); EAJ10, Radio Labor, Saragossa; EA5ZB, Valencia; EAJ2DH, Jaca; EA7PE, Granada; EA1BT, Sarria, Lugo; EA2EJ, San Sebastian; EA1DS, Torre Lavega; and EA3FE, Lugos—all, it would appear, amateur transmitting stations which have been voluntarily, or involuntarily, placed at the disposal of one or the other of the combatant forces.

Finally, on 41.50 m. (7,228.9 kc/s) you should hear on most evenings a series of multi-lingual calls such as: Ici ECN1, Radio CNT or FAI, Barcelona. Between G.M.T. 21.00-21.30 on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays transmissions are carried out in the French language; in Italian on Mondays between 21.30-22.00 and on Saturdays between 17.30-18.00. In German news bulletins are given on Mondays and Wednesdays from 17.00-18.00, and on Thursdays and Fridays from 21.00-22.00. In each case the call is given in Spanish, followed by a translation—although the call-sign appears to differ—in the language of the listener to whom the transmission is dedicated.

If the latest news bulletins direct from the scene of operations are of interest to you, turn to your wireless receiver every evening; by tapping the short-wave Continental stations you can secure everybody's point of view.

Letters to the Editor

THE TRANSATLANTIC STATIONS

SIR,—May I be allowed to make one or two comments on Mr. J. Powe's letter? I have deduced from my log-books (which date back several years) that reception of American transmitters depends mainly on barometric pressure over the Atlantic.

When there is an anti-cyclone situated over the Atlantic reception is very often good, but if there is a depression there it is invariably bad. I do not think it matters how weather conditions are in England—with the exception, of course, of thunderstorms.

There must be something wrong also with Mr. Powe's theory of moonlight affecting conditions, because American stations are often received in broad daylight after dawn as loud as before it. Besides, I do not believe moonlight could alter the properties of the Heavyside Layer in the darkness.

With regard to the power of CRCK, surely this is not so very low. I myself have often received American stations with powers of less than 500 watts at more than R5 signal strength.

Yours faithfully,
G. W. BARRON.

Whetstone, N. 20, October 23.

SIR,—I find reception of most short-wave stations to be almost 100 per cent. intelligible when the new moon appears on a clear, frosty night.

I should like to point out something which might be of use to some other short-wave enthusiasts. First of all, disconnect the aerial of the short-wave set at the lead-in end, then attach a piece of rubber-covered wire under the set and fix it to the lead-in, leaving the other end free. After doing this I find reception of distant stations to be perfect.

Yours faithfully,
Forfar, Angus. JAMES PATON.

SIR,—I must thank Mr. J. Powe for his kindly interest in my letter. The reason why I used the phrase "in the springtime, with frosty weather and full moon" was because of remarkable reception from America and Canada which I enjoyed on two or three occasions last spring when these conditions prevailed. However, in view of my experience this autumn so far I readily fall in with Mr. Powe's contention that these are not the ideal conditions.

Regarding transatlantic reception on the medium-wave band, I think a high-powered set is the first essential. There are a few stations, such as WCAU, WBT, WTIC, WBZ, and WOR, which can be heard periodically with four valves, but for a general hook-up over the coast-to-coast network of the NBC or the CBS anything from six valves upwards is the ideal. If one is on the mains the difference in cost between running a four-valve set and a seven-valve set is not worth troubling about. My set is a seven-valve model now two years in use. I have had the set cleaned for the present "season," but the aerial has never been touched!

Yours faithfully,
JOHN P. WALSH.

IDENTIFICATION COUPON (No. 403)

This coupon is valid for ONE QUESTION only and should be cut out and attached to a separate sheet, upon which the following questions should be answered in the order shown. A copy of the answers should be enclosed with FREE queries. No coupon more than one month old is valid. A coupon is not required from readers living in countries outside Europe who desire identification of transmissions.

1. Time and date of reception.
2. Approximate frequency in kilocycles per sec. (or wavelength in metres).
3. Nearest known stations, above and below.
4. Call, or interval signal, if heard.
5. Language.
6. Type of receiver in use and strength of signals.
7. Details of programme or signal received.
8. Name and address.
9. Nom de plume. (Proprietary names must not be used.)

A Recruit to the Ether

I RECENTLY witnessed an interesting ceremony: the inauguration of the latest, and perhaps the smallest, regular broadcasting station in the world. Radio Barcelona ECP1, broadcasting on a wavelength of 42 metres, belongs to the Workers' Party of Marxist Unity, the I.L.P. of Spain, and is the latest recruit to the war of rival ideologies which is convulsing the Spanish and the European ether to-day. The Anarchist and Communist Parties were first in the field with transmitters, and now the Workers' Party completes a lively trio.

It was a near thing whether the ceremony was going to take place or not. The Mañana principle—i.e., always put off till to-morrow what you ought to do to-day—is still strong in Spain, although the civil war is gradually undermining its influence. To-day, however, won, and a bunch of us found ourselves in one of the fast cars requisitioned by the working-class parties in the stormy days of last July. We drove away from the wide Ramblas, the boulevards of central Barcelona, where everyone promenades in the evening. There a great funeral procession was gathering in honour of the fallen on the Aragon front beneath the red flags of the Marxists, the red and black of the Anarchists, and the red and yellow of the Catalan nationalists.

At length, after a hair-raising journey at breakneck speed, we reached the temporary broadcasting station, situated in a private house in the outer suburbs high above the city. About a dozen of us, a polyglot collection of both sexes, gathered together in the tiny room, ten feet square, in which the transmitter, of modern type, with an input of 70 watts, is placed. Enthusiasm overcomes all obstacles. The engineer acted as announcer, and while whispered consultations took place and broadcasters sat outside on the stairs, hurriedly writing their material, the first announcements were made in Spanish and Catalan. Then followed manifestoes in English (by an Englishwoman who is a member of the Militia), French, German, Italian, Dutch, and Russian. This last is of some interest, as the Workers' Party is in sharp disagreement with Moscow, and is taking the opportunity of doing a little propaganda on its own account. Most of the other material for the broadcast (news from the fronts and a talk on the agricultural problem) came from the columns of La Batalla (The Battle), the daily paper of the Party. J. W.

Book Notices

We have received from Whitfield, King and Co., of Ipswich, their Standard Catalogue of Postage Stamps of the World (36th Edition, 5s.). Those collectors who read the article "Wireless and Postage Stamps" which appeared in last week's issue of WORLD-RADIO may find it of interest to search the catalogue for stamps designs of which have some connexion with wireless but which were not mentioned specifically or by implication in that article. The growing number of air-mail issues which are in the main indirectly concerned with wireless form an almost inexhaustible supply. We are told in the Preface that the total number of stamps issued to date, as included in this catalogue, is 62,155. The fact that 1,380 stamps have been added to it since the previous edition indicates the extremely wide field open to the general collector.

Forty-five Million Friends, by E. J. Smith (Cosmopolitan Press), is the title of "a short manual on sales organisation and advertising," on both of which subjects the author writes with knowledge. The book contains a foreword by Sir Francis Goodenough—an undoubted authority.

RECEIVE AMERICA DAY OR NIGHT

There is no terrestrial limit to the receptive range of a PILOT; Europe is only ONE of the Continents it can span.

The "Wireless World" said:—

"Before one has traversed more than a few degrees of the dial on the 16-52-metre band it becomes apparent that the performance on short waves is something quite out of the ordinary. The crisp response and excellent signal-to-noise ratio are only two of the qualities which mark this set out as a thoroughbred.

"Reception of W2XAD at 4 o'clock in the afternoon was perfectly steady, and the volume was such that the control had to be turned down to permit telephone conversations in the same room."

We will send you, on request, a copy of the "Wireless World" two-page full "test" report.—"W.R."

"SURPRISE ITEMS" EVERY DAY WITH K.B. ALL-WAVE RADIO

THE most intriguing feature of all-wave radio is the constant element of surprise. You are kept guessing the whole time as to what new pleasure is in store for you. Turn the tuning control a little and you are in New York, a little further and you are listening to alluring music from Buenos Aires. Another slight turn and you are back in Europe. And so you travel, Pittsburgh, Tokio or perhaps Iceland, each with its own characteristic programme—thrilling surprise items you can hear only on the short waves.

To secure the utmost enjoyment from this wonderful world-wide entertainment, your receiver must be a K.B.

The model illustrated is the K.B. 560 "Supermagnidyne" A.C. All-Wave Superhet—a veritable triumph of modern radio engineering. It combines exceptional range with wonderful reproduction and generous volume, yet costs only 16 guineas, or from 4/9 a week.

Other K.B. All-Wave Receivers include an efficient 3-valve battery model at 8½ guineas or 2/6 a week, and A.C. and D.C.-A.C. mains models at 9½ guineas or 2/10 a week.

Interruptions in Short-Wave Communication

By Professor E. V. APPLETON, F.R.S.

THERE was plenty of evidence at the recent wireless exhibition that the British radio manufacturer is seeking to convert us all to short-wave listening. As I think there is no doubt that he will be successful, it follows that, as time goes on, more and more members of the listening public will acquire a detailed acquaintance with a very fascinating subject. The subject is attractive because of the variety and complexity of the reception conditions which are encountered. In the early days it seemed well-nigh hopeless to attempt to give any systematic description of the way in which received long-distance signals varied with time and with wavelength. But the important extension of the use of short waves to the commercial services has led to the collection of a vast amount of information, and now we are gradually getting much clearer ideas concerning the way in which signals vary with the hour of the day and with the season of the year.

Wireless "Fade-Outs"

During the last eighteen months there has been carried out a very careful investigation of a subject which is of the greatest importance in short-wave listening. I refer to those general interruptions of short-wave communication which are known as "fade-outs." In the case of broadcast reception from a local station on the long and medium waves, we all know that a complete cessation of loudspeaker response is either due to a technical hitch at the sending station or to some fault in our own receiver. Whether it is one or the other is usually ascertained by trying another receiver or asking one's neighbour about his reception. But the striking thing about a short-wave "fade-out" is the large extent of its influence, for it is found that listeners scattered over a whole continent will usually give exactly the same account of the cessation of signals and of the gradual recovery to normality after a period which is measured in minutes.

The subject of these short-wave interruptions was first drawn to the attention of the general public by Dr. J. H. Dellinger, a well-known American radio investigator, who is the head of the wireless section of the Bureau of Standards at Washington. He stated that his own attention to the subject had been first attracted by a communication from a correspondent in France who reported that on May 12, 1935, all high-frequency circuits of which he had information had suffered a temporary interruption. Beginning at 11.57 G.M.T., signals had disappeared completely in three minutes. After a further period of a few minutes signals got gradually stronger and resumed normal intensity at 12.15 G.M.T.

In his original communication on the subject, Dr. Dellinger pointed out that this particular "fade-out" appears to be one of a series of four, of very similar character, which had occurred on March 20 (01.50 to 02.05 G.M.T.), May 12 (11.57 to 12.15 G.M.T.), July 6 (14.09 to 14.25 G.M.T.), and August 30 (23.20 to 23.35 G.M.T.), 1935. There further appeared to be a most remarkable characteristic about the incidence of the "fade-outs," for it was noted that only those wireless circuits on the illuminated part of the earth were affected. Dr. Dellinger further pointed out that the above dates were approximately equally spaced in time, there being three intervals of 53, 55, and 55 days respectively. He therefore stated that we were here dealing with a phenomenon which recurs after a time equal to twice that required for the sun to revolve.

During the latter half of last year there was a careful watch kept to see if any further "fade-outs" occurred which appeared to belong to this series. The period in question was October 21 to 25, but although the ionisation in Region F₂ of the ionosphere was abnormally low on October 24, 1935 (which was 55 days after the August "fade-out") it cannot be said that the phenomena of the previous occasion were repeated. During 1936 further "fade-outs" have occurred, one on February 14, and another, of a very general character, on April 8. It may be noted that these days are separated by a period of 54 days.

Solar Eruptions

The "fade-out" on April 8 is of very special interest because of the other solar and terrestrial phenomena which were noted at exactly the same time. Nowadays, most solar physics observatories are making studies of the sun's disc, using what is called a spectrohelioscope. This instrument permits an examination, visual or photographic, to be made for solar light of a single wavelength. Usually the wavelength known as H α of Hydrogen, which is in the red end of the spectrum, is used.

Using the spectrohelioscope, it has been possible to study what the solar physicist calls bright eruptions on the sun's surface. These bright eruptions appear to consist of brilliantly glowing masses of vapour localised in the chromosphere and situated close to sunspots. They are known to increase suddenly in luminosity and then fade gradually in a period which may vary from several minutes to a few hours.

Now the interesting feature of the April 8 "fade-out" is that, according to Dr. R. S. Richardson, of the Mount Wilson Observatory in America, it occurred at almost exactly the same time as the beginning of a bright eruption on the sun. He reports that he had been unable to make any special observations on the sun's markings during the period of the February "fade-out," because of the continuously cloudy weather from February 12 to 19, 1936, and so planned to make an intensive study of conditions round the period April 6 to 10, which was fifty-four days later.

On April 8, as a result of a series of photographic examinations of the sun's disc, using the spectrohelioscope, he found that a bright eruption occurred on the sun, beginning about 16.45 (G.M.T.), reaching maximum brightness at 16.52 (G.M.T.) and then decreasing in intensity until about 18.30 (G.M.T.), when the appearance of the group of spots with which the eruption was associated appeared to be normal. A very similar description of the same eruption has been published by Messrs. Torreson, Scott, and Stanton, of the Huancayo Observatory, in Peru, activity being first noticed at 16.45 (G.M.T.).

The nature of the radio "fade-out" can best be summarised by Dr. Dellinger's statement, which reads:—"Another striking and widespread 'fade-out' of high-frequency radio signals occurred on April 8, starting at 16.46 (G.M.T.) and lasting from fifteen to thirty minutes at various radio frequencies. This was observed in England as well as here." A further interesting feature of the notable events of April 8 is that there was a sudden disturbance in the magnetic elements beginning at 16.45 (G.M.T.), which is exactly the time of the incidence of the "fade-out."

As a result of the remarkable observations set out above, it does appear that we may have to extend our ideas concerning the nature and origin of the solar influences on radio transmission phenomena. It has, of course, been known for some time that short-wave reception is often poor when magnetic storms are in progress. But it has usually been supposed that a magnetic storm is due to the injection into the upper atmosphere of charged particles from the sun, and also that these charged particles take from twenty-four to twenty-six hours to travel from the sun to the earth. The reason for the latter conclusion is that magnetic storms have been frequently noted to occur about twenty-five hours after some solar event such as the passage of a sunspot over the sun's central meridian.

The events of April 8, however, suggest that conditions in the ionosphere were disturbed at

Anti-Interference Aerials

By R. W. HALLOWS

To wireless listeners in general, and to short-wave enthusiasts in particular, man-made interference is a great nuisance nowadays. If your reception is confined to the medium and the long waves you may have little or no cause for complaint should you be fortunate enough to live in a locality where electrical machinery and domestic appliances of types that radiate interference are not in use. But the short-wave listener is seldom completely free from it, for the ignition systems of so many motor vehicles send out trains of waves which give rise to very loud, unwanted noises when the set is tuned to a wavelength below 100 metres.

Since so many homes stand in streets or on roads along which there is a more or less dense stream of motor traffic, this kind of interference has become a serious problem. There is little fun in using a short-wave set or in switching an "all-wave" receiver over to its short-wave range if one's reception is interrupted by ear-splitting rat-tat-tat-tats every time a car, motor-cycle, or lorry goes past. Not all motor-ignition systems do radiate, by the way, and of those that do some are much worse offenders than others.

Zone of Interference

Investigation has shown that what is known as the "field" of car-ignition interference and of certain other kinds of man-made static is of a peculiar shape. The field may be described as the zone within which it can be a nuisance. You might expect that the waves which cause the trouble would be radiated with equal strength in all directions—upwards as well as outwards. But this is not so. Many kinds of interference have a comparatively long range horizontally, though the impulses responsible do not rise very high above the source from which they come. Thus, you may hear the rattling sound caused by radiation from an ignition system some little time before the vehicle reaches your house. Faint at first, it increases in loudness as the car approaches, reaches its maximum whilst it is actually passing, and then wanes as it recedes into the distance.

If, though, you were to conduct your reception on a church tower or at the top of a high building, car after car would pass without there being any response from the set. So long as the whole of your aerial and its down-lead were some 25ft. above the source of the interference they would be outside the field and would pick up nothing.

Now consider what happens when either an "inverted-L" aerial (Fig. 1 (a)) or a "T-aerial" (Fig. 1 (b)) of ordinary type are used. In both instances the horizontal portion, or "roof," may be high enough to be outside the field of interference. The roof, therefore, picks up only the wanted signals and is not affected by the interference.

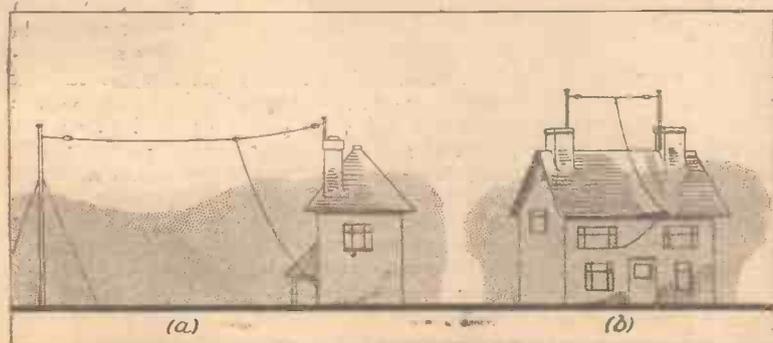

Fig. 1—Plain aerials of inverted-L (a) and T type (b) pick up interference on the down-leads. The shading indicates the "field" of the interference

But what of the down-lead? It goes right down through the interference field, forming a vertical or semi-vertical aerial, and collects the interfering impulses. They thus become mixed with what the roof of the aerial is bringing in and cause the receiving set to emit unpleasant noises. If only we could find some kind of lead-in that did not act as a collector, we could get rid of a great deal of interference by suspending the roof high enough.

That, exactly, is the principle of the anti-interference aerial, of which many kinds are now available. You might think that the simplest solution would be to use a screened down-lead of ordinary metal-sleeved wire with the sleeving earthed. That wouldn't quite do, for unless it is very short, the capacity to earth of such a lead is so high that it is very inefficient on the long and medium waves and altogether hopeless on the short.

Transmission Line

The solution is to do away with the usual type of down-lead and to use instead what is known as a transmission line. This may be a metal-screened cable so designed and made that the capacity is reasonably low; or it may be a length of stout, unscreened double flex, twisted so that interference impulses in the two leads tend to cancel out. But neither screened cable nor special flex would be effective were they connected directly between the roof of the aerial and the terminals of the receiving set.

An examination of Fig. 2 shows that two transformers are used in the anti-interference aerial system. One of these is in the roof of the aerial, the other near the receiving set, or actually built into it. The transmission line is connected between them. We shall see presently what is the purpose of the transformers, but to understand how the system works we must first of all spend a moment or two in thinking about the electrical property known as impedance. Impedance is to oscillating currents very much what resistance is to direct currents.

Impedance Matching

If current from a battery is passed through leads of low resistance it does not have to force its way through by working hard, and the voltage drop is small. On the other hand, when a high resistance is introduced, work must be done and a considerable fall in voltage takes place across the resistance. So with impedance. Both the aerial system and the tuned circuits of the receiving set are high-impedance circuits. Oscillating currents do work in them, setting up the voltage variations which are applied to the grids of the valves. The plain down-lead is also of the high-impedance variety: hence its proneness to pick up unwanted radiations.

A step-up or step-down transformer may be regarded as an electrical gearbox, which matches the work done to the opposition encountered. When you are driving a car up a steep hill you change down to match the engine's work with the "impedance" that has to be overcome. On passing the crest you perform a further matching operation by changing up again. That is very much what happens in the anti-interference aerial. The roof offers a high impedance to oscillations, but that of the transmission line is very low. Transformer B in Fig. 2 "changes up" and the set transformer at the bottom of the line "changes down" again to match the high-impedance tuned circuits of the receiver. The net result is that the transmission line becomes a mere connector between the roof and the receiver; it is not a collector of impulses or, at any rate, not a good one.

There are many other advantages, too, about the use of a low-impedance transmission line. It can be of great length without introducing serious losses; its opposition to the flow of current is small, and capacity effects become negligible. At the present time I am using a transmission line some 70 ft. in length between the aerial and the receiving set. It is treated with a fine, free disrespect such as could not possibly be shown to a plain down-lead and lead-in. For instance, it is stapled to picture rails, door frames, and skirting boards just as if it were nothing more important than electric bell leads. Yet the aerial to which it is connected gives me efficient interference-free reception in a house near which there are several pieces of electrical machinery which radiate strongly, and past which there is a heavy stream of motor traffic. It also gives me far better reception with an "all-wave" set than I could obtain with a plain inverted-L or a T-aerial.

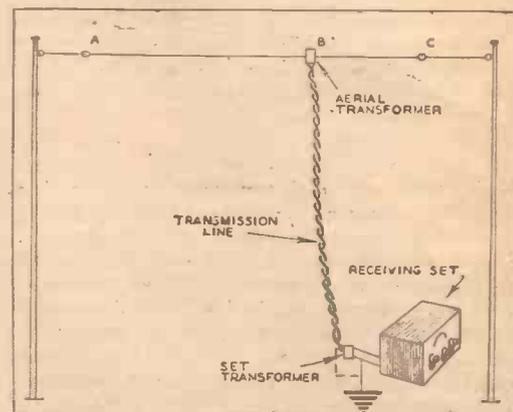

Fig. 2—Illustrating the principle of the anti-interference aerial

You will notice, on re-examining Fig. 2, that the roof is divided unequally by the transformer. The portion between A and B is much longer than that between B and C. By means of a switch incorporated in the set transformer, this can be operated automatically by the wave-change switch if the transformer is built in; the whole "roof" can be used for medium and long-wave reception, though for short-wave work only the "short-leg" B-C is in action. Aerial and set are thus matched to the work in hand.

Strictly speaking, one ought to have three aerials of the "plain" type for long, medium, and short waves, the length of the roof bearing in each case some relation to that of the received waves. The simplest anti-interference aerial with unequal "legs" in its roof and only two positions for the switch of the set transformer helps one to effect a compromise by using one part of the aerial for medium and long waves, and another for short. Some systems go further. The "long leg" is used for the medium waves, the "short leg" for short waves, and the whole roof for long waves.

In any event the user of an "all-wave" receiver gets far better results—apart from freedom from interference—from the unequally divided transmission-line aerial, which always gives him a better match between set and aerial than he can obtain by other methods. The anti-interference transmission-line aerial doesn't cost a great deal, and I can say from experience that it's very well worth while.

Short-Wave Stations of the Far East

SHORT-WAVE listeners all over Malaya, India, Ceylon, China, Australia, Japan, and the Far East generally are being benefited by the activities of the leading broadcasting society of the Netherlands Indies known as N.I.R.O.M.

This progressive broadcasting institution, which was formed about three years ago under a concession from the Netherlands Indies Government for a period of ten years, now has more than 20,000 subscribers. The present subscription to the society is 7 guilders (about £1) per quarter—to be reduced to 5 guilders when the number of licence-holders exceeds 25,000—and as long as the concession is in force no others will be allowed to broadcast commercially.

Nirom's key transmitter is situated at Tanjong Priok and uses a power of 10 kW. In order to ensure reception in the outer Dutch possessions of the Netherlands Indies—such as Celebes, Dutch North Borneo, etc.—two additional transmitters belonging to the Postal and Telegraph Department of Bandoeng were brought into use early this year for relaying Nirom's daily programmes. These are PLP on 11.00 Mc/s (27.2 m.) and PMN on 10.26 Mc/s (29.2 m.), and are well known among short-wave listeners everywhere.

Since July, 1936, Nirom has added still another short-wave transmitter to their chain of stations—namely, YDC, on 15.00 Mc/s (20 m.)—which is now "on the air" simultaneously broadcasting the Nirom programmes daily from 23.00 to 00.30; 03.30 to 07.20; and from 10.30 to 14.30 (G.M.T.). Apart from these, YDC may also be heard at other times with experimental transmissions of recorded music.

Radio Saigon

For some weeks past a new transmitter in French Indo-China has been heard broadcasting English, French, and native programmes on a wavelength of 25.2 metres between the hours of 11.40 and 14.40 (G.M.T.). Reception over most of the Eastern countries has been reported to be excellent at strengths varying from a good R8 to R5.

The station—which some listeners will remember having heard three or four years ago, on 49 metres—is owned and operated by a private commercial undertaking that handles radio products. In a communication received from the operators of the Saigon station they state that they are very pleased with the success of the experimental transmissions and that they hope to effect improvements to their transmitter, as well as to their programmes, in the near future.

Bangkok, Siam

After being inactive for a couple of years or so, Siam, too, has re-entered the field of short-wave broadcasting with renewed vigour, and is now broadcasting on 10.95 Mc/s (27.38 m.) on Mondays from 13.00 to 15.00 (G.M.T.) through HS8PJ, at Bangkok. The programmes consist of European and Siamese music, announcements being made in English, Siamese, French, Spanish, and Dutch.

Kuala Lumpur

The Government of the Federated Malay States has decided to increase the power of the Kuala Lumpur transmitter ZGE. The present transmitter was bought by the Malayan Government in 1931 for working internal services mainly on C.W. and I.C.W., but which was later adapted for speech transmission.

During next year the authorities expect to link up with Great Britain by radio-telephony, and then a much more powerful set than the present one, which employs an aerial energy of only 0.18 kW, will be necessary.

The Kuala Lumpur transmitter is loaned to an amateur radio society, which provides the programmes for the broadcasts. These take place on Sundays, Tuesdays, and Fridays from 11.40 to 13.40 (G.M.T.). At present even listeners in Malaya complain that Kuala Lumpur is not well heard in their territory. This is partly due to the high static level usual in the tropics on the 49 m. broadcast band. When the power is increased to 1 or 2 kW the listeners of the Kuala Lumpur radio society's programmes will be benefited considerably, since it will then be the most powerful station in Malaya.

It has been reported that Kuala Lumpur is being heard in India and other distant Eastern countries at entertainment value. Short-wave listeners in such places are certain to enjoy better reception when the power is increased early next year. E. C. J.

exactly the same time as a certain eruption was seen to occur on the sun's surface. This further suggests that the terrestrial effects were due to a burst of ultra-violet light which travelled from the sun to the earth in the same time (eight minutes) as the red light used for the spectroheliograph photographs which showed up the bright eruptions. We should, of course, expect the influence of an ultra-violet light burst to be noticed only on the illuminated side of the earth and, as has already been mentioned, Dr. Dellinger has reported that these radio "fade-outs" are only noticed on the day-time hemisphere.

I should sympathise with a cautious reader who feels that the events of a single day are not a sufficient basis for a definite conclusion, for it seems to me clear that more examples of the correlation of bright eruptions and solar "fade-outs" are required before we can be quite certain that one is the cause of the other. In this connexion it may be noted that many bright eruptions have occurred which do not appear to have caused wireless "fade-outs;" while "fade-outs" have occurred which have not been connected with solar events. All we can say is that the subject appears well worth continued investigation, and it is in this connexion that readers of this journal may find a subject for observation.

It would, of course, be very remarkable if some disturbance occurred in the sun every second rotation, and it seems to me very necessary to make quite sure that nothing is missed after the first rotation, which occurs in twenty-seven days. To assist readers who care to make a note of any "fade-outs" they experience, I may point out that there were two series of "fade-outs" noticed in the earlier part of the present year, which we may for convenience call the A series and the B series. The A series occurred on February 14 and April 8, and so, if we assume a fifty-four day spacing, would run afterwards June 1, July 25, September 17, and November 10, etc. I have not yet heard of any results obtained after April 8 in regard to this series. The B series, which do not appear to be so severe in their effects, were noted on February 8, April 1, and May 25, and so would run afterwards: July 18, September 10, November 3, etc. As I have already mentioned, it would be worth while making special observations at periods midway between these dates as well as round about the dates themselves.

Problems in S.W. Receiver Design

By E. J. ALWAY

NOT very long ago, short-wave receivers were built more or less by rule of thumb and, in many cases, gave surprisingly good results. Recently, however, great progress has been made in receiver design, and both straight and superheterodyne short-wave receivers have improved accordingly.

Generally speaking, the directions in which the chief advances have been made may be indicated by three main headings—namely, (1) sensitivity, (2) selectivity, (3) simplicity of operation. Naturally, various problems have arisen in these three main groups, and it is the object of this article to explain what has been done so far and what further progress may be expected in the near future.

Increasing Sensitivity

The question of increased sensitivity is being met in two different ways. The first and most obvious, of course, is the use of additional valves and tuned circuits to the H.F. stages of straight receivers and to the H.F. and I.F. stages of superhet. receivers. In fact, it is now very unusual to find a superhet. receiver, in any but the cheapest class, which does not possess a reasonably efficient H.F. stage preceding the frequency-changer. The H.F. stage is generally operative on all wavebands, although in some receivers it is brought into use only on the short waves, where there is more need of extra amplification.

An initial H.F. stage also fulfils other functions, such as providing greater "image signal" rejection, but the additional gain which it provides is very useful on the short waves, where the field strengths of stations are generally of the order of micro-volts instead of milli-volts as on the medium-wave and long-wave bands.

Recently, in both straight and superhet. receivers of the "all-wave" type, the initial H.F. stage has also been made more efficient by the adoption of a new type tuning condenser having lower maximum and lower minimum capacities than have been employed hitherto. They have a maximum capacity of only 0.0036 μ F and are often constructed with insulators of low-loss ceramic materials in place of the familiar bakelite and similar materials whose dielectric loss is often too high for good results on the very high frequencies. A synthetic resin material produced recently, however, shows quite low losses even when used on wavelengths of the order of 5 metres. This particular synthetic "resin" and the ceramic or porcelain-like materials are finding more and more uses on the short waves—in the shape of coil formers and other similar products. Ebonite, of course, has good dielectric properties, but is not stable, and is unsuitable for export because of its tendency to absorb moisture and to soften in high temperatures.

Coils of higher inductance value than formerly are now wound on special bakelite or extruded ceramic formers and, in conjunction with the new low-capacity tuning condensers, these circuits can be made to have higher "Q" or "goodness" values than would have been com-mercially possible a year ago. Some of the most modern of these coils, too, are wound round a specially prepared iron core, since recent advances in this sphere have shown the use of powdered-iron or "dust" cores to be beneficial on wavelengths down to even 20 metres.

A modern iron-cored short-wave coil may not show a marked gain when compared to a similar air-cored coil, but a marked difference will be found in the resonance curve (see Fig. 1), the iron-core coil having a much steeper resonance peak.

Selectivity

This point, however, really comes under the heading of selectivity—one of the major problems of the straight short-wave receiver, for which there is still hope, in spite of the congested nature of the short-wave broadcasting and amateur bands, provided coils of really high "Q" value can be used, and if the L/C (inductance-capacity) ratio is chosen not so much for high gain (i.e., large inductance and very small capacity) but rather for optimum selectivity. This may be done by choosing a fairly large tuning condenser in preference to one of, say, only 40 μ F capacity, without much sacrifice in gain. Alternatively, a further valve stage may be added, with consequent increase in both sensitivity and selectivity.

An additional tuning circuit, when used, may—as a refinement and if the stages are well screened—have its own "reaction" valve (a triode with reaction coil, or possibly a dynatron) connected solely for the purpose of reducing losses and so improving the selectivity.

Extreme selectivity, of course, still calls for the use of a superheterodyne receiver, and has in many cases been achieved by the use of crystal filters (in connexion with the I.F. amplifier) which may be switched in and out of circuit as desired. At present, when such a filter is in operation, the receiver is not really suitable for the reception of telephony, but band-pass crystal filters are rapidly being developed and many listeners are now familiar with the variable-selectivity superheterodyne—whose intermediate-frequency bandwidth may be varied mechanically by means of a knob on the panel so as to take care of different signal strengths and interference conditions. The selectivity may thus be varied at will to suit the particular station tuned in, the variation being most commonly accomplished by decreasing or increasing the distance (and, therefore, the

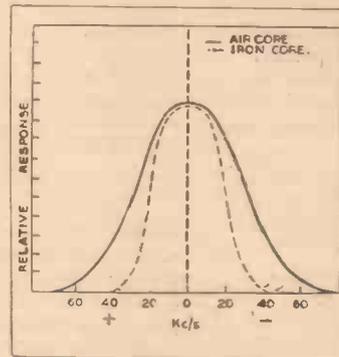

Fig. 1—Relative performance of air-core and iron-core coils

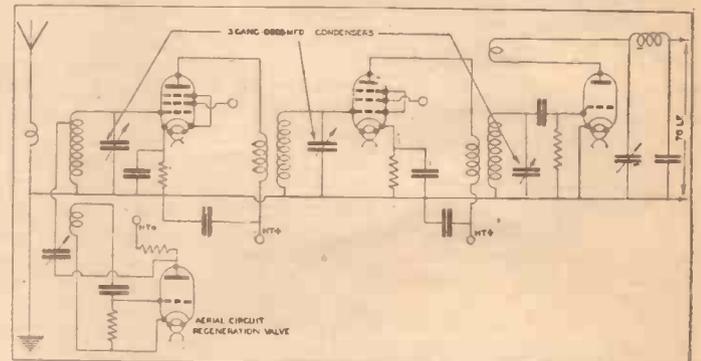

Fig. 2—"High-selectivity" straight receiver

Hear AMERICA on your OWN set!

Connect this Ealex Short Wave Converter to your set and the world's programmes are yours! Simple to install and operate. Switch controls two short wavebands and floodlights waveband in use, also, disconnecting unit, leaves set free for normal use without alteration! Suitable for every type of mains receiver (AC and AC/DC models available). Aeroplane dial with station names, wavelengths and megacycles. 100-1 geared knob control for extremely fine tuning. Handsome walnut cabinet.

Price (including valve) £4 : 14 : 6 AC or AC/DC models.

On Holiday with a Portable S.-W. Set mounted on a metal chassis in order to avoid hand-capacity effects. Two-pin plug-in coils were used in the original set, but, of course, four-pin coils could be employed with a proportionate saving of space. The remaining components came from the junk-box, so that the total cost of the receiver was only a few shillings.

The aerial consisted of a length of flex, which at first was slung over a branch of a convenient tree. This, however, was inclined to sway in the wind and cause difficulty in tuning, and it was found better to stretch out the wire on the ground, there being scarcely any reduction in signal strength.

It is proposed to describe a short-wave portable receiver which was used recently whilst on holiday at various places. Considering that it is only a "one-valver" and that two pairs of headphones were used, some exceedingly good results were obtained, especially on Salisbury Plain, on high cliffs overlooking the sea at Seaton, Devon, and on the Yorkshire moors. All continents were heard, the items including news and talks in English from America, Iceland, Germany, France, Holland, and the Empire programme from GSB.

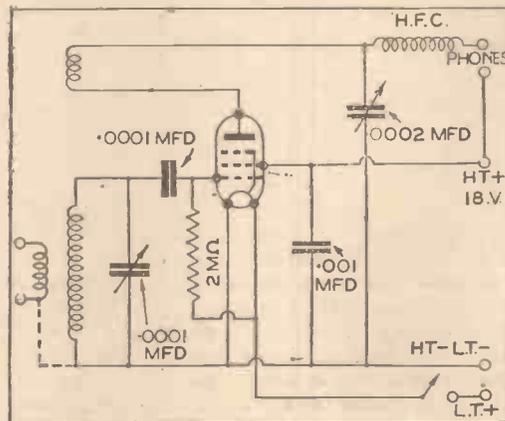

The Receiver

The main requirements of the set were that it should have no accumulator and only a small high-tension battery, and the circuit shown fulfils these conditions. The valve is an ordinary two-volt output pentode, which oscillates easily with 18 volts high-tension supply and a filament battery of 1½ volts. Two small grid-bias batteries were used for the H.T. supply, and a gas-lighter dry cell for the L.T. As a matter of fact, some pentodes will oscillate with only 9 volts H.T., and thus it will be seen that the main drawback to portable sets—the weight of the batteries—is overcome. The whole set, complete with batteries, plug-in coils, two pairs of 'phones and aerial wire, fits into a case 13in. x 7in. x 3½in.

It is suggested that if a similar set is being constructed, condensers fitted with good slow-motion dials should be used for tuning and reaction. The components should also be electromagnetic coupling) between the primary and secondary coils of one or more of the I.F. transformers in the receiver.

Simplifying Operation

The limiting condition as far as simplicity of operation is concerned has probably been reached by one commercial firm, whose receiver has practically all its operations controlled by one knob—tuning, volume, tone control, and the variable selectivity device all being connected up to the one operating position. Such simplicity as this is not likely to be obtained in amateur receivers for some time, but nearly every home-made and some commercial receivers are fitted with that very handy device—a band-spread condenser—which does much to facilitate the tuning-in of elusive short-wave stations.

New tuning devices such as the "Magic Eye" and "Mystic Eye" have also become popular, since they are inexpensive, quick, and reliable in operation and may, apparently, be fitted to straight receivers not possessing A.V.C. systems.

All receivers possessing a grid-leak detector, however, have in them the rudiments of an A.V.C. system, although the voltage generated across the grid-leak may not be fed back to variable-mu H.F. stages, but only via the anode circuit of the valve to a pair of headphones. This A.V.C. voltage, though often small, may be used to work the miniature cathode-ray tube on reasonably strong stations to give some indication of signal strength, since additional amplification will be provided by the valve amplifier in the device itself.

Finally, the advent of low-loss ganged wave-change switches has simplified or rendered unnecessary constant coil changing, and recent developments point to rotary assemblies of individual coils becoming popular. Wave-band switching of this latter type is, of course, used in many commercial (professional) receivers—for example, the short-wave relaying receivers installed at the BBC receiving station at Tatsfield.

INTERNATIONAL SHORT-WAVE CLUB

THE London Chapter of the I.S.W.C. meets on Fridays (except the second Friday of the month) in the R.A.C.S. Hall, Cavendish Grove, Wandsworth, for lectures, demonstrations, and discussions upon short-wave matters. We are asked to state that any readers of WORLD-RADIO who care to attend will be welcomed.

Guide to Selection of All-Wave Receivers

AERODYNE RADIO, LTD.

Model 49, 3-valve "All-wave" battery receiver, iron-cored coils, 13-50 m., 200-500 m., 800-2,000 m., 7 gns. (less batteries); Model 51, 3-valve "All-wave" battery receiver, band-pass tuning, 16.5-50 m., 200-550 m., 800-2,000 m., 8 gns. (less batteries); Models 52 and 55, 3-valve "All-wave" A.C. receiver, 16.5-50 m., 200-550 m., 800-2,000 m., band-pass tuning, 3 watts output, 9 gns.; Universal A.C./D.C. Model (No. 55), 9½ gns.; Model 54, 6-valve "All-wave" A.C. Superhet, illuminated station indicator, delayed A.V.C., 3 watts output, 13 gns.; Model 60, 4-valve A.C. "All-wave" Radiogram, 18 gns.; A.C./D.C. model, 19½ gns.

BALCOMBE, A. J., LTD.

Alba Model 870, 4-v. superhet, iron-cored coils, A.V.C., 3½ watts output, S.W. range, 16.8-50 m., 11 gns.; A.C./D.C. Model, 12 gns.; Model 850, 8-stage A.C. superhet, 3½ watts output, S.W. range 19.5-50 m., 14 gns.; A.C./D.C. Model, 15 gns.; Radiogram Model 970, 22 gns.

BURGOYNE WIRELESS LIMITED

5v. A.C. all-wave superhet, Q.A.V.C., tone control, 2½ watts output, 14 gns. (radiogram 22 gns.); 4-v. T.R.F. receiver, iron-cored coils, 2½ watts output, S.W. range 19-51 m., 9½ gns.; radiogram 17 gns. All-wave 3-v. portable, 8 gns.

BURNDEPT, LTD.

Model 252, 3-v. band-pass A.C./D.C. receiver, wavelengths 13.5-48.5 m., 48-145 m., 190-550 m., 900-2,000 m., 9 gns.; Model 251, 3-v. band-pass battery receiver, £7 19s. 6d.

CITY ACCUMULATOR CO., LTD.

4-v. A.C. superhet, waverange 10-2,000 m., in four wavebands, 16 gns.

COLE, E. K., LTD.

A.W. 87, 8-stage A.C. superhet, four S.W. bands (19-50 m.), A.V.C., tone control, 12 gns.

COSSOR, A. C., LTD.

Model 837, 6-v. superhet all-wave radiogram, S.W. ranges 13-40 m., 38-100 m., price 22 gns., A.V.C. and tone control; Model 3733 receives standard wavelengths on the usual straight circuit and short waves (17.25-52.5 m.) on superhet, £7 15s. od. (ex. batts.). An A.C. version, Model 3783, is available at £9 15s. od.

DECCA GRAMOPHONE CO., LTD.

Model 520, 6-v. (incl. rectifier), A.C. superhet, A.V.C., 3½ watts output, S.W. range 16-49 m., 12½ gns.; Model 530G radiogram, 22 gns.; Model 540CG auto-radiogram, 29 gns.

EVER READY CO. (GREAT BRITAIN) LTD.

Model 5011, 6-v. (incl. rectifier) A.C. superhet, wavelengths 13-33 m., 30-82 m., 198-556 m., and 900-2,000 m., visual tuning, 18 gns. Model 5013, 4-v. (incl. rectifier) A.C./D.C. receiver, S.W. range 18.5-54 m., 9½ gns. Model 5015, 3-v. straight receiver, S.W. range 18.2-52 m., 8½ gns. (incl. batteries.)

FERRANTI LTD.

Parva, 3-v. receiver, S.W. range 19-51 m., A.C. model, 9 gns.; A.C./D.C. model, 9½ gns.; A.C. console, 13 gns.; Nova, 7-stage superhet, A.V.C., "magnascopic" dial, A.C. model, 12 gns.; A.C./D.C. model, 13 gns.; Magna, 7-stage superhet, A.V.C., "magnascopic" dial, electric tuning, A.C. model, 12½ gns.; A.C./D.C. model, 13½ gns.; Arcadia, 8-stage A.C. superhet, variable selectivity, high fidelity, noise suppression, "magnascopic" dial, table model, 15 gns.; console, 18 gns.; radiogram, 26 gns.

GENERAL ELECTRIC CO. LTD.

Universal S.W. 4, 4-v. A.C./D.C. superhet, S.W. range, 16-50 m., A.V.C., tone control, 12½ gns. Fidelity S.W.5, 5-v. A.C. superhet, S.W. range 16-50 m., variable selectivity, A.V.C. noise suppression, tone control, 3 watts output, 15½ gns.; Fidelity All-Wave, 8-v. A.C. superhet, S.W. range 16-98 m., A.V.C., 6-watt push-pull output, 25 gns.; Radiogram, 8-v., 44 gns.

HIS MASTER'S VOICE

Model 480, 5v. A.C. superhet, wavelengths 16.7-53 m., 46-140 m., 185-560 m., and 750-2,200 m., tone controls, 3 watts output, 17½ gns. Model 481, as Model 480, but including wavelengths 7-16 m., 18½ gns.; Model 482, 6-v. A.C. superhet, fluid-light tuning, tone control, wavelengths 16.5-51.5 m., 200-580 m., and 725-2,000 m., 16 gns.; Model 486, 4-v. A.C./D.C. superhet, A.V.C. tone control, 1.2 watts output, S.W. range 16-50 m., 13½ gns.; Model 491, 5-v. A.C. superhet, A.V.C., tone control, 2 watts output, 13½ gns.; Model 149, 3-v. battery receiver, T.R.F. circuit, S.W. range 18-50 m., 9½ gns. (incl. batteries); Model 800, high-fidelity 15-v. all-wave radiogram, 110 gns.; Model 801, 8-v. A.C. superhet, A.V.C., fluid light tuning, 3 loudspeakers, 8-record auto changer, tone controls, electric clock, 10 watts output, wavelengths 7-17 m., 16.7-53 m., 46-140 m., 185-560 m., and 750-2,200 m., 80 gns.; Model 581, 5-v. A.C. superhet, 8-record auto radiogram, tone controls, wavelengths as Model 801, 3 watts output, 48 gns.; Model 485a, 5-v. A.C. radiogram, wavelengths as Model 801, auto record changer, 36 gns.; Model 488, 5-v. A.C. radiogram, wavelengths as Model 801, 28 gns.

For the benefit of new readers, and to meet the requirements of others who still desire the information, we reprint details of all-wave receivers as given in our Radio Exhibition Number of August 28, together with certain corrections and additions covering changes made since that date. Enquiries addressed to this office will be forwarded to the manufacturers concerned.

INVICTA RADIO LTD.

Model C.W.3B, 3-v. A.C. straight receiver, S.W. range 17-51 m., 9 gns.; Model A.W. 57, 5-v. A.C. superhet, wavelengths 13-27 m., 25-75 m., 75-200 m., 200-550 m., and 850-2,000 m., 14 gns.; A.W. 47RG, radiogram, 22 gns.; Model C.W.3B, 3-v. straight battery set (17-51 m.), £8 2s. 6d. (incl. batteries).

KOLSTER-BRANDES LTD.

Model K.B. 515, 3-v. A.C. straight receiver, S.W. range 19-50 m., 9½ gns.; Model K.B. 525, A.C./D.C. version of K.B. 515, 9½ gns.; Model K.B. 560, 4-v. A.C. superhet, iron-cored coils, A.V.C., visual tuning, S.W. range 19-52 m., 3 watts output, 16 gns.; Model K.B. 535, 3-v. straight battery receiver, S.W. range 19-50 m., 8½ gns.

LISSEN LTD.

Model 8114 5-v. A.C. superhet, neon tuning, variable selectivity, noise suppression, S.W. ranges 13-33 m., and 29-82 m., 17 gns.; Model 8130, 3-v., A.C./D.C. straight receiver, tone control, S.W. range, 18-54 m., 9 gns.; Model 8165, 3-v., straight battery receiver, S.W. range 18-54 m., 8 gns. (incl. batteries).

MARCONIPHONE CO., LTD.

Model 346, 6-v. A.C. superhet, A.V.C., tone controls, 3 watts output, S.W. range 7-141 m., 18½ gns.; Model 345, 6-v. A.C. superhet, as Model 346, but S.W. range 16.5-51.5 m.; Model 534, 6-v. A.C. superhet, A.V.C., tone controls, "Thaumoscope" visual tuning, 3 watts output, 16 gns.; Model 382, 4-v., A.C./D.C. superhet, A.V.C., tone controls, mains filter, voltage regulator, S.W. range 16-50 m., 2 watts output, 13½ gns.; Model 556, 5-v., A.C. superhet, A.V.C., tone control, mains aerial, 2 watts output, 13½ gns.; Model 375, 3-v. T.R.F. receiver, 9½ gns.; Models 365 and 366, 6-v.: all-wave A.C. radiograms, A.V.C. tone controls, auto record changer, 3 watts output, wavelengths 7-16 m., 16.5-51 m., 46-140 m., 185-560 m., and 750-2,250 m., 36 gns.; Model 363, 6-v. all-wave A.C. radiogram, details as Model 365, ex. record changer, 28 gns.; Model 249, 5-v. A.C. radiogram, 29 gns.; Model 239, 5-v. A.C. radiogram, 22 gns.

McMICHAEL RADIO, LTD.

Model 362, 4-v. A.C. superhet, A.V.C., 2 watts output, S.W. range 18.6-51 m., 15½ gns.

MILNES RADIO CO., LTD.

Pearl, 5-v. A.C. superhet, 4 wave-ranges, A.V.C. table model, £17 17s. od.; console, £20 17s. od.; Diamond, 7-v. superhet, 4 wave-ranges, A.V.C., table Model, £16 16s. od.; console, £19 16s. od.

PHILIPS LAMPS, LTD.

Model 745A, 4-v. A.C. superhet, Adaptovisor dial, tuning silencer, 12 gns.; Model 745U, similar to 745A, but D.C./A.C., 13 gns.; Model 797A, 5-v. A.C. superhet, Adaptovisor dial, audioscopic reproduction, tuning silencer, 14½ gns.; Model 797U, similar to 797A, but D.C./A.C., 15½ gns.; Model 795A, 5-v. A.C. superhet, audioscopic reproduction, Adaptovisor dial, visual tuning, 18 gns.; 795U, similar to 795A, but D.C./A.C., 19 gns.; Model 790A, 5-v. A.C. superhet console, 20 gns.; Model 790U, similar to 790A, but D.C./A.C., 21 gns.; Model 714B, 5-v. superhet with Adaptovisor dial and tuning silencer (incl. batteries), 14 gns.; Model 791A, 5-v. radiogram, 29 gns.; Model 792A, 5-v. auto-radiogram, 38 gns.

PYE RADIO, LTD.

"Empire" Model, 10-v. (incl. rectifier), A.C. console superhet, visual tuning, A.V.C., variable selectivity, tone control, noise suppression, S.W. ranges 13-33 m., 30-82 m., 6 watts output, 33 gns.; Model T.10, 6-v. (incl. rectifier), A.C. superhet, neon tuning, variable selectivity, sensitivity and tone controls, 2.5 watts output, wave-range as "Empire" model, 18 gns.; Model T.10A, 5-v. (incl. rectifier), A.C. superhet, waverange as "Empire" model, 16 gns.

RADIO GRAMOPHONE DEVELOPMENT CO., LTD.

Model 625, 6-v. A.C. superhet, 4 wavebands (16-2,000 m.), variable selectivity, neon tuning, noise suppression, tone control, 3 watts output, 25 gns.; Model 630, a console version of Model 625, 30 gns.; Model 645, 6-v. (incl. rectifier), all-wave A.C. radiogram, 4 wavebands (16-2,000 m.), variable selectivity, neon tuning, noise suppression, tone control, 3 watts output, auto changer, 45 gns. Model 660, 6-v. (incl. rectifier) all-wave A.C. radiogram, variable selectivity, cathode-ray, tuning, 3½ watts output, 60 gns.; Model 880 radio equipment similar to Model 660, but including push-pull 6-watt amplifier, 80 gns.; Model 1220, 12-v. all-wave, A.C. radiogram, 12 watts push-pull amplifier, 120 gns.

SELF-CHANGING GRAMOPHONES, LTD.

Autotype, high-fidelity, automatic A.C. radiogram with 5-v. superhet radio circuit and 15-watts paraphase-type amplifier, Q.A.V.C., variable selectivity, all-wave model, 165 gns.

STRATTON & CO., LTD.

6-v. superhet battery receiver, interchangeable inductance units for medium and long-wave reception, A.V.C. and variable amplification, £27 10s. od. The Eddystone "All-World Two," with special slow-motion band-spread tuning unit. This receiver is sold as a constructors' kit at 67s. 6d.

ULTRA ELECTRIC, LTD.

"Ultra 47" 6-v. (incl. rectifier), A.C. superhet, A.V.C., sensitivity and tone controls, S.W. ranges 13-35 m., and 30-80 m., 17 gns.; "Ultra 48" 5-v. A.C. superhet, A.V.C., S.W. range 16.8-50 m., 13 gns.

UNION RADIO CO., LTD.

Unirad all-wave receivers with 4-band tuning, the waveranges covering 12.5-28 m., 27-81 m., 235-550 m., and 950-1,925 m. (or, alternatively, 12.5-28 m., 27-81 m., 80-235 m., and 235-550 m.), A.V.C. and tone control are provided. The output of the mains-driven sets is 3.5 watts, and of the battery sets 1½ watts. Price £29.

VIDOR LTD.

Model 253, 3-v. band-pass circuit, moving-coil loudspeaker, waverange 13.5-2,000 m., £7 19s. 6d. (incl. batteries); Model 254, 3-v. A.C./D.C., 9 gns.; Model 237, 5-v. A.C. radiogram, A.V.C., 3½ watts output, 18 gns.

PILOT RADIO, LTD.

Model U.355, 5-v. superhet, A.V.C., tone control, S.W. range, 16-53 m., 3-watts output, 12 gns.; Model U.225, A.C./D.C., 6-v. superhet, 14 gns.; Model CU.225, 5-v. A.C., console receiver, 17 gns.; (A.C./D.C. model, 19 gns.); Model U.650, 6-v. A.C. superhet, 16 gns.; U.690, 6-v. D.C. superhet, 17 gns.; CU.650, 6-v. A.C. console superhet (16-52 m., 48-150 m., 175-550 m., and 750-2,100 m.), 23 gns.; CU.690—a D.C. version of CU.650, 24 gns.

LIST OF WIRELESS ABBREVIATIONS

ABBREVIATIONS—sometimes known as the "Q Code"—are used extensively by commercial and experimental stations. We give below a *few of those most frequently heard, together with their meanings. When an abbreviation is intended as a question, it is followed by the note of interrogation.

Abbreviation	Question	Answer
QRA	What is the name of your station?	The name of my station is . . .
QRB	How far are you from my station?	The distance between our stations is . . .
QRD	Where are you bound and where are you from?	I am bound for . . . from . . .
QRG	Will you tell me my exact frequency?	Your exact frequency is . . . kc/s.
QRH	Does my frequency vary?	Your frequency varies.
QRM	Are you experiencing interference?	I am experiencing interference.
QRN	Are you troubled by atmospherics?	I am troubled by atmospherics.
QRT	Shall I stop sending?	Stop sending.
QSA	What is the strength of my signal (R ₁ to R ₅)?	The strength of your signals is R . . .
QSB	Does the strength of my signals vary?	The strength of your signals varies.
QSX	Will you listen for . . . (call sign) on . . . kc/s?	I am listening for . . . (call sign) on . . . kc/s.
QTE	What is my true bearing in relation to you?	Your true bearing in relation to me is . . . degrees; or
	What is my true bearing in relation to . . . (call sign)?	Your true bearing in relation to . . . (call sign) is . . . degrees . . . at . . . (time).
QTF	Will you give me the position of my station (by D.F.)?	The position of your station (by D.F.) is . . . latitude . . . longitude.
QTR	What is the exact time?	The exact time is . . .

Short-Wave News Reel

Siam's Royal Orchestra

ON Monday, October 19, for the greater part of half-an-hour, I listened to a short-wave relay from the National Broadcasting Station at Bangkok, featuring the Royal Military and Naval Orchestra of Siam in a programme of Siamese music. In my log of this broadcast I read that much of the music appeared to be western in character, but that occasional interludes included native singing with a corresponding accompaniment on instruments of eastern origin. The relay was concluded at 13.26 (G.M.T.), when I heard the station's interval signal—the musical notes: Soh-doh-me-doh-me-soh-me. Then followed the call in Siamese, English, and French, as follows: "Short-wave station HS8PJ, at Bangkok, on a frequency of 19.02 megacycles, or a wavelength of 15.77 metres."

The speaker, in very good English, then announced that the next part of the programme would consist of a gramophone recital of popular tunes. I heard two spirited numbers from the film: "Follow the Fleet," they were: "I would rather lead a Band" and "Let Yourself Go," both played by Ambrose and his Orchestra. The next number was "Gold and Silver Waltz," played by Sidney Kyte and his band, followed by other recent dance hits.

It was with regret that I had to "switch off" this broadcast which was received at good loudspeaker strength throughout.

Pan-American Air Liner

Once again W2XAF introduced their listeners to something thrilling and original. To be taken on board the giant amphibian of the Pan-American Airline, and be present, as it were, at the start of the first commercial passenger flight from San Francisco across the Pacific, was my good fortune, at 22.40 (G.M.T.) on Wednesday, October 21.

The commentator, walking through the many luxurious cabins of this 26-ton "monster of the air," gave a graphic description of all he saw. The hull, he said, was 91 feet long and all furniture and fittings were of duralumin for strength and lightness.

Test Match Broadcasts

THE Australian Broadcasting Commission advises us that during the Australian Tour of the English Test Team, 1936-7, a special programme of one hour's duration is to be presented nightly from the Australian short-wave station, VK3LR on 31.32 m., beginning on Friday, October 16.

The hour chosen for this special transmission is 23.45 to 00.45 Australian Eastern Standard Time, the time in England being 13.45 to 14.45 (G.M.T.) the same day. The time was selected after reference had been made to reception charts supplied to the Postmaster-General's Department in Australia by the BBC. This special programme has, for easy reference, been called "Programme D," and will be transmitted from a horizontal rhombic aerial directed on London. Reports on reception will be appreciated by the Australian Broadcasting Commission, whose address in Victoria is Box 1886, G.P.O. Melbourne, Australia.

Identification of VK3LR—as far as Programme D is concerned—will be facilitated by (a) the present identification signal, the call of the Australian Lyre Bird, which is broadcast prior to the opening of the programme, (b) by the inclusion of the midnight chiming of the Melbourne Central Post Office clock, and (c) by frequent announcements.

Other programmes radiated by short-wave station VK3LR are: Programme "A," 08.30-10.00; Programme "B," 10.00-12.30, 12.50-13.30; Programme "C," 12.30-12.50.

U.S.A. Presidential Election

To assist in world-wide broadcasting of election results on Tuesday, November 3, short-wave stations W2XAD and W2XAF will operate throughout the day from 08.00 to midnight, at which time it is expected there will be no question as to who is elected president. W2XAD, operating on a frequency of 15.33 Mc/s (19.57 m.), will use its European beam for this transmission, while W2XAF, on 9.53 Mc/s (31.48 m.) will use its regular aerial.

The chief navigator was interviewed, and also several of the passengers, some of whom had held tickets for the flight for nearly two years! Going forward, we were "shown" the dashboard containing no less than 325 instruments—"all in working order" being the dry comment. For six minutes the four mighty engines were heard warming up for their long journey, which, it was hoped, would be completed in eighteen hours. We were promised a relay from the destination, Honolulu, when they arrived there at 12 noon (E.S.T.), the next day. A cry, "Cast off," and "Hawaiian Clipper No. 57" roared away and up into the blue. . . . "She's away"!

Hawaiian Guitars

Having read in WORLD-RADIO of October 2 that a short-wave station in Hawaii had been heard on 25.68 m., I decided to attempt reception of this station on Tuesday, October 20. Turning to the 25 m. band at 04.40, I discovered a transmission on a wavelength just above that of TPA4, which certainly sounded promising, for the programme consisted of the delightful guitar music for which Hawaii is famous. For twenty minutes I listened to this very pleasant entertainment, which also included vocal items, until at 05.00, I heard the announcement, "You have been listening to station KIO, Kahuku, Hawaii."

After further concluding remarks, which, unfortunately were blotted out by an interfering Morse transmission, KIO closed down.

TO NEW READERS: Contributions submitted for our Short-Wave News Reel must refer to interesting events or items broadcast on the short waves. A mere record of reception from several stations is not suitable. Contributions—approximately 200 words in length—should be clearly marked "Short-Wave News Reel," and must reach us by first post each Monday for use in the following Friday's issue. Half-a-guinea is paid for each item published.

Below 100 Metres

By "METROPOLITAN"

(October 19-25)

RECEPTION conditions during the beginning of the week were rather variable, especially on wavelengths below 20 metres. The 19 m. U.S. transmitters, for instance, were very much weaker than of late, and W3XAL (16.87 m.) was seldom heard above R3-4. The most reliable U.S. channels have been provided by W2XAF and W1XK. Incidentally, W3XAU (31.28 m.) has resumed operations with increased power and has been heard several times this week.

OLR, Podebrady, on 19.58 m., was R7 at 17.15 on Monday. The U.S. 19 m. transmitters were weak at this time and only W2XAD could be heard at about R3. W2XAF was heard fairly well (R7) at 22.20; EAQ was R8, while DJA and DJN were also strong. PRF5 and LSX were both R7 at 23.20, W1XK (R8) being the best of the Americans. Conditions on the 25 m. and 49 m. bands were poor.

W2XAD was only an R5 signal during the early evening of Wednesday, and the carrier only of W8XK was heard. Better conditions prevailed later and the 31 m. band provided the optimum signals, W2XAF and W1XK both being R7, with W2XE (25.36 m.) a steady R5. LKJ1, DJL, DJB, and DJE were all R8 at 12.30 on Thursday, and W2XE (13.94 m.) was intelligible (R5 with shallow fades) at intervals. During the late evening, W2XAF was R8 on peaks, with deep fading. W1XK was also good, but had a rather noisy carrier. VP3BG at Georgetown on approximately 49 metres was R6 at 23.35, and the South Americans in the 31 m. and 49 m. bands were very well received. CT1AA (31.07 m.) and CSW (31.41 m.)—both at Lisbon—were both R9 at 23.50, and so was Moscow RAN (31.25 m.).

W2XE (13.94 m.) was well heard during the afternoon of Friday. An improvement in the strength of W3XAL (16.87 m.) was noticed at 20.45, at which time W2XAD was R6. W2XAF was R7 at 21.45 but, as usual, was seriously affected by another station on about the same frequency. Fairly good conditions prevailed on Saturday, the higher frequencies being better received than of late. Conditions in the 31 m. band during the late evening were not as good as experienced during the early part of the week, W2XAF being only R4-5, with some "fluttering." PMN was well heard on Sunday at 15.15, being an extremely steady R7 signal. W2XAD was fair at 18.20 and TFJ (Reykjavik) at R7 was heard well at 18.50. DJD was very strong at 19.00, so also was OLR (25.51 m.). W2XAF was very well heard at 23.00.

Further striking testimony to BELMONT All wave SUPERHETS

224, Hale End Road, Woodford Green, Essex. Dear Sir, October 15th, 1936. Yesterday I purchased one of your Belmont Receivers Model 746. I must say that I am amazed at its performance. Stations on all wave-lengths come pouring in with exceptional clarity; it is indeed a very selective set. How you can give all the splendid refinements the set possesses at 12½ guineas beats me; other makers are asking 17½ guineas for a set which incorporates all these extras. The cabinet, too, is first-class workmanship; no cheap stuff here. (Signed) G. A. HARRISON.

MODEL 746.

A 7-Valve All-Wave A.C. Superhet with Cathode Ray Magic Eye Visual Tuning, multi-coloured Tuning Dial and every up-to-date improvement. Covers 16.6 to 2,100 metres.

12½ GNS.

Model 845 (as above), but for A.C. or D.C. Mains. 13 GNS.

Other models from £5.10.0.

Following the testimonial from Mr. F. J. Oldfield, of Bristol (winner of the "Daily Express" Short-Wave contest with a Belmont Superhet) comes the above remarkable tribute. To appreciate the outstanding value in British Belmont Superhets, you must hear and test one for yourself. Ask your dealer for a demonstration and send coupon below to-day.

ENGINEERING WORKSHOP PRACTICE

This entirely new book deals exhaustively with the underlying principles, craftsmanship, machines, tools, measuring processes and machining methods of to-day, and it will prove indispensable to the engineer, draughtsman, mechanic, apprentice and engineering student. Its scope extends from simple hand tools to the latest elaborate machines employed for mass-production purposes.

SOME of the SUBJECTS

Hand Tools—Measuring Methods—Verniers, Micrometers, Gauges, Optical Devices, Fluted and Twist Drills—Grinding Angles, Drilling Data, Drilling Machines, Electric Drills, Lathework, Machining of Metals and Synthetic Materials—Tungsten-carbide and Diamond Tools—Lapping, Honing, Cleaning, Polishing and Rust-protection of Metals—Grinding Operations and Machines, Milling Operations, Cutters and Machines—Planing, Shaping, Slotting and Broaching—Plate and Bar Machines—Gears and Gear Cutting—Templates, Jigs and Fixtures—Overhauling and Adjusting Machines—Millwright Work—Welding, Brazing and Soldering—Forging—Sheet Metal Work—Foundry Work—Pattern-making—Press Work—Engineering Metals; their Properties, Testing, Hardening, Tempering and Annealing—Engineers' Drawings—Calculations, Data, Hints and Recipes.

THE ILLUSTRATIONS

The book is lavishly illustrated so that the explanations are rendered very clear with examples taken from actual works practice. There are 24 full-page plates and 877 illustrations in the text.

THE MODERN MOTOR ENGINEER

The new and revised edition of this book will be a real boon to the motor engineer, as it deals with the most recent developments, such as the Diesel Commercial Engine, the Pre-Selective and Synchronesh Gear Boxes, the Fluid Flywheel, Fuel Pumps, Hydraulic and Vacuum Brakes, etc.

HANDLING BREAKDOWNS ON THE ROAD

Of special value is the section dealing with breakdowns on the road. General repairs are treated in the widest sense, and instruction is given in soldering, welding, brazing, sheet metal work, machining and grinding.

THE SCOPE OF THE WORK

Among the other subjects dealt with are: Dismantling, Tuning and Repair of the Engines, Clutches, Carburetors, Gear Boxes, Axles, Brakes, Accumulators, Magnetos, etc.—Armature Winding—Garage Tools and Mechanical Equipment—Petrol and Oil Pumps—How to Cost Garage Jobs—The Law's Requirements, etc. Fault-finding charts and electrical circuit diagrams are included. The illustrations have been chosen for their practical value. There are 24 full-page plates, and over 1,100 photographs and diagrams in the text.

THE MOTOR ENGINEER'S CHART

Supplied free with this new edition is a specially prepared Chart which shows by means of diagrams and tables all the information regarding measurements, etc., which the engineer or mechanic is likely to require in his day-to-day work.

FARREX offer you SUPER ALL WAVE SETS

WHY? for as low as 60/- HOW?

Because your existing radio set can be converted to an all-wave receiver, giving short-wave reception as easily and at equal entertainment value to that of normal broadcasts by just plugging in the new Farrex "All-Metal" Converter. Units specially designed throughout for short-wave work.

STAR FEATURES.

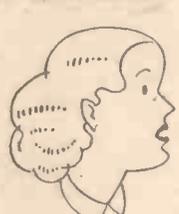

1. ALL-METAL Containers of entirely new design, eliminating Hand Capacity effects.
2. Specially sprung Chassis "floating" inside the Containers, which are mounted on buoyant rubber feet, thereby overcoming microphonic noises.
3. Simplicity of operation, giving stabilised reception of the Short Wavelengths in conjunction with existing Receiver, enabling scores of extra Programmes to be received at real entertainment value.
4. One connection only to Aerial of set. No alterations necessary.
5. One Tuning Knob, with special 100-1 Vernier Control.
6. One Master Switch Control, covering 11.5 to 100 metres, with no coil changing, and switching from Short to Broadcast Wavelengths, or vice versa, enabling Converter to remain permanently connected to the Receiver.
7. Calibrated and Illuminated Dials, with special "clear cut" Shadow Tuning.
8. Containers available in various colours, thus ensuring an attractive appearance, fitting with any furnishing scheme or Radio Set.

Model F.1. With AC/DC Power Pack, one plug to mains only, one wire to A terminal of set, 79/6, less valves.
Model A.F.3. Identical design and circuit, but no power pack, complete with all adaptor plugs, etc. 59/6, less valve.

"Dear Sir,

My fiancé has almost every merit a girl can look for, but, alas! his chin is worse than a nutmeg-grater. Well, I mean it looks like a nutmeg-grater but feels worse. Can you suggest any remedy, short of breaking our engagement?

Yours,

Constant Reader."

Certainly We Can,

It is obvious that the gentleman needs something far more efficient than ordinary shaving soap. Ask him to use Parke-Davis Shaving Cream. It was made for smoothing down such obstacles in the path of true love. Men who used to swear at their razors now swear by Parke-Davis Shaving Cream instead. It does them much more good. And there's a special antiseptic in it that's quite delightful. There's sure to be a Chemist somewhere near who's equally sure to stock the BIG eighteenpenny tube... best investment for quick, comfortable and close shaving.

YOU can learn to SYNCOPATE like BILLY MAYERL

If you can play the piano a little let me teach you in 12 easy lessons how to get that modern rhythm into your own playing and syncopate like I do.
Immediately after enrolment I will send you your first lesson and 4 double-sided gramophone records specially recorded so that I can demonstrate each step to you personally. I have taught more than 20,000 students. I can teach you, too.
SPECIAL COURSE FOR BEGINNERS
You, too, can quickly learn to play the piano even though you cannot now play a note of music. Write to me to-day marking your enquiry either "Syncopation" or "Beginner."

Just listen

We have said all along that life-like reproduction is the thing that matters most in radio. Obviously then, since our sets can speak for themselves we should be prepared to let them sell themselves. Well we are. All that we ask you to do is to go to your local 'Ever Ready' dealer and give them a fair hearing. He will be pleased to demonstrate these sets without pressing you to buy. If their new standard of life-like reproduction doesn't impress you, nothing that we can say will. That is why the first thing we say about 'Ever Ready' sets is—just listen to them. And remember that behind them stands the dependability that goes with every product made by 'Ever Ready.'
